Showers teasing residents

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

Showers teased city residents Friday and Saturday, while area rainfall amounts ranged from too slight to measure to almost one inch.

Deputy sheriff Jack Howard reported a shower, but no measurable rainfall, near Elbow School. Fellow deputy John Wolf said a shower had dampened sidewalks on Fifth Street near College Park Shopping Center Friday, but no measurable precipitation fell.

Thomas Hart, 1750 Purdue Ave., reported "just a trace" of rain Saturday. The rain "passed us by in this part of town," he

Staff Writer ome U.S. Senators are more aware of the prisoner of war/missing in action issue in Vietnam thanks to efforts of local veterans.

More than two dozen Senators responded to a push by members of the local Vietnam Veterans of American and Veterans of Foreign Wars chapters to keep the issue in the public limelight, local veteran Ken Dunwoody said Wednesday.

The veterans are among Americans who believe U.S. servicemen may remain captive in Southeast Asia.

'Our major goal is to raise the American consciousness to the fact that there's a major problem here that needs resolving," Dunwoody said. "I don't think there's ever going to be a full accounting (of U.S. POW/MIAs), but if there are servicemen still alive over there, we need to bring them home.

He and other veterans began try ing to meet that goal in January when they mailed information packets to private citizens in all 50 states. The packets contained two videotapes, the November 1987 issue of Life magazine and other material — all dealing with the POW/MIA issue.

The recipients were encouraged to forward the information to their senators and other citizens, Dunwoody said.

Seventeen senators responded to the veterans' initial mailing. A second mailing to the other 83 senators - consisting of a summarized version of the responses resulted in comments from nine senators and promised responses from two others.

Both Texas senators -Republican Phil Gramm and Democrat Lloyd Bentsen responded. Gramm stated, " . . . we must maintain constant pressure on the Indochinese governments. The debts owed to each unaccounted serviceman, as well as his family, is monumental and one that we must honor. From Bentsen: "I strongly believe the families and friends of Americans who fought in Southeast Asia have a basic human right to know the fate of their loved

A majority of senators failed to respond, but Dunwoody said he is pleased with results nonetheless.

"We received more positive responses than I anticipated," he said. "Those who responded basically acknowledged that not only are there some people left over there, but that some of them are still alive

As for those who didn't respond, Dunwoody said they either may be reluctant to respond because of the sensitivity of the issue, or are unaware of the issue's importance. 'All members of the Senate and Thunderstorms continued across the Permian Basin late Saturday, with a flash flood warning in effect for the cities of Midland and Odessa — and downstream, residents of Big Spring's north side kept a wary eye on Beal's Creek, swollen with runoff from recent rains.

Postal service suspends Perot contract

FORT WORTH (AP) — In his battle to win a U.S. Postal Service contract, billionaire H. Ross Perot has run into the federal bureaucracy

The Dallas entrepreneur lost a crucial round Thursday when the Postal Service bowed to a government legal body and suspended its controversial contract with Perot Systems Corp., a consulting company Perot had formed that was studying ways to make the Postal Service more efficient.

The contract was contested by Perot's former company, Dallasbased Electronic Data Systems, now owned by General Motors Corp., and another consulting firm. Both sides of the dispute have "The Postal Service is convinced that the Board of Contract Appeals does not have jurisdiction over postal procurement actions," Postmaster General Anthony Frank said in a statement announcing the decision to comply with the asked that the U.S. Court of Ap-

The contract has been in dispute from the start, when Congress and would-be competitors learned that the open-ended contract had been signed without competitive bidding.

Maintaining that the contract was still in the best interests of the Postal Service, Frank said, "We need to satisfy some of the controversy surrounding this. There's perception out there that it's highly lucrative for Mr. Perot."

In the first phase of the contract, Perot's firm was to be paid $500,000 to study the Postal Service and recommend ways to improve it. In the second phase, the Postal Service would implement the savings plans and pay the Perot firm an unspecified percentage of those

The contract was written so that it would comply with Perot's exit contract from GM, which forbids him from taking any profits before December 1989 in a business that may compete with EDS.

Only four months into the job as postmaster general, Frank said the contract is an innovative way to get a handle on the Postal Service's problems.

'We need once in a while to do sole-source contracting," he said. "This is the type of contract any private company would be happy to get into. That may be too extreme for the federal government.'

Trial begins in San Diego rape case

SAN DIEGO (AP) - After four months of questions about an alleged gang rape at a cockfight, trial is to begin Monday for two of the 10 men who will be prosecuted in their close-knit South Texas hometown.

A grand jury has charged that on March 26 during a night of cockfighting, gambling, drinking and drugs, a 19-year-old wife and mother of two was kidnapped and raped by as many as 20 men while another dozen men and women either cheered or did nothing to aid

But some residents in the town believe the woman knew the 10 men she named as her assailants and participated willingly. On trial will be Orlando Garza and Corando Perez, both 23, and both charged with aggravated kidnapping and sexual assault. Nine of the 10 defendants are related by blood or by marriage.

LEARNING OFSN'T IMPROVE

Some people think that you've got to go away to college to get a quality education. Yet nothing could be further from the truth. Because thanks to America's Community, Technical and Junior Colleges, you can get a great education right in your own backyard. Without the expense of living away from home. And without giving up your fullor part-time job. What's more, tuitions average about half the cost of public four-year colleges and universities.

No wonder an amazing 55% of all first year freshmen choose Community Colleges. So remember, learning doesn't improve with distance. In many ways, it gets better the closer you are to home. At America's Community Colleges.

capping the wells of a burned-out oil platform. The rig's owner said it might take three weeks to find the bodies of 149 men killed in the North Sea disaster.

Adair's men explored the twisted remains of the Piper Alpha platform for about an hour Saturday and used a cameraequipped submersible to assess the damage, said a statement from Occidental Petroleum Corp.

decidental, which owns the platform, hired Adair to make the rig safe, seal gas leaks and save the oil wells to which the rig is connected. Adair, 73, is based in Houston, and has gained fame out-of-control oil wells.

The Piper Alpha exploded Wednesday night in a fireball that Occidental says may have been caused by a gas leak directly below the living quarters.

Sixty-four men escaped. Eighteen remained in the Aberdeen Royal Infirmary on Saturday, one in serious condition.

Seventeen bodies were recovered before the search was called off Friday night around the ruined platform 120 miles east of

John Brading, chief executive of Occidental International Oil Co., told a news conference Saturday the company wants to recover the bodies but must clear debris from the site of the world's worst oil field disaster and make the area safe, for divers.

"I think it's going to be some days before we remove the debris, and then the capping will begin," Brading said in Aberdeen, where most of the bereaved families live or have gathered. "Once the situation is safe, we will send divers down whose first task will be to search for remains."

Occidental said fires still burned at several of the platform's 26 wellheads. It said all leaking oil was burning and none was escaping to the sea

Brading predicted the Piper Alpha disaster would bring "a whole number of changes"

North Sea oil rigs, echoing the views expressed Friday by Occidental chairman Armand Hammer and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. The government has ordered public and technical inquiries.

'What might have been an acceptable standard for this day last week appears to be an unacceptable standard today, Brading said.

David Martin, president of Occidental Oil and Gas, said living parters may be separate from the production platform in future.

"Living on something which produces oil and gas is, in my opinion, too dangerous," he told the news conference.

Dunn case slated for grand jury

HERALD STAFF REPORT

District Attorney Rick Hamby said Thursday that he expects to present the Dennis Dunn involuntary manslaughter case to a grand jury in early August.

"I talked to the (Texas) Ranger investigating the (Dunn) case today," he said late Thursday, after announcing the resolution of a capital murder case, "and he had some interesting developments.

"It looks like we're going to have a grand jury in early August, and I fully expect that (Dunn) case will go to the grand jury then." Dunn, 39, is free on $90,000 bond after being charged with involuntary manslaughter in the April 12 shooting death of his wife, Caryle,

After being released on bail, he was suspended from the Big Spring police force, which he had joined in November. He was later dismissed.

