INS prison could be ready December 1

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Renovation of the former Homestead Inn into an Immigration and Naturalization Service is progressing smoothly and could open as early as Dec. 1.

The opening date, however, will be determined on the basis of a contract with the Federal Bureau of Prisons, according to Johnny Rutherford, who is supervising the subcontractors, said.

Between 45 and 50 employees have been working for about one month to convert the motel — located at Interstate 20 and Andrews Highway — into a minimum security facility that will have the capacity to house between 240 to 300 inmates, Rutherford said.

"It's almost total renovation," he said.

Work was completed by the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, a position that ended Sept. 1, LeRoy Tillery with the Foundation said.

Subcontractors are installing a fire prevention sprinkler system, an air conditioning system and new plumbing, Rutherford said.

It will cost approximately $1.5 million to renovate the motel, he estimated. "Between $1 and $1.1 million is being spent locally. There are 11 subcontractors working on the project and all but two are local," he said.

The prison will house Mexican nationals who have violated immigration laws and are sentenced to short-term imprisonment before deportation. The maximum time an inmate would be held at the facility is 90 days, he has said.

"This prison is being built to satisfy Federal Bureau of Prisons standards. With the fence that is going to be built around the facility, it will meet medium security standards," Rutherford said. It will be a 12-foot high perimeter chain link fence topped with three strands of razor wire.

Plans also call for a 15-foot-wide roadway to be constructed around the entire site that would be patrolled 24 hours per day.

Lee George, president of Lee George Construction, Inc., who is employing 11 men at the construction site, said there could be 80 to 100 employees working on the project before its completion, which he predicts will occur by Nov. 1. Rutherford said applications are currently being accepted at the Texas Employment Commission in Big Spring for 55 positions at the prison.

"Forty-five are security related. There is a list of the jobs posted at the TEC," he said.

The annual budget for the prison will be approximately $3 million, according to Rutherford, a former Big Spring city councilman.

"I think it will have a pretty good impact on the local economy," he said.

Inmates from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico will comprise the prison's main population, Rutherford said.

Plans call for the city of Big Spring to contract with the Bureau of Prisons to provide bed space for the prisoners. The city would then subcontract with developer Ed Davenport of Mid-Tex Detention Centers, Inc., Brady.

The only remaining hurdle is the signing of a contract with the Bureau of Prisons, a Washington, D.C. bureaucracy that moves slowly, Rutherford said.

Officials: Delta too protective

DALLAS (AP) — Officials with the National Transportation Safety Board say the Air Line Pilots Association and Delta Air Lines have been over-protective of the crew of Delta Flight 1141, and want to interview the pilot soon.

The pilot, Capt. Larry Davis, is recuperating from facial and back injuries in Dallas' Parkland Memorial Hospital.

Investigators trying to discover why the plane crashed Aug. 31 at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, killing 13 of 108 people on board, haven't yet spoken with Davis. But he has spoken with visitors from his hometown of Greenville, including members of his church.

"It seems like everybody's been able to talk to him except us," the Dallas Morning News today quoted an anonymous safety board official as saying.

The Wall Street Journal reported Thursday that several government officials were frustrated that officials from both Delta and ALPA were with 1141 co-pilot Carey Kirkland and flight engineer Steven Judd from the day of the accident, while investigators were kept away for several days.

But Delta officials said they were not trying to prevent the NTSB from interviewing the crew and confronted the federal officials in a conference call Thursday.

"High-ranking officials at the NTSB said they are aware of no complaints or problems with Delta's cooperation, but they're going to the field people (investigators) and see if there is a problem," Delta spokesman Bill Berry said.

Friends who have visited Davis at Parkland, where he is listed in fair condition, said he has discussed with them his recollection of the events in the cockpit before takeoff and of the crash itself.

Raiford Stainback of Greenville visited Davis last Saturday and quoted him as saying, "It just wouldn't fly."

Bush lashes Dukakis on SDI; Quayle meets hostile workers

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

George Bush ridiculed Michael Dukakis' views on "Star Wars" today, while Bush's running mate Dan Quayle switched his focus from defense to jobs and ran into an unfriendly welcome at an Ohio steel plant.

"Does he believe in defense against strategic missiles or doesn't he?" Bush asked in a speech in Rockford, Ill., to the Illinois Federation of Republican women. "I've tried to be fair and accurate as to my opponent's positions, but lately they seem to have been shifting so rapidly it's sometimes hard to keep up."

Dukakis, who was on his way to campaign in Texas today, said Thursday in Louisville, Ky., that he would consider deploying the Strategic Defense Initiative — or Star Wars — if research showed it would work and if it were essential to the national interest.

"His position on SDI, calling it a fantasy one day, something he won't rule out the next... suggests a confusion on basic facts," Bush said today.

In Massillon, Ohio, Quayle was met by protesters and by workers wearing Dukakis-Bentsen T-shirts today when he arrived to tour a steel plant.

One steelworker, Vietnam veteran Eugene Autry, carried a sign saying, "Draft dodger Quayle, Who died in your place?" — a reference to Quayle's service in the National Guard in Indiana during the Vietnam war.

Quayle was politely received when he spoke to the employees of the Mercury Stainless Corp., and the Dukakis-supporting workers said plant management had asked them to be polite.

The senator told the group he had worked with the Reagan administration to reach voluntary restraint agreements that resulted in reduction of steel imports from foreign countries.

Also today, The Cleveland Plain Dealer reported that Quayle was admitted to law school as a young man under an experimental affirmative action program.

The newspaper quoted officials at the Indiana University School of Law who said the program was intended to increase admissions opportunities for minorities, the economically disadvantaged and others of differing backgrounds. Quayle is white and a member of a wealthy family.

Quayle told reporters today, "I got into law school fair and square, and I did rather well there."

Bush had encountered a hostile blue-collar audience this week in Portland, Ore., but Quayle campaign officials said the visit wasn't intended to test his mettle.

Dukakis received a friendly greeting when the Massachusetts governor visited a General Motors Corp. engine plant in Tonawanda,

Enrollments College: A record

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

Fall enrollment for the Howard County Junior County District College is the highest ever at the college.

The steadily increasing enrollment at the college will ensure additional state funding for the next biennium beginning in the fall of 1989, said Bob Riley, college president.

The district had a fall enrollment of 1,823 students as of 9 a.m. this morning, said Linda Conway, public relations representative for the college.

The college's 1988-89 fall enrollment represents an increase of approximately 200 students as compared to last year, Conway said.

Late registration will continue at the college until 5 p.m. today.

"We are a little disappointed we didn't reach the 2,000 students we were hoping for," said Bob Riley, Howard College president.

"But the 1,823 students is without a doubt the highest enrollment ever at Howard College. Certainly, it is very encouraging to the staff at the college."

"I think the faculty and staff are to be commended for the job they have done. The results of their work can be seen in the increasing enrollments."

The increase in the fall enrollment marks the fifth consecutive semester the college has set an all-time record enrollment.

The rising enrollments at the college will enable the college to secure additional state funds, Riley said.

"Colleges are funded on the base year concept," he said. "Our base year began on June 1 of this year. Because of the record enrollments since then our state funding will be increased significantly."

While statistics have not yet been compiled, Riley said it appears more recent high school graduates are attending the college this semester.

"My opinion is we're getting a lot more of those younger students," he said. "I'm seeing lots of younger people from area high schools."

He added, "We're a very viable option for young people who want to get the first couple years of college education."

Districts: Up, down

Enrollment in the Big Spring and Forsan Independent School Districts has decreased slightly as compared to last year's enrollment at the same time.

Meanwhile, enrollment in the Coahoma Independent School District has increased slightly.

On Thursday, 4,517 students were enrolled in the Big Spring School District, said Murray Murphy, assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction.

Thursday's enrollment represents a decrease of 14 students as compared to last year's enrollment at the same time.

Enrollment in the district's elementary schools is 2,332 students, and secondary school enrollment is 2,134, Murphy said.

"Enrollment is down district wide, but up a little (53 students) in our elementary levels," he said.

Murphy said "about 2 or 3 classes" do not meet the 22-to-1 student/teacher ratio mandated for grades K-4.

"We've got some time to take care of that," he said. "We're making some adjustments now, and we should be in compliance by the end of next week."

On Thursday, 529 students — nine fewer than were enrolled last year at the same time — were enrolled in the Forsan School District, said J.F. Poyner, superintendent.

Thursday enrollment at the Forsan schools was as follows: elementary — 268 students, junior high — 124 students, and high school — 137 students.

On Friday, 927 students — five more than were enrolled last year at the same time — were enrolled in the Coahoma School District.

Three are candidates for band queen honors

The Big Spring High School Steer Band will crown its 1988-89 Band Sweetheart during halftime activities at the Big Spring-Lubbock Estacado football game tonight in Memorial Stadium.

Three nominees were selected from the field of 18 senior girls in the band, according to band director Ricky Mitchell. They are:

• Amy Carroll, daughter of Wes and Genie Carroll. Amy is a flag captain for the band, and was a flag lieutenant as a junior. Mitchell said. She has been a member of the Mariah color guard for the past two years, and plays the flute in the honor band.

Other school activities she participates in include the National Honor Society and the French Club. She has been named to Who's Who in Texas High School Fine Arts, Who's Who in Music and Who's Who Among American High School Students.

• Jamie Hinojos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pascual Porras. Jamie is a feature twirler for the band and plays clarinet in the honor band, Mitchell said.

Her activities include membership in the Student Council and the Spanish Club, and she is secretary of the National Honor Society.

Mitchell said Jamie has been named to Who's Who in Music and Who's Who Among American High School Students.

• Nancy Hollingsworth, daughter of Walter and Jean Hollingsworth. Nancy is a band captain this school year and plays flute in the honor band, and has participated in All-Region band and regional and state solo and ensemble contests, Mitchell said.

Nancy is active in the French Club, and has been named to Who's Who in Texas High School Fine Arts, Who's Who in Music and Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Texas congressman on 'dirty dozen' list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ralph Hall of Texas says he's getting a "bum rap" from an environmental lobbying group that lists him among 12 members of Congress up for re-election who would rather protect industry than support clean air, water or land.

"I'm not a patsy for them," the Rockwall Democrat said. "I can't please the Ralph Naders of the world. I'm not going to sacrifice health for jobs or jobs for health."

Environmental Action included Hall in its "Dirty Dozen" list of the "most dangerous anti-environmental legislators up for re-election."

Environmental Action executive director Ruth Caplan said Thursday the 12 have once again "shown that their priority is to protect industry rather than to protect our air, our water and our land. Their actions against the environment represent a real and present danger to the nation's health and our very survival."

Hall is the only Democrat on the list of nine congressmen and three senators. Environmental Action said it considered only incumbents for the list.

"When it comes to the environment, Democrat Ralph Hall has perfected the art of stalling, of hemming and hawing, and generally helping other anti-environmental congressmembers make sure that only a trickle of environmental legislation emerges from the key Energy and Commerce Committee he sits on," the group said.

Environmental Action said Hall voted in 1985 against all but one of 16 amendments to strengthen the Superfund when the program for cleaning up toxic waste sites was before the energy committee.

First of 867 U.S. missiles destroyed

KARNACK — A Pershing II rocket motor burns Thursday at the Longhorn Army Ammunition Plant as a team of Soviet inspector's observe. The rocket motors are being burned under the terms of the INF treaty between the two countries.

KARNACK (AP) — The destruction of two rocket motors from Pershing nuclear missiles among the pines of East Texas was the beginning of the end of an entire class of U.S. missiles to be destroyed under the U.S.-Soviet intermediate-range arms treaty.

Vice President George Bush watched through binoculars Thursday as the motors burned like massive Roman candles, the first of 867 U.S. missiles that will be destroyed under the treaty.

A 12-member Soviet inspection team, which watched the burnings from a concrete bunker 900 feet from rocket stands at Longhorn Army Ammunition Plant, said they were satisfied with the eliminations.

