Dukakis Nominee plans for acceptance

ATLANTA — Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis does a final run-through of his acceptance speech at the Omni Wednesday

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — The Democratic prize in his grasp at last, Michael Dukakis readied the convention speech today that he hopes will 'distill the essence' of his presidential candidacy and mobilize a united party for victory this fall against Republican George Bush.

The 54-year-old Massachusetts governor formally claims the nomination tonight with a nationally televised acceptance speech concluding the most harmonious party convention in more than a decade.

"It's all a little bit like a play, said Dukakis, his face breaking into a smile the moment California's delegates gave him the roll call majority that assured his triumph Wednesday night over Jesse Jackson.

"I feel terrific," the nominee

Dukakis planned to visit the convention hall early today for a second look at the podium and a practice session with a TelePrompTer.

He cleared the rest of his schedule today to give himself plenty of time to apply his personal finishing touches to one of the most important speeches of his political career. For much of the public that will be watching this speech, it will be the first serious look at who Michael Dukakis is and where he wants to take this country," said Christopher Edley, the campaign's issues director. "So an effort to distill the essence of the candidacy is perfectly appropriate."

Dukakis watched the climactic roll call on television from his hotel suite a few blocks from The Omni convention hall in downtown Atlanta. He was surrounded by his mother Euterpe, his wife Kitty and their children Kara, Andrea and John, as well as top aides and friends.

"Cheers," they shouted, raising champagne glasses to celebrate. Dukakis allowed himself little display of emotion. He smiled, jabbed the air with his right fist and lifted his glass to toast the end of a long and tumultuous

Dukakis worked on his speech Wednesday after meeting briefly with Jackson, his former rival, to discuss the fall campaign. Dukakis sat in an easy chair in the bedroom of his hotel suite revising a draft of his speech with a pen.

"Good, good," was all he would say in describing progress on the speech that his aides said already had been through three major

The aides said Dukakis planned no major surprises in his speech, but would stick to the basic themes he had laid out during the primaries.

Edley said Dukakis would focus mainly on "economic opportunity DUKAKIS page 3-A

Cameo Uncertainty for employees

By MICHAEL DUFFY

The abrupt closing of Cameo Energy Homes on Tuesday didn't come as a surprise to some longtime employees of the company, but they are concerned about what the future holds for Dwain Yarbar — a supervisor and 7-year employee at Cameo said "there have been rumors (about the closing) for several Yarbar said he hasn't ruled out the possibility of returning to Cameo if the company opens under new management.

"I feel like I will be able to get another job and plan to remain in the Big Spring area," he said.

Yarbar said an employee savings plan - called 401K - is A returned

He said he has already received the money he contributed to the savings plan and all employees will be compensated for the funds they invested.

John Beddow, general manager and a vice president for Sunrizon Homes, Inc., said Wednesday that 150 Cameo employees are without jobs as a result of an involuntary bankruptcy filing against the parent company.

The manufactured housing plant — located at FM 700 and 11th Place — is closing after doing business for 17 years.

The plant had been in operation since 1971 and was purchased in 1981 by Cameo.

Arnold Collins - employed by Cameo for five years -- said Beddow gathered employees about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday to tell them the bad news

"I thought it (closing) could happen. There were all kinds of rumors, but it still hurts," he

Collins' problems are magnified, however, because his wife, Gwen, also was a Cameo employee

'My wife and I allowed ourselves to put all our eggs in one basket. One of us should have looked (for another job) somewhere else and we wouldn't be in this position," he said.

The couple moved to Big Spring in 1979 — and plan to remain. "My home will be paid for in April — if I don't lose it," Collins

Fernando Mata said he was "not really suprised" when the closing was announced.

"During the past year or so they have been cutting down on labor. Sometimes they would cut us down to four days a week and sometimes they would give us one week off. It's the first time I've worked somewhere that completely closed down, though," he

Some Cameo employees didn't learn of the plant's closing until they reported for work Wednesday morning, although it wasn't a deliberate gesture to mislead them. Mata said.

Civil rights group plans trial protest

HEMPHILL (AP) — About 300 demonstrators from Texas and Louisiana civil rights groups plan to march next month to protest the outcome of a trial that acquitted three white lawmen in the death of a black jail inmate.

Marchers from Hemphill, Houston, Dallas, Beaumont and Shreveport, La., are expected to take part in the Aug. 6 rally at the Sabine County courthouse, said Vollie Grace, president of the Hemphill chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"We plan to march to the courthouse," Grace told The Associated Press Wednesday. "We'll be protesting the outcome of the trial."

Last week, the three lawmen -Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 41, and Sabine County deputies James "Bo" Hyden, 35, and Bill Horton, 58, - were acquitted of civil rights violations in the beating death of Loyal Garner Jr., a black truck driver from Florien, Garner, 34, died of head injuries Dec. 27 in a Tyler hospital after being arrested Christmas Day and taken to the Sabine County Jail.

Grace said he is checking with the U.S. Justice Department to try and determine what avenues and options they have left. The state does not have the right to appeal. Shreveport civil rights leaders said they are angered by what they say is a double-standard of justice for blacks and whites in Hemphill.

"We know that this happened in Texas. We can't sit idly by and do nothing," said Willie Cornelious, chairman of the Shreveport Coalition of Concerened Citizens

Nail sheriff's 'first line of defense'

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

Perhaps the most critical job in law enforcement's daily operation is the dispatcher's job, and Howard County Sheriff's Department officers have depended on one woman in that post for more than 23 years.

