Residents divided on downtown project

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Big Spring residents appear to be divided on whether the city should continue to provide funding for the downtown revitalization project, according to the results of an informal survey.

The Chamber of Commerce downtown steering committee has asked the city to allot $10,000 in the 1988-89 budget to continue the project designed to promote opportunity for new and expanded business activity.

The revitalization plan also calls for the restoration of building facades in the downtown area to their original period, which dates to the introduction of railroads during the late 1800s.

Economic conditions have prompted the council to tentatively deny the request but — because of renewed citizen interest — the issue is currently under consideration again.

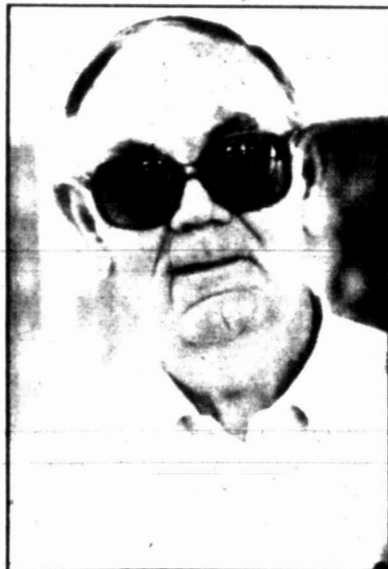

Three council members have publicly supported the funding request, but a final decision will not be made until Aug. 9.

During the past three years, the city and county have contributed $60,000 each. The Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foun-

Estelle Howard, 1902 Hearn St., believes the downtown area needs to be upgraded, but said the money could be put to better use.

Drought bill on Reagan's desk

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Lawmakers are promising to iron out House and Senate differences over a $6 billion drought-relief package in a quick flurry of action next week and speed the measure on to President Reagan's desk.

"My opinion is that the president would accept this bill as it is passed today, although there have been some things he objects to," Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., said Thursday after 94-0 Senate passage of the bill.

The House had approved its version 368-29 a few hours earlier after scaling back a plan to increase milk price supports, a proposal widely criticized as excessively favoring the dairy industry.

The revised version would impose a temporary increase for three months next year. Milk price supports previously had been scheduled to decrease on Jan. 1.

Senators tightened a similarly controversial benefit in their bill that would allow companies that make ethanol for fuel to buy corn from government surplus bins at what could shape up as a substantial discount.

However, there were still warnings that Congress was flirting with budget trouble by inserting special benefits for constituents back home into the measure.

The House, urged by Agriculture Committee Chairman E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, acted to cap the price tag of its bill at $5.8 billion.

Joint effort urged on water problem

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

STANTON — With 5,000 acres of cropland under water and at least 5,000 more severely damaged by erosion, flood control measures in Martin and surrounding counties have become a real necessity, officials say.

The need could be seen Thursday as Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport led commissioners from Martin, Dawson and Howard Counties, a state senator's aide and representatives from the Colorado River Municipal Water District, across a portion of the watershed that drains into Natural Dam Lake.

Conservation specialists and media representatives also were invited to the session, which began at 10 a.m. in the Martin County Courthouse, where water problems were discussed.

Saying that most people could not visualize flooding problems in West Texas, Deavenport told the group problems in the area began with uncommonly heavy rains in 1986. He said the rains remained heavy through 1987, "and now in 1988, for the third year we've been trying to cope with severe water problems."

"A week ago in northeast Martin County, we had 5,000 acres of cropland under water. I think it's a fairly conservative figure to say that 5,000 acres have been lost to production in 1988, and 5,000 more damaged, not to mention the number of homes, septic systems or water wells flooded."

"In Howard County, too, they have real severe problems,"

MARTIN COUNTY — Howard County Commissioner David Barr tests the water in Sulphur Draw, upstream from Natural Dam Lake. Barr said the water at this crossing is unpalatably salty, although it could be used to water livestock.

Deavenport said. "In Dawson County they have a whole lot of erosion. It's easy to state the problem — but not the solution."

He called the situation beyond the capacity of any single governmental entity to remedy, and sought the cooperation of all the governmental entities represented at the session.

"I hope we can, if not solve, at least reduce the problems," he said.

Officials from the City of Big Spring had been invited to the meeting but declined to attend because of a prior commitment.

"We do have a problem," Colorado River Municipal Water District General Manager Owen H. Ivie told the group, "and I've always said that in West Texas you couldn't have a better problem than a water problem, having too much water."

He cited July 5, 1986, as the beginning of the time period leading to the current problem, which he described as an overabundance of rain throughout watershed areas along Sulphur Draw and Buzzard Draw and in the Ackerly and Knott area.

Those watersheds eventually lead into Natural Dam Lake — and while imminent collapse of that dam is not likely, releases through its gates, installed after a tense period in 1986 when water almost overtopped the dam, are being made.

Ivie said the water district has plans — and has the state's sup-

Roundtable features variety of issues

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

Representatives of local agencies, businesses and schools gave reports Thursday on topics ranging from issues facing the city council to the estimated population of Big Spring during a Communications Roundtable meeting.

The quarterly Roundtable meetings hosted by Howard College provide an opportunity for community leaders to give reports on their organizations and answer questions posed by group members.

Johnnie Lou Avery, of Avery and Associates and a member of the downtown renovation committee, informed the group that the Vietnam Memorial Committee is planning an air show Oct. 22 at the McMahon-Wrinkle Air Base.

The organizers of the show hope to attract 20,000 people to the event, she said. Proceeds from the air show will benefit the Vietnam Memorial Park fund, she said.

Avery also spoke in support of the downtown coordinator's position, funding for which is being considered by the city council.

"People don't realize how much the committee has done," she said. It has collected more than $200,000 in private donations for downtown renovations, but the money was provided with the understanding that the city would fund the project, she said.

Avery said that without the coordinator the downtown renovation committee could not successfully exist. Committee volunteers are working 20 hours per week, and "without someone to do the coordinating it won't work," she added.

If the coordinators position is continued, the committee may be able to raise another $100,000 to $200,000 in private donations for downtown area projects, she said.

She also told the group of the Northside Community Association's plans to create a Northside redevelopment organization. The organization would seek to beautify the Northside and fight crime in the area.

Big Spring Independent School District's alternative school is scheduled to open Sept. 1. The school will serve 30 to 60 Howard County dropouts per semester, she said.

Bill Crooker, county commissioner, said that the county has budgeted $10,000 for the downtown coordinator position in the event the city council should decide to continue its funding of the position.

The county is facing tough economic times, but he said the county commissioners do not plan to increase taxes. "We feel with the revenues on hand we will be able to do this," he said.

Crooker said recent flooding is primarily in the northwest section of the county, between Andrews Highway and Knott.

He said the county can mediate disputes between farmers brought about by the flooding, but cannot render legally binding decisions.

Farmers seeking to stop other farmers from altering water ways would have to settle such matters in court. "We will listen to (the farmers), and try to help them," he said. "But we're limited, essentially we mediate."

Cheryl Stevens, Customer Operations Supervisor for TU Electric, told the group that the Ancient wave left mark in Texas creek

By PAUL RECER
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 66-million-year-old rock deposit in a Texas creek bed shows that the area was once smashed by a massive ocean wave, perhaps triggered by a large comet or asteroid that hit the Atlantic Ocean, according to a study published today in the journal Science.

Thor A. Hansen, a geologist at Western Washington University, said he and another researcher found evidence that a wave, perhaps as tall as 300 feet, scoured the floor of a primitive Gulf of Mexico, picked up sand and shark teeth, then dumped the material in what now is in a bed of a tributary to the Brazos River in Central Texas.

"It (the wave) was so big, we think the circumstantial evidence is very strong that it was caused by a bolide (meteorite) impact," said Hansen.

The deposit, he said, was found in what is called the Cretaceous-Tertiary boundary. This is the name given a geologic formation that other researchers have identified as having been created during a time that meteorites were showering Earth, about 66 million years ago.

Hansen said the formation he found in the Texas creek bed is rich in iridium, an element that is common in meteorites but rare on Earth. It is considered a universal mark of the Cretaceous-Tertiary (called K-T) boundary.

At the time that the wave was created, Hansen said Texas and the whole Gulf-coast area looked far different than now. The waters of the ocean were much higher and the coast was much farther inland.

Hansen said the massive wave churned against the ocean floor, moving huge clay boulders, picking up sand, limestone and shark teeth, and leaving a path of great erosion.

When the waters settled down, the debris was deposited again on the ocean floor, leaving a mark of the violence that occurred. Over many centuries, the sea water receded, dry land emerged and now the deposit left by the wave is seen in the wall of a creek bed in Falls County in Central Texas.

"The thing that is remarkable about this deposit is that it was produced far offshore on a quiet water shelf," said Hansen. "Above and below is just mud, quiet water sedimentation."

Court rules on toxic waste claims

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has refused to dismiss claims filed against developers who sold subdivision lots at a Texas site contaminated by toxic wastes.

The subdivision was built on the same site where United Creosoting Co. operated a wood-treatment facility from 1946 to 1972. During that period, substantial amounts of highly toxic waste accumulated on the property, according to Thursday's 5th Circuit Court ruling.

The developers bought the property in 1973, filled in and graded the creosote pools and began selling lots for residential use, the ruling said.

In 1980, the opinion said, Tanglewood homeowners and residents complained to Texas authorities about toxic problems and all development ceased. The purchasers sought damages and cleaning costs under the Superfund Act and the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.

A federal district court in Houston denied a joint defense motion to dismiss claims filed in Tanglewood East Homeowners vs. Charles Thomas, First Federal Savings and Loan of Conroe. The 5th Court affirmed the lower court decision Thursday.

The EPA has slated the site for a multi-million dollar cleanup under the Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation and Liability Act, also known as the Superfund act.

The cleanup will require demolition of six homes and construction of bunkers to contain hazardous materials.

NAACP Protests DPS Promotion

AUSTIN (AP) — The man due to assume the No. 2 spot at the Texas Department of Public Safety made a racist comment two years ago, said officials of the NAACP's Austin chapter, who are urging that the man's promotion be revoked.

Gary Bledsoe, president of the Austin branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said James Wilson once referred to the department's first black trooper as "our token nigger."

The allegation was denied by Wilson, who is white and has worked for the DPS for 25 years. He said the NAACP's information is coming from a disgruntled former department employee.

Seasonal workers to get help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department is putting the finishing touches on an emergency aid package for thousands of migrant workers stranded in the drought-parched Midwest, a spokesman said.

Rep. Albert Bustamante has been seeking humanitarian aid for migrant and seasonal workers who were unable to earn a living this summer because of the drought.

He says thousands are scattered across the Midwest without enough money to return home, creating a desperate situation "we can no longer continue to ignore."

Bustamante appealed to Labor Secretary Ann McLaughlin and other Reagan administration officials to draft a package of humanitarian aid for the migrant workers, many of whom are from Texas.

Labor Department spokesman Bob Zachariasiewicz said Thursday the agency "has a plan of action" but it won't be unveiled until Mrs. McLaughlin, who is overseas, gives it her final approval. An announcement will be made next week.

A source said the package would total $4 million to $5 million but "the final distribution is just not set on paper yet."

In his letter to Mrs. McLaughlin, Bustamante said: "Migrant workers pinned their hopes on a successful harvest and invested their personal savings to search for field work. Drought conditions have dashed their hopes for employment and for recouping their financial losses."

Firefighters' lament: 'My gosh, I wish it would rain'

By JOE KAFKA
Associated Press Writer

RAPID CITY, S.D. — Firefighters raced the wind as they tried to beat back a blaze that ragged out of control after consuming 15 homes along the city's edge, while officials offered a $10,000 reward in the suspected arson.

High winds that fanned the fire dropped to 5 mph early this morning, prompting a major assault to take advantage of the lull and cooler temperatures. The National Weather Service said winds were expected to pick up again, reaching 15 to 25 mph by afternoon.

In Wyoming, fire crews in Yellowstone National Park today were taking the calculated risk of lighting "burnouts" — igniting dead timber and brush in an attempt to keep isolated blazes from combining into fire complexes. Fires fed by drought-desiccated fields and forests also blackened regions of Alaska, Montana, Idaho, California and Washington state.

In Rapid City, 15 homes and 32 outbuildings had been destroyed and 2,800 acres burned by Thursday evening. The fire was considered 70 percent contained.

"They're going to have trouble holding the lines on the south and southeast," Mary Sue Waxler, U.S. Forest Service spokeswoman, said Thursday night. "My gosh, I wish it would rain."

Earlier Thursday, officials evacuated hundreds more homes in three subdivisions on the west side. On Thursday evening they suggested that people voluntarily leave another large rural housing area.

Gov. George Mickelson offered the $10,000 reward in the suspected arson. He said the state and businesses had put up the money.

A 14-year-old boy was arrested in connection with a small fire, but police said they did not think he was responsible for setting the main fire on Tuesday.

In Yellowstone, officials acknowledged the risk of burnouts. "But we'd rather burn this out under the best conditions we can control instead of letting the fire run on us uncontrolled," said Ken Briggeman, a fire official at the Shoshone blaze near Grant Village.

An update Thursday night by infrared mapping showed the number of acres on fire down from 95,000 to about 93,000 in the 2.2 million acre park.

The forecast for today called for ideal burning conditions — good for the wildfires and encouraging for the burnouts — with high temperatures of 75-85 degrees and relative humidities of 15 percent to 22 percent.

A burnout is meant to destroy fallen trees, snags and brush in a controlled manner to rob a fire of fuel to advance.

In the 10,100-acre Shoshone fire, fire crews carrying hand-held drip torches ignited brush and fallen trees Thursday, moving fast to avoid the flare-up as the tinder-dry wood was torched.

Meanwhile, heli-torches — flame throwers on choppers — continued setting burnouts on the northeast flank of the 8,500-acre fire that is threatening Old Faithful.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. — Firefighters use a "terra-torch" to ignite debris taken from the woods near Grant Village Thursday. The cleanup is occurring prior to the start of a backfire.

Home destroyed
Big Spring firefighters were called to the scene of a mobile home fire about noon Wednesday that completely destroyed the structure, resulting in an estimated $15,000 loss. The mobile home was owned by Wayne DeVore, according to fire department reports. Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles said the cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

Drought

firm figure. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said latest estimates put the cost of the Senate measure at between $5.85 billion and $6.55 billion.

Gramm warned that running over a $5.8 billion ceiling calculated under the Gramm-Rudman budget law would set off nasty fiscal and political repercussions.

At the heart of the bill are provisions that would provide disaster payments to farmers equal to 65 percent of losses beyond 35 percent of expected harvest. Many dairy and livestock producers would become eligible for benefits under an expanded government feed aid program.

Farmers especially hard hit by the drought would get supplemental payments under both House and Senate bills.

A number of other points remain to be resolved when lawmakers meet in a House-Senate conference committee next week. The House version requires farmers to buy federal crop insurance for each of the next two years if they are to be eligible for disaster payments this year.

The Senate version does not contain such a provision, which is opposed by both the Reagan administration and a wide array of major crop producer groups.