Col. Nikolai Chabalin, a senior Soviet inspector on the 12-person Soviet team, said through an interpreter: "We think it is a great event for the Soviet people, the reduction of two types of nuclear weapons. And today we have witnessed the fulfillment of a significant event in the elimination of American missiles under the treaty."

The Soviet team will remain in East Texas for an undetermined period of time as Longhorn officials planned eliminations of nine more rocket motors next week, said Don McCloy of the Army Materiel Command in Alexandria, Va.

American observers went to the U.S.S.R. last week to witness the destruction of intermediate-range missiles there. Thursday's rocket-motor burnings were the first by the U.S. in compliance with the treaty.

In the static firings, motors were bolted onto a concrete and steel structure, ignited and allowed to burn up all their fuel.

After the firings, the Pershing 1A casing was placed into a large hydraulic crusher and its wall flattened.

Brig. Gen. Roland Lajoie, director of the On-site Inspection Agency, which was formed to implement the treaty, said three other facilities will join Longhorn as INF elimination sites.

Asked whether the motor firings hurt the environment, Dave Harris of Karnack, a civilian employee with the U.S. Army's Redstone Arsenal, said Texas officials had reviewed the Army facility's plans before allowing the eliminations.

"We cannot do eliminations without approval of state authorities," he said. "The state of Texas has had a great deal of experience with solid rocket motors."

Restroom peephole subject of lawsuit

EL PASO (AP) — A woman has sued her former employer for $300,000, alleging the company knew male employees had drilled a peephole in the women's restroom wall but did nothing about it.

The lawsuit, which is scheduled to go to trial in state district court next January, alleges Aaron Rents Furniture knew about the hole and knew that women were viewed by male employees and customers. It says the company neither fixed the hole nor reprimanded employees, creating an "intimidating, hostile, offensive environment."

Linda Frances Slagle, who worked at the store from December 1986 to November 1987, is suing for $50,000 in lost wages, mental pain, embarrassment and humiliation, and is asking for $250,000 in punitive and exemplary damages.

"I felt humiliated," she said Wednesday. "I felt outraged that they were able to do this. I felt violated. I mean, that's a very private thing a person does and to have people watching it and not even knowing it — I was very upset."

The suit says the only restroom for female customers and employees is in the store's warehouse. It shares a common wall with the men's restroom.

The hole was drilled through a rubber bumper affixed to the wall and was difficult to detect, according to the suit.

The store's attorney, Jeffrey Alley, declined comment.

Ms. Slagle said the hole was discovered in February 1987.

"I finally left because I had complained about it to the upper management and no one cared," she said without elaborating.

When Ms. Slagle and her attorney, Michael Hartley, filed the suit in May, they got a restraining order barring the store from fixing or destroying the hole. The order allowed the hole to be covered up.

Ms. Slagle was allowed to photograph the hole before it was fixed in July.

Oil Workers may get federal retraining

ODESSA (AP) — Thousands of Permian Basin oil industry workers laid off in the last three years may qualify for federal assistance that would pay them to retrain in another job and to relocate if they find work.

The 1988 Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act, signed last month by President Reagan, offers benefits and re-employment services for displaced oil and gas workers affected by fuel imports, said Harry Crawford, the Texas Employment Commission's trade adjustment assistance coordinator in Austin.

Workers who were laid off since Sept. 30, 1985, and who qualify for assistance may be eligible for retraining in another occupation, job search allowances and a relocation allowance when they find work, he said.

The act provides benefits for a range of oil and natural gas workers, including those who were employed in exploration, production or drilling. Independent drillers, pumpers, seismic and geophysical crews, geological crews and mud company workers also are covered.

Crawford said he did not know how many laid-off workers from the Permian Basin would qualify.

However, the application process for the benefits is complicated.

A group of three workers, their union or a company representative can file an assistance petition, available at TEC offices, Crawford said.

The Austin TEC office will trace the names of individuals laid off from the certified companies, and within 30 days of certification approval, will notify eligible employees.

The individual workers must then file claims for each benefit, Crawford said.

Linda Hall, employment interviewer with the TEC office in Big Spring, said people who qualify for the program include "anyone whose job was affected by (oil) imports."

The displaced workers will be paid for retraining through supplemental employment benefits, Hall said.

She said she was unsure about how many companies in Big Spring would qualify for the program "because right now we don't know if well service companies will be included in the program."

Briefs

Winter Texans boost economy

EDINBURG (AP) — More than 100,000 retired "winter Texan" tourists spent in excess of $161 million in the Rio Grande Valley last winter, and a study released Thursday says they will spend more this year.

At the peak of the season on Feb. 1, there were 79,000 visitors living in about 500 recreational vehicle and mobile home parks stretching from South Padre Island in Cameron County to the Edinburg-McAllen-Mission area in Hidalgo County, according to two Pan American University professors.

Promotions will have much to do with the amount of future growth, the researchers said.

"The degree of increase will depend on what we do or don't do to attract new visitors and how we treat them while they are here," said Vincent, professor of business statistics.

The average winter Texan couple stay 18.6 weeks and spend $260 per week overall for living expenses and one-time expenditures, according to the researchers.

Power lines won't mar Big Bend

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas conservationists hailed a Public Utility Commission decision denying a petition for a power transmission line along the northeastern boundary of Big Bend National Park.

Dede Armentrout, regional vice president of the National Audubon Society, said in a Thursday statement the decision was "a major victory." She said the proposed line would have been environmentally destructive.

The PUC voted unanimously Wednesday to accept the staff report denying a certificate for the line to Rio Grande Electric Cooperative. The cooperative had said there would be no harmful environmental impact, the statement said.

The Audubon Society and Sierra Club had joined other intervenors in recommending an alternative route for the line that they said would be cheaper, more responsive to predicted growth areas and better for the environment.

El Paso drug ring dismantled

EL PASO (AP) — Federal officials said they hope drug smugglers will avoid setting up operations in West Texas as a result of the dismantling of the El Paso distribution hub of a major Colombia-based marijuana ring.

Officials said the ring shipped pot by the ton into the interior of the United States in tractor-trailer rigs.

A five-month joint investigation by the FBI, Drug Enforcement Administration and other agencies yielded federal marijuana-smuggling and possession indictments this week against 18 people, said Richard Schwein, special agent in charge of El Paso's FBI office.

Schwein said the group was shipping marijuana with a wholesale value of $1.2 million into the United States' interior each month.

Phil Jordan, the DEA's special agent in charge in Dallas, said the organization might have been attracted to making El Paso its marijuana distribution hub because of effective law enforcement in the Miami area. He said he hopes the indictments send a message to the organization's higher-ups in the infamous Medellin district of Colombia.

Jury convicts former astronaut

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury convicted former astronaut Wall Cunningham of misdemeanor assault on a bail bondsman who has filed a lawsuit in connection with a purported affair between Cunningham and the bail bondsman's wife.

Cunningham drew the maximum penalty of a $200 fine for the conviction Thursday.

The bail bondsman, Don Vannerson, filed the charge June 14 in Justice of the Peace Kenneth Paetti's court after a traffic altercation near downtown Houston, but prosecutor Stacey Mooring and defense attorney Don Lambright cited bad blood between the men.

Both are involved in divorces, and Vannerson's daughter, Karen Pearson, has sued Cunningham on grounds he alienated the affections of her mother, Dot.

Immunity offered state workers

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin State School workers will be granted immunity from punishment if they admit they falsified records of any of the 560 mentally retarded residents, according to a state plan slated to be filed in federal court today, a newspaper says.

In exchange for information about which records were altered, the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation plans to waive discipline for workers who tampered with records over the past 1½ years, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

The proposal to protect state school workers is part of a 12-page plan sent Thursday to U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders of Dallas, who can accept or reject it.

Sanders' court monitor, sociologist Linda O'Neill of Florida, said the plan's promise of immunity to workers "is essential."

"What we're trying to do right now is find out the extent of the problem in the records," Ms. O'Neill said. "If you're asking someone to come forward with information about falsification of records, then you need to make a safe environment in which they can do that."

The state plan was ordered by Sanders last month after he rejected as "incomplete and inadequate" the state's proposal to investigate reports that false data had been inserted into the permanent records of some residents.

Settlement recorded in suit against Western Container

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

A settlement has been recorded in a lawsuit against Western Container Corporation that went to trial Aug. 8, but was interrupted by settlement after three days in court.

The claims of one plaintiff and one intervenor, Allan R. Beezley and Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., have been severed from the suit, according to 118th District Court records.

Margaret Rivera, individually and as representative of the estate of Ramona Beezley, and as next friend of Beezley's minor child, Gabriel Gavin, sued Western Container and Patricia Owens Lovell. Beezley was crushed to death Jan. 23, 1987, in a two-truck accident. Lovell was the driver of the second truck involved.

In a settlement order signed today, District Judge James Gregg has ordered the following conditions of the settlement in the suit, which a local attorney had said would recover $3.4 million for Gavin:

• A settlement for Rivera and Robert D. Miller as Rivera's attorney of $55,000.

• A settlement for Gavin and Robert D. Miller as Gavin's attorney of $225,000, disbursed as $141,666.67 in attorney's fees and $83,333.33 as attorney's expenses to Miller, and the remainder for the use and benefit of Gavin.

• Purchase by Western Container Corporation of an annuity contract guaranteeing payment to Gavin of $20,000 per year for four years beginning Aug. 15, 1996.

• Payment to Gavin of $142,200 on Dec. 15, 2002; $200,000 on Dec. 15, 2007; $250,000 on Dec. 15, 2012; $300,000 on Dec. 15, 2017; $250,000 on Dec. 15, 2022; $200,000 on Dec.

15, 2027, and $141,200 on Dec. 15, 2032.

• Payment to Gavin of $5,000 per month for life, guaranteed for 10 years, beginning Dec. 15, 2039.

Conditions of the settlement barred any payment being considered exemplary or punitive damages paid by Western Container Corp.; barred payment of any attorney fees from any annuity payment; and stipulated that Western Container pay all costs of the suit.

The court determined as fact that all claims of either Ramona Beezley's estate, or Gabriel Gavin or his estate, against Western Container or Lovell arising from the death of Beezley are released as a condition of the settlement.

The court also determined as fact that Beezley died instantly and did not undergo conscious pain or suffering as a result of the accident, and that her estate is not entitled to any claim or cause of action against the defendants for such suffering.

Should Gavin die before the payments of the annuity are completed, payments will be made to the beneficiaries of the annuity policy as named in its contract.

The total of the settlement to Rivera and Gavin was $2,363,400, if Gavin does not live longer than 10 years under the $5,000 per month annuity.

Robert D. Miller, a Big Spring attorney, had claimed the settlement for Gavin would be $3 to $4 million when the settlement was originally announced. Gavin must repay from his share of the settlement approximately $3,000 he has received from workmen's compensation insurance coverage for the death of his mother.

Times Herald that Davis told him the cockpit checks had been completed, the wing flaps were set in the correct position, and the plane was ready for takeoff.

"He said everything checked to be OK, the wing flaps and so forth," Stainback said. "He was concerned, you know, that everything was done that could be done."

Davis told another friend who visited him Saturday that the plane could not continue its ascent once it left the ground because there was not enough power.

"He spoke of the plane having no power to take off and then how hard the crash was, that it seemed like a never-ending thing," said Brenda Speight of Greenville. "He was very concerned about the passengers and really upset about those that had lost their lives."

The NTSB member coordinating the Delta investigation, Lee Dickinson Jr., said he was satisfied that investigators will be allowed to question Davis soon.

Air Line Pilots Association spokesman John Mazor said the union and the flight crew have nothing to hide and investigators can interview Davis just as soon as doctors give their approval.

"We've learned a lot of hard lessons in accident investigation, and one of them is that immediately after an accident is the worst time to talk to a crew," Mazor said. "They're in pain, they're racked with guilt. You have people who are in no condition to give a factual and accurate statement."

Dickinson said his team had still found no clear cause of the Aug. 31 crash.

