City Council

Boyd is city manager; Mayor: He's earned our confidence

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council appointed Hal Boyd as city manager Tuesday night to fill a two-year term.

Boyd — who has filled the position in an interim capacity since the resignation of Mack Wofford in March — will earn a $50,000 annual salary plus health and retirement benefits.

He will also continue to serve as airpark manager and Emergency Management coordinator.

"I'm pleased the council has confidence in me. I plan to continue to do the job in a way that best suits the needs of the city of Big Spring," Boyd said of the appointment.

Boyd's salary will be paid by the following different entities:

- Federal Emergency Management — $5,000.
- Howard County — $2,500.
- Airpark — $16,000.
- The remainder of his salary, including health and retirement benefits, will be paid via the city's general fund.

Boyd won the support of Mayor A.C. "Cotton" Mize and the 4 council members present: Gail Earls, Pat Deanda, Chuck Condray and D.D. Johnston.

Mize read a note given him by Councilman Sidney Clark who stated he would have voted to hire Boyd if he was present.

Clark will be out of town until Thursday on a business-related trip.

He said last week, however, he endorsed Boyd after he "satisfactorily answered" questions Clark had about him.

Councilman D.W. Overman was also absent because of a work-related matter. Overman did say last week, however, that he "wanted to see some more applications."

Mize said Boyd has earned the confidence of the council.

"We feel very strongly we have a qualified man in Hal Boyd. He's served two interim terms when the staff and the city was in turmoil and has done an excellent job reorganizing and getting the staff back to work," he said.

The hiring of Boyd is also viewed as a cost-saving move, according to Mize.

Two years ago, the city employed a full-time and assistant city manager, a full-time city attorney and an airpark manager, Mize said.

"Hal is the best person available for the price the city of Big Spring has to pay," he said.

City Attorney Jean Shotts said the council has the right to remove him from office at any time.

A.V. Burr Crocker asked the council why they did not seek other applicants and Mize responded the council felt Boyd was the best qualified man for the position.

Councilwoman Pat Deanda said she had recently received "a lot of phone calls" from people who — although they made allegations about Boyd — refused to make their complaints public.

"We have all these good-intentioned people who are not willing to come forward. It's all in-nendo. I can't act on something that's not concrete," she said.

Deanda said she believes Boyd is capable of handling the position.

Rural/Metro changes OK'd

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

After stipulating that a contract with Rural/Metro be amended regarding a fourth ambulance, the city council approved recommendations Tuesday night made by the Ambulance Advisory Committee in mid-July.

The council approved the committee's recommendations to continue to share the current $9,429 monthly subsidy with the county; increase the cost per mile from $4 to $5 to transport patients; and raise the cost of 51 medical supply items.

The city pays 55 percent of the subsidy and the county 45 percent, according to the terms of a 3-year contract.

Howard County commissioners approved the recommendations on Monday.

The problem with housing a fourth ambulance in the fire department was also finally resolved.

Rural/Metro Operations Manager Michael Black agreed that the ambulance — that is not used for medical purposes — would be kept at the ambulance service's base of operations.

Councilman Chuck Condray expressed his concern that Rural/Metro was not living up to the terms of the contract it signed.

"My concern is that we have entered into an agreement with a private company to do certain things. We're paying them and they're not doing them. It's a source of confusion," he said.

Newly-appointed City Manager Hal Boyd said when the contract was originally signed, 14 firefighters announced their intent to receive emergency medical training, but only three eventually received the training.

Black told the council he was informed by the former city manager (Mack Wofford) and former fire chief (Carl Dorton) that since the fire department did

$12.7 million budget's OK'd

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

After numerous work sessions held throughout the summer, the city council approved the first reading of its $12.7 million 1988-89 fiscal year budget Tuesday night.

Funding for a $50 per month pay increase for 240 city employees has been included and the city's ad valorem tax will remain at 68 cents, the council confirmed.

The council also made official its decision not to increase the sanitation rate for the upcoming year.

Council members decided last week to pay off approximately $670,000 in bond indebtedness that will result in access to about $201,000 — making the tax and sanitation rate increases unnecessary.

Councilwoman Gail Earls cast the only dissenting vote to the first reading of an ordinance fixing and levying the municipal ad valorem taxes at the present rate.

Earls, who has publicly supported a tax increase, said it is necessary to fund projects and make improvements within the city.

The council approved a Sept. 13 public hearing date on a request by Trinity Baptist Church officials for vacation and abandonment of the alley in Block 4.

Cole/Strayhorn addition, and conveying the same to the adjoining property owners.

Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said Claude Craven, pastor, made the request because children play in the alley and there was concern for their safety. The public hearing will begin at 5 p.m. in the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark conference room.

The council also approved a request to advertise the sale of city-owned property located in the 300 block of Northeast Eighth Street.

Councilwoman Pat Deanda said it was unfortunate that the city had to expend funds for advertis-

Texans cheer repeal of windfall profits tax

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — The windfall profits tax repeal will ease some burdens on oil companies, but Texas oil producers and politicians said more measures are necessary to help the industry bounce back from its slump.

A landmark trade bill President Reagan signed Tuesday included a provision repealing the eight-year-old windfall profits tax on domestic oil.

John E. Watson, president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, said his organization has been working for the repeal since the tax was enacted in 1980.

Low oil prices have kept oil companies from paying much of the tax during the past 2½ years, but oil producers still have had to certify production and report it to the Internal Revenue Service, Watson said.

The base crude oil price upon which the tax is levied is between $19 and $20 a barrel for independent producers, Watson said. Crude oil sold for about $15 a barrel Tuesday.

"Of course, when you're not paying any tax, and it gets repealed, it's not going to have a whole lot of immediate monetary effect on you," Watson said. "Some accounting work will be taken off our back, hopefully."

Both U.S. senators from Texas, Democratic vice presidential nominee Lloyd Bentsen and Republican Phil Gramm, played prominent roles in the effort to repeal the windfall profits tax.

In a statement released when the trade bill was passed Aug. 3, Bentsen said, "It's great news for energy producers in this country."

Gramm said in a telephone interview Tuesday that it was a "red letter day for the oil industry."

The repeal is the first positive step Congress has taken on oil in a decade, he said.

Watson said further help for the troubled oil and gas industry should come in the form of federal financial incentives for marginal and stripper wells, Watson said.

Stripper wells generally produce less than 10 barrels of oil a day. Wells are considered marginal if production is low in comparison to the amount of revenue obtained.

Books are in Deena McKeown, former Big Spring High School student and co-editor of the El Rodeo yearbook, reviews the finished product while standing among cases of the books. The yearbook will be distributed Monday through Wednesday during registration next week.

State accepts Avery as Demos' candidate

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

A state party official confirmed today that the Secretary of State's office has accepted Johnnie Lou Avery, a Big Spring businesswoman, as the Democrats' candidate for the 69th District State Representative's seat.

Jim Boynton, an elections specialist in the Democratic Party's state office in Austin, confirmed at 10:20 a.m. that Avery will be the party's candidate.

"The key decision was made last Wednesday," Boynton said, "when the Secretary of State's office accepted the report of ineligibility that Bob Slagle submitted concerning Larry Don Shaw."

"I carried the submission over there on Mrs. Avery, and they accepted that," he said. "It's filed and stamped, marked 'Received.'"

Boynton confirmed that such an acceptance ends all possibility that the Secretary of State, Jack Rains, could rule against the party in replacing Shaw with Avery.

Avery, 50, said today she is "pleased that I was confirmed. "I was expecting to be confirmed, and this is what I have been waiting for: now I can begin getting my materials printed and getting my campaign in hand."

Republican candidate Troy Fraser, a businessman who is also a Big Spring resident, commented, "I am not surprised that they were able to manipulate the election process, and create a government job for one of their own when he dropped out of the election."

"But I have to say that I believe the voters of West Texas do deserve a choice on election day, and I believe the choice will be very clear," Fraser said. "I am running because I have a strong commitment to West Texas, to protect the family budget from further tax increases."

He contended that Avery was selected as a replacement candidate because of her role as Shaw's campaign coordinator and what he described as Shaw's "personal adviser in his decisions during the last eight years."

Hearings focus on immigration law

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The fear of employer sanctions contained in the new immigration law has caused employers to discriminate against foreign-looking job-seekers, members of a U.S. House subcommittee have been told.

Immigration attorneys and civil rights representatives told the U.S. House Subcommittee at a hearing at Trinity University Tuesday that fear and confusion surround the new immigration law.

Mike Lehr, Texas field coordinator for the Federation for American Immigration Reform, said Hispanics allegedly have fallen victim to job discrimination because of the fear of employer sanctions.

"One of the principal safeguards included in (the 1986 act) to prevent discrimination against foreign-looking employees is the requirement that there be universal verification of every employee," Lehr said. "In other words, employers must ask every single employee for work authorization documents, and cannot single out only those employees they suspect of being unauthorized to work."

The Immigration Reform and Control Act allows for the legalization of aliens who have lived in the United States since 1982.

Some testimony centered on the confusion that surrounds employer sanctions for hiring illegal aliens.

Although the law provides for civil sanctions against employers, some employers say they are being threatened with criminal charges of harboring or transporting illegal aliens.

The law is "balanced legislation," U.S. Rep. Ron Mazzoli, D-Ky., chairman of the House Immigration Subcommittee, said. U.S. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, joined Mazzoli in the hearing.

The hearing at Trinity was the second held by the subcommittee, which is attempting to find out what problems have surfaced since the law took effect.

Nancy Taylor Shivers, an immigration attorney, said she would like to see the government give spouses of qualified aliens immigration privileges above and beyond existing quotas in order to maintain the family structure.

The privilege would allow spouses to live in the United States while awaiting permanent visas.

"As long as we have to wait 10 or 12 years for a visa, we're always going to have a problem with illegal immigration," Taylor told the subcommittee.

The first subcommittee hearing was held in San Angelo and focused on the agricultural guest worker program.

Police join forces to find rapist

IRVING (AP) — Authorities in the Dallas-Fort Worth area have joined forces to search for a man believed to have sexually assaulted at least 22 women at apartment complex swimming pools throughout the area since May.

Police officers in 11 area cities said the man targets lone women at pools, shows them a small semiautomatic handgun and orders them to remove their swimsuits and to perform sexual acts. After the attack, the suspect — a slender, well-dressed brunet — usually orders his victim to run away while he steals her swimsuit.

Police believe the man is responsible for sexual assaults or attempted assaults in Arlington, Benbrook, Colleyville, Euless, Farmers Branch, Fort Worth, Grapevine, Grand Prairie, Hurst, Irving and North Richland Hills.

Officials said the joint investigation has tracked details of the suspect's movements. The suspect is described as a tall man with black or brown hair combed up in a suit or a polo shirt and shorts or jeans, and is believed to drive a brown Plymouth Laser.

"The guy is most active on Mondays and Wednesdays, and between the hours of noon to about 4 p.m., but he has varied the days and hours on a few occasions," Lemons said. "Besides having an outdoor fetish, he likes knowing that the police are close behind him."

State aquarium planned

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Construction of the Texas State Aquarium could begin within a month after legal challenges over financing of the $24 million project, officials say.

Mayor Betty Turner said a judge's ruling Monday means the city can go ahead with an $11.9 million bond sale. The money should "be in hand" within 90 days, she said.

The aquarium's opening should be in Oct. 1990, officials said.

State District Judge Robert Blackmon approved the funding arrangement by giving the nod to a validation lawsuit the city filed in July.

The validation process was a forum to resolve all complaints about a 20-year lease agreement and the funding arrangement for the aquarium so the state attorney general's office could authorize an $11.9 million bond sale.

"This says it's all OK, and permanently bars anyone from filing a petition or bringing a lawsuit," said Tom Utter, assistant city manager.

He said the lawsuit also validates all issues connected to the project, including the existence of the reinvestment zone.

Child killed in highway shooting

WAXAHACHIE (AP) — Ellis County authorities are investigating the death of a 21-month-old boy who was shot in the head as he rode with his mother and an unidentified man on Interstate 35 south of Dallas.

John Redicks of Waxahachie died at 8:05 a.m. Tuesday at Methodist Central Hospital in Dallas, said Chief James Ledbetter of the Ellis County Sheriff's Department.

The child's father said the child's mother told him the shooting took place after they passed a car that was weaving on the highway. Ledbetter said a bullet from an unidentified type of gun struck the toddler as he slept in the back seat.

Kelly Reynolds, of Waxahachie, the child's father, said Rochelle Redicks, the child's mother, asked her companion to pass the car because "she thought the guy was crazy or drunk. He moved over like he was going to get out of the way and then he shot."

"He just shot at the back of the car, evidently trying to scare them. He didn't know the baby was there," said Reynolds.

"She heard five shots," Reynolds said. "He just emptied the gun."

"They killed my baby," Reynolds said as he waited at the Dallas County Courthouse, where Ellis County investigators questioned him and the child's mother. "It's just some crazy person on the street."

Sheriff's officers were unable to locate the man riding in the car.

Officers were told that the shooting occurred about 5 a.m. Tuesday near the Ellis-Dallas county line.

There are no suspects in the case and officials don't know of a motive, Ledbetter said.

Future border patrol by Guard uncertain

HOUSTON (AP) — An effort between National Guardsmen and U.S. Customs to fight drugs produced only one major seizure and doubts about manpower and funding cloud future operations, officials said.

Thirty-two guardsmen were stationed along the Texas border and began searching cargo trucks from Mexico Aug. 3. More than 100 troops were involved in the experiment in Texas, Arizona and Florida.

The troops underwent two days of training before joining in the search efforts at border checkpoints, but Lt. Col. Ed Komandosky of the Texas National Guard in Austin said Tuesday that the 32 Texas Guardsmen who took part in the exercise were part of a military police unit, and others may require more training if the joint effort is repeated.

"I think when it's finally analyzed, they'll see that the coordination between Customs and the Guard went very well, but they have to look at a couple of other things," Komandosky said.

"First of all, will there be enough money to carry on, and second, is there enough manpower available," he said. "We can spare them if that's the decision that's made from a military standpoint, but most of these guys have civilian jobs, and we don't know if they can manage these extended leaves on a more regular basis."

Guardsmen and Customs officials were searching a tractor-trailer rig at Hidalgo on the second day of the joint exercise when they uncovered more than 8,400 pounds of marijuana. But the Aug. 4 find was the only sizable find, officials said.

The exercise ended Saturday.

"The guardsmen inspected cargo and container cargo under the training and guidance of the U.S. Customs Service," said spokeswoman Judy Turner of the U.S. Customs Service's regional office in Houston. "They had no arrest authority, but were just performing inspections."

Three Hispanic agents deny discrimination

By HOLDEN LEWIS
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO (AP) — Three Hispanic FBI agents who did not join a class-action discrimination suit against the bureau say the agency is free of anti-Hispanic bias.

The FBI called the three men — including the highest-ranking Hispanic FBI agent — one after another to conclude Tuesday's testimony in U.S. District Court. The agents said they had not been discriminated against and did not believe a pattern of discrimination exists in the FBI.

But Julian de la Rosa, who last month became the agency's highest-ranking Hispanic when he was named agent in charge of St. Louis, acknowledged he once encouraged a fellow Hispanic agent to "follow his conscience" if he wanted to file a discrimination complaint through the bureau's equal employment opportunity office.

Other Hispanic agents testifying for the government Tuesday were Victor Gonzalez, the No. 2 man in the New York office, and Leroy M. Teitsworth, the second-in-command in Albuquerque.

The three are not among the 311 Hispanic agents joined in the class-action suit, which contends the FBI discriminates against Hispanics in hiring, promotion, assignment and discipline.

The plaintiffs seek unspecified damages and changes in FBI policies. About 400 of the FBI's 9,400 agents — or 4.3 percent — are Hispanic; 8 percent of the general U.S. population is Hispanic.

Under cross-examination, de la Rosa was asked about the testimony of Mike Rodriguez, an agent in San Juan, Puerto Rico, who said last week he considered filing a religious discrimination complaint against the bureau last year.

Rodriguez testified he consulted with de la Rosa about filing the complaint.

Asked Tuesday whether he had encouraged Rodriguez to file a complaint, de la Rosa testified, "I recall telling Mr. Rodriguez he should follow his conscience and do what he feels he has to do."

Rodriguez was one of about 40 agents who testified last week that Hispanic agents are transferred more often to undesirable locations, are handed assignments that are either less glamorous or more dangerous and receive less recognition for their successes.

During testimony earlier Tuesday, executive assistant FBI director John Otto said the bureau has not established a quota system to ensure Hispanics are included in a program to train agents for top management positions.

Otto, one of three No. 2 men under FBI director William Sessions, denied that Hispanics are routinely weeded out of a fast-track promotion track.

Melvin Jeter, head of the FBI's equal employment opportunity office, said Hispanic agents have filed 25 discrimination complaints in the past, and all were determined to be unfounded.

De la Rosa, Gonzalez and Teitsworth all said they had never suffered discrimination and didn't believe there is systematic bias against Hispanic FBI agents.

Under cross-examination, Teitsworth acknowledged that last October he notified his superiors by memorandum that he was opting out of the class-action suit. In December, he was promoted.

Police beat

A wild bull charged and struck a car and pickup truck Tuesday, resulting in injuries to the occupants and damage to the vehicles, according to police reports.

The bull apparently escaped. His condition is unknown.

Gene Austin Smith, 60, was driving his pickup eastbound on Interstate 20 about 5:10 p.m. and stopped to avoid striking the animal, reports stated.

The bull then turned and charged the pickup, striking it in the front and right passenger side, causing $750 in damages to the vehicle and slightly injuring Smith, according to reports.

About 5 minutes later, a car driven by Marcus Armendarez, 24, 1008 N. Gregg St., was forced to stop his vehicle when he spotted the bull in the 100 block of N.W. 12th Street, reports stated.

The bull turned and charged, striking the car on the right passenger side and ran away, according to reports.

Armendarez and three passengers were slightly injured and police estimated the bull caused $750 damage to the car, reports stated.

In a separate accident, three people sustained minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident in the 2100 block of Gregg Street about 12:15 p.m., according to police reports.

A car driven by Manuel Ruiz, 22, Rt. 1, Box 367, struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Troy Virgil Nix, 45, Stanton, while Nix was waiting to make a left turn, reports stated.