Hamby also said he has received parole violation hearing transcripts and expects to be studying them to determine whether cases against two other men will be presented to the grand jury.

The men, Ricardo Romero Flores, 32, Big Spring, and Leroy Flores Alaniz, 30, Odessa, are charged with murder in the April 2 bludgeoning death of Manuel Vega Garcia, 53, Odessa.

The third floor of the 20-year-old building was added in 1975 and Cromack said the building's construction was average for one that age in the area, explaining "we don't build as heavy as they do elsewhere because we don't have snow.

"The roof is not designed to carry all that weight," Brownsville building inspector Fernando Romero told The Dallas Morning News. "It's a tragedy and one that may happen again at any time."

Bernard Levin, owner of the Amigo Store, could not immediately be reached for comment. A person who answered the telephone at his home refused to speak to a reporter; other calls encountered a

Mayor Ygnacio Garza said investigations were being launched by the city, the building's insurance company and the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Garza said the rainstorm, which aired 2 inches in less than 30 minutes, may have been a factor, but that other factors also may have played a role.

"We have a report from witnesses that a bolt of lightning struck behind the building and hit some transformers and perhaps knocked them down," Garza said.

Rescue workers concentrated their efforts Saturday on two sites in the rear of the building, where U.S. Border Patrol drug- and people-sniffing dogs indicated spots where people, living or dead, might be trapped. Workers formed human chains to remove debris basket by basket.

Juan Garcia, assistant chief U.S. Border Patrol agent in McAllen, said the dogs located nine bodies Friday. "The dogs are so well trained they know for sure there's a body down there," said Garcia.

"Right now we don't have much hope we'll find anybody alive, but there's always a chance, especially in the back where there is corrugated metal that could have given them some air," said Monty Jenkins, coordinator of the Special Medical Response team from the

'By this time tomorrow morning, the building won't be there anymore," Terry Ray, a construction foreman leading the digging effort, said Saturday. "We're no longer allowing any tunneling. We're in the process of taking apart the building layer by layer. Medical workers forced volunteers and rescue workers to take a break because of the 90-degree heat and high humidity.

'We're losing more fluids now than we're taking in," said police Sgt. Dean Poos.

Alan Mesh, a demolition expert with Ferromar Inc. of Brownsville who has assisted in the rescue since Thursday, said workers had to tunnel through three layers of two-inch thick concrete before reaching the six survivors.

Mesh said the store's safe acted like a tent pole and kept the main beam from collapsing on the six.

Judge blocks attempt to retire disabled policeman

CHICAGO (AP) - He survived rules, and extended an order he Vietnam, a dangerous tour as an first issued in October that bars the undercover decoy cop and two bouts with cancer that cost him his legs. Now Bruce Neberieza is fighting to keep a desk job that officials contend he can no longer

'They say that because I use two canes, I can't defend myself," the 43-year-old Neberieza said Friday.

Since his first amoutation in 1980, Neberieza has been assigned to the front desk of a local precinct. The Police Department has tried since last summer to strip away that job, either by suspending him or putting him on medical disability, claiming he is medically unfit for the post.

The city told Neberieza on Tuesday it was suspending him without pay or insurance until the city Police Board rules on whether he should be put on disability pension.

"What has been filed with the Police Board are specifications stating that, based on evaluations, he is not able to fully perform the functions of a police officer," said Robert Karmgard, the city's assistant corporation counsel.

But Circuit Judge Thomas Rakowski ruled Thursday that Neberieza is entitled to a Police Board hearing before the board city from taking Neberieza off the payroll without such a hearing.

"It makes no sense for a person who has performed his duties, is performing his duties, has a doctor's affidavit that he can do a desk job, to be denied (salary and medical insurance) without a hearing," the judge said.

The Police Board hearing is scheduled for July 15.

Neberieza, who supports his wife and three children on his $35,000 salary, said he wants to stay on active duty another 15 years to qualify for full pension. On disability, he would receive half pay for four years, and a small annuity

"I can't afford to settle for a small annuity," he said. "I have a mortgage and bills like anyone

"I feel I fit the definition of a policeman. I've done everything they've asked me to do.

Budget time has arrived

Put up or shut up.

sandlot game or two West Texans ready to settle their differences in a more traditional way

It's time for city taxpayers to pay heed to the business of the new fiscal year budget, which their city council

Fully participating in a democratic society does not mean that you vote and then you are free of obligation until the next election comes around. But too often, that is the practice.

We saw 15 percent of the registered voters in Big Spring determine the selection of three new city council members during the May election. Of course, the 85 percent who stayed away did so of their own free will also a right in a democratic society.

How are things stacking up for the city council and the budget they are preparing? In a word, the whole process could be described as "bewildering" for the uninitiated. Tackling a multi-million-dollar budget is not something one does every month or two.

And even people who work with numbers as their vocation tell us that the city's budget can be confusing and difficult to comprehend.

Three days of initial budget work sessions were followed by a nearly day-long budget session where most of the basic decisions on the budget seemed to be reached.

So, how does this affect you? Citizens have not gotten anywhere close to the budget process city officials have been going through recently. No one besides those elected or those paid to attend were there.

You can't expect 15 percent of all voters to show — nor 15 percent of the taxpayers, for that matter.

However, attendance at Tuesday's budget hearing by just 15 percent of the people we hear complaining year around about the condition of streets, litter in the community and tax increases they don't understand would be a vast improvement over what we've seen so far.

It would improve attendance, it would improve understanding — who knows? It might even improve the things that concern you.

Hal Boyd, interim city manager, made it clear that nothing is set in stone until the second reading of the budget ordinance. If there are enough inquiries or questions raised at the hearing things could change.

County officials have been going through the same process in recent weeks and a budget hearing is scheduled for late August.

You don't need to be an authority on every subject to speak clearly and personally about what interests you as a resident. Those who were elected have been chosen to get the answers for your questions and make decisions based on your input. Be sure they know what those questions and comments are. And don't limit you input to silence — that's ineffective.

The vision: A stately room filled with antique furniture and antique men. Some nap noisily in thick chairs. newspapers limp on their laps. Nearby, a butler-served gin-and-tonic waits on a glass-topped table.

Most telling of all: The gold-plated sign on the club's ornate door - "Men Only.

This, at least, was the image many Americans had of private, male-only clubs. But the truth is that more was going on behind those doors than napping and sipping. There was blatant discrimination against women and

These elite business-oriented clubs often were powerful arenas for business and the type of social networking that keeps the wheels of commerce rolling. Barring women and minorities kept them just where some people wanted them - on the outside unable to pursue business goals and career opportunities with the freedoms enjoyed by white males.

We are happy to say that these clubs — and their quiet, closed-door prejudices — soon may slip from the social scene and into American myth.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that cities can force exclusive, all-male institutions to open their doors to women and minorities.

Essentially, the court ruled that large clubs offering regular dining and rental facilities for members are more truly business than private clubs and, therefore, they must adhere to the anti-discrimination laws that ap-

Although the unanimous decision upheld a New York City law, the ruling goes far beyond that city's boundaries and, by inference, upholds nearly identical ordinances in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago and Washington, D.C. We hope it will lead to similar ordinances in other cities. No longer can exclusive business-oriented clubs be allowed to hide behind a calendar of social events and expect to have "any constitutional immunity to practice discrimination," wrote Justice Byron R. White.

We agree, and we hope the next sound we hear is the thud of "Men Only" signs falling from ornate doors across the nation.

Meese failed to achieve

his conservative agenda

By W. DALE NELSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Attorney General Edwin Meese III entered the Justice Department pressing a conservative legal agenda that heartened his supporters and drew fire from liberals, but he is leavingwith little of it accomplished.

