Drilling rig comes tumblin' down

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

CUTHBERT — When a Tuesday afternoon thunderstorm boiled around the Riley drilling rig on Fina Oil and Chemical Company's Foster Ranch No. 1414 lease near here, high winds caught the derrick, rocked it, and sent it crashing down.

It was something veteran driller Lloyd Henry had never seen before.

"I've been in the oilfield business since 1953," Henry said Wednesday, "and I'd never seen one fall yet."

Henry was working on the rig with a three-man crew, derrick hand Dewayne Trawick and floor hands Steve Mathis and Jackie Henry, installing blowout prevention equipment to deepen the two-day-old, 500-foot well.

"It just started raining really hard, and we were under the floor working," Henry said, "lifting out the blowout preventer, when the wind started rocking the rig."

"We got up in the top, then we ran and got in the doghouse (a trailer kept at drilling sites) and watched it. It rocked about three times and then it fell out in the reserve pit.

"Nobody was hurt," he said. "The wind gave us a good warning so we could get out and be away from it if it did fall."

Riley drilling supervisor Rufus Parks said today that he has seen three rigs that have fallen since he went to work in the oilfields in 1946 around Abilene.

Parks, who has been with Riley Drilling since it began operations in 1968, said this is the first time one of the company's rigs has blown over.

Parks said he thought a funnel cloud — or a tornado that had not touched completely down — had caught the derrick, causing it to fall.

"It sort of twisted it," he said, pointing out the position of the downed derrick relative to its mounting platform. "Nobody was hurt — that's one good thing."

Henry said the derrick fell away from the watching men. Damages to the drilling rig were serious, he said. "They'll have to change out the derrick."

"It had 15 six-inch drill collars in it, and they all fell out in the pit too. It pretty well will have to be (replaced), because it tore up the derrick and the pump motor."

He said watching the derrick fall was "kind of unbelievable, to see it rocking there."

"It just, I don't know, never seeing one fall before — it was kind of unbelievable. I've worked on a bunch of 'em and never seen 'em fall over."

His oilfield experience, stretching over 35 years, covers work in fields throughout the Permian Basin and some offshore work, he said.

Most drilling rigs do not require anchors, he said. "They (manufacturers and engineers) claim a drilling rig will stand more (wind) without anchors than with them."

He said the full crew was at the rig when it fell, except for one man: tool pusher George Young "had gone home for awhile."

The well being drilled was scheduled for a total depth of around 3,500 feet, he said, and the crew had just finished the surface drilling portion of the job.

"We had just been out there two days, just rigged up and did the surface drilling, set the surface pipe and cemented," he recalled. "We were nipping up the blowout preventer to take it on down to total depth."

Despite rumors, doctor claims Dukakis healthy

By JOHN KING Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Michael Dukakis' longtime physician today said rumors that the Democratic presidential nominee had received psychiatric counseling "have no basis in fact" and were politically motivated.

Dr. Gerald R. Plotkin was marched out late Wednesday and appeared on two television networks this morning to discount rumors about Dukakis' medical past that were brought into full focus with a gaffe by President Reagan earlier Wednesday.

"He has never had any psychological symptoms or problems and he has never had any treatment for such," Plotkin said on CBS-TV's "This Morning."

Plotkin said on NBC-TV's "Today" show that Dukakis "is usually feeling well, upbeat and very vigorous."

"I would have to assume that the rumors are political," he said. "I don't know whether the term is dirty tricks, but I think certainly the allegations... have no basis in fact."

On Wednesday, Plotkin said Dukakis showed no signs of clinical depression after two incidents that supposedly caused him to stumble psychologically: his loss in the 1978 gubernatorial primary, and the 1973 death of his brother Stelian in a hit-and-run accident. Stelian had undergone psychiatric treatment for years after a suicide attempt.

"There is a normal grieving after any loss, from minor to major, and the response usually is in relation to the gravity of the loss," Plotkin said. "I was struck at the time of both losses at his strength rather than his depression."

"I'm a very healthy guy," Dukakis told reporters earlier. "I think it was the Greeks who said a Dukakis was heading to Mississippi today to begin a campaign trip that also included stops in California, Washington and Colorado.

Dukakis and Plotkin were responding to rumors that had been spread during the Writers return and Hollywood's happy

By KATHRYN BAKER AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — Hollywood erupted in joy when negotiators announced a tentative settlement of the 150-day-old writers' strike that has affected everyone from TV stars to delicatessen owners to television viewers.

Wednesday's announcement of a settlement between the Writers Guild of America and the producers' alliance signaled an end to what had become one of the longest strikes in modern Hollywood history, surpassed only by the guild's 1960 walkout of five months.

"It's been a very, very difficult summer for all of us, because nobody has been in control of this," said producer Stephen J. Cannell. "I'm glad there's a solution now, or appears to be. I got the 3-in-1 Oil out and my typewriter is ready to go."

"As a responsible human being, I'm thrilled it's over," said Linda

Bloodworth-Thomson, who wrote all 22 episodes of her "Designing Women" series last season. "On a personal level, I'm getting real attached to my hammock."

"I am relieved that the strike is over — and so is my family. I can start earning some money again. I have two assignments that I am waiting to complete," said I.C. Rapoport, who wrote the CBS television movie "Cook and Peary: Race To The Pole."

Besides writers and producers, the walkout hurt restaurant owners, talent agencies, performers awaiting work and ordinary TV viewers.

The starting dates for the fall season were left in question as the strike ate into the first month of the normal production schedule.

Most producers estimated they could get shows on the air in six-eight weeks after a settlement.

Lloyd Bentsen's candidacy is good news for local man

BENTSEN

MACK UNDERWOOD

By STEVE GEISSEN Staff Writer

The selection of Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen as the Democratic vice presidential nominee was good news to Mack Underwood, the Howard County co-chairman of Bentsen's 1982 senate campaign.

But recent press reports regarding Bentsen's personality have irritated Underwood to no end.

"It just makes me sick to my stomach when I hear on the news that Lloyd Bentsen doesn't have charisma," Underwood said.

"Anyone that says that just doesn't know Lloyd Bentsen. Both he and his wife are the most personable, the most charming people you could ever meet."

Underwood said he first met Bentsen when the senator came to a Salvation Army banquet in Big Spring during his 1982 campaign.

He met Bentsen again soon thereafter when the senator returned to Big Spring to speak at the Howard County Courthouse.

This second meeting was a memorable one for Underwood, and his wife, Thelma. But Thelma's remembrance of the event is likely to be less pleasant than her husband's.

Underwood said he and Thelma went to the Midland airport to meet Bentsen and his wife, B.A., and transport them to the courthouse where a crowd was waiting to hear the senator's speech.

Bentsen's plane arrived late, prompting Underwood to make plans to rush the senator to the courthouse. But while Underwood, Bentsen and B.A. were attempting to leave, Thelma was absorbed in a conversation with Joe Pickle who was also there to meet Bentsen.

"We couldn't get my wife's attention, she was about a hundred yards away talking to Joe, so we just left," Underwood said. "Senator Bentsen and B.A. said, 'You better not leave Thelma.' But we were very late, and she had a ride back."

Nonetheless, Underwood would pay the price for his actions later. "I got in the doghouse in '82, and I don't think I've got out of it yet," he said jokingly. Underwood — a retired grocery store manager who founded the Howard County Democrats Club in 1981 — said he has had the opportunity to meet Bentsen five times, and each time he has been impressed by the long-time Texas senator.

"He grew up rich, but he's always been a man who will listen to a person of any class, color or creed," he said.

Underwood said he was surprised when Bentsen was selected as the Democratic vice presidential nominee because he had heard the senator say in the past that he wasn't interested in it.

Windfall profit tax repeal passes Senate

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation is on its way to President Reagan's desk to repeal the windfall profits tax on oil and Texas Sens. Phil Gramm and Lloyd Bentsen called the measure the first step toward a national energy policy.

"Repeal is no panacea for the serious problems wracking the domestic energy industry. It's an important first step, but so much more needs to be done. We won't look the other way as America's energy producers go down the tube," said Bentsen.

Repeal of the tax, favored widely by the oil industry, was included in a 1,000-page trade bill passed Wednesday by a vote of 85-11 in the Senate.

Because the legislation mirrors a bill that cleared the House 286-136 on July 13, it can go straight to Reagan's desk. It appears the president will sign the bill.

Bentsen, who as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee helped steer the trade bill through Congress, called the windfall profits tax "a levy that singled out America's energy producers for some of the most misguided and unfair treatment in our history."

Gramm said the levy costs the industry $100 million a year to administer, although currently no revenue is being raised because the price of oil is below the threshold for collection.

In addition, the tax has cost the industry tens of billions of dollars in lost revenue, Gramm said, "which could have been invested to produce more oil here at home."

The American Petroleum Institute estimates the government spends $15 million to administer the tax, even when it's not being collected. Producers must fill out paperwork on the tax regardless of whether it's paid.

Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs, called the bill "a positive first step toward a cohesive national energy policy."

Although it will have "no immediate impact on building back the energy business in Texas," Chapman said Congress will be positioned during the next administration to develop a national energy policy "without fear of this burden and impediment."

"I remember vividly the day the windfall profits tax passed. I said I planned to be instrumental in repealing it, and I'm proud to have delivered on that promise," said Gramm, a Republican who co-sponsored the amendment with Sen. David Boren, D-Okla.

"It was an unfair, unwise tax, and I'm happy it's going to be repealed. I will be there when the president signs the bill into law," Gramm said.

Bentsen, the Democratic nominee for vice president, used the occasion to call for a national energy summit after the November election.

Federal bailout predicted for S&Ls

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. says his agency can handle any foreseeable problems in commercial banking, but indicates the insurance fund for savings associations may need more money to survive.

L. William Seidman said that despite the $4 billion rescue last week of First Republic Bank Corp. of Dallas, "At this time, we see nothing on the horizon that the insurance fund won't be able to handle given normal economic conditions."