Big Spring police are also investigating:

• The assault and stabbing of a teen-aged boy by an unknown Hispanic male in the 300 block of N.E. 9th Street.

The boy's mother reported the youth was stabbed in the left knee. He was transported by private vehicle to Scenic Mountain Medical Center for treatment.

Howard County grand jury to examine 45 cases

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

A dozen investigations covering a range of crimes join three separate homicides in the 45 cases Howard County grand jurors are considering.

The slayings include that of Nickie Billingsley. Billingsley, 40, was found hanged at her residence northeast of the city Oct. 9. Gary Vern Isaacks, 39, 1012 W. Third St., faces possible indictment in the slaying. He is free on $25,000 bond.

Also facing possible indictment in the slaying of an Odessa man are two Big Spring residents and another Odessa. Robert Romero Flores, 30, and his brother Ricardo Romero Flores, 32, are being held in Howard County jail on charges of murder in the April 2 slaying of Manuel Vega Garcia.

Also charged with murder in the death is Leroy Flores Alaniz, 30, who has been returned to the Texas Department of Corrections following a finding of parole violations after a May 20 hearing.

During that hearing, Robert Flores admitted under oath that he hit Garcia in the head with a pipe on April 2, but said he did not believe he killed the man. He said he was angry with Garcia because he believed Garcia had tried to molest Flores' seven-year-old daughter.

No parole violations were found as a result of a second hearing the same day for Ricardo Flores, a parolee. Garcia, 53, was also on parole at the time of his death, as was Alaniz.

Charged in the 1986 slaying of his roommate in a Big Spring halfway house is L.H. Williams, 70, a former mental patient in Rusk and Vernon State Hospitals.

Williams was charged in the death of William Jewell, 69, who was beaten to death with a baseball bat.

He was twice found incompetent to stand trial on the murder charge and returned to state hospitals as "schizophrenic and paranoid." Williams, whose IQ is 59, has been described as mildly retarded.

A Howard County jury found him competent to stand trial Aug. 8.

The investigations expected to go before the grand jury include three sexual assault cases, two aggravated assault cases, an indecency with a child case, an aggravated sexual assault and two burglaries of a habitation cases.

An aggravated assault with a motor vehicle, a theft over $750 and a theft by appropriation are also included, as is an arson case.

Two men face charges of tampering with physical evidence. Manuel Sosa Jr., no age or address available, and Santiago Trevino face possible indictment on charges of tampering with evidence in a March 29 gunshot death, Lt. Juan Palacios confirmed Tuesday.

Fred Morales Jr., 39, was found in the 300 block of Trades Street suffering from shotgun wounds to the chest. He later died of those wounds. Howard County Justice of the Peace William Shankles has not ruled whether the death was a homicide, suicide or accident pending the grand jury's investigation of the circumstances surrounding it, he said.

A homicide indictment against Dennis C. Dunn, 39, a former Big Spring police officer now believed to be living in the Amarillo area, is also possible.

Dunn is free on $90,000 bail on charges of involuntary manslaughter following the April 12 shooting death of his 25-year-old wife, Carlye Dunn.

She was taken by private vehicle to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, according to published reports, where she was pronounced dead. Howard County Justice of the Peace Willie Grant ruled the death due to a gunshot wound to the chest — a homicide.

Dunn was suspended from the Big Spring police force following the incident, he has since been terminated by the department, Police Chief Joe Cook has said.

None of the slayings before the grand jury are capital offenses.

District Attorney Rick Hamby said last week that the grand jury would not investigate the death of a Big Spring man who died after a fall from stairs in a nightclub following a fistfight.

"When you have mutual combat, and a guy drops dead from a heart attack, you don't charge the other guy with homicide," Hamby said.

He said autopsy results showed that Domingo H. Garcia, 63, Gail Rt., probably died from a heart-attack. Garcia and another man had been involved in an altercation; Garcia fell down the stairs at Navarrette's bar, 504 N.W. Fourth St.

Investigation continues in animal cruelty case

Howard County Attorney Harvey Hooser said today that Big Spring police detectives are obtaining statements and further evidence in an animal cruelty case.

"I talked with the detective who's handling it," Hooser said of the case against Jimmie Sundry.

"He has two statements and he's getting some more, and when he brings those to me we'll look at the case again and evaluate it then," Hooser said.

Sundry, 3603 Hamilton St., has been accused by neighbors of throwing a stray cat into his fenced backyard, where his two dogs attacked and killed the cat.

The incident was reportedly witnessed by a neighbor's son, Zynoe Gonzales, 8, and his friend, C.J. Horn, 10.

An appeal of a municipal court case in which the Sundys' dogs were reportedly roaming loose in the neighborhood is pending trial in county court.

Anita Gonzales, 3605 Hamilton St., has said her son and Horn told her Sundry asked them if they knew to whom the cat belonged. When the boys said they didn't know, he lifted the cat by the neck and threw it into the backyard, where two Chowchow dogs were penned. The dogs mauled the cat and killed it, she said.

ing since a resident, Eddie Deleon Sr., had offered to pay $400 for the property.

Council members also approved the awarding of a $146,300 contract to Hester & Robertson Mechanical Contractors Inc., Big Spring, to provide air conditioning at the municipal auditorium.

Decell said the contractors will provide a less expensive "chilled air" system that will adequately cool the main auditorium, stage and the dressing and restrooms associated with the stage.

The money to fund the air conditioning was donated by private contributors for this specific project, Decell said.

Mary Thomas, the owner of a Big Spring bonding company, told the council she had been notified by mail that two vacant lots she owns must be cleaned or the city would take action.

She asked Jean Shotts, city attorney, what was expected of her. "People have a right to know what to expect," Thomas said.

Shotts said she needed to mow the grass in the lots she owns to a reasonable level.

"What you may call weeds, I might call west Texas landscape. They are not a health hazard," Thomas noted.

Shotts said when a determination is made by Leland Graves, code enforcement officer, that a piece of property in question has excessive weeds or rubbish, tall grass or presents a potential health threat, a certified and non-certified letter is mailed to the owner.

Shotts said the letter advises owners they have 10 days to clean the property.

If the property owners fail to respond to the letter, the city will make arrangements to clean the property and put a lien on it for the cost of the cleaning, Shotts advised.

The owners must pay the amount it costs to have the property cleaned in order to have the lien removed, Shotts said.

Mayor A.C. "Cotton" Mize said he felt property owners who mowed their lawns "twice a summer" would satisfy city requirements.

City Manager Hal Boyd said today the city of Big Spring is currently advertising for the position of fire chief in trade journals and area newspapers, along with a national firefighters-related publication.

The city will continue to advertise through Oct. 15, Boyd said.

Burr Lea Settles Jr. is currently serving as Acting Fire Chief.

Boyd also said that around Oct. 1 — the day the new fiscal year begins — the city will begin advertising for a full-time fire marshal.

not have the medically trained personnel to man an ambulance, there was no point in keeping it there.

Black said Rural/Metro is legally bound to have an ambulance staffed by trained personnel.

When it was agreed the contract would be amended, Condray gave his approval for the city to split a $1,000 per month subsidy for the fourth ambulance.

Councilwoman Pat Deanda said she would like to see Rural/Metro's financial records.

Several weeks ago, Councilman

Sidney Clark had requested that the ambulance service provide a balance sheet to the council, however, Black advised that those records could only be obtained by submitting a written request to Rural/Metro's business office in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Boyd said he receives a monthly operations cost statement that only outlines income and expenses.

Betty Condray said: "Speaking as a consumer... any business would like to keep a subsidy the same, but without a financial statement it's all supposition."

Windfall

Watson said. He also said tax credits are needed for exploratory wells.

Major oil companies fared well in the last quarter, mainly from industries associated with the oil business, Watson said.

"Independents, on the other hand, are still struggling. They're still falling by the wayside," said Watson, whose organization includes about 4,000 independent producers and royalty owners.

Gramm said even though oil companies have paid small amounts of the windfall profits tax the past two years, the oil industry has continued to pay an estimated $100 million annually complying with the tax rules.

The federal government has spent about $15 million each of the past two years for paperwork overseeing the tax, he said. Gramm said other measures, including tax incentives to spur drilling and complete deregulation of gas prices, are still needed to boost the industry.

Bentsen described the windfall profits tax as "a levy that singled out America's energy producers for some of the most misguided and unfair treatment in our history."

Congress passed the windfall profits tax in exchange for the phase-out of price controls on domestic oil. It was an attempt to recapture some of the money oil companies were expected to make when prices increased after full decontrol began in 1981.

About $77.3 billion in windfall profits tax has been collected since it was imposed.

No new DWI charge against Dupree

Howard County Attorney Harvey Hooser said today that unless more evidence can be obtained, he will not file a new complaint for driving while intoxicated against Assistant District Attorney William Dale Dupree.

"I need some evidence that (Dupree) was intoxicated," Hooser said. "We have one witness."

"If I file it, it will take more than that. I'll be honest with you: I don't intend to file it at this point in time."

Hooser had the option to refile the charges, Dupree's defense attorney, Robert D. (Bob) Miller had said. Charges against Dupree were originally filed following a May 6, 1987 arrest by Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper Weldon Jones.

The charges were dismissed Aug. 9 when a motion by Miller to quash the information against Dupree was granted.

Hooser did not comment on a letter filed in the case by special prosecutor William Moore, Tom Green county attorney, who had been appointed when Howard County Attorney Tim Yeats removed himself from the case.

Moore's letter alleged that improprieties had occurred in the case, and asked 32nd District Judge Weldon Kirk not to quash the information. Judge Kirk had sought written briefs in the case, according to Miller.

Miller charged that Moore's letter was improper because it was not in the proper format for a brief or a motion in the case, and because letters are not ordinarily filed in a court record.

Miller said his motion to quash the information — which succeeded when Judge Kirk dismissed the charges — was based on flaws in the prosecution's written documents, rather than on Dupree's guilt or innocence in the case.

Governor must accept resignation, says court

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas law says a proper resignation from public office must be accepted by the governor, the Texas Supreme Court said in an opinion issued today, but the chief justice said in a dissent that the court has overstepped its constitutional authority.

The court in a 7-2 decision said Secretary of State Jack Rains must put Zavala County Judge Ron Carr on the November ballot for the San Antonio appeals court seat of Rudolph Esquivel.

Texas Democrats sought the action in a lawsuit against Rains, a Republican. Rains had said he could not put Carr on the ballot because Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican, had not accepted Esquivel's resignation. Until the governor did so, Rains said, there was no vacancy.

Esquivel submitted his resignation to Clements in June, to be effective in January. The governor's office told the judge the governor would not accept the resignation until November.

In a brief filed with the court, Clements said he has broad power in accepting resignations.

The delayed effective date of Esquivel's resignation meant Clements could not appoint an interim replacement. The resignation was submitted early enough to allow both parties to choose candidates to finish out the judge's term.

Under "plain language" in a subsection of the Texas Election Code, "there are only three requirements for a resignation to be effective — that it be written, signed and delivered," said the majority opinion by Justice Raul Gonzalez, a Democrat.

"It is undisputed that Justice Esquivel's resignation met these requirements," the opinion said. "Once a resignation is written, signed and delivered to the appropriate authority, that authority has no discretion in the matter and is compelled to accept it."

Chief Justice Thomas Phillips, joined by Justice Barbara Culver, dissented. Both are Republicans and were appointed by Clements.

"Under our constitution, this court has no authority to mandamus the governor. Although the writ we conditionally grant today is nominally directed to the secretary of state, the governor is the only state official whose conduct is altered by our order," Phillips said.

"I believe our action today clearly exceeds our constitutional authority," he said.

Ex-fire chief appeals disability

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Firemen's Pension Commissioner Helen Campbell has taken under advisement an appeal by former Big Spring Fire Chief Carl Dorton that he became disabled from injuries he sustained while working as a firefighter, attorney Hardy Wilkerson said.

At an informal hearing held Tuesday in Austin, Campbell listened to presentations by Wilkerson — who is representing Dorton — and Nolan Beall and Paul Brown, chairman and vice chairman of the Firemen's Relief and Retirement Fund board.

Wilkerson said he expects Campbell to make a ruling within 3 or 4 weeks and both sides will have the opportunity to appeal that ruling to a formal hearing or in Travis County District Court.

On June 9, the Firemen's Relief and Retirement Fund board rejected Dorton's claim that the three injuries he suffered as a firefighter caused him to become disabled.

Dorton required surgery for each of the injuries, Wilkerson said.

Dorton retired as fire chief effective June 1 and currently serves as Howard County 911 administrator.

Sheriff's log

Howard County Sheriff's Department officers reported investigating the following complaints as of 8 a.m. today:

• Sharon Kim Mills, 31, 300 Jones St., was released on bonds totaling $6,000. She had been arrested by city police on charges of possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana.

• Stephen Estrada Trevino, 28, 607 N. San Antonio St., surrendered to the sheriff's office on charges of revocation of probation for driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond.

• Ricky Elyis Heffington was fined $196.50 in county court after pleading guilty to a charge of false report to a police officer. Heffington, 30, 1412 W. Third St., was given credit for time served in county jail and released after paying the balance of the fine.

• Mark Allen Nolf, 27, 2916 Old Hwy. 80, was released on bonds totaling $9,000. He had been arrested by city police on charges of evading arrest and possession of a controlled substance.

• William Shane Forgas, 21, Seminole, was released on $12,500 total bonds. He had been arrested on charges of burglary of a building and burglary of a habitation.

• Harvey Hooser reported the theft of a 1984 Dodge van from his residence on Scout Hut Road at 12:15 a.m. Sheriff's reports show Hooser said someone he knows took the vehicle. He reported it was returned to his residence at 1:05 a.m.

• Murl Williams, Transport Co. of Texas, U.S. Highway 87 North, reported the theft of a 1982 Kenworth cabover truck with a silver asphalt trailer attached. Sheriff's reports indicate the vehicle was taken by someone Williams knows and was possibly being driven to San Antonio.

• Fred Green reported damage to property at the K-C Steak House on the North Service Road for Interstate Highway 20 West. Value of the damaged property was not known.

It was incorrectly reported that Sally Ann Fica, P.O. Box 1493, was released from the sheriff's department on $2,500 bond on a charge of conspiracy to manufacture a controlled substance. Municipal Judge Gwen Fair said Fica's bond was set at $25,000.

Hardliners got more than they bargained for

Burma, the Southeast Asian neighbor of India, Thailand, China and Laos, is exotic in the extreme. Not only are its golden-spired pagodas mysterious and far away; the Texas-sized nation of nearly 40 million people has been cut off from the rest of the world since a repressive military dictator, Gen. Ne Win, seized power 26 years ago.

The aging general stepped down last month and recommended a referendum on the future of a one-party Burma. Instead, members of the Win government took it upon themselves to install yet another hated hard-line general, a man named Sein Lwin.

On the eighth day of the eighth month of 1988, a date — according to The New York Times — that Burmese astrologers foresaw as a day of bloodshed leading to a collapse of the government, the people rose up. With students and Buddhist priests in the forefront, they said no.

They said no to Sein Lwin, no to more repression and isolation, no to inept economic policies that have transformed a once-wealthy nation into one of the 10 poorest in the world. Throughout the country, according to sketchy reports, unarmed but angry protesters confronted tanks, armored cars and soldiers brandishing rifles and bayonets.

At a cost of perhaps a thousand dead, the people won a victory: After 18 days in office, Sein Lwin resigned the presidency.

Whether the astrologers are right about the government's fate, whether the Burmese people can win the war against government repression, is an open question. It depends to a great extent on the emergence of decisive leadership. So far, that doesn't seem to have happened.

Despite unconfirmed reports that local military commanders outside the capital city of Rangoon have ordered their troops not to shoot, and other reports that soldiers have joined the students, there was no sign of widespread military disaffection, as in the Philippines during that country's People's Revolution.

Nor does there seem to be a Corazon Aquino waiting in the wings. Even with Sein Lwin's departure, the government remains firmly in the hands of a cadre of several hundred active-duty and retired military officers, the same bunch that has driven Burma into economic ruin.

Burmese Socialist Path party members and paramilitary committees are scheduled to meet in Rangoon next week to name a replacement for Sein Lwin. It still might be possible for key government officials to appease the protesters.

Their demands include the holding of a multi-party referendum, an end to martial law and military brutality, freedom for imprisoned students and opponents of the government and a reduction in the cost of living. They also had called for the removal of Sein Lwin.

Unfortunately, the Burmese government appears neither as adept nor as flexible as, for example, the South Korean government, which dealt with similar demands last year.

The United States, as politically distant from Burma as most other Western nations, apparently has little leverage over events there; Great Britain, which held Burma as a colony until 1948, may have more.

About all this country can do, apparently, is to remain poised to assist the Burmese people in whatever way we can as they seek to throw off the deadening weight of military dictatorship.

Veteran warns of rights violations

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Mike Tufariello has urged us to warn all those who may be contemplating military service: When you join the armed forces, you will sign away the constitutional rights you pledge to defend.

He should know. He is a combat veteran who served in the Navy for 18 years. He was promoted to chief petty officer, and collected high evaluations and combat decorations along the way.

Then he learned that some reservists were being paid for work they didn't do. He reported his findings to higher-ups, but was told to forget it.

Tufariello is not a man who is easily cowed. He hadn't flinched under enemy fire, and he wasn't intimidated by the brass. So he continued to press his charges.

On a Friday morning, he was intercepted when he arrived for work at the Dallas Naval Air Station. He was escorted without explanation to a waiting car, which whisked him 150 miles to the Sheppard Air Force Base hospital.

Jack Anderson

Tufariello was detained in the mental ward. His anxious family wasn't notified until the next day. Not until late Monday afternoon did a psychiatrist get around to examining him. The doctor gave him a clean bill and released him for duty.

The apparent attempt to brand him a mental case failed. But Tufariello was subsequently given a poor evaluation, removed from his job and assigned menial tasks. Shipmates were supposedly warned to stay away from him because he was "nuts."

Bypassed for promotion, Tufariello retired last year at age 39. "Our youth must be warned," he wrote. "Young Americans who join the military sign away their very constitutional rights. It took me 20 years to discover I wasn't protected by the Constitution. I fought in war, but I wasn't protected by the very Constitution I represented."

