Crossroads weather

Forecast for the Big Spring area: Mostly sunny and hot days while fair at night through Thursday. Highs Thursday mid 90s to near 100°. Lows tonight from mid 60s to mid 70s. Tuesday's high was 86 and the low was 66.

City Council has a busy evening with:

Budget

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Despite being few in number, the people who attended Tuesday night's public hearing on the 1988-89 budget were vocal.

Natalie Shaeffer, Big Spring, told the council its plan to raise sanitation rates $1 per month — from $5 to $6 — "makes little or no sense."

At the last budget work session, the city tentatively planned to fund the employee pay hike with a 5-cent increase in ad valorem taxes, elimination of a $10,000 contribution for the downtown coordinator's position and the sanitation rate increase.

Reading from a prepared statement, Shaeffer said, "most residents of Big Spring do the best they can just to make ends meet."

She was also critical of a proposed $50 per month raise for the city's 240 employees.

"We need less workers doing more, rather than more workers doing less," Shaeffer said.

She also charged city funds have been "mismanaged and mishandled."

"Our town needs more rewards. It deserves it," Shaeffer said.

Mayor A.C. "Cotton" Mize called an employee pay raise a "justified decision."

"The city employees are the

lowest paid people in town. They deserve it (pay raise) very much. Most city employees make less than $1,000 a month — and have large families," he said.

Tom Ferguson, city finance director, presented the council with a petition signed by a senior citizens group that opposes the increase in sanitation rates.

Jack Watkins, Big Spring, accused city officials of "playing Robin Hood" with finances.

"Big Spring is not competitive, and until we get competitive, we're going to be belying up," he

Handicapped

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Responding to criticism from a handicapped Big Spring resident, the city council made a decision to hold future meetings at the McMahon-Wrinkle Air Park conference room.

Kenneth Williams — who was joined at the meeting by two other men in wheelchairs — asked if any decisions had been made regarding 1986 discussions about parking and other improvements for handicapped residents.

Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said $40,000 in revenue sharing funds had been allocated in last year's budget, "but that was taken away because of the flood."

Williams advised the council there are federal guidelines that mandate providing handicapped persons with parking spaces and other services.

Decell said a zoning ordinance passed in 1987 requires businesses to provide a minimum of one handicapped parking space, and where there are more than 10 (regular parking spaces), an additional (reserved for handicapped) space must be provided for each multiple of 20.

Decell said the ordinance has been enforced for new businesses, but not for ones in existence prior to its passage.

Big Spring City Attorney Jean

KENNETH WILLIAMS

Shotts said the council "has the authority to make a slightly different ordinance" requiring businesses that were operating prior to the ordinance's passage to comply with the one currently in effect.

Mayor A.C. "Cotton" Mize asked Decell to meet with Williams to discuss which businesses he believes need more parking spaces and ramps for the handicapped.

Acting City Manager Hal Boyd said he would attempt to mail letters to some business owners

Downtown

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Johnny Lou Avery made an impassioned plea Tuesday night for the Big Spring City Council to reconsider its plans not to contribute $10,000 to the downtown coordinator's position.

Her comments came during a public hearing on the new fiscal year budget.

Avery — one of 13 members of the downtown renovation committee — called the city's support "absolutely mandatory."

She told council members that the volunteer committee has solicited "in excess of $200,000" in contributions, but the donations came with the understanding the downtown renovation project had the backing of city officials.

"The donors believed all the entities would contribute. The goals of the project are to improve the image (of the downtown area) that is the very heart and soul of the city," Avery said.

She said if the project was terminated the monies that have been contributed would be returned to donors.

Councilwoman Pat Deanda — who said she supported the funding proposal — told those in attendance she had received more calls about the downtown project than any other single issue since her election.

JOHNNY LOU AVERY

Chuck Cawthon said he had heard a number of "compliments" supporting the council's decision not to fund the project.

"I'm completely confused by your statement of support," Cawthon told Deanda.

Cawthon said one of his main objections was the money was being used to improve only one section of Big Spring.

"If we can't afford a fire marshal, we can't afford a downtown coordinator," he said.

Some real estate bargains awaiting shoppers

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Looking for a bargain in real estate?

A house valued at $21,000 sold for less than $5,500 July 5 — to Howard County. According to Tax Collector Dorothy Moore, the county now has 103 such properties in its inventory. Many of the properties open for bids are not sold at sheriff's sales.

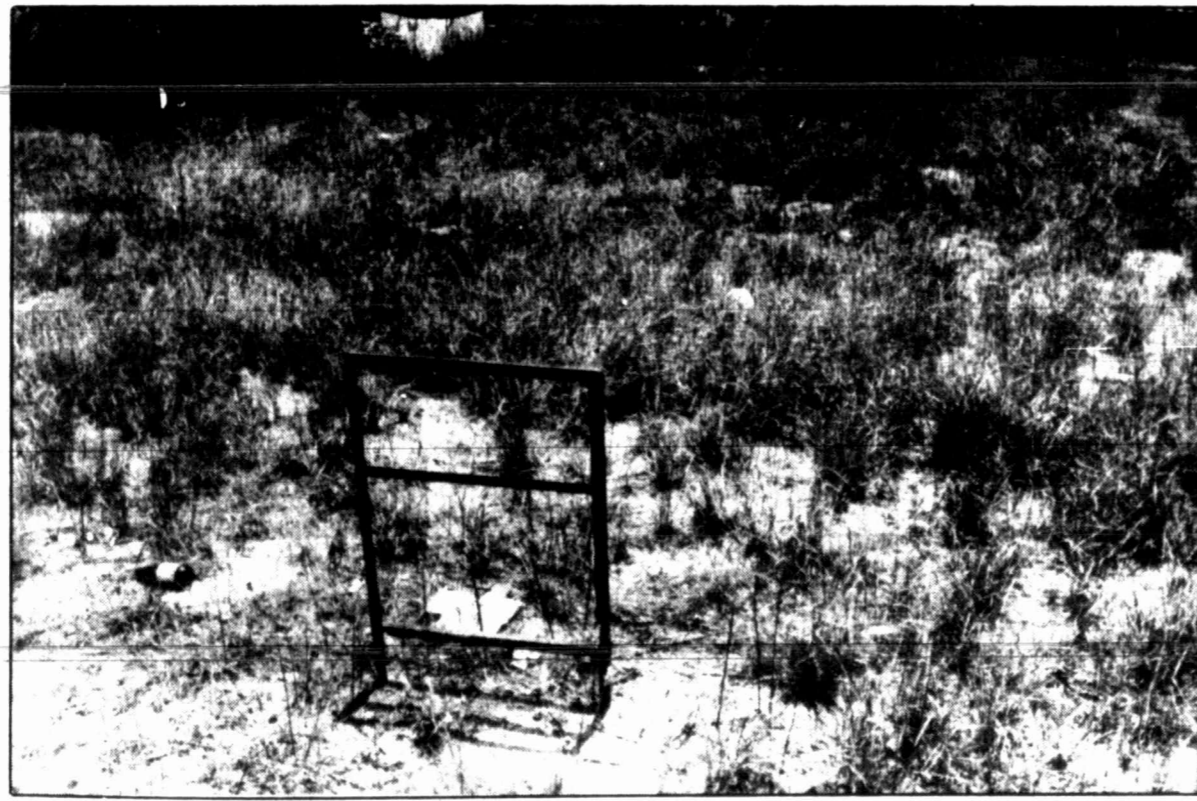

If a real property — such as the house referred to above — doesn't sell at a sheriff's sale, it becomes part of the county inventory. The county holds that property in trust for all of the taxing entities until the property is sold.

Such sales are the end result of a long and complex legal process whereby taxing entities sue for delinquent taxes, receive a judgment, then foreclose the tax lien and offer the property at a sheriff's sale.

That process is not begun without careful consideration, according to Bancroft & Mouton legal assistant Brad Estill, but such sales are likely to increase in the future.

"We try to work with the taxpayers," Estill said. "If a person's taxes become delinquent, we can offer a taxpayer a contract."

Under that contract, delinquent taxes can be paid in monthly installments — just like any loan contract — but the payments must be made on time. All taxes due during the contract must also be paid on time; otherwise, the contract is in default.

Property, like this vacant lot at 1104 East 15th Street, will be going on the auction block because of delinquent taxes. Howard County owns 103 such properties.

"That's a one-time opportunity, that gives the taxpayer a second chance. If a person has signed a contract before and not made the payments, we won't offer another one," he said.

Moore said original owners whose property is sold for delinquent taxes may redeem it, if they do so within two years from the day the sheriff's deed is recorded. If someone else has purchased the property, the owner still may redeem it — within that same two years.

Estill said the previous owner can redeem property by reimbursing the purchaser for the sales price, deed recording fee, all taxes the purchaser has paid, and 25 percent of that total in the first year. In the second year, the original owner must pay the sales price, all taxes paid by the purchaser, the deed recording fee, plus 50 percent of that total to redeem the property.

After two years, however, the right of redemption expires.

But, warns Estill, don't choose, or buy, property hastily.

If a property interests you, he recommends, go and see it — but be sure the one you see is the one for sale.

"You have to be very careful — people often buy property at these sales thinking they're getting a certain property, but actually they're getting a different one."

While you can obtain a street address at the tax appraisal office for the property, the street address may not match the legal description of the real estate.

Street addresses can present problems, Moore affirmed, citing a case in which a woman purchased some undivided acreage at a sale several years ago after going out to look at the land.

"The land she got was out there, all right, in that area, but not necessarily the street she wanted," Moore recalled.

"There are some real bargains out there," Estill said, "but you have to be careful."

"Anyone who's interested in one of these properties, or more, should contact an attorney and have him check into it. He will check the title, and he can help you decide where it's located. Then he'll be able to advise you on whether to buy the property or on what to offer if you do."

'Nursing heroes' bring humanity to AIDS care

Editor's note: The legion of nurses who have devoted their working lives to the AIDS epidemic have been called unsung heroes. The federal government will honor 14 of them on Thursday, to celebrate the dedication and compassion of them all. This is the first of two profiles of AIDS nurses; the second will appear in Thursday's Herald.

By LISA LEVITT RYCKMAN
AP National Writer

NEW YORK — Terry Miles entered the eye of the epidemic three years ago to find an AIDS ward where he could nurse patients his way, with healthy doses of compassion, care and dignity.

"I found there was no such thing in New York," Miles said, recalling those days of disillusionment. "And most of the time, I was treated curtly, and I was a registered nurse looking for a job! "So if I was being treated that way, then how were the people needing the care being treated?"

"I came to New York willing and assuming I would be a small participant," Terry Miles said. "I didn't come here with any notion to be a person to create the health-care system for people with HIV infections."

He already knew the answer. He had seen it in the Florida hospital where he'd worked: food trays left outside rooms by nurses and orderlies too frightened to venture in; health care workers donning mask, gown and gloves just to peek at an AIDS patient through a half-opened door. Four years into the epidemic, people were still being abandoned, starved for human contact because of fear and ignorance.

"It was an agonizing ache within me to do something about that," the 32-year-old Miles said. He was preparing to leave New York when a call came from Kathleen McGuirk, a former colleague who had become nursing director at St. Clare's, a small, aging Roman Catholic hospital tucked into Manhattan's tough Hell's Kitchen neighborhood.

She was planning to open an AIDS ward there, the city's first.

"I came to New York willing and assuming I would be a small participant," Miles said. "I didn't come here with any notion to be a person to create the health-care system for people with HIV infections."

He did it anyway. Less than six months after he arrived, Miles was running St. Clare's new Spellman Services Center, a model for other hospitals.

On Thursday, he and 13 other nurses who care for AIDS patients will receive awards in Washington from the federal government. Dr. Robert E. Windom, assistant health and human services secretary, called nurses the "unsung heroes" of the AIDS epidemic.

"Looking back on it, I don't think any of us really knew what we were doing, in the sense of how much work it was going to be, how involved we were going to become, how almost three years later, we're still growing and changing and looking like we're never going to finish," said Miles, now the hospital's assistant nursing director. "But this little hospital that could, did — by doing, not by talking the issue to death."

What Miles began as one 15-bed unit has grown to five units with 60 beds, with 25 more by the end of July. The out-patient program sees 250 people a week for a variety of services, including treatment, education and counseling.

Spellman runs a secured unit for state prisoners with AIDS, and a new neuro-psychiatric unit is in the works for people too sick to be out-

Reduced bond's denied

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

A bond reduction has been denied for a Big Spring woman, one of four persons charged with capital murder in the slaying of a longtime radio personality.

Pamela Newton, 21, charged with capital murder, also has been indicted by a Howard County grand jury for retaliation by threat to kill a law enforcement officer in May.

Newton sued for a writ of habeas corpus and bond reduction in 118th Judicial District Court, alleging she was illegally held in jail on charges of capital murder in connection with the death of C. Vance Kimble, 61, found shot to death in his home April 1. Her suit alleged the $100,000 bond against her was excessive and beyond her financial ability.

She was arraigned Thursday in District Court where she entered a plea of not guilty to both the charge of capital murder and to a charge of retaliation immediately prior to the bond reduction hearing.

According to the indictments filed against Newton, she "knowingly and intentionally" threatened B.K. Edens, a Howard County sheriff's deputy, with murder. Newton allegedly threatened to kill Edens for his actions in the line of duty.

The indictment says the threats occurred May 24.

Newton had sought a bond reduction on the capital murder charge from $100,000 to $50,000 but District Judge James Gregg has denied the reduction.

Another indictment against Newton charges her with "knowingly and intentionally causing (Kimble's) death by shooting him while attempting to commit the offense of robbery" against him.

Newton remains in custody in Howard County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond on the capital murder charge.

Newton, her brother Patrick Milton Newton, 17, and Michael Lee Hodnett, 23, were arrested in New Orleans after Pamela Newton attempted to use one of Kimble's credit cards. Dennis Wayne Nogler, 17, was arrested and returned to Howard County from Stuart, Fla., several days later.

Nogler, Hodnett and Patrick Newton are free on $50,000 bond each.

According to records in the District Clerk's office, bond has been set at $10,000 on the retaliation charges.

ALBUQUERQUE — The helicopter that lifted three inmates from the state prison near Santa Fe is in police custody after a chase ending in Albuquerque on Monday.

Pilot pleading innocent to prison escape charges

By ED MORENO
Associated Press Writer

SANTA FE — The pilot and a woman allegedly involved in Monday's helicopter escape from the state prison pleaded innocent to conspiracy and assisting an escape.

Charles Bella, 43, and Beverly Shoemaker, 41, were presented with the formal charges on Tuesday and ordered held under $100,000 bond by Santa Fe County Magistrate Isaac Archuleta.

Ms. Shoemaker told reporters Tuesday that she acted out of love for inmate Daniel Mahoney, 31, and would do it again.

"It's probably my way of giving him a birthday present," Ms. Shoemaker said. Today was his birthday.

She also said in a copyright interview with the Albuquerque Journal that Bella had offered to help during the wild flight Monday from the state penitentiary.

"He told me if I quit pointing a gun at him, he'd help me. He did tell me he was going to help me but (that) he would deny it later," she told the Journal.

However, she conceded Bella was "probably scared I was going to shoot him." One of Ms. Shoemaker's attorneys, whom the newspaper did not identify, said Bella had no part in planning anything illegal.

"I examined every possible way out, and I didn't have a way out," Bella told reporters shortly before his arraignment.

Bella, who flew the same Aerospace Gazelle helicopter last year during filming of "Rambo III" in Arizona, said the escape Monday was "scary." He said he was handcuffed to the aircraft within four minutes after leaving the penitentiary.

Bella's lawyers entered a plea of innocent for him. Ms. Shoemaker also was presented with formal charges Tuesday and ordered held on $100,000 bond. Archuleta entered an innocent plea on her behalf.

She told the Journal that she and Mahoney had planned the escape during weeks of letters and telephone calls to the prison.

The three prisoners airlifted from the recreation yard of the state penitentiary have also been formally charged with escape and conspiracy and could appear in court as early as today, prosecutors said.

In addition, Tansy said he has suspended two guards for failing to shoot at the helicopter Monday.

"I think they (the guards) just froze," Tansy said Tuesday. He said he didn't think either man intended to fire. He declined to identify them.

Santa Fe District Attorney Chet Walter brought the charges after conferring with law enforcement officials Tuesday morning. He acknowledged that it may be tough to prove the charges, but he said there is probable cause to believe Bella was involved in the plot.

Convoy demonstrates for Mrs. Bush's visit

LAREDO (AP) — A lawsuit between a group trying to send humanitarian aid to Nicaragua and federal officials is scheduled to go before a federal judge in Laredo today.

Members of the Veterans Peace Convoy filed the suit against federal authorities supporting a policy that blocks the convoy's passage into Mexico.

The group brought 300 tons of food and medical supplies bound for Nicaragua in 38 buses, cars and vans to the U.S.-Mexico international bridge in Laredo June 7. The peace activists had intended to leave the supplies and the vehicles in Nicaragua.

U.S. Customs agents stopped the convoy, saying the food and supplies could remain in the country, but leaving the vehicles would violate U.S. trade restrictions on that country.

The lawsuit names two U.S. Customs officials, Secretary of State George P. Shultz, Treasury Secretary James Baker and other federal officials.

Juanita Singer, a convoy member, said the group will appeal should the U.S. District Judge George Kazen's ruling go against the convoy.

Meanwhile, about 10 members had a short encounter with Laredo police Tuesday as they were stopped from seeing Barbara Bush at a local church, Ms. Singer said.

The wife of Vice President George Bush was at the Church of the Divine Redeemer in Laredo to campaign for her husband's GOP presidential race when the members marched to the church.

The activists stayed for about 45 minutes waving banners with the message "Peace and Justice in Central America" and holding up pictures of disabled Nicaraguan children while police looked on, Ms. Singer said.

The activists were prevented from speaking with Mrs. Bush, but the convoy member said the GOP candidate's wife saw the marchers.

"We didn't plan on going to the church, but we missed her at the airport," Ms. Singer said.

The vehicles remaining in Laredo are carrying about 10 tons in supplies. The remainder of the food and medicine has been sent to Nicaragua by boat.

Ms. Singer said the group will pick up more humanitarian aid in Mexico if they continue their journey.

Police chief claims self-defense

HEMPHILL (AP) — The former police chief on trial with two other Sabine County lawmen admitted he hit an inmate with a slapstick last Christmas night, but said he did so in self-defense.

Thomas Ladner testified Tuesday he hit inmate Loyal Garner Jr. after Garner struck him twice — once on the left ear and again on the neck.

"Garner's right fist hit me in the left ear," Ladner told jurors. "He hit me with his other hand on the side of the neck. I had the blackjack in my pocket. I grabbed it and I came down with my left hand to hit him and he partially blocked it... I hit him somewhere in the head one time."

The three lawmen — Ladner, 41, and Sabine County deputies James "Bo" Hyden, 35, and Bill Horton, 58, — are accused of violating Garner's civil rights. If convicted, they face a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Testimony in the trial was scheduled to resume today.