Christopher ousted, investments questioned

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — The president of American Universal Insurance Group, a one-time prominent Big Spring oilman, has been ousted because of questions concerning investments he ordered the insurer to make.

William Wolters, American Universal's legal counsel, said the company's board questioned the "wisdom" of several investments made by Charles "Chris" S. Christopher, as well as several investments he had recommended for the future.

Board members do not believe Christopher, who had been on the job three months, used the company's money for personal gain, Wolters said.

The state Department of Business Regulation has begun reviewing all investments made by Christopher since the flamboyant Texas investor became president and chief executive officer in early June, said Samuel L. Torman, assistant state insurance commissioner.

Christopher was a once-prominent figure in Big Spring who headed up Oilfield Industrial Lines (OIL) until the oil boom of the early 1980s finally went bust.

One of the questionable investments was the $3 million purchase of an unidentified Texas oil equipment supply firm, Torman said. Christopher is a shareholder in several Texas companies, including oilfield equipment supply firms.

Property and casualty insurance firms traditionally shy away from risky investments in favor of conservative ones such as Treasury bills and high-rated bonds that are low-risk and easily cashed in.

The board felt several of Christopher's investments, including some real-estate deals, were too long-term and not liquid enough, Wolters said. He said the company will sell off the oil equipment business by the end of the year.

American Universal's 172,000 policyholders are not in any danger because of Christopher's investments, Wolters said.

Bush

N.Y., near Buffalo.

Dukakis hammered at Bush's comment last week that a recent rise in the number of unemployed was "statistically irrelevant."

"On November 8, he's going to find just how relevant they are," he said. Reminding the audience of the remark, Bush made in the Soviet Union that Soviet workers could give a lesson in quality, Dukakis said. "Those Republicans in Washington love to blame American workers first."

The Dukakis campaign had prepared pink slips for today to show that the election is 60 days off, the notice period required under legislation opposed by the Reagan administration that would require notification of plant closings.

Dukakis, visiting Texas today on Bush's heels, was in Manhattan on Thursday night with his running mate, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, for a gala fund-raiser. The event yielded more than $5 million for the Democratic Party, Dukakis money raiser Robert Farmer said.

The Texas senator was visiting a farm show in Iowa before addressing a union rally in California.

Bush, in Rockford, Ill., was addressing the Illinois Federation of Republican women, before other appearances in Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Ambulance service August report

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Rural/Metro ambulance service responded to 144 total calls, 90 of which were emergencies, during August, according to operations supervisor Michael Black.

Black said Wednesday that 63 of the emergency calls were within the city limits of Big Spring, while 27 occurred in the county. He said the service responded to 62 calls within eight minutes or less during August.

The service responded to 9 calls within 10 minutes or less, seven within 15 minutes, Black said. The remaining seven calls required more than 15 minutes for response.

He said the average total time the units were at the scene of responses in August was 16.1 minutes. In the city, he said, that time averaged 4.9 minutes; in the county the average rose to 12.2 minutes.

Black said 14 percent of the calls in August were to cardiac emergencies, 16 percent to motor vehicle accidents, 4 percent to other trauma calls, and 7 percent to respiratory emergencies.

He said other medical emergencies accounted for the remaining 59 percent of the calls.

Avery says late entry a disadvantage

By CHINA LONG

Special to The Herald

Johnnie Lou Avery, Democratic nominee for the 69th state representative election, was the featured speaker at the Thursday night meeting of the Howard County Democratic club, when some 50 members met.

Avery said she is at a disadvantage in the race because of her late entry. She was selected as the candidate by district party chairmen when Larry Don Shaw was officially declared ineligible after accepting a job in Austin and declaring residency there.

She faces Troy Fraser in the Nov. 8 election. "I don't have any campaign literature yet and I haven't had an opportunity to raise funds," she said. Avery also said the 500-mile-wide district is "a lot of ground to cover."

Police beat

Big Spring police reported investigating the following incidents:

• A man who was allegedly involved with causing serious damage to two parked cars Sunday night was arrested Thursday on charges of failure to meet requirements when striking a car and failure to control speed, according to police reports.

The citations were issued to John M. Talamonte, 34, 108 E. 11th St., about 30 minutes after witnesses told police a Hispanic male driving a 1987 Ford that was traveling at a high rate of speed struck two legally parked cars and then fled the scene, reports stated.

Jesus Molina Ledesma, 29, 802 E. 12th St., was arrested on a warrant charging him with Class A assault.

• A woman who resides in the 1500 block of Johnson Street reported unknown persons took a video cassette recorder, assorted jewelry and two pistols with a total value of $9,375.

Bond reduction denied

Howard County District Judge James Gregg denied the bond reduction request Friday morning of a 32-year-old Big Spring man accused in an April slaying.

Ricardo Romero Flores was indicted by a Howard County grand jury in August for the April 2 bludgeoning death of 53-year-old Manuel Vega Garcia, an Odessa man. Also charged in the slaying are Leroy Flores Alaniz, 30, Odessa, and Flores' brother Robert Romero Flores, 30, Big Spring.

Alaniz has been returned to the Texas Department of Corrections for violation of his parole as a result of a May 20 hearing during which Tracey D. Snell, a parole hearing officer from Midland, determined that he had violated his parole as a result of testimony from Robert Flores. Robert Flores is free on $50,000 bond.

Bond has been set on Ricardo Flores at $100,000 and he has been in custody in Howard County jail since his arrest in April. Attorney C.E. (Mike) Thomas filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the case, seeking to have Flores' bond reduced to "a reasonable amount."

The petition alleges that the bail against Flores is "oppressive, excessive and beyond his financial ability to pay."

Assistant District Attorney William Dupree, who represented the state during the hearing, said the 118th Judicial District Attorney's office is opposed to bond reduction for Flores.

"He is charged with a serious offense," Dupree said. "We are satisfied with the bond the way it is."

District Parole Officer David Harman also testified at the hearing. Harman represented the State Board of Pardons and Paroles during a May 20 hearing to determine whether Flores' arrest for the murder indicated that he had violated his parole from the Texas Department of Corrections.

As a result of that hearing, during which Flores' brother graphically described the events and circumstances under which Garcia died April 2, El Paso hearing officer Jim Yates determined that Ricardo Flores had not violated his parole, and an emergency parole warrant against Flores was withdrawn, making him eligible for bond.

Proceeds from the dinner will benefit the American Cancer Society.

Pyles, who grew up working in his father's truck-stop restaurant in Big Spring, said he looking forward to returning to his hometown for the benefit.

"I've been a guest chef in many of the world's most famous cities, but to have this opportunity to do something in Big Spring is very exciting," he said.

"This will be a special event for me, and I hope to make it special for my hometown."

For more information on the cooking class, contact Terri Thomas at 267-4901.

Chef offers cooking class

One of the nation's finest chefs will teach a cooking class Sunday afternoon in Garrett Hall at the First Methodist Church.

Stephan Pyles — a Big Spring native and owner of Dallas' widely acclaimed Routh Street Cafe — will conduct the class from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The class is sponsored by the Big Spring Junior Women's Club, and all proceeds will benefit local charities.

Tickets to the class are $25 per person and can be purchased at the door before the event.

Pyles will cook a four course meal, and those in attendance will taste three of the courses, said Terri Thomas, organizer of the class.

Pyles will conduct a similar class in Dallas that will cost participants $300 per person, Thomas said.

"The cheapest class he has ever done was for $75," said Thomas. "We feel like this is a bargain for anyone who appreciates cooking."

Ed Meese's last mistake

The Justice Department in the Reagan administration has never had any difficulty prosecuting members of Congress: Just ask Mariso Biaggi, the New York Democrat congressman who recently resigned after being convicted in the Wedtech scandal.

But as his last act, outgoing Attorney General Edwin Meese announced that decisions about whether to prosecute members of Congress will henceforth be made not by Justice Department prosecutors but by an independent counsel, such as twice-investigated Meese himself.

Take your own medicine, Meese seemed to be saying to Capitol Hill. The trouble with Meese's parting shot is that the medicine he's prescribing isn't needed.

Under the 1978 Ethics in Government Act, the attorney general is required to ask a special court panel to appoint an independent counsel when there is reason to believe a high administration official has broken a law.

The Ethics Act, resulting from the Watergate scandal, recognizes that there is a built-in political conflict of interest, and a question of credibility, whenever an administration is asked to investigate itself.

But it's a rare case when a criminal investigation of a member of Congress poses the same potential conflict for the Justice Department. Over the past decade, from Koreagate to Abscam to Wedtech, federal prosecutors in both Republican and Democratic administrations have successfully investigated and prosecuted members of Congress from both parties.

Although one can envision situations in which a decision about whether to indict a member of Congress might create a political conflict for the Justice Department — imagine a Democratic attorney general confronted with evidence of wrongdoing by a powerful Democratic speaker of the House — the ethics law permits the attorney general to request a special prosecutor in such cases, and public opinion would probably compel one.

But why have a special prosecutor in all cases? In announcing his order, Meese implied that wrongdoing in the executive branch and wrongdoing in Congress create parallel prosecutorial problems. They don't.

The truly parallel political and credibility problem arises when the House and Senate are called upon to investigate and discipline one of their own for violating congressional rules, such as in the pending case of Speaker Jim Wright.

That's a real issue, but Meese doesn't address it. A useful way to restore public confidence in congressional ethics probes might be to adopt the recent proposal by a group of lawmakers, led by Reps. Barney Frank and Joseph DiGuardi, to set up an independent body to conduct them.

By contrast, Meese's ill-considered order is nothing more than a bit of last-minute spite, which new Attorney General Richard Thornburgh should cast out the door after its author.

What's going on with SDI, George?

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

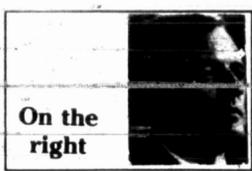

Something is going on that you and I should know about. The initial explosion hit us on Friday morning. Vice President George Bush's New York Times interview aboard his plane on the subject of the Strategic Defense Initiative was the front-page news. It could hardly have been less than that in Moscow.

It gets complicated, but we learn that in recent strategy sessions, the Bush people came to the conclusion that SDI — Star Wars — the space shield — is not a winning political issue and should not therefore be central to the political campaign.

This is a strange conclusion to reach, given a fairly recent poll. It tells us (incredibly) that 64 percent of the American people are under the impression that we have already implemented the strategic defense system. And when asked, "Do you want the U.S. government to protect America against Soviet missiles?" 90 percent answered yes.

Now the conservative weekly Human Events reveals that there was a strange tug-of-war during the week before the convention in New Orleans.

Bay Buchanan, serving on the platform committee fashioning the Republican statement on defense, was adamant that the platform should commit the party to deploying a strategic defense system by 1992.

Sen. John Tower materialized and said that the Bush forces would prefer "as soon as possible." To this Buchanan replied that her information was that we were already positioned to deploy a preliminary ground-to-air system, so that to speak of deploying a system "as soon as possible" when we are talking about four years was on the order of committing ourselves to painting the White House as soon as possible.

It turned out to be a formidable contest, but the ayes had it, and the platform incorporates that commitment.

But then George Bush, in his acceptance speech, was rather stepfatherly in his treatment of SDI, referring only generally to our determination to continue to refine our defense technology.

That caught the attention of (and disappointed) those who believe strongly in SDI. They were, however, relieved when as recently as two days before the explosion, Bush said to a rally in Los Angeles: "Let me tell you something: The appalling danger of nuclear missiles is no fantasy; it is a nightmare."

"He (Dukakis) would leave America totally defenseless against missiles and I will not. I will go forward with the Strategic Defense Initiative and make a safer world."

But then the very next day, in his (extemporaneous?) interview with Gerald M. Boyd of The New York Times, Bush said that an SDI system would be most awfully expensive, and that he thought what we ought to do is simply to continue our research and see where it was taking us.

Now here is a key distinction, the critical distinction for anyone who has the least familiarity with the debate. If you use the word "research" without also using the word "testing," you adopt flat-out the Soviet position.

