Contradictions engulf crash

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Associated Press Writer

GRAPEVINE — Cranes and trucks hoisted engines and the cockpit from the muddy wreckage site of a Delta jet Saturday as investigators met to resolve contradictions in accounts of events leading to the crash that killed 13.

"There's a lot of inconsistencies and a lot of questions that need to be answered, and obviously we're going to get the answers as quickly as we can," said Lee Dickinson Jr., a member of the National Transportation and Safety Board.

GRAPEVINE — A worker sifts through the debris of Delta Flight 1141 Friday at the Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport.

The three Pratt & Whitney JT-8D engines from the Boeing 727 that crashed Wednesday will be sent to the manufacturer for inspection, NTSB investigators said.

One of the engines had fallen off the plane during the crash at Dallas Fort-Worth International Airport. The other two had been removed from the aircraft Friday and placed nearby the burnt aircraft.

Some 30 people, federal investigators, Delta officials and airport personnel, in hip boots and bib overalls slogged through ankle-deep mud during intermittent downpours at the crash site Saturday afternoon while they looked for other clues to the cause of the crash of Delta Flight 1141.

Ninety-five people survived when the plane, en route to Salt Lake City, crashed and burst into flame on takeoff.

The accident represented the first real-life test of a plane fitted with seats and carpets made of new fire-blocking materials required by the Federal Aviation Administration, experts said.

While it is not known how large a role the fire-resistant materials played in buying time for the 95 survivors, they may have helped, said John Mazar, spokesman for the Air Line Pilots Association in Washington.

"Just looking at the airplane — the scorch marks and the way it broke up on impact — typically you might have expected a greater

Police study man's death

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Police are continuing to investigate the death of a 26-year-old Big Spring man whose body was found early Saturday in the parking lot of the Ritz Theatre, Detective Sgt. Bill King said.

The victim was identified as Jimmy Carrillo, 1014 Bluebonnet Ave., Howard County Justice of the Peace China Long said.

King said a passerby discovered Carrillo's body about 3:30 a.m. and notified police.

Long said Carrillo was laying on his back about 20 feet south of the Ritz Theatre, 401 S. Main St., when police arrived and she pronounced him dead at 4:05 a.m.

Long ordered an autopsy that was performed Saturday by Dr. Robert Rember, a pathologist, at Seenic Mountain Medical Center. Rember told Long that Carrillo had apparently been knocked to the ground during a fight, striking his head on the pavement, she said.

The cause of death was listed as aspiration, secondary to a fight, Long said Rember told her.

She estimated that it may have been an hour before Carrillo's body was discovered.

King refused to speculate on the cause of death until he has read the autopsy report.

He was tight-lipped about whether investigators have any suspects in connection with Carrillo's death, although he said he did interview a number of witnesses during a 5 1/2 period Saturday.

"I'd really rather not speculate on that (suspects) until we put this whole thing together," King said.

There were no apparent signs of trauma on the body when it was discovered, King said.

Detectives will resume interviewing witnesses Sunday and the investigation will continue, King said.

Police issued a brief press release about Carrillo's death Saturday night that stated in part they had "responded to a fight in progress with a man down" at 3:28 a.m. and the investigation into Carrillo's death was continuing.

A native of Big Spring, Carrillo graduated from Big Spring High School in 1982 and had been employed by the Ritz Theatre for about one year.

Arrangements are being handled by Myers & Smith Funeral Home Chapel.

Cook: Keeping officers is challenge

JOE COOK

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Police Chief Joe Cook believes the city of Big Spring can attract officers "as good as anywhere in West Texas," but keeping them is another matter.

Cook maintains beginning Big Spring officers are among the lowest paid in the Permian Basin.

The starting salary for certified officers is $1,383 and increases to $1,447 after six months, Cook said.

Those figures do not include the $50 per month raise appropriated for city employees beginning Oct. 1, Cook said.

Only the Colorado City and Brownfield Police Departments pay beginning officers less in the Permian Basin, according to figures Cook presented to city officials and council members this spring.

The following is a list of starting salaries for law enforcement officers in the Permian Basin, according to figures provided by Cook.

- Monahans P.D. — $1,863.
- Winkler County S.O. — $2,312.
- Crane P.D. — $1,768.
- Midland County S.O. — $1,651.
- Midland P.D. — $1,629.
- Levelland P.D. — $1,614.
- Martin County S.O. — $1,600.
- Andrews P.D. — $1,560.
- Borden County S.O. — $1,500.
- Dawson County S.O. — $1,490.
- Lamesa P.D. — $1,400.
- Brownfield P.D. — $1,296.
- Colorado City P.D. — $1,250.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said the beginning salary for a certified deputy is $1,870.50 per month.

Cook questioned why starting Howard County deputies are paid more than Big Spring officers, although Standard, when interviewed, said deputies who go to work for the Howard County sheriff's department must have expertise in a number of different areas.

Because there are only 12 officers in the sheriff's department — including Standard — each must be able to serve criminal warrants, issue civil citations, conduct criminal investigations, handle dispatching duties and

Survey: Police pay hits median range

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Pay for beginning police officers in Big Spring appears to fit in the median range compared to six similarly-sized Texas cities, an informal survey shows.

Non-certified personnel who begin work as officers with the Big Spring Police Department earn $1,336 per month, Emma Bogard, personnel director, said.

"This is the first time in a year that we have hired non-certified officers," she advised.

The starting salary for certified officers is $1,383, or $47 more per month, Bogard said.

After six months with the department, the salary for certified officers is increased to $1,447 per month, Bogard said.

Officers who earn two-year degrees receive an additional $25 per month and those who earn four-year degrees receive $50 more, Bogard said.

Chief Joe Cook said he has authorization to employ 48 officers, but there are currently 45 and the city is seeking to hire three others.

The following is a breakdown of pay levels for entry-level police officers at six Texas cities of similar size to Big Spring:

• Brownwood. The beginning salary for certified officers is $1,419 per month and after one year is increased to $1,572, Brownwood Personnel Director Tomalene Carey said.

Officers who earn intermediate certificates are paid an additional $25 more per month and those who earn advanced certificates earn $50 more, Carey said.

Brownwood has 27 officers.

• Corsicana. Certified entry-level officers earn $1,673 per month and those who accumulate varying numbers of college credit hours toward a police science degree are paid accordingly, Corsicana City Secretary Neida Neal said.

Officers who earn 30 credit hours are paid $25 more per month and for every additional 30 credit hours earned toward a degree — up to 120 — they receive an extra $25 monthly, Neal said.

Officers who earn intermediate certificates receive a $25 per month pay raise and those who earn advanced certificates are paid $50 per month more, Neal said.

Corsicana has 31 officers.

• Pampa. Certified entry level officers are paid $1,365 per month and those who earn intermediate certificates receive an additional $30 per month and $60 more for advanced certificates, Pampa Personnel Director Phyllis Jeffers said.

An officer with three years experience earns about $1,580 per month, Jeffers said.

Pampa has 27 officers.

• Del Rio. Certified entry-level officers earn $1,254 per month and receive a 5 percent pay raise after six months, Del Rio Acting Personnel Director Oscar Rodriguez said.

Officers who earn intermediate certificates receive a 5 percent pay increase and those who earn advanced certificates receive an

Presidential race may be very close

Bush in Delaware

Dukakis in South Dakota

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michael Dukakis and a resurgent George Bush are locked in an exquisitely close race for the White House as they head into the fall campaign, according to an Associated Press survey of the 50 states.

"It's going to be down and dirty to the very end," said Republican State Rep. Tom Ryder of Illinois — a key battleground state where Republicans concede that Dukakis maintains a slight edge.

In Delaware, "as in the rest of the country, there's been a substantial shift in the last three weeks from Dukakis to Bush," said the state's GOP Gov. Michael N. Castle. "I think it started at the (Republican National) convention, as to be expected. But since the convention, it's continued, even with the problems surrounding the Dan Quayle candidacy."

The late-summer surge by Bush eroded Dukakis' earlier advantages in key Electoral College battlegrounds from California to New Jersey, with Illinois, Ohio and Michigan in between, say leaders in both political parties. The result is a series of tight, big-states races whose outcome will likely decide Ronald Reagan's successor in the White House.

Dukakis' selection of Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as his vice presidential running mate transformed Bush's adopted home state and its 29 electoral votes into an instant toss-up. But Bush has countered elsewhere: The vice president seemingly has moved ahead in Florida, with 21 electoral

Luck and calm helped 95 survive 'non-survivable' crash

By SCOTT MCCARTNEY, Associated Press Writer
GRAPEVINE — The first reports from the control tower indicated the crash was "non-survivable."
 The Boeing 727 skipped through a dry, rock-hard field off the end of a runway, lost its right wing, turned 90 degrees and caught fire.
 "There was a humongous fireball. I didn't think anybody had made it," said Mary Centron, a toll booth worker who also witnessed the fiery crash of a Delta Air Lines jumbo jet three years ago here.
 Yet one by one, passengers crawled and clawed their way to daylight, some through doors, other through cracks in the aluminum shell of this Delta jet, Flight 1141 of Wednesday.