As Tufariello discovered, the military can move in mysterious ways to retaliate against a troublemaker. Soldiers who cross their superiors can lay themselves open to the most disconcerting and depressing harassment.

If they persist in complaining, we have learned, they may even be hustled off to a hospital for psychiatric testing. Thereafter, the testing can appear on their records as a career blight and a deterrent for those still disposed to resist the brass.

Says James Klimaski, a Washington attorney specializing in military law: "If a superior officer doesn't like someone, he can simply send him away and have him committed. I've seen it happen at almost every rank."

People are often promoted in the armed forces, not always for their integrity and competence, but for their amiability and flexibility. Mike Tufariello had the stuff that makes an exemplary noncom, except for one stubborn quality — he refused to condone wrongdoing.

Unhappily, it appears the military honors those who cover up their superiors' misfeasance, not those who expose it. Tufariello's charges eventually were proved to be true. Yet, he was, in effect, punished for telling the truth.

FOOTNOTE: We are flooded with letters from people who want us to investigate their complaints against the government. It is impossible for us to respond to all the mail, but, from time to time, we will select a worthy cause and publish our findings in the column. Send all correspondence to Jack Anderson, P.O. Box 2300, Washington, D.C. 20013.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK — The U.S. economy is robust. Unemployment is the lowest since World War II. Peace prospects are bright and even the cantankerous Ayatollah Khomeini is signaling that he may be ready to release American hostages. All of that should add up to a landslide victory for the incumbent administration in November. So why is George Bush dragging in the polls?

For your pleasure: The one and only vivacious Vidalia onion

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Whenever I am confronted by atheists, I simply make the point that if there weren't a God and he (she) didn't love us, there wouldn't be such a thing as the beloved Vidalia onion.

Think about it: Vidalia onions, which are sweet and mild, grow only in a small part of Southeast Georgia.

Some have tried to duplicate the Vidalia in other parts of the country, but to no avail.

God, I am convinced, was traveling through what was to become

Lewis Grizzard

Southeast Georgia during the six days of creation and said, "Let there be a sweet, mild onion, and let it grow here and here only."

It was just another of the many blessings God gave us, such as spring, cool breezes, the beach and frequent flyer points.

I must admit, however, that I have had a problem with Vidalia onions over the years. I usually buy them in great quantities.

I am afraid if I don't, the Arabs will get control of Vidalias and send the price up so far I can't buy them anymore.

My problem is that I can't eat my onions fast enough, and some of my supply turn funny colors and begin to smell.

Because I absolutely abhor throwing out spoiled Vidalia onions, I set about to find a way to keep them fresh for long periods of time.

Finally, I have the answer. Friends invited me to dinner recently, and delicious baked Vidalia onions were served.

During the meal, I asked, "Do you have a problem keeping your Vidalias fresh?"

"Of course not," the husband answered. "I've got 50 pounds of them stored right now. I'll be eating Vidalia onions all winter. The best way to keep Vidalias," he went on, "is to put them in pantyhose."

"Pantyhose?"

"Yes," the wife explained. "You take a pair of pantyhose and cut off the top part."

"Then you put an onion all the way to the place where your foot goes. Then you tie a knot just above that onion and put in another on top of it. When the pantyhose are full of onions, you hang them up somewhere and they stay absolutely fresh."

"What you are doing is keeping the onions from touching one another, which is one reason they go bad if you leave them stored in, say, a sack."

"I hope you don't mind if I tell the rest of the nation about this in a column," I said to my friends.

"Fine, but I don't believe you should mention us by name," said the husband, while his wife was not in the room.

"It could be a little embarrassing if you wrote that my wife could get 50 pounds of Vidalia onions in a pair of her pantyhose."

I put my hand on what was left of my baked Vidalia and swore I would be discreet.

Is it right for a church to take sides?

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

There are three reasonable approaches to the whole idea of tax exemption for religious institutions.

The first is: There shouldn't be any tax exemptions for anybody or anything. Not for the little church around the corner, not for Harvard University, not for the Olympic Laser Sailboat Committee. That position is so defensible that it happens to be my own: The government should get out of the way of using tax policy to encourage or discourage particular activities.

The second way is to say: OK, here is your tax exemption, and here is a list of things you can't do. In days gone by, they used to call these "prohibited transactions." But they were full of holes.

Tax-exempt publications could not spend "substantial" time urging legislation, and on no account could come flat-out in favor of a political candidate.

But the business of denial or non-denial of tax exemption can become an instrument of harassment, and that is happening right now to the Catholic Church. One doubts it will ever come to a question of actually withdrawing tax exemption from the church.

On the right

I have no doubt that if that day approached, the church would contrive to meet that challenge by having a great hand reach down from the skies, pick up the U.S. Capitol, and drop it into the Potomac.

But the attempt is worth considering. It is backed, of course, by the American Civil Liberties Union, something called the National Association of Laity and a couple of dozen other pro-abortion organizations.

The alleged infraction of the church is its stand on abortion — specifically, Cardinal Humberto Medeiros of Boston, who attacked two pro-choice congressional candidates; a 1984 statement by then-Archbishop Bernard Law and 17 other bishops defining abortion as the critical issue of that year's presidential campaign; and a television appearance, also in 1984, by Archbishop John O'Connor of New York urging voters not to support candidates who take a pro-choice stance.

As it happens, the courts are winding their arguments around a technicality; namely, whether the plaintiffs have "standing" — i.e., have they suffered or will they suffer as the result of the court's verdict, and do they therefore have the right to bring a grievance before the courts?

The defense claims that any future ruling by the courts cannot do or undo anything done in 1984. The plaintiffs argue that the removal of tax exemption is the only way to guard against future infractions.

But the interesting question is extrabureaucratic. It is: Should a church have the right, while enjoying conventional tax protections, to urge the incorporation into law of a deeply held moral belief? We don't believe in polygamy; should a church be penalized for advocating anti-polygamy laws?

During the 19th century, the case against slavery crystallized above all in the churches, even as it had done in Great Britain. Was it incorrect for churches to press the case for emancipation among their parishioners? "Incorrect" in the sense that to do so would be to violate the (then-non-existent) tax code?

If a Catholic bishop were to say, "Vote for any Republican," one might properly raise the objection. But to say, "Vote for any candidate, irrespective of whether he is Republican or Democrat, who believes in protecting the life of the unborn," surely you are arguing a moral position distinguishable from the kind of partisanship the IRS is seeking to discourage.

I'd like to see action by the anti-Catholic team taken against a church that recommended voting only for candidates who believed in gay rights. But that won't happen. How come? Easy. Hypocrisy.

Guard arrested in $1 million heist

BALTIMORE (AP) — Up to $1 million in Asian artwork stolen from The Walters Art Gallery has been discovered in a museum guard's basement, authorities say.

Gregory Bartgis, 30, a museum security supervisor, was arrested at his home Tuesday, said FBI agent James Dearborn.

All 81 items reported stolen from the gallery Aug. 16 appear to have been recovered, said

Joseph Corless, agent in charge of the FBI office in Baltimore. "It looks like we've recovered all the items, plus some additional items we located that hadn't been reported stolen as yet," said police Lt. Lawrence Leeson.

Bartgis was to be charged in the theft today, Leeson said. No federal charges will be filed because the items did not leave the state, Corless said.

Man dies after falling from ride

NEW YORK (AP) — A maintenance worker on Coney Island's Cyclone roller coaster was taking a ride on his lunch break when he wriggled free of the safety bar and stood up, causing him to fall to his death, police said.

Peter Ellis, 26, was alone in the last car when he fell Tuesday, apparently ignoring signs that warn customers not to stand up, said Detective Joseph McConville.

"This guy wanted to stand up and say 'Hey!' I guess standing up is a death wish," said James Huggins, an inspector for the Department of Buildings' Elevator Division, which inspects amusement rides.

Ellis dropped about 30 feet and landed on a crossie on a lower portion of the ride's wooden track. He died instantly, authorities said.

Prison pigs get 350 tons of crackers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Officials plan to give hogs raised by the corrections department a chance to pig out on 350 tons of crackers that have been in storage 26 years.

The Oklahoma City Emergency Management Department found the crackers had not gone rancid, and began looking last month for ways to get rid of them, said department administrator Donna Grant.

She said the crackers no longer are tasty and have lost some nutritional value.

Corrections officials requested the crackers to feed the hogs. The prison system slaughters about 4,400 swine each year, and uses the pork to feed inmates.

Captain refuses to attend hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The captain of the USS Dubuque is refusing to appear at a Navy disciplinary hearing on charges of dereliction of duty for failing to rescue a boatload of Vietnamese refugees. They claim they later resorted to cannibalism to survive, the service says.

Capt. Alexander G. Balian, 48 of Los Angeles has been charged with two counts of violating lawful orders under a section of the Uniform Code of Military Justice that calls for "non-judicial punishment proceedings," said Cmdr. David Dillon, a Pacific Fleet spokesman.

Thornburgh questions action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Richard L. Thornburgh says he is concerned that a special prosecutor plan aimed at Congress by his predecessor, Edwin Meese III, is a "cure where there is no disease."

Thornburgh said in an interview Tuesday that he is taking a "second look" at an order Meese signed on his last day as attorney general that requires special investigations of members of Congress suspected of criminal wrongdoing.

"I want to find out what the underlying premise was in the issuance of the order," said Thornburgh.

The former Pennsylvania governor, who was sworn in Aug. 12, arrived in the waning days of the Reagan administration.

Demonstration

MUNICH, West Germany — Special police forces, dressed as press photographers, hold down a supposed kidnapper in a press demonstration in Munich Tuesday. The Bavarian ministry of interior organized the demonstration to show their point of view on the latest kidnapping case from Gladbeck, West Germany, when three persons were killed.

Quake's death toll rises to at least 749

DHARAN, Nepal (AP) — Police bulldozed unstable brick and mud hogs today while those left homeless by an earthquake that killed at least 749 people — sought shelter and awaited government aid.

Casualty reports continued to trickle in from remote parts of this Himalayan mountain kingdom as relief workers fanned out through the foothills and valleys. Sunday's pre-dawn quake struck near the India-Nepal border.

Some roads were flooded by heavy rains that followed the quake. Others had cracks three feet deep or were blocked by boulders the size of houses.

At least 549 people were killed in Nepal, said Tek Bahadur Thapa of the Home Affairs Ministry. Dharan was hardest hit. At least 131 bodies were found in the city of 100,000.

Indian officials have maintained since Monday that the death toll in their country was 200 or less, but the figure was questioned by opposition politicians, survivors and the local media, including the Times of India, a newspaper that generally supports the government.

They put the India death count at anywhere from 400 to 1,500.

Indian officials said 200 people were injured in the quake. Nepalese officials listed 752 injured, down from their earlier estimate of 1,000.

In Bhaktapur, a city of 50,000 where seven people died in the quake, 63-year-old Nchuhhe Raj Sakya said his five-story brick and mud house had nearly fallen down but that he and his family of 10 were still living in it.

"What else can we do?" the goldsmith said. "We have no tent. How can I leave my place?"

Prime Minister Man Singh Shrestha visited Dharan on Tuesday and surveyed heaps of bricks that were once three-story and five-story houses.

"This is the biggest calamity to strike Nepal," Shrestha said as he toured the town.

Government lifts martial law

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Authorities in Burma lifted martial law and ordered troops from the center of the capital today as hundreds of thousands of anti-government protesters marched through Rangoon, a Western diplomat and news reports said.

It was the third straight day of mass protest against Burma's one-party government, and the largest since military rule was imposed in 1962.

State-run Radio Rangoon said President Maung Maung would address the nation tonight.

The Western diplomat, speaking on condition of anonymity, said today's demonstration "attracted from several hundred thousand to up to 1 million" people in Rangoon, a city of 3.5 million.

Police clear strikers from depot

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Riot police smashed barricades to break up a strike at a coal mine and cleared strikers from an idled bus depot today, opposition sources said. Still, more than a dozen enterprises remained on strike.

Confronted by an 8-day-old strike wave posing the stiffest challenge to its rule since 1981, the Politburo called on Communist Party members "to counter attempts to stir illegal strikes," the state-run news agency PAP reported.

The stoppages have idled plants employing about 100,000 workers to press demands for legalization of the Solidarity free trade union movement, reinstatement of workers fired for union activity and wage increases.

Iraq drops mustard gas on Iran

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A U.N. team of chemical weapons experts has backed Iran's claim that Iraq dropped mustard gas on an Iranian city this month in a raid that came after both sides had accepted a U.N. cease-fire resolution.

In a note attached to the report Tuesday, Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said the bomb attack violated provisions in the 1925 Geneva Convention on the use of poison gases.

There were no reported deaths in the Aug. 2 attack on the city of Oshnaviyah, which is a few miles from the northeast corner of Iraq, though Iran said 2,680 people were injured. Baghdad denied responsibility for the raid.

City honors the Little Mermaid

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — The Little Mermaid, staring longingly out to sea from her rocky perch in Copenhagen harbor, was honored with a 21-gun salute and a laurel from the mayor as she turned 75.

She has been beheaded, had an arm cut off, and suffered various other indignities, but the bronze statue created in honor of writer Hans Christian Andersen was treated like royalty at Tuesday's celebration.

Mayor Egon Weigekamp led the party, placing a wreath of flowers around the neck of "Den Lille Havfrue," as she is known in Danish.

Children of 40 nationalities from the Copenhagen International Junior School waved flags on the quay. Older visitors were offered free beer by the brewery that financed the statue in 1913.

Woman freed again, leaves Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — An American tourist accused of terrorism left Peru for Shannon, Ireland, on Tuesday hours after she was released from jail for the second time.

Cynthia McNamara, 40, a native of Philadelphia, had been imprisoned for nearly five months on charges of taking part in an attack by guerrillas of the Maoist Shining Path movement in which two people were killed.

A Lima court cleared her on April 26 but she was rearrested on the same charges Aug. 2 and was held in jail until Monday night.

The U.S. Embassy issued a brief statement Tuesday expressing approval that she was released.

Judge orders black child returned to white family

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge ordered the city to return a black boy to his white foster parents, saying that deciding the child's placement on non-racial grounds will encourage treatment of people as individuals.

U.S. District Judge John Hanum ruled Tuesday that 5-year-old Raymond Bullard, now living with the Rev. Willie Williams and his wife, Elaine, who are black, should be returned to the home of John and Marilyn McLaughlin.

The child lived with the McLaughlins between age 5 months and 2½ years.

"Deciding Raymond's placement, not on the basis of his race, but on the quality of his relationships, will advance the strong public interest in overcoming racial discrimination and will promote the goal that citizens be treated according to their individual human qualities," Hanum wrote in his decision.

The judge said the youngster received quality care from both sets of foster parents, but he concluded that the boy had become emotionally tied to the McLaughlins, became depressed after being removed from their care and would suffer irreparable harm if he was not returned to them.

"It is evident that use of race as a sole criterion in making proper long-term foster care placements of black foster children is inadequate," Hanum wrote. "Factors such as the ability of foster parents, black or white, to care for the child, to provide a safe, secure and stable home to the child, etc., must be examined in making determinations of this kind."

Mrs. McLaughlin said she was "tickled pink" by the decision. "Just to have him home in our arms, what else can we tell you?" Williams said he did not believe it was in Raymond's best interest to be moved again. He said the child was well adjusted and was part of his family. He said he and his wife wanted to discuss the ruling with their attorney before deciding whether to appeal.

Raymond was placed with the McLaughlins in October 1983 by Catholic Social Services, a non-profit foster care agency under contract to the Philadelphia Department of Human Services.

Catholic Social Services said the placement would be for six months, then the boy would be returned to his natural mother. But his mother, who had emotional problems, was deemed not ready to resume caring for the child at the end of the six months.

In October 1985, however, Catholic Social Services advised the department that Raymond should be removed from the McLaughlins.

Living from the sea

Man casts career from tattered fishing nets

SABINE, Texas (AP) — George Bossley sits in the humid shadows underneath a house he built when he moved here after the war.

He wears the same red T-shirt he wore yesterday. He drinks an orange soda to kill the heat.

His hands move over a net in his lap, as they will until he dies.

He has always made his living from the sea, he'll tell you, and he's not about to stop now.

His is a house that smells like shrimp and salt, and is as weathered by both as he and his nets are.

At least a hundred chickens sit in the shadows with him, clucking contentedly as his hands methodically go back and forth — cutting, mending, cussing the nets that are his life.

There are nets spread out in his yard bordering Texas Bayou; there are nets hung so thick from nails on pilings underneath his house they look like tired shoulders against the sunset. There are so many nets to mend, he says, he'll never catch up.

Customers come and go from George's Bait Camp off Jetty Road, an establishment that sells bait, beer, beans and bass. The slam of a worn screen door upstairs heralds their comings and goings.

He keeps on working, scarcely ever looking up.

The net business all started when he moved here 40 years ago with an eye to shrimp and fish.

The first time he tore a net, he took it to a net repairman who "charged me $20 and worked on it maybe 15 minutes," he says. The next time he paid $15 for 10 minutes' work.

The next time, and he had watched the repairman the past two times, Bossley decided he could fix it himself.

Surprisingly enough, the net repairman gave Bossley his blessings.

"I'm an old man," Bossley says. "When I go, I'll teach you whatever you want to know."

Between his advice and that of SABINE PASS — George Bossley of Georgia's Bait Camp in Sabine Pass, spends a good part of his day, every day, under his bait camp, mending nets.

Pappy Woods, a man whose expertise earned him a reputation as a net-mender and whose expertise Bossley relied on when he got into a snag net-mending. Bossley learned the trade in between shrimp and alligator seasons.

Woods moved off to Florida and the old net-mender died, and that left Bossley with the net business literally in his lap, he says.

"It took me a long time to learn how to patch these nets," he says, after first admitting it was one winter when trapping was lousy that he really got tangled up in the net business.

He took $3,800 to Houston, he says, and returned with leads, rope, turnbuckles and bales of webbing. "When it was windy out, I'd try my hand making nets."

With webbing scattered over his small house cut all kinds of ways, "I finally got it right."

It got to where he was carrying four or five nets on his shrimp boat, while other boats carried only one or two. "If they tore them, they had to come on in and call it a day," Bossley says.