Ladner's testimony came after State District Judge O'Neal Bacon, for the second time in two days, denied a request by special prosecutor John Hannah for a mistrial.

Grand jury indicts minister

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Baptist minister has been indicted by a Dallas County grand jury on 11 charges, including burglary and aggravated sexual assault.

The indictments were returned Tuesday against Gregory Charles Goben, who faces the possibility of life in prison if convicted.

Goben was indicted on five charges of burglary of a habitation, five charges of aggravated sexual assault and one charge of attempted burglary of a habitation.

A police investigator testified before the grand jury, producing offense reports linking the suspect to the crimes through fingerprints and eyewitness identifications, assistant District Attorney John Nelms said.

Defense lawyer Ken Blassingame declined to comment on the indictments, saying he wants to discuss the grand jury's charges with his client.

Goben, minister of Outreach Baptist Church in Garland, sponsored by the outreach program of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, has been praised by friends and associates as a man devoted to his church and his family.

El Paso plans parolee limitations

EL PASO (AP) — Community activists apparently will get their wish that only convicts from El Paso County be paroled there.

Two of the city's three halfway houses have announced they won't take out-of-town parolees in response to protests that the convicts boost El Paso's already high property crime rate. At a hearing last month, opponents of out-of-town prisoners being paroled in El Paso presented petitions bearing thousands of signatures to parole board officials.

The only El Paso halfway house left for out-of-town parolees is Alternative House, with about 40 beds. It handles mostly federal cases.

El Paso police Capt. Gregory Drollinger, an outspoken critic of out-of-town parolees being housed in El Paso, praised Aliviane's decision not to exclude inmates from El Paso.

Seven drown in Texas floodwaters

CLARKSVILLE (AP) — The number of bodies claimed by floodwaters rose to seven as the bodies of a 70-year-old Red River County man and a 36-year-old San Antonio man were discovered in Texas waters.

Johnnie Leslie O'Neal of Annona was killed after his truck flew off a bridge on U.S. Highway 83 Tuesday morning into a five-foot deep creek, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said.

O'Neal was trapped in the truck and drowned, DPS dispatcher Helen Boles said. The creek was swollen from four inches of rain that fell on Red River County Tuesday morning, Ms. Boles said.

Meanwhile, two volunteers in a canoe searching the Guadalupe River in Kerr County found the body of Richard Tellez, a 36-year-old scout master.

Kerr County sheriff's deputy Bobby Love said Tellez was found at the spot where floodwaters swept away Tellez and his 13-year-old brother, Frank, as they tried to escape a stalled truck.

The 13-year-old's body was discovered in the river Monday afternoon. Love said waters had receded to their normal level by midday.

The Tellez brothers and Dan Knight, director of the nearby Bear Creek Boy Scout camp, were in the pickup when it stalled at a low-water crossing, authorities said.

A family of five from San Jose,

Calif., drove their station wagon into a flooded driveway in Pecos County Sunday.

A fifth family member, Cipriano Enriquez Rodriguez, 47, clung to a tree overnight, then walked to a town about four miles away to report the accident.

Rodriguez's wife, Maria Anna Ibarra Rodriguez, 55, their son-in-law, Pedro Navarette Ruiz, 30, and two grandchildren, Govanna Rodriguez, 12, and Pedro Rodriguez Jr., 7, died in the accident.

Watkins also said citizens are leaving Big Spring at an alarming rate.

Councilwoman Gail Earls asked Watkins why he hadn't provided input at any of the previous budget work sessions and he responded, "where were you five years ago?"

"I was an unconcerned citizen five years ago," Earls said.

Watkins said although he didn't vote for Earls in the May council elections, he supported her now because she is an "elected city official."

Maxwell Green, a Big Spring certified public accountant, said the council's decision to give employees a pay raise showed "bad judgment" and "extremely poor timing."

"It would not hurt city employees to have the raise delayed one more year," he said.

Green advised the council it needs to "enhance revenues and tax collections."

One man complained that the city never allots funding in the budget for improvements in the Moss Creek area.

"For 40 years it hasn't been touched. It's a disgrace to the city," he told the council.

Firefighter Paul Brown briefly asked that the council consider employing a fulltime fire marshal.

He said a fire marshal would be advantageous to the city in the long run and would help avoid an increase in the key rate upon which insurance rates are based.

A State Board of Insurance engineering inspector said last week that Big Spring's 18-cent key rate is one of the lowest in the state.

The key rate could be increased by 3 cents if an inspection found the city didn't employ a fire marshal. That would translate into a $30,000 increase in the insurance rates that would be passed onto local business owners, the engineering inspector said.

Mize said city officials haven't ruled out the possibility of hiring a fulltime fire marshal, but otherwise listened to Brown's remarks without comment.

Acting Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles and Capt. Alex Calvio now share fire marshal duties.

There hasn't been a fulltime fire marshal in Big Spring since Jim Riles retired on May 2, 1987, officials said.

It would cost the city approximately $20,300 per year to employ a fulltime fire marshal.

Police beat

Big Spring police reported investigating the following incidents today:

- Ricardo Saucedo, 25, 1306 Standard Ave., and Ronnie Cadenhead, 18, 811 Abrams St., were arrested on charges of unlawfully carrying a weapon and possession of marijuana under 2 ounces. Both men were released on $2,000 bond each.
- Eunice Durkee, 44, 1611 Canary St., was arrested on warrants charging her with theft, no insurance and failure to appear before judge. She was released from the sheriff's department on bonds totaling $3,000.

Youths face burglary charges

Two persons were arrested early Tuesday in connection with the burglary of two Big Spring businesses, according to police.

Jesse Dean Mince, 17, has been charged with two counts of burglary of a building, criminal mischief and burglary of a vehicle, and Ralph Allen White, 18, is facing two counts of burglary of a building and one count of burglary of a habitation, Detective Sgt. Bill King said.

Both men reside at the Ponderosa Apartments, 1425 E. 6th St., No. 28, King said.

Unleaded gas futures rise; oil tumbles

NEW YORK (AP) — Unleaded gasoline prices have strengthened because of tight supplies and speculation about higher U.S. demand, but crude oil has weakened to a new 20-month low.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, the August delivery price of West Texas Intermediate, which fell sharply on Monday to the lowest point since late 1986, ended 6 cents lower at $14.72 a barrel on Tuesday.

The last time prices for the near month contract were lower was Nov. 3, 1986, when prices closed at $14.71 a barrel.

At one point during trading Tuesday, crude oil contracts were as much as 40 cents a barrel lower than Monday's close before rebounding then falling again.

Oil traders attributed the erratic market to nervousness about excessive supplies and fear that Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries production will continue outpacing demand.

Two injured in I-20 crash

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Two Big Spring women were treated and released at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident on Interstate Highway 20 Tuesday.

According to Department of Public Safety Trooper Michael Dawson, the women were injured when the 1980 Chevrolet Chevette in which they were traveling over the Moss Creek Lake exit overpass of I-20 was struck from behind by a 1985 Ford pickup truck.

Dawson said the Chevette, driven by Winifred Hardegree, 82, was traveling slowly in the outside lane when it crossed the overpass. It was overtaken by a pickup driven by 24-year-old Ricky Martin of Coahoma, Dawson said, and struck from behind.

Hardegree and her passenger, Lillian Hall, 80, also of Big Spring and identified as Hardegree's sister, were taken to Hall-Bennett by Rural/Metro ambulance.

Martin refused treatment at the scene, Dawson said.

Sheriff's log

Howard County Sheriff's officers reported investigating the following incidents as of 8:30 a.m. today:

- An air compressor and electric power equipment valued at $1,500 was recovered Monday, according to sheriff's records. The equipment belonged to Mobil Oil Co. at its Chalk location.
- Robert LaTon Friend, 18, H.C. 61 Box 2 No. 33, was released on a $750 bond. He had been arrested by Big Spring police on charges of unlawfully carrying a weapon.
- Elodia Reyna Martinez, 24, 1802 Owens St., was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary, sentence probated, after pleading guilty to forgery by passing Tuesday in 118th District Court.
- John Bruce Gay, 30, Ponderosa Apartments, was released on $2,000 bonds. He had been arrested by city police on charges of terrorist threats.
- Daniel Boyce Fuller, 32, 102 Carey St., surrendered to sheriff's officers on a warrant for revocation of probation. He is being held without bond in Howard County jail.
- Marvin Kenneth Carson, 58, 800 S. Lancaster St., was released on $1,000 bond. He had been arrested by city police on charges of indecent exposure.
- Ralph Allen White was released on three $2,500 bonds. White, 18, 1323 Harding St., had been arrested by city police on charges of burglary, burglary of a building and burglary of a habitation.

Charles Beil, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce downtown steering committee, told the council "this city has to support this project."

"When the program was undertaken three years ago it was designed to make the downtown area look like more than a war zone," he said.

The coordinator's position has been funded by contributions from four sources — the city of Big Spring, Howard County, the Industrial Foundation and Chamber of Commerce.

The city and county have contributed $20,000 to the project for the past three years, but were asked for one-half that amount for the upcoming fiscal year.

Avery said the city would receive $550,000 of improvements in the downtown area for its $70,000 investment.

"It's (funding) just absolutely imperative to the budget."

European right may be on rise

Disturbing signs have surfaced to hint that the radical right and even neo-fascism may be on the rise in Western Europe. The surprisingly strong showing by Jean Marie Le Pen in the first round of the French presidential elections on April 24 worries many. The leader of the radical National Front had campaigned on a platform of drumbeating nationalism and racist remarks about throwing Arabs out of France.

His 15 percent of the popular vote, while small, was five points higher than the pre-election polls had predicted. He also expanded his political base from southern France to northern industrial areas.

Meanwhile, Italy — a nation long known for its tolerance — has been struck by a series of racist and anti-Semitic incidents. These events include a crowd of Italians driving an African-born woman and her child from a Rome bus, demonstrations against Gypsies and a rising number of anti-Semitic articles in Italian newspapers, as well as the bombing of a Jewish bookstore in Turin.

Norway, Denmark, Belgium and Greece have seen a similar rise in hostility toward African, Arab and Turkish guest workers on the grounds that they take local jobs and allegedly increase crime. This hostility also is seen in the rising strength of minor far-right and neo-fascist parties.

At present, these political parties — like Le Pen's — are small, drawing only 10 percent or 15 percent of the vote. Also, much of their support is in the form of protest voting rather than a sign of real political commitment. But a serious economic downturn could turn these radical right groups into major political players — much to the danger of European democracy.

Quotes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some comments from the presidential campaign trail.

"I think Jesse Jackson can do anything he wants to do. I'm going to the convention and I'm going to win it." — Michael Dukakis, speaking Sunday about threatened challenges from Jesse Jackson and his supporters at the Democrats' national convention.

"Let no one mislead you. This is not the time for the campaign to wind down. It's the time for the campaign to build up and expand." — Jesse Jackson, exhorting delegates to support him at next week's Democratic National Convention.

"Let us face it. You will not get one in 100 to admit it, but the best thing that could happen to the Democrats might be to lose the next presidential election." — SEN. William Proxmire, D-Wis., saying an expected sharp economic downturn in the next two years will hurt the Democrats in the long term if they win the White House this fall.

"I may or may not be on the ticket, but I'm qualified! That's what I know! Qualified! Hold on 'til morning comes! Qualified!" — Jesse Jackson, vowing to continue his quest for the presidential nomination after being passed over for the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

"I don't want to take care of these babies anymore. I want to take care of babies, but not AIDS babies. I want it to go away. I want AIDS to go away." — Dorothy Ward-Wimmer, a nurse who comforts young AIDS victims at Children's Hospital in Washington, who is one of 14 nurses being honored by the federal government for their work with AIDS patients.

"Black South Africa will not rest until he is free." — Zulu leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi, referring to Nelson Mandela, a black leader jailed in South Africa in 1962.

Depleting Democrats' store of 'sleaze factor' ammunition

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Edwin Meese III announced his resignation as attorney general, Vice President George Bush expressed the sentiments of a lot of Republican candidates when he said, "Ed did the right thing."

Meese had become a symbol of what Democrats loved to call the Reagan administration's "sleaze factor." The effectiveness of that claim was demonstrated by the growing pressure from Republicans for the attorney general to leave office before the fall campaign.

On Tuesday, Meese finally took that step. He told a news conference in California that a special counsel's investigation of his actions "fully vindicates me" and that he would leave office the end of July, only a couple of weeks before the Republican convention that will nominate Bush for president.

Independent counsel James McKay found no basis for an indictment of Meese, but his report — which could criticize Meese on ethical grounds — is still secret. It was filed Tuesday in Washington.

Asked if he expected to have a role in the Bush presidential campaign, Meese sounded a little surprised by the suggestion.

"In the Bush campaign?" he said. "I would think his campaign is already filled. If I can be of help to Vice President Bush in his camaign I certainly will." Meese's resignation was as big a contribution as he could possibly make to the vice president's campaign — not that his departure was likely to eliminate ethics as an issue for the Democrats.

Michael Dukakis, the Democrat Bush will face in the fall presidential election, quickly responded to Meese's announcement by saying, "Mr. Meese's resignation is long overdue."

I don't think he should have been appointed attorney general in the first place and he should have stepped down long ago," Dukakis added. "This administration's inability to set high standards for public service will not be solved by the Meese resignation."

But it certainly will give Bush a welcome respite from the steady hammering of questions about Meese.

For months, Bush saw polls that said voters favored Dukakis for the presidency and, at the same time, was asked daily whether he thought Meese should step down.

"You are consistently asked about Meese's problems," Bush aide Peter Teelie said two months ago. "Meese is a liability."

Bush disavowed that statement, but later that month he admitted that he had met with the attorney general and confirmed that Meese had promised not to do anything to hurt Bush's presidential campaign.

It was already clear that the principal thing Meese could do to hurt the Bush campaign was to hang onto his post no matter what.

Bush wasn't the only GOP candidate troubled by the political fallout from the investigation of the attorney general.

Four Republican candidates for Senate — Pete Dawkins in New Jersey, George Voinovich in Ohio, Slade Gorton of Washington and Bill Anderson of Tennessee — had called on Meese to resign and others had hinted broadly that they thought he was hurting the party politically.

Rep. Lynn Martin of Illinois, a national co-chairman of the Bush presidential campaign, made no effort to hide her pleasure at the Meese announcement.

"I had suggested that he resign a month ago and met with him about two weeks ago, so I'm not going to suddenly be hypocritical and say I'm shocked," she said.

"He (Meese) got what he needed, not leaving town under the cloud that he was guilty," Martin added. "On the other hand, the question now of what are you going to do about Ed Meese certainly isn't going to be asked any more."

Bush image may hinge on semantics

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
In order to get elected president, it's going to be necessary, I think, for George Bush to prove to us he's a regular guy, the kind of guy you'd like to go to a ballgame with or the kind of guy who wouldn't whine about the mosquitos on a fishing trip.

I don't know what it is about the vice president that gives him that silk stocking image, but it's there, and it could cost him the election.

It has hurt candidates before. During the '72 campaign, Sargent Shriver, George McGovern's running mate, was campaigning in Chicago.

He walked into a bar filled with taxi drivers, introduced himself and shook a few hands.

Then, he said, "Bartender, a round of beer for everybody. And I'll have a Courvoisier."

Shriver was lucky to get out of the bar in one piece.

I think Bush's campaign aides should start with teaching him to watch what he says.

I read in a Bush profile that he says things like "We're in deep doo-doo."

I don't want a trashmouth like Nixon in the White House, but I'm not certain if the American people are ready for a president who says doo-doo when he, of course, means quite something else.

You simply don't see grown men going around saying doo-doo.

Do you think John Wayne said doo-doo?

Of course he didn't. He would never have led us to victory in the movie version of World War II if he'd gone around saying doo-doo.

Harry Truman didn't talk like that, either. And that's why he was so effective.

The story goes that some ladies were visiting the Truman White House and he was leading them on a tour of the Rose Garden.

"My, Mr. President," asked one of the ladies, "how do these roses grow to be so beautiful?"

Truman explained the secret was in the quality of the manure used to fertilize the roses.

Later the ladies met with Mrs. Truman and another said, "We certainly enjoyed being with the president, but is it necessary that he use such terms as manure?"