Seidman said the FDIC may have to provide assistance to one other major Texas bank. He declined to identify it, but it is believed he was referring to MCorp., a Dallas bank that has been trying to raise private capital.

In the newest and most pessimistic government estimate of the problems facing the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., he said it will likely cost "slightly under $50 billion" to restore the savings industry to health.

The problem "is getting worse at something like $1 billion a month," he said.

That appraisal, offered to the House Banking Committee on Wednesday, falls short of private analysts' guesses, which range up to $100 billion, but it is nearly twice as high as other government estimates.

The Federal Home Loan Bank

Board, the parent agency of the FSLIC and the regulator of the nation's 3,100 savings institutions, last month put the price tag at $31 billion, within the $26 billion to $36 billion range offered by the General Accounting Office, Congress' auditing arm.

Some in Congress and the Reagan administration dismiss the shifting estimates as a numbers game, but Seidman's figure is likely to lend new urgency to the debate over whether taxpayers' money is needed to bail out the savings industry.

Until now, official estimates have been low enough to support an argument that the FSLIC, which expects to have $42.5 billion in revenue over the next 10 years, can get by without taxpayer money.

However, if Seidman's $50 billion cost figure is on target, there is little question that the FSLIC needs more money. Seidman said the bank board's revenue projections also "are on the optimistic side."

Although Seidman's agency insures commercial banks — not savings and loan associations — it is studying the FSLIC's problems because some have proposed merging the two insurance funds, a move Seidman and banks oppose.

Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., said members of Congress regard bank board estimates as overly optimistic and were likely to give more credence to Seidman's number.

National Guard joins drug battle

HIDALGO (AP) — National Guardsmen have moved to the front line in the war on illegal drugs at the southern frontier.

Guardsmen began searching cargo trucks from Mexico on Wednesday as part of an experiment in using the soldiers in the battle against drug smugglers, officials said.

The troops are among a total of more than 100 National Guard personnel working with U.S. Customs at border points in Texas, Arizona and Florida, Customs officials said.

"I was told it was to test the effectiveness of the National Guard in working with Customs," said Billy McFarland, chief Customs inspector at Hidalgo on the Mexican border in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

The troops underwent two days of training Monday and Tuesday, said Charles Conroy, a Customs spokesman in Houston.

"Today, for all practical purposes, was the first day on the job," Conroy said Wednesday.

Guardsmen also were sent Wednesday to work with Customs in Brownsville, he added.

Medina said the presence of the guardsmen means more trucks coming from Mexico will be searched.

"We're intensifying, more vehicles, more trailers, just intensifying the examinations," Medina said Wednesday.

Conroy said the Texas troops will be based in Laredo and El Paso, with the Laredo-based personnel more likely to be sent to other parts of entry along the border. Others will be based in Miami and in Nogales, Ariz., for the experiment lasting until Aug. 20, he said.

State school records questioned

By The Associated Press

A federal court investigation has uncovered evidence of record tampering at Austin State School for the mentally retarded, according to published reports.

The Dallas Morning News and the Austin American-Statesman reported Wednesday that U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders of Dallas canceled a review of the institution scheduled for this week after he became concerned about the accuracy of records at the school.

Evidence uncovered in the probe included inaccurate reports about injuries to residents and data showing residents received services that never were performed, the newspapers said.

The investigation at Austin State

School was conducted last week by Florida sociologist Linda O'Neill, as expert consultant to Sanders.

The Dallas judge presides over the federal lawsuit against state schools and relies on Ms. O'Neill to monitor conditions in the institutions.

"I have concern that there has been falsification of some records," Ms. O'Neill told the American-Statesman. "I certainly found evidence of it from what people brought and showed me."

The federal investigation also prompted Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation officials to send out notices this week warning employees of the 13 state schools for the retarded that falsifying records would not be tolerated.

Ballet forced to cancel season

DALLAS (AP) — For at least the next year, the Dallas Ballet will be a road show only, company officials announced.

The failure to raise $1.3 million needed to begin its regular 1988-89 season in October has forced its cancellation and also could jeopardize the following season, officials said Wednesday.

"We didn't have enough funds pledged to start paying the dancers and launch the season," said executive director Jack Page. "And rather than start out and run out of gas before we got to the end of the line, we elected not even to start." The cancellation came despite an offer by dancers to accept only half the back pay owed them and to reduce the number of contract weeks for the season.

By the end of March, the company had secured $260,000 in pledges toward the 1988-89 season, but needed to raise the additional $1 million to open the fall season.

The ballet had revised its $3.1 million annual budget down to $2.4 million, but still was unable to raise the money from individual and corporation contributions.

Drug war producing results

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas drug task forces, funded by $10 million in federal money, seized $216.7 million worth of drugs from January through June, officials said Wednesday.

Rider Scott, general counsel to Gov. Bill Clements, said, "We are beginning to make a dent in what's out there."

The $10 million funded 33 regional drug task forces in Texas. The money paid for 190 additional narcotics officers across the state.

The drug seizures included 32,443 pounds of marijuana, 306.9 pounds of cocaine, 13.9 pounds of heroin and 829.6 pounds of amphetamines and methamphetamines.

Scott also displayed weapons, including foreign-made automatic rifles, that were seized as part of the drug enforcement efforts.

Prison camp escapee recaptured

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A 24-year-old inmate who walked away from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp in July was recaptured Tuesday morning at his wife's residence in Lubbock by agents from the U.S. Marshall's office, authorities said.
 Florentino Gustavo Lucio offered no resistance when he was arrested about 10:45 a.m., Deputy U.S. Marshall Michael Hopkins said.
 Lucio's 5-year-old son also resides with his mother in Lubbock, Hopkins said.
 Rudy Franco, assistant superintendent of the federal prison camp, said Lucio was discovered missing July 11 during an official inmate count.
 "You've got to realize that there's no fence here," Franco said of the escape.
 The prison camp is a minimum security correctional facility.
 Franco said Lucio was serving a 5-year sentence for a distribution of heroin conviction in Lubbock County.
 He entered the prison camp on Jan. 31, 1985 and was scheduled to be released on parole April 10, 1989, Franco said.
 The U.S. Marshall's office in Lubbock was notified when Lucio was discovered missing, Franco said.
 Hopkins said a federal magistrate in Lubbock issued an escape from federal prison warrant for Lucio's arrest.
 Lucio is being held without bond in the Taylor County jail in Abilene, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said.
 Hopkins said Lucio will be transferred at a later date to Lubbock and appear before a federal magistrate for sentencing on the escape charge.
 Lucio will not be returned to the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp to serve any future sentence, Hopkins said.

The photograph bears a Cottonwood Park inscription; the 65th annual Howard-Glasscock Old Settlers Reunion is scheduled for Friday at the Howard County Fair Barn, and plans call for a barbecue lunch, a 2 p.m. Fiddlers Contest and an 8 p.m. dance, among other events.

Dukakis

Democratic National Convention by supporters of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche and reported in a few newspapers in recent days.
 The questions intensified after Reagan referred to Dukakis as an "invalid" when asked Wednesday morning whether he thought Dukakis should release his medical records. The question was posed by a reporter for the Executive Intelligence Review, a LaRouche publication.
 The president apologized a few minutes later and said he was attempting a joke.
 Dukakis was graceful when asked about Reagan's remarks. "No apology was really needed," Dukakis said. "We all occasionally misspeak and I don't think the president needed to apologize."
 His wife, Kitty, was less kind. Mrs. Dukakis, campaigning in New Jersey, said such remarks come when "people are desperate and afraid of dealing with the real issues."
 Plotkin released a three-page statement he said summarized all treatment he has given Dukakis over the past 17 years at the Harvard Community Health Plan, a health maintenance organization whose services are available through the state employees benefits program. Prior to that, Dukakis was treated by his father, a family doctor.

 Plotkin said he has treated Dukakis for:
 • Plantar fasciitis, a form of minor foot discomfort associated with jogging, in 1983. He since has given up jogging but keeps an almost daily regimen of speed walking.
 • A pinched nerve in his neck, in 1979.
 • A pulled achilles tendon, in 1976.
 The prescribed treatment for those conditions was rest, heat and naproxen, an anti-inflammatory medicine slightly more powerful than aspirin, Plotkin said.
 The doctor said Dukakis also was treated for:
 • A minor fracture of his collarbone, suffered in a foot race in Ireland in 1976. Dukakis was treated in Ireland and saw Plotkin for a follow-up X-ray.
 • A splinter under the nail of his left index finger, in 1979.
 • Hoarseness, in 1981, which was attributed to his teaching at the John F. Kennedy School of Government.

• A cyst on his back, in 1986, which was drained.
 Plotkin said the material he had released was essentially that contained in his file on Dukakis with the exception of personal notes. Those notes contain no reference to any possible psychological ailment, he said, adding that he has never expressed any concern about Dukakis' health to another doctor.
 Plotkin said Dukakis could have been treated by another doctor but that he considered the prospect highly unlikely.
 Vice President George Bush also has released details on his medical background but no actual medical records. The certain Republican nominee disclosed, "I have mild arthritis in the hips, which is non-limiting," and an allergy to bee stings for which he receives shots.
 Some of the talk and actions Wednesday recalled the 1972 presidential race, when Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri was forced off the Democratic ticket following disclosure that the vice presidential nominee had undergone shock therapy for mental depression.

Sheriff's log

Kenneth Marvin Hart, 23, who gave an address of 204 W Tenth St., was bound over for a grand jury during a Wednesday pretrial hearing on charges of sexual assault.
 Hart remains in Howard County jail serving six months on a revocation of probation for driving while intoxicated. Bond has been set at $150,000 on the sexual assault charges.
 Howard County Sheriff's Department officers report investigating the following incidents as of 8 a.m. today:
 • Armenia Chavera, 27, Sandra Gale Apartments, was arrested on a warrant for issuance bad check and released on $200 bond.

