Crossroads weather

Forecast for the Big Spring area: Flash flood watch tonight and early Saturday. Mostly cloudy with occasional showers and thunderstorms tonight and Saturday. Highs Saturday mid 80s. Lows tonight upper 60s. Thursday's high was 92 and the low was 65.

Jobless figures increase

By MATT YANCEY
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate rose to 5.6 percent in August as four months of hiring booms on factory assembly lines and in retail stores came to an abrupt halt, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the number of jobless Americans jumped by 226,000 to 6,851,000 in August while the number of those with jobs rose by only 121,000 to 115,180,000.

The 0.2 percentage point increase from July's civilian jobless rate of 5.4 percent followed a 0.1 percent rise from June's 14-year low of 5.3 percent.

Most of the increased joblessness was suffered by adult men, with their unemployment rate rising 0.4 percentage points to 4.9 percent. The jobless rate among adult women, meanwhile, fell from 5.1 percent to 4.8 percent, the Labor Department said.

A separate survey of business payrolls — which many economists consider a more reliable indicator of the economy's health — showed 219,000 new jobs in August, well below the 400,000 average monthly increase in June and July.

The last time the civilian unemployment rate was at 5.6 percent was in May.

The goods-producing side of the economy lost jobs for the first time since last January, with employment in manufacturing dropping by 5,000 after a 70,000 jump in July.

The Labor Department said small employment gains in printing and publishing and export-related industries such as machinery and electrical equipment were more than offset by 9,000 job losses in textile and apparel plants and smaller declines in several other manufacturing industries.

Employment in oil and gas drilling also declined slightly, but it rose a minuscule 3,000 jobs in construction.

On the services side of the economy, large monthly increases in retail trade hiring — 80,000 in July alone — slowed to just 23,000 new jobs last month, virtually all in grocery stores.

Postal position filled by Richie

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

It's official: After six months without one, a postmaster has been named for Big Spring.

Howard Richie — the Los Alamos, N.M. postmaster — has been confirmed as the new postmaster in Big Spring and is to begin work Sept. 10, Vaughn Musgrave, director of marketing at the El Paso Post Office, said Thursday.

Richie's selection by El Paso Postmaster Jesse Durazo last week was confirmed by postal officials in Tucson, Ariz. on Wednesday, Musgrave said.

Richie, 50, was selected over three other candidates, including James Abbe, Big Spring, following interviews Aug. 18.

Abbe worked in Big Spring for 20 years before transferring to Midland in 1972 and currently serves as superintendent of support services there.

Richie has served as postmaster in Los Alamos since September 1981 and is a 23-year veteran of the postal service.

He began his postal career in 1965 as a letter carrier in Albuquerque and held the position of manager of budget/costs there before being named postmaster at Los Alamos.

Richie said Wednesday in a telephone interview that he was surprised that his selection was confirmed so quickly.

"I didn't expect it this fast. I've never seen them (postal officials) make a decision this quickly and I work for the postal service," he said.

He added that he may be coming to Big Spring this weekend to look for living accommodations.

Downpour causes flooding, power outages

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Heavy rains in Big Spring caused minor street flooding early today and a brief power failure was reported in the southern sections of the city, however, no major problems were occurred, officials said.

Patrol Lt. J.D. Carter said no major traffic problems were reported despite the 3 1/2 to 4 inches of rain that fell in the city.

Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said water was backed up in two sections of the Jones Valley area, but he expected the water to drain rapidly and didn't foresee any flooding problems.

Roadblocks were placed at the intersections of Second and Owens streets and Alamesa Drive and Parkway Road early Friday and several stalled cars were reported in those areas between 1 a.m. and 2 a.m., according to a police dispatcher.

Carter said heavy rains usually cause high water to back up in those sections of Big Spring, but he hasn't received any reports of traffic problems.

Texas Utilities Costs Operations Supervisor Cheryl Stevens said there was a brief power failure in the southern sections of Big Spring about 1 a.m. that was caused by heavy rain and lightning.

Power was restored quickly, however, Stevens said.

Some street flooding was reported in Odessa and Midland today as heavy thunderstorms dumped more than four inches of rainfall across portions of West Texas.

Rainfall amounts of more than four inches were common across the Permian Basin.

A flash flood watch was in effect for the Panhandle and Permian Basin through tonight and forecasters said it was possible the watch might be extended to more of West Texas.

Forecast called for thunderstorms and heavy rain across West Texas through tonight with the showers and thunderstorms to spread across the remainder of the state. The heaviest rainfall is expected to be along the coast tonight.

Lows tonight will be in the 60s and 70s, except in portions of West Texas where readings will be in the 50s.

Highs Saturday will be in the 80s and 90s.

In addition to the showers and thunderstorms in West Texas, some thunderstorms were reported

Northeast Ninth Street was submerged under a torrent of water this morning after heavy rains dumped more than four inches of water on the Big Spring area during the night. A related story appears on page 3-A.

Flight 1141 crash victims memorialized

DALLAS (AP) — A young couple who had just adopted a young daughter, a newlywed about to celebrate his birthday and an elderly couple exalted for their community work were among the 13 victims remembered the day after the crash of Delta Flight 1141.

The Tarrant County medical examiner positively identified all the victims Thursday morning. All had died of smoke inhalation and some were burned beyond recognition.

While relatives and friends of the 95 people who survived were calling the crash a miracle, loved ones of the 13 victims made funeral arrangements.

The first funeral service for crash victims was scheduled for today for Thelma and Philip Vogel of Dallas. The couple dedicated their lives to philanthropic ventures.

Mrs. Vogel, 67, was the founder of the Dallas Jewish Coalition for the Homeless. The agency, which brought together more than 25 Jewish organizations in the city, raised about $200,000 to renovate a downtown building to provide a day-care center for children of the homeless.

Philip Vogel, 69, a certified public accountant, was a past president of the Jewish Community Center and a member of several Jewish organizations.

Dallas Mayor Annette Strauss, who worked to get the shelter open, said she was saddened to hear of the Vogels' deaths. "They were just real fine people and they both did a lot of good for the community," Strauss said.

BEDFORD — Delta Flight 1141 passengers Tammy Roberts and daughter Sarah, of West Monroe, La., snuggle at a press conference Thursday. Please see related story, photo on page 7-A.

A funeral for the couple was scheduled at 1 p.m. today at Shearith Israel in Dallas.

One of the victims, Jerry Scott Owen, had recently accepted a new job. The 29-year-old Sanger resident and his second wife Linda Corbitt Owen, were to celebrate their first anniversary in November.

"There was tremendous opportunity for a man of his potential," said Richard Stevenson, a vice president of Chicago-based Waste Management, Owen's employer. "He seemed very sincere... very religious and soft-spoken."

Barbara and Patrick Morgan of Richardson were high school sweethearts in Eugene, Ore. and married in 1980.

The two were flying with their adopted daughter to visit friends in Missoula, Mont. when they died Wednesday. "He was just a number one citizen," said Morgan's stepfather, Pat Nelson of Eugene, Ore.

Funeral services for the family were scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday in Roseburg, Ore., 70 miles south of Eugene.

Frank and Jean Nix and Edmond Fadal had all gotten out of the plane before they realized that Marian Fadal was still trapped in the blazing fuselage, a Fadal relative said. Fadal, suffering serious burns, tried to re-enter the plane to save his wife, but was restrained by Nix because of the intense heat and smoke.

Mrs. Fadal, 65, died in the crash. Fadal, 63, was listed in critical condition Thursday with burns over 55 percent of his body. Frank Nix, 66, and Jean Nix, 54, were both listed in fair condition.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday in Waco.

Also killed in the crash was Miller Browne, 55, of Dallas, who was on his way to a vacation in Montana. "He loved to fly; it didn't bother him at all," Evan Browne said of his father.

Attendance First-day figures increase from '87

HERALD STAFF REPORT

First-day attendance in the Big Spring Independent School District increased slightly this year as compared to last year's first-day attendance, said a district official.

Meanwhile, the Coahoma and Forsan Independent School Districts experienced a slight decrease in first-day attendance as compared to last year's first-day figures.

On Thursday, 4,327 students attended BSISD schools, an increase of 61 students as compared to last year at the same time, said Murray Murphy, assistant superintendent for instruction and personnel.

The district's elementary schools had 2,209 students in attendance, and the secondary schools had 2,118 in attendance on Thursday.

Murphy said attendance would likely increase next week.

"I think we'll get a better picture of our enrollment after Labor Day," he said.

The state has mandated that all districts must achieve a 22-to-one student/teacher ratio in grades K-4. Murphy said the district will be in compliance with the mandate.

The district is "pretty close to (satisfying) the 22-to-one student-to-teacher ratio in all classes on all campuses," he said.

If enrollment in grades K-4 should exceed the ratio, Murphy said the district will make the necessary adjustments to comply with the mandate.

The Coahoma district had 902 students in attendance on Thursday, a decrease of six students as compared to last year's first-day attendance.

First-day attendance in Coahoma were as follows: elementary — 493 students; junior high — 138 students; and high school — 271 students.

Coahoma Superintendent Gary Rotan said the district was expecting about 30 more students, and that enrollment should increase next week.

He said the district will add another kindergarten section to comply with the 22-to-one student/teacher ratio.

The Forsan district had 518 students in attendance on Thursday, a decrease of 14 compared to last year at the same time.

The district is expecting an additional 12 students to attend school next week, said J.F. Poyner, superintendent.

Poyner said the district is in compliance with the 22-to-one student-to-teacher ratio.

Unions charge test violated civil rights

DALLAS (AP) — Two unions representing construction workers have filed suit against the city of Dallas and a contractor in connection with a search of workers by drug-sniffing dogs.

The suit, filed in federal court Thursday, alleges it was an illegal search and violated the civil rights of workers building the Morton H. Myerson Symphony Center in downtown Dallas.

In addition to the city, the suit lists as defendant the J.W. Bateson Co. Inc. of Dallas. The construction company is included for authorizing the search.

The suit alleges the workers' constitutional rights were violated when they were ordered to submit to the search or resign. No drugs were found.

The suit was filed by the International Union of Bricklayers and Allied Craftworkers and the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers.

"We are not in favor of drugs in any way," said Wendell Jones, business agent of the Bricklayers Local 5. "But we're not ready to give up our constitutional rights just so somebody can get some anti-drug (public relations) out of it."

In affidavits filed with the suit, stonemason Steve Hanson and ironworker James Donaho said, "The search was involuntary, humiliating, degrading and an invasion of my privacy."

The workers claimed they were each forced to kneel down in front of a drug-sniffing dog.

Charges dismissed against lawmen

LUFKIN (AP) — Prosecutors plan to appeal a court's decision to clear three Sabine County lawmen of murder charges in the alleged beating death of a jail inmate arrested Christmas night.

The 12th District Court of Appeals dismissed the indictments Wednesday against Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 41, and Sabine County Sheriff's deputies Bill R. Horton, 58, and James M. "Bo" Hyden, 35, ruling that the charges against them constituted double jeopardy.

The three were acquitted July 15 in Hemphill of violating the civil rights of Loyal Garner of Florien, La., but the Smith County district attorney's office filed murder charges against them because Garner died in a Tyler hospital.

