Fonseca pleads guilty to murder

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Jeannie Hernandez Fonseca, charged with three counts of capital murder, has been sentenced to life in prison. She pleaded guilty to one murder Thursday in 118th Judicial District Court.

The Big Spring woman pleaded guilty at 3:30 p.m. to murder in the death of Miguel Villareal Calixto, according to District Attorney Rick Hamby.

Fonseca, 29, will be transported to the Texas Department of Corrections July 18, Hamby said. He said he was pleased with the outcome of the case because Fonseca would receive the maximum sentence allowed by law on the murder charge — life in prison.

She is also charged with an unrelated count of aggravated robbery.

Fonseca will become eligible for parole at an undetermined time, Hamby said, because "there's no such thing as (life) without parole. There's no way of telling how long she'll be down there (penitentiary)."

Hamby said he considered the plea a victory for his office and for

"Any time you can get life in prison and are able to save the taxpayers the expense, probably $50,000 and doubtless a month-long trial, . . . you have to feel like you got the maximum." — District Attorney Rick Hamby

the taxpayers of Howard County. "Any time you can get life in prison and are able to save the taxpayers the expense, probably $50,000 and doubtless a month-long trial, . . . you have to feel like you got the maximum."

Unlike a conviction, Fonseca's pleading is not subject to appeal, Hamby noted, which adds value to the result of the case. Had she been convicted of capital murder, she might have been sentenced to death, he said, but there would have been an automatic appeal.

Hamby said Fonseca is unlikely to serve as a witness for the prosecution in cases against the six other Howard County residents charged with capital murder in connection with the deaths of Calixto, Norberto Gurrola Hernandez, also found in the farmhouse Oct. 10 about 15 miles north of Big Spring near Luther, and the death of Noe Perez, 39, of Grand Prairie.

Law enforcement officers believe Perez was slain in a Big Spring motel room in April. His burned and headless body was exhumed October 20 from a shallow grave in northeast Martin County after a suspect led authorities to the gravesite.

Other defendants in the Perez death are: Frankie Hernandez and Joe Hernandez (Fonseca's brothers), Pete Salazar Jr., Arthur Islas Jr., all of Big Spring.

Fonseca and three others, Antonio (Tony) Aguilar, Big Spring, and two Knott men, Enrique (Ricky) Sabedra Jr. and Orlando Aguirre, were indicted by a Howard County grand jury in January in connection with the Four found; 11 die in collapse in Brownsville

By DAVID SEDENO
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE — Rescuers picking through tons of concrete and twisted steel for the victims of a department store collapse today rescued two children and two women and worked to free at least two teen-agers. At least 11 people were killed and 43 injured.

Rescuers this morning removed a screaming 2-year-old girl from the wreckage about 18 hours after the collapse. Lt. Victor Rodriguez of the city's police department said: "This baby appeared to have been protected by some other people around her who are believed dead."

The other rescued child, 8-year-old Jorge Mena Lire, was pulled from the rubble and taken on a stretcher to be examined by waiting doctors.

"The little boy kept crying that he wanted to come out. He was scared and he wanted a little ball and he wanted some refreshments," said fireman William Briggs. "He was also a little scared, which is natural, and he's also afraid of dying."

Workers identified the two women rescued this morning as Rosalinda Silva Davila, 45, from Guadalupe in the state of Nuevo Leon, and Maria Lire, 37, of the state of Yucatan.

Workers were unable to give an immediate condition report on the women.

Ms. Lire was believed to be related to the 8-year-old boy, police said. The other teen-ager who had yet to be rescued was identified as the boy's sister, Mia Mena Lire, 15.

Rescuing the two teen-agers and any other survivors could take hours, said Sgt. Dean Poos of the police department.

A 14-year-old girl was wedged between two concrete slabs. "Every time there's movement, the slabs hit her in the head," said

Pamela Downing of the city's public utilities board.

The three-story Amigo Store collapsed Thursday afternoon during a storm that dumped more than 2 inches of rain in less than 30 minutes. Some witnesses said as many as 125 people sought shelter inside the downtown building before it crumbled, but Poos said only about 50 had been inside. Authorities gave no figure this morning on how many people were missing.

To reach the trapped woman and two children, rescuers dug a makeshift, 17-foot tunnel, and doctors were able to check their vital signs, said Johnny Economides, head of one rescue team.

"It's very hard for them. They are in terrible pain, both emotional and physical," he said.

As the second woman was carried to safety and taken to a first aid station across the street, 300 onlookers cheered. Authorities identified her as Maria Lire, 37, of Yucatan, Mexico, but were unable to give her condition.

Brownsville Mayor Ygnacio Garza said: "I think they (the people who are still trapped) have been panicked; they have been afraid. We have had some priests in there talking to them."

"Now that we're to them, we're able to get them through it. I think we have an IV in one or two of them. So I think they're being calmed down now but obviously they want to get out of there and we're making every effort to get them out of there as fast as possible."

Hundreds of rescuers working through the night removed debris with tractors, a crane and finally by hand, fearful of further injuring trapped survivors. Working through the night under portable floodlights, they used dogs and sensitive microphones to hunt for victims.

Bids high, rejected by group

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Downtown Steering Committee members rejected both bids for construction of a downtown railroad plaza during their regular monthly meeting, held Thursday in the Sparenburg Building.

The bids — from local contractors D.D. Johnston and Lee George — were rejected because they significantly exceeded the committee's budget for the project. Downtown Coordinator Teri Quinones said.

Johnston's bid was for $216,000 and George's bid totaled $195,000. These exceeded the $110,000 amount budgeted for the project.

"Obviously, this is out of the budget," said Michael Peters, the Lubbock architect who designed the plaza along with local architect Phil Furqueron.

Peters said after the meeting he wasn't sure why the actual bids differed so greatly from the budgeted amount.

"I don't know the exact reason," he said. "One reason may be that any bidding procedure is essentially guess work. It's especially risky if you're bidding on an unconventional project you're not used to doing."

"When you're doing that, you're going to be very cautious," he added.

After disclosing the bids, Peters outlined five alternatives available to committee members: Accept the low bid; reject both bids; reject the bids and have the contractors re-bid; reject both bids and negotiate with the contractors; or scrap the project entirely.

The committee quickly rejected accepting either of the bids. Member Johnnie Lou Avery said that, in light of the disparity between the budget and bids, the committee had no alternative except to reject both.

While agreeing that the bids were excessive, member Don Davis cautioned against rejecting the bids outright until they could be examined more closely.

"There's a question in my mind about the validity of the bids. I would hate to throw them out until we're sure about them," Davis said.

He particularly questioned the portion of the bids dealing with paving and curbing for the plaza. Johnston's bid was almost $32,000 more than George's in that section.

"I feel we should sit down and evaluate these bids closer and see if this is representative," Davis said.

Avery disagreed, saying that regardless of the discrepancy, both bids were still out of the committee's reach.

Avery later moved to reject both bids, and authorize Peters to negotiate with low bidder George in an attempt to secure a estimate closer to the project budget.

The motion was approved unanimously.

In other action, the committee: Approved a $3,250 bid from George Dickinson to provide lighting for the pocket park on the basis of his being the low bid.

Heard a report from Quinones on progress of the mural being painted on the west side of the Chamber of Commerce building.

The mural — being painted by local artist Coy McCann — should be completed by early August, she said, adding that the cost of the project will be $2,000.

Riley firmly behind official

By STEVE GEISSEN

Howard College President Bob Riley stands firmly behind the appointment of Andrew Hicks, despite questions about credentials held by the recently hired Howard College vice president.

Hicks' doctorate degree came from a university that was not accredited by a national or state education agency. However, Bob Riley, Howard College president, said the position of vice president of vocational/technical education requires a master's degree, but not a doctorate. Hicks holds a master's degree from Southwestern Oklahoma State University.

Riley described the former president of Frank Phillips College as "totally qualified" for his position, adding "I want the community to be aware of this."

"We hired Andy on the basis of what he can contribute to Howard College," he said. "He's had a lot of experience in the allied health field, and as a former college president he has a tremendous grasp of budgeting and personnel. "We feel he will be able to make contributions in many areas of college operations. I am very pleased to have Andy as a part of the administrative team at Howard College, and I am confident he will make many positive contributions in the vocational/technical division."

Questions about Hicks' qualifications have been raised by local residents since his appointment, Riley said. In addition, information concerning Hicks' credentials was sent to the Big Spring Herald from a Borger resident.

The college's board of trustees was fully aware of Hicks' credentials and the questions surrounding his doctorate before he was hired for the administrative position, Riley said.

Riley said the vice presidents of Howard College receive equal salaries, regardless of whether they hold a doctorate degree. The former dean of vocational/technical education, Barbara Holdampf, had a master's degree but not a doctorate, Riley said.

Hicks was hired as vice president of vocational/technical education June 21 by Howard College; he resigned from Frank Phillips College in Borger June 20.

Dorton: 911 pact's expected by August

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Howard County 911 Emergency Administrator Carl Dorton told board members Thursday night a service contract with three telephone companies to implement the system will be ready for their approval by early August.

Laura Sinclair — a Southwestern Bell Telephone Company representative who has been working closely with Dorton — said SWBT is the "franchising" company and that General Telephone Company and Westex Telephone Company will be using its lines to make the system operational.

Approximately 13,000 of the telephone exchanges that will be aligned with 911 service are SWBT subscribers, Dorton said.

Dorton — selected June 8 as the 911 administrator — said he has been working with Howard County commissioners and the U.S. Postal Service to coordinate all the roads within the county.

The identification of roads in the county will be patterned after those listed throughout the city of Big Spring, the administrator said.

Dorton said he is using 1st and Main Streets, north and south, as the dividing line for the city; and U.S. Highway 87, north and south, for Howard County.

"Right now I'm working on (identification of) the roads. I will do street addresses after all the roads are named and numbered. I've seen some road names that even the courthouse didn't know about," he said.

Calls will be routed through the Big Spring Police Department to the necessary emergency agencies — the fire department, Rural/Metro Ambulance and the

Inmate indicted in death

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors claim that a jail inmate indicted on a murder charge in the death of bankrupt real estate developer J.R. McConnell caused the former millionaire's death by plugging in the wire that electrocuted him.

Harris County grand jurors handed down the murder indictment against Thomas Joseph Damase, 42, on Thursday, three days after McConnell was found dead in his cell. He had an electrical cord wrapped around his suitcase. McConnell had been jailed since November on fraud charges and had been unable to raise $750,000 bail.

The grand jury indicted Damase, who had been jailed for violating probation, even though District Attorney John B. Holmes said McConnell wanted to die.

"If you ask me to get the gun and then you blow yourself away, that's suicide. If I do it for you, that's murder," Holmes said, explaining why prosecutors sought the first-degree felony charge rather than a lesser charge of aiding a suicide.

"Even though the facts will probably show that in the past J.R. McConnell wanted to die and on another occasion attempted to take his own life, this inmate did not commit the offense. He caused the death," Holmes said.

McConnell's death Monday came just 15 days before he was to stand trial on charges that he and five others took part in a title fraud scheme that netted between $4.2 million and $5.7 million.

Parolee charged in Maulden death

ABILENE (AP) — An Abilene man who won early parole from prison this year as a "non-violent offender" has been charged with capital murder in the beating and strangulation death of an elderly woman.

John Glenn Moody, 35, was charged Thursday in the July 3 robbery slaying of Maureen Louise Maulden, 76, authorities said.

Maulden, a native of Abilene, lived in Big Spring for several years before returning to Abilene in the area where he was employed as an engineer with the Texas & Pacific railroad.

She served as president of the Women's Forum from 1966-68, and was active in the First United Methodist Church and garden clubs during her stay in Big Spring.

Moody was paroled from prison Feb. 22 after serving seven months of a five-year sentence imposed last July for violating parole and burglary of a motor vehicle, prison and district court records show.

Moody had been on parole at that time on a five-year sentence he received in Callahan County in August 1986 for violating probation that the self-employed handyman had done odd jobs and yard work for the victim.

Jan. 30, 1987, prison records show. District Judge Bill Thomas Thursday ordered Moody held without bond.

The woman's nude and beaten body was found at her residence by her sister, Mildred Adams, late Friday. An autopsy said she was strangled.

Moody was arrested on a public intoxication charge only hours after the body was found, Abilene Police Sgt. Roger Dickey said.

Moody was linked to the crime,

"We had information from her family that he had done some work for her and was kind of a strange person," Dickey said. "He may have been at her house last Friday doing some repair work."

Dickey also said some property, which apparently had been stolen from Maulden's house, was recovered, but he declined to elaborate.

Taylor County Sheriff John Midden had granted Moody early parole, allowing him to be free at the time of the slaying.

Jail death testimony continues

HEMPHILL (AP) — Two inmates in the Sabine County Jail on Christmas night when another prisoner allegedly was beaten by three lawmen say they heard an altercation, and one saw the inmate lying in a puddle of blood.

The two testified Thursday in the civil rights trial of the three law enforcement officers who are accused in the alleged beating death of Loyal Garner Jr., of Florien, La.

Charged with violating Garner's civil rights by allegedly beating him and withholding medical attention are Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner and Sabine County deputies Bill Horton and James Hyden.

Testimony in the trial was scheduled to resume today.

Garner died in a Tyler hospital two days after he and two brothers were arrested Christmas night on suspicion of drunken driving and public intoxication.

Trent Taylor of Milam, in the jail Christmas night, testified he heard an altercation in a jail cell.

Taylor said after the scuffle, he heard Ladner tell someone to get up. After a few more "licks," Ladner asked Hyden to go get the blackjacks, he said.

"A good while later, Thomas came back to my cell and got me. I was sort of the trusty. Ladner told me he had stuff he wanted me to clean up," he said.