• Rodney Weir Carr, 35, Sterling City Route Box 191 was arrested by Texas Highway Patrol officers. Carr was released on $1,000 bond on charges of driving while intoxicated, first offense.
 • Michael Wayne Wallace, 29, 2531 Langley St., was released to the Texas Department of Corrections transport bus. Wallace pleaded guilty to charges of theft and was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary with credit for 59 days served.
 • A man reported a burglary at his residence on HC 76. Stolen items, including two color televisions, a camera, jewelry and stereo equipment, were valued in excess of $5,000.

Crimestoppers presents awards

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Big Spring Crimestoppers presented awards to two confidential informants Wednesday.
 A $1,000 reward was given the confidential informant who provided information leading to the Saturday capture of Antonio Aguilar, who had escaped from the Howard County jail July 21.

A $250 reward to another confidential informant was presented for information which led to the recovery of items taken in a residential burglary in the county.
 Two indictments were issued and one person has already been sentenced in connection with that information. Crimestoppers spokesman LeRoy Tilley said.

nado, up in the air, and it just caught the top of the derrick and pulled it over," he said. "Usually a pulling unit will blow over before a drilling rig, and there were several other pulling units around us out there."
 "They were all still standing when it quit raining."
 Parks said damages could not be estimated until an insurance representative had seen the rig. "It'll probably be three or four days before they find out how much damage it did."
 Construction company owner Jack Cathey, who was at the site today to determine what kind of equipment is needed to right the derrick and clear the location, said he had seen numerous fallen rigs, particularly in times when drilling activity is plentiful.
 "It doesn't happen very often," he said, recalling that his company last was called to right a fallen rig near Gail about one year ago.
 Parks said the cleanup should be finished today; Riley Drilling owns three rigs, he said, and his plans were to clear the location and bring in another drilling rig to complete the well.

 "I'm going to get it picked up and out of here today if I can," he said, "and then we'll move another rig in here."
 Cathey said that because the 96-foot derrick lying across the reserve pit at the site today is a double, rather than a standard 136-foot rig, it can be moved with the three Riley Drilling trucks on the site and one crane.
 "We'll bring a crane in here today (from Big Spring)," he said. "It'll take about four hours to set it back up and move it out."
 The trailer-mounted double rig had moved approximately two feet from its original position before falling, John Edwards said. "They were out here looking at it yesterday and said it had moved over about two feet from where it was set."
 "They had all these drill collars up in the rig, and when the wind hit that, it took it out of balance," Edwards said. "Then another gust of wind hit it and it went on over."
 Parks said the drilling rigs were not anchored.

go back to work," said actress Betty White of NBC's "The Golden Girls."
 CBS could begin broadcasting new shows the third week of October, Kim LeMasters, president of CBS Entertainment, said shortly before announcement of the settlement. Returning shows and half-hour comedies were most likely to hit the air first, followed by new, hourlong dramas, he said.
 ABC Entertainment President Brandon Stoddard said a contract would leave his network "able to premiere most of our fall schedule either before, after or combined with (the miniseries) 'War and Remembrance' in November."
 Stoddard said premiere dates would be announced soon. ABC already said it would delay its premieres until after NBC's combined fall schedule of the Summer Olympics and World Series had ended, but left in question when the new season would actually start.
 Many people dependent on business from the film and television industry felt the strike's impact.
 Newt Bellis, president of Unitel, a major post-production operation on the lot of Paramount studios called his losses "dramatic."

 "We dropped to a third of what we projected for May, June and July," he said.
 "I hope it's not too little, too late. I hope that we can swing into action soon enough to retain some of the (television) season."
 Unitel, which handles editing and sound dubbing for such shows as "Family Ties," also has offices in New York and Pittsburgh.
 Bellis said television commercial work at the Eastern offices kept the Hollywood plant afloat during the strike, but he still had to dismiss a few workers.
 During frequent and lengthy bargaining sessions at the producers alliance headquarters, both sides snacked on trays from Art's Deli in Studio City, a major schmooze-and-deal eatery.
 But even that high-ticket account of hungry negotiators failed to make up owner Art Ginsburg's losses as regular customers tightened belts.
 "We had to let three employees go, and now we will be able to pull them back," said an ecstatic Ginsburg on Wednesday.

 Ginsburg said business was down 20 percent, and orders were down by 100 dozen bagels, 100 pounds of cream cheese and 150 dozen eggs.
 At the William Morris Agency, one of the industry's oldest and largest talent houses, agents were told to hold down costs during the strike, said Roger Davis, executive vice president and a member of the board of directors.
 "We tried to cut expenses on a voluntary plan," he said. "There were less luncheons, less general entertainment, cheaper wine, whatever."
 The agency managed to avoid lay-offs and kept active with deals on concerts, books and personal appearances, which do not depend on guild-written scripts, said Davis.
 "But the tendency of big buyers to get motion picture rights to the more expensive books fell off, because people were not willing to expend large amounts of money without knowing how long this would go on," said Davis of the strike.

Underwood firmly believes the Democrats will carry Texas in the November election.
 "I wouldn't be surprised to see Texas go Democratic by a big margin," he said.
 He said Bensten is "respected by both Republicans and Democrats alike" in Texas.
 As for George Bush's status as a Texan, Underwood said the vice president "is certainly not a Texan in the true sense of the word. His only residence is a hotel in Houston, and from what I understand someone else just rented that out."

 "The only people who are going to buy (Bush as a Texan) are the oil people in Midland and dyed-in-the-wool Republicans," he added.
 In recent elections, local and statewide Democrats have fared well in Howard County, he said. But in the past two presidential elections, Reagan carried Howard County, he said.
 Underwood thinks the Howard County presidential vote will be close, but he thinks the Democratic ticket of Michael Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen will come out on top.

 "I think (Howard County) will go Democrat because this is the year of the Democrats," he said.
 "I think Lloyd Bentsen will have an effect. He'll pull a lot of conservative Democrats, those who have voted for Ronald Reagan the past two elections, back into the party."

Opinion

Views of other Texas papers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from across the state:
Expand, don't cut TV coverage

Some network television executives appear to believe that the only events worthy of broadcasting to the American public are those that have been orchestrated to produce sufficient drama and conflict to enhance their ratings.

They have complained that the Democratic convention in Atlanta was boring and indicated that they will consider cutting back on prime-time coverage of the conventions in 1992.

One network executive has even said that his network may devote more time to the Republican convention than it did to the Democratic gathering.

Such changing of the rules in the middle of the game would be patently unfair, and it would probably backfire on that network in the ratings.

But even the talk of reduced coverage four years hence smacks of cowardly and hypocrisy. When the network executives complain about the conventions being staged entertainment events, their real complaint is that the conventions are not staged well enough for television's purposes.

That amounts to an unconscionable attempt to superimpose entertainment and market values on occasions where public service and educational considerations should take precedence.

The networks have responsibilities to the public that transcend ratings. Indeed, they should be considering expanding prime time coverage of the conventions instead of shrinking it.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram

Speed integration of Rangers

That the Department of Public Safety has — after 165 years — finally appointed a black to the Texas Rangers unit is laudable. That the agency took so long, and that there are still so few minorities in the ranks of the Texas Rangers, is shameful. The situation should be rectified immediately.

The Rangers are the stuff of Texas mystique — always considered the best, the toughest of the toughest. That's quite admirable, but with nearly an all-white force, the Rangers will never penetrate into the depths of the Texas crime problem.

The officers' ranks must be fully integrated with qualified minorities. Of the 94 positions in the Texas Rangers, only five are filled by Hispanics — and now there is one black.

There is absolutely no reason that this highly prized Texas agency should not take steps to accelerate integration. As always, the results will only be good.

Dallas Times Herald

How many elections are needed?

Galveston will soon be voting in a non-binding referendum on the issue of casino gambling. Again. The third such vote in four years.

It's not our intention to instruct another city on its affairs — even one as close and as entwined as Galveston is to Houston. We neither endorse nor oppose the creation of a casino gambling district in the Aug. 11 election.

But, to be frank, this upcoming vote does seem to be belaboring the point. If casino gambling does get voted down once again, it's time to give the matter a long rest.

The Houston Post

Black unit merits record review

U.S. Army officials are doing the right thing in ordering a review of the official history of a black military unit involved in the Korean War. The goal of this review should not be to cover up the unit's alleged shortcomings but to make sure that the official history is based on facts, not racism.

The official history depicts the 24th Infantry Regiment in unflattering terms and sharply criticizes it for alleged cowardice and panic during the early days of the war.

But some blacks are saying the 24th was unfairly singled out for reprimand when hordes of North Korean troops poured over the 38th parallel and drove all American troops south.

Moreover, the 24th won what was called by a correspondent as "the first sizable American ground victory in the Korean War" — the capture of the village of Yechon.

Desegregation was just starting to transform this country during the 1950s, and the Army was one of the first large American institutions that dropped the artificial barriers between the races.

Because of these dramatic and unprecedented changes, racial tensions took on an entirely different character in the Army during the Korean War. If the Army's official history of the 24th was affected by the prejudice of that era, that injustice should be corrected.

Port Arthur News

Demos give Reagan hard choice

When Congress sent the so-called plant-closing bill to the White House, it cynically presented President Reagan with a Hobson's choice.

The pernicious but politically popular bill would require companies to provide 90 days' notice for factory closings or large-scale layoffs. It was originally included in the trade legislation vetoed earlier this year by the President.

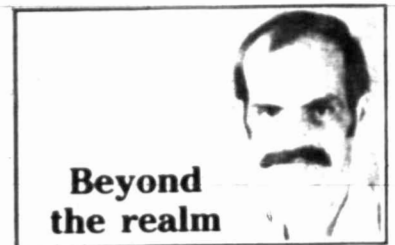

A veto of the separate plant-closing notification bill will be much more difficult, if not impossible, for the President and his congressional allies to sustain.