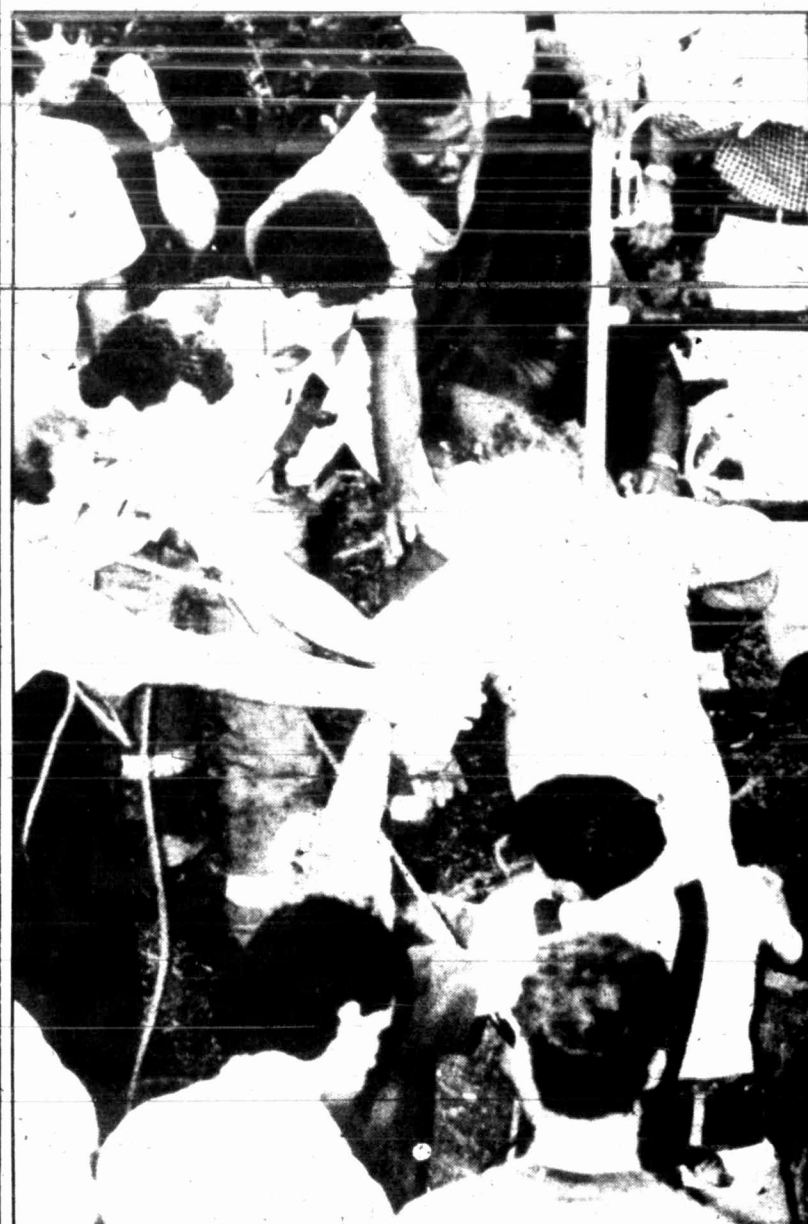

"It was certainly a disappointment to us here," District Attorney Jack Skeen said of Wednesday's dismissal. "We thought that we would be able to try the murder cases here in Smith County."

Skeen said he plans to appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

The Tyler appellate court decision reverses a July ruling by 241st District Judge Joe Tunnell dismissing claims made by the defendants that a second trial would constitute double jeopardy. Tunnell ruled that the acquittal did not exempt the lawmen from murder charges and ordered them to stand trial.

John Hannah, the special prosecutor in the earlier civil rights trial in Hemphill, said he was disappointed with Wednesday's decision, but added that it clears the way for other prosecution.

Man dies in trench cave-in

HOUSTON — Firemen and emergency personnel lift a construction worker from the site of a trench cave-in that killed his co-worker. The unidentified survivor was buried to his neck for more than five hours.

HOUSTON (AP) — Firefighters rescued a man who was buried up to his neck in dirt after more than five hours of digging, but they were unable to get to a second man in time to save him.

The two men were trapped about 20 feet below the ground Thursday afternoon when a trench they were working in caved in, authorities said. The cave-in occurred at about 1:30 p.m. near the Galleria in west Houston, and the first man wasn't pulled safely from the trench until shortly after 7 p.m.

Authorities said the 51-year-old dead man was found later Thursday. His name had not yet been released.

Dozens of people who had gathered at the cave-in site near the city's busy Westheimer street cheered when firefighters rescued the first man. He was then rushed to a local hospital and authorities said he was in good condition.

The 46-year-old man, who had been talking to firefighters throughout the ordeal, needed some assistance when he climbed a ladder out of the caved-in trench.

Firefighters' efforts to free both men were hampered by wet ground that threatened to cause other cave-ins.

The rescued man had been buried up to his neck at first, but firefighters had since pulled out enough dirt so that by about 6 p.m., he was buried up to his waist.

Workers had dug the trench to install a fiber optic cable. The man who died apparently was inspecting the trench when the cave-in occurred, authorities said.

Briefs

Shoplifter abducts woman

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men were in custody Thursday in connection with a shoplifting incident at a north Houston mall where the thief panicked and abducted an elderly woman who still hasn't been located, police said.

One man probably will be charged with felony theft Friday, but the other man most likely will be released without any charges if police don't find the woman, Houston police spokesman Al Baker said.

Baker said one man was arrested late Wednesday night and the other was arrested Thursday morning. Police still have no clues as to the identity of the abducted woman because no one has reported her missing and nobody has been found, he said.

The woman's abductor was spotted Wednesday morning inside a Lord & Taylor store stuffing shirts into a garbage bag. He had walked outside when he realized the store manager and two employees had followed him, said police detective Danny Moorman said.

The man then "apparently panicked," threw the garbage bag in the truck and ran to a short, elderly woman who was about to enter her car, he said.

Prison employees file suit

AUSTIN (AP) — A group representing 300 state prison employees filed a lawsuit Thursday against the corrections department — claiming Texas Department of Corrections' rules prevent them from expressing concerns and airing grievances.

The rules call for all written communications to the governor, the Legislature or their staffs to be routed through the director's office for his signature, the suit said.

Correctional Employees Council members filed the suit in a

Travis County district court claiming the requirements severely and unconstitutionally inhibit employees from airing their views.

If a TDC employee talks to a legislator or the governor, a record of the conversation must be filed with the director. The rules cover an employee who is acting in an official capacity, not personal communications.

The council, formed in October, is affiliated with the Combined Law Enforcement Association of Texas.

Red River cleanup feasible report says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says a study of salt pollution in the Red River indicates a fully funded clean-up program would render the water potable and useful to municipalities, industry and agriculture.

An evaluation panel of the Red River Chloride Control Project said in a report released by Bentsen this week that salt springs along the river have made it and Lake Texoma "virtually unusable as sources of water for irrigational, industrial and municipal use."

At the same time, the report said projected population and industrial growth rates for the Red River Basin, which extends from Oklahoma and Texas to Louisiana and Arkansas, show that increasing demands for water will exhaust all present sources in the near future, thus requiring the use of Red River water.

"Currently, virtually all the good quality stream water within the region has been appropriated, thereby limiting further irrigation, municipal and industrial development," the report said.

Congress in the mid-1960s authorized the Red River salt water control project, mandating that Texas and Oklahoma finance the cleanup of manmade sources of chloride pollution while the federal government would handle the natural sources, said Bentsen, D-Texas.

Bentsen said the two states have done their part and have spent $60 million. "But a few years ago the federal government began trying to renege on its end of the bargain."

Ross Adkins, a spokesman for the Tulsa division of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the agency has spent $11 million on preliminary engineering and design studies for all 10 sites identified as sources of natural chloride pollution. Part of that sum financed one of the 10 cleanup projects, on the south fork of the Wichita River near Lake Kemp. Eight other sites are also in Texas and one is in Oklahoma.

Adkins said the Corps estimates another $142 million is necessary to complete the project, while Bentsen's office put the price tag at $126 million in federal funds.

After the Reagan Administration threatened to veto a water bill because of the project in 1986, Bentsen said he worked out a compromise that hinged federal funding on the results of a study to determine whether the cleanup would be effective.

State balance looks good at year-end

AUSTIN (AP) — Ms. Richards closed the books Thursday on fiscal year 1988 with the state posting a cash balance of $113 million, which was the first positive balance in two years, she said.

"This is further evidence of an improved Texas economy," Ms. Richards said. "Sales taxes have been higher than expected, which when combined with the $5.7 billion tax bill passed in the last Legislature, have erased the $475 million deficit the state started with 12 months ago."

Businesses, park system at loggerheads on fire control issue

GARDINER, Mont. (AP) — When lightning touched off wildfires in June, Yellowstone's management followed National Park policy and let them burn. Fire-fighting efforts were launched immediately on manmade fires, but blazes started by lightning strikes were considered part of the natural ecosystem and beneficial to the overgrown forest.

By mid-July, with fires burning in all corners of Yellowstone, all-out containment efforts began, park officials say. By the end of August, nearly one-quarter of Yellowstone's 2.2 million acres had been engulfed. At least one of the fires charring Yellowstone was believed started by chainsaw sparks outside park boundaries, but it has defied efforts at control.

The fires — the worst in more than 200 years — fed on drought-dried timber and scattered on record-breaking winds. Today, they threaten towns, buildings and even the Old Faithful geyser.

Long after heavy rains or early snows smother the infernos, debate over the let-it-burn policy will rage, townspeople and park officials agree.

Congressional hearings are expected, and application of the policy will be re-evaluated, said Yellowstone Superintendent Robert Barbee.

It is shaping up as a classic confrontation, a clash between businessmen and nature, with its roots sunk deep in the very mission of national parks, which officials insist are intended to preserve nature, not cater to tourists.

Forestry officials say the fires prompt rebirth in the wilderness, clearing away the old, dead and overgrown while making way for new vegetation and new wildlife habitats.

National parks, they say, are intended to be laboratories of nature, not "tree museums."

To Ronnie Wright, the national park fire policy is good in theory, but poor in practice. Like others living on the edge of the nation's oldest national park, Wright makes his living from nature. His company, Beartooth Plateau Outfitters, offers tours and hunting trips.

But the only guiding he did in August was getting firefighters through the forest. His horses carried firefighting gear, not tourists. When Cooke City, Mont., was under an evacuation warning, Wright packed up his animals, including his pet bear, and shipped them out. "They definitely made a mistake. Of course, that's easy to say with hindsight," Wright said. "The trouble with their policy is there's no common sense involved. It's so darn dry here, the fires should have been doused right away."

Barbee says experts studied the fires closely as the early decisions were made. They relied on 16 years' experience with the policy, he said, and 100 years of weather data. Over the last decade, 140 fires have been allowed to burn, each consuming an average of only 250 acres. Early this summer, about 20 lightning fires were allowed to burn: 11 died out; nine did not.

