Presidential race '88: Face-off begins

MICHAEL DUKAKIS

Demo: Bush for 'privileged'

PHILADELPHIA — Michael Dukakis today celebrated Labor Day by denouncing George Bush as the leader of the party of the rich and asking voters to "look in the mirror" and ask whether they can afford four more years of Reagan-era indifference.

Dukakis, on the workers' holiday that marks the traditional start of the fall presidential campaign, began the day visiting families in a working-class neighborhood of Philadelphia and then headed for Detroit and a rally in the auto capital with labor chiefs and Michigan's Democratic leaders.

Some 125 anti-abortion activists, by police estimates, staged a protest at his Philadelphia stop, waving signs and chanting, "Life yes, abortion no. Duke of death must go."

The Massachusetts governor, in his chat with the Philadelphia residents, ridiculed Bush's call for a ban on ocean dumping.

"I don't think Mr. Bush gets it. We want to stop ocean dumping, right? That means we've got to treat the sewage, right? ... But you can't be for an end to ocean dumping when you're also for ending federal grants for sewage treatment," said Dukakis.

Quayle attacks Dukakis veto

By WAYNE M. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

Republican presidential candidate George Bush headed west today for the traditional Labor Day campaign kickoff.

Vice presidential candidate Dan Quayle was on the hustings, too, finding fault Democrat presidential candidate Michael Dukakis.

Quayle renewed GOP criticism of Dukakis' veto of legislation requiring teachers to lead student recitals of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Bush was flying to San Diego, Calif., to visit a fish company, then moving on to Los Angeles and a tour of Disneyland, where the vice president planned to mingle with sightseers and would-be supporters.

The goal on both sides was to establish themes and focus an image that can produce victory in the election, now only nine weeks away.

A 50-state Associated Press survey released over the weekend showed the two sides locked in an extremely close race, with Bush leading in the South and mountain West and Dukakis ahead in the Northeast and making a strong bid on the West Coast. Much of the Midwest was too close to call.

Engine failures possible

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer

GRAPEVINE — Investigators concluded work at the site of the Delta Air Lines jetliner crash that killed 13 of the 108 people aboard, refusing to comment about reports that two engines may have failed.

Some pilots speculated that two of the Boeing 727's three engines may have failed because the wing flaps apparently were retracted at the time of the crash, rather than extended for takeoff, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

"When someone says 'engine failure' there are a whole host of things that might mean," Lee Dickinson of the National Transportation Safety Board said Sunday. "One of the things I will not do is speculate on anything."

A recording of cockpit crew members showed they mentioned engine failure. Two loud pops were then heard, which could have indicated a "compressor stall." But Dickinson said a compressor stall, which occurs when an engine is starving for air, is not critical: "Keep in mind, compressor stall is not serious, it's a hiccup."

Flight 1141 crashed and burned on takeoff Wednesday at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport on a flight for Salt Lake City.

On Sunday, workers at the crash site sealed the cockpit in a plastic blue tarpaulin. The wreckage was to be hauled to Delta headquarters in Atlanta, where it would be dismantled and studied, Dickinson said.

Two flight attendants were taken to the wreckage and questioned, but Dickinson said he had no information on what they told investigators.

The role of the wing flaps, which are extended during takeoff to provide added lift, continued to be discussed.

Flight Engineer Stephen Judd has told investigators the flaps were extended in the proper

Laboring Holiday means working for some people today

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

Labor Day brought a Sunday afternoon emptiness to downtown Big Spring today.

The banks, post office, county courthouse and library — often areas of heavy traffic — were closed in observance of the federal holiday, and only a few stray cars were parked along the streets.

But elsewhere, it was business as usual for some local establishments and employees.

"It's just a normal day for me," said Terry Blauser as he swept debris from the Big Spring Mall parking lot this morning.

Blauser, who has worked at the mall for a year, said it is open holidays except for Christmas and New Year.

"It's all right working today," he said. "I'm getting time and a half, so it makes it worthwhile."

The only business at the mall open at 9:30 a.m. was Regis Hairstylists.

Marsha Haugenather, a Regis employee, said she had a hard time finding a babysitter today, but other than that, "it's just another day of work," she said.

Judy Turner, manager of the 7-Eleven at 1801 S. Gregg St., said she was forced to work today because the store is in need of employee.

Business was slow she said "because a lot of the guys who work downtown and normally come in weren't here this morning."

Turner, who formerly worked for a Kroger grocery store in Houston, said she is used to working holidays, and has no complaints.

"This is a real good company to work for," she said.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard was another member of the labor day work force.

"Obviously, we have to be open for emergency purposes," said Standard, adding that two-thirds of his staff is on duty today.

The clerical staff at the sheriff's office was given the day off, and officers were manning the dispatcher's position, he said.

Despite the Labor Day holiday, it was work as usual at the Big Spring Mall for Terry Blauser, as he removes trash from the parking lot.

Standard said the weekend and today had been "rather quiet," but if the need should arise he could call in additional officers.

"We're here fulfilling our obligation," he said.

The nursing and emergency staff scheduled for today at the Veterans Administration Hospital were also fulfilling their duties.

Patricia Atkins, assistant chief of medical administration, said the hospital had a "short staff" of nurses and other medical personnel on duty today.

Some of the administrators chose to come in today to catch up on unfinished business, she said.

Federal holiday or not, "you can't close a hospital," Atkins said.

Storms lash Mexico; at least 13 die

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Emergency crews worked today to get supplies to communities isolated by flooding from two hurricanes and to repair washed out roads and bridges.

At least 13 people died in the flooding, officials said. Most were killed in mudslides or were swept away by swollen rivers. An estimated 50,000 were evacuated from their homes.

Much of the southern half of the country was affected — from Veracruz on the east to the west coast resorts and Chiapas on the border with Guatemala.

About 25,000 people in Veracruz were temporarily homeless, state government spokesman Raul Torres said late Sunday. Most were in the region of Tuxpan and Poza Rica, about 150 miles northeast of Mexico City, where Hurricane Debby struck on Friday.

Up to a quarter of the 40,000 residents of Alamo, 25 miles inland from Tuxpan, had to leave their homes, Torres said.

Three people died in Poza Rica and three in the nearby town of Papantla as a result of the storm, he said.

In the central state of Hidalgo, a mudslide crushed three houses in the mountain community of Ixtlahuaco, about 100 miles northeast of Mexico City, killing four people and injuring 16 others, 2nd Commander Florencio Gutierrez Hernandez, a State Public Security Department official, said.

He said there were 56 mudslides on the section of road between Pachuca and Huejutla. Traffic was moving slowly but the road was not closed, he said.

Three people died when they came too close to the banks of flooding rivers in the southern state of Oaxaca, Lt. Col. Peregrin Villagomez, assistant public security director, said. One was picking corn and another tending cattle.

Traffic on the Pan-American highway near the city of Oaxaca, 230 miles southeast of Mexico City, was stopped for 15 hours during the weekend after a bridge cracked. By late Sunday, automobile traffic had resumed, but buses and trucks were still being detoured, he said.

He said road crews were quickly clearing away the frequent mudslides on the Pan-American highway and other routes.

On the Pacific coast, lashed from off-shore by Hurricane Kristy last week, 20,000 people were evacuated in Chiapas state.

Tourists were stranded in the resort of Ixtapa-Zihuatenejo, where the airport was flooded and breaks in the road south to Acapulco and north to Lazaro Cardenas interrupted land travel.

Rain let up Sunday, but Ixtapa was without electricity. Generators in luxury hotels supplied enough power only for public areas, such as lobbies and dining rooms. At least one hotel ran out of candles for rooms.

Medical brigades in Acapulco vaccinated children and urged people to boil water and take precautions with food to avoid epidemics. Hotelmen said that with the rain and the end of the Mexican vacation season, tourism was down to 20 percent of capacity.

Debby dissipated after hitting land with hurricane force Friday.

Residents run, wildfires burn

By DAVID FOSTER
Associated Press Writer

SILVER GATE, Mont. — Residents of two towns on the edge of a giant wildfire near Yellowstone National Park fled their homes and firefighters today made a "last ditch" effort to stop the encroaching flames.

About 150 residents of Silver Gate and Cooke City, near Yellowstone's northeastern entrance, were told Sunday to evacuate.

Only a few residents opted to stay.

"There's no real reason to leave," Cooke City's Wayne Johnson as firefighters moved past him. "I don't think the town's going to burn."

But officials were not so confident.

"If (the fire) jumps out of the line and explodes, it could burn up that canyon faster than they could drive out of there," said fire information officer Dave McMoran. "So we're spreading the word around tonight, 'Don't sit around and wait, folks.'"

Crews lit a three-mile line of flames through the forest Sunday night to burn up fuel in front of the 60,000-acre Storm Creek fire and to buffer the towns.

The blaze was among fires that have blackened 910,000 acres of the greater Yellowstone area, including 611,000 acres within the park itself, or more than one-fourth of Yellowstone's 2.2 million total acreage. One blaze, the North Fork fire, was within three miles of Old Faithful geyser in Wyoming.

Elsewhere, fires in Southern California blackened nearly 3,000 acres of brush and timber and damaged at least 21 homes as searing, dry weather and Santa Ana winds harried firefighters and ignited new flames. The fire forced 150 people to evacuate from a mobile home park 15 miles northeast of San Diego.

Washington state's most serious forest fires ballooned to more than 12,500 acres, sending smoke and ash over the town of Republic but posing no immediate threat.

In Utah, calm winds helped firefighters keep a raging,

5,400-acre brush fire from more than 70 canyon homes east of Salt Lake City, authorities said.

In Idaho, a fire that spread from Yellowstone into the Island Park area of eastern Idaho during the weekend burned more than 14,500 acres, but light winds gave firefighters a reprieve. The state's largest fire, the Ladder Creek fire in central Idaho, grew to more than 21,000 acres.

More than 600 firefighters in Montana tended the backfire set near Yellowstone's northeast entrance. The blaze was expected to burn nearly 5,000 acres by late today in a west, southwest direction.

The Storm Creek fire, which started nearly three months ago in the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness of Montana, continued burning southerly down a pair of creek drainages in the park, away from the two towns.

"The next two days are critical as officials expect southwest winds to kick up Tuesday and possibly blow the flames toward the towns, said Pat Kaunert, fire information officer.

"We're creating a massive buffer in a last-ditch effort to save this town," Kaunert said. "We need two miles of buffer in front of the fire to hold it. Two miles of black."

Crews also manned a 65-foot-wide swath bulldozed through the forest, waiting with shovels and hoses to put out any burning embers.

Tanker trucks sprayed flame-retardant foam on the historic gatehouse at the park's northeast entrance.

Smoke from the backfires filled both towns, and curious residents in Cooke City watched down the highway.

The evacuation notice was given Sunday morning and sheriff's deputies drove a patrol vehicle slowly through the streets, blaring out an evacuation signal.