As a result of a stroke "11 to 12 years ago — you'll have to ask my wife" he occasionally loses his train of thought.

Undaunted, he just changes the subject.

"Instead of using big nets, you use the small nets. They're lots less expensive and you catch more shrimp that way."

"When you tear a big net, it costs something to fix it, if you didn't lose no webbing. When you use small nets and you tear them, nine times out of 10 you'll tear only one."

Bossley's shrimping days ended with his stroke, but his net mending continues. His two sons took after their father and his shrimping career, and "them boys tear up more nets than I can patch."

Bossley pulls the worn red cap down on his head a bit as he explains how he finds a starting place when mending a net, about how he recovered from his stroke bit by bit by walking up and down the road with the help of a cane and collecting aluminum cans with the help of a crab net.

But no matter what he talks about, the conversation always eventually turns back to his livelihood.

"It took me a long time to learn how to mend these nets," he says, still cutting twine and wiping an occasional dab of blood from one of his fingers onto his pants.

And with a hint of a grin, he adds, "But I reckon I got it down now."

Names in the news

PRINCE ANDREW

JOHNNY PAYCHECK

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew slipped out of Britain and flew to Hong Kong to rejoin his Royal Navy ship after two weeks' leave for the birth of his first child, Princess Beatrice of York.

Buckingham Palace said Tuesday the 28-year-old Royal Navy lieutenant left Gatwick Airport on Monday night, hours after the palace announced the baby's name and released the first official pictures of her, taken by the prince.

Andrew's wife, Sarah, gave birth to Princess Beatrice on Aug. 8.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — A state appeals court upheld the 1986 conviction of country singer Johnny Paycheck for shooting another man in a barroom, but ordered a lower court to reconsider the 9½-year prison sentence.

The Ohio 4th District Court of Appeals on Tuesday said the trial court erred in imposing its sentence without first holding a presentencing hearing after the conviction for aggravated assault and tampering with evidence.

Paycheck claimed self-defense in his 1985 confrontation with Larry Wise, then 37, in a Hillsboro tavern. Wise said he had been having a friendly talk with Paycheck and other bar patrons about cooking deer meat when Paycheck shouted, "I'm no country hick," and shot him, grazing his skull.

Paycheck, 49, is best known for the 1978 hit "Take This Job and Shove It." He has been free on bond, pending his appeal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, sporting a cast on his right hand, says he tried to duck a street fight with a former boxer who once lost to him, but "had no choice" when the man ripped his shirt.

Tyson, who suffered a hairline fracture in his right hand during early Tuesday's scuffle, told reporters that Mitchell Green started a fight as the champion was getting into his car outside a 24-hour clothing store.

Green ripped his shirt and "hit me on the chest. He was upset. I guess I hit him over the eye. I was nervous. I hadn't had a street fight in seven years. I was scared," Tyson said.

"We fought one time. He had a bad deal on his purse and he didn't make a great deal of money," Tyson said.

Green, a former contender for the U.S. Boxing Association heavyweight title who lost a decision to Tyson in 1986, said "Tyson popped him on the bridge of his nose," requiring five stitches, according to police spokesman Sgt. John Clifford.

Green, 31, of New York, said Tyson punched him first after he told Tyson he did not think the champ had beaten him.

Green said the fight took place outside an after-hours club, not a clothing store, according to Clifford.

No charges have been filed, police said.

Tyson's manager, Bill Cayton, said he did not know whether Tyson's Oct. 8 fight against Frank Bruno in England would have to be rescheduled because of the injury.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Mario Cuomo complains that he's only getting "salad and fish" to eat at the executive mansion because his wife and daughters are on a health kick.

"I have to smuggle pizza in," Cuomo said Tuesday, referring to the late hours he keeps in his office at the nearby Capitol.

Charity that begins at home lowers profits

DEAR ABBY: If you can solve this, you will be helping hundreds of organizations that raise money by putting on "white elephant" sales, garage sales, bake sales, used book sales, etc.

I'm referring to "pre-buying" privileges given to committee members. For years, I've watched these well-to-do women snatch up designer clothes, rare books and the choice items at rock-bottom prices. The public never even gets a chance to see them!

Don't they realize that it is those special treasures that bring in the customers? This year I saw a museum-quality book of poetry "sell" for a dollar — before the sale started.

I once baked and decorated a gorgeous cake for my club's bake sale to raffle off. I'm sure they could have made $25 from it. It was snapped up by the head of the bake sale committee — for $5.

I raised this issue once and got the cold shoulder. Abby, the only organizations I know of in this town that do not allow members special re-sale privileges are the Lions

Dear Abby

Club and the Junior League. Any ideas for halting these rip-offs?

IN THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

DEAR IN: Yes. Those who are responsible for the sale, auction, raffle or whatever should declare: "The committee shall agree on the sale price, then mark each item with the asking price. And only after the public has had first crack at all the merchandise should it be offered to members of the organization. No exception." Period.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a couple of years old, but it still bothers me. I have a sister and a brother. All of us are married and only a few years apart in age. A couple of years ago, my mother had two very nice rings. One was her engagement ring from our father, and the other was her own mother's ring. My mother asked my sister to choose the ring she wanted, then Mother gave my brother's wife the other one. I was overlooked completely. To make matters worse, my mother told everyone involved not to tell me. (I found out from a relative who didn't now it was supposed to be a secret.)

I am very hurt because my mother chose my sister-in-law over me to give something important to. The ironic part is that my sister-in-law and my brother are now getting divorced — and there goes the ring!

Every time I see my mother, I think of this ring business and feel hurt and resentful. I avoid going over to see her. I don't know what to do. I have two faces — one feels guilty for not showing my mother the affection and attention a daughter should, and the other one can't seem to get over the hurt I feel. It's not really the ring; it's the idea that I was passed over in favor of my sister-in-law.

What should I do?

HURT DEAR HURT: Call your mother and ask to meet with her — just the two of you alone. And when you meet, be totally honest. Say, "Mother, you hurt me." Then tell her why — without being judgmental or unkind. This way, the cold war — and your feelings of guilty — will come to an end.

Whether she apologizes or explains is not important. But everything will be out in the open and you will have cleared the air.

Is your social life in a slump? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular" — for people of all ages. To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

In top of double-boiler, melt chocolate and paraffin. Stir until well-blended. Add chow mein noodles and glandless cottonseed kernels, mixing until all pieces are coated. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper. Place in refrigerator or freezer for quick setting. *Chopped nuts can be substituted for cottonseed kernels.

COTTONSEED SNACK BITES

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup margarine
1 egg yolk
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 cup brown sugar
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. salt
2 egg whites
2 cups roasted, glandless cottonseed kernels
1 tsp. cinnamon

Cream together shortening, margarine, egg yolk, vanilla and 1/2 cup brown sugar. Add flour and salt; blend well. Press into greased 13x9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Beat together egg whites and 1/2 cup brown sugar until smooth. Stir in glandless cottonseed kernels and cinnamon. Spread topping evenly over baked dough. Bake 15 minutes longer, or until top is firm to the touch. Cool. Cut into bite-size bars.

Cooking with cottonseed

Imagine a new food so versatile that you could use it like beans, corn, rice or an entirely new vegetable. Imagine being able to use this food in meat dishes, casseroles, vegetable dishes, salads, desserts and even beverages.

Imagine that this food would be almost 40 percent protein, with some products made from it being over 90 percent protein.

Well, imagine no more; this food is now a reality. It comes from a by-product of cotton fiber production. This new food is known as glandless cottonseed, and it's the seed of a special type of cotton, grown for its lack of the pigment gossypol.

Cottonseed has long been known to be rich in good quality protein, but gossypol has prevented it from being developed sooner as human food.

In the type of cotton usually grown, gossypol is present in tiny glands in the seeds, stems and leaves. For this reason, this type is called glanded cotton.

Since gossypol is toxic to nonruminants, including humans, glanded cottonseed has been used mainly to feed cattle, which as ruminants are not harmed by the gossypol, and as a source of edible cottonseed oil, from which the gossypol is removed during processing.

In the early 1950s, a cotton plant containing neither gossypol nor pigment glands was found in a Hopi Indian cotton field. This first glandless cotton plant had very poor fiber yield, but it was important in that it demonstrated that cotton without gossypol was feasible.

Because cotton is grown primarily for its fiber, the obstacle of poor yield had to be overcome. Also, the early glandless cotton tended to be susceptible to disease and pests.

However, after years of research, varieties now are commercially available which are comparable in disease- and pest-resistance and fiber yield to glanded cotton.

CAUTION: Don't try to cook or eat the cottonseed planted and grown by local farmers — unless you are a cow. The gossypol in seed grown for fiber will make you sick or worse. In addition, planting seed is treated with chemicals to prevent disease and insect damage. The chemicals are also harmful if swallowed.

Original chili recipe makes woman $5,000 richer

FORT WORTH — Loanne Chiu, Fort Worth, is $5,000 richer thanks to the humble bowl of chili.

Chiu recently found out that her "Szechuan Red" chili recipe was a winner in the Premium Chili Bowl Recipe Contest sponsored by the Nabisco Biscuit Company.

Her winning recipe was selected by a panel of professionals based on the taste, originality, and appropriateness of the chili to the category entered.

Close to 11,000 contestants submitted their original chili recipes in one of five categories — Low Salt; Texas Chili, False Alarm; Anything Goes Chili; and Five Alarm Chili, the category in which Chiu's recipe was entered.

While "trendy" foods may still reign at many restaurants, millions of Americans are returning to hearty, family-style meals.

In response to this, chili is making a strong comeback in neighborhood kitchens. No longer relegated to the corner diner, chili is now popping up on dinner tables and in "white tablecloth" restaurants.

Bentsen hits 'youthful indiscretion' remark

Democratic vice president candidate Lloyd Bentsen today criticized Republican Dan Quayle over a recent vote and questioned the Indiana senator's readiness for high office, saying Americans can't risk "youthful indiscretion" in someone so close to the presidency.

The 41-year-old Quayle touted his own role in drafting jobs legislation as he sought to overcome the controversy that has plagued him in the week since he became George Bush's running mate.

Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis flew to Washington to receive the formal endorsement from the AFL-CIO.

Bush was on the West Coast with a joint campaign appearance on his schedule with a vacationing President Reagan.

Bentsen's comment about Quayle was his harshest to date, and it came in a speech to Southern legislators meeting in Lexington, Ky.

He said that Quayle was one of 11 senators to vote earlier this year against legislation making the Veterans Administration a Cabinet-level agency. Then, Bentsen said, Quayle told the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Monday his vote was a "youthful indiscretion" and he had changed his mind.

Said the 67-year-old Texas senator: "A youthful indiscretion? My friends, that vote occurred only five weeks ago."

"I don't think America can risk youthful indiscretion in someone who could become our president at any moment."

Quayle was campaigning in Cincinnati on the first stop of his first solo campaign tour since joining the GOP ticket, and he made only a wry comment about the furor surrounding his National Guard service during the Vietnam war.

"Those of you thinking for running for vice president, I want you to know that taking out your trash is a photo opportunity," he said in a reference to the reporters who greeted him with questions Tuesday morning as he dragged his trash barrels to the street.

The Indiana senator said the Job Training and Partnership Act, which helped draft in the early 1980s, had provided jobs for millions of workers, including women, minorities and the poor.

"This program is working. We have trained 3.4 million economically disadvantaged people in America so far, and there will be millions more," he said.

Quayle's appearance in Cincinnati marked the latest in a string of attempts by the Republicans to shed the controversy that has plagued the GOP ticket.

Bush told reporters on Tuesday his campaign for the White House would get back on track "whenever you stop asking me these questions."

But Bush also told a crowd of supporters gathered in front of the California State Capitol in Sacramento: "I'm not going to let some insidious rumormongers drive me to change my mind. I'm standing behind Dan Quayle."

Quayle is facing questions about his National Guard duty at the height of the Vietnam War, admission into law school and claims by former lobbyist Paula Parkinson that he propositioned her eight years ago.

Anchorage backing '94 Olympic bid

By The Associated Press

Voters in Anchorage, Alaska, overwhelmingly agreed to cover their city's expenses in a bid for the 1994 Winter Olympics, while in Oklahoma a five-term Democratic congressman expecting a tough primary routed his conservative challenger.

Five other congressional contests were decided in Oklahoma on Tuesday, none of them surprises, and both favorites triumphed in the Democratic and Republican primaries in Alaska's lone congressional district.

By a nearly 2-1 margin, voters in Anchorage agreed to assume financial responsibility for the 1994 Winter Olympics. Whether the vote will impress the International Olympic Committee remains to be seen.

With 79 of 91 precincts reporting, 26,365 voters or 66 percent favored allowing the city government to accept the risk of paying for any unanticipated debts incurred in staging the Games. Opposed were 13,878 voters or 34 percent.

"We're going to the IOC with the message that Anchorage is excited about the Olympics," said Rick Mystrom, president of the Anchorage Organizing Committee.

Defeat would have effectively eliminated the city from the list of finalists when the IOC chooses the host city during the summer Olympics in Seoul next month. The other finalists are in Norway, Bulgaria and Sweden. Albertville, France, has been chosen for the 1992 Winter Olympics. IOC officials have decided that, beginning in 1994, the Summer and Winter Olympics will be held in alternating two-year intervals.

In Tuesday's Oklahoma primaries, Rep. Mike Synar soundly defeated state Sen. Frank Shurden in the Democratic primary for Congress, despite an expected tough fight from an opponent who accused him of being too liberal.

With all precincts reporting, the five-term congressman received 62,913 votes, or 69 percent, to Shurden's 27,657, or 31 percent. Synar will be the heavy general-election favorite in the traditionally Democratic 2nd District in largely rural northeastern Oklahoma.

Quotes

DAN QUAYLE, bristling over allegations about his relationship with a woman lobbyist: "I've got a wife and three small children, and I hope there's some respect and dignity for things I did not do before we go rushing off with all these so-called rumors."

MICHAEL DUKAKIS, saying George Bush has presented no viable plan for erasing the federal budget deficit: "The vice president is talking about a flexible freeze. That's like a melting ice cube. . . . That's the son of voodoo economics."

GEORGE BUSH, asked Tuesday about the continuing controversies surrounding Quayle: "I have my confidence in Dan Quayle. Wait until you see this guy on job training and national defense. You'll be as proud of him as I am."

PRESIDENT REAGAN, lambasting the Democratic presidential ticket: "America is not going to trade away our winning team for third-stringers with a weak defense, a foreign policy of errors, curveball campaign promises, a set of policies to be named later, and billions of dollars in higher taxes."

Quayle talk doesn't square with record, group says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Vietnam veterans' group is criticizing Republican vice presidential candidate Dan Quayle for voting against what the group says are the interests of former Vietnam servicemen.

"On a number of different occasions, the Indiana senator has had a chance to show just how deep his fondness for Vietnam veterans goes, and in each case he's dropped the ball," said Mary Stout, president of the Vietnam Veterans of America.

Quayle's military record is under fire amid reports he used the influence of his powerful newspaper publishing family to join the Indiana National Guard in 1969, shortly before he would have been eligible for the draft at the height of the Vietnam War.

Quayle's office released his military records Tuesday. The 47 pages of military records show that Quayle scored below average on journalism tests he took after working more than four years as a National Guard public affairs official.

The Vietnam Veterans of America on Tuesday criticized

Quayle's votes in the past two years on veterans-related issues, including his opposition to a bill making the Veterans Administration a Cabinet-level department.

During an appearance Monday night before the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Quayle also was criticized by some veterans for that same vote.

When he introduced Quayle,

Larry W. Rivers, the VFW's senior vice commander-in-chief, was applauded when he said, "Dan, we applaud your stance on defense and foreign policy issues, but you and I still have some talking to do in the area of veterans legislation."

The Senate voted 84-11 passage on July 12 of the bill making the VA a Cabinet-level agency. Quayle was one of the 11 opposition votes.

Former Guard: I entered Quayle's unit easily

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An unemployed truck driver who served in the Indiana National Guard with Dan Quayle says he needed no special connections to secure a spot with the Guard.

Retired Sgt. Stephen W. Morell says he dropped out of college, walked into a recruitment office and was offered a clerk-typist's position within 90 days. He served side-by-side with the Republican vice presidential candidate.

"We entered the Guard the same rank and left the Guard the same rank," Morell told The Associated Press on Tuesday night. "And I was a nobody."

Sen. Quayle of Indiana has been accused of using family connections to gain a position at the Guard's Headquarters Detachment, where he eventually worked in a public information unit that published news releases and a quarterly magazine, The Indiana Guardsman.

"If his family really had all this influence like everyone says, he would have been sent directly to officer's candidate school and come out a lieutenant or captain," Morell said.

"Dan was an OK guy," Morell said. "He did his job and I did mine. We washed dishes and washed jeeps together."

Capt. Cathi Kiger, a National Guard spokeswoman, confirmed the service was below its author-

Two sons: No strings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sons of George Bush and Lloyd Bentsen say no strings were pulled to ensure their entrance into the National Guard during the Vietnam War.

George W. Bush, son of the GOP presidential candidate, and Lloyd M. Bentsen III, the son of the Democratic vice presidential candidate, discussed their military service Tuesday in response to the flap over whether family influence helped Republican vice presidential candidate Dan Quayle join the Guard and avoid being drafted for combat in Vietnam.

The younger Bush and Bentsen were Guardsmen together at Ellington Air Force Base in Houston. Both said they applied to enter the Texas Air National Guard in 1968 when it was inevitable they would be called to serve in the military.

ed strength when the then-22-year-old Quayle signed up in May 1969.

"I can find no evidence that he was given special consideration and there was no need," Kiger said. "Units that were next up to 100 percent strength could continue to recruit."

But Maj. Gen. Alfred Ahner said Tuesday that he received a call at

But the two, who had known one another in Houston before joining the same Guard unit, said they enlisted on their own without use of their fathers' influence. Their fathers have affirmed that position.

Both men said in interviews that they signed up after personally contacting the commander of the fighter group they wanted to join at Ellington.

Circumstances of joining the National Guard have become an issue in the case of Quayle, a youthful advocate of the Vietnam War who is now a hardliner on defense in the Senate.

