Bush maintains suspense on choice

By TERENCE HUNT Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS - George Bush, maintaining the suspense about his running mate, said on the opening day of the Republican National Convention that he has narrowed the list of candidates but has not picked one. "I think my choice will be widely accepted when I decide on who that choice is," Bush said today.

"I've not decided," Bush said during a round of interviews on morning television shows. Asked if he were leaning one way or another, Bush replied, "Yes, of course but (toward) some people,

Bush remained in Washington, giving the first day's convention spotlight to President Reagan, who planned to make a primetime address to the delegates tonight to arouse political passions for Bush, who has been trailing Democratic rival Michael Dukakis in most polls.

Reagan told an adoring audience welcoming him to New Orleans on Sunday that he would devote "every ounce of energy and every fiber of my being" to helping Bush. Amid intense speculation about asked to be vice president." Her Bush's running mate, former husband, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, Transportation Secretary also a prospect, said, "I think Elizabeth Dole said on "CBS This Morning," "I do not expect to be On NBC's "Today" show, Bush said, "I have to define how I want to lead this country.

Fending off attempts to learn the identity of his running mate, Bush said, "I think it's a very important choice and there's a lot of very good people from whom to make a selection. I think my choice will be widely accepted when I decide on who that choice

Looking ahead to his campaign against Dukakis, Bush said Republicans are united. "The convention is unified. I think the party is unified. We have a platform that states the general principles of our party and looks to the future. I don't look for any divisiveness coming out of Thursday night."

Bush acknowledged that many people will measure him against Reagan. "He's been a great president. . . . I'm not going to try to be a Ronald Reagan — because there's only one," Bush said.

Aides said Bush may depart from his plan to make his decision known on Thursday and instead unveil his choice Wednesday night, then make a dramatic appearance before the convention the same procedure Reagan employed eight years ago when he named Bush as his vice presidential choice.

Dole, Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York acted like they were auditioning for the job, appearing on Sunday talk shows to bash Democratic presidential hopeful Michael Dukakis.

Administrators as well as teachers in the Big Spring Independent School District will receive approximately a 3 to 7 percent pay raise this year.

The district's teacher salaries are determined based on a state-mandated teacher pay seale, while administrator salaries are set by the district's board of trustees.

Most teachers will receive a raise of $1,140. Teachers who reached the top pay scale level last year will receive a $798

Upper level administrators received a 4 to 6 percent pay raise this year, according to Bill McQueary, superintendent.

Salaries for BSISD upper level administrators, the percentage raise and total raise received for the 1988-89 school year are as follows:

• Superintendent: $60,000, 4 percent, $2,400.

• Assistant superintendent for business: $53,000, 4 percent,

 Assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction: $51,500, 4 percent, $2,060. • Assistant business manager: $49,000, 6 percent, • High School principal:

$48,000, 6 percent, $2,880. • Athletic Director: $46,000

(new employee). McQueary said the teacher pay scale determined by House Bill 72 fails to set a mandatory increase for teachers who have in effect "maxed out" on the graded pay scale.

'We hope the state legislature will address this," McQueary has said, "It's a problem. We would have liked to go to $1,140."

The 10 step pay scale went into rffect September 1, 1985. The district created an 11th step this year for teachers who were at level 10 last year. The pay scale sets mandatory salary increases only for teachers through level 10. The base salary for beginning teachers in the district this year will be $17,060. The maximum salary a teacher will make this year will be $29,298.

Sleeping driver may be at fault

WENDY E. LANE Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND - Families prepared to bury children who died in a weekend traffic accident that killed five Midland Boys Club members, while an investigation of the crash believed caused by a sleeping driver continued today.

At least two funerals were scheduled for Tuesday for victims of the Friday afternoon crash near Sweetwater, 130 miles east of Midland. On Sunday, more than 100 Midland residents gathered for an emotional prayer service at Antioch Baptist Church, where Damon Polk, the van's driver, and his brother Darren are members. "Let us remember that this could happen to any one of us at any time, but we are here to do or say something to lift the burden,' said church pastor D.F. Johnson.

The Midland Boys Club van carrying 17 people ran off the road in an area of construction on Interstate 20 when Damon Polk fell asleep, officials said. When the van returned to the road it was crushed by a tractor-trailer. The group was returning from a softball tournament in Abilene. On Sunday, many of the victims' families remained in Abilene or Lubbock, where seven children and two adults remained hospitalized.

ing here in Midland," Johnson said. "But we want the boys club to know they must keep the faith, because they have done a marvelous job in this community.

Speakers at the service also called on the community to pull together in the same way they did during the October rescue of Jessica McClure from an abandoned well. Midland resident Tracy Flores said she has spent the last two days with some of the injured children in an Abilene hospital. "You've got some of the strongest and bravest children I know," she said. 'Not once did I hear them complain. They were more concerned about the other children in the accident

COLORADO CITY — Local officials and community representatives have signed an agreement to improve community relations here.

The agreement, engineered with assistance from U.S. Department of Justice community relations specialist Richard Sambrano, was signed Wednesday, according to Sara Ortiz, wife of local League of United Latin American Citizens chapter president Oscar Ortiz, who signed the agreement.