The fire started June 14 when a lightning strike sparked a small blaze in the wilderness. Under Forest Service policy, it was allowed to burn as long as it remained within the boundaries

Fee for film use criticized

HOUSTON (AP) — A home movie capturing the assassination of President John F. Kennedy nearly 25 years ago is being sold for as much as $30,000 per use, the Houston Chronicle reported in a copyright story.

The footage currently under copyright protection was made by the late Abraham Zapruder on Nov. 22, 1963 and some believe profiting from the historical film is wrong and that the film should be part of the public domain, the newspaper reported Sunday.

"You shouldn't be able to copyright something like that," said David Wrono, a history professor at the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point.

Zapruder's son, Henry Zapruder, a tax lawyer who has been negotiating the sale of the film's rights out of his Washington, D.C., office, would not comment about his financial interests in the film.

However, he did say: "Anybody who is using it for their own use, research, showing it to students, colleges, can have it free of charge, other than the costs of reprinting the film. But if they're going to be making commercial use of it, then we charge."

Zapruder, 50, sells the rights to the film and stills through the family company, LMH Company.

Richard B. Stolley negotiated the 1963 purchase of the film and its rights for Life magazine and Time Inc. from Abraham Zapruder, who died in 1970, for $150,000. He said Zapruder was sensitive to accusations that he profited from Kennedy's death.

Time sold the original film back to the Zapruder family in 1975 for $1 in part because Time wasn't comfortable controlling public access to the film. Time, itself, he said, still has unlimited publication rights of film stills.

Abraham Zapruder, according to Stolley, saw the sale of the film as a way to provide financial security for his family. His wife and his only other child, a daughter, live in Dallas.

Author Robert Groden, who provided a first-generation copy of the film to the ABC television network in 1975 in what he says was the first time the film was shown nationally, believes Zapruder's handling of the film is questionable.

"The worst part of the whole thing has been the suppression of the film," Groden said. "Not so much that one person is making a lot of money, but, if somebody wants to do something really good with it, they're restricted. It's like their hands are tied."

Although the Zapruders own the original film and the film rights, the original 8 mm film is being held on behalf of the family at the National Archives in Washington.

HORIZON CITY — Investigators look over the scene of a single engine plane crash in the desert about four miles east of El Paso Sunday. The cause of the crash of the Cessna 170A, in which four people were killed, has yet to be determined.

Minister says death racially motivated

FLORIEN, La. (AP) — Family and friends of Loyal Garner Jr. gathered at a local high school auditorium for a memorial tribute to the truck driver who died of head wounds after being jailed in the Sabine County Jail.

Police Chief Duane Calhoun fought back tears Saturday as he described his friendship with Garner and he pledged to help Garner's widow and six children. Calhoun said he knew Garner as he grew up and never saw him do anything wrong.

Garner, 34, died Dec. 27, at Tyler Medical Center after surgery for head wounds he received at the jail in Hemphill. Former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 41, and sheriff's deputies Bill Horton, 58, and James "Bo" Hyden, 35, were acquitted July 15 of violating Garner's civil rights by beating him and denying him medical attention.

The 12th District Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday the trio cannot be tried for murder in Smith County because it would constitute double jeopardy trying someone twice for the same alleged offense.

Florien Mayor John Manasco said the people of Florien know "a wrong has been committed, but the question is why did we permit it to happen."

"I don't agree with the courts in Texas. But someday it will be righted," Manasco said. "I knew Junior (Garner) to be honest and hardworking. He was loved by his family."

"It is incomprehensible that something like this could happen," he said.

The Rev. Ernest Charles of Houston said he has talked to many whites who feel Garner's death was racially motivated. The three law men were white and Garner, black.

Accident toll 19 in Texas

By The Associated Press
Motorcycle accidents have claimed the lives of three of the 19 people who have died so far on Texas streets and highways during the long Labor Day holiday weekend.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has estimated that as many as 35 people will die before the fatality count ends at midnight Monday. The count began at 6 p.m. Friday. Last year, 26 people died in Texas during the same period.

Baylor students Ronald Hugh Morris, 21, of Conway, Ark., and Elizabeth Lynn Munson, 20, of Houston, were killed just early Sunday about 1 1/2 miles east of Robinson in McLennan County, said DPS spokesman Tom Mobley.

Morris and Ms. Munson were riding a motorcycle on Loop 340 when the vehicle changed lanes and was struck by an approaching car, Mobley said.

Joan Hansen, 48, of Houston, died Sunday when the car in which she was riding collided with another vehicle at a Houston intersection.

Irma Marie Cabasas, 18, also of Houston, was killed Sunday afternoon in Houston when the car in which she was riding collided with a bus and hit a traffic signal pole.

Corey Box, 4, of Pecos, died Monday of injuries suffered Sunday in a single-vehicle rollover on Farm-Market Road 869 10 miles south of Interstate 20 in Reeves County.

A Pottsboro motorcyclist was killed about Sunday in a collision on a farm-to-market road near Sherman. Authorities identified the victim as 22-year-old Darren Ray Carpenter.

Two people were killed in a head-on crash at 4:30 a.m. Sunday south of Floresville. Jimmy K. Payne, 39, of Poth was killed when his southbound vehicle veered into the northbound lane and struck another vehicle, officials said.

Gardena S. Hetzer, 34, of San Antonio, who was in the northbound vehicle, also was killed in the accident, which occurred on U.S. Highway 181 in Wilson.

In Longview, Jimmie Wayne Gibson, 39, was standing by a parked vehicle when he was struck and killed by another vehicle about five miles west of Hawkins at 2:55 a.m. Sunday.

Orval Lee Purdy, 52, was killed when a pickup ran into Lake Meridith at Harbor Bay in Moore County north of Amarillo about 10 p.m. Saturday. Purdy drowned after he ran into the water about 80 feet from the bank, Mobley said.

David Johnson DiPrima, 20, was killed on Interstate 30 about three miles east of New Boston in Bowie County at 5:20 p.m. Saturday. He was traveling east when the vehicle struck a guard rail and overturned, officials said. He was ejected from the vehicle.

Teresa Gonzalez Cepeda, 46, of Hidalgo, died when her car rolled over in Hidalgo at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Seven others, including three pedestrians, were killed earlier in the weekend, DPS officials said.

Nine killed in plane crashes

By RUTH RENDON
Associated Press Writer

Nine people were killed over the weekend in private plane crashes in El Paso and in Carthage in far East Texas, Texas Department of Public Safety officials said Sunday.

In Carthage, a twin-engine plane crash claimed the lives of five people who were returning to the Panola County community after attending a football game in Mississippi.

The demolished aircraft was found at 8 a.m. Sunday in a densely wooded area about two miles south of Panola County's Sharpe Field Airport and about 300 yards off Texas Highway 699. Carthage is about 40 miles southwest of Shreveport, La.

Billy Don Griffith, 43, owner of Griffith Construction Co. and a member of the Carthage Independent School District board of trustees was killed along with his wife, Linda, 43, according to DPS Sgt. Mike Payne.

Other victims were identified as pilot Marcus D. Butler, 62, Ann Liston Apple, 48, an assistant Carthage High School principal, and Christina Ann Bell, 16, of De Berry.

"Radar operators in Shreveport, Louisiana lost the plane about 11:30 p.m. Saturday. Radio communications between the plane and controllers in Fort Worth was lost about the same time," Payne said.

"Air controllers had given the pilot permission to descend from 5,000 feet to 3,000 feet shortly before the aircraft was lost."

"Payne said the 1981 Piper Seneca 3 aircraft was apparently on its final landing approach when it crashed, shearing off several pine trees as it plummeted almost straight down into the forest."

The plane had left Starkville, Miss., following a college football game Saturday night, Payne said.

Investigators with the National Transportation Safety Board and Federal Aviation Administration were on the scene late Sunday trying to determine the cause of the crash.

In El Paso, officials Sunday were still trying to determine what caused a "single-engine Cessna to go down in a remote area east of El Paso near Horizon City that killed four people."

The Cessna 170A crashed about 8:40 p.m. Saturday about five miles north of Horizon City, said Sal Renteria, chief of the Horizon City Volunteer Fire Department.

Killed in the crash about 20 miles east of El Paso were 8-year-old Justin Hafely of Wesley, Bernard John Peterson, 30, of Austin and pilot Dennis Raymond Peterson, 37, and Kevin Peterson, 30, both of El Paso.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators from Fort Worth are expected to investigate the crash.

Hal Tucker, manager of the West Texas Regional Airport near Horizon City, said the plane took off Saturday afternoon for a pleasure trip.

Police believe child abducted
STAMFORD (AP) — Jones County authorities investigating the weekend disappearance of a 7-year-old Stamford girl say they believe she was probably abducted.

Cortney Lynn Clayton has been missing since about 8:45 p.m. Friday, when she walked to an convenience store less than a block from her house to buy a soda.

"We have no reason to believe she would have run away," Jones County Sheriff Mike Middleton said.

After a thorough door-to-door search and searches from the air by helicopter and plane, authorities also suspect the child was taken from the Stamford area.

The girl's father, Stan Clayton, said he also believes someone probably abducted the girl.

He said his daughter often walked to the M System store near her house, and the cashier has confirmed she was in the store Friday night.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from Abilene also have been called in to assist the local police and sheriff's departments.

The girl is about 4 feet tall with shoulder-length blond hair and brown eyes. Authorities say she was last seen wearing a white T-shirt with a print on the front, maroon terry cloth shorts and blue tennis shoes with white laces. She has freckles, a scar on her right index finger and pierced ears.

Film questions conviction
DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County District Attorney says he will review information in the capital murder of a police officer, but says a film challenging the conviction did not cause him to question the verdict.

"The Thin Blue Line" opened over the weekend in Dallas and other cities, and is based on the 1977 conviction of Randall Dale Adams in the shooting death of Dallas police officer Robert Wood.

The film contends that police and prosecutors railroaded Adams and suggest that the real killer was David Harris, a teenager who was the state's chief witness against Adams.

Randy Schaffer, Adams' attorney, said he mailed District Attorney John Vance information he hopes will persuade Vance to investigate Adams' conviction. If Vance refuses, Schaffer said he would use the information to seek a new trial.

Vance saw the film last week and repeated that his office will investigate the case if he is given evidence indicating the wrong man was convicted.

Harris testified that he saw Adams shoot Wood during a traffic stop shortly after midnight on Nov. 28, 1976. But Harris told the film maker Erol Morris in 1986 and numerous reporters in 1988 that Adams was innocent.

The film also challenges the credibility of several witnesses who testified against Adams.

Dallas public defense costs high
DALLAS (AP) — Felony court judges in Dallas County are spending a record amount in hiring private attorneys to defend the poor, while the public defender's office provides the same service at a fraction of the cost.

By the end of the fiscal year, felony court judges will have spent an all-time high of $4.5 million on legal defense for 13,000 indigent criminal suspects in Dallas County.

The amount exceeds the judges annual budget by $1 million and breaks down to an average of $296 per case paid to attorneys for often a five- to 15-minute court appearance.