Even if the President can turn around enough Republican votes to sustain a veto, he risks giving Democrats a potent issue to use against Vice President Bush during the fall election campaign.

The president's two remaining choices are hardly options at all. He can sign a poorly drafted bill that he believes would place many American manufacturers in a straitjacket, or he can let it become law without his signature.

As a matter of common decency, businesses should let workers know in advance when they are about to lose their jobs. . . . But (Reagan and Bush) . . . believe such procedures should be in labor-management agreements, not in a statute designed to score political points.

Another fine man falls flat

"A man in love is incomplete until he has married. Then he's finished." — Zsa Zsa Gabor.

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

Oh well, another one bites the dust.

Hugh Hefner of Playboy fame — and one of the most consummate bachelors in the world — recently announced his engagement to model Kimberly Conrad, or Miss January to you Playboy fans out there.

Needless to say, I'm shocked and full of chagrin.

Hugh Hefner married? What's next, peace in the Middle East? A liberal president? Sunrises in the west? An honest election in Mexico?

Makes one shudder at the thought.

Don't get me wrong: I think marriage is a great thing. After all, some of my best friends are married — some as many as two or three times.

But this isn't just anybody who's about to walk the plank — er, I mean aisle. This is Hefner, for Pete's sake.

For years, Hef was a shining example to us more-or-less happy bachelors. The dollar could rise or fall, rivers could run dry or the cow could jump over the moon, but we single types could take refuge in the fact that Hef was manning the point for us.

Say it ain't so, Hef.

I've seen her, Hugh. Admittedly, she's gorgeous, and I'm sure she's witty and charming and all that other stuff men supposedly look for in a mate. And I have no doubt that you love her deeply.

But is that any reason for such drastic action?

I mean, we're not talking about two weeks of fun in the sun at Acapulco, we're talking about marriage — the dreaded M word.

Think about it, old boy.

Think about the changes your life is about to undergo. For the rest of your existence, you will wake up to the same face every single day.

And what about all those beautiful Playmates? Have you thought about them, Hef? They'll be off-limits to you, old sot. Verboten, uh-uh, no way. Touch just one of them, and you're liable to get a frying pan smashed against your skull.

Needless to say, the rest of your lifestyle will experience a drastic change, also. Domesticity will begin creeping its ugly way into your existence.

Why, the next thing you know, you'll start addressing her as "dear" or "honey." Don't laugh; it's true. If you're not careful, you might even begin helping her with the dishes.

You might not think this will happen to you, but I've seen it all before. Some of my best friends — hardcore bachelors all — got married and each eventually traded their black books for ironing boards.

I know it must sound presumptuous for a young whipper-snapper like me to be giving marital advice to a man rapidly approaching retirement age, but I am deeply concerned about the precedents that could be set here.

Once you take the plunge, what's to stop the rest of us from committing wholesale bachelordicide? Can you imagine what would happen if the vast majority of single people suddenly decided to get married?

The great plagues of the 1600s would pale in comparison.

So please, Hef, put on the brakes — if not for yourself, then for the rest of us. The world's a scary enough place without worrying about whatever it is that causes husbands so much grief.

I'm not saying you should quit loving the lady, Hef. You can love her until she can't stand it anymore.

But, as Cleveland Amory once said, never confuse I love you with I want to marry you.

There's a biiiiiiii difference.

Complaints keep coming on Audi safety problems

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — The 1980s brought a new wave of automobile horror stories — cars with minds of their own that trigger sudden, unwanted accelerations.

The Reagan administration has apparently sided with the car makers who claim their cars only lurch into trees, people or other vehicles if the driver confuses the gas pedal with the brake.

This mistaken-pedal syndrome has run so rampant among Audi 5000 drivers that some parking garages in New York posted signs: "No Audis." The New Jersey Department of Motor Vehicles only recently rescinded a rule that no driver tests could be taken in Audi 5000s.

Despite three recalls to tinker with Audi 5000s, the complaints continue to pile high. More than 1,800 complaints of runaway Audis have been linked to at least 400 injuries and five deaths. All involve models with automatic transmissions.

Rep. George Hochbrueckner,

D-N.Y., can't swallow the explanation of driver error. He asked the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to probe deeper. Hochbrueckner, a former aerospace engineer, thinks NHTSA is reluctant to challenge the claim of the West German auto maker that the problem sits behind the wheel, not under the hood.

Audi recalled the 5000 model in 1986 and installed a shift-lock mechanism, which forces the driver to step on the brake before shifting into gear. Most of the incidents occurred when the driver shifted into gear. Now, a spokesman for Audi of America says, "There is nothing left to investigate."

Hochbrueckner is not so sure. In March, he pressed NHTSA to force Audi to make public the complaints, including 400 from owners of Audis with the shift-lock protection. Our associate Jim Lynch reviewed some of those documents. Last June, Anita Gallison backed her Audi 5000 out of her carport in Humphrey, Mich., and the car lunged in reverse. It sideswiped one tree and bashed into another before coming to a stop.

Audi talked to Gallison, inspected her car and filed this report: "We must conclude the driver was startled by the scraping of her vehicle's mirror against the house and inadvertently applied pressure to the accelerator pedal."

This is the way Gallison described it to us: "It was like I was shot out of a cannon. I heard a sound like the engine was shifting gears and then it took off. I had both feet on the brake. I couldn't make the car go that fast."

Gallison claims her Audi 5000 hit 40 miles per hour before the trees got in the way. Her car was totaled. Hochbrueckner is so unhappy with NHTSA's work that he has launched his own study of Audi's problem. He argues that the premise of driver error doesn't make sense because there are more sudden-acceleration complaints about Audi 5000s than there have been about any other car in NHTSA's 28-year history.

The NHTSA "should take its blinders off," Hochbrueckner says. He suspects a high-tech electronics malfunction, possibly computer failure in the Audi's cruise control.

An NHTSA spokesman said the agency has already examined the possible role of electronics and continues to study the Audi 5000. The agency also has investigated sudden-acceleration complaints in nine other car models besides the troubled Audis.

Hochbrueckner's investigation is supported by the Center for Auto Safety, a consumer group that accused the Reagan administration of being soft on auto safety.

Meanwhile, with more than 100 court cases pending against Audi, the company has proposed a settlement that would give 390,000 current Audi owners up to a $2,000 rebate on the purchase of a new Audi.

At least one of the seven plaintiffs named in the class action suit representing the 390,000 owners is outraged at the settlement offer. He told us, "It's an insult. The last thing I want to do is buy another car from Audi. I'd rather get $1 in a settlement than credit toward another Audi."

RATES NEED UPDATING — Millions of acres of federal forest land are leased by private operators for recreational facilities ranging from ski resorts to marinas. The operators pay fees to the Forest Service, but those fees are based on a system that hasn't been updated for 20 years.

The General Accounting Office reported that the rates have not been changed to reflect the changing economy, and that means the federal government is losing money. Many of the people with permits to operate on federal land pay far less than they would to rent private land.

The GAO found that resort concessionaires paid about $7 million in fees to the Forest Service last year, while their combined earnings on their operations were more than $360 million. The GAO found other flaws in the fee system, adding up to $20 million.

MINI-EDITORIAL — Add to the list of glasnost good news the warming of relations between Moscow and the Vatican.

Vatican Secretary of State Agostino Casaroli recently visited Moscow and delivered a message from Pope John Paul II to Mikhail Gorbachev.

. . . And one party for all

By ART BUCHWALD

ATLANTA — When the Founding Fathers met in Philadelphia to form a more perfect union, they didn't know how to do it.

"We have to select a king or an emperor or somebody like that to head up the country," a delegate from Delaware said.

"No," said the speaker from New Jersey, "we should have a president who will answer for the people and can only be in office for four years at a time. He must be a person who worries about the homeless and the poor and a balanced budget."

"He has to be a friend of business, but most of all he has to be concerned about the coloring of black and white motion pictures."

"That's all well and good," the delegate from Rhode Island said, "but how do we select this president or whatever you are going to call him?"

The delegate from New York said, "I suggest we hold political conventions where the candidates can be anointed by their respective political parties. For example, the Democrats could hold one in Atlanta, Ga., and the Republicans could hold one in New Orleans, La."

"Point of order," the delegate from South Carolina yelled. "Louisiana will not be part of the United States for many years."

Art Buchwald

"Well then, that's the Republicans' problem," the delegate from New York said.

The Georgia delegate rose to his feet. "Can we serve peach daiquiris on the floor of the convention?"

"Of course you can," the Pennsylvania delegate said. "How can you have a political convention without peach daiquiris?"

The Georgia delegate said, "I promise you Atlanta will provide one cocktail party for each delegate that comes to the convention. And we'll even throw in valet parking for Jesse Jackson."

"If we select the leader of the country this way, will there be a lot of hospitality suites where lobbyists can entertain their elected representatives?" the delegate from Virginia asked.

"We have already put that in the Constitution," the Maryland delegate said. "You can't have an honest, dignified convention without free liquor and lots of fats cats."

"Will the band at the convention be permitted to play 'Dixie'?" the man from Georgia wanted to know.

"It will be permitted to play it 212 times," the man from Maryland replied.

"Gentlemen," the man from Georgia said, "I am authorized by my state to accept the idea of a presidential convention as a method of selecting the leader of our nation and we promised to throw in 307 more dinner parties than we originally agreed on."

"What about the Republican convention?" the delegate from New Jersey wanted to know.

The delegate from New York replied, "I suggest we buy Louisiana right now so it will be legal for the Republicans to hold their convention there."

To save the Union it was so voted.

Then the delegate from Massachusetts said, "It is agreed that forever more this is the way we will select our presidents."

The delegate from Connecticut said, "We now have the presidential selection process in great shape. All we have to do is get approval from the three TV networks."