According to the agreement, three issues were addressed:

• A perception in the community that minorities are under-represented in the city government workforce:

 A communications gap between minorities and city government officials that "contributes to misunderstanding, mistrust and lack of participation of minorities in the decision-making process;" and Civil rights education of the citizens of Colorado City. The furor about civil rights violations in the community was sparked by the May 13 shooting death of Sammy Gomez. He was shot three times — once in the back of the head — by an Anglo police officer attempting to arrest him on charges of sexual assault. A Mitchell County grand jury refused to indict part-time city police officer Billy Ray Williamson in connection with the shooting. Gomez's parents, Minnie and Macario Gomez, have undertaken a suit alleging that the civil rights of their son were violated in connection with his

Salvadorans found locked in boxcar

KINGSVILLE (AP) — Thirtyfive Salvadorans spent five hours inside a sweltering boxcar with almost no ventilation and would likely have died had they not been discovered by border officials.

"It was well over 100 degrees outside) when we found them,' U.S. Border Patrol agent Ramiro Gonzalez said of the stowaways found at about 10:30 a.m. Sunday. It was probably another 20 to 30 degrees hotter inside the car.'

Officials said the illegal aliens could have suffered the same fate as 18 aliens found dead last summer inside a locked boxcar near the West Texas town of Sierra Blanca, about 65 miles southeast of El Paso

When we opened the car up, the people were pale and real sweaty, and then we transported them to the Border Patrol station in Kingsville and gave them water and we fed them" at the Sarita Border Patrol Checkpoint in Kenedy County, Gonzalez said.

The Salvadorans, including two 14-year-old boys, had been locked inside the car since boarding the Brownsville at 5 a.m. Some had tried to get air through the holes in the boxcar, Gonzalez said.

Authorities arrested them and 20 more illegal aliens found outside the locked boxcar but aboard the same freight train bound for Houston, said Kingsville Border Patrol agent Cruz McGuire.

Those found inside the boxcar said the door was to have been kept open to allow ventilation, but either the smuggler or a train station employee in Brownsville closed and locked it, Gonzalez said.

In the July 1987 incident, only one of 19 aliens survived spending 12 to 14 hours inside the boxcar where the temperature reached 130

Authorities said the aliens in that incident had been locked inside the car by a smuggler who tossed in railroad spikes for the aliens to chip through the airtight car's heavy wooden floor.

On March 21, Border Patrol agents also pulled 46 dehydrated aliens from a sealed boxcar during a sweep of northbound traffic about Nicaragua said his group's efforts would not be hindered by a federal investigation, which reportedly is looking at whether the convoy was used to smuggle plans and parts for an anti-aircraft weapons system into Guatemala.

"As far as we're concerned, we're totally clean, and we're not worried about any investigation," Raul Valdez of Austin, a national organizer of the convoy, told reporters Sunday. He called the allegations "untrue" and "ridiculous."

EL PASO (AP) — A class-action lawsuit filed in 1987 by the highestranking Hispanic in the FBI and alleging discrimination could affect hundreds of agents, officials

The suit filed by agent Bernardo "Matt" Perez in January 1987 is scheduled to go to trial today.

Perez, the El Paso office's assistant agent-in-charge, claims in the suit that the FBI discriminates against Hispanics in its promotion

The suit also claims Hispanics are sent to less desirable cities.

Some of the possible witnesses include FBI Director William Sessions and former director William Webster, who now heads the CIA.

Perez is a 26-year FBI veteran who said he filed the suit to make the agency change its hiring and promotion practices. The trial is scheduled for federal district court in El Paso

There are about 350 Hispanics among the FBI's 8,000 agents.

Gambling referendum defeated

GALVESTON (AP) - For thethird time in four years, voters dealt a losing hand to a non-binding reierendum calling for a casino gambling district in this island city where illegal gambling once was a major drawing card.

Almost 60 percent of the voters in Saturday's straw vote said no to gambling. The unofficial vote was 7,368 against and 5,062 for.

Similar referendums lost by wider margins in 1987 and 1984. Both sides expected a close race this time, but a gambling opponent said his side won by a larger margin this time than expected.

The referendum asked voters to approve a gambling district in Galveston. Proponents had said the district would have included four casino hotels with at least 500 rooms each.

If the referendum had passed, it would have been up to the state Legislature to pass an act enabling gambling in the city. Voters in Galveston would then have had to pass the proposal again in a binding vote.

Rain reports for the Big Spring area show that local residents and weather monitoring stations received rainfall amounts ranging from four-tenths of an inch to 1 inch Friday through Sunday.

Charles Yates, of the U.S. Agriculture Research Service, 302 N.W. 12 St., reported the service received fifty-fivehundredths of an inch on Friday.

The year-to-date total received at the service, is 11.3 inches, Yates reported. The normal year-to-date total is 11.49 inches, he said.

Tommy Hart, 1750 Purdue Ave., reported receiving 1 inch of rain on Friday.

Hart said his rainfall count for the year-to-date was above average. "It's finally falling with some regularity, so it looks better," he said.

Red Thomas, 107 E. 13th St., reported receiving one-half inch of rain on Friday.