The reason for this is that no research is going to take you where you need to go in the development of a space shield without testing. And the whole argument over the interpretation of the ABM treaty has to do with whether space-based testing is or is not permitted.

(Answer: It is permitted, in the opinion of the legal counsel of the State Department, with overwhelming historical plausibility. And if it is not permitted, then the ABM treaty should be rescinded, which could be done six months after Bush takes office.)

Opponents of SDI use the argument that only research is permissible, and their other argument is that the cost of SDI would be outlandish. They like to use the figure One Trillion Dollars, because it has an imperative ring, never mind that it has nothing to do with reality.

So then Bush said, in the same interview in which he used "research" without using "testing," that he feared that SDI would be "very expensive." He gave the enemies of the system the two arguments they most frequently use.

Those, combined with Bush's implied suggestion that the workability of SDI is problematic, have the effect of sinking official approval of the program.

The Heritage Foundation folks in Washington report that this is very much the doing of Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Larry Welch, who wants the money for the Air Force. I have seen General Welch in action, and I resist any imputation of factional small-mindedness to him.

But then I would say the same thing about George Bush — which leaves us asking the question: What is going on?

A new move brings old memories from days gone by to life

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

The only time you really get an idea of just how much stuff you've accumulated over the years is when you unpack after a move.

I've just moved into my new address, and, for days now, all I've done — with more than a little help from a friend — is go through boxes.

It's amazing how many belongings I have I had totally forgotten about.

Like the ashtray I've found. I don't smoke anymore but the ashtray is still a keepsake. It came from the Turquoise Room lounge car that once rolled proudly along on the legendary Supr Chief passenger train that ran between Chicago and Los Angeles.

It was the train of the stars, and the Turquoise Room was where they entertained themselves during the two-and-half-day trip.

I've carried on a love affair with passenger trains for years, and a friend saw the ashtray in an antique store and thought of me.

Good friends do that sort of thing.

I found my old God and Country award I received when I was in the Boy Scouts. You had to learn a lot of Scripture by heart, and the old Methodist preacher, long dead now, pinned my award on my shirt one Sunday morning in front of the entire congregation.

It was a proud moment.

I even ran across a tie the Atlanta Braves gave me when I was executive sports editor of the Atlanta Journal in the early '70s.

The Braves gave away 715 of those ties to commemorate Hank Aaron's 715th home run, which broke Babe Ruth's record.

Each tie was numbered. I was given tie number 500.

I recall thinking myself very special for being given tie number 500.

I also found an old photograph of me with the late Bear Bryant, the legendary Alabama football coach. I was wearing his houndstooth hat in the photograph.

I seem to recall all that had to do with some Jack Daniels the Bear and I got into one afternoon at the Atlanta airport.

Lewis Grizzard

I even found my old softball glove (I retired from softball in 1974 in the twilight of a dismal career), a T-shirt that read "Not tonight, dear, I have a deadline," an old Mills Brothers album I hadn't played in years and my high-school yearbook from my freshman year. (I was skinny and my ears poked out.)

I found a quilt my grandmother made for me when I left home. She made the quilt despite arthritic fingers. She was afraid I'd leave home and not have enough covers.

Mommy Willie's been gone a long time. It's hard to believe.

I found an old divorce decree dated 1971. She got the dog.

In another box was a photograph my friend Brownie Stephens took of me, his young son, and another friend named Warren Newman after the four of us had successfully canoed the Buffalo River in Arkansas for five days.

We are wet and nasty and unshaven in the photograph, but the trip had been a complete success. Warren didn't turn over with the beer.

Brownie's son is grown now, and Warren was killed in an automobile accident not long after the trip.

The boxes are disappearing now and I've found new places for my old stuff, most of which I'll forget about again in a very short time.

But unpacking some old memories was a pleasant enough experience — almost pleasant enough to make me forget how much they charge to move you these days.

Almost.

Not worth the price

To the editor: The Big Spring Herald is not worth an increase in price. I for one will cancel my subscription after September. I have it paid 'til then and I don't think that I'll be the only one canceling this paper.

I was wondering if you all had any reporters there for the Big Spring Herald, because there hasn't been much news in the paper about events like the old Settlers Reunion or the Dog Show and the Antique Car Show and such.

Nell Draper
1605 Stadium

P.S. You may not want to publish this — anyway, you get the message.

Editor's note: The price increase Nell Draper refers to is two cents daily for people who subscribe and 10 cents per daily paper purchased from a rack. The Herald news department staffed both the Old Settler's Reunion and the Howard County Dog Show and reports — and photos — were published on each.

To the editor: Enough about the football players that have moved from Coahoma. In the Football Edition Aug. 28, it appears that Coahoma High School football is all down the tubes. Again, in Friday Forecast Sept. 2, Poor Coahoma; no football players left. Well, excuse me, but that is just not true. We have 56 boys out there working their butts off and they need and deserve a little recognition! Come on Coahoma Bulldog fans — let's get behind those Bulldogs — they need your support. Ask any

Suit alleges voting discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department charged Los Angeles County and several of its officials Thursday with denying Hispanics equal voting rights in local elections.

The lawsuit, filed in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles, charges that the county's electoral plan fragments the Hispanic population, thus denying Hispanics an equal opportunity to participate in the political process and to elect candidates of their choice to the county governing body.

In 1980, the suit says, the county's Hispanic population was 2,066,103, or 27.6 percent of the total population of 7,477,503.

The 1981 reapportionment plan adopted by the Board of Supervisors fragmented the Hispanic population into three districts, with the result that Hispanics did not constitute a voting-age majority or plurality in any of the five single-member districts.

Pressure mounts in Yonkers

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Pressure mounted on defiant city councilmen to drop their opposition to a court-ordered housing desegregation plan as fines approached a $1 million-a-day limit today and mass layoffs of city workers loomed.

Yonkers was fined $819,200 Thursday for continuing to defy the desegregation plan. The penalties, imposed by U.S. District Judge Leonard Sand, began at $100 a day and double daily, reaching a total of $1,638,300 Thursday.

Mayor Nicholas Wasiesko scheduled a council meeting for noon today for a new vote on the housing plan. The fines were expected to rise to $1 million a day, the cap imposed by an appeals court, if the council refused to accept the plan.

With the fines rapidly eating up the city's $337 million budget, the city plans to lay off 447 library, planning and parks employees Saturday, roughly one quarter of the city payroll. During the next few weeks, virtually all city services will be terminated and all city workers laid off.

At Thursday's meeting, the council voted 5-1 to transfer $73,000 to its judgments and claims account so the city could pay Wednesday's fine of $409,600.

Homicide statistics given

ATLANTA (AP) — The average homicide victim in the United States is 32, and each year's killings together mean more than 600,000 years that go un-lived, according to federal government scientists.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that in 1985, its latest year for such analysis, the 18,351 homicides in the United States resulted in 612,556 "years of potential life lost" by the victims.

Since 1968, the toll of homicides in terms of potential life has risen

44 percent, the Atlanta-based CDC reported. During that same time, the total of life-years lost to early deaths from all causes went down 25 percent.

The CDC, in its weekly report, called for increased cooperation among the criminal justice, social services, health care, mental health and public health sectors, to prompt "development of effective programs for prevention of homicides."

Black males continue to have by far the highest homicide rate, the CDC said.

Students sue for chance to dance

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Students at a tiny Ozark Mountains high school who sued for a chance to dance say a judge's order means they'll soon be getting footloose.

The judge said the school board can regulate the number of dances and take steps to see that dances are chaperoned, but "any rules or regulations promulgated must not have the effect of barring student social dances on school premise."

BALTIMORE — Ernest and Regina Twigg have filed a lawsuit claiming their healthy child was switched at birth for the child they raised. Arlena, inset photo, died of a congenital heart illness at the age of nine.

Couple says hospital substituted babies

BALTIMORE (AP) — A couple who filed a $100 million lawsuit claiming that a hospital switched their healthy baby for one with a fatal heart defect nine years ago say they hope medical records will uncover their real daughter.

Ernest and Regina I. Twigg allege that Florida hospital workers changed identifying bracelets and altered records to give the Twiggs' healthy baby to an adoptive family, then gave the Twiggs an infant born the same day with a congenital heart defect.

"We're totally devastated," Mrs. Twigg told The Baltimore Sun. "Our lives have turned into a nightmare. We've not only lost our Arlena... but also where is our own daughter?"

The couple raised Arlena Twigg as their own until she died in August following surgery to correct the heart defect. Shortly before her death, the lawsuit said, a blood test performed at Johns Hopkins University here revealed that the child was not related to either parent.

The test showed Arlena had a blood type of B-positive. The Twiggs said their baby had been born with a blood type of O-positive, and they also both have type O blood.

Additional tests on Arlena's tissues also concluded it would be all but impossible for Arlena to be their child, said the couple's attorney, Marvin Ellin of Baltimore.

Mrs. Twigg later recalled that on the day her baby was born, a nurse told her another woman on the maternity ward had also delivered a daughter, which she intended to give up for adoption, the suit said. "Those were the only two girl babies in the ward at the time, Ellin said.

Mrs. Twigg said she told a nurse shortly before leaving the hospital that the child she was nursing did not look like the same baby she had nursed earlier in her stay, but the nurse dismissed the notion.

Jet crashes, explodes in Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A Vietnamese jetliner trying to land during a heavy storm today crashed and exploded in a field near Bangkok's airport, killing at least 74 people and seriously injuring six, officials said.

An air force spokesman, Som-met TU-134 jet blew up after hitting the rice field at Fa Kam village, about four miles short of the airport. It crashed three minutes before it was scheduled to land at Don Muang Interna-national Airport.

Air Vietnam Flight 831, which left Vietnam's capital of Hanoi at 10 a.m. (11 p.m. EDT), is frequently taken by foreign diplomats and relief workers.

Petzing said an American team of MIA experts was to have been on the jet for its return flight to Hanoi in the afternoon. He said the experts were going to Hanoi for talks on searches for the remains of missing American soldiers.

Manilla wants increased aid

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The United States offered $502 million in annual aid to the Philippines for continued use of military bases in the country, but Manila said it wasn't enough, the foreign secretary said today.

Negotiations began in April and were to have lasted three months. But they dragged on and finally broke down over Philippine insistence that Washington pay $1.2 billion annually for Subic Naval Base, Clark Air Base and four smaller installations.

Under an agreement that expires in 1991, the United States gives the Philippines $180 million a year through 1989. The talks are to determine the amount of compensation.

Sources close to the talks say the Americans refuse to give in to the Philippine demands because of uncertainty they will be allowed to keep the bases after 1991.

President Corazon Aquino, who is under pressure not to renew the pact, has not disclosed her position.

Gulf talks may resume

GENEVA (AP) — Iran stalled the possibility that the raised peace talks with Iraq could be suspended and shifted to New York, the first public indication by either side that a break is near in the 2-week-old negotiations.

There was no response from Iraqi officials. Iraq and Iran have engaged in indirect peace talks all but one day since Aug. 25.

The talks are aimed at a lasting peace settlement after the U.N.-sponsored cease-fire in the 8-year-old Persian Gulf war took effect Aug. 20.

The timing of the next round probably would coincide with Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar's presence in New York for the U.N. General Assembly, opening Sept. 20.

The problem is that Iran still considers valid a 1975 treaty setting the Iran-Iraq border down the middle of Shatt-al-Arab, Iraq's major sea outlet. Iraq has renounced the pact and claimed the entire waterway.

Shatt-al-Arab has been blocked by sunken ships almost since the war began in September 1980.

Air show insurance said to be low

BERLIN (AP) — The death toll rose to 56 in the Aug. 28 air show disaster at a U.S. air base and a newspaper said Thursday that insurance coverage of the Italian stunt-flying team involved falls far short of estimated damage.

An insurance official said, however, that organizers of such an event usually pay the largest portion of the damage.

Two more West Germans died of severe burns from the accident at the U.S. Air Force Base in Ramstein and 28 people were reported in critical condition.