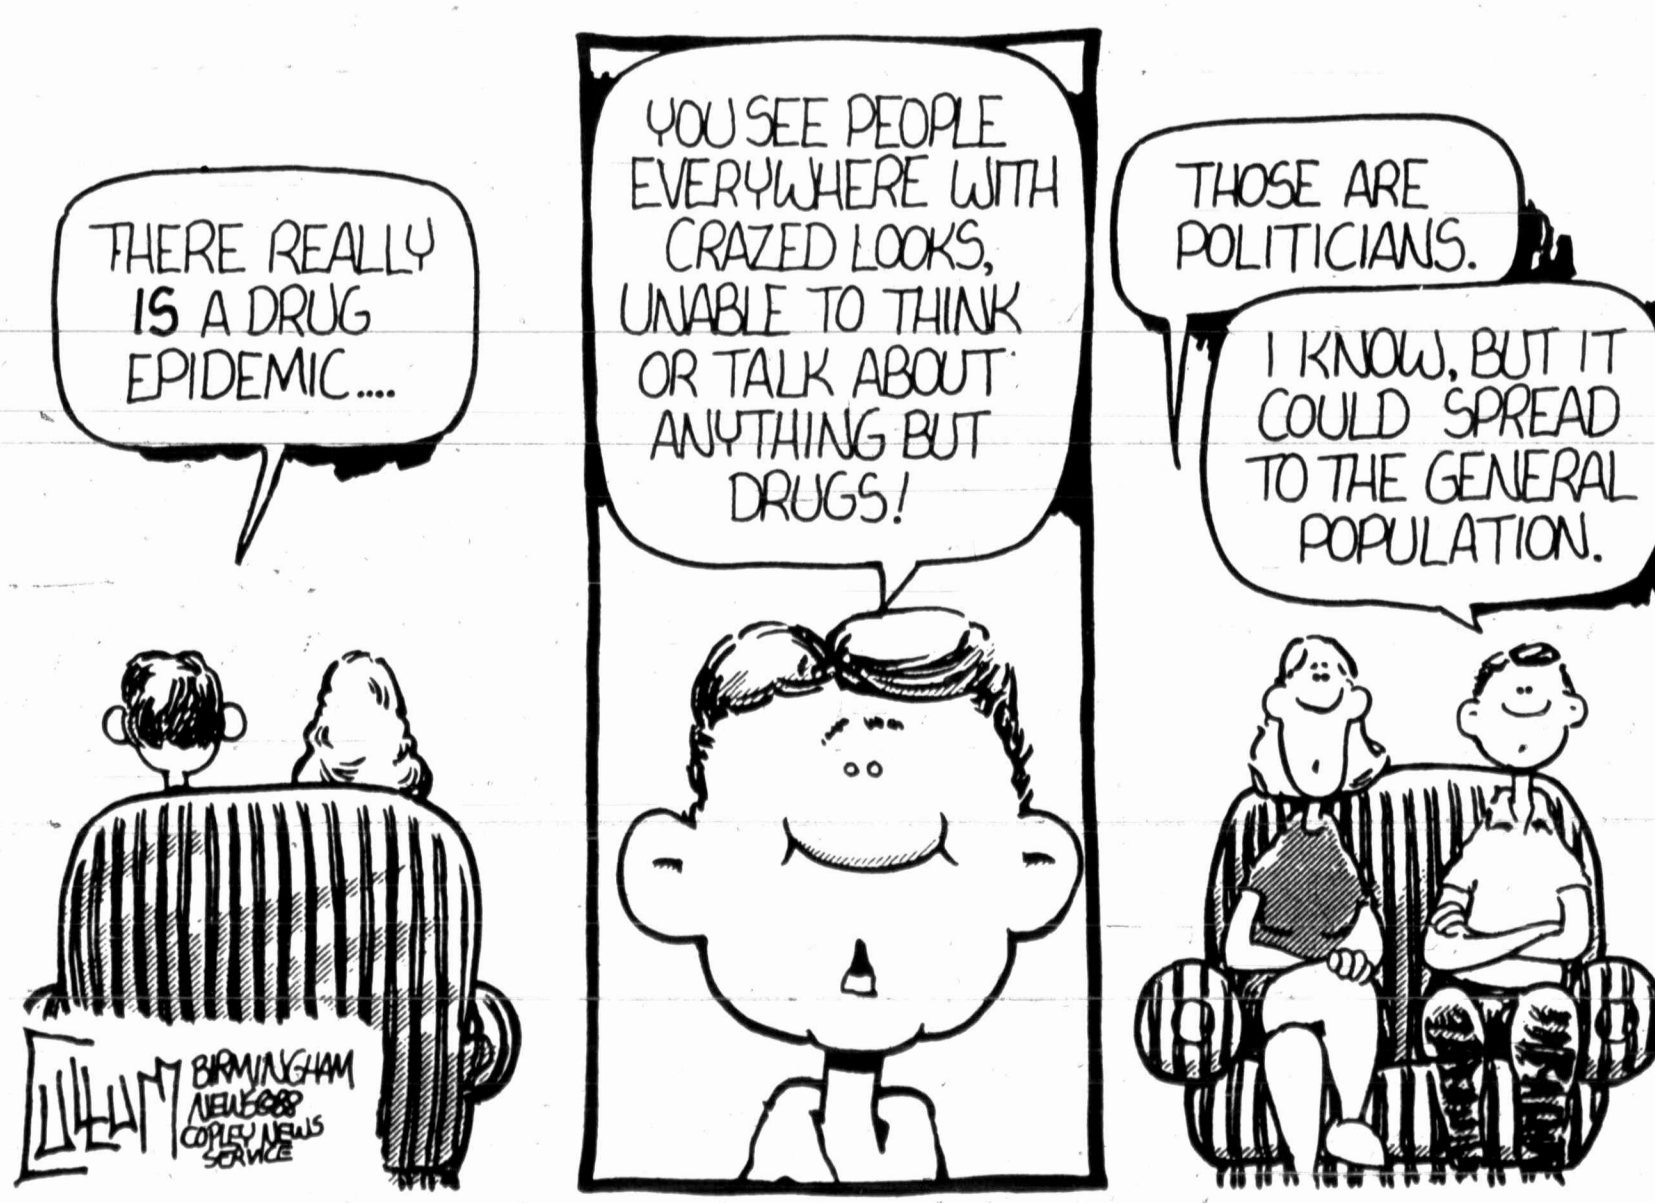

"You don't know how long," Mrs. Truman replied, "it took me to convince him to use 'manure.'"

Here are some more terms George Bush shouldn't use on the campaign trail:

- Golly
- Horsefeathers
- Gee willikers
- Din-din
- Darn

Quite frankly, if Bush's staff can't turn Tony Randall into Charles Bronson, the Republicans are into it deep, too.

All the way up to their tushies.

Ministers want film destroyed

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — Christian ministers have demanded "The Last Temptation of Christ" be destroyed before release, claiming the movie directed by Martin Scorsese depicts Jesus Christ as deranged and driven by lust.

"It is the most serious misuse of film craft in the history of filmmaking," the Rev. Lloyd John Ogilvie of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood said at a news conference Tuesday by a coalition of Christian leaders.

Universal Studios, the movie's co-distributor, has vowed to release the film in September and accused the religious leaders of advocating censorship without having seen the film.

The movie adaptation of Greek author Nikos Kazantzakis' 1955 book stars Willem Dafoe as Jesus Christ, Barbara Hershey as Mary Magdalene and Harvey Keitel as Judas Iscariot. The Greek Orthodox Church condemned the book as heretical.

Americans negative about drugs

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have become more antagonistic toward illegal drug use over the past year, according to a study released by a volunteer group trying to de-glamorize drug abuse with a public service advertising campaign.

The Media-Advertising Partnership for a Drug-Free America said Tuesday that the nation's media outlets donated more than $150 million in free space and time for the barrage of ads it made available in the first year of the anti-drug campaign. The campaign was launched in March 1987.

The amount of donated space fell short of the $500 million that the group had targeted for each year of the three-year campaign. But campaign organizers said they were pleased with the results and hope media outlets will find more space and time for the ads this year.

Federal grand jury indicts man

MIAMI (AP) — A former mercenary who once helped the Contras but now opposes the anti-Sandinista rebels vowed to turn his arms-smuggling trial into a forum on the Reagan administration's policy in Nicaragua.

"I will subpoena government officials at the highest level. I will put the Contra policy on trial," Jack Terrell said Tuesday.

He said he was informed that he had been indicted by a federal grand jury in Fort Lauderdale whose report was sealed by the U.S. attorney's office here.

The indictment is believed to accuse six people associated with a group called Civilian Material Assistance of violating the U.S. Neutrality Act by shipping arms to the Contras.

Harvard to offer ethics course

BOSTON (AP) — The Harvard Business School will begin offering an ethics course this fall to teach students about the importance of making a buck without cheating, lying or being disrespectful.

"We want to send a signal early on that these issues are important to the organization," Thomas

Piper, one of the professors who will teach the three-week course at Harvard, said in Tuesday's editions of The Boston Globe.

After the Wall Street insider trading scandal broke in 1986, the nation's business schools, Harvard included, were criticized for failing to stress ethics to future business managers.

Corrosion found in six planes

SEATTLE (AP) — Corrosion was found in six Aloha Airlines jetliners, including a Boeing 737 whose top came off over Hawaii, witnesses testified at a federal hearing on the fatal April 28 accident.

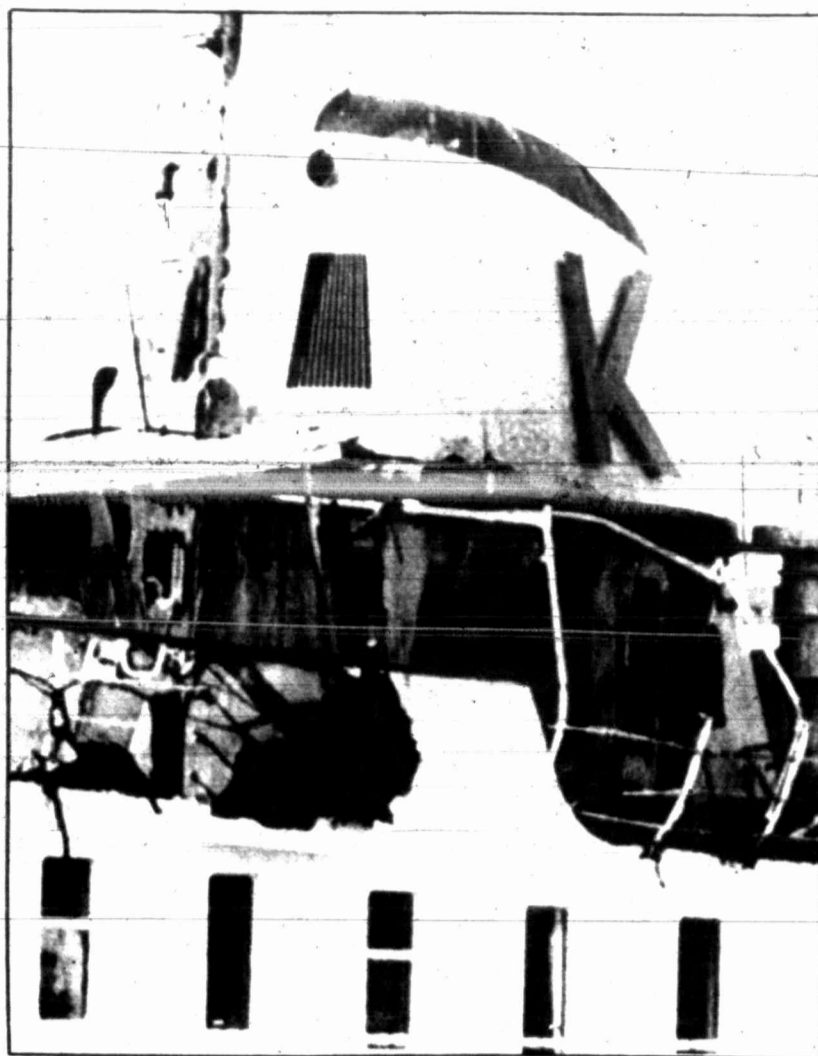

The testimony came Tuesday on the first day of the National Transportation Safety Board hearing on the accident, in which a flight attendant on the 19-year-old aircraft fell to her death and 61 of the 94 people aboard were hurt.

In addition to the 737, corrosion was found this spring on three Aloha planes and on two of the airline's other 737s, one of which had a 7/2-inch crack, the five-member panel was told.

The hearing, which was to resume today and end Friday, is aimed at trying to determine the accident's cause and what lessons can be learned on the safety and maintenance of older aircraft.

Panel Chairman John K. Lauber asked Thomas Derieg, Aloha vice president of operations, whether photos showing heavy corrosion on the skin of two of the airline's 737s in early May reflected an adequate corrosion prevention program.

ATHENS, Greece — Close up of the 370-ton "City of Poros" bridge and sundeck, gutted in a hand-grenade attack Monday. Nine people were killed and 98 of 471 passengers were injured when three men tossed grenades and sprayed automatic fire among the cruise ship's passengers.

Attack may have been seize tactic

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Terrorists may have staged a cruise ship massacre because two accomplices were blown up on land, dashing plans to hijack the boat in a bid to free a Palestinian accused of an airliner bombing, officials say.

Security sources said Monday's attack may have been a bungled attempt by pro-Iranian Arabs to seize the City of Poros, which was carrying 471 tourists on a one-day cruise through the Greek islands.

A coroner said today that nine people were killed. Earlier reports said up to 11 were killed.

The terrorists opened fire with automatic weapons, hurled grenades on the deck, starting a fire that brought the ship's sun-deck crashing down on passengers trying to flee from a saloon below.

"We theorize they were going to seize the ship... maybe to force the freeing of the Palestinian on trial," a senior Greek harbor authority officer said. He spoke on condition of anonymity.

Mohammed Rashid, 34, was arrested June 1 on charges of entering Greece with a forged passport. He is wanted by the United States on charges of planting a bomb on a Pan Am jet that exploded on a Tokyo-Honolulu flight in April 1982, killing a Japanese teen-ager and wounding 15 people.

Greece has said it is considering a U.S. request for the extradition of Rashid, whose trial had been scheduled to begin in Athens today but was postponed until July 27 because of a nationwide work slowdown by prison guards.

Public Order Minister Anastasios Sehiotis on Tuesday released photographs of three men and a woman he said were involved in the ship attack. He linked the group with an explosion that killed two men in a rented car near the liner's home dock about six hours before the ship attack.

Police said the car was laden with automatic weapons, grenades and explosives. They speculated the arsenal was for hijacking the cruise ship.

"We think they (the terrorists) found out about the car explosion and decided to shoot up the ship," said the harbor officer.

Sehiotis said two Lebanese men were being sought by police in connection with the car explosion. He identified them as Hamoud Abdul Hamid, 36, the man who had rented the car, and Mohammed Zozad, 21, recognized by survivors as one of the terrorists aboard the ship.

Details of the attack emerged in bits and pieces, sometimes contradictory. The Greek government and police released little information.

Remains turned over at ceremony

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A U.S. honor guard paid a solemn tribute today as a military team in Hanoi retrieved what Vietnam has identified as the remains of 25 American servicemen killed in the Vietnam war.

It was one of the largest turn-overs since U.S. forces withdrew from Vietnam in 1973, after the war cost 58,000 American lives.

The military team handed over a list of names and "associations" relating to the remains. They said some of the names appear on the official list of 1,761 Americans missing in action, or MIA, from the war.

After the 25-minute ceremony, the plane took off for Guam en route to Honolulu, where the U.S. Army Central Identification Laboratory will try to identify the remains. A large proportion of remains returned by Vietnam are subsequently identified as those of MIAs.

Bomb blast injures nine soldiers

DUISBURG, West Germany (AP) — A bomb blast ripped through a British army barracks early today, tearing off part of the roof and injuring nine soldiers. The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility.

Police said the bomb was placed near an outside wall of the soldiers' living quarters and tore a 10-by-16-foot hole in it.

At about the same time of the explosion, shots were fired from a passing automobile at a police car in the same area, but no one was injured, police said. They said the passing automobile had Dutch license plates.

In Dublin, the IRA said in a statement circulated to the media that it carried out "the bomb attack in West Germany against crown forces." It did not elaborate.

Soviet leader visiting shipyard

SZCZECIN, Poland (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev came to this Baltic port today to speak at a shipyard where workers helped spawn Solidarity, the Soviet bloc's first and only independent labor movement, during a wave of 1980 strikes.

In southeastern Poland, 1,600 workers struck two departments of a steel and defense plant that employs 18,000, opposition activists said. The government denied any strike was in progress.

Gorbachev and Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski arrived in Szczecin from Warsaw shortly after 11 a.m., the official news agency PAP said.

The stop at the Warski shipyard in Szczecin provides the Soviet leader with his main opportunity to address Polish workers during his six-day visit to Poland, which began Monday.

Hamadi smuggled explosives

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Mohammed Ali Hamadi, charged with murder and air piracy in the 1985 hijacking of a TWA airliner to Beirut, testified today that he smuggled explosives into West Germany.

But Hamadi, in his first statement to the court since his trial began last week, denied he belongs to a radical pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem group believed to be the umbrella organization for kidnappers holding foreign hostages in Lebanon.

"I am not a member of the Hezbollah (Party of God)," Hamadi said in Arabic.

Hamadi, a Lebanese Shiite, is charged in the June 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner on an Athens-to-Rome flight.

Ship attack may be 'whitewash'

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran denied involvement in the terrorist attack on a Greek cruise ship and said the CIA may have carried it out to "whitewash" the U.S. attack on an Iranian airliner last week.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry said Tuesday in a statement broadcast by Tehran Radio that the United States "is confronted with a major difficulty in the face of world public opinion and political and international circles" after its Navy shot down the Iran Air A300 Airbus on July 3, killing all 290 people aboard.

"In view of the nature of imperialism and its inhuman attitude, it can be predicted that the American espionage network, the CIA, and its agents may commit such unpleasant incidents in various parts of the world in order to whitewash the disaster of the attack on the Iranian passenger airliner," the statement said.

Up to 11 people were killed and 98 wounded when terrorists opened fire with automatic weapons and hurled grenades aboard the Greek cruise ship City of Poros on Monday.

Sunning under a 'saurus

BRYAN — Katie Cowden, 3, Bryan, is dwarfed by her pet stegosaurus. The plywood dinosaur was built by her father in about three weeks. He started with a model approximately the size of a loaf of bread and expanded the dimensions to 4½-foot tall by 6½-foot long.

Teen's tragedy is warning to others

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you published an article about a young boy who was killed in a car accident. I'm too young to die. Please, God, I'm only 17. I saved that column, but I cannot find it. Abby, my husband and I lost our only child in a car accident on Feb. 21, 1988. He, too, was too young to die. He was an honor student and would have graduated in June. He was only 17.

I can't have any more children, so you see, we lost everything we had.

PEGGY LANG
Please accept my deepest sympathy. The column you requested was one of the most powerful pieces ever to appear in my column. And here it is. PLEASE, GOD, I'M ONLY 17. The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I heeded the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free! It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remembered was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard a deafening crash and felt a terrible jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream. Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Dear Abby

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head! I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I'm supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please — somebody — wake me up! Get me out of here! I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can hardly walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody. No one can believe this. And I can't believe it, either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance.

Please, God, I'm only 17!

Academia

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Stacey Ream has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner for scholastic achievement. This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American students, according to a new release.

Stacey, who attends Howard College was nominated for this award by Lisa Fort, at the school. Stacey will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Collegiate Yearbook, published nationally.

Stacey is also the school mascot (the Hawk, president of the Student Gov't Assoc. and a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy. The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of professors, coaches, counselors, or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

LULAC also adopted 20 resolutions, including a call for the United States to lift economic sanctions against Panama; political redistricting in Los Angeles County, Calif.; and efforts to improve low-income housing and care for the elderly.

Bride-elect honored at shower

Wendy Walker, bride-elect of Kyle Wheeler, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower at First Baptist Church.

Special guests included the honoree's mother, Mrs. Royce Walker, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Dorothy Wheeler.

Also the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Dwain Leonard, and Mrs. Shirley Walker; her great-grandmother, Sadye Chumley; and the prospective bridegroom's grandmother, Eva Wheeler, who was also honored.

The bride-elect, her mother, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, were presented with silk corsages in the bride's chosen color of peach.

The register table and refreshment table, draped with a white cut-work cloth, featured a crystal brandy snifter with two porcelain doves trimmed with peach ribbons.

Hostesses were Annie Matt Angel, Andre Clark, Loubel Dickens, Marilyn Fortson, Helen Gladden, Sally Grove, Judy Husted, Gloria Peterson, Helen Priddy, Cherri Rainey, Ann Read, Rhonda Rothell, Ila Smith, Judi Smidt, Evaughn Taylor, Mary Lynn Welch, Teresa Williams, and Kae Wise.

Their gift to the bride-elect was an Oster kitchen center.

The couple will wed July 23 at First Baptist Church.