Taylor said he saw a puddle of Congress appropriates funds for state projects

By JENNIFER DIXON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has sent President Reagan legislation appropriating $156.61 million for water and energy projects in Texas and $100 million for the super collider.

The Senate gave final congressional approval to the water and energy package Thursday on a 91-3 vote, including $126.51 million in water construction projects and studies for the Lone Star State and another $30.1 million for energy projects.

"In this tight budget year, I am pleased that we have been able to get some pretty solid funding for Texas projects," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

The legislation also appropriates $100 million for research and development of the multibillion-dollar super collider. The bill decrees no construction can begin on the atom-smasher but allows for detailed engineering and some capital equipment purchases.

Bentsen called preservation of funding for the super collider "a major victory in this budget cycle."

Texas is one of seven states in the running for the super collider, a physics project which is expected to create 4,000 permanent jobs and have an annual budget of $280 million.

Also included in the package was a $22.8 million appropriation to continue construction of the long-awaited Cooper Lake on the South Sulphur River in Northeast Texas, and $11.3 million to deepen Freeport Harbor in Brazoria County.

Cooper Lake backers received a scare during the appropriations process, when the Senate initially decided to set aside $21.8 million. They feared environmentalists would take a lawsuit challenging the project back to federal court if another $1 million was not added to purchase land that will mitigate the effects of construction on wildlife.

The case was in court for years and the lake has been on the drawing board for decades.

"The Cooper Lake project can remain on track with the extra million we were able to get for mitigation," Bentsen said. "Cooper Lake is well on its way to being completed, and I think that it is about time."

Backers of deepening Freeport Harbor say the Brazoria County project will play an increasingly important role in the state's economy once completed. Dredging work could begin later this year.

The energy funding includes an appropriation for the Pantex nuclear weapons plant in Amarillo, which will get $20.5 million. Of that total, $13 million is for a high-explosive machining facility and $7.5 million for security enhancements. The University of Texas at Austin received $3 million for nuclear robotics, and Texas A&M University will get $600,000 for hydrogen research. Additionally, the Pleasant Bayou geothermal well in Brazoria County and two Louisiana counties received $6 million.

Additional funds were included in the bill for operation and maintenance of existing flood control and navigation projects in the state.

Ailing Texas thrifts dunk federal rescue in red ink

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress are seeing red: Federal regulators' newest projections more than double the bill the government's bill as it tries to bail out Texas' faltering savings and loan industry.

M. Danny Wall, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, raised the ante on the bailouts Thursday, telling the House Banking Committee that the estimated cost of dealing with the problems of Texas thrifts would be $15.2 billion. The bill would be $7 billion.

"Now you see it, now you don't," said a frustrated Rep. Fernand J. St Germain, D-R.I., chairman of the banking panel. "Watch the bouncing ball."

"It's called garbage in and garbage out," said Rep. Stan Farris, R-Va. "The definition of rosy scenario is changing so fast I can't even keep up with it."

Wall said his agency's estimate of bailout costs in Texas had increased because of thrifts' losses, and the costs of resolving their liabilities were more extensive than expected. St. Germain, however, said there were other factors as well.

"Some of the problems are just plain old-fashioned mismanagement, insider dealing, fraud and high-flying excesses, exacerbated by lax supervision and hesitant enforcement," he said.

Many lawmakers have long been jousting with bank board officials, accusing them of using optimistic economic scenarios to justify rosy cost projections.

Wall did not reveal a new proposal to bail out all of the country's savings and loans facing financial problems. But he said, "We see that the resources ... can be and would be sufficient for the size of the problem as we see it."

Wall also told the lawmakers that his agency would be able to raise $42.5 billion over the next decade to cover insolvencies across the country.

The government had previously estimated that the cost of bailouts nationally would be in the $25 billion to $30 billion range and that the bank board would have $30.2 billion at its disposal to merge, sell or liquidate troubled thrifts.

Wall said that to pay for the newly estimated costs of the Texas bailouts, his agency will raise an additional $12.3 billion, mostly by extending the special assessment the thrifts now pay on their deposits.

Of the country's 3,100 thrifts, the bank board has a caseload of 259 that will need financial assistance from the government and has identified 252 others likely to need financial help.

About 60 percent of the troubled thrifts are in the Southwest. Half of those are in Texas alone, where the economy has faltered in recent years because of falling oil prices. Until now, the government had estimated it would cost $7 billion to deal with the Texas savings and loans.

The country's savings and loans hold $950 billion in deposits.

The nation's thrifts lost $7.6 billion last year, making it the industry's worst year since the Depression. In the first three months of this year, 133 insolvent savings and loans in Texas have lost $3.4 billion.

deaths of Calixto and Hernandez, who were Mexican nationals.

Autopsy reports indicate both men died of gunshot wounds to the head. Authorities believe the two were shot and robbed, and that the house was intentionally set on fire.

Sabedra was released in May after Judge Gregg reduced bail from two $125,000 bonds on capital murder charges to $50,000 bond on each count.

Charges dropped for plea

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Officials said today that charges of capital murder and aggravated robbery had been dismissed against a Big Spring woman in exchange for a guilty plea to a single charge of murder, but she will not serve less time in prison because of the plea.

Jeannie Hernandez Fonseca pleaded guilty to one count of murder and was sentenced to life in prison Thursday afternoon in 118th Judicial District Court. The 29-year-old Big Spring woman had

The others remain in Howard County jail, where they have been in custody since their arrests in October. Judge Gregg denied bond reductions for the Hernandez brothers and Salazar in district court Wednesday afternoon, and previously had denied a bond reduction for Fonseca.

Hamby said today he expected Fonseca's plea will serve to shorten the time required to handle the other defendants in the slayings, but said it was too early to tell yet whether other defendants would plead guilty.

"I feel like we'll move on more quickly on the other cases," he said Thursday. "This was a major hurdle, and we're over it now."

He said because Fonseca pleaded guilty to murder in the death of Calixto, any sentences in the other cases would be presumed to run concurrently to the life sentence assessed through the plea and wouldn't serve any purpose to plead her to more than one case.

been charged with three counts of capital murder and one count of aggravated robbery in an unrelated incident.

The capital murder charges were filed in October and Fonseca was indicted by a Howard County grand jury in January. She was charged with capital murder in the death of a 39-year-old Grand Prairie man, and in the deaths of two Mexican nationals.

"She's going to TDC," 118th District Attorney Rick Hamby said Thursday.

Hamby said today that Fonseca's pleading guilty had "absolutely no effect on how long she'll be in (prison), because had she been convicted (of all the charges) the sentences would have run concurrently."

He said consecutive sentencing does happen in Texas, but is "very, very rare."

"Had Fonseca gone to trial on the charges and been convicted of capital murder, she could have received the death penalty, or a life sentence.

Aguilar bond request denied

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A Big Spring man's request for bond reductions on two charges of capital murder was denied today in 118th Judicial District Court.

Antonio Aguilar, arrested Oct. 22 and charged with two counts of capital murder, appeared before Judge Gregg. He was questioned by court-appointed defense attorney Bob Moore and by Assistant District attorney William Dale Dupree during the 20-minute hearing.

Aguilar, 21, told the court he is married to a Big Spring woman by common law and is the father of two children, a 3-year-old and an 8½-month-old, and that his wife and children are on welfare.

He testified that at the time of his arrest he was unemployed and had been unemployed since leaving the Big Spring Herald newspaper at the end of September.

He told the court local bondsmen had assured his family that arrangements would be made to enable him to make bail "as soon as I could get it lowered down."

Under questioning by Dupree he also told the court he is a convicted felon, sentenced to probation for a charge of burglary of a habitation at the age of 17. His probation was revoked, he was released from a state prison on shock probation and that probation was revoked.

Aguilar was returned to the Texas Department of Corrections and released on parole. He had not discharged his parole at the time of his arrest for murder.

Aguilar said his former attorney, Mike Thomas, had contacted the State Board of Pardons and Paroles and been assured "that there would be no problem" in releasing Aguilar from the TDC.

He said he had been told the paperwork to enable his re-release should be finished "sometime this month."

District parole officer David Harman testified that while parole applications in absentia are an approved and often-used practice, he "could not say for sure" in (Aguilar's case) "that it would be used."

Harman also said he was not certain whether Aguilar would have been discharged from parole by now had he not been in jail since October.

A Howard County jury indicted Aguilar in January in connection with the deaths of two Mexican nationals, Miguel Villareal Calixto and Norberto Gurrola Hernandez, whose bodies were found Oct. 10,

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A woman charged with capital murder has asked for a lower bond, a Big Spring man charged with murder will go to trial Oct. 3, and an Odessa man accused in a third slaying has been transported to the state penitentiary.

Pamela Newton, 21, had filed an ex parte suit requesting a writ of habeas corpus and a bond reduction from $100,000 on charges of capital murder to $50,000.

A hearing on the bond reduction Thursday afternoon resulted in no immediate decision, 118th Judicial District Judge James Gregg said today. He has taken the matter under advisement.

Arthur McIntire, charged with murder in the January slaying of Randal Crawford, will go on trial Oct. 3, according to District Attorney Rick Hamby.

Leroy Flores Alaniz, 30, Odessa, was released to a Texas Department of Corrections bus from the Howard County jail Thursday. Alaniz was returned to prison for parole violations. He is charged with murder in the April 2 slaying of another Odessa man, Manuel Vega Garcia, whose body was found April 7 in a Big Spring sand pit.

accrediting association, Heusser said.

Hicks said this week that he attended the university under the assumption the school would eventually receive accreditation from a national accrediting association. "Everybody who went there felt the same way," he said.

Hicks joined the staff of Frank Phillips college as coordinating instructor in the mid-management program in 1973. He was named director of occupational education and technology at the college in 1974 and dean of instruction in 1978 before being named president of the college in 1981.

Hicks' resume shows he graduated from Dumas High School in 1955, received a bachelor's degree in accounting from West Texas State University in 1962 and a master's degree in business from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in 1973.

Conny Moore, chairman of the board at Frank Phillips College, said the board never asked Hicks to obtain a doctorate degree from an accredited institution.

"He was hired as president with a master's degree," Moore said. "The doctorate degree was something he did on his own."

Ruling party claims Mexican victory; PAN claims fraud

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Governing party candidate Carlos Salinas de Gortari claimed a "national victory" Thursday in Mexico's presidential election. His party dismissed opposition charges of massive fraud as a publicity move.

In his first public appearance since polls closed Wednesday evening, Salinas de Gortari addressed thousands of supporters packed into the Institutional Revolutionary Party headquarters.

"We have achieved national victory in the presidential election," he told the crowd, which responded by chanting: "We have won, We have won."

"We have achieved this victory in one of the most contested elections in our history and one of the most peaceful," Salinas de Gortari added.

In an apparent concession that his party had lost some congressional races, he said the "legal victories" of the opposition would be respected.

Early results showed Salinas de Gortari leading the four opposition candidates.

The Federal Election Commis-

The three presidential candidates who ran in Mexico's national elections are pictured with Cuauhtemoc Cardenas of the National Democratic Front (FDN); Carlos Salinas de Gortari of the Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI); and Manuel J. Clouthier of the National Action Party (PAN).

sion, which supervised Wednesday's balloting, said Salinas de Gortari received 96,379 votes, or 41.8 percent of the 230,516 counted.

Cuauhtemoc Cardenas of the leftist National Democratic Front and the Mexican Socialist Party received 20,680 votes, or 34.9 percent, and Manuel J. Clouthier of the conservative National Action Party had 37,742, or 16.4 percent.

Gumersindo Magana of the conservative Mexican Democratic Party got 2,235 votes, or just under 1 percent, and Rosario Ibarra de Piedra of the radical Revolutionary Workers Party with less than half a percent, or 1,067 ballots.

The results showed listed 11,573 votes annulled, 70 blank ballots and 770 write-ins.

Computer problems forced officials to suspend the count at 1:30 a.m. Thursday. The election commission said the tally would resume in the evening.

President Miguel de la Madrid's six-year term expires Dec. 1, and under the Constitution he cannot be re-elected.

In addition to choosing a president, voters also chose a new 500-member Chamber of Deputies and a 64-member Senate. Opposition parties were expected to gain in the congress, which in the past few years has begun to shed its rubberstamp image.

Before the first returns were announced at 1:30 a.m., Jorge de la Vega Dominguez, president of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, announced "a crushing, legal and incontestable victory" for Salinas de Gortari.

Since its founding 1929, the PRI has won every presidential election and has controlled the national congress and the governorships of all 31 states.

But this year, a clear deterioration of the PRI's influence was evidenced by the strong campaigns waged by Cardenas and Clouthier.

Cardenas, Clouthier and Mrs. Ibarra de Piedra with federal officials Wednesday night and issued a statement accusing the government of rigging the election.

The statement accused the government of stuffing ballot boxes, eliminating citizens from voting rolls, paying people to vote and multiple voting.

PRI representatives called the complaint a publicity move by the three candidates and challenged them to present proof supporting their allegations.

In the northern states of Chihuahua and Nuevo Leon, the government's claims of a fair election were met with widespread skepticism.

The Monterrey newspaper El Norte said fraud was widespread in Salinas de Gortari's adopted hometown of Agualeguas, in northern Nuevo Leon state near the U.S. border.

El Norte, which had reporters at each of Agualeguas' three precincts count the number of people who voted, reported that 626 people cast ballots, but the tally compiled by PRI pollwatchers totaled 1,725 votes.

Kemp defends Bush's pledge to appoint Hispanic to Cabinet

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp told a national Hispanic group on Thursday that economic growth in their communities could be reached by the tenets of his failed bid for the presidency — free enterprise zones, lowered trade barriers and less taxes.