Wendell Shive, Cohoama, reported receiving four-tenths of inch of rain on Friday.

Joe Pickle, of the Colorado River Municiple Water District, reported that the Big Spring Base Station on Snyder Highway received 1 inch of rain on Friday. Stacey Dam received forty-fivehundredths of inch on Sunday, he

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Frank Carlucei should receive a report this week from a Navy board that investigated the downing of an Iranian passenger airliner by the USS Vincennes, the Pentagon says. Navy Cmdr. Mel Sutton confirmed on Sunday that the panel has completed its work, but he refused to discuss a published report saying the board recommended disciplinary action against only one officer aboard the ship.

All 290 people aboard the plane were killed when it was shot down over the Persian Gulf on July 3. The Vincennes had misidentified the plane as an F-14 fighter.

"The report went up, and, if not already, will be in the hands of the (defense) secretary this week," Sutton said. "We expect a public of the investigating team, headed report in the near future.

Sutton refused to discuss a story in Sunday's editions of The Washington Post, which said the board's report calls for disciplining only the ship's operations officer. The story said that officer, who has not been identified publicly, drew most of the blame for his role in misinterpreting information that resulted in a decision to fire on the

For the record

In clarifying a July 28 story about the city baling system, Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said although it costs more than the $160,000 to $180,00 per year listed in the story to operate the system annually, the baling system produces a $164,000 to $165,000 savings every year.

Decell said the city saved an additional $700,000 in not having to locate the system at another site "15- to-20 miles" from Big Spring.

Decell said Monday that the council passed a financial maintenance program a number of years ago that set aside 10 percent of the utility fund to be placed in the utility contingency fund in order to upgrade the wastewater treatment plant.

Of the monies currently in the utility contingency fund, $550,000 has been allotted for additional sedimentary basins at the wastewater treatment plant. Decell said.

The remaining $47,867.97 in the utility contingency fund - along with some capital improvement fund monies – has been allotted for water line right-of-ways for the Gregg Street widening project, Decell said.

Green believes even if the utility contingency fund is depleted by Sept. 30, there are alternatives to a tax hike and sanitation rate increase.

Opinion

The movie critics speak

By The Associated Press

Here is a sampling of reviews of the film "The Last Temptation of Christ," which was released

"At the bottom of the controversy is an intense, utterly sincere, frequently fascinating piece of art by a director for whom, clearly, the message of Jesus' life has immediacy and meaning. The film's greatest virtue may be its vision of Jesus' time; its biggest drawback is the deliberate flatness and banality of the words used to convey it." Sheila Benson in the Los Angeles

It is "without question one of the most serious, literate, complex and deeply felt religious films ever made. Brilliantly directed by Martin Scorsese, this adaption of Nikos Kazantzakis' novel will surely be discussed and dissected by both theological scholars and thoughtful moviegoers for years to come....The 'Temptahas nothing to do with carnal lust, it is the temptation to be human. Moviegoers expecting the salacious thrill show trumpeted by the religious right are going to be very disappointed." — David Ehrenstein in the Los Angeles Herald Examiner.

The "provocative, punishing, weirdly brilliant adaptation of Nikos Kazantzakis' novel has a feverish intensity.... It is a work of great seriousness by one of the country's most gifted filmmakers. There is also a substantial portion of hooey in it. . . . In Willem Dafoe, Scorsese shows us a Christ who is more an anguished modern neurotic than a biblical figure, a sort of Hamlet, and seemingly unfit for the role of Messiah. And he invites us to think of Him as mad." - Hal Hinson in The Washington Post.

"It is clear that this is a noble, if not totally successful, attempt to wrestle with profound questions about the age-old conflict between personal satisfaction and higher ethical values." There is "nothing cinematically salacious or exploitative in the way Scorsese presents two scenes involving Mary Magdalene." -Judy Stone in the San Francisco Chronicle.

"The controversy surrounding 'The Last Temptation of Christ' is much more interesting than the movie itself. Although emotionally charged at times, the 21/2-hour film drags, leaving the impression of a project that aimed for epic proportions, but came up " - Jeff Strickler in the Star Tribune of Minneapolis.

"Perhaps no movie could live up to all the hoopla surrounding this one, but 'Last Temptation' is, sad to say, a pretty dull film. It's long and slow, occasionally reaching hypnotic power in its images, but more often lapsing into incoherence. Eventually, it's numbing in its effects. Deborah J. Kunk in the St. Paul Pioneer Press Dispatch.

"The movie does not even approach a truly radical interpretation of the life of Christ. . . . It may well be one of the most doctrinaire visions of the life of Christ to make it to 35mm film in modern times, so much so that without all the controversy, liberal critics might well have written it off as a 'Sunday-school movie.'" - William Arnold in The Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

"Today, at long last, protesters and boycotters will have a chance to actually see 'The Last Tempta-tion of Christ.' What they will see is a film that has the effrontery to insist that Christ was human but isn't that what Christians have claimed all along? . . . It may be Scorsese's most courageous, and it is technically superb, but it is slow and at times heavy going." — Mike McGrady in New York Newsday.