'Mercy killings' usually unpunished

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County grand jury's decision not to indict Walter Cottrell last week for killing his 89-year-old wife was not that unusual, according to a group that supports laws to allow voluntary euthanasia.

Nationally, only two people this decade who claimed mercy killing as a defense have received prison terms, according to the National Hemlock Society, the organization that tracks mercy killings.

Cottrell, 87, shot and killed his wife, Cora, on July 5 as she lay in her nursing home bed. Cottrell told police that his wife was terminally ill and in great pain and had repeatedly asked him to take her life.

It apparently was the first case of its kind to come before a Dallas County grand jury, local lawyers said.

"I've read about them in the papers in other parts of the country, but I don't remember any coming up when I was district attorney," said Henry Wade, who held that post from 1951 to 1966.

The grand jury issued a news release explaining the decision not to indict Cottrell, a response that seems to reflect the legal and moral uncertainty surrounding mercy killings.

In the release, grand jurors said prosecuting Cottrell would serve "no useful purpose," but emphasized that their ruling was not a license for future mercy killers.

At the time Mrs. Cottrell died, there had been six mercy killings reported in the country in 1988, Humphry said.

Between 1920 and March 1988, the National Hemlock Society reported, there were 92 mercy killings in the United States — 63 of them this decade.

"We're more merciful with these cases than we were — we used to sentence most of these people to prison," Humphry said. But he added that "it's hard to compare it to the past because there were so few mercy killings long ago. It's a crime of the '80s. There's no doubt about it."

In the Cottrell case, grand jurors considered not only the law but also evidence of both the husband's and wife's physical health and Cottrell's mental health, prosecutor Lucas said.

"That was a big factor in this, his mental competency to stand trial," Lucas said, although he added there were other factors.

and said "I'm for ending ocean dumping by 1991. So am I. But how are we going to pay for it?" Dukakis asked.

He also hit Bush on housing, saying, "I don't think I've ever heard Mr. Bush talk about housing, have you? ... He hasn't. He doesn't appreciate what average folks are going through."

Dukakis, in the text of his speech to the Detroit rally, said Bush wanted to help the "privileged few" get richer while making it harder for middle class families to send their children to college.

"The election is a choice between two kinds of leadership, two ideas about prosperity and two visions of America," Dukakis said. "For the past seven years, as the Census Bureau told us this past week, the rich have gotten richer; the poor have gotten poorer; and those of us in the middle — and that means most of us — are getting squeezed."

"My friends, I ask you, can we afford four more years of that?"

Dukakis questioned Indiana Sen. Dan Quayle's qualifications to be vice president or president while praising his running mate, Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, as a leader who had proven his compassion by shepherding trade and plant-closing legislation through the Senate.

And he lashed out at Bush's proposal to cut the capital gains tax, which Dukakis said could give a $30,000 tax break to those making more than $200,000 a year.

"That's more than the average teacher makes," Dukakis said. "That's enough to send your son or daughter to Michigan State for four years. The down payment young couples could use to buy their first home."

"And who do you think is going to pay for that new tax break?" Dukakis asked. "Look at your kids. Look at your parents. Look in the mirror and ask yourself, can we afford four more years of that?"

Dukakis also took Bush to task for calling the rise in national unemployment reported last week "statistically irrelevant."

"That's an interesting phrase," Dukakis said. "But not surprising, coming as it did from the standard bearer of the party that thought ketchup was a vegetable. My

Report: Young families suffering economically

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — High poverty rates for young families are getting America's youth off to "the worst possible start," warns the head of a group promoting the interests of children.

"Our children and our young families are this nation's growing edge. We neglect them at our peril," said Marian Wright Edelman, president of the Children's Defense Fund.

The comments came with the release of a study commissioned by the group, which found that the economic growth of the last few years hasn't benefited young American families.

"America's young families are afflicted by an economic depression in the middle of our society's more general prosperity," Edelman said in a statement.

In terms of constant dollars, the income of families with children headed by an adult under age 30 fell by about one-fourth between 1973 and 1986, the fund reported.

As a result the poverty rate for such families nearly doubled from 12 percent in 1973 to 22 percent in

"Our children and our young families are this nation's growing edge. We neglect them at our peril," said Marian Wright Edelman, president of the Children's Defense Fund.

1986, the fund said.

Census Bureau figures for 1987 were released last week and, while not identical to the children's fund figures, tend to support the group's assertions.

The Census Bureau found that the 1987 poverty rate for children aged 18 and under was 20 percent, up from 14.2 percent in 1973. Younger families tended to have higher poverty rates than older ones, the census figures showed.

Poverty rates for children, whether black, white or Hispanic, rose between 1973 and 1987, the figures showed, and were higher than for other families or individuals.

"These are the children on whom we must rely to be the workers, leaders, parents, taxpayers, soldiers and hope of the 21st century," Edelman said. "We are getting them off to the worst possible start."

In the short term, the Children's Defense Fund called for a higher minimum wage and passage of the Act for Better Child Care, legislation pending in Congress to improve services for working parents.

Long-term recommendations included extending Medicaid coverage to pregnant women and children in families with less than twice the poverty income; expanded tax credits for low-income families; expanded Head Start programs; setting up community learning centers for children, and a series of educational and home-buyer assistance programs.

The fund describes itself as a non-profit group working to draw attention to the needs of children, particularly the poor, minorities and handicapped.

Engines

position upon takeoff. But evidence from the wreckage indicates the flaps were completely, or almost completely, retracted.

"We have further verification that the flaps were retracted," Dickinson said Sunday.

Bill Melvin, a Delta pilot participating in the investigation on behalf of the Air Line Pilots Association, said he believes Flight 1141's pilot could have been facing engine failure and decided to retract the flaps in a last-ditch effort to save the plane.

"A 727 will still fly if it loses one engine, but all 727 pilots know if you lose two engines, the only way you can fly the plane off is to get rid of the flaps," Melvin said, noting the maneuver is not an approved emergency procedure. "With two engines out, there's only one way that plane could fly — with the flaps up."

Dickinson said he didn't know what the procedure for the pilot would have been if both engines failed. "Each airline has different operations. As you know, we will be documenting Delta's procedure."

The 48-year-old pilot, Larry Davis, remained hospitalized today and has been visited at Parkland Memorial Hospital by other survivors offering thanks for the way he handled the crash, enabling 95 people to survive.

Davis is scheduled to undergo surgery Tuesday to have a metal plate implanted under his left eye, said his 21-year-old daughter, Christie. He suffered numerous facial fractures and a back injury.

"He realizes that it's God that did the miracle," Ms. Davis said Sunday. "God is the reason that he's alive. There's something that God has planned for him."

Kidnapping case being researched

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Police are investigating the alleged abduction and possible sexual assault of a Big Spring woman from a city street by two men Sunday night, authorities said.

Details are sketchy, but Detective Sgt. Bill King said the woman was walking in the 1500 block of Gregg Street about 8:30 p.m., when two men abducted her and drove to Colorado City.

She managed to escape her abductors there and notified Colorado City police — who contacted Big Spring police about 12:30 a.m. Monday, King said.

Colorado City Police Chief Bobby Sparks said the woman told investigators the men abducted her in Big Spring and later sexually assaulted her before she was able to escape.

Neither Sparks or King said they knew the woman's age.

The woman was interviewed by Big Spring detectives early today and will be interviewed again later in the day, King said.

King — who has not yet had a chance to interview the woman — said he is unsure whether the case will be prosecuted in Howard or Mitchell County.

One dead in Houston wreck

HOUSTON (AP) — One woman was killed and 16 people suffered mostly minor injuries when a car and a city bus collided in an intersection, after the car's brakes apparently failed, police said.

Irma Cabasas, 18, a passenger in the car, was killed instantly when the car was crumpled beneath the Metro bus, authorities said. The accident occurred at about 4:40 p.m. Sunday in a southeast Houston intersection.

Carillo death investigation continues

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Police continue to interview witnesses in connection with the early Saturday death of a 26-year-old Big Spring man whose body was found in the parking lot of the Ritz Theatre, Detective Sgt. Bill King said.

Jimmy Carrillo, 1014 Bluebonnet Ave., apparently died from aspiration — inhaling of foreign object or materials into the lungs — after his head struck the pavement following a fight, according to preliminary autopsy reports.

Howard County Justice of the Peace China Long said toxicology samples have been taken and will be studied.

Detectives interviewed witnesses for 5½ hours Saturday, although King said investigators are still unsure about what actually occurred prior to Carrillo's death.

"This is a case that should have been wrapped up on Saturday, but it looks like it will be three or four days before we finally know what happened," King said.

Carrillo had been employed by the Ritz Theatre, 104 S. Main St., for about one year.

Park fires

prescribed in a fire management plan.

But in mid-August, 70 mph gusts blew the fire across several miles in a few hours and firefighters moved in to stop its advance. At the same time, a man-caused fire burning to the west in the same area — the Hellroaring Creek blaze — also gained ground.

The Hellroaring fire stood at nearly 54,000 acres today, and officials expected the fires to merge.

"This group of fires is the largest complex of wildfires ever to burn in the written history of the continental U.S., excluding Alaska," Kaurnt said. "This is a one-in-400 year event."

Yellowstone National Park spokeswoman Joan Anzelmo agreed: "It is a magnitude that no one in their wildest imagination or scientific predictions could have suggested."

Police beat

Big Spring police reported investigating the following incidents:

Two parked cars were damaged when struck by a car whose driver fled the scene late Sunday, according to police reports.

Witnesses told police a 1987 Ford being driven by a Hispanic male about 11 p.m. and traveling at a high rate of speed struck a 1980 Ford parked legally in the 1600 block of Main Street.

The first vehicle that was struck is owned by Martiva Vierra, 825 W. 6th St., reports stated.

After striking Vierra's car, the driver backed into a 1985 Mercury owned by Spring City Do It Center and fled the scene, according to reports.

Police located the car involved in the collisions about 30 minutes after the incident and cited John M. Talamontez, 34, 108 E. 11th St., for failure to meet requirements when striking a parked car, reports stated.

• A 1980 Ford Fairmont was recovered on the Federal Prison campgrounds and police arrested Bradley Williams, 17, Midland, on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and Don Johnson, 18, was arrested on a charge of criminal trespass. The car was reportedly stolen in Midland.

Opinion

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Views of other U.S. newspapers

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from across the nation:

Protecting national secrets

The idea of Americans passing along secrets to the enemy has always been an abhorrent one, and news of another such situation in West Germany makes one wonder about this nation's moral fiber. It also raises questions about the government's counterintelligence capabilities. It's evident that too many people hold security clearances to handle classified documents. And handing out clearances to so many young military people, most not mature enough to handle the responsibility, is a questionable practice. The government may have to consider draconian measures to stop the flight of secrets to Warsaw Pact nations and elsewhere. More rigorous investigations and follow-ups as well as workplace surveillance are not pleasant prospects but it may be coming to that. In some instances, it's a matter of sloppy security practices. Whatever the case, the nation's critical defense secrets must be protected better than they have been.