The lower federal courts are more conservative than when he came, but he failed to get two nominees he wanted on the Supreme Court, and the ones who made it have at times charted an independent course not to his

The high court has chipped away at constitutional criminal law protections that Meese opposed, but still stand and he has been rebuffed on a variety of other legal

"He failed to articulate any cohesive rationale for what he has been trying to do," Michael Glennon, professor of law at the University of California, said in a telephone interview.

Some conservatives argue that the long-running investigations of Meese have in fact hampered President Reagan's efforts to move government policy in a law-andorder direction.

"The Reagan legal agenda is bigger than Ed Meese," said Daniel Popeo of the conservative Washington Legal Foundation. "I think the Reagan legal agenda is detracted from and taken down in having to defend Ed Meese's problems.'

Meese, in an interview Wednesday on Cable News Network, said, "I think we have de-politicized the Justice Department in favor of strong law enforcement which benefits all of the people.

"If you hadn't had people like myself, and others in the Department of Justice who feel the same way, we wouldn't have the fine nominees that have been recommended to the president who believe, as he does, we should have interpreters of the Constitution, and not people who will impose their own wills in the guise of constitutionalism.

The outgoing attorney general, who began his public career advocating tough action against antiwar demonstrators as a deputy district attorney in Alameda County, Calif., was cilly alking tough Department in 1985.

He accused the Supreme Court of weakening the Constitution with sometimes "bizarre" rulings that he said were not "the supreme law of the land." Among other things, he said the court had erred in its landmark doctrine that the Bill of Rights protects citizens against state, as well as federal, government action.

A.E. "Dick" Howard, professor of law at the University of Virginia, said, "That created a lot of hue and cry, and a great deal of fuss. I don't see that any long-term debate has resulted. Those turned out to be sort of flashes in the pan.

· More importantly, he said, 'throughout the years that Meese has been attorney general, the Supreme Court has dealt one rebuff after another to important administration positions.

The most recent example was the court's decision upholding the independent counsel law, in which Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, elevated by Reagan with Meese's backing, wrote the court's 8-1 opinion. Only Justice Antonin Scalia, the most clearly conservative of the Reagan appointees to the court, dissented.

"It seems clear Rehnquist's agenda is somewhat different than Meese's," said Glennon. "As chief justice, Rehnquist sees it as his province to fit the interests of an independent and impartial judiciary.

The administration has also lost on cases involving abortion, affirmative action and church-state relations, among other questions. When moderate Justice Lewis F.

Powell retired, Meese backed Robert H. Bork, a conservative judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals, for the post. After the Senate rejected the Bork nomination, Meese recommended a colleague on the appeals court, Douglas Ginsburg, who withdrew in the face of

The eventual choice, Justice Anwhen he came to the Justice thony Kennedy, is carving out a record more conservative than Reagan's first appointee, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, but slightly less consistently conservative than

Some argue that Meese has made headway on issues such as the rule excluding illegally seized evidence and the Miranda warnings governing pre-trial police interrogation, which he argued "only helps guilty defendants.

"Miranda and the exclusionary rule have been nibbled away at bit by bit so that today they cover far less than they did eight years ago," said Glennon.

Howard, however, said, "My overall sense is that the court had begun to back off from those policepractice cases in general even before Reagan became president and Meese became attorney

In one area, there is agreement about Meese's impact. As attorney general, he has played a pivotal role in selecting about 200 judicial appointees.

"He has captured the lower federal courts," said Glennon.

"The Meese legacy is much more enduring and I think more obvious, more evident, in the judicial appointments than in the Supreme Court decisions so far,"

We've got a bad case of the Steves in this newsroom and have had for the past few weeks.

We had a mild dose for the past year. Steve Reagan joined us about a year ago, and with Steve Belvin at the sports desk it was confusing at times just who it was someone was addressing.

It's gotten worse in the last month.

Steve Geissen came aboard in June and it's not been the same

Now, when someone says "Steve" the name game begins. One of several things can happen. And do. Either all three turn, fully expecting to begin a conversation, or all three continue doing what they were doing and expect another Steve to respond.

Of course, there are also other combinations of responses from among the trio.

Bizarre hit a new level a Saturday or two ago when there were four people in this newsroom me, Steve, Steve and Steve.

Was I confused? Can you imagine?

We've tried a couple of suggestions in hopes of winning this game. Steve I, Steve II and Steve III.

But that seemed to make them, oh, little more than numbers in a faceless society, if you know what I mean. Rejected.

Last names were given a try but alone they sound more impersonal and cold than having a name a movie sequel would wear.

Nicknames. Ah, nicknames Those are something you don't grab lightly. Again, several have been suggested, but we're going to have to do better than we have so far before we find the solution... Is one really necessary?

You could ask Steve Reagan. Mr Reagan — which he's sometimes called — seems to need a solution. He's beginning to complain of whiplash damage because he turns so often during a typical day.

By the way, the Mr is an option also, but it's one Steve Reagan doesn't seem to care for much. Perhaps it seems too formal. Or maybe it reminds him of the black sheep in the family — the one residing at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Dudley Moore plays a name game in his latest movie - "Arthur 2 on the Rocks" — that could get you into trouble. Big trouble. In fact, it may rank high on some people's list of bad things that can

While addressing a member of the opposite sex, he confuses her name with that of another female. That can be dangerous.

Perhaps he's to be excused because, as in most of his first "Arthur" movie, Moore plays the role of lovable drunk — if there is such a thing.

His name game didn't get him into trouble, but his drinking did. It was good to see a subtle but significant change in his style when forced to recognize what alcohol was doing to him — and none too soon. I was admittedly reluctant about the movie because of the drinking theme, so the final message was all the more appealing.

The name game is played in other places also.

What could be worse than having the same name as a famous person? Try being one of two or more people who have the same name as a famous person. Like Elizabeth Taylor of who worked for the chamber of commerce here before moving to Georgetown several weeks ago.

Georgetown. No, no, not the Elizabeth Taylor

No, it's the Elizabeth Taylor who was already living in Georgetown when the Elizabeth Taylor of Big Spring took up residence in that city of several thousand people.

Computerized telephone information can't always help distinguish such things for you, and that's how I reached the Elizabeth Taylor who's been in Georgetown for several years. I was only one of many who played the name game with her that weekend alone.

This Elizabeth Taylor said she had gotten three phone calls in the previous 48 hours — all for another Elizabeth Taylor. I could tell this woman was blessed with a good sense of humor. Maybe that's a requirement for anyone named Elizabeth Taylor.

Richard Cypert joined scouting in 1984 in Garden City, and "to this day it was one of the best decision I ever made in my life," he says.

"Scouting teaches you about the great outdoors and camping, it teaches about friendship, teamwork and being prepared at all times. It teaches to work hard at whatever you do, but to also have fun while you are doing it. And it teaches to never give up and always go that extra mile."

In 1987 Richard was awarded the highest rank in scouting — the Eagle. "Every time I went another step up in the Eagle Trail, I felt so good, that I wanted more than anything to reach the top. Papers link official to probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - A newly released court document more directly links a Pratt & Whitney vice president to the Pentagon fraud and bribery investigation than the company has previously indicated

USPS to restore full service

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Postal Service will be restoring full window service that was cut at the nation's post offices in February to save money

Postmaster General Anthony Frank said on Friday that managers have found enough savings in other areas to re-open windows Sept. 10 to "the same level of service that existed prior to Feb. 13."

Frank said local managers will have the discretion to decide what changes are best for their community. For example, in some areas evening hours may be expanded, while in others an extra clerk may be put on at busy times instead of having longer hours with fewer clerks.

The cuts in window service, one step to trim spending by $160 million, amounted to about half a day a week, and in many areas that meant closing offices on Saturdays.

Lefebvre commission appointed

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II on Saturday appointed an eight-member commission to seek ways to persuade followers of excommunicated Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre to remain loyal to the Roman Catholic

The pope warned on July 2 that Lefebvre sympathizers will be excommunicated if they remain with the rebel prelate. But John Paul also promised to try to meet their traditionalist needs - including Mass said in Latin - if they follow the pope.