"To stay in law enforcement." says Howard County Sheriff's Office dispatcher Bernice Nail, 'a person has to love the work. She should know. Nail is the most senior member of the department, according to Sheriff A.N. Standard. "She is in the nerve-center of our operations here," he said. She works as a radio dispatcher, a telephone operator, a teletype operator and keeps a log - all at the same time. When she began working in the office — before Sheriff Standard took over in 1965 — she also served as a matron and as a booking officer. In those days she had to go with arresting officers in cases involving women, she

Today she serves as the first contact - "first line of defense," Standard said — for calls coming into the department. Being a dispatcher is only part of Nail's life, however. She is a member of Berera Baptist Church, teacher of an adult ladies' Sunday school class, and a wife and mother of the Nails traveled to every game they could. "That's part of what you do with children," she said. At work, some times are filled with tension. Nail cited pursuits of suspects and fire calls as among the most intense. "When you get through something like that — burglary suspects fleeing a scene and units pursuing them, or the fire we had on Scenic Mountain and you look back at it, when it's over and you haven't had an officer injured or anyone of the general public injured, that's a good feeling. 'You can look back at that and feel you have accomplished something," she said, noting that a dispatcher's work in such situations may make a life-anddeath difference for officers

"It has its difficult moments," she said. "But there are also the rewarding times."

She cited a missing persons case as an example. "The longest case I have ever worked on was a man I reported as a missing person in 1969," she said. Over almost 20 years, and through two deaths in the man's family, Nail kept pursuing the missing per-

Often, though, as in the recent case of Christie Proctor, the results of a search for a missing person are not so pleasant, she said. "As long as you don't know for sure, there's always hope. But when you work on something like that and have it end that way that's when it's really bad.

Those are your down moments.' By her own reckoning, Nail has been in law enforcement for 25 years — and in that time, not all the changes she has seen have been agreeable. "I think law enforcement today is being hampered by the system itself," says the deputy, who recalls when a second offense for driving while intoxicated or a theft of more than $50 was a felony that could send an offender to the state penitentiary

Not so today, Nail noted. The changes are among many that have tied the hands of law enforcement officers and weakened their abilities to protect and serve the public, she said. "The system itself is hampering law enforcement," she said. "Enforcement has been taken out of the system. The pendulum has swung so far ... something needs to be changed. Law enforcement officers, and the general public, don't have any rights anymore.

Ollie seeks trial delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North is asking that his Iran-Contra conspiracy trial be delayed six months until March because of this year's presidential election.

North, a former White House aide, is scheduled to go on trial Sept. 20 as the first of four defendants charged by the government with various offenses, including conspiracy to illegally divert U.S.-Iran arms-sale profits to the Nicaraguan rebels.

"No fair-minded person could argue that this trial should be started seven weeks prior to the presidential election," North's attorney, Barry S. Simon, said in a brief filed in federal court Wednesday. "The intense publicity generated during the final seven weeks of a presidential campaign would deny (North) a fair trial.

Simon said the impact of the publicity on the jury would be particularly crucial because U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, the presiding judge, has refused to sequester the jury

"Because the conduct at issue in this case is also a key issue in the campaign, the testimony of key administration officials - and the impact of that testimony on the election — is certain to generate intense media scrutiny and commentary beyond anything seen before, the motion said.

Earlier Wednesday, North, two other Iran-Contra defendants and the American Civil Liberties Union asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to order the dismissal of charges against the three men because their immunized testimony before Congress will be used against them

Staff women paid less than average

ATLANTA — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, left, the vice presidential running mate choice of Michael Dukakis, confers with aide Steven Ward in Atlanta Wednesday morning as he makes final adjustments in his acceptance speech.

CLEVELAND (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, running for vice president on a Democratic ticket pledged to equal rights, has two women among his 10 highest-paid Senate staffers, The Cleveland Plain Dealer reported in its Thursday editions.

The newspaper also said in a copyright story that women on Bentsen's staff earn 59 cents for every $1 earned by men on his

No woman is among the top five, according to a review of public Senate payroll records from April 1, 1987 through last March 31, the newspaper said. The average salary of men on the Bentsen Senate staff during the period was $41,000, while women received an average salary of $24,000, the newspaper reported. Bentsen appeared Wednesday night at a meeting of the National Women's Forum in Atlanta, where the Democratic National Convention is being held this week. He said he had supported legislation benefiting women.

Asked afterward whether he supported pay equity for women, a concept endorsed by the Democratic platform, Bentsen told The Plain Dealer: course, I support pay equity for women.

The newspaper said that, when asked how that squared with the disparity in pay between men and women on his staff, Bentsen walked away.

Bentsen's current pay scale for women is lower than the Senate average of 67 cents for every $1 reported by the women's caucus was 1990 quidate at the solves review and below the current national average of 70 cents.

"I don't know of any female decision-maker in the senator's personal office," Jack DeVore Jr., Bentsen's press secretary, said Wednesday. But he added, "I know of at least three in the Senate Finance Committee.

Bentsen is chairman of the Finance Committee, whose payroll shows three women, including the chief analyst for health issues, among the 10 highest wage earners during the same one-year period. DeVore said Bentsen has an excellent record on hiring women. Paula MacIllwaine, co-chair of Michael Dukakis' Ohio campaign, said Bentsen's hiring record should be scrutinized.

Man gets five years for assaulting wife

pleaded guilty to brutally kicking his wife after she had fallen down has been sentenced to five years in prison, a punishment that both prosecution and defense lawyers call tougher than average.

James Timothy Hayes, 33, an unemployed man with no criminal history, was sentenced Wednesday by District Judge Carl Walker after he pleaded guilty to assaulting his wife, Jacqueline, last Aguust at their Houston home.

Prosecutor Rebecca Gardner said Mrs. Hayes, a nurse, had fallen down and called to her husband to help her up when the unexplained kicking attack began.

The victim suffered breaks in her cheekbone, arm and jaw and extensive bruising on her neck, Ms. Gardner said 'The skin on her back looked like

"It was more than appropriate," said Ms. Gardner, who works in the district attorney's family violence unit. "He earned every bit of that

Ms. Gardner said Haves prevented his wife from seeking medical attention for 24 hours and then left her alone in the house.

"It is so far outside the natural social order for a man to treat his wife that way that it seemed to me that attempts at rehabilitation would be fruitless," she said. "With most people, it (violence) is a burst of anger, and when that moment of anger is over, they are immediately remorseful.'