Hastings vows to stay on bench

MIAMI (AP) — Judge Alcee L. Hastings, impeached despite his acquittal on bribery charges, vowed to remain on the federal bench, and said his U.S. Senate impeachment trial will show "who framed Roger Rabbit."

"I'll be here tomorrow just like I was here today," Hastings said, jumping up to touch his name on the outside of the federal courthouse, after the U.S. House voted 413-3 for impeachment Wednesday.

In an impromptu news conference on the courthouse steps, the 51-year-old judge called the 17 articles of impeachment approved by the House "bald-faced lies."

The vote marked the first time the House has impeached a federal official acquitted of similar charges in a criminal trial and the first time a black official has been a defendant in impeachment proceedings.

Demos propose Contra aid plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are proposing a new aid package for Nicaragua's Contra rebels that defers a decision on whether to resume the flow of U.S. weapons, giving their party its first show of unity on the issue in seven years.

But the step taken Wednesday gets only halfway to the goal Majority Leader Robert Byrd is seeking: a bipartisan accord that will tell Central America that the United States favors a peaceful solution, and at the same time blunt the issue's political impact throughout the fall election season.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., rejected the Democratic package but said he was willing to negotiate with Byrd to reach a compromise that is closer to a $47 million aid bill Dole has proposed.

Judge blocks Eastern cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Airlines executives say they may appeal a federal judge's order temporarily blocking the carrier from slashing its operations and laying off 4,000 workers.

In a ruling that put into disarray the company's plans to prune its operations Aug. 31, U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker agreed Wednesday to a request by Eastern's unions to block the cutbacks temporarily.

He tentatively scheduled a hearing for today at which the duration of the court's red light will be discussed. On Wednesday, he issued a temporary restraining order, which usually lasts no more than 10 days.

On July 22, the financially reeling airline announced plans to lay off 12 percent of its 32,200 workers and eliminate 140 of its 1,225 daily flights.

Study notes new AIDS factors

BOSTON (AP) — Fewer circumcisions and more venereal disease may help explain why AIDS has spread widely through heterosexual intercourse in parts of Africa but not in the United States, a report published today concludes.

The study, conducted in Kenya, found that men with genital sores are seven times more likely than usual to catch the AIDS virus. Being uncircumcised nearly triples the risk.

The researchers say their work suggests that the high prevalence of venereal diseases that cause genital sores, with more prostitution and fewer circumcisions, help explain why AIDS has been spread through sex between men and women in parts of central Africa.

House OK given to aid extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House on Wednesday overwhelmingly approved legislation to extend federal aid for the homeless for two years.

The bill, passed 333-80, authorizes $642.5 million for the 1989 fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, and "such sums as may be necessary" for fiscal 1990.

KENNEDY SPACE CENTER, Fla. — The space shuttle Discovery sits on its launch pad this morning.

Shuttle suffers another setback

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — America's space program suffered another setback today when a computer reported a valve problem and aborted the test-firing of space shuttle Discovery's engines a fraction of a second before ignition.

There was no word on how long it would take to ready Discovery again for the test, but launch center commentator Hugh Harris said "tentatively we're going for a 48-hour recycle." That would mean an attempt Saturday.

It was the fifth postponement of the test in two weeks. The test is considered crucial for qualifying Discovery for the first shuttle flight since the Challenger explosion 2 1/2 years ago.

"It's another problem," said NASA administrator James Fletcher. "It's a good thing it happened on an FRF and not on a launch." FRF stands for Flight Readiness Firing, the official name of today's test.

The engines were to have begun firing six seconds before the zero mark in an otherwise perfect countdown. The shutdown came "just after the 'go' for main engine start was issued" but before ignition actually began, Harris said. The shuttle's master computer system had taken control of the countdown 31 seconds before ignition. When it detected a problem in the computer that controls the engine firing sequence, it automatically sent a shutdown signal, NASA said.

"We had just got up to the point of main engine start," Harris said.

Harris said the computer "did not see that the engine bleed valve had fully closed." He said engineers were trying to determine if there was a faulty valve or if the sensor had given an incorrect reading.

The bleed valve vents off excess gases.

Harris said that immediately after the shutdown, the launch team remotely began to make the vehicle safe as it sat on the pad, its tank loaded with 385,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen and 143,000 gallons of liquid oxygen.

He said the propellants would be drained from the fuel tank, and the igniters in each engine would have to be replaced before another attempt.

Program managers have been grooming Discovery for the first shuttle flight since the loss of Challenger and its crew of seven in an explosion 73 seconds after liftoff on Jan. 28, 1986.

The mission is scheduled for late September, but even before today many officials believed the launch would slip into October because of earlier delays in the engine test and an unresolved gas leak in a steering engine system that is separate from the main engines.

Iran cracks down on Tehran vice

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Flesh peddling and drug pushing have made a comeback in Tehran, prompting the nation's Islamic fundamentalist leaders to arrest thousands of people and wall off a suddenly resurgent red-light district, news reports say.

Authorities arrested more than 3,000 prostitutes, drug addicts and pushers — some of whom will be executed — during a recent sweep in the capital, the reports say.

The daily Kayhan quoted Interior Minister Ali Akbar Mohtashemi as saying Tehran's red-light district of Jamshid has been cut off from the rest of the city by a high wall, pending the demolition of all its buildings.

The paper said the crackdown followed a confidential report to the government by Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency.

The report warned that the rampant corruption in Jamshid "poses a threat to the morality of the city as a whole."

"Notorious women entertain undisciplined customers while the extent of drug abuse and peddling is so pervasive that passersby can see hundreds of addicts roaming in the quarter," the newspaper quoted the report as saying.

Mohtashemi was quoted as saying "all the wrongdoers in the neighborhood were arrested in a sudden raid. They included 1,300 women, a larger number of men, and 700 children and adolescents."

Some of those rounded up "included some people with vices and criminal records who will certainly be executed," Mohtashemi added.

The reports in Kayhan and another newspaper, Jomhuri Islami, excerpted and translated into English, reached Cyprus by mail several weeks after publication in Iran.

The newspapers said Morteza Eshraqi, the Islamic Revolution's prosecutor for the Tehran district, told a news conference that a bill before the Majlis, or parliament, includes harsher punishment for drug-related offenses.

The death penalty will be mandatory for people found guilty of possessing one ounce of heroin or 11 pounds of opium, Eshraqi said.

"The more we clean up our quarters like Jamshid and Shush (another red-light district in south Tehran) the more we contribute to cracking down on drug pushing," he said.

Eshraqi was also quoted as saying many of those arrested have been sent to rehabilitation centers.

Athlete seeks Canadian asylum

TORONTO (AP) — A Romanian teen-ager among six foreign athletes who refused to go home after the World Junior Track and Field Championships last week turned herself in to police Wednesday and requested political asylum.

The 18-year-old woman, who disappeared for three days, is staying in Sudbury, Ontario, where the track meet was held. Her name was not released. Immigration officials confirmed that the woman requested political asylum.

Four other competitors from Poland and one from Ghana told immigration officials they wanted to stay in Canada, and refugee hearings have been scheduled for them next week. They are staying with local families.

The Polish team coach reported his athletes missing early Monday morning and contacted Canadian officials, said Denis Boulanger, manager of the Canadian Immigration Centre in Sudbury.

The Ghanaian athlete "walked up to an official" at the games and said he wanted to defect because he feared returning home, Boulanger said.

The athletes, all under 19, have no relatives in Canada, Boulanger said.

"Of course, their coaches wanted them to go back," he said. "There was resistance. I understand, but nothing physical."

A spokesman at the Polish Embassy in Ottawa said Wednesday, "This is a human problem, not a political problem."

The athletes defected at the Athletes' Village at Laurentian University where police had been instructed to prevent any attempt to force the youths to go back to their homelands, Boulanger said.

"These are kids. They're not criminal types. So if someone is willing to take care of them, then fine," he said.

The five-day track and field competition included 1,200 athletes from 122 countries.

Woman shares stop smoking letter

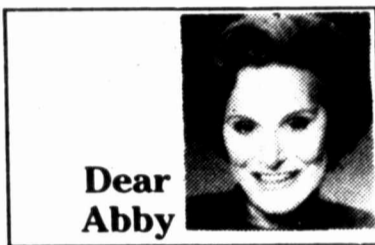

DEAR ABBY: As an 18-year-old teenager, I would like to say something to all the kids in America, like myself, who smoke. When I first got into this rotten habit, I had no idea how uncontrollable the urge to smoke would get — and everyone out there who is a smoker knows exactly what I mean.

The main reason I am speaking out on this subject is because of a note my mother, who is a heavy smoker, left in my room when she discovered that I smoked. She didn't yell or lecture me. She just left a short note for me to think about.

Thanks to her, I realized that endangering your life is not only stupid, it is avoidable, and if there are other moms out there who cared as much as mine did, many teens would learn a valuable lesson. Here's mom's letter.

"Dear Sue: As a person who is addicted to cigarettes, I would like to stop, but I am powerless to do so. Please, stop smoking before it's too late!"

Your Dad will bury me,

Dear Abby

because smoking does shorten one's life.

"Did you ever take a good look at my face? I look much older than I should at my age, and I can thank cigarettes for this. I am not writing this as your mother, but as a cigarette smoker who knows that the habit starts with one cigarette at a time, then you get hooked and can't do anything about it. Love, Mom."

Abby, please print my mom's letter. Maybe someone else will realize that life is too precious to throw away, and quit smoking.

SUE DUFFY, PHILADELPHIA

DEAR SUE: Thank you for wanting to share your mom's letter. I'm sure many moms and their smoking teenaged children will see themselves.

Sue, please tell your mother it's not too late — and there is something she can do about her smoking if she really wants to. The American Lung Association has an excellent stop-smoking program. Thomas Gill, a Kansas City, Mo., attorney who says he owes his life to this program, told me that a helpful thought to him was (and is) that "the urge to smoke will pass whether I smoke or not."