Kemp, R-N.Y., also defended Vice President George Bush's pledge Wednesday to delegates at the League of United Latin American Citizens' convention that he would appoint a Hispanic to a Cabinet post if he becomes president.

"The criticism I saw of the vice president and that I have heard from some of my friends in LULAC was that Bush, in making a pledge to put a Hispanic in the Cabinet, was somehow — the word that they used was 'pandering,'" Kemp said at a news conference following his 1:30 p.m. CDT speech.

"I think most people recognize that the country has had Cabinets and Democratic and Republican administrations over the past two or three decades that have included Italian, black, Jewish, etc. There has never been a Hispanic-American. It was well within the context of the vice president's speech." — U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp

Probable Democratic nominee Michael Dukakis was scheduled to address the convention Thursday evening.

"I think most people recognize that the country has had Cabinets and Democratic and Republican administrations over the past two or three decades that have included Italian, black, Jewish, etc. There has never been a Hispanic-American. It was well within the context of the vice president's speech," Kemp said.

Kemp said free enterprise zones, designated regions with tax benefits for small business, were "not a Democratic idea or a Republican idea. Quite frankly, I think it's radical."

Businesses set up in a free enterprise zone receive rebates and tax cuts from the government and are designed to encourage economic growth. The zones would be set up through a federal program.

"We ought to abolish the tax on small businessmen and women," said Kemp, who authored tax-cut legislation that was a model for President Reagan's tax reductions in the early 1980s.

Kemp departed from his prepared text during the speech, also addressing patriotic issues and America's attractiveness to immigrants.

"I hope someday we'll live in a United States in which the president of the United States is named after Martinez or Cisneros or Rodriguez or whatever," he said.

Kemp said a new effort to aid Latin America should be initiated on the lines of a new alliance for progress and said lower interest rates and free trade with Latin America would boost the rest of the Western Hemisphere's economy. Kemp also called for an appeal of sanctions against small businessmen along the border, part of recently passed federal immigration reform laws, sparking shouts of support and a long, loud ovation from the audience of over 600 people.

Kemp was the only Republican candidate for president to attend last year's EULAC convention in Corpus Christi.

"We're getting a sample of our ideal tickets" for the Democratic and Republican presidential campaigns, said George Rodriguez, a LULAC national representative.

Kemp said he was not seeking to become Bush's running mate but said he would accept if he was asked.

"I don't think that was why I was invited here," Kemp said.

FAITH SEES POTENTIAL BLESSINGS IN OUR EARTHLY HAZARDS
 Throughout history, many parts of the world have been dramatically affected by volcanic eruptions. Islands have been created and destroyed by them, and they are frequently associated with earthquakes. You may well ask how anything good can result from such terrifying upheavals. The answer is: there are areas of dormant volcanic activity which emit steam from fissures in the ground, and which are seen as a potential low-cost and inexhaustible source of energy which could benefit millions of people. Indeed, it is already being harnessed for this purpose. The forces of nature can either cause great disasters or prolong and enrich people's lives. It all depends on man's willingness to use his God-given intelligence to create the necessary technology. Thank the Lord for this great opportunity He has given us, and pray that we will always make good use of it.

God's place in our lives

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think about Bible studies that meet in a home or office? I was raised in a church that stressed a minister was the only one who could understand and teach the Bible properly, but I notice there are several Bible studies in our area that are not led by ministers. People who go to them seem to get a lot out of them — C.B.

Billy Graham

DEAR C.B.: It is true God has given some people a special spiritual gift of teaching the Scriptures. But this should not make you think you are the only one who can understand and teach the Bible through your own study or through studying it with others. You see, the Bible is God's word, given to us by the Holy Spirit. The Scriptures are able to make you wise for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness, so that the man of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work." (2 Timothy 3:15-17) And the same Holy Spirit is able to open our spiritual "eyes" and will help us understand the Bible and its application to our lives. If there is a group that is honestly and prayerfully studying the Bible near you, I would encourage you to join it — not as a substitute for your church, but as an additional opportunity for you to grow spiritually. "For where two or three come together in my name, there am I with them." (Matthew 18:20).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a cousin who's spent a great deal of time trying to trace our family history and genealogy. She's become so absorbed in it that I don't want to be judgmental, but could something like this possibly be wrong? — Mrs. K.S.

DEAR MRS. K.S.: No, this (like many other hobbies) is not necessarily wrong in itself. (In fact, you will notice the Bible contains a number of genealogies, particularly in the Old Testament. Their main purpose was not to satisfy curiosity, however, but to keep a legal record of the history of God's people up to the time of the Messiah). It can even give you a new concern for your family and a sense of thankfulness for the way God has been with those who have gone before.

It is through the Bible that we learn about God and his love for us in Jesus Christ. In the Bible we also find out how God wants us to live. Set aside time each day to read a portion of God's word, asking God to help you understand it and follow it. Take advantage also of every other opportunity God gives you to learn from his word, both in church and through other means.

But almost anything can become wrong if it absorbs us so much that we forget God and his rightful place in our lives. This is true of any hobby; it can be just as true of our work. In addition, perhaps you've met people who take great pride in the accomplishments of their ancestors, and even consider themselves better than other people because of them. This should not be the case, however. We each stand before God as individuals, and we are each accountable to him by ourselves.

Shoe shine bishop

Panhandle man finds calling as founder of church

The 60-year-old man who shines shoes for a living keeps going with hard work and self-respect, but that wasn't enough when his name changed, temporarily, from Jones to Jonah.

Many years before he identified with the Old Testament character, he was stuck by a taxicab while riding a bicycle. As a result, his left leg was amputated above the knee. He was 16 years old.

"No one would ever hire me because I lost that leg, so I had to keep shining shoes," said Walter Jones, who serves as bishop of the Whosoever Will Let Them Come In Jesus' Name Church, which he founded in Amarillo nine years ago, and who makes his living from the shoeshine stand at Tascosa Barber Shop.

"The doctors thought I wasn't going to live, so they just whacked the leg off, and after I lived they went back a year later and took (part of) it off again so I could wear an artificial limb.

"I've been shining shoes ever since I was a little boy. Started with a box, with 5 cents a shine in 1935."

While he was in the hospital — "weeping and crying; I was lying there feeling sorry for myself" — he discovered an elderly patient was wearing an artificial leg.

Jones talked to the man, who explained some of the pain and discomfort that sometimes comes with wearing an artificial limb. But still, Jones was inspired and found some self-confidence.

"It's not going to be easy and you are going to have to make up your mind that you are going to wear that leg," the man told Jones.

"I said, 'You did it, didn't you?'" Jones asked. "He said, 'Yes sir.' I said, 'I can do it too.'"

Jones returned, sitting on a stool, to shining shoes and mopping floors in Amarillo to raise money for his first artificial limb.

"I wanted to prove to myself what I could do," said Jones. "I wanted to prove to myself I wasn't out of the race. This I did."

In the next few years, he worked at the Amarillo Air Force Base, shining shoes at the Officers' Club and bowling alley, and shining shoes at the old city air terminal.

AMARILLO — Walter Jones poses in the Whosoever Will Let Them Come in Jesus' Name Church, which he founded in Amarillo nine years ago. Jones lost a leg when he was struck by a taxicab while riding a bicycle when he was 16.

He raised his 10 children shining shoes; bought his own home on Poplar Street; and, he said, he keeps his vow to himself to keep on working and stay off disability. He has shoeshine customers that have been loyal to him for 40

But, according to Jones, he should have paid more attention to a fish story in the Bible.

The way the bishop tells it: God told Jonah to "Arise, go to Nineveh" to preach, and several epochs of history later God told Jones to start a non-denominational church here. Neither one did what they were told, at first.

"Out of the belly of hell cried I," said Jonah, according to the King James Version of the Old Testament, after he disobeyed his calling and was swallowed by a "great fish."

Jones, for his part, said he ended up having emergency abdominal surgery. "I wasn't doing what the Lord told me to do," Jones recalled. "The Lord told me to start a church."

"Then when I was in the hospital I could hear the Voice saying, 'I told you what to do.' And I promised God, I said 'I'll tell you what Lord, if you let me get out of here alive, you won't be bothered with me any more.'"

With a $4,000 bank loan, he was able to buy the small church building at 1400 N. Ong. Over the years, he said, he has put more than $25,000 of his own money into the church. He furnished it with pews, carpet, piano, organ and more. Drums and a guitar are also used during services. He has also supplied the church with a van, and a large portable barbecue pit.

At one point the church had 24 members, but now it's made up of mainly Jones' family and a couple of other families. The church is open to the public. Jones — as preacher and overseer, two words that he said describe the role of bishop — receives no salary.

The name of the church, Whosoever Will Let Them Come In Jesus' Name Church, comes from verse 17 of the last chapter of the Book of Revelation: "And let him that is thirsty come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

"I teach God is love," said Jones. "I teach Jesus died for the sins of the world."

Religion roundup

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Assembly of Religious Women has commended the decision of the Notre Dame Sisters de Namur not to dismiss two sisters who question Roman Catholic teachings on abortions.

The two sisters, Barbara Ferraro and Patricia Hussey, run a shelter for the homeless in Charleston, S.C.

The NARW applauded them for upholding the right of responsible dissent, and calling for dialogue on a controversial moral issue.

They were among 26 nuns who came under a Vatican ultimatum to be ousted or recant their signing of a 1984 New York Times ad terming diverse Catholic views of abortion legitimate.

Cases of the others were resolved earlier, and the order of the two recently declined to dismiss them despite their refusal to condemn all abortions.

NEW YORK (AP) — The general synod of the Reformed Church in America in June voted 139-132 to encourage congregations to include "baptized children at the Lord's Table."

Previously, only professed members were invited to receive Holy Communion.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ann N. Beardslee has been appointed acting executive director of Church World Service, a post from which J. Richard Butler resigned in May in a conflict with the Rev. Arie Brouwer, chief executive of the National Council of Churches.

CWS is the council's relief arm. Ms. Beardslee has been its assistant executive director.

ATLANTA (AP) — The chairman of the Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations says the Arab-Israeli violence in Gaza and the West Bank can be ended through territorial compromise if Palestinians accept Israel's right to exist.

Moris B. Abram told a Sabbath congregation that "Israel's must convince the Palestinians that if they recognize Israel and forswear their covenant of violence, territorial compromise becomes a realistic goal."

Americans see hope for religion in Soviet Union

NEW YORK (AP) — Some extraordinary warmth is showing up in the Soviet Union's relations with religion, say American church leaders who returned from last month's celebrations there of Christianity's millennium.

But they add that just what the friendlier climate means in practical implementation and lasting effect remains in question.

"As is true with many historical events, we won't know for about 25 years what happened in Moscow," says Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom of Chicago, head of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

"It may be a 'blip' on the screen that will have little long-term significance, or it may go down as one of the great milestone moments in Christian history."

In any case, the occasion was marked with fervor, crowds, the return of various church properties, the presence of about 500 church leaders from other lands, all with cooperation and sometimes participation of state officials.

If anyone just a few years ago had said it could happen in that officially atheist state, they'd have been laughed at, Chilstrom says, but a change had come through Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

"Don't expect that suddenly you're going to have a change of 180 degrees," says Chilstrom, among about 50 U.S. church leaders who took part in the celebration.

"On the other hand, they seem to be trying to reinterpret history. They seem to be saying that in this society, even though it is officially atheistic, the church has a right to exist and do its work."

New York's Cardinal John O'Connor, one of 10 high-level Roman Catholics present for the celebrations, says he is "guardedly optimistic" about the status of religion there.

"Unquestionably, something is happening," he says, citing the extensive services, ceremonies and freedom of the celebration and noting the return of numerous monasteries and churches to the Russian Orthodox Church.

But it remains uncertain whether it is genuine or just tactical expediency, O'Connor says.

He says it may be that Gorbachev merely "feels he must relax things" for believers (70 million Orthodox, 9 million Roman Catholics, 5 million Protestants) because "he needs everybody's help to get the economy going."

But if "he is sincerely interested in opening Soviet society because it should be open and if he has the belief as he says he has, that there should be much broader religious freedom, then there is hope."

The Rev. Joe Hale of Lake Junaluska, N.C., general secretary of the World Methodist Council, who had previously visited the Soviet Union five years ago, says he "found this time a very different climate."

"Something is happening in the Soviet Union, something that could be monumental for the world, for the wind blowing could be the divine wind we call the Holy Spirit."

"People were finally smiling, seemed happier."

He says the broadly enthusiastic celebration was especially significant because it affirmed "publicly the right of the church to exist in the Soviet Union with integrity."

The government affirmed this, he says, by its meetings with church officials, its hosting of a reception for about 800 celebrants at the Kremlin and presence of Gorbachev's wife, Raisa, at a religious concert at the Bolshoi Theater.

A speaker at that event, Rabbi Arthur Schneier of Manhattan's Park East Synagogue, president of the interfaith Appeal of Conscience Foundation, turned away from the audience at one point to address her directly.

He cited the Bible story of creation of Eve as helpmate to Adam and told Mrs. Gorbachev:

"You are in sympathy with your husband's cause, and your presence in our midst indicates your support of his pronouncements on the rights of religious believers."

Evangelist Billy Graham, who preached to overflow crowds at Orthodox and Baptist churches and who met with Soviet officials to discuss changes in church-state relations, told one Baptist congregation:

"You are entering a new period of history for the nation. In past years, you faced many difficulties, but your faith has become strong."

Chappell presents program

The women of the First Church of God met July 4 for a monthly meeting.

Virginia Chappell directed the program titled, "Wise As Serpents," written by Renee Johns, who is a staff member in the National WCG office in Anderson, Ind.

Facts were introduced showing that we are increasingly bombarded with information on subjects which did not even exist a decade ago.