 Some helped mothers get their babies out. The pilot, pinned in the cockpit under a pile of debris, kept telling passengers, "Slow down. Watch your step."
 Somehow, 95 survived. One woman ran to a road and flagged down a ride back to the terminal. Another man said he's been hurt worse shaving. Just 24 hours after the crash, 62 people had been treated at hospitals and released.
 Thirteen people died. But experts and officials who specialize in dealing with disaster called the relatively low death toll a miracle.

"I had expected fewer survivors," said Julia Wells, a Parkland Hospital emergency-disaster team nurse who arrived by helicopter. "When you see a plane that looks like that, you don't expect that many to be walking around."
 While the National Transportation Safety Board evaluates the cause of Flight 1141's disaster, investigators say they also are studying why so many survived.
 "It's a particularly important opportunity for accident investigators," said U.S. Transportation Secretary James Burnley.
 Rescue workers credit their experience of the Delta crash three years ago with preparing them for a fast, efficient effort. The NTSB had criticized the response to the crash of Delta flight 191, saying no coordinated effort was in place to handle the victims.

 "There's no comparison. Everything went so smoothly," said Texas Department of Public Safety Cpl. Bill Taylor.
 "When we got here," paramedic supervisor Mike Sympton said, "it was click, click, click."
 And speed of evacuation, whether through the work of rescue workers or the calm and capabilities of those on the plane, may have been the key.
 "It appears we got a majority of the passengers out before the fire really set in," said Oris Dunham, executive director of the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

 "Most of the fire occurred after the plane was evacuated."
 Those on board said somehow, calm prevailed. Passengers waited in line to crawl through a hole in the fuselage, and helped each other out. Smoke filled the cabin, some crawled on the floor. Many could see the ominous orange flames of burning jet fuel.
 "It was kind of surprising," said Andy Dyer, a passenger who was on his way to help fight forest fires in Montana. "There wasn't any screaming hardly at all. It was real quiet. I think everybody was aware of what was going on."

 All but two who died were found in the rear of the aircraft, many by an exit door that would not open. In fact, it took workers one hour Thursday to jar the door loose.
 The plane hit the ground at the tail, investigators said. Fuel from the ruptured right wing is thought to have sprayed the rear and touched off the fire. The right engine was found 100 feet away. The cockpit section of the 727 broke open, fire burned through the plane's skin and melted the plastic windows.
 For those back in the Delta terminal, it seemed horrifyingly obvious what had happened.

Oil drops 29 cents to $14.79

NEW YORK (AP) — Energy futures prices finished sharply lower Friday, as traders continued to react negatively to reports of a worldwide oil glut.
 On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for October delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude oil, fell 29 cents per 42-gallon barrel to close at $14.79 Friday. Other contract months also dropped.

 Analysts said the near-month contracts for crude oil slid to seven-week lows Friday, breaking a key support level of $15.10 a barrel, and dragging down other contract months.

 votes, as well as making up ground in the industrial Midwest. One poll in Massachusetts even rated Dukakis' home state a toss-up, though the AP survey still found the state to be solid ground for the Democratic nominee.
 In small states and large, the politicians who keep close tabs on the presidential race report a close contest that is unlikely to be decided until the final few days. Campaign debates and unexpected international events could have a dramatic influence on the race.

"I'd say right now it's a flip of the coin," said former Iowa Democratic chairman Ed Campbell, reflecting the sentiment of party professionals around the country. "It could go either way."
 Senior officials of the two campaigns pronounce themselves pleased with the shape of the race.
 Said Susan Estrich, Dukakis' campaign manager, "Nationally, we're competitive. States will go up and down. It's exactly where we thought it would be... this is a very evenly matched contest."
 "We all felt like we'd be lucky if we were in the single digits, meaning seven, eight, or nine points" behind by Labor Day, said Lee Atwater, Bush's campaign manager.

Officials in both camps agree that the race is subject to sharp swings, especially since neither candidate is an incumbent. That heightens the importance of debates, currently the subject of negotiations between the two campaigns. It also leaves the race open to sudden shifts due to a mistake by either of the candidates or their running mates.
 Democratic Sen. Bentsen and Republican Sen. Dan Quayle, or to an unforeseen international event.

Sasso returns to campaign

BOSTON (AP) — In bringing Michael Dukakis back to his campaign, John Sasso, locked in an increasingly tough fight for the presidency with George Bush, turned to his trusted corner man, the alter-ego with whom he has fought — and won — many a battle before.

The most telling remark about their relationship came from Dukakis himself last year at their worst moment, when the governor and then-longshot presidential candidate described his departing campaign manager as "like a brother."

Last week's announcement of his return as campaign vice chairman immediately energized a campaign headquarters staff of staffers reading reports their effort was moribund.

"Now we've got the A-team," said Dukakis campaign issues adviser Thomas Herman, a former Dukakis state aide brought into that job by Sasso. "There's no question that John is as close to Michael Dukakis as anyone else."

Dukakis and Sasso met on a train platform in 1978 shortly after Dukakis suffered a humiliating defeat at the hands of Edward J. King in the Democratic gubernatorial primary. Dukakis so impressed Sasso by keeping a commitment to attend an event he had organized, he offered his assistance should Dukakis decide these are the straws in the wind:

 California, the biggest state with 47 electoral votes, is viewed by both sides as a key tossup state with a slight, initial edge to Dukakis. The state was a tie in one recent poll. Dukakis led in one recent poll in Oregon, and Washington was a tie in another survey.

Republicans express confidence they can virtually sweep the Rocky Mountain region. Democrats hope to steal a state or two, perhaps Colorado or New Mexico or Montana.

The Deep South looks strong for the Republicans. Dukakis' selection of Bentsen already has forced Bush to devote several days to campaigning at home in Texas, but Republicans express confidence they ultimately will win.

Allegiance to what is right

What is it about the Pledge of Allegiance that upsets him (Michael Dukakis) so much? It is very hard for me to imagine that the Founding Fathers, Samuel Adams and John Hancock and John Adams, would have objected to teachers leading students in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag of the United States.

— Vice President George Bush

If a serious candidate for the presidency seriously suggests that he would sign a bill even though the Supreme Court of the United States told him it was unconstitutional, then how can he be qualified to be president of the United States? What does it mean to take the oath of office?

— Gov. Michael Dukakis

Indeed, it's difficult to believe that two grown-ups running for president in this perilous age have nothing better to argue about than whether school children should recite the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Pledge of Allegiance is an emotional issue. Those who believe children should have the right to recite it in unison want to instill patriotism in our youth. But those who believe children should not be forced to take an oath have an equally important goal — to protect freedom of belief.

Both sides can and will argue their point strongly, but if might beg the true issue at hand: The pledge, like so many other aspects of the 1988 presidential campaign, becomes a symbolic method of denigrating one candidate by the other.

The issue arose because Gov. Dukakis vetoed a bill that required the pledge to be recited in Massachusetts schools. He first consulted the Supreme Judicial Court of that state, its opinion?

Any attempt by a governmental authority to induce belief in an ideological conviction by forcing an individual to identify himself intimately with that conviction through compelled expression of it is prohibited by the First Amendment.

The Massachusetts Legislature overrode the veto and made the pledge bill into law. Despite that, it is not being enforced in the schools of that state and is widely considered unenforceable.

This bothers some people and not others, as could be expected for such a symbol-laden issue. The question arising from the candidates' pseudo-debate is: Does George Bush understand the principles involved in this debate? We think not.

By Bush's argument one would think he believes a law should be signed requiring that children pledge allegiance, despite the fact that the very law has been deemed unconstitutional. Perhaps our vice president should study carefully the words of that pledge and the fundamentals of the U.S. constitution.

That he believes the pledge should be allowed in schools is patriotic, basic and understandable. Who could disagree with allowing it? That he confuses allowing it and requiring it is so outrageous that it speaks volumes about the lengths a candidate will go to distort the truth in order to advance his cause.

A man who would be president can't afford to treat the pledge's words casually. He links his life with them when he vows to preserve, protect and defend the constitution. The document gives Americans freedom to run their own lives by shielding broad areas of human behavior from government and forbids the government to keep citizens from speaking their minds — on the street, in the press and over the airwaves.

That George Bush would take a campaign stance directly opposite to the basic philosophy of the constitution causes one to wonder how willing he would be to listen to anyone who happens to disagree with any position he might stake as our president.

Measuring the 69th candidates

The 69th district legislative race between Republican Troy Fraser and Democrat Johnny Lou Avery holds promise for excitement and lively debate.

The first public meeting between the two since Avery's quick ascent to her candidacy occurs Tuesday at Howard College when the Howard County Farm Bureau hosts a 7:30 p.m. Measure the Candidate event — free and open to the public.

As has been suggested about the presidential campaign, the legislative race for Larry Don Shaw's vacated seat will offer voters pretty distinct differences between the two candidates, and we don't expect either to be shy about expressing their opinions — as it should be.

The importance of strong, expressive legislative representation for Big Spring, Howard County and all of the sprawling 69th district should not be underestimated. There is no reason to expect the governing of this huge state to become any easier in the near future. The most effective legislative effort possible, therefore, is to our advantage.