"The only thing sacrilegious about 'The Last Temptation of Christ,' to my mind, is its length, a very long 2 hours and 40 minutes.... The movie ... is in fact the drama of two men, two polarities, Jesus and Judas -Jesus the guilt-ridden Nazareth carpenter who's always fleeing from and searching for God; Judas the hard-headed yet impassioned anti-Roman freedom Of the two, Judas is (in this film) by far the more interesting." — Jerry Tallmer in the New York Post.

"It may be the Bible as Kazantzakis interprets it, but it's also the Bible without poetry.... The movie is long, with tedious stretches during which you're more in danger of being bored than offended. Still, Scorsese . . . has always listened to his own musc. And here he's conducted his search for Jesus in his own way. He's done it with integrity, reverence and a good deal of cinematic beauty." - Chris Chase in the New York Daily

"What emerges most memorably is (the film's) sense of absolute conviction, never more palpable than in the final fantasy sequence that removes Jesus from the cross and creates for him the life of an ordinary man. Though this episode lasts longer than it should . . ., it finally has the mightily affirmative. truly visceral impact for which the whole film clearly strives. Anyone who questions the sincerity or seriousness of what Mr. Scorsese has attempted need only see the film to lay those doubts to rest." — Janet Maslin in The New York Times.

"The Last Temptation of Christ' is an admirably serious, accomplished movie, though it betrays little of the complicated texture and furious creativity of Scorsese at his best." - David Kehr in the Chicago Tribune.

"All of the uninformed protest will only serve to fuel attendance for what turns out to be a very fine, thoughtful and beautifully performed rumination on Jesus and the difficulty of living according to his principles." - Gene Siskel in the Chicago Tribune.

"The Last Temptation of Christ' is as powerful as it is controversial — a work of passion and imagination that stirs the soul and shakes the intellect." -Lloyd Sachs of the Chicago Sun-

Editorial reaction

Here is a sampling of editorial reaction to the film "The Last Temptation of Christ," which was released Friday:

"In America, the right to be dumb or dead wrong is at least as sacred as the right to be right. On matters of faith and belief there can be no established rights and wrongs - or freedom would instantly evaporate." - The Daily News of New York.

"Blasphemy is not the issue here, but censorship....But complaining of a heathen plot against the faith is good box office for the television pulpit. The would-be censors seek to shift attention away from the capers of Jimmy Swaggart and Jim and Tammy Bakker. The television preachers need to clean up their own blasphemous act first." The Boston Globe

"The film deserves to be seen by as few people as possible and then consigned to its welldeserved fate on the video store shelves, where those who derive pleasure from the denigration of Jesus Christ can privately indulge their sick little fantasies. Movies like this tell us more about the temptations of the movie business than about our great religions." - The Detroit

"What many may find truly disturbing about the film is not its depiction of a confused, human Jesus, but its director's reliance on torn and bloody flesh, human and animal. The film sins against taste. Gratuitous violence for box-office gain is the temptation contrived by the devil who hides in cameras." - The New York

It's time to do right by our children

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

She is nine years old and lives in Chicago. Her name is Darlwin Carlisle — and you may remember her. She was found abandoned in an unheated apartment in January, her legs so badly frostbitten they had to be amputated just below the knee. Her story made broadcast news on all the major networks.

Her mother has been sentenced to prison for neglect, and the judge in the case blamed the neglect on a cocaine habit of Darlwin Britt, the mother.

Such stories do not always have happy endings. The child now lives with her great-grandmother and says she plans to return to school in the fall. But there have been other stories neglect after leaving her 11-monthold daughter in a closed car for two hours. The child died - one day before her first birthday.

We are not doing right by our children in this country. If we were, mothers would not be juniorhigh students, grandmothers in their 20s. If we were, cocaine, crack and heroin would not be the best escapes from rat-ridden "neighborhoods" in housing projects.

If we were, 50,000 children would not be missing in this country. If we were, the mothers of missing children would not be forced to endure months or years — sometimes decades - before learning what has become of their youngsters.

If we were doing right by the children in this country, child sentences in prison without parole. We would discipline those who prey on children harshly, if we were truly interested in protecting children. By the same token, we would reward richly those who care for children, if we were doing right by the children.

If we were doing right by our children, teachers would make $30,000 annually to start — and only the best and brightest would be hired. A degree in education would be as difficult to obtain as a degree in pre-law or pre-med studies, and a successful teacher would be as well-rewarded as a banker, lawyer or plastic surgeon — and would be as well-regarded.

If we were doing right by our children, there would be no knives, no guns, no drugs available in school. There would be discipline - an unruly child would be forbidden the privileges of extracurricular activity, and if that didn't work the child would be spanked, if necessary.

If we were doing right by our children, we'd know exactly where they were, 24 hours a day and seven days a week. If we were domolesters and child pornographers ing right by our children, we'd would face mandatory life have quality daycare available for working mothers at a reasonable cost, everywhere and all the time.