During the Vietnam era, entrance into the National Guard was viewed by some as a way to avoid being drafted and sent to Vietnam. Quayle has denied any such motivation.

that time regarding Quayle from an editor of the Indianapolis News, one of several newspapers published by Quayle's maternal grandfather, Eugene C. Pulliam.

As a result of that call, Ahner said he contacted the Guard's personnel office on Quayle's behalf.

"They said they had a couple of spaces," Ahner told the AP on

The 'scoop' on this year's football race

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

With apologies to the vacationing Mr. Belvin, may I present the inaugural — and perhaps last — edition of The Other Steve's Stuff.

*****

Hi, sports fans. This is Scoop Reagan bringing you the highlights and the lowdowns in the world of sports. Remember — if you didn't read it here, you can probably read it elsewhere.

Today's topic: The National Football League.

Scores of so-called experts have no doubt cast you into a coma with their predictions on how the coming race for the Super Bowl. Well, guess what? Here comes another prognostication.

You're thrilled, I can tell.

But, wait; don't turn the page just yet. You haven't heard the authoritative word on the subject. With the help of correspondents (read spies) in each of the team camps — plus a lot of blind guessing

— I have devised an almost-surefire method of picking the winners and losers for this season.

But, before you squander your life savings with the nearest bookie, please remember one tiny detail — I'm making this up as I go along.

So, without further delay, let's play Scoop's Super Selections.

AFC EAST

1. Indianapolis Colts — Take Eric Dickerson and add a stingy defense, and what do you have? No passing attack, that's what.

But seriously, there is no reason the Colts can't pull an encore this season — especially if quarterback Gary "Don't call me a Cowboy" Hogeboom is healthy. Besides, when you have one of the toughest defenses in the NFL, you don't need much more than Dickerson on offense.

2. Buffalo Bills — The first of Scoop's surprise picks. Granted, the AFC East is one of the league's weakest divisions, but this group of youngsters almost crept away with the division title last year.

Give Jim Kelly and his fuzzi-faced supporting cast another year of seasoning, and the Bills could challenge for the division title or a wild-card spot.

3. Miami Dolphins — Some diehard Floridians — even those living in Texas — may take it personally, but Dan Marino and Co. are getting a mite too predictable.

Granted, the offense will score tons of points, but the defense makes the Cowboys look good — and the Dolphins still don't have a running back to take some heat off the air corps. Third place may be too kind.

4. New England Patriots — Another team on the downswing. For years, the Pats got by on a tough-as-nails defense and a steady ground game, but age is creeping its ugly way into the New England camp — and there are no fresh troops on the horizon.

The only thing keeping the Pats from the cellar is that the Jets are even worse. Speaking of last-place teams...

4. New York Jets — About the only good thing you can say about the Jets — er — Jets is that Mark Gastineau is on his last legs. This is a team with all the character of Swiss cheese — they're full of holes and something smells.

AFC CENTRAL

1. Houston Oilers — Don't laugh; I'm serious. Besides, my best friend Don will bar me from his property if I don't pick the Oilers.

Joking aside, Houston has more potential All-Stars than any other team in the league — and it's time for the potential to begin translating into results.

They'll be rockin' in the Dome this year.

2. Cleveland Browns — The Browns still have a great cast of characters, but the psychological effect of blowing two consecutive AFC title games in the final minute will begin to take a toll on the Browns.

With Kosar leading the offense, and the Dawgs being their stingy selves on defense, Cleveland will still be formidable, but they'll be taken this year.

3. Pittsburgh Steelers — The dominant team of the 1970s has been devastated by age and bad trades. Although improved in most areas, the Steelers have yet to find a capable quarterback — and without one of those, the playoffs are still a pipe dream.

Maybe next year, Steel Curtain fans.

4. Cincinnati Bengals — A prediction I believe is reliably safe is that head coach Sam Wyche will be job hunting by the season's midpoint.

Quarterback Boomer Esiason is great and wide receiver Chris Collinsworth is out of this world, but question marks abound in all the other areas. Cincinnati fans, take heart — at least they're not the Jets.

AFC WEST

1. Denver Broncos — Even with the addition of Tony Dorsett, the Broncos will win this division mostly by default. If there was any sort of competition from the other teams, I'd probably go with one of them.

The reason? The same as with Cleveland: The Broncos — after being shelled in two consecutive Super Bowls — are due for a let-down. As it is, they'll be lucky to get past the first round of the playoffs.

2. Seattle Seahawks — Another team that may be one or two years away from grabbing the title. Dave Kreig is an outstanding quarterback, but he is hampered by a lack of quality receivers — Steve Largent notwithstanding.

Even with the Boz, the defense still has a propensity to surrender an embarrassing amount of points. But in this division, that's still good enough for second place.

3. Los Angeles Raiders — Pride and poise, my foot. This team is as far removed from its Super Bowl glory years as I am from a date with Morgan Fairchild.

On offense, the Raiders have receivers aplenty, but no one to throw them the ball. Defensively, they have Howie Long and not much else.

4. Kansas City Chiefs — The Chiefs and San Diego will battle each other for last place, and the only reason I'm picking KC to avoid the cellar is that the coin came up

Tyson breaks hand in scuffle

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Tyson's defense of his world heavyweight title against Britain's Frank Bruno is in jeopardy because the champion sustained a broken right hand during an early-morning street fight with former opponent Mitch Green.

Tyson claimed at a news conference that he punched the 31-year-old Green early Tuesday morning after Green ripped his shirt and shoved into him, "ranting and raving" that Tyson and promoter Don King owed him money.

"You both owe me. I want my money," Tyson recalled Green telling him.

"I pushed him off. He came back at me. He threw a punch at me," Tyson recalled. "I was nervous. I hadn't had a fight like a street fight in seven years. I was getting paranoid because he was close to me so I defended myself."

"I had no other choice but to defend myself. He hit me in the chest. I wasn't planning to punch him. I was fighting because I was scared."

Tyson said he punched Green above the eye but damaged his own right hand in the process, causing a hairline fracture to the third metacarpal.

The break "was not of a serious nature," said the boxer's manager, Bill Cayton.

Whether Tyson's Oct. 8 fight against Bruno in Wembley, England will have to be rescheduled will be left to Dr. David Chiu, a hand surgeon. Chiu ordered that a cast be put on "really just to make sure that there is no further injury of any kind," Cayton said.

After three weeks, when the cast that covers most of Tyson's forearm is removed, Chiu will decide whether "the fight can take place with no further risk of any kind to Mike," he said.

"It will be enough time for Mike to train," Cayton said.

Tyson said the fight occurred around 4:30 a.m. outside a 24-hour clothing store, Dapper Dan's Boutique at 43 E. 125th St., where he had gone to pick up an $800 jacket.

But Green, who filed an assault complaint against Tyson, told police the fight occurred outside an after-hours club at 41 E. 125th St., where Tyson and two other men had been, according to a police spokesman, Sgt. John Clifford.

Green of Jamaica, Queens, said in interviews that Tyson punched him first after he told the unbeaten champion that he did not think he (Tyson) won their May 1986 fight. Tyson won the non-title bout on a decision.

Green said that during the argument "Tyson popped him on the bridge of his nose," Clifford said. The injury required five stitches, he said.

Tyson brought two witnesses — San Antonio Spurs' basketball player Walter Berry and Berry's cousin, Tom Smalls — to the news conference to support his version of the facts.

Both Berry and Smalls described Green as the aggressor.

"Just leave me alone," Berry quoted Tyson as telling Green.

But Berry said Green ignored the plea, grabbed Tyson's shirt and ripped it. He said that later Green knocked the rear view mirror of Tyson's car to the ground.

Tyson said he had not been at a bar but instead had just come from Brooklyn and was planning to go to breakfast after picking up the white leather jacket inscribed

Dodgers still have NY woes

By The Associated Press

More than 30 years ago, the Dodgers beat every team except the New York Yankees. Now their problem is the New York Mets.

From 1947 to 1956, the Dodgers won six pennants but lost five World Series to the Yankees. They may have moved to Los Angeles, but the Dodgers still have a New York problem. Tuesday's 5-1 loss to the Mets was the seventh in eight games against New York this year, including all five in Dodger Stadium.

NL

"They've got a very good team and they've been tough on us," said Steve Sax, who drove in the Dodgers' only run with an infield hit in the second inning. "Hopefully, we can turn it around and do better if we meet them in the playoffs. Right now we just have to go out and get them tomorrow."

"It's one of the mysteries of baseball," said David Cone, who scattered nine hits over 7 2-3 innings. "We play well against the Dodgers and we don't against the Padres. I can't put my finger on it or come up with some profound explanation."

Cone, 13-3, struck out six and walked none. Randy Myers finished with hitless relief for his 18th save and hit a run-scoring double in the ninth before Wally Backman added an RBI single.

Trailing 1-0, New York rallied for three runs in the fifth on Mookie Wilson's RBI single, Backman's run-scoring double and Keith Her-

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 2-0, Chicago beat Houston 9-3, Montreal beat San Francisco 2-1 in 13 innings, St. Louis beat Atlanta 7-0 and San Diego beat Philadelphia 9-1.

Cubs 9, Astros 3
Damon Berryhill's two-run homer and Vance Law's two-run single highlighted a seven-run seventh inning, Chicago's biggest this season.

Mark Grace broke a 2-2 tie with an RBI single and Rafael Palmeiro followed with a sacrifice fly before Law's single and Berryhill's fifth home run. Mitch Webster's run-scoring single made it 9-2.

Jamie Moyer, 7-12, gave up 12 hits and three runs, striking out seven in his third complete game. Danny Darwin, 6-10, gave up 11 of Chicago's 16 hits, allowing six runs in six-plus innings.

Pirates 2, Reds 0

Dave LaPoint, 2-0, won his second consecutive game since his trade to Pittsburgh and his fifth straight overall, giving up four hits in 7 2-3 innings. Jim Gott finished with one-hit relief for his 24th save.

Andy Van Slyke hit a two-run homer, his 22nd, as the Pirates ended a 25-inning scoreless streak.

LaPoint, traded from the Chicago White Sox on Aug. 13 for reliever Barry Jones, has given up

Texas loses wild one to Royals

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Royals had a wild time in Texas.

The Royals combined six walks with four hits and a wild pitch, rallying for eight runs with two outs in the top of the ninth inning Tuesday night for a stunning 11-7 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"You've got a four-run lead going into the ninth, you've got to figure the bullpen's going to do the job," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said. "But we ran into big trouble. We gave it away. We walked it away."

AL

Trailing 7-3, George Brett began the comeback with a single. Later, he drew a bases-loaded walk that put Kansas City ahead. The Rangers used four pitchers while Valentine and catcher Jim Sundberg were ejected.

"Winning like this has tremendous possibilities for us," Manager John Wathan said. "Now we have to take advantage of it. It's an entirely different mood in the clubhouse tonight. The music's blaring. Everybody's happy."

In other games, Minnesota downed Detroit 7-5, New York beat Oakland 5-4, Boston routed California 10-2, Toronto stopped Chicago 7-2 and Cleveland defeated Milwaukee 6-2. Seattle at Baltimore was rained out.

Texas starter Jeff Russell held the Royals to five hits and left after eight innings with a four-run lead.

"Jeff said he had nothing left," Valentine said. "It had been a long game. It was a situation where Jeff was gassed and where Mitch (Williams) hadn't pitched and I could get him into the game. But he just didn't have it."

Brett met Williams a leadoff single and Brad Wellman and Bill

Buckner drew one-out walks.

Dale Mohorcic, 2-6, struck out Bo Jackson, but pinch hitter Danny Tartabull got a two-run single and Willie Wilson's RBI single pulled Kansas City within 7-6.

Kurt Stillwell walked to load the bases and Kevin Seitzer's walk tied the score. Sundberg was ejected for arguing and reliever Guy Hoffman then walked Brett, forcing ## Cup races scheduled for Sept. 7

NEW YORK (AP) — The courtroom battle is over. Now the yacht racing battle begins.

After a year of legal maneuvering, the America's Cup showdown between Dennis Conner's Stars & Stripes and Michael Fay's New Zealand is scheduled to start Sept. 7 off the coast of San Diego.

"I'm happy it's finally going to be decided on the water instead of in the courtroom," Conner said Tuesday. "I think everyone is glad about that, with the possible exception of New Zealand."

New Zealand enters the best-of-three series as a heavy underdog because of a judge's ruling that cleared the way for Conner to race a multihull 60-foot catamaran against Fay's monohull 120-foot sloop. Traditionally, the America's Cup has been contested in 12-meter boats.

Some sailors say matching Conner's 6,000-pound boat against Fay's 70,000-pound yacht is like racing a Ferrari against a pickup truck. But Conner says his speed advantage may be offset by mechanical problems.

"You always have the possibility of a breakdown with a small boat," said Conner, who skipped the San Diego Yacht Club entry to a victory over Australia last year.

During practice sessions, masts have broken, gears have failed and the boat has capsized.

"As soon as you fix something, there always seems to be a problem somewhere else," Conner said.

Another major concern are conditions off the San Diego coast, where Conner is hoping for moderate winds of 7-11 knots and smooth water.

"If the water is rough, we could be in trouble," he said. "The New Zealand boat is much heavier than ours, which means it's much more stable."

Because the legal dispute over the rules wasn't resolved until last month, Conner has had less time to prepare than he did in 1987, when he won back the Cup he had lost in 1983.

"Last time we had seven months. This time, it's about six weeks," he said. "We haven't even had a real race yet. Our first race in this boat will be the America's Cup."

Despite his disagreements with Fay, Conner said he respects his Kiwi opponent.

"He's like an unfriendly corporate raider. I disagree with what he's doing, but I understand why he's doing it," Conner said. "It means a lot for his ego and it also means millions of dollars."

Rams may challenge Niners, Saints in NFC West

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers and New Orleans Saints lost only five regular-season games between them last season, but they share an ironic destiny this year.

Both may be better but end with worse records.

The 49ers were 13-2 last year and the Saints 12-3. But both were soundly beaten by Minnesota in their first playoff games and enter this season with schedules that by themselves could drag them down.

They should still lead the division. But the Los Angeles Rams, who faded to 6-9 last season, could surprise if they get quick help from their rookies, particularly running back Gaston Green and wide receiver Aaron Cox. The Atlanta Falcons will still trail.

San Francisco is still haunted by its 36-24 playoff loss to Minnesota. The 49ers also face a killer schedule the first half of the season as several new players move into a starting lineup that showed its age against the Vikings.

The 49ers open on the road at New Orleans and at New York against the Giants. Before October is over, San Francisco will have played Denver and Minnesota at home and the Rams and Chicago on the road.

ATLANTA FALCONS

LOS ANGELES RAMS

NEW ORLEANS SAINTS

SAN FRANCISCO 49ERS

The 49ers won Super Bowls in the 1981 and 1984 seasons and have captured five division titles in the last seven years. But last year, for the third year in a row, the 49ers lost their first playoff game decisively.

"I don't think we have any real severe weaknesses," Coach Bill Walsh said. "More likely, we're good in some areas, but maybe not great. What we have to do is find what it takes to make that last difference to take us to the championship, and we're hoping we can do that this year."

Walsh expects quarterbacks Joe Montana and Steve Young and receiver Jerry Rice to repeat their spectacular play of last year. They will be augmented by receivers Dokie Williams and Wes Chandler, acquired from the Los Angeles Raiders and San Diego Chargers in trades.

Montana has looked as strong in preseason as he did last season, when he threw for 3,054 yards and 31 touchdowns. In one stretch, he completed 22 consecutive passes against Cleveland and Green Bay.

Young played superbly as a backup, throwing 10 touchdown passes and running for 190 yards while starting three of the eight games in which he appeared. Montana will open as the starter, but Walsh says Young will play a more prominent role this season.

Rookie Danny Stubbbs at defensive end and third-round pick Bill Romanowski at linebacker should bolster a pass rush with lighter, quicker Michael Carter at noseguard and Charles Haley moved to strongside linebacker.

Cornerbacks Tim McMyer and Don Griffin held out for a month but give the 49ers one of the best pairings in the game.

The big star last year was Rice, the league's offensive player of the year. Rice led the league and set a team record with 138 points, including an NFL record 22 touchdown catches and one scoring run while playing just 12 games due to the strike. He also set an NFL record by catching touchdown passes in 13 consecutive games.

With Williams and Chandler taking some of the pressure off, Rice could be even better. Roger Craig, lighter and quicker, is the key to the running game.

After its first winning season ever, that gaudy 12-3, New Orleans was shocked by Minnesota 44-10 in the NFC wild-card game.

The Saints should be strong again under Coach Jim Mora. But the schedule problems come in the second half, when New Orleans faces the Rams twice, Washington, Denver, the Giants, Minnesota and San Francisco.

Reuben Mayes, who led the Saints last year with 917 yards rushing, had off-season surgery on his left knee and has been brought along slowly.

If he can regain his form, the Saints' running game, which averaged 146 yards in 1987, should be even stronger with the addition of top draft pick Craig Heyward, a 260-pound fullback with good hands.

Quarterback Bobby Hebert is coming off his first full season as an NFL starter and has shown maturity and confidence this summer. Hebert has a good, accurate arm and could blossom this year.

Late last year, teams loaded up the defensive front and dared New Orleans to go deep, knowing there wasn't enough speed to burn them. But Brett Perriman, the No. 2 draft choice from Miami, could change that.

The New Orleans defense is fundamental but very physical. The Saints led the league in takeaways with 48 — 30 interceptions and 18 fumble recoveries.

The heart of the defense is the linebacker corps of four-time Pro Bowler Rickey Jackson, Vaughan Johnson, Sam Mills and Pat Swilling.

The defensive line, headed by Bruce Clark and Tony Elliott, should be bolstered by the return of pass-rushing specialist James Geathers, who missed last year with an injury.

The Rams should be helped immediately by the five draft picks obtained in the Eric Dickerson trade with Indianapolis.

Although Charles White led the league in rushing last year with 1,374 yards, Green, the first pick, is expected to at least share the duty.

Another first-rounder, Aaron Cox, and second-rounder Willie Anderson are expected to help immediately at wide receiver.

Coach John Robinson said training camp was "the most competitive camp we've ever had. With the players we drafted and the veterans we have coming in, we have more pretty good football players than ever before."