These facts come from a multitude of sources such as TV, newspapers, radio, magazines and pamphlets with so much information available each day, we do become confused as to what information is true and what programs deserve our time and finances.

One advantage of living in a free society is the right to information affecting public policies.

Anna Smith, Kathryn Thomas and Betty Reagan will represent the WCG at the Texas Camp Meeting at Camp Inspiration, Eastland, July 11-17.

The next meeting will be Aug. 1 in the church sanctuary.

LEARNING DOESN'T IMPROVE WITH DISTANCE.

Some people think that you've got to go away to college to get a quality education. Yet nothing could be further from the truth. Because thanks to America's Community, Technical and Junior Colleges, you can get a great education right in your own backyard. Without the expense of living away from home. And without giving up your full- or part-time job. What's more, tuitions average about half the cost of public four-year colleges and universities. No wonder an amazing 55% of all first year freshmen choose Community Colleges. So remember, learning doesn't improve with distance. In many ways, it gets better the closer you are to home. Views of other Texas papers

Richards more than qualified

Democratic presidential hopeful Michael Dukakis said he wanted a female to deliver the keynote address at the national convention. And the party preferred someone who could appeal to Southern voters, particularly in Texas.

State Treasurer Ann Richards certainly meets those qualifications. But in naming her as the keynote speaker, the Democrats are getting more than a gender and a geographic locale. Richards is a dedicated public servant, an accomplished orator, and, as one Democratic official accurately described her, "a fiery populist."

Her speech promises to be an old-fashioned stem-winder and calls to mind the success of the only woman who's given the keynote address, Texas' Barbara Jordan in 1976.

The Houston Post

Contribution system needs cap

The Joint Select Committee on the Judiciary made some important recommendations in limiting campaign contributions to judicial candidates.

The recommendations, in fact, are worthy of study by other groups across the state in suggesting financial restrictions on other elections in Texas, from governor down to constable and in municipal and school elections, as well.

The finance of elections rightly has become of concern to many voters, as the awarding of huge amounts of money to candidates from individuals and/or political action committees certainly gives the appearance of impropriety in a campaign.

Well-monitored limits on contributions are a step toward doing away with the possibility of such an influence.

This could be the start of much-needed campaign reform which will aid the representative system in this nation.

Certainly just about any kind of reform will help improve the tarnished image of the Texas Supreme Court.

Whitmire did what had to be done

City Council did what had to be done when it narrowly approved Mayor Kathy Whitmire's budget heads in detail. If there were any big holes in the budget, they were not uncovered.

No one likes a tax increase, but the city has cut services and employees to the point where any further reductions would have been harmful.

Closed library doors and diminished ranks in the Police Department were not acceptable alternatives.

The budget was submitted early and got a full hearing, with council members questioning department have to sell a tax increase to the council and to the public, and that's what Houstonians know their city has seen through rough economic times, and Houstonians know that we are on the way to recovery.

City Council's prompt approval of a budget that maintains city services was a vote of confidence in the city's future.

Houston Chronicle

A big gamble that might bear fruit

Communist orthodoxy has been taken to the woodshed. In a remarkable speech before a special party conclave in Moscow, Mikhail Gorbachev said many of the Marxist concepts of the past, such as a strong central government and tightly controlled production of consumer goods, must be discarded.

The Soviet leader called for a new system that draws on Western models. He wants a "president" to lead the Soviet government — one that is more answerable to the public and less to the Communist Party — whose membership includes only 20 million of the country's 270 million people.

He advocates a "Congress of USSR People's Deputies" that is reflective of people's concerns.

And he envisions local governments that have powers to tax businesses to provide services.

Blasting past Soviet regimes, he declared, "The tendency to encompass every nook of life with detailed centralized planning and control literally strait-jacketed society."

Like Humpty-Dumpty, Mr. Gorbachev may yet take a great fall. Many Soviet "conservatives" are totally opposed to his reforms. But if he succeeds even partially, the world should be a more peaceful place. Soviet citizens who demand and get good shoes are less likely to be thinking about fomenting revolution elsewhere.

The Dallas Times Herald

Raise judges' pay — but do more

The Joint Select Committee on the Judiciary last week recommended that pay for Texas judges be raised. While the $78,795 a year a Supreme Court justice draws down seems like a lot to most people, in the rarefied atmosphere of high-priced law firms, it doesn't mean a lot. Nor does the state compare well with others: Texas ranks 17th in judicial pay.

Fine, raise judicial salaries — but first change the selection process so the state gets judges chosen clearly for merit and not because they've raised the most campaign money, and cut the tie that binds legislative salaries to those of district court judges. That's nothing but a hidden way legislators can boost their own pay.

Dallas Morning News

A kind word for free private schools

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

The blitzkrieg against Jersey City, N.J., by Gov. Thomas Kean has stirred the masses, among them many conservatives. Their position is that the inviolability of local school control should be supreme over the naturally aggressive tendencies of the state.

The principle is good, but like so many others, it is rebuttable; and the situation in Jersey City certainly warranted it.

The schools were improving in the Jersey City system. For instance, the daily absentee rate was reduced from 12.9 percent in 1983-84 to 10.6 percent this past year. But even at that figure, it did not meet the New Jersey State Education Department's requirement that not more than 10 percent of the student body be absent on an average day.

The complaint of the Education Department consumes 2,000 pages of an official report on the delinquencies of the Jersey City school system. Notwithstanding any improvements of the past three years, it certainly looked bad, if it is as described in that long report.

The New York Times' Robert Hanley writes of "a history of cronyism in school hiring, fiscal irregularities and sloppy book-keeping, as well as managerial and educational ineptness."

And the lurid details: "Mentioned are burst water pipes and unrepaired broken windows; trash accumulations on school grounds; blackboards so worn they are unusable; students sharing textbooks and without regular desks; one school that has two teachers giving different classes in one room, and another school so overcrowded that 10 rooms in a neighboring parochial school are rented for the overflow."

On the right

The result of that kind of education is no education — for 29,000 students who attend the Jersey City schools. Forty percent of the ninth-graders who took the mathematics and reading portions of the High School Proficiency Test scored the minimum passing grade of 65. New Jersey requires 75 percent success.

Now the conservative position on local control is presumptively correct. The idea has always been to arouse local citizens who have the most to gain from good schools for their children, and the most to lose from bad schools for their children.

But the position of Governor Kean, obviously, was that — manifestly — the theory of local control was not working. Conservatives believe to a man that a child belongs to the child's parents, but few would resist the authority — or indeed, deny that it is the duty — of the state to remove the child if maltreated by the parents.

By extension, removing authority over the parents' schools, if they are not exercising that authority productively, is a sound exercise of state power.

The subject has been heatedly debated, not only in New Jersey, but on network television. MacNeil-Lehrer gave it a full quarter-hour the same day that Mr. Reagan flew off to Helsinki.

What has been missing, in these discussions, is any thought given to the libertarian alternative, which is, of course, the right — wholly unobserved in the United States, except in a few enterprising pockets — of the parent to pull the child out of the school district and send him to a private school, using for that purpose a voucher that the private school can exchange for cash at Governor Kean's State Bank.

One advantage of the voucher system is instantly visible from the Jersey City case. The delinquent handling of the business of education by the Jersey City educational authorities was visible after a while at headquarters.

And a reform group was in charge for three years, and still the results were sluggish. More than 10 years of inferior education comes to more than 100,000 New Jersey students critically deprived.

We began by speaking of hard conservative ideologists who have difficulty in understanding that the right of the parent to have control over his public school district has got to be subordinate to basic considerations centered on student achievement.

Ideology can kill, and it is much more solidly in possession of U.S. liberals than of U.S. conservatives. So deep is the antagonism to the citizen's right to his own choice of schools, financed by his share of the school tax, that not even any discussion of that alternative takes place in New Jersey, where the next thing to civil war is raging over the Jersey City situation.

We would need to grant that much of the blame rests on the shoulders of the parents who elect the school board. They saw education decline, and did nothing about it.

But how many parents suffered, even though they wished reform for their children, because they could not afford to send their children to different schools? For the first group — delinquent parents — one needs the hard overseer, the state.

But for the others, there should be, and there should have been, the alternative of free private schools.

Would you still walk a mile for a Camel?

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Right in the middle of the current focus on making everybody quit smoking and making those who don't quit feel terribly guilty, one of the giants of cigarettedom is having a birthday.

Perhaps you have seen the billboards proclaiming the 75th anniversary for Camels, once known in various circles of mine as "the man's cigarette."

For those who never smoked, allow me to explain.

Some years ago, somebody came up with the idea to put filters on cigarettes. The idea was the filter would remove some of the tar and nicotine and whatever else it is that will kill you if you smoke.

Filters also made the tobacco taste a little milder, and most everybody eventually began smoking filtered cigarettes. A few hardy souls held on, however, and continued to smoke unfiltered, to heck with it cigarettes like Camels.

I remember pulling out a pack of filtered Marlboros over a few beers during my college days.

The man sitting next to me thrust a pack of Camels in my face and said, "Here, smoke a man's cigarette."

It clearly would have been a sign of weakness had I not taken the fellow's offering.

I put a light to the end of the Camel and inhaled deeply. I sucked in several loose leaves of tobacco, burned my tongue and couldn't speak for 15 minutes.

Still, I always admired Camel smokers. I like the short little Camel pack and the way a Camel smoker would hit one end of the cigarette on the table or on his lighter in order to compact the tobacco leaves, making the Camel even stronger.

I also liked the Camel package itself. It was mostly brown and there was a picture of a camel, of course, and there used to be a game to see who could find the most "E's" on a Camel package.

I don't know many people who smoke at all, anymore, much less people who smoke Camels. In fact, I can only think of two Camel smokers who are still alive. One is a college professor. Another is a newspaperman. They look well enough.

Seventy-five years people have been smoking Camels, huh?

The following story was told to me as truth:

There was a 90-year-old man living in the North Carolina mountains who had allegedly smoked two packs of Camels a day since he was 15 years old.

R.J. Reynolds, which makes Camels, heard of the man and sent a representative to see him.

The Reynolds man asked if the old boy would come to Winston-Salem, N.C. (Reynolds' headquarters), to make a commercial.

They would show anti-smokers that you could smoke and still live a long life. The old man agreed to make the commercial.

"Can you be in Winston-Salem at 9 Friday morning?" he was asked.

"Nope," said the old man. "Why not?" asked the Reynolds man.

"Cause I don't quit coughing until noon." Happy anniversary, Camels.

Drought legislation in the works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prodded by farm-state governors, congressional committees are planning to start work next week on legislation to provide relief to farmers whose crops have been ravaged by drought.

"We will attempt to have legislation prepared and introduced... if not Monday then Tuesday," said Agriculture Committee Chairman E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, said Thursday.

The promise followed a closed-door meeting with six governors at which Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng concurred that the time has come to start legislation on its way through Congress.

Lyng had been saying lawmakers should monitor the drought but hold off on a relief bill until more was known about the situation.

Authorities are now forecasting serious reductions in corn yields unless the Midwest gets substantial rain this week.

West coast quake odds increase

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The odds of a catastrophic earthquake that could kill thousands of people in Southern California are higher than once believed, and the San Francisco Bay area faces a similar threat, a federal report says.

Recent concern about the so-called "big one" on the San Andreas Fault has centered on the greater Los Angeles-San Bernardino area because so much strain on the fault's north end was released by San Francisco's great quake of 1906, which measured an estimated 8.3 on the Richter scale.

But a report issued Thursday by the U.S. Geological Survey and a working group of its National Earthquake Prediction Evaluation Council said the San Francisco Bay area is nearly as likely to suffer a great quake.

"Unless we aggressively pursue earthquake reduction measures, there is the potential for many people to die, perhaps more people than ever died in a single day from any (natural) disaster in the United States," said Richard Andrews, deputy director of California's Office of Emergency Services.

Military issues new AIDS order

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Army and Air Force have ordered commanding officers to tell soldiers or airmen who test positive for the AIDS virus that they face discharge or prosecution unless they inform all sex partners of their condition and use condoms.

The regulations, and a similar Navy policy, spell out rules of behavior at issue in a number of cases in which military personnel who have tested positive for the AIDS virus have been charged with criminal offenses. The charges have ranged from aggravated assault to having unsafe sex without warning partners of the test results.

In an AIDS-related court-martial scheduled to start at Arizona's Fort Huachuca this month, defense lawyers have argued that the defendant was not ordered either to use condoms or to inform partners of his condition.

Mount Rushmore fire beat back

Firefighters beat back a forest fire that prompted the evacuation of more than 1,000 people near Mount Rushmore National Memorial, allowing it to be reopened, while a second blaze nearly brushed the Alaska Pipeline.

In South Carolina, a 1,000-acre blaze jumped plowed fire lines in four locations Thursday and ate up another 150 acres of timber and brush dried by heat and drought, while land managers in Alaska took a new tack in their battle against four fires.

Hope decreases for 149 missing workers

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — Rescue workers today scaled down a search for 149 workers missing after an explosion blew apart an oil rig, and officials held out little hope of finding anyone alive.

Seventeen bodies and 64 survivors were pulled out of the North Sea after the world's worst oil rig disaster.

Police today said at least two Americans had been on the rig when it exploded. Their fate was unknown.

The owner, U.S.-based Occidental Petroleum, said a gas leak apparently caused the blast Wednesday night on the Piper Alpha oil rig 120 miles off Scotland, but it did not know what caused the gas to ignite.

The disaster is expected to cost insurers more than $1 billion in claims, which would be a record, the Lloyd's of London insurance market said today. Lloyd's spokesman David Lerner said Occidental insured the rig, plus the costs of any loss of life claims, salvaging the rig, redrilling and pollution.

