Tower: Bentsen will be on tight rope

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Republicans say they're going to be quick to pounce on any violations of federal election law by Lloyd Bentsen as he mounts simultaneous campaigns for vice president and re-election to the Senate.

Former Sen. John Tower, close adviser to all-but-certain Republican presidential nominee George Bush, says his camp has put lawyers to work sifting through the regulations.

"I think it's going to really be a tight rope for him (Bentsen) to walk," Tower said Friday. "It's going to be pretty tricky business."

Tower said Republicans are concerned that Bentsen's Senate

Says one Republican operative: "It's a minefield he has to walk through. . . . Anytime someone plows new ground, you're bound to dig up a bone."

Counters Bentsen: "They tell me it's been done before in Texas."

campaign could become "a bottomless pit people throw money in and use for the presidential campaign."

Tower had firsthand experience with a Texas law that allows a candidate to campaign simultaneously for Senate and the vice presidency when he ran against Lyndon B. Johnson for the Senate in 1960. Johnson was also running as the Democratic nominee for vice president with John F. Kennedy.

Johnson won both races and gave up his Senate seat for the vice presidency. A special election was called and Tower won. Although Johnson juggled both campaigns in 1960, Tower says Bentsen faces some knotty problems as he campaigns with probable Democratic nominee Michael Dukakis because of stricter federal election spending laws.

Says one Republican operative: "It's a minefield he has to walk through. . . . Anytime someone plows new ground, you're bound to dig up a bone."

Counters Bentsen: "They tell me it's been done before in Texas."

Federal Election Commission spokeswoman Karen Finucan said Bentsen's two races are unprecedented since the presidential elections became publicly financed in 1976.

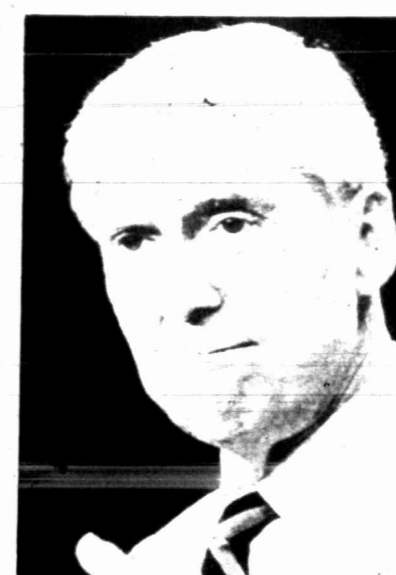

Each presidential campaign can only spend $46.1 million, she said, while Senate campaigns have no limitations on how much can be raised and spent — as long as guidelines are met such as $1,000 per individual and $5,000 per political action committee.

Jim Boynton, assistant executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said Bentsen is "one of the most organized candidates you'll ever run across" and will now just "put another step of organization in place."

He said Republican vigilance of Bentsen's finances is prompted because they "have to have some way to challenge the senator."

And Bentsen spokesman Jack DeVore said of the GOP: "He'll be quick to pounce on them if they do it, too."

Bentsen says he's not going to abandon his Senate race and put it in Republican hands. The seat would go to his challenger, Rep. Beau Boulter, a two-term congressman from Amarillo who has complained loudly that Bentsen's dual candidacies are unfair and unethical.

SUSPECT BEING SOUGHT —

A second suspect in the shooting of three persons at a Big Spring apartment complex early Friday is still being sought, according to police.

Detective Sgt. Bill King said Saturday Pedro Mendez Cantu, 40, 307 San Jacinto St., — who suffered minor wounds to his face and leg — remains in the city jail in lieu of $90,000 bond.

King said he expects Cantu to be transferred to the Howard County Jail Monday.

Cantu was arrested Friday morning at Scenic Mountain Medical Center on a warrant charging him with two counts of aggravated assault in connection with the wounding of Lydia Yanez, 39, and her daughter, Lizzie Franco, 20, in the parking lot of the Northcrest Apartments, 1002 N. Main St.

The shootings occurred about 12:15 a.m., according to police reports.

Yanez sustained gunshot wounds to her leg and ankle and underwent surgery Friday morning. Franco was shot in the leg and both women were listed in stable condition Saturday, a nursing supervisor at the hospital said.

The women reside at the Northcrest Apartments, according to police reports.

King said a warrant for the other man allegedly involved in the shooting — who has not been identified by police — has been issued. He has also been charged with two counts of aggravated assault.

"He (second suspect) may have left town," King said.

Police still do not know what prompted the shooting.

"I still don't know who shot Cantu," King said.

Three guns were used in the shootings, but King said none have been recovered. "It's really a complicated deal," King said. Cantu, who was on 10 years probation for a March 18, 1987 aggravated assault conviction, appears to be facing major legal problems.

He was indicted for attempted murder by a Howard County grand jury in connection with the wounding of Ramon Calderon, 42, and his brother, Enrique, 34, on March 30, 1986 at Comanche Trail Park.

A four-man, eight-woman jury found Cantu guilty of aggravated assault and he was sentenced to 10 years probation.

Ramon was struck in the face by a shotgun blast, resulting in permanent blindness, and Enrique was shot in the upper right leg, according to trial testimony.

Cantu testified Ramon Calderon was carrying a tire tool when the shooting occurred and he was only attempting to frighten the victim, according to published reports.

As part of the terms of his probation, Cantu was ordered to pay more than $12,000 to the victim's compensation fund.

Cantu did not have a criminal record prior to the Calderon shooting in 1986, according to courthouse records.

ONE WITNESS SAYS —

When a series of gunshots jolted one resident out of his chair in the Northcrest Apartments early Friday, he was falling asleep in front of his television.

"At first I thought it was firecrackers, but I know it was an Uzi," the man — pointing to a car riddled by bullet holes and full of shattered glass about 50 yards from the scene of the shooting — said Saturday.

The man, who said he has lived at the apartment complex for over three years, asked that his name and picture not be used.

Two women who reside at the complex, 1002 N. Main St. — Lydia Yanez, 39, and her daughter, Lizzie Franco — suffered gunshot wounds and are listed in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Pedro Mendez Cantu, 40, 307 San Jacinto St., also suffered minor gunshot wounds and is in the city jail under $90,000 bond on two counts of aggravated assault, according to police.

A warrant has been issued for another man, although he is still being sought, police said.

"Man, this ain't right. If some kids were out here playing when this happened, they could have been killed. I keep to myself around here. I don't know who those people were and I don't want to know," the resident said. Numerous people stood outside the complex — commonly referred to as The Projects — as the man told his version of what happened.

It's slightly different than what the police say officially.

As he pointed to a nearby apartment, the man said three gunmen kicked in the door where the women reside "and started shooting."

"Then they came out and started shooting up this car. That's when this other guy (Cantu) got hit by the bullets," he said.

The man claims police "followed a trail of blood" and found Cantu.

"They (police) had that apartment roped off. That's where the ambulance people went (to transport the women). When the shooting started, everybody in this place was looking out the window," he said.

Police arrived quickly and began questioning people, according to the man.

"They were all carrying pistols and shotguns and had this one group of Mexicans lined up against the wall asking what the hell happened. There were police, highway patrol, you name it. I ain't seen nothing like it," the man said.

As the Saturday afternoon conversation concluded, a number of people stared from windows and the surrounding area, among them a young male drinking a Budweiser.

"When you leave, these people are going to be saying to each other 'What the hell is he telling those white people?'" he said sarcastically.

The man said he could not remember a shooting incident at the apartment complex like the one that occurred about 12:15 a.m. Friday.

"Those people (assailants) are crazy. I'm not going to stay here anymore. I'm moving out of this . . . place," he said.

Tornadoes 100 families forced from their homes

By SCOTT SONNER
Associated Press Writer

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa — National Guardsmen sealed off half the city to protect against looting Saturday as crews cleared trees and other debris strewn here and in Omaha, Neb., by tornadoes that wiped out entire blocks.

An estimated 10,000 homes were damaged and more than 100 families forced from homes destroyed or severely damaged by the twisters that slammed into the two Missouri River cities Friday.

At least 64 people suffered injuries, mostly minor, when wind gusting to 92 mph downed power lines, uprooted trees and ripped roofs off houses in a two-mile stretch along Interstate 29 near the river.

"It's a major disaster. There are complete blocks gone," said Pottawattie County Supervisor Larry Allen, who replaced the courthouse roof at 1 a.m. Saturday.

"It's an absolute miracle no one is dead," Council Bluffs City Councilman Stanley Grote said.

Omaha Public Power District and Iowa Power and Light Co. said an estimated 80,000 customers were without power Saturday in the two cities, from 100,000 during the night.

Scattered looting was reported. It was not immediately known if any arrests were made.

Trees up to 48 inches in diameter snapped in Council Bluffs and others as tall as 100 feet were uprooted at an Omaha golf course. The twisters also started fires and overturned rail cars in a two-mile stretch in Council Bluffs.

"Vietnam. That's about it," Guardsman Carl Jennings said in describing the damage. "There's a lot of splintered wood, buildings destroyed, panic."

A tornado that hit Omaha in 1975 killed three people and destroyed homes and businesses over a 2,000-block area.

"More than half of the houses in town have damage that will cause them to file insurance claims, whether it's broken windows, trees on roofs or siding damaged," said Allen.

No dollar estimate of the damage was immediately available.

More than 170 uniformed officers, including 60 Iowa Guardsmen, helped protect against looting and reroute traffic. More than 50 Red Cross volunteers worked in shifts to distribute free food and drinks through the night.

Guardsmen sealed off a 700-block area of Council Bluffs, issuing permits to residents and to anyone else with reason to be there, but otherwise allowing no one to enter. Some looting was reported early Saturday.

"Most of it has been oddball stuff. One guy had a cigarette machine in the back of his pickup. The worst problem has been the tourists," said Guardsman Les Hayes. Business owners guarded their closed storefronts.

Bulldozers cleared trees from streets, and cranes loaned by the Union Pacific Railroad were used to straighten metal supports on toppled signs and billboards.

Bonnie Nusser was with her three children when the tornado destroyed her Council Bluffs home.

"We were in the hallway upstairs and the house just started sliding. I just grabbed for the kids and held on," she said. The family emerged safe from under a pile of rubble in the back yard.

Allen said the clean-up was hampered because of streets blocked by fallen trees, some 100 to 150 years old.

"It will be days and days and days before we get it all cleared," he said. "The second-biggest problem has been the sightseers, the rubber-neckers out there."

PRI bruised and battered in recent Mexican election

By CANDICE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY — The strong opposition showing in Mexico's general election demonstrated how badly the Institutional Revolutionary Party miscalculated the people it has governed for nearly 60 years.

The PRI failed to gauge the depth of discontent brewing in a devastated economy, and it underestimated an increasingly sophisticated nation.

Spoiled and overconfident after years of unchallenged rule and landslide victories — allegedly padded by fraud — the PRI was put on the spot in the July 6 elections.

Mexicans used their votes to deliver a sharp kick to the party shins.

They gave PRI's presidential candidate, Carlos Salinas de Gortari, the smallest margin of victory in party history — just over 50 percent — and forced PRI to give up Senate seats for the first time.

The PRI, which has never lost a presidential, gubernatorial or senate race since it was founded in 1929, suffered unprecedented losses in Congress, although it kept control of both houses.

With four Senate seats, however, the leftist opposition now has a guaranteed forum for the next six years. And both the right and the left will have a greater voice in the lower house.

The PRI, although it came out of the elections bruised and divided, is clearly still running Mexico. Salinas takes office Dec. 1.

Future elections will reveal the strength, shape and staying power of the opposition.

The PRI was created by survivors of the 1910-1921 revolution, who vowed to bring stability and social and economic justice to Mexico. But while Mexico changed radically over the decades, the PRI didn't keep up.

After World War II, Mexico entered a period of unparalleled development. Industries, the recently nationalized oil fields and petrochemical production expanded. Tourism flourished. The economy grew 5 percent to 6 percent every year from the early 1960s to 1980.

Only one out of four Mexicans could read and write in 1940. Now eight out of 10 are literate. Forty years ago, almost three-quarters of the people lived in the countryside. About 60 percent are now city dwellers.

Mexico City has become the largest metropolitan area in the world. The city that was home to 3.1 million people in 1950 grew to nearly 20 million — almost a quarter of the nation's estimated 85 million people.

The election left Salinas, the architect of the economic austerity plan, without a solid mandate for change.

Soviets inspect sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet military teams set out Saturday to inspect missile facilities in Oklahoma, Texas and Alabama in their second round of inspections under the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces treaty.

The first team of 10 Soviet inspectors, accompanied by 10 escorts from the U.S. sites, announced where they wanted to go at 4 a.m. EDT, were in a bus by 5 a.m. and en route to Ft. Sill, Okla., before 6 a.m., said Cmdr. Kendall Pease, spokesman for the On-Site Inspection Agency set up under the treaty.

Contacted on his car telephone en route to Washington's Dulles Airport with a second team traveling to Longhorn Army Depot in Marshall, Texas, Pease said the operations was "moving like clockwork."

The Soviets were to verify the number of missiles and related components to be destroyed under the treaty. The elimination of 6,000 Soviet missiles under U.S. scrutiny is to begin Aug. 1 at five sites in the Soviet Union, but U.S. officials have not yet informed Soviet authorities when they will begin destroying about 2,000 U.S. weapons.

Rainbows peaceful, expensive

ZAVALLA (AP) — It will be months before the final effects of this year's Rainbow Family reunion are known, but officials say the back-to-nature group's "Gathering of the Tribes" in an East Texas forest cost taxpayers about $300,000.

That word comes as Nevada authorities begin preparing for next year's July 4 gathering of the neo-hippie group in the Humboldt National Forest.

Some Rainbows spent almost as much time in court this year as in the Angelina Forest, where nearly 4,400 people gathered.

The Rainbow Family faced three lawsuits and five hearings as the U.S. Forest Service tried to make the group apply for a special use permit and follow specific health guidelines. U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice eventually set the rules that allowed the woody festival.

Texas officials have said that the 17th annual tribal gathering was more peaceful, healthy and drug-free than expected.

Forest Service spokesman Carl Gidlund estimated that the cost of overseeing the Rainbows' gathering was "just under $300,000."

About $5,000 of that was paid to local law enforcement agencies for their help. The rest went almost entirely toward salaries, overtime pay, transportation and per diem expenses for the 42 extra officers and special agents the Forest Service transferred temporarily to the site.

None of the money was spent cleaning up after the group, Gidlund said.

"They did a wonderful job of cleaning up," he said.

Zavalla Mayor Larry Marshall said the gathering caused no problems for the town, and Texas Department of Public Safety officials said the event was peaceful.

Of approximately 100 arrests during the event, only seven were of Rainbow Family members, according to a DPS spokesman.

Texas firms file pollution reports

HOUSTON (AP) — Twenty chemical plants and oil refineries along the Texas coast estimate they lost 617.7 million pounds of potentially toxic pollutants into the environment last year, according to reports filed under a new public disclosure program.

Reports from the 20 facilities were among the first processed by officials under the new federal "right-to-know" law requiring that manufacturers estimate the release of any of 309 toxic chemicals to the air, land or water.