Interested readers: Check the white pages of your local telephone directory, or write to: American Lung Association, 1740 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019, for information about the group in your area. And please include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Abby's favorite recipes are going like hotcakes. For your copy, send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada), to: Abby's Cookbook, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage and handling are included.

Evans family hosts reunion

The Evans family reunion was conducted July 2-4 at the Old Settlers Pavillion at Comanche Trail Park, with 105 family and friends attending.

The family reunion was first held in Anson two decades ago. This year's reunion, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Evans, was attended by relatives from California, Colorado and Texas.

There were four generations in attendance, including Mrs. Jasper Evans, son Thomas Evans, granddaughter Mrs. Roy Colvin and great grandson Roy Colvin Jr.

Family members traveling the farthest were Charles Evans, Denver, Colo., and Zelma Collins, Indio, Calif.

The reunion began with a family barbecue at the Old Settlers Pavillion. Entertainment was provided by a group of young lady dancers known as "Hot Stuff." They performed four routines to music by Janet Jackson. The group members range from ages 4-12 years old.

After the barbecue Saturday, there was a dance at the VFW Saturday night. Music was furnished by Danny Sherman.

On Sunday afternoon the reunion ended with a dinner, games and fireworks.

VA Medical Center gets award

The Big Spring VA Medical Center announced today that it has been selected to receive the prestigious annual Federal Energy Efficiency Award for its efforts during 1987. The award, sponsored by the Department of Energy, is presented to those federal organizations that have realized a significant reduction in energy consumption during the past year. Awards were distributed among various federal agencies with the local medical center capturing one of the three awarded to the 172 Veterans Administration facilities nationwide.

Conrad Alexander, Medical Center Director, attributed this success principally to the efforts of Joseph G. Prayer, Jr., Chief, Engineering Service, and his staff. During the past four years, Engineering Service, with the cooperation of all medical center employees, has been able to reduce the overall energy consumption by a substantial 30 percent. Payer stated that items such as aggressive maintenance techniques and incorporation of energy efficient items into project design have enabled the facility to achieve these results.

Crooker named to committee

County Commissioner William B. Crooker Jr. has been named to the Permian Basin Community Development Review Committee by Texas Governor Bill Clements.

A letter from Clements says Crooker, a 19-year veteran of the county commissioners' court, will serve through January 1, 1990.

The committee "plays a significant role in the distribution of funds received by the State of Texas through the federal Community Development Block Grant Program," Clements' letter said.

"I'm very honored by the appointment," Crooker said Thursday. He described the committee's purpose as scoring, by reading and evaluating, applications for community development grant funding for local projects.

1988 becoming the year of Barbara Hershey

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — After winning two consecutive best-actress awards from the Cannes Film Festival, Barbara Hershey seems ready for what her supporters believe is an overdue nod from the Motion Picture Academy.

It could have happened last year as the by you mother in "Shy People," for which she won her first Cannes prize. But as she herself admits, nobody saw the picture.

This year Hershey was co-winner for her portrayal as the anti-apartheid activist in "A World Apart." That could be her run for an Academy Award. Or maybe, if the Academy voters dare, as Mary Magdalene in "The Last Temptation of Christ." Or maybe for a comedy role in "Beaches," which she is now filming with Bette Midler.

In any case, 1988 appears to be the year of Barbara Hershey.

She has been in films since her debut in 1968 with Doris Day in "With Six You Get Eggroll."

Hollywood refused to take her seriously after she became Barbara Seagull during a free-form liaison with David Carradine, which resulted in a son, named Free. Still, she had a series of impressive performances in "Last Summer," "The Baby Maker," "Box Car Bertha" and "The Stunt Man."

Producers began to take notice with "The Right Stuff" and "The Natural." But her real turning point was Woody Allen's "Hannah and Her Sisters."

"That put me on those terrible lists," she remarked, referring to the film world's elite of "bankable" stars. "All of a sudden I was OK to hire."

Typical of Hershey, she continues accepting non-mainstream films and devoting excessive time to research them. For "Shy People," she traveled to the backwater bayous of Louisiana and studied the Cajun speech and lifestyle. For "A World Apart," she interviewed relatives and

After winning two consecutive best-actress awards from the Cannes Film Festival, Barbara Hershey, who appears as the anti-apartheid activist Diana Roth in this scene from "A World

Friends of Ruth First, her character in the film.

First, a journalist and political activist, was imprisoned in 1963 under South Africa's 90-day Detention Act, the first white woman to be so punished. The script was written by Shawn Slovo, who is portrayed in the film as a 13-year-old girl. First remained an activist in exile, and in 1982 was killed by a letter bomb.

"She was a great woman, but she wasn't an easy woman to those around her," said the actress at the Santa Monica canyon home she shares with her son, now called Tom. "The fascinating thing I found in all my interviews was that each person had different views of her. That confounded me but ultimately liberated me."

"I realized sadly that I couldn't please them all. I decided to take what I thought would say the most. She was a complicated person, and my admiration for her grew and grew."

"One of the things I loved about her was that she loved to dress. Even in prison she wanted lipstick over food. It was very important for her to look elegant and have her hair done, contrary to our usual views of activists. She loved to wear dark glasses. Even working at her typewriter late at night, she wore dark glasses."

Like Richard Attenborough's "Cry Freedom," "A World Apart" was filmed in Zimbabwe. Conditions were primitive, but Hershey didn't complain. "That fused with what we were doing. I kind of welcomed the adverse conditions."

The actress is well aware of the growing furor over "The Last Temptation of Christ," which has been attacked by religious fundamentalists as being potentially sacrilegious and blasphemous.

"I guess it was the greatest experience of my life so far," Hershey said. "The film meant so much to me and so much to Marty Scorsese. Like things that mean so much, it's a little sad to talk about. I haven't seen it. But my feelings about it are that it must be great, simply great."

"I read the book by (Nikos) Kazantzakis when I was 20, and it became my favorite book. I was moved, as I never had been before, by the Christ story. I finally got it."

Movies

The following movies will be showing this weekend at local theaters:

"Caddyshack II," rated R, and "Short Circuit 2," rated PG, will be showing at The Cinema in College Park.

• "Caddyshack II," features Jackie Mason who plays a self-made millionaire attempting to join the world's most stuck-up country club. Dan Aykroyd and Chevy Chase make special appearances.

• "Short Circuit 2" features Number 5, a high-tech robot that comes to life after being struck by lightning in "Short Circuit." In this movie, Number 5 goes to the big city to rejoin his old friend Ben (Fisher Stevens) who is trying to strike it rich in the toy robot business.

• "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," rated PG, "Cocktail," rated R,

"Coming to America," rated R, "Monkey Shines," rated R, and "License to Drive," rated PG, will be playing at Movies 4.

• "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," a spoof of a 1940s-style mystery, combines live action with animation to tell the story of a cartoon actor named Roger Rabbit who hires a hard-boiled detective (Bob Hoskins) when he is framed for the murder of his cartoon producer.

• "Cocktail" tells the story of Brian Flanagan (Tom Cruise) who becomes New York's hottest bartender. He falls for a woman who jilts to recover his cash.

• "Coming to America" features Eddie Murphy as an African prince who comes to America to escape his prearranged marriage after inheriting a fortune.

• "License to Drive" tells the story of two West Coast teen-agers who are obsessed with getting their drivers licenses.

• "Monkey Shines" is a thriller about a paralyzed law student who is given a specially trained monkey to assist him. After taking an experimental drug, the man and monkey begin sharing telepathic thoughts.

"Big Top Pee Wee," rated PG, and "Dead Pool," rated R, will be showing this weekend at the Ritz.

Baseline battle Gilbert outlasts Brown in hardcourt match

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — No. 3 Brad Gilbert outlasted Jimmy Brown 7-6 (7-5), 6-4 in a battle of baseliners in Wednesday's second round at the $415,000 U.S. Hardcourts tennis tournament.

Gilbert, ranked 12th in the world, evened the match at 3-3 with a crucial service break in the second set. Gilbert then built a 40-0 advantage and went up 4-3 with an ace.

Brown, 23, led 40-30 with a chance to even the set at 4-4, but Gilbert got to deuce with a drop shot out of Brown's reach. The game went to deuce seven times before Gilbert broke for a 5-3 lead.

Brown, ranked 164th in the world, continued to press his older, more experienced opponent when he closed to 4-5.

He passed Gilbert at the net to tie the 10th game at deuce, but Gilbert won the match two points later when Brown's forehand sailed past the baseline.

Gilbert fell behind 5-3 in the first set before holding his own serve and then breaking Brown to tie the set at five games each.

Gilbert won the opening five points of the first-set tiebreaker before committing a rash of unforced errors that allowed Brown within 6-5. But he served an ace to take the set.

Tony D has rough opener

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Tony Dorsett's debut with the Denver Broncos was hardly a smash, but he knows there'll be other chances.

"I felt rusty, not in a groove," Dorsett said Wednesday night after he rushed for 27 yards on 10 carries in the Broncos' exhibition season-opening 40-31 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

"My timing is off a little bit, but what do you expect?" said the 34-year-old running back, acquired by Denver from the Dallas Cowboys during the offseason.

"I've always prided myself on doing the best I can. I'm going to push Sammy (Winder) and everybody else to the hilt (for a starting job)."

Dorsett, who ranks fourth on the all-time NFL career rushing list, also caught two passes for six yards in his Broncos' debut.

"I thought Tony showed some explosiveness," Denver coach Dan Reeves said. "He's got a long way to go, but as long as he keeps working, he'll be ready."

"Sometimes he needs to cut inside instead of going outside."

Dorsett admitted that, on a couple of plays, he probably could have gotten more yardage if he had cut back.

"But that's me," he said of his tendency to go wide. "I've been running that way for 12 years."

"I know I need more work in practice, but I'm feeling pretty much at home."