Lefebvre created the first church schism in 118 years when he consecrated four traditionalist bishops on June 30 without papal permission. The act caused the automatic excommunication of the five, as well as of Monsignor Antonio de Castro Mayer, a Brazilian prelate who assisted Lefebvre in the ceremony.

Hundreds left homeless by rains

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Heavy rains Saturday triggered landslides, flooded buildings and left 560 people homeless, government officials said. A 42-year-old woman was missing in a rainswollen river.

Weather officials forecast two to four more inches of rain for the next 24 hours and asked people in low-lying zones to evacuate.

Chat lines: Public service or fantasy?

By DEBORAH MESCE

Associated Press Writer

Late at night, after most people have turned off the lights and gone to bed, the party is just beginning on telephone lines across the country where the lonely make friends and wimps become macho.

"Hi, this is Baby Boy looking for Baby Girl," said one late-night caller on a party line serving Washington, D.C., and the nearby Maryland suburbs.

Baby Girl apparently wasn't at that party, but it was hard to tell with the chaotic jumble of voices and occasional bursts of obscenities and sexual directions on the line.

"I want you, New York," another male caller said during a moment of calm.

"I want you, toc," a woman answered.

Party lines like this can take the loneliness out of living for some, at least those willing to pay as much as $2 per minute of anonymous conversation.

Among an estimated 400 talk services nationwide are dating lines for adult singles and gays, lines for teen-agers, lines for discussions about politics and sports, even lines where callers can exchange trivia or pick up a joke to tell the next day at the office.

"I just like making new friends," said John, explaining why he has become a regular on one of the 20 or so party lines available to

District of Columbia callers. Like many others, John calls nearly every night "to see what's happening," and occasionally to find a date:

Veterans attempt to cross border

AUSTIN (AP) — Approximately 30 people demonstrated Thursday in support of the Veteran's Peace Convoy, which plans to try again this weekend to cross the border at Laredo and take vehicles and supplies to Nicaragua.

"Feed the children, not the war — let the convoy pass," the demonstrators chanted as they carried signs, walking in a large circle near the Federal Building. "Convoy si, contras no," they shouted. The convoy of about 40 vehicles was turned back at Laredo last month, and drove to Washington, but leaders were unsuccessful in their efforts to get permission to cross the border.

Luz Guerra of Chicanos Against Military Intervention in Latin America — or CAMILA — said the attempted crossing has now become symbolic.

"It's the principle of the thing. It's maybe symbolic whether or not they're allowed to cross," said Ms. Guerra, of Austin. "They're hoping that they may do that, there's always that hope, but at the same time the symbol is the border that they're not being allowed to cross.

"We want to remind people we haven't given up on this," she said. The convoy has been scaled down to approximately 20 vehicles.

LAREDO — Members of the Veterans Peace Convoy met Friday to make plans for a "Dump the Embargo" event scheduled for Saturday morning followed by a second attempt to cross the border.

PASSIVE OR ACTIVE INCOME

Is it better to have passive or active income and losses? The determination of active versus passive income and losses is fairly new to the tax law. These very important and confusing terms should be of interest to anyone who has investments.

Because there were so many tax shelters creating losses which offset other taxable income, the legislature decided to make a change. Generally, the tax benefits in these shelter investments have been reduced or eliminated.

Passive income or losses are generated by an activity in which you do not materially participate. The first of three sets of regulations which attempt to define activities which are active and those which are passive has just now been released. The first set of regulations contains over 200 pages and is still not adequate to completely administer this new part of the income tax law.

It would seem fair that if certain investment activities generate passive income, the losses from other investment activities should offset that income. Not necessarily so. "Portfolio income" is not treated as income from a passive activity and cannot be used to offset passive losses. Portfolio income includes such things as interest, dividends, annuities and royalties.

Generally, losses from a passive activity are deductible only against income from that or another passive activity. Losses which you cannot use in a current year can be carried forward indefinitely. If unused losses exist at the time investment is disposed of, the losses are deductible against the sale.

These new regulations are very complicated; the prudent investor would be wise to plan accordingly

Ryan reaches milestone in victory over NY Mets

HOUSTON (AP) - Nolan Ryan Expos 9, Braves 4 joined Cy Young as the only pitchers in major league history to win 100 games for one team in each league, hurling the Houston Astros to a 6-3 victory Saturday over the New York Mets.

Rvan. 6-7, the all-time career strikeout leader, fanned five to increase his National League-leading total for the season to 130 and his career total to 4,677.

Ryan pitched 7 1-3 innings, gave up eight hits and three runs while walking three. Juan Agosto pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for his second Rick Aguilera, 0-4, was the loser in relief, going 1 2-3 innings and giving up four runs on three hits. He walked four and struck out one.

Houston took a 6-3 lead in the fifth with a four-run rally. After walks to Gerald Young and Kevin Bass, Glenn Davis singled in Young, and Buddy Bell singled in Bass. A single by Billy Hatcher drove in Davis, before an intentional walk to Rafael Ramirez loaded the bases. Craig Biggio walked to drive in Bell.

New York took a 1-0 lead in the first after Wally Backman walked with one out, stole second, and scored on a single by Kevin McReynolds.

The Mets increased the lead to 3-0 in the second when Howard Johnson led off with a walk and moved to second on a single by Dave Magadan. Johnson scored when Mackey Sasser grounded out, and Sid Fernandez drove in Magadan with a single.

Houston cut the deficit to 3-1 in the second on singles by Davis and Bell, and an RBI double by Hatcher.

Houston added a run in the third when Young walked, stole second, moved to third on a throwing error by catcher Sasser, and scored on wild pitch by Fernandez.

Ryan's victory was his 100th as an Astro. He won 138 for the California Angels. Young won more than 100 games for Cleveland of the National League before the turn of the century and Boston of the American League after the turn. All told, seven pitchers have won at least 100 games for different teams.

ATLANTA (AP) — Hubie Brooks drove in three runs and Andres Galarraga hit his 20th home run as the Montreal Expos extended their winning streak to six games with a 9-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

It was also the ninth victory in the last 16 games for the Expos. In seven innings, Dennis Mar-

Peter Smith, 3-9, in the first inning. Otis Nixon singled, went to second on Smith's balk and advanced to third on Tim Raines' single. One out later, Nixon scored on Brooks' infield groundout and Tim Wallach followed with an RBI single.

The Expos chased Smith with a four-run second that included a two-run single by Raines, who came off the 15-day disabled list just before the game, and a two-run single by Brooks off reliever Rick Mahler. Mahler was knocked out in the first inning of Montreal's 7-1 victory Friday night.

The Braves cut the lead to 6-2 with two unearned runs in the third. Ozzie Virgil doubled, went to third on Ron Gant's single and both runners scored when first baseman Galarraga fielded Gerald Perry's grounder and threw wildly behind Martinez, who was covering first.

Curry, casting aside the "sins of inexperience," won the World Boxing Council junior middleweight title nearly two years after losing his World Boxing Association welterweight crown.

Yogi the movie critic

By RUTH RENDON Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Yogi Berra isn't catching pitchers anymore, just movies.

Once a month, the Houston Astros' coach leaves the ballpark and trades his baseball cap for the hat of a movie critic. And the man credited with such quotes as: "It ain't over until it's over" and "Nobody goes there anymore, it's too crowded" is providing similar insight into the film world.

Berra's "Yogi at the Movies," a brainchild of New York sports. marketing agent Tom Villante, doesn't get into the movies' plots or sub-plots, but just whether Berra enjoyed them.

"I love movies, if I like them," guips the former New York Yankee catcher and past manager of the Yankees and Villante, a batboy for the Yankees when Berra first joined the team in 1946, said he has wanted to transform Berra into a movie critic since his days in the Yankees' clubhouse.