Lewiston (Maine) Daily Sun

Art of presidential campaigning

George Bush says he yearns for a "kinder, gentler nation." At the same time, the vice president and his friends have expended excessive energy trying to brand Democratic presidential contender Michael S. Dukakis as disloyal. Sadly, the vice president has squandered several opportunities to say something meaningful by instead dwelling on the fact that as governor of Massachusetts, Dukakis vetoed a bill that would have imposed criminal fines on teachers who failed to lead their class in the Pledge of Allegiance. Dukakis correctly nixed the bill because of state and U.S. Supreme Court rulings that such laws are unconstitutional. Bush claims he would have signed it anyway. Does this mean he has little respect for Supreme Court interpretations of the Constitution or that he holds the Constitution in as little regard as some other Reagan administration officials have? Why has Bush insisted on beating this non-issue into the ground? He should be above such cheap shots. Bush and Dukakis can show real leadership and character by rising from the mud and dwelling on the issues — and by doing so with specifics, not platitudes.

Flint (Mich.) Journal

Quayle: Instance of hypocrisy?

Sen. (Dan) Quayle's decision to write press releases during the Vietnam War is not, by itself, reason to question his suitability for the vice presidency. But repeated instances of hypocrisy are another matter altogether. It seems Quayle holds two standards, one for the nation, and another for himself. The public Quayle champions the family and war games, and opposes nuclear disarmament and negotiations with the Soviets, with a passion no doubt genuine. But as Quayle's National Guard escapade reveals, there's another private man behind the public mask who does not live out the values he espouses. Despite his heavy-handed war philosophy, given the opportunity to fight, he has dodged dangerous assignments. His rhetoric honoring the family sings pure Republican. But the private man has felt no compunction against propositioning a Playboy model, or even carousing in that set of company. There, Quayle the private man has revealed himself to be an opportunist, his personal politics and morality vulnerable to the convenience of the moment. That he has tried to rationalize the way he exempts his own behavior from the code he holds to the nation should disappoint the public. That he feels free to condemn anyone who points to the inconsistencies suggests he is too immature to face himself.

Herald, Everett, Wash

Blame Bush for Quayle circus

The circus that the Dan Quayle campaign has become may be the media's show, but it's not our fault. The people responsible include a Republican presidential candidate who should know better, but nonetheless sprung a virtually unknown and untested U.S. Senator on the public and can't understand why we're interested in virtually every minute of the curious past that led to his surprising elevation. Who is he and where did he come from? These are legitimate questions, and if the pursuit of them reminds (George) Bush of a "feeding frenzy" among fish, it's a possibility that should have occurred to an experienced politician with five months to think about his running mate.

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin

Some drug risks are justified

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration's flexible, new approach to drug marketing brings hope to thousands of people afflicted with AIDS and other life-threatening illnesses. After years of dogged resistance, the FDA has suddenly relaxed its rigid rules and bowed to logical demands that an experimental drug be made more widely available to sufferers of a severe form of pneumonia that is the leading cause of death among AIDS patients. Under the new policy, the FDA has agreed to make the drug trimetrexate freely available to physicians throughout the United States, even though the drug has not passed all the tests normally required for marketing approval. Naturally, the FDA should not relax its careful scrutiny of new drugs in ordinary circumstances. To do so would place the public at risk. But where there is a chance of saving lives in otherwise hopeless situations, risks are justified.

Consider the Bush VP choice

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
Let's say George Bush has dumped young Sen. Quayle from the Republican ticket. The media, lathered to a frenzy over Sen. Quayle's questionable military and academic backgrounds, has looked further into his closet of skeletons. It has been reported that not only did he pull strings to get into the National Guard, Sen. Quayle also never learned to clean his rifle properly, was frequently out of step while marching with his comrades, and once referred to the patriotic "When Those Caissons Go Rolling Along," as "a dumb song." As for his academic career, reporters found out Sen. Quayle had a fellow student write his term paper, "What I Did on My Summer Vacation," in the fifth grade and paid off the kid from his $100 a week allowance.

So, we now find the Bush forces back in session trying to come up with a new vice presidential nominee to save the sinking ticket.

"By golly, guys," Mr. Bush began, "we've really stepped on our tails here."

"What's this 'we' stuff?" replied top aide James Baker. "I told you that kid was nothing but trouble, but you wouldn't listen."

"But, by golly, he was such a handsome young man," answered Mr. Bush. "What is it the ladies use to describe such a fellow? 'Hulk'?"

"Hunk," corrected Mr. Baker. "I simply thought he might get us some female votes, and, by golly, we could use some," Mr. Bush went on.

"He looks so much like — who's the actor he looks like?"

"Redford, sir," someone spoke out. "Robert Redford."

"Dan Redford, yeah, that's the guy," said Mr. Bush.

The group again began reviewing familiar names as possible replacements for Sen. Quayle. Even Pat Robertson's name was spoken.

"He is short enough so he'll make me look presidential standing next to me," said Mr. Bush.

"But," interrupted an aide, "he's got that premarital sex baggage with him, and he looks too much like a chipmunk."

"By golly, he does have those puffy cheeks, doesn't he?" said the vice president.

Someone else suggested Bob Dole.

"Look what he did for Jerry Ford," said Mr. Bush.

Jack Kemp's name came up, of course.

"There's room for only one quarterback on my team," said the vice president, pleased with his phrase-making.

Just then, the phone rang. A Bush aide answered. After listening to the caller for a moment, he handed the phone to Mr. Bush.

"It's some guy who says he's the man you need as your running mate."

"Hand me the phone," said Mr. Bush.

"This is the vice president speaking," he said. "Who's calling? Is that you, Jesse? Well, by golly, what a pleasant surprise..."

Planning a fishing jaunt? Write to 'Dear Sarah' first

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Sometimes I wish I were an advice columnist. Then I could write columns about things that are fun to do and give people helpful advice, like these hints on fishing trips:

- Don't go alone. Take a spouse to stay on the bank in case the outboard quits and you're stranded midlake. Don't forget a bullhorn, so you can tell your spouse to go for help.

- Or take some children, preferably not squeamish about spearing minnows, threading worms and removing hooks from your catch. Make sure one can swim well enough to go for help. Take oars, preferably a pair, in case one of the above works.

- Don't dress like those guys on the fishing shows UHF stations broadcast on Sunday afternoons. You'll wish you hadn't when the first catfish you pull out of the river slimes your brand-new $40 jeans, or when the first snapping turtle bites a hole in your $60 fishing jacket.

- Wear an old t-shirt or sweatshirt. Wear one of those life vests with 12 million pockets and a velcro patch on the chest. That way if you fall in the lake, you can attach yourself to the anchor line.

- Wear a beat-up gimme cap, if you have one. If not, take a new gimme cap, and run over it a time or two with the boat, the trailer and your trusty tow vehicle. Or wash it in the same load with all your children's tennis shoes — same difference, worse smell.

- Forget your shades. That way

Write from the heart

short rope and they'll stay cool. Remember to tie the rope to the boat so you can retrieve them.

- Don't forget the bait. Last week's abandoned shrimp dip is good. Mix it with enough cornmeal to "ll stay on a hook longer than it takes to drop the mess over the side. Fresh roadkilled armadillo or jackrabbit will also work, and it's cheaper than buying bloodbait or dollar-a-dozen worms at the baitshop.

- If all else fails, resort to commercial plastic worms and rubber minnows. They cost a little more but they don't smell as bad, and they probably won't start maggots in the carpet if you don't wash your boat/tow vehicle before leaving the lake. Roadkill does that sometimes.