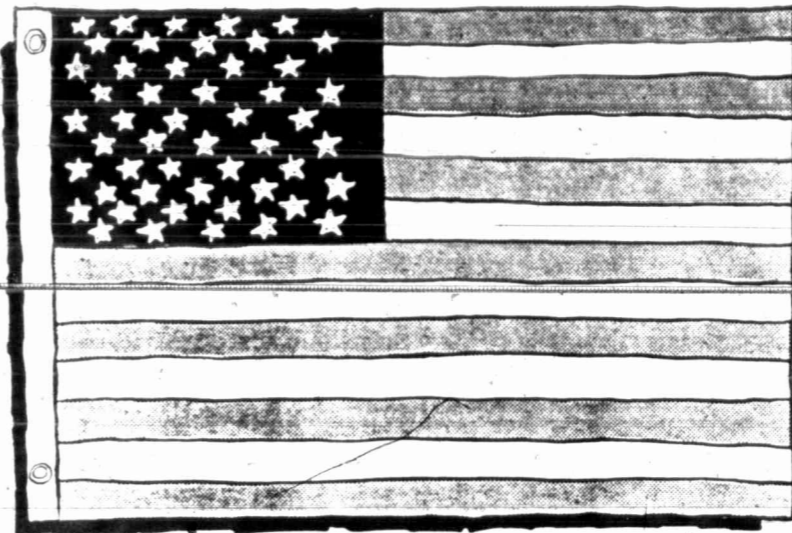

The Farm Bureau deserves a tip of the hat for bringing the candidates together to address several issues of interest to Howard County voters. Among those topics will be:

- State income tax;
- Water problems;
- School funding and education in general;
- Farm-related issues.

If you count yourself among those people interested in making a wise, informed choice Nov. 8, you will likely take the time to be in attendance Tuesday night. See you there.

GOP defense issue precludes most serious campaign point

By JESSE TREVINO

Seizing the issue of defense, Republicans have launched a campaign offensive that has paralyzed the Dukakis camp.

Regardless of Iran-Contra, Pentagon and other irrefutable scandals, Ronald Reagan and George Bush remain a patriotic duo because, in the view of many, they turned this country back into a world power.

It depends on your definition. Would you consider Mexico a world power? Brazil or Poland? Reagan deserves credit for transforming the United States into the greatest power in history if you equate world power with debt.

Thus, the 1988 campaign has turned away from the most critical issue facing the country and degenerated into a sad, mud-slinging affair.

National defense is an important issue. But the real enemy is within: The failure of the American people to understand that our economy is built on borrowed money.

Quarterback-turned-economist Jack Kemp proved that. But, in my view, Reagan's budget deficits seem to have undermined, rather than rebuilt, this country's power.

I began to understand Reaganomics when former Treasury Secretary James Baker — now Bush's campaign manager — proposed solving the international debt crisis by lending more money to debtor countries such as Mexico, Brazil and Poland.

In the same manner, what this administration sought to do to debtor countries it did to the United States. We are now the largest debtor in the world.

Mailbag

Her position was misinterpreted

To the editor:

Talk about misinterpretation! My last letter (Aug. 28) did not advocate the maiming and torturing of animals. Also, it was not meant to criticize the Humane Society's work. It is most definitely a worthy cause. The criticism was of the $20 fee they charge to accept an unwanted animal.

A lot of people believe it is cheaper just to turn the animal loose on the rest of us. I realize it requires funds to operate the Society, so let them get donations from people like J. Tereletsky who claim to care.

As for the City Animal Shelter, they expect us to trap an animal before they'll pick it up, but they won't provide enough traps to do so. Thirty to thirty-five dollars, the price of purchasing a trap, is a lot of money to spend on an animal that I didn't want or ask for in the first place.

Yes, stray animals are a "people" problem. But, if we don't trap and dispose of them by calling one of the shelters, then how do we keep the problem under control?

We can't let them roam free to breed and spread disease. The so-called caring individuals who let their animals roam free force the rest of us to make decisions that we don't like and shouldn't have to make in the first place.

For the past week, people have been responding to my letter. I applaud them! They're exercising their rights as individuals. However, there have been a few anonymous calls and letters that I feel are quite cowardly. If you choose to express your opinion, be bold enough to stand by it. Don't hide behind late-night phone calls and type-written, unsigned letters. Put them in the Herald, like I do, for the rest of your community to read.

Computer dead isn't the same

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

There was a time when getting tangled in a bureaucracy was about the worst thing you could imagine.

Now, thanks to the technological progress of our society, that sort of tangle no longer is the worst. Welcome to the computer age of true bureaucratic entanglement.

So, you've never been entangled thusly? Then a couple of Texas women have a story to share with you.

Chloie and Chelo Larmon of Childress have learned firsthand just what an effect a computer can have on someone's life — and death, for that matter.

The women were involved in what Medicare officials call a "mix-up." That may be a bit of understatement.

There was a period of time, you see, that these women were dead. Had their resurrection involved anything besides the simple clarification by a computer button, stories of Biblical proportions might have been necessary. As it was, the months-long debacle simply required the assistance of a state Congressman and their patience — which had to be wearing thin, even for people declared dead by the push of a button.

It was, an Associated Press account last week informed us, with one wrong push of a button that the two women were "Medicare dead" and "non-existent." That has got to be — among other things — deflating to one's self-esteem.

Their response? Swift and sure, of course, as they answered Medicare inquiry after Medicare inquiry by insisting that they were, in fact, very much alive, claiming, "No, we're not dead."

U.S. Social Security Administration employees, however, refused to believe them and left the sisters' Medicare claims unaided.

Understand, there were medical complications in the life of one Larmon sister. In fact, the error occurred after Chloie needed surgery because of a broken hip. When she was dismissed from the hospital, however, instead of punching the "dismissed" code, a Medicare clerk struck the "deceased" code. How much difference can that make?

When Chloie filed for Medicare, she was told "since you have been declared legally dead, the executor of your estate must send legal papers." Apparently, computers have no hesitation addressing dead people in the first person.

Despite Chloie being the one declared dead, Chelo also ran into problems when she tried to apply for a Medicare payment.

"They informed me I had no Medicare file," Chelo said. She told Medicare officials, "But Chloie is the one you have labeled deceased, I'm not."

The sisters have almost identical Social Security numbers, with only one digit differing. Their names also are nearly alike.

The tug of war with the government continued more than 18 months, until Chloie told Childress Index publisher Morris Higley about the situation. Higley advised them to contact U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter, R-Amarillo.

Within three weeks, Chloie and Chelo were alive and well in the Medicare computer, and their checks were on the way.

An apology, of sorts, arrived from the federal government.

"The Social Security Administration has corrected their records and no longer show Ms. Larmon as deceased," the agency said. "We apologize for the delay in processing these claims and regret any inconvenience it may have caused."

Inconvenience? Are they kidding? What's a year and a half of being declared dead, so long as they finally apologize and see the light?

The experience is reminiscent of a favorite line from Samuel Clemens, more widely known to the general public as Mark Twain. In response to his obituary that appeared in a newspaper, Twain wired: "the report of my death has been greatly exaggerated."

Isn't it reassuring to know that despite the advances of our society no one has yet been able to eliminate the surest solution to a pleasant day — human error? Welcome back, Chloie and Chelo.

Contest: Speech translator for deaf

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A Corpus Christi philanthropist is offering $175,000 to anyone who will design a portable device that allows the hearing-impaired to communicate without having to use sign language, read lips or scribble notes.

William F. Wallace is willing to pay for development of a portable, computerized display screen for automatically translating a phonetic alphabet into readable words.

The challenge is to develop a computer that can understand phonetics spoken by individuals with varying voices and pronunciations and transcribe them into words, Wallace said.

"It's going to be difficult, but it can be done and it will be done," said Wallace, who lost most of his hearing while serving in World War II as an artillery officer, and later as a result of disease.

"If we don't do it, the Japanese will," he said.

Wallace, a South Texas attorney and banker who founded the Executive Audial Rehabilitation Society after losing his hearing, is offering the winning contestant $100,000 from his personal estate, plus royalties from manufacture and sale of the device.

Second- and third-place contestants would receive $50,000 plus royalties and $25,000 plus royalties, respectively, and their ideas would be incorporated into the winning design.

Although the basic technology for the device already exists in limited form, the object of the contest is to develop the first broad, practical application, Wallace said.

An estimated 17 million Americans with hearing loss severe enough to cause "speech deafness" could benefit from such a device, he said.

Entry forms must be returned by Oct. 31, with designs and models received by May 1.

Although the contest began this week with the placement of advertisements in national scientific journals, contest applications already have been received from more than 50 electronics firms and individuals, Wallace said.

Students shot following pep rally

DALLAS (AP) — Two Lincoln High School students were hospitalized Saturday after they were shot in the school parking lot when they apparently got caught between four gun-wielding youths and their intended target following a pep rally, authorities said.

One of the student, Mark Lee, 15, was in serious condition late Friday at Baylor University Medical Center, where he was being treated for a gunshot wound in the hip. Sony Batts, 15, was in good condition at the same medical facility suffering from a gunshot wound in abdomen, police said.

Witnesses and authorities said Lee may have been wounded as he tried to shield Miss Betts from the assailants.

Witnesses said one youth who was taken into custody by police as a suspect may have been the intended victim of the attackers, who were trying to steal his gold necklace.