If the Jim Everett-directed, Ernie Zampese-designed air game finally jells, the Rams could be very dangerous offensively.

Expos 2, Giants 1

Hubie Brooks drove in Rex Hudler with a two-out, pinch single in the 13th inning as Montreal ended its nine-game losing streak and improved to 17-5 in extra innings this season.

Scott Garrelts, 3-7, who allowed only two hits in five innings, walked Nelson Santovenia to open the 13th. Hudler pinch ran, was sacrificed to second and stole third.

Andy McGaffigan, 5-0, pitched two innings of hitless relief. Joe Hesketh pitched the 13th for his fifth save.

San Francisco, which had its five-game winning streak stopped, hit into five double plays.

Cardinals 7, Braves 0

Bob Forsch pitched a six-hitter and Tom Brunansky drove in three runs, including two with a first-inning homer.

Forsch, 8-4, struck out five, walked two and allowed one runner past second base in first complete game since he shut out Pittsburgh on Aug. 10, 1987.

John Smoltz, 1-4, pitched 1 2-3 in-home the go-ahead run.

Valentine was ejected by home plate umpire Tim Tschida after Brett's walk, which capped 12 straight balls by Texas pitchers.

"Several of those pitches could have been called strikes," Mohoric said. "But when a guy's a little wild I think the umpire has a tendency that when you throw a good pitch, he's going to think it's an accident and call it a ball."

A wild pitch by Craig McMurtry enabled another run to score. Pat Tabler walked and Wellman hit a two-run single.

"I never said anything to him," said Valentine, explaining his third ejection this season and 17th of his career. "I was asking my catcher where the pitch was on the walk to Seitzer. I was upset, no doubt, but there's nothing in the rules that says you can't be upset."

"He (catcher Mike Stanley) said the pitch was down the middle. I didn't say he (Tschida) was blind or anything. But he thought I was showing him up."

Steve Farr, 4-2, got the victory.

Twins 7, Tigers 5

Kent Hrbek's second homer of the game, a two-run shot in the 10th inning at the Metrodome, led Minnesota over Detroit for the 10th straight time.

The Twins are 10-1 against the AL East leaders this season. In last year's AL playoffs, Minnesota beat Detroit in five games. The Tigers had not lost 10 consecutive times to the same team since Boston beat them in 1975.

Hrbek hit a two-run homer in the first inning, later singled and then homered in the 10th after Kirby Puckett singled off Mike Hennemman, 6-3. All 24 of Hrbek's home runs have come against AL East teams, six versus Detroit.

Jeff Reardon, 1-4, won his first game since last Sept. 13. The Twins won their first extra-inning game in six tries this season.

Red Sox 10, Angels 2

Mike Greenwell drove in his major league-leading 100th run, sending Mike Boddicker and Boston over California.

Greenwell went 3-for-4 with an RBI single that capped a three-run fifth inning and put the Red Sox ahead 3-2. Wade Boggs also had three hits and raised his AL-leading average to .359.

Jim Rice, Rich Gedman and Todd Benzinger homered for host Boston.

Boddicker, celebrating his 31st birthday, scattered six hits over 7 1-3 innings and raised his record 10-14 overall.

Now, he said he wants to put the fight behind him.

"I really don't want to press charges because it's really ludicrous, the whole scene. I'm a victim and then he presses charges on me," Tyson said. "We fought one time. He had a bad deal on his purse and he didn't make a great deal of money."

Detective Harold Dice of the 25th Precinct said Tyson was expected to appear there today to receive a summons charging him with simple assault, a misdemeanor.

Green was unbeaten in five years of professional fighting before losing a bout for the U.S. Boxing Association title to Trevor Berbick in 1985.

On Dec. 10, 1986, Green had to be restrained when he tried to go after promoter King at a news conference at Madison Square Garden.

On Aug. 27, 1987, Green was arrested after police found drugs in his car and that his license had been suspended 54 times, police said.

A week later, he was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and driving while intoxicated after he refused to pay a toll on the Whitestone Bridge, police said.

Ex-Martin County deputy gunned down

PRETTY QUEEN — Stacy Long proudly wears Miss Martin County Pageant crown.

Two Kansas prison escapees are being held in jail without bond today on charges of capital murder after a former Martin County deputy was killed while chasing a speeding van, authorities said.

Charles Edward Smith, 22, of Deerfield, Kan., and his 31-year-old cousin, Carroll Bernard Smith of Houston, were arrested in connection with the Saturday slaying of Pecos County sheriff's deputy Tim Hudson, 61, of Fort Stockton.

Hudson worked as a Martin County sheriff's deputy from January of 1972 to May of 1977.

Two men fired at West Texas lawmen who had set up a number of roadblocks and enlisted the aid of a helicopter to aid in chasing the assailants.

Hudson was killed early Saturday morning while pursuing a van that matched the description of one carrying two men who pumped $22.50 worth of gasoline and then sped off without paying, authorities said.

Charles Smith was serving a one to five-year term for convictions in Finney County, Kan., on charges of aiding a felon, burglary and theft, said Leo Taylor, director of the Kansas State Reception and Diagnostic Center.

Carroll Smith was serving a seven- to 25-year term for burglary, theft and criminal damage to property convictions from Finney County, Taylor said.

The men also face escape charges, Taylor said. The two men arrested had walked away August 14 from the Reception and Diagnostic Center of the Kansas Department of Corrections in Topeka, Kan.

Hudson, who was a lawman for more than 30 years, died almost immediately after he was shot, said Pecos County Sheriff Bruce Wilson. Fort Stockton is town of about 10,000 residents in Far West Texas.

According to Wilson, an attendant at a service station in Bakersfield, 35 miles west of Fort Stockton, called police saying two men pumped gas and didn't pay.

Hudson spotted the vehicle about 12:10 a.m., and began the chase on Interstate 10. Five miles west of Fort Stockton, the deputy attempted to pass the van on the left.

"They would not stop," Wilson said. "He was going to pass them, but when he got beside them, they started shooting."

At least three bullets from a .357-caliber Magnum revolver were fired at Hudson's patrol car, authorities said. Authorities believe the van and possibly the gun were stolen in the Houston area.

"He took a bullet in the right shoulder, then it went into his chest," the sheriff said. "He ran in to the median and hit some cedar trees, but never did roll over."

Hudson did not fire his weapon and was unable to radio for help, authorities said. Moments later, other deputies found his body at the scene, Wilson said.

In the next few hours, law enforcement agencies from around West Texas, including a helicopter unit from U.S. Customs in San Angelo, joined the chase.

At 4:30 a.m., Reeves County officers radioed Wilson that a tractor-trailer had slowed approaching a roadblock at the intersection of Farm-to-Market Road 1450 and U.S. Highway 285. Officers gave chase after the vehicle made a U-turn.

The rig had been stolen at Coyanosa, where the van was abandoned and set afire, officers later discovered.

"They still wouldn't stop," Wilson said. "And they ran another roadblock — were firing rounds at officers. The officers were returning fire."

Five miles west of the last roadblock at the intersection of FM 1450 and State Highway 18, the vehicle was stopped in a pasture, Wilson said.

One man was arrested at the scene, while the other was found about 8:30 a.m. in an abandoned building about two miles northwest of where the rig was stopped, Wilson said. A revolver and a .22-caliber rifle were recovered, he said.

Tim Hudson, 61, of Fort Stockton died at 2:33 a.m. Saturday in Fort Stockton.

Graveside services were at 10 a.m. Monday in Monahans Cemetery, directed by Clyde Wilson Funeral Home.

He was born Sept. 9, 1926, in Peacock. He was a deputy sheriff in the Pecos County Sheriff's Department and a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife, Vera Hudson of Fort Stockton; one daughter, Gwin Pool of Monahans; one son, Mike Hudson of Monahans; his mother, Texie Bingham of Monahans; three sisters, Rita Procter and Estalene Raper, both of Monahans, and Louise Bingham of Midland; and four grandchildren.

Miss Stacy Long wears Martin County crown

By PEGGY LUXTON
Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Inc.

Stacy Long, the 1988 Miss Martin County, refused to enter the pageant when she was first approached about being a contestant. She knew she would have to invest a lot of time in practice and participation and turned Gwen Sawyer down flat.

But Gwen Sawyer does not produce the Miss Martin County Pageant yearly by being easily put off. She did not accept Stacy's refusal to be a pageant participant.

Sheri Williams, Stacy's best friend, had also been asked to be a pageant contestant. She and Stacy discussed entering the pageant, finally deciding they would have a lot of fun. It was a case of "I'll do it if you'll do it."

Stacy was a twirler last year for the Stanton High School Band. This year, she will be a feature twirler. Naturally, her selection for the talent category of the pageant was twirling. She attended a Twirling Camp on the campus of Texas Tech University earlier in the summer, where she learned new routines. Twirlers are taught the mechanics of the routines, then add their own personal touches. Stacy worked out one of these routines to the tune of "Alexander's Rag Time Band" and performed this as a demonstration of her talent.

Stacy practices her twirling routines regularly so as to be ready for performing with the band after school starts. After her sign-up as a pageant participant, she practiced for at least an hour every day for several weeks on that one routine.

Most of the girls are nervous about the swimsuit competition. This, however, was not of great concern to Stacy. Her big worry was the talent competition. Throwing a baton around on a football field or a gymnasium floor is one thing — but tossing it into the air in the confines of a stage and under spotlights is quite another thing. Her biggest fear was a slip-up that could send her baton flying out into the audience.

By the time pageant time arrived, Stacy was pretty confident, but the talent competition still loomed ahead of her. The opening number, a dance number performed to "Girls Just Want to Have Fun" went almost perfectly, and the pageant was off to a flying start. Stacy enjoyed performing in the dance number and credits her experience as a twirler in large part for her lack of nervousness.

But she did admit that if the talent competition could have been first on the program and she could have gotten it over with early, she would have been more able to relax and enjoy her participation in the show. But talent competition is suspense was dragged out.

When time for the swimsuit competition arrived, Stacy found that she was calm, confident and almost worry-free. She sailed through that competition with no problems.

But time to perform in the talent competition did finally come around. When Stacy picked up her baton and stepped into the spotlight to perform, her worries staved with her until she caught her last toss. The spotlights were reflected on the shiny metal of the baton and it was difficult to see, but she managed to make it all the way through the number with no major mistakes or catastrophes.

"When I got through the talent competition and I knew the worst was over, I could really begin to enjoy the pageant," she said.

After all the girls had appeared in evening gowns, the preliminary winners were announced. Stacy was surprised when she won the swimsuit competition. She had not had time to recover from the surprise before she was named winner in the evening gown competition.

Stacy was thrilled when her friend, Sheri, won 2nd runner-up for the title. She said, "I never considered the fact that I might win. I was already making plans to enter the contest again next year, simply because it was so much fun competing."

If Stacy was surprised when she won the swimsuit and evening (See Miss Stacy, page 2)

Proposed county budget calls for tax rate hike

Martin County Commissioners in a lengthy session last Friday concentrated on making flood insurance available in Martin County and completed their first budget workshop.

Keith Krause, with the Texas Water Commission in Austin, gave the commissioners a briefing on the National Flood Insurance Program. The commissioners voted to file application to make flood insurance available in rural Martin County.

The commissioners started their 1989 budget studies by looking at a proposed budget that calls for a slight increase in expenditures of $12,000 over the 1988 budget.

The proposal calls for a three cent increase in the county tax rate. Due to the declining tax base, this would not produce as much tax revenue as was available in the 1988 budget.

The commissioners will return to their budget work on Monday, Aug. 29 at 9 a.m. in the commissioners courtroom.

Martin County's present tax rate is 30 cents per $100 value.

Avery gains votes to face Fraser

By WALT FINLEY

Johnnie Lou Avery, Big Spring businesswoman, "could sell a corner lot in a prairie fire," according to the Dallas Morning News.

Maybe. But can she ignite a "prairie fire" of voters to defeat Republican Troy Fraser, Big Spring businessman, in the 69th District state representative race? It won't be easy. Johnnie Lou knows that.

"It's clear that I'm coming in as the underdog, with only a few weeks left to visit with the voters and give them a chance to get to know me and let them share their concerns and ideas," she said.

It really doesn't make any difference if the Democrats get someone on the ballot, Fraser said, "because we have a six-month head start, and they will find it impossible to mount a credible campaign."

Avery got her chance when Larry Don Shaw, 35, who first won his House seat in 1980, became ineligible to run in the November election because he has resigned and moved from the district, said Bob Slagle, state Democratic chairman.

The 50-year-old Avery was selected Demo state representative nominee at a meeting of 10 of the 13 county chairmen in attorney John R. Lee's office in Kermit Saturday afternoon.

District party chairman Lee said the following county chairmen voted unanimously for Avery:

Conoly, Culberson; Lynetta Jansa, Glasscock; M.H. "Slick" Boatler, Howard; Clayton Wood, Hudspeth.

Jody Miller, Jeff Davis; Mary Belle Jones, Loving; Imogene Jackson, Reagan; Robert C. Dean, Reeves and Lee, Winkler.

Chairmen not attending were: Sandra Evans, Borden; Merle Eddleman, Upton and Edna Jo Scott, Ward. (Sam Carter represented Ward County).

"These are four different possible nominees," Lee said, "But only one will be interviewed."

Following the interview, Avery said:

"I'm pleased at the confidence shown me by the county chairs in selecting me to fill the ballot in the void of State Representative Shaw's ineligibility. I look forward to conducting a positive campaign for the honor of serving as District 69 representative.

Even though I have the disadvantage of being thrust into the race very late, I have some distinct advantages to offer the voters:

1. A lifetime of involvement in a broad range of community service and leadership roles.

2. Knowledge of the district and of the political process.

3. Knowledge and experience on the important issues among which are public and higher education, jobs, economic development and diversification, rural health care and care for the aging, and our natural resources.

4. Experience and education from working with outstanding mentors in Washington and Austin. As county coordinator for Senator Lloyd Bentsen, Congressman Charles Stenholm, State Senator John Montford, and State Representative Larry Don Shaw. They have shown me how to get things done for our district by bringing people together from across the political spectrums to find common ground and build consensus. They taught me that being tough minded gets you nowhere if you can't negotiate and create coalitions.

5. And finally, I offer the voters a choice in deciding who can be the most effective in Austin.

I want to go to Austin with District 69's interests and serve as an advocate for the people. I WANT TO FIGHT FOR WEST TEXAS!

Other nominees mentioned to the executive committee were: Jeff Davis, County Judge Ann Scudday, Reagan County attorney-elect Mark Edwards and Clovis Phinney, Jr. of Coahoma.

The vote for Avery was unanimous.

Boatler said a document containing Avery's name as nominee was sent by plane after the Kermit meeting to Slagle, a Sherman attorney.

Slagle will submit the paper work to Texas Secretary of State Jack Rains, a Republican.

If Rains rules against the Democrats replacing Shaw on the Nov. 8 ballots, Lee said the party will appeal the case to district court.

Lee said he did not expect Rains to rule against the Democrats.

Fraser claims Shaw was trailing in the race and was replaced by Democratic leaders who are attempting to manipulate the election process.

On Sept. 1, Shaw will become special assistant for appropriations in state House Speaker Gib Lewis' office.

Shaw said money woes led to his decision to vacate his house seat.

A Texas Tech grad, Shaw said his livelihood has come from the family cotton farm in Knott and from real estate investments in Austin.

Although the farm showed a profit for the first time in several years, the real estate interests showed a big loss, leaving Shaw with no income beyond his $600 monthly legislative pay.

When the Austin real estate market plunged, his partners filed Chapter 7 bankruptcy, "which means I am totally obligated for the debts of business — their financial liabilities are included with mine... with other business sources in a slump, there is no way I can continue this way," Shaw said.

"I am not crying over spilt milk, and I am not unique. John Connally, Ben Barnes and a lot of other people are going through tough times, and being a member of the Texas Legislature doesn't make you immune to the economy," said Shaw.

Both Avery and Fraser are former presidents of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Avery has never run for political office. Fraser was defeated in the race for Big Spring mayor by the current Mayor A.C. "Cotton" Mize. Avery has resided in Big Spring since 1965.

She is a former Howard College administrator and is president of Avery and Associates, a management and consulting firm she founded in 1979.

She is married to Jerry Avery and they are parents of a daughter, Joni Lyn Avery Withdraw of Midland.

Reeves County Chairman Dean said, "If Johnnie Lou can carry Howard County she's in, because she'll carry Reeves County by 1,000 votes."

CELIA BURROW and MICHAEL PAYNE

Payne, Burrow exchange local wedding vows

Wedding vows were exchanged by Michael Payne and Celia Burrow on Aug. 6, at the First Baptist Church. The vows were written specifically for this occasion by the Rev. Dennis Tofano who officiated at the ceremony. Melanie Burrow attended her mother as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Stacy Payne, sister of the groom. Steven Payne, brother of the groom, served as best man and Randy Henson served as groomsmen. Lance Payne and Shane Louder were candlelighters and Rory Payne was ring bearer. Pre-wedding music was provided by Bart and Marilyn Trotter and Mike Henderson. Peggy Creech played the organ and Jerry and Sharon Lewis sang. A reception was held at the Martin County Community Center. Music was provided by Elton Williams, Buster Haggard, Billie Miles, Bart and Marilyn Trotter and Mike Henderson.

gown competitions, she was completely shocked to be named Miss Martin County. Stacy's parents, Lonnie and Carlene Long, her grandparents, and her 9-year-old brother, Nathan, were in the audience. Stacy's grandparents are Carl and Tommie McDaniel of Midland, J. D. Long of Bonham and Gigi Long of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel and Gigi Long were in the audience. As soon as the pageant was over, they came onstage to congratulate Stacy. Nathan was probably the most impressed and most excited over his sister's win.

Stacy says it really hasn't hit her yet that she is the new Miss Martin County. She says she is still shocked and very excited. She's not sure yet just what duties she will be called upon to perform, but stands ready to do whatever is required of her. She knows one duty will be to crown her successor after next year's pageant. She does plan to enter the Miss West Texas Pageant next year.