Never before has a summer been so dry, the winds so extreme, he said. And the fires have done things never seen before — changing direction, leaping miles, growing by thousands of acres a day. One day two side-by-side fires grew in opposite directions — one north and one south.

"The conditions here are absolutely unprecedented," Barbee said.

Water tank helps pressure

A new water tank that went on line Wednesday has significantly increased water pressure in some sections of Big Spring, Tom Decell, public works director, said.

Water pressure has apparently tripled in the Highland South, Capehart and Western Hills additions of Big Spring, Decell advised.

The water pressure to fire hydrants in those areas has nearly doubled, Decell said.

Police beat

One person suffered minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident Thursday afternoon, according to police reports.

The accident occurred shortly after 1 p.m. at the intersection of 10th and Gregg Street when a car driven by LaRhonda Kay Stanley, 23, HC 77, Box 207, struck the rear of a car driven by Harold Howard Johnson, 71, Yacaipa, Calif., reports stated.

A passenger in Johnson's car sustained minor injuries and was treated by a private physician, according to reports.

Stanley was cited by police for unsafe start from stopped position, reports stated.

Big Spring police also reported investigating the following incidents:

- Wiley Hambrick, 72, 1002 N. Main St., No. 26, was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and unsafe backing.
- An employee of Gregg Street Dry Cleaners and Laundry, 1700 Gregg St., reported unknown persons took a handgun and $14 in loose change.

but still has some "loose ends to tie up" in Los Alamos.

"I still need to familiarize my replacement here with his surroundings," he said.

Richie earned a four-year degree from the University of New Mexico and is working toward a master's.

Frank Hardesty, who served as Big Spring postmaster for 22 years, retired last fall.

On Oct. 14 he was replaced by Ken Curry, who resigned March 5 following a financial audit of the Lovington, N.M. post office where he had served as postmaster.

There have been several changes in the postal supervisor's position in Big Spring since Curry's resignation. Postmaster/Officer in Charge Melvin Robison is currently postal supervisor in Big Spring.

Robison has also announced that window service hours for the Big Spring Post Office will be from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning Sept. 12.

The new hours are being established as a result of a recent survey of Big Spring postal customers, Robison said.

Postal officials determined the new hours will best serve the needs of the community, Robison said.

Don't look a gift camel . . .

CAIRO, Egypt — Mahmoud Rahmay, right, and an assistant inspect a camel that was given to former President Jimmy Carter and his wife Rosalyn during their tour of Egypt last month. The Carters accepted the gift but were unable to return home with it. When the camel was unclaimed at the U.S. Embassy, it was given to Sister Emmanuelle, a French Roman Catholic nun who runs a health center and veterinary clinic outside of Cairo.

Rainfall tops three inches

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Rainfall across the crossroads of West Texas was slow, steady and fairly evenly distributed, according to area residents.

H. Boyce Hale, Sterling City Route, reported what he called his best rainfall since Sept. 23, 1980 when he recorded 3.99 inches early today. Hale said that brings the yearly total to 15.74 inches, and reported 3.38 inches at the Albert Pettus farm four miles north of the city.

Hale said this rain topped the 1980 figure of 3.61 inches.

Mrs. O.W. Scudday reported 1.61 inches in rain in Forsan overnight.

Cindy Hopper reported 3.50 inches at Knott.

Neil Fryar's residence in Lomax reported a week's rainfall of 6.5 inches, with 4.5 of the total falling overnight.

Mrs. B.G. Barber, 1409 Settles St., reported 4.30 inches overnight.

No report was available from the Wendell Shive residence in Coahoma or the John Couch residence in Luther.

According to Rod Lewis of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, the pump station on Snyder Highway reported 2.6 inches of rainfall overnight.

Tom Allen reported 3.5 inches at 3313 Auburn Ave., and Red Thomas reported 3.5 inches at 107 E. 13th St. overnight.

Views of papers across the U.S.

Spies are real creatures

Once again, Americans are reminded that spies are real creatures, not just the figments of fiction writers' imaginations.

The United States' latest alleged traitor is... former Army Sgt. 1st Class Clyde Lee Conrad.

He is accused of selling the location of NATO missiles, the route of a super-secret pipeline and plans for blunting a Warsaw Pact thrust into central Germany.

The Conrad flap should first remind every American that, the smiling face of glasnost notwithstanding, there are enemies in the world who are prepared to do us and our allies harm.

The death penalty is not used in Germany, where Conrad is being charged, so if found guilty, he will not have to forfeit his life for jeopardizing the life and safety of millions. That's regrettable.

The Conrad case is a reminder that the death penalty should be applicable in peacetime as well as during a declared war.

The world is a precarious place even during peacetime; having tactical and strategic information sold to potential enemies makes peacetime all the more fragile.

290 dead: No-fault ruling

Whatever happened to the concept of responsibility? One more chain of errors, this one involving the death of 290 civilians, has resulted in a no-fault ruling.

The final report on the downing of the Iranian commercial jetliner by the USS Vincennes last month confirmed what had already been leaked: technicians under the stress of combat misread radar information.

In light of the information available to him, Capt. Will Rogers' order to fire was justified.

The report makes much of the stressful environment. The implication is that this excuses the mistakes.

It does not excuse them.

Combat is always stressful, and military training is supposed to prepare service members to fulfill their duties under stress.

Either the training fell short or the people did.

Cloud grows over Reagan

The cloud of inflation is growing over the Reagan administration's remarkable record of 70 straight months of economic growth.

Rising prices have not reached economy-busting proportions yet, but the 5.1 percent inflation rate reported last week has the potential to get much worse.

The explanation most often heard for inflation is that the economy is growing too fast.

Technically, that's true, a robust economy fueled by rampant consumer spending but an inadequate supply of goods and services, always forces prices up.

Those who favor real victory over the inflationary monster should look at low productivity, not consumers, as the culprit.

Raise productivity and you give the economy the ability to meet the consumers' rising demand.

To do this, American productivity has to grow at a far greater rate than it has in recent years.

But the best ways for a government to promote higher productivity — lowering business taxes to permit companies to keep more of their profits and invest in new equipment — are not necessarily the most politically popular.

Whoever will lead the nation from January 1989 on will have to show the moxie to battle inflation and the intellectual ability to understand its relation to productivity.

Stray animals are a fact of life

To the editor:

My hat's off to J. Terelestsky about the animals; you said it all in her letter Tuesday.

These animals, whether they be pets or strays, have as much right to live in peace as (anyone else). They can't help that they're not loved or wanted or cared for — they didn't ask to be born anymore than (anyone else).

I really get ticked off when I hear of animal abuse or cruelty; animals feel pain too!

A few months ago our cat Bootie came in one morning with both her front legs broken. We know it had to be done on purpose by the way they were broken. She's doing fine now.

So, my last word Mrs. Platte: Why don't you go out and take in those stray dogs, give them a home and they won't be strays and your problem will be solved... because stray animals are a fact of life.

Meals program needs drivers

To the editor:

Once again, the Council on Aging appeals to the good citizens of Big Spring.

The Mobil Meals program, sometimes called "Meals on Wheels," needs volunteers to help deliver these meals. They are delivered five days weekly, one meal daily. Each volunteer delivers about one hour per week, one day per week.

These meals are privately funded but are delivered by volunteers. We would hate to have to deny a person who needs this service because of the lack of a volunteer to make the delivery. This is a very rewarding public service. If you can offer one hour per week, one day per week, we need you very much. Please call 263-4016 or 263-2043. Thank you.

Humane methods are available

To the editor:

I would like to clarify a few points about the Big Spring Humane Society in the event that there are others who are as misinformed as Mrs. Platte (whose letter appeared in the Aug. 28 Herald).

The Humane Society is actively involved, more than any other group, in remediating the stray animal problem. The Society encourages owners to spay and neuter their pets. There are many would-be stray animals placed in homes each week through listings in the Big Spring Herald and KBST's Animal Corner. Many strays are used in pet therapy at the VA Medical Center and the Big Spring State Hospital.

The Humane Society nor the city charge for picking up unwanted animals. However, since the society operates solely through volunteers, we encourage citizens to list their animals in the weekly column rather than take them to the overcrowded shelter.

The problem of strays is caused mainly by neglect on the part of owners who do not spay or neuter pets and who let pets run wild. The animals are not to blame. They are living creatures; to maim or maul them is cruel and heartless. There are other, more humane solutions.

Japanese buying U.S.

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Several days ago, I began reading a book titled "Dec. 7, 1941" by World War II historian Gordon Prange.

The book deals, in incredible detail, with the events of the day the Japanese pulled off their attack on the U.S. fleet at Pearl Harbor.

I was up to the part where the Japanese air commander radioed "Tora! Tora! Tora!" — indicating to his superiors the attack was, in fact, going to be a complete surprise.

I put down my book at that point, however, because my morning paper had arrived.

On the front page the headline screamed out at me: "Japanese Buy IBM Tower"

The next day there was another front page story: "Japanese Eye Other Office Towers Here"

As a native of Atlanta, Ga., imagine how I felt. On the one hand, I had been deeply engrossed in reading how the sneaky Japanese blew us to hell and back at Pearl Harbor while on the other, I was learning the Japanese are trying to buy my hometown.

The situation reminded me of a lady friend of mine whose hobby was reading "Gone With the Wind."

She had read the book over 200 times and was a fierce defender of the South.

For some unexplained reason, however, she had married a man from Rhode Island, and their Atlanta neighbors were from Ohio.

One afternoon, her Rhode Island husband and his Ohio pal were working in her basement.

She was upstairs reading "GWTW" again and was at the point where the Yankee soldier is drooling at Scarlett. (It was his last drool, if you recall.)

Suddenly her husband called to her from the basement.

"Honey," he said, "we're thirsty. Could you bring us some ice water?"

"Why don't you Yankee (bleeps) get your own damned water?" she fired back.

But more on the Japanese. It wasn't that long ago they tried to buy Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport, and Mayor Andy Young actually considered the sale before he came to his senses.

The IBM Tower, a marvelous piece of architecture, has become the new star of Atlanta's skyline. Now, it belongs to the Japanese.

And they are said to be eyeing other Atlanta halls of commerce.

What will they want next? The Varsity? Will we be ordering fried fish heads instead of childgods sometime in the future?

Is anything safe from Japanese cash? If they can't buy Hartsfield airport, are they now turning to Dobbins Air Force Base?

And if they are, what does that say of us?

Two guys were discussing foreign interests in the United States. One said to the other, "I'm afraid the Arabs are trying to buy America."

"Don't worry," his friend replied, "the Japanese won't sell it to them."

More to speech-giving than mouthing the words

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

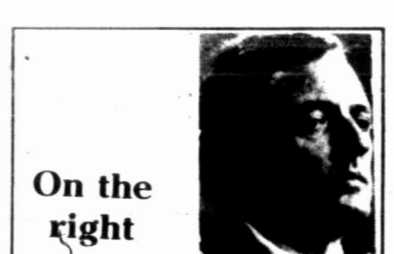

There are two standards by which political oration is judged, the one aesthetic, the other instrumental. Is it a speech you might imagine seared into a marble memorial — or even included in an anthology down the line? Critics of the Republican party's performance tended to blur the distinction.