Both bills would cancel a 50-cent cut in the milk price-support level scheduled for Jan. 1 but the House version would go beyond that. The House provision would raise the price-support level from April through June 1989 by 50 cents, to $11.10 cents for each 100 pounds of milk.

Dairy-state lawmakers wanted even more, pushing for a permanent increase.

"This is a most dangerous and wrongheaded precedent," Rep. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., said in opposing the measure. He said it was unfair to provide such aid to dairymen and not also to cattle, sheep and poultry producers, who must pay the same increased feed costs.

The House, however, voted 217-181 for the temporary increase, a compromise sponsored by Reps. Steve Gunderson, R-Wis., and Tim Penny, D-Minn.

House conferees are going to be looking hard at a Senate provision that would allow the nation's ethanol makers to purchase surplus grain from government bins at 110 percent of the Agriculture Department's acquisition cost. Much of the government corn was acquired long before the drought pushed up prices.

Sen. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., sponsored the measure, but offered a compromise amendment to end the program in September 1989 and cap the amount of corn that could be used at 16 million bushels.

Downtown

stead. Downtown is uptown and uptown is downtown," he said.

Asked if she favored funding the downtown project, Lee Herndon, Box 1255, said "I think so."

"If it attracts new business, I'd support it," she said.

Milton Lozano said it is critical for Big Spring to continue the project.

"If the city doesn't do something, we're going to have a ghost town. The city needs to help the business people. They're good people or they wouldn't have purchased the buildings. Between the taxes and the insurance, it's taking everything they have," he said.

Lozano said the downturn in the economy is forcing "good people" to leave Big Spring.

Edna Hughes, Box 885, said she would much rather have the city contribute $10,000 to revitalize the downtown area than give 240 city employees a $50 per month raise.

"They don't need a raise and we don't need to raise taxes, either," she said.

The council has given tentative approval for a raise to all city employees that will cost an additional $125,000.

To fund the raise the council has tentatively approved:

- A $1 per month increase in sanitation rates — from $5 to $6 — or $12 per year.
- A 5-cent ad valorem tax increase increase — from 68 cents to 73 cents.

The city has not raised taxes since 1983.

Johnny Waddell, Box 2884, said the project is crucial for Big Spring's future.

"With times as difficult as they are nationally the revitalization program is a necessity, in my opinion. If the city doesn't look attractive, what is it going to attract?" he said.

J.R. Berry, 1210 Mulberry Ave., opposes continued funding.

"Once a part of town goes downhill, they ought to bulldoze it and save people taxes," said Berry, who admitted he hasn't traveled further than the post-office during the past six months.

Water

port for those plans — to spend approximately $3 million to strengthen the existing dam.

Noting that after waters from 1986 rains came within nine inches of overtopping the dam, Ivie pointed out that the district raised the dam's elevation one to two feet across its span and cut a "country spillway" along one side to allow for excess water.

But, he said, such measures weren't enough and could not be repeated infinitely.

"On any dam, you can just put so much water behind it. If you keep raising the dam," Ivie said, "pretty soon the water will go under it."

Natural Dam has no core trench or cutoff trench to drain water from beneath it, and the bed of the lake behind the dam is a fine-grained soil that Ivie said "almost flows by itself."

Should the dam give way, he said, the resulting floodwaters would reach Big Spring within 12 to 24 hours and would wash out the tracks of the Union Pacific railroad for six to eight miles. Interstate Highway 20 also would be washed out west of Big Spring by floodwaters heading for Beals' Creek, and the highway might be washed out to the east of the city also, he said.

Following the 1986 rains, he said, water behind the dam totaled approximately 30,000 acre-feet and reached a depth five feet above the original top of the dam.

To protect the quality of water in Lake E.V. Spence — used for drinking by Howard, Martin, Midland and Ector County residents — and to prevent a disastrous flood in Big Spring, the CRMWD plans to bolster Natural Dam "within the year," Ivie said.

Plans call for adding height and cutting a core trench for the dam to drain away water presently seeping beneath it.

Martin County District Conservationist Alvin Riddle, a soil conservation service specialist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, also spoke to the group, as did Morris Wilkes, an administrative aide to State Senator John Montford.

Roundtable

local electric company estimates Big Spring's population is approximately 23,148. She said the projection is based on the number of metered residences that have bills of over $10.

Conrad Alexander, director of the Veterans Administration Hospital, told the group the hospital has recently received approval to operate a CAT scanner.

He also said the hospital has conducted a renovation of the radiology department that cost more than $1 million.

He also said the hospital has received final approval for an inpatient surgery unit.

Ron Brasel, director of SouthWest Collegiate Institute of the Deaf, said that the enrollment next semester at SWCID would be about 120 to 130 students. He also said the institute is adding an interpreting program this year due to the shortage of interpreters.

J.F. Poyner, Forsan Independent School District superintendent, said that next year a parent advisory committee will be established on each of the district's campuses. He said the purpose of the advisory committees is to give parents greater participation in setting district policies.

John Morris, Big Spring Federal Prison Camp unit manager, said the camp may upgrade from a level I mission to a level II mission. The change would result in a larger inmate population at the camp, he said.

Howard College President Bob Riley said he is hoping Howard College can reach "the magic 2000" student enrollment figure. He said the last four semesters the college has achieved record enrollment figures.

If enrollment continues to rise, Riley said the college would consider building an additional dormitory.

Other participants in the meeting were: Tom Decell, city public works director; Joe Pickle, Colorado River Municipality Water Department secretary/treasurer; Dick Fields, of KBYG radio; and Andrew Hicks, Howard College vice president for vocational/technical information.

Ordinance
Q. How long ago was the ordinance enacted requiring buildings to be erected at least five feet from adjoining lots? What can be done about existing buildings that are in violation and not covered by the "grandfather clause?"

A. The ordinance was enacted on July 8, 1947; it was one of the first zoning regulations for the city. It did not repeal any existing ordinance, according to Tom Decell. If a building was built before the ordinance the building would be covered by the "grandfather clause," according to Todd Darden of building inspection.

Some surgical risks needless

It is disquieting to learn from the Journal of the American Medical Association that nearly half of all heart-bypass surgery performed in the United States may be either unnecessary or unhelpful.

The authors of a new study which reviewed 386 case histories said 14 percent of the operations were "inappropriate". Another 30 percent involved as much risk as the offered benefit. Only 56 percent were clearly "appropriate."

Although the operations were performed in 1979, 1980 and 1982 and may not reflect current medical practice, the results emphasize the need for patients to question their doctors and seek second opinions, according to the authors of the study.

Every year, about 200,000 of the expensive and technically complex heart-bypass operations are performed in the United States. In many cases, however, simpler surgical procedures or medication would suffice.

The study revealed that bypass surgery was frequently resorted to before treatment with drugs had been given a fair test.

But the senior author of the study, Dr. Robert H. Brook, said the findings pointed to the necessity for a system that could monitor doctors' decisions and ensure that their recommended treatments were based on sound reasons.

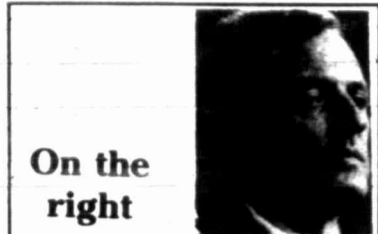

Dr. Brooks is no doubt grasping for the unattainable. Few medical men would submit willingly to censors looking over their shoulders while they make decisions. It is not certain that they should submit, in any case.

Intimate knowledge of a patient's circumstances may dictate a course of treatment varying from the accepted norm.

Patients must by necessity rely heavily on the expertise of doctors and surgeons, but their best defense against inappropriate surgery is simply to maintain a healthy skepticism, to insist that they be informed about all alternative treatments and seek second opinions if necessary.

Otherwise, the outrageously high incidence of unnecessary surgical risks and surgical costs that is becoming evident in this country will continue.

Bentsen's 15 minutes in the spotlight

On the right

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

The question that has not been asked, in the time since the selection of Lloyd Bentsen as running mate for Michael Dukakis, is: Is he a good teacher?

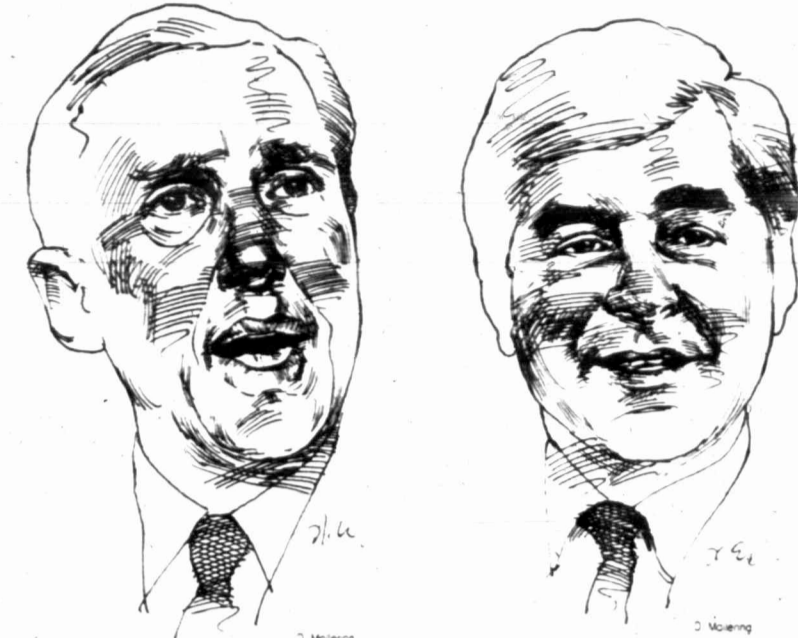

If we could know that during the next two or three months Professor Bentsen would undertake to conduct private seminars for the benefit of Mike Dukakis, '88, there would be reason to hold out some hope for the future of the Democratic Party.

We are informed that in 1981, Lloyd Bentsen led the list of Democrats who supported the programs of Ronald Reagan. To be the No. 1 conservative Democrat in the Senate is a singular achievement these days.

We learn that Bentsen was an early disciple of civil rights, but we also learn that he has been against forced busing. We learn that he is in favor of the MX missile, which of course Dukakis ardently opposes, because it reminds him of the Cold War.

We are advised that Bentsen is in favor of time for common prayer at schools, which Dukakis opposes on the grounds that praying would offend the Founding Fathers if done on state-sanctified ground.

It turns out that Bentsen has been in favor of statutory or constitutional hedges against deficit spending, which the young Dukakis deplors — the dangers of a little learning. And we are reminded that Bentsen voted in favor of the first great tax relief bill in 1981, which Dukakis deplors on the

Lloyd Bentsen
Vice Presidential Candidate

Michael Dukakis
Democratic Presidential Candidate

grounds that it permits the people to spend money according to their disposition instead of the state's.

Yes, there is a great deal that Bentsen could teach Dukakis. But of course, the assumption is that it will work in the other way — that in the months ahead, we can expect to hear Bentsen denouncing many of the positions he has himself defended over the years.

This is a terrible pity. We know that for a while, Bentsen decided to raise money from lobbyists by agreeing to have breakfast with them once a month in return for $10,000 each.

There can't be any serious doubt that $10,000 could be raised to contribute to the Dukakis campaign for every breakfast Dukakis consents to have with Lloyd Bentsen to listen to Bentsen's political analyses.

And perhaps the Democratic platform will include a provision to index the cost of breakfasts with Bentsen?

A veteran of the political wars opined, shortly after the news was out about the vice presidential selection, that 90 percent of the news time devoted to Lloyd Bentsen will be from Tuesday, July 12, to Wednesday, July 20, when he is nominated.

Quick: Who is Sargent Shriver? Even now, he is thought of primarily as the brother-in-law of John F. Kennedy. It is dimly remembered by history buffs that he was the Democratic vice-presidential candidate in 1972.

Now, the whole strategy of Michael Dukakis depends completely on convincing the voters that the conservative Southerner is, really, the principal man they ought to consider next November when time comes to vote.

But simultaneously, Dukakis must convince his other constitu-cy — his major constituency — that he is good old reliable Chock Full O' Liberal Cliches Dukakis.

The day he nominated Bentsen he issued his war cry. This election, he said, is about full employment, and about equal opportunities for absolutely everyone, including women and minorities.

We have the highest rate of employment (more than 62 percent) in the history of the United States. More women are working than ever before — which, by the way, is not unalloyed good news (some women who are working would rather not work). We have the highest number of minorities at work.

The most conspicuous unemployed figure in America, in November, is likely to be Michael Dukakis. But no one doubts that he will be offered a chair at the Kennedy School.

Bentsen, surveying the general scene, is clearly enjoying himself. He will have his 15 minutes as a national celebrity. He is a man of resources who likes a little excitement, whether at the tennis court, the hunting field or the Electoral College.

He beat George Bush once, though the circumstances were unusual (he was bitterly opposed by Democratic liberals who were mad at him for upsetting their hero Ralph Yarborough in the Democratic primary).

And, in Texas, in 1988, the voters are interested in who is going to be the next president, not in who is going to be the next vice president. Those who say, I will vote for Bentsen since he is only one heartbeat away from the presidency, might as well say, I will vote for Jim Wright since he is only two heartbeats away from the presidency.

Quick verdict: Good palliative political stroke. Take one to induce sleep.

Seeking to avoid the nasty L word

By W. DALE NELSON, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Back in 1936, Republican Alf Landon campaigned against Franklin D. Roosevelt and his New Deal by telling voters, "I believe that a man can be a liberal without being a spendthrift."

How times have changed. The Republicans wouldn't dare call themselves liberals in this presidential campaign, and President Reagan says the Democrats won't either.

"You'll never hear that 'L' word liberal — from them," the president said in his radio address last weekend.

Some liberals and academics agree with the president, although they say the issues underlying the question of liberalism will still be part of the campaign just as they have been since New Deal days.

Landon's claim to being a liberal didn't do him much good. Roosevelt was re-elected in the biggest electoral landslide in the history of U.S. presidential elections.

After that the political landscape shifted, and by 1964, presidential nominee Barry Goldwater was telling fellow Republicans, "Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice and moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Goldwater fared little better than Landon, as voters gave a green light to Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society."

Not all of Johnson's programs turned out as their backers hoped, however. And, as resistance to the Vietnam war deepened, liberalism took on a new face — one which drew the scorn of the then-governor of California, Ronald Reagan, among others.

"The word 'liberal' came to be associated with costly government activities which didn't eradicate the problems for which they were intended," said Stephen J. Wayne, professor of political science and public affairs at The George Washington University.

Capitol report

"Secondly, the word 'liberal' got a bad connotation because of the protests over the war in Vietnam. I think the word liberal started getting a real bad rap during the period from 1968 to 1972, culminating in the George McGovern candidacy."

Marc A. Pearl, director of the liberal organization Americans for Democratic Action, conceded, "There is a recognition on the part of many liberals, of many Democrats, that to admit to being a liberal somehow is a detriment, is a negative."

Richard Moe, a former aide to 1984 Democratic nominee Walter F. Mondale, said he doesn't think it makes much difference what the Republicans or the Democrats call each other.