The rig was still burning today, and Occidental said Paul "Red"

Adair of Houston, Texas, an expert in capping out-of-control oil wells, would try to stop it. Adair was brought in to cap the first blowout on a North Sea rig in April 1977.

Armand Hammer, 90-year-old chairman of Occidental Petroleum, flew in from Los Angeles and landed at Aberdeen's airport, where flags were at half-staff. He conferred with company heads in Aberdeen before going to visit injured survivors at Aberdeen Royal Infirmary.

Prince Charles, Princess Diana and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher planned to go to Aberdeen, capital of the Scottish oil industry, later in the day to console the bereaved and visit the injured.

The Coast Guard said six oil industry ships, the semi-submersible rig Tharos and one Coast Guard helicopter resumed searching today at dawn.

Asked whether rescuers had given up hope of finding more survivors, British Energy Department minister Peter Morrison said: "To be honest, yes. At this stage there is very little hope indeed."

Trading scandal rocks Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Accusations of insider trading with a political twist are rocking the dominant Liberal Democratic Party in the latest scandal revealing the close ties between Japanese politics and business.

But experts say it is unlikely to hurt the LDP seriously despite the participation of senior aides.

Finance Minister Takeshita and at least three men who were premier.

The affair involves current or former private secretaries to Takeshita, Finance Minister Kiichi Miyazawa, LDP Secretary General Shintaro Abe, ex-Premier Yasuhiro Nakasone and at least four other ex-Cabinet ministers.

The aides have been identified among 76 people who obtained shares of Daiichi Kangyo Bank, a real estate and leasing company at discounts before the shares were issued publicly.

Soviet art hits the auction block

MOSCOW (AP) — In 1974, Vladimir Nemukhin and Bela Levikova helped organize an outdoor art show that drew cool reviews from KGB agents, who bulldozed the artwork.

On Thursday, the two Soviet artists displayed their work at the country's first international art auction, an unlikely event that raked in $3.6 million from a flock of art-loving foreigners.

About 2,000 people crowded into a hall at the International Trade Center for the auction organized by Sotheby's of London. In two hectic hours, 120 works of art were put up for bids.

The event drew more than a little curiosity in a country where prices usually are regulated by bureaucrats.

"Maybe money is a bad standard for merit, but it's a worldwide standard," said Nikolai Filatov, a Ukrainian-born artist who had two works sold.

Art that deviated from the principles of Socialist Realism once met with the Kremlin's disdain.

Bangladesh flood toll reaches 91

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — The army was called out today to help rescue an estimated 4 million people stranded by flooding as the death toll in five days of monsoon rains reached 91, officials and newspapers said.

At least 27 people were killed Thursday as floodwaters spread from the country's northeast into the southeast district of Chittagong, the Bengali-language newspapers Itihad and Sangbad reported today.

Two of the victims Thursday were reported drowned in Chittagong. All the earlier victims were in the northeast, along the Indian border.

Army units began moving into flooded areas today after the cabinet decided the night before to call out the force, said officials at the Flood Control Ministry who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The Bengali-language newspapers said 4 million people were marooned, many trapped atop their homes or even in trees.

Guerrillas shell police stations

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Guerrillas today shelled two police stations and mistakenly hit a schoolhouse. A British soldier was killed by a blast near a swimming pool, where two people were slain the day before, police said.

Police also said the body of an unidentified man was found lying near a tractor-trailer used to fire mortars at one police station in Pomeroy in County Tyrone.

Six people suffered minor injuries when a mortar raid on a second police station in Stewartson, about 10 miles from Pomeroy, went astray and damaged a primary school and several houses, police said. They said 80 families were evacuated.

The mainly Catholic IRA targets security forces in its guerrilla war to end British rule.

Government considering reparations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is moving closer to a decision on offering reparations for the destruction of Iran Air flight 655, saying the United States will not shirk its "moral responsibility" in the wake of the Persian Gulf tragedy.

"I suspect that doing what we think is right will be the deciding factor," White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater's comments Thursday marked a significant change in the tone of administration pronouncements after several days of noncommittal responses on the issue of reparations for families of the 290 victims.

"One of the driving forces behind our consideration is simply the moral responsibility of America and the fact that we've always been a humane nation that takes these kinds of problems very seriously and assumes personal responsibilities," he said.

The Defense Department acknowledged Thursday that the Iranian A300 Airbus shot down by the U.S. warship was within a commercial airline corridor, but said that alone did not guarantee its safety.

"An airway is not a safety zone," said Pentagon spokesman Dan Howard. "All this means is that within that zone, within that area, the air traffic control authorities have agreed to track aircraft."

Fitzwater stressed that no decision on reparations has been made either by senior staff or President Reagan. But in contrast to his suggestion earlier this week that the decision will await the outcome of the Navy's investigation of the incident, Fitzwater said he wanted to emphasize that "we're moving along through the consideration process."

"We don't have final decisions yet, but it clearly is an issue that is under active discussion," Fitzwater said.

On Capitol Hill, House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said Congress would likely support a request for compensation if it came from the president.

"It should come from the president," Wright said.

The Pentagon spokesman, in a briefing with reporters, said that even though the airliner was in a civilian air corridor, Vincennes skipper Capt. Will C. Rogers III still could not rule out the chance he was facing an attack.

TEHRAN, Iran — Iranian mourners carry a casket containing one of the victims of the Iran Air incident Thursday. More than 10,000 people attended the funeral.

Retired Friends gather to roast Ethridge

Special to the Herald

COAHOMA — Before more than 250 guests from across Texas and California, Robert (Rob) Ethridge was roasted May 21, at the elementary school cafeteria.

Jerry Gibbs, principal from Robert Lee, and Dennis Ward, Coahoma High School principal, served as masters of ceremonies.

Wendell Shive, long-time friend and ginner, gave the first roast after Jerry Gibbs recounted many fishing trips and principal's meetings. Mike Conley, high school coach, who formerly coached in junior high, presented his lesson plans for the past years and recounted many events. Eleanor Garrett, the mayor of Coahoma, presented the proclamation that May 21-28 was "Rob Ethridge Week" in Coahoma.

Troy Fraser, businessman, and one of Rob's former students and athletes, thanked Rob and the junior high staff for the influence they had on his life. Rod Tiller thanked Rob for disciplining his son, Mark while he was in junior high. Eddie McHugh, a coach at Midland, stated that the retiree and Coach Easterling were the reasons he is coaching today.

Tom Henry, principal at Rannels Junior High, spoke of principals trips and the long distance to Brady. Neva Swann, a Midland school counselor, recalled teachers' meetings so "Mr. E" could tell all the faculty about one teacher's (Nancy Marshall) short skirt.

Jerry Phillips, a financial consultant, said that Rob would be missed by all the salespeople, school people, and others dropping by his office. Eleanor Garrett presented "Mr. E" a cherry pie, baked by Jane Parrish, commemorating the day Mr. Wilson, the superintendent of the community, former students, and many well-wishers for a cruise to Hawaii or the Caribbean for Rob and his wife.

Jim Wright, president of the school board the past year, presented the Texas flag that was flown over the capitol building at Austin. State Representative Larry Don-Chaw, D-Big Spring, then mailed the flag to Coahoma. This flag was flown over the capitol in honor of Rob Ethridge and his contribution to Texas education.

Rob stood, at this point, and said, "I don't deserve this!" At this, the crowd rose and gave a standing ovation. Wright expressed his appreciation and thanks for all of Rob's years of service to Coahoma school. He said that he had often wondered how he would replace "Mr. E" as a principal at Coahoma.

Rob responded and reminisced about his dad being a big, rough "bear" and his mother being the affectionate one. He recalled days of working with and under the leadership of Bill Fishback, retired elementary principal. He recognized a former Coahoma Jr. High teacher, Gina Farmer, girls' coach at Munday, who won the State A track meet.

Sailor meets dream woman

DEAR ABBY: I am currently in the U.S. Navy and have just returned from a six-month deployment in Keflavik, Iceland. I want to tell you that through Operation Dear Abby, I met the woman of my dreams! We corresponded for six months and I finally met her when I came home on leave, and we've been inseparable ever since.

I want to thank the thousands of Dear Abby readers who sent letters to our troops in Keflavik. What a great morale booster! It helps to know that people appreciate our efforts when we're overseas. Needless to say, it made my holiday season much happier. Now my future looks brighter because of the wonderful woman I met — through you. Thank you.

A02 BRUCE BLOUNT, KEY WEST, FLA.

P.S. Here's a letter from "her": DEAR ABBY: I took part in your Operation Dear Abby to cheer those men in uniform who would be far from home over the holidays. I decided to write to someone in Iceland because that seemed like the most desolate place in the world to be over the holidays.

To my surprise, a Navy man named Bruce answered my letter. During the six months we exchanged letters, we discovered we had a lot in common. And when we finally met, I became a true believer in "love at first sight."

Abby, there is something very special about getting to know a person "between the lines" of letters. Our lives will never be the same. Thank you for bringing us together.

LIN CHARVAT,

Dear Abby

SCHAUMBURG, ILL. DEAR BRUCE AND LIN: Congratulations. Although not all pen pal relationships lead to romance, many do. Schoolteachers have made class projects of America Remembers and Operation Dear Abby with fascinating results.

Report on the facts about the Pap smear

By ROBERT C. PARK, M.D. President of The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

The Pap smear has recently been the center of much attention, and, perhaps, some confusion. Reports of inaccuracies and faulty laboratory practices may have left you wondering whether the Pap test is as reliable and necessary as you have been told. The truth is, the Pap smear remains the single, most important test for the detection and prevention of cervical cancer, and should remain, or become, a key part of your annual gynecologic examination.

The number of deaths from cancer of the cervix has decreased 70 percent in the last 40 years. This dramatic decrease is largely the result of women having Pap smears to detect treatable conditions that could lead to the disease.

Woman's health

Recently, however, the validity and accuracy of the Pap test have been questioned. Reports have cited false-negative findings of 15 to 40 percent, depending on which laboratory is used to analyze a smear. This means that out of all the positive or negative results, a number of them could be incorrect. Laboratories that have good systems for quality control and good communication between the analysts and doctors, however, have much lower numbers of incorrect results.

A false-negative result means that women who have been told that their Pap smears showed nothing abnormal and their cervix was healthy could in reality have had an abnormal condition that was not detected. This doesn't mean that cancer was missed.

When your doctor takes a Pap smear, he or she is looking for changes in your cells. One of these changes is dysplasia. Dysplasia is not cancer, it is the early warning sign that some normal, healthy cells have become abnormal.

All medical personnel agree, though, that the Pap test, like all other screening tests, is not always 100 percent correct. A Pap smear taken every year helps to assure the accuracy of the previous year's smear and better safeguards you against an undetected condition. If an abnormality exists, the test helps to detect it in the precancerous state. This is why it is important to have the Pap test on an annual basis.

The best way to know if the cells on your cervix are healthy or if they might be abnormal is to have your doctor perform a Pap test. To perform the test, an instrument called a speculum is inserted into the vagina. The speculum helps to separate the walls of your vagina so the doctor can see your cervix, which is the mouth of your uterus.

The tissue around the opening in the cervix is gently scraped with a spatula or similar instrument to collect cells. The cells are then smeared on a glass slide and sprayed with a solution to preserve them. The slide is labeled and sent to a laboratory to be analyzed.

Sergeant punches way into finals

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — What Robert Salters lacks in experience, he's making up for with brute force in the U.S. Olympic boxing trials.

Salters, an Army sergeant with only 19 previous fights, used some punishing right hands to stop and move to the final of the super heavyweight division against Rick Bowe.

"I feel the power makes up for what experience I don't have," said Salters, who began boxing in the Army two years ago at the age of 23. "I have experience enough, but the bulk makes up for it."

Salters, who checked in at 250 pounds, outweighed Fikes by 47 pounds but had trouble against his smaller opponent, who tried to stay inside and negate Salters' power. He finally caught up with him in the third round, forcing Fikes to finishing him off with a combination that left Fikes unable to get up off the canvas.

"I got frustrated for a while, but when he started dropping his hands in the third round I knew it was over," Salters said.

The win set up a Sunday rematch of the U.S. Amateur final in April when an unknown Salters surprised Bowe by stopping him in the second round.

"I look forward to fighting him again, mostly to show him the first time wasn't a fluke," said Salters, of Ft. Bragg, N.C. "He'll take me more seriously this time."

Bowe, who advanced when Louis Savarese of Greenwood Lakes, N.Y., was disqualified for holding in the second round, agreed.

"I underestimated the young man the first time," said Bowe, of New York. "Mr. Salters shall be bewildered this time. I think my boxing skills will allow me to outpoint him."

The super heavyweight fights topped off a night of semifinal bouts that earlier saw Ed Hopson and Carl Daniels, two schoolboy chums who train together at a St. Louis gym, gain the finals of the 125-pound division.

Hopson, who turned 17 last week, scored an upset 3-2 win over Kelcie Banks, the reigning world champion and the only U.S. fighter to win a gold medal at the 1987 Pan Am Games.

"I couldn't sleep last night thinking about it," said Hopson. "All I could think about was it was Kelcie Banks. I knew I could beat him, but it was just his name, his reputation."

Hopson, eight inches shorter than the six-foot Banks, hopped and danced inside, scoring points while frustrating the 23-year-old Banks with quick head movements. He celebrated his win by doing three back flips after the decision was announced.

"He's quick and he's got an awkward style and I had to watch both his head and his hands," Banks said. "But I still thought I had the edge."

Banks, thought to be one of the leading U.S. contenders for a medal in Seoul, could still gain the 125-pound spot on the team if he is named the division's "most worthy opponent" following Sunday's finals.

The "most worthy opponent" faces the division winner in Las Vegas on July 16-17 and must beat him twice to make the Olympic team.