Ms. Gardner said the sentence was surprising because many family violence offenders, particuarly first offenders, get off with only probation or a very short jail

The punishment was counterproductive because Mrs. Hayes will now have to turn to the state for payment of her medical bills, defense lawyer Ken Smith said. The prosecutor said she was She will also have to seek help to care for the couple's two children. Chervl Benton, executive director of the Houston Area Women's Center, said Judge Walker's handling of the case should be encouraging for other victims of family

Conservationists seek dunes area protection

WASHINGTON (AP) - Conservationists say all-terrain vehicles are threatening the red and white sand dunes of far West Texas and if that stark environment isn't protected, unique cactuses and lizards may lose their only habitat.

Rep. Ron Coleman of El Paso is asking Congress to protect the dunes by expanding the Guadalupe Mountains National Park by 10,123 acres to include the white gypsum and red quartoze dunes.

The Democrat told a House subcommittee in a hearing on his legislation last week that the cost to the federal government would likely be less than $1 million.

Five of the six landowners involved who have been contacted have indicated they are willing to donate or exchange land, or sell it at the going rate - estimated at no more than $75 an acre, Coleman said.

The environment in this area is one of the most sensitive in the world. With the miniscule amounts of rain the area receives, mistakes would never be rectified," Texas state Sen. Bill Sims testified.

Built over the centuries by winds blowing across the salt flats of the Chihuahan Desert, the gypsum dunes and the red dunes are now threatened by all-terrain vehicles.

"Continued use out there can eventually cause total deterioration of habitat and you lose the species," Bob Valen, chief of visitor services at the park, said

Jeff Weigle, acting director of the Texas Nature Conservancy, testified the dunes harbor 20 native plant species, including three that are federally listed as threatened or endangered -Sneed's pincushion, Lloyd's hedgehog cactus, and McKittrick's pennyroyal.

Valen said McKittrick's pennyroyal is found nowhere else on the planet.

Two other plant species were recently discovered in the dunes and have never before been described, Weigle testified Lepidospartum burgesii, a small shrub and candidate for federal listing, and Ericameria; a genus of the sunflower fmaily.

The dunes and the nearby White Sands National Monument of New Mexico are also the only home for the rare white variety of the lesser earless lizard, he said. Other species that roam the area known for its extreme swings in temperatures and rugged desert conditions, include snakes, the side-blotched lizard, the little striped whiptail lizard and the western whiptail lizard.

The dunes are recognized as Texas natural landmarks

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

No trial date had been set Wednesday morning for any of seven capital murder defendants charged in connection with three 1987 deaths, but 118th District Court Judge James Gregg said the trials would probably be scheduled

Assistant District Attorney William Dupree said Tuesday he believes the cases will be set for disposition of a related case against a 29-year-old Big Spring

Sheriff's log

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said early today that Jeannie Hernandez Fonseca has been transported to the Texas Department of Corrections.

The 29-year-old former capital murder defendant pleaded guilty to murder July 7 and was sentenced to a life term in the state

Fonseca, who has been in custody in the county jail since October, was charged with three counts of capital murder and an unrelated count of aggravated robbery

District Attorney Rick Hamby said July 7 that Fonseca could not be transported to the penitentiary until July 18 (Monday). On Monday Sheriff Standard said a date had been set for her transfer but declined to release that date for publication, citing security concerns.

Although he said no threats had been received, the sheriff said security concerns are always a consideration in such a transfer. The concerns are for both the safety of the inmate and the escorting officers, he had said earlier.

Fonseca could have received the death penalty had she been convicted of capital murder. For the first-degree felony of murder, maximum punishment is a life sentence; other punishments are a sentence of not less than five nor more than 99 years in the state penitentiary and/or a fine of not more than $10,000.

Howard County Sheriff's Department officers reported investigating the following incidents as of 8:15 a.m. today:

 David Wayne Sigmon was released on bonds totaling $4,500 Wednesday. Sigmon, 30, 2303 Carl St., had been arrested by Big Spring police on charges of driving while intoxicated, driving while license suspended, freeing and evading (arrest).

• William Stewart Froman, 26. 901 W. Third St., was sentenced to 10 years probation after pleading guilty in 118th District Court to burglary of a building.

He also planed to demand a redirection of U.S. foreign policy in such regions as Central America and South Africa.

His aides said Dukakis would not try to elicit the kind of emotion that Jackson arouses with his fervent oratory, but would seek to display the consistency of the message he has delivered throughout his campaign for the nomination.

"The message doesn't change from week to week; the themes don't change from week to week," Edley said. "There's a steadiness to what this campaign is about, and a line of continuity from his announcement speech straight through to the inaugural address

Edley said the Dukakis speech, like Jackson's on Tuesday night, would be "kind of a greatest hits" collection from his earlier campaign speeches.

"We're going to let Dukakis be Dukakis," Edley said.

He will criticize the Republicans for "romantic attachment to the status quo in both domestic and foreign policy,' Edley said.

But the speech is not planned as stridently partisan.

"It will be a positive speech," Edley said. "There is not going to be a harsh, partisan edge to it. That is not the Dukakis style.

Lengthy sentences cost-efficient

Tough prison sentences for hardened criminals serve the cause of justice, but some fear that they cost more than taxpayers can afford.

A recent Justice Department study has some reassuring news: Keeping repeat offenders behind bars actually is cheaper than granting them early release.

The department's research arm, the National Institute of Justice, found that the average prisoner costs $25,000 a year - including prison construction and maintenance expenses. But crimes committed by repeat offenders who have been freed early cost about $430,000 a year in losses to victims and in outlays for police, courts, etc. It is true that many prisons are overcrowded. The remedy is not to turn their inmates loose, but to build more prisons.

Says Dukakis favors murderers

To the editor:

Beginning on page 57 of the July 1988 issue of Readers' Digest is an article "Getting Away with Murder." It refers to convicted killers roaming the streets of Massachusetts on weekend passes.

On page 61 is an account of a state trooper shot and killed while on duty in 1983. It does not include what I know. The trooper, riding a motorcycle, noticed the tail light broken on a vehicle. He came from behind and motioned the driver to the side of the road.