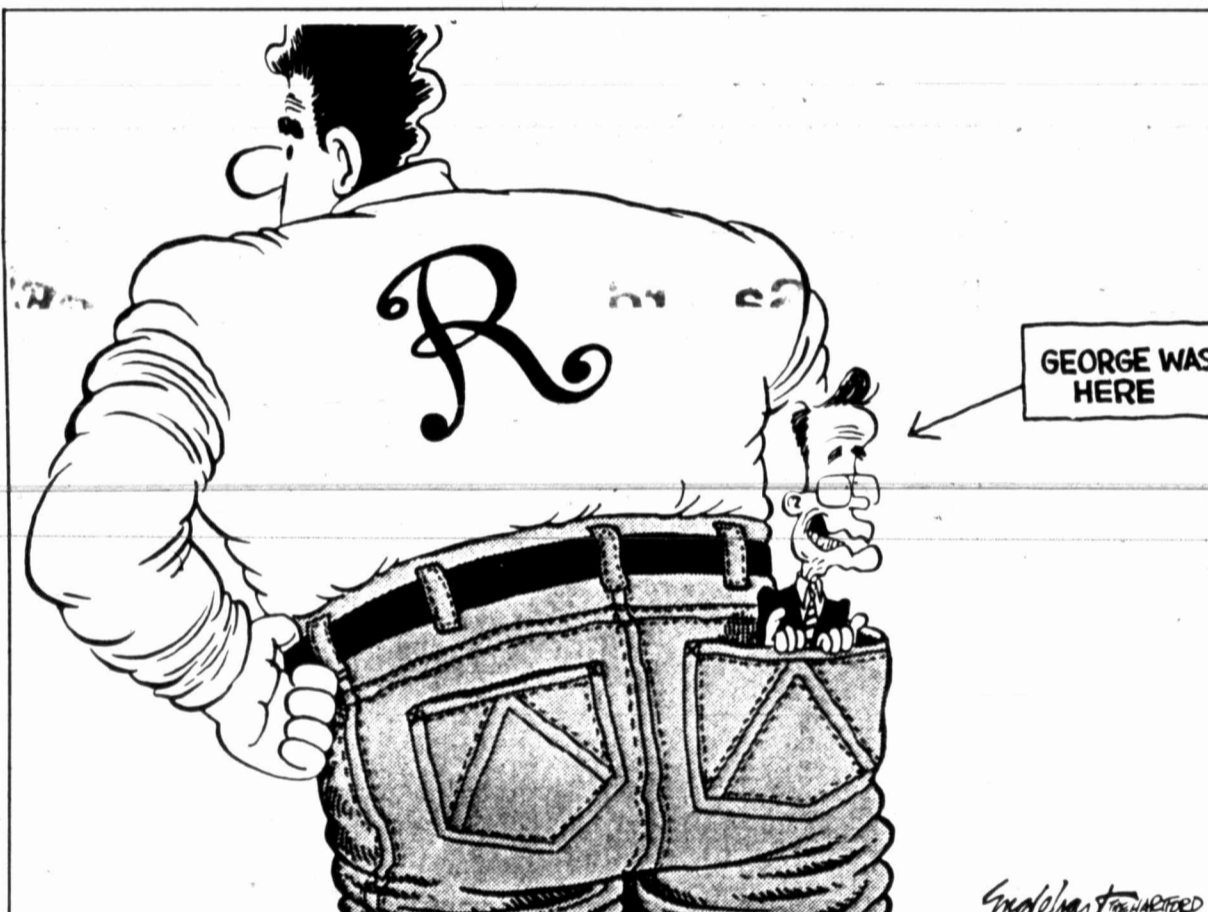

"All of these labels take on different meanings in different contexts at different times," said Moe. "There is an ebb and flow to American history. I don't attach much significance to labels or what people say about labels. I think the election is going to be fought out on a different ground."

Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis suggested one ground when he said in his acceptance speech that "this election is not about ideology; it's about competence."

"If that becomes the case, it would be the first one in modern political history that was able to achieve that," said the ADA's Pearl.

Instead, suggested Pearl, "they are all going to be fighting for the center."

GEORGE WAS HERE

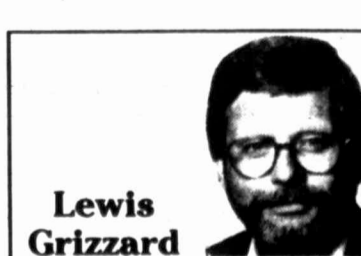

Ducks, K-Mart and the search for Elvis

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — It's been 11 years since Elvis is supposed to have died here at his Graceland home, but there are a lot of people who think the whole thing was a clever hoax performed to allow The King to live out his life without all the public attention that surrounded him.

There is even a new book out ("Is Elvis Still Alive?") that documents many after-death Elvis sightings. While here on other business, I decided to sniff around the city myself to see if the Elvis-is-still-alive thing really has any meat to it or is just another illusion created by swamp gas.

I asked a Memphis taxi driver what he thought. "Is Elvis still alive?" he asked me back. "If he is, I ain't seen him, and I drive all over town. But you might check with my cousin, Frank. He's a barber and he hears all the latest gossip." I tracked down Frank the barber. "Some say Elvis is dead," Frank began. "Others say he's still alive. What I heard is if you go out to the K-Mart at midnight when there's a full moon, you can make out somebody in a black leather jacket doing wheelies in the parking lot on a motorcycle. Some say it's Elvis."

Lewis Grizzard

"Why the K-Mart?" I asked. "You ever seen how Elvis decorated his house?" asked Frank the barber.

I also went over to the Peabody Hotel, where the ducks put on their show in the lobby.

I talked to Sherman, the bellman. Bellmen hear a lot of conversation. "I heard Elvis died, and his soul came back and got hold of Jimmy Swaggart," said Sherman. "But that can't be true."

"Why?" I asked. "Did you see the pictures in Penthouse of that hound dog Swaggart was hangin' out with? Elvis wouldn't have messed with her five minutes."

Over at Graceland itself, I talked to tourists visiting the Elvis home and gravesite.

Wanda Jean McElroy said she had ridden a Greyhound all the way from Roopville, Ga.

"I come once a year," said Wanda Jean. "I still can't believe he's gone."

"Have you heard the rumors that Elvis might still be alive?" I said. "What?"

"Some believe Elvis is still alive and his death was just a put-on so he could get away from the pressure of all that 'public interest.'"

"You mean I been comin' here for 10 years and puttin' flowers on a grave that somebody might not be in?" said Wanda Jean, incredulous. "It's just a rumor," I said. "If that don't beat all. Last week somebody told me rasslin' was fake, and now this."

North: Drug money to Contras

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. drug enforcement official says former White House staffer Oliver L. North suggested in 1984 that $1.5 million designated for a drug sting operation be diverted to the Nicaraguan Contras instead.

the Atlanta office of the Drug Enforcement Administration, told a House panel Thursday the DEA rejected the idea. Caffrey said he told North the suggestion would have compromised the chief operative in one of the agency's most significant undercover operations.

Protesters refuse to give names

ATLANTA (AP) — Ten days after their arrests during the Democratic National Convention, 96 anti-abortion protesters who refuse to give their names remain jailed, most vowing to stay until their next court date or the city frees them.

criminal trespass, cannot be freed on bond until they give verifiable proof of their identities. "If we can identify them... we can try them," explained Lee O'Brien, Fulton County's chief assistant solicitor. He said the offense carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a fine of $1,000.

Probe leads to Merrill Lynch office

NEW YORK (AP) — An investigation of suspicious stock trades that may have drawn on advance knowledge of Business Week magazine articles has spread to Merrill Lynch & Co., which has fired one employee and is questioning another.

pre-publication movements of stocks mentioned in its "Inside Wall Street" column.

William Dillon, 33, a financial consultant in Merrill Lynch's New London, Conn., office, was fired after company lawyers found records suggesting stocks might have been bought and sold on tips from articles due to be published in the magazine, said Merrill Lynch spokesman William Clark.

Chinese treasures shown in U.S.

of Heaven exhibit have never been seen in the United States, and 80 percent have never left China, officials said.

"Through it, all Americans will come to know China as few in the world ever have," former President Richard Nixon said in a letter to his brother Ed, who lives in the Seattle area, that was shared with Chinese officials.

Jackson makes plea for hostages

CHICAGO (AP) — Jesse Jackson's latest efforts to obtain the release of U.S. hostages in Lebanon was coolly received by Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis.

Dukakis, during a campaign stop in Cleveland, said he didn't know all the facts about Jackson's effort, "but as a general matter private citizens should not try to conduct foreign policy."

WASHINGTON — Budget Director James Miller holds a press briefing in the White House Thursday where he discussed the federal deficit for the upcoming budget year. Miller warned that drought-relief and other spending proposals pending before Congress could push the deficit upward.

Administration: Deficit is higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says the federal deficit will be $5.6 billion higher than it predicted back in February, with the government's red ink now estimated to total $152.3 billion this fiscal year.

helped push the unemployment rate down to a 14-year-low of 5.3 percent. More people working means more tax revenues for Uncle Sam.

While the new administration estimate announced Thursday is higher, it is still below the more gloomy projections earlier this year by many private economists, who were forecasting a deficit of $160 billion or worse.

Tax revenues are expected to be $4.2 billion higher than the administration's February projection, according to the new report.

Michael Evans, head of a Washington forecasting firm, said he is now predicting the 1988 deficit will total $145 billion based on the gains in tax revenues which have already occurred.

Those economists have been busy revising their own figures, and some now say the administration's new deficit forecast for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 may actually be too pessimistic.

David Wyss, an economist with Data Resources Inc., said he is forecasting a deficit this year of $151 billion, slightly lower than the administration's estimate.

As the year began, the administration predicted the overall economy as measured by the gross national product would expand at a sluggish 2.4 percent rate. The new budget has boosted that GNP estimate to 3 percent.

The administration is calling for the deficit in the next fiscal year to decline to $140.1 billion, an estimate that private economists say is generally in line with their own forecasts.

Guerrillas blamed for black out

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Police blamed leftist guerrillas for a power outage that blacked out central Peru hours after President Alan Garcia demanded tougher laws against terrorism.

The country's Publications Appeals Board ruled this morning that the film could be shown uncensored.

The outage at 8 p.m. Thursday was the second in less than 24 hours. It plunged Lima and cities along 600 miles of coastline into darkness, said Jose Acedo, a spokesman for the state power company, Electro-Peru.

The blackout and an power outage Wednesday night both were blamed on members of the Maoist Shining Path guerrilla movement, Acedo said. He said guerrillas bombed power pylons near Lima on Wednesday and may have done the same thing Thursday.

Government rejects peace talks

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Virgilio Barco said his government would not participate in church-sponsored peace talks today with leftist guerrillas and that any insurgents who come to the table will be jailed.

said his government planned to study recommendations by the conference. The meeting was to include church leaders, former presidents, 20 congressmen and a former presidential candidate who was kidnapped and later freed by the guerrillas.

Barco's decision Thursday dashed hopes for a quick settlement to a guerrilla war that killed 75,000 people in 25 years. Barco acted after military leaders criticized the proposed talks.

The leader of the April 19 Movement, Carlos Pizarro Leongomez, planned to send a tape-recorded message to the gathering, a Pizarro spokesman, Carlos Ramiro Lucio Escobar, said at a news conference Thursday.

FAITH SEES POTENTIAL BLESSINGS IN OUR EARTHLY HAZARDS

Throughout history, many parts of the world have been dramatically affected by volcanic eruptions. Islands have been created and destroyed by them, and they are frequently associated with earthquakes. You may well ask how anything good can result from such terrifying upheavals. The answer is: there are areas of dormant volcanic activity which emit steam from fissures in the ground, and which are seen as a potential low-cost and inexhaustible source of energy which could benefit millions of people. Indeed, it is already being harnessed for this purpose. The forces of nature can either cause great disasters or prolong and enrich people's lives. It all depends on man's willingness to use his God-given intelligence to create the necessary technology. Thank the Lord for this great opportunity He has given us, and pray that we will always make good use of it.

New Testament Baptist Church members to organize Saturday

Thirty-four area residents joined to together May 8 to form a new church in Big Spring.

The New Testament Baptist Church was accepted by letter May 15 into the membership of the East Side Baptist Church, Vernon, to form a mission in Big Spring, said Jack Collier, mission pastor.

The mission elected its officers May 25, they are: Bro. Jack Collier, mission pastor; Glenda Brasel, treasurer; Angie Cole, clerk; Bro. Gary Cole, music director; and Gloria Collier, pianist.

Members will organize the church Saturday at 11 a.m. at 1407 Lancaster St., with Bro. E.E. Chappell, pastor of the East Side Baptist Church, as moderator. Collier will preach the "Charge to the Church."

"We want to invite our friends and neighbors from this area to attend this service, and pray that God's blessings will abound," Collier said.

Collier will serve as mission pastor until he and his family leave for Prineville, Ore. in August, where he has accepted a call to pastor the Missionary Baptist Church.

Collier served as pastor of Birdwell Lane Baptist Church from January 1977 to April 1988. He accepted his new position in a town smaller than Big Spring, noting that "I'm looking forward to getting there."

Robinson elected vice president

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

A former Howard County minister has been elected as the first vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Darrell Robinson, son of Lillie Robinson, Big Spring, was elected June 14 in San Antonio.

Robinson, who pastors the 8,000-member Dauphin Way Baptist Church, Mobile, Ala., is busy planning his church's move into a new sanctuary Sept. 2. The total cost of the facility is $17 million, Robinson said in a phone interview from Fort Worth Wednesday.

"Humbled and honored," was the way Robinson said he felt because the convention would choose him to serve in that capacity.

He will work with a former pastor of the church, Dr. Jerry Vines, who was elected president only hours before Robinson's selection by almost 33,000 messengers from churches all over the United States.

Serving as vice president of the country's largest Protestant denomination, Robinson said he will assist the president in conducting the next convention meeting, make appointments to various committees, and represent the convention at various meetings throughout the year.

According to published reports, Robinson's reputation as a "cementor, a gatherer, representing no side" — are factors that helped Robinson to win the election by the largest margin of any major SBC office holder.

Robinson said his margin of victory was 60-40.

Robinson grew up on a farm outside of Big Spring, graduated from Coahoma High School, and attended Howard College before graduating from Baylor University, and Southwest Seminary in Fort Worth.

He earned a doctorate degree from Luther Rice Seminary in Jacksonville, Fla., and an honorary doctorate from Houston Baptist University.

In the 50s, Robinson pastored Forsan Baptist Church, and Bethel Baptist Church. In the early 60s, he was a founder and pastor at Berea Baptist Church and Midway Baptist Church.

His wife, Kathy, who serves as ladies' Sunday School teacher, Baptist Young Women director, and as choir member and soloist at Dauphin Way Baptist Church, has made Robinson's work her own.

"I love to be known as 'Brother Darrell's wife,'" Kathy said. "I really feel this is where the Lord wants me to be. I see it as a team ministry where I have the opportunity to be of service as well."

The Robinsons have four children.