Etiquette in Texas gets a needed boost By KEN BRODNAX The Odessa American

ODESSA - Although some observers of the mannerly arts would contend that rules of social conduct generally are ignored in Texas, certain behavioral patterns are accepted and encouraged. So, in an attempt to further inform transplanted Texans and reeducate some of the natives, Emmylou Posthole has agreed to serve as guardian of the state's manners. Posthole, author of, "If It Itches, Scratch," has long been the authority when disputes about proper conduct have arisen in the Lone Star State. She will be available to answer questions about situations that arise in everyday life.

Emmylou will go right to work. A confused former Yankee writes, "I'm confused about which foods can be eaten with the hands in Texas."

Ms. Posthole cleared all the confusion by replying, "As a general rule, nearly anything can be eaten with the fingers. Tacos, burritos, friend chicken and jalapenos definitely fall into that category. We, however, usually draw the line at scrambled eggs and English peas. Those normally are shoved into the mouth on a wide-blade knife, sharp side out, of course.'

A native Texan wrote to ask what he should do when he is sitting indoors, has a mouthful of tobacco juice and suddenly gets the urge to sneeze. The Posthole solution is simple: "You have two options — heading for the nearest door or swallowing. If, however, the sneeze comes on too quickly for a decision, try to direct the flow at the person who is the smallest, wearing the darkest clothing and has the fewest visible knife-fight scars.

A man who signed himself as "Tall Texan" asked Emmylou when it was apporopriate to remove his cowboy hat. She had a quick answer: "At funerals, when they play the National Anthem and anytime you're getting your

A recent transplant of the feminine persuasion inquired as to why chicken fried steak has such a fowl name. Then she wanted to know what wine goes best with that typical Texas meal.

Emmylou got a bit testy. 'Because it does. Why not ask why hamburger has ham in its name? As for the wine question, wine does not go with chickenfried steak. Cheap beer goes with it. Iced tea goes with it. But you wouldn't want the sharp taste of a wine ruining the hearty flavor of the breading and that wonderful lumpy cream gravy.

Another inquiry involved table place settings. The woman wanted to know why so many restaurants in this area put only one fork beside the plate.

"Don't Texans know what salad forks are?'

The Posthole explanation was simple. "My dear, Texans aren't excited about salads. And most of them are hungry enough that they keep a tight grip on their utensils, eliminating the need for more than one fork.'

A common problem was addressed by a man who recently moved here from North Dakota "Suppose I'm unfortunate enough to burp in public. What should I Emmylou obviously had addressed the situation before. "First of all, burping in public in the company of other men does not require an apology. In fact, most Texas men consider belching a point of honor and, therefore, try to be louder than their companions. If, however, a woman is within earshot, somebody should offer a perfunctory statement just in case she happens to take offense.

'Generally, the burper doesn't have to bother because one of his companions will say something like, 'Pardon him lady, he was raised in a barn."

And finally, a newcomer wanted to know how to tactfully decline an invitation.

Emmylou sighed deeply. Dearie, in Texas 'tact' is the past tense of tack. As in, 'I tact his hide to the wall.' It's perfectly acceptable just not to show up and tell'em your dog was feelin' poorly. Texans understand the heartbreak of sick dogs.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - An antiques dealer says he intends to keep the 24-inch doll he purchased for $48,000, a U.S. record.

Richard Wright of Birch Runville, Pa., bought the ceramic German doll, with blue-gray eyes, during an auction here Saturday.

The previous U.S. record for a doll was $45,000 paid for a 19th century French doll sold at a Los Angeles auction two years ago.

DELANO. Calif. (AP) — Jesse ing his water-only fast on July 17 to Jackson says he will break bread with Cesar Chavez then pick up his fast when the 61-year-old farm workers union leader resumes eating after nearly a month.

Chavez may end his fast this week, Jackson said.

'Cesar cannot bear the cross alone. The suffering must be shared," Jackson said Sunday, before a rally of at least 2,700 people at the United Farm Workers compound in Delano, 150 miles north of Los Angeles.

"When (Chavez) comes off the fast, I will pick up the baton and take another lap," Jackson told the crowd. He encouraged others to fast for two or three days to support the union's 4-year-old boycott of California table grapes

Jackson raised hands with actors Martin Sheen and Robert Blake amid chants of "Jesse, Jesse."

Chavez was scheduled to attend the rally but didn't because of his weakened condition. He has lost more than 26 pounds since beginn-protest the use of pesticides the union says threaten workers, consumers and the environment.

The California Table Grape Commission says the boycott has not affected sales. State officials and grape growers deny that table grapes contain dangerous pesticide residues.

Jackson met privately with Chavez in a room at the union's retirement village before Sunday's rally. An Associated Press reporter and photographer were allowed to briefly observe their meeting, but the conversation could not be heard.

It was the first time Chavez allowed media to see him in the room where he has been living during the fast. Dressed in light blue pajamas and lying on a bed, Chavez appeared motionless during his talk with Jackson. He has refused to talk with reporters.

"Our willingess for decent conditions for workers is an unending struggle," said Jackson.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Nelson Mandela, the imprisoned African National Congress leader, is responding well to treatment for a lung ailment and his condition is "very satisfactory," a doctor said today.

Dr. J.G.L. Strauss, medical superintendent at Tygerberg Hospital, said Mandela's left lung was inflamed, but that there was no evidence of malignancy.