He approached on foot to inform the driver but was gunned down. As he lay on his stomach, dying, several more shots were pumped into his back. The theory is the car occupants were transporting

This happened in the town of Natick on a road that runs from Wellesley through Natick and on to Farmingham. This road is not near the turnpike, so the suspected drug dealers had quite a few miles to travel before blending in with the heavy traffic. It is surprising that the culprits have never been apprehended.

A few months after the killing of the trooper, I attended a class reunion with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hanna. They were still in a state of shock after the murder of their only son. Gov. Dukakis is known to favor murderers. In Massachusetts, a sentence of life without parole is meaningless. After 10 years a lifer is routinely transferred to a minimum security facility that has no walls. There he becomes eligible for furloughs.

One of these murderers, on his tenth weekend pass, disappeared. While he was out, William R. Horton Jr. and two other men on Oct. 26, 1974 killed a 17-year-old as he worked alone at a service station in Massachusetts. This is only one more of the murders listed in the Readers' Digest.

Gov. Dukakis set up a bureaucratic stone wall, refusing to talk to reporters. Michael Fair. commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Corrections, refused to talk, citing the state's 1972 Criminal Offender Records Information Act, which strictly limits public access to court and prison records of convicted criminals.

The law granted convicted killers a right to privacy that made their crimes virtually a state

What about the rights of the people they murder?

Jack Anderson, P.O. Box 2300, Washington, D.C., 20012.

Here is sampling of the kind of comments we hear as we travel throughout the country:

"By all account, the FBI wiretappers have found evidence of massive corruption in the Pentagon," a former Pentagon officer told us. "I found worse corruption that wouldn't interest the FBI because it was perfectly legal.

"I watched Pentagon officials and defense contractors divide up billions in procurement among key congressional districts. A new contract would be awarded or a new plant would be built where it would influence a congressman whose vote was needed.

"I was present when weapons system were selected because they cost more. That's right, the higher costs generated bigger staffs for the generals, more jobs for the congressmen's constituents and higher profits for the corporations.'

As strong as these comments are, they understate the case. Billions are spent for equipment that should never have been purchased. Weapons systems are often designed for profit rather than defense. Frills are added for no reason other than to increase the price.

Thousands of military installations are kept operating for no other purpose than to provide a

The Japanese people have treated me with elaborate courtesy, but they have carefully kept me outside the conference rooms where decisions are made and policies are adopted. There appears to be a shadowy force that controls Japanese moves from behind the scenes.

We, too, have heard references, from competent sources, to a committee influencing Japanese policy. But it would only compound our economic problems if we looked for such a simplistic solution. Making a scapegoat out of Japan would further demoralize the national psyche, discredit the saner public figures and inflate the firebrands and know-nothings.

We are responsible for our own economic plight. Japan is a nation of producers; the United States, a nation of consumers. Japan is a nation of engineers; the United States a nation of lawyers. Japan is piling up cash reserves; the United States is running up the public debt. The Japanese sacrifice today for temorrow; Americans sacrifice tomorrow for today.

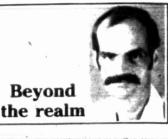

From a reader in New York, we got this question: "I heard you say on your radio broadcast that Colombia was the source of most of the cocaine that is smuggled into the United States. But I read in the New York Times that Mexico supplies most of the drugs coming into this country.'

The Medellin cartel, a criminal consortium operating out of the Colombia resort city of the same name, supplies an estimated 80 percent of the cocaine consumed by Americans. But most drugs are smuggled here across the Mexican

Another stroll in the garden

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Hi, boys and girls. Well, the little hand's on the three and the big hand's on the 12. Do you know what that means?

Yeah, it means you're sweating another column, Reagan.

No, no, no, dear little friends. It means that it's time once again for a stroll through Uncle Stevie's Garden of Grammatical Delights.

Lucky us. That's right, folks. I've received soooo many requests from readers the past few weeks, fairly panting in their desires for more tounguetwisting and mind-numbing tidbits from Mr. Webster's trusty

How many requets did you get, Reagan?

I got thousands and thousands of inquiries.

Try again, Reagan.

Would you believe hundreds? Not a chance, Steve-o.

OK, OK, I didn't receive any requests, but — being the firm believer in continuing education I am - I decided not to let that stand in the way of improving all those minds out there practically thirsting for knowledge.

If it's all the same to you, Reagan, we'd rather play golf.

I'm sorry, people, but trivial pasttimes are going to have to wait. We've got important business to perform here, and time's awastin'. Now, remember the rule: I give you a word, and you try to provide a definition. Are we ready? Do we have a choice?

Quite frankly, no. Well, enough dallying; here we go! Now, there's a fine sounding word if ever I saw one. What could it mean? No, it's not a new teen slang expression, like "Oh, wow, he's just confabulate!" The definition, according to Webster's is: To replace fact with fantasy in memory which is what an ex-girlfriend used to do when explaining why she broke our dates.

Now, wasn't that fun? Yeah. Big whoopie.

I can tell all of you are just chomping at the bit to have another go at this fun, yet educational, diversion. so let's turn the pages and see what we find.

And the word is . . . grommet. What a nasty-sounding word. OK, boys and girls, what does it

It's an animal, isn't it? I think my brother once had a pet grommet.

No, no. It's an insult. You wouldn't believe how many grommets I went to high school with.

I'm sorry, but both of you are wrong. The dictionary states that a grommet is: A rope or metal ring used for securing the edge of a sail.

Well, a look at the clock at the clock shows that time's up for this walk in the garden. I'd love to continue, but I have to confabulate with my boss.

Bye for now, kids.

Assassination scheme uncovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oliver L. North was the target of a potential assassination plot that involved one of eight men charged with illegal pro-Libyan activities in the United States, an administration source says.

The man, Mousa Hawamda, is a naturalized American who was identified Wednesday at an arraignment hearing for six of those arrested in the alleged scheme, which prosecutors said involved diversion of Libyan funds to support anti-American activities.

Hawamda was described as a Libyan intelligence operative who operates under the guise of a Washington travel agency owner.