Duane lives in Waco and is senior vice president of United Banks of Waco; Lori Langford, Dallas, works with the Texas Baptist Convention; and Robin and Loren are both seminary students at Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth.

Rev. Bob Terrell, Azle, will be the keynote speaker.

Leo Free, pastor of Living Water Christian Fellowship, invites the public to "find out if these types of ministries are for today."

Activities include special music, and ministry for everyone, including the sick, afflicted, depressed, and the lost. A ministry for other needs also will be provided.

Thompson elected as delegate

Eric Thompson, 19, son of Dickie and Gladys Thompson, Big Spring, was elected to serve as a delegate from the Northwest Texas Conference to represent the youth at the 43rd Quadrennial Session of the General Conference July 5-14.

Thompson, a member and youth leader at Baker Chapel A.M.E., also received honors on the campus of Paul Quinn College, he was elected to serve on the Episcopal Committee, the most important committee in the A.M.E. Church, said Naomi Graham, financial secretary.

Thompson was elected by the Tenth Episcopal District Caucus to serve on the Board of the A.M.E. Church, a position he will assume for several years.

Thompson, a sophomore at Howard College, is majoring in architectural drafting.

The annual conference will be

conducted Aug. 10-12 at Bethel A.M.E. Church, Lubbock, under the direction of the new Episcopal leader, Bishop James Haskell Mayo.

Missionary day will be Aug. 9. The Night in White program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Tent preacher

Texan turns from acting to evangelism

By VALERIE BRIDGEMAN DAVIS

Austin American-Statesman

AUSTIN (AP) — Christopher Joy, an actor-turned-evangelist, says he has no gimmicks — his message is merely that he is excited about the Christian message.

"I just couldn't keep Jesus off my mind," he said. "I fell more and more in love with Jesus." And now Jesus is his business.

The Austin native has been a full-time evangelist for six years — and his style of evangelism means he has not had a guaranteed income for those six years.

"I never beg people (for money)," Joy said. "I've been told that that's a tactic, but I won't use it."

"God told me he would take care of my business if I would take care of his business. I'm taking care of his business, and I don't have time to worry."

If Joy's name is not a household word, he doesn't worry about that either. He travels light and depends on word-of-mouth for his speaking engagements. He has no entourage. The congregation that invites him to speak is asked to provide a place for the worship service and music. Late last month, he arrived back home in Austin to preach under a tent sponsored by Agape Word of Faith.

For six nights ending, he drew a few dozen people to the tent for his services, where he spoke in the reasoned tones of an earnest teacher who wants his audience to hear the words — not just feel the emotion.

Not much on the spit and fire of Jimmy Swaggart-type revivalists, Joy said he works on "character and not caricature."

"My concentration since God called me has been on content and not style," he said. "I have whooped and I will whoop, but God's word, the gospel, is the power of God unto salvation — not style and technique."

Joy said he thinks one of the main problems with the way people see evangelists is that preachers are put on a pedestal.

"God did not call us because we're holier-than-thou. Find me one person in the Bible whom God used who was not a sinner," Joy said. "Anyone who says they don't sin is lying. Some of what I preach, I haven't conquered yet. I don't say any of that to justify sin. It just keeps me on my knees (praying)."

Joy, who was an actor from 1964 to 1982, uses the skills of his old business in his new. He usually ends his preaching crusades with a drama, which he often produces and writes. He arrives at preaching sites a week early to help prepare the plays, which use local actors, but did not do one during his recent stay in Austin.

"I've used the gifts I used in the world to the glory of God," he says.

Joy quit acting in 1982 with a desire to preach. He began preparing messages and word spread among his friends about his preaching. "Then the telephone started ringing and I got a call to run a revival in Illinois. The invitations have not ceased from that time to this," he said.

Christopher Joy Ministries is based in Los Angeles. Joy has no secretary. He answers his own phone and keeps his own appointment book. His board of directors are volunteers in Los Angeles and Austin.

Though an offering is collected during his services, he says he does not resort to money-raising tactics.

Joy said when he needs money, "God fills the gaps." He said he has some money set aside, gets residuals from films in which he has appeared, and sells tapes of his messages.

"The people who have bothered to listen to me or follow me get an accounting of every penny at the end of the year. The ministry provides me a car and house. Clothes and such, I buy," Joy said. "The ministry needs come before my salary."

Joy spends about 9½ months on the road preaching. When he isn't traveling, he is at his home in Los Angeles studying and preparing for trips. He also is a lay minister at Mount Zion Missionary Baptist Church in Los Angeles.

A preface in his book, "From Filthy Rags to Divine Riches," says Joy has preached in about 25 U.S. cities, and in Amsterdam, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Israel and London.

Joy said he first believed he was called to preach in April 1979, but dismissed it until October of that year. "I rationalized, saying that's just my ego talking," he said.

But his mother said she knew it was not his ego. "I knew before he did that he was going to be called to preach," said Lillian Joyner of Austin. "It's just a connection, something within that tells you."

Religion was not in Joy's plans when he graduated from L.C. Anderson High School in 1958 and went to California to be a singer, dancer and actor.

As a teen-ager in Austin, Joy — who changed his name from LeRoy Joyner in 1964 — put his energy into honing his performing talents and received help from a local radio personality.

"Cactus Pryor, who was on TV then, saw me and took me under his wings" in 1951, Joy said.

MIAMI — Anita Hunter of Miami holds her children, from left, Krystal, 4; Alex, 1; Antjon, 1 month; Kentral, 10; and Grady Jr., 3, after she learned that a Boca Raton millionaire, James Gisclair, inset, will buy the family a home, a car, provide child care, and a college education for Ms. Hunter. Gisclair hopes that the family will become self-sufficient. Ms. Hunter has agreed not to have more children.

Generous millionaire Man plans to adopt poor family

MIAMI (AP) — A millionaire businessman who promised to bankroll a new life for a welfare mother of five faces criminal charges and a $1.4 million judgment in a bank fraud and is not free to spend his money, attorneys said today.

James Gisclair had offered to buy a house for Anita Hunter and her family and provide her with a job, a college education, a car and a nurse to care for the children.

But court records show that a subsidiary of Capital Bank won a civil judgment against him after alleging in state court that Gisclair defrauded the lender out of $1.3 million. The judgment includes interest on that amount.

The criminal charges stem from the civil case, according to Chief Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Gregorie, who filed charges against Gisclair two weeks ago in federal court accusing him of making a false statement to a bank.

Capital's attorney, Hugh Culverhouse Jr., said today that he understands Gisclair must satisfy any outstanding judgments before he can freely spend his money.

The attorney added that in a deposition filed after the judgment, Gisclair said his businesses were worthless.

Gisclair did not immediately return calls to this Boca Raton office today.

He said Wednesday that he made his promise to Hunter because he felt like "nobody was doing more than lip service to make a difference" about poverty.

"I kept driving by and seeing the homeless," he said. "It started to really bother me. ... I honestly became consumed by the urge to do something about it."

For 28-year-old Anita Hunter, struggling to raise her children, including a month-old son, in a drug-ridden inner-city Miami neighborhood dubbed "The Hole," his offer is a "fairy tale" come true.

"I can't believe this is happening to me," she said. "It's just a miracle from God. I've struggled and hoped for so long to get my children out of this neighborhood and into a safe environment."

"I kept driving by and seeing the homeless," he said. "It started to really bother me. ... I honestly became consumed by the urge to do something about it."

Gisclair, 44, a native New Orleans and principal owner of six Boca Raton enterprises, including a real estate management company and a restaurant, found the family through Livia Garcia of Miami's Community Development Department. He told her he wanted to help real people he could see and talk to.

"My idea is to see exactly where my money is going and be able to measure its success," said Gisclair, who has four children.

"The idea is to get Anita to become self-sufficient to the point where she can pay her own rent on the house, pay her own bills and do everything on her own someday. I plan to pay for everything until she reaches that point."

He said he would find a home for the family in Boca Raton, Delray Beach or Deerfield Beach, Fla. Ms. Hunter would work during the day and attend Florida Atlantic University at night so she could pursue her goal of becoming an accountant.

It's not the first time Gisclair has tried the idea.

An earlier effort to help a welfare mother with four children failed because "she was totally unwilling to participate," Gisclair said.

"And then one day she asked me to pay half of her rent because her ex-husband didn't come through with the money. I volunteered to pay it directly to her landlord, but she said, 'No, send it to me.' That was enough for me to realize I was being conned."

That's why Gisclair's has attached some conditions.

"I just want Anita to be honest with me," he said. "I want her to become self-sufficient, and she has promised to have more children. I will see to it that she gets medical care as well as take care of that."

Ms. Hunter said Gisclair's conditions are "tiny" compared to the chance he's giving her family. She said the neighborhood she lives now is so dangerous she doesn't let her children — Kentral, 10, Krystal, 4, Grady, 3, Alex, 1, and Antjon, 1 month — play outside.

"It's like a fairy tale," she said. "These things don't happen every day and they never happen to me."

Gisclair said he was shocked by the family's poverty when he met Ms. Austin on a visit to her cramped, one-bedroom apartment Friday.

"There was one bed and a hot plate," he said. "But the place is immaculate and so are the children."

"They're well disciplined; they're clean. If you took one look at their smiles you'd want to do the same thing."

Taxpayers fund education

DEAR ABBY: The feature story of today's newspaper was the coverage of a college graduation ceremony.

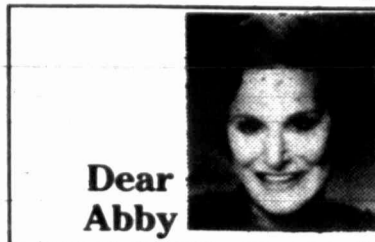

All of the graduates were incarcerated at one of our state's prisons. We helped them obtain full college degrees. Abby, I take as many college courses as my available time allows, and it costs me a bundle to pay all my regular living and eating expenses.

I've looked for help. You have to be poverty-stricken before you can qualify for government help. It hurts me more to strive for my education than if I was in prison. Doesn't it seem that something is turned around?

DARRELL BROWN, ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.

DEAR DARRELL: I applaud a system that enables prison inmates to become college graduates at the government's expense. Too bad every law-abiding person in the USA who wants a college education isn't give the same break.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I've never seen in your column. At the dinner table, my husband gobbles down his food, then starts eating off my plate!

Dear Abby

I am a slow eater, preferring to take my time and enjoy my meal. Am I wrong to say that he is rude? Or should I put up with it and get used to the idea of eating half a meal?

SPEEDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband is rude, and you may say it. But what makes you think you have to put up with it? Simply tell "Speedy" to slow up, and if he's still hungry after eating his meal, suggest that he take a second helping and kindly keep his marauding fork off your plate.

To get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old," send a check or money order for $2.50 ($3 in Canada) and a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Black lawman first chosen to serve as Texas Ranger

Leroy Young to join Texas Rangers.

AUSTIN (AP) — The ranks of the elite Texas Rangers will be joined in September by a black lawman believed to be the first black to serve in the 165-year history of the storied force, the Department of Public Safety announced Thursday.

"I feel pretty good. It's been an ambition of mine for many years," said Lee Roy Young Jr., a 14-year DPS veteran who currently is an investigator assigned to the criminal intelligence service in San Antonio.

Young, 41, will be stationed in Garland when he becomes a Ranger, said DPS spokesman David Wells.

The DPS has been dogged by charges of racial discrimination in recent years.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has threatened to sue the department, charging that black officers have been passed over for promotion and discriminated against in other ways. Michael Scott, a black state trooper from Houston, last year publicly voiced disappointment when he wasn't selected for the Rangers.

"There's a certain mystique about the Texas Rangers. It's a highly sought-after job in the department, and many people have to apply many times — most do — before they're successful. The competition is keen."

"I'm happy for Mr. Young. This is a step in right direction for him and his career. I'm disappointed for Michael Scott, because he really is the person who brought all this to bear," said Gary Bledsoe, president of the Austin NAACP branch.

"It appears there would be a policy in the department saying we're going to start promoting a few people because we have to, but we're going to promote people who don't complain or stand up for their rights, people who play by the rules of the game," Bledsoe said.

Young and three white DPS officers will join the 94-man Rangers unit in August and September, Wells said.

Ranger candidates first have to take a written test. High scorers then undergo an oral interview before a board of six DPS supervisors, including at least two minority supervisors. Only top scorers are considered for the Rangers, officials said.

A DPS officer also must have at least eight years of law enforcement experience to be eligible to be a Ranger, and at least 60 hours of college or the equivalent education.

Wells said the reason there hasn't been a black Ranger before now is that Young was the first black to reach the required level in the testing procedures.

"They're all treated the same on the testing procedures. There's no difference," he said.

"We only have 94 Texas Rangers for the whole state of Texas. It's not unusual for 100 DPS officers to apply for one opening, or two or three (openings)," Wells said. Retiring Col. Leo Gossett, DPS director, said he is "proud" that Young will be a Ranger.

"There's a certain mystique about the Texas Rangers. It's a highly sought-after job in the department, and many people have to apply many times — most do — before they're successful. The competition is keen," Gossett said.

While portions of the Rangers' long history is sketchy, Young is believed to be the first black to formally be included in the ranks. Rangers, in various forms, have been mentioned as far back as the 1820s.

Jim McNutt, director of research and collections at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio, which has published a history of the Rangers, said Thursday that the institute's "best information" indicated that Young would become the first black Ranger.

The institute's history noted that blacks worked as teamsters and blacksmiths for the Rangers in the past.

Iowa editor tapped to lead NBC News

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael G. Gartner who unofficially started Thursday as president of NBC News, says he faces no immediate pressure to raise the evening news ratings or develop new programs.

NBC President Robert C. Wright announced Wednesday he had chosen the Iowa newspaper editor to succeed Lawrence K. Grossman, who is stepping down after four years.

"Different times call for different types of people," Wright said, saying that the network faced an era of "enormous change, both technologically and economically."

When Wright offered the job last week during the Democratic National Convention, Gartner said, "We didn't talk about the present, we talked about the future."

Wright, who was installed as president after General Electric bought NBC in 1986, has enforced financial discipline in all network divisions and has talked of the need for innovation as the networks' share of the viewing audience declines.

"He (Wright) wants me to lead, he wants me to manage, he wants me to use my news judgment, and he wants me to be a good businessman, but most of all he wants me to think about the future and help lead NBC into the future, safely and soundly, and with vigor," Gartner said Wednesday.

Gartner, 49, has most recently been a part-time general news executive with Gannett Co. Inc. and editor of the Ames (Iowa) Daily Tribune. He is an attorney, a former president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and a former editor of The Courier-Journal of Louisville, Ky., and the Des Moines (Iowa) Register. From 1960 to 1974, he worked for The Wall Street Journal, the last five as editor of the front page.

NBC correspondent John Chancellor praised the appointment as "audacious and intelligent."

"We get various reactions to it around the water cooler here," Chancellor said. "One is that Bob Wright has set good journalism as his first priority — that's obviously clear. Another reaction I would have is that Gartner will be able to prove that good journalism is the heart of the enterprise."

Grossman, a former public television executive, had been criticized within NBC's news division because he had no experience in journalism. But he said he left because of friction with the executive office.