Lifestyle policies

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

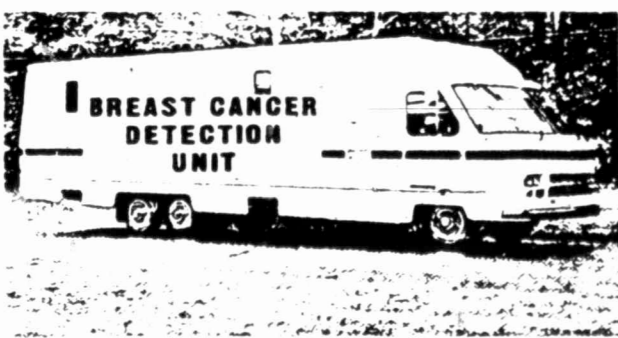

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1988
BIG SPRING, TEXAS
HIGHLAND SHOPPING CENTER

A Service of PLANNED PARENTHOOD

CALL 263-8351 FOR APPOINTMENT

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Appointments may be made by calling 263-8351.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Big Spring on Thursday, July 14th.

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

- I. 35-40 years of age — One baseline mammogram.
- II. 40-50 years of age — A mammogram every 12 months, depending on breast type and risk factor.
- III. 50 years of age and over — An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
- IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers. A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, MasterCard and American Express.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be at Highland Shopping Center.

Food Festival of Light

An Oriental celebration of summer

Recipe Exchange

While the beginning of summer is heralded in the United States by Memorial Day, in ancient China the summer's beginning was celebrated with the Festival of Light.

Brightly lit lanterns paraded through the streets, fireworks displays and, of course, good food, characterized this gathering honoring the season's lengthening days.

This summer the Festival of Lights is the perfect reason to invite friends for a celebration of your own.

This week's Recipe Exchange features easy-to-prepare Chinese dishes to help you and your guests keep with today's lighter eating style.

FRIED WON TON TRIANGLES

- 1/2 lb. ground beef
 - 1/2 lb. ground pork
 - 1 (28 oz.) can chop suey vegetables
 - 1/4 cup sliced green onion
 - 2 cloves garlic, minced
 - 2 tbs. dry sherry or water
 - 1 tbs. cornstarch, mixed with 1 tbs. water
 - 1 tsp. fresh minced ginger root
 - 1/4 tsp. five spice powder (optional)
- Won ton wrappers
Vegetable oil
- In large skillet, brown beef and pork until they lose redness; drain well. Add remaining ingredients except wrappers and oil; mix well. Remove from heat and cool. Place 1 rounded teaspoon filling in center of each won ton wrapper; moisten outer edge and fold over to form triangle. Pinch edge together to seal. Heat 2 to 3 inches oil in Dutch oven or wok to 350 degrees F. Fry won tons 1 to 2 minutes or until golden brown. Serve immediately with sweet and sour sauce or soy sauce.

SWEET 'N SOUR CHICKEN KABOBS

- 1 lb. boneless chicken, cut into

Marinated Shrimp Salad and Sweet 'N Sour Chicken Kabobs were created by La Choy home economists to honor the Oriental Festival of Light. Easy to prepare, these colorful, flavorful entrees are perfect for any summer celebration.

- 1-inch cubes
- 6 tbs. teriyaki sauce
- 2 tbs. sherry wine or water
- 1 (8 1/4 oz.) can pineapple chunks, reserve juice
- 1 green pepper, cut into cubes

MARINATED SHRIMP SALAD

- 1 red pepper, cut into cubes
 - 1 (8 oz.) can water chestnuts
 - 1 (10 oz.) jar sweet and sour sauce
 - 12 wooden skewers
- In medium bowl, combine chicken, 1/4 cup teriyaki sauce and sherry; marinate one hour. Thread alternate pieces chicken, pineapple chunks, peppers and water chestnuts onto wooden skewers. In small bowl, mix remaining teriyaki sauce, sweet and sour sauce and 1/4 cup pineapple juice to use for basting kabobs. Barbecue or broil skewers 6 inches from heat for 8 to 10 minutes, or until chicken is cooked. Turn frequently and baste with sauce. Makes 12 skewers.

- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup rice vinegar
- 2 tbs. soy sauce
- 1 tbs. sugar
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. Chinese hot mustard
- 1/2 tsp. each: ground ginger and garlic powder
- 1 lb. cooked medium shrimp
- 1/2 cup sliced green onion
- 1 head lettuce, cleaned and broken into leaves
- 1 (6 oz.) pkg. frozen Chinese pea pods

TURKEY SHAO MAI

- 1 lb. ground turkey or other ground meat

FRIED DUMPLINGS

- 2 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 - 2 3/4 cup boiling water
 - 1/2 cup cold water
 - 1 lb. ground pork
 - 1 (8 oz.) can bamboo shoots, drained and chopped
 - 1/4 cup each chopped mushrooms and green onions
 - 2 tbs. soy sauce
 - 1 tbs. sesame oil
 - 1 tsp. minced ginger root
- Place flour in large bowl, add boiling water and mix well. Add cold water and knead dough with hand until thoroughly mixed. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. In large bowl, mix together remaining ingredients until thoroughly blended. Turn dough onto floured board and knead again until smooth (approximately 10 times). Using your hands, roll dough into cylinder about 1 1/4-inches wide. Cut into about 30 pieces 1/2-inch thick.

Roll each piece out then to a 3-inch pancake. Place 1 tbs. filling in center of each pancake and fold into half circle to enclose. Pinch edges of dumpling together to seal. Heat 2 tbs. oil in large fry pan. Arrange dumplings in single layer on bottom. Fry over medium-high heat until golden brown on bottom. Add 2/3 cup water, cover pan, and cook until water has been absorbed, about 15 minutes. Serve with hot sauces. Makes 30 dumplings.

1 (8 oz.) can water chestnuts, drained and chopped.

2 tbs. chopped green onion

2 tbs. shredded carrot

2 tbs. soy sauce

1 tbs. sesame oil

1/2 tsp. Chinese hot mustard

1/2 tsp. garlic powder

1/4 tsp. black pepper

1 (12 oz.) pkg. won ton wrappers.

In medium bowl, mix all ingredients, except wrappers, until well blended. Cover won ton wrappers with damp towel to keep moist. Place about 1 tbs. filling in center of each won ton wrapper. Press and pleat sides of skin up around filling. Wrap your finger and thumb around dumpling just below pleats and flatten top and bottom to secure. Keep moist if not cooking immediately. Brush steamer with a little oil. Place Shao Mai in steamer allowing enough room around sides for steam to circulate. Cover and steam 10 minutes or until meat is cooked. Serve hot with plum sauce, sweet and sour sauce, soy sauce, or hot mustard. Makes approximately 40.

Questions & answers

Q. Can you suggest desserts for children that are sweet but still nutritious?

A. Milk and egg desserts as well as fruit and custard-style yogurt are rich in nutrients. Fresh or canned fruit also is a good choice. Dessert suggestions include: pudding, custard, tapioca, Angel fruit cake, baked apples and fruit compote.

Q. What is the best way to melt chocolate?

A. To microwave, place chocolate in a microwave-proof dish and melt two to three ounces of chocolate at 50 percent (medium) power for 2 to 4 minutes. Stir after half the time. For range-top melting, use either a heavy saucepan or a double-boiler. Heat chocolate until it's of stirring consistency.

Q. Which foods contain vitamin E?

A. Fat soluble vitamin E is found in vegetable and seed oils (soybean, cottonseed, corn), shortening, margarine, egg yolk, butter, milk fat, grains (especially in the germ of grains), liver, nuts and green leafy vegetables such as lettuce and cabbage. Vitamin E aids in the formation of red blood cells, muscles and other tissues.

Q. What is Italian prosciutto?

A. Prosciutto is European-style ham that is salted, air-cured and aged at least one year. It may be smoked or unsmoked. It is ready to eat and often served as an appetizer or used in baked meat, vegetable or egg dishes.

Q. What are the colors and proportions of food coloring that would result in peach-colored cream cheese mints?

A. Use four parts of rose pink food coloring to one part lemon yellow. In general when using food coloring, start with one drop, blend it in, and continue to add one drop at a time until you reach the desired color.

Jackson: 'Too mature' to be angry at being passed over

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — A proud and defiant Jesse Jackson is vowing to keep fighting to Atlanta for the presidential nomination and the causes he believes in. When the air clears, he says, "I no doubt will support the ticket that the convention elects next week."

Several supporters said today that despite his disappointment with being passed over by Michael Dukakis for the vice presidential spot, Jackson already is looking ahead to next week's convention.

"He's going to talk about why we need a Democratic victory in November," a key adviser, Ann Lewis, told CBS this morning. She said she had spoken at length with Jackson and that in Atlanta "you're going to see a Jesse Jackson who is forward-looking, who's talking about the fall, who's talking about the issues."

Rep. Charles Rangle, D-N.Y., reflecting the wariness of many Jackson supporters, said of Jackson: "It was disappointing to be interviewed for the high office of vice president one evening and then the next morning to be notified by newspaper reporters that a decision has been made."

Jackson was heading back home to Chicago today after a day in the capital that began with a public humiliation and ended with a throng of 2,500 people at an NAACP convention on its feet cheering in adulation as Jackson vowed:

"I may or may not be on the ticket, but I'm qualified! That's what I know! Qualified! Hold on 'til morning comes! Qualified!"

And he added pointedly: "This year we've earned a spot on the ticket."

Michael Dukakis was addressing the civil rights organization's convention today. Vice President George Bush also spoke to the NAACP Tuesday.

Jackson told reporters earlier Tuesday "I'm too controlled, I'm too clear, I'm too mature to be angry" at being passed over for the ticket.

But he was clearly stung by the fact that he learned of Dukakis's

"I'm too controlled, I'm too clear, I'm too mature to be angry. I'm focused on what we must do to keep hope alive. Anger reflects a crisis in emotions and therefore irrational behavior. I've simply been in this struggle long enough to keep my eyes on the prize." — Jesse Jackson selection Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas from reporters Tuesday morning when his campaign jet landed in Washington.

Bentsen was in the same airport terminal preparing to board a private jet to Boston, but he and Jackson did not come face to face. Dukakis called Jackson an hour later, before the official announcement — but after word had already gotten out.

Maxine Waters, a California co-chair of Jackson's campaign, was indignant about the Dukakis camp's handling of the matter.

"Something was wrong with that," she said in an interview Tuesday night. "Not only people who are Jackson supporters, but people who are Dukakis supporters... think it was an awful treatment."

Jackson said it would be "inappropriate for me to comment" upon the selection of the Texas senator since he had had "no opportunity for in-depth discussion with Senator Bentsen and... no prior discussion with Governor Dukakis" about Bentsen's selection.

But his emotional address to the NAACP was a clear repudiation of any notion emanating from the Dukakis camp that it is time for Jackson to admit he has been vanquished.

"I will never surrender!" he shouted. "I will not stop because the end has not yet come... I'm running because this struggle for justice is both ancient and endless."

Jackson turned his attention to next week's convention, saying it is "not time for show business."

Waters raised the idea that Jackson's name might be entered into nomination for the vice presidency — which goes beyond anything Jackson himself has said.

"We haven't developed a strategy," she said. "I haven't had a chance to look at it closely... It's an idea that we will make a determination about in the next few days."

Asked at his news conference earlier Tuesday if he would encourage supporters to enthusiastically back the Dukakis-Bentsen ticket, Jackson said, "We can only address that after the nomination is over on Wednesday night."

Democrats

'Trying to break Bush's back'

ATLANTA (AP) — Michael Dukakis' choice of Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as his vice presidential nominee balances the geographical and ideological scales of the Democratic ticket — and provides a staunch challenge to George Bush in a state the vice president calls his home.

"They are trying to break Bush's back in Texas," said Republican pollster Lance Tarrance.

Indeed, it's almost as if Texas is suddenly the only state that counts for the Democrats. The convention chairman is from Texas: House Speaker Jim Wright. The keynote speaker is from Texas: state Treasurer Ann Richards. And now the vice presidential choice.

"They haven't just taken a bow toward Texas; they genuflected," said Democratic consultant Mark Mellman. Dukakis has "made a very big investment in Texas," he added. "We better win it now."

A key question is whether Bentsen does anything for the Democratic ticket outside Texas.

One argument is that he will reassure the white Southern males who have deserted the party by the millions in recent elections, persuading them the Democrats are not too liberal and concerned with minorities and special interests.

But the flip side is that Bentsen is little known outside his home state — except in Louisiana and Oklahoma. Except for those three states, he might not make any difference. But then, vice presidential candidates rarely make much of a difference, since the focus is on the presidential candidates.

"It makes Texas a battleground, where before Bush had Texas sewn up." — GOP strategist Vince Breglio.

Texas holds 29 electoral votes, more than 10 percent of the 278 needed to win the White House in November. The state ranks third, behind only California and New York.

That is clearly the central reason for choosing Bentsen over the other names on Dukakis' short list. Historians are fond of saying Democrats have not won the presidency in this century without winning Texas. What is less often said is that winning Texas does not guarantee a Democratic victory. Hubert Humphrey won the Lone Star State in 1968, for example, and still lost to Richard Nixon.

Bush calls Texas his home, still voting there even though the only home he actually owns these days is on the coastline of Maine.

"It makes Texas a battleground, where before Bush had Texas sewn up," said Republican strategist Vince Breglio. It's a direct shot at the Republicans' natural base for the presidential contest.

The more time and money the Democrats can force the Republicans to spend winning states in the South — where the GOP national ticket has been strong in recent years — the less time and money Bush and his running mate will be able to spend in California, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York.

Now Bush must face his choice of a running mate.

He could choose to counter the Democratic thrust in the South by picking someone from the region for the No. 2 spot — like former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander. Or he can make a move into the Northeast — which should be Dukakis' strong area — with a choice such as Rep. Jack Kemp of New York.

Bush can also go to California and try to nail down that state's 47 electoral votes with Gov. George Deukmejian as a running mate. Or he can mend fences in the Midwest with Senate GOP leader Bob Dole of Kansas.

Dukakis' choice of Bentsen broadens the Democratic appeal in crucial ways for the fall campaign.

The liberal Massachusetts governor will be running with the conservative Washington insider from the Southwest.

The specialist in economic growth is paired with the legislative expert with a reputation in international economics.

The opponent of aid to the Contras chose a supporter of such funding.

Indeed, it's almost as if Texas is suddenly the only state that counts for the Democrats. The convention chairman is from Texas: House Speaker Jim Wright. The keynote speaker is from Texas: state Treasurer Ann Richards. And now the vice presidential choice.

"It cuts down the angle at which Bush can shoot," said Democratic pollster Peter Hart. "They can't say the ticket is inexperienced or too liberal."

Bentsen will certainly help the Democratic Party reach out to conservative businessmen who have rarely backed the party's hopefuls. Bentsen has been masterful at gathering campaign contributions from normally GOP sources, a fact that has Republicans awed and a bit peeved.

Campbell's magazine is hot on sales racks

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Dave Campbell threw us a curve this year.

Campbell, who has been publishing the Texas Football magazine for as long as I can remember, circulated the publication two weeks early this year.

As usual the "Texas Football Encyclopedia" is very entertaining and informing.

Steve's stuff

The Texas A&M Aggies get the nod to win their fourth straight Southwest Conference championship. According to Campbell and associates, "if the Aggies can be stopped now, the NCAA or the meatgrinder schedule will have to do it."

The NCAA is holding a hammer over the Aggies in the form of 31 court indictments. The question is: Will the hammer drop before the 1988 season, or after?

The A&M schedule is rough. The Aggies' first four games will be against Nebraska, LSU, Alabama and Oklahoma State. All except the Alabama game is on the road.

Texas is picked to finish second, followed by Arkansas, TCU, Texas Tech, Baylor, Houston and Rice. The Herschell Niesson Preseason Top 20 Poll picks Clemson, UCLA and Miami as the top three teams. A&M is picked eighth. Arkansas, Baylor and Texas are rated as teams to watch.

Former District 4-5A player Britt Hager (Odessa Permian), a senior at UT, is picked as one of the best linebackers in the SWC. Texas Tech senior Tyrone Thurman (Midland Lee) is the premier return specialist in the conference and Sweetwater's Mike Welch, a junior at Baylor, is listed as one of the top safeties in the league.

Welch and Sam Collins, a 6-6, 261-pound defensive end from Lubbock Dunbar, will be two stalwarts in the Baylor defense. Collins' grandparents, Jasper and Frankie Mae Evans, are Big Spring residents.

A change in the high school ranks is there is no 4-5A school picked in the top 10 in the state. Sugarland Willowridge gets the preseason nod for No. 1.

In Class 4A, West Orange Starke is tabbed to win its third consecutive state title. District 2-4A's Sweetwater, a state semi-finalist last year, is ranked third in the state.

Needless to say, the Mustangs are the district favorites. Their weakness is said to be speed and size, and their strength is tradition.

One Mustang that has both speed and size is all-state tailback Kenneth Norman, who rushed for 2,052 yards last year. Abilene Reporter News writer Bill Hart has a nice article in the magazine on Norman.

Andrews is chosen to finish second in District 2-4A, followed by Big Spring, Monahans, Fort Stockton, Snyder, San Angelo Lake View and Pecos. Big Spring's strength is said to be size, while its weakness is listed as lack of experience.

Abilene Wylie gets the nod in District 7-3A, followed by Ballinger, Colorado City, Clyde, Merkel and Coahoma. C-City's Beau Rees, a 6-2, 215-pound bruiser, is listed as one of top running backs in Class 3A.

In District 6-AA, Reagan County is the favorite. The Owls are followed by Ozona, Eldorado, Forsan, Winters and Wall.

The District 5-AA favorite is McCamey. The Badgers are followed by Marfa, Stanton, Iraan, Van Horn and Presidio. Former Big Spring assistant Mickey Finley is now head football coach and athletic director at Iraan.

Rankin gets the nod in District 8-A. The Red Devils are followed by Irion County, Garden City, Water Valley, Sterling City and Robert Lee.

In District 6-A Six-Man competition, Loop is the favorite just ahead of Klondike. Grady is picked third, followed by Dawson and Borden County.

Klondike's Ron Davis, a 6-2, 215-pound senior, is tabbed as one of the top six-man linemen in the state.

So there's your sneak preview of Dave Campbell's Texas Football. Better head down to bookstore now.

Third inning homer leads AL

CINCINNATI (AP) — The only real consolation was that baseball's 59th All-Star Game was short.

It was boring for nearly all of its 2 hours, 26 minutes. And its hero was a player, Terry Steinbach, who was the worst hitter on either team, so bad and so little known that his name was misspelled "Steinbech" on his special All-Star bat.

The National League did supply some comic relief when Bob Knepper almost fell off the mound in the fourth inning and when Cincinnati Reds rookie Chris Sabo ran off the field thinking he had scored on a foul ball in the seventh.

But it was only funny because the rest of the game was so foul.

In a season that may signal a changing of the guard among baseball's top players, the American League won 2-1 Tuesday night on Steinbach's homer — with his misspelled bat — in his first All-Star at-bat leading off the third inning and his sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Steinbach, the Oakland Athletics catcher, was one of 30 first-time All-Stars in the game, the most since the first All-Star contest in 1933 when they were all new.

The victory was only the third for the American League in the last 17 All-Star Games, and, in each, Whitey Herzog of the St. Louis Cardinals has been the losing NL manager.