Marco Fraquelli, an official of the Milano Assicurazioni insurance company of Milan, Italy, said each of the three planes that crashed was insured for $1.4 million, for a total of $4.2 million.

There was music, wonderful music

DEAR ABBY: My mother, age 79, has been hearing "music" in her head for about two years. Her physician was unable to find the cause, so he sent her to a psychiatrist, who also found no reason for this. Abby, if an answer isn't found soon, I fear that my mother's remaining years will be spent in total misery. Otherwise, her general health is excellent.

Dear Abby

A while back, you printed several letters from people who had heard noises — especially music — in their heads.

Perhaps drawing on the experiences of others who have had this problem will help my mother. Would you please reprint them?

E.H., LANCASTER, OHIO

DEAR E.H.: With pleasure. I hope they help.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing all those letters from people who keep hearing music in their heads. I am one. I am now 76, and never told others because I was afraid of what they might think. I have been a nurse for more than 50 years and had never heard of this condition; I feared that maybe I was experiencing senility. I was truly relieved after reading in your column that many others had the same experience.

During my waking hours I hear hymns and waltzes. All the waltzes I loved to dance to are drifting through my mind. Now I can tell my doctor about it and not be afraid that he will look at me and think, "Poor soul. She is really failing!"

EMILIE IN BUCKS COUNTY

DEAR EMILIE: You would not believe the number of letters from readers who had also been hearing things and doubted their sanity. One man said he nearly went crazy because he heard bees buzzing continually in one ear — night and day. Another said he heard constant crackling sounds, like bacon frying. A woman heard "chirping" of crickets. Still another said it sounded like a freight train was roaring through her head. All thought they were going mad.

The constant sounds are due to a condition called "tinnitus," but the musical hallucinations are yet another matter. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: It was interesting seeing all the letters sent to you by people with musical hallucinations.

The two cases I describe in my book, "The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat," were rather rare and special examples of musical epilepsy associated with damage to the brain. But musical hallucinations are relatively common, especially in older people, and though they should be checked out, nearly always turn out to be benign — a nuisance, but not necessarily a sign of neurological disease.

Readers should be assured about this. Yours sincerely... OLIVER SACKS, M.D., PROFESSOR OF NEUROLOGY, ALBERT EINSTEIN COLLEGE OF MEDICINE, BRONX, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in my late 60s and profoundly deaf, but that is not my worst problem. I have a severe case of tinnitus, which is a chronic ringing sensation in my ears. My case is unbelievable. The sounds might be compared to a bad LSD trip without the psychedelic visions. They last sometimes as long as four days.

You, like most people, will probably think I'm a nut case. I hear music or singing, or both — the same compositions over and over. Would you be good enough to consult one of your authorities to verify the fact that I am not crazy? I believe that would be an otorhinolaryngologist.

Hoping you can help me... HEARING THINGS

DEAR HEARING: Write to: The American Tinnitus Association, P.O. Box 5, Portland, Ore. 97207.

Texas ranks 50th in welfare expenditure

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas may do less for impoverished people needing jobs than any state in the nation, a policy analyst told a welfare committee Thursday.

"Looking at the welfare system as a whole in Texas, I think it's probably safe to say that — or it's arguable — that Texas has the most limited welfare system in the United States," said Andrew Homer, a committee staff member and policy analyst.

According to data compiled by the Texas Research League, Texas ranks 50th among the states in per capita state and local government expenditures for public welfare at $141 per person, less than half the national average of $310, the staff report said.

Homer said Texas has "very limited Medicaid coverage, (and) we have almost no assistance programs for single, individual childless couples and very limited programs for the elderly."

benign neglect, and I think that's fairly accurate."

Preliminary committee recommendations include raising the Aid to Families With Dependent Children average monthly grant from $57 to $61 and removing "unduly burdensome procedures" for welfare programs.

"It seems as if the (welfare) program is pretty inaccessible, categorized by high denial rates for AFDC, Medicaid, as well as food stamps," Homer said. "It's not necessarily because these people aren't qualified, it's simply because there are a number of procedural barriers."

"There are barriers there that simply aren't fair," he said.

As an example, Homer said, there are verification procedures that are impossible for the Department of Human Resources to complete.

Farmer said, "It strikes me that we can't just walk away and ignore the fact that we've got the highest turnaround rate of any state in the union, and that we don't turn people down primarily because they're disqualified — we turn them down because they fail to meet some kind of bureaucratic red tape requirement."

Strike dispersal

MANILA, Philippines — With an armed policeman in the background, a riot policeman aims his truncheon at a striking worker. The workers are demanding higher wages.

This won't hurt

PIETERBUREN, Netherlands — Lies Vedder, left, veterinarian at the Pieterburen Seal Sanctuary, is helped by an assistant to vaccinate a seal recently. Canine distemper virus was the cause of death of more than 11,000 seals in Western Europe's coastal water this summer.

Amnesty report cites human rights abuses

LONDON (AP) — More than 1,000 people have died since 1980 in land disputes in northern Brazil, where landowners hire gunmen to abuse or kill peasants, Indians, church workers and trade unionists, Amnesty International said today.

The London-based human rights group chastised Brazilian authorities for not enforcing laws to stem the violence and said it has evidence public servants were themselves involved in some incidents.

Land reform is a deeply divisive issue in Brazil, where 4 percent of the population of 141 million own almost half the arable land.

Amnesty said in the report that although it takes no position on land issues, it was alarmed at systematic and widespread failure to enforce the rule of law which has led to serious human rights violations in Brazil.

The report accuses authorities of allowing abuses to go virtually unpunished and speaks of "overwhelming evidence that the intimidation and violence of landowners and land speculators is not only sanctioned, but frequently assisted by state authorities."

In an example of official indifference, the report said, a police chief at Goianesia police station in Para state allegedly told one woman whose husband and son were shot dead in October 1987 that he could not register the crime because he had no pen and paper.

In addition to the deaths of more than 1,000 people in land disputes since 1980, hundreds more were tortured or ill-treated and countless others were forced off their land, the group said.

It said it sent its report to Brazilian authorities in April and discussed its concerns with senior federal government officials in the capital city of Brasilia in June.

The officials acknowledged state action had been inadequate "but did not accept that this called for direct federal intervention," Amnesty said.

The group said evidence suggested most of the killings were carried out by gunmen hired by landowners to terrorize and evict those considered a threat to their interests. Most victims were peasants, native Indians, priests, nuns, church workers, lawyers and trade unionists, it said.

The report quotes the Brazilian Bar Association as saying killings can allegedly be contracted through a "death syndicate" with offices in Imperatriz in Maranhao state. It says police are reported to have been recruited by such syndicates.

"Local police treat these killings so lightly that they often do not bother to register the crimes," the report says.

Storage of condoms affects safety level

CHICAGO (AP) — Young men who go out at night with romance in their hearts and condoms in their wallets should find another storage place, medical researchers say.

Ozone, a major component of smog and a product of lightning storms, damages the latex in condoms, and any practice threatening to tear condoms' packaging and expose them to air should be avoided, the researchers said.

"It's not something you should subject to putting in your back pocket, or sitting on, or in any way damaging," said Russell P. Sherwin, a researcher at the University of Southern California School of Medicine in Los Angeles.

U.S. sales of condoms — fueled in part by U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop's endorsement as protection against AIDS — totaled $290 million last year and should jump 20 percent more this year, market analysts have said.

Sherwin and fellow researchers tested 20 unrolled, unpackaged latex condoms, exposing them to air containing 0.3 parts per million of ozone for 72 hours, a level comparable to a "Stage 1" smog alert in Southern California.

Afterward, all but two condoms had obvious holes in them and 11 burst at pressures far below those that condoms unexposed to ozone-containing air were able to withstand, the researchers said.

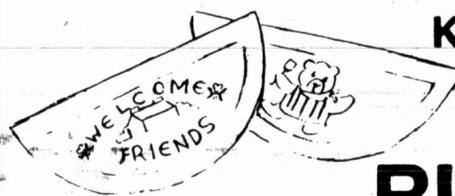

Sherwin said in a telephone interview Wednesday, "The package seemed to provide protection as long as it was intact, as long as it wasn't perforated or crinkled."

"The general advice that we offer on condoms holds," said Dr. Robert Staab, vice president of scientific affairs for Schmid Laboratories Inc., the nation's No. 2 condom-maker behind Carter Wallace Inc. of New York.

"That is that they are going to remain safe and effective for a normal life of a product, which is in years, as long as you keep them away from heat, light and ozone," Staab said Thursday.

Both are University of Texas students who debated after Austin Attorney Sarah Weddington spoke about an Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome benefit. Weddington led the argument in the Supreme Court to legalize abortions.

Reagan seeks to bar use of aborted fetus for study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is moving swiftly to ban the use of tissue from intentionally aborted fetuses in research — before a special National Institutes of Health advisory committee meets on the matter.

Gary L. Bauer, President Reagan's assistant for policy development, told Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen he wanted the secretary's comments on the proposed executive order by today.

The NIH panel, formed at the direction of a top official in Bowen's department, begins a two-day meeting Wednesday to consider the issue.

A copy of Bauer's memo, dated Sept. 2, along with a copy of the draft executive order that Reagan would sign, was obtained Thursday by The Associated Press.

Campbell Gardett, an HHS spokesman, confirmed that the documents had been received by Bowen.

"There's no comment at this time on the draft order, which is under review," said Gardett.

The issue arose last April when NIH scientists sought approval to conduct experiments in which brain tissue from freshly aborted fetuses would be transplanted to patients suffering from Parkinson's disease.

Surgeons in Mexico City reported last January that they had injected such tissue from a miscarried fetus into the brains of two Parkinson's sufferers with promising results.

There have been reports of researchers in other countries employing the emerging fetal tissue transplant techniques, which also could have applications in many other diseases.

Although miscarried fetuses have long been used in more conventional research areas, the new techniques — which require fresh tissue to be effective — open a new rash of ethical questions.

Parkinson's disease causes gradual loss of muscle control and is potentially fatal. The fetal tissue is believed to work by stimulating production of dopamine, a brain chemical lacking among people suffering from Parkinson's.

Demos assess strategy on minimum wage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats say they will try to move a minimum wage increase through Congress this year, but the issue is being complicated by presidential politics.

Members of the House and Senate who handle labor legislation met Thursday and agreed to try for final passage of the legislation before Congress adjourns for the year next month.

But it was also clear that differences between Democrats and Republicans could doom the bill. The Reagan administration has steadfastly opposed boosting the wage base, which has stood at $3.35 an hour since 1981.

George Bush, the Republican presidential nominee, told Knight-Ridder newspapers Wednesday that he would soon propose "some adjustment" in the minimum wage. Bush's new position represents an attempt to gain support from blue-collar voters and came shortly after a campaign appearance at which he was booed repeatedly by shipyard workers in Oregon.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, noted the political implications on Wednesday.

"We've been battling on these issues for the last seven years, and it's fair to say: Where was George when we carried those measures in the full committee or the subcommittee? There's been absolute silence," he said.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been poised for weeks to consider legislation that would raise the minimum wage to $4.55 an hour by 1991 in a Senate bill and to $5.05 hourly by 1992 under a House measure.

In an effort to pass the proposal by the time Congress adjourns next month, House Democratic leaders have agreed to accept the lower Senate figure. On Thursday, Kennedy, House Labor Committee Chairman Augustus F. Hawkins and others met and agreed to try to move the bill quickly.

The measure, however, faces the threat of a veto by President Reagan.

In addition, Republicans are ready to introduce amendments that many Democrats oppose.

Chief among them is a proposal for a "training wage" lower than the minimum wage, that businesses would be allowed to pay new workers. In the Knight-Ridder interview, Bush indicated support for a training wage.

Republicans say the training wage, which could be paid to each worker for only a few months, would create extra jobs.

Statue unveiled

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — A 3-foot model of a proposed statue honoring the women who served their country in the Vietnam War was unveiled Thursday afternoon at the national convention of the American Legion in Louisville. The work would be installed at the Vietnam War memorial in Washington to represent the 10,000 women who served in the war.