Early in Wright's tenure, Grossman had refused to go along with a cost-cutting exercise, but later fell in line.

"It's time for them to get their own guy in there," Grossman said Wednesday in Los Angeles, where he was attending an NBC meeting. "Things have changed. It hasn't been all that fun lately. I've been there four years. It's a difference in style, personality and priorities."

During Grossman's tenure at NBC News, "Nightly News" and the "Today" rose to the top of the ratings. Lately, however, "Nightly News" has been consistently third in a tight ratings race.

Texan named to disabled veteran post

DALLAS (AP) — The Disabled American Veterans on Thursday elected a Texan who was wounded in combat in World War II to a one-year term as the organization's national commander.

Billy E. Kirby of Clifton, who was DAV vice commander for the past two years, was elected as the group closed its 67th annual national convention here.

BILLY E. KIRBY

Kirby, in his acceptance speech, criticized "the sorry state" of several Veterans Administration programs and pledged to fight for change during his term.

He said VA cuts have created problems in the agency's processing of veterans' claims for benefits they have earned. Kirby also charged that VA budget and staffing cuts left thousands of vets without medical treatment.

Kirby began active duty in the U.S. Army in 1940. He sustained gunshot wounds to his right shoulder and arm on Jan. 21, 1944, during the Rapido River Battle in Italy.

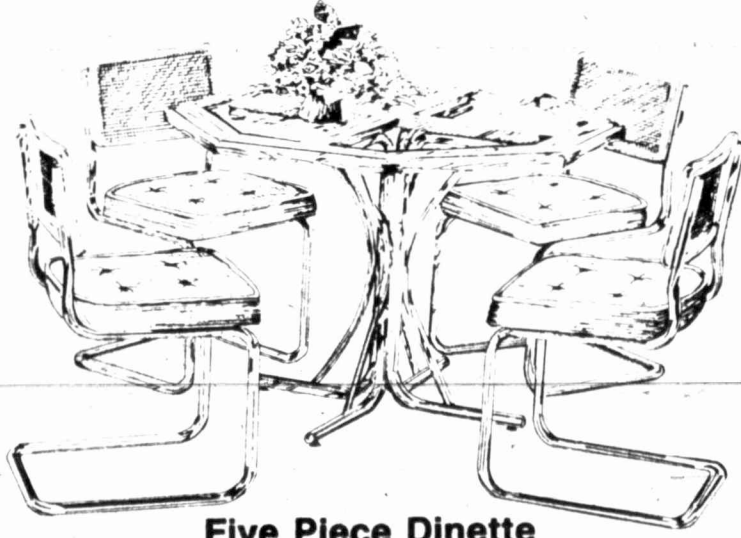

Convention delegates adopted 172 resolutions, nearly all of which call for improvements in veterans' benefits provided by the VA and other federal agencies.

At the convention, which began Sunday, delegates urged elevating the VA to a Cabinet-level department. Legislation to give the VA a Cabinet seat received President Reagan's endorsement in November and was under consideration by Congress.

DAV convention delegates also placed high priority on a resolution calling for adequate funding of the VA health care system. The organization expects VA medical budget shortfalls of $250 million in the current fiscal year and more than $800 million in fiscal year 1989.

Locals win at Sectional Tournament

SHERMAN — The Big Spring Senior League All-Stars gained a berth in the State Tournament by defeating Burkburnett 10-6 Thursday night in Sectional Tournament play.

Big Spring scored three more times in the second, and added another run in the third, taking a 6-2 lead into the fifth inning.

"We made more errors in the fifth inning than we have in all six playoff games," said Big Spring coach John Arrick. "I think a lot of that was because the boys were both nervous and tired."

Leading the way to victory in the sixth were key hits by center fielder Louis Soldan, first baseman Neal Mayfield, Escovedo and Rodriguez.

"Rodriguez (Sambo, pitcher) shut them down the last couple of innings," said Arrick. He really balled that would have been out in our 300-foot park. But that field was 370 feet.

"Neal Mayfield made three of four defensive plays at first base that you normally don't see at that age level of competition."

The Senior All-Stars will begin state tournament play in College Station Monday.

BIG LEAGUERS ONE GAME AWAY

SHERMAN — The Big Spring Big League All-Stars moved within one game of reaching the State Tournament as they defeated the District VIII or Sherman All-Stars 10-6 Thursday night in Sectional Tournament play.

Big Spring defeats Sherman in today's 6 p. m., it will qualify for the State Tournament in College Station which begins Monday. If Sherman wins the 6 p. m. game, the deciding game will be played right after.

Aaron Allen got the win for Big Spring, with relief help from Kevin Rychell. Allen went six innings, allowed five hits, fanned nine and walked six. Rychell struckout the side in the seventh.

Big Spring had a torrid hitting attack, pounding out 17 hits against Sherman starter Jason Carlisse and reliever Mark Consedden. Carlisse lasted four innings, and left trailing 10-4.

Big Spring took charge of the game early, scoring two runs in the first and adding five more in the third. The big blow in the third inning was a three-run homer by first baseman Chris Crownover.

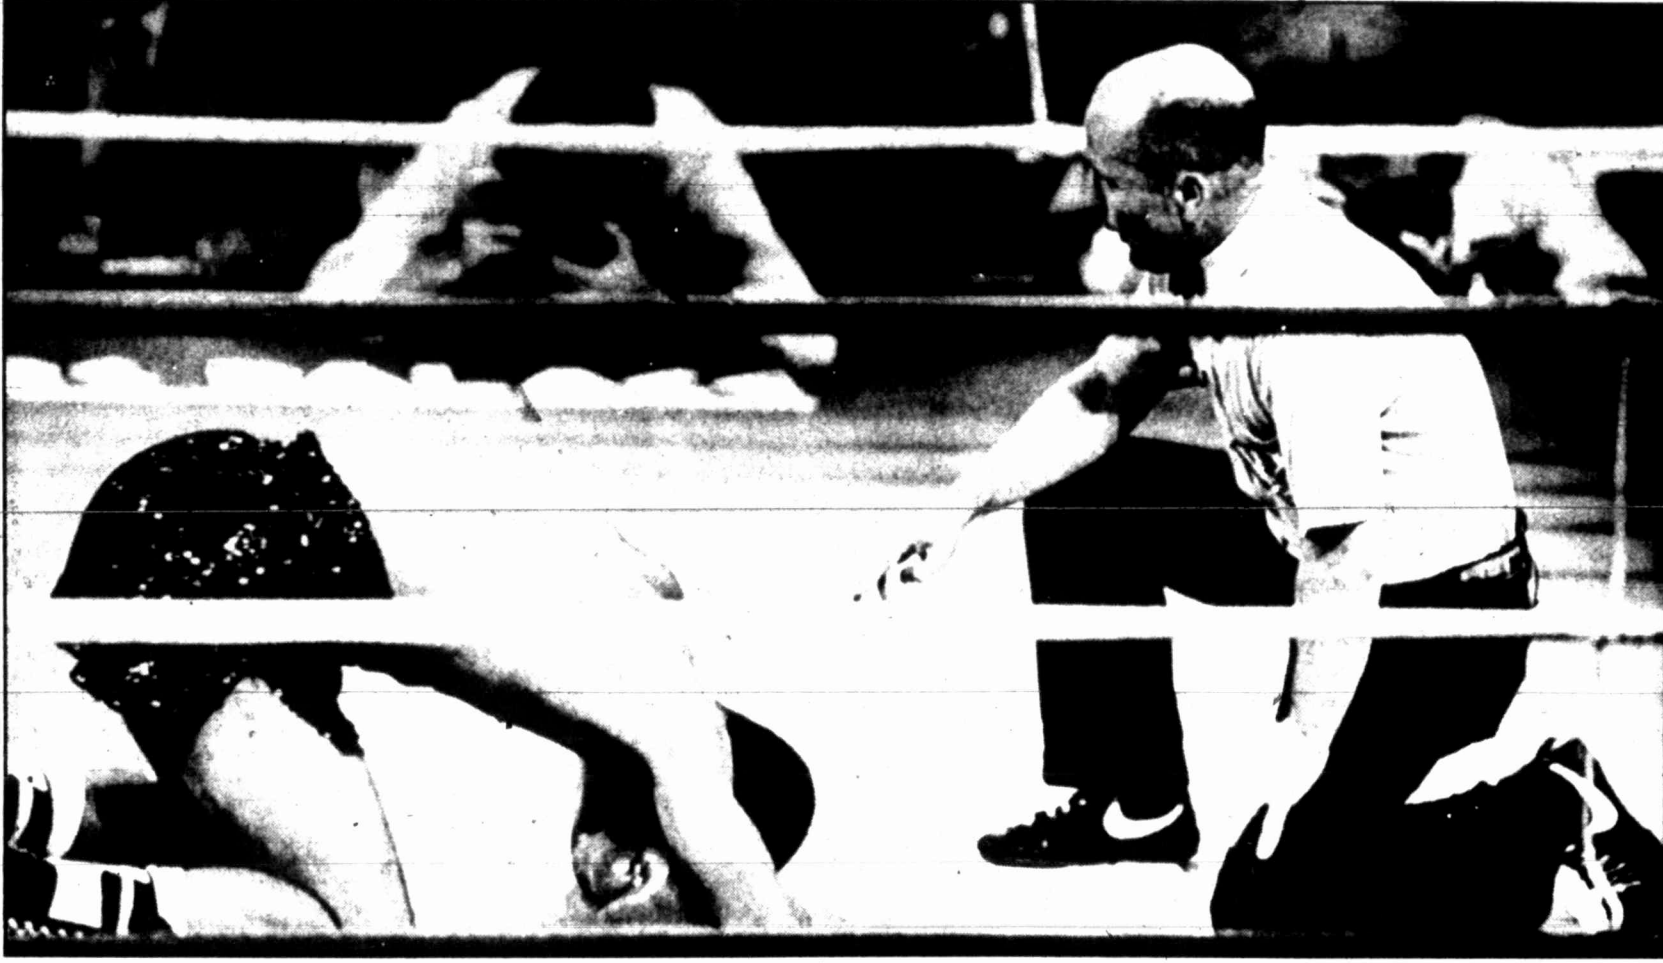

Allen was the top Big Spring hitter, collecting three hits in four trips to the plate. Leadoff hitter and left fielder Tony Perez got two hits and shortstop Kemp Laidley hit two doubles. Also getting two hits in the winning cause was third baseman Paul Bacon, right fielder Brian Mayfield, center fielder Eric Boyt and Crownover.

Allen gave up a three-run homer to Wade Sigler in the fourth inning. "Aaron pitched a good game," said Big Spring manager Terry Brumley. "He threw about two bad pitches the whole game and one of them was in the fourth to Sigler. He (Allen) tried to take something off his fastball, got it up, and their number eight hitter just pulled it."

Eighth round knockout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Frank Tate gets counted by referee Mills Lane in his International Boxing Federation middleweight bout against Michael Nunn at Caesar's Palace Thursday.

Tate was saved by the bell here, but the fight was stopped 40 seconds into the ninth, giving Nunn the TKO and the middleweight title.

Showers drives Chi Chi off course

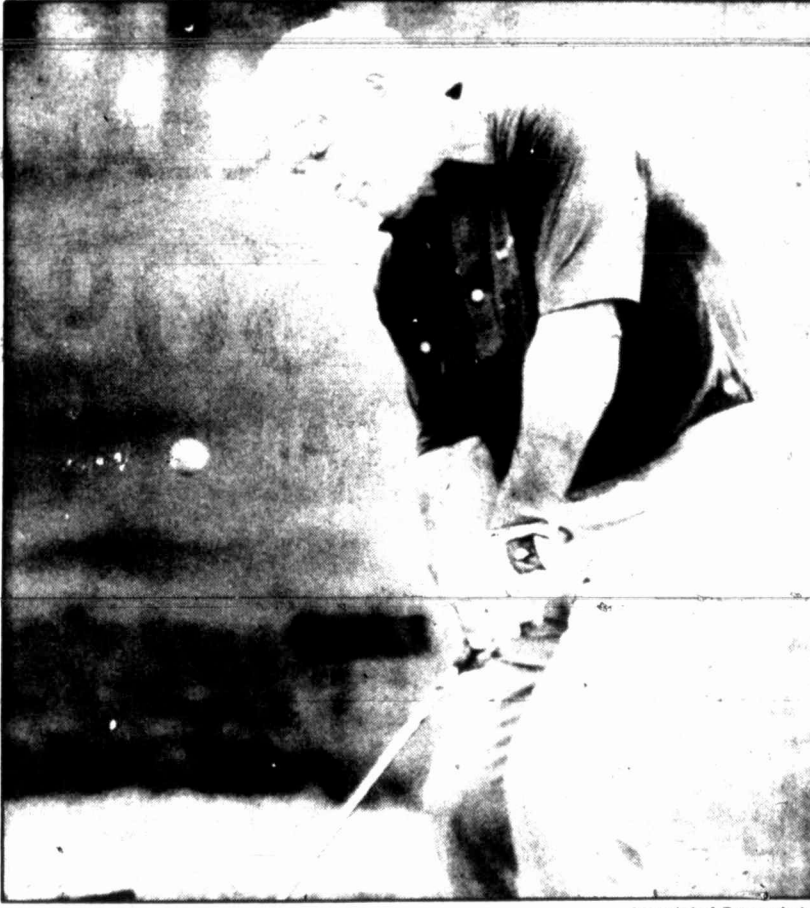

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A heavy afternoon thunder-shower drove Chi Chi Rodriguez off the Nashawtuc Country Club course and straight to the media tent during the Digital PGA Seniors golf tournament.

Rodriguez who has won this $300,000 event for the last two years, had no trouble filling the time Thursday.

"God put this course here for me. I feel comfortable here because I like New England. I like New England because I like scrod and I like the Red Sox," the Puerto Rican campaigner said.

Rodriguez also was careful to pay homage to Arnold Palmer, joking that the veteran star, in his first Digital entry in five years, is "the king ... I'm just the crown prince."

"I noticed today that all the fans were following me on the front nine," Rodriguez said of a practice round. "Arnie started behind me and they dropped back. But I'm feeling comfortable and happy to see Arnie here."

CONCORD, Mass. — Veteran golfer Arnold Palmer chips onto the tenth green during play in the Pro-Am tournament at the Digital Seniors Classic at Nashawtuc Country Club.

Palmer won the tournament, which begins today, in 1982.

Rodriguez has just one Senior Tour victory this year, but he earned $178,000 by finishing in the top 10 nine times and was optimistic about improving.

"I'm having a rotten year," he said. "I have played terrible. But I had a lesson with Gardner Dickinson and I was playing very well," he said of his pro-am warmup. "I thought my strength was gone but my power came back today."

Rodriguez, eighth on the money list, along with Palmer heads a field of 72 for the 54-hole tournament. The list includes seven of the current money leaders, among them Bob Charles and Bruce Crampton, each of whom has won three tournaments this year.

Also competing are 1981 champion Bob Goalby and 1985 winner Lee Elder.