TERRY STEINBACH

VINCE COLEMAN

The National League scored its only run — a typical Vince Coleman-style run — in its half of the fourth. The Cards' Coleman is the only major leaguer to steal 100 bases in each of his first three seasons — a real havoc-wrecker on the basepaths.

Leading off the fourth, he walked, stole second, went to third when Steinbach's throw went into center field, and scored on a wild pitch by Mark Gubicza of the Kansas City Royals.

Thus, even Steinbach's performance was not untainted, although hits later in the inning by Andre Dawson and Darryl Strawberry made the run earned.

After the fourth inning, the game became, as AL Manager Tom Kelly of the Minnesota Twins said, one of pitching and defense. Don Mattingly, the New York Yankees' fancy first baseman, made a diving stop of a smash by Andy Van Slyke that saved a run in the seventh, and swift second baseman Harold Reynolds of the Seattle Mariners ran down a soft liner to right by Ryne Sandberg with one out in the eighth.

"We got some outstanding plays from ... Harold Reynolds and Don Mattingly that saved a run. So pitching and defense won it for us."

Frank Viola, Kelly's World Series MVP left-hander, pitched the first two innings, retiring six in a row, and Roger Clemens of Boston retired the side in order in the third. Gubicza gave up the fourth-inning run, but retired the last eight men he faced over two innings. Then came Dave Stieb of Toronto, Jeff Russell of Texas, Doug Jones of Cleveland, Dan Plesac of Milwaukee and, finally, Dennis Eckersley of Oakland, who leads the majors with 26 saves. They allowed just two more hits, for a total of five, and no more runs.

After Gooden allowed the homer to Steinbach, who had only five this season, the Houston Astros' Knepper came on to start the fourth. With one out, Dave Winfield doubled into the left-center field alley.

He thus increased his own record. HOMER page 2-B

Americans blast Midland team

MIDLAND — The Big Spring American League All-Stars started their quest to defend the District III Little League Tournament title on the right foot as they dominated the Midland Eastern All-Stars 16-4 at Hogan Park Complex.

David Akin paced the win by firing a three-hitter at the Midland team. Akin, who was on last year's District III championship team, allowed a single, double and homer. Meanwhile his American League teammates banged out nine hits, including two singles by Akin.

After a scoreless first inning, the Americans rallied for six runs off Eastern starter Cory Watson. The next inning the Big Spring Stars scored seven more times to put the game out of reach.

Brandon Rodgers stroked a two-run homer to lead the Big Spring hitting attack. Todd Parrish and Ryan Hamby each doubled in the winning cause. Getting singles were Michael Jones, Timmy Rigdon, Jay Robertson and Brandon Hamblin.

The Big Spring Americans will play Odessa Salinas Friday at 7:30 p.m.

In other action Tuesday night, Odessa Salinas nipped Odessa Floyd Gwin 7-6; and Midland Mid-City slaughtered Odessa Sherwood 18-1.

In tonight's action, the Big Spring Nationals will play Midland Tower; the Big Spring Internationals will play Midland Western; and Coahoma will play Odessa Jim Parker. Tonight's other game pits Midland North Central versus Western Odessa.

All games begin at 7:30. Mid Eastern 011 011-4 3 6 BS Americans 067 03x-16 9 3 WP — David Akin, LP — Cory Watson.

Moses shooting for Olympic gold again

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Edwin Moses, the premier intermediate hurdler in track and field history, appears to have no more barriers to conquer in his event.

Yet, Moses, who will be 33 next month, continues to compete at the highest level, and currently ranks as the favorite for a record third Olympic gold medal in the 400-meter hurdles at the Seoul Games.

First, however, he must gain a berth on the U.S. team, which will be determined during the Olympic Trials, that start Friday and end July 23 at the Indiana University Track and Field Stadium.

"There are only three positions (in the 400 hurdles) and I'm going to have one of them," Moses said. "I always go in thinking I'm going to get my spot."

Moses has run only twice this year, but he feels that is sufficient preparation. He opened with a clocking of 48.38 seconds, his fastest first race of the year ever, and followed with 48.27.

Only NCAA champion Kevin Young of UCLA, 47.85, has run faster.

Young, along with Danny Harris and Andre Phillips, should provide Moses with his strongest opposition at the Trials.

Harris, a three-time NCAA champion at Iowa State, ended Moses' remarkable 10-year, 12-race winning streak last year at Madrid, Spain. Phillips was ranked No. 1 in the world in 1985, when Moses was injured, and in 1986, although Moses was unbeaten in 10 races.

Despite the impressive credentials of Young, Harris and Phillips, the indomitable Moses is not overly concerned about them during the Trials.

"There were three others (besides me) who could have won places on the team in 1984," Moses said, referring to Harris, Phillips and David Patrick. Instead, Moses beat them all, then went on to win his second Olympic gold medal, joining Glenn Davis, the 1956 and 1960 champion, as the only double winners in the 400 hurdles in Games' history.

Edwin Moses (left), sprints to the finish line while winning last year's 400 meter hurdles in the Goodwill Games in Moscow. At 33 Moses is still considered the top 400 hurdler in the world. He will be trying to make the U.S. Olympic team at the Olympic Trials.

In addition to his Olympic golds in 1976 and 1984, Moses is 2-for-2 in the World Championships, 3-for-3 in the World Cup and has broken the world record four times, lowering it the last time to 47.02 in 1983. Moses also made the 1980 U.S.

team, which boycotted the Moscow Games, and in 1984, he was the American flag bearer at the Los Angeles Olympics.

He is on another modest winning streak of 12, starting last July after he fell and did not finish a race at MOSES page 2-B

Angels edge

ANDREWS — The Big Spring Angels, a Big League team for youth ages 16-18, prepped for Sectional Tournament play by competing in the Greater West Texas Baseball Tournament.

The Angels won their first game, a 5-3 decision over the Midland Mustangs.

Aaron Allen was the winning pitcher for the Angels. He also hit a solo homer in the fourth inning. Felix Rodriguez went two-for-three in the game, including the game-winning RBI in the fifth. Allen, Chris Crowover and Eric Boyt all got two hits in the winning cause.

Tonight at 8:30 the Angels will face the winner of the Odessa-Andrews contest.

Starr's son died of cocaine OD

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The death of Bret Starr, 24-year-old son of NFL Hall-of-Famer Bart Starr, was ruled accidental due to cocaine today.

"The official ruling from the medical examiner is cardiac arrhythmia due to acute cocaine indulgence."

The coroner said Bret Starr died accidentally on July 4 or 5 in his rented suburban Tampa home. His body, unrecognizable due to decomposition, was found July 7 when his father, apparently concerned because he had not been able to contact him, went to the house.

U.S. golfers will let clubs do the talking

LYTHAM, England (AP) — Curtis Strange, declining to become involved in an "us against them" confrontation, is the chief carrier of American hopes going into the 117th British Open Golf Championship.

"I'll let my clubs do the talking, let my score do the talking. That's the way it should be," the U.S. Open champion said before a final practice round for the tournament that begins Thursday.

His remark was in response to a controversial declaration by British Ryder Cup captain Tony Jacklin that a European victory is all but certain because "we're better than they are."

Jacklin listed five Europeans — all members of his last victorious

Ryder Cup team — as the men most likely to succeed in the tournament that, except for the United States, is recognized as the world championship.

They are current Masters champion Sandy Lyle of Scotland, defending British Open title-holder Nick Faldo of England, Seve Ballesteros of Spain, Bernhard Langer of West Germany and Ian Woosnam of Wales.

"I can't see beyond a European victory," Jacklin said. Britain's legal bookies tended to agree.

Ballesteros, who won the first of two British Open titles on the same links at Royal Lytham and St. Annes in 1979, was listed as the pre-tournament favorite at 9-1.

He was followed immediately by Lyle, who won three U.S. PGA Tour titles and one in Britain and leads the American money-winning list this year, at 10-1 and Faldo at 12-1.

Strange, who scored his third triumph of the season in a playoff victory over Faldo at the U.S. Open, and Ben Crenshaw are the leading American players at 14-1.

Woosnam, coming back from an injury absence, and Mark McNulty of Zimbabwe, the leader of the British Order of Merit, also were at 14-1.

Greg Norman of Australia, still bothered by the wrist injury he sustained in the U.S. Open, is not competing.

History is working against him. An American has not won this title since Tom Watson collected his fifth British Open victory in 1983. And an American has not won at Lytham-St. Annes since Bobby Jones in 1926.

Despite some Watson enthusiasm about a potential solution to the putting problems that have plagued him so long, Watson was dropped from 25-1 to 33-1 in the latest bookies' odds.

Some other leading Americans in the 153-man field include veteran Lanny Wadkins, PGA champion Larry Nelson, Tom Kite, Mark Calcavecchia, Payne Stewart and Chip Beck.

JULY 13 1988

NCAA questioning Houston about payment of players

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Houston's athletic director says the school will act quickly to answer NCAA allegations of cash payments to football players from 1978 through 1984.

"We just have to make sure things like that don't happen again," Rudy Davalos said Tuesday. "Some of the things may have happened and some of them might not."

"So it's our job to respond and go probably in October."

The Cougars have until Oct. 17 to respond to about 250 allegations, and Davalos says he doesn't anticipate any requests for an extension.

"We're happy to get the inquiry and we'll react to it," he said.

The NCAA formally notified school officials Tuesday in a 26-page document charging coaches with paying players, in one instance up to $900.

Another allegation accuses a coach of dividing up $1,500 among three players in 1984.

The allegations center on the Cougar football program when Bill Yeoman was head coach.

Yeoman, who resigned after the 1986 season and now serves as a fundraiser for the school at an annual salary of $103,000, declined to comment on specifics of the NCAA letter released by the school Tuesday.

"I'm immediately reminded that someone else has indicated that they'll take care of all revenge, and they'll take care of the judgment," Yeoman said in an interview with KRIV-TV.

"So I think it would be vastly better for me to keep my mouth shut." Yeoman admitted last year that he gave money for humanitarian purposes to players who were broke or whose families needed money to cover rent or utility bills.

Yeoman told a Houston in-house investigation that players were never given more than $35 at a time and the cash was used to buy gas and take care of specific needs.

In March 1986, several former Cougar athletes told of receiving their playing careers at Houston.

Former players Lonell Phea and David Roberson said they received $18,000 and $10,000.

Former running back Kelvin Gill said he received about $150 over two years. He was a walk-on. Gill also said he knew of an estimated 20 to 30 players who got personal loans of up to $200.

In the copies of the NCAA letter released to the news media, names of players or coaches were blanked out and in their place the phrase "a player" or "a coach" were substituted.

One allegation involves a coach giving three players $500 during the 1984 season. During the fall of 1981, a coach allegedly gave a player $900 while riding in an automobile.

During the 1982-83 academic year, a coach was alleged to have given $100 to an athlete so his mother could pay her electric bill, and then arranged for the player to obtain a round-trip airplane ticket from Houston to Dallas at no cost so he could give the money to his mother.

Paris, and he has an incredible career record of 170 victories in 178 hurdles races, including heats and semifinals, dating to 1975.

This year, Moses has yet to compete on the lucrative European circuit, and he hasn't missed it.

"I wanted to stay home and concentrate on my training," he said. "I had opportunities to run more races, but I didn't."

"I wanted to do quality training. That's what is best for me. I'm in great shape now."

After the Trials, Moses said, he would carefully choose the races that would best prepare him for the Games.

"I want to stay relaxed," he said. "I feel so good about my training now that I will run for sure next year."

for career All-Star doubles to seven and tied the consecutive-game All-Star hitting record of seven by Mickey Mantle and Joe Morgan.

After the double, Cal Ripken walked, and a single to left by Mark McGwire loaded the bases for Steinbach. Knepper almost fell off the mound on his first pitch to Steinbach, and catcher Gary Carter had to bounce out to his right to prevent the soft delivery from going to the backstop. Steinbach then hit a long, high one that Coleman caught on the warning track, scoring Winfield, at 36 the oldest All-Star starter.

After Knepper came David Cone of the Mets, Kevin Gross of Philadelphia, Mark Davis of San Francisco, Bob Walk of Pittsburgh, Orel Hershiser of Los Angeles and Todd Worrell of the Cardinals. Among them, they allowed one more hit for a total of six for the American League, and no more runs.

Last year's game in Oakland was won by the NL 2-0, and the AL won 3-2 in 1986. Not since the American League's 13-3 victory in 1983 have more than seven runs been scored in an All-Star Game.

The NL had a couple of chances to score late in the game, its best in the seventh. Carter singled with two out off Russell, and Sabo came in to run, finally quieting the chants of "Sabo! Sabo! Sabo!" that had begun in the early innings. Sabo stole second and when pinch-hitter Rafael Palmeiro hit a foul fly about three rows into the stands down the left-field line, Sabo was off-and-running. He trotted right across home plate and into the NL dugout.

He quickly returned to second and meekly took up his position. Palmeiro walked, and Van Slyke came up. With Mattingly guarding the line against a possible extra-base hit, Van Slyke hit a hard smash about 20 feet off the line. Mattingly dived to his right, gloved the ball and just got Palmeiro at second for the third out, surely saving a run.

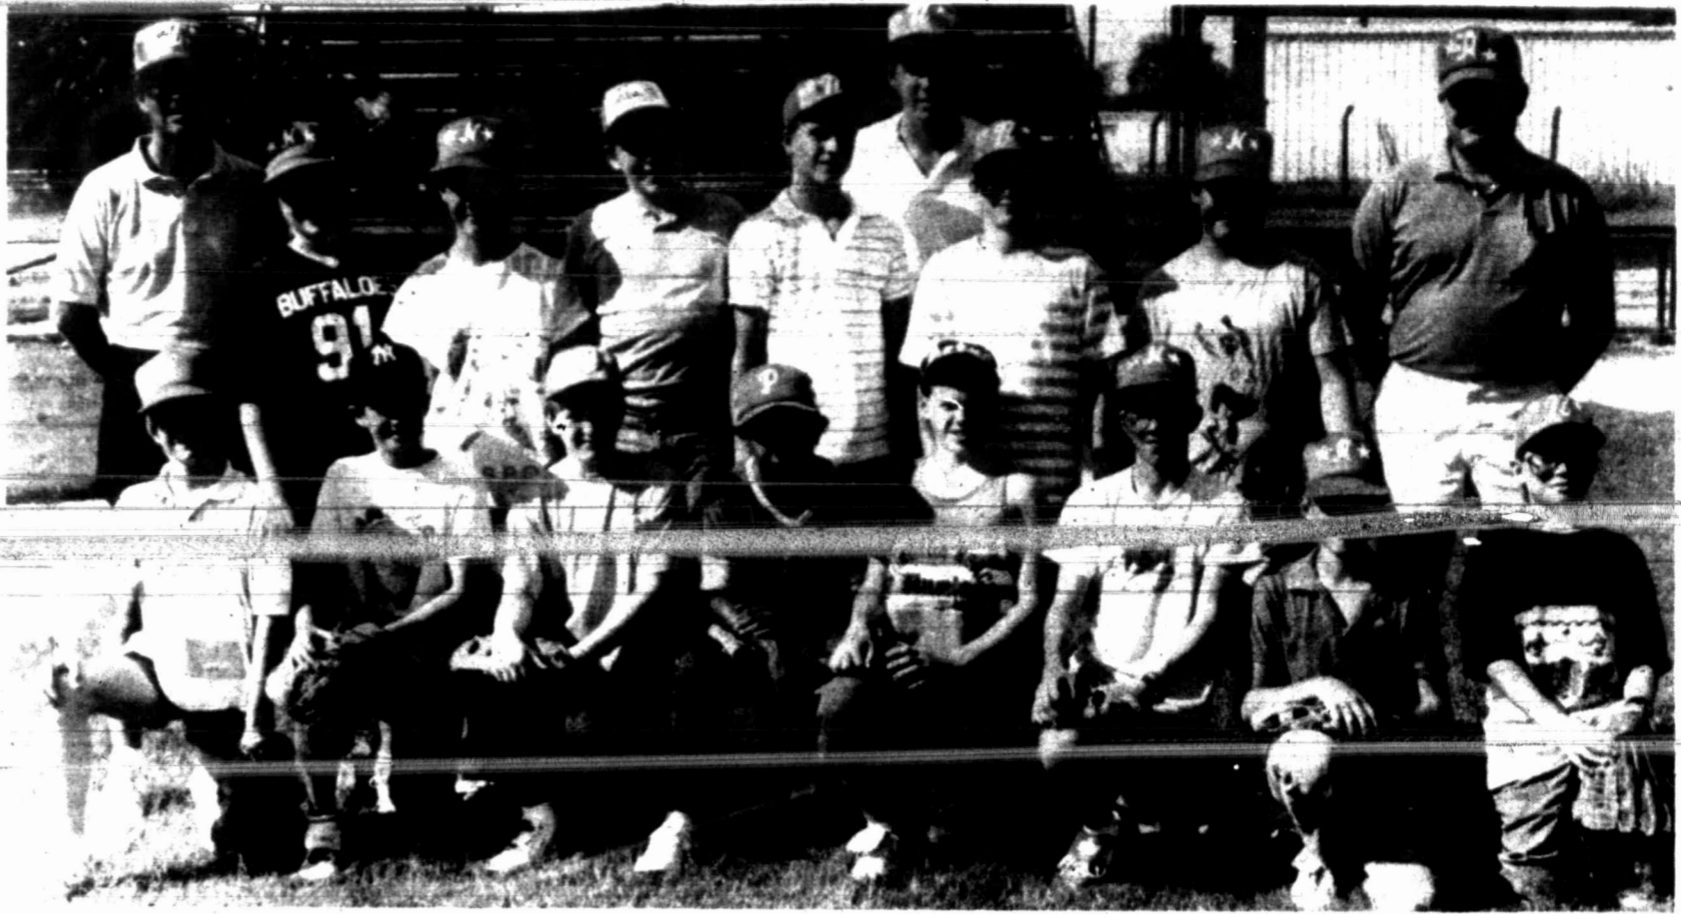

Mercifully, that was just about it for this All-Star Game. There was only one baserunner in the final two innings. Willie McGee reached safely with two out in the eighth on an error by Mattingly, so his night did not go unstained, either.

And when the game ended, less than three hours after Mickey and Minnie Mouse's tribute to a yawner of a game, it was the shortest All-Star contest since 1976.

New NBA team gets head coach

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Heat coach Ron Rothstein says he'll emphasize short-term goals for the NBA expansion team in his first year as a professional head coach.

"Win the first game," he said. "The second short-term goal is win the second game."

Rothstein, introduced at a news conference Tuesday as the Heat's first coach, said he wants the team to show steady improvement even though he'll be under little pressure to win the first year.

"I have a great lawyer who negotiated my contract, and in my contract it says three wins," Rothstein joked.

The coach said patience is essential with an expansion team, but at the same time he wouldn't rule out winning 50 games the first season.