"Hopefully I'll get to the box-offs and everything will be okay," said Banks, of Chicago. "I'm turning pro after the Olympics no matter what happens."

Perfect 10 leads New Yorker to lead in U.S. Championships

HOUSTON (AP) — Hope Spivey and Phoebe Mills tied for the women's lead and Dan Hayden, spurred by a perfect 10 on the parallel bars, led the men's division following compulsory exercises Thursday night in the U.S. Gymnastics Championships.

Spivey, of Allentown, Pa., and Mills, competing for the hometown Bela Karolyi Gym, each had a combined 46.5 score following their four compulsory exercises.

University of Oklahoma senior Kelly Garrison-Stevens was third with 46.32 points, followed by Doe Yamashiro, Gardena, Calif., 46.26 and Stacey Gunthorpe, Huntington Beach, Calif., 46.02.

Defending national champion Kristie Phillips, also of the Karolyi Gym, was in 10th place.

"I was very pleased with my beam and overall too," said Spivey, who placed eighth in the all-around at the U.S.-Russian dual meet.

Mills, the top rated women's gymnast in the U.S., said the Houston fans spurred her on.

"It feels like everyone is for you," Mills said. "I live here now. It feels like home."

Phillips, struggling to regain top form after temporarily leaving Karolyi's gym, said she was pleased.

"I'm just going to keep a good clear mind and go do the best I can," she said.

Hayden said he was geared up for a good score on the parallel bars.

"I was real psyched up going for the P-bars," he said. "I was ready to go up and get a 10."

Hayden had a combined score of 58.75 after the six events and Charles Lakes, Newhall, Calif., was in second place with 58.25 points.

"Compulsories are usually my forte," Hayden said. "I have to keep my consistency up. I've upgraded my optionals and its about even now."

University of Nebraska teammates Kevin Davis and Tom Schiesinger finished third and fourth with scores of 58.10 and 57.75 and UCLA's Curtis Holdsworth was fifth at 57.60.

Hayden tied for first in floor exercise, tied for second in pommel horse and still rings, and finished second on the horizontal bars.

His lowest individual finished was a tie for 10th in vault.

Hayden finished fourth in the 1988 American Cup all-around competition and was eighth in the U.S.-Russian dual meet.

He placed second in last year's World team trials for the United States.

Tim Daggett, a 1984 Olympian, finished last in the compulsories, skipping the vault, in which he suffered a severely broken leg in the World Championships last November.

Daggett's best scores were a 9.85 on parallel bars and a 9.7 on the pommel horse.

Daggett was injured as he completed the vault exercise with a slightly off balance piked Cuervo vault.

There was early fear that Daggett would lose his leg because of artery damage but he not only recovered from five reconstructive operations, he's competing again.

"Everything hurts but I've accepted it's not going to be pain free," Daggett said. "I couldn't be more pleased but there's so much nervousness."

"I have a lot of fears." There are 130 men and women competing in the championships with 40 per cent of their scores counting toward a spot on the U.S. Olympic team.

The remaining 60 percent will be determined at the Olympic Trials in August at Salt Lake City, Utah.

UT coach is not a golfer

EDMOND, Okla. (AP) — New University of Texas men's basketball coach Tom Penders shrugged as he turned in his scorecard after playing 18 holes at the Oak Tree Golf Club.

"Golf's not my game," Penders said Thursday after shooting close to triple digits in the first All Sports National College Basketball Coaches Golf Invitational. "I'm a softball and baseball man."

Now, of course, he is a basketball man. But long before he made a name for himself at the University of Rhode Island — he led the Rams to the round of 16 in this past season's NCAA tournament, then took the UT job — Penders was indeed a baseball and softball man.

Following his graduation from the University of Connecticut, Penders played a couple seasons of minor league baseball in the Cleveland Indians organization. Then he joined a fastpitch softball team called the Raybestos Cardinals of Stratford, Conn.

In the winter of 1968, during the baseball off-season, Penders was offered a teaching and coaching job at a high school in Connecticut. "I decided to make a career change. Raybestos offered me a good deal with them and I took it."

"They had the national championship tournament in my hometown in 1962," he said. "I would skip school to watch the games."

Kansas Jayhawks name N.C. assistant new coach

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Roy Williams, an assistant coach at North Carolina, was named head coach at the University of Kansas today to replace Larry Brown, who left for the NBA after leading the Jayhawks to the national basketball championship last spring.

The selection of Williams, 37, came after several big-name coaches withdrew from consideration, including Wichita State's Eddie Fogler, Southwest Missouri's Charlie Spohnour, Ohio State's Gary Williams and Purdue's Gene Keady.

Williams, who graduated from North Carolina in 1972 and returned as an assistant to Coach Dean Smith after five years as a high school coach, has been described by Smith as a good recruiter.

"Roy is a highly organized person who has all the characteristics of a great coach. He's played a key role in the success we've had here in recent years. His goal is to be a head coach and he will be an outstanding one," Smith said.

"In the past, he has done a great job in recruiting. The last time he was heavily involved in that aspect of our program he was instrumental in recruiting the class of 1984, which included Sam Perkins and Matt Doherty," Smith said.

Brown, who played at North Carolina and was an assistant under Smith in the early 1960s, announced on June 13 that he was leaving Kansas to become head coach of the San Antonio Spurs of the NBA for a reported five-year.

The new Kansas coach is just the seventh in the school's 90-year history and follows one of the most successful periods ever at Kansas. Brown's 135-44 record in five seasons includes one Big Eight title, trips to the 1986 and '88 Final Four and the 1988 NCAA championship.

Athletic Director Bob Frederick said when Brown resigned that he had been thinking for more than a year that he might have to hire a new coach this summer. Brown turned down an offer to coach at UCLA just two months before accepting the San Antonio post.

Ex-Queen Massie receives another hoop honor

Howard College Hawk-Queens basketball coach Don Stevens recently announced that he received a press release naming former Queens forward Stefanie Massie to the Kodak All-District Women's Basketball Team.

The award is for players in all levels of collegiate competition. Stevens said the award is of higher level than Junior College All-America, which Massie was named to. Massie was also named WJCAC MVP and All-Region

First Team.

The 5-11 Massie averaged 28 points and 10 rebounds per game this past season for Howard. She has signed a basketball scholarship with San Diego State University.

Struggling A's lose fourth straight

By The Associated Press
For the Oakland Athletics, the heat is on.

Detroit hit five home runs and Jeff Robinson and Paul Gibson combined on a four-hitter as the Tigers beat the Athletics 9-1 Thursday night in a battle of American League division leaders.

It was the Athletics' fourth straight loss, but they maintained their 3 1/2-game lead over Minnesota in the AL West as Boston beat the Twins 4-3. On June 5, the Athletics led the Twins by 10 games and now hold only a two-game edge in the loss column.

The Tigers, meanwhile, increased their lead to three games over New York in the East.

Chet Lemon, Larry Herndon and Mike Heath hit home runs in the second inning off Curt Young, 6-6, to get the Tigers going.

"It was the heat," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said of the home runs. "The balls were just flying out of here."

Luis Salazar hit a three-run homer, his 10th, in the third and Ray Knight added a two-run shot later in the inning to make it 8-0.

"I've never seen the ball jump like it did today," Salazar said. "The reason the ball was not carrying so much the first two months was because of the cold weather. The last two weeks it's been carrying more and it's going to carry the rest of the season."

Elsewhere, it was California 7, Cleveland 1; Baltimore 6, Texas 0; and Kansas City 7, Milwaukee 3.

Robinson, 10-3, allowed a leadoff single to Luis Polonia in the first in-

DETROIT — Detroit Tigers' third baseman Tom Brookens dives in vain on Oakland A's leadoff batter Luis Polonia's single in the first inning and then retired the next 17 batters before Polonia singled to start the seventh. Polonia scored the A's only run in the seventh on Jose Canseco's RBI single.

Robinson, who allowed three hits, left the game with one on and two out in the seventh with a jammed right ankle and Gibson relieved. Robinson struck out three and walked none en route to his seventh straight victory at Tiger Stadium.

Young lasted 2 2/3 innings before giving way to Jim Corsi. Young gave up seven hits and eight earned runs.

"Sometimes you think you're throwing bad and sometimes you're throwing good even when you're not getting people out," Young said.

"It's just another four-game series in July, that's all," Tiger reliever Mike Henneman said of the matchup with the Athletics. "It's important to us as a team just because we want to be playing well at the All-Star break and have some momentum for the second half. It's not the AL East against the AL West like a lot of people are making it out to be."

Red Sox 4, Twins 3
With the score tied 2-2 in the sixth, Jim Rice scored the go-ahead run on Charlie Lea's sixth-inning wild pitch and Jody Reed followed with a suicide squeeze to drive in what proved to be the winning run as Boston beat Minnesota at the Metrodome.

Dennis Boyd won for only the second time in his last 10 starts, allowing nine hits and two earned runs in six innings. Bob Stanley pitched the last three innings for his first save since Sept. 29, 1986. Lea, 5-4, who was 4-0 with a 0.98

ERA in his previous four starts, had his personal five-game winning streak snapped.

Angels 7, Indians 1
Terry Clark made his major-league debut with five strong innings and Greg Minton pitched four scoreless innings in relief as visiting California beat Cleveland.

Clark, a 27-year-old right-hander, allowed one run and five hits for the victory. Minton came on to start the sixth inning and allowed only one hit for his second save. Clark was in his 10th minor-league season before he was called up on Tuesday from the Class AAA Edmonton Trappers.

Orioles 6, Rangers 0
Oswaldo Peraza and Tom Niedenfuer combined on a seven-hitter as Baltimore beat Texas at Memorial Stadium. The Orioles backed the strong pitching with home runs by Mickey Tettleton, Ken Gerhart, and Cal Ripken.

The Orioles beat Texas left-hander Paul Kilgus, 7-8, for the second time in five days. Kilgus has a 1-5 record over his last nine starts. Baltimore.

Royals 7, Brewers 3
Kansas City beat Milwaukee for the first time in eight games at Royals Stadium as Mike MacFarlane hit a three-run homer and George Brett drove in two runs.

Charlie Leibrandt, 5-10, shut out Milwaukee for five innings before yielding a run-scoring single to Jeffrey Leonard with two out in the sixth as the Royals ended a three-game losing streak by beating the Brewers at home for the first time since Sept. 1, 1987.

Cubs' hurler heads NL staff

By The Associated Press
Greg Maddux and a bunch of newcomers hope to continue one of the oldest traditions in baseball: Beating the American League in the All-Star Game.

Maddux and rookie Chris Sabo are among 18 players who made the 28-man National League All-Star roster for the first time. Pitchers and reserves were announced Thursday by NL President Bart Giamatti and St. Louis manager Whitey Herzog.

Maddux, 22, is one of six Chicago Cubs on the team, the most All-Stars from any club in the majors. He is scheduled to pitch Sunday against San Diego, but said he might be able to work Tuesday night in the showcase event at Cincinnati.

Joining Maddux from the third-place Cubs are second baseman Ryne Sandberg, shortstop Shawn Dunston, third baseman Vance Law and outfielders Rafael Palmeiro and Andre Dawson. Sandberg and Dawson were voted as starters in fan balloting, which was announced Wednesday.

David Cone, in his first full season with the New York Mets, is 9-2 with a 2.35 earned run average. Other first-time All-Star pitchers are San Diego's Mark Davis, Philadelphia's Kevin Gross, Cincinnati's Danny Jackson, and the Cardinals' Todd Worrell.

Dwight Gooden of the Mets, making the All-Star team for the fourth time, and Houston's Bob Knepper and Los Angeles' Orel Hershiser, both selected for the second time, round out the nine-man staff. San Francisco's Rick Reuschel was named, but declined because he is getting married next week.

Worrell leads the league with 16 saves, followed by Davis with 15. Maddux is 14-3 with a 2.15 ERA. Hershiser is second to Maddux in wins with 13 and has a 2.46 ERA. Gooden is 11-4 and is tied for the league lead in complete games with Jackson and Maddux at seven. Knepper is 8-2 with a 2.47 ERA while Jackson is 9-4 and Gross 8-4.

Other first-time All-Stars are: first basemen Andres Galarraga of Montreal, Gerald Perry of Atlanta and Will Clark of San Francisco, San Francisco second baseman Robby Thompson; shortstops Dunston of Chicago and Barry Larkin of Cincinnati; Law and Bob Bonilla of Pittsburgh at third base, and outfielders Vince Colman of St. Louis, Andy Van Slyke of Pittsburgh and Palmeiro.

Philadelphia catcher Lance Parrish, a six-time All-Star in the AL, is representing the NL for the first time.

Galarraga is the NL's top hitter at .341 and Perry is second at .336. Larkin, Law, Palmeiro, McGee and Thompson are all batting .300 or better. Van Slyke is fourth in runs batted in with 56. Dunston is batting .290. Parrish is hitting .230 with 12 homers.

Several players selected Thursday earned bonuses for making the team — Dunston, Knepper, Larkin, Thompson and Van Slyke earned $25,000 each, while McGee earned $15,000.

As always, some players having good seasons were not selected.

Mets reliever Randy Myers is 5-0 with 13 saves and a 1.26 ERA; the Cardinals' John Tudor leads major league starters in ERA at 1.72.

Jackson beats Phils again

By The Associated Press
The third time against Danny Jackson was no charm for the Philadelphia Phillies. The fourth time wasn't much better, either.

National League

The Phillies got a few more hits off the Cincinnati Reds' left-hander Thursday night, the fourth time they faced him this season. They even managed to knock him out of the game — something they hadn't accomplished the first three times.

But Jackson prevailed again, going 6 1/3 innings for a 5-2 victory that left him with four wins in four starts this season against Philadelphia.

