Killer Gilbert weakens, spawns tornadoes

Spell relief S-N-O-W

BROWNSVILLE — Hurricane Gilbert weakened to a tropical depression but spawned dozens of tornadoes in central Texas, killing at least three people in the state by Saturday and causing extensive tornado damage in the San Antonio area.

As coastal residents began returning to their homes after receiving only a glancing blow from the storm late Friday, Texans farther inland braced for more twisters and the possibility of flooding with predictions of as much as 20 inches of tropical rains.

Tornado and flash flood watches and warnings were posted wide areas of the state from south Texas to the center of the state, from the Big Bend area through the Trans-Pecos and into the Panhandle.

Although winds at midday were gusting to nearly 40 mph at Brownsville, coastal residents were allowed to return to their boarded-up homes to begin any clean up. Damage from the hurricane itself, however, appeared to be minor.

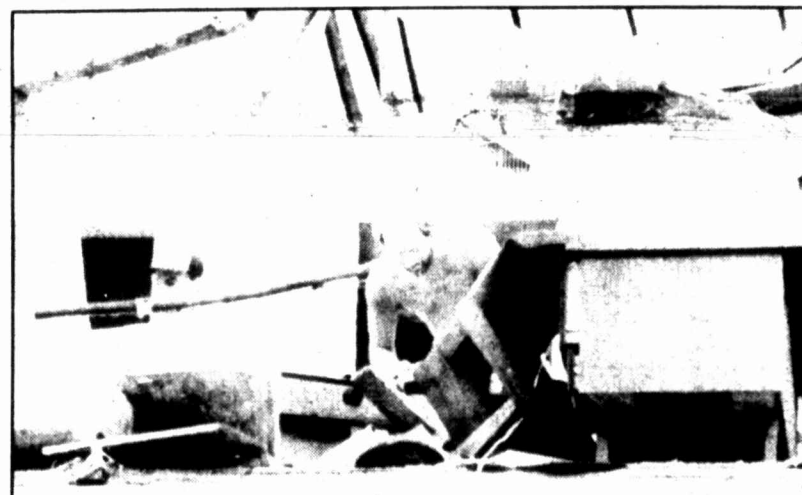

Still, Gov. Bill Clements asked President Reagan to declare Cameron County, which includes Brownsville, a federal disaster area.

"I have determined that this incident is of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capabilities of the state and the affected local governments and that supplementary federal assistance is necessary," Clements said.

The request, if granted, would make special types of federal and

SAN ANTONIO — Mayor Henry Cisneros signed a disaster declaration Saturday after tornadoes spawned by Hurricane Gilbert leveled several apartment buildings and military bases, leaving one dead.

Officials moved quickly to repair three cooling towers — destroyed by a morning tornado — at two hospitals and the University of Texas-San Antonio medical center.

UT Health Science Center President Dr. John P. Howe said patients at Bexar County Medical Center Hospital and the adjacent Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans Hospital "are in danger" and would have to be moved elsewhere unless the damaged facilities were replaced immediately.

Cisneros declared an emergency, clearing the way for a request to the Air Force Reserve, through the Pentagon, to dispatch a C-5 aircraft to Mission, Kan., to pick up 20 tons of replacement equipment needed to fix the towers, officials said.

Cisneros said the repairs are critical "in order that the very dangerous step of evacuating critically ill patients and persons in intensive care would not have to occur." Officials said the two hospitals had more than 700 patients.

State officials reported more than two dozen tornadoes in Central and South Texas.

In Del Rio, a tornado Saturday evening ripped the roofs off about a handful of residences and demolished a mobile home. There were no immediate reports of injuries, officials said.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. — A forecast for up to 6 inches of snow gave firefighters prospects Saturday of a chance to gain control of lines against fires that have burned over nearly three months.

"This forecast is music to our ears," said Ken Dittmer, one of Yellowstone's area commanders.

The storm, forecast to swing into Yellowstone sometime Saturday night, was expected to leave much of its moisture on the northern sections of the country's first national park, Dittmer said.

Fires burning in northern Yellowstone, including the 335,300-acre North Fork blaze, have been the most active in recent days and got the least moisture from a front that passed through the park a week ago, according to the commander. That previous rain represented about the first significant moisture in the park since spring.

"It couldn't come to a better place," he said.

The North Fork fire is the one that burned buildings in the tourist complex at Old Faithful geyser, and threatened West Yellowstone, Mont., and park headquarters at Mammoth Hot Springs.

It and other fires have blackened almost half of the 2.2-million-acre park.