Though Stacy was reluctant at first to enter the pageant, she does not regret her decisions to do so. She said she became very close to all the other girls in the pageant and enjoyed their company throughout the preparation and performance of the pageant. She said, "I would tell any girl who is asked to enter the pageant to go ahead and do it. It's a chance to meet people you never would meet otherwise, it gives you a lot of self-confidence and it really is a lot of fun."

Stacy does plan to attend college, but at this point, she has no definite career plans or college choice. As she will be a junior student at SHS this year, she has plenty of time to make these choices.

The 1988 Miss Martin County is a charming, pretty 16-year-old. But in the glare of the spotlights, in her evening gown, wearing a crown and bearing roses, she is a most representative of the citizens of beautiful young lady and a worthy Martin County.

Fitness Fair set

By KATHRYN BURCH
County Extension Agent/H.E.

A committee of concerned citizens met last Tuesday and began making plans for the upcoming Fitness Fair. The fair has been scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Community Center.

Already on the agenda is a blood drive, cholesterol screening, mammograms, and glucose test. The Martin County Hospital has set up these activities. They are on the ball and behind the fair 100 percent. Janice Bundas is heading up these efforts.

Exhibits Chairman this year is Gary Reid.

Clubs, organizations and individuals are needed for a variety of volunteer opportunities.

A club is needed to help with the blood drive. This would include recruiting blood donors.

More Taxpayers and Professional Preparers Acquire Their Tax Knowledge Through H&R Block Course

Each year thousands of people across the United States enroll in the H&R Block Income Tax Course. Whether their reasons are personal or professional, students learn to prepare returns and bring their knowledge up-to-date on the latest tax laws. Some enroll in the course to pick up a valuable new skill; others enroll to polish up their tax preparation skills or to investigate the possibilities for a new career in the tax preparation industry.

Whatever their reasons, by enrolling in the Block course, they receive 13 weeks of training from some of the most experienced professional tax preparers in the U.S. Upon completion of the course, qualified graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Block is, however, under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with Block.

This year's tax course starts on September 7. Students may choose from morning, and evening classes. One low fee includes all materials, supplies, and textbooks. Students who successfully complete the course receive Certificates of Achievement and 7.5 continuing education credit units.

Additional information and registration forms are available from the H&R Block office at 1512 Gregg. The telephone number is 263-1931.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

It's back-to-Hester's — then it's back-to-school

Lisa Hilger, left, and Janet Hull inspect the variety of notebooks available at Hester's Back-to-School Supplies corner. Lisa likes the popular see-thru ring binder, while Janet's choice is a feline-theme binder with snap closing.

It's back-to-school time — but first it's back-to-Hester's.

From kindergarten to college, students and teachers alike depend on Hester's for their supplies. The store has set up a back-to-school corner, where all supplies are gathered in one place for the shopper's convenience.

There's all the basics such as glue, rulers, spiral notebooks, paper clips, mechanical pens, index notebook dividers and Big Chief tablets.

Then there are the newest items. According to Janet Hull, some of the new must-have items for the up-to-date student are floppy notebooks, and see-thru ring binders (you just slip-in memos, favorite photos or pencils) with the popular press-close zipper. The new erasable pen (erasable up to 72 hours!) and a liquid paper correction pen will surely come in handy.

Teachers are sure to appreciate poster putty, a product that can be used to tape posters and other lightweight items to the wall. No tape or tacks are needed — and when it's removed, it won't damage painted surfaces. In addition, teachers' plan books have just arrived.

Folders with inside pockets, and zipper pockets that fit into notebooks are other items to help students and teachers organize their work.

Hester's has spectacular fluorescent poster board in pulsating colors — yellow, orange, red glow, chartreuse and pink glow — in addition to regular colors.

Crepe paper streamers in many colors to be used on homecoming floats have arrived early this year, says Janet.

And finally, what would a school year be without Crayolas? Hester's has jumbo size, plus regular size in sets of 8, 12, 24 and 64. The 64 Crayola set has its own sharpener!

Hester's is conveniently located at 209 Runnels.

Pork referendum called Sept. 7-8

By RAMSEY ABBOTT
More summer activity.

Josephine Jones, her son, Dal Jones, and his children went to Montana for a 10-day visit with her brothers on the Blackfoot Reservation.

They went hunting and got an elk and three deer and also visited Glacier National Park which borders the reservation. It was a wonderful trip and they had a grand time.

Goldie Mayberry spent a week in Monahan, visiting her daughter, Betty and grandson, Rusty.

It was a week for rest and relaxation, after being shut-in with another daughter, who had been ill.

Lucille and Leo Payne had a wedding in the family. Their grandson, Mike Payne and Celia Burrow were married August 6th in the Baptist church.

Mike is a big favorite with everyone at the Depot and has generously supplied the music for our Christmas parties.

Bernice Neely, formerly of Stanton and now living in Clovis, N.M., was in town for a day and visited with her friend Vivia Kilpatrick.

The whole family came for Old Settlers Day and just recently Kay Harvey returned for a solo visit with her parents, O.B. and Johnie Bess Bryan.

Rosa Merrill visited her sister,

Virginia Snider, and they attended the historical pageant in the amphitheater at Crosbyton.

They enjoyed a very colorful and interesting production under the stars.

You can travel the whole world over and you won't find bigger and brighter stars or more beautiful nights than we have in Texas.

Jan Cherry, her husband Alan and sons, Marshall and Addison were in Stanton to visit her father Billy Jack and grandmother Velma Zimmerman.

Because of visiting and reunions, the band has been on vacation, but summer is over and they are eager to get started again.

If your organization or club needs entertainment, just give them a call and they will be happy to oblige.

Exercise is at ten o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and most of our participants are there because their doctors recommend it.

Combine this with walking and you have an unbeatable fitness routine.

We are planning to take part in the Fitness Fair and will have more about that in a later column.

Beginning in September, on the second Thursday of each month, starting at 6 p.m., we are going to play bingo.

Now, you'll have a choice, you can stay home and watch TV or join us for some exciting games of bingo.

Our big social of the year is coming up on Oct. 27 at the Community Center starting at six o'clock.

The Depot will furnish the barbecue and the rest of us will bring salads and desserts. Just as a preview of what you can expect that evening we are having a "Fair Lady Beauty Pageant" for seniors. So mark your calendar.

Pork producers in Martin County will have an opportunity to vote in a special referendum Sept. 7-8 as authorized by the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act of 1985.

Purpose of the referendum is to determine the continuance of the 100 percent checkoff program which provides funds for pork research and promotion to enhance the pork industry, said Greg Jones, Martin County Extension Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The checkoff is at the rate 25 cents per $100 on all hogs and pigs as well as on all imported hogs and pork products.

Referendum voting will be conducted in the county Extension office during normal business hours Sept. 7-8.

Farewell reception for Ewings set

A farewell reception honoring Rev. Tommy and JoAnn Ewing will be held Sunday, Aug. 28. It will be held in Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The Ewings have served in Stanton for over three years and have participated in community activities as well. Come bid farewell to the Ewings as they move on to Friona, to continue their ministry. The public is invited to attend.

Producers and importers unable to vote in person may request an absentee ballot from Dr. Bill Thomas, Extension Swine Specialist, Kleberg Center-Room 212, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843. Absentee ballots will be available until close of business on Aug. 23. Absentee ballot return envelopes, containing the ballot and registration/certification statements, must be signed by the voter and mailed so as to be received in the county Extension office serving the county of voter residence by close of business on Sept. 1.

All pork producers who produced and owned porcine animals in the U.S. for sale in commerce and who are subject to assessment during the representative time period of Nov. 1, 1986, through Sept. 6, 1988 are eligible to vote. Importers who imported porcine animals, pork or pork products during the representative time period also are eligible to vote. Also, eligible are 4-H, FFA and other youth who owned porcine animals and are subject to assessment during the representative time period.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will count ballots, determine the eligibility of challenged voters and ballots, and report referendum results, said Jones.

19 88 Property Tax Rates in CITY OF STANTON

This source concerns 19 88 property tax rates for CITY OF STANTON. It presents information about three tax years. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. Compare it to the tax rate the taxing unit proposes for this year. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

- Last year's operating taxes	$ 232,126.73
- Last year's debt taxes	$ 7,398.87
- Last year's total taxes	$ 240,525.60
- Last year's tax base	$ 22,88,152.00
- Last year's total tax rate	$ 1.05 /$100

This year's effective tax rate:
- Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors)	$ 239,261.01
- This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property)	$ 22,554,900.00
- This year's effective tax rate	$ 1.06 /$100
- 1.03
- Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings	$ 1.09 /$100

This year's rollback tax rate:
- Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors and adding taxes lost in court suits)	$ 231,813.95
- This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property)	$ 22,554,900.00
- This year's effective operating rate	$ 1.028 /$100
- 1.08
- This year's maximum operating rate	$ 1.11 /$100
- This year's debt rate	$ 0- /$100
- This year's rollback rate	$ 1.11 /$100

SCHEDULE A: Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following balances will probably be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Type of Property Tax Fund	Balance
Maintenance & Operation Fund	25,000.00

SCHEDULE B: 19 88 Debts Service

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

Description of Debt	Principal or Contract Payment to be Paid	Interest to be Paid	Other Amounts to be Paid	Total Payment

Letter to the editor

To The Editor:
From a friend and admirer of Deral McWhorter

Today I feel that I understand what a true Christian friend is better than I did ten years ago when I first met Deral McWhorter. This is because Deral has shown to me and many other people in this community the real qualities of Christian friendship. He has a rare ability to relate to people on a Christian basis regardless of one's belief or church affiliation. Deral can enter one's life and make him feel as if he is on the right path to become closer to God.

Deral is always there for anyone who needs him. Whether it is church, civic work, or education

Deral is able to help people have a little better day.

I just want to acknowledge the fact that I feel that my life and that of my family has been much enriched by my good friend Deral McWhorter.

This community, regardless of church denomination, has been blessed by Deral and his family. I want to say that I know personally that the good wishes and prayers of many of us will go with Deral and his family wherever God leads them. I hope that he will never change his ways of helping others and caring for others, whatever their religious feelings are. My family and I thank Deral for his loving and caring friendship.

Jim Wheeler

WALT FINLEY . . . . . EDITOR

It's a crime story exclusive

WALT FINLEY

Bush, Quayle sounds like a magazine for hunters.

While Dan Quayle was in the National Guard not one foot of Huntington, Ind., fell to the communists.

Here's an exclusive crime story. While Big Spring Mayor "Cotton" Mize and his wife, Billie, were vacationing in Ruidosa, N.M., two weeks ago a burglar looted his home and fled with items valued at $7,000.

"My daughter and her ex-husband owned a jewelry store in Kennedy. Jewelry valued at $5,000 belonged to her was stolen. A pistol belonging to my deceased brother was stolen."

A 16-year-old Hispanic was arrested. He confessed to staging the break-ins. He sold the items to a Big Spring "fence" for $200.

A lot of us will hate to see the campaign end. It's nice being wooed as voters; soon we will go back to being treated like taxpayers.

Now back to politics. Have you ever seen a presidential race with so many kinfolks campaigning?

Carter flooded the state with relatives. The only one who missed us was the one who makes little liver pills.

A Gallop poll showed Carter won in Texas, 17 family visits to 16 for Ford.

Can't we put a limit on the amount of money the candidates and their backers spend?

It seems to be almost to the point where they're buying the offices.

My wonderful aunt, Mildred Ladd, says:
"When you are voting for the declared unconstitutional, after all.

Jim Beall, overheard:
"Do you know they call girls in scanty attire 'Cheesecake?' I wonder what they call young men in scanty attire?"

They probably call them "fruit cake."

A headline proclaims the four-day work week is on its way. A member of the Herald "family" commented heatedly:
"I'll be darned if I'm going to work four days a week!"

My chunky uncle, Chester Ladd, an Okie in Muskogee, writes:
Listening to each presidential candidate has inspired me, after a fashion, to paraphrase Winston Churchill.

"Never have so many sought the White House and bragged so much, yet with so little to brag about."

Good point, Mr. Bill — and a bad point too, since our nation is likely to suffer from it. It's a problem.

Sometimes I get the feeling that our supply of presidential timber has become an endangered species, meaning many of them are wood from the neck up.

Let us hope that someone lurking in the shadows will step forward with two armfuls of split logs and wearing a stovepipe hat.

My fishin' uncle, Russ Harris, wonders, "How come they call us old folks squares when we've been around so long?"

That little abbreviation, etc., covers a multitude of "you know's."

On Washington Week via PBS recently Neil MacNeil had a gem of a quote. He said, "Power seems to corrupt and absolute power corrupts completely."

Well, he was close. Bartlett's Quotations, an unforgettable book candidate of your choice, the irony is that neither really is your choice. Perhaps they don't make them any more."

Stan of Stanton overheard in the next table at a local pizza place. "Well, new shoes hurt most when you have to buy 'em for the whole family."

Ex-women's Editor M-e-r-r-y Jo Bright says futurity is asking a simple question expecting to get a simple answer.

Frank Gonzales, known as the "Coahoma Kid," offers three quickies:
The quickest way to become an old dog is to stop learning new tricks.

Do political plums grow from seeds? No they result from clever grafting.

It's hard to say when one generation ends and the next begins, but it's somewhere around 9 or 10 at night.

I just ran across a pamphlet on the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States of America, and it's nice to know that they have not been for people interested in words and famous phrases, shows:

Unlimited power is apt to corrupt the minds of those who possess it. — Case of Wilks' speech, Jan. 9, 1970.

Power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely — Lord Acton, Letter to Bishop Mandell Creighton, (1887).

MY WONDERFUL aunt, Mildred Ladd, came up with a clipping from the Shreveport, La., Times, which reported a minister's conversation with a friend, who told about some of their questions and prayer requests to God:

One little girl said, "Dear God, my father can never get a fire started in the grill — could you please make a burning bush in our yard?" Sherrie.

A little girl named Norma asked: "Dear God, did you mean for giraffes to look like that or was it an accident?"

Little Martin wrote: "Dear God, my father is mean sometimes. Please get him not to be, but please God, don't hurt him."

Brenda asked, "Dear God, did you think up huggin'? That is a good thing."

Dan showed great perception when he wrote: "Dear God, the people in the next apartment fight real bad all the time. You should let only good friends get married."

Debbie requested: "Dear God, I would like all the bad things to stop."

A boy simply said, "Dear God, count me in, Your Friend, Herbie."

I think it was dandy Dan who said:

"While many executives think they know exactly what employees think of them, some have never been to a company picnic."

Teachers join students in new school year

September not only marks the start of another school year for more than 3 million Texas children, but also signals a return to classrooms for some 185,000 school teachers.

Joining these teachers will be approximately 27,000 instructional aides, 14,000 administrators and 16,000 support professionals ranging from counselors and librarians to psychologists and educational diagnosticians. Collectively, these individuals will account for nearly a quarter of a million people.

About 10,000 of the estimated 185,000 teachers are new educators entering a classroom for the first time. Another 12,000 are second-year teachers, the largest group among the teaching population.

On the local scene, Stanton I.S.D. will have 71 classroom teachers, six administrators, 2 counselors, 1 librarian, a nurse, six aides, and 32 other support personnel.

Before being allowed to take on the responsibility of educating the state's schoolchildren, prospective teachers are given two tests.

College sophomores wishing to enter colleges of education must take a test ensuring that they have the basic skills necessary to handle the challenges of upper division college coursework.

Graduates of teacher education programs must take the Examination for Certification of Educators in Texas (ExCET) in order to be certified to teach. The ExCET also is given to out-of-state teachers, participants in alternative teacher certification programs or teachers seeking to be certified in additional subject areas. Locally, individuals requiring assistance in making arrangements for this test should contact Morris Williamson, Director of Curriculum, Stanton I.S.D. Please call 756-2583 for an appointment.

Teachers performance also is regularly evaluated through the Texas Teacher Appraisal System (TTAS). Teachers who earn high scores on the TTAS and take additional hours of college coursework or advanced academic training are eligible for placement on the teacher career ladder, which rewards outstanding teachers with salary bonuses ranging from a minimum of $1,500.00 to as much as $6,000.00 a year.

During 1986-87, more than 95,000, nearly 50 percent, of Texas teachers earned average career ladder supplements of $1,657.00. That amounted to more than $157 million in state and career ladder requirements.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has unveiled a taxpayer bill of rights that guarantees Texas taxpayers are treated with fairness, courtesy and common sense.

"This is a pledge from me and from my employees to honor and respect the rights of all state taxpayers. I won't accept anything less," Bullock said.

The 24-point document covers a wide variety of tax and administrative policies, ranging from prompt and accurate responses to protection from unreasonable notices.

Bullock released copies of the taxpayer bill of rights at the first annual regional meeting of the National Federation of Independent Business.

Bullock said taxpayers also have a right to depend on accurate written instructions and information issued by his agency. If a taxpayer relies on incorrect written information from the Comptroller's office, then any resulting penalties will be waived.

"Texas taxpayers have many rights. Some are the result of laws passed by the Legislature and some are the result of good common sense," Bullock said.

The taxpayer bill of rights is the result of many months of hard work and research by the Comptroller's staff, since the agency's taxpayer rights rules have never before been compiled into one document, according to Bullock.

"Texas has taken the lead by setting written standards for taxpayer rights and making them easy to read and understand," Bullock said.

Bullock said the Texas taxpayers bill of rights is the first of its kind in the nation. The Internal Revenue Service and several states are preparing similar guidelines.

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative has been headquartered in Stanton since the 1940s. The Cap Rock plant is a familiar landmark next to West-Tex Telephone Cooperative on West Highway 80. The acquisition of the building formerly used by the Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, located on the west side of the telephone co-op, has increased the square footage of the plant. The same is true of the vacant lot located to the east of Cap Rock's main building.

The plant building itself has been enlarged several times over the years. In addition to the main building, warehouse and yard, the building that formerly housed the old co-op locker plant is also utilized for storage.

Though the majority of the Cooperative's membership now resides in the suburban areas surrounding cities and larger towns in the Cooperative service area, the headquarters of the Cooperative continue to be located in Stanton.

Though there are plans over the next few years to open satellite offices in those areas most densely populated by members, the removal of the headquarters to any location other than Stanton has never been considered. Nor are there any long-range plans to consider such a move.