Recent showers too late to end drought

By CHARLES J. GANS Associated Press Writer

Van Endref's thirsty Southern Illinois fields soaked up a heavy rain that he and other farmers call a "godsend," but experts say recent showers in the Midwestern farm belt don't bode an end to the drought.

"The corn crop overall has been hurt quite considerably because the needed rains came about two to three weeks too late," said John Unger, a crop statistician for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Illinois.

And the rain may be only a respite. In its 30-day outlook, the National Weather Service predicts more hot, dry weather - abovenormal temperatures and belownormal rainfall for the nation's heartland.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng inspected a cornfield in central Minnesota on Wednesday, saying the damage is the worst he's seen in eight droughtravaged states over the past two

"We've educated ourselves a great deal," Lyng told Edgar Traut and his wife Kathleen, who own a 320 acre dairy farm near St. Cloud,

But the recent rainfall —

Midwest - gave farmers like Van Endref something to be happy about. His 2,000 acres near Elkville, Ill., got nearly 4 inches of rain since Sunday.

Endref says he expects a 50 percent corn crop and a 75 percent soybean crop — enough at least to cover his production costs.

"It doesn't look as bleak as it did just 10 days ago when it looked like we wouldn't raise a thing," he said Wednesday night. "In our immediate area, it's made a big turnaround."

Herman Krone's 2,800-acre farm in Du Quoin, Ill., which President Reagan visited last week, was drenched by more than 3 inches of rain in 24 hours.

"It's a godsend," Krone said. In central Arkansas' Pulaski County, Greg Chapman beamed as his drought-shriveled soybean field got a dose of rain. "I'm smiling," Chapman said as he watched the downpour from a farm shop in Scott. "Three weeks ago, I thought it wouldn't rain again for the rest of the year. But other farmers were left high

"I can't even remember the fast rain," said a discouraged Sonny Wiederkehr, a Texas rancher with 3,000 acres who said his parched average 1 to 2 inches across the pastures "look like the pavement."

Award winner Phyllis Frelich plays Sister Sarah

Frelich the Tour Award windage actress from Broadway's "Children of a Lesser God," has many of the performers on the NRC daytime drama "Santa Barbara" learning to use sign language for the deaf.

Frelich has joined the show as Sister Sarah, a nun who might be involved in a murder. In the story, Sarah has left the mission and is living with Julia Wainwright, an attorney played by Nancy Grahn.

"All the actors I work with are learning to read and do signs,' she said. "Nancy knew some signs so our scenes are comfortable and easy.

"The way we work is that the other actors read my signs and voice my thoughts. Last week we got a call from a viewer who said the sign language was not accurate. I said, of course, someone who is in stress and is with people learning to read signs will make mistakes. It's quite realistic. People would also read the signs

Frelich was interviewed with her husband, Bob Steinberg, an actor and former lighting director, acting as her interpreter.

"Santa Barbara" is the first soap opera appearance for Frelich, who also starred in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production "Love Is Never Silent."

"It really happened in a funny way," she said. "I met Nancy Grahn at a benefit performance at Beyond Baroque of 'A Night at the Movies.' It was a whole evening of scenes and I did a scene from 'Network.' Nancy knew a few signs and said that during the writers strike the actors were submitting ideas.

"We sat down and made up a story for us. Nancy took it to the producers and said she had this "In the show Julia and Sarah become good friends because Julia has taken over investigation of the murder I'm involved in,'

"The question is who murdered

Mark McCormick. The murder, which happened several years ago, has never been solved. Someone is trying to frame Mason Capwell (Lane Davies). He's trying to find out who framed him and I've been helping him."

Sarah was a troubled woman taken into the mission by Sister Mary, who left the church and married McCormick.

"It looks as though Sarah knows who the killer is," said Frelich. "That's the way the story seems to be going. Sarah is very confused, with two conflicting personalities. It's a complicated part and it's difficult to Gallaudet College, a school for the hearing-impaired in Washington, D.C. She then joined the National Theatre for the Deaf. She starred as a deaf playwright in "The Hands of the Enemy" at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles with Richard Dreyfuss.

'Acting is very difficult and jobs are scarce, even more so for me than most actors," she said. "I've been on the lecture circuit, trying to make people aware and more sensitive to the needs of deaf people. That keeps me busy between acting jobs.

She starred in the Broadway version of "Children of a Lesser God," which was written for her by playwright Mark Medoff. She had met Medoff when her husband had been scenic and lighting designer on several of his plays.

"I was the first deaf person he had known," she said. "I told him there were no roles for deaf actresses. He said, 'OK, I'll write a play for you.' He did. He went home and wrote 'Children of a Lesser God.' He wanted to write a good play. He was interested in me as an actress and he wasn't trying to write a message play.

Frelich said it was hard for her to judge the movie version, which won an Academy Award for deaf actress Marlee Matlin. "It's so hard because I see all the differences," she said. "The picture leaves you with a different feeling. I keep seeing what isn' there."

She said Matlin came backstage to see her in New York.

It would have been a perfect reumon, except for one thing — there was no class picture! When I asked the chairman of the reunion where the photographer was, he told me, "There isn't going to be any." I couldn't believe I had heard correctly, but, Abby, I had! I was furious and demanded to know why not. He chuckled and said, "One of the committee members pointed out the fact that while the grads were having their class picture taken, their spouses would be bored standing around and doing nothing, so we decided to skip the PELOPI, Greece — Residents of the ancestral home of Michael Dukakis 'feasted on lamb, danced and drank ouzo toasts early today at an all-night party to celebrate his nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate.

More than 200 people who gathered at the village cafe cheered wildly as state-run Greek television announced in its midnight newscast that the Massachusetts governor was "certain to get the nomination.'

'It's an important event for our village tonight, it's one more step towards the November election,' said Costas Stefanou, 42, president of the this mountain village of 640 residents on the northern Aegean island of Mytilene.

The crowd toasted the man they call "our Michalis" with beer and ouzo, an anise-flavored drink that is an island specialty. Then they feasted on spit-roast lamb and danced to bouzouki music, watched by a line of children perched on a fence wearing "Mike Dukakis for President" buttons.