Bill sought to end guardianship abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criminals have more rights than innocent people facing guardianship proceedings, the House's foremost senior citizens advocate said in advancing a plan to end abuses in a system meant to help the elderly and infirm.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., introduced the National Guardianship Rights Act on Thursday, his 88th birthday, with the declaration that the current system is "a national disgrace."

His chief co-sponsor, Rep. Don Bonker, D-Wash., said the bill was designed to "restore guardianship to a system which does indeed serve to protect our nation's most vulnerable citizens."

People become wards of guardians if they are deemed incompetent to handle their own affairs. The guardian assumes their legal rights, possessions and decision-making authority; the ward typically is not permitted to vote, own property, marry or make medical decisions. More than half a million Americans are wards of guardians.

"Because the imposition of guardianship is so onerous, there must be strong national safeguards against unnecessary and unduly restrictive guardianships," Pepper said in a statement.

The elderly and infirm would have more rights and recourse under Pepper's bill and a similar measure that Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., plans to introduce next week in the Senate. Guardians would have to meet new training and reporting requirements.

The attorney general could withhold federal money from states not in compliance.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Lubbock Estacado (1-0) at Big Spring (0-0)

The 1988 edition of the Big Spring Steers debuts at Memorial Stadium tonight against an old nemesis — the Lubbock Estacado Matadors.

The Matadors opened their season last Thursday with a convincing 34-16 thumping of Plainview — Big Spring's opponent next week. As usual, Estacado is blessed with speed at the skill positions.

With a new coach and a new offensive system, just how effective the Steers will be in the early part of the season is anyone's guess. They will be big in the line, but will that advantage negate the speed of Estacado?

The guess here is that the Steers need a few more weeks before they start cooking.

ESTACADO 34, BIG SPRING 21.

Stanton (1-0) at Coahoma (0-1)

This could be the game of the week for area football fans. Both teams are coming off tough games the previous week — with Stanton winning a muddy battle against Seagraves, while Seminole used the big play to down Coahoma.

The Battlin' Buffs will be attempting to get their new Wing-T offense untracked, while the Bulldogs have the incentive of playing in front of the home crowd — plus seeking a measure of revenge for last year's loss to Stanton.

With both offenses being equal, we give the nod to Stanton on the basis of a slightly better defense.

STANTON 14, COAHOMA 13

Seminole (1-0) at C-City (1-0)

Both Seminole and Colorado City scored convincing wins last week; Seminole downed Coahoma, 28-6, while the Wolves steamrolled Alpine, 27-0.

Gerold Hill was the offensive hero for the Indians against Coahoma, scoring three TDs — including one of 99 yards. C-City, meanwhile, will rely on its rushing duo of Beau Rees and Pat Willis, plus a rock-hard defense.

This will be no shutout, but the Wolves will be too much for the Indians to handle.

C-CITY 24, SEMINOLE 7

Rankin (1-0) at Forsan (0-1)

The Forsan Buffaloes will attempt to rebound from a disappointing loss to Garden City, while Rankin will be trying to build on its opening-night victory against long-time rival Iraan.

The Buffs are facing a rebuilding year after many successful seasons, but did show some bright spots in its loss against the Bearkats. If the offense can push past the Red Devil's 20 — and the defense can overcome their sloppy tackling — Forsan could pull this one off.

In the Upset Special of the Week, they do just that.

FORSAN 19, RANKIN 14

Grandfalls (1-0) at Garden City (1-0)

Fresh from their pasting of long-time nemesis Forsan, Garden City will debut at home against a Grandfalls squad that eked out an 8-6 win against Sterling City last Friday.

It still may be too early in the season to tell with certainty, but this year's edition of the Bearkats could be something special. Their offense simply overwhelmed Forsan, and while the defense proved vulnerable between the 20s, it was downright stingy from there on in.

Grandfalls, meanwhile, won their game with Sterling City on the back of a rock-hard defense. The Cowboys limited the Eagles to 89 total yards and a mere four first downs.

The balanced Bearkat attack, however, will prove to be too much for Grandfalls to handle.

GARDEN CITY 28, GRANDFALLS 7.

Buena Vista (0-1) at Sands (1-0)

The Sands Mustangs hope to make it two-in-a-row when they host the Buena Vista Mustangs in Ackerly Friday night.

The young Sands gridders went over, around and through an out-manned Hermleigh team last week, while Buena Vista was being skunked by Balmorhea, 24-0.

The visiting Mustangs will give the home version a sterner test than last week's opponent, but Sands should be able to keep its record spotless.

SANDS 26, BUENA VISTA 12

New Home (1-0) at Grady (0-0)

After years of taking their lumps, the Grady Wildcats will be out to prove there's a new Cat in town when they take on New Home in their season opener Friday.

The freshmen squad that went winless two years ago is now a junior-dominated, experienced team that is doubtlessly eager to erase memories of that — and last year's 2-8 — campaign.

Unfortunately, six-man power New Home might be too much, too soon for Grady.

NEW HOME 46, GRADY 34

Amherst (0-1) at Klondike (0-1)

This one shapes up as the area six-man game of the week. Both teams are better than they displayed last week; Klondike fumbled the ball — and the game — away to Wilson, while Amherst was blown out by Silverton, 42-6.

It'll be close, but if the Cougars can avoid turnovers, they should fashion their first win of the season.

KLONDIKE 34, AMHERST 28

Borden County (0-1) at Wellman (1-0)

The Borden County Coyotes will be trying to avoid a buzz-saw this week when they hit the road to take on last year's state semi-finalist Wellman.

The Coyotes played good in spots against powerful New Home last week, while Wellman had to struggle before downing Cotton Center, 13-7.

For the second time in a row, Borden County will come up just short against a tough team.

WELLMAN 24, BORDEN COUNTY 18

NCAA chastises Aggies

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M University's football program today was slapped with a two-year probation and a ban on post-season bowl appearances this year after the NCAA found violations in the school's football operation.

In a 12-page, single-space order, the NCAA also limited Texas A&M to 20 new scholarships for next year — a decrease of five, limited to 75 the number of on-campus recruiting visits this academic year and said only eight football coaches would be allowed to recruit off campus.

As a result, on-campus recruiting visits will be trimmed by 10 and the number of coaches recruiting off campus will be cut by two.

The Aggies join a list of five other Southwest Conference schools the National Collegiate Athletic Association has investigated in recent years.

Texas A&M was accused by the NCAA of 31 rules infractions and seven procedural violations in a letter released April 4. The NCAA Committee on Infractions met with A&M officials last month in Syracuse, N.Y.

After the NCAA withdrew several allegations, A&M admitted guilt to four charges and had been awaiting word from the collegiate governing body on possible penalties.

Among the charges was an allegation that a coach lied to NCAA investigators.

No academic violations were cited in the 38-point letter that listed no names of players and coaches who were found at fault.

Other SWC schools slapped with NCAA-imposed penalties include Southern Methodist, which paid the dearest price when its 1987 season was ordered scrapped because of recruiting and payoff infractions. The school also decided to not play football in 1988.

Texas Christian was placed on three years probation in May 1986 after cash payments to players. The Horned Frogs were barred from bowls in 1986, were required to repay $323,000 in television revenue, received a major reduction in scholarships and were forced to ban six boosters from associating with the program.

The University of Texas received a two-year football probation in 1987, lost five scholarships and had its recruiting visits trimmed after violations that included ticket selling by players. The NCAA earlier this year dropped the second year of the probation. Texas Tech was put on one-year probation for the 1987 season with no bowl or television sanctions after 15 violations were substantiated. The violations included the promise of a pair of ostrich-skin boots and a free visit to Las Vegas to a recruit.

And at the University of Houston, officials have until Oct. 17 to respond to a July 12 letter in which the NCAA formally notified school officials of its investigation into allegations of recruiting violations and that coaches frequently gave football players cash. After the response from the school, the NCAA will consider what penalties, if any, to assess.

The other SWC schools — Arkansas, Baylor and Rice — have not been investigated by the NCAA for football violations.

Massacre Brigham Young embarrasses No. 19 Texas

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Sean

Covey says he was shocked by Brigham Young's play on the field that did in No. 19 Texas on Thursday night.

"I definitely think we won the game in our heads mentally," Covey said after the Cougars dumped Texas 47-6 and evened their record to 1-1.

"That's where most games are won or lost," he said. "Vince Lombardi said most games are won or lost in the hours before the game. Everybody paid the price. You could feel it from the get-go."

"You could feel when we got out there we were prepared and would do everything possible to win this game," Covey said.

Covey passed for 323 yards and two touchdowns, but he said even with the impressive numbers, he wasn't particularly pleased with his play.

"I feel I did what was necessary the first half," he said. "The second half, I didn't feel too good about things. I was overthrowing a lot of balls."

"That happens sometimes," he said.

The Longhorns of the Southwest Conference were playing their season opener without star tailback Eric Metcalf, sitting out a one-game suspension mandated by the NCAA, and were held to only two field goals.

"I told our players coming in to this game that we would have no excuses and we have none," Texas Coach David McWilliams said. "We had our chances. They gave us opportunities and we didn't take advantage of them early, and things finally got out of hand."

Texas ran five plays inside the BYU 10-yard line late in the third quarter when the Longhorns trailed 20-6. But the ball went over to BYU after Scott Peterson knocked down a fourth-down pass in the end zone.

"The big point was when we didn't score on fourth and 1 1/2," McWilliams said. "I took a chance because I thought we needed more than a field goal to get going, and when we didn't get it, that really pumped them up."

BYU, which lost a Western Athletic Conference game 24-14 to Wyoming one week earlier, got scoring passes of 80 and 52 yards from Covey.

The Cougars also got a 70-yard interception return for a score by Rodney Rice in the third quarter, a 20-yard scoring run by Fred Whittingham, a 20-yard scoring pass from backup quarterback Ty Detmer, a 17-yard scoring run by Eric Mortensen in the fourth quarter and field goals of 31 and 51 yards by Earl Kauffman.

Covey also connected with Chuck Cutler on a 52-yard scoring pass in the second quarter.

Agassi earns title of Best in the U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Andre Agassi snatched America's tennis torch from Jimmy Connors. He might have burned himself in doing so.

The setting was more electric than the tennis Thursday night as the 18-year-old Agassi became the youngest men's semifinalist in U.S. Open history with a 6-2, 7-6 (8-6), 6-1 manhandling of Connors. The sellout crowd was ready to rock, but Agassi rolled over Connors instead.

The fourth seed has won 23 straight matches and his last three tournaments, giving him six titles this year. With the victory over Connors, he has earned the title of the best player in the United States.

"I think I cleared doubts in people's minds about whether I belong here," Agassi said. "If I didn't beat him, even though I'm ranked higher, I would not be considered the top American."

Then Agassi, who faces No. 1 Ivan Lendl in the semifinals, mentioned he predicted a 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 victory to a friend.

"He made a big mistake," Connors said when told of that remark. "Not just with me but with a lot of people."

"I'll play him again. There's always a next time. That's the beauty of the game. I will follow players to the end of the earth to play them, but I don't think I will follow him."

At 36, Connors has seen rising American stars before. Some, like John McEnroe, have staying power. Others fade.

"He's riding a crest," Connors said. "He's come onto the scene in a hurry and it will be interesting to see where he goes, how long he'll be around."

He'll be around the Open until at least Saturday, against Lendl, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth consecutive U.S. crown.

The other men's semifinal pits No. 2 Mats Wilander of Sweden against Darren Cahill of Australia. While Wilander seeks his third Grand Slam crown this year and seventh overall, Cahill is the lowest-ranked man to get this far in the Open since computer rankings began in 1973.

Today's women's semifinals had No. 1 Steffi Graf, going for the first Grand Slam sweep in 18 years, against No. 3 Chris Evert, and No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini playing No. 11 Zina Garrison.

Walker one of favorites at One-Ping tournament

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — For Colleen Walker, things just keep getting better.