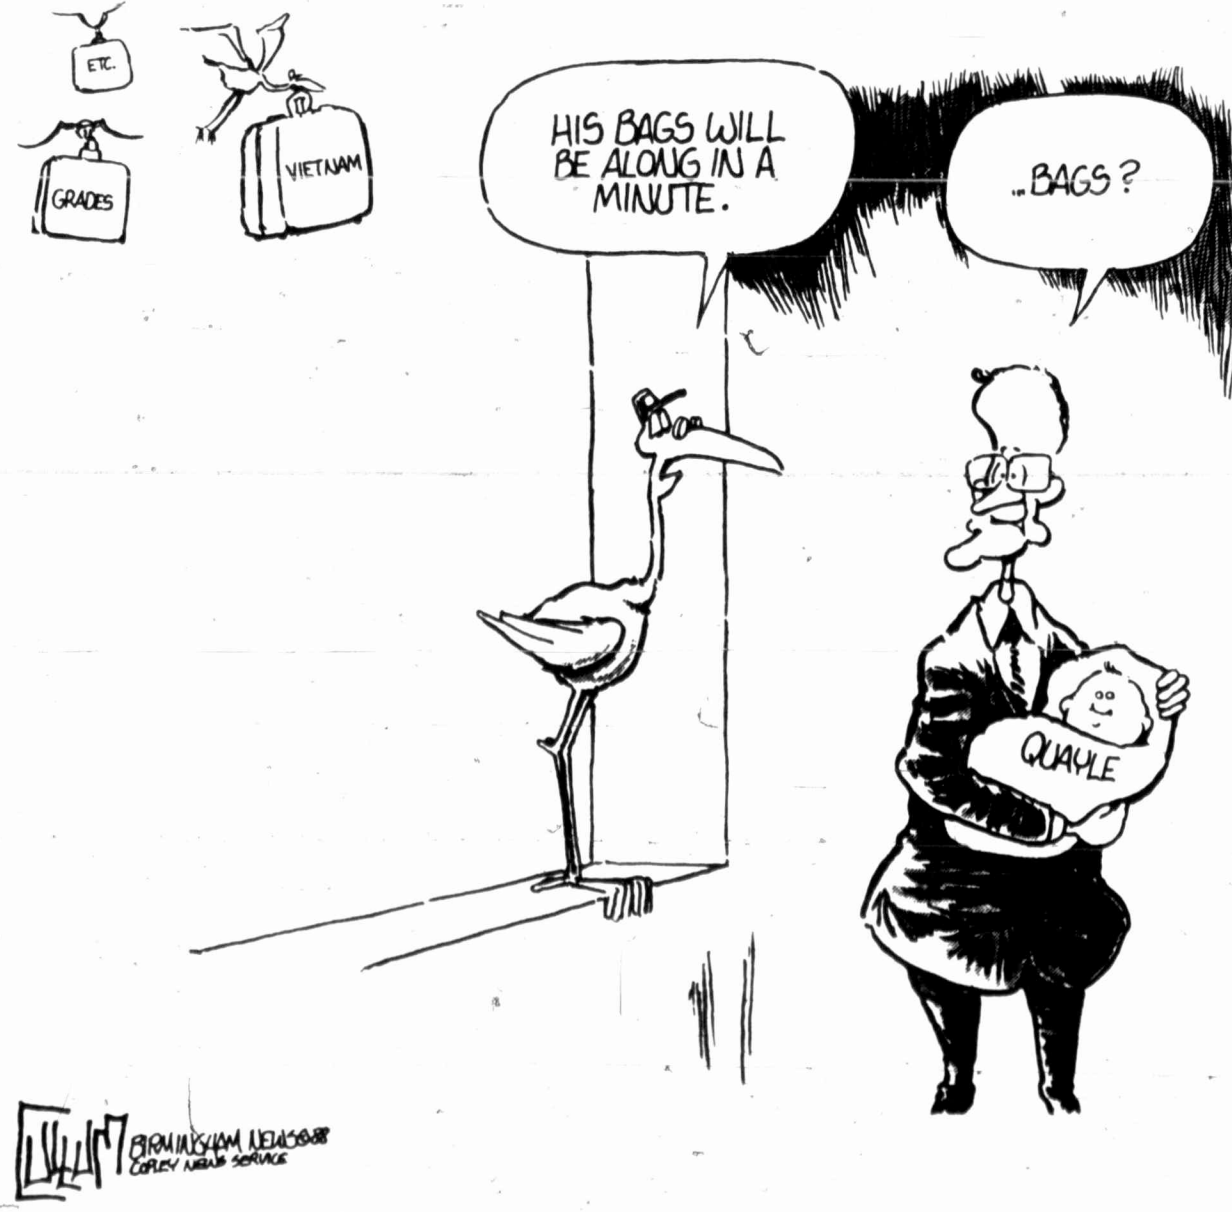

- Or you can use your mother-in-law's leftover Transylvanian whatever-that-stuff-was in the casserole dish your spouse keeps forgetting to empty. You probably shouldn't use it for bait if it has green fuzz growing on top of it.

- You might want to take some of the green fuzz along though, to prevent lockjaw if you sink a hook in the back of your hand or somebody else miscasts and hangs a hook deep in another part of your anatomy.

- Now, don't those sound like good hints?

- On second thought, maybe this advice business isn't so great.

Instead, perhaps I should keep listening to the voices Steve Reagan is always answering as he writes his columns, and wonder which of us is really crazy.

Carlucci to discuss weapon sales

BEIJING, China (AP) — Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci today began his first trip to China, a five-day visit expected to include discussions on U.S. concerns about Chinese arms sales in the Middle East.

Carlucci is to hold talks on global, regional and bilateral issues with his host, National Defense Minister Qin Qiwai. He is also scheduled to meet China's top leader, Deng Xiaoping, and Communist Party General Secretary Zhao Ziyang.

Carlucci is expected to restate U.S. concerns about China's arms sales to the Middle East, which Washington says could destabilize military balances in that volatile region.

China has reportedly sold Silkworm anti-ship missiles to Iran and recently agreed to supply Saudi Arabia with medium-range surface-to-surface missiles. U.S. officials say China is also trying to sell to Syria a shorter-range missile now under development.

Air show death toll at 52

RAMSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — A 52nd person died from severe injuries suffered from the fiery air show disaster at the U.S. Air Force Base in Ramstein, a West German official said today.

Juergen Dietzen, spokesman for the Rhineland-Palatinate state government, said the West German died Sunday, but had no other details.

Dietzen said the 52 who had died in the Aug. 28 disaster included 45 West Germans, the three Italian pilots killed in the mid-air collision that began the disaster, two Americans and a French citizen.

The American victims were a U.S. Army private and her 9-year-old son.

Dietzen said 164 people remained hospitalized from injuries sustained when an Italian air force stunt team jet collided with two other jets and crashed in flames into a crowd of spectators.

Of that number, "10 of them are in life-threatening or very serious condition," Dietzen said.

Floods inundate Bangladesh

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Floods have inundated three-quarters of Bangladesh and cut transportation links from its major port to the capital and other interior cities, officials say, though adding today that flood waters on three major rivers were receding.

In Dhaka, flood waters were at their highest levels in 37 years and covered three-fourths of the capital.

Dhaka newspapers today reported 60 more deaths, bringing the toll to at least 942 since June, when rivers began overflowing their banks in annual monsoon flooding in this impoverished nation of 110 million people.

Millions of the marooned are eating raw food and drinking muddy, probably contaminated water, and 83,000 people nationwide have contracted diarrheal diseases, said Health Minister Abdul Munim.

He said 65 people have died of the diseases so far.

Protestors oppose Pinochet

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Thousands of protesters battled police following the largest anti-government rally since the military nominated right-wing President Augusto Pinochet as the only candidate in a fall presidential referendum.

More than 100,000 people packed blocks of a broad avenue in central Santiago on Sunday chanting "Pinochet's going to fall!"

Police fired tear gas, buckshot and water cannons when tens of thousands of people began a march on the government palace after the generally peaceful rally had ended.

Gen. Pinochet, the 72-year-old army commander who has ruled Chile with a military junta since a coup in September 1973, was selected last Tuesday by himself and the commanders of the navy, air force and national police as the sole candidate in the presidential referendum scheduled for Oct. 5.

Despair in Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan — Nine-month-old Zenab Ali Baket, who weighs 9 pounds, 10 ounces and is suffering from dehydration, is revitalized by his mother with a glucose-based rehydration fluid. Zenab is one of many children in the UNICEF Childrens Hospital receiving treatment after the recent floods in the area.

Emergency response praised in Delta crash

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Changes in emergency procedures that were implemented after the Delta Flight 191 tragedy three years ago helped make a smooth response to last week's crash, an official said Sunday.

"This emergency response appears to be one of the most effective that I've ever seen," said Lawrence D. Roman, a representative of the American Association of Airport Executives and a member of the "survival factors" group of the National Transportation Safety Board team investigating Wednesday's crash.

Delta Flight 1141 crashed and burned on takeoff at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, killing 13. Ninety-five people, including the three members of the cockpit crew, survived as the Boeing 727 skidded to rest at the end of a runway.

"It would appear that our first impression that this response was excellent," Roman said. "I don't know of any screw-ups at all in the whole operation."

He stressed that he was not speaking on behalf of the investigation, but as a representative of the airport executives association.

Roman said changes made in emergency response procedures at the airport since the Aug. 2, 1985, crash of Delta Flight 191, including installation of cellular telephones in ambulances, helped in evacuating survivors.

Also, he said, an automated telephone system implemented at the airport's Department of Public Safety office reduced the time it took to notify rescue workers after the crash.

American Legion chooses leader

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Legion during its 70th annual convention this week will choose one of two Vietnam veterans to lead the organization.

"I think it signifies a passing of additional responsibility to the veterans of our era, but that's been going on for a long time," said Lt. Sparky Gierke, a justice of the North Dakota Supreme Court in Bismarck.

The convention will choose Thursday between Gierke and Miles Epling, clerk of the Mason Circuit Court in Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Epling, 38, served as a Marine in Vietnam in 1969 and Gierke, 45, was in the Army in Vietnam in 1969-70.

Some 20,000 delegates, auxiliary members and guests were expected at the convention of the nation's largest veterans organization Legionnaires held a parade Sunday. The main business of the convention was scheduled for Tuesday through Thursday.

Electricity restored in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Electricity flowed downtown again Sunday after a three-day blackout that halted elevators in high-rises, thawed frozen food and shut down air conditioners during one of the hottest weeks in Seattle history.

Power was finally restored to much of the 50-block area Saturday night, but Seattle City Light asked customers to conserve power and not turn on air conditioners until two more fire-damaged cables could be repaired.

The six cables were destroyed Wednesday by an unexplained underground fire.

City Light Superintendent Randall Hardy said the fire apparently started in the City Light cables, in which power should have been cut off by automatic current limiters that act when a cable gets hot.

At the height of the blackout, city officials estimated that 90 percent of all businesses in the area were closed.

Officer dead in gang shooting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A plainclothes officer was shot dead in the year's first gang-related police slaying, and authorities said joint local and federal efforts were not stopping the violence that may make 1988 the bloodiest ever.

Officer Daniel Pratt was shot in the face during a drive-by shooting Saturday night in south-central Los Angeles. He and his partner were pursuing a car believed to be involved in another such shooting minutes before. A 20-year-old gang member believed to be the triggerman was arrested Sunday.

Eleven people were slain in gang shootings in the last weekend of August, and more than 200 people have died this year. The death toll should climb to an all-time high of more than 400 by year's end, making 1988 the deadliest year for gang-related killings since the 1970s, said Deputy Chief William Rathburn.

Sweatshops still exist in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report says sweatshops, thought to be a thing of the past in American labor, continue to exist in the United States.

The General Accounting Office report released Sunday cited restaurants and related businesses, apparel manufacturing and meat-processing industries as the worst offenders.

"I think most Americans believe sweatshops vanished generations ago, but they are here today, in all parts of the country," said Rep. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y., who had requested the study, in a statement released with the report.

Schumer also said he supported the report's conclusion that penalties for labor law violations must be increased.

The report, based on interviews with 100 state and local officials nationwide between January and May 1988, said restaurant and apparel sweatshops were more likely to be populated by Hispanics and Asians workers.

Officials vow to stop 'bull baiting'

CHICAGO (AP) — Just one day after Chicago's first bullfight, a city official vowed to put an end to "bull baiting," but Hispanics said a ban would deprive them of an important facet of their cultural heritage.

During a Hispanic festival Saturday, four matadors confronted three bulls in front of about 300 people in a temporary arena.

It was a "bloodless bullfight," in which matadors used capes to attract the 1,000-pound bulls, but the animals had Velcro patches glued to their backs to catch the matadors' Velcro-covered swords and darts.

"This bloodless bullfight is just another form of teasing and torment," Peter Pohlak, executive director of Chicago's Commission on Animal Care and Control, said Sunday.

"The cruelest thing they're doing is teasing the animal. It's not right, but it's not physically harming the animal. We've got enough of animal exploitation. We don't need this."

But an aide to state Rep. Benjamin Martinez, a festival organizer, said bullfighting is part of Hispanic culture and should not be banned.

"They've already taken away our language in schools," said the aide, Rodolfo Mancilla.

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Bramalea Shopping Centers Inc. has announced the hiring of a new manager at Big Spring Mall.

Tammy Watt began work June 24, a Bramalea statement said.

She is a 13-year resident of Big Spring and Howard County who brings knowledge of Big Spring, the surrounding areas and their people to the job, the statement said.

TAMMY WATT

Mrs. Watt, married to Big Spring native Freddie Watt, has one son, Brian, a kindergarten student at St. Mary's Episcopal School.

She began working in the retail field in 1976 with Highland Card and Party Shop, becoming a buyer and store manager over a 10-year period with the company.

She brings 12 years' retail and management experience to the Bramalea post, the statement said, and has several years experience in marketing and customer service as a result of her employment at Henderson Hallmark.

TU Electric's J.H. (Hooper) Sanders says consumers can pick up free energy conservation tips easily this month. A coupon for free booklets filled with the information is included in the September electric bill.