"The players would ask Yogi, Hey, Yogi what movie did you go see?' And he would give the most interesting reviews, probably better than the movie itself. This got to be a daily thing, and I remember thinking that I was going to do something with it someday," said Villante, former executive director of marketing and broadcasting for Major League Baseball.

"I thought he was crazy," Berra recalls. "He said, 'Lets try it.' So why not, there's not much to it, except go to a movie.

"It's fun and it does pass the time away. If you're on the road, you go to the movie at 12 o'clock or 1 o'clock. You're out by 3 and then go to the ballpark instead of laying around librat was today," said Berra, who was napping in the clubhouse before a recent game at the Astrodome. The 30-second reviews, shown on 65 television stations throughout the country, begin with a simple head shot of Berra with a black backdrop and an off-screen voice - Villante - injecting questions.

'Yogi, did you get scared?'' he asks of the movie "Fatal Attraction," that served as Berra's movie critic debut.

"No, I only get scared when it's scary," he answered. He referred to actress Glenn Close. as Glen Clove, a suburb in Long Island near Shea Stadium.

"Yogi's Scoreboard," where Berra gives his ratings, gave "Fatal Attraction" a home run. Those he doesn't like get a strikeout. Other ratings range from a single, double or triple.

So far, Berra, who has been with the Astros the past three years, has yet to see a strikeout. The very honest Berra may be the first movie critic to admit missing part of a movie. When reviewing "Shoot to Kill," Villante asked how he had liked the opening scene.

No brag, just fact; coach is one of best

BY MICHAEL A. LUTZ

He was born in Romania and became a renowned gymnastics coach there, but Bela Karolyi has the heart of a Texan.

He first learned about Texas lore watching John Wayne movies as a child and he never forgot the Lone Star state.

So, when too much politics infiltrated the Romanian national gymnastics team, Karolyi defected to the United States in 1981.

He now lives in Houston, owns a 50-acre ranch, brags like a Texan and, ves, he still turns out some of the best women's gymnasts in the world.

Karolyi is not shy about telling you his gym sent more gymnasts to the U.S. Gymnastics Championships in The Summit than any other club in the country.

He's not just another talltalking Texan who owns both real horses and pommel horses. Karolyi has the list of Olympians to support his braggadocia.

Five of his elite athletes had a legitimate chance to make the U.S. Olympic team at the competition, which ended this week in The Summit.

Despite all of his enthusiasm and love of competition, this true American success story admits he's finally met his Alamo.

Karolyi says he's realized that because of politics and jealousy he'll never be the coach of the women's Olympic team, a goal he has coveted since coming to this country.

"I have realized the system is very wrong and you can't get through," Karolvi said. "There is no objective criteria for selecting the Olympic coach.

"It is guided by small human egos and small human interests. So, then, I gave up with that goal. I have no more goals to be Olympic coach.

This from a man so determined and driven that he came to this country penniless, temporarily leaving his daughter behind, and took a job as a busboy.

That's comparable to Vince Lombardi defecting to Russia and starting out _cleaning latrines.

Karolyi trained Romanian Olympic champion Nadia Comaneci and American gold medal winner Mary Lou Retton and currently his top performer is Phoebe Mills.

By his own count, in 25 years of coaching, Karolyi's kids have won 141 international gymnastics medals.

Still, his methods and his personality have created enemies among the U.S. gymnastics community.

His enemies say Karolyi is a publicity hound who never met a mini-cam he didn't like.

Karolyi should be allowed to take a bow for the visibility he's given women's gymnastics.

Detractors say Karolyi is too tough on his students. They point out that his students leave because of his intense workouts.

But they both came back. Karolyi's kids may want to run from the heat of the workouts, but it is the intensity of the day to day workouts that hones Karolyi's kids into champions.

"I encourage the competition because I want them to face reality every single day in the gym,' Karolyi said.

"When they leave, they are missing the most important thing, the competition, the reality over every day facing up to the motivation.'

Phillips thought she could find better motivation elsewhere but came back and that really excited Karolyi.

"When Kristie came back the whole program was just boosted because everybody felt the threat that someone is coming from behind," Karolyi said.

"Now the places are not secure anymore and the competition in every day workouts becomes unbelieveably intense."

Karolvi had wanted to take his teachings one step farther as the Olympic coach. He reasoned that the top gun should call the shots.

"It is obvious the national coach should be the one who produces the most athletes," Karoyli said. "It is the criteria used in all civilized countries."

He'll just set new goals, he says.

"My goal is to produce these kids and take them as far as they can go," he said. "I am doing everything humanly possible to take these kids to the final stage in the best shape with the best motivated attitude.'

Voting for the All-Stars

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

Thirty-one years after the fact, with the All-Star Game returning Tuesday night to his old town, Gabe Paul pleads innocent to the Great Cincinnati Ballot Stuffing Caper.

Well, maybe not completely innocent.

"It was my idea," Paul said, were elected. expressing no regrets about the

to the starting lineup for the National League in the 1957 game. Paul was, after all, general manager of the club at the Bock's Score time so it seemed to him a perfectly good idea for Cincinnati — which would finish fourth that season to sweep the All-Star berths. All he did was make it easy for the fans to accomplish that by having the local newspaper pre-print the names of the Reds' players on the ballots.

"Then we told them to just clip 'em and send 'em in,' he said. What could be easier? And they didn't even have to bother writing in the names.

Paul recoils at the oft-repeated charge that Cincinnati fans stuffed the ballot boxes that year. "They didn't stuff anything," he said. "Every move we made was checked with the commissioner's office. We got the OK for everything.

That included distributing ballots with Reds' players filled in at every position except first base. "The commissioner said it were left off," Paul said. "Out of business caused baseball to deference to the commissioner, we substituted Musial for George Crowe.

The rest of the ballot carried a deep Red hue — Johnny Temple at second base, Roy McMillan at shortstop, Don Hoak at third, Ed Bailey catching, and Frank Robinson, Wally Post and Gus Bell in the outfield. All seven

"The town really got behind role he played in having seven it," Paul said. "The commis-Reds elected sioner's office never anticipated what happened.

Commissioner Ford Frick allowed five of the Reds' electees to remain in place but ordered future Hall of Famers Hank Aaron and Willie Mays into the NL lineup, replacing Bell and Post. That left Robinson as the lone Reds' starting outfielder that year. Now, he observes the All-Star voting process from a different perspective, as manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

"No matter who does the voting, you're going to have complaints," he said. "You had the same thing when the players picked the team. The problem is you have too many players in the league and too few spots. I think the players would put a little more thought into the selection, while the fans make it a popularity contest.

Baseball thought the same thing and in the wake of Paul's ploy, it took the vote away from the fans, turning the ballot over to the managers, coaches and players in 1958. That was the fourth change in election constituencies. The fans voted for the teams in the first two All-Star games, 1933-34. From 1935-46, managers picked the teams. The fans got the vote back until the would be terrible if Stan Musial Cincinnati caper. That bit of commissioner and he remembered his roots as a baseball fan. One of the first acts of his administration was to return the All-Star vote to the public. "My thinking was that the game was conceived of as a fan's game," Kuhn said. "It was not that the fans could do a better job of voting but I just felt it was he began passing time by punright for them to pick their own

"It had been abandoned because they had not been able to work out a system. We went to the computerized ballot and distributed them by the millions all over the country. This generated renewed interest by the fans, although the idea of a public vote has not always been popular with the players. There is, for example, the fans' 10-year snub of Oakland third baseman Carney Lansford. an ex-batting champ and career .292 hitter, who made the team for the first time when Manager Tom Kelly chose him as an AL backup. Had not being named until now bothered him?

"It does to an extent," Lansford said. "But when you stop and think how it's voted, you can't let it bother you. If your peers were voting and you had never made it, it would be a different story.'

Philadelphia catcher Lance Parrish, a reserve on the NL squad, agreed that the fan vote often is faulty.