Walker, the fourth-leading money winner on the 1988 LPGA Tour, is looking for her second title of the year at this weekend's $250,000 Cellular One-Ping tournament.

The 54-hole tournament got underway today on the par-72, 6,285-yard course at Portland's Riverside Golf and Country Club.

LPGA

Walker, 32, is having the best year of her seven-year career, finishing 16 times in the top 10, winning the Boston Five Classic in July, and taking home $275,625 in earnings.

Her game has improved every year since she joined the tour in 1982. That year, she played in 23 tournaments and won $5,393. Her best finish was a tie for 29th place.

Last year she won her first tournament, the Mayflower Classic, and took home $190,315 in earnings.

"It's been a steady climb upward," she said as she got ready for her seventh appearance in Portland. "Every year's gotten better."

Walker said her putting has been the key to her success this year.

"I've been better than I ever have been," she said.

Walker finished seventh at the Nestle World Championship last month in Atlanta, but skipped last week's Rail Charity Classic in Springfield, Ill., to get some rest and take some time away from golf.

"I'm well-rested," she said as she headed for the Riverside driving range following Thursday's pro-am.

The field of 143 golfers includes defending champion Nancy Lopez, a 39-time LPGA winner who also won in Portland in 1985.

Also on hand are Betsy King, who moved up to ninth on the 1988 money list with her victory in last week's Rail Classic; Sherri Turner, whose $312,130 in winnings in 1988 tops the tour, leading Lopez by $26; and Juli Inkster, a two-time winner this year and 10th on the money list.

After playing under sunny skies in the pro-am, Inkster said the Riverside course will test the mettle of the tour's best putters.

"The course is in great shape," she said. "The greens are real fast and hard. You're going to have to hit the right club."

Walker agreed that putting will make the difference at Riverside, as it does at most stops on the women's tour.

"You save a lot of shots around the green," she said.

Inkster, 28, said putting was a weak spot in her game last year, when she finished 10th after winning four times in 1986.

She has come back to win twice this year — at the Crestar Classic in May and again last month at Atlantic City.

Two tied in Milwaukee Open

FRANKLIN, Wis. (AP) — The last time Dave Barr and Corey Pavin were tied at the end of a round of the Greater Milwaukee Open it meant sudden death.

Pavin beat Barr on the fourth playoff hole in 1986 to capture the title in the $700,000 tournament and they co-led it on Thursday after opening-round 66s. "That's water under the bridge," Barr said after he and Pavin battled high winds and fast greens for a one-stroke lead over Jim Gallagher and Ed Fiori at six under par over the 7,030-yard Tuckaway Country Club course.

Pavin won the 1986 tournament with a birdie on the fourth extra hole.

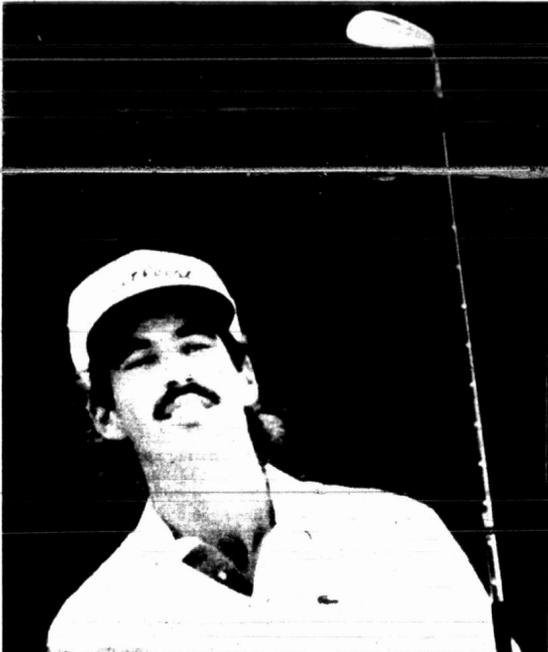

"He won it; I didn't lose it," Barr said. "You don't feel bad when you get beat by a birdie."

Besides, he said, there's little room for hard feelings on the PGA Tour.

"I don't think there's any animosity if you lose," he said. "You could lose a playoff and the next night you could be out having dinner with the guy."

But Barr and Pavin said their experience on the Tuckaway course helped them cope with Thursday's conditions as winds gusted to 20 mph.

Pavin said he was surprised to see such low scores, considering how windy it was and how quick the greens were.

"The greens are as fast as I've ever seen them here," he said.

cluding four consecutive birdies starting at the 13th hole.

During the string of birdies, Pavin used a 3-wood rather than his driver on the 405-yard, downwind No. 15, explaining, "That's how windy it was."

After a sand wedge to the green, he sank a 10-foot putt, then added another birdie on the par-3 17th.

He said his five-birdie second nine was especially satisfying because an inability to "finish off" his rounds has been one of the problems during a slump that started after he won two events last year.

"I'm real pleased with the way I played today," Pavin said. "It's coming around. It gives you a good attitude coming into a course where you have played well."

Barr, who birdied his final two holes to gain a share of the lead, said he felt confident after tying for fourth in the Canadian Open last week and tying for second in the Hartford Open two weeks earlier.

"The best part of my game today was birdieing the par-3s," he said after bettering par on three of the four short holes.

After Pavin and Barr completed their rounds, several golfers threatened to overtake them but fell short.

The field was to be cut to the top 70, plus ties, after today's round.

Ryan and Astros cut lead

By The Associated Press Nolan Ryan had the Los Angeles Dodgers right where he wanted them — not to mention his pitches.

Ryan pitched a five-hitter and didn't walk a batter for the first time this year as he led the second-place Houston Astros to a 2-1 decision over the National League West-leading Los Angeles Dodgers on Thursday night.

"I felt good, and if I feel that I can still be effective late in the game, I want the complete game," said the 41-year-old right-hander, who helped the Astros move within five games of the Dodgers with his third complete game of the year.

"My fastball was good early, and it got better toward the end of the game. The key tonight was that I got ahead of the hitters and had command of my pitches. It was a must-win game for us. That's the difference between two games in the race."

It was the first time in 31 starts this season that Ryan, the major league's all-time leader in walks with 2,441, had gone an entire game without walking a batter. Ryan, who beat the Dodgers for the first time in his last five attempts, has allowed only eight walks in his last six starts — a span covering 42 innings.

After yielding a game-tying home run to Kirk Gibson in the fourth inning, Ryan retired 17 of the last 19 batters.

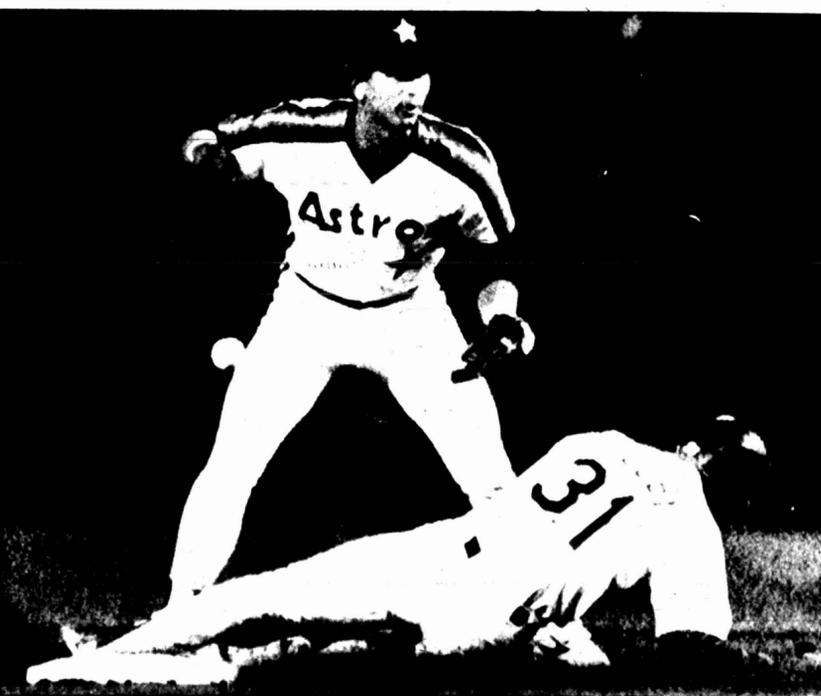

Left-hander John Tudor, 8-8, suffered his third defeat in five outings with the Dodgers. The Astros broke through for their winning run in the eighth on an RBI single by Buddy Bell.

Giants 3, Braves 2
Bob Brenly's bunt on a suicide squeeze play brought Donell Nixon home in the seventh inning as San Francisco ended a six-game losing streak.

Don Robinson, 6-4, pitched his second complete game of the season for the Giants, allowing eight hits. The loss went to Braves reliever Charlie Puleo, 3-4.

Ernest Riles got a triple, his third hit of the game, off Puleo with one out in the seventh and Nixon came in as a pinch runner. Brenly's bunt was fielded by the pitcher, who had no play at the plate and threw out Brenly at first.

home run in 13 games, ending a power drought which lasted 119 innings, in the fifth inning to tie the score 2-2.

Reds 2, Padres 1
Jose Rijo, making his first start since Aug. 14, combined with two relievers on a four-hitter as Cincinnati ended a six-game San Diego winning streak.

Rijo, 12-8, who had been on the disabled list since Aug. 18 with tendinitis in his right elbow, allowed only two hits in six innings. He struck out six and retired 15 consecutive batters in one stretch.

Mets 13, Cubs 6
Howard Johnson had five of New York's season-high 20 hits, including a three-run homer in a five-run seventh, to lead the Mets.

Darryl Strawberry hit his league-leading 33rd homer and a pair of singles to drive in three runs and Dwight Gooden, 17-6, won his fourth consecutive decision. Gooden, who allowed 10 hits in seven innings, is 15-3 lifetime against Chicago.

Greg Jeffries hit a two-run homer, his fourth since being brought up from the minors Aug. 28. He has three three-hit games and nine extra-base hits and seven RBIs.

Scott Sanderson, 1-2, relieved to start the seventh with a 6-5 lead and did not get an out, giving up three hits and three runs.

Expos 5, Pirates 4

Tim Wallach drove in three runs with three hits, including the go-ahead run on an eighth-inning double, as Montreal beat Pittsburgh.

With the score tied 4-4 in the eighth, Andres Galarraga singled with one out off reliever Jeff Robinson, 9-4, and stole second. Wallach followed with a drive over center fielder Andy Van Slyke's head.

Pittsburgh slipped nine games behind the division-leading Mets.

Cardinals 1, Phillies 0
Ozzie Smith walked with the bases full and two out in the fifth inning, leading St. Louis over Philadelphia behind a combined five-hitter by Larry McWilliams and two relievers.

GM's resignation no ploy

HOUSTON (AP) — The attorney for Houston Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog says Herzog's attempt to resign earlier this week from the National Football League team was not a ploy to circumvent a paternity suit against him.

"The truth is that Ladd offered his resignation because he was concerned about embarrassing the club," attorney Steve Underwood told the Houston Chronicle.

"I think much of what Ladd has tried to do has been done to limit embarrassment to all of the parties involved, including his daughter."

Joann DeNicola, 36, a Pan American flight attendant, filed a paternity and breach-of-promise lawsuit against Herzog in Fort Bend County last month. It remains sealed under court order.

DeNicola and Herzog have a daughter, Meghan Diane, who will be 1 year old on Sept. 13.

Underwood denied Herzog's resignation attempt was a stunt.

Coody leading senior's play

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Charles Coody, seeking his first career title on the Senior PGA Tour, fired a six-under-par 66 Thursday to take the lead after one round of the inaugural $350,000 GTE North Classic.

Coody held a one-stroke lead over Dick Rhyne, Dale Douglass and Ken Still, after the first round of the 54-hole tournament at Broadmoor Country Club.

Five players were two strokes back, including Australian Kel Nagle, J.C. Goswie, Al Chandler, Lee Elder and Orville Moody.

Agassi

In the men's doubles final, it was Rick Leach and Jim Pugh, seeded fifth, against No. 3 Sergio Casal and Emilio Sanchez of Spain.