Two players, Orville Moody, the official tour money leader, and third-ranked Gary Player, were missing from the chase for a $45,000 first prize at the 6,649-yard, par-72 course.

Former UT golfer one stroke off

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Former University of Texas All-American golfer Bob Estes, playing in his first PGA Tour event, already is displaying an eye-opening golf game.

Estes fired a 4-under-par 68 Thursday and was only two strokes off the lead after the first round of the $700,000 Buick Open.

PGA

Estes was chasing another former college hot-shot, Scott Verplank, who was one of six players tied for the lead at 6-under. Verplank, in his third year as a pro, won the Western Amateur while still a collegian at Oklahoma State.

Also at 66 were Scott Hoch, Fred Couples, George Archer, Tim Simpson and Greg Ladehoff.

Three players — Jim Hallett, Ray Barr Jr. and Mike Sullivan, were at 2-under.

First prize in the Buick Open is worth $126,000 plus use of a car for one year. Estes, 22, was a two-time All-American at the University of Texas where he recently completed his senior year by earning the Jack Nicklaus Award for the outstanding collegiate golfer.

Estes says he plans to play in the PGA's three-stage qualifying tournament later in the year and try to earn a spot on the tour. He received a sponsor's exemption to play in the Buick Open and, so far, it's turned out to be all he expected and more.

"It's awesome," Estes said. "I get to be in the same locker room with all the big shots I used to watch on television. That's great. It gives me a shot of confidence knowing that I'm in the same tournament that they are."

He's hoping that a strong showing in the Buick Open will earn him a few more sponsor's exemptions. Actually, what Estes did Thursday might have been expected. Since turning pro two months ago, he has earned money in four non-Tour events, including $40,000 for winning the Bogey Hills Invitational in St. Charles, Mo.

"I've pretty much known I've wanted to be a professional golfer since I was 10 years old and I've finally got the chance," said Estes, a native of Abilene. "I worked real hard for quite a long time hoping my time would come."

"It's just as much fun as I thought it would be. Actually, it's even better than I thought it would be."

All the leaders except Verplank played the 7,014-yard, par 72 course in the morning, following a heavy rainstorm, when the greens were soft and true.

A blazing sun and high winds, plus half a day's worth of spike marks, helped raise the scores for many who played in the afternoon.

Robert Wrenn, who won the 1988 Buick Open at 26-under — just one stroke off Ben Hogan's competitive record — shot even-par 72

Thursday.

Verplank, playing the back nine first, started with a bogey, then rolled in a 25-footer for birdie on No. 11, a 190-yard par 3, and played steady golf the rest of the way, including a brilliant save from a plugged bunker lie on the par 4 ninth, his final hole, where he holed a 20-foot putt.

"I tried to go out and enjoy myself," Verplank said. "I've been in a terrible mood and haven't enjoyed playing. I tried to go out today and not give a hoot and I had a great time."

"I've been trying too hard and I couldn't go on like that. There's no reason to get mad or uptight."

Couples, who tied for fourth in the British Open, chipped in from 50 yards for an eagle on the 584-yard, par 5 seventh hole.

"It's just putting," Couples said. "Whoever makes the most putts will win. I think it will be 16, 18 or 20-under again."

Rodeo heads into third night of competition

Just like the first night, the second night of American Junior Rodeo Association rodeo action at Big Spring Rodeo Bowl had some good performances.

Locally, Tracey Green competed in the girls 12 and under poles, and had the third fastest time. Green was timed in 24.367. The fastest time of the night was turned in by Mary Peril of Marble Falls, who had a 22.172.

In the boys competition, J.J. Kincheloe of Snyder finished first in the 13-15-years-old ribbon roping and fourth in the tiedown competition. Joe Richards of Fairfield was second in the 16-19 division tiedown and third in ribbon roping.

The only double winner in the boys competition was Shawn McMullen in the 16-19 division. The Iraan cowboy won the tiedown and ribbon roping competition.

The AJRA rodeo heads into the third night tonight at the Rodeo Bowl. Action begins at 7:30.

Soccer clinic set for Sunday

A soccer clinic, for youth ages under 12, will be Sunday at 1 p. m. at the under 12 soccer field at Industrial Park. There is no charge. Instructors will be a group of professional players from England. Children attending the camp are urged to bring a ball and their parents. This clinic is a preview of the upcoming soccer camp Aug. 22-26.

Angels manager suspended

MIDLAND (AP) — Midland Angels manager Max Oliveras has been suspended for 15 days by Texas League President Carl Sawatski following a "bumping" incident with an umpire.

Sawatski announced the suspension before Thursday night's game between Midland and the Shreveport Captains and made it effective starting Thursday. It means that pitching coach Tim Kelly will serve as acting manager for about half of Midland's remaining games.

The "bumping" incident came during the eighth inning of Wednesday's 10-6 loss to Shreveport when Oliveras shouted his disagreement at a ball-strike call from the dugout.

Witnesses said home plate umpire Todd Freese started toward the dugout and Oliveras started toward Freese. Two or three "bumps" took place before Freese ejected Oliveras.

A question remains as to who instigated the physical contact, press box witnesses said.

Former Texas Tech player dies

DALLAS (AP) — Last year's starting center for the Texas Tech University football team was killed along with a woman when he lost control of the car, he was driving early Thursday morning, police said.

Bryan Lee, 23, who started all 11 games last year for the Red Raiders as a senior, was driving about 90 miles per hour on North Central Expressway when his car hit a curb, went airborne, then struck a concrete bridge pillar, officials said.

Kathleen Ramey, 22, of Dallas, also died in the crash that occurred about 1:45 a. m.

The car's other passenger, Larry Wright, 21, of Waco, underwent surgery for multiple injuries at Presbyterian Hospital and was in stable condition Thursday night, said hospital spokeswoman Lou McAdoo.

Lee's father, Bob Lee of Abilene, said his son was visiting a Texas Tech teammate in Arlington and was on his way to an apartment where Wright was staying when the accident occurred. Lee and Wright had been classmates at Abilene Cooper High School.

Services for Lee will be at 11 a. m. Saturday at the First United Methodist Church in Abilene.

Nettles delivers for Expos

By The Associated Press
When the Montreal Expos get into extra innings, no one can be trusted. Not even a .148 hitter. Graig Nettles, who entered Thursday night's game against the St. Louis Cardinals with just eight hits in 54 at-bats, singled home the winning run in the 10th inning as the Expos won 4-3 and improved their record to 15-4 this season in extra-inning games.

"Even when I was an everyday player, I didn't care about my average. I only cared about what I produced," the 43-year old Nettles said. "It's more important to me to have eight RBIs as a pinch-hitter than to worry about my average."

National League

Nettles' hit capped a night when the Expos played St. Louis-style baseball, stealing a season-high six bases and using speed to set up the tying and winning runs.

"The idea of this game is to put pressure on the other team, and you do that by being aggressive," said Rex Hudler, who singled to open the 10th, was sacrificed to second, and stole third before scoring on Nettles' hit.

Elsewhere, it was Houston 3, San Diego 2; Cincinnati 5, Atlanta 2, and Chicago 7, Philadelphia 0.

The Expos trailed 3-2 through seven innings, but tied the game in the eighth without getting the ball out of the infield. Otis Nixon singled back to the mound, stole his second and third bases of the game and scored on a wild pitch by Todd Worrell.

"I guess I forced them into a mistake," Nixon said. "But that's the way they (the Cardinals) do it all the time."

The loss was the Cardinals' third in a row and fifth in six games. Manager Whitey Herzog could only shake his head in disbelief at being beaten by Nettles.

"The guy is 14-for-90 against the rest of the league, and now he's 10-for-26 against us," Herzog growled. "If he could hit, he'd be worth a million dollars the way he runs."

Astros 3, Padres 2
Bill Doran's two-run homer sparked a three-run first inning and Bob Knepper and Larry Andersen combined on a nine-hitter to lead Houston.

Billy Hatcher led off the top of the first against San Diego's Eric Show, 7-10, with a ground-rule double to left-center and Doran hit an 0-2 pitch to right for his sixth homer. Terry Puhl then singled and Kevin Bass walked. Both runners advanced on a double steal as Buddy Bell struck out and Puhl scored on a groundout by Craig Reynolds.

The double steal gave Houston 154 stolen bases for the season, tops in the major leagues.

Knepper, 11-3, pitched six innings, allowing seven hits, walking two and striking out three. Andersen gave up two hits and struck out three in three innings to earn his fifth save.

Reds 5, Braves 2
Nick Esasky hit his second game-winning homer in the ninth inning in two days as Cincinnati defeated Atlanta.

The homer, Esasky's third in the four-game series, came off rookie John Smoltz, 1-1, making his second major-league start. With one out in the ninth, Eric Davis doubled and Paul O'Neill was walked intentionally. Esasky then hit a 1-1 pitch to left for his 10th homer of the season and 14th lifetime at Atlanta.

Frank Williams, 1-1, pitched one inning. John Franco worked the ninth to earn his National League-leading 21st save and 11th in his last 11 appearances.

Davis, who went 3-for-4, tied the game for the Reds in the seventh when he led off with his 17th home run.

Cubs 7, Phillies 0
Calvin Schiraldi pitched a three-hitter for his first major-league complete game and Manny Trillo drove in two runs with a homer and single as Chicago snapped a three-game losing streak.

Schiraldi, 6-8, struck out four, walked four and did not allow a runner past second base. He gave up a single to Juan Samuel with one out in the bottom of the sixth, a double to Mike Young in the seventh and single to Mike Schmidt in the ninth.

Schiraldi, who singled in a run in the ninth, was making his 121st major-league appearance and 26th start.

White turns Chisox blue both in field and at plate

By The Associated Press
Devon White giveth and Devon White taketh away. White, the Angels' center fielder, and designated hitter Brian Downing were the heroes Thursday night as California beat the Chicago White Sox 7-6.

Downing's second home run of the game, a solo shot in the 11th inning, gave the Angels the lead. In the bottom of the inning, White preserved the victory with a sensational leaping catch at the fence on a drive by Steve Lyons.

American League

"I just held my breath when Lyons hit it," Downing said, "only to have Devon White jump up and catch the ball."

"White's 11th-inning catch was a hell of a play. It saved the game," Angels manager Cookie Rojas said. "He redeemed himself on that one."

In the seventh, White's throwing error led to two runs for Chicago.

"He had no business throwing to third base on (Gary Redus' single)," Rojas said. "Ozzie Guillen would have gotten there anyway. The one run doesn't mean anything."

Guillen led off the bottom of the inning with a single and, when Redus singled to center, White's throw to third went into the dugout and Guillen scored. Redus, who had taken second on the play, was allowed to go to third. He scored the tying run when Harold Baines singled to center.

Each team scored a run in the 10th, then Downing homered off Ricky Horton for the decisive run in the 11th.

"It wasn't a picture-perfect swing. I only got a piece of it," Downing said. "But the ball managed to make it's way into the seats. Having played at Comiskey Park before, I've seen it happen a bunch of times."

Elsewhere Thursday night, Detroit sneaked back into first place in the AL East with a 7-1 victory over Kansas City on Jeff Robinson's one-hitter, while Milwaukee was beating New York 6-1, dropping the Yankees a half-game behind the Tigers; and Baltimore beat Cleveland 5-2.

Downing's homers gave him 16 this year and marked the eighth time in his career he has hit two homers in one game.

"What I love is being in a key situation to make an impact," Carlton Fisk returned from a broken right hand and had a double and two-run homer for the White Sox.

Tigers 7, Royals 1
Robinson, 12-4 and 9-1 at home, allowed only Frank White's single in the fourth inning. He retired the last 18 batters, struck out three and walked three for his first career one-hitter.

"Any time a pitcher throws a one-hitter he's done well," Royals manager John Wathan said. "And we've got a good offensive lineup."

Detroit swept all six games against the Royals at home. It was the first time the Royals didn't win a game at Detroit in a season.

Brewers 6, Yankees 1
Mike Birkbeck, 5-5, allowed one run and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings. He left with the bases loaded and two outs in the sixth, but Chuck Crim struck out pinch-hitter Ken Phelps. Crim pitched 3 1-3 scoreless innings for his sixth save.

B.J. Surhoff had three hits, Paul Molitor, Robin Yount and Rob Deer contributed two each to the Brewers' 12-hit attack.

Rickey Henderson reached safely to lead off the game for the 10th straight time by singling. He was stranded, however, after having scored a run in the first inning in seven straight games.

Orioles 5, Indians 2
Rookie Oswald Peraza, 3-4, limited Cleveland to seven singles and had a shutout until the ninth. He struck out four and walked two for Baltimore's third victory in the last 12 games and its first against Cleveland after 11 consecutive losses. Baltimore last defeated the Indians on Aug. 11 last year and is 1-9 against Cleveland in 1988.

Eddie Murray and Cal Ripken Jr. homered for the Orioles.

Cleveland's Julio Franco went hitless in four plate appearances to end his career-high hitting streak at 22 games.

Hawks sign pair

The Howard College Hawks baseball team has announced the signing of two more players.

Inking with Howard is Matthew Stewart of El Paso and Bret Resweber of Lafayette, La. Stewart attended Hanks High School and Resweber attended Acadiana High School. Both players are pitcher-infielders.

This past season Stewart, a 6-1, 175-pounder, was named to the All-District and All-City team. He was also All-District last year. The right-hander compiled a 3-1 record on the mound. In 33 innings he struck out 25 and fielded a 1.87 earned run average.

At the plate he batted .493 with 35 RBI's, right stolen bases and six homers.

Stewart carries a 3.3 grade point average and is the son of Ann Swafford.

Howard assistant coach Frank Anderson calls Stewart "a strong player. On ehntat will help us on the mound and in the field."

Resweber, a 5-11, 180-pound right-hander, had a banner yeuar in Louisiana. He was named to the

MATTHEW STEWART

All-League and All-State teams, while leading the Acadiana Rams to the state semi-finals.

This past season he compiled a 11-3 record on the mound, to go along with two saves. In 87 innings Resweber struck out 92, walked 37 and had a 1.85 earned run average. At the plate he batted .395 with six home runs.

Resweber carries a 2.5 GPA and plans on majoring in sports medicine. He is the son of Bert Resweber.

"We expect Bert to be one of the leaders of our staff," said coach Anderson. "He pitches very similar to Ted Hebert (former Howard hurler). HJ'e's from the same program as Hebert. He will definitely bolster our pitching staff. he's a good hitter also."

Waltrip fastest qualifer

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip likes being the fastest, even if it is slower.

No, it's really not that confusing.

Waltrip was easily the fastest qualifier for Sunday's Talladega 500 at Alabama International Motor Speedway, in a session conducted under NASCAR's 1988 rules mandating carburetor restrictor plates here and at Daytona International Speedway.

The plates restrict air flow to the carburetor, cutting horsepower and slowing the cars down by about 15 mph, which is exactly what NASCAR had in mind at its two fastest tracks.

The three-time Winston Cup champion turned a fast lap of 196.274 mph on Thursday at the 2.66-mile oval. Second at 194.338 was Sterling Marlin.