He said that unless there was a change in condition, no further bulletins would be issued on Mandela, 70, who was transferred from Pollsmoor Prison to the hospital on Friday.

Strauss said Mandela's windpipe and lung area had been examined, and doctors had performed a biopsy and drainage operation.

Bureau officials said reduced population growth in the 1978-87 period will save the state $270 billion in educational and other costs, the official Xinhua News Agency reported.

China now has about 1.07 billion people, one-fifth of the world's population. In 1978, shortly before the government initiated its policy of one child for each couple, the population stood at 962 million. In 1949, when the Communist government took over, the nation had 542 million people.

calculating error by Reagan administration budget experts cannot be rectified by law and is preventing Congress from enacting $1.2 billion in additional spending programs for 1989.

The over-calculation of the size of next year's deficit was pointed out to congressional aides in the last few days by the agency that committed it — the White House's Office of Management and Budget.

OMB officials confirmed this past week that the mistake had been made, and said they had told congressional staff members about

The revelation came as lawmakers left town for a summer recess with plans to return in September and complete their work for the year by considering a batch of competing spending bills.

As the $1.1 trillion federal budget goes, $1.2 billion normally would barely register a tick.

But the amount is significant because it means that Congress will have to squeeze spending for anti-drug programs, the homeless, the hungry and other popular causes under a $1.8 billion ceiling, rather than what should be a $3 billion limit.

Abby helps in woman's search

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to thank you for an article you printed in The Cleveland Plain Dealer in September 1987, telling your readers that the Salvation Army could help them find long-lost relatives.

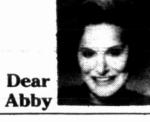

I immediately wrote, asking if they could locate my niece whom I had not seen since she was 13 weeks old. Stella, who was named for me, was the only child of my brother, Harry Selavko, who was killed in World War II.

The Salvation Army sent me a form requesting specific information to help them in the search. I filled it out and mailed it promptly.

I heard nothing for 10 months. Then out of the blue, I received a telephone call from a woman in Austin, Texas. She said, "Hello, Stella? This is Stella." I nearly fainted! The Salvation Army had found my niece. She is now 45 years old, and the mother of three! Stella said she was thrilled to know that someone in her father's family had taken the trouble to look for her, because she had always felt that her father's family didn't care about her.

Abby, it's a long story, but while my brother was overseas, his wife fell in love with another man, so she wrote Harry a "Dear John" letter, asking for a divorce. However, the divorce never materialized because Harry was killed before he could answer her letter. His daughter, Stella, who was 24 months old at the time, never knew her biological father or any member of his family.

I am especially grateful because I am 66 years old, and have survived two cancer operations. My prognosis is good, but through it all, I kept praying that I would live long enough to find my niece so I could tell her about her father and his family.

I hope and pray that in the future we can meet in person. We have a lot of catching up to do. Thank you. Abby, for all the good you do. May God bless you

Fort Worth woman wins title again

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Now that Gretchen Polhemus has landed the Miss Texas-USA crown, her next quest is nailing down the four-times successful GuyRex style that has made her predecessors national competition

The 5-11, 122-pound brunette from Fort Worth was crowned Miss Texas-USA of 1989 Sunday night, winning $90,000 in cash and prizes from the nation's richest state

Miss Polhemus was crowned by last year's winner also from Fort herself. "Miss Texas has to be Worth, Courtney Gibbs, who like stronger," Guy said last week. "A three others before her went on to better interview is the only way she become Miss USA.

All four — Miss Gibbs; Michelle Royer, 1987; Chisty Fitchner, 1986; and Laura Martinez-Herrring, 1985 were guided to the national pageant crown by Richard Guy and Rex Holt, owners of El Paso-based GuvRex and Associates.

Another winner coached by was co-host of the pageant with TV gameshow host Bob Eubanks.

Holt and Guy will spend the months between now and February grooming Miss Polhemus. Their formula for success, they claim, is refining each winner's individual style, rather than molding her into a stereotypical beauty queen. That refinement includes consulting with specialists in nutrition, exercise, makeup, fashion and hair styles.

But the key, they say, is teaching her how to think and to express can win. Pretty girls are a dime a dozen.

Miss Polhemus bested 102 other contestants Sunday night including her roomate during the pagenat, Miss Fort Bend County, Stephanie Kuehne. Miss Kuehne, 20, was first runnerup.

Miss Spring, Sherry Kay Krantz, GuyRex, Kim Tomes Dutton, Miss 23, was second runnerup; Miss USA and Miss Texas USA in 1977. Harris County, Melissa Joyce crowned. Her new white full-length

During Eubanks' brief interview with her during Sunday night's proceedings, she told of an exciting moment in her life — a modeling assignment she had on the Amazon

"I was in South America, and we were doing a river scene. We got about 15 miles out, and our boat went out. All we had was one oar and two fishing rods and a bathing suit scarf that we tied together to make a sail. After about 18 hours we finally made our way back to shore," she said.

"We tied the scarf together on either side of the pole to make a sail. There were anacondas and piranha in the water, so we couldn't cool off. And we couldnt go to the shore because of alligators and wild monkeys. So it was kind of a life-threatening situation.