State officials estimate that 2,000 Texas facilities fall under the law passed by Congress in 1986 requiring the reports. July 1 was the first deadline for the reports, to be submitted annually.

Industry and government officials say large release numbers, in themselves, must be considered with other factors such as exposure and toxicity to determine the degree of risk a certain release poses.

Street people arrested in protest

AUSTIN (AP) — A street person, one of three facing possible fines and jail time for occupying a vacant house owned by the University of Texas, said a demonstration protesting the plight of the homeless was successful.

The men were charged Friday with criminal trespass after they ignored warnings to leave the house, which they had occupied to draw attention to homeless people.

All three were released on bond and could be sentenced to up to 180 days in jail and fined $1,000 each.

"It's definitely been worth it to bring attention to the public that there are a lot of boarded up buildings, boarded up houses, and they could be occupied because they're livable and there's no need for people to sleep in the streets when there are boards on the buildings," James Williams, one of those arrested, told the Austin American-Statesman.

Williams and Ron North were released on $500 personal recognizance bonds Friday. The third protester, Brian Joyce, was found to owe fines on seven unpaid traffic tickets, but he also was released Friday on personal recognizance bond.

The demonstration, which drew about 100 people, was staged to attract attention to the problems of America's homeless and to draw support for federal legislation that would help fund renovation and construction of affordable housing. Similar demonstrations were held Thursday in Fort Worth, Houston and about 70 other U.S. cities.

Dr. CARLOS DIMIDJIAN — Podiatrist

TREATING AN INGROWN TOENAIL

If you have an ingrown toenail that's causing you pain and discomfort, avoid the myths about self-treatment. For example, maybe someone has advised you to cut a wedge out of the top edge of the nail so the nail will grow toward the center. This won't help because a nail grows forward from an area called the matrix. The matrix is located behind the point where the nail emerges from the toe. As it grows forward, the nail attaches to the nail bed. This appears normally as the pink area showing through the larger portion of the nail. The part that is cut when you trim your nails is the white part. This is the free end of the nail that grows beyond the nail bed. It takes about 120 days for a normal nail to develop from the matrix to the end of the toe.

When a toenail becomes ingrown, the flesh around the nail is forced close to the sides of the nail. This makes it appear as if the nail was growing out of the flesh, which is not the case at all. Ingrown toenails, however, can be very painful and may become infected. Have this condition treated by your podiatrist.

State acts among nation's strongest, official says

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN — Parents checking on schools, seekers of public jobs and college students angry about the firing of their president are among Texans who have made state "sunshine laws" a tool of the public, not just the press.
The state Open Meetings Law and Open Records Act are among the strongest in the United States and are used often by citizens, said John Hildreth, executive director of Common Cause of Texas.

"The statutes start out forcefully, stating that the basic premise is that meetings are open and records are open," unless there are specific legal exemptions, Hildreth said.
"That's very important. In some states, it's the other way around," he said. "We start with a better premise."

Nancy Monson, executive director of the Freedom Information Foundation of Texas, said although journalists may most often use the laws, it's important for everyone to know how to do so.
"It is the press's business — that's their work — to get information. In the case of the private citizen, it doesn't occur to him to do it until his rights are trampled on, or he is in a situation in which he needs information," Ms. Monson said.

"If you intend to be able to vote and participate in a self-governing republic, you have to know what the government is doing, or you can't participate intelligently," she said.
The attorney general's office oversees the Open Records Act, and anyone can ask for an opinion concerning the application of that law.

"Most requests do come from reporters, (but) there are a lot of private citizens who ask for information," said Jennifer Riggs, chief of the open government section of the attorney general's opinion committee.
Applicants rejected for public employment use the law to find out the qualifications of people who got a certain job.

Ms. Riggs said she also has received requests from parents about teachers and school expenses, from environmentalists with inquiries about state action and from taxpayers who want general information about government spending.
About 400 opinions have been completed each year since the Open Records Act was passed in 1973, she said.

Two arrested in slaying of football player

RICHMOND (AP) — Prosecutors say they will seek to have two high school students tried as adults in the slaying of a promising 17-year-old football player found shot to death in the bed of his pickup truck.
The two 16-year-old Clements High School students are accused of killing Paul Brandon Elledge in a scheme to steal the stereo from his truck, Fort Bend County authorities said.
"All indications are that this was a premeditated, cold-blooded murder," said Assistant District Attorney Rose Mary Galvan. "It's very tragic to consider that two 16-year-olds could plan capital murder."
Elledge, a 6-foot-3, 240-pound lineman and linebacker, was described as an honor student and a dedicated athlete who was a candidate for college football scholarships.
"For us, it's a tragic blow," said Freddy Hernandez, assistant football coach at the school south of Sugar Land.
Ms. Galvan said one of the youths accused of killing Elledge asked for a ride home, and the other followed in a second vehicle. Both were armed with handguns, she said.
Elledge, who was last seen alive at the school during a Thursday afternoon workout, was apparently shot in the cab of his truck.

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Sept. 19 through 24 will be the dates for the 16th annual Howard County Fair, according to information released by the fair's board of directors.
A full slate of entertainment attractions will be featured every night, entertainment coordinator Jewel Tubb said.
Back by popular demand after a one-year absence will be entertainer Clyde Foley Cummings. Cummings was a crowd favorite two years ago, and "... we got a lot of letters from people asking for him again," Mrs. Tubb said.
Cummings — who performs both country and western and contemporary music — will be featured Friday and Saturday nights, she said.
Country music will be featured on Monday when Debbie James and her band performs at 8:30 p.m.

Dates set for Howard County fair

Area high school cheerleaders will compete for honors in the traditional Battle of the Cheerleaders Tuesday night, Tubb said.
Big Spring entertainer Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys will perform country and western music in two shows (7 and 9 p.m.) Wednesday.
Another feature being brought back by residents' requests is the children's petting zoo, Smith said.
Spanish music will fill the air at 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday, when the Twin Cities Band — a combination of Big Spring, Midland and Odessa musicians — perform during Fiesta Night.
Board member Floyd "Smitty" Smith said he is optimistic on the prospects for this year's fair.
"It's really coming together good so far — better than most years," Smith said. "It looks like the participants in livestock (competition) are already greater than last year.

"We're going to have a good fair," he promised.
Fair officials are concentrating now on leasing the more than 100 booth spaces available for commercial and non-commercial organizations, Smith said.
Commercial booth spaces may be purchased by contacting Ruth Mitchell at 263-3411 or 394-4439 for inside booths, and Geraldine Posey at 398-5454 or 267-4232 for outside spaces, he noted.
Booths are available on a first-come, first-served basis and will rent for $125 for those in the Howard and adjoining counties trade area. Others will have rental fees of $125 for unmanned booths or $235 for across-the-counter sales.
Outside space rental fees are $115 plus $1.75 per front foot, and $75 plus $1.75 per front foot for unmanned spaces.

Airliner makes precautionary landing

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An American Airlines Boeing 767 en route to Washington Dulles Airport made a precautionary landing in Nashville after smoke was discovered in the cockpit, officials said Saturday.
"To my knowledge, no one was injured," said Martha Bradley, spokeswoman for the Metro Nashville Airport Authority. "The indication was that the plane landed safely, taxied to the gate and the passengers were unloaded."

'Rolex bandits' prey on well-to-do Don Juans

CHICAGO (AP) — Wealthy Don Juans with a weakness for mysterious women would do well to leave their gold watches at home before going out on the town, authorities say, noting a new strike by the "Rolex bandits."
"It's the Mickey Finn gambit. A woman gets a guy back to his place, slips some knockout drops into his drink, he passes out, she takes off with his valuables," said Edward Pope, a police investigator in suburban Schaumburg.
Last weekend, a 24-year-old bar patron in Schaumburg was approached by a pretty blonde who presented herself as a charming new acquaintance, but who, after getting him back to his apartment, drugged his wine and made off with his Rolex watch, other jewelry and a $30,000 BMW, police said.
"Last weekend's case was the first one this year, but we had three last year and three in 1986," Pope said. "It happens in spurts."
Chicago Police Lt. Kenneth Bringe said the con is nationwide and has been around "forever."

Dukakis, Jackson camps negotiating

ATLANTA (AP) — Top aides to Democratic nominee-in-waiting Michael Dukakis and rival Jesse Jackson stepped up the negotiating pace Saturday to try to ease the strains that threaten to disrupt the party's national convention.
A face-to-face meeting of the candidates seemed likely on Sunday, the day before the convention opens.
Dukakis campaign chairman Paul Broutas and Jackson convention manager Ron Brown were to kick off the latest round of meetings with a private afternoon talk as Jackson pulled into town to end a three-day bus trip.
"Communication is the first way to get things back on track," Brown said before the meeting, adding "There have been intensive communications in the last 24 or 36 hours."
The negotiations were complicated by Jackson's continuing hints that his name might be put into nomination for vice president — as a protest to Dukakis' choice of Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and the way the Dukakis campaign handled the selection and announcement.
Jackson staffers picked up the petition form to qualify him for the Thursday night roll call on vice president — as well petitions to make certain he is on the Wednesday roll call for the presidential nomination he has sought for the past two years.
The candidate himself sent contradictory signals on the possibility of continuing his fight with Dukakis beyond Wednesday night of the convention.
"I'm not putting my name into nomination, but if it were to happen it certainly is an option that would be within the rules of the convention. It would not be breaking precedent," Jackson said on ABC News' "Nightline." "We should be expected to use every rule that we can to advance our cause and expand our Democratic Party."
Jackson and Dukakis agreed in a telephone conversation Friday that their top aides would meet.

Brown said his meeting with Dukakis would probably lead to a small group of top aides from each camp meeting late Saturday night.
Dukakis doesn't arrive in Atlanta until Sunday afternoon, and aides said a meeting that night could be crucial.
"The hope is the two candidates get together tomorrow," Brown said.
Over and over again, Jackson has talked of a partnership with Dukakis for the fall and beyond, although what such a partnership would be has not been made clear.
"There has been no discussion of the role I would play" in the fall campaign, Jackson said on his bus as he traveled from Nashville, Tenn., toward the convention on Saturday, adding he wants jobs for his supporters.
"I would never seek a job or a title or a position or a salary. There are those who do need jobs and who can do them well. ... That would not be an effective role for me to play, but I want to play a role," he said.
Brown said the talks will include "a complete definition and understanding of what that partnership means in specific terms."
He denied published reports that Jackson had asked the Dukakis campaign to provide a plane and other support for his efforts to register new voters and to get his mostly black supporters out to vote for the Democratic ticket in the general election.
"We're talking about a role of significance in the campaign. If folks expect you to go out and campaign 20 hours a day seven days a week, obviously you need the wherewithal to accomplish that and the staffing to accomplish that, but a story saying Jesse wants a plane is just silly," Brown said.
Jackson prepared for this latest round of talks with a high-level session of his own Friday night.
In addition to Brown, the meeting was attended by former New Mexico Gov. Toney Anaya, Rep. Charles Rangel of New York and former Gary, Ind., mayor Richard Hatcher.

Sheriff's log

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Howard County Sheriff's Department officers reported the following incidents as of 6:30 p.m. Saturday:
• Robert Charles Johnson, Sterling City, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court to burglary of a building. He was given eight years probation.
• Dolly Marie Geiger was released on $500 bond. She was transferred from Big Spring Police Department after being arrested on charges of possession of a controlled substance.
• Alonzo Hilario, no address available, was released on $2,000 bond after he was transferred from the police department.

Lloyd Bentsen: VP choice is no Mr. Excitement

Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen is one of the few surviving Tory Democrats in a state where most conservatives are staunchly Republican and most Democrats defiantly liberal. And survive he does, quite handsomely. If anyone can deliver Texas for the Democratic ticket this fall — and that's a big if — Lloyd Bentsen can.

Polls suggest that in our state, the nation's third-biggest prize in the presidential elections, Bentsen can mean an extra 14 percentage points. The advantages he will offer the ticket nationwide are less immediately obvious.

Michael Dukakis no doubt has heard the tale of '82, the year that seven Texas Democrats, four of them card-carrying liberals, swept into statewide office and in the process swept out the state's first Republican governor since Reconstruction. Bill Clements, of course, came back to win re-election in 1986. The deciding factor in the Democrats' success that year was Lloyd Bentsen — his money, his campaign organization and his strong rural base.

For triumphant Texas liberals, there was no small irony in the fact that it was Bentsen, 12 years earlier, who — in a bitter Democratic primary contest — had defeated Ralph Yarborough, darling of the Texas liberals. In the 1970 general election, Bentsen handily defeated a Houston congressman named George Bush.

Bentsen's political prowess was evident again in 1985, in a special election for Texas' 1st Congressional District. It was a behind-the-scenes battle of giants, Bentsen vs. Texas' powerful Republican senator, Phil Gramm. A turncoat Democrat, Gramm had run against Bentsen in 1976 and lost, 64 percent to 28 percent. Neither man has forgotten that race; no doubt Dukakis has heard about it, too.

Gramm set up the 1985 contest by getting the conservative Democrat holding the office appointed as a federal judge and recruiting a former Texas A&M quarterback to run as the Republican candidate in the special election. His goal was to undermine the Democratic hold on rural Texas and the whole rural South. He would begin to break the Democratic stranglehold on the House.

It was altogether doable — until Bentsen got involved. Raising money and drumming the trade issue, he helped the Democrat, Jim Chapman, squeak to victory. In the process, he helped save the House for his beleaguered party.

Dukakis' choice for a running mate recalls the choice another Massachusetts presidential candidate made 28 years ago. Bentsen is more the suave Texas businessman than the crass Texas politician Lyndon Johnson exemplified, but he brings to the ticket some of the same strengths Johnson brought to John F. Kennedy. On the stump, he's no more scintillating than Dukakis, but, like LBJ, he knows where the political money is — and he knows how to use it.

Much of that easy acquaintance comes from Bentsen's role as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He has played a major role on tax reform, catastrophic health insurance and trade. Like Dukakis, he's known to be a detail man. Like Bush, he is also a friend of the Texas oil industry. In the 1986 tax reform battle, he insisted on retaining the intangible drilling allowance and other favorable tax treatment for the industry.

Dukakis is sure to be counting on the man from Texas to keep the oil and gas money and the finance and insurance money Bentsen has courted from fleeing in panic to the Republicans. Big business knows Bentsen, who made his own millions in the insurance business in Houston, and trusts him.

That chumminess served Bentsen ill last year when, as a campaign ploy, he organized a breakfast-with-Bentsen opportunity for high-powered lobbyists — at $10,000 a head. Eggs McBentsen, as it was called, helped fuel campaign finance-reform efforts. Though Bentsen quickly disbanded the breakfast club, it's sure to be on George Bush's campaign menu.

Bush also might recall that Bentsen as a young congressman in the early 1950s called on President Truman to drop an atomic bomb on North Korea. That was long ago, of course. Today, Bentsen is a foreign-policy moderate.

Dukakis' choice of Bentsen raises numerous questions; the most obvious concerns Jesse Jackson. One day after Jackson announced that he would accept a spot on the ticket if offered, Dukakis spurned him.