Roger Rosenblatt, the new editor of U.S. News & World Report (and, to be sure, a Democrat), had no problem. After listening to Sen. Dan Quayle, his comment was, "I'm sure I have heard worse speeches, but I can't remember when."

Answer: the Democratic keynote addresses of the late Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee in 1956 and of Sen. Frank Church of Idaho in 1960. Both men were widely heralded as great public speakers. Frank Church having won the national oratory prize sponsored by the American Legion when he was 18. After hearing Clement, Murray Kempton's column was entitled, "Oh My God!" After hearing Church, humorist Morrie Ryskind wrote, "Thank God we didn't have to listen to the runner-up."

George Bush was disarming, telling the crowd that he had to "hold my charisma in check" (he succeeded), and that he was not considered a particularly "compelling" speaker (which is true — because he is not). Bush's failure was to plant a challenge, it being a conviction of mine, widely shared, that the American people want challenge. There was the single exception, when he spoke of reaching out to young people and asking them to reject drugs.

But Bush made it sound as easy as putting him in the cockpit and having him depress a few levers.

human being, beloved — truly beloved — of his wife and children and, indeed, friends.

What nobility there was lacking in the rhetoric seemed to inure to his person, so much so that one would almost have been disappointed if suddenly he had spoken words that recalled Demosthenes.

I would never have thought it possible that an orator could pronounce the words, "I hate war and love peace," without risking his entire reputation for seriousness. And then, to end the speech with the Pledge of Allegiance! Rote patriotism, fit for the first five grades and for meetings of the American Legion — but he did it.

The point is that George Bush and his rhetorical mode go hand in hand. He never knows when to stop for an applause line, pronouncing the succeeding word or words — leaving the impression he did not really expect applause.

Imagine Adlai Stevenson saying about corruption in Washington that "every time I hear that someone had breached the public trust, it breaks my heart." Other than the metaphor conjured up the vision of George Bush's heart positively atomized, one thinks of a verbal lifetime spent inconsumingly only ham and eggs.

Sure one of his speech coaches must have told him NOT to smile when speaking of bankrupt farmers and strained workers, but by golly he did, as one must imagine he'd have smiled when talking about the epidemic of AIDS.

The instrumental criterion governs, and it is that he gave an admirable — not speech, not analysis, not platform, not agenda — account of a good and accomplished man seeking the presidency for benevolent purposes.

No taxes is one. End pollution, discourage abortion, stimulate education. He did not say to the voters that if they desired a balanced budget they would need to instruct their Congress to limit spending.

He didn't say that the restoration of the Monroe Doctrine would mean active work in Central America to arrest the Sovietization of the area. There was no reminder that the Soviet Union, right smack in the middle of perestroika and glasnost, is feverishly increasing its offensive military capacity.

He didn't tell the American people that if they were serious about improved education they will need to increase the number of hours their children spend on homework, perhaps up to one-half the time the Japanese spend on theirs.

His vow to protect Social Security did not remark the increasing burden placed on active workers by retired workers. His pledge to create 30 million more jobs ate whole the superstition that everyone working desires to work (30 percent of the women who work would prefer not to do so, would prefer presiding over their children's training and education).

And yet, and yet — the instrumental question: What was the impact of the talk? I do believe that the net impact of Bush (and his family) during those four hot days was that of a specially admirable hunting in the state.

Officer acquitted in drowning

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A "gung-ho" Navy lieutenant accused of dereliction of duty in the drowning of a rescue-swimmer trainee was acquitted in the court-martial he sought in an effort to exonerate himself. "All I can say is the military (justice) system worked," a smiling Lt. Thomas Torchia said after the verdict Thursday night. "The verdict that charged me found me innocent." A four-officer panel found the 32-year-old Princeton, Ill., man innocent of two counts of dereliction of duty after deliberating 3½ hours in the weeklong trial. Torchia was in charge of the Navy Rescue Swimmer School at the Pensacola Naval Air Station when Airman Recruit Lee Mirecki, 19, of Appleton, Wis., died March 2 in a training pool.

Vets blast Agent Orange report

CHICAGO (AP) — A veterans group criticized a new report by the federal Centers for Disease Control that suggests most Vietnam GI's escaped heavy exposure to the poison dioxin, unless they handled the herbicide Agent Orange. "This study seems to be pretty much the same data that was released a year ago, only a year ago it was portrayed rather differently," said Barry Kasinitz, a spokesman for the 35,000-member Vietnam Veterans of America.

The CDC last year concluded that exposure to dioxin could not be determined using military records of troop locations and spraying of Agent Orange, which contained the deadly poison.

Law allows expanded sick leave

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — It used to be that Washington state parents had a decision to make when their child came down with the flu — whose turn would it be to take an illness with the boss in order to stay home?

"Now . . . they are jumping to the conclusion that very few people were exposed," Kasinitz said Thursday in a telephone interview from Washington. "That was a bit of a jump in logic that doesn't seem to be substantiated."

That unhappy decision is no longer necessary for thousands of workers under a state law that went into effect Thursday.

The law is the result of the Legislature recognizing the changing dynamics of the workforce," said Joseph Dear, the director of the state Department of Labor and Industries.

The law requires that employers who have eight or more employees, and who already offer workers paid sick leave, allow them to use their leave to care for sick offspring.

"There are more single-parent head-of-household, and dual-earner families out there. While the work force is changing, the need to care for sick children remains the same," he said.

Court refuses to postpone fines

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to halt mounting daily fines against the city for blocking a federal housing desegregation plan, a decision the mayor says could cause Yonkers "to plummet to bankruptcy."

Employers subject to the law who fail to grant workers sick time to care for children can be fined up to $200 for the first offense and up to $1,000 for subsequent violations.

But in a ruling issued Thursday night, the court temporarily spared the four city councilmen who oppose the plan from going to jail until they have time to ask formally that their cases be fully reviewed, U.S. Supreme Court spokeswoman Toni House said.

The justices stayed a lower court ruling that had upheld contempt citations against the four councilmen, who had faced a resumption of $500-a-day fines and the start of jail terms.

GDANSK, Poland — Rev. Henryk Jankowski, center, accompanies strikers as they march from the Lenin shipyard after ending an 11-day strike.

Walesa, miners talk strike's end

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa met today with striking miners in southwestern Poland to persuade them to return to work, and hundreds of port workers in Gdansk protested a management decision to fire strikers.

Management told the workers to file applications for reinstatement but finally allowed most of the protesters to return to work, the spokesman said.

Five other enterprises remained on strike after Walesa appealed for an end to the work stoppages that began Aug. 16. Walesa said ending the strikes would open the way for talks with the government on workers' demands, including legalization of Solidarity.

Strike committee leaders were negotiating with port authorities to secure formal reinstatement. No agreement had been reached, he said.

Mine spokesman Antoni Pilny said Walesa accompanied by an aide and his parish priest, the Rev. Henryk Jankowski, arrived at the July Manifesto mine and began talks with the miners, who launched the recent wave of labor unrest. The striking miners said they would not stop their strike unless Walesa came to the mine to explain his decision calling for an end to strikes.

In the Baltic port of Szczecin, striking dock workers resumed talks with management over pay issues. Striking bus workers there sent a letter to Interior Minister Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak asking for his help to obtain a guarantee of job security for strike leaders.

The Solidarity leader had hoped to settle the strike by telephone, Walesa's wife, Danuta, said in a telephone conversation.

Walesa called for an end to strikes after meeting Wednesday with government officials to discuss the labor unrest — Poland's worst in seven years.

In Gdansk, 700 workers gathered at the port this morning after management told about 400 involved in the strike action not to return to their jobs, Gdansk Solidarity spokesman Bogdan Borusewicz said.

Nine arrested in crash probe

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — A newspaper said today that an air force squadron leader and eight other people have been arrested in connection with the plane crash that killed President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq. Jang, an Urdu-language daily, quoted "informed sources" as saying the nine were arrested Thursday night at Islamabad Airport, which doubles as a military airbase.

They were held, or detail their alleged involvement in the case. Government offices were closed today, the Moslem Sabbath, and officials were not available for comment.

It did not name the suspects, identify them further, say where Zia's personal C-130 transport plane took off from Islamabad on Aug. 17 to the southeastern city of Bahawalpur, where he watched a demonstration of the U.S. M-1 Abrams battle tank.

The four-engine turboprop exploded after takeoff on the return flight and crashed.

Bodies recovered from air crash

LAZARO CARDENAS, Mexico (AP) — Helicopters delivered the remains of 21 people killed in a fiery commuter plane crash to friends and relatives waiting at the airport in this Pacific port.

"It's difficult. The bodies are badly deformed, and some arrived in pieces, only limbs. Others are thoroughly burned," he said.

About 300 people gathered Thursday night to identify the victims, who died when the aircraft plunged into the western Sierra Madre mountains Wednesday, said Victor a Bauza Orozco, a Red Cross worker.

Rescue workers said all 21 people aboard the twin-engine plane — including 18 passengers and three crew members — died when the plane fell into the rocky, heavily forested terrain near the town of Arteaga, about 200 miles southwest of Mexico City.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The City of Coahoma will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1987 by 4.27 percent. Your individual taxes may increase or decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in the taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. at Coahoma Community Center. FOR the proposal: Charles Seals, Jerry Brockman, Pat Harrison

AGAINST the proposal: PRESENT and not voting: ABSENT: David Elmore, Jane Gilmore

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the rollback tax rate that the unit published on Aug. 21, 1988. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	$22,662	$22,662
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	5,665	4,532
Average taxable value	16,997	18,130
Tax rate	16,498	.6498
Tax	110.45	117.81

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $7.36 or .0666 percent compared with last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would increase by $.0278 per $100 of taxable value or $.0427 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

He who has better cleaning system ought to just use it

DEAR ABBY: I retired about a year ago. Since that time, I have had the opportunity to observe how my wife goes about her housewifely duties — much to her annoyance.

We now have an ongoing disagreement about whether she should dust first or vacuum first. I have brought up that question among our friends, and you cannot believe the arguments it generates. I say she should vacuum first because vacuuming raises the dust, which can be disposed of by dusting. My wife took the other side: Dust first — then vacuum.

Not to be sexist, most men opted for vacuuming first.

Dear Abby

I would like to hear from you, Abby. And perhaps your readers would let you know in what order these chores should be done.

Please don't say, "If you kept yourself busy, you would not care about the order one dusts and vacuums."

JAMES R. PETERSON
CINCINNATI

DEAR MRS. PETERSON: Shucks, you stole my answer. But now that you've shown a sincere interest in improving the efficiency of the domestic routine, why don't you take over the vacuuming and dusting yourself? Then you can do it your way and you'll have nothing to argue about.

But to answer your question, the last time I cleaned house, I vacuumed last (what a memory!). Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I am 28 and recently married a 42-year-old divorced man with two children, ages 18 and 20. My husband told me that he and his ex-wife have had a very good relationship since their divorce. Knowing this, I have tried not to let any feelings of jealousy or insecurity cause problems in our marriage. He told me that he had asked his ex-wife to call him for emergencies only. Well, I think she calls entirely too much. She calls not only to talk about the children, but mainly because she feels they should have the same closeness as before.