The first three victories were complete games — a couple of two-hitters and a three-hitter. The Phillies got seven hits and both runs Thursday night off Jackson, but their hobbled lineup couldn't break through when they had the chances.

They did, briefly. Bob Dernier led off the game with his first homer on a weak breaking pitch. But Jackson didn't sweat it.

Jackson started sweating in the Reds' third, when his hustle fueled the decisive four-run rally off Kevin Gross, 8-5. Jackson then hit a grounder that third baseman Luis Aguayo misplayed for his second error of the game, as Jackson hustled to beat the throw. One out later, Jackson sprinted to third on Kal Daniels' single.

Daniels stole second with Chris Sabo at bat. The rookie then worked Gross to a 3-0 count and got the go-ahead to swing.

Pirates 2, Padres 0
John Smiley won his sixth consecutive game and combined with two relievers on an eight-hitter as visiting Pittsburgh beat San Diego.

Smiley, 9-4, allowed five hits in 6 1/3 innings and struck out a career-high nine. He is the first Pirate to win more than five straight decisions since John Candelaria won eight in a row in 1983.

AL mentor picks five of his own

NEW YORK (AP) — Even if they didn't land a starting berth in the All-Star Game, the Minnesota Twins will be well represented, thanks to Manager Tom Kelly.

Starting with ace pitcher Frank Viola, Kelly placed five players from his defending World Series champions on the American League team which faces the National League in Cincinnati on Tuesday night.

Along with Viola, who leads the AL with a 14-2 record and 2.24 earned run average, pitcher Jeff Reardon, catcher Tim Lardner, infielder Gary Gaetti and outfielder Kirby Puckett were among the pitchers and reserves selected Thursday by Kelly and AL president Bobby Brown.

Another pitcher with a good chance to start is Boston's Roger Clemens, who at 12-3 with a 2.45 ERA is second in both categories.

Clemens, Mark Gubicza of Kansas City, Dave Stieb of Toronto and Doyle Alexander of Detroit were the other starters who made the team in addition to Viola. Gubicza is 11-5, Stieb 10-4 and Alexander 8-4.

Relievers Dennis Eckersley of Oakland (25 saves), Doug Jones of Cleveland (20 saves), Dan Plesac of Milwaukee (19 saves) and Reardon (23 saves) also were picked.

Jeff Russell of Texas, a spot starter who is 10-2, completed the 10-man staff, which has only two left-handers — Viola and Plesac.

In filling out the American League team, Kelly and Brown selected two shortstops — Cal Ripken of Baltimore and Ozzie Guillen of Chicago. One of them probably will replace starter Alan Trammell of Detroit who is on the 15-day disabled list with a broken left elbow. Ripken is batting .276 with 13 homers and 46 runs batted in after a slow start and Guillen is batting .265 with no homers and 19 RBI.

The other infield reserves picked were Carney Lansford of Oakland, Don Mattingly of New York, Johnny Ray of California, Harold Reynolds of Seattle and George Brett of Kansas City, who was named to the team for the 13th consecutive season.

Brett, a long-time third baseman, made the team after moving to first.

Lansford is fifth among AL batters at .332. Brett is sixth at .331 with 13 homers and 59 RBI and Mattingly is 10th at .317 with six homers and 41 RBI. Gaetti is batting .304 with 18 homers and 53 RBI. Ray is batting .299 with 43 RBI and Reynolds is hitting .291.

Lardner, batting .271 with nine homers and 31 RBI, is the only reserve catcher behind starter Terry Steinbach of Oakland.

Mike Greenwell of Boston and Puckett are the backup outfielders behind Jose Canseco of Oakland and New York's Rickey Henderson and Dave Winfield. Puckett, who finished fourth among outfielders, 80,000 votes behind Henderson, is batting .350, the leading average of any reserve in either league. Greenwell is fourth in the AL in batting at .337.

There are 12 first-time all-stars in the AL — Alexander, Gaetti, Greenwell, Gubicza, Guillen, Jones, Lansford, Lardner, Ray, Russell, Steinbach and Viola. The team averages 28.9 years in age and includes 10 .300 hitters, four 10-game winners and three 20-save relievers.

Alexander made the team in his 17th major league season.

"I don't go out and seek recognition. I don't beat my own drum," he said. "Making the All-Star team has never been a priority. I've been in the playoffs and the World Series. I imagine the feeling will be the same when I run out on the field and am introduced."

Oakland is the only other team with five players on the AL squad. The A's have two starters, first baseman Mark McGwire and Canseco. The other AL starters are second baseman Paul Molitor of Milwaukee and third baseman Wade Boggs of Boston.

Tulsa whips Midland

By The Associated Press
Blaine Beatty pitched a five-hit shutout and his third straight complete game as the Jackson Mets blanked the Wichita Pilots, 2-0, in Texas League baseball action.

In other Texas League games Thursday night, San Antonio defeated Arkansas, 6-1, Shreveport blanked El Paso, 4-0, and Tulsa whipped Midland, 8-1.

Scott Coolbaugh drove in three runs, two on an RBI single that sparked a five-run rally in the third inning, to lead the Tulsa Drillers to an 8-1 victory over the Midland Angels.

Coolbaugh hit an RBI triple in the second and started the scoring in the third with an RBI.

Beatty, 10-5, who walked two and struck out six, has given up one earned run in his last 35 innings.

Mast seeking first pro win

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Dick Mast, of Cypress Creek, Fla., tries to coax a putt on the 16th green during the first round of the Anheuser Busch Classic at the Kingsmill Country Club Thursday.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Long after many other golfers would have abandoned professional aspirations, Dick Mast pressed on, and his diligence is starting to produce results.

Mast, a 14-year pro seeking his first PGA Tour victory, found himself leading the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic after shooting a 7-under-par 64 in Thursday's opening round.

PGA

"I definitely was pleased," said Mast, who came within one shot of the course record on the 6,776-yard Kingsmill Golf Club layout.

Going into today's second round of the $650,000 event, Mast held a one-stroke advantage over Tom Purtzer, Tom Byrum and Bill Buttner.

Two shots behind the leader were Larry Rinker, Charles Bolling, Clark Burroughs and Jerry Pate, who is attempting a comeback from three shoulder operations that sidelined him for much of the past six years.

Mast, 37, of Orlando, Fla., spent several years in the 1970s trying to make it on the tour before losing his card for the third time after the 1979 season. At that point, he retreated to the satellite circuit to hone his game, and enjoyed success at that level for five years.

"I guess I was dubbed 'King of the Mini-Tours,'" said Mast, who got his PGA Tour card back in 1984 after winning his qualifying school session.

Mast finished 109th on the winnings list in 1986 and 103rd last year. This season, he tied for seventh at the Kemper Open in early June, and tied for sixth the following week at the Westchester Classic.

"I've played well this month and would like to continue," said Mast, who made seven birdie putts of between 2 and 20 feet. "My putting has been a little inconsistent, but I putted well today."

Like Mast, Byrum played in the morning before rising temperatures and winds hardened Kingsmill's greens. Byrum was seven under before bogeying the final hole, and began his round by three-putting the first hole for a bogey.

"I was still a little sleepy. It woke me up," Byrum said. "I knew I was going to have to do a little more work."

Buttner, playing in the afternoon, went five under after eight holes. He bogeyed the ninth and added three birdies and a bogey after the turn.

"I'd like to get in that zone more often," Buttner said of his start. "I hope it's a sign of things to come."

Purtzer, who missed the cut at last week's Western Open after shooting a pair of 78s, said he should "get the most improved player award from last week. I don't know if I'm 13 shots better. I do know the course isn't 13 shots easier."

Pate, whose victories before his 1982 shoulder problems included the 1976 U.S. Open and the 1982 Tournament Players Championship, also missed the cut at the Western Open, one of the few events in which he has played this year.

"I would definitely say it's a milestone for me," Pate said of Thursday's round, his first sub-par outing in recent memory.

"I might shoot 85 tomorrow, but I'm very happy with what I've done today."

The nine golfers at 67 included 1986 Anheuser-Busch champion Fuzzy Zoeller; Bobby Clampett, the runner-up in this tournament last year, and Peter Jacobsen, who lost the Western Open when he double bogeyed the final hole.

INDIANAPOLIS — Juli Inkster, of Rancho Murieta, Calif., watches her drive on the par-three seventh hole at the Country Club hit the green in the first round of the Mayflower Classic Thursday.

Inkster shoots scorching 65

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — On a day when the toughest opponent for many golfers was the heat, Juli Inkster scorched the course in the first round of the $400,000 Mayflower Classic.

The Rancho Murieta, Calif., golfer made four birdie putts and an eagle Thursday for a 6-under-par 65, her best round this year and the lowest at the 6,124-yard Country Club of Indianapolis since Beth Daniel's 65 in 1982.

LPGA

"I hit the ball real solid," said Inkster, looking for her second victory this year and 10th since joining the tour in 1983. "I had a lot of chances at birdies and hit some good putts. Some went in and some didn't."

Seven golfers were three strokes behind Inkster, including defending champion Colleen Walker, who was 4-under until she three-putted No. 18 for a bogey five. A birdie on that same hole gave her the championship in 1987.

The 18th hole was changed to a par 4 from a par 5 for this year's tournament. That gave Walker trouble.

"I can't hit the driver off the tee," she said. "I have to hit a 3-wood because of the angle."

Also 3-under were Sally Quinlan, Tammie Green, Donna White, Cathy Johnson, Terry-Jo Myers and Betsy King. Nine others were another stroke back at 69, and 14 players were at 70.

The 72-hole tournament was scheduled to conclude Sunday, with the winner pocketing $60,000.

Inkster started on the back nine early in the day with birdies on her first two holes.

A 3-iron on 18 put her three feet from the cup and set up her fourth birdie putt. She then went on to the par-5, 476-yard first hole, where a 4-wood approach shot put her six feet from the hole. She made the putt for eagle, then carded eight straight pars.

"On five, six, seven, eight and nine my longest putt was 12 feet," she said. "I didn't make any, but I didn't get discouraged."

The golfers had to battle temperatures that reached 97 in the late afternoon with a very light breeze. Fourteen golfers who started in the afternoon finished below par, compared with 17 who had morning tee times.

"Starting out earlier was a little bit better," King said. "There's cloud cover, but it's not really clouds. I don't know what it is."

"It was hot," Inkster said. "And it's going to be even hotter tomorrow because we play in the afternoon. I just try to keep a towel around me and eat a lot out there."

The heat, which accumulated under a gray haze, was most oppressive at the foot of the rolling hills. "When you get down in those little swales, it's tough," Walker said. "There's no air."

The 1984 champion, Ayako Okamoto, was at 70. Other former champions were Amy Alcott (1980) at 71, Alice Miller (1985) at 72, and Sandra Palmer (1986) at 73.

In a nine-way tie at 69 were Allison Finney, Nancy Taylor, Carolyn Hill, Shirley Furlong, Martha Nause, Lenore Rittenhouse and Lisa Walters along with rookies Trish Johnston of Wales and Joan Pitcock.

The golfers also were contending with the effects of Indiana's drought, which has turned the roughs into little more than hard-packed dirt and straw. Thousands of gallons of water are keeping the fairways, tees and greens alive.

"If you catch the rough it's going to take a bigger bounce and maybe go back into the fairway, but most of the time it's going to go farther into the trees," said Green, who hooked a shot on the third hole and made a 20-foot putt to prevent a double-bogey.

She did better on the back nine, where she birdied holes 11, 13 and 16.

Inkster, Quinlan, Green, White and King were scheduled to tee off in the afternoon today.

Chi Chi Rodriguez out to defend Northwest title

KENMORE, Wash. (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez, who has claimed 11 victories in less than three years on the PGA Seniors Tour, is defending his title in the $300,000 GTE Northwest Classic.

Bruce Crampton, winner of the inaugural GTE Northwest in 1986, also was in the 72-man field when play began today.

They will be sharing the spotlight with local favorite Don Bies on the 6,996-yard, par-72 Inglewood Country Club course.

Seniors

Bies is a Senior Tour rookie who turned 50 last December and became a winner after only 12 tournaments, hitting the top three weeks ago in the Northville Invitational at Jericho, N.Y.

Bies was impatient to join the Senior Tour.

"Last year, when I was watching them, I was anxious to play again with these guys," he said. "Knowing them, it was fun to watch them."

It took Bies 15 years to become a winner on the PGA Tour, where his only regular tour victory came in the Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open in 1975.

That was a $40,000 week for Bies. At Jericho, he earned $52,500. For the year, he is 10th on the Senior Tour money list with $143,040, and 10 top 10 finishes in 13 events.

Bies needed the better part of 11 years to collect that kind of money in the old days, although he ventured out on the PGA Tour occasionally as an assistant professional from 1961-68. His first full-time season was 1969, and his biggest money year was 1976, when he won $92,450 for 28th place.

First place Sunday, after 54 holes, will be worth $45,000.

Bies says the hilly Inglewood course is one of his favorites. He won the Washington State Open there in 1980, and was runner-up in 1985. "I like it as a driving course," he said. "Whoever wins this weekend will win by playing the 5-pars well. I would pick driving as the best part of my game, but lately my irons play has been awfully good."

Illness last week forced Bies to withdraw before the Rancho Murieta Gold Rush at Rancho Murieta, Calif. New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles won there for his third victory of the year, in the process hoisting himself into the No. 1 slot on the money list.

But both Charles and No. 3 Gary Player of South Africa will bypass the GTE Northwest Classic, preparing instead for next week's British Open.

Otherwise, the rest of the current top 10 — No. 2 Orville Moody, No. 4 Harold Henning, No. 5 Al Geiberger, No. 6 Crampton, No. 7 Rodriguez, No. 8 Miller Barber, No. 9 Dave Hill and Bies — were in the field.