Officers said that students were milling around the school parking lot Friday after a pep rally in preparation for Saturday night's first football game of the season when a car approached the front of the school.

Witnesses said four youths, all armed with pistols, jumped out the car and began shooting at one student in the parking lot.

The intended victim started running through the crowd of students and Lee and Miss Betts were wounded while attempting to get out of the way, witnesses told police.

Dallas Independent School District officials say weapons have been an increasingly serious problem at Dallas schools in the past two years.

School funding plan considered

AUSTIN (AP) — Equal access to education funding would be provided to 95 percent of the state's public school children by 1995 under a plan created by the dean of the University of Texas Law School.

The plan, dubbed "95 in 95" by creator Mark Yudof, would allow the state to phase in a funding plan over six years.

Texas is searching for a new school finance method because State District Judge Harley Clark of Austin has declared the current system unconstitutional. In a decision appealed by the state, Clark said the system does not provide all students with equal access to educational funding.

Yudof is a member of the Select Committee on Education, which is to recommend new funding methods to the 1989 Legislature.

Under Yudof's plan, the state would set a minimum property tax rate. If a district levied that rate, it would receive enough state money to guarantee it could provide its students with an adequate education.

If a district set a tax rate lower than the state recommended one, it would not receive state funding.

The plan would require the state to pick up a bigger share of the cost of educating the state's 3 million public school children. This year, the state will spend about $5 billion on public education and local districts will provide another $5 billion, raised through property taxes.

Yudof said he believed the state should pay for 55 percent to 60 percent of the cost of education.

Larry Jenkins, select committee chairman, said, "I think, conceptually, it's one of the best (plans) we've seen."

FBI searching for writer to 'Dear Ann'

EL PASO (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation is looking for an El Paso woman who wrote to advice columnist Ann Landers about a con man she married because FBI agents think they have arrested the man in New Orleans.

"The FBI needs to contact this woman so that she can attempt to identify him as the tall, handsome military man who wooed her with his smooth talk."

The letter, signed by "Slow Learner" of El Paso, appeared in the Ann Landers column Aug. 30.

The woman told Ms. Landers she realized that the man had other wives and was probably out to get her possessions, she annulled the marriage and wrote to warn other would-be victims.

Special Agent Terry Kincaid of the El Paso FBI office said agents in New Orleans arrested Byron Clovis Brant, a man who sounds very much like the one described in the letter.

Brant was arrested July 28 in New Orleans. He previously had been indicted on charges of impersonating a military officer and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. Kincaid said he doesn't know what the felony conviction was.

Prank results in student's death

AUSTIN (AP) — A 21-year-old University of Texas student died when he fell about 125 feet off a cliff after running from two other students during an apparent fraternity prank, authorities said.

The body of Scott Gregg Phillips, a member of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, was found early Friday near the bottom of a cliff along Barton Creek in western Travis County, said Sgt. Mike Lee of the Travis County Sheriff's office.

Phillips, a junior from Austin in the UT College of Business Administration, had disappeared after running into the woods late Thursday, officers said.

Officers said he apparently ran through about 50 feet of woods before suddenly coming to the cliff and falling off.

The prank apparently began Thursday night when two fraternity pledges started following Phillips and another active member in their car, spokesman Curtis Weeks of the sheriff's office said.

Livestock producers gain most from bill

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas livestock producers will reap most of the state's benefits from a drought bill signed by President Reagan because their losses have outweighed those of crop farmers, an economist says.

Texas crop losses are spotty, but livestock losses will be significant due to forced sales and the increased costs of buying feed to maintain herds, said Dr. Ernest Davis of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Crop farmers receiving help under the $3.9 billion relief bill will likely be in areas of most severe damage, primarily in the southern, coastal and eastern areas, Davis said.

The drought legislation should be put into action by mid-October, Davis said.

Tax & financial planning

THE "KIDDIE TAX" (How to Reduce or Avoid It)

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 has made it harder for parents to shift income-producing assets to their children in order to take advantage of the child's lower tax rate.

In its simplest form, the "Kiddie Tax" taxes the net unearned income (e.g. interest, dividends, rents) of children under 14 at their parents' tax rate. It reduces the child's standard deduction to the greater of $500 or earned income (up to $3,000). The "Kiddie Tax" doesn't take effect until the child's unearned income passes $1,000.

Some suggestions to help you reduce the impact of the kiddie tax:

1. Purchase tax-free instruments like municipal bonds for children.
2. Give children assets with inherent tax-deferral features such as Series EE bonds or annuities.
3. Give children low-income, high-growth stocks and bonds or real estate parcels with appreciation potential that can be sold after the child turns 14.

Parents who own a business have additional options:

1. Hire the children as employees in the firm to shift family income to the child's lower tax rate as earned income.
2. Give the child money to purchase business equipment. The child can lease the equipment to the family firm, offsetting the rental income against depreciation while the parent takes lease deductions. The equipment can be sold after the child turns 14.

Business owners need to keep in mind that these transactions must have a legitimate business purpose and be arms-length transactions in order to be audit-proof.

There are still important reasons to shift assets to children, such as estate planning and college savings. The "kiddie tax" may be of less significance in these situations.

Chlorine gas forces 27,000 from their homes

COMMERCE, Calif. (AP) — A cloud of toxic chlorine gas leaked from an industrial plant and forced a 7½-hour evacuation of up to 27,000 people east of Los Angeles on Saturday. At least 37 people were taken to hospitals.

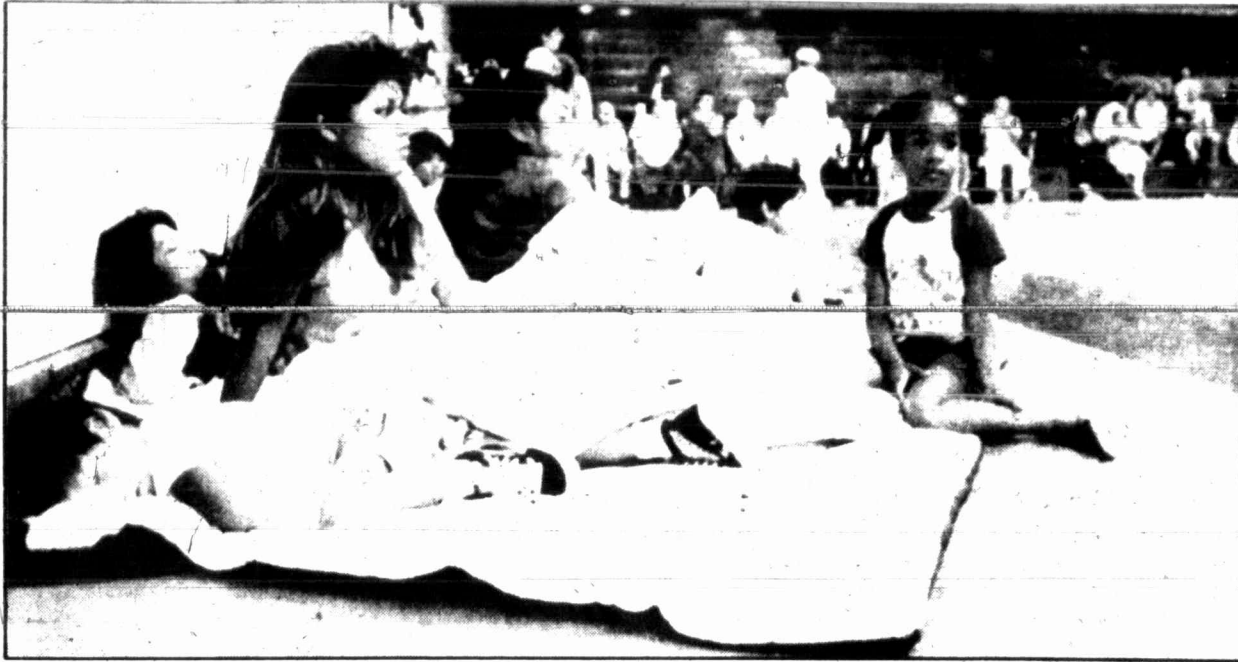

A half-mile long gas cloud formed just after midnight outside a plant that makes chlorine tablets for swimming pools, authorities said. The chemical reaction that caused the cloud was brought under control about nine hours later.

Residents were told they could return home after getting the OK from the Los Angeles County Department of Health. There were no reports of serious injuries.

An estimated 550 gallons of a chemical used to make the chlorine tablets apparently became contaminated, setting off the reaction, said Sheriff's Deputy Van Mosley.

The air was permeated with the smell of bleach from the the wispy, smoky-gray gas that billowed from the Grow Group Inc. plant. Chlorine can be lethal in high concentrations but otherwise causes burning eyes and sore throats.

Various police agencies put the number of evacuees at 10,000 to 27,000, and the figures could not immediately be reconciled. The COMMERCE, Calif. — One of several families awaits word to return home after evacuation because of a toxic chlorine gas cloud east of Los Angeles.

American Red Cross said about 3,000 people went to shelters.

Three people were in stable condition at Santa Marta Hospital and Clinic, said nursing supervisor Verna Brinson. Four others with respiratory complaints were treated at County-USC Medical Center and released, said Norma Manning, a hospital spokeswoman.