But Waltrip was far short of the 1987 track and NASCAR qualifying record of 212.809 and the 1986 race qualifying mark of 209.005, both set by Bill Elliott.

Waltrip also dominated the qualifying at Daytona earlier this month in the Firecracker 400, taking the pole by nearly 2.5 mph over Kyle Petty.

"I don't know whether the carburetor plate is the right way to go," Waltrip said. "But I do know 44.998 (seconds) and 212.809 (mph) are unheard of in a stock car. There's no way you want to do that. At least I don't."

"I'd rather be running 195 or 196. You have a lot more reaction time and the engine and car are more compatible. Before, at the speeds we were running, the engine was overriding the car."

Waltrip was not able to retain his big edge in the race at Daytona, which was won by Elliott.

"Down at Daytona, the car got a little loose in the middle of the race and got us behind," Waltrip said. "That's a typical Daytona and Talladega race."

Even if you're faster in qualifying, you're not going to blow by people in the race. But we've found a combination that's pretty darn good for qualifying."

Waltrip said it could have been even faster under different circumstances.

"The heat slowed us down more than I thought it would," he said of the temperatures in the low 90s. "But everybody had to drive on the same hot track."

The top 20 qualifiers Thursday locked up starting spots in Sunday's 40-car lineup. The rest of the field was determined in another session today.

Davey Allison, who won the pole for the Winston 500 at the track in May, was third Thursday at 194.204, followed by Geoff Bodine at 193.995 and Morgan Shepherd at 193.940.

Shepherd has been substituting for Neil Bonnett, recovering from appendix and gall bladder surgery. Bonnett has practiced in the car.

NFL Notes

Football season almost officially here

By The Associated Press
Yes, folks, the NFL preseason schedule is underway. Sort of. The first exhibition games won't be played until the weekend — Cincinnati against the Los Angeles Rams in the Hall of Fame Game on Saturday, San Francisco vs. Miami at London on Sunday.

MOVING ON
World-class speedster Willie Gault was traded by the Chicago Bears to the Raiders, giving Los Angeles a spectacular group of receivers, but a questionable collection of quarterbacks.

Gault, an Olympic track team member in 1980, had been taking acting lessons in Southern California rather than report to Chicago. He earned $347,000 last year and wanted $700,000 this season. He signed a five-year contract with the Raiders after the Bears sent him west, where he joins Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown and standout receivers James Lofton and Todd Christensen, a tight end. Coach Mike Shanahan said he wasn't concerned about having too many receivers.

"Our plan is to keep five wide receivers," Shanahan said. "With the utilization of three and four-receiver (offensive) sets, our receivers will keep very busy." If someone can get them the ball, Shanahan still has not decided on a starting quarterback, instead of sticking with what he called a "fairly permanent" rotation of Steve Beuerlein, Vince Evans and 40-year-old Jim Plunkett.

Gault isn't worried about problems getting him the ball. "I'm just happy to have the opportunity to come here and hopefully contribute to the greatness of the Raiders," Gault said. "I'm sure Mr. (general managing partner Al) Davis saw something in me."

EATING IN

"You can't watch someone 24 hours a day," Perkins said Thursday. "I guess you could get a doctor to sew up his mouth and just leave a hole for a straw." Perkins' comments came as Magee returned to practice. Magee walked out of camp Tuesday and said he would retire if he wasn't traded or released. He was annoyed about the attention paid to his weight, 279 pounds when he reported and 274, 19 over his required weight, on Thursday.

Last year Magee reported to camp at 286 pounds and got down to 240. He didn't participate in the Bucs' offseason conditioning program this year. "I'm going to take into account that he's a special situation," Perkins said.

Oilers, Seahawks battle to 0-0 draw

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Rookie quarterback Kelly Stouffer of the Seattle Seahawks completed eight of 13 passes for 41 yards Thursday in his NFL debut in a scoreless scrimmage against the Houston Oilers in the Tacoma Dome.

There were no touchdowns in the 11-on-11 phase of the scrimmage as the defenses dominated before a crowd of 8,518.

For Houston, third-string quarterback Cody Carlson completed eight of 12 passes for 93 yards, but was intercepted twice, and backup quarterback Brent Pease was eight of 13 for 91 yards.

"It's much easier to put stuff in the defense at this point of training camp," said Seahawks Pro Bowl defensive end Jacob Green. "The offenses take longer to develop."

Stouffer, St. Louis' 1987 first-round draft choice, sat out last season in a contract dispute with the Cardinals and was traded three months ago by the Cardinals to Seattle.

"I just wanted to get out there and feel confident and at ease," said Stouffer, who said he wasn't worried about being rusty because of his long layoff. "After the first couple of snaps, I felt good."

Stouffer did overthrow his receivers on a couple of occasions and said, "Sometimes, I was just too excited."

Seahawks coach Chuck Knox wasn't that impressed by Stouffer, whom he has called the Seahawks quarterback of the future.

"Kelly was rusty," said Knox. "He's got the arm. He just needs to get back in a groove and this is his first real work in more than a year."

It was the third consecutive year that the Seahawks and the Oilers had met in a scrimmage.

"Brent (Pease) made some unbelievable plays," said Houston coach Jerry Glanville. "He and (Cody) Carlson are both coming along."

Regular quarterbacks Warren Moon of Houston and Dave Krieg of the Seahawks were used sparingly. Moon completed three of seven passes for 27 yards and Krieg was three of three for 32 yards.

Glanville also singled out outside linebacker Mark Dusbabek, a 1987 fourth-round draft choice from Minnesota, for praise.

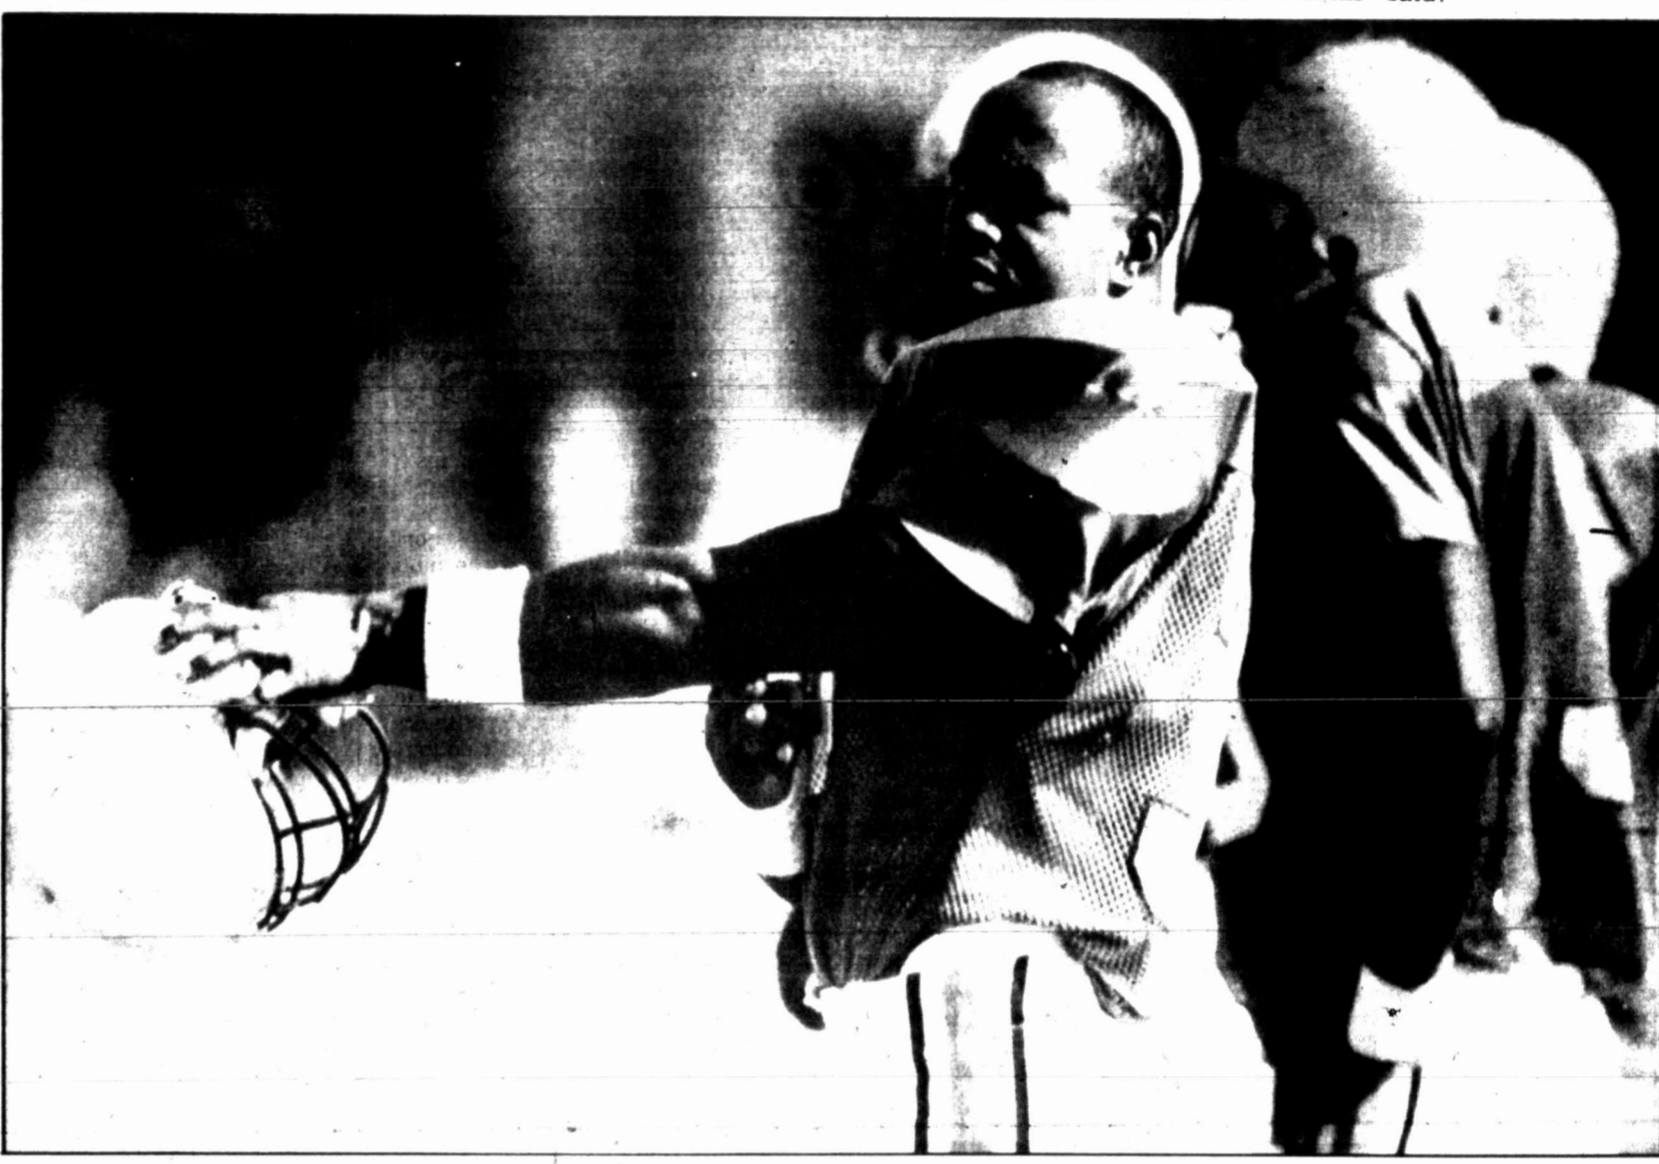

"He caught my eye," Glanville said. "We lost him the first day of practice last year (with a dislocated shoulder) and he's come back strong."

Glanville, whose Oilers beat the Seahawks 23-20 in the AFC wild-card game last January in Houston, said the scrimmage was well worth the team's plane flight from and back to San Marcos, Texas, where the club trains.

"We get so much work out of these scrimmages with the unlimited practice against another team," he said. "Now, we'll go back and look at the film and that's a great tool."

Knox was impressed by Seattle's two 1988 top draft choices, wide receivers Brian Blades and Tommy Kane. Blades, a second-round pick from Miami, caught two passes for 20 yards and Kane, a third-round selection from Syracuse, caught one pass for seven yards.

"In seven-on-seven, Brian Blades made some good catches," said Knox. "Tommy Kane also did well. Those guys were obviously scrimmage against the Seattle Seahawks Thursday. The Oilers and Seahawks battled to a 0-0 deadlock.

Dexter gets a good deal

By The Associated Press
The 30-day suspension of Dexter Manley for flunking his substance abuse test demonstrates an interesting loophole in the NFL's rules.

Manley won't miss a regular-season game, just training camp time and three exhibitions. In other words, he can do his radio and TV shows instead of two-a-day practices in 90-degree heat.

Moreover, some in the Redskins camp were exulting at the way things worked out. LaVern Torgerson, the defensive line coach noted, for example, that Manley had his best season in 1986, when he held out until approximately the same date he will be reinstated — Aug. 27.

But if that "minor" substance had turned up in Manley's urine during the regular season, he would have been required to miss four regular-season games. The same is true if, say, Lawrence Taylor or Stanley Wilson were to flunk a random drug test.

What the NFL rule says is that any second offender must undergo 30 days of treatment — whether as an inpatient or outpatient. Bob Woolf, Manley's lawyer, says he will simply continue the outpatient treatment he's had since spending 30 days in 1987 for alcohol treatment at the Hazelden Institute in Minnesota.

ROOKIES AND RETIREMENTS

National champion Miami and Pitt are both looking good in the early returns on rookies.

Not only is Michael Irvin looking like a future All-Pro in the Dallas Cowboys' camp, but his former university of Miami teammate, Brett Perriman, may finally be the speed receiver New Orleans needs. Word out of the Saints' camp in La Crosse, Wis., is that every time Perriman comes out of the huddle, the cornerback opposite him drops back five yards.

The Saints also like what they see of Pitt's Craig "Ironhead"

Washington Redskins All-Pro defensive end, Dexter Manley, will miss 30 days of practice because of substance abuse. Manley will make it back in time for the regular NFL season though.

Heyward, all 265 pounds of him. The biggest surprise — his good hands.

Heyward was expected — he was a No. 1 pick.

But a No. 5 from Pitt, defensive end Jon Carter, has been a pleasant surprise in the Giants' camp, particularly as a pass rusher. With Eric Dorsey finally showing the potential that made him a first-round pick two years ago, Carter's emergence could allow George Martin to retire. The 35-year-old Martin, now in his 14th season, has considered retirement the last few years but has been talked out of it by Coach Bill Parcells because of leadership role on the team.

If he were to go, it might raise some hackles at union headquarters — he was recently elected NFLPA president.

Moon: 'I can be better'

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Houston Oiler quarterback Warren Moon doesn't anticipate ever again experiencing so much agony and ecstasy in the same season.

A divisive strike left nerves on edge and then the Oilers made a rare playoff appearance, losing to Denver in the second round.

It was a mixture of nightmares and dreams come true.