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Denver Broncos linebacker Steve Bryan (95) pounces on the ball after Randy Thornton (94, right) sacked Los Angeles Rams quarterback Steve Dils (not shown) in the fourth quarter of Wednesday's exhibition game. Ram Simon Fletcher (center) tries to recover the ball.

"This game was nothing to be overly satisfied with, like most preseason games," Dorsett added.

"I'd rate myself about a 'C,'" Dorsett said. "It was not so different (playing for the Broncos) in this game. I guess it will really hit me when we play in Denver."

On his first carry for his new team, Dorsett lost 1 yard. Later, though, he showed he can still turn on the speed, sliding outside for an 11-yard pickup.

"I'm not making any predictions," Dorsett said. "But I don't feel weird being with a new team; I feel good."

White, Walker to sit out contest

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Running back Herschel Walker will be held out of Saturday night's preseason opener against the San Diego Chargers to save him from unnecessary pounding and give more work to reserve tailbacks Darryl Clark and Mark Higgs.

Coach Tom Landry said at his weekly press conference Wednesday that quarterback Danny White also will sit out the game, whose kickoff is set for 6 p.m. PDT at Jack Murphy Stadium in San Diego.

Steve Pelluer, whom Landry tabbed going into camp as the team's No. 1 quarterback, will start for the Cowboys. Starting in the backfield with Pelluer will be Clack at tailback and Timmy Newsome at fullback, Landry said.

Higgs, this year's No. 8 pick, has been impressive. Pass-offense coordinator Paul Hackett berated Clack for dropping passes in practice on Monday, and Higgs is pushing Clack for the No. 2 spot.

"We hope that Clack is going to be good enough to do it," Landry said. "He's experienced. We like Higgs. He has excellent running ability, but so does Clack."

Landry said tight end Doug Cosbie will see only limited action against San Diego because coaches want to see more of backup Thornton Chandler.

Kelvin Martin will start at flanker, with either Kelvin Edwards or Ray Alexander starting at split end. No. 1 draft choice Michael Irvin will play behind Martin.

"Kelvin Martin has been our most improved receiver during training camp," Landry said of the former Boston College star, who was used primarily as a punt returner during his rookie season. "I'd just like to see him go out there, give him a chance to start the game."

Martin, 5-9, 163-pounder who was Dallas' fourth-round pick last year, made a 54-yard touchdown reception two weeks ago in a scrimmage against the Chargers. In the intrasquad scrimmage, he caught three passes for 98 yards, including two 45-yard receptions that set up touchdowns.

Landry said Martin has positioned himself for a lot of playing time. "The more games they play, the more you play against top players from different teams, the more you're going to find out about a player," said Landry.

"If he can maintain this level right now against competition when he steps on the field, there's a chance to compete for more than a punt returner's job."

However, Landry added: "I don't know whether he's (Martin) ahead of him (Irvin). Irvin has been playing very well also. He'll be playing, too. They'll be splitting time, but I think Kelvin has earned the chance to start."

The makeshift defensive lineup that Landry had to devise due to various injuries will include starters Ron Burton, Steve DeOssie and Garth Jax, left to right, at linebacker. "They're our most experienced people," Landry said. "They're our only experienced linebackers."

With Ron Francis mending a separated shoulder, Landry is leaning towards starting second year veteran Robert Williams at right cornerback, over third-year man Manny Hendrix. The other returning defensive backfield

The champions were Travis and Millie Hunter and Paul and Patti Woodall. The other two teams were: Carlos Dimidjean and Tammy Newsome and Don and Roxie Belew; Jerry and Ruth Roach and Jimmy and Ruby Honea. They all shot five-under-par 32.

The two-lady team of Annie Ward and Julie Hall won nine hole scramble play on the back nine Monday evening with an even par 38.

Two teams tied for second place with 39. They were Peggy Marshall and Dee Jenkins and Mary Malone, Ina Stewart and Tammie Newsome.

Fishing in area lakes experienced the late summer dip last weekend, but results were rewarding nonetheless.

Striped bass, mostly in the intermediate range, moved back to the forefront at Lake E.V. Spence, while catfishing was tops at Lake J.B. Thomas.

Biggest striper at Lake Spence was a 27.5 pound specimen caught by A.D. and Robert Godwin of Brownwood. Tom Tidwell of San Angelo caught a 17-pound catfish.

Also at Spence, Carol Kurth of Big Spring caught 7.75 and 10.5-pound stripers.

Also at Spence, the Chandler family from Midland caught 150 crappie and 50 channel catfish in one week of fishing.

At Lake Thomas, Sam Froman of Big Spring took a 23-pound yellow catfish off his trotline, and George Snowden caught 7, 7.5 and 8-pound yellow catfish; Earl Nelson reeled in a 6.5 pound black bass while trolling.

Expos whip Pirates

By The Associated Press
Although he didn't realize it at the time, Montreal's Hubie Brooks was taking the advice Pittsburgh manager Jim Leyland had offered his Pirates for dealing with beanballs.

"I've told my players that if they believe they're being thrown at, either go to first base or the mound."

Leyland said in discussing a visit Brooks paid Pittsburgh pitcher John Smiley after being hit in the back. "If Hubie Brooks believed he was being thrown at, he did what he should have done."

NL

That he did, setting off the first of two bench-clearing incidents in the third inning of Montreal's 6-4 victory Wednesday night over the Pirates.

"He hit me in the back because one guy (Andres Galarraga) hit a home run," Brooks said. "I don't like being anybody's target. I didn't hit the home run."

After Galarraga gave the Expos a 4-2 lead with a two-run homer, Smiley, 9-8, hit Brooks in the back with the next pitch. Smiley stood his ground as Brooks charged the mound and landed two punches. Both benches emptied.

The fight ended quickly. But after Smiley and Brooks were ejected, another incident broke out in the runway between the two dugouts.

Galarraga followed a third-inning double by Rex Hudler with his 22nd homer of the season and fourth this year in Pittsburgh. Smiley hit Brooks with his next pitch.

Pascual Perez, 8-5, allowed five hits over seven innings for the victory. Among those hits was Andy Van Slyke's 18th homer.

Reds 7, Dodgers 1
Jeff Reed wasn't apologizing for an opposite-field bloop single that broke a 4-4 tie in the 11th inning.

Paul O'Neill, whose run-scoring double in the eighth off reliever Jay Howell tied the game, began the winning rally on an error by reliever Alejandro Pena, who missed first base after taking a throw from Pedro Guerrero.

Cubs 3, Mets 1
Chicago's Rick Sutcliffe didn't mind losing his shutout in the ninth inning.

Sutcliffe, 9-9, lost his shutout on a two-out RBI single by pinch-hitter Mookie Wilson.

Sutcliffe, who pitched his seventh complete game, had lost four of his last five starts. In his nine defeats, the Cubs scored only 12 runs.

Astros 3, Giants 2
San Francisco reliever Scott Garrelts wanted to pitch "hard, down and away." But his slider bounced near home plate and carried into the grandstand, enabling Houston's Billy Hatcher to score from third base with two out in the ninth inning as the Astros broke their second-place tie with the Giants.

"It was just a bounce in our favor," Astros Manager Hal Lanier said after his club won for the 17th time in 23 games.

Cardinals 4, Phillies 2
Tom Brunansky, mired in a 2-for-32 slump, could hardly be blamed for his confusion.

"I should have had the double ... but I was just amazed I got the hit," Brunansky said of a single, one of two he had in addition to his 15th homer and a triple. "I'd been making so many right turns (after outs) I didn't know to turn left."

Braves 4, Padres 2
Now that Atlanta has broken an eight-game winning streak, Manager Russ Nixon is heading home for a celebration.

"That off day tomorrow is going to feel so good," he said. "I'm going to get on my tractor and mow forever."

Andres Thomas broke a 1-1 tie with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning, and Zane Smith, 5-8, pitched a six-hitter.

league debut of New York's Dave Eiland.

The Yankees took a 5-1 lead into the bottom of the eighth behind Eiland, who had held the Brewers to three hits through seven innings.

Mariners 8, Angels 7
Steve Balboni had five RBI, including a game-winning home run in the ninth inning, as the Seattle snapped the Angels' seven-game winning streak.

California had also won 11 in a row on the road, a club record.

Balboni hit his 15th home run with one out in the ninth inning off reliever Brian Harvey, 4-4. He also had a two-run double in the first and a two-run single in the second.

Mike Schooler, 3-4, the third Seattle pitcher, worked out of bases-loaded jams in the eighth and ninth innings.

Orioles 8, Indians 3
Jeff Ballard survived a shaky start to snap a personal five-game losing streak and Baltimore backed him with three home runs.

Ballard, 5-9, allowed three runs in the first two innings but shut out the Indians over the next five.

Ballard scattered seven hits in seven innings, walked one and did not strike out a batter. Tom Niedenfuer closed.

Twins 8, Blue Jays 3
Steve Lombarozzi and Gary Gaetti each went 4-for-5 and Toronto left fielder George Bell committed his 14th and 15th errors of the season to set a club record as Minnesota won its 29th game on the road, equaling last season's total.

Reliever Keith Atherton, 6-5, allowed three hits in three innings. Jeff Reardon worked two innings to earn his 27th save. Juan Berenguer, replacing the injured Bert Blyleven, lasted four innings in his first start since June 27, 1987.

The Twins had a season-high 16 hits. It was Lombarozzi's first major-league four-hit game.

Minnesota scored three times off Jeff Musselman, 3-1, in the first.

Athletics 4, White Sox 3
Stan Javier hit an RBI single with two outs in the top of the 11th inning as Oakland defeated Chicago.

With one out in the 11th, Mark McGwire singled to left against relief ace Bobby Thigpen, 5-6, and went to third on a single to right by Ron Hassey.

Gene Nelson, 6-3, the third Oakland pitcher, worked two innings. Dennis Eckersley pitched the 11th, striking out two, to earn his major-league leading 31st save.