Even if Dukakis had been more adroit in his dismissal of Jackson, it's hard to see Lloyd Bentsen energizing the black vote that the Democrats so desperately need. Frankly, it's hard to see Lloyd Bentsen getting any group of voters terribly excited — which, for 1988 seems the key to success in both parties. All that's needed now, to make this race an even match, is a certain California governor on the Republican ticket.

Beauty award earned by many

To the editor:
Recently the Beautification Committee awarded "Beauty Spot of the Month" in my name to Washington Boulevard.
I do not deserve this honor alone and would like to publicly give credit where credit is due.
In the 300 block, Mr. and Ms. John Knox planted Iris, M.M. Gibson planted native petunias and daisies. Marvin Sewell has, during my surgery, taken over the 400 block and part of the 500 block. E.C. Bell, Mrs. David Crawford and Mr. Ben Daughtery, the 600 block.
The city has been rather neglectful doing their positions and weeds around.

Firefighters are concerned

To the editor:
We as firefighters are concerned about the safety of the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County. Our job is based on saving lives and property. In line with these thoughts, the emergency care service (ambulance) for Big Spring and Howard County is becoming an item for concern.
Last year Rural/Metro was awarded a three year contract to provide ambulance service to Big Spring and Howard County. They were to provide three ambulances: two active and one back-up for emergency care.
The fire department would have an additional back-up unit manned by firefighters for a fourth run unit. Rural/Metro was to employ an average of five full time personnel and part-time employees as needed.

In a meeting with the Ambulance Advisory Committee Wednesday evening, Michael Black informed the committee he had reduced two of its full-time employees and is now providing only one active ambulance and back-ups from there. Also, the fourth run unit designated to be manned by the fire department was taken over by Rural/Metro. This, in our opinion, clearly affects the safety of everyone concerned.
The citizens of Big Spring and Howard County deserve and should expect the best care possible for their money. Rural/Metro was awarded this contract due to its low bid. They agreed to provide certain services, which, as of now, they are not. Still, they are receiving over $100,000 a year in subsidies and have now been granted a 25 percent increase for mileage.
Ambulance service in Big Spring has been a problem for several years. It's time to do as other cities have done. It's time to start moving towards a city/county-run ambulance system. Then and only then will the citizens know they are getting the best.

How the farms worked earlier

To the editor:
This dry spell is creating more confusion worldwide than I have ever seen in the past 75 years. You might even think it was this country's first experience.
In the old days, we averaged two dry years out of every five and planned accordingly. Fifty percent of the total U.S. population lived on farms, and had a windmill with a garden patch close by where it could be watered from the well on dry years, thus assuring the farm folk those 500 quart and lacquer jars would be filled and in the cellar when winter arrived!

They also raised their own meat, milk, poultry and eggs leaving only coffee, sugar and seasoning to be bought; they also had a weekly check from the cream and eggs they sold every Saturday when they went to town!
In dry summers they would get out their one-horse drill and plant seven rows of rye between the rows of corn, hoping for fall rains that would bring a beautiful fall and winter pasture for the work horses and milk cows — thus assuring survival of the livestock.
Today less than 2 percent of our total population live on farms, they raise nothing but cash crops and preserve nothing for these rough days ahead, with daily worries about interest and principal payments. They congregate at coffee shops daily to discuss their aches and pains — much more security the old fashioned way!
And our farm subsidy payments are almost as large as the military waste program where 75 cents of every dollar is down the drain.

Judgment on judge: jury's out

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

Experience has proven the wisdom of the advice: "The attorney who represents himself has a fool for a client."

Now we have to wonder if there isn't something pretty close to the same for judges who preside over courtrooms.

How about this? "The judge who loses sight of fairness can't see to judge."

Forgive me. I don't have much experience at creating introspective words of wisdom, but Hubert I. Teitelbaum has inspired me.

Have you heard about Hubert I. Teitelbaum? He's the federal judge from Pittsburgh who last week gave his city another black eye that it does not need.

It was in the esteemed federal court of Senior U.S. District Judge Teitelbaum that an attorney by the name of Barbara Wolvowitz got a real good taste of a real bad experience.

Wolvowitz was the attorney threatened with being jailed for using her maiden name in Teitelbaum's courtroom.

It sounds very much like Judge Teitelbaum, appointed in 1970, needs to join the 1980s or remove himself from the bench. Of course, if a judge fails to be fair and reasonable, he's hardly one to be a judge I suppose — or one to be passing judgment on his own fitness for the task.

What he said was: "From here on, in this courtroom you will use Mrs. Lobel. That's your name." There is no question but that she is indeed married to a man by the name of Julius Lobel.

She protested, informing the judge she's known by her given name: Ms. Wolvowitz. She was told by the judge, in turn, that there would be no use of the term Ms. in his courtroom and she faced charges and jailing if she pressed the issue.

When her co-counsel protested, Teitelbaum found him in contempt of court for "officious intermeddling" and gave him a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail, an Associated Press story on the subject informed us last week.

I'm no attorney and therefore unaware of the nuances of such legalese, but even I can figure out that "officious intermeddling" is no title you'd likely frame and place on your law office wall — unless it was granted by someone so esteemed as Judge Teitelbaum.

The judge, presiding over a race discrimination suit against PPG Industries Inc., also asked each of the six female jurors Friday if she used her husband's name or maiden name. All used their husbands' names. No one seems to know what possible bearing that could have on racial discrimination — and the judge refused to talk to the press last week.

When Mrs. Wolvowitz asked for a mistrial Monday, Teitelbaum retorted, "What if I call you sweetie?" which helps give us a little better perspective on his sensibility.

That should have been comment enough that Judge Teitelbaum is wasting his time on a frivolous subject — but no, the good judge did it one better.

He judiciously informed Ms. Wolvowitz (which is what we will call her in my court, since that's the term she prefers) that under the laws of the state of Pennsylvania, in order for her not to use Mrs. Lobel and be called by her maiden name, she must petition Common Pleas Court for permission.

Gosh — I thought we lived in the land of the free. Apparently we do, as long as we stay out of Judge Teitelbaum's courtroom.

The judge's case was weakened — along with his credibility — when a review of the Pennsylvania Family Law Practice and Procedure Handbook said no legal proceedings are required to do what Ms. Wolvowitz has done.

It's probably something he should know about if he is going to sit in judgment of other people's actions.

One observer said "I can't understand how anybody who's bright enough to be on federal court can make such an error in judgment." The simple truth is that anyone bright enough to be on a federal court would not make such an error in judgment.

Election of McCarthy exposes Teamsters' rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters' election of a veteran "old guard" East Coast leader to succeed Jackie Presser as its president exposes a major rift in the nation's largest union at a time of its greatest peril.

Whatever his faults, the 61-year-old Presser, in his five years as the Teamsters' president, had tried to counter an image of the nation's largest union as an adjunct of organized crime.

He launched an aggressive public relations campaign and opened the union, at least partially, to more public view. He also moved the Teamsters back into the mainstream of the labor movement, directing its reaffiliation with the AFL-CIO last October after 30 years of warfare between the two bodies.

Presser died on July 9, and some see the election this past week of William J. McCarthy, 69, of Boston, over Presser's handpicked heir, Secretary-Treasurer Weldon Mathis, as a repudiation of those efforts. McCarthy was picked by a 9-8 majority among the 17 members of the Teamsters executive board.

His victory, according to several sources in the union, was orchestrated by Teamster power broker Joseph Trerotola of New York, who at 70 is the most powerful vice president and head of Teamsters operations in 15 East Coast states.

"The old East Coast guys won over the progressives," said one source close to the Teamsters, adding that the battle is likely to be refought at the Teamsters' next convention in 1991. "Two years from now, you're going to start seeing people campaigning like crazy."

Neither Trerotola nor McCarthy has ever been indicted.

And McCarthy is described by other union leaders in the Boston area as being stubborn, headstrong and sometimes a maverick — but free of ties with known mob leaders.

Trerotola also is described as "clean."

Workers search for shuttle leak

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Technicians probed deeper into a space shuttle steering engine Saturday for the source of a faint gas leak that could delay for up to two months the launch of Discovery on the first post-Challenger flight.

Workers turned valves on and off and used sniffing machines and other detection devices in their search for the elusive leak.

Concern grew among NASA officials that the leak might be so inaccessible that Discovery would have to be removed from the launch pad for repairs.

NASA spokesman Chuck Hollinshead said that could delay the early September launch by as much as two months.

Officials planned an afternoon meeting to discuss the problem.

The leak is in a pod containing one of two engines used to steer the ship in space and to slow it down to drop it out of orbit for the return to Earth.

Ill refusnik arrives in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — A critically ill Soviet mathematician who fought for nine years to emigrate to the United States for medical treatment arrived here with his wife Saturday aboard a U.S. industrialist Armand Hammer's private jet.

Benjamin Charny, 50, whose emigration had been blocked by Soviet officials who claimed he was privy to state secrets, was met at Logan International Airport by family members and U.S. political figures who worked for his release.

"I can tell you that I'm infinitely grateful to Mr. Hammer that brought me to you as a magician in a fairy tale," Charny said.

Hammer, who said he had appealed directly to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on Charny's behalf, said, "This has been a difficult case. I feel it has been a privilege for me to assist."

Salt water stalls in Mississippi

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The salt water that has pushed upstream in the Mississippi River from the Gulf of Mexico, threatening drinking water and industrial needs, retreated a half mile Friday, officials said.

However, the leading edge of the wedge-shaped mass of salty water will push forward once more if the flow of the drought-diminished river falls again, said a spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers.

Because less fresh water is flowing down the river, denser salt water is displacing the river water and flowing upstream, close to the river bottom.

The corps is building a dirt dam 32 miles downstream from New Orleans' Canal Street to retard the progress of the salt water while allowing fresh water to flow over the top. The underwater dike will be 25 feet high.

A combination of the dam and natural occurrences, including an increase in water flow, could be causing the salt water to retreat, the corps said.

Nadar investigating home town

WINSTED, Conn. (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has come home again. But the mayor wishes he'd mind his own business and stay in Washington.

"You know, Ralph Nader is not the king of Winsted," said Mayor James D. O'Meara.

Nader's men have battled for almost two years over a school in Winsted and his family fought to get a drive to save and rebuild the big, red brick building built in 1900. O'Meara wanted the Mary P. Hinsdale School flattened because of structural problems and replaced with a modern structure.

The mayor won, with the backing of a majority of the voters, and demolition began July 6.

That prompted Nader to launch an investigation by his Public Interest Research Group into how Winsted decides issues of great public interest.

CHICAGO — Water department worker Nick Dolas surveys the intake of water recently from a pumping station in the middle of Lake Michigan.

Drought distant for crib keepers

CHICAGO (AP) — While much of the Midwest wakes up to drought, Nick Dolas' first view in the morning is water — everywhere.

Dolas works three miles out in Lake Michigan at a city water intake station, making sure nothing stops the flow of fresh water to 6 million people.

He is part of two six-man crews that work 12-hour shifts on two pairs of steel-and-concrete stations that serve Chicago and 94 suburbs.

The four cribs, as they are called, take in most of the city's and send it to two purification plants, which have a combined pumping capacity of 3 billion gallons a day. Two other cribs serve as backups.

"I think we take in a billion gallons of water a day," said the 46-year-old Dolas, who has worked for five years at the Carter Harrison-William E. Dever cribs. "And that's not even at a hundred percent capacity."

The crew members, called crib

Five dead in Paris hotel fire

PARIS (AP) — A fire destroyed a hotel in a northern Paris neighborhood early Saturday, and police said it killed five people and injured several more, including American, West German, British and Belgian tourists.

The names of the foreigners injured in the blaze were not made public, and officials said four of the dead had not been identified.

The manager of the Hotel St. Vincent de Paul, Bernard Bonhomme, 60, was taken to a hospital in nearby Seresnes with severe burns and died late Saturday, police said.

About 50 people, mostly young foreigners, were asleep in the hotel when the fire broke out at about 3:30 a.m., authorities said.

It started on the fourth floor of the hotel on rue d'Hauteville, in a run-down neighborhood near the Gare du Nord train station.

Fire officials said the cause of the fire was unknown but that it appeared to be accidental.

Pact leaders offer to negotiate

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Warsaw Pact allies offered Saturday to negotiate conventional force imbalances with their NATO counterparts this year and accepted the West's demand that the talks cover weapons as well as troop levels.

But a joint communique issued at the close of a two-day summit here made no mention of human rights issues. The United States has indicated it is reluctant to discuss troop reductions until there is more progress on human rights in the East bloc.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev flew home to Moscow after the summit, ending a six-day visit to Poland that he used to promote his social and economic reform programs and encourage Poles to press ahead with their somewhat similar policy of "socialist renewal."

Iraq claims raid on oil station

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iraq said its warplanes raided two Iranian oil pumping stations near the southern city of Dezful on Saturday, and Iran accused Iraq of shelling northern villages and killing civilians.

The official Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, said the air raids were "destructive and effective." Iran did not comment on the Iraqi claims.

Iranian television, also monitored in Nicosia, said the Iraqis shelled the northern border region of Sardasht with long-range artillery, killing two farmers and wounding seven others.

An Iraqi military statement carried by INA denied the Iranian report of shelling civilian targets in northern Iran. It said its air raids are aimed at destroying Iran's oil installations, which finance the nearly 8-year-old war with Iraq.

The communique said Iraqi air force jets flew 87 combat missions at various points along the front and that helicopter gunships carried out 122 sorties.

Amazon boat sinks; nine drown

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — An Amazon ferry hit a partially submerged shipwreck and sank just outside the eastern port of Belem, killing at least nine people, the Belem port authority said Saturday.

Rescue workers pulled more than 70 survivors out of the Belem bay shortly after the accident Friday night, said port authority official Jonas Miranda.

Miranda said more passengers may have drowned just after the ferry hit the wreck. It was traveling from Belem, 2,070 miles north of Rio de Janeiro, to the nearby island of Marajo at the mouth of the Amazon, he said.

TV Globo, the nation's largest television network, reported Saturday that the vessel had a capacity of 60 people but more than 100 were aboard when it left Belem.

As convention begins, Jesse's role uncertain

By DAVID ESPO
AP Political Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Democrats assemble this week to give Michael Dukakis a southern-style send-off in his race for the White House and they can only hope that Jesse Jackson, a born scene-stealer, will decide to play a supporting role.

From Monday night's warbling rendition of the Star Spangled Banner by radio personality Garrison Keillor to the high-profile acceptance speeches by Dukakis and running mate Lloyd Bentsen, the Democratic Party has spent many months and many millions on a program to boost its chances of winning the White House.

Massachusetts Gov. Dukakis marches into Dixie on Sunday as the unquestioned nominee of his party. He has more than enough delegates to crush any attempt by Jackson to alter the bare bones platform he decreed, and more than enough clout to make sure the convention ratifies his choice of Texas Sen. Bentsen as running mate.

But it will be up to Jackson, who has the allegiance of roughly one quarter of the convention's 4,210 delegates, to decide how unified and harmonious a front the party presents to the four-night prime time audience.