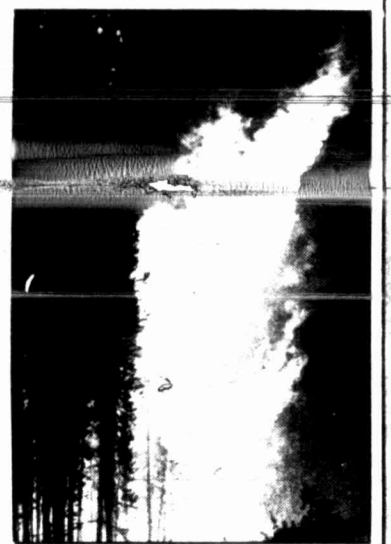

Despite progress toward containment of the flames with fire lines, park officials declined even to venture when the blazes could be called controlled. Officials would say only that they predict the North Fork, half contained Saturday, may be fully contained sometime the middle of next month.

The National Weather Service said showers would change to snow during the night with accumulations of 4 to 6 inches possible by Sunday morning. Daytime temperatures were expected to remain in the 40s and 50s through Wednesday, falling below freezing at night.

"It's time to break out the sweaters," commented park spokeswoman Judy Jennings.

She said the fires did not grow Friday despite gusty winds that whipped up flames after several days of calm.

Other major fires in the park included the 411,500-acre Clover-Mist fire in northeastern POLEBRIDGE, Mont. — Flames from the Red Branch fire near Glacier National Park surge through a stand of trees and across the North Fork Road north of Polebridge.

GALLANTIN NATIONAL FOREST — A firefighter battles a blaze in Gallant National Forest; the fire continues to spread.

Yellowstone, 75 percent contained Saturday, and the 225,500-acre Huck-Mink fire in southern Yellowstone and the Bridge-Teton National Forest, declared fully contained.

Elsewhere, up to a foot of snow was forecast in the higher mountains of Montana, where a 34,500-acre fire has resisted firefighters in Glacier National Park. On Friday, wind gusting to 40 mph blew a wall of flames past containment lines, but fire crews got rest time after a steady rain started Saturday morning.

Storm provides family reunion opportunity

When Corpus Christi residents John and Dorothy Truax heard Hurricane Gilbert could veer north and lash the coastline south of his home, they decided not to take any chances.

On Thursday, the Truaxes gathered their daughter, Dawn and Kathy Stever, packed their truck and headed for Big Spring where Dorothy's brother, Jonathon, lives.

Dorothy's mother, Margaret White, who lives near the Truaxes, packed her van and left for Big Spring as well.

As it turned out, the brunt of Gilbert's force hit southwest Brownsville.

But the Truaxes have no regrets about playing it safe and heading north.

News reports on Saturday said Corpus Christi had not sustained any major damage from the high winds that lashed the city.

But, as of Saturday afternoon, John Truax was unsure of how his mobile home north of the city had weathered the recent storm. "We might get back and find out we have nothing at all," he said.

When the Truaxes left Corpus, the city's freeways were jammed with motorists heading north, John said.

Thousands of people crowded into hurricane shelters operated by the city, while others boarded up their houses determined to ride the storm out.

Apparently, the Truaxes weren't the only Corpus Christi area residents who chose to travel as far north and west as Big Spring.

"When we stopped in San Angelo to get gas, the attendant said people from Corpus had been going through all day," said John.

White — who along with the Truaxes moved from New York state to Corpus Christi three years ago — didn't even consider staying put and braving hurricane Gilbert.

"We had one storm recently, and that was bad enough, so I wanted to get out," she said.

The bad weather turned out to be a blessing in disguise because it allowed her family to get together, she said.

"This gave me a chance to come and see my son and grandchildren, and I was delighted my daughter and her family came, too."

It's that time County fair participant enjoys the spirit

By STEVE GEISSEN

Since Big Spring's business district has spread out in recent years, small town camaraderie isn't what it used to be, says Ellen Eudy.

So when the Howard County Fair — which annually brings local residents together to renew acquaintances — begins on Monday, Eudy will be one of the first through gates.

Eudy, who has lived in Big Spring for 58 years, has submitted entries in the arts and crafts contests at the fair for 20 years — and she's won 12 awards for her efforts.

But it's the old-time community spirit the fair revives that keeps Eudy coming back.

Related section in today's paper

"I think it's fun entering the contests, and I'm proud of winning," she said. "But the best thing about the fair is that there's a lot of fellowship when we all get together. I'll get to see old friends who maybe I haven't seen in a while."

Growing up in Sweetwater, where her parents owned a farm, Eudy attended local fairs with her family. Her mother would enter baked goods in the cooking contests, and her father would enter animals for in the livestock competitions.

When her family moved to Big Spring when she was 12, Eudy began attending the Howard County Fair.

This year, she will submit at least seven entries for judging in the creative arts contests — two pillows embellished with cross-stitching, two framed needlepoint works, one of which features a rooster, a hen and the words, "The rooster may crow but the hen delivers the goods;" a comforter, a T-shirt; and a decorative bird cage.