Beverly Hospital in Montebello was flooded with patients, but only admitted one elderly person for observation, said emergency room nurse Chuck Nemejc.

"We got about 30," he said. "Most complained of throat tightening, difficulty breathing, vomiting, headaches."

At the Pioneer High School gym, where hundreds of evacuees waited, many said they were notified by neighbors or knocked on doors themselves to rouse people.

Grace O'Brien of Montebello said she bundled up her 89-year-old mother when they left her home.

"I tried not to take deep breaths," she said. "I told my mother to roll up the car windows, and I made an illegal U-turn — I didn't think the deputies would stop me."

Like many other residents, Ms. O'Brien said she didn't smell anything or see the chemical cloud.

The cloud drifted to the southwest, threatening to close Interstate 5, which runs the length of the state.

Ortega: Threat despite Contra defeat

SAN JACINTO, Nicaragua (AP) — Defense Minister Humberto Ortega said Nicaragua has defeated U.S.-backed rebels but will maintain its large army because of the threat of an invasion by American troops.

Ortega said the rebels are "strategically defeated" but the government will not reduce its 80,000-member Armed Forces, the biggest in Central America.

"We can't have a lesser level," he said, citing the presence of rebel units across the border in Honduras and what he called the threat of U.S. military intervention.

A Contra director, meanwhile, said that a loss of U.S. support for the rebels "could mean the blood of American soldiers."

A transcript of a rebel Radio Liberation broadcast quoted Enrique Bermudez as saying the Contras are "strategically defeated" but the government will not reduce its 80,000-member Armed Forces, the biggest in Central America.

"We can't have a lesser level," he said, citing the presence of rebel units across the border in Honduras and what he called the threat of U.S. military intervention.

The Sandinistas began fighting the leftist government in 1981. The Sandinistas came to power in July 1979 in the civil war that ousted President Anastasio Somoza after 42 years of rule by the Somoza family.

Ortega spoke with reporters after addressing a crowd of soldiers at an Army Day ceremony in San Jacinto, 25 miles north of the capital of Managua.

Rebels still hoped to obtain renewed U.S. military aid, cut off at the end of February. He said the Reagan administration was attempting to provoke a conflict between Honduras and Nicaraguan troops to justify direct American military intervention.

The Sandinistas and the Contras signed a cease-fire pact March 23.

Postal walkouts halting overseas mail deliveries

LONDON (AP) — Walkouts by postal workers at 92 sorting offices disrupted mail service within Britain for a fourth day Saturday and Sunday.

The union representing 140,000 workers involved in sorting and delivery mail is protesting pay bonuses that differ by regions and the hiring of temporary employees to handle the mail backlog.

Alan Tuffin, general secretary of the Royal Mail and the Union of Communications Workers, said

15,000 of his members were off the job Friday "and by this morning that had risen to about 40,000."

A union spokesman said four London sorting offices were closed by walkouts today, including Britain's largest foreign mail depot.

The spokesman, who demanded anonymity, said the dispute had spread to Scotland, where about 3,500 postal workers walked out in Glasgow after three colleagues were suspended for refusing to handle letters brought in from strikebound Liverpool.

Pravda: Meat amount overstated

MOSCOW (AP) — Government officials have overestimated the amount of meat available to the public for years by padding per capita production statistics with animal fat and meat byproducts, Pravda reported.

In a lengthy article, the Communist Party daily reported serious shortcomings in the country's meat production.

Thursday's article told Soviets what most already knew, that the Soviet Union doesn't produce enough meat to feed its people properly. The story was part of a wider campaign launched since a Communist Party meeting earlier this summer focusing attention on food and consumer goods shortages and calling for a crash program to improve supply and distribution.

Pravda cited government statistics as claiming that each Soviet consumed 141 pounds of meat last year, near the annual level of 154 pounds health officials recommend.

It turns out the meat consumption figure for 1987 includes 1.6 million tons of animal fat and "sub-products of a second category" not containing meat, Pravda said. The "subproducts" include heads, legs, ears and tripe. People were eating 13 pounds a year of this kind of "meat," Pravda said.

The actual per capita consumption figure was closer to 128 pounds, Pravda said, but even that was unevenly distributed around the country.

The method of calculating the figure was drafted during the "years of stagnation," the catchwords for the rule of Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev. The statistics were inflated to "convince ourselves how well we were living," the newspaper said.

Rock stars begin tour

LONDON (AP) — After a thunderous opening before thousands of fans in London's Wembley Stadium, Amnesty International today takes its star-filled rock show on a global road that runs from Argentina to Zimbabwe.

More than 65,000 people packed Wembley on Friday to hear artists ranging from Bruce Springsteen to Sting sing for human rights.

The six-hour concert climaxed with Springsteen leading the cheering fans in "Chimes of Freedom," a Bob Dylan classic highlighting the theme of the show sponsored by Amnesty International, a Nobel Peace Prize-winning human rights group.

The show heads for a weekend concert in Paris and then to communist Hungary, the first stops in a six-week journey to 20 cities across five continents.

Organizers expressed delight at the sellout in London.

North Texas stuns Raiders

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK (AP) — Running back David McGinty raced 20 yards for a touchdown to cap a stunning second-half comeback Saturday night and propel the University of North Texas to a 29-24 non-conference victory over Texas Tech.

Quarterback Scott Davis, who scored once himself, guided the Southland Conference club 63 yards in 6 plays and sent McGinty spinning around right end for the winning touchdown with 3:54 remaining.

Davis sparked the pivotal drive with a 27-yard pass to split end Thomas Greene for the Eagles, ranked No. 5 in Division I-AA.

Field goals of 51, 55 and 46 yards by Keith Chapman and a 46-yard touchdown romp by linebacker Rex Johnson with an intercepted pass kept North Texas within striking distance until the Eagles' closing heroics gunned down the favored Red Raiders of the Southwest Conference.

North Texas trailed 24-10 at halftime.

The stirring comeback overshadowed a sparkling performance by Texas Tech wingback Wayne Walker, who turned two passes into long-range touchdowns and gave him a total of 184 yards on five receptions. Walker, one of the Mighty Mites of the deadly Red Raider receiving corps, raced 73 yards with Billy Joe Tolliver's screen pass on the first play from scrimmage to stake Tech to a sudden 7-0 lead.

The 5-9, 160-pound senior took a 52-yard Tolliver pass at the goal for a second score as the Raiders mounted a 14-point halftime lead.

The Eagles stpbk for nine quick points in the third period on a 1-yard run by Davis and Chapman's third field goal, the 46-yarder into the wind.

North Texas linebacker Byron Gross recovered two Red Raider fumbles in that chaotic quarter, one that set up an Eagle touchdown and another to torpedo a Tech scoring threat at the lip of the goal.

Charles Monroe's fumble recovery at the North Texas 3 killed still another Tech scoring opportunity in the same period.

Tech running back James Gray, who committed that last costly miscue, sped 25 yards behind a devastating Ervin Farris block to cap a 76-yard scoring drive that gave the Raiders a 14-3 lead with less than seven minutes gone in the game.

"These kind of wins are so hard to come by for our football program," said North Texas coach Corky Nelson.

C-City wins, 27-0

By TONY FRANCO
For the Herald

ODESSA — Recovering from a slow start, the Colorado City Wolves — behind the rushing of Beau Rees and Pat Tillis — gained momentum and eventually blanked Alpine, 27-0, in Ratliff Stadium Saturday night.

Alpine was able to move the ball effectively in the first quarter, but alert C-City defenders were able to thwart the visitors until the Wolves' offense managed to get untracked in the second quarter.

Rees began the scoring for the Wolves when he plunged over from the one-yard line with 6:12 left in the first half. The score came at the end of a 60-yard drive, with impetus provided by runs of 16 and 13 yards by Chris Perkins and Pat Tillis, respectively.

With time running out in the half, Rees again did the scoring honors with a one-yard plunge. The two-point conversion was good, making the half-time score 14-0 in the Wolves' favor.

C-City quarterback Perkins got into the scoring act in the third quarter, when he connected with Ray Rivera for an 11-yard scoring pass. The scoring drive was set up when Sammy Contreras recovered an Alpine fumble at the Lobos' 19.

The PAT was no good, and with 9:24 left in the third, the Wolves led, 20-0. came slightly more than two minutes later, when Tillis scored in from five yards out. He had provided the highlight of the scoring drive one play earlier with a 42-yard run around the left side of the Alpine defense.

The successful one-point conversion gave C-City its final 27-0 margin.

Alpine's only serious scoring threat came in the third quarter, with a first down on the C-City nine-yard line. Alpine running back Abel Lasoya fumbled on the next play, however, and Rees recovered for the Wolves.

Another hero for the Wolves was defensive back Mark Russell, who intercepted an Alpine pass in the first half.

Colorado City, now 1-0 for the year, will play Seminole Friday. Kickoff is to be 8 p.m.

Oilers bow from tournament

HERALD STAFF REPORT

FARGO, N.D. — The Fina Oilers were handed an early exit from the Class A National Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament, dropping a 5-3 decision Friday to Kidron, Ohio.

The loss was the second straight for the Oilers in the 54-team double elimination tournament.