ATLANTA — Messengers place temporary state markers on the floor of the Omni coliseum Thursday to aid television crews marking their positions. The Democratic National Convention begins Monday.

As Dukakis' last remaining rival for the nomination, he has promised repeatedly to support the Democratic ticket this fall. But he angrily broke off platform negotiations with Dukakis last week after learning of Bentsen's selection from a reporter rather than from the governor himself.

Whatever Jackson decides — whether he contests the platform, tries to challenge Bentsen's spot on the ticket or leaves the Omni to lead the thousands of supporters who say they will be in the streets — New Englander Dukakis' nomination will be spiced with a southern flavor.

David Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Phillips, 1308 Runnels, and Perry Butler, Harlingen, has been awarded a $9,500 music scholarship by Dominican College, San Rafael, Calif.

He is a 1981 graduate of Big Spring High School. Since 1983 he has worked for The Dallas Opera, first on the production staff, and since 1985 he has sung in the company's renowned chorus and served as secretary to the founder and artistic director, Maestro Rescigno.

Upon completion of his studies he plans to continue working as an opera administrator.

• Stacey A. Bott, Forsan, received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering and Gregory B. Griffith, Big Spring, received a master's degree in agricultural economics at Texas A&M University's 1988 spring commencement exercises.

House Speaker Jim Wright of Texas will preside as chairman and Texas State Treasurer Ann Richards will deliver the keynote address that is the highlight of Monday night's opening session. Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton will place Dukakis' name in nomination on Tuesday night in another bow to a region of the country that Democrats used to win regularly in presidential elections, but now seems largely out of reach.

On the first night, the assembled Democrats also will hear from former President Jimmy Carter, a native Georgian who once served as governor.

Tuesday night's program is expected to begin with the platform and end with a speech by Jackson, with appearances by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and other party leaders in between. Jackson's forces have prepared several minority planks to the platform, and while a vote on some or all is possible, the differences also may be ironed out in advance. Delegates will see a video presentation about Jackson, to be introduced by his children.

The party picks its nominee on Wednesday, with Dukakis and Jackson the only names entered in nomination.

Bentsen will be picked for vice president on Thursday — with or without a fight by the Jackson forces — and then he and Dukakis will deliver their acceptance speeches.

Party officials say that anyone interested in challenging Bentsen's nomination must submit a petition with between 300 and 600 delegate signatures by Thursday morning. Jackson has more than enough supporters in the hall to accomplish that, if he wants.

Whatever else happens, there will be the usual street demonstrations outside the hall. Rumors circulated that the Ku Klux Klan would stage a demonstration, and party spokesman Mike McCurry said Democratic officials are concerned about the threat of violence. "That does concern the party... we're well prepared to deal with any situation that arises," he said.

Republicans have set up a beachhead in the Democrats' host city, and have arranged for several prominent officials to take pot shots each day at Dukakis' and Bentsen.

The host city was busy sprucing itself up for its four days in the

In order to be named a "Distinguished Student," a student must be registered for 15 or more semester hours and earn at least a 3.25 grade point ratio, out of a possible 4.0, during the most recent grading period.

Kelly Parks, a 1988 graduate of Big Spring High School was chosen a Texaco Philanthropic Foundation Scholarship winner. Presentation of a Scholarship Certificate was made recently at a special reception and dinner in his honor.

Kelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Parks, Big Spring. Mr. Parks is a Texaco Pumper in the North Vealmoor area.

Kelly completed Big Spring High School in only three years yet graduated with an advanced honors diploma. He ranked in the top five percent of his class. He is also a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist.

In the 4-H Shooting Sports District competition, he was trapshooting champion for 1986 and 1987, as well as overall champion in 1987. He earned letterman status in impromptu speaking at Big Spring High School.

Kelly has been designated to receive a Youth for Understanding Scholarship that enables him to be an exchange student in Frankfurt, Germany during the 1988-89 school year.

After studying in Germany he will attend a military academy or a major university where he intends to study Aeronautical Engineering.

The Texaco Philanthropic Foundation Scholarship Program was established to help finance the college education of outstanding sons and daughters of Texaco employees. The awards are made to assist Texaco families in meeting the costs of sending their children to accredited U.S. colleges or universities selected by the recipients.

Sally and Jim Beam enjoy the cool of the evening at the pool/courtyard area of their home at Coronado Hills Apartments.

Residents made many friends at Coronado Hills Apartments

"You can't imagine how quiet it is," says Jim Beam of his home at Coronado Hills Apartments. Jim and Sally were sitting in their beautifully decorated living room, recalling the 19 years they had lived at Coronado Hills.

"We've had such good neighbors," says Sally. The Beams still visit former neighbors Roger and Kenita Kionka who now live in Fort Worth.

"They lived next door to us. Denta planted a magnolia tree in their patio here, and they still ask about their tree." Jim usually sets out tomato plants on the Beams' patio, and he expects a good crop. "I added Jalapenos this year," he says.

Sally appreciates the extra storage space and large closets of their apartment. And the location is handy to Marcy Elementary School, where she teaches.

Jim, who retired as principal at College Heights Elementary school in 1980, says he enjoys the upstairs bedroom, overlooking the courtyard. "You get a lot of cool breeze when you open the windows & you don't even need air conditioning at night."

They spend many spring evenings sitting around the pool visiting with other residents. Or sitting in the lawn swing admiring the floribunda roses.

They share their two-bedroom apartment with a 14-year-old grey-striped cat named Chessie.

Residents at Coronado Hills, 801 Marcy, have access to a beautifully landscaped courtyard, swimming pool and party room. Apartment kitchens are furnished with frost-free refrigerator, freezers, disposal, dishwasher and range with eye-level oven. Gas and water are paid.

Two-bedroom studio apartments have one and one-half

ERIE, Colo. — A group of combines from Hays, Kan. harvest wheat in a field north of Denver Wednesday morning. Adequate rainfall over the past few months ensured near-normal yields for area farmers.

Drought

Experts says public interest needed

SMYRNA, Ga. (AP) — Public interest in the Earth's troubled climate may be washed away with the heavy rains that are needed to end the current U.S. drought, weather experts warned during a drought symposium here.

"Society tends to flit from hysteria to hysteria," said Pat Michaels, Virginia's state climatologist and moderator of the symposium.

He said the 1988 drought, although not as dry as a 1986 drought in many places, has drawn much attention because some of the affected areas include large media centers.

"I'm worried... that when the next drought happens, we are going to have to rediscover the climate problem," said Michaels, president of the Association of State Climatologists.

Experts said Thursday that the greenhouse effect — the warming of the Earth's atmosphere — has brought needed attention to changes in the global climate, even though it is not directly related to the drought.

Many of the 13 climatologists and meteorologists at the symposium agreed that the Earth's temperature is warming, but they debated whether it is a short- or long-term phenomenon and its impact on Earth.

However, Alan Hecht, director of the National Climate Program in Washington, D.C., said the uncertainty means policymakers should begin to deal with the possible effects, especially undertaking policies that "make sense in their own right."

Mankind must reduce reliance on fossil fuels, he said, by becoming more energy efficient, replanting forests and investigating alternative energy supplies.

Scientists have warned in recent years that Earth's atmosphere is gaining in carbon dioxide and other gases, which trap heat and cause the overall temperature to rise. Besides fossil fuels, the depletion of forests in South America has been blamed for the increase of carbon dioxide and methane.

Some have warned that higher temperature will change the character of many countries, for example drying out the U.S. Midwest or melting polar ice caps.

The symposium was sponsored by The Weather Channel, an Atlanta-based cable network, which broadcast the meeting live.

Earlier Thursday, the climatologists were told the movement of planets and the moon and sunspots may help lead to drought in the Southeast.

"There is some evidence that as Jupiter goes around the sun at its fastest point, there are drought conditions in the Southeast in the months of April and October," Georgia state climatologist Gayther Plummer said.

However, David Rodenhuis, director of the federal Climate Analysis Center in Washington, said he was skeptical of Plummer's thesis.

"There's an enormous number of possibilities that one could chase," Rodenhuis said. "The next business of the scientist is to extend the range of analysis and look for cause and effect."

Southern farmers donate hay to Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A convoy of 67 trucks rolled into town loaded with more than 45,000 bales of hay donated by Southern farmers returning a favor to Ohio farmers, who are short of livestock feed because of the drought.

"It's the greatest feeling in the world," said Charlie Rabb, an Ellerbe, N.C., farmer who received donated Ohio hay during a 1986 drought. "I should be home now. But you guys helped us two years ago, and I'll never forget it."

The caravan was greeted Thursday night by people who stopped their cars to wave from an interstate overpass and by Gov. Richard Celeste, who thanked Rabb and others for the donated hay and labor.

"We're really very grateful for the generosity and human spirit of these folks who we wanted to help a couple of years ago and who now are helping us in an extraordinary way," Celeste said.

The trucks carried 45,000 to 48,000 bales, said Tom Cotter of the organizing Charlotte Motor Speedway.

"We're paying it back with interest," Cotter said, referring to the farmers' hay gift in 1986. "We took 20,000 bales two years ago, and we're bringing back more than twice that, so we're happy."

The hay will be distributed to farmers in several counties starting today, the Ohio Department of Agriculture said.

More than 100 volunteers helped unload the hay, including eight prisoners from the London Correctional Institution, about 30 miles west of Columbus.

North Carolina Gov. Jim Martin sent the trucks on their way early Thursday, giving each driver the green flag as the convoy made one lap around the 1.5-mile NASCAR superspeedway before leaving.

The convoy included about 20 rigs that normally haul NASCAR race cars and trucks donated by companies and independent truckers.

Summer camp

This one's special for special campers

By MAX RIZLEY JR.
Galveston Daily News
FRIENDSWOOD (AP) — "Polymyositis," "Duchenne's," "Charcot-Mary-Tooth." Awfully big words for anyone to have to learn, but the kids at Camp Manison know them and they learn them early.

Those are three forms of the disorder which has brought them together at this special place — muscular dystrophy.

For one week, these children and young adults — 6 to 21 years old — are able to leave the frustration and isolation faced by "different" people in a "normal" world, and enter the Muscular Dystrophy Association-run summer camp, where they are the "normal" ones.

"It's such a great thing," said camp director Monica Smith. "They get here and say, 'Hey, I'm not the only kid who falls down or can't run like the other boys'... some of them you see there, really blossom."

"There" was a boisterous and apparently no-holds-barred game of softball, going on in a field behind a covered patio area. "Go, go, go, go!" shrielled one of the counselors, as a batter in a wheelchair stroked a grounder toward center field and was hustled to first by his attendant. "Go, go, go, safe!"

Each camper, Ms. Smith explained, has an attendant, a teenager who volunteers his or her services. They aren't just wheelchair-pushers, she added, they perform the most personal of tasks for youths who in many cases cannot even turn over in bed.

For the most part, she said, the attendants and campers don't meet each other until the first day of camp; however, 16-year-old Omar Montemayor arrived in camp from his Galveston home on Sunday with his 18-year-old cousin Jimmy Martinez in tow.

This was Omar's fourth stay at Camp Manison and Jimmy's first. "Omar asked me if I wanted to come," said Jimmy, a Port Lavaca resident.

"I always told him I would have fun here," Omar said. "So I asked him to come, and he said yeah."

"I get a lot out of it," Jimmy said. "It's a great feeling."

Now it was Omar's turn on the home plate, with Jimmy pinching him for him. He connected with the ball on a low arc toward third, and himself and Omar to first. As the pitcher wound up for the next throw, Jimmy began sidling Omar's wheelchair toward second.

"Hey, hey, hey," a sharp-eyed ump barked. "Gotta have a wheel on the base!"

Student wins national award

Competing against 5,685 school winners from throughout the United States, Rene Stewart, a Sterling City High School senior, has won a national Principals Leadership Award.

Ronnie Krejci, principal, Sterling City High School, announced the award, which includes a $1,000 college scholarship. One hundred fifty Principals Leadership Awards were presented by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) and Herff Jones, Inc.

Principals in high schools throughout the country could nominate one of their student leaders. Winners were selected based on their participation in service organizations, clubs, and athletics; achievements in the arts and sciences; employment experience; and academic record. They also had to write about their personal leadership style and how it was developed through student activities.

"Stewart has built a record of outstanding service and scholarship while in high school," said

Scott Thomson, executive director, NASSP. "Her leadership potential clearly is demonstrated by winning the Principals Leadership Award. Rene' is a fine example of the outstanding calibre of young people in America's high schools."

While at Sterling City High School, Rene served as president of her class for 4 years, of the 4-H club for 6 years and District 7 4-H for one year, of the FFA chapter for 3 years and Concho District FFA for one year, of the National Honor Society and the Golden Eagle Band for one year. Rene also served as state president of the Texas Junior Hereford Association for one year and is completing a one year term on the Texas 4-H Council. She has also served as head cheerleader two of the four years on the squad.

Rene will be attending Texas A&M in the fall as an agriculture major.

Space shuttle Discovery has engine leak

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Discovery sprang a small gas leak in one of its steering engines Friday, and NASA said there was a possibility of additional delay in the launch of the first post-Challenger shuttle flight.

Technicians detected an odor of nitrogen tetroxide gas while preparing Discovery on Launch Pad 39B, but after several hours of inspection they had not found the source of the leak, said space agency spokeswoman Lisa Malone.

She said it was too early to determine if the planned early-September launch would have to be postponed because of the latest problem.

"It will depend on where the leak is and how severe it is," Malone said.

Officials said they believed the leak was in one of three places, all within the pod that covers the left Orbital Maneuvering System engine, one of two used to steer the shuttle in orbit. They are a power valve, an oxidizer tank filter or a jet thruster.

Malone said that if the leak is in a thruster, the problem could be corrected on the launch pad. If it is one of the other two areas, Discovery might have to be rolled off the pad and back to an assembly building where equipment is available to remove and possibly replace the pod.

Transferring the shuttle off the pad could mean a delay of several weeks, officials estimated.

Nitrogen tetroxide serves as the oxidizer in the OMS engines.

Malone said when initially detected, the leak rate was 15 parts per million, considered very minor. Later, the rate dropped to 3 or 4 ppm, making it difficult to locate the source, she said.

She said technicians were using sniffing devices and were cycling valves in an effort to track down the source.

It was not certain what effect the leak would have on a critical test in which Discovery's three main engines — those apart from the OMS engines — are to be test-fired on the launch pad for 20 seconds.

The first space shuttle flight since the Challenger explosion 2 1/2 years ago has been delayed numerous times since NASA first set a launch date for last February.

Elsewhere, engineers at the Morton Thiokol plant in Utah continued to inspect a solid fuel booster rocket damaged last week when a joint was mistakenly overpressurized.

A ground test-firing of the rocket has been delayed from late July until at least mid-August while experts consider what repairs have to be made.

The test, the fifth fullscale firing of the redesigned rocket, is considered essential before Discovery can be committed to flight with two of the boosters.

The Challenger explosion that killed seven astronauts was triggered by a faulty joint in a booster rocket.

Innocent verdicts given in Texas civil rights trial

HEMPHILL (AP) — Jurors on Friday acquitted three white lawmen accused of civil rights violations in the alleged beating death of a black jail inmate, who died two days after his arrest Christmas night.