Eudy said she works on crafts throughout the year, buying the raw materials for her creations when she travels around the state.

Win or lose, Eudy said she just enjoys making crafts and entering them each year in the fair contests.

"I enjoy seeing other people's work so much that I have the idea they enjoy seeing mine," she said.

"It's something I look forward to each year."

Eudy says she takes her entries to the fair on the morning before the fair opens, and volunteers to help set up the display tables.

Once the fair begins, she plans to attend each day until it closes.

"I'll go every day because I lost my husband a year ago, so I'll go out for recreation and visiting," she said.

The Howard County Fairs have improved with the passing years, she said.

"One thing that's helped the fair so much is the entertainment they have now," she said. "They didn't used to have entertainment."

"The fairs just keep getting bigger and better each year."

Texas bar president seeks to improve public's trust

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

The president of the Texas Bar Association is aware that the public often perceives lawyers in a negative light and, to a degree, believes the perception is justified.

That's why it is the intention of James B. Sales to utilize the one year he serves as bar president to restore the public's trust in attorneys.

Sales and Larry Fitzgerald, director of communications for the state bar, were interviewed Friday.

Sales, 54, is a member of the prestigious Houston law firm of Fullbright and Jaworski. Yes — Jaworski as in Leon Jaworski, special prosecutor during the Watergate hearings.

The 108th president of an association that includes 51,000 attorneys throughout Texas this year believes the purpose of the bar is to "serve the administration of justice and serve the public trust."

"I sit over a board of 43 who set the stringent rules of conduct for our members. My job is to implement their policies," Sales said.

One of his main objectives is to improve the grievance process against attorneys, citing what he considers three major flaws:

- Fails to act in a "timely" manner.
- Fails to evenly enforce its code of ethics, and
- Is not perceived as a "true system" because of confidentiality rules.

Sales has formed six regional grievance boards, each comprised of six lawyers and three members of the general public. They are located in: Longview, Tyler, Galveston, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth and Midland.

"People who have a complaint against a lawyer can file in their district's office. We will investigate and if the facts warrant we will punish the offender and if the allegations are not justified we will dismiss the case," Sales explained.

His goal is to aggressively — and expeditiously — prosecute complaints; revise the code of professional ethics that he called "outdated and ambiguous"; and involve the bar association in political problems and violations.

Within hours of the crash of Delta Flight 1141 that killed 13 people Aug. 31 at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport, Sales announced an aggressive bar effort to prevent improper solicitation of business from victims or their families.

It is action he said he took on behalf of the bar association — not Jim Sales — and was precipitated by the collapse of a supermarket in Brownsville earlier in the year and the 1985 crash of Delta Flight 191 at DFW airport that killed over 100 people.

"At Brownsville, there were a number of news reports about lawyers masquerading as Red Cross volunteers helping to dig victims out of the rubble and then getting people who were semiconscious or in great pain to sign contracts. It was a bad situation," he said.

Sales said he went to Dallas to discourage similar incidents and to investigate any complaints of unethical behavior by attorneys.

"I was representing the state bar by investigating lawyers who were trying to take unfair advantage. We weren't advising people not to get a lawyer, but to wait and get a good lawyer," he said.

Following his trip to Dallas, Sales said he is not aware of one negative story about lawyers besieging the crash site to solicit business.

The Austin American Statesman reported Wednesday that some lawyers had raised questions about Sales' role in the warning. The bar president noted that he has received praise from "virtually every lawyer I've talked with" for issuing the warning.

Sales said he believes the one man responsible for criticism of his actions is a former courtroom adversary who has a "personal vendetta" against him.

He labeled the criticism as "absurd" and as an "attack on me personally."

"Ninety-seven percent of the lawyers in this country are reputible, provide a valuable service and have high professional ethics. It's the two or three percent who don't abide by the rules that create a negative image," Sales said.

A project he is enthused about is the "Government in the Sunshine" seminars dealing with the Texas Open Meetings Act and Texas Open Records Act.

Seminars are being conducted in six Texas cities throughout the next several weeks for media representatives and elected officials to familiarize them with the laws.

"There is always a certain amount of natural animosity between the press and public officials, but the knowledge that can be gained at these presentations can help alleviate a lot of that. We're very pleasantly surprised at the response we have been getting," Sales said.

Another project the bar is sponsoring is a tour that allows teachers to observe the legal process in action.

They are taken to police stations to witness arrests; on tours of Huntsville State Prison; and the courtrooms of Texas, Sales said.

"They have told me they have gone through a total transformation by what they've seen and can verbalize this to students in the classroom," he said.

Sales believes the state legislature grossly neglects the judicial branch of government, noting that one-half of one percent of the state's annual budget is spent on judges' salaries and related necessities.

He calls the salaries that county judges earn "atrocious" and said they make less "than people just out of law school."