Bobby Doe took the loss for the Oilers, who end their season with a 50-18 record. Kidron scored three runs in the first inning off Doe, who allowed seven hits in the game. The Oilers also got seven hits.

The Oilers battled back, scoring a run in each of the second, third and fourth innings, to tie the contest at 3-3. In the fifth, Kidron iced the game when Doe walked a batter, and the next batter hit a two-run homer, giving the Ohio team a 5-3 victory. It was the first homer Doe allowed all season, Coach A.C. "Cotton" Mize reported.

Right fielder Gary Ashby paced the Oilers with two hits. Center fielder Gary Martin missed a homer when he hit the top of the fence, Mize said. Martin ended up with a double. Mize also added that catcher Jim Shankles hit the ball well.

"Their second baseman made six or seven good defensive plays that kept us from scoring," said Mize. "We really didn't play that well. I think it was an accumulation of nerves from playing in a national tournament for the first time.

Graf strolls; Leconte Aussie's latest victim

By RICK WARNER
AP Tennis Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Steffi Graf routed another opponent in her quest for the Grand Slam, while Henri Leconte became the latest victim of an Australian upset at the U.S. Open Saturday.

Graf won her 31st straight match, breezing past Nathalie Herreman of France 6-0, 6-1 in 45 minutes to advance to the fourth round at the National Tennis Center.

"Sure, you want a tougher match," said Graf, who has lost a total of four games in her first three matches. "I'm just hoping

Cowboys, Pittsburgh seeking bit of lost NFL glory

By ALAN ROBINSON
AP Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Pittsburgh Steelers are two of NFL's most familiar rivals, and their two Super Bowl shootouts in the 1970s rank among the most memorable in league history.

But neither the Steelers nor the Cowboys will be thinking dynasty when they open their seasons Sunday; they'll be thinking respectability.

Rare consecutive losing seasons have done that for the Cowboys. Missing the NFL playoffs for three consecutive seasons has done that for the Steelers.

"We're both in the same boat," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "We're starting a couple of rookies on offense. We're inexperienced in a few areas and rebuilding."

"They have a young offensive line, a lot of people we don't know much about," said Steelers Coach Chuck Noll. "But they're well-peopled at the skill positions ... and it's going to be interesting. We have a young football team that is facing a lot of challenges, and this is the first challenge."

These are familiar rivals with unfamiliar names.

The starting quarterbacks will be Bobby Brister and Steve Pelluer, not Terry Bradshaw and Roger Staubach. The running backs will be Earnest Jackson and Herschel Walker, not Franco Harris and Tony Dorsett.

The Steelers have replaced eight starters and 11 veterans since last season, including some of their most familiar players, such as Mark Malone, John Stallworth, Donnie Shell, Robin Cole, Gary Dunn and Walter Abercrombie.

The Cowboys will start two who reached the final in 1986, was beaten by Emilio Sanchez of Spain 6-3, 3-6, 7-6 (7-3), 6-1, and No. 14 Andres Gomez was defeated by Aaron Krickstein 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The ninth women's seed, Lori McNeil, fell to Judith Wiesner of Austria 7-6 (7-3), 3-6, 6-4, and No. 15 Sylvia Hanika lost to American Patty Fendick 6-7 (4-7), 6-3, 7-5.

"I was too cautious to go for it — to take a crack at the ball," said McNeil, who beat Chris Evert in the quarterfinals last year and then extended Graf to three sets in the semifinals. "I guess when you chip and charge, everything has to be perfect."

McNeil, Leconte and Gomez were beaten on the grandstand court, which adjoins the stadium. Eight of the 14 seeds eliminated so far have lost on the same court.

Second-seeded Mats Wilander and No. 3 Stefan Edberg moved into the fourth round with victories over fellow Swedes.

Wilander, the Australian and French Open winner, beat former NCAA champion Mikael Pernfors 6-4, 6-0, 7-5. Edberg, the reigning Wimbledon champion, downed Johan Carlsson 6-0, 7-5, 6-2 in a night match.

Wilander, who won a five-setter over Kevin Curren in the previous round, said it was hard to concentrate against Pernfors because they are close friends.

"I thought I played pretty well," Wilander said. "A lot of games went to deuce and I won the tough, important points."

Walker, who ran for 891 yards and seven touchdowns last season, and Pelluer, who has regained the starting job he first won in 1986. Pelluer threw for 2,727 yards in 1986 but only 642 yards last season, when he led the Cowboys to victories in their final two games.

Brister threw for nearly as many touchdowns (five) during the Steelers' 3-T preseason as Malone (six) did in 12 regular season games but has started only two NFL regular season games. He led the Steelers to 31 second-quarter points in a 44-31 preseason upset of the Washington Redskins, then rallied from a 21-0 deficit to a 31-28 victory in New Orleans last Saturday.

Brister has seemed to pump new energy and confidence into a stumbling offense that managed only one touchdown pass in the Steelers' final seven 1987 games.

In women's play, Evert beat American Michelle Torres 6-3, 6-3. But it took the six-time champion 97 minutes to down her 82nd-ranked opponent — the combined time of Graf's last two matches.

"I can't win the tournament if I play the way I did today," said Evert, the third seed. "My concentration was on and off. I was so sloppy yesterday, but today I was sloppy at times."

Graf, seeking the first Grand Slam since 1970, lost only point on her serve in the first set. She lost the opening game of the second set on a double fault — one of three on the day — but was never remotely threatened by Herremann, ranked 119th in the world.

Graf's toughest battle so far has been staving off boredom.

"Bobby has made great progress," Noll said. "He was able to take a football team down 21-0 and bring them back, and that speaks better than anything anybody could ever say. He's done an outstanding job."

Brister plays with a cocky attitude reminiscent of another former Louisiana college quarterback named Terry Bradshaw.

He will throw from the pocket, throw on the run, throw under pressure, sometimes into heavy coverage. And not only does he play a good game, he talks one.

"When I knew I had the opportunity to start, I saw the light at the end of the tunnel," Brister said. "What I was saying was, 'I'm going to get it done, just watch.' I could have stuck my foot in my mouth and I might still, but I'm confident in my abilities."

Art for art's sake

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

Big Spring area residents will have the opportunity — at an exhibition and silent auction benefitting the Big Spring Symphony Association — to view and purchase limited edition prints by several nationally known artists.

The association is presenting Folger Ranch Gallery Exhibition and Sale, Thursday, from 4 to 10 p.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Parish Hall, 1005 Goliad, according to Symphony board member Suncha Christensen.

While guests sip wine and nibble cheese, they can leisurely select from prints by such artists as Penni Ann Cross, Dalhart Windberg, Tom Lovell, Frank McCarthy, W.A. Slaughter, Robert McGinnis, Charles Wysocki, John Weiss, Bill Phillips, Wilson Hurley, Royce Roberts, G. Harvey, Peter Parnall, Robert Summers, Richard Thompson, Harley Murray, Herb McKinley, Bob Gruelich, James Reynolds, Dennis Schmidt, Larry Dyke and others.

Six prints from among these artists' works will be exhibited for silent auction, whereby the prospective buyer views the print and writes down his bid anytime during the showing, Christensen explained. A minimum bid, less than retail price, will be posted for each print in the silent auction, officials said.

The collection of prints has been assembled by Folger Ranch Gallery, Midland, and includes wildlife scenes, landscapes, seascapes, Indian portraits, birdlife, scenes from the Old West and impressionistic art. All prints in the exhibition are signed and numbered photolithographs, according to board member Ricky Mitchell.

Christensen said that one-half of the proceeds from the show and sale will go to the association for the support of concerts by the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra and the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra. The public is invited to the event; there is no charge for admission.

Limited editions are no stranger to the art world

Why buy limited edition prints? The concept of limited edition prints is far from new. Prints have been produced in limited number by most of the great artist-innovators for centuries, wrote John A. Diffily, Ed. D., director of education, Amon Carter Museum of Western Art, Fort Worth.

Rembrandt, for one, appreciated the larger audience — indeed the different audience — that could be reached in the 1600s by prints hand-pulled from his etchings.

In Rembrandt's day, the population of the world was 545,000,000; today it is seven times that. Unfortunately, Dr. Diffily pointed out, the number of masters does not increase in direct proportion to the population. Rembrandt, in his time — as well as the artists of present day — could not physically produce the number of original paintings necessary to satisfy the demand or the pocket books of art lovers.

The most famous, perhaps, of limited edition prints are the engravings of John James Audubon. He painted the birds and quadrupeds of North America, and reproduced his paintings in hand-colored engravings. In the mid-1800s one of his prints sold for approximately $2.30; in this decade a print of his Wild Turkey sold for $9,000.

In the 19th century Currier & Ives produced lithographs of an incredible variety of subjects. Ironically, these were not limited editions; Currier & Ives produced as many as they could sell — all priced, depending on size, from ten cents to $3. The parlor of most American home was decorated with one of these hand-colored prints.