"Obviously that's not realistic," he said. "But you know what? Nothing's out of the realm of possibility. As long as it's possible, we'll go after it."

Rothstein, who helped direct the Detroit Pistons to the NBA finals last month as an assistant to Chuck Daly, said he likes the looks of the Heat's roster following the expansion and college drafts. He said he's excited about working with Miami's two first-round choices in the college draft, Syracuse center Rony Seikaly and DePaul guard Kevin Edwards.

Rothstein, 45, is a native of Bronxville, N.Y. He lost his first 36 games as a head coach, at Eastchester, N.Y., High School, and he was still coaching in high school as recently as 1983.

"You have to like a guy who has scraped his way to get where he is," Miami managing partner Lewis Schaffel said. "He's not one of those guys who was born under a lucky star... he is clearly what we were looking for in a coach."

Rothstein took his first NBA job in 1979 as a scout for the Atlanta Hawks. He became a Hawks assistant in 1983 and joined Daly in Detroit in 1986.

"Ron Rothstein was destined to be a head coach of an NBA team," Daly said from Detroit. "He has all the basketball background and emotional stability to be highly successful."

Rothstein coached the Pistons' defense, which held opponents under 100 points in 15 of 23 playoff games.

"I've heard the term defense mastermind. Truthfully, I don't buy it, OK? There are only X number of things that you can do, and your players have to do it for you," Rothstein said.

"And yet, I feel very comfortable at the offensive end of the floor, and I would hope my teams will reflect that."

Rothstein said he has wanted to be a head coach in the NBA for about 10 years.

"At the end of last season, I started to feel that maybe I was ready, and after this year I felt in my mind that I was, but not before then," Rothstein said.

He agreed to a three-year contract for an estimated $150,000-$170,000 per year. He said he's "been in touch with a few people" interested in becoming assistants.

Rothstein said he's ready for the switch from a team that won the Eastern Conference championship to a team likely to be blown out of many games.

AD says reports are false, but quits position anyway

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Athletic Director Neale Stoner says allegations of misconduct are false, but he will resign so the "media-created controversy" does not hurt the university's sports program.

"As the public is aware, long before the audit was complete and the facts known, the local press tried and convicted me based on anonymous allegations and rumors," Stoner said Tuesday. "These allegations and rumors now have proved to be completely unfounded."

But UI Chancellor Morton Weir said an investigation did reveal improper personal use of Athletic Association gifts and services by Stoner.

Weir said the entire episode made it impossible for Stoner "to continue to be effective as director of athletics," so he and Stoner agreed to the resignation.

He said attorneys expected details of Stoner's resignation to be worked out later this week, and that the settlement "won't be costly."

The university began an investigation of the Athletic Association this spring after employees charged they had been ordered to clean Stoner's swimming pool, move him to a new house, build cabinets, install a workbench and repair his automobiles.

Stoner said during his more than eight years as athletic director he did, on a few occasions, allow AA maintenance employees to do personal work for him — services worth about $904. He said that practice was well established in the AA before he came to Illinois.

"However, in light of this local media-created controversy, I have chosen to resign so that accusations will no longer interfere with the effective operation of the Athletic Association," Stoner said. The maintenance employees also said they did personal work for Stoner's top aides, but Weir had no immediate comment on the future of any other AA officials.

The UI athletic board was scheduled to meet Friday to receive a report on the probe, along with Weir's recommendations.

The non-profit Athletic Association, headed by Stoner and overseen by a board of directors, directs the school's intercollegiate athletic programs with considerable independence from the university.

Weir, who plans to bring the AA under greater school control, said Tuesday that Stoner had indicated he did not wish to continue as director under that kind of structure.

The chancellor said the school's investigation revealed that over a five-year period, AA employees performed work on Stoner's home, yard and family cars.

In addition, he said dry-cleaning services, credited as a donation to the AA were used by Stoner and his family, though the company did not take the donation as a tax deduction.

"I have stated previously that I believe these are improper," said Weir. "Neale strongly disagrees... Whether this conduct in and of itself would have warranted his discharge will remain an open question."

He stressed that during the investigation, UI officials determined that "many of the improprieties alleged or rumored concerning Neale Stoner" were unsubstantiated.

"What is true, however, is that all of this has hurt Neale Stoner's reputation and the reputation of the university and its athletic programs," Weir said. "It has raised questions about our integrity. It has cast a cloud over the university from which it will probably take years to recover."

The chancellor said he was "saddened" by the developments and called Stoner "one of the most successful collegiate athletic administrators in the nation."

Yankee All-Stars ignore Steinbrenner sniping

By JIM DONAGHY
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI — Maybe the real key to the All-Star Game was George Steinbrenner's unhappiness with his New York Yankees.

A day after his public criticism, Don Mattingly saved the game with his glove and Dave Winfield scored the winning run.

When Mattingly reached Riverfront Stadium on Tuesday night, he found out that George was in the attack again against his Yankee All-Stars.

Steinbrenner said Mattingly had been the most unproductive .300 hitter this year, that Rickey Henderson should have rested his injured ankles and doubted once again Winfield's ability to maintain a .340-plus average the rest of the season.

Mattingly responded with a brilliant defensive play at first base and Winfield doubled and scored the game-winning run in the fourth inning as the American League beat the National League

2-1 in the 59th All-Star game.

With two outs in the seventh inning, Gary Carter singled and was replaced by pinch-runner Chris Sabo. Sabo stole second and Mark Gubicza then walked Rafael Palmeiro to bring up Andy Van Slyke.

Van Slyke hit a hard grounder to first base that Mattingly flagged on one hop while diving toward his right and then flipped to shortstop Cal Ripken for a force play, preserving the 2-1 lead.

"I definitely thought it was an easier play at second than at first," Mattingly, a three-time Gold Glove winner, said. "I saw the ball off the bat. It wasn't one of those reflex plays. You don't catch too many when your eyes are closed."

Van Slyke wasn't surprised that Mattingly made the play. "Mattingly is one of the best defensive first basemen in the American League," Van Slyke said. "Those plays for Don Mattingly seem to be routine."

Hearing from Steinbrenner is

"It seems he never has anything good to say," Winfield said. "We're doing well under constant criticism; think what we might do if we got a pat on the back."

also routine for Mattingly and his teammates.

"I'm not going to play that game in the papers," Mattingly said when asked to respond to Steinbrenner's remarks. "If he wants to talk to me he can call me up to his office and talk to me."

"I never tried to do any type of business through the papers," he said.

Winfield hit his seventh double in All-Star play to extend his record and scored on Terry Steinbach's sacrifice fly.

It was also the seventh consecutive All-Star game that Winfield has hit safely, tying Mickey Mantle and Joe Morgan.

"I was pleased to tie the record," Winfield said. "I knew about it and I realized when I made contact that I had a hit. For some reason I get a lot of doubles in this game."

Winfield wasn't so pleased about what Steinbrenner had to say.

"It seems he never has anything good to say," Winfield said. "We're doing well under constant criticism; think what we might do if we got a pat on the back."

Henderson walked leading off the game against Dwight Gooden, singled in the third and flied out in the fifth.

"It's sometimes irritating," Henderson said of Steinbrenner's suggestions. "But he's the boss and has the right to say what he wants. He thinks it motivates the team but I don't see it really helping."

For Steinbrenner, Mattingly, Winfield and Henderson have not done enough, but in the All-Star game they did just enough to beat the National League.

"It's a great feeling to contribute no matter if it's a hit or a good defensive play," said Mattingly, who is 0-for-8 in five All-Star games.

Mattingly, Winfield and Henderson can only hope the Yankees' bombastic owner can start having better feelings about his All-Stars.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JULY 13, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Better work conditions make it easier for you to do your best. You reap the rewards that come from excellence! Reconcile with a spouse or sibling. Parents exert a beneficial influence. A raise or windfall is yours in December. Financial concerns should be a thing of the past by mid-January. Be blunt about things that upset you. The more openness the better in building strong personal relationships. Marry quickly if you feel the time is right. Travel boosts sales.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: catcher Mike Fitzgerald, actors Harrison Ford and Bob Crane, TV pioneer Dave Garroway, Congressman Jack Kemp, comedian Cheech Marin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The outlook brightens for those seeking employment. Although a business decision is out of your hands, someone is working behind the scenes on your behalf. Take a chance on a blind date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your bark is more fierce than your bite, but not everyone knows that. Settle down and show business associates your wit and understanding. Travel with a companion you know well. Share expenses.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Two heads will definitely be better than one when deciding on business priorities. Government service may play a big role in helping your career. A college decision requires putting away extra money.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Maturity counts big when higher-ups decide who gets a job. Stay on your toes, but do not let anyone know how eager you are. Patience and candid conversation will salvage a relationship.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your inventive methods may not work today. Let others take the lead for a change. Physical activity helps clear the cobwebs away. Try to walk or play tennis on your lunch hour.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take inventory of recent investments before making any new ones. Seek experts' advice and follow it to the letter. Think big in business. Halfway measures will not work. Accept a social invitation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Curb a tendency to over-react to difficult situations. A neighbor wants to become a friend. You can gain large concessions by making small ones to mate or partner. Romance has a special glow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Flattery works wonders, especially with a small child. You make money by helping others — and win applause, too. A romantic partner who feels neglected could stray. Be attentive. Dine in a quiet, love-inspiring setting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Show more initiative and higher-ups will give you more authority. A sterling work performance is the key to career success and a fatter paycheck. Be careful not to neglect family members.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A morning telephone call brings good financial luck. Follow current trends. A great day to hunt for bargains in unusual places. An obstacle to romance begins to disappear. Play a waiting game.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not rest on your laurels. Develop new talents. Send out up-to-date resumes if job-hunting. Avoid anyone who wallows in self-pity. Romance is better the second time around!

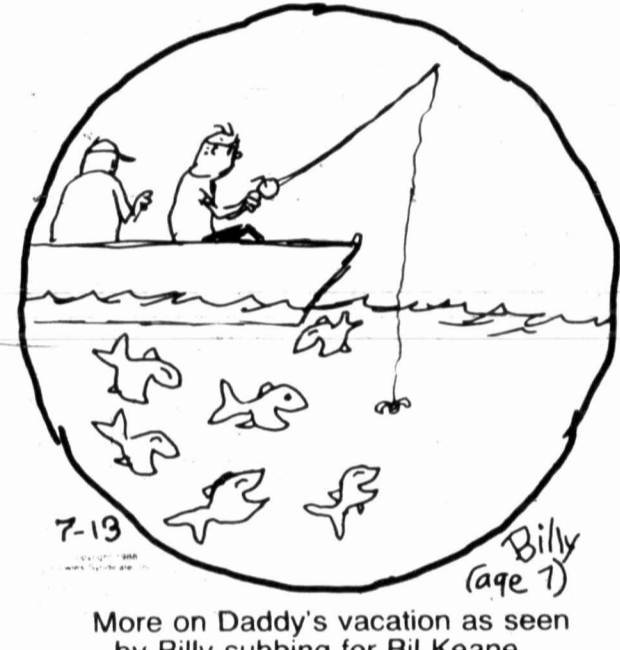

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Someone who once rejected you needs your advice or services. Big money is paid for original ideas. Guard yours so you alone reap the profits. A gift or bouquet helps mend a rift.

Old Settlers' Reunion celebrated

By PEGGY LUXTON
Cap Rock Electric Cooperative

Should a stranger have ventured into downtown Stanton last Saturday, he would have been hard-pressed to figure out exactly what was going on.

What was going on was the 1988 Martin County Old Settlers' Reunion. It's the one time of the year when a common heritage is shared by all those who live in this area. Though we may have moved to Stanton in relatively recent years, it is a time to celebrate the feats of those who moved here before, those who cleared the fields, who drilled the wells, who carved the roads and generally molded Martin County into the place so many of us now call home.

One's ancestors do not have to bear one of the history-making surnames and one does not have to live in Martin County all of one's life to become a part of the Old Settlers' Reunion. All that is required is a bit of respect and admiration for those who did.

The parade that began Saturday's festivities drew, if not a record-breaking crowd, at least enough watchers on-hand to cheer the participants. The color guards' steps were brisk as they led off a parade that included a chuck wagon, several antique automobiles, several classes reunited, several mounted horsemen, a horse-drawn buggy or two, Miss Martin County and a football sweetheart from days gone by. The 4-H float threw candy and gum to the crowd, there was a herd of miniaturized radio-controlled hot-rods, and Fort Concho's Buffalo Soldiers from San Angelo escorted their wagon. There were beavies of three-wheelers and bikers. The float bearing representatives of Martin County's veterans brought lumps to the throats of many onlookers.

Survivors of the Tom family epitomized what the celebration was all about, Descendants of Charley, George and Peter Tom rode the float and accepted accolades on behalf of their pioneering ancestors.

But a parade alone does not a celebration make. The Tom family members were on hand at the Martin County Historical Museum to greet those who came to tour the facility. Tours were also conducted at the old convent.

The games began in the afternoon and Martin County had its share of the thrills of victory and the agonies of defeat. The street in front of the downtown buildings looked like a giant omelette after misses and mishaps resulting from the egg toss. Whether all present were signed up or not, all present participated as tossed eggs were not caught and crashed onto the street amid spectators and competitors alike.

Tortillas went spinning through the air, as well as tobacco juice, as the crowd followed the participants from the Tortilla Toss to the Tobacco-Spitting Contest. There was also a Bubble-Gum Blowing Contest and what is called a Jello-Eating Contest.

Now, in the Jello-Eating competition, double tables are set up, with cereal bowls filled with strawberry jello. The object of the competition is to eat the most jello in the shortest length of time.

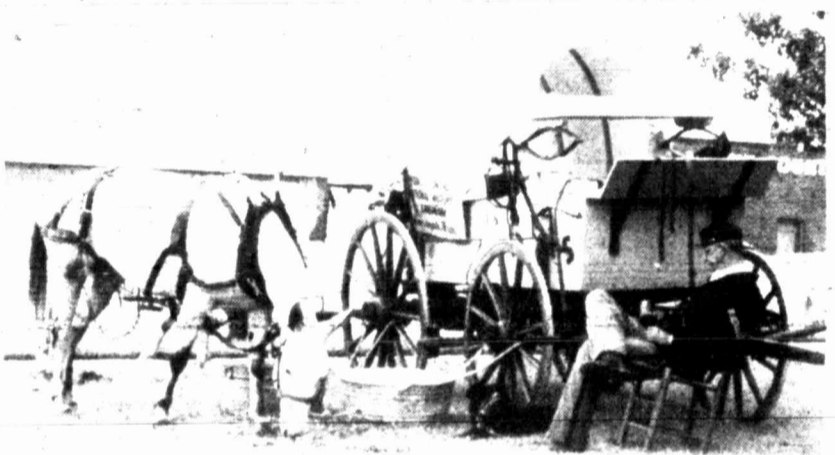

All the table manners these kids were taught by mama went right out of the window during this competition. The kids keep their hands behind them and a plastic garbage bag is slipped over each kid, with a hole cut just big enough for his head to fit through. So the jello-eating is accomplished not by bringing the jello to the mouth, but by taking the mouth to the jello, along with the nose, the eyebrows, the hair and ears. More jello ends up on the kids than in them.

With the games finished, there is time to relax and visit with friends and neighbors before the day's finale event — a street dance. As Stanton streets were quite wet this year, with constant threat of further rain, this event was held in the Martin County Community Center instead of in the street. The fact that the dance was indoors instead of outdoors did not dull the energy of the dancers or the enthusiasm of the onlookers. Mike Payne's Band was first-rate by any standards and the dancers who took to the floor proved they could cut a rug in as fancy a manner as any big city's dwellers.

The Martin County Old Settlers' Reunion is a celebration the like of which cannot be found just any time or any place. It is the type of celebration that is slowly dying out in this country because of lack of interest in those who were not directly involved in the events being celebrated, who did not call a place home during the time it was being settled. Martin County does not appear to be in danger yet of losing this show of pride in community, but there is no doubt the support of each Martin County resident is needed to ensure the survival of this yearly traditional treasure. Not much is required — only that if you can't come do — then come look.

Do you see your face in the crowd?

Summer can be dangerous for kids

It's summertime, and your kids may be in danger.

According to Kathy Sridaromont, a pediatric nurse at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, it is important for children to understand summer safety.

With children having more free time in the summer, parents should pay extra attention to their kid's activities, Sridaromont said, adding that the leading cause of death for youngsters is accidents. Sridaromont's key point is to view things through the child's eyes by understanding their curiosity and realizing they will always test the limits set by their parents.

The view and the responses parents should take will vary depending on whether the child is an infant, toddler, pre-schooler or adolescent.

Those who are in grade school through junior high present particular challenges to their parents because their never-ending curiosity runs counter to their partially developed judgement.

She said the key is for parents to practice anticipatory safety by realizing that there are potentially dangerous consequences for almost everything.

Sridaromont suggests setting limits for all children so they understand what is considered proper safety behavior. That would involve setting parameters for everything from sun exposure to tree climbing.

"Childhood brings with it a very dynamic and enthusiastic play," she said. "Kids are always changing their minds. It's easy for a parent to say 'The kids are just fine,' but you never know what kids are doing next.

Sridaromont provided the following summer safety guidelines:

- Infants and toddlers can burn easily in the dry West Texas heat. A newborn can develop second and third degree burns in only 10 minutes of direct exposure to the sun.

Jeremy Stallings qualifies for National Junior Olympics

Stanton's two qualifiers for the Athletic Congress Regional meet made fine showings in the meet held in Houston last Friday and Saturday nights.

Jeremy Stallings, in the youth division (13-14 age) qualified for the National Junior Olympics meet in Gainesville, Fla., with a third place in the 1500 meters with a 4:39 time.

Jeremy equaled the existing meet record in the 800 meters with a 2:09 time, for a close fourth place finish.

In the bantam (age 9-10) division, Jerrod Stallings took a tight fourth place with a 5:46 in the 1500 meters, knocking 30 seconds off his previous best time. Jerrod posted a 3:03 in the 800 meters.

It was dance time in Stanton

Stanton Reunion dance contest winners listed

Local Chamber of Commerce officials were enthused about the events they conducted during last Saturday's Old Settlers' Reunion.

Chamber officers, with the help of several former Jaycees, started the downtown games shortly after the parade.

A large field of entries participated in events ranging from egg toss to jello eating before a throng of spectators.

The Chamber sponsored traditional street dance was moved to the Community Center due to threatening weather. Mike Payne and his Western Stars played to a wall to wall crowd.

In the three division dance contest, David Brown and Linda Spear took top honors in the polka, while Hoss and Barbara Morris captured first in both the two step and waltz.

Other dance contest winners were:

Dennis and Judy Ireton, second, polka.

Dennet and Gaye Hull, third, polka.

Tiney and Doyle Jones, second, two-step.

Marty and Robbye Straub, third, two-step.

Doyle and Clairese Hale, second, waltz.

Jack and Norma Hobbs, third, waltz.