Sanders said homeowners who wish to use energy more wisely may want to order a booklet called "45 Ways to Help You Control the Size of Your Electric Bills." A separate pamphlet offers tips for apartment dwellers, he said; customers can receive the booklets in a choice of English or Spanish by designating which language on the coupon.

To order the booklets, a consumer need only fill out and return the coupon enclosed in the bills, Sanders said.

"Energy-saving suggestions listed in the booklets range from adding insulation to simple but effective methods of saving such as watching your thermostat settings and caulking around windows and doors," he said.

TU has pioneered innovative conservation programs, including the energy action rebates to customers who replace their old heating and cooling equipment with qualifying energy-efficient equipment," he said.

TU also encourages prospective homebuyers to look for the energy action home sign in the front yards of new houses, because the sign indicates the builder has met TU's construction guidelines for energy efficiency.

For more information about the energy action program, or energy conservation, call the local office at 267-6383.

Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President F. LeRoy Tillery has been elected to a two-year post as a director of the Texas Industrial Development Council.

Stanley Home Products Vice President Ronald R. Jalbert announced recently that Cynthia Boadle of Big Spring was named one of approximately 1,900 top independent Stanley dealers and sales directors.

Boadle's award was announced at the annual company pilgrimage, conducted at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn.

Cafeteria war

Furr's CEO looking to become King

Levenson is the man who would be Cafeteria King.

Levenson, chairman and chief executive officer of Furr's-Bishop's Cafeterias L.P., has upped the ante in his two-year effort to acquire Wyatt Cafeterias Inc. of Dallas, a closely held company with annual revenues of about $190 million and 120 stores.

He said Thursday he won't give up trying to buy Wyatt, but refused to specify his plans if his latest overture is rejected.

After first offering to buy the company in May 1986, Levenson made several bids for Wyatt, most recently sweetening his offer to $188.1 million in cash and securities from an earlier $179.3 million bid.

The latest $91.25 per-share bid came after Wyatt rejected Levenson's $87-per-share cash offer in favor of one from a Wyatt management-based employee stock ownership plan that would pay $84 per share.

Shareholders are to vote on the ESOP offer Sept. 6, and Wyatt management hasn't yet responded to the latest Furr's-Bishop's offer,

MICHAEL LEVENSON

Levenson said. "If we don't get the Wyatt's deal that doesn't mean we're out of the business of buying cafeterias," said Levenson, who owns a small stake in Wyatt. "We're going to grow this company."

Levenson, 38, sees the All-

American standby of the cafeteria as a perfect niche in the restaurant business.

"It's not a juicier hamburger, it's not a faster pizza. It's not a fad," he said. "And it's a reliable stream of cash flow."

It was cash flow that first drew the Lubbock native to the cafeteria business after bidding unsuccessfully on companies such as Midland-based Texas American Energy, Aloha Airlines of Hawaii and Tesoro Petroleum Corp. of San Antonio.

"When I began studying the restaurant industry, the cafeteria segment of the restaurant industry stood out with some real unique features," he said.

What he found was cash-rich companies with steadily increasing profits and no debt.

Convinced he had discovered a gold mine, in 1987 he acquired Furr's Cafeterias and Bishop Buffets, based in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, from K mart Corp for $237.5 million.

He then converted Furr's-Bishop's into a limited partnership, got it listed on the New York Stock Exchange and sold 11 million units at $10 apiece. The partnership has promised to pay a cash distribution of $1.30 this year.

Furr's-Bishops is the second largest operator of cafeterias in the nation, with 126 operating under the Furr's name in 10 states and 26 under the Bishop's name in seven states.

Although he never earned a college degree, Levenson became the president of a family-owned bank in Carlsbad, N.M., but was soon lured away by the burgeoning oil and gas industry.

"Just being able to walk along and pick up the crumbs the Exxons of the world dropped and left would make you rich beyond your wildest dreams," he said.

After buying and selling oil and gas leases during the late 1970s, his attention next was drawn to the takeover attempts within the oil and gas industry of fellow West Texan T. Boone Pickens Jr. of Amarillo.

Levenson said his unsuccessful runs at companies helped establish his credibility in the New York financial community.

Fraser nominated volunteer developer award

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Troy Fraser, president of Fraser Industries, will learn Thursday whether he has been selected as recipient of the volunteer industrial developer of the year for 1987-88. Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce executive Vice President LeRoy Tillery, said Friday.

The winners of the awards are to be announced at the Texas Industrial Development Commi- nution luncheon in College Station, according to Edward Bee, vice president of the Community Industrial Development Board.

Tillery made the nomination of Fraser — who served as president of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation and the chamber for one year — based on accomplishments related to industrial development in Big Spring between June 1987 and June 1988.

Fraser was chairman of the industrial development committee

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Among the accomplishments Tillery included in his nomination to the Texas Economic Development Corporation were:

Expansion of the federal Prison Camp that encompassed 28 additional acres in Big Spring and five existing buildings;

Construction of the Power Resources Inc. and Falcon Seaboard Oil Co. cogeneration plant;

Plans for a new Immigration and Naturalization Service medium security prison.

Fraser has turned over most of his daily duties in Fraser Industries to other staff members, he has said, in his pursuit of the 69th District state representative's seat, as Republican candidate. Fellow Big Spring business person Johnny Lou Avery is the Democratic candidate.

American files lawsuits claiming program abuse

FORT WORTH (AP) — American Airlines has filed lawsuits in three cities against individuals and companies, charging that the airline's frequent flier program has been abused.

"The complaints allege that millions of dollars in revenue are being lost due to sale and barter of AAdvantage awards," said Lowell Duncan, vice president-corporate communications for American Airlines.

"We simply cannot tolerate this situation," said Duncan, who added that more lawsuits may be filed. "We have an obligation to our AAdvantage members who, do abide by the rules and to our paying customers to put a stop to the practice."

The seven-year-old program's rules specify that customers earning free trips and benefits cannot sell their tickets to others. Members may give awards to anyone they choose, but the airline has repeatedly reminded people that the awards can not be sold, purchased or bartered.

The lawsuits were filed today in Fort Worth against Texas Traveller, in Salt Lake City against Platinum World Travel and The Coupon Connection; and in New York against American Coupon Exchange. The companies do major business in buying awards from frequent fliers and selling them to others.

In all three suits, American has asked for an injunction to stop the defendants from purchasing, selling, bartering or brokering AAdvantage frequent flier bonus mileage.

American filed a similar lawsuit Tuesday in Fort Worth against Texas Budget Flights and the travel agency's owners, Curtis R. Sweeten and Tonya K. Sweeten, both of Plano, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported.

He's short on hair, long on honesty

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter about baldness in men. I'm almost bald, and I refuse to let 10 strands of hair grow to the length of 3 feet and then swirl them around my head in an absurd attempt to cover my baldness.

I wouldn't get a hair transplant even if I could afford one, and if I were to get a wig, I'm afraid I'd keep checking to see if the darned thing was on straight, or about to fall in my soup.

What you see is what you get! And now, ladies, how about those foam rubber falsies? If you wear them to attract men, don't bother. If that's all he can see in you, you don't need this bozo! Sure, some men are hooked on big bosoms — but there are plenty like me who are more interested in the whole package, which includes personality and brains.

I have never heard a man express anything but disappointment and annoyance when what he sees isn't what he gets!

RAY HOOD, SAN DIEGO
DEAR RAY: Nobody enjoys being "hoodwinked." (Sorry!) But most women wear falsies because they look better in clothes — not necessarily to attract a man.

DEAR READERS: In celebration of its 100th birthday, the National Geographic Society commissioned Gallup — the Rolls-Royce of pollsters — to find out how much the average American knows about geography.

The results were startling: One in five of those polled could not name one country in Europe. Three out of four could not find the Persian Gulf on a map. One in four could not find the Pacific Ocean. One in two could not locate South Africa. Worse yet, 50 percent could not find New York state on a map, and 14 percent could not even find the United States!

Dear Abby

Compared with a similar poll taken 40 years ago, the results show a steady decrease of geographical knowledge. The reason: Only 25 percent of the schools in the USA include geography in their curriculum.

Even though there are more Americans traveling today than ever before, there seems to be a diminishing interest in geography. This brings to mind the story about the well-traveled American who called a friend to say that she had just returned from Majorca. "Where is it?" the friend asked. "I don't know," she replied. "We flew."

DEAR ABBY: I am a Hogg by marriage and I am not ashamed of the name. When my husband was in the military, there was a Pigg in his squadron. How about that?

And just what do you have against hogs, Abby? Being a native Iowa girl, you should be especially fond of hogs. They helped make Iowa the great farm state it is today. Shame on you!

If you decide to print this letter (fat chance!), you may use my name, such as it is.

VIRGINIA A. HOGG, BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

DEAR VIRGINIA: If my readers can stand one more letter about the Hogs, here it is:

DEAR ABBY: It is an established fact that there was an "Ima Hogg" in Texas, but she did not have a sister named "Ura." However, there WAS a Ura Hogg.

As proof, I am sending you a copy of my family tree. As you can see, my uncle, Hymie Aronson, of Salem, Mass., married Ura Hogg in 1930.

RUTH ARONSON YONIS, PEABODY, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbor's child is only 14 years old. He's 5 foot 11 and weighs about 250 pounds. His mother and I were talking and feel that he needs help. I told her I would write and ask you if there is a group to help young people who are compulsive eaters. He is such a sweet and good young man, but people make fun of him and he gets very hurt.

Although his folks have tried everything, he often eats until his stomach hurts! How can we help? I used to go to AA meetings with a friend, and if there were something like that for eaters, maybe he would go.

CONCERNED NEIGHBOR IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR CONCERNED NEIGHBOR: There is an organization like AA for compulsive eaters of all ages. It's Overeaters Anonymous. It is listed in the telephone directory, and there are chapters in almost every major city. I have attended some of the meetings, and a more compassionate group of people you will rarely encounter.

There is no shaming — no weighing, no embarrassment. Just a loving fellowship of people with a common problem — being overweight and wanting to do something about it. Contact them and put the boy in touch. There's no charge. Please let me hear from you again. I care.

DEAR READERS: Talk about vision concerning television, read on: "I believe television is going to be the best of the modern world, and that in this new opportunity to see beyond the range of our vision, we shall discover either a new and unbearable disturbance of the general peace, or a saving radiance in the sky. We shall stand or fall by television — of that I am quite sure."

Dallas, Houston split in pair of thrillers

Pittsburgh holds off late Cowboy rallies

By ALAN ROBINSON
AP Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Steelers still have their youthful, turnover-forcing big play defense — and now they have a big play quarterback to go with it.

Earnest Jackson scored on runs of 15 and 29 yards and Bubby Brister's scrambling completions set up his own 1-yard touchdown run as the Steelers held off two late Dallas drives to beat the Cowboys 24-21 Sunday.

Brister, improvising several key passes when his protection broke down, completed 13 of 27 passes for 214 yards and had a hand in all the scoring as the Steelers withstood two touchdown passes by the Cowboys' Steve Pelluer.