"To tell you the truth, I'd just as soon they didn't (pick the team)," he said. "I don't believe they pick the real All-Stars. They pick their favorite players,

Sometimes, in the great tradition of Cincinnati and 1957, they pick their favorite players over and over and over again. There is the case this year of Bob Caldwell, a press box attendant at Riverfront Stadium, where the All-Stars will play Tuesday

Caldwell's main duties occur before and after games, checking credentials for access to the press box. During the games, well, there's not much to do, so ching All-Star ballots. His count reportedly soared past 10,000, which may make him the world champion All-Star voter. Caldwell, however, refuses to take credit for that distinction.

"I can't talk to you about that," he said tersely. "I've been informed by the club not to discuss it.'

Then there was a widelycirculated report of an ingenious invention in Oakland which allowed rapid-fire votes for A's players by positioning nails on a board in a pattern which would punch holes next to the names of the home team candidates on the computer card ballots.

Andy Dolich, vice president for business operations of the club, insists no such device existed and that if it had, the sophisticated All-Star computer program would pick up those kinds of voting irregularities and discard mass-produced ballots. Nevertheless, Oakland did get three starters elected to the American League team. No other team has as many

The A's say that is a function of being in first place and the national attention the team's success has generated.

Fans of past All-Star voting practices prefer the strategically placed nails theory.

Olympic gold means big bucks By ED SCHUYLER JR job, said he has thought about try-

Gold is on the minds of the young men at the U.S. Olympic Boxing

And that gold is not just in the medal that signifies an Olympic championship

"It's about money," said Riddick Bowe, a super heavyweight from Brooklyn. "They tell me if you get a gold medal, millionaire.'' It has happened. Sugar Ray Leonard record and Mark Breland come to mind.

Asked if he ever sees Breland, the former world welterweight, champion who came off the Brooklyn streets to win a gold medal in 1984, Bowe said: "I see him once in a while. I guess one reason I don't seen him is I'm still living in Bedford-Stuyvesant and Brownsville and he lives on Park Avenue. "I've had a couple of people approach me, but no one's sat down with me and talked turkey," said Robert Salters, an Army sergeant from Fort Bragg, N.C., who also is a super heavyweight.

That could change quickly. 'Even though I've come a long way, I still consider myself a novice in boxing," said the 25-yearold Salters, who didn't take up the sport until 1986 and has a 15-4

This year, however, he has won the U.S. Amateur and Armed Forces championships. In the U.S. Amateur, he stopped the much more experienced Bowe in the second round

Salters, who joined the Army five years ago because he couldn't get a ing to get out of the service before his enlistment ends in November 1989, to pursue a professional career. Especially if he wins a gold medal at Seoul.

The super heavyweight spot on the 1988 U.S. team should go to either Salters or Bowe and they are expected to face each other in Sunday's final, then square off again in the box-off at Las Vegas, Nev., the following weekend.

The champions in each of the 12 weight classes advance to the boxoffs where they meet "most worthy opponents," who are not necessarily runners-up at the Trials. If the champion wins the box-off on July 16, he makes the team. If he loses, there is another bout on July 17, with the winner getting an Olympic

Just making the team boosts a boxer's financial worth when he turns pro. Andrew Maynard, the 178-pound division is a gate attraction national champion, is expected to fight pro under the banner of the Sugar Ray Leonard boxing team. Leonard and Mike Trainer, his attorney, wore long faces when Maynard lost Tuesday night.

However, Maynard, who is stationed at Fort Carson, Colo., is sure to be invited to the box-offs as a most worthy opponent.

So there is much more at stake here than bringing home a medal for the United States

But while making the team and getting a silver or bronze medal can be a big financial boost to a boxer, a gold medal can be a real money harvest in most cases. "That's why I'm here," said Todd Foster, the national champion and Pan American Games silver medalist at 139 pounds. Foster, of Great Falls, Mont., could cash in on a golden boy image because there is no doubt that a good white fighter in a popular

Meeting marvelous Maravillas Canyon

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Hallie Stillwell approached me after I spoke at the Chamber of Commerce banquet in Alpine. You and Susan have to come down and see our canyon. It's marvelous. We've got all kinds of Indian artifacts there. The Texas chestnut will be blooming in February or March. That would be a good time to come down." Hallie is a good friend and one of the best sources of information in the Big Bend country. We paidher a visit in early March.

We arrived in Marathon about dark. I tried to call Hallier but tinued south, driving 45 miles to her place. We were surprised to find it bustling with activity, filled with people who were staying in mobile homes, recreational vehicles and tents. Hallie was on the porch of the combination store and rental office. "Y'all get out and come in," she said. "Supper's almost ready.

Over a fabulous meal (we could have settled for some. peanuts and a soft drink) of pot roast and vegetables, ice cream and cake we outlined our itinerary: Hallie's daughter Dadie would return us to Maravillas canyon the next day. Hallie wanted us to stay an extra

Mexico. We'll do that on the next

After supper we stepped back into the complex's community room and watched a couple of videotapes filmmakers had made about the area. We spent the night in Hallie's home. I'm usually the first one up wherever I am, but when I awoke Hallie had already gone to the store. I went in and she offered coffee. We left on our trip to the canyon after breakfast

Dadie kept up a lively commentary while maneuvering her 4-wheel drive vehicle to the mouth of the canyon. She told us how she had grown up in a ranch house near the canyon. When her daddy wanted to take naps, he asked the kids to leave. They would go to the canyon and play where the Indians used to live.

Dadie used to be a school teacher in San Antonio, but quit to return and operate the store and mobile home park and give tours of Maravillas Canyon. The Stillwell Ranch is prime of far horizons, with beautiful vistas, dramatic mountains and a wondrous sky. Wildflowerrs dot the landscape and birds and animals thrive here. The canyon has steep walls and is 15 miles long. It ends at the Rio Grande. Water has been in the canyon before and kept the family trap-filled with flood waters. We explored half a dozen caves with rock ledges, rubbed smooth ped at home for days at a time.

The kids learned to swim in holes from Indians sitting on them. Some of the rocks bore carved grooves. Pictographs are found on some of the cave walls. Dadie said the caves are always cool and offer welcome relief from the boiling sun. Blooms on the Texas buckeye trees near the caves are bright pink. Dadie's grandkids love to spend the night in the caves

Dadie showed us the house where her mother came to live as a new bride. She pointed to a door that faced a wall on which cowboys had written things in ponent. Hame, wanting to be a good housekeeper, cleaned it off one day, not knowing she was destroying all the ranch records. The cowboys wouldn't speak to her for weeks.

People here are rugged like their country.

The jeep tours are about five hours long and are offered most months except July, August and September when Dadie says it's just too hot. The Stillwell complex is on farm to market road 2627 south of Marathon.

Winfield, whom the Yankees tried to trade after his book, "A Player's Life," appeared earlier this year, was second in the AL voting by the fans, getting more than 1.7 million votes. He went into the weekend among the leaders in most offensive categories, hitting .349 with 15 home runs and 62 RBI.

Greg Maddux of Chicago was picked as starting pitcher for the NL, beating out Orel Hershier of Los Angeles, 3½ votes to 2½ votes. Dwight Gooden of the Mets was third with 21/4 votes.

Roger Clemens of Boston, the two-time Cy Young Award winner, beat World Series MVP Frank Viola of Minnesota for the AL starting spot 5-41/2. Several managers split their votes.

Fans did not vote for pitchers. There were two one-vote races among the starting eights. Whitaker beat Marty Barrett of Boston 4-3 at second base in the AL and Van Slyke beat Willie McGee of St. Louis 6-5 for the third outfield spot in the NL.

Several managers thought players left out by the fans were having exceptional years. Doc Edwards of Cleveland said Greenwell should be an outfield starter.

"He's got solid basics at the plate, a quality stroke," Edwards said. "If you make a mistake, he can hit the ball out of the park. A good hitter.