Rudd nets close Budweiser car racing victory

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Ricky Rudd had visions of sliding backwards across the finish line. He didn't care, though, as long as the checkered flag was flying for him when he got there. Rudd managed to keep his Buick headed in the right direction, despite a jarring last-turn meeting with Rusty Wallace. And the Chesapeake, Va., driver won the Budweiser at the Glen NASCAR stock car race by a mere .52 seconds on Sunday at Watkins Glen

It was a strange race, with 38 of the 90 laps on the 2.428-mile, sevention flag.

The eight full-course caution periods — a race record — kept the field close together all the way, allowing a record 22 drivers to finish on the lead lap. That broke the mark of 19 set two weeks ago on the superspeedway at Talladega,

The caution flags also helped 10 different drivers account for a race record 13 lead changes, the last giving Rudd his only lead of the day as the final caution period ended four laps from the dramatic finish. Darrell Waltrip led during the turn road circuit run under a cau- final caution, but his car began to smoke heavily and Rudd passed Waltrip as the leaders took the green flag for lap 87. The winner, who earned $49,625,

Hance says oil price stability is possible

AUSTIN (AP) — If the planned ceasefire between Iran and Iraq holds, it could mean good news and stable prices - for the Texas oil industry, Railroad Commissioner Kent Hance says.

New clothes line

Hance, who has attended two rea barrei.

"I think that the ceasefire between Iran and Iraq is one of the few positive things to happen for the energy industry in Texas for the tast few weeks," Hance said Thursday.

Hance said the ceasefire could bring Iraq back into agreement with the production quota system of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Subsequent production reductions would help end the price fluctuations that have wracked the industry in recent years as an oil surplus has flooded the market, he said.

"It it gets Iraq back within the quota system, you will see a production cut of between 600,000 and one million barrels a day. That would probably stabilize the prices in the range of $18.50 and $20 a barrel. It would be a big plus for us,' Hance told a news conference.

"If they don't get back within the quota system, then I think you will see oil go to $12 a barrel by the end of the year," he said.

Hance said one point of view is that the ceasefire might lead to increased oil output designed to help pay for the damage done by the war, but he said, "I do not foresee Hance added: "Everyone (in OPEC) was operating pretty well within the quota system before that war got started. In the last three cent OPEC meetings said he believes a successful ceasefire could see prices steady around $20 gers, probably 90 percent of the discussions at the OPEC meetings and 90 percent of the decisions re based on political deci sions because of the conflict between two of their members. This should get them back within the quota system.'

Hance also said he believes the 1989 Legislature should take action to limit foreign government acquisitions of energy-related

"If you own our energy, you own us," Hance said. "If they invest enough in the energy business over here, they're not going to ever need to talk to us or listen to us. They're going to have control from the wellhead to the gasoline pump. That's a major concern.

Hance, a Republican who is up for election in November, said that message would be a theme in a television advertising campaign he hopes to air during next week's Republican National Convention.

Hance said that Texas, as one of the nation's largest energy producers, should give the Railroad Commission some controls over acquisitions where a foreign power buys enough to take control of an American company — something he said is on the rise.

Bank failures

Record broken with three more closed

halfway through 1988, the record for Texas banks closed in a year has already been shattered.

Thursday, federal regulators declared three more banks in the state insolvent, and their decision to count all 40 of First Republic-Bank's former subsidiary banks as failed institutions produced a oneday total of 43 that raised the year's count to 86.

The list of failed banks soared far beyond last year's total of 50 bank failures, the previous record in

The three banks declared insolvent on Thursday were First Bank in Balch Springs, Galena Park State Bank, and West Houston National Bank of Houston.

Of the national total of 141 banks listed by the FDIC as having failed so far this year, with 17 assistance transactions, more than 60 percent have been in Texas. Texas has had four assistance transactions this

First Bank, with assets of approximately $47 million dollars, will be merged with Gateway National Bank of Dallas, said Texas Banking Commissioner Kenneth W. Littlefield on Thursday.

Galena Park State, with approximately $26.4 million in assets, will be merged with Lockwood National Bank of Houston, he said.

West Houston National, with $24.8 million in assets, will not reopen, but depositors will have access to their funds at the Texas Commerce Bank of Houston's TCB-WestLake Park branch, said Robert J. Herrmann, senior deputy comptroller of the currency.

The FDIC was named receiver for liquidation in all three cases. Lockwood National Bank of Houston will pay the FDIC a premium of $144,000 and will assume about $28.3 million of Galena Park's 5,700 deposit accounts, Littlefield said. It also will purchase about $19.6 million of the failed bank's assets.

At Galena Park State Bank, a recent examination revealed loan the bank insolvent, Littlefield said. in Dallas, an affiliated institution.

Commerce buys sixth bank

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas Commerce Bank-Houston acquired the deposits of West Houston National Bank from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., bringing to six the number of failed banks Texas Commerce has purchased during the past 10 months. officials said.

Through this process, Texas Commerce has added about $190 million in deposits including $25 million from West Houston National, 22,000 in new customer relationships, and has successfully converted one failed bank into a branch of its headquarters bank.