Martin County Chamber of Commerce President Steve Herm presented a plaque to Gerry Yardley during the Old Settlers program honoring her for four and half years service as chamber secretary.

Editorial/opinion

Views of papers across the U.S.

Why not offer compensation

The answers to the questions strewn like debris around the tragic drowning of Iran Air Flight 655 won't be available for at least two weeks. But it is not too soon for the United States to think about an appropriate humanitarian response.

President Reagan used the right words when he called the incident a "terrible human tragedy." But Mr. Reagan's condolences were muffled by the whirl of helicopter blades in the background, and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. William J. Crowe Jr., buried his statement of regret in the midst of a briefing on the military details.

U.S. officials are studying the question of compensation, but a State Department spokeswoman said it is "premature."

There is no shame, nor is there necessarily an admission of guilt, in offering compensation to the families. Such a gesture would represent America at its best.

The Philadelphia Inquirer

Waiting period a sensible idea

The House Judiciary Committee... approved a measure requiring a national seven-day waiting period in sales of pistols. It's unlikely it will pass, of course — the gun lobby is terribly powerful — but it is, nonetheless, a sensible and reasonable idea.

The rationale behind the waiting period is to give police time to check as to whether the prospective purchaser has a criminal record or mental problems. The idea is to try to keep handguns out of the hands of criminal and the mentally ill.

The proposal this time has a powerful ally. President Reagan, who himself was shot by an assassin carrying a handgun, is a supporter of the waiting period. He drew not only on his own experience but on his task force on violent crime which made the waiting period one of its core recommendations.

Portland (Maine) Press-Herald

Quick action needed on drought

Missouri Gov. John Ashcroft says he is ready to take swift action to bring drought relief to Missouri farmers. State Rep. Bob Holden, D-136th District of Springfield, wants a special session of the General Assembly to take up the relief question.

Both ideas make sense. The sweet smell of rain may have delivered temporary relief to drought-stricken Missouri livestock. But it did nothing to help farmers who culled their herds before the rains.

Missouri would be far better off to grapple with the issues of drought relief when they can accomplish some good than to wait until it is too late.

A bipartisan relief program may be the best investment Missouri can make for farmers.

Prosecutor a necessary safeguard

(The U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the power of independent counsels to prosecute upper echelon government employees could be bad news for several current and former Reagan administration officials.

Moreover, the decision's broader influence will help to maintain the balance of power and ensure the government's system of checks and balances — two of the chief arguments opponents used against the law.

ly recognized the importance of the Ethics in Government Act. The special prosecutor is necessary to thwart abuses of executive power by guaranteeing integrity in investigations into possible criminal activity by high-level officials.

Without such a law, the current situation would require the nation to rely on (former) Attorney General Edwin Meese, who has himself come under independent-counsel inquiries.

The Lewiston (Maine) Daily Sun

Gulf policy needs reviewing

Much human folly, inadvertent or inexcusable, went into the making of the awful tragedy that befell Iran Air Flight 655. The minute-by-minute log of the U.S. Iranian clash that culminated in the loss of 290 lives brings heartache to Americans and adds even more fury to the rhetoric of Tehran's revolutionary leadership.

The mistakes so obviously made by both sides during those fateful 45 minutes will now be added to the 9 years of war, slaughter, hostage-taking, fanaticism, hatred, intrigue and cynicism that have marked the rule of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

From the moment the Reagan administration decided in early 1987 to reflag Kuwaiti oil tankers with the Stars and Stripes, thereby taking on the burden of protecting them within the Iran-Iraq war zone, the danger of catastrophe was apparent.

While we continue to question the rationale of the large U.S. naval presence in the Gulf, we fully understand why the officers of the USS Vincennes felt it necessary to fire missiles at an aircraft they believed was zeroing in on their ship.

"U.S. investigations will have to determine just what information was available to the Vincennes, and precisely when... To provide credibility, these probes need international oversight. In the meantime, the United States should not be grudging either in offering official apologies or reparations.

The Baltimore Sun

Abolish execution of minors

The U.S. Supreme Court came close... closer than it ever had come before — to banning the execution of children in the United States. Because the court didn't go all the way, however, the United States still stands itself condemned in world councils for allowing this barbaric practice.

Of the more than 11,000 court-ordered executions in the world since 1979, according to Amnesty International, only eight were of persons who had committed their crimes when they were less than 18. Three of these, shamefully, were in the United States, two were in Pakistan, and one each was in Bangladesh, Rwanda and Barbados.

With the exception of Barbados, these aren't the kind of countries with which the United States should want to be associated. The Supreme Court started the dissociation with last week's halfway ruling. It should go all the way next time.

The Wichita (Kan.) Eagle-Beacon

Solving a problem in Stanton

I WITNESSED an interesting scene in Stanton the other day.

A pickup truck was double-parked. A man in a Cadillac drove up behind it and honked.

A man loading bags into the truck called out:

"Why don't you help me load these bags of fertilizer instead of sitting there honking? It'll be faster."

The other guy asked, "How many have you got?"

"Five."

So he got out of the Cadillac, helped him load the pickup, and quickly resolved a traffic jam.

The Herald's Roy Lee Barnhill, has what he thinks is a typical man-woman conversation.

She: Is it correct to say "girls is" or "girls are"?

He: "Girls are," of course, because "girls" is plural.

She: But you just said "girls is."

He: I still say that "girls are" is correct.

She: You probably are right and I'm wrong as you usually are.

He: What do you mean — you're wrong as I usually am?

She: Sorry, but I still think it is better to say "Girls, is my slip showing?"

He: I'm sorry too... that you had to ask me.

(Cool Silence.)

GOOD OL' Jim Beal, watching

WALT FINLEY

TV and having his high blood pressure checked in New York, writes about the two hunters who agreed if they parted from each other and got lost, they'd shoot into the air three times.

It happened, and the lost guy shot into the air three times. He waited, but nothing happened. So he shot three more times. And three more.

Then he said:

"He'd better hurry and find me. I'm running out of arrows."

Coincidental Intelligence:

Marijuana-sniffing dogs are very effective, but they don't work with heroin because they become addicted to it.

Is your son practicing pogonotrophy? If he is, what are you going to do to him?

Not much, I hope. It's the art of growing a beard.

One easy way to lose a pound is to give a pint of blood to your favorite hospital or the Red Cross.

MAYBE HUMOR in traffic sign would accomplish what all serious efforts have not — getting the attention of the nuts who drive cars and have, or cause, most of the accidents.

The National Safety Council has found a few.

Then 10-mile-an-hour sign in Mobile Park at Oxnard, Calif., did not good, so it was changed to "Speed Limit 9 1/2 m.p.h."

Cleveland had Keep Moving Signs along a rush-hour artery, without too much success, until they added wistfully "When Possible."

In Ohio a sign on a road under construction reads: "Road Closed — Do Not Enter." When the motorist returns sheepishly, he finds a sign on the other side saying, "Welcome Back, Stupid!"

Anything's worth trying with some of the dunderheads driving now.

Do you know who's responsible for our being a nation heavily in debt with a population heavily in debt?

Roosevelt, of course. No, not Franklin D., dummy — Theodore. He was the one who invented the national slogan:

"Charge!"

My walking aunt, Marie Chastain, who fell and broke her jaw, says: "Mickey Rooney is a gentleman. He always looked up to every one of his wives."

THE WORST wind damage we ever sustain comes at election time.

My bright cousin, Dr. George Ladd, reports on a new game called "Fertility Roulette: Shake up five aspirins and a birth control pill and let your girl friend pick one."

The Herald's Missy Barnes says: Nowadays people who go around with their noses stuck up in the air in the big cities are only sniffing for something breathable.

MY LANDLORD Mayor Cotton Mize reports:

Old King Cole, the merry old soul, called for his fiddlers two. Two? Yeah. The third fiddler was on the roof.

ELI GUINN, alias "twinkle-toes," asks:

"What do you call a woman with a career in radio and television? Why a broadcaster, of course!"

PLEASE WRITE Expressions of public opinion for publication on issues of general interest are always welcomed by the Stanton Herald. They should be typewritten if possible and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to lessen mistakes. Other requirements are that they be signed, be free of libelous statements and be in good taste. Political endorsements will not be accepted during a campaign.

So if you have an opinion on matters of public concern, which most everybody does, and don't mind sharing it, jot it down. Just make sure it doesn't libel anybody, is in good taste, sign it and send it to: Stanton Herald, Box 1378, Stanton, Texas, 79782.

Mark Hoelscher named manager Martin County Water District

Mark Hoelscher will assume duties as manager of the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District on July 20. He comes to Stanton from a like position in Glasscock County. He will be working exclusively for the Martin County district, located in an office in the rear of 208 N. St. Peter Street in Stanton.

Hoelscher's duties with the Martin County District will be centered around quality control. They will be working to prevent contamination of the county's groundwater, particularly in the oil fields.

Hoelscher will investigate salt water disposals and other oilfield operations to ensure they are not contaminating the groundwater supply.

He said he expects to establish a monitoring network that will determine the current quality of water and allow identification of pollutants and sources so they can be controlled.

Hoelscher's only work with surface water will be in determining its effects on the groundwater supply.

Hoelscher expects also to be involved in irrigation efficiency and improvement studies and soil moisture monitoring. He will be reporting directly to the Martin County Underground Water District Board of Directors. Members of that board are John Campbell, Jimmie Sawyer, Earl Dickenson and Rufus Tom.

Before coming to Martin County, Hoelscher was with the Glasscock County District for six years. Prior to that, he worked in the service department of Cave-Bowlin, Inc. of Stanton, managed a sod farm in North Texas and farmed in the St. Lawrence community.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. I.L. Hoelscher of Uvalde, Hoelscher was born in Big Spring. He grew up south of Eagle Pass and graduated from Eagle Pass High School. He holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Agronomy from Texas A&M University.

Hoelscher's wife, Sharon, is management secretary for Cap Rock Electric Cooperative in Stanton.

Mark Hoelscher
The couple have two children. Rachel is 11 and Matthew is 6.

Obituary

Melba Denman

ROBERT LEE — Melba Celestine Denman, 60, died Friday, July 1, in Shannon Medical Center in San Angelo.

Graveside services were at 3 p.m. Sunday, July 3, in Robert Lee Cemetery, directed by Shaffer Funeral Home.

She was born at Rawls, moved to Bronte at an early age. Attended school at Bronte and Robert Lee. She married J.W. Denman Sept. 26, 1945 in Robert Lee.

They moved to Stanton in 1970 and made their home there for 17 years before returning to Robert Lee in early 1988.

She was a retired bookkeeper. She lived in the area most of her life and was a member of First United Methodist Church of Stanton.

Survivors include her husband, J.W. Denman; her father, Roy Braswell of Robert Lee; one son, Mike Denman of Stanton; one sister, Ritta Escue of San Angelo; and two grandsons.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Try Security Finance first

"If you need money — and we can help — we'd like to," says Sam Castro, manager of Security Finance Corp., 204 S. Goliad. Castro says there are several advantages in doing business with his firm.

"We can handle loans for people without previous credit. If you have a job — or other source of income — and can show stability, we'll give you a chance to establish credit."

In addition, all operations at Security Finance are computerized, providing fast customer service on account history, loan balances, renewals, payments and other records. Information retrieval time is quick and accurate.

If a client has just recently moved to Big Spring — his account can be transferred from another city with a Security Finance office. The firm maintains over 100 offices in Texas with 10 in West Texas.

Security Finance makes loans of $100 to $360. The amount of the loan, and the amount of interest to be paid, are regulated by the State of Texas.

"All you have to do is come in and fill out an application. Or just phone us — we will record your application information and process it at once."

As a customer service, the office provides year around tax assistance on the 1040 short form. "We send it to our home office in South Carolina where we have tax experts," says Castro.

Castro has been manager of the local office about three years, since just shortly after it opened here.

"We've been growing good," says Castro. "We give good customer service, and we get many word-of-mouth references."

Security Finance serves Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan, Stanton and Ackerly. Office hours are 8:30 to 5:30 Monday through Thursday; 8:30 to 6 p.m. Friday; and 8:30 to 12 noon Saturday. The phone number is 267-4591.

At Security Finance Corp., the motto is "Try us first." Unlike many finance offices, Security Finance will make loans without established credit "if you have a job or other source of income." Pictured are Sam Castro, manager, and Amanda Spear, assistant manager.

Hester & Robertson helps you keep cool

It looks like we're in for a long, hot dry spell, so homeowners and businesses would be well-advised to have their cooling systems in good working order. Or replaced if the systems are older and out-dated.

Hester & Robertson have two radio-dispatched service vehicles ready to give fast and efficient service, and all calls are usually worked the same day they are taken.

Parts are usually on the service truck, saving time and money for the customers.

Hester & Robertson also offer a free cooling survey and price estimates. "We measure the square footage of the home, check ductwork and insulation in order to give an estimate of the equipment, cost and improvements needed to improve your present unit's efficiency," says Carol Hollingsworth.

"If your cooling equipment needs replacement, we sell and service air conditioning units by Lennox, Carrier and Trane," Hollingsworth added. "Some of the new high efficiency models offer 10-year warranties on the compressors."

Remember, it's not only humans who suffer in the heat and drought — your lawn and shrubs will suffer, too. Hester & Robertson offers very competitive bids on lawn sprinkler systems, the sensible way to assure that your yard gets the moisture it needs.

Hester & Robertson also does residential and commercial plumbing, including whirlpool baths, septic and drain fields; and they sell and install State hot water heaters.

"Our work is guaranteed," says Hollingsworth. "We invite all our customers to compare our service and prices."

Phone Hester & Robertson at 263-8342 or stop by and see them on North Birdwell Lane.

Schuelke wins District 4-H fashion show

Kathryn Burch
County Extension Agent/H.E.
Martin-Glasscock Counties

Tarah Schuelke was the first place winner of the Junior I Active Sportswear Division. Miss Schuelke competed in the new Ready-to-wear Division.

This competition area teaches 4-H'ers comparison shopping skills as well as wardrobing and accessorizing skills. Tarah wore a pair of bike shorts. Fluorescent green and pink accented the ensemble.

Tarah is the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schuelke. Other Martin County participants were: Shauna Butler, Kendra McWhorter, and Amanda Riley.

In the 4-H clothing program, participants study wardrobe planning and coordinating, fashion, textiles, buying and garment construction — along with grooming, poise and the social/psychological aspects of clothing.

WINNER — Tarah Schuelke District Fashion Show winner in the Junior I Active Sports Ready-to-Wear.

ONE OF THE KEYS to more accurate shooting is to prop your rifle or pistol on something sturdy. The shooter pictured above has stabilized his air rifle by resting his elbows on his knees while sitting in a cross-legged position. Additional methods of supplementary support, such as leaning against a tree or resting your elbows on a table top, will improve accuracy by increasing stability.

Helpful hints for better shooting

A good shooter makes good shooting look easy. But that's only because a spectator watching a skilled marksman can't feel the concentration of the person behind the trigger or be aware of the well-practiced techniques that the shooter is putting into use.

However, anyone willing to put forth a little effort can become a proficient marksman, regardless of size, weight, sex or athletic ability. And it's fun!

The following tips for better shooting are provided by Daisy Manufacturing Company, which has taught over seven million Americans the fundamentals of shooting.

First of all, Daisy, which manufactures both airguns and firearms, recommends learning to shoot and practicing shooting with an airgun.

The skills necessary to shoot BB guns and pellet rifles well are the same as those used in firearms marksmanship. But airguns don't kick or make much noise, the ammunition and guns are inexpensive, and airguns may be shot safely in the backyard or the basement if the weather is unpleasant.

Stability is one of the keys to sharp shooting. Of the four standard shooting positions — standing, kneeling, sitting and prone — prone is the most stable because more parts of the body are in contact with the ground. Conversely, the standing, or off-hand, position is the least stable and most challenging. For greatest accuracy and stability, try resting your gun on a sturdy platform such as a table or fence post.

How a target appears through a gun's sights varies with different types of sights, but as a general rule you should focus on the front sight rather than the rear sight or the target.

The key to hitting the mark every time is consistency in shooting technique. Shoot groups of three to five shots at a paper bullseye, then adjust your rear sight to compensate for groups hitting off center, rather than aiming off center to compensate for a gun that is shooting high or low.

Raising a rear sight will raise where the projectile hits, and moving it to the right will place the projectile further to the right.

Another key to shooting accurately is breath control. The act of breathing causes the gun to waiver, so most shooters gain stability by taking a deep breath, letting out about a third of it, then holding what's left while they squeeze the trigger. Finally, it is important to squeeze the trigger slowly because a careless pull is likely to pull the gun slightly off target.

Entire books have been written on shooting techniques. But the shooter who practices the tips listed above is a few steps ahead of most.

For more comprehensive instruction in shooting and gun safety, contact your local U.S. Jaycee chapter or 4-H Club about conducting a Daisy sponsored shooting education program in your community. ☺

Teaching children shooting skills

STARTING THEM OUT at a young age is one way to instill a sense of safety and responsibility in youngsters who want to learn how to shoot. This father and daughter team of airgun enthusiasts is enjoying an afternoon family outing together, and, just as important, she is learning important shooting safety fundamentals, such as always assuming a gun is loaded and always keeping a gun's muzzle pointed in a safe direction.

Protect film from heat, x-rays

Photographic film has become so commonplace that many people take it for granted. Film, however, is a highly complex product consisting of up to a dozen extremely thin layers of light-sensitive chemicals and filtering materials.

If not treated with care, your film may not be able to deliver the sharp and colorful images of which it is capable.

Heat is one of the most serious offenders when it comes to film damage. General purpose films are designed to be stored and used at room temperature.

Leaving film — even if it's in your camera — in a hot car for more than a few hours can inhibit its ability to record scenes in their true colors. And exposed film is even more susceptible to damage, because the latent image formed after exposure is unstable.

Traveling by air can pose another problem for picture takers. While x-ray or fluoroscopic examination of carry-on luggage is generally safe in the United States for film up to ISO 1000, older inspection equipment abroad may cause damage through fogging. And, as with heat, exposed film is more easily damaged.

If traveling overseas, or if you know you'll be going through several plane changes en route to your domestic destination, it's a good idea either to have your film and equipment hand-inspected or to carry film in a lead-lined bag. These bags are inexpensive and available at most camera shops.

Take good care of your film, because, no matter how careful you've been in composing or exposing your pictures, if the film is damaged, your photos will probably not meet your expectations. ☺

DASHBOARDS EXPOSED TO THE SUMMER SUN can get hot enough to fry an egg. And that same hot sun can also fry your film to the point that its ability to record true colors is cooked right out. For best results, try to keep film at room temperature whether outside or inside the camera. ☺

J.M. REDDY

VA center names chief of surgery

Gaddum J.M. Reddy, M.D., was appointed chief of surgical service at the Big Spring VA Medical Center June 20, according to Conrad Alexander, Director.