The verdict, issued at 1:45 p.m., came after almost 11 hours of deliberations that began Thursday afternoon, said deputy clerk Jeanne Huff.

The three lawmen had been accused of violating the civil rights of Loyd Garner Jr., a Louisiana man who died in a Tyler hospital two days after he was arrested on a drunk driving charge and jailed in Hemphill.

The three lawmen took the stand during the two-week trial and denied they caused the blows that led to Garner's death.

If convicted of violating Garner's civil rights, each could have received a maximum life sentence.

Charged in the case were former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 41, and Sabine County deputies James "Bo" Hyden, 35, and Bill Horton, 58.

Ladner, who was crying as the verdict was announced, wiped his face with a handkerchief. Later, he and the two other defendants hugged their attorneys and relatives.

All three lawmen refused to talk to reporters, as did all the jurors.

"I'm obviously very pleased," said John Seale, Ladner's attorney. "It was the right result. This was the most hard fought case I've ever been involved in."

Special prosecutor John Hannah said he would take the case to the U.S. Justice Department and plead with them to file other indictments.

"This could sound like sour grapes from the losing side, but I do have a right to seek justice elsewhere. The results were unfair," Hannah said.

Corrine Garner, the victim's wife, said she was disappointed.

"I didn't like it. I guess we'll have to go to Tyler," she said, referring to murder charges filed against the three men in that East Texas town in her husband's death. That trial is to begin Monday.

Garner's mother, Sarah, said, "I'm not worried. It's not what I'm going to get, I turn it over to God. It's what God's going to get. I'm going to keep on hoping."

Paul Buchanan, Hyden's attorney, Buchanan also said he would file motions at a pretrial hearing Saturday in Tyler challenging the murder trial, contending it placed the defendants in double jeopardy.

Nationals split games in tourney

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — The Big Spring National League All-Stars dug themselves into a hole Friday night against the Midland Western All-Stars — and they almost made their way out.

But, as the old adage goes, "almost doesn't count." The Nationals found themselves on the short end of a 20-17 finale in District III Little League tournament play.

But the Nationals rebounded from the loss by defeating Odessa Sherwood 6-5 Saturday night. The win gives the Nationals a 2-1 record in tournament play. They will play Monday at 7:30 against Floyd Gwin.

Saturday Floyd Gwin eliminated the Coahoma All-Stars 6-1.

In Saturday's win, Matt Cave and Wes Hughes combined for the Nationals victory. Cave pitched the first three innings and trailed 5-1. Hughes went the remainder of the way and picked up the win.

The Nationals scored five runs in the fourth inning. The big blow was a grand slam homer by Hughes.

Friday, the never-say-die Big Spring team battled back from a 17-0 second inning deficit, and had the Midland team "sweating" at the end. What looked like a sure blowout turned out to be one of the most competitive games of the tournament thus far.

Both managers went to the dugout during the fifth inning. The Nationals used five pitchers, the most a team can use in one tournament game, while Western used three hurlers.

Nationals starter Phillip Bridge took the loss and Western starter Jamie Willingham got the win.

Western batted for 30 minutes in its first at bat, chasing Bridge from the mound after he failed to retire the first seven batters.

Torbie Lancaster followed with a home run. The Nationals' offense was just as bad.

Still in the first inning, Brandon Henderson replaced Lancaster, and finally retired the side. But not before Western had batted around twice, scoring 14 runs on nine hits. Both Bridge and Lancaster yielded seven runs each.

Following Henderson was Heath Gillispie and Ross Roberts.

Following the game, Henderson of all Big Spring pitchers. He went two innings, allowing three hits and three runs. Two were unearned. Roberts pitched the final inning.

Rain stops Open

LYTHAM, England (AP) — Three greens were flooded — and one Hubert Green was burned — by steady rains that washed out third-round play Saturday in the 117th British Open golf championship.

The rare rainout, actually caused by flooded greens at the Royal Lytham and St. Annes Golf Club, pushed back the third round until Sunday and set up the first Monday finish in tournament history.

The sponsoring Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews first announced a double round of 36 holes for Sunday.

Hours later, as the steady rain continued, the R and A revised its plans and went to single rounds of 18 holes both Sunday and Monday.

"The substantial amount of water on the course could not be cleared in time" to accommodate the early-morning starting time necessary for a double round, the R and A said.

The third round now is scheduled to begin Sunday at 6:15 a.m. EDT with the last threesome starting at 10:05 a.m. Monday's times will be announced later.

None of the leaders had started and none of the early starters had finished their rounds Saturday when play was abandoned due to floods on the greens at holes Nos. 9, 10 and 11.

The Royal and Ancient announced that all partial scores were wiped out. All scores will revert to 36-hole totals. And that burned Green.

Green, 41, the 1977 U.S. Open winner and the 1985 PGA champion, birdied five of the seven holes he played before the wash-out. He was even par for the tournament at that point, only five shots off the lead.

All those birdies are lost, however, and his score goes back to his second-round total, 147, 5-over-par and 10 behind leader Nick Price.

"That's golf," said Green. "They have to do what they have to do."

Some other Americans who lost fast starts were Corey Pavin, LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England — American Tom Watson, winner of five previous Opens, shows his feeling during third round play in the rain-hit British Open.

3-under-par for seven holes; Paul Azinger, 3-under for six holes, and Tom Watson, 2-under for four holes.

Alistar Low, chairman of the championship committee of the R and A, said the decision to wipe out Saturday's scores was prompted by the necessity to change pin positions on the flooded greens.

"Pin positions will be changed, at least on nine, and in that condition we had no alternative but to cancel the scores from today," Low said.

It was the correct decision, Price, the tournament leader, said.

Then he added: "But it would be a little hard to accept if I were in Hubert's position. It's going to be hard for the guys who did get off to pretty good starts to go out and pull the trigger tomorrow and to play the same holes again."

Low said the R and A originally opted for the first double-round wind-up since 1961 rather than extend the format by a full day because "Monday seemed to be very unattractive — more especially as in regards to hotel and travel accommodations."

The weather forecast for Sunday calls for drizzle in the morning, with clearing in the afternoon.

Price, a native of South Africa who now lives in the United States, remained the leader with a 36-hole total of 137, 5-under-par.

That's one ahead of Seve Ballesteros of Spain, twice a winner of this title. Defending champion Nick Faldo of England and American Craig Stadler followed at 140. American Andy Bean was at 141.

Masters champion Sandy Lyle of Scotland was tied with Americans Fred Couples and Bob Tway at 142.

Boxing trials

Banks stays on road to Olympics

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Kelcie Banks, a world amateur and Pan American Games champion, kept alive his hopes of going to Seoul when he beat Ed Hopson in the 125-pound bout of the Olympic Box-Offs on Saturday.

Banks won a 4-1 decision, which was roundly booed by about 2,500 fans at the Caesars Palace Sports Pavilion.

Had Hopson won, he would have made the Olympic team. The victory by Banks, invited to the box-off as a "most noteworthy" opponent, means the two must fight Sunday for the Olympic berth.

The 6-foot Banks, a left-hander from Chicago, had lost 3-2 to Hopson in the semifinals of the Olympic Trials. Banks scored well with some left jabs and right-hand counters but Hopson, a 17-year-old high school junior from St. Louis, appeared to be the busier boxer.

Another "most noteworthy" opponent, Michael Collins of LaPorte,

Texas, forced a Sunday bout at 119 pounds when he scored a 4-1 decision over Trials champion Kennedy McKinney of Killeen, Texas.

Riddick Bowe of New York forced a Sunday fight in the super heavyweight division when he outscored Robert Salter of Fort Bragg, N.C., 3-2 in a dull, mauling bout. Salter had stopped Bowe in the first round of the semifinals of the U.S. Amateur Championships, which he won, and scored a 4-1 decision over Bowe in the Olympic Trials final despite being knocked down in the first round.

There was a little action Saturday and Bowe apparently gained the verdict with quite a few left jabs and being busier inside. Bowe weighed 231 pounds while the 25-year-old Salter weighed 248½.

In five of the first eight bouts, Olympic Trials champions won and made the Olympic team.

Kenneth Gould of Rockford, Ill., who won a world amateur title in 1986 when Banks won his, was just too fast and experienced for the harder-punching Gerry Payne of Washington, D.C., was disqualified in the 147-pound bout. Four of the five judges voted for Gould.

Michael Carbajal of Phoenix opened the show with a victory at 106 pounds when James Harris of Washington, D.C., was disqualified in the third round for holding. The bout was halted with 49 seconds left in the first round when the lights went out.

Arthur Johnson of Minneapolis scored a 4-1 decision over Chris Carrillo of Whittier, Calif., at 112 pounds. Johnson, who had had trouble in beating Carrillo 3-2 in the Trials final, used his boxing skills to make things easier for himself on Saturday.

Romallis Ellis of Ulenwood, Ga., easily outboxed Lyndon Walker of Washington, D.C., in gaining a 5-0 decision at 132 pounds.

Walker loses lead; then regains it

DANVERS, Mass. (AP) — Colleen Walker lost her entire five-stroke lead on the first eight holes, but regained it in the final three to finish Saturday's third round of the LPGA Boston Five Classic four shots ahead of Jan Stephenson.

LPGA

Walker and Stephenson were tied through 15 holes at nine under par before Walker surged and Stephenson sagged on the steamy Tara Ferncroft golf course.

Walker, who led after each of the first two rounds, birdied the 16th and 18th holes while Stephenson, struggling with her drives, bogeyed the 17th and 18th, the latter a 485-yard par-5 on which she hit a bunker and missed a 10-foot putt for a birdie.

The four-stroke swing left Walker, who shot a 2-under-par 70, with a three-day total of 11-under 205. Stephenson had a 3-under 69 for a 209 going into Sunday's final round of the $300,000 tournament north of Boston.

Betsy King, who played with Walker and Stephenson in the final group, shot 70 on the par-72, 6,008-yard course and was in third place at 210.

Walker began the day with a five-stroke lead over six golfers, including Stephenson and King. But a slow start in which she bogeyed the first two holes, both par-4's, cut Walker's lead to two strokes over Cindy Rarick.

Walker never fell out of the lead although she shared it with Stephenson for much of the round, played in high humidity and temperatures in the 90s.

Stephenson trailed by three strokes after making pars on the first three holes.

Then Stephenson, seeking her first victory of the year and 17th of her career, made her move. A birdie on the 337-yard fourth hole began a string of five holes over which she made four birdies. Her birdie on the 150-yard eighth hole put her at eight under par and gave her a share of the lead with Walker for the first time.

While Stephenson was bogeying the final hole, Walker birdied it by two-putting from 50 feet.

Like Stephenson, Jane Geddes, who won the tournament the past two years, shot 4-under-par 31 on the front nine to move into contention at six under par. But she bogeyed the 16th hole and finished the day with a 69 for a 211, six strokes off the lead.

She was tied with Pam Allen, who also shot 69. Rarick and Cathy Marino, who both shot 72, were tied at 212 with Patty Sheehan, who fired a 67.

Pokes scrimmage ends in tie

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Free agent cornerback Curtis Baham returned an interception 101 yards for a touchdown to help the Dallas Cowboys to a tie against the Los Angeles Rams in a rookies intersquad scrimmage Saturday at the Cowboys' training camp.

Each team scored three touchdowns in the contest on the campus of California Lutheran University, which concluded after each team had four offensive possessions of 12 plays or more.

First-year receiver Everett Gay caught a 17-yard scoring pass from Kevin Sweeney on the Cowboys' opening possession, and second-year fullback Gerald White added a one-yard touchdown run for the Cowboys.

In addition to Baham's interception, the Dallas defense registered turnovers with an interception by linebacker Ben Hummel and a goal-line fumble recovery by safety Billy Owens.

Keith Jones, who led the Rams with 72 yards on 12 carries, scored on a 2-yard run for the first Los Angeles touchdown. Robert Delpino added a 1-yard run, and Eric Johnson recovered John Francis' fumble in the end zone for the final Rams score.

Quarterback Hugh Milten completed nine of 13 passes for 186 yards, while Jon Embry led Los Angeles with three receptions for 61 yards.

"I thought today was a good practice," Cowboys head coach Tom Landry said afterward. "We had a lot of looks in a lot of different situations. It's very hard to single out guys. The main thing we'll be able to do is look at films and see individuals."

Sweeney was sharp in completing five of nine passes for 61 yards, while first-year running back Victor James led Dallas with 52 yards on 11 carries.

Also impressive for the Cowboys was first-round pick Michael Irvin. The receiver from Miami caught two passes for 39 yards, including a 34-yarder on a slant across the middle.

"He's a good target," Landry said of the 6-2, 198-pound Irvin.

Safe ATLANTA — The ball gets away from New York Mets shortstop Kevin Elster as Atlanta Braves Gerald Perry steals second base in second inning action.

Ashburn and baseball—a whole different perspective

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When Richie Ashburn was a rookie from Tilden, Neb., his Philadelphia Phillies uniform wore the dirt of frequent slides and his eyes glowed with feverish intensity.

Now the two-time National League batting champion is a mellow, amiable announcer whose ever-present cap and pipe lend him a professorial air — possibly a surprise to those who lost track of Ashburn when his playing career ended in 1962.

"You're not involved with the constant pressure to win up here in the booth," Ashburn said, "and as a result, you get a different perspective. You can take the time to enjoy just the baseball.

"As a player, there never is a break from the intensity and the concentration. If you have a good game, there's the next game to be concerned with. It can be mentally exhausting. But as a broadcaster, that type of concentration simply isn't required."

Ashburn joined the Phillies in 1948, playing with some dreadful teams. He played his last three years with the Chicago Cubs and New York Mets, returning to the Phillies in 1963 to take a broadcasting job he has held ever since. He also writes a column for the Philadelphia Daily News.

The Phillies chose Saturday night's game against the Houston Astros at Veterans Stadium to mark the 40th anniversary of Ashburn's arrival in Philadelphia.

That arrival was a lot less traumatic than might be imagined for a 21-year-old coming from a Midwestern town of 1,000 to an Eastern city with more than 1 million residents.

"I had a much easier transition to make than most players," said Ashburn, 61. "My mother and dad left Nebraska and came to suburban Philadelphia for each of my first few summers here.

"My dad had his own business and he was in a position to turn it over to someone else in the summers. They came here and rented a place in Bala Cynwyd that first summer, so in a sense I was living at home — even to the point where my mother still cooked all my meals.

"Consequently, I could deal with the city on my own terms instead of being held captive by it the way, I guess, some players are during their first year in the major leagues."

When he retired as a player in 1962, he had been planning to return to Nebraska, where he had stayed connected in Republican politics, when the Phillies asked him about broadcasting.

"Quite frankly, I was tired of living out of a suitcase and I initially turned them down. But I started thinking about how much I enjoyed baseball and changed my mind."

An entire generation of Phillies fans who never saw him play has grown up listening to Ashburn's terse comments and dry wit on radio and television.

In his 15 years in the majors, Ashburn set several records for putouts by a center fielder, compiled a .308 lifetime batting average, had 2,574 hits and led the NL in hitting in 1955 at .338 and 1958 at .350. He also led the league twice in triples, four times in walks and once in stolen bases.