"Texas Commerce is committed to strengthening and solidifying the Houston economy," Merriman Morton, president of Texas Commerce Bank-Houston, said Thursday. "Our actions today, and during the other acquisitions completed over the past 20 months, help restore confidence to the city's financial community by supporting its depositors.

Texas Commerce Bank Houston is part of the fourthlargest banking organization in the country, with more than $76 billion in assets and 80 locations throughout Texas.

Littlefield said. to recapitalize and the board had Texas Commerce Bank will assume about $23.9 million and 1,800 deposit accounts of West Houston National and has agreed to pay the FDIC a purchase premium of $252,000. It also will purchase certain of the failed bank's loans and other assets for $5.2 million. The FDIC will advance about $18.5 million to Texas Commerce and will retain assets of the failed bank with a book value of about $19.7 million.

Thursday's announcement could further provoke First Republic-Bank investors who have threatened legal action over the FDIC's move. Many of the 40 banks were healthy but were declared insolvent by the government when First RepublicBank - then the state's largest bank holding company failed and was purchased recently by NCNB Corp.

Suit against Hunts nearing end

NEW YORK (AP) - Lawyers holdings, and Lamar Hunt. 56 for a Peruvian mineral concern claimed Friday that evidence they presented during five months of trial proves Texas oil tycoon Nelson Bunker Hunt and his two younger brothers were part of an alleged conspiracy to drive up silver prices. The Hunts are being sued for $150 million by Minpeco S.A., which claims the Dallas-based brothers manipulated world silver prices between 1979 and 1980 in a failed attempt to corner the market.

The trial began at federal court in Manhattan in February. U.S. District Judge Morris E. Lasker was expected to instruct the sixmember civil jury on the law Monday, paving the way for the start of deliberations

Minpeco, a mineral marketing company owned by the Peruvian government, claims the three brothers — Nelson Bunker Hunt. 62; William Herbert Hunt, 59, who also has extensive real estate owner of the National Football League Kansas City Chiefs — conspired unsuccessfully with several Middle East businessmen to corner the world silver market

Lawyers for Minpeco charge the Hunts and their Middle Eastern codefendants were responsible for the sharp rise in silver prices from about $9 an ounce to more than $50 an ounce between September 1979 and January 1980.

"How did the price get up to 50 bucks? ... How did it get up to the moon?" asked Minpeco lawyer Thomas O. Gorman.

Pointing at the three Hunt brothers, who sat with relatives in the spectator section of the courtroom, Gorman said: "They bought the pricing method of

Gorman claimed the Hunts and heir alleged co-conspirators deliberately bought thousands of silver contracts and then took delivery on enormous amounts of

He claimed that reduced supplies which "scares the shorts and the price goes up.

In his closing argument to the jury Monday. Hunt defense attorney Paul J. Curran noted that the Hunts lost more than $1 billion when the silver market collapsed

NCNB head says he's ready to start doing business in Texas

failed First RepublicBank, is ready can get back into running the kind to do business, including making energy loans that lead to Republic-Bank's demise, the new NCNB said. Texas chairman said.

During a Wednesday afternoon news conference, Chairman Francis "Buddy" Kemp said NCNB Texas will agressively seek to expand the markets of real estate. energy, large and small corporate and consumer loans.

National Bank, the successor to the Texas economy so that these banks of businesses that they had been so successful at for years." Kemp

> He added that there are good energy loans to be made, but warned that "we are definitely not the tooth fairy.'

"I think that when you have gone through all the turmoil and trauma in Texas that it's very difficult to get people to make any sort of 'We think we now bring the loan," he said. "I hope we take HOUSTON (AP) — NCNB Texas capital and liquidity back into the some degree of prudent manageable risk and go back in making loans that this bank did very well five and 10 years ago."

"We want to be the bank that can make a loan and can be paid back and can make a profit. We're talking about taking a reasonable and acceptable level risk to all the energy loans.'

Last month, NCNB was chosen by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to acquire the holdings of insolvent Dallas-based First RepublicBank, the state's largest banking firm, over five years.

few days before NCNB took over bank's branches in Texas. and has since increased that loan to $150 million. "We're glad we had the legal limit and capacity to do that. When I talk about being an energy bank, I'm talking about being competitive with the other banks in the country that are active energy lenders," he said. Kemp, who also holds the titles of president NCNB Corp. and NCNB expect all sorts of terrible, of the 15,000 a yellow rose.

National Bank of North Carolina, Kemp said First Republic made emphasized Wednesday that no an energy loan for $100 million a layoffs are planned throughout the

> "We don't know enough to know what oportunities there may be over a period of time of consolidating and centralizing and getting more efficient," he said. "But if we were to find that out ... and it would be suggested to us, it would be done over a period of time. "If you look at this as a bank merger or bank acquisition, people don't expect any of that. The changes we plan to make will be positive changes and if we've got too many employees, one way to cure that is to get more customers

Kemp, who is visiting the various NCNB Texas banks throughout Texas, said he has been overwhelmed with the lovalty and dedication of bank employees.

He thanked his employees for a week of hard work by sending each