Filed July 11, the suit alleges that Pena had an agreement with an independent contractor, Ricky Robertson, operating out of DeWees' shop. Under that agreement Pena would pay Robertson $1,000 for painting the truck and a 1971 Chevrolet, according to the suit, which also states that Pena paid Robertson $500 in advance.

Pena sued Robertson in County Court pursuant to that agreement, according to the suit, and an instructed verdict in favor of Robertson was rendered, resulting in Pena's paying Robertson $500

The suit alleges that when Pena went to DeWees' shop to retrieve her vehicle, after discharge of Robertson's mechanic's lien on the truck. DeWees refused to return the vehicle to Pena.

According to the suit, DeWees told Pena he was keeping the truck because Robertson owed him a large sum of money, thus exercising unauthorized dominion over the

The suit seeks the fair market value of the truck or fair rental value for the truck for the period DeWees maintains unauthorized dominion, plus pre- and postjudgment interest, attorneys' fees and court costs.

• State and County Mutual Fire Insurance Company, a Texas corporation, sued Champion Mobile Home Builders Incorporated, a Michigan corporation, July 12.

The insurance company's suit alleges that the mobile home builder was negligent in the design and manufacture of a 14-by-56-foot "Woodlake" mobile home sold to Kenneth L. Duffer Oct. 20, 1984.

Duffer's home was insured by State and County Mutual when, after ordinary use, according to the suit, the home caught fire and was destroyed July 13, 1986; Duffer so notified the insurance company the next day. The suit alleges that the manufacturer is negligent in the design and manufacture of the mobile home, which was defective when it left the builder's control, by using a utility electric socket lacking an overload protector. According to the suit, the cause of the fire was traced to that socket, making the manufacturer liable for the $19,548.00 insurance claim State and County Mutual paid to Duffer, plus attorney fees and costs of suit. Sharon Kay Shelton sued Debra Cline and Cline Construction Company July 17 for damages.

Shelton's suit alleges that she was a passenger in a 1968 Ford being driven safely and carefully by Martha Mathews when it was struck by a Chevrolet pickup Cline was driving on July 22, 1987. Shelton sustained injuries to the nerves, bones and soft tissues of her neck, left shoulder and left arm, according to the suit, as well as continuing pain, mental anguish and disability. She also suffered the loss of use of her automobile, the 1968 Ford, and damage to it, as a result of the collision.

The suit alleges that Debra Cline operated the pickup in a negligent and unsafe manner and that Cline Construction Company, owners of the pickup, was liable for her acts as a result of having allowed her to drive the pickup.

The suit seeks unspecified damages plus interest, plus costs of • Permian Tank and Manufacturing Inc. filed suit in 118th District Court July 14 against Charles Dunnam, doing business as Ackerly Oil Co., and Kerry Burks, doing business as Trio Distributing.

The suit, which seeks $13,298.34 on account for tanks and equipment, $4,432 in attorneys' fees, plus interest commencing 30 days after the due date of that account, was transferred to Howard County on request of Dunnam.

Originally filed in Ector County, the suit alleges that Dunnam accepted delivery of the tanks and equipment, which Dunnam denies and that Dunnam is liable for the value of the tanks and equipment under an operating agreement between Dunnam and Burks dated Dec. 20, 1986.

Dunnam answered the suit and denied liability, denied accepting the merchandise, and denied that the alleged transaction took place in Ector County, making Ector County an improper venue for the

On June 23 the suit was transferred to Howard County, Dunnam's ounty of residence, by order of Judge George W. Svanas.

The suit contains a third-party cross-action filed by Dunnam and Ackerly Oil Co. against Burks.

That third-party action alleges that Dunnam and Ackerly Oil Co. are entitled to any and all judgments against Burks d/b/a Trio as a third-party plaintiff in the Permian vs. Trio suit

A children's play — about a children's play

By STEVE GEISSEN Staff Writer

One of the themes of children's play "Liddle Peeples" is how adults tend to underestimate the intelligence of children.

The play – a Spring City Theatre Startight Special - will be performed Friday at 7 p.m. and Saturday a 10:30 a.m. in the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheatre.

Although Steve McLaughlin, a sophomore theatre major at Howard College, wrote the script, it wasn't until he began directing the play that he discovered the full truth of the play's theme.

Since the children in the play were relatively inexperienced as actors, McLaughlin thought the first few rehearsals for the play would have to serve as teaching workshops.

But McLaughlin, who had never directed a children's play before, was soon reminded of the natural ability of his young actors.

"The kids picked up everything right away," he said. "They're so uninhibited that acting is natural to them, you just tell them what to do and they do it.

"These kids are just phenomenal actors. With work, and if they stay uninhibited, all of

Asked for a synopsis of the play, Mclaughlin said, "the play is about doing a play — a children's play for a community theatre."

The play is a comedy,

McLaughlin said, but he was quick to add that the characters and situations in the play are not based-adults, said Annisa Bartee, the play's stage manager. The children were selected from auditions, McLaughlin said.

"The kids are really dedicated," Bartee said. "We were worried that they might be afraid on stage; and at first some of them were, but now they love to be on stage.

Said McLaughlin, "They really ham it up."

As for the appeal of the play, McLaughlin said that while the play is primarily geared for children, he took an adult audience into consideration as well.

"I wanted the children to identify with the kids in the play, and for the adults, I try to-keep things going on an adult level," he said. 'For the most part, I think the play does that.

Good script saves 'Run'

From "It Happened One Night" to "Planes, Trains and Automobiles," the road picture has been a Hollywood fixture. So you think all the freshness has gone? Wrong. Here comes "Midnight Run," with more twists and turns and better scenery than Route 66.

What elevates "Midnight Run" out of the ordinary is an ingenious, witty script by George Gallo, slambang direction by Martin Brest and a superior cast, headed by Robert DeNiro and Charles Grodin.