He graduated from Osmania Medical College, Hyderabad, India and completed Post Graduate work at Niloufer Hospital, Hyderabad, India in 1967. He completed fellowship and residency assignments in Angiology and in Cardiothoracic Surgery at Buffalo General Hospital, Buffalo, N.Y., as well as completion of a fellowship in Cardiovascular and Thoracic Surgery at University of Maryland Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Prior to this appointment Reddy has had assignments with the Veterans Administration Medical Center at Fort Howard, Md.; Leavenworth, Ks.; Montgomery, Ala.; and as the Chief of Surgical Service VA Medical Center Alexandria, La. He has also had appointments as attending staff surgeon at Rapides General Hospital and St. Francis Cabrini Hospital in Alexandria.

While occupying these positions he acted as consultant cardiovascular surgeon at Huey P. Long Charity Hospital and the center in Louisiana as well as having academic appointment as assistant clinical professor in surgery at Tulane University, in New Orleans. Reddy holds American Board of Surgery Certification in both general and thoracic surgery.

GOP candidate Fraser to meet Reagan, Bush

Troy Fraser, Republican candidate for state representative, has been invited to attend a legislative briefing with President Reagan Monday at the White House.

Fraser, president of Fraser Industries of Big Spring, is one of a group of candidates from across the country invited to meet with the President.

After the meeting, Fraser will attend a campaign briefing for George Bush at the vice-president's national campaign headquarters.

"I am honored to be selected to meet with both the president and vice president," Fraser said. "I think this demonstrates the great interest my race has generated at the national level. It also shows that Vice-president Bush was serious when he told us at the convention in Houston that he would work from the bottom of the ticket to the top, in order to make 1988 a great year for Republicans."

Fraser, who faces incumbent Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring for House Seat 69 in November, anticipates discussions with the President will include state and local issues.

"I plan to emphasize to the president how important it is to stimulate the West Texas economy by protecting both our oil and agricultural base. We need Washington's support in Texas's efforts to diversify our economy and create new jobs," said Fraser.

Accompanying Fraser to Washington will be his wife, Linda, son Andrew, 9, and Rotary youth exchange student Annette Jorgenson, 17, from Denmark.

Fraser is immediate past-president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and is chairman of the Industrial Team.

For family fishing fun: Planning ahead is the key

For great family fun, catching fish (any kind of fish) can turn a "ho-hum" outing into a memorable occasion. And that means being prepared for whatever species might be "catchable" in your area.

Versatility in equipment selection plays an important part in the fishing experience, so families should plan for bass, walleye, catfish, crappie, bluegill or other common fish species. Skill levels of the angling participants should be taken into consideration, too.

A good assortment of basic spin-cast reels and rods, as well as spinning or bait-cast tackle, should be included.

The fishing tackle experts at Zebco suggest you keep in mind yet another aspect of versatility: The size of the equipment.

The difference between ultralight and heavy-duty reels and rods, for example, can make a big difference when trying to land a feisty crappie or a monster bass.

But a family doesn't need to bring a carload of gear to catch fish or enjoy angling at the lake. Versatility means making a few reels do the job of many. But how?

One spinning reel, for example, might be able to handle line from four pound test monofilament to 14-pound test. And a couple of rods from light to medium action will cover many angling situations.

The important thing to consider is the line weight. If the reel is spooled with 14-pound test line, and the situation calls for six-pound line, what can an angler do?

Changing the line is a possibility. But that usually takes more time than an inexperienced angler wants to spend. Instead, purchase extra spools for both spin-cast and spinning reels, and have them wound with various pound lines. Then, if a lighter or heavier line is needed, a quick spool change makes it possible.

The best advice from the folks at Zebco is to visit convenient bait and tackle stores in the area and talk with experienced salespeople. Tell them your angling plans.

Get their advice on line weights, rod actions and the reels best suited for the species of fish available locally.

Be prepared. Be versatile. Take tackle suited to the anglers in the family, plus extra spools of various line sizes. Follow those guidelines and you're ready for hours of family fun! ☺

Academia

Jana Pachall recently was presented the J.C. Etheredge scholarship in the amount of $3000 to study veterinary medicine at Texas A&M this fall.

The award presentation was made by Mrs. Gloria Etheredge in honor of J.C. Etheredge, who is a patient at Texas Medical Center and awaiting a transplant.

She is the granddaughter of Evelyn Pachall and the late Walter Pachall of Gail Route. Her parents are the late Dr. Charles Pachall, veterinary doctor of medicine, and Mrs. Mae Alford and Ray of Pasadena.

Jana graduated with 4.3 GPA in the top ten of her class of 350 at Pasadena High in June.

She also won a National Honor Society award, the Academic Excellence award, and the Presidential Academic Fitness award.

Jana's first eight years of schooling was at the Zion Lutheran Christian Day School at Pasadena.

• SALT LAKE CITY — Colleen E. Fowler of Big Spring was placed on the Dean's List for the 1988 spring semester at Westminister College of Salt Lake City, according to a release.

To earn a place on the Dean's List, Colleen, a psychology major, maintained a grade point average of 3.5 or better during the semester.

Westminister College is a private, independent, liberal arts institution of higher education with a student population of 1,600 students.

• Tony Barrera, Big Spring, was one of seven nurses who received high honors at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center Nursing Graduation and Award Ceremony recently.

Six of the nurses were graduates of the Texas Tech Regional Academic Health Center School of Nursing in the Permian Basin, including Barrera.

• Two four-year scholarships worth $3,996 each have been awarded to several Big Spring residents. The grants will enable them to attend Howard College for two years and complete their degrees at UT Permian Basin.

Four-year awards were granted to the following students: Mary A. Guevara, majoring in accounting, and Michelle R. George, whose maior is mathematics.

Residual awards worth $1,398 to $3,596 have been awarded to three.

Recipients are: Barbara A. Brumley, masters of business administration degree; Ronald W. Hensley, majoring in criminal justice; and Tommy W. Tane, seeking his masters degree in history.

A residual award worth $3,096 was granted to Wanda J. Myers. Ms. Myers will attend Howard College for one semester and complete her degree requirements for a bachelors degree in mathematics.

The scholarships were awarded through Permian Honor Scholarship Foundation, Inc., established in 1976 to provide scholarships for area students to continue their education in the Permian Basin.

• Five Big Spring students at Angelo State University were among 390 students to receive degrees during spring commencement.

David Allen Armstrong received a bachelors of arts degree in sociology; Tymi Kaye Brooks received a bachelors of business administration degree, magna cum laude, in finance; Glenn David Mellinger received a bachelors of arts degree in sociology; Robbie Ann Ritchey received a bachelors of science degree in health and physical education, and Dora Elena Cazares of Tarzan, received a bachelors of Arts degree in English.

• The United States Achievement Academy announced that Allison Taylor has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner in physical education. She will appear in the Academy's official yearbook, published nationally.

The academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all college students and selects winners on recommendations of collegiate sponsors based on standards set forth by the Academy.

Allison is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rainwater, 601 Scott. She was also recognized on the Texas Tech Presidential Honor Roll this spring semester for having a 4.0 grade point average.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat-Magnet' Diet Pill Gives You Steady Fat Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods as long as you don't increase your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire."

It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patents pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles from food that you have just eaten. Then, the trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Pills Go To Work"
The fat-magnet pills alone, "automatically" help reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat, with no exercising. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. However, you can lose weight "faster" if you choose to follow the fat-magnet diet plan along with the pills.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with record sales and glowing reports of weight loss. It's a "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose a large or small amount of weight, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills and diet plan (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free (800)527-9700, ext. W842.

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD Staff Writer

Five generations of a Big Spring family attended the John Knox family reunion in Amarillo over the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

Making the trip were Novella Kirkpatrick and her daughter, Marjorie Jones; Marjorie's daughter, Kay Moore, with her daughter, Lea Kay Young; and Lea Kay's children, Fallon and Morgan.

They were the only five-generation direct descendants attending. And Novella, at age 94, took honors as the oldest family member present; while her great-great-grandchild, Morgan Young, six months, was the youngest.

Others in attendance were Max and Kay Moore's recent houseguests — her sister, Nancy Carlisle, Newark, Ohio, and aunt, Arnetta Dow, Westbrook, Conn.

The holiday weekend saw another area family gathering honoring sisters — Ella Mae Oliver, Big Spring, who was 81 on July 2, and Inez Oliver, Colorado City, who was 86 on July 6. The sisters had married brothers when they were girls in East Texas.

Ella Mae's daughters, Shirley Scott, Big Spring, and Valreya Nichols, Marshall, treated her to birthday cake and dinner out July 2.

Then, along with Travis and Leta Oliver, they joined a family gathering at Inez' Colorado City home on Sunday. More than 70 family members were on hand from all over Texas and New Mexico.

To top off the weekend, Inez joined her Big Spring kin to watch the fireworks display on South Mountain.

The holiday plans of O.C. Lewis went awry. He made reservations several weeks ago to fly to California with grandchildren Cliff and Lacey Lewis, children of the Steve Lewises.

But O.C. became ill suddenly and was rushed to a Lubbock hospital where he underwent emergency triple bypass surgery. He came back home last week, and the report is, he's doing fine.

O.C.'s daughter, Shelby Halskov, Redondo Beach, Cal. — whom O.C. was planning to visit — instead flew out here to help him through his recuperation. Her son, Christopher, 6, made the trip with her, but husband, Brian, "had to stay home and work," Shelby said.

Ann Duncan has a warning for those who like to camp out: Never underestimate a wasp. Ann had a close call recently when she and Buddy were spending the weekend at their cabin on Lake Thomas.

She stepped on a wasp, and had an immediate, severe reaction — she stopped breathing! — and had to be rushed to an emergency room.

Ann had been stung by wasps previously without any problem, but she had "built up sensitivity," the medics told her, resulting in a serious reaction.

Because of a swollen foot and leg, Ann had to miss a planned business meeting in Austin, plus a visit with her son, Johnny Hatch, who lives there.

By the way, Johnny, a member of the state Dukakis team, will leave early this week to attend the Democratic convention in Atlanta. He hopes to visit with Dukakis personally, and possibly sign on with the candidate's national team.

David and Wanda Neal Wiley have been here visiting his mother, Mrs. C. D. Wiley. The younger Wileys live in Albuquerque, N. M. The three drove to Muskogee, Okla., to visit David and Wanda's son, Clifford Wiley and wife, Pamela; and Wanda's sister and husband, Marvin and Virginia Neal Wright, former Big Spring residents. The Wrights moved to Muskogee early this year.

The family took in the Cherokee Indians' famous summer historical pageant, "Trail of Tears," at Tahlequah, Okla.

Before returning home, the David Wileys attended the Neal family reunion near Fort Worth.

Nell and J.C. Ringenepacked a lot into the holiday weekend.

They drove to New Mexico to breathe mountain air and look at the scenery around Roswell, Ruidoso and Cloudcroft; went dancing at The Barn in Ruidoso; and took in the dog races at El Paso.

Nell says making short trips is one of their favorite things to do. And they "always look for a place to go dancing."

Wedding

Woodall-Schaedel

Karen Marie Woodall, 1307 College, and Kenneth Henry Schaedel, Rt. 3 Box 304, were united in marriage July 9, 1988 at a 7 p.m. ceremony at a garden wedding at the home of the bridegroom's parents, with Jack Nixon, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odys Woodall, 1307 College.

Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Schaedel, Walters Road.

The couple stood before an archway decorated with ivy, pink carnations and candlelight ribbon. Two pedestals, each holding a large basket of pink and candlelight mums, daisies, carnations and roses, flanked each side of the archway.

Guitarist and vocalist Doug Clark, bridegroom's brother-in-law, sang "My Sweet Lady" and "The Wedding Song."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of candlelight silk satin and re-embroidered lace. The fitted bodice, featuring a scooped neckline, was overlaid with re-embroidered lace and bridal pearls. The lace appliques, frosted with pearls, adorned the short, puff sleeves and tea-length, full gathered skirt of silk satin. Her headpiece was a candlelight double bow with cascading Lily of the Valley.

She carried a bouquet of candlelight carnations, baby mums, roses and baby's breath, accented with satin streamers. For something old, she carried an heirloom handkerchief that belonged to her great-great-grandmother, Mrs. J.W. Phillips.

Matron of honor was Rhonda Holcomb, bride's sister, Arlington. Flower girl was Rendi Schaedel, bridegroom's daughter.

Best man was Roy Geiger,

MRS. KENNETH SCHAEDER Formerly Karen Woodall Westbrook

Ushers were Dewayne Woodall, bride's brother.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted. The bride's table, draped with a candlelight lace cloth, featured a white three-tiered traditional wedding cake, accented with pink bachelors buttons and sweet peas. The cake was topped with a western-style bride and bridegroom in front of a wagon wheel. The centerpiece was a brass candleabra and the bride's bouquet. The bridegroom's table, draped with a pink cloth, featured two brass goblets with pink candles, and the matron of honor's bouquet. The table also displayed hors d'oeuvres of pimento cheese sandwiches, roast beef rolls, ham rolls, and a variety of cheeses.

The bride is a 1983 graduate of Big Spring High School, and attended Howard College. She is employed by Furr's Supermarket.

The bridegroom is a 1981 graduate of Big Spring High School, and attended Howard College. He is employed by Cosden Pipeline.

After a wedding trip to Carlsbad and Cloudcroft, N.M., the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Meeting marvelous Maravillas Canyon

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Hallie Stillwell approached me after I spoke at the Chamber of Commerce banquet in Alpine. "You and Susan have to come down and see our canyon. It's marvelous. We've got all kinds of Indian artifacts there. The Texas chestnut will be blooming in February or March. That would be a good time to come down." Hallie is a good friend and one of the best sources of information in the Big Bend country. We said her a visit in early March.

We arrived in Marathon about dark. I tried to call Hallie, but the line was busy. So we continued south, driving 45 miles to her place. We were surprised to find it bustling with activity, filled with people who were staying in mobile homes, recreational vehicles and tents. Hallie was on the porch of the combination store and rental office. "Y'all get out and come in," she said. "Supper's almost ready."

Over a fabulous meal (we could have settled for some peanuts and a soft drink) of pot roast and vegetables, ice cream and cake we outlined our itinerary: Hallie's daughter, Dedic, would return to Maravillas canyon the next day. Hallie wanted us to stay an extra day or so and ride horseback into Mexico. We'll do that on the next trip.

After supper we stepped back into the complex's community room and watched a couple of videotapes filmmakers had made about the area. We spent the night in Hallie's home. I'm usually the first one up wherever I am, but when I awoke Hallie had already gone to the store. I went in and she offered coffee. We left on our trip to the canyon after breakfast.

Dadie kept up a lively commentary while maneuvering her 4-wheel drive vehicle to the mouth of the canyon. She told us how she had grown up in a ranch house near the canyon. When her daddy wanted to take naps, he asked the kids to leave. They would go to the canyon and play where the Indians used to live.

Dadie used to be a school teacher in San Antonio, but quit to return and operate the store and mobile home park and give tours of Maravillas Canyon.

The Stillwell Ranch is prime West Texas country. It is a land of far horizons, with beautiful vistas, dramatic mountains and a wondrous sky. Wildflowers dot the landscape and birds and animals thrive here. The canyon has steep walls and is 15 miles long. It ends at the Rio Grande. Water has been in the canyon before and kept the family trapped at home for days at a time. The kids learned to swim in holes filled with flood waters.

We explored half a dozen caves with rock ledges, rubbed smooth from Indians sitting on them. Some of the rocks bore carved grooves. Pictographs are found on some of the cave walls. Dadie said the caves are always cool and offer welcome relief from the boiling sun. Blooms on the Texas buckeye trees near the caves are bright pink. Dadie's grandkids love to spend the night in the caves.

Dadie showed us the house where her mother came to live as a new bride. She painted a door that faced a wall on which cowboys had written things in pencil. Hallie, wanting to be a good housekeeper, cleaned it off one day, not knowing she was destroying all the ranch records. The cowboys wouldn't speak to her for weeks.

People here are rugged like their country.

The jeep tours are about five hours long and are offered most months except July, August and September when Dadie says it's just too hot. The Stillwell complex is on farm to market road 2627 south of Marathon.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Try Security Finance first

"If you need money — and we can help — we'd like to," says Sam Castro, manager of Security Finance Corp., 204 S. Goliad.

Castro says there are several advantages in doing business with his firm.

"We can handle loans for people without previous credit. If you have a job — or other source of income — and can show stability, we'll give you a chance to establish credit."

In addition, all operations at Security Finance are computerized, providing fast customer service on account history, loan balances, renewals, payments and other records. Information retrieval time is quick and accurate.

If a client has just recently moved to Big Spring — his account can be transferred from another city with a Security Finance office. The firm maintains over 100 offices in Texas with 10 in West Texas.

Security Finance makes loans of $100 to $360. The amount of the loan, and the amount of interest to be paid, are regulated by the State of Texas.

"All you have to do is come in and fill out an application. Or just phone us — we will record your application information and process it at once."

As a customer service, the office provides year around tax assistance on the 1040 short form. "We send it to our home office in South Carolina where we have tax experts," says Castro.

Castro has been manager of the local office about three years, since just shortly after it opened here.

"We've been growing good," says Castro. "We give good customer service, and we get many word-of-mouth references."

Security Finance serves Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan, Stanton and Ackerly. Office hours are 8:30 to 5:30 Monday through Thursday; 8:30 to 6 p.m. Friday; and 8:30 to 12 noon Saturday. The phone number is 267-4591.

At Security Finance Corp., the motto is "Try us first." Unlike many finance offices, Security Finance will make loans without established credit "if you have a job or other source of income." Pictured are Sam Castro, manager, and Amanda Spear, assistant manager.

Hester & Robertson helps you keep cool

It looks like we're in for a long, hot dry spell, so homeowners and businesses would be well-advised to have their cooling systems in good working order. Or replaced if the systems are older and out-dated.

Hester & Robertson have two radio-dispatched service vehicles ready to give fast and efficient service, and all calls are usually worked the same day they are taken.

Parts are usually on the service truck, saving time and money for the customers.

Hester & Robertson also offer a free cooling survey and price estimates. "We measure the square footage of the home, check ductwork and insulation in order to give an estimate of the equipment, cost and improvements needed to improve your present unit's efficiency," says Carol Hollingsworth.

"If your cooling equipment needs replacement, we sell and service air conditioning units by Lennox, Carrier and Trane," Hollingsworth added. "Some of the new high efficiency models offer 10-year warranties on the compressors."

Remember, it's not only humans who suffer in the heat and drought — your lawn and shrubs will suffer, too. Hester & Robertson offers very competitive bids on lawn sprinkler systems, the sensible way to assure that your yard gets the moisture it needs.

Hester & Robertson also does residential and commercial plumbing, including whirlpool baths, septic and drain fields; and they sell and install State hot water heaters.

"Our work is guaranteed," says Hollingsworth. "We invite all our customers to compare our service and prices."

Phone Hester & Robertson at 263-8342 or stop by and see them on North Birdwell Lane.