Abby, how do we keep a lot of problems and confusion down, and at the same time keep his ex-wife out of our lives? I feel that his "ex" wants him to continue to treat her as his wife, which is far from reality. Please give me some advice on how to make peace and still solve this.

THE NEW WIFE

DEAR NEW WIFE: Does your husband think that his ex calls too much and wants to continue to be treated as his "wife" — or is that your conclusion?

You need to discuss this with him and come to an understanding. If he is displeased with his ex's behavior, too, then he, not you, should be the one to let her know. Meanwhile, try to cultivate an attitude of compassion rather than competition, since you're the one who won the "prize."

Dealing with unhappy co-workers

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How should you handle people who gripe and complain all the time? I guess every office has someone like that, but the person I work with is the worst I've ever had to put up with. I want to do the right thing as a Christian, but sometimes I get very upset and don't know what to do. — Mrs. C.B.

Billy Graham

DEAR MRS. C.B.: I read a survey recently that said the biggest source of stress on the job for most people comes from dealing with difficult people in their workplace. I am sure many people reading this can identify with your problem.

Let me answer this question by asking another one: What should be your goal or your desire in this situation? It would be natural to answer that your goal is to get this person to quit complaining — and that is legitimate, as far as it goes.

But as a Christian you also should have a deeper goal. You should be concerned about this person, and you should be concerned about how you can help her. She sounds like a very unhappy person, who may even get her greatest "happiness" from being the center of attention when she complains and sets herself up as judge over the actions of others. She needs Christ's forgiveness, and she needs to experience the joy and peace that he alone can give.

Let me encourage you, therefore, to pray for this person regularly — especially when you get upset. In addition, ask God to give you wisdom in dealing with her, and to give you an opportunity to confront her — clearly but lovingly — with her attitude.

And be sure you are an example to her; do not let yourself be tripped into complaining also.

Investigators study jet's possible wing flap troubles

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer

GRAPEVINE — Investigators are pointing to possible problems with Delta Flight 1141's engine thrust and wing flaps before it crashed on takeoff, and they hope to get answers from the crew and their recorded cockpit conversations.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators said Thursday a flap indicator handle in the wrecked cockpit was found in the wrong position for most takeoffs, raising questions whether the plane's wing flaps were set properly.

Incorrectly set flaps led to the fatal crash of a Northwest Airlines flight last summer. The Delta Air Lines flight's indicator handle, however, could have been accidentally jarred during or after the crash, investigators said.

The Boeing 727 got no more than 30 feet off the runway at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport before it crashed Wednesday, witnesses told the NTSB. Thirteen people were killed.

Pilots in planes waiting on adjacent taxiways told investigators "a white flame or vapor" came from the left engine, said NTSB member Lee Dickinson.

A cockpit tape recording recovered from the burned wreckage revealed that the pilots talked about engine trouble seconds before the crash, he said.

Further reviews of the tape and of the flight data recorder were planned today at the NTSB's Washington laboratory.

The Delta jetliner crashed as it tried to take off for Salt Lake City with 108 people aboard. Ninety-five people survived the crash and resulting flames, most by escaping through emergency exits or torn-open areas of the fuselage. Thirty-three remained hospitalized Thursday.

Medical examiners said the 13 died from smoke inhalation. Many were trapped when an emergency door wouldn't open.

The plane's flight engineer, Steven M. Judd, told investigators that right after the plane took off the crew "began experiencing problems keeping the plane stable and in the air," The New York Times reports in today's editions.

"Just before the crash, there was some talk of engine problems," Judd added, according to the Times.

Judd and the two other members of the cockpit crew remained hospitalized today. Investigators said they had not recovered sufficiently to undergo full-scale debriefings, but that they hoped to interview First Officer Wilson Kirkland today.

Control tower personnel said the jet may have taken longer than usual to become airborne and that it may have lifted off at a sharper angle than is considered normal, the investigators said.

The flap handle, on the console between the pilot and the first officer, indicates whether the flaps are in the proper position to provide the lift needed for takeoff. Dickinson said the handle was found in the up position, opposite where it should be for most takeoffs.

But he said the handle could have been pushed into the wrong position by the impact or during the evacuation of the crew.

GRAPEVINE — An official inspects the wreckage from Delta Flight 1141 Thursday. The plane crashed Wednesday morning, killing 13.

One person's input is another's censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Educators were attacked for teaching such diverse subjects as birth control and the horror stories of author Stephen King as "far right" groups last year continued to try to censor school curricula, a liberal advocacy group says. People for the American Way said Wednesday it counted 157 incidents of "extremist pressure on school systems or outright censorship challenges in the 1987-88 school year." The civil liberties group said an "alarming trend is that national and local pressure groups have adopted mainstream tactics. . . They have lobbied state legislatures on curriculum guidelines and pressured textbook selection committees to reject books and programs that fail to pass their narrow, sectarian litmus test," said Arthur J. Kropp, president of the 270,000-member organization.

teaching about contraception in sex education courses. The board agreed the courses should stress abstinence and not mention contraception, the report said. Among the 157 incidents People for the American Way said it found was a dispute in Panama City, Fla., where a school board said 60 books could not be used on a junior high supplementary reading list without its approval. The policy later was reversed, but the report said two books, Robert Cormier's "I am the cheese" and Farley Mowat's "Never Cry Wolf," remain banned, and a lawsuit is pending. People for the American Way said the most frequently challenged authors were Judy Blume and John Steinbeck (in seven cases each), King (four) and Cormier and J.D. Salinger (both three). Steinbeck's novel "Of Mice and Men" was the book most often singled out.

Rebecca Hageline, director of communications for one group targeted in the report — Concerned Women for America — said it was typical of People for the American Way's "religious bigotry toward conservative Christians." "Parents have a right to have input into their children's education," she said. The report said Concerned Women for America presented the Barlow, Fla., school board with 4,456 petition signatures opposing

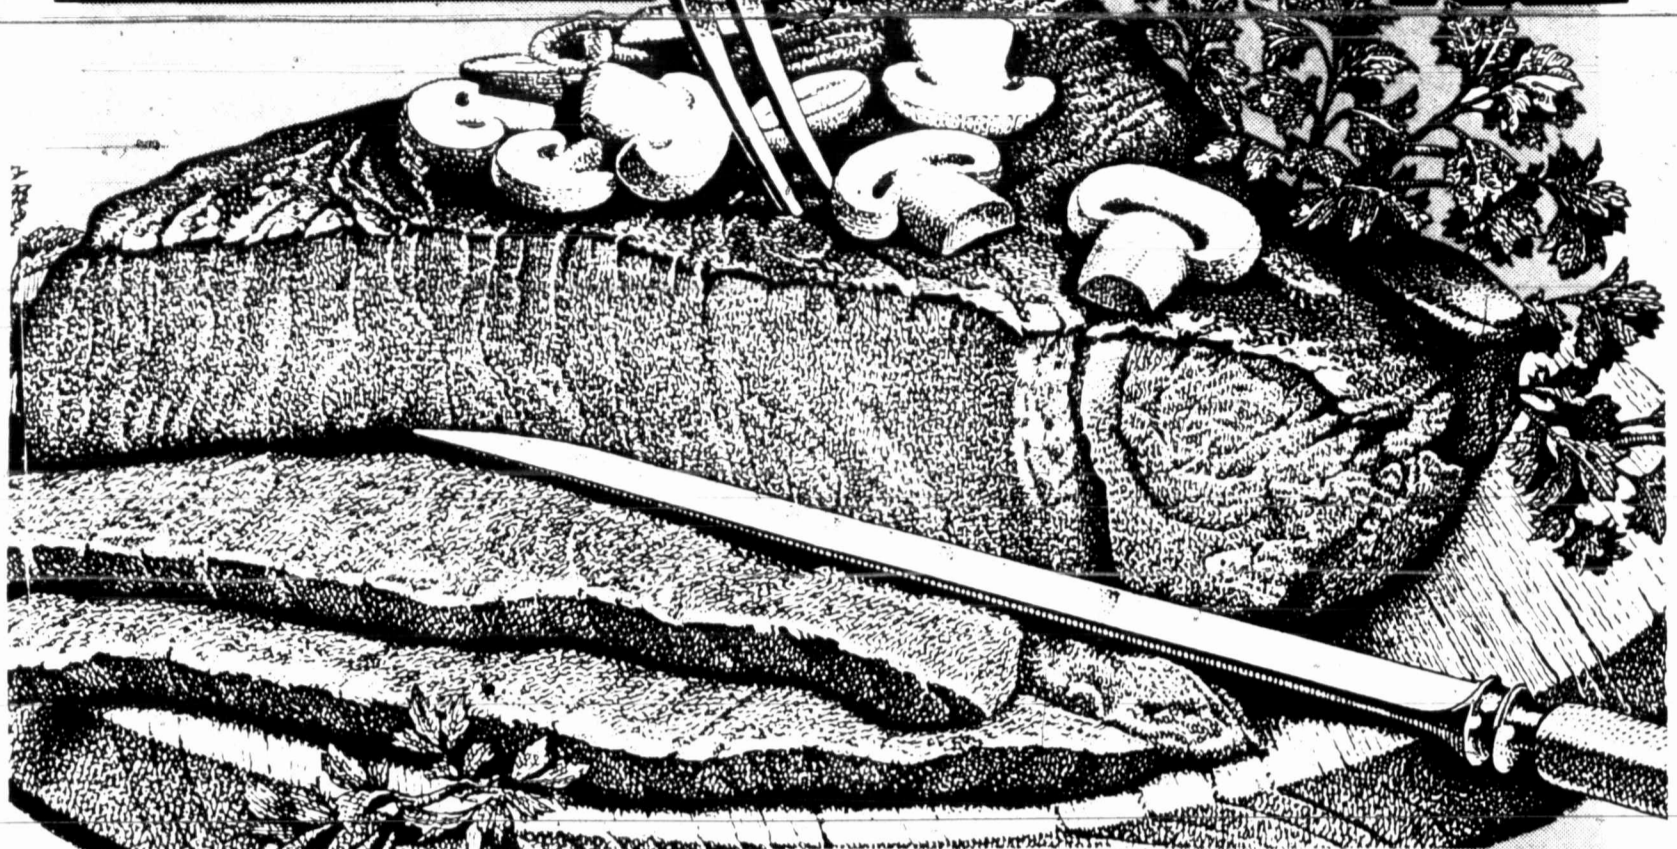

In Arlington, Texas, in a high school production of "A Chorus Line," a homosexual character was changed to a victim of child abuse. Not all of the so-called censorship incidents came from the conservative end of the political spectrum. PAW's list of incidents include a ban on in-school meetings of the Teens for Christ Club at the high school in West Fork, Ark.