The board of directors, management and employees of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative look forward to many more years of a very satisfactory relationship with the city of Stanton and its citizens.

Reception date Wedding

There will be a reception for Grady School Employees in the Community in the School Cafeteria Tuesday August 30 at 7 p.m. Everyone is urged to come and join in the fellowship.

Your opinion is needed as we strive to have the best little community in West Texas. This is your chance to have some input. Write us notes in the margins. Fill up the comment questions. It is time we hear what you think.

This is the best place in the world to live, but how can we make it better?

This survey is being sponsored by Southwestern Bell Telephone, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, our local Extension Community Development Committee and City Council.

Dowden, Wolf wed in Midland ceremony

Jinjer Michelle Dowden of Stanton became the bride of James Roy Wolf of Midland in a ceremony on the front lawn of his home Saturday morning, July 2.

Roger Baker of Midland officiated at the ceremony under an archway the groom built for the occasion.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George V. Dowden of Stanton.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Tom Hall of Midland, and the late James Wolf.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown designed and fashioned by Mrs. Ruth Garcia of Stanton. The princess style gown of white satin was floor length with sheer white silk organza ruffles bordering the hem, the long train, the sweetheart neckline and scooped back. White lace overlay the bodice and white bows of silk organza lined the center of the back of the flowing skirt.

The bride wore a white straw hat, covered with white flowers and a veil.

The bridal bouquet was of pale pink and white rosebuds, and white daisies surrounded by baby's breath.

The groom wore jeans and a grey western dress shirt.

Darla Casella of Abilene, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Diane Byrd of Stanton, Jana McDonald of San Leandro, Calif., Karen Douglas of Midland and Carmen Casella of Abilene, niece of the bride.

Junior bridesmaids were nieces of the bride, Amanda Dowden and Robin Casella, both of Abilene. Flower girl was Tamara Douglas of Midland.

Cleo Wolf, brother of the groom, was best man. Other attendants were Douglas Dowden, Sr. and Derek Dowden, both of Stanton, brothers of the bride; Tom Sisco and Robert Segovia, both of Midland. Michael Wolf, nephew of the groom of Midland was junior attendant and Douglas Dowden, Jr. of Abilene, nephew of the bride was ring bearer. Robert Casella of Abilene, brother-in-law of the bride was usher.

The traditional "something old" was the wedding ring of the deceased grandmother of the bride; "something new" was her wedding dress; "something borrowed" was a gold chain bracelet with a puffed heart, belonging to her cousin, and "something blue" was her garter.

Vocalists were Cleo Wolf and Carmen Casella.

The reception was held in the groom's home. The bride's table was covered with a white embroidered table cloth with pink and grey appointments.

The three-tiered cake, baked and decorated by Dennis and Johnnie Wolf, of Midland, brother and sister-in-law of the groom was covered with ivy, white and pink rosebuds and hearts.

The country-western theme of the wedding was carried out on the groom's table. It was covered with a beige burlap fringed cloth. The chocolate cake was in the shape of a horseshoe. Finger foods were served. All floral arrangements were done by Cleo Wolf.

Close friends and relatives attended the ceremony. Out-of-town guests included two of the bride's aunts: Mrs. Margarte Labosky of Overton and Mrs. Judy Dowden of Garland; Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Sparks, aunt and uncle of the bride from Stephenville; Donna Riley and son Tanner, cousins of the bride from Bluff Dale; Michelle Grogan, cousin of the bride from Grandbury; Katherine Lukens and Lesa Louder, from Lubbock.

The couple are living in Midland.

State 4-H trap, skeet shoot winners listed

4-H'ers, Leaders Charlie and Lou Smith, and parents of Martin County Super Shooters traveled to Waco Aug. 10-13 for the State 4-H Trap and Skeet Shoot.

The 3-day shoot hosted more than 200 Trap Shooters and 170 Skeet shooters from all over the state. We had 10 young people from Martin County participating in temperatures of up to 104 degrees. But a good time was had by all.

Trap results are as follows: 2-man teams-Sub-juniors: Jason and Sonja Hopper-1st, Ben Miller and Jeremy Louder-4th. Junior Division: Kenny Stewart and Shane Louder-5th.

Skeet Results: Sub-Junior individual: Sonja Hopper-6th. 2-Man teams: Sub-junior: Sonja and Jason Hopper-1st, Ben Miller and Jeremy Louder-5th, Juniors: Kenny Stewart and Shane Louder-6th.

Overall awards: Sub-junior 2-man: Sonja and Jason Hopper-1st, Ben Miller and Jeremy Louder-2nd. Junior: Kenny Stewart and Shane Louder-5th.

Two contributors to Martin County Shooting sports were inadvertently failed to be recognized. They were Courtney Gin and First Bankers Trust and Savings. We appreciate this support very much.

The Shooters take a hiatus for the next several months as far as competition meets, but any youngster interested in joining, please contact Lou or Charlie Smith (458-3337) or the County Extension Office in Stanton (756-3316).

Chamber Notes

The Chamber of Commerce would like to express their appreciation to the many volunteer workers who have given their time to provide summer activities for Martin County youth. This includes Little League, Girls Softball, T-Ball, Track Club, Junior Golf, 4-H Summer Activities, Museum Story Hour, Old Settlers Games, the various church youth events, and many others.

Without this volunteer service and the very important sponsorship by local organizations and businesses, the youth of this community would not have had the opportunities for summer activities. They have been very successful.

The attractive and well-kept yard of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schuelke at 707 North St. Paul, is this week's designated Yard-of-the-Week by the chamber. It is evident that much work is being done, as there continues to be many attractive yards in this very hot and humid August.

The Chamber of Commerce welcomed the Stanton faculty of the new school year with a coffee at the Junior High Cafeteria on Wednesday Aug. 24. The Grady faculty will be honored next Tuesday.

This annual affair is one way the Chamber expresses its appreciation for the fine work done by Martin County teachers.

Now that the school year is at hand, there will be fewer regular young visitors to the Old Jail. There is a fascination for many of the kids to see the extra-large keys and locks, and the cells that you can't get out of. They like to be "locked up" for about five minutes or so, but all agree that this would not be good for real. We enjoy the visits.

Bufs ranked second by magazine

Encouraged by the Stanton Buffalos stamping the Colorado City Wolves in Colorado City Friday afternoon, head coach Dale Ruth is optimistic about the team's chances for success in '88.

"We definitely should be better than we were last year," remarked Ruth.

The Buffalos battle Wink in Wink Friday afternoon.

Top-O-Texas Football magazine ranks Stanton second to the McCamey Badgers.

The magazine states: Blessed with a good mixture of experience, senior leadership and depth, the Buffalos will try to escape the doldrums of last year's 3-7 campaign and charge into the playoff picture this fall.

Stanton head coach Dale Ruth will welcome back 15 letter-winners when practice opens in August. # group that contains several quality athletes.

At the top of the list is senior tailback and safety Robert Jones (6-0, 165). Despite missing 2 1/2 games during his junior season, Jones (4.7.40) was named all-district after rushing for 800 yards and catching passes worth another 100 steps.

Senior Steve Scurllark (5-10, 155), who filled in for Jones last season, will also see a good deal of playing time at tailback.

Helping clear the way for Jones will be senior fullback Kevin Barnes, a 6-1, 180-pounder who also doubles as a starting linebacker. Barnes averaged 12 tackles per game a year ago.

The other returning offensive starter is 5-8, 160-pound senior guard Jeff Haggard (5-8, 160).

The quarterback position is up for grabs between senior Brad Holland (6-0, 150) and junior Randy Nevarez (5-7, 150). Starting wingback honors will go to either Randy Esparza (5-10, 160) senior, or Anthony Inman (5-11, 155) senior. Esparza is expected to reclaim his starting cornerback job on defense and handle Stanton's punting chores again. As a junior, Esparza averaged 40-plus yards per kick and was named to the all-district second team.

The Buffalos weren't a bad defensive squad in 1987, allowing just 186 points in 10 games. However, they should be improved this season with seven starters back.

The defensive regulars Ruth will be depending on are Barnes at linebacker, Esparza and Jones in the secondary, seniors Lance Jenkins (5-11, 185) and Jeff Hall

(5-10, 165) at ends and junior Richard Villa (5-11, 220) and senior George Reyna (5-11, 215) at tackles.

Ruth calls Villa one of the best college prospects ever to come out of Stanton. He mixes good strength with excellent quickness and aggressiveness.

Other players expected to join the Buffalos' charge this fall are senior linebackers Barry Cain (5-10, 165) and Eddie Jordan (5-8, 160); senior tight end Stephen Ruiz (5-11, 160); senior offensive tackles Danny Foley (5-10, 180), Tommy Anderson (6-0, 280) and Carlos Hernandez (5-10, 230); centers Matt Myrick (5-11, 200) senior, and Craig Fryar (6-2, 195) junior; guards Darrel Williams (6-0, 170) senior, David Mendez (5-10, 170) junior, and Chris Carder (5-11, 185) junior; and seniors Phillip Ornelas (5-10, 165) and Anthony Inman (5-11, 155).

On the road

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Every once in awhile someone will say to me, "I'll just bet you stay on the road all the time. Are you ever home?"

Are you kidding? I started this interviewing business so I could stay home and have a leisurely schedule. The truth is I travel less than one day a week.

I've just returned from a trip to the Panhandle. I left Tuesday morning at 6 and got to Borger at 11 a.m. I made a few phone calls, went to lunch and started interviewing at 1:30. By 8 p.m. I had completed a dozen interviews.

The next day I went to Pampa, Miami, Canadian and Darruzzett. Five more interviews.

On Thursday I did four interviews in Perryton and two more in Spearman.

I spent Friday in Dumas. My first interview was at 8:30 a.m. By 3 p.m. I had completed seven interviews and headed home, where I arrived before dark.

Let's see... that's a total of 30 interviews. If I use one every week-day, I don't have to go back on the road for weeks.

So see, I don't travel all that much. But I do meet some interesting folks. Like Slim Harrel. He was a barber during the wild oil boom days in Borger. He still has his chair set up in a part of his den which looks like a small barber shop, where he reads magazines and occasionally cuts the hair of an old friend.

I also interviewed Becky King in Borger. In 1980, she and her husband both taught school in Dalhart. During summers they would load up their kids in a camper trailer and go to Connecticut or Vermont and take Shakespeare courses. She became interested in getting kids from poor families to go to school and that led to an interest in county government. She soon was county judge.

When her husband took a job with a bank in Post, she became city manager there. She got interested in law enforcement and took a law enforcement course.

When her husband went to Borger to become President of a bank, she took on another challenge. She enrolled in Texas Tech's school of law and graduated last year. She is now assistant DA in Amarillo, where she commutes every day from her home in Borger. She is 49 years old.

During the last 8 years she went from school teacher to county judge to city manager to assistant DA. She doesn't know what's next, but she's looking forward to whatever it may be.

I think Canadian is the prettiest city in the Panhandle. It has hills like San Francisco and lots of trees. The Canadian river runs nearby. Although it is a small city, it has lots of class.

Every year, Dr. Malouf Abraham, Jr. gives 200 trees to residents of Canadian. He has done this for ten years. The only stipulation is the trees must be planted within the city limits of Canadian. He is responsible for many of the huge trees in his city and enjoys driving around and looking at them.

He is very interested in lawns and gardens and last summer went to France to study landscape architecture. He lives in a church he and his wife remodeled.

Becky King and Dr. Abraham seem to be sending the message, "You can always learn new things and you should. It makes for a richer life."

Among the interviews I got on this last trip was a young man who started raising Llamas and ostriches because he didn't have enough land to raise cattle. Then there's a report on Gary George in Perryton who has started growing pinto beans in a big way. A lady in Spearman has patented a process of copying photographs onto material. A couple outside Dumas takes care of wounded birds. A locksmith in Dumas is named "Five Thumbs" and helps people who flush their car keys down the commode at McDonald's. And a knife maker... and there's more and more...

Trip too good to be true

By NAOMI HUNT
Extension agent

A post-card arrives in the mail stating: "You have been specially selected to receive a free trip to Hawaii! Call this toll-free number for details."

You have visions of beach-combing on an exotic isle. But is this offer too good to be true? According to the Federal Trade Commission it probably is.

When you call this toll-free number, you're likely to be told you must join a travel club to be eligible for the free trip. Sometimes, a credit card number is requested so that your account can be billed for the membership fee.

With these offers, it's likely you'll be sent the vacation information package only after you have joined the club. Usually your reservation request must be accompanied by yet another fee. New charges are added at every step.

The final catch is that you may never get your "free trip" because your reservations cannot be confirmed or you can't comply with hard-to-meet hidden or expensive "conditions."

Thousands of consumers buy magazine subscriptions from legitimate salespeople over the telephone every year. Yet, according to the FTC, some people are tricked by unscrupulous salespeople into paying hundreds of dollars for multi-year subscriptions.

Focus on family

By recognizing deceptive sales techniques you can avoid becoming entangled in a magazine subscription contract you don't want and which may be difficult to escape.

Be wary of the following:

- Salespeople who avoid identifying themselves as magazine subscription salespeople or may fail to give you their name or that of their company.

- Salespeople who imply that they represent a major credit card company or that their purpose is something other than selling magazines.

- Salespeople who encourage you to make purchases without giving you total costs. They may offer magazines for just a few dollars a week without telling you what it adds up to over the length of the subscription.

- Salespeople who say their companies are "approved" or "regulated" by the federal, state or local government. In fact, no governmental body actually approves magazine-selling operations.

Bids for mineral appraisal tabled

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Awarding bids for a two-year mineral appraisal contract has been tabled pending further information about the apparent low bidder, according to records of the Howard County Tax Appraisal District Board's meeting Aug. 10.

Present were board members John Webb, Corky Harris and president Lee George. The board approved the minutes of previous meetings, on July 13 and July 20, paid the bills, heard and approved the appraisal district report and financial report before opening the bids.

The board also voted to set Sept. 14, the next regular board meeting, as the date for a public hearing on the board's budget.

Insurance coverage for district

The board instructed Chief appraiser F.E. "Gene" Pereira to get recommendations and references from present customers of Zigler and to obtain samples of the firm's work before the Sept. 14 meeting, at which the bids will be discussed again.

Two other firms, Thomas Y. Pickett & Co., and Zigler Operating Co. Inc., also bid on the contract. Pickett bid $75,000 and Zigler bid $62,000.

employees was awarded to E.P. Driver Insurance Company during the meeting, based on bidding.

Three firms submitted bids for the mineral appraisal contract. Capitol Appraisal Inc., the present appraisers, bid $71,800 for the 1989-90 contract.

The couple has seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

During their marriage they have lived in Colorado City, Snyder, El Paso and Big Spring.

Mrs. Wallace works part-time as an accountant.

Surprise gift

During an autograph party at the Big Spring Mall Saturday afternoon, Juan Baldwin was given a surprise by Pete Jenkins: A picture of Lew Jenkins, former lightweight boxing champion of the world, and the glove that delivered the knockout blow that won him that title. Pete, brother of Lew, had Juan try the glove on.

Lake discussion will head agenda

Problems created by the unprecedented level of water in Natural Dam Lake west of Big Spring will head the agenda for Colorado River Municipal Water District directors when they meet at headquarters in Big Spring 2 p.m. Aug. 24.

The Long Range Planning Committee will review the situation at an 11:30 a.m. meeting and make recommendations to the board. These will deal with impact of the water on Lake E.V. Spence quality, as well as the inundation of district pipelines to Midland-Odessa.

Up for consideration will be naming of a depository for district funds for the next biennium beginning Jan. 1, 1989; appropriation of funds for the U.S.G.S. stream gauging on the district watersheds, and funds for repairs to the terminal storage reservoir at Big Spring.

More Taxpayers and Professional Preparers Acquire Their Tax Knowledge Through H&R Block Course

Each year thousands of people across the United States enroll in the H&R Block Income Tax Course. Whether their reasons are personal or professional, students learn to prepare returns and bring their knowledge up-to-date on the latest tax laws. Some enroll in the course to pick up a valuable new skill; others enroll to polish up their tax preparation skills or to investigate the possibilities for a new career in the tax preparation industry.

Whatever their reasons, by enrolling in the Block course, they receive 13 weeks of training from some of the most experienced professional tax preparers in the U.S. Upon completion of the course, qualified graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Block is, however, under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with Block.

This year's tax course starts on September 7. Students may choose from morning, and evening classes. One low fee includes all materials, supplies, and textbooks. Students who successfully complete the course receive Certificates of Achievement and 7.5 continuing education credit units.

Additional information and registration forms are available from the H&R Block office at 1512 Gregg. The telephone number is 263-1931.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

It's back-to-Hester's — then it's back-to-school

It's back-to-school time — but first it's back-to-Hester's.

From kindergarten to college, students and teachers alike depend on Hester's for their supplies. The store has set up a back-to-school corner, where all supplies are gathered in one place for the shopper's convenience.

There's all the basics such as glue, rulers, spiral notebooks, paper clips, mechanical pens, index notebook dividers and Big Chief tablets.

Then there are the newest items. According to Janet Hull, some of the new must-have items for the up-to-date student are floppy notebooks, and see-thru ring binders (you just slip-in memos, favorite photos or pencils) with the popular press-close zipper. The new erasable pen (erasable up to 72 hours!) and a liquid paper correction pen will surely come in handy.

Hester's has the hard-to-find supplies, too. This includes biology and art drawing paper, water color sets and metric rulers.

Teachers are sure to appreciate poster putty, a product that can be used to tape posters and other lightweight items to the wall. No tape or tacks are needed — and when it's removed, it won't damage painted surfaces. In addition, teachers' plan books have just arrived.

Folders with inside pockets, and zipper pockets that fit into notebooks are other items to help students and teachers organize their work.

Hester's has spectacular fluorescent poster board in pulsating colors — yellow, orange, red glow, chartreuse and pink glow — in addition to regular colors.

Highlighter pens — so important for marking notes — are available in nine colors, including fluorescents.

Crepe paper streamers in many colors to be used on homecoming floats have arrived early this year, says Janet.

And finally, what would a school year be without Crayolas? Hester's has jumbo size, plus regular size in sets of 8, 12, 24 and 64. The 64 Crayola set has its own sharpener!

Hester's is conveniently located at 209 Runnels.