Finals

Hopson, meanwhile, faces his 17-year-old friend in the finals, with the winner assured a spot in the box-offs.

"If my brother gets in there, he's got to go," Hopson said when asked how hard it is to fight a friend.

Daniels, who upset Banks in the U.S. Amateur in April, cheered after the decision favoring his friend was announced. Daniels had just finished beating Kevin Kelley of Flushing, N.Y., 4-1 despite taking a standing eight-count in the third round after a Kelley left hook.

"In this game you have to use points," said Daniels, like Hopson a 17-year-old high school senior. "He hit me with some hard punches but I hit him with more punches."

New York cowboy makes mark on the rodeo world

OAKFIELD, N.Y. — Mike Swearingen remembers his early days on the pro rodeo circuit when word got out that he was from New York. Everyone assumed that meant New York, the city.

"The first thing from anybody who doesn't know anything at all is 'Where do you have a place to ride a horse?' It's all blacktop and concrete there's a horse in New York state," he remembers.

But Swearingen has established himself as one of the most versatile members of the International Professional Rodeo Association, finishing second in the IPRA's all-around cowboy championship for the past three years.

Swearingen, who was born in Cortland but raised in the much smaller upstate communities of Lima and Leicester, chuckles as he recalls his response.

"You tell people you've got mountains and farms and trees and there's hillbillies out there," he said, "why they just don't believe it."

Even people who know the "other" New York, though, don't envision it as prime breeding ground for rodeo cowboys and have trouble figuring out this upstate cowboy.

"The biggest trouble is the majority of people just don't understand," said the mustachioed Swearingen. "Especially anybody doing it for a living. Because there's so few cowboys from up here, (they think) every cowboy has to come from out west."

Swearingen has disproved that theory.

His love of the rodeo goes back to age six, when his father introduced him to bareback bronco riding. "My parents are farm folks and my dad loved horses and had quite a few of them," he said. "I was raised with horses."

Like a fledgling baseball player, Swearingen moved up the development ladder from "Little Britches" rodeos for teen-age cowboys to the semi-pro Empire Rodeo Association to part-time status on the pro circuit. Nine years ago, he made rodeo cowboying his full-time job.

Swearingen competes in bronc riding, steer wrestling and bull riding and is one of only two cowboys to ever qualify for the IPRA finals in four events.

But he has paid for his heavy work load with a series of injuries that he lists casually with the mild annoyance of a commuter talking about traffic jams on the way to work.

"I've cracked a total of nine ribs, three at a time," he begins. "Both knees; in fact, I've still got a swelled up knee (from) surgery about 10 weeks ago. I've broke both ankles. I've dislocated a shoulder and that put me out for awhile. I have to ride with a special brace I made to make sure everything stays in place. I've been really fortunate."

Bareback riding and steer wrestling put the most strain on the body, Swearingen said, remembering one steer wrestling accident that tore up one of his knees.

"When I caught the animal, he was stopped and he hit so hard that the animal had flipped upside down on top of me," he said. "The whole weight of the animal — about 500 pounds of steer — was right on top of me. It hit me on top of the head and drove me into the ground."

But there are also risks in saddleback riding.

"When you get in that saddle, you're set down in there. You can get out pretty fast, but you're not wanting to. If your foot ever gets through the stirrup, you get hung and drag like you see those guys get drug on TV," he said. "It's a hard way to get out."

He insists, "Most of my accidents are freak things, something that was totally unexpected. Usually if I know a wreck is coming, I get out and I don't get hurt. I've gotten through some pretty bad spills. You don't panic; you just roll with the flow and get yourself out of trouble."

years where he made $50,000, he said the average cowboy on the IPRA circuit makes $15,000 to $20,000 annually, not including expenses.

Swearingen is able to do better because — unlike many cowboys — he competes in more than one event and because he travels extensively, competing in 132 rodeos last year.

"I've done as many as six a week," he said. "You have to drive like a maniac sometimes. Troopers would love to hear this, but there's been times when I've had to run 100 (mph) for two solid hours to try to get somewhere to make the rodeos."

Eventually, Swearingen wants to go into business providing livestock for cowboys and rodeo operators. There is a more immediate goal, however; taking the all-around title away from the man who's beaten him the last three years, Dan Dailey of Peaster, Texas.

Swearingen considers Dailey, who's won the all-around 10 times, the Wayne Gretzky of rodeo. "He's a guy that is phenomenal. There isn't anything that the man can't do and do well. He's just one of those guys that comes along every 50-100 years."

"I want to win the world championship at least once," he said. "Hopefully that will better the business (contracting stock) end of it. It would help to sell myself as champion instead of number two."

Cowboys close to signing number one draft choice

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys could sign their No. 1 draft choice, University of Miami wide receiver Michael Irvin, by the time preseason drills begin next week in Thousand Oaks, Calif., Irvin's agent says.

Agent Mel Levine said Thursday he will come to Dallas on Saturday to meet with Cowboys vice president Joe Bailey in hopes of reaching an agreement.

"We're getting closer," Levine said. "I'm coming in with the intent that we're going to be able to make a deal."

The Cowboys reportedly have offered Irvin slightly more than $1.8 million for four years. Levine reportedly has come down from his original request of $2 million for four years and is seeking around $1.9 million.

Levine declined Thursday to disclose the numbers but said, "They have shown movement. The gap has been closed — not enough to make the deal, but it's closer."

The Cowboys signed their No. 10 draft choice, University of Pittsburgh safety Billy Owens, on Thursday. Still unsigned, besides Irvin, are linebacker Ken Norton (No. 2), guard Mark Hutson (No. 3), tackle Dave Widell (No. 4), and quarterback Scott Secules (No. 6).

At a news conference Thursday, Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said he is faced with a difficult six-week decision process in training camp, trying to decide whom to keep and whom to cull.

It's time to forget the Super Bowls of the past and look toward building a team that can again make it into the playoffs, Landry said.

"This is a completely new era," Landry said. "There is no doubt about that."

Landry hopes to find new leaders for the team. Ed Jones is 37, Danny White 36 and Randy White 35.

"Look at Randy White," Landry said. "He has been a great leader for us, but now we are not even sure if he can get on the field. So it will be leadership that will be very important for the emergence of the team. Most of our players are so young that they don't know how to be leaders."

Landry added: "I think the challenge is great when you are coach in a situation like this. Sure, you enjoy going to a Super Bowl. It makes you feel good. But everyone has to know that they will have to pay a price to compete with the big guys."

Landry said his "reasonable goal" is a 9-7 record, which could leave the Cowboys third or fourth in the division.

"I don't think anyone would be happy with a third- or fourth-place finish," Landry said. "But it is something that you have to look at as a possibility. I think with our schedule this year, we will have to beat some good football teams if we are going to be up there."

Landry said he would like Cowboys fans also to stop pondering the past and to view the team from a new perspective. They should forget the Super Bowl years and, at least for now, be content with a two-game winning streak, he said.

"We could make a giant step this year if we could get up into that competitive level and be 9-7," Landry said. "Once you get there, then you are on the verge of doing it. Then, all you need is one key player and you are off and running."

"If we had a healthy (Mike) Sherrard right now we would have a pretty good look out there. We could offset the way that teams will zero in on Herschel Walker."

Sherrard, a fleet wide receiver, will miss his second consecutive season after breaking his right leg again.

Consequently, Landry said, his blueprint for 1988 will be conservative. He anticipates calling about 25 running plays a game for running back Herschel Walker, a strategy unlike the old Landry system.

"What we can't do is beat ourselves," Landry said. "We still will be multiple and have the flair we've had before, but we will be more conservative so as not to beat ourselves."

Coach says linebacker speared back

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Marc Buoniconti speared an opposing running back on the tackle which left him paralyzed on a football field almost three years ago, Tennessee football coach Johnny Majors says.

"It violated the rule against spearing," Majors told the jury hearing Buoniconti's $16.5-million negligence suit against Citadel team physician Dr. E.K. Wallace Jr.

Testifying in a videotape deposition played Thursday, Majors said the proper tackling position would have been with the face up "rather than attacking the ballplayer with the top of the helmet."

"My opinion is it was an illegal tackle because the player ... hit the ball carrier with the top of his helmet," Majors said of Buoniconti's tackle in the Nov. 26, 1985 Citadel game against East Tennessee State.

Buoniconti was the starting middle linebacker for The Citadel in the game. The son of former Miami Dolphins linebacker Nick Buoniconti, he suffered a broken neck and was left a quadriplegic by the accident.

His lawsuit against Wallace alleges that the physician was negligent in treating a neck sprain Buoniconti suffered several weeks prior to the accident.

The suit also charges Wallace failed to warn Buoniconti that he had an existing neck condition — including a straightening of the cervical spinal cord — made it dangerous for him to continue playing football.

The defense contends Buoniconti was to blame for the accident because he illegally speared the opposing player in violation of football rules.

The team doctor for the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Joseph Torg, agreed with that position Thursday.

He testified it was Buoniconti's tackling technique, not any prior medical condition or special equipment he was fitted with, that was responsible for the accident.

"What we are dealing with here as far as causation is concerned is not a medical problem," Torg testified. "What we are dealing with here as far as causation is a coaching technique problem."

Torg is the director of the National Football Head and Neck Registry, which tracks serious football neck injuries.

He showed the jury in Charleston County Court of Common Pleas a videotape of 16 football accidents — including Buoniconti's — which left high school and college players quadriplegics.

He testified that in each case, the injury was caused by axial loading in which the neck is compressed between the body and the player's head when a tackle was made.

Torg testified that, in each case, the accident victim made the hit with the top of his helmet. Earlier witnesses for Buoniconti testified he was left paralyzed by a flexion injury in which his head was forced forward and down.

They said a special collar and a strap between Buoniconti's facemask and shoulder pads designed to prevent him from reinjuring a sprained neck held his head down and contributed to his injury.

Suit to be filed against freight corp.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A lawyer for University of Kentucky assistant basketball coach Dwane Casey said he would file a $6.9 million lawsuit Friday against Emery Air Freight Corp., claiming Casey was harmed by the way the carrier handled a package, according to reports.

Attorney Joe Bill Campbell told The Courier-Journal and WKYT-TV he would file the suit in U.S. District Court in Lexington and planned to ask for $6,966,950 in compensatory damages and an unspecified amount of punitive damages.

The Courier-Journal examined a copy of the papers Campbell plans to file and which name Emery, five of its employees, the security firm that dealt with the package and the head of the security firm as defendants.

Four of the five Emery employees were quoted in a copyright article in the Los Angeles Daily News on April 14.

The employees said they had seen $1,000 inside a package Casey had sent to UK recruit Chris Mills' father on March 30. The package popped open in transit at Emery's Los Angeles warehouse, the employees said. Casey denied sending the money, and Mills and his father denied receiving it.

Emery employees said the money was revealed in the package and delivered to the home.

The fifth employee was not quoted in the paper, but has a brother-in-law who worked for the Daily News, Campbell said. Also named as defendants are Security Experts Inc. and its head, who also was quoted as saying he saw the money.

The suit alleges that Casey's privacy was violated, his character was defamed, information regarding the package was unlawfully disclosed, the package was handled negligently and Casey suffered "severe and grievous mental and emotional suffering."

Burl McCoy, a Lexington lawyer who represents Emery, told the newspaper Thursday night, "I suspected that he was going to file a lawsuit. If he intends to file a suit, Emery intends to defend it vigorously. We will maintain our position that we have done nothing inappropriate."

McCoy also said he would not consider settling the case. "I have received no instructions to settle and I've advised my client not to settle. I will not consider settling a lawsuit where I've seen no legal wrong."

Casey said he felt confident about the case.

"We feel really good about it," he said. "We still profess our innocence. There was no money in the package when it left the UK basketball office, and this suit results from all the damages that have been done to me. ... It really speaks for itself."

Casey said Thursday night on the radio program "Conversation with Cawood" that he thought UK has treated him well, and at this point any possible lawsuit against UK was on the back burner.

"I don't want to go around suing everybody ... Coach (Eddie) Sutton was kind of tempered about what he could say by other university officials, but behind closed doors he has supported me completely," Casey said. "It seems like I'm out there on a limb ... but I have had many true friends who have stood by me."

In proclaiming his innocence on the show, Casey said, "I would never jeopardize my career for one player. There is not one player in the United States I would do that for."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your open manner and endearing ways will carry you far in human relations. A picnic in a private spot could be the ideal setting for romance. Consider your own needs as well as others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You have much to be proud of now. The way you handle a relationship reflects well on your upbringing. Someone wants to cling to you for all the wrong reasons. Be kind but firm.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Put work on a back burner and just have fun this weekend. A romantic interlude could provide one of your finest moments. Soak up the outdoors. A daily swim or walk works wonders.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A close friend proves his or her loyalty in a unique manner. Do not let a legal matter slide. Romantic ties seem to grow stronger. Spend more time with that special person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A communications mix-up could cause problems for someone at a distance. A phone call or quick trip will straighten things out in a big hurry. The young-at-heart find new adventures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you insist on having your own way, be prepared to accept the consequences. Avoid talking shop at social events or others may think you a bore. Share a secret with mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Become more assertive or you will be taken for granted. Part-time employment could be the best answer to a temporary money crunch. Music soothes you when you are feeling upset.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Confront a sarcastic person before the situation gets worse. Shop in your own neighborhood to save time. Chances are, the prices will be lower, too. A close friend begins to show a romantic interest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Share expenses if you want to take a day trip. Ignore gossip. Family connections prove very helpful in business or romance. Stop trying so hard to impress a newcomer. Be yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Finish up overdue projects to avoid possible cancellation of a contract. Seek a lawyer's advice if you have unanswered questions. Talk over joint financial responsibilities with mate, partner. Intelligent compromises are possible.