Innovative school earns national honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bordered on three sides by housing projects and on a fourth by a pasture where cattle often stray, the Meridith Magnet Elementary School inspires a love of learning among its students, say federal educators who have singled out the Temple school for its invigorating curriculum. "We try to bring education alive for children," principal Bonnie Martin said Thursday. "We make children excited about learning. This is a go-getter school." Federal educators agree, including Meridith among seven schools profiled as models of strong elementary curricula in a report issued this week by Education Secretary William J. Bennett. The report said the student body is a mix of white, black and Hispanic children, and that four out of 10 come from disadvantaged homes. Yet 97 percent of the fifth-graders showed they had mastered necessary reading skills in a recent statewide test. The average score among all Texas schools was 18 percentile points lower. Every school day begins with a silent period, so students can read from a book of their choice, the report said. Students carry the book with them throughout the day in case they have a spare moment to read. Each spring, the school sponsors a host of science activities as part of its Super Science Spree, including visits by the local television weatherman, a spider expert, a bee keeper, veterinarians, doctors, dentists.

Attorney general candidate tours state

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

One Texan's race for a 1990 election is well underway. John Odam, an Abilene native now practicing law in Houston, began his pursuit of the attorney general's post a year ago.

He said he felt Jim Mattox and Ann Richards will pursue the governor's chair during that election; of his own probable opponents he has heard only rumors, he said.

In his pursuit of the attorney general's office in Austin, he is traveling through every county in Texas. That's why he needed such an early start, Odam said Wednesday during a visit to Big Spring. The state is very large, and much of its population scattered.

"People tend to focus on urbanized areas when they're running for a statewide office," he said. "I've been to counties where I've been told they can't remember anyone ever coming there who was running for the attorney general's office — or the governor's, or the U.S. Senate."

Odam is a former executive assistant, special assistant and chief of the insurance, banking and securities division for then-Attorney General John Hill from 1973-76.

He worked in the governor's office in 1985-86 as chief legislative counsel; he is a Baylor law school honors graduate, a past chairman of the Harris County Democratic Party, and a U.S. Army veteran.

Odam, married and a father of two, is also a Baptist deacon.

His travels have shown him a different side of the issues before an attorney general — an education in the human element, Odam said.

"I was in Webb County, in Laredo, and there was a fellow there who was convicted of killing a deputy in connection with drugs. He had been convicted in Zapata County, in Hebbronville, and some people from across the border in Mexico came over and broke him out of the jail.

"They were expecting the same sort of thing when I was there, and to see the sheriff's deputies, the DPS and the Texas Rangers down there with submachine guns and shotguns and walkie-talkies preparing to defend the courthouse, it just really brought home to me that there's more to the drug problem than the statistics.

"It's the same thing with the child support enforcement division," he continued. "It's one thing to read that they have 340,000 cases, and it's another thing to talk to a woman in Robert Lee and explain that she may be helped through the San Angelo office.

"I'm hearing about lots of people who are coming in to their local district attorney's office, when they should be coming to the attorney general's consumer protection division."

Almost everywhere he's gone, he said, people are looking for the same qualities in candidates for office: integrity, experience, professionalism, and accessibility.

"People — particularly in the Panhandle, the High Plains, the South Plains and the Trans-Pecos areas, where the population is so sparse — need to know that there's someone in office they can contact, someone who will listen to them," he said.

One recurring topic in the courthouses he has visited, particularly in West Texas, has been a feeling that no one living east of I-35 is paying any attention to the needs of Texans in other parts of the state.

Odam said his West Texas boyhood — and his year-long journey across the state in an introductory and exploratory effort to determine whether he could run for statewide office from the private sector — had made him more sensitive to the issues and needs of people in those areas.

"In Harris County alone, we have five state senators whose districts have part of that county," he said. "In the Panhandle, there are state senatorial districts with 30 counties."

"There are some counties where they don't have a district attorney, or a county attorney," he continued. "They count on the attorney general's office for legal opinions."

"That's another reason if I'm elected I intend to run the attorney general's office with the same professionalism, and to the same standards, you would expect if you were hiring an attorney from the private sector," Odam said.

"People don't run for office like they did 100 years ago," he said. "Now, they tend to concentrate on the urbanized areas. Maybe, they're right. But that's not the way I want to do it."

"I've found that people appreciate having someone come and listen to them, visit with them about the issues that concern them," he said. "And generally, the smaller the community, the larger the appreciation."

vs. Alpine (0-0)

This Saturday night contest will be played at Odessa's Ratliff Stadium since the schools are located so far apart. It will be an enlightening experience for these Class AAA teams to play on artificial turf.

The Wolves have had problems keeping their quarterback healthy and might have to go with a third-teamer. But they have 1,000 yard rusher Beau Rees and speedy Pat Tillis in the backfield, along with game-breaker Mark Russell at the receiver spot.

The Wolves have most of their defensive starters returning from a unit that had the least points scored on them in district last season.

The Bucks are improved, but have a ways to go. Last year they won two district games, breaking a five-season drought in which they hadn't won a league game.

The edge goes to the Wolves.

COLORADO CITY 18, ALPINE 6

Garden City (0-0) at Forsan (0-0)

This will be a hard-fought game since the two schools are only a few miles apart.

In the past, Forsan has always had the upper hand because of its superior personnel and depth. Now the tide is turning. The Bearkats have both quality and quantity.

The passing duo of twin brothers Codie Scott to Jodie Scott will give the Buffalo secondary problems. Forsan will put up a fight because the Buffaloes know how to win.

But it won't be enough.

GARDEN CITY 21, FORSAN 12

These teams are predicted by the experts to finish near the bottom of their districts.

Both teams won two games last year. Seminole returns more starters than the Bulldogs, however. Coahoma is hurting with the loss of three talented two-way starters. Two transferred, and one was injured in a motorcycle accident.

This will be a good game, but give the nod to the Indians because of the home field advantage.

SEMINOLE 14, COAHOMA 6

Seagraves (0-0) at Stanton (0-0)

These two squads will be on the rise this season.

Both suffered losing records last season, and both return a host of lettermen and starters. Seagraves returns 12 starters, and Stanton returns 10 starters.

The Buffaloes have the makings of a good defense, and a very explosive offense, with the likes of Robert Jones, Kevin Barnes and Anthony Inman.

Quarterback Brian Legan and fullback Keith McKenzie are standouts for the Eagles.

The Buffs will start its new offense and defense off with a win.

STANTON 16, SEAGRAVES 13

Klondike (0-0) at Wilson (0-0)

The Klondike Cougars return a seasoned team that will make a bid for the six-man state playoffs. The Wilson Mustangs have a lot of firepower for six-man football. It just might take them a while to get used to the game in their initial year of competition.

The Cougars have a big play offense with a host of talented running backs, led by Steve Cope, Clint Kirkland and Gilbert Guerra.

The Cougs will have to fight to the wire, but they'll pull it out.

KLONDIKE 52, WILSON 44

Hermleigh (0-0) at Sands (0-0)

Sands strolled to a district six-man championship last year and the return of three offensive and two defensive starters give the Mustangs hope. The hard part will be replacing all-everything running back Jay Fryar.

Quarterback Damien Zarate, end Jay Johnston and center Johnny Velasco will try to take up the slack left by Fryar.

Hermleigh will be trying to recover from a 1-7-1 season. The Cardinals have a strong nucleus with nine returning starters.

This game will be a toughie, but the Mustangs are at home.

SANDS 38, HERMLEIGH 32

New Home (0-0) at

Borden County (0-0)

By the end of the season the Borden County Coyotes should have a good six-man team. They have the foundation in the making with seven returning starters.

Quarterback Brian Bond is a seasoned veteran, as well as running back Chris Kilmer.

The New Home Leopards will make everybody take notice again this season. Running back-linebacker Darrell Paul will make sure of that. Paul, while leading his team to a 10-1 mark last year, accounted for 1,265 total yards rushing and receiving. In the meantime, the 4.4 40-yard dash speedster, made 180 tackles.

It will be too much Paul for the Coyotes.

NEW HOME 55, BORDEN COUNTY 32

Mac, Becker ousted

NEW YORK (AP) — Bye-bye Boris Becker. Hit the road, Mac.

Boris Becker, who never has won a U.S. Open, and John McEnroe, who looks like he might never win another one, were ousted from the tournament Thursday by a pair of Australians.

Darren Cahill, ranked 33rd in the world, and sore feet did Becker. The fifth seed from West Germany, who hasn't won a Grand Slam title since Wimbledon in 1986, never was in the match, losing 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

"Anyone could see that he was pretty injured," said Cahill, who had words with Becker in England before Wimbledon. "He gave me a little bit of a stink. I chose (Pat) Cash to win Wimbledon, and he (Becker) said that I wasn't that good a player."

"I was very keyed up to play this match. I wanted to win very badly."

Mark Woodforde, ranked 36th, took care of four-time Open champion McEnroe, 7-5, 4-6, 6-7 (3-7), 6-3, 6-1. McEnroe, who lost to Woodforde at the Canadian Open last month, looked very ordinary.

"Of course, when Darren won, it lifted me up," Woodforde said.

"We grew up together. I thought he could beat Becker, but when I found out, I still was surprised. I felt if Darren can do it, I can do it."

Becker and McEnroe weren't the only seeds ousted. No. 11 Brad Gilbert was beaten by Jaime Yzaga of Peru 1-6, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

The biggest upset among the women was Leila Meskhi of the Soviet Union stunning No. 4 Pam Shriver, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Women's winners included No. 1 Steffi Graf, No. 2 Martina Navratilova, No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini, No. 10 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, 11th-rated Zina Garrison, 13th-seed Mary Jo Fernandez and No. 16 Larisa Savchenko.

Advancing in the men's draw were No. 2 Mats Wilander, extended to five sets by Kevin Curren; No. 3 Stefan Edberg; No. 8 Miloslav Mecir; No. 10 Henri Leconte; and No. 14 Andre Gomez.

Guillermo Perez-Roldan, seeded 12th, needed a fifth-set tiebreaker to beat Ken Flach in a match carried over from Wednesday. The Argentine won 6-7 (4-7), 7-6 (7-4), 3-6, 6-1, 7-6 (7-4).

Navratilova was scheduled to play again today, against Anne Minter of Australia. No. 3 Chris Evert played Halle Cioffi; No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini took on Julie

NEW YORK — Australian Darren Cahill acknowledges the crowd at the National Tennis Center after he beat Boris Becker Thursday in the U.S. Open.

Richardson of New Zealand; seventh-seed Helena Sukova faced Dianne Balesrat of Australia; No. 9 Lori McNeil played Natalie Bykova of the Soviet Union; and 10th-seed Claudia Kohde-Kilsch opposed Stephanie Rehe.

Ivan Lendl, the top-seeded man who is seeking an unprecedented fourth consecutive Open crown, played Jay Berger; No. 4 Andre Agassi went against Rick Leach; No. 6 Jimmy Connors took on Gilad Bloom of Israel; seventh-rated Yannick Noah played Jason Stoltenberg of Australia; No. 9 Tim Mayotte played Gianluca Pozzi of Italy; 13th-seeded Jonas Svensson had a night match against Michael Chang; and No. 15 Anders Jarryd played Richey Reneberg.

McEnroe's defeat was his first in a five-set match at the Open after nine wins.

"I expected more out of myself in the end," the 29-year-old McEnroe admitted. "There were a lot of close games the last couple sets, I had a lot of chances and just missed it."

"That's been the story," he said of his performances during his second comeback following self-imposed exiles. "I'm not doing it on the big points. As soon as I can overcome that feeling of choking up, I'll be OK."