"Bubby's going to make things happen," said Steelers Coach Chuck Noll. "There was a lot of pressure on him, but he made big plays and got us out of some holes, and I'm very happy with his performance."

Pelluer, who hit 24 of 37 passes for 289 yards with two interceptions, drove the Cowboys from their own 30 to a third-and-2 at the Steelers' 4 with 3:14 to play. But a pass intended for tight end Doug Cosbie was picked off in the end zone by linebacker David Little. Pelluer had been 12 of 14 for 164 yards in the second half until the Luis Zendejas missed a 49-yard field goal attempt with 44 seconds left after the Cowboys had driven to a first down at the Pittsburgh 23-yard line. Pelluer was sacked twice and threw an incompleteness before the failed kick.

"When you get a game like this and you're playing a lot of young people and a team reaches down like this, it touches you deep," Noll said. "It wasn't the prettiest offensive or defensive performance, but I'm happy with the hitting. This shows we're going in the right direction."

"We didn't deserve to lose that game," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "We had them on the ropes in the fourth quarter, and it was our job to put it in. We didn't do it, and we made a couple of errors that were very costly. ... It was a

Zendejas kick gives Oilers overtime win

INDIANAPOLIS — A big defensive hit on Eric Dickerson gave Houston another chance, and Tony Zendejas atoned for two earlier misses with a 35-yard field goal in overtime on Sunday as the Oilers beat the Indianapolis Colts 17-14.

"This was the first time probably in my career I really felt a lot of pressure," said Zendejas, a fourth-year NFL kicker whose winning field goal came 3:51 into the overtime period.

"I missed that short (26-yard) field goal (with two minutes left in regulation) and there was just no excuse for that. I should never miss anything that close. It was my fault. It just went straight and hit the upright."

The Oilers' winning drive took six plays after Dickerson caught a pass but was tackled and fumbled at the Indianapolis 42.

"Our defense came up and stopped Dickerson on the big runs and chased him all over and hit him good," Houston coach Jerry Glanville said.

"No doubt the defense was tracking the best back in football. That was our plan and that's just what they did."

"Everybody talks about our defense," Glanville said. "All they do is make big plays. We may not

After the Dickerson fumble, second-year quarterback Cody Carlson, subbing for injured Warren Moon, completed a third-down pass for 21 yards to Drew Hill at the Colts' 24-yard line. Then, after two short runs by Mike Rozier to the 18, Zendejas kicked the winning field goal.

Zendejas also had missed an attempt of 47 yards in the third quarter.

"I wanted a chance," Zendejas said. "If I didn't get another chance, that meant they (the Colts) were going to win. It would have been my fault. I would have felt terrible because the team played well and it would have been my fault."

Jackson wins 20th for Reds

By The Associated Press

The weather played havoc with the National League schedule, so Danny Jackson made sure Chicago didn't rain on his parade to 20 victories.

Jackson went 4-for-5, including two hits during Cincinnati's nine-run fifth inning, as the Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs 17-0 Sunday at Wrigley Field.

NL

"Winning 20 games never was out of the question. What was a shocker, was my getting four hits," said Jackson who entered the game hitting .122 (9-for-74).

Jackson, 20-6, allowed six hits and walked none as the third-place Reds won their fifth straight game and eighth in their last 11 to move within 6½ of Los Angeles. The only other 20-game winner in the major leagues this season is Minnesota's Frank Viola.

Los Angeles at New York, San Diego at Philadelphia and a doubleheader in Atlanta between Pittsburgh and the Braves were rained out. The games will not be made up unless there is a bearing on the pennant race.

In the only other games played, Montreal edged San Francisco 3-2 and Houston beat St. Louis 4-3.

It was Jackson's 13th complete game, tops in the NL, and the most for Cincinnati since 1984 when Mario Soto had 13. Only 11-18 a year ago with Kansas City, Jackson pitched his sixth shutout, the most by a Red since 1973 when Jack Billingham had seven.

"I won't say I'm not excited, because it was a day to remember," Jackson said. "Yes, I dreamed of winning 20 games when I was with Kansas City, but after 18 losses last year when they only scored 37 runs for me, I felt it would take a little while. I have always thought I was a 20-game pitcher. I have the talent, and love the game."

Astros 4, Cardinals 3
Kevin Bass hit a two-run homer and Billy Hatcher drove in two runs as Houston beat St. Louis at the Astrodome. The victory moved the Astros to within five games of first-place Los Angeles in the NL West.

Bob Knepper, 13-4, pitched five innings and allowed three runs and eight hits. Dave Smith, the fourth Astros pitcher, got the last three outs for his 24th save.

Expos 3, Giants 2
Rookie Brian Holman won his first game in a month and Andres Galarraga hit a two-run double as Montreal beat San Francisco at Olympic Stadium. The Giants have lost nine of their last 11 games to drop into fourth place in the NL West. Holman, 3-6, allowed seven hits in seven innings for his first victory since Aug. 4, and Tim Burke finished for his 14th save.

The Expos took the lead off Rick Reuschel, 17-8, when they sent eight batters to the plate and scored three runs on five hits in the fourth inning.

Five's a crowd in AL East

By HILLEL ITALIE
Associated Press Writer

The American League East is starting to recall the old Jimmy Durante line: Everybody wants to get into the act.

While Detroit, Boston and New York were matching losing streaks, Milwaukee and Toronto quietly pulled into the race. Going into Labor Day, the Tigers and Red Sox are tied for first, the Brewers and Yankees share third, four games back, and the Blue Jays are next, 6½ behind.

The Brewers are the hottest team in the division, riding a six-game winning streak. Ted Higuera allowed one hit in seven innings Sunday as the Brewers beat the Tigers 6-1 to complete a four-game sweep.

"I think it's going to take about 90 to win it, at least to be thinking about winning it, and that's if no one takes off and really gets going again," Manager Tom Trebelhorn said.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Cleveland 3-2 over Chicago in the first game of a doubleheader and Chicago 5-2 in the nightcap; Toronto 9, Texas 7; Kansas City 3, Minnesota 2; Oakland 11, New York 2; Baltimore 6, Seattle 4, and Boston 6, California 5, in 10 innings.

The Red Sox have had the most frustrating time lately, blowing four chances to tie the Tigers before finally pulling even Sunday. Larry Parrish's leadoff homer in the 10th inning, his third in four games, gave Boston the victory.

"They've told me he's a streak hitter. Well, now is the time to streak," Boston manager Joe Morgan said.

Parrish homered in Boston's 4-2 victory over California Thursday while his throwing error was pivotal in Friday's 3-2 loss. "I guess I went 2-for-3. I helped win two games and helped lose one," Parrish said.

TORONTO — Bob Brower of the Texas Rangers slides headfirst under a jumping Tony Fernandez of the Toronto Blue Jays to steal second base during the Texas-Toronto game Sunday.

Roger Clemens failed to snap his five-game losing streak, but he lasted 6 2-3 innings, surviving a four-run second.

"This is not time for me to miss a start. I just want to go out and keep us in the game," Clemens said.

Blue Jays 9, Rangers 7
George Bell hit a grand slam in the bottom of the ninth inning and Rance Mulliniks' two-run double highlighted a five-run eighth as Toronto rallied against Texas ace Bobby Witt.

Manny Lee struck out to lead off the ninth but reached first when Witt threw a wild pitch on strike three. Tony Fernandez's single brought on Mitch Williams, 2-5, who gave up a bunt single to Lloyd Moseby, loading the bases.

Williams struck out pinch-hitter Pat Borders but Bell hit the reliever's second pitch 20 rows deep into the left-field stands.

Witt breezed through the first seven innings, allowing just five hits as the Rangers took a 6-0 lead.

Champ Tyson 'quite stable' after wreck

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, who has avoided injury in the ring, was knocked out in a car wreck that left him with minor head and chest wounds, according to friends and relatives.

The wreck occurred at about 11:20 a.m. Sunday near his training camp in Greene County, and Tyson was brought to Manhattan where he was hospitalized overnight at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, officials said.

Dr. Carolyn Britton, assistant professor of neurology at the medical center, said Tyson was being kept there for observation and diagnostic tests and that his condition was "quite stable."

Britton said Tyson, who was recuperating from a broken bone in his right hand suffered in a street fight two weeks ago with heavyweight Mitch Green, was brought to Columbia after his car skidded off a slippery road.

Dan Klores, a spokesman for Tyson, said Tyson's car was the only vehicle involved and no one else was present.

A relative of a friend of Tyson's said the accident occurred while Tyson was driving his BMW out of the yard at his adopted family's home in Catskill and it skidded and slammed into a tree. He was found, apparently unconscious, by members of the household.

"Mike was just leaning back in his car seat and I took his pulse," said Yvonne Conrad, a niece of Camille Ewald, whom Tyson has been close to since he began training in Catskill eight years ago. "He was normal, his breathing wasn't heavy or labored. I didn't hear anything wrong with him. We just couldn't arouse him. We tried to wake him up by asking 'Mike, Mike,' and we just couldn't get anything from him."

However, Tyson's condition was much improved later Sunday.

"He suffered minor trauma to the head and the chest wall," Britton said. "He's neurologically normal."

Ewald told The New York Times in today's editions that the "car skidded and ran into a tree, skinned the tree badly, then bounced away and hit shrubbery."

"When I opened the car door, his head was slumped backward. I slapped him on the cheek to wake him. He opened his eyes, and said, 'Camille, Camille, what happened?' Then he went out again," she said.

Ewald said Tyson's wife, actress Robin Givens, and his mother-in-law, Ruth Roper, wanted Tyson taken to Columbia Presbyterian because they know the doctors there.

She said she last saw Tyson as he waited for the ambulance to New York, eating fried rice and beef with broccoli.

"I joked and said, 'What a very nice Labor Day weekend.' He was laughing," Ewald said.

A state police trooper said the accident had not been reported to any police agency and was not under investigation. If the injuries and damage were to Tyson and his property, then he has 10 days to report the accident to the state Department of Motor Vehicles, the trooper said.