DeNiro is not exactly a private investigator. He's a bounty hunter from Los Angeles, an ex-cop reduced to tracking down deadbeats and bringing them to justice. Lawfully or otherwise, it doesn't matter. Bailbondsman Joe Pantoliano gives him a daunting assignment: bring back an accountant, Charles Grodin, who is in danger of skipping on his huge bail.

Grodin is not just any accountant. He embezzled $15 million from a Las Vegas crime boss (Dennis Farina), giving the fortune to charity. All DeNiro has to do is locate his quarry in New York and return him to Los Angeles in five days. Easy? Not when Grodin is also wanted by the FBI and is targeted for execution by Farina, and claims he is unable to fly.

Setting off cross-country, DeNiro finds himself bedeviled at every stop by government agents and Mafia hit men. Then he faces another hazard: another bounty hunter he has double-crossed, John Ashton for its own sake.

Producer-director Martin Brest ("Beverly Hills Cop"), provides non-stop action on every kind of transportation except bicycles. Blessedly, it's not just movement

Former Howard College All-America baseball player Ernesto Castro is spending his summer playing in the Jayhawk League in Nevada, Mo.

Castro, a two time junior college All-America left fielder, is playing in the league that features the best collegiate ball players in the country, said Howard College assistant baseball coach Frank Anderson.

The Jayhawk League has leagues in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa. Such players as Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens; Cleveland Indians hurler Greg Swindell and Texas Rangers out fielder Pete Incavagila have played in the league.

Castro is leaning towards attending National Association Intercollegiate Association school Lewis and Clark in Lewiston, Idaho. Lewis and Clark is the defending NAIA national champs.

Also playing in the Jayhawk League is Howard infielder Darren Glenn. The El Paso sophomore is playing for a team in Red Oak, Iowa.

At the end of the summers all the top teams in the leagues get together for a 36-team double elimination tournament.

Seniors wallop Midland

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

The Big Spring Senior American All-Stars scored 11 runs in the second inning, and got a masterful pitching performance from Sambo Rodriguez, to win the Sectional Tournament by defeating the Midland American League All-Stars 14-0

The Big second inning at Roy Anderson Complex floored the Midland Americans early, and Rodriguez kept them down for the count with his mixture of pitches and good control.

The Big Spring hurler scattered seven hits, struck out eight and didn't walk any.

In contrast to Rodriguez, Midland pitchers struggled miserably, especially starter Jimmy Patton and reliever Jim Martin. Together the duo surrendered 11 runs on five hits and eight walks.

Patton lasted one-and on-third inning, and Martin pitched one-third inning. Chris Phillips pitched the rest of the game, allowing three runs on four hits. He only walked

The Big Spring hitting attack was paced by shortstop Patrick Chavarria, first baseman Neal Mayfield and reserve catcher Mike Hernandez. All got two hits each. Left fielder Ricky Escoveda drove in three runs with a single in Big Spring's big second inning.

Big Spring took a 2-0 lead after the first inning, thanks to two Midland errors and some daring base running.

Big Spring Senior League All-Stars' second baseman Shane Kemper gets ready to throw to first after fielding a grounder hit by Midland's Brandon Oden in first inning action at Roy Anderson Complex Wednesday night. Oden was out on the play.

Leadoff man Shane Kemper got line. Midland pitcher Patton's third. First baseman Brad Brun-scampered in with the first run of a walk. Chavarria then laid down a throw was wild at first and Kemper son's throw sailed over the third Michael Jones then drew a base on balls and Michael Sizenbach singled, scoring Rodgers. The fifth and final American run of the inning came when Jones stole home.

Lamesa scratched for a run in the top of the second but the Americans answered with two runs in the bottom of the inning.

Terrazas led off with a single and Hamby flied out to the first baseman. Next Akin just missed a homer when he hit the top of the fence, ending up with a double. After Rodgers fanned, Jones brought in Terrazas and Akin with a single, giving Big Spring a seem-Akin followed with a base hit, ingly comfortable 7-1 advantage.

Unfortunately, it would be "all-Lamesa" the rest of the game.

Leading the Lamesa comeback was first baseman Jonathan Conteras. Conteras hit a three-run homer in the fourth, as Lamesa narrowed the lead to 7-6; and then hit a two-run shot in the sixth off Big Spring reliever Jeremy

Robertson relieved a struggling Akin in the fourth. Usually pocessing pinpoint control, Akin issued 12 walks in four-and-two-thirds Lamesa, which was the only team to draw a bye in the first round of the tournament, runs its record to 4-1 in tournament play.

The pupil was Joe DeLoach, who will be a senior at the University of Houston. He won Wednesday's 200-meter final at the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials in 19.96 seconds. Carl Lewis, the defending Trials and Olympic medalist who trains with DeLoach, was second at 20.01. It was Lewis' first outdoor loss in the 200 since June 21, 1986, a span of 14 races that included nine

Trials

"I'm so elated to see Joe make the team. You always want to win, but if you don't win, it makes it better when you lose to a dear friend and that's what Joe is to me,' Lewis said of DeLoach.

"He's been very motivational to me and very, very encouraging,' DeLoach said of Lewis. "I call myself a novice and Carl has perfection in everything he does. I enjoy working with him and learning from his experience.'

In another shocker, Butch Reynolds ran the second fastest 400 ever. His meet record of 43.93 was just seven-hundredths of a second slower than the world record set by American Lee Evans in the 1968 Olympics.

Roy Martin, who managed to beat DeLoach when they both were high school students in Texas, edged out Albert Robinson for the third and final spot on the U.S. team in tne 200. Both were timed at 20.05.

Calvin Smith, the 1987 world champion in the event, failed to earn a spot on the team. He placed

"It was a very tough race. I gave 100 percent, but tonight it wasn't enough," said Smith, who won an Olympic gold in the 400 relay in 1984. "I just couldn't stay with them down the stretch. I feel good

Lewis, who finished first in the 100 and long jump earlier in the Trials as he seeks to duplicate his 1984 feat of four Olympic golds, wasn't surprised with his loss.

"Joe simply ran the best race," Lewis said. "I've been talking about him for a long time. I knew he was one of the great talents and I knew he could do it.