Woodforde, who made it to the fourth round here last year, wasn't spectacular. He didn't need to be against the fading McEnroe.

"I think beating him in Toronto made me believe I could repeat it," he said, noting that defeating McEnroe still is "a great thrill."

"He's a legend, one of the best players ever. It's a thrill just to see him. To actually play him is great; to win is even better."

Becker has no idea when his feet will feel better.

"Once you cannot step on your feet, left and right, basically you shouldn't be out there," he said. "It is the U.S. Open, you have to come and you have to play your best."

Becker is hopeful he will be healthy for the Olympics next month.

"I still have a little bit of time, at least three weeks," he said. "I am going. I don't know what is happening in four years, so I would go even with a broken leg."

Wilander improved his Grand Slam record to 12-1 in five-setters against Curren, playing his best tennis since 1985, when he made the finals at Wimbledon.

"In the fifth set, it's who plays more steady," said Wilander, winner of the Australian and French titles this year. "There is a lot of percentage play, you put a lot of balls into play, you go for the huge shots just once in a while."

Curren's analysis of the loss was simple:

"I didn't play the big points well. I had my chances and I didn't capitalize."

As he almost always does, Wilander did capitalize in the final set, although it took six match points to put Curren away.

"Mentally, this could help me," Wilander admitted. "I've played a big match now. I played a lot of big points and won them."

"I think I will have to be more aggressive the rest of the way."

Edberg, the Wimbledon champion, was plenty aggressive.

"That was a pretty tough opponent and a pretty good match," he said of his 7-5, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Guy Forget of France. "We had a

Football keeps softball players at home

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
For the Herald

Three members of the Fina Oilers' fastpitch softball team couldn't make the trip to the national tournament this week, but it is apparent the men will be with their teammates in spirit.

"Cotton contributed his time and effort for us nine years ago and we've stayed together, while other teams play one or two years, we have had the consistency to stay together," said Fina Oilers player Mike Ritchey.

"He (Cotton), held us together," Ritchey said of the Oilers' manager Cotton Mize. "He made a big commitment, took all of us, two from Coahoma and one from Forsan, and the rest from Big Spring. We started at the bottom and suffered for four years and then our team playing started to pay off, and we're still enjoying the game of fast-pitch softball."

Fina Oilers lose opener, 4-1

FARGO, N.D. — The Fina Oilers dropped a 4-1 decision to Elkhart, Ind. Thursday in the opening round of the Class A National Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament.

Johnny Mize was the losing pitcher for the Oilers, only allowing three hits. The Oilers got five hits themselves.

Elkhart got their runs when Mize walked two batters in the inning, and then the Indiana team got two hits.

The Oilers' only run came when Kevin Smith singled, and Kenny Fowler bunted Smith to second. Next Art Gomez singled, moving Smith to third. Smith scored when second baseman Gary Martin hit a sacrifice fly to left field.

Outfielder Gary Ashby paced the Oilers with two hits. The Oilers were hampered by travel problems. Some of its players' flights didn't make it by game time. The Big Spring team had only nine players.

The Oilers were playing Friday morning. One more loss and they are out of the double elimination tournament.

Ritchey — along with his brother Phillip and John Harris — did not make the trip to Fargo, N.D. where Oilers are participating in the Class A Major Fast-Pitch National Tournament, Wednesday thru Monday.

All three stayed behind because of coaching duties. Mike is a coach at Big Spring, Phillip coaches at Coahoma and John at Lubbock Christian University. One coach that did get to make the trip was former Big Spring coach Bobby Doe, who now coaches at Hawley.

Abel Gomez and Rich Barker — from the Austin area — contribute to the team as shortstop and utility player, respectively.

Phillip Ritchey says he has no regrets about missing the national tournament.

"I'm not upset or anything," said the big starting right fielder. "My first priority is school and coaching. That comes first. Softball is just something recreational for me."

"I'm just wondering what it's like to compete in a national tournament. I'd like to see the caliber of teams there."

No doubt the Oilers will be hurting without their three coaches, since all are starters. Mike Ritchey plays second base.

"It would have been nice to have our full team down there," said Phillip.

Broncos team in AFC West

By The Associated Press
Once the NFL's most powerful division with three playoff teams in 1983 and 1984, the AFC West has contracted a lingering case of wimpiness.

The two-time division champion Denver Broncos, who have gone on to claim two straight American Conference titles, appear to retain a slight edge over their four divisional foes heading into the 1988 season, but even the Broncos are not immune to the malady.

A pair of Super Bowl blowouts have the Broncos reeling.

Just about every team in the division seems to have developed a glaring weakness. For Denver, Seattle and Kansas City, it is defense. For the Los Angeles Raiders and San Diego, it is offense.

In addition, three of the teams are suffering from the dreaded "quarterback controversy," and Seattle's Dave Krieg, never certain of his job security anyway, has to be looking over his shoulder after the Seahawks' acquisition of Kelly Stouffer.

Only Denver, with the incomparable John Elway, is unaffected.

If the Broncos are, in fact, a one-man team — as some critics charged last season — the one man is a winner.

Elway, entering his sixth NFL season, has emerged as a never-say-die leader who hopes to become only the second quarterback (after Miami's Bob Griese) to lead his team to three straight Super Bowl appearances. The NFL's Most Valuable Player, Elway threw for 3,198 yards and 19 touchdowns last season and was the team's second-leading rusher.

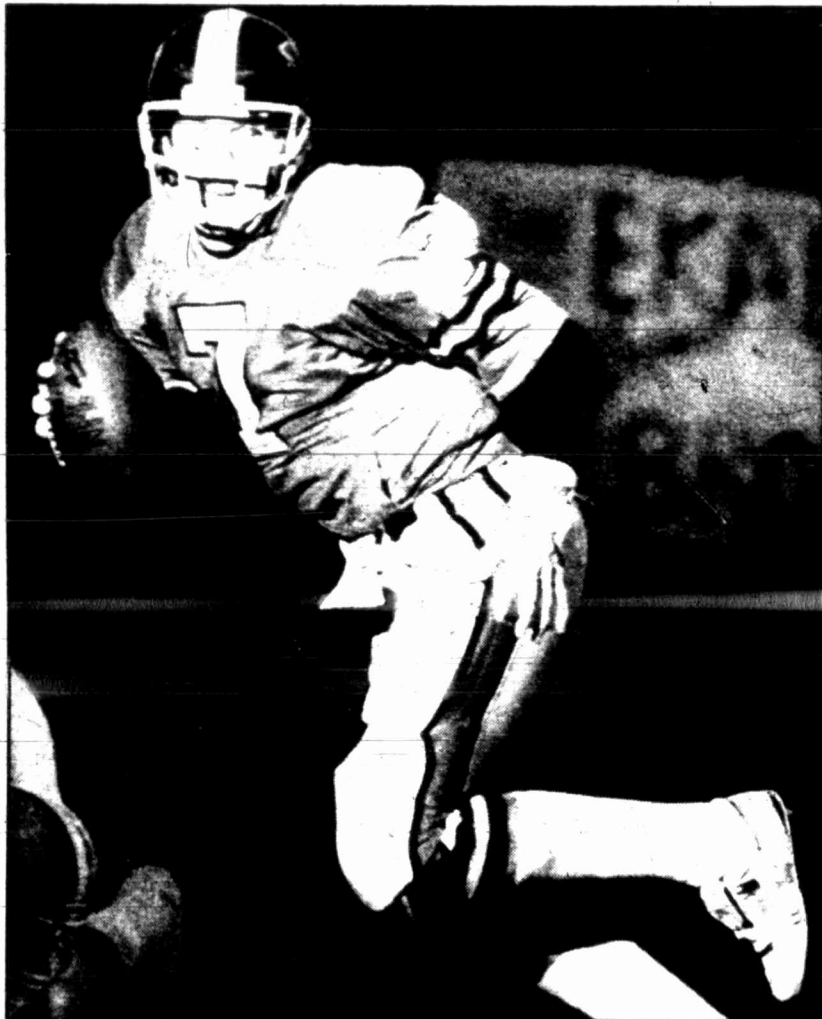

Denver's supporting cast is inconsistent. Elway has a superb receiving corps of Vance Johnson, Mark Jackson, Ricky Nattiel and tight end Clarence Kay, but the running game remains suspect, unless ex-Dallas running back Tony Dorsett can recapture his dazzling form at age 34.

Two-time Pro Bowl guard Keith Bishop anchors a small but efficient offensive line.

The defensive line remains undersized and vulnerable to the power running game, however. The Broncos hope nose tackle Ted Gregory, their first-round pick, can step in immediately.

Pro Bowl linebacker Karl Mecklenburg — "as important to our defense as John Elway is to our offense," according to Coach Dan Reeves — is a stalwart, and safeties Mike Harden and Dennis Smith are solid, if they can stay injury-free. Cornerback Mark Haynes looks capable of duplicating his standout seasons in New York.

If the Broncos are to improve on their 10-4-1 record of last season, Reeves believes his defense must lower its per-rush yield of 4.4 yards — only Seattle was worse in the Quarterback John Elway is one of the main reasons the Denver Broncos have been so successful over the past few years. This year Elway is hoping he can lead the Broncos to the Super Bowl title.

AFC — and the offense must become more varied and less dependent on Elway. There is also the unknown factor of how the Broncos respond psychologically to the disappointment of a second straight Super Bowl loss.

Seattle appeared primed for a Super Bowl appearance in 1987 but once again proved a mystery. The Seahawks went 9-6 and, with the injured Curt Warner on the sidelines, bowed to Houston in the wild-card game.

Was Brian Bosworth's presence disruptive? Is the underappreciated Krieg too inconsistent to lead Seattle to a conference title? Those questions are compounded by the loss of safety Kenny Easley, who retired with a kidney ailment, and the bitter holdout of Pro Bowl linebacker Freddie Young.

Krieg was the AFC's third-rated passer last season, throwing for 23 touchdowns. But, unlike Elway, Krieg has tended not to rise to the occasion when the Seahawks need him.

Steve Largent, the NFL's all-time leading receiver with 752 receptions, enters his 13th season needing 106 yards to become the league's all-time yardage leader.

The Seahawks have a superb running attack in Warner, who rushed for 965 yards in 1987, and fullback John L. Williams. Pro Bowl guard Bryan Millard helps open holes up front. Coach Chuck Knox says his defense "must improve against the run and produce a better pass rush." Seattle's defense has declined statistically since 1984, and last season it ranked 26th in the league against the run and 28th in yard-per-carry yield (4.7).

The good news in San Diego is the Chargers had an 8-7 record a year ago — their best since 1982. The bad news is they lost their last six games.

Coach Al Saunders' No. 1 priority is finding a replacement for six-time Pro Bowl quarterback Dan Fouts, who retired. "You don't replace Dan Fouts, you follow him," Saunders said.

Mark Malone, the much-maligned former Steeler quarterback, was acquired as a likely successor to Fouts, but free agent Babe Laufenberg, who has been cut seven times, appeared to have the edge entering the season.

The Chargers have accomplished a remarkable turnaround in the past few seasons. Once all offense and no defense, the offense was ranked a meager 21st last year while the defense improved to 15th and led the AFC with 45 sacks.