Tyson was initially taken to a Catskill hospital and then transferred to Columbia Green Medical Center in nearby Hudson for further testing.

 very tough game to lose."
 "I felt good about the way I played, save for a couple of poor decisions," Pelluer said. "I'm holding my head high and I'm proud of my performance."
 Brister, a third-year pro from Northeast Louisiana, made his first start since 1986 and his first since the Steelers traded away Mark Malone, their starting quarterback of four years, to the San Diego Chargers.
 "I stood in there and took the beating and kept coming back," Brister said. "There were a couple of times when I didn't know if I was in Three Rivers Stadium or back in Louisiana... I was kind of dazed."
 With the Steelers leading 17-14, Brister hit Louis Lipps for 11 and 20 yards and Charles Lockett for 15 yards before Jackson burst up the middle untouched on a 29-yard trap play with 14:53 left, completing an 86-yard drive.
 Pelluer, who replaced Danny

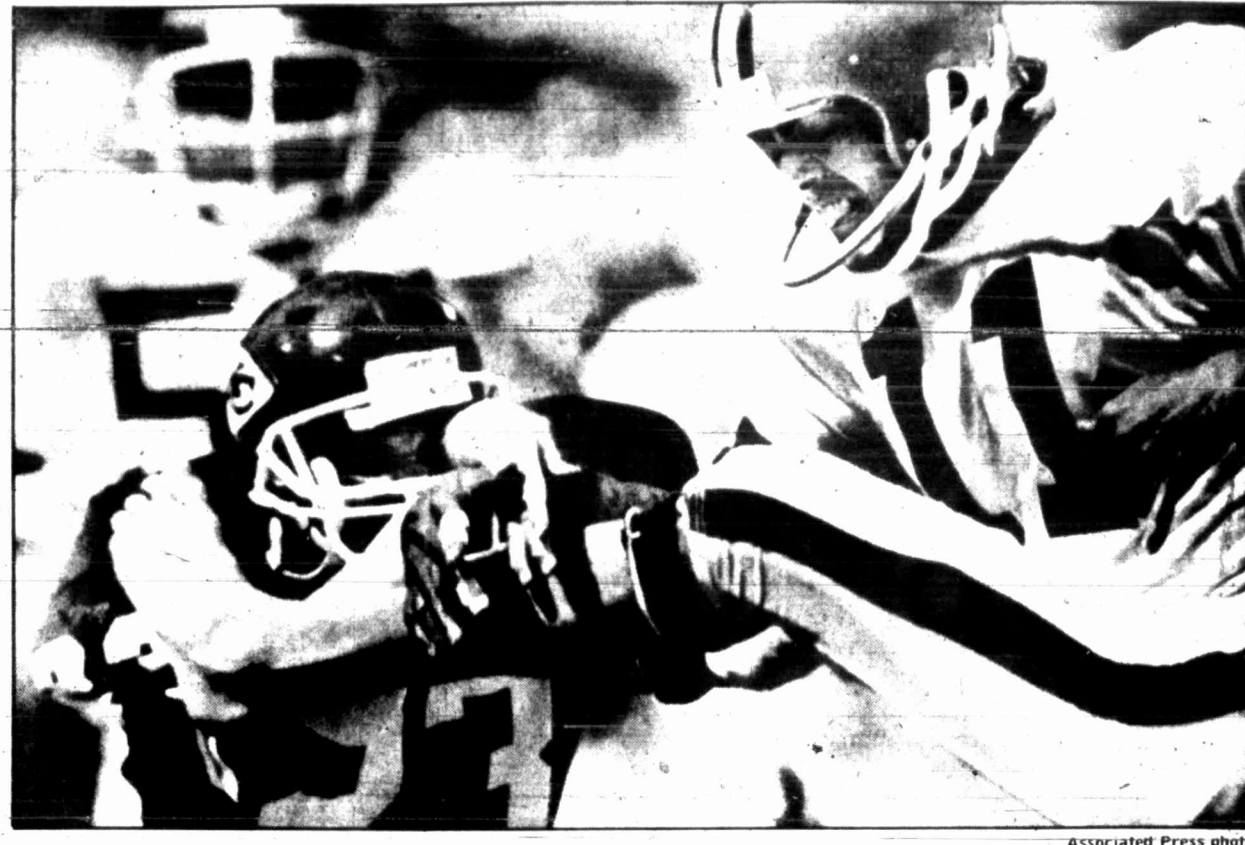

White as the Cowboys' quarterback in their next-to-last game last season, then marched Dallas on a 60-yard scoring drive, capped by his 8-yard throw to Ray Alexander on a third-and-4 play. Pelluer had made it 17-13 earlier with a 35-yard touchdown throw to rookie Michael Irvin.
 Dallas, losing for just the sixth time against a tie in 29 opening-day starts under Landry, took a 7-0 lead when Tim Newsome scored from the 3 with 8:42 remaining in the first quarter to end a 79-play drive.
 After Jackson's score tied it, the Steelers took the lead for good at 10-7 on Gary Anderson's 32-yard field goal. Anderson, the second-most accurate kicker in NFL history, later missed a 46-yarder.
 Pittsburgh also failed to score in the final 1:30 of the half after driving to a first down at the Cowboys' 3 when rookie Warren Williams was held to two yards on three carries and Brister threw an incomple-

Bears serve notice with convincing win

By The Associated Press
 Look out, NFL. Jim McMahon is healthy, and the Chicago Bears are roaring.
 The Monsters of the Midway, 1988 edition, treated the Miami Dolphins like so many Charlie Tunas on the way to a 34-7 thrashing on Sunday.
 "A lot of people wrote us off," said McMahon, healthy at last after two seasons of arm miseries.

NFL

"But we have a lot of confidence in this team. We accept the role of underdogs."
 It's a role the Bears likely won't be in again soon, not after the show the offense and the defense put on.
 "We eliminated the turnovers and got the ball in the end zone," said Neal Anderson, who scored the first two Chicago touchdowns.
 "The game plan was to keep the ball away from their offense."
 Dan Marino completed a career-low nine passes in 22 attempts for 113 yards, and Miami managed only 45 yards on the ground.

 yards from quarterback Gary Hogeboom, gained 12 with the reception on the first play of overtime. But he was hit by Houston's John Grimley and Robert Lyles caught the ball in mid-air.
 "Defensively, we played a very good football team," Indianapolis Coach Ron Meyer said, "but there were those turnovers, all the things that you don't like to see."
 Meyer said the Colts are "very obviously shattered with the loss. But this is a long season. We lost the first game last year and still made the playoffs."
 He said the Indianapolis offense "was not working well. There was no protection for Gary Hogeboom.

Obviously Gary doesn't block for himself. He needs protection."
 Carlson hit three of six passes for 59 yards.
 "I thought he did a real good job in a real tough situation," Glanville said. "He was a little nervous early, but he came on and just relaxed."
 Neither team scored in the second half of regulation, with the Oilers losing the ball twice on fumbles and the Colts once.
 The Oilers' first touchdown also came on an Indianapolis turnover, when Steve Brown returned an intercepted pass 44 yards in the closing seconds of the first quarter.
 Rozier totaled 100 yards and Allen Pinkett added 63.

Clayton in the second quarter, which cut Chicago's lead to 14-7.
Bills 13, Vikings 10
 With Bruce Smith, a Pro Bowler serving a five-game suspension for failing a drug test, the Buffalo Bills were thought to have defensive troubles. It turned out that all that defensive trouble happened to Minnesota.
 Art Still, acquired in the off-season from Kansas City, ripped through the Vikings for three quarterback sacks. The Bills got six in shutting down a Minnesota team that came within seven points of the Super Bowl a year ago.
 Jim Kelly threw for 204 yards and Thurman Thomas added 86 rushing yards and a touchdown for the Bills, who won a season opener for the first time since 1982.

"It ticked us off a little bit, everybody saying we'd get blown out because of the suspension," linebacker Shane Conlan said. "I guess we showed them."
Eagles 41, Bucs 14
 Randall Cunningham passed for two touchdowns, ran for another and set up a fourth with a long throw as the Eagles charged to a 34-0 halftime lead en route to extending Tampa Bay's losing streak to nine games, longest in the NFL.
 "It was the greatest first half of football that I've ever been associated with, but it was the sorriest second half I've ever seen," Eagles coach Buddy Ryan said.

"We couldn't run the ball and they hit a couple of long passes on us."
 With Cunningham idle through the last two periods, the Eagles faltered a bit, although Tampa Bay never threatened to make it a game.
 "Today we just didn't exhibit the type of play that even gives us the right to call ourselves a football team," Bucs coach Ray Perkins said.
49ers 34, Saints 33
 Joe Montana threw three touchdown passes in a 12-minute span of the third quarter, despite having bruised his elbow in the second quarter. The elbow puffed up in the third quarter, and Montana went to the sidelines in favor of Steve Young.
 Two of Montana's touchdown passes went to tight end John Frank, the other to wide receiver Mike Wilson. Jerry Rice didn't catch a scoring pass, the first time in 14 games that he failed to do so.
 Bobby Hebert threw four touchdown passes for New Orleans, the last a 15-yarder to Brett Perriman with 21 seconds left in the game.

Raiders 24, Chargers 3
 Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown returned the first kickoff of his NFL career 97 yards for a touchdown as the Raiders began the climb back from their worst season in 25 years.
 Brown's return with 1:43 to go before halftime followed Vince Abbott's 23-yard field goal and gave the Raiders a 14-3 lead.
 Steve Beuerlein, another former Notre Dame standout, completed only 13 of 29 passes for 171 yards in his first NFL start.
 The Raiders, 5-10 last season, limited San Diego to only a 24-yard scoring pass from Babe Laufenberg to Jamie Holland with 3:25 to play.
 Marcus Allen ran for two Raiders touchdowns.
Browns 6, Chiefs 3
 Matt Bahr kicked a 38-yard field goal with 25 seconds left as Cleveland won a game dominated by defense.
 Gary Danielson, subbing for injured Bernie Kosar, put Bahr in position after driving the Browns 73 yards in 13 plays. Kosar, who had thrown touchdown passes in 17 straight games and had never before left a game with an injury, was replaced by Danielson with 14:04 left in the opening period after suffering a sprained right elbow.
 Bahr kicked a 19-yarder and Nick Lowery responded from 33 yards, both in the second period, to account for the other points.
Seahawks 21, Broncos 14
 Dave Krieg threw two touchdown passes in the third quarter as the Seahawks, 40-17 losers to Denver in last year's opener, got a measure of revenge.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will find prospects brighter almost everywhere you turn. Financial support will be available for special projects and personal needs. Good health is linked to good judgment. You must be willing to spend more money if you want to impress or win member of opposite sex. Your salary will rise if you are willing to travel and carry a heavier workload. You reach a better understanding with someone you have quarreled with in the past. Forget old grievances.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: patriarch Joseph P. Kennedy, showman Billy Rose, soldier-statesman Marquis de Lafayette, actress Swoosie Kurtz, comedienne Jo Anne Worley, social worker Jane Addams, actress Jane Curtin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Work harder to attain a noble personal goal. Family members will cooperate if you reveal what is at stake. Make sure you are fairly compensated if forced to make a career change. Consult lawyer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Weigh a relationship with an eye to the future. You can turn your lunch-hour into a miniparty by getting together with old friends. Pursue a financial opportunity, even if there is some risk.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Put the final touches on one of your special creations. Love is all around you. Resist those who pressure you for a quick decision. A computer helps those seeking new jobs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may feel ignored by people in power until the chips are down. They know you are the one to call in a crisis. You come off the bench and hit a home run.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Others find you a bit mysterious today. Even you may not understand why you react the way you do. You produce, though, and that is what counts! The outlook for a close relationship brightens.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Include partner in your travel plans. You gain a foothold in a project that could eventually double your income. Do not ignore warnings from someone who knows the situation inside and out.