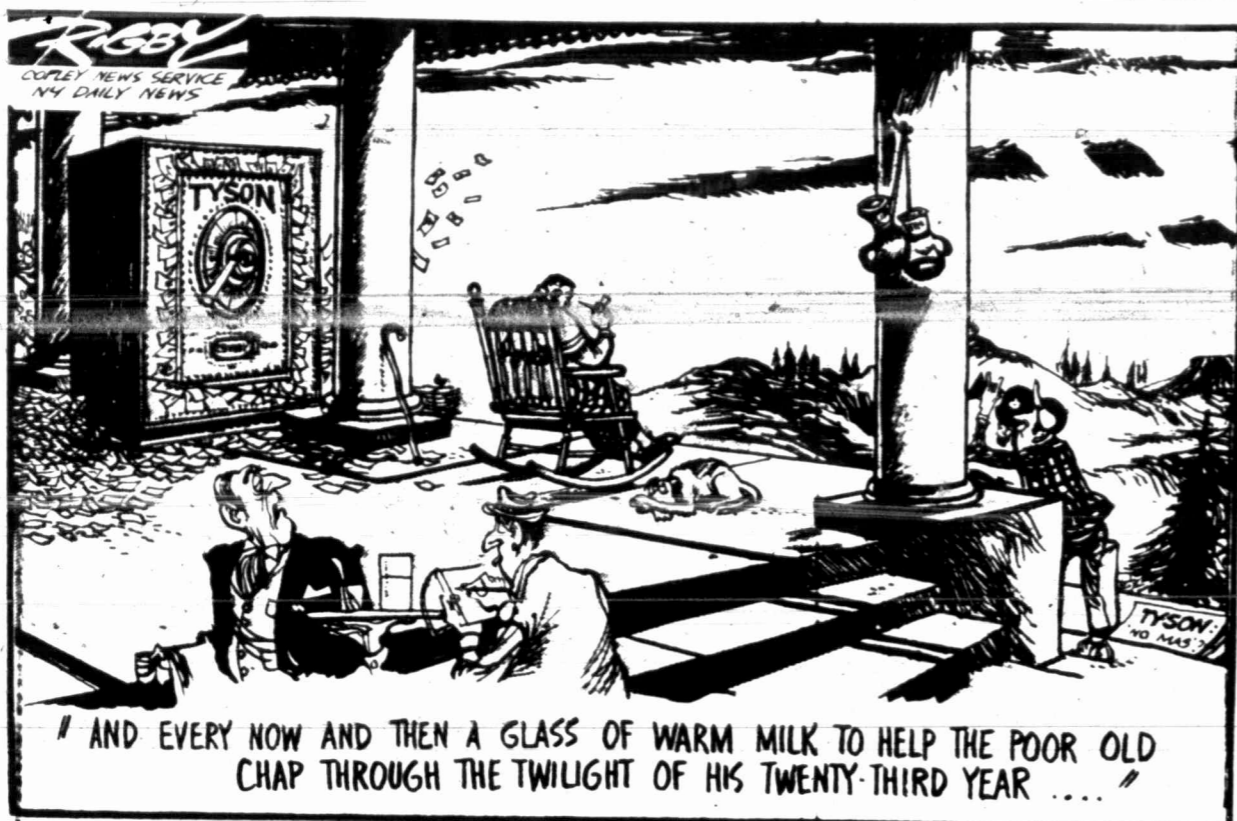

The view from the broadcast booth has given Ashburn a new perspective on his own playing career.

"Playing, you can get so wrapped up in the pressures to produce that you can lose sight of your own accomplishments," Ashburn said.

Changing with the times

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Ernie Banks was smiling, an all together normal condition for the Hall of Famer. Besides hitting and fielding, smiling is what Ernie Banks has always done best. His enthusiasm is contagious.

Banks was walking through the Cincinnati Reds' dressing room before playing in an oldtimers' All-Star Game in stifling 100-plus degree temperatures. The thermometer challenged the judgment of any man who chose to spend his afternoon running around, chasing after baseballs in those conditions.

Kal Daniels, one of the young Reds' players, called after him. "Hey, how about it, Ernie?" Daniels said. "Want to play two today?"

"Sure," Banks said, his eyes dancing, his voice full of enthusiasm. "Don't you?" It is tough to dampen Ernie Banks' spirits. You could even go so far as to desecrate Wrigley Field by installing lights in that shrine of daytime baseball where he played so brilliantly under the sun for 19 years and Banks would look around, consider what you had done, and smile.

But would he mean it? As the Cubs prepare to play the first night game in Wrigley's 72-year existence next month, it seemed appropriate to seek out the opinion of Banks, Mr. Cub, the ambassador of Chicago sunshine. So, tell us, Ernie, what do you think about night ball at Wrigley? "It's exciting, isn't it?" he said. Well, frankly, no, not for traditionalists, who, like journeyman catcher Crash Davis in the hit movie "Bull Durham," still wonder why we ever needed the designated hitter and artificial turf.

Banks crinkled his nose and lowered his voice, as if he were giving away a state secret. "Truthfully," he said, "I'm a traditionalist, too. I like to see things stay as they were. Certain things are priceless." Like maybe day games at Wrigley Field? Banks smiled, looking a little like the Mona Lisa. "To be there so many years and to see this progress, that's exciting to me," he said. "Now the Cubs receive a chance to share the wealth. This will give working people a chance to see games. It's an opportunity for the All-Star Game to be played here."

Truth be known, the All-Stars will be in Wrigley in 1990 only because of this concession to progress. The game was awarded to the city contingent on the installation of lights, coincidentally on the very day the city fathers voted on the controversial issue. Baseball did, however, manage to play two previous All-Star Games there in 1947 and 1962, before it decided that it was an absolute necessity to conduct these extravaganzas at night.

Those were the dark ages, in a manner of speaking. Why the Cub teams in those days didn't even realize how playing in the sun hurt their production, how the quick turnaround from the steady diet of road night games to day games at home played havoc with their metabolisms and affected their ability to win. Banks was quick to point out, however, that old Chicago teams did manage to win 10 pennants playing all day games at home. And, as recently as 1984, the sun did not prevent the Cubs from finishing first in the National League East.

That stunning development spurred baseball into action. It was suggested that if the Cubs advanced to the World Series that year, Chicago's home games would be shifted to another stadium, perhaps Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, perhaps even to another NL East city like St. Louis.

That's how important night games have become for the game's showcase events. The Cubs solved the problem and saved baseball the embarrassment by losing three straight and the NL pennant in San Diego. Banks sighed at the thought. "The idea of the Cubs making it to the World Series and then playing home games in the White Sox Park," he said, shaking his head. "Wow!"

The lights have made Wrigley safe for the World Series if the Cubs ever conspire to reach that stage again. If the players are happy with the installation of lights, then Banks, the traditionalist, is happy, too.

"It's the times we live in." Then he looked around the room. Convinced only friendly ears were listening, ears that understood his "Let's play two" philosophy, Banks' mischievous smile returned. "I'm working hard," he said, "to keep up with the times."

A winner all the way around

By ED SCHUYLER JR
AP Sports Writer

Jemal Hinton is a winner. A couple of days before the most important bout of his 18-year-old life, Hinton said, "I've never gotten excited over a bout. I'm glad to win, but I don't blow it out of proportion." He's kept losing in perspective, too. "Life for me does not stand still," Hinton said after seeing a dream broken by the fists of Kennedy McKinney in the 119-pound final at the Olympic Boxing Trials last weekend at Concord, Calif. "I wasn't able to accomplish a decision, but I'm still proud of my performance." The world still turns, and Jemal Hinton is confident he will find his way in it. A couple of days before he lost to McKinney on points, Hinton, the U.S. Amateur champion, was asked about a professional career. He is considered an excellent prospect. "We have considered a pro career," said Junious Hinton, the boxer's father and coach. "We also are considering college." Hinton graduated from high school at New Carrollton, Md., as an honor student, and his father is obviously as pleased about that as he is about the boxing trophies Jemal has won.

"I do think about fighting quite often, of what I can do with my ability," said Hinton, who now lives at District Heights, Md. "But I also think of going to college, of having a nice family, of hopefully making some money without getting hurt in the boxing game, of having my own business — a restaurant or a dry cleaning establishment, a small business."

Following his loss to McKinney, Hinton said his plans were "to take some business courses at a community college and continue to train." "We will continue to pursue his career and see how far he can go," said Junious Hinton, who works as a pressman for the Washington Post and helps train about 125 boxers at the Sugar Ray Leonard Boxing Club in Palmer Park. The gym is not owned by Leonard, who grew up in the town.

The Hintons do not appear ready to try professional boxing, but it will happen. Jemal has the power and style to become a good pro.

"The only thing I worry about if I go pro is getting hurt," the teen-ager said.

Boxing is a game of risks, but talking to Junious Hinton, you came away feeling assured Jemal will not face unacceptable risks. Junious understands the pitfalls of professional boxing and he understands the importance of having a family and living a normal life.

He posted a 21-13 record as a professional middleweight in the late 1960s-early 1970s. He retired at age 30 in 1969, but made a comeback after a year. "The kids were there and I needed money," he recalled. "My wife thought I was sick in the head, and I promised to quit if I lost four in a row."

He did, beginning with a fifth-round loss to one-time middleweight contender Bobby "Boogaloo" Watts in 1970. Jemal didn't get into boxing because of his father, but because of his 20-year-old brother, Bandle, a member of the U.S. Air Force, who lost in the quarterfinals of the 132-pound class at the Olympic Trials. "Jemal hated boxing, but out of the blue he said he wanted to try," the father said. "His brother was bringing home some trophies. He wanted to bring home some trophies, too."

Cowboys unretire number

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Few men could fill Drew Pearson's shoes, but the Dallas Cowboys have shown their confidence in first-round draft pick Michael Irvin by giving him the honor of "unretiring" number 88.

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said he thinks Irvin can take on the responsibility of wearing Pearson's number this fall. "If anyone could carry on the tradition of 88, it would be Irvin. He is blessed with tremendous talent," Irvin, the All-American from Miami, has impressed both coaches and players in training camp. He recently signed a four-year contract worth almost $2 million, which included a $750,000 signing bonus.

It's a family affair at track trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Heptathlete Jackie Joyner-Kersey, the greatest woman athlete in the world, and her sister-in-law, sprinter Florence Griffith Joyner, shattered world track and field records with frightening ease Saturday in the U.S. Olympic Trials.

Joyner-Kersey, 26, smashed her world record in the heptathlon with 7,215 points, 57 more than she accumulated at the U.S. Olympic Festival at Houston in 1986.

Griffith Joyner, 28, ran her second-round heat in the women's 100-meter dash in 10.49 seconds, erasing the mark of 10.76 set by Evelyn Ashford of the United States in 1984.

There were two other sensational performances on the second day of the eight-day Trials at steamy Indiana University Track and Field Stadium, but neither will be eligible for record consideration because they were wind-aided.

Carl Lewis, winner of four gold medals in the 1984 Olympics, won the 100-meter dash in 9.78 seconds, the fastest in history, but a wind of 5.2 meters per second — over the allowable limit of 2.0 — will negate the mark.

Griffith Joyner, the 1984 Olympic gold medalist and the 1987 silver medalist in the World Championships, was timed in 10.60 seconds in Saturday's first-round heats, but was aided by a wind of 3.2 meters per second.

After her astonishing performance in the second round, she was shocked at her time. "I can't believe it — 10.49," she said. "It didn't feel like 10.49, but I've never run that fast."

In lowering Ashford's record by .27 of a second, she bettered the women's 100-meter mark by the biggest margin since 1968, when automatic timing was introduced.

She still has two 100 races to go Sunday — the semifinals and the final — plus the 200 next week.

Joyner-Kersey had mixed feelings about breaking her record. "I was delighted with her performance, but disappointed that her brother, Al, the 1984 Olympic champion in the triple jump, failed to make the team.

After her tough, two-day, seven-event competition, Joyner-Kersey was getting ice applied to her weary legs when the public address announcer named the three qualifiers in the triple jump. When her brother's name was not announced, she cried for a few minutes.

"It hurts to see my brother not making the team," she said. "We're family. It hurts a lot."

Joyner-Kersey started the day 222 points ahead of the record she set two years ago. After the opening two events, the long jump and the javelin throw, she still was 212 ahead.

In the final 200 meters, she needed to run only 2:24.95 to break the record. She did it easily, finishing in 2:20.64 to become the first to surpass 7,200 points.

Joyner-Kersey, who missed the gold medal by only five points in the 1984 Olympics because of a hamstring injury, injured her right thumb Saturday during the long jump, her best event. After fouling on her first attempt, she leaped 22-8, but as she landed, her spikes grazed the thumb.

Appearing to be in some pain, Joyner-Kersey was treated for several minutes by two trainers.

She then shook off the pain and jumped 22-11 1/4, a Trials record. Although it was far short of her American record of 24-5 1/2 and short of her world heptathlon record of 28-0 1/4, it was good enough to keep Joyner-Kersey on target for the overall world mark.

She then got off a javelin throw of 164-4, just one inch short of her career best.

The temperature reached 120 degrees on the track Friday, but the irrepressible Joyner-Kersey didn't let it deter her from setting a first-day world best with 4,367 points.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITY OF BIG SPRING
PUBLIC WORKS DIVISION
PUBLIC NOTICE REGARDING POSSIBLE LEAD EXPOSURE

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has adopted requirements that all public water systems notify their customers about lead exposure. This notification is intended to educate and inform consumers on this issue in light of the fact that your drinking water may be a potential source of lead exposure. This is being done even though the City of Big Spring water system is not in violation of the current standard. There are also other potential sources of lead contamination in the environment.

The following specific language is required by EPA in this notice:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risks, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

1. if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
2. if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
3. if the home is less than five years old, or
4. if you have soft or acidic water, or
5. if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Ways to avoid potential lead exposure are to "flush" faucets before use and to use cold water for drinking and cooking. You may wish to have your home tap water tested for lead contents by a competent laboratory. You may also wish to check for lead pipes, solder, or flux were used in your home plumbing.

(a) We have recently conducted a series of test throughout the city on the lead content in the water system. The test results indicated that the Distribution System is well below the established limits for lead.

An Alaskan adventure

Byron and Sandra Smith kneel in front of a 100-pound piece of burled spruce they brought home from Alaska.

The Alaskan pipeline is always within sight from the road to Prudhoe Bay.

The Alaskan mountain range — as seen from the Alcan Highway.

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

It reads like a chapter from a paperback adventure novel — but it's a true-to-life story of a Big Spring couple who were snowbound above the Arctic Circle.

It happened to Byron and Sandra Smith on their vacation, a 32-day odyssey during which they drove more than 11,000 miles through the northwestern United States, Canada, and along the Alcan Highway to Alaska.

Their destination was Prudhoe Bay, the Alaskan oilfield outpost on the Arctic Ocean, which is the farthest point on the North American Continent that can be reached by a motor vehicle.