"It was disappointing losing in the playoffs but the most unpleasant part was coming back after the strike," Moon said.

But the frustration of the strike gave way to the thrill of gaining a wild card berth in the AFC playoffs, the first playoff game for Moon in the NFL.

"I guess the most pleasant part of the season was getting to the playoffs because that's something that this team hadn't done in eight years," Moon said.

"We were able to learn from that. We can build on that now."

The Oilers finished with a 9-6 regular season record, beat Seattle 23-20 in the wild card game and lost to Denver 34-10 in the divisional playoff.

Moon is interested in seeing what the Oilers can accomplish without a season of distractions.

"We're so much more relaxed because we don't have all those other things on our minds," he said. "We're just going into the season hoping to get all our players signed and hoping to have a good camp."

Last season would have been a circus of distractions even without the players' strike.

Owner Bud Adams threatened to move the team to Jacksonville, Fla. before eventually signing a new lease agreement with the Houston Sports Association.

First round draft pick Alonzo Highsmith and offensive lineman Bruce Matthews were lengthy contract holdouts.

Moon thinks the Oilers will be better and he'll be better in 1988, simply because for the first time since he joined the Oilers, Moon will have the same position coach

Warner, who was poked in the eye in practice Monday, and also were without starting defensive end Jeff Bryant, who is a contract holdout, and four-time Pro Bowler Freddie Young, who has been in and out of training camp because he doesn't like his contract. Bryant does not have a contract.

two straight years. "I can be better this year," Moon said. "I can be a lot more efficient because of the little things."

Quarterbacks Coach June Jones is a big reason Moon thinks the Oilers will be better.

"I've got a guy now that I know what he wants from me," Moon said. "I don't have to start over like I've had to do the last four years. It's going to help the whole offense. We can start from here."

Moon completed 184 of 368 passes for 2,806 yards last season and threw 21 touchdown passes, the most for an Oiler quarterback since George Blanda completed 24 touchdown passes in 1963.

Moon also was sacked a career low 25 times.

"We put in 40 per cent of the run and shoot last year and we put in a lot more this off-season," Moon said. "Teams won't be able to play us on certain plays."

"It's going to be exciting when you can free up the people that we have and get them the ball. "Something's going to happen."

Pokes win scrimmage

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A 54-yard scoring pass from Steve Pelluer to Kelvin Martin highlighted an 18-6 Dallas Cowboys' victory over the San Diego Chargers on Thursday in an NFL preseason scrimmage.

The other Dallas scores came on one yard plunges by Karl Jones and Gerald White.

San Diego's only score was on a four-yard pass from Mark Vlasic to Timmie Ware.

Dallas offensive guard Nate Newton suffered a strained tendon in his left kneecap but the injury wasn't believed to be serious.

No extra points were kicked in the scrimmage.

Hall teams will have fun

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Hall of Fame coach and Cincinnati Bengals vice-president and general manager Paul Brown jokes that the Bengals' trip to the Hall of Fame game Saturday will give the team an excellent opportunity to "dust his bust."

More than that, but not much more, is expected when the Bengals meet the Los Angeles Rams in the annual AFC-NFC Hall of Fame game, the first exhibition of the National Football League season.

The young Bengals will tour the Hall of Fame during their visit.

"It will be fun," Coach Sam Wyche said. "The younger guys will get a perspective of the industry they're in that they don't already know about. They will get a look at the bigger world that preceded them."

Later, the rookies are expected to get a look at the real world by being put on the firing line, as is the norm in the early exhibition season.

Rams coach John Robinson said he also would take a hard look at first-year backups and would be experimenting to fill gaps created by holdouts and losses.

The Rams have five exhibition games rather than the usual four and Robinson looks at the head start as a large advantage.

"The extra game is good for us this year," said Robinson, whose team is coming off a 6-9 season. "It gives us a chance to look at a lot of new faces. Get started a little bit early."

The Rams have 14 draft choices, so Robinson will have a lot of evaluating to do in preseason. Running back Gaston Green, the Rams' No. 1 pick out of UCLA, has a bruised thigh, however, and is questionable for the game.

Robinson is still seeking a replacement for wide receiver Ron Brown, who gave up football to return to track and field. Newcomers expected to see plenty of action include wide receivers Aaron Cox of Arizona State, also a first-round selection, and second-rounder Willie Anderson of UCLA.

Shreveport rallies for 5-4 win over Midland

By The Associated Press
John Skurla singled home Romy Cucjen in the ninth inning to give the Shreveport Captains a come-from-behind 5-4 Texas League victory over the Midland Angels.

Mike Huff singled home Juan Bustabad with the winning run in the ninth inning to give the San Antonio Missions a 5-2 victory over the Jackson Mets.

The Missions scored two more runs in the ninth inning. Tony Mack, 4-0, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Kevin Tapani, 2-1.

Jim Fregosi raced home from second base on a single by Everett Graham in the 10th inning to give the Arkansas Travelers a 10-9 victory over the San Antonio Missions.

The Travs trailed 9-8 going into the bottom of the 10th. Wichita's Chris Knabenshue had scored on Bill Stevenson's double to take a 9-8 lead in the top of the inning.

Mike Robertson walked to start Arkansas' 10th. Fregosi was hit by a pitch. Jesus Mendez then got an infield single, to load the bases.

Graham's single and an error by Wichita centerfielder Pat Jelks brought in the tying and winning runs.

Joe Mitchell had three hits, including a two-run homer, to lead the El Paso Diablos to a 7-4 victory over the Tulsa Drillers.

Texas League

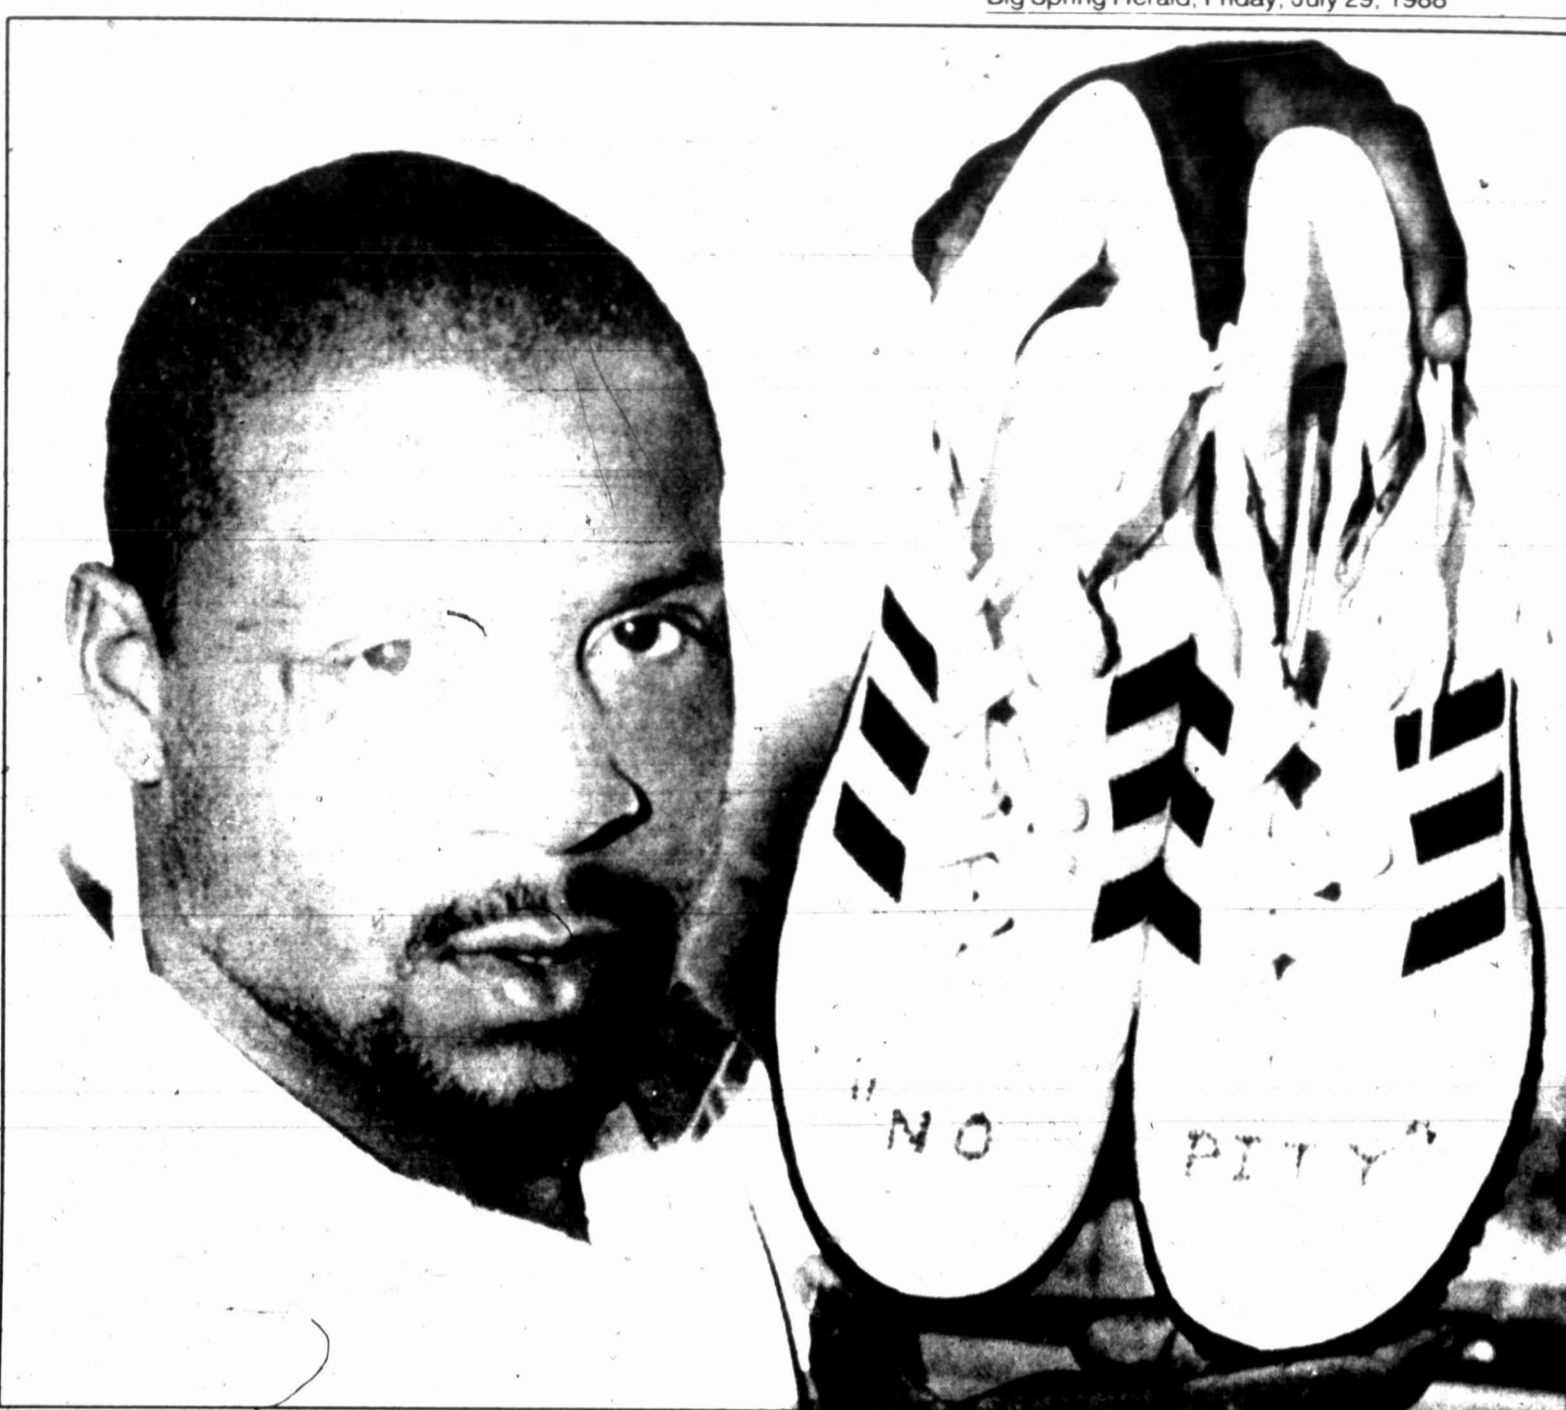

In other Texas League action Thursday night, San Antonio defeated Jackson, 5-2, Arkansas edged Wichita, 10-9 in 10 innings and El Paso defeated Tulsa, 7-4.

Greg Litton had singled home Dee Dixon with the tying run just before Skurla's game-winning hit.

The game marked the first game that Midland manager Max Oliveras will miss following his 15-day suspension in connection with a "bumping" incident with umpire Todd Freese in Wednesday's game.

Jim McCollom had a two-run homer for Midland.

The winning pitcher was Jose Dominguez, 3-6. The loser was Kurt Walker, 3-4.

JEANE DIXON'S
Your Horoscope

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: People will follow almost anywhere you lead, even though they find you very demanding. Let up on partner and your relationship will function better. Many influential people are interested in your managerial skills. Some will bid for your services. Your wit rescues you from a ticklish situation. Keep any promises you make. You will get more business over the telephone than many will land in person. Your gift for gab is a distinct advantage socially.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your communications go right to the mark, untangling a confusing family situation. A picnic is a popular suggestion. More people believe in you than you realize. Set a good example for youngsters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you believe in dreams and in yourself, you should have a wonderful day. Let everyone share the responsibility for party preparations. Entertainment need not be expensive to be fun. Travel is fine.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Aerobics or a tennis match helps clear the cobwebs from your brain. Launch a special project with loved ones. Quick results are still possible if the whole family agrees on a plan.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Use today to discuss things that could threaten a relationship. A change of plan could be upsetting for children. Comfort them. Put more fun in your life. Play as hard as you work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Study the specifics of a plan so you will really understand what is happening. You could be overly emotional about a family matter. Face reality. A relationship will survive if you are affectionate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Trust your instincts when handling relationship problems today. You need to stay calm and clear-headed at a family meeting. Make sure you have adequate insurance coverage, especially in the health area.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your smile will open doors this weekend. Get everyone in the family to pull together. Teamwork can mean big rewards for everyone. Travel will not solve any problems but it will be fun!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Too much pride could stand between you and someone you would enjoy knowing better. Romance is an attractive option. Try to overcome your shyness and get out more. New adventures await you!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good deeds in community help tip the scales in your favor when dealing with people in authority. Restlessness may have you looking for greener fields to explore. Love lights a fire under you!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Say "no" to something that is more expensive than you were led to believe—Your trust in associates at a distance is strengthened by a phone call. Your social life accelerates.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take pride in a family member's accomplishments. Stay calm in a heated situation. Offending an older relative could cost you in the future. You have every right to change your mind.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be willing to review and revise the rules governing a relationship. Your confidence could be shaken if a secret is revealed. Focus on romance, travel and writing letters to distant friends.