Edwards thought Steinbach should be the catcher.

"I have to go with him even though he's been on the DL. He's a pretty good offensive player and does a decent job catching. Really and truly, my guy (Allanson) should be playing in it. Fisk has been on the DL and the only other guy who had early season stats was (Don) Slaught, who's been out. My guy's been the best of the guys who have played every day.'

Tom Trebelhorn of Milwaukee said his toughest decision was picking Gaetti at'third.

"There are a lot of quality third basemen in the league this season," Trebelhorn said. "There are probably going to be some players that are having All-Starcaliber performances which are going to be left off the team. We also have a lot of worthy candidates in the outfield and I feel there are four or five pitchers who deserve to start in the All-Star game. All of which bodes well for the American League's chances to win the game."

SAN ANTONIO - Sea World of Texas, the self-described 'Showplace like no place on Earth," offers visitors more than just a peek at exotic marine life; there are rides for the children, a baseball midway and even educational attractions.

But there's no question as to who are the stars of San Antonio's newest show: The killer whales, dolphins, penguins, sharks and other aquatic animals that make Sea World the largest marine life showplace in the world.

After two-and-a-half years of construction, the $170 million dollar entertainment park opened its gates to the public April 15, with a grand opening May 28. Public response so far has been so favorable that officials express confidence that their goal of 3 million visitors for the first year will be met.

And although the admission price — $19.95 plus tax for adults and $16.95 plus tax for children ages 3-11 — seems fairly steep, it is easy to see why so many people would want to visit. In short: The place is fun.

It would be unfair to compare the 250-acre park to other Texas attractions such as Six Flags or Astro World, where the emphasis is on rides. The attractions at Sea World lie not with log rides or roller coasters, but in the shows — of both the marine and human variety. They are: • Shamu — The most popular attraction at Sea World is Shamu, the nine-ton killer whale. Along with his fellow orperforms his feats — which include an almost-playful splashing of the audience and a backflip that has to be seen to be believed - at 4,500-seat Shamu Stadium.

Shamu performs several times daily, on a schedule staggered from the other shows. This makes it easier for visitors to arrange their performance watching.

 New Friends — This attraction gets its title because it features four species of dolphins and small whales who normally don't co-exist in the wild. The whales are still in the training process, and may be a disappointment, especially if you are fresh from watching Shamu and his mates perform.

The sheer athleticism of the dolphins, however, is a cas Namu and Kandu, Shamu guaranteed crowd-pleaser. Their stunts range from 10-foot leaps above suspended cables to a pair racing around the tank with a handler straddling them.

 Sea Lion, Walrus and Otter Stadium — This show features the clowns of the Sea World circus. Sea lions Clyde and Seamore search for Uncle Schmedley's will — in between pizza breaks, dancing to Michael Jackson tunes and mimicking their handlers' movements.

This show should be especially popular with children.

 Wheels — Performers of a human variety take center stage at this show, which is reminiscient of the Broadway production "Starlight Express.

Costumed roller-skaters, bicyclists, BMX bikers and

SAN ANTONIO — Among the attractions at Sea World of Texas are, clockwise from top: Belinda, a Beluga whale, responds to her handler's summons; a solitary seal waits for someone to toss him a fish at the feeding area; a pair of dolphins perform a leap at the

A whale Shamu:

SAN ANTONIO — There's no doubt about it - this city is unabashedly, undoubtedly Shamu-crazy.

Walk into any 7-Eleven store and purchase an inflatable Shamu pool toy; buy film at Eckard's Drugs and receive a free stuffed Shamu doll: drive on almost any street and try not to notice the posters and billboards featuring — you guessed it — Shamu. Even the skies above San Antonio aren't immune to Shamu fever.

In recognition of being named official airline of Sea World of Texas, Southwest Airlines repainted one of its 737s to resemble Shamu.

There's nothing like the sight of an airborne killer whale traveling at 120 knots to grab your attention.

After about two days of dodging planes, avoiding billboards and resisting the urge to buy a Shamu doll, I felt a bit like Paul Newman in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance

"Who is this guy? Simply stated, Shamu is a nine-ton killer whale and star of "Sea World of Texas," San Antonio's newest attraction. He also is a major reason park officials say they are confident Sea World will attract more than three million visitors by the end of its first year of operation.

So, what's so special about this animal that would attract millions of land-loving Texans? Why is San Antonio giving affection to a killer whale in amounts it usually reserves for Davey Crockett?

I had to meet him.

Upon arriving at Sea World, I soon made an important discovery: As much as San Antonio is in love with Shamu, the park is even more so. I challenge anyone to visit the place and take more than five steps in any direction without seeing a Shamu-this or Shamu-that.

All of this materialism was beginning to make me a bit skeptical as I made my way to Shamu Stadium - a 4,500-seat showcase for Shamu and his fellow orcas, Namu and Kandu wondering: What's all the fuss about?

The answer wasn't difficult to find. The announcer opened the show by reciting the list of persons who helped make Texas famous (Davey Crockett, et al). As the background music slowly peaked, he said, . . and now, meet Texas' newest star, (pause) Shamu!' At that precise moment — from out of nowhere, it seemed — this large, black and white . . . monster emerged from the middle of the tank.

Talk about an attention getter. For the next 20 minutes, Shamu enthralled the crowd with his performance (these weren't tricks; dogs perform tricks — this guy is a performer). I just wish I had a nickle for every time somebody asked: "How did he do that?"

He performed a multitude of leaps, raced around the tank to demonstrate his considerable speed and did a back flip that impressed me to no end.

Comedy was interjected into his routine as well. On cue, he slowly circled the edge of the tank - almost playfully splashing water on the audience along the way. There are other stunts, but I wouldn't want to divulge his entire act.

So, you may ask, do I recommend a trip to San Antonio to see Shamu? Idu, Idu.

The stunts are particularly impressive - especially a duel between two bikers in an enclosed metal globe

 Beach Blanket Ski Party — Water skiers perform rampjumping, water ballet and barefoot skiing to beach tunes on 12-acre Lake Texas, located in the middle of the park. Although they attract the lion's share of attention, the shows are not the only feature that should prove entertaining to park-goers. The Shark and Coral Reefs exhibit features a variety of sharks thankfully small - and thousands of tropical fishes, in addition to information booths.

Another attraction that should be popular with children is the penguin exhibit. Six species of penguins are displayed in a simulated Antarctic enviroment.

As with the shark exhibit, information displays are available. The two exhibits have continuous showings.

For a close-up look at some of the animals, there are four feeding areas. Visitors are encouraged to feed sea lions, walruses; seals and dolphins. Petting is allowed only at the dolphin pool.

For small children, Cap'n Kid's World features 16 play-and-learn elements in a four-acre playground.

And for older children and adults, there is the Boardwalk and Baseball Center, which features baseball trivia and midway games.

- Those who dread spending an afternoon under the South Texas sun should be encouraged to hear that there is no shortage of refreshment stands or shady areas at the park Other conveniences include stroller, camera and wheelchair rentals, diaper-changing and firstaid stations, restaraunts and gift shops.

The park is fully wheelchair accessible.

Aside from daily rates, persons can purchase yearly passes good for unlimited visits during the 12-month period. Cost is $49 plus tax for adults and $39 plus tax for children. The park is open daily, beginning at 9 a.m.

Sea World is located at the intersection of Ellison Drive and Westover Hills Boulevard, between loobs 410 and 1604, 18 miles northwest of downtown San Antonio.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat-Magnet' Diet Pill Gives You Steady Fat Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)— An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods as long as ou don't increase your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire."