The A's tied it in the top of the eighth when third baseman Steve Lyons booted Dave Henderson's grounder for an error, allowing Walt Weiss to score.

Royals 2, Tigers 1
Bret Saberhagen pitched a four-hitter and Pat Tabler hit a tie-breaking single in the sixth as Detroit's Frank Tanana fell to 0-12 at Royals Stadium.

Saberhagen, 12-10, got his first complete-game victory in exactly two months. He struck out six and walked one. In his 12 losses at Kansas City, Tanana, 12-7, has been supported by a total of 18 runs and seen his team shut out four times.

Willie Wilson and Kurt Stillwell singled leading off the game and one out later the Royals took a 1-0 lead on George Brett's RBI single.

Detroit tied it in the fifth, but the Royals went ahead in the sixth despite managing just one run on three singles and two walks.

Red Sox win again

By The Associated Press
The Boston Red Sox aren't sure they know how to lose anymore.

"I don't know if teams can hold us to three or four runs," said second baseman Marty Barrett, after the Red Sox beat the Texas Rangers 5-4 Wednesday night and won their 22nd game in a row at home. "I can't imagine a guy pitching a much better game than Bobby Witt did. And we ended up getting five runs off him."

Boston's victory tied the American League record for the longest winning streak at home. The Philadelphia Athletics accomplished the feat in 1931. The New York Giants have the major league record, with 26 wins in a row at home in 1916.

AL

The Red Sox are tied with Detroit for first in the American League East.

"We've played good enough baseball to pick up nine games in three weeks," Mike Greenwell said. "We've won 19 out of 20. That's a tremendous streak. And we've done what we wanted to do: we got ourselves back in the race. Now we have to stay there."

Boston's win Wednesday night wasn't pretty. The Red Sox blew a 3-1 lead and had to score runs in the seventh and eighth innings to pull the game out. Two of the Rangers' runs scored on a throwing error by reliever Bob Stanley in the seventh.

Brewers 6, Yankees 5
Rob Deer's RBI double capped a five-run eighth inning as Milwaukee spoiled the major-league debut of New York's Dave Eiland.

The Yankees took a 5-1 lead into the bottom of the eighth behind Eiland, who had held the Brewers to three hits through seven innings.

Spikers report Monday

Big Spring High School volleyball coach Lois Ann McKenzie says that all young ladies in grades 9-12, who plan on playing volleyball, should report to Steer Gym Monday at 9 a.m. for the start of two-day practices.

McKenzie said there will be an organizational meeting to set up practice times for the remainder of the week.

Leonard back again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard came out of retirement today for the third time and signed a contract to meet Donnie Lalonde in a double title fight in the fall.

"I told you guys some time ago (after he upset Marvelous Marvin Hagler for the middleweight title) I was going to try to retire," the 32-year-old Leonard said at a news conference.

"I tried. It didn't work."

At stake will be the World Boxing Council light heavyweight championship held by Lalonde and the vacant WBC super middleweight title. The super middleweight class has a 168-pound limit, seven pounds less than the light heavyweight limit.

Both fighters will work on percentages, and the bout will be shown on closed circuit television. The percentages were not revealed, but Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney, said Leonard will top his previous personal record purse of $12 million and Lalonde, a Canadian, will get a record purse for a light heavyweight champion. The light heavyweight record is the $1.75 million Michael Spinks got for beating Dwight Muhammad Qawi.

Trainer said the fight will be held the last week in October or the first two weeks in November at a site to be determined.

Site offers have been received from Japan, the People's Republic of China, Atlantic City, N.J., and from three casino hotels in Las Vegas, Nev., he said.

Olympic tennis tough

LONDON (AP) — Ivan Lendl won't be there. Neither will John McEnroe, Pat Cash or Martina Navratilova.

But most of the other big names in world tennis are competing in Seoul next month, when the sport renews its acquaintance with the Olympic Games as a medal event after an absence of 64 years.

The ITF said 11 of the top 20 male players in the world and 15 of the leading 20 women in the rankings would be competing for gold, silver and bronze medals in singles and doubles.

starters — cornerback Everson Walls, strong safety Bill Bates and free safety Michael Downs — are also slated to start Saturday.

Up front, 1987 No. 1 draft pick Danny Noonan will play at right tackle, with Randy White still being held out of practices because of a neck injury. Kevin Brooks, who Landry says is the most improved veteran this summer, will man the left tackle spot. Left end Ed Jones and right end Jim Jeffcoat are also set for Saturday.

Public Notice
 NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT AND NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
 On or about August 20, 1988, the above named City will request the Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, for the following project activities:

Water Improvements $235,341.00
 The above referenced project activities will be carried out as part of a 1987 Texas Community Development Program (TCDP). The project will be carried out in a Target Area in the northern part of the City of Big Spring. A map showing the locations of specific proposed project activities is available for inspection in the Big Spring City Hall.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT
 It has been determined that the above named City has decided to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:
WATER IMPROVEMENTS - Underused, deteriorated, unlooped water lines will be replaced with new adequately sized, looped water lines which can provide dependable domestic water service and fire protection to Target Area residents now lacking such service and protection.

Limited grading and cleaning will be involved in project construction activities, but no major changes in topographic features are anticipated. No major changes in land use, population density or demand for community facilities are expected over the course of this project as a result of project use. Existing support systems and infrastructure will not be negatively affected by the project. During the construction phase of the project some minimal increases in air and noise pollution may occur, but air quality and noise levels will return to current levels once construction is complete. The project will not affect any properties of known historic, archaeological or architectural significance and the aesthetic environment of Target Area should be enhanced by the proposed project.

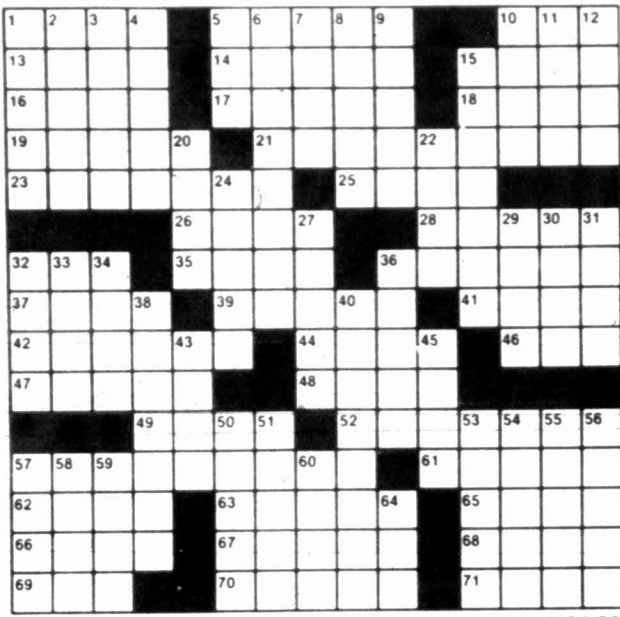

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION - Administrative costs are a categorical exemption from the environmental review requirements under 24 CFR 58.21.

An Environmental Assessment respecting the within project has been made by the above named City which documents the environmental impact of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Assessment is on file at the above office and is available for public examination and copying upon requests in the office of the Personnel Director between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

PUBLIC COMMENTS ON FINDING
 All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the office of the Personnel Director. Such written comments should be received at the above address on or before August 19, 1988. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

RELEASE OF FUNDS
 The City of Big Spring will undertake the project described above with Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) funds from the Department of Commerce under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended. The City of Big Spring is certifying to the Department of Commerce that the City and Cotton Mize, in his official capacity as Mayor, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental assessments, decision making and action, and that the City and Cotton Mize, in their official capacity as Mayor, consent to JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Big career opportunities are part of the picture. The best ones may require a long-distance move. Concentrate on work goals for the remainder of this calendar year. Solidify a new relationship. Express your feelings openly and affection will flow both ways. You need to speak up when a matter of principle is involved. Consider other people's opinions, but create forums for your own views as well. Money matters become easier to handle. Travel proves highly rewarding.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: director John Huston, astronaut Neil Armstrong, pitcher Rick Mahler, movie star Robert Taylor.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Stop looking back. Put your mistakes behind you. Bigger proposals will come your way. Get promises in writing. Stalled plans get the green light. Salespeople do well in new areas. Travel is favored.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You have mellowed but can still make others jump when you want. A dialogue with a customer opens your eyes to an unusual opportunity. Make sure you know who you are dealing with.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It is time to make some decisions. You will never know your strength unless you try your wings. A cash windfall helps solve a relationship problem. Travel could be the key to greater success.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Make fewer judgments. Do your own thing as well as you can. Your presence adds sparkle to a social gathering. You find interesting people to talk with. Do not reveal a friend's secrets. Be discreet.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are urged to jump on the bandwagon today but want to run the other way. Your instincts are right! A half-baked financial plan is too risky. Privacy is the key to domestic happiness.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial backing can be obtained from an influential person. An employment situation is changing, sending you in a new direction. A move to another city or state is possible.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your influence is widespread. Avoid business people with unsavory reputations. Authorities grant special favors. At long last, you cut through red tape. Protect your professional secrets. Resist bragging.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A lucky break puts you in a more productive mood. Money-saving ideas receive an enthusiastic reception. New monetary rewards are possible in the near future. Strive for a reconciliation with loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Yesterday's message still holds. Take care of your current obligations before assuming new ones. Working behind the scenes is more rewarding than you imagined. Forge important alliances.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A good day to check into insurance matters. Pay your debts and live within your means. A complicated business venture requires you play the waiting game. Your patience will be rewarded.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Place someone else's needs ahead of your own. Your kindness will be richly repaid. Dress conservatively when dealing with an older business executive. Image is very important to higher-ups. Romance sparkles.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Focus on the essential today. Revise your budget with the cooperation of mate, family. Assertiveness pays off in the marketplace. You rise to the occasion. A blind date is better than expected.