Where the Alcan Highway ends at Fairbanks, Alaska, they took a narrow gravel road — a supply trail used by trucks built to take the conditions. The trucks bring supplies to the oilfield and carry out refuse to protect the environment.

The Smiths passed the checkpoint station, where vehicles must obtain a permit from the Alaska Department of Transportation to drive the 416 miles north into the Arctic Circle. For some reason, the station was closed; the travelers turned their Ford Supervan north and headed for Prudhoe Bay. They pulled a two-wheel utility trailer loaded with a 4,000-watt generator and spare parts for the van plus other supplies.

They saw no traffic as they drove through rugged mountains, ice, snow — past avalanche warnings — always in sight of the Alaskan pipeline. The sky was brilliantly clear, the air crisp and exhilarating.

When they passed the first outpost — a cafe-gas station-motel standing alone on the Yukon River — the proprietor said the weather conditions were expected to be good for the remainder of their trip. The mountains gave way to gently sloping plains covered with short tundra — the unique sparse Arctic vegetation.

The Smiths gassed up at Coldfoot, another tiny food-gas-lodging outpost, the last stop before travelers reach Prudhoe Bay, 200 miles farther north.

About 50 miles out of Coldfoot the snow began to fall. Then it turned into a fury, the wind angrily blasting across the highway and obscuring vision. The Ford van lurched into a snowbank. No amount of effort would free the trailer, so they had to leave it behind. Byron pulled out chains from the trailer and put them on the van. They were now too far to turn back to Coldfoot. About two miles out of Prudhoe Bay, the van was finally overwhelmed by the elements and it skidded off the road into the deep snow. This time Byron could not get the vehicle moving again.

"The couple had not seen any traffic all day. Now they were marooned in an Arctic snowstorm and no one knew where they were. The temperature was dropping rapidly. (The windchill factor, they were later to learn, may have been 40 degrees below zero.)

"We turned to each other and seriously considered that this might be the end of our lives," Sandra remembers.

But like an adventure novel, the principal characters were rescued. Not by anything so romantic as a soldier-of-fortune riding on a dog sled, but by an 18-wheeler supply truck that came upon them in less than 30 minutes after the van had become stuck.

Their rescuer pulled them out and they were able to follow the truck's tracks into the oilfield settlement. The crisis had only just begun, however; the unseasonable snowstorm was to keep them snowed in at Prudhoe Bay for three days. And the bad news from the Department of Transportation was that the storm and thaw to follow would make travel impossible for the next two weeks.

"The Nana Oilfield Services employees were very friendly and hospitable under the circumstances," Sandra said. "We stayed one night in their accommodations — $200 a night for a mobile home! Then they allowed us to plug into their electricity, so we could sleep in our van. We even got a tour of the operation."

There are only facilities for work, eating and sleeping plus one general store for necessities, like tooth paste, Sandra said. There are "no frills." Buildings are on stilts so the snow will blow under them instead of drifting against them.

It was a Hughes Tool Company employee, sympathetic with their plight, who developed the idea for their rescue; the van was literally loaded onto the bed of an 18-wheeler and ferried through the snow to Fairbanks. The good samaritan made all the arrangements, and even footed the bill for the haul.

It had been Sandra's idea to drive to Prudhoe Bay.

"This was a very unique experience to me," she said, "to drive as far as you can go on the continent."

When they were stuck in the snow, Byron reminded her that it was her fault they were there.

"But, now I tell him 'Just look at what a memorable vacation we had.'"

The remainder of the Smiths' vacation may not have been so dramatic, but it was nonetheless a trip to remember.

Their vacation took them through New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington. The Alcan Highway begins at Dawson Creek, B.C.

"The journey through upper British Columbia and the Yukon Territory is through a remote and sparsely settled country," says Byron. "There are few facilities for travelers and the prices for gas and food are high."

The sun never set on them after they left British Columbia, Sandra said. "When we were in Alaska, we'd be driving around looking at the sights, when we realized we were hungry and tired. It would be 2 a. m.! You have to remember to eat and sleep at the right time."

For wildlife lovers the trip was a paradise, says Byron. In Canada and Alaska they saw hundreds of caribou and large herds of musk ox, as well as black bears, moose, elk, stone sheep, wolves and eagles. A rare treat, they said, were sightings of wild swan on the North Slope, along with geese, Ptarmigan — the Alaska state bird — and other fowl. Seals and polar bears, Sandra explained, are only in the western part of the state, in areas largely inaccessible by car.

"The animals are so tame," Sandra said, "you could get within a few feet of them." She also was impressed by their "pretty, glistening coats."

The couple recorded their trip on 14 rolls of film and as many video tapes. Among souvenirs they brought back from Alaska were seven pieces of burled spruce — wood with an unusual grain caused by disease or damage. One piece is a 100-pound specimen, which Sandra says "will be a conversation piece."

The trip had a special significance to Byron, who was stationed in Naknek and Anchorage with the air force in 1949-51. "I didn't get a chance to see much of Alaska that time, and I always wanted to go back."

Sandra Smith videotapes Finger Peak, between Fairbanks and Prudhoe Bay.

Dick and Connie Helms "struck gold" on their recent vacation. They joined Connie's twin sister, Cathy, and her husband Lt. Kit Wennersten in Sacramento, Calif. for a trek into the Sierra Mountains. They camped out and dredged for gold in the mountain streams just like oldtime prospectors. Dick says they found "five little sparkly pieces" and admits it was a heady feeling.

Col. (USAF Ret.) Ralph and Lynette Brooks are just back from a reunion of the members of the 50th Fighter Bomber Wing and their wives in Colorado Springs.

Tidbits

This group went to Germany together in the early 50s, Lynette says, and this was the first time many had seen each other in more than 30 years. There was a lot of "do you remember when?" she says. Although the group had convened a few times earlier, this was the first one the Brooks' had attended and the first time wives had been included. Carl and Marie Eason spent a few days this week in Piedras Negras, Mexico. Marie planned to visit a medical clinic there and do a little shopping.

Boyce and Jean Hale took their granddaughter, Diane Hale, 8, on a marathon sightseeing trip.

They saw Hoover Dam, Sequoia National Park, Kings Canyon National Park; then stopped in San Francisco to visit China Town, the famous Fisherman's Wharf, Telegraph Hill and Golden Gate Bridge. They watched Old Faithful and other geysers at Yellowstone National Park, and visited Teton

National Park and Flaming Gorge Dam.

Along the way they visited with Jean's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lane in Concord, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nimmo in Lake Tahoe, Nev. On the last leg home, they stopped in Farmington, N.M., to visit former Big Springers, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Berkheimer.

LeRoy and Bette Tillery drove daughter, LeAnn, to Canyon last weekend to enroll her in summer band camp at West Texas State University for two weeks.

LeAnn qualified for all-state band in piccolo and flute as a freshman at Big Spring High School, says LeRoy. This is the third summer she has taken additional training.

Pete and Jean Jenkins have been showing their grandchildren, Justin and John Jenkins, Weatherford, around town.

Jean's father, Walter Witte, marked his 94th birthday last Monday. His sister, Flora Haney, Ft. Worth, and her daughter, Lottie, came up for a small family gathering.

Buster and Susie Gartman just returned from the wedding of Vikki Dobbs, daughter of former Big Spring residents Mike and Kay Dobbs, to Brad Granger at the Caney Creek Ranch in Teague. Guests came from Waco, Robinson and Pasadena as well as Teague and Big Spring.

From Teague, the Gartmans drove to Athens for the Gartman family's annual reunion held every year at the Kiwanis Park. Family members came from New Mexico and Louisiana as well as Texas. Susie says another branch of the Gartman family holds an unusual annual reunion at the original Gartman family home in Athens — an Easter service with games and an egg hunt. Call her at 263-1902 if you are a friend or relative interested in attending these reunions.

Hall-Porter

D'Ann Hall and Phillip Porter, both of Fort Worth, exchanged wedding vows July 16, 1988 at a noon ceremony at Travis Avenue Baptist Church, Fort Worth, with Dr. Charles G. Fuller, pastor of First Baptist Church, Roanoke, Va., officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Patricia Hall, Big Spring; and Jerry Hall, Abilene.

Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. Vaughn Porter, Roanoke, Va.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with large floor candelabra, accented with greenery; floor palms, flanked by large floral basket arrangements of gladiolas, mums, daisies and roses.

Vocalists Margaret Johnson and David Cooper sang "Morningstar."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional gown of white taffeta decorated with sequins and a beaded, lace bodice. The fitted bodice featured a Sabrina neckline with a sheer yoke and basque waist, with white delicate buttons and a highlight sheer lace back. The dress featured lace Gibson sleeves, a full skirt, a cathedral-length train with a lace hemline. Her veil was a band of beaded Alencon with a dramatic pouf of sheer illusion. The illusion cascaded into two layers, ending below the knee.

She carried a bouquet of bridal white roses with baby's breath, surrounded at the base by tulle, with a bow of white satin ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Cary Horton, Lubbock.

Bridesmaids were Janet Hall, bride's sister-in-law, Abilene; Lisa Iden, bride's cousin, Lubbock; Paula Allen, Newport Beach, Calif.; Shelley Johnson, Idalou; Denise White, Arlington; and Judi Porter, bridegroom's sister, Roanoke, Va.

Best man was C. Vaughn Porter, bridegroom's father, Roanoke, Va.

Groomsmen and ushers were David Hall, bride's brother, Abilene; Dave Rowson, Fairfax, Va.; Dave Granniger, Roanoke,

MRS. PHILLIP PORTER Formerly D'Ann Hall

Va.; Bob Strickland, Atlanta, Ga.; John Talbert, Fort Worth; and Andy Hurst, Roanoke, Va.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at Century II Club, 35th Floor, Texas American Bank building, Fort Worth. The bride's table, draped with a white overlay, and decorated with the bride's bouquet, featured a three-tiered wedding cake with a petal base, separated by crystal columns, decorated with five candy clay orchids cascading down the side of the cake, accented by white daisies with rose centers. The bridegroom's Devil's food chocolate cake with cherry fudge filling, was drizzled with pure chocolate and was sprinkled with almonds. The table was decorated with an open Bible.

The bride is a graduate of Sands High School, and Texas Tech University. She attends Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Cave Spring High School, Roanoke, Va., and the University of Virginia. He attends Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

After a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, the couple will make their home in Fort Worth.

Pylant-Freeman

Jacqueline Deann Pylant, Snyder, and Layton Earl Freeman, Knott, exchanged wedding vows May 21, 1988 at a 7:30 p.m. ceremony at Colonial Hill Baptist Church, Snyder, with Rev. Miller Robinson, minister, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Don and Joann Snider, and Jackie Pylant, all of Snyder.

Bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Earl Freeman, and the late Earl Freeman.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with a three-tiered, 15-branch candelabra. Four seven-light candelabra stood before the choir rail. The candelabra were trimmed with greenery. Teal blue satin bows and greenery marked the pews. Pianist and organist was Barbara Perkins. Pianist was Barbara McGee.

Vocalist was Diane Andrews, Lubbock.

The bride was met midway through her walk by the bridegroom, who escorted her to the altar. She wore a traditional-styled wedding gown, fashioned of white bridal satin, enhanced with delicate, Chantilly lace, French re-embroidered Alencon lace, and dainty Schiffli lace motifs. Rainbow sequins, seed pearls, and dangling crystal teardrops adorned the lace accents of the gown.

The high, wedding band collar topped an illusion neckline with a sheer, sweetheart effect. Leg-O-Mutton sleeves featured a scalloped design of sheer lace and satin and tapered to a bridal point at the hand. Falling from a glittering basque bodice was a full skirt with cut-out lace motifs and a side lace-edged hemline. A grand, cathedral-length train was caught at the waist with a bow and boasted a vertical inset of Chantilly lace dripping with pearl and crystal teardrop danglers.

To compliment her gown, the bride wore a picture hat of white satin and Alencon lace embellished with pearls and iridescent sequins. A double puff and elbow-length veil in sparkle illusion, completed her bridal beauty.

She carried a cascading bouquet of apricot roses, stephanotis, French carnations in white with English ivy, and matching bridal satin pecot ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Janetta Pylant, bride's sister, Snyder.

Bridesmaids were Patti Stewart, friend of the couple, Denver, Colo.; Amanda Baird, bride's cousin, San Angelo; and Holly Shafer, bride's friend, El Paso.

Flower girls were Erika Demkowski, bridegroom's cousin, Bastrop; and Chelsey Hix, bridegroom's cousin, Bryan.

Best man was Scottie

MRS. LAYTON FREEMAN Formerly Jacqueline Pylant

Freeman, bridegroom's brother, Knott.

Groomsmen were Jeffrey Pylant, bride's brother, Houston; Jerrel Pylant, bride's brother, Snyder; and Walter Elmore, bridegroom's friend, Dallas.

Ushers were Sam Scheef, bridegroom's friend, Lubbock; Douglas Lloyd, bridegroom's cousin, Big Spring; Stockton Roberts, bride's friend, Snyder; and Randy Burrus, bride's friend, San Marcos.

Candlelighter was Russell Baird, bride's cousin, San Angelo.

Ringbearer was Jerrod Hix, bridegroom's cousin, Bryan.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake. The tiers were separated with five-inch crystal pillars. The layers were raised by 16-inch crystal pillars. A flowing fountain, surrounded by greenery, was beneath the cake. Cascades of peach roses and rosebuds completed the decorations. The cake was made by Reta Graham, Snyder. The bridegroom's table featured a computer-shaped carrot cake, frosted with a cream cheese frosting. A shell design border was used to enhance the cake. The keyboard of the computer was made of teal mints. The cake was made by Reta Graham, Snyder.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Snyder High School, a 1986 graduate of Texas Tech University, with a bachelor of music education, and graduated in 1988 with a master of business administration with a concentration in accounting from Texas Tech University. She is employed by Ernst and Whinney, Dallas.

The bridegroom is a 1983 graduate of Sands High School, and has attended Texas Tech University for the past two years. He plans to complete a bachelor's degree in information systems, and plans to attend law school after graduation.

After a wedding trip to the Bahamas, the couple has made their home in Grand Prairie.

Blake-Maynard

Mitzi Karen Blake, Ackerly, and Mark Alan Maynard, Carrollton, were united in marriage July 9, 1988 at a 7 p.m. ceremony at Ackerly Church of Christ, with Dub Clark, minister, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Pat and James F. Blake, Ackerly.

Bridegroom's parents are Nancy and Charles Maynard, Crossville, Tenn.

The couple stood before an archway decorated with greenery and entwined with roses in shade of mauve and burgundy. Two 15-branch candelabra decorated either side of the arch. Baskets of roses, carnations, lilies and stephanotis stood atop Grecian columns. A unity candle completed the setting.

Selected recorded music was played as guests were seated. Vocalist was Carol Jesse, Big Spring.

The bride was presented in marriage by her parents. She wore a gown of silk organza, featuring a sheer yolk adorned with pearls and sequins. The gown featured a Victorian neckline and Leg-O-Mutton sleeves. Venice lace over schiffie embroidery accented the bodice and sleeves. Scalloped tiers of Chantilly lace ruffles edged the A-line skirt that fell to a chapel-length train. Her picture hat of Venice lace, accented with pearls and sequins, held a soft puff of silk illusion that fell from the back to fingertip-length.