It is a totally new major scientifc breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patents pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles from food that you have just eaten. Then, the trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body. Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated. "Pills Go To Work"

The fat-magnet pills alone, "automatically" help reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat, with no exercising. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. However, you can lose weight 'faster" if you choose to follow the fat-magnet diet plan along with the pills.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with record sales and glowing reports of weight loss. It's a "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public If you need to lose a large or small amount of weight, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills and diet plan (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. Grubs, spider mites major pests

By DON RICHARDSON Extension agent

Q. "What are these brown beetles showing up now around my porch lights?

A. Those brown beetles you've been sweeping out of the house or off the porch at night during the past several weeks are more than a passing aggravation now. In the month of July their myriad of offspring, if left unchecked, can begin causing considerable damage on Far West Texas lawns.

The adult female beetles are mated during the flights. She then lays 30-40 eggs in the soil which hatch in 3-4 weeks. When the larvae or white grub emerges they begin to feed on whatever is closest at hand.

When it turns out to be grass roots — as it often does, the aggravation frequently becomes mortal pain:

The grubs are small and fairly easy to kill with insecticides when they first hatch but later on become quite difficult to control. If you're going to treat for them don't wait until late summer.

Lawns under attack by grubs will often show brown patches in mid to late-summer. Since grubs are not the only pests that cause such patches in lawns, homeowners getting them are advised to check and see if grubworms are the culprit before spending time and money to control them.

To check a lawn for white grubs, cut out a one-square-foot section of turf with a shovel or lawn edger and turn it over. If careful examination shows more than four grubs in your square foot of soil, treatment is indicated.

Following examination the turfshould be firmly replaced and

Treatments, if needed, should be timed so they are undertaken when the grubs are most vulnerable. That is when they are young and located in the top one

In our area the time to treat will be July 10 to 20. If treated early white grubs can be controlled with Diazinon or Dursban, according to label instructions, of Granular formulations of these grub-killing insecticides are available and favored by the entomologist because they're a bit easier and safer to apply. They should go on with a fertilizer spreader and followed immediately by a thorough soaking of the lawn.

If spray formulations are chosen instead, the owner is advised to hit the lawn with about a quarter inch of water before spraying and from a half inch to and inch afterward, before the insecticide spray dries on the grass

Homeowners are advised not to use insecticides on their lawns when grubs or other insects aré not a problem. Repeated applicaions of one effective chemicals have hastened the development of grub resistance to

Additionally, insecticides kill beneficial turf organisms such as earthworms, which decompose thatch (grass clippings, etc.).

Decomposition (or removal) of thatch is important in keeping a lawn healthy. Thatch accumulation allows disease and insect pests to multiply, reduces air and water penetration to the roots, resulting in poor root development.

It can also reduce the penetration and effectiveness of fertilizers and pesticides. A wide range of information about white grubs, their treatment and domego can be found in Extension Service leaflet L-1131, White Grubs in Texas Turfgrass, available at most County Extension Offices.

Q. What do you recommend to control spider mites?

A. Spider mites are tiny, but they can cause big problems in home gardens.

These pests prefer tomatoes. beans and peas and do most of their damage in hot, dry weather. Spider mites, also called red spiders, are only 1/60 inch in length and vary in color from green to red.

The tiny pests can build up quickly and completely engulf plants. Eggs laid on the underside of leaves hatch in four to five days. A complete life cycle takes three weeks, and as many as 20 overlapping generations can occur in a single year.

Mites spin a thin web which often can be seen on the underside of an infested leaf. They feed by inserting their mouth-parts into plant tissue and sucking juices. While feeding, they inject toxic substances into the plant.

Infestations of spider mites can be identified by tiny white spots on the underside of a leaf. Heavy infestations cause bleaching or yellowing, first along the main leaf veins and then throughout the plant. The plant also may shed buds and small fruit. Spider mites can completely defoliate a plant if not controlled.

Control of spider mites is often difficult and requires two to four applications of insecticide.

Five generations of a Big Spring family attended the John Knox family reunion in Amarillo over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

Making the trip were Novella Kirkpatrick and her daughter, Marjorie Jones; Marjorie's daughter, Kay Moore, with her daughter, Lea Kay Young; and Lea Kay's children, Fallon and Morgan.

They were the only fivegeneration direct descendants attending. And Novella; at age 94, took honors as the oldest family member present; while her greatgreat grandchild, Morgan Young, six months, was the youngest.

Others in attendance were Max and Kay Moore's recent houseguests — her sister, Nancy Carlisle, Newark, Ohio, and aunt Arneta Dow, Westbrook, Conn.

The holiday weekend saw another area family gathering honoring sisters - Ella Mae Oliver, Big Spring, who was 81 on July 2, and Inez Oliver, Colorado City, who was 86 on July 6. The sisters had married brothers when they were girls in East Texas.

Ella Mae's daughters, Shirley Scott, Big Spring, and Valreye Nichols, Marshall, treated her to birthday cake and dinner out July

Then, along with Travis and Leta Oliver, they joined a family gathering at Inez' Colorado City home on Sunday. More than 70 family members were on hand from all over Texas and New Mexico.

To top off the weekend, Inez joined her Big Spring kin to watch the fireworks display on South Mountain.

The holiday plans of O.C. Lewis went awry.

He made resevations several weeks ago to fly to California with grandchildren Cliff and Lacey Lewis, children of the Steve

But O.C. became ill suddenly and was rushed to a Lubbock hospital where he underwent emergency triple bypass surgery. He came back home last week, and the report is, he's doing fine.

O.C.'s daughter, Shelby Halskov, Redondo Beach, Cal. - whom O.C. was planning to visit - instead flew out here to help him through his recuperation. Her son, Christopher, 6, made the trip with her, but husband, Brian, "had to stay home and work," Shelby said.

Ann Duncan has a warning for those who like to camp out: Never underestimate a wasp. Ann had a close call recently when she and Buddy were spending the weekend at their cabin on Lake Thomas.

She stepped on a wasp, and had an immediate, severe reaction she stopped breathing! — and had to be rushed to the emergency

Ann had been stung by wasps previously without any problem, but she had "built up sensitivity," the medics told her, resulting in a serious reaction.

Because of a swollen foot and leg, Ann had to miss a planned business meeting in Austin, plus a visit with her son, Johnny Hatch, who lives

By the way, Johnny, a member of the state Dukakis team, will leave early this week to attend the Democratic convention in Atlanta. He hopes to visit with Dukakis personally, and possibly sign on with the candidate's national team.

David and Wanda Neal Wiley have been here visiting his mother. Mrs.C. D. Wiley. The younger Wileys live in Albuquerque, N. M. The three drove to Muskogee, Okla., to visit David and Wanda's son, Clifford Wiley and wife, Pamela; and Wanda's sister and husband, Marvin and Virginia Neal Wright, former Big Spring residents. The Wrights moved to Muskogee early this year.

The family took in the Cherokee Indians' famous summer historical pageant, "Trail of Tears," at Tahlequah, Okla.

Before returning home, the David Wileys attended the Neal family reunion near Fort Worth.

Nell and J.C. Ringenerpacked a lot into the holiday weekend.

They drove to New Mexico to breathe mountain air and look at the scenery around Roswell, Ruidoso and Cloudcroft; went dancing at The Barn in Ruidoso; then took in the dog races at El Paso.

Nell says making short trips is one of their favorite things to do. And they "always look for a place to go dancing.

Girl wants to keep life private

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old female and a freshman in high school. My problem is one that most teenage girls have a snoopy mother. She goes through my drawers and reads any letters and notes she finds — then jumps on my case about them. Just today she cleaned out my purse and proceeded to question me about every little thing in it.

Some people might say that I keep too much from her, but that isn't true. I tell her almost everything about my life.

I have considered investing in a small, inexpensive safe. Would this be too drastic? Any answer will be appreciated.

NO PRIVACY IN ILLINOIS DEAR NO PRIVACY: Forget the safe - unless you want a safecracker for a mother. Like all people who snoop, your mother is trying to find out more about you than you have told her, which means tht something is missing from your relationship: communication and trust. I hope for both your sakes you address this very important issue soon. It's as important for a teenager to be able to trust her mother as it is for a mother to be able to trust her daughter.