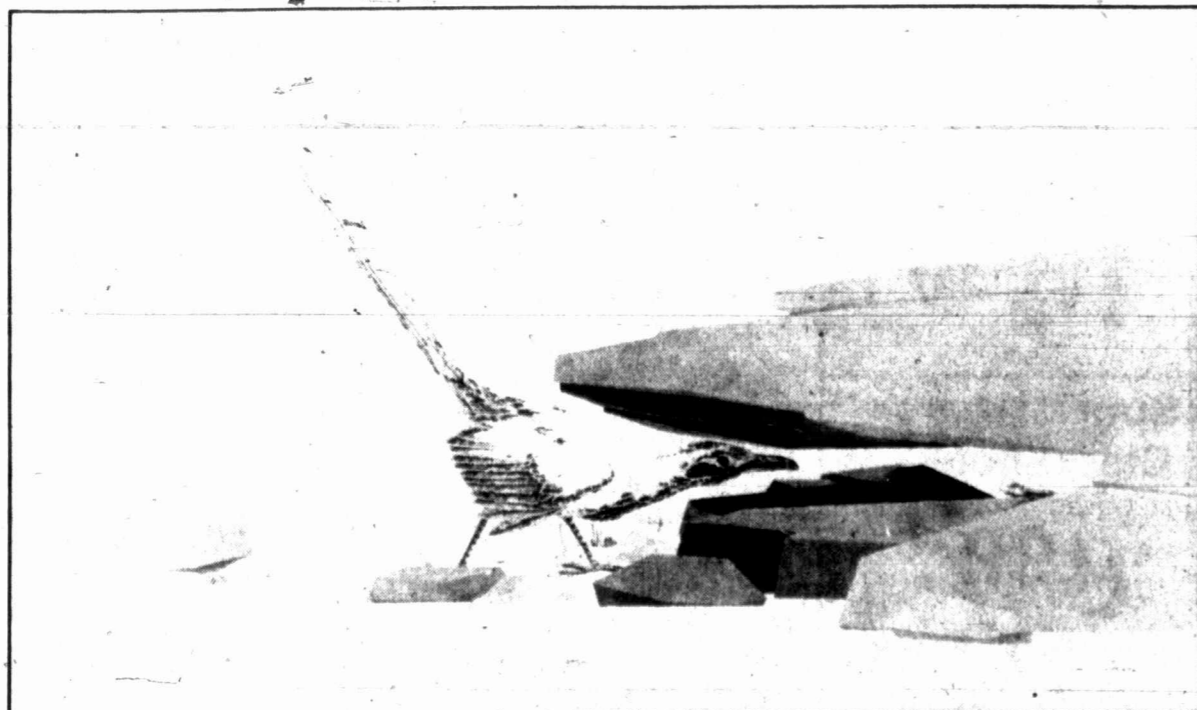

At the turn of the century, tastes changed, and thousands of these prints were discarded. Taste, then, literally created a "limited edition." Some were saved, and today a rare, large, hand-colored Currier & Ives print sells for about $10,000.

Dr. Diffily points out that the technical progress in the field of graphics has been phenomenal, producing extraordinary prints and allowing a broader distribution.

There is historic precedent for limited edition prints, both for aesthetics and for appreciation in value.

Weddings

Witte-Buzbee

Darla Susan Witte and James Edward Buzbee, both of San Angelo, exchanged wedding vows Sept. 3, 1988 at a 2 p.m. ceremony at Hillcrest Baptist Church, with Dr. Robert Lacy, minister, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Witte, Big Spring. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Trevino, Aspermont.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with an arched candelabra, accented with greenery, mauve flowers and bows. Two spiral candelabras and a unity candle completed the setting.

A silver punch bowl and appointments decorated the table. The bridegroom's table, draped with a grey cloth with a mauve overlay, featured a horse-shoe-shaped chocolate cake. A silver coffee service decorated the table. A cowboy boot candleholder served as the centerpiece.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School. She received an associate's degree from Howard College, and is a student at Angelo State University.

Lisa Dee Fort, 538 Westover, and Calvin Ray Carnes, 3307 Drexel, were united in marriage Sept. 3, 1988 at a 5 p.m. ceremony at First Christian Church, with Rev. Paula Waters, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fort Jr., Big Spring.

Bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Barbara Carnes, Summerville, Ga., and the late Joseph L. Carnes.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with two seven-branch candelabra, adorned with fans, cascading flowers and lace bows, and two altar arrangements of sonia roses. The tea-length hemline was also edged in rouching. She wore a lace-trimmed, wide-brimmed hat with a tulle veil; her grandmother's pearls; and pearl earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

She carried a lace fan with sonia roses and stephanotis, accented with picot ribbon. She also carried a small 1903 Bible that belonged to her grandfather.

Weddings

Murphy-Slatton

Kendra L'Anne Murphy and Donnie Eugene Slatton, both of Abilene, exchanged wedding vows Aug. 19, 1988 at a 7:30 p.m. ceremony at Temple Baptist Church, Odessa, with Rev. Jerry Thorpe, minister, officiating.

MRS. DONNIE SLATTON
Formerly Kendra Murphy

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murphy, Odessa, formerly of Big Spring. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McKee, Big Spring.

Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Slatton, Abilene.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with two spiral candelabra, entwined with greenery. Candles and greenery decorated the choir rail. Pews were marked with red bows and doves. They knelt on a bench decorated with flower accents on the corners.

Pianist was Mrs. Al Workman. Organist was Mrs. Tommy Evins.

James Wells played the synthesizer.

Vocalists were Brandon Murphy, bride's brother; Mrs. Johnny Thomason, Homer Daniels, David Newton, Rick Reynolds and Charles Reynolds.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin gown, featuring a Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice, modified Elizabethan sleeves, and a basque waist, all trimmed with Venice lace. The full skirt was fashioned with tiers of Chantilly lace ruffles that extended into a chapel-length train. Tiny covered-buttons accented the back of the gown and the sleeves. Her headpiece was a band of pearls and crystal beads with a fingertip veil.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, carnations, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy, accented with red and white lace ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Sherella Lewis, bride's cousin, Snyder.

Bridesmaids were Angela Andrews, bride's cousin, Odessa; Karen Wilson, Rising Star; and Aimee Thibeaux, Houston.

Flower girl was Stephanie Adams, bride's cousin, Midland.

Best man was Allen Keith, Round Rock.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's table, draped with a white cloth with a lace overlay, tucked with red roses and bows, featured a four-tiered wedding cake with a fountain and columns separating each layer. The cake was decorated with red roses, doves and bells, and topped with a bride and bridegroom under an umbrella. The centerpiece was a white, lace fan with the bride's bouquet. The bridegroom's table, draped with a grey cloth with red ribbons crisscrossing the center, featured a chocolate cake decorated with chocolate roses, inscribed with the couple's names. The table was decorated with an open Bible on a teakwood holder, and a silver coffee service and appointments.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Sherwood Christian School, Odessa. She is a senior nursing major at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and is employed by Hendrick Medical Center, Abilene.

Anniversary

The E.A. Fiveashes

E.A. (Slim) and Gladys Fiveash, 803 E. 14th St., will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today, from 2 to 4 p.m., at First Presbyterian Church.

The event will be hosted by their children, Daniel Fiveash and Lida Boland, both of Big Spring; JoEllen Morris, Belton; and Kay Oyler, Colorado City; and their grandchildren.

Fiveash was born in Coleman County.

Mrs. Fiveash, the former Gladys Moelling, was born in Garber, Okla.

The couple met in July 1938 in Henderson, Ky., and married Sept. 23, 1938 at the home of Mrs. Fiveash's parents.

The Fiveashes have 20 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

During their marriage, they lived from the East Coast to the West Coast and from north to south, while Fiveash worked in the oil fields, until World War II ended. In 1947, he began a plumbing business in Coleman, and moved to Big Spring in 1949, where he bought Runyan Plumbing Co. and remained in business until he retired in 1972.

They are members of Wesley United Methodist Church.

Fiveash is a member of Masonic Lodge 1340, where he served as past master; Chapter Council Commandry, Big Spring; Suez Temple, San Angelo; Scottish Rite, Lubbock; and served as chapter advisor and later as governor for the Order of DeMolay; and was building trades advisor for Big Spring High School.

Mrs. Fiveash is a member of Laura B. Hart Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, where she served as past matron; Friendship Breakfast Club; Social Order of Beauceants; and Past Matrons Gavel Club.

When asked to comment about their marriage, they said, "A hectic courtship led to a happy, extended marriage. Four children and 50 years later, we're still in love." If we had to do it all over again, we wouldn't change anything. Working together, loving each other, not only enriched our lives, but gave us the strength to overcome the difficulties." A 50th anniversary book was crafted by Mrs. Fiveash.

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD Staff Writer

Here's a vacation tip for Robert Redford watchers: he spends the month of August each year in Santa Fe — residing at the Rancho Encantado and usually dining at The Compound restaurant.

This valuable information comes from Cloetta Shotts, she and husband Jean have just returned from a respite in Santa Fe and Taos, N.M., and Chromo, Colo.

They toured art galleries in Taos and watched the opera "Die Fledermaus" at an amphitheatre in Santa Fe ("in the rain — but it was wonderful!") says Cloetta. In Santa Fe, they stayed at the Inn at Loretto, whose legendary "miracle staircase" was built by an itinerant carpenter the missionaries believed to be Joseph.

Then Jean and Cloetta drove to tiny Chromo, Colo., to visit a nearby ranch where Jean worked one summer when he was still in high school.