She carried a cascading bouquet of burgundy carnations and roses with mauve stephanotis tied with satin and lace streamers. She carried a white bride's Bible, given to her by Sammye and Ricky Mantooh.

Matron of honor was Sara Blake, bride's sister-in-law, Midland.

Bridesmaids were Jennifer Strahan, Lamesa; and Kara Beth Gandy, Seminole.

Lifestyle policies

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department.

SEE THE NEED

Debra Guinn at home with six of her brood.

WESTSIDE COMMUNITY DAY CARE CENTER

In 1985 Debra Guinn was an AFDC (welfare mother) who wanted to get an education so she could provide for her children. The divorced mother of seven had a dream — and in 1987 that dream became a reality: Debra graduated from Howard College's nursing program with honors. Debra, who had not finished high school, maintained an A average and earned her GED.

For the two years she went to college, her four younger children were enrolled at Westside Day Care Center. Debra, now self-sufficient and off AFDC, says, "The staff at Westside Day Care Center is wonderful. Not only did they provide excellent care for my children, but they provided much-needed moral support. You all helped me reach my goal of financial independence!"

Westside Day Care Center is licensed by the Department of Human Services to provide day care for AFDC families and food stamp recipients; protective services for neglected children; and day care on a sliding scale for low income families.

DeMass-Jenks

Gidget Ann DeMass and Daniel Ernest Jenks were united in marriage June 17 at the Urban Methodist Church, Dallas.

The bride is the daughter of Paula DeMass, Dallas, and the late James W. DeMass.

Bridegroom's parents are Clint and Etta Jenks, Denison.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Walter Estep.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. C.L. Howell, bride's sister, Stanton.

The bride is the granddaughter of James Baily, Big Spring.

Dobbs-Granger

Vikki Kay Dobbs, Waco, formerly of Big Spring, and David Bradley Granger, Waco, were united in marriage June 25, 1988 in a double-ring ceremony at 8 p.m. at the Caney Creek Ranch, the home of Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Short, bridegroom's grandparents, with Joe Bailey, pastor of Westwood Baptist Church, Waco, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mike and Kay Dobbs, Waco, formerly of Big Spring.

Bridegroom's parents are Merry Pat Granger, Waco, and Mr. and Mrs. David Granger, Robinson.

The couple stood before a gazebo, surrounded by arrangements of spring flowers, and a wishing well.

Music was the traditional wedding march.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of satin, layered with lace. Her veil was of illusion with seed pearls, satin leaves, lace and rhinestones. She carried the traditional something old — her Bible, and her grandmother's linen handkerchief; something new — her dress; something borrowed — pearls from a lifetime friend, Susie Gartman; and something blue — the garter from her mother's wedding.

She carried a bouquet of pink and white sweetheart roses, accented with lace and baby's breath, and pink lace-trimmed streamers.

Maid of honor was D.D. Granger, bridegroom's sister, Waco.

Flower girl was Rondee Asquith, bridegroom's niece, Waco.

Best man was Frank Latham III, bridegroom's friend, Waco.

Ushers were Miklyn Dobbs, bride's brother, and Brian Helona and Ken Busby, bridegroom's friends, Waco.

Ringbearer was Justin Bounds, bridegroom's brother.

After the wedding, a reception

MR. AND MRS. DAVID GRANGER
Exchanged vows June 25

was hosted by the family of the bride and bridegroom's parents. The traditional three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink ribbons. The bride and bridegroom's table, draped with a hand-crocheted cloth brought from the Philippines by the bride's Aunt Glenda Dobbs, was decorated with the bride's bouquet, and featured crystal trays of fresh strawberries, melon, grapes and fresh cherries, and trays of finger sandwiches, fresh vegetables and punch. Refreshments were served by Susie Gartman, Big Spring, and Glenda Dobbs, Pasadena.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Midway Woodway High School, Huitt. She is employed by Winns, Huitt.

The bridegroom is in the United States Navy and is stationed in the Philippines.

Engaged

COUPLE TO WED — Barry and Peggy Gautreaux, Prairieville, La., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lisa Murphy, 1513 Vines, to Dusty Choate, Rt. 3 Box 230, son of Joyce and Carroll Choate, Rt. 3 Box 230. The couple will wed Aug. 20 at First United Methodist Church, with Rev. Keith Wiseman, officiating.

Military

Navy Seaman recruit Kyle D. Forga, son of Dwight O. and Sandra Forga, Snyder, has completed Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During Forga's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Forga's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He is a 1987 graduate of Snyder High School.

Child development

By NAOMI HUNT
Extension agent

Many parents are anxious for their child to know the letters, numbers, shapes and colors before starting kindergarten in the fall. However, academic-type activities and drill may not be the best thing you can do to ready your child for school.

The results of child development research tell us that fantasy play activities are more effective in the development of language, social skills and thinking skills — all of which are essential for success in school.

Fantasy play is what children commonly call "pretending." Through fantasy play children learn more abstract thinking and problem-solving skills. They can also test their ideas in a safe situation.

Here are some suggestions for ways to encourage fantasy play in your children:

- Let children have a place for a pretend house, doctor's office, grocery store or museum. They will try out different roles as they play "house," or any variation of this common childhood game.
- Keep a box of old clothes, purses, shoes and other items for dress-up. That also encourages children to try different roles and create stories to go with their costumes.
- Encourage children to use dramatic play to act out their favorite fairy tales and stories.
- Provide low-realism toys and objects that require children to use their imaginations. A big box, for example, can be a house, a rocket ship or a bear's cave, depending on the imagination of the child playing in it. Setting limits for children Children need to explore, feel, touch, experience, be messy, noisy and even skip a meal if they're not hungry. However, children aren't really comfortable with complete freedom to do as they please, according to child development researchers.

Focus on family

Children who are granted complete freedom are often anxious, over-active, and ill-at-ease, not knowing how to handle all their freedom and power.

They want to be protected from harm. They crave the security, warmth and friendship of the home. Despite what they may say, they actually want parents to be consistent in setting limits on their potentially dangerous behavior.

Limit setting is also in order if the child's behavior interferes with the comfort and rights of others. Children want to be stopped when flirting with danger, and want to be sent to bed when they can no longer propel their exhausted little bodies about, or when they try to consume too much or the wrong kinds of foods.

When disciplining, the message to the child should be, "I like you, but I don't like or approve of what you are doing." Limits may be one of the greatest gifts parents can give a growing child.

Effectively controlling hornflies

By DON RICHARDSON
Extension agent

What can I do to effectively control hornflies in my cattle?

Hornfly control on cattle in West Texas has certainly been complicated by resistance to the synthetic pyrethroid eartags. What was once an economical, easy season-long solution to the problem now seems at times to be a guessing game.

proved and are being marketed which may help. Two bolus treatments which contain materials which inhibit development of hornfly larvae in manure are on the market. Trade names include "Inhibitor" from Starbar and "Vigilante" from Cyanamid. Both products apparently provide good control of larvae in manure for several months. The limitation of the products is that adult hornflies which migrate in from surrounding areas are not affected and a periodic insecticide treatment might be necessary in addition to the bolus.

Eartags which are relatively new include the "Terminator" from Fermenta Animal Health which contains diazinon, MaxCon Plus from Y-Tex which contains a pyrethroid, a phosphate and a synergist and the Tomahawk tag from Coopers Animal Health which you may see advertisements for but it is not being marketed in Texas in 1988. This tag contains pirimphos-methyl.

Ask the agent

Our tests with the Terminator indicate it is effective for 10-15 weeks. The MaxCon Plus tag is in areas of highest resistance to pyrethroids. We have not tested the MaxCon Plus tag.

The other new item is the Liquid Duster from Coopers Animal Health. This applicator is basically a "liquid dustbag" which uses a continuous-flow wicking system composed of a number of ropes which wick the insecticide onto cattle as they pass beneath the duster. The system uses a 1 percent permethrin solution. The data indicates it is highly effective for hornflies. Its limitation is much like that of a dust bag in that it performs best when cattle are forced to contact it. This might occur when it is hung in a gateway leading to water, minerals, etc.

If boluses or eartags are to be used, I believe that treatments applied at the same time that the cattle are treated for grubs in early June would work well. The grub treatment usually control hornflies for 2-3 weeks and also are a different type of chemical than the ones mentioned above. This strategy may help the resistance problems to pyrethroids and control flies until the boluses or eartags have time to become effective.

The older eartags containing pyrethroid insecticides still control flies on most herds in this area for 8-10 weeks. If you use these you may want to apply one early and a second one later in the season to extend the control.

Sprays, dust bags, back rubbers The control method to use depends largely on your herd size and management techniques.

What is the latest findings for successful control of mesquite?

Soil temperatures in mid May in the Howard County area were already near the desired 75 Degrees F at 12 inches for good root kill of mesquite with spraying. Some early demonstration plots were established with reclaim (clopyralid) ahead of cotton planting. Results are expected to be good because the three main characteristics of getting a high root kill were present; healthy mesquite, soil temperature at 75 degrees in the 12-18 inch rooting depth and adequate soil moisture for growth. Soil moisture may be the weakest link in treating mesquite this year, however. In our area I would expect a lot shorter treatment season than the past two years. A lot depends on what moisture we get in the next few weeks.

Women love balding men

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: "Losing Mine" wanted to know how women feel about balding or bald men. "Can a man without hair be considered sexy, handsome and a hunk?" he asks.

Here is one woman's view: Baldness is not a "loss" — it's a change. Forget the toupees and transplants. The expense, pain and anxiety over strong winds are worse than any change in appearance.

And whatever you do, don't try to cover your baldness with foot-long wisps of hair parted an inch over one ear and draped around the head as many times as it will go. This looks ridiculous, fools no one, and is the subject of more notice, derision and comment than baldness could ever be. Gentlemen, please accept yourselves as you are — the way millions of bald men and those who love them do.

LAURIE MITCHELL, WICHITA, KAN.

DEAR ABBY: I want to answer "Losing Mine": I've never seen hair on my husband's head except in pictures. He was bald at 31 when I met him and it didn't make one bit of difference to me. If a man needs a hairpiece or a transplant for himself, fine, but if he's doing it for the ladies, he's wasting a lot of money. Any woman who would reject a man because he's bald isn't worth having.

I'm married to a handsome, sexy hunk. And his hair doesn't tickle my nose when he sleeps with his head on my shoulder. To me, he's not really bald. He just has more face to kiss.

WHO NEEDS HAIR IN CHICAGO?

DEAR ABBY: You said it all when you said, "It's not what's on a man's head; it's what in it that makes him attractive, sexy and handsome."

I'll tell you what handsome and sexy means to me: It's being kind, thoughtful, clean, honest and gentle.

My guy became my friend first — then my lover. He's everything I've ever admired in a man. I'm as crazy about him as if this were my first love. I'm 74 and he's 75.

Slick Enjoyin' life — West Texas style

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

M.H. Boatler lives in a rock house in an area just outside Big Spring called Silver Heels. Everybody calls him Slick. He worked in an oil refinery for 41 years.

His place looks like a zoo. He has pea fowls, wild turkeys, quail, goats, sheep, longhorn cattle, chickens and more. The fowls guard the place well. If anything comes on the property, they howl. "We've had 'em all the time," says Slick. "I think they're real pretty when they strut their tails and fan them out."

Last winter he fed 14 wild turkeys. "They come in the fall and leave in the spring," says Slick. "When it's just me here goin' to the barn and all I can walk amongst 'em and they'll never fly or anything. You let a stranger come up and they head for the hills."

Slick says his area got its name

Tumbleweed Smith

Spring. Water from a spring in a nearby mountain formed a lake where cattle drank. Slick learned how to build fences and work on windmills.

For a time he worked as a cowboy for a man named John Masters. "We wouldn't have to go to work until 4 or 5 in the morning," says Slick. "We'd work until midnight or so. I got a dollar a day. If I rode horseback I got a dollar and a half."

Slick worked with 4-H kids in Howard County for 35 years and began when his daughter Wanda became a member. Slick took the youngsters on trips. "I've been coast to coast in our 18-wheel rig that we bought for the kids and their animals," says Slick. "We'd haul the animals in the truck; then, when we got to where we were goin', the kids would wash the inside of the trailer with soap and water and we'd live in there during the show. I built tables in there to eat on."

The 4-H'ers were in California one time during a Miss America pageant. The pageant officials let the Big Spring kids come on stage with one of their favorite steers named Duke. "Those boys and girls talked about that for years," says Slick. "When it came time to slaughterhouse, ..." the kids cried. None of them would load it onto the truck. I had to do it."

Slick and the 4-H organization built the first county barns in Big Spring with a loan from the Farm Bureau. The county then paid off the loan, acquired the barns and began maintaining them.

Slick has a pet longhorn steer on his place. It's perhaps the tamest longhorn in Texas. "You can look down there most anytime and see people pettin' on him. They drive by all the time and let their kids get out and look at the steer. He's real friendly."

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Many practical reasons for owning your own home

"There are many practical reasons for owning your own home, in addition to the personal satisfaction," says Kay Moore, owner of Home Realtors.

"Home mortgage interest is one of the few interest deductions we still have," she reminds. "At today's interest rates, approximately 95% of the principal and interest payment made by a homeowner during the first five years would be tax-deductible (according to a brochure from Realty Financial Services, Inc.)"

Another tax break is real estate taxes on personal residences; a significant portion of a homeowner's monthly payment goes toward payment of these taxes (which incidentally support local governments). Homestead exemption lowers the real estate taxes you pay on your principal residence.

If you use your home as an office, there may be other tax deductions.

Homeowners over 55 who are thinking of selling may be encouraged to do so because they can sell their residence at a profit without paying capital gains tax. This exemption often puts many attractive homes in well-established neighborhoods up for sale.

Let Kay Moore and her staff help you decide if this is the year for you to buy a home. They can help you determine what price home you can afford, help you find the home of your dreams, and help find a lender.

"By taking into account the tax breaks and other considerations," Kay says, "a family can often own their own home for less than they are now paying for rent."

Kay mentions other incentives: "Interest rates are low, there is a large selection of homes for sale in Big Spring, and home prices are lower here than they have been in many years."

Home Realtors is a member of HMS (Homeowners Marketing Services, Inc.) Through HMS, Home Realtors can now offer home warranties to sellers and buyers which will eliminate the possibility of major costly repairs during the time the home is on the market and for the first year of occupancy for the buyer.

Home Realtors is exclusive local agent for RELO Relocation Service, the nation's referral network of independent real estate brokers, and can draw on RELO's expertise to provide tips and advice for buyers and sellers.

In addition to Kay, the staff includes Doris Milstead, and Doris Huibregtse, brokers; Jo Hughes, Gail Meyers, Kay Bancroft, Elaine Laughner, Carole Lawson, and Marty Johnson, sales associates.

Home Realtors is located in Coronado Plaza, 2000 Gregg Phone them at 263-1284.

THERE'S GOOD NEWS — Interest rates are low and home prices in Big Spring are lower than in many years. Let Home Realtors show you how to take advantage of the situation.