Agassi overpowered Connors in the first and third set and outgunned him in a tense second set. With the crowd clearly against him — it will certainly be on his side against Lendl — Agassi stayed calm.

"I expected more from Jimmy with the crowd. I thought he'd try to beat me mentally," Agassi said. "His will to fight is so intense you can feel it out there. He is one of the best players ever."

"Since I turned pro, I wanted to play Jimmy before he retired. It definitely was fun."

Connors also said he had fun. In the sixth game of the final set, on the edge of defeat, one spectator shouted to Connors, "He's a punk, you're a legend."

The crowd roared and Connors, grinning widely, playfully hit a ball into the crowd toward the fan.

Connors was just as playful at a news conference, even bringing the fan along to meet with the press.

Asked how he felt about being dubbed a legend, he laughed and said, "I play the game, I enjoy playing the game and whatever people think and feel is OK."

"I'm still out there enjoying tennis. My time isn't finished yet."

Lendl was glad to have a relative breather.

"If you keep playing five-set matches, you are going to come in to the final and be tired or not as fresh as you would like to be," Lendl said. "I personally prefer easier matches."

"I think that, since the first set against (Amos) Mansdorf in the first round, this was the best that I have played. If that is the indication for the next couple of days, then the timing was good."

Rostagno, 22, made his farthest advance in a Grand Slam event. But he didn't have the game to compete with the top seed.

"I was a little slow on my volleys and his passing shots," said Rostagno, who had never played or even hit with Lendl. "It's always good to practice with people who are better than the one you're going to play," Rostagno said.

"If I had won, I wouldn't have been able to look forward to something new next year."

Worship at the Church of Your Choice

Billy Graham
 DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is there really anything wrong with swearing or cussing a bit when you get angry at something? After all, it is common today and I don't see what's wrong with using words that maybe aren't polite but express your frustration or true feeling. — J.S.

DEAR J.S.: The word "swearing" as you use it can cover several types of language, including profanity (or using God's name in a wrong way) and vulgar or obscene language. The Bible makes it clear that these are dishonoring to God and should not have a place in our lives — in spite of the fact they have become very common today. One of the Ten Commandments states, "You shall not misuse the name of the Lord your God, for the Lord will not hold anyone guiltless who misuses his name." (Exodus 20:7) The Bible also says, "Do not let any unwholesome talk come out of your mouths... Nor should there be obscenity, foolish talk or coarse joking, which are out of place, but rather thanksgiving." (Ephesians 4:29; 5:4) My concern, however, is not simply that you would clean up your language, but that you would face an even deeper issue in your life — the question of your relationship with God. The Bible warns that our words are actually a reflection of our inner nature, "For out of the overflow of his heart his mouth speaks." (Luke 6:45) What do your words indicate about your heart and about the place God has in your life? My prayer is that you would acknowledge your own need of God, and that you would open your heart to Jesus Christ and allow him to enter your life and change you from within. Once you realize God's love for you, you will never again want to insult him by using his name in a wrong way. Give your life to Jesus Christ and ask him to help you honor him with your lips. DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know God must be disappointed in me. I make all sorts of promises that I will be a better person, and then I don't keep them. That only gets me more and more discouraged, and I know I'll never be able to be any different. Sometimes I think God will just forget all about me some day. — Mrs. R.V. DEAR MRS. R.V.: Did it ever occur to you that God knows all about your failures, and he wants to help you? He does not forget you, and he knows you cannot live as you should on your own without his help. What is the key? The key first of all is to be certain of your commitment to Jesus Christ. Have you given your life to him, and have you told him you want to follow him and do his will? If you have never made your commitment to Jesus Christ, or you are unsure of your relationship with him, ask him to come into your life today by faith. When you know Christ you will have a new desire to live as you should. Jesus said, "If you love me, you will obey what I command." (John 14:15)

FAITH REMINDS US OF OUR MOST PRICELESS POSSESSION

Of all the pleasures we have known
 And all the treasures we will own,
 There's just one thing that stands alone,
 Apart from all the rest.
 We learn it's not a brand new car,
 The means with which to travel far
 Or talent to become a star,
 Which some of us possessed.
 It isn't any sort of rank,
 Or big deposit in the bank;
 But our good Father let us thank,
 With gratitude expressed
 For something which is truly grand
 That our great leaders wisely planned:
 It's all the freedom in our land,
 With which we have been blessed.

For what avail
 The plow or sail,
 Or land or life,
 If freedom fail?
 —Ralph Waldo Emerson

"Behold, I proclaim
 a liberty for you,
 saith the Lord"
 —Jeremiah 34:17

Bentsen, Quayle: Related, varied religious profiles

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK — When Sen. Dan Quayle was baptized a Presbyterian as an infant, his father, James C. Quayle, recalls that the baby tried to grab the rose used by the pastor in sprinkling him.

That scene is part of the religious chronology of the current vice presidential candidates.

Their religious attachments scarcely have been reported compared to those of the presidential contenders, Republican George Bush, an Episcopalian, and Democrat Michael Dukakis, a Greek Orthodox, both lifelong members of their faiths.

Dukakis' running mate, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, was reared a Southern Baptist but is a longtime active member of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the mainline denomination of that tradition.

Republican Quayle, a cradle Presbyterian, was put on an "inactive" list six years ago for prolonged non-participation at First Presbyterian Church in Huntington, Ind., also part of the mainline denomination.

Although it says his membership has not been transferred elsewhere, he lately has attended congregations of conservative offshoot Presbyterian bodies espousing biblical fundamentalism, without formal membership.

An independent Bible congregation in Indiana also says he still participates, and congressional biographies list his affiliation as Bible Church.

"He has maintained his relationship with us," said the Rev. William T. Pauley, pastor of Parkview Bible Church in Fort Wayne, Ind. "You could say he's still a member." Quayle participated regularly in the mid-1970s.

"He is anxious that he lives his life in accordance with the Scripture," Pauley said. "He takes his stands on the position of the

LLOYD BENTSEN

Bible." Since early this year in Washington, he has attended McLean Presbyterian Church in McLean, Va., which also insists on Bible "inerrancy" (that it's free of error). "He has started worshipping with us over the last several months," said the church's pastor, the Rev. Stephen Smallman, noting Quayle's family also participates, his children attending Sunday school.

The congregation is among conservatives that broke from mainline Presbyterianism in 1973 to form a separate denomination, the Presbyterian Church in America. It does not ordain women, as does the main body.

Asked about Quayle's commitment, Smallman said, "I really don't know him very well, other than to shake hands with him at the door, and exchange chit-chat."

Quayle previously attended Fourth Presbyterian Church in the capital's suburban Bethesda, Md., part of another conservative breakaway group that in 1980 formed a small separate denomination, the Evangelical Presbyterian Church.

Bentsen is a longtime member of Houston's First Presbyterian Church, part of the mainline denomination, and takes part in its life and worship when in town.

"He has a strong Christian faith," said the pastor, the Rev. John William Lancaster. "He was reared in a very strong Christian tradition, and is a man of genuine Christian commitment."

Before Bentsen was nominated for the vice presidency in July, he had agreed to speak in a Lenten series at the church early next year on the subject of "translating your faith into daily life."

"He is not one to use his faith for political purposes, but it's important in how he thinks and in his value system," Lancaster said.

Bentsen's wife, a daughter, Tina, and son, Lloyd III, also are active in the congregation, the son ushering and teaching a Sunday school class.

Bentsen was reared a Southern Baptist in his native McAllen, but has been a Presbyterian through most of his adult life. In Washington, he attends National Presbyterian Church or New York Avenue Presbyterian.

His brother, Donald of McAllen, who is a Baptist, said Bentsen "doesn't carry his Bible out in front of him," but is attuned to it privately. "He doesn't use religion in his politics."

Former SBC head: Only oppose abortion lawfully

ATLANTA (AP) — The Rev. Charles Stanley, former president of the Southern Baptist Convention, says he opposes the tactics of Operation Rescue, an anti-abortion group that has been staging protests in Atlanta since the Democratic National Convention.

Stanley, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Atlanta, issued a two-page treatise Sunday in which he condemned abortion as murder but also said it should be protested only through lawful means.

The leaflet titled "A Biblical Perspective on Civil Disobedience," said it represents the "carefully studied view of the pastoral staff and deacons" of the church, the state's largest Baptist church.

In the leaflet, the ministers of First Baptist reaffirmed the Southern Baptist stance against abortion, saying, "We strongly oppose abortion as an abomination before God. We also advocate all lawful means of protesting abortion."

Hundreds of Operation Rescue demonstrators have been arrested in Atlanta and around the nation.

The leaflet, which Stanley read from the pulpit, cites biblical grounds for disobeying the law and concludes that the civil disobedience advocated by Operation Rescue fails to meet this criteria:

- Protesters have been charged with criminal trespassing, obstructing rights of way or other similar ordinances — not for directly preventing abortions. "If certain anti-God protesters blocked the entrance to (the church) so we could not enter to worship, we would use the same ordinance to have them arrested!"

- The U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion "neither requires abortions nor prohibits them, but makes them permissible with certain restrictions."

- Women are "free moral agents responsible before Almighty God for their actions, including the exercise of the rights of their innocent, unborn child."

Parents: Program will resume

The youth ministry of First Baptist Church will resume its monthly "For Parents Only" program Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the church chapel, 705 W. March St.

This ministry, church officials said, is designed for parents of teenagers and others interested in teenagers. Chris Newman, a counselor at Midland's Clearview Treatment Center, will be the guest speaker. She will be sharing information about dealing with developmental needs of teenagers and how to deal with substance abuse.

The public is invited to attend.

Other church women are welcome to join the group, she said, and participate in the activities of Church Women United, which is a national organization. A nursery will be available.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II's latest trip to southern Africa will take him to an impoverished region of refugees and rebels, but he will pointedly avoid segregated South Africa, the region's economic powerhouse.

The pope leaves Saturday on his fourth trip to Africa and his 39th abroad. He will go to Zimbabwe, Botswana, Lesotho, Swaziland and Mozambique, countries that vehemently oppose South Africa but depend on it for economic survival.

South Africa dominates communications, trade, transportation and politics in southern Africa, and its influence will be felt strongly during the pope's 10-day trip.

South African firms are supplying such items as transportation, food, water and health services, broadcasting and emergency equipment and even papal souvenirs to be used on many of the pope's stops.

John Paul, 68, has been critical of South African apartheid throughout his nearly 10-year-long pontificate.

South Africa's 26 million blacks have no vote in national affairs. The 5 million whites control the economy and maintain separate districts, schools and health services.

Vatican spokesman Joaquim Navarro said the pope has not refused to visit South Africa and he may visit in the future. "But neither all the local bishops nor the pope himself consider this an opportune moment," he said.

Navarro said any South Africa stopover during this visit would "lose the pastoral tone of the trip."

His trip will allow the Vatican to explore new opportunities for the Roman Catholic Church elsewhere in the region. Orthodox Marxism is weakening, and communist countries like Mozambique have decided to return confiscated church properties and to tolerate religious education. Catholicism has experienced its most rapid recent growth in Africa.

John Paul plans to jump immediately into the troubled area with a keynote address Saturday evening to the bishops in Zimbabwe's capital, Harare.

Officials say about 6-million refugees have been displaced in the area by fierce fighting in the former Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique and regional conflicts in other southern African nations.

The United States has been sponsoring peace talks on southern Africa that would bring independence to Namibia, a pullout of South African troops from that country and a gradual withdrawal of about 50,000 Cuban troops from Angola.

On the Indian Ocean coast, a 13-year-old civil war in Mozambique has turned into a disaster, devastating the countryside, halting agriculture and starving millions of people. It has caused a human tidal wave of almost 1 million refugees fleeing to camps in Zimbabwe, Tanzania, Malawi and South Africa.

The conflict pits the Mozambican National Resistance Movement — a group that says it is anti-communist — against Mozambique's Marxist government. The State Department estimates 100,000 civilians have been killed in the past two years.