Cloetta says she enjoyed the vacation so much, she's going to repeat it — at the end of September, taking along her mother, Malolah Fullbright, Amarillo.

Hank Burnine recently attended a seminar in Arlington for associate and assistant directors of VA hospitals in the area.

Seminar leaders were Thomas E. Harvey, deputy administrator of veterans affairs; and Dr. Daniel Winship, associate deputy and chief medical director of VA hospitals — both from Washington, D.C.

"The great thing about attending meetings like this is getting to see old friends," says Hank. Twenty-six of his peers were in attendance.

Marguerite Thompson reports that her committee has located 57 of the 107 graduates of the Class of '38, who will be gathering for their 50th reunion at Big Spring High School's Homecoming October 21. "And we've only been working on it for about three months," she confides.

The search is still on and if any readers can provide information, call Marguerite (Mrs. W. L. Thompson) at 263-2759 or 267-5931; or Mrs. R.B. Davidson at 267-6804.

Mary Prudie and Glenn Brown, Stanton, have just returned from the National Federation of Music Clubs annual fall board meeting in Oklahoma City. Mary Prudie is president of the national organization.

The Browns were accompanied on the trip by their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Brown and daughter, Dixie.

Social activities included a tour of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and a performance by authentic Indian dancers from Red Earth, Okla. Henry Belmon, governor of Oklahoma, personally bestowed a certificate of honor on Mary Prudie, who, incidentally was born in Oklahoma but moved to Texas as a child.

Cross, a native of Oklahoma, has served as a pastor for the Church of God for over 14 years. He graduated from high school in Enid, Oklahoma. Serving four years in the United States Air Force, he was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal during a one year assignment in Southeast Asia. His college education has been through Southwestern Bible College (Oklahoma City, Oklahoma), University of Biblical Studies (Bethany, Oklahoma), and Lee College (Cleveland, Tennessee). Rev. Cross is listed in the 1975 volume of Outstanding Young Men of America. He is serving for the sixth year on the State Youth and Christian Education Board for the Church of God in Texas. He has pastored in West Texas, Houston, and San Antonio.

Come to share in the excitement of the new ministry of the growing College Park Church of God.

Prepare your child for kindergarten

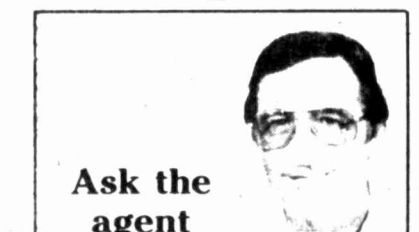

COLLEGE STATION — Whether your child is a veteran of day care and pre-school or has never attended any school before, starting kindergarten is an experience that requires some preparation. "Children sense the different expectations that come with kindergarten. Suddenly school isn't just for fun; it's serious business," said Dr. Sarah L. Anderson, a family life specialist. A child without older siblings will have only fuzzy mental images of what school will be like. If he does have older siblings, the child may think of school as a place where the "big kids" go and where everyone already reads and writes, she said. Some children may have fearful, stress-inducing feelings about facing this unfamiliar world, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economist. "It's important for parents and children to plan their parting experiences and share feelings about them," said Anderson.

Referendum set Sept. 7-8

Ask the agent

BY DON RICHARDSON Extension agent
Pork producers in Howard County will have an opportunity to vote in a special referendum Sept. 7-8, as authorized by the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act of 1985.

Purpose of the referendum is to determine the continuance of the 100 percent checkoff program which provides funds for pork research and promotion to enhance the pork industry. The checkoff is at the rate of 25 cents per $100 on all hogs and pigs as well as on all imported hogs and pork products.

Referendum voting will be conducted in the County Extension Office during normal business hours.

All pork producers who produced and owned porcine animals in the United States for sale in commerce and who are subject to assessment during the representative time period of Nov. 1, 1986 through Sept. 6, 1988, are eligible to vote. Importers who imported porcine animals, pork or pork products during the representative time period also are eligible to vote. Also, eligible are 4-H, Future Farmers of America and other youth who owned porcine animals and are subject to assessment during the representative time period.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will count ballots, determine the eligibility of challenged voters and ballots, and report referendum results.

New trends in portable appliances

By NAOMI HUNT
Extension agent

The average American household contains 13 portable appliances and a lot of them arrived there as gifts. If you're planning on giving an appliance or requesting one — here are some of the newer features you may want to consider.

When you're shopping for someone who has little work and storage space, consider under-the-cabinet models. Coffeemakers, mixers, toasters, can openers, toaster ovens and microwave ovens all come in these space-saving forms.

Think about how the appliance will be used before you buy it. For a single person or a small family, a smaller-size version may be most appropriate. For example, you can buy a full-size food processor or one with just a two-cup capacity. Microwave ovens can be large enough to roast a whole turkey, or just the right size for cooking frozen entrees.

Cordless operation is another feature to consider in appliances. These appliances are run by rechargeable, nickel cadmium built into a storage-charger base. The appliance recharges overnight to full capacity in its special base, but can also be used on a partial charge after several hours.

The rechargeable batterless have a 5 to 7 year life expectancy and can be replaced at the company's service center. Cordless appliances perform as well as their cord-connected counterparts, yet get eliminate the unsightly and sometimes unsafe tangle of electrical cords.

Electronic controls are another innovation that makes small appliances safer. When an iron with automatic shutoff is left unused for too long — generally about 30 seconds in the flat position and 10 minutes in the heel — rest position — it shuts itself off. An automatic shutoff is available on curling irons also.

Other electronic controls that can be useful include speed controls, timers, "ready" lights and automatic operations set by a timer.

By carefully considering the needs of the person you're buying for, it's more likely your gift will both be used and appreciated.

Buying a portable appliance that winds up sitting in a cupboard is a waste of money. Before you purchase an appliance for yourself or as a gift for someone else, consider the following:

Do you really need the appliance? For example, a pasta maker may be wonderful, but the cost is justified only if you will use it frequently. If you want fresh, homestyle pasta only 2-3 times a year, you can pay the premium price to buy it at a deli and still be money ahead.

Where are you going to put it? If the counters are already crammed with appliances, you may not want to add another one — at least until you've removed some other appliance that's just taking up space.

Does it have the features you need? Is it big enough, or small enough for your family sized? Are there automatic features that will make its use easier?

What does it look — and clean — like? Are the lines simple and attractive? Are there hard to clean crevices and corners that will "attract" dust, grease or grime.

Is the appliance made by a reputable manufacturer who provides a warranty or guarantee? How long is the warranty and what does it cover — the entire appliance or only some parts? Is a repair service available?

Answer these questions and you'll have a better idea of whether you should spend your money on a portable appliance.

Husband wants to love less of overweight wife

DEAR ABBY: My wife is about 45 pounds overweight and has been since her pregnancy. She wore her maternity clothes for more than four years — until I told her I couldn't stand to look at them anymore. I have asked her repeatedly to lose weight and have offered to help her in any way possible, but to no avail.

She says if I loved her, I would accept her the way she is. I say if you love someone, you do your best to look good for them.

Abby, I don't expect her to have a 22-inch waist — I'd just like her to trim down a bit. This has been bothering me so much that I am considering having an affair with a slender woman — or telling my wife to shape up or ship out! She reads your column every day, so please give her a little advice.

Dear Abby

END OF MY ROPE. DEAR END: Your wife didn't ask for any advice, but I'll give you some: Quit nagging her. She is the only person she will lose weight for. And she'll do it for her own reasons when she's good and ready.

She's right — a loving husband will accept his wife the way she is. I've yet to hear from a woman who would tell her overweight husband to "shape up or ship out." Now is the time-to be especially loving and supportive. Love her to pieces and kill her with kindness, and say nothing about her weight. What have you got to lose?

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the woman who bought herself a pair of expensive diamond earrings for Mother's Day because the previous year her husband gave her nothing, saying, "You're not my mother." She was the mother of his twin daughters.

Abby, since when is something one awards himself a "gift"? To me, this is about on a par with certain foreign dictators who cover their chests with medals and decorations. Assuming she did it to make a point, wouldn't a card and flowers have made her point without breaking the budget?

I was married for 14 years to a woman who never gave me a chance to buy her anything. She'd buy herself gifts (usually jewelry) on credit, using my name and credit references, as much as two months before the date. I would never have forgotten her birthday or our anniversary, but she took no chances. I am far from a cheap-skate, but because she always selected her own gifts, I was cheated out of the pleasure I would have had, had I been allowed to do the buying and giving.

CHEATED IN BELLFLOWER

DEAR CHEATED: Some men do not like to shop and appreciate being relieved of the chore. But a wife should not take over the chore of buying her own gift unless her husband offers it to her.

DEAR ABBY: I have a conflict with my husband over the subject of children. We have been married for almost a year. He's 23 and I'm 19. We both want children — he less than I. I keep bringing up the subject and he keeps closing it. He says that a baby would tie us down, and I want a baby so much, it hurts. Can you help, Abby, or am I rushing things?

CAN'T WAIT

IN SUBURBAN, ILL.

DEAR CAN'T: Yes, you are rushing things. Wait until your husband is just as eager as you are — then you won't be the only one who's "tied down."