DeLoach, 21, made the team in the 200 with his personal best after earlier failing to qualify in the 100. "I was quite disappointed over not qualifying in the 100," said DeLoach, the reinging NCAA champion in the short sprint race. "I really wanted to be on the 100-meter team in Seoul. It (failing) gave me a lot of strength going into the 200.'

"I think he's equally as good in both races. I think he's right up there with me and think we're similar runners," said Lewis, who blamed his mechanics for the loss.

"I feel I could have run a better race. I went into the turn too hard. There's no question about that," said Lewis, adding that despite the defeat he's leaving Indianapolis

"Number one, I'm glad that's its over with," Lewis said of his competition here. "I'm tired. It was a very tough road. I ran four 100s, qualified in the long jump and had six jumps in the finals and then had to run four 200s ... I leave the Trials with my head up high and very optimistic.

Reynolds, 24, also is optimistic about the future.

"I think 43 (seconds) is within reach - maybe 42," said the former Ohio State runner who won a bronze medalist in the 1987 World Championships. His time was the fastest ever at sea level and runner-up Danny Everett, the NCAA champion, ran 43.98, the second-best sea level time ever.

It was the first time two runners had broken 44 seconds since the 1968 Games, when Larry James finished behind Evans in 43.97.

UCLA freshman Steve Lewis, who set the world junior record of 44.11 in the semifinals, was third in the final at 44.37. Antonio McKay, the 1984 Olympic bronze medalist, wound up fifth in 44.79, behind Kevin Robinzine's 44.61.

"I came up a little short in Rome (at the world championships), but it won't happen again," Reynolds said. "Things are different now. I've got the knowledge, wisdom and maturity

In their race, which ended a raindelayed session at the Indiana Track and Field Stadium, Lewis and DeLoach got out quickly. As they came around the curve, Lewis had a slight lead, but DeLoach passed him with about 15 meters

"I wasn't surprised I beat him," said DeLoach. "I didn't try to go past him. I just maintained better. I had a little bit more left than Carl. That was the difference.

Lewis' gold medals in the 100, 200, long jump and 400 relay at Los Angeles duplicated the four-gold feat of Jesse Owens in the 1936 Olympics. Lewis is hoping to become the first track and field athlete to win four golds in consecutive Games.

Meanwhile, Schowonda Williams of Louisiana State added a victory in the women's 400-meter intermediate hurdles to the NCAA and national championships she won earlier this year. Her time of 54.93 was the fastest by an American this year

Morgan has Red Sox playing good baseball

By The Associated Press Boston manager Joe Morgan has his players on their toes and his opponents on their heels

The Red Sox have won seven straight games since Morgan took over for the fired John McNamara last Thursday. The latest was a 9-7 defeat of the Minnesota Twins on Todd Benzinger's three-run homer in the bottom of the 10th inning Wednesday night.

'With Mac, when you're not playing at the start of the game. you're probably not playing at the end of the game," said Benzinger, who replaced Larry Parrish in the seventh inning. "But with Joe, you have to keep ready and loose from the sixth inning on. That's the way it happened tonight.

The Red Sox were almost too loose against the Twins, blowing a 5-0 lead and giving up two more runs in the 10th.

But with one out and runners on first and second in the bottom of the 10th, Jody Reed doubled in a run to make the score 7-6 and Benzinger, a switch-hitter, followed with his fifth homer.

"I'd have to say that was the best out of the seven, wouldn't you?' said Morgan, who became the first manager in the history of the Red Sox to win his first seven games.

The Red Sox have now won 12 straight at home and are in third place in the American League East, five games behind divisionleading Detroit and 31/2 behind second-place New York.

"I'm sure when the Tigers and Yankees wake up in the morning and see how we won they're going to say," God, they're rolling now watch out," Boston second baseman Marty Barrett said.

With first base open, Minnesota manager Tom Kelly could have ordered Benzinger walked intentionally and taken his chances on pinch-hitter Rich Gedman.

"I wasn't worried about Gedman," Kelly said. "There was only one guy you worry about there. That's Wade Boggs. If you walk Benzinger, you have the bases loaded. If Gedman strikes out, who's up? Boggs.

The victory went to Kansas City reliever Jeff Montgomery, 3-1, who pitched the final five innings and -allowed only one hit, retiring the last 13 batters he faced.

Milwaukee starter Ted Higuera, who entered the game with a 5-0 career record against Kansas City, struck out to and innited the Royals to three hits before being relieved by Chuck Crim in the 10th Indians 5, Athletics 4 John Farrell struck out 10 batters in 62-3 innings and Doug Jones got his 23rd save of the season, tying a team record, as Cleveland beat Oakland.

Jones, who has earned saves in each of his last 19 opportunities, relieved Farrell, 10-6, with the Indians leading 5-3 and two runners on base in the seventh inning. Farrell, who arrived in the major leagues last August, bettered his previous strikeout high by three. He allowed nine hits but walked only one batter.

Cleveland scored three runs in the second and two in the third off Dave Stewart, 12-9.

Manley in hot water

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — After publicly apologizing for his latest brush with controversy, Washington Redskins defensive end Dexter Manley hopes he can avoid being punished by the NFL.

Manley is scheduled to meet on Friday with commissioner Pete Rozelle to respond to an inquiry from the league. It will be Manley's second discussion with Rozelle this Manley's lawyer, Bob Woolf. denies the meeting concerns substance abuse. But Manley Thad Harbour of Austin also didn't disavow an article in said the inquiry was triggered by a positive result for a "minor" substance in a recent drug test.

Instead, Manley apologized. "I deeply regret this happening because of my family," he told WJLA-TV. "I've never been in a situation like this. ... For this to happen to me blows my mind. I'm in a state of confusion. Manley did not specify what the inquiry was about, and Woolf insisted it concerned "something minor" and that the letter demanding the meeting "didn't mention anything about him flunking a drug

Manley, who is due to report to the Redskins' training camp Saturday, said he was hopeful he could emerge from the meeting with Rozelle without punishment.