Linebacker Billy Ray Smith was the kingpin of that defense, leading the team with five interceptions and three forced fumbles. Free safety Vencie Glenn showed a knack for making the big play. San Diego had the most lopsided offense in the NFL last season, gaining 71.5 percent of its yardage via the pass. The running attack — worst in the AFC — gained fewer yards (1,308) than did the Los Angeles Rams' Charles White alone (1,374).

The Chargers' schedule, which starts with five straight division opponents, is a killer.

The Los Angeles Raiders have the league's youngest head coach, 36-year-old former Denver offensive coordinator Mike Shanahan, who has brought some of the Broncos' motion-oriented offense with him.

The Raiders were 5-10 last year, their worst mark since 1962, and they were 2-10 over the last 12 weeks.

Since last season, the Raiders have made a number of acquisitions, including wide receiver Willie Gault and offensive tackle Jim Lachey. They drafted Notre Dame's versatile receiver-kick returner Tim Brown. But they still haven't done anything about the festering quarterback situation. Steve Bueherlein, who has never taken a snap in a regular-season game, will be the opening-game starter.

So the Raiders will continue to rely on their ground game, led by Marcus Allen and, once baseball seasons ends, Bo Jackson. Los Angeles led all teams with 4.6 yards per carry last season.

The Raiders' defense finished second overall in the AFC, but the linebacker corps is aging and the secondary is being rebuilt. Howie Long remains a force in the line.

Kansas City's Frank Ganz, admitting some mistakes in a 4-11 season his first year as head coach, has hired new offensive and defensive coordinators in George Sefcik and Rod Rust. The Chiefs also traded away three former No. 1 draft choices — quarterback Todd Blackledge, guard Brad Budde and defensive end Art Still.

The Chiefs dropped from eighth in total defense in the NFL in 1986 to 27th last year, and Ganz says end Neil Smith, the team's first-round draft choice, will be the answer to a persistent shortcoming, the lack of a pass rush.

Despite three defensive players in the Pro Bowl — Bill Maas, Deron Cherry, Albert Lewis — the Chiefs gave up an AFC-high 388 points and had a league-low 11 interceptions.

The Chiefs were a much more effective offensive team with Bill Kenney at quarterback instead of Blackledge, but Kenney is being challenged for the starting job by Steve DeBerg, who has started for three other NFL teams.

The currently injured Christian Okoye and Herman Heard were keys to a resurgent running game, and Carlos Carson and Stephone Paige ranked as the third-best receiving tandem in the league.

Tyson-Bruno bout rescheduled

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Tyson will fight Frank Bruno in a mandatory heavyweight title defense Oct. 22 instead of Oct. 8 in London, the champion's manager said Friday.

The switch was made after Dr. David Chiu examined a hairline fracture in Tyson's right hand, sustained during an altercation on the street.

A cast was removed Thursday, the hand was X-rayed and Chiu said "the fracture is healing beautifully," Cayton said. "But he recommended the fight be switched from October 8 to Oct. 22 to give the hand an extra two weeks to mend. The fight definitely will be held Oct. 22."

"The doctor said the hand will be completely healed five weeks from the injury," said Kevin Rooney, Tyson's trainer. "That means he'll be able to start hitting people and things by Sept. 25."

Tyson was injured when he hit Mitch Green, a former opponent, in a street scuffle last week.

On Wednesday, Tyson is scheduled to go to the Soviet Union for a week with his wife, actress Robin Givens, who will tape segments for her TV series, "Head of the Class." While there, Rooney said, Tyson will start his training.

"We'll do some running, shadow boxing, and he'll be hitting the big bag with his left hand only," Rooney said.

Tyson will go to London Sept. 25.

Akeem says he's the father

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets center Akeem Olajuwon, sued last month by a former girlfriend who claimed he deserted her and their daughter, is asking that he be declared the legal father of the child.

In a lawsuit filed Thursday in state district court, Olajuwon, 25, asked a court to declare him the father of Lita Spencer's two-month-old daughter.

He also asked the judge to grant him joint custody and to decide appropriate support payments.

Trojans gun down Eagles, 34-7

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Quarterback Rodney Peete and the eighth-ranked Southern California Trojans let the Boston College Eagles do the talking.

So, on their first trip east since a victory at Pitt in 1974, Peete and his teammates let talent prove itself.

"We heard all week they were going to stuff us," Peete said Thursday night after leading USC to a 34-7 romp over BC in a 1988 opener.

Frustrated in a 23-17 loss which ended a 10-game winning streak last Sept. 19 in Los Angeles, BC vowed vengeance in a renovated Alumni Stadium before a crowd of 32,000.

The Trojans, who used the victory over the Eagles as a springboard to the Pac-10 championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl last season, simply pounded BC into submission in a nationally televised mismatch.

Peete, a fifth year senior with enormous talent, said the Trojans "talked about" BC comments. "But we're not a team that puts everything up on the bulletin board."

Indeed, the Trojans do not. They just put things up on the board that counts, like the scoreboard.

Peete, one of the nation's premier quarterbacks at a school noted for producing great runners, picked apart the BC defense.

He burned the Eagles with two scoring passes of more than 50 yards in the teams' first meeting in history a year ago. This time he took a shorter route.

Peete completed 12 of 19 passes for 173 yards and one touchdown in leading USC to a 21-0 lead before BC scored on a 60-yard pass play from Mark Kampaus to Tom Waddie just before the half.

Then, Peete hit on 9 of 14 passes for 98 yards in the second half, going overhead only to complement his powerful gang of runners who hit the line 53 times for 229 of the Trojans 502 yards.

Owner of a dozen USC passing records, Peete tied another with his 37th career TD pass to Gary Wellman just before BC's only score.

His overhead wizardry played a part in each of USC's other scores. He later said he suffered a cramp in his throwing arm for a while. BC never noticed. There was no cramp in his style.

"I don't think Rodney Peete played any differently than he did last year," BC Coach Jack Bicknell said. "He is a great player. He got the ball off just in time every time. Our defensive line just couldn't get to him and he displayed a great short passing game."

Bicknell, whose Eagles dropped to 5-6 last year after the loss to USC.

before Wimbledon, but still made the semifinals there) and early-round defeats.

"This summer has been one continuous goof-up," she said. "You can put it all in one package and say it isn't a very pleasant package."

Meskhi's victory was a pleasant surprise for the Soviet contingent, which lost its best player, eighth-seed Natalia Zvereva, in the first round.

"The whole team was very upset ...," Meskhi said of Zvereva. "She is our best."

Graf, clearly the best in the world this year, once again zipped past an overmatched foe, 6-1, 6-0 over Manon Bollegraf of the Netherlands. Any challenges to her attempt at a Grand Slam sweep won't come until much later in the tournament.

There won't be any later in this tournament for Boom Boom and Mac.

Evangelist to hold youth rally

Rodney Gage, Youth Evangelist, will conduct a youth rally at Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2000 W. FM 700 (across from the National Guard Armory) Sept. 10 at 7:00 p.m. Parents are invited to attend. Gage will also lead the Hillcrest Baptist Church services Sept. 11, at 10:30 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. Music for the services will be led by Jerry Lewis and the group Amen of Stanton. A nursery will be provided for all services. Gage, a former high school tennis star from Texas, has an old-time preaching style that is enjoyed by all ages. Teens of all denominations and faiths are invited and encouraged to attend. This rally is free but a love offering will be taken. For further information, please call Hillcrest Baptist Church at 267-1639.

Team ministry classes offered

Join the First Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, for a practical study of the scriptures showing how God has equipped you to do the work of the ministry. Discover how you can be most effective and fulfilled while serving God. The series will be conducted each Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. in the church sanctuary. The public is invited to attend.

Second coming subject of sermons

Rick Parker will preach on the second coming of Christ at the Abundant Life Church, 1008 Birdwell Lane, for three weeks beginning Sept. 3. Services will be at 10:45 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. Members of all churches are invited to attend.

Summer Festival at St. Joseph's

St. Joseph's Catholic Church will conduct its Summer Festival Saturday. There will be a Mexican plate dinner at noon featuring a tamales sale and bingo and booths in the evening.

FAITH REMINDS US OF OUR MOST PRICELESS POSSESSION

Of all the pleasures we have known
 And all the treasures we will own,
 There's just one thing that stands alone,
 Apart from all the rest.
 We learn it's not a brand new car,
 The means with which to travel far
 Or talent to become a star,
 Which some of us possessed.
 It isn't any sort of rank,
 Or big deposit in the bank;
 But our good Father let us thank,
 With gratitude expressed
 For something which is truly grand
 That our great leaders wisely planned:
 It's all the freedom in our land,
 With which we have been blessed.

For what avail
 The plow or sail,
 Or land or life,
 If freedom fail?
 -Ralph Waldo Emerson

"Behold, I proclaim
 a liberty for you,
 saith the Lord."
 -Jeremiah 34:17

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

SATURDAY,
SEPTEMBER 3, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will triumph often — always when you least expect it. Experience is what counts in moving toward your career goals. Your money tree shows signs of substantial growth beginning in October. Find more interesting companions and less tedious activities. True happiness for you means being fully immersed in a new work project! A relationship that was teetering on the brink finds more solid footing. You learn an important lesson that will benefit you the rest of your life. Romance brings greater satisfaction.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON

THIS DATE: violin maker Nicolo Amati, actress Eileen Brennan, cartoonist Mort Walker, basketball coach Dick Motta, auto designer Ferdinand Porsche.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This should be one of those days you wish would go on forever. Outdoor fun draws the family closer together. An unexpected call or visitor adds an extra dimension to your activities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are able to love with more enthusiasm. A good day to polish the car, wash windows or clean up around home. Get ready for a great weekend! Accept a last-minute invitation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make a schedule for yourself and treat household chores the way you would a project at work. Recruit other members of the family and you will be finished quickly. Heed a reluctance to go out tonight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Let others take the lead while you sit back and relax. A good book may be better company than an old beau. Build a relationship with someone who will always be there for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Find a new "watering hole" for weekend visits if your usual companions encourage bad habits. Protect your good name. You can pull off a financial coup next week if you plan carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): An attempt to help someone could backfire. Keep accurate financial records. Let the dust settle before pursuing a matter further with a foe. Your personal desires could interfere with your duty.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): New social contacts bring you greater prestige and could open the door to exciting romance. Keep your car in good repair to avoid expensive bills later. Travel enjoys highly favorable influences.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do not give yourself any extra worries. Deal with a problem realistically. A trade-off will let you make a love relationship work. Your creativity is at a peak. Use it for financial gain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are able to handle almost anything that comes along this weekend. Keep your own counsel. Travel is OK, but would prove more rewarding later in the year. A surprise call enchants you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A change of pace will lift you out of a melancholy mood. Intellectual exercises conducted now will give you a sharper edge later. Your financial fortunes could suddenly soar. Build savings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Not a good time to be outspoken. Mend your fences with a wealthy family member. Short-term agreements are best for what you have in mind. Toe the mark at a family gathering.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your search for an antique could reach a satisfactory conclusion today. Look for clothing bargains for the whole family. Keep entertainment costs down. Entertaining at home lets you get more for your dollar.