Another concern of the bar association is the "woeful" lack of lawyers available to represent indigent clients confined to prisons across the state. Sales believes attorneys should donate a reasonable amount of time to defend people who don't have the money to defend themselves.

"There are over 280 inmates on death row in Huntsville — many of whom don't have access to legal representation. These people don't need to be represented by trial lawyers. Civil lawyers can prepare appeals," Sales said.

Editor's note: Big Spring was represented at the "Government in the Sunshine" seminar in Midland Saturday. Big Spring Herald reporters Michael Duffy, Sarah Luman and Steve Geissen were in attendance.

Finances may force OAS cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States, facing the worst financial crisis of its history, may be forced to lay off employees over the next few months, according to OAS sources.

The crisis is based largely on the Reagan administration's decision to reduce its 1988 contribution to the OAS by $10 million and by the same amount next year. Compounding the problem is the failure of several other major contributors, including Chile and Venezuela, to keep their payments current, the impending layoffs have generated gloom and uncertainty among OAS employees, most of whom are Latin Americans faced with the prospect of the immediate loss of their U.S. visas if their jobs are eliminated.

Railroad plaza delayed; bids excessive

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The committee has voted to reject all bids submitted for construction of the Railroad Plaza, according to coordinator Teri Quinones, based on excessive costs.

"We have asked the architect to see if he can in a practical manner alter or modify the design... to reduce the expense," committee chairman Charles Beil said Friday.

"We decided we had to seek bids from a wider range to determine what we can build for the money we have. We are not soliciting additional funds for (the railroad plaza) at this time, but we will certainly accept and appreciate anything that comes our way," he said.

The panel's Sept. 15 meeting resulted in a decision to reissue the original specifications for the bids with additional alternate specifications and to reopen bids for both local and out-of-town contractors who were eligible," Crooker said, "but for some

The committee made a final decision to reopen the bidding to cut the construction costs to as near the amount of funds budgeted and raised — $110,000 — as possible, according to Quinones, reporting four votes in favor, two against and one abstaining.

The committee had originally rejected both local bids received in July as being too expensive; but the committee did negotiate with one contractor, Lee George Construction, in an effort to cut the cost of the project, according to another committee member, Howard County Commissioner Bill Crooker.

He said only two of the county's construction firms — George's and D.D. Johnston's — responded, and that the bids from those firms were "a little over $190,000."

"There were two or three other intention of the committee was to go with the contractors locally, the city and in the county, but sometimes in view of the circumstances you just have to go outside the county."

"The total package exceeds our budget," Beil said. "I don't know that any one phase (of construction) was necessarily shocking or out of line."

Beil said efforts to trim costs and alter construction methods during discussion with George had resulted in a decision to open bids to out-of-town contractors. Bids originally were offered only to local builders, he said, but only two responses were received.

"We felt it would be wise to seek bids from a wider range of bidders," he said. "We had an initial plan we were pleased with and accepted, but when the desire exceeds the available resources, oftentimes you have to reduce or

He said the committee did not want to compromise in the interest of saving money to a point that would render the resulting park unattractive or leave it underutilized.

Negotiations stalled after cuts in the project's specifications that could have compromised the project's design resulted in a bid price of $160,000.

Funds for the Railroad Plaza were raised through private donations based on a $110,000 budget before the construction bidding process began, according to Quinones.

Chamber representative Shirley Shroyer said Friday the chamber is disappointed that all the bids were over budget and the reopening would delay construction of the park.

NRA shows muscle with gun-control law voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ken Gray says that in his southern Illinois district, support for the National Rifle Association is almost as strong as for the Pledge of Allegiance.

So when the NRA told Gray's constituents to make sure he voted against a waiting period for handgun purchases, they responded.

A week ago, they surrounded his car in the district and virtually kept him prisoner inside until he promised to help strip the waiting period from an anti-drug bill.

Last Thursday, the Illinois Democrat was part of the 228-182 majority that voted to eliminate from an anti-drug bill a seven-day waiting period for handgun purchases and an optional background check of the buyer. The House substituted a requirement that the Justice Department develop a system for gun dealers to check whether buyers are convicted felons.

Gray's case, more than almost any other, shows just how powerful the tug of the NRA can be.

The waiting period is symbolically named after Jim Brady, the presidential press secretary who was shot along with President Reagan in the March 30, 1981, attempt on Reagan's life. Sarah Brady is the vice chair of Handgun Control Inc., which joined the nation's major law enforcement organizations to lobby hard for the waiting period.

The tug of the NRA wasn't as direct on all House members, but it was there nonetheless.

Rep. Helen Delich Bentley, R-Md., is a strong-willed lawmaker who would never be called a wimp by her colleagues. A co-sponsor of the drug bill that contained the Brady language, she said she told NRA backers "I supported Brady and leave me alone."

Ms. Bentley said in an interview she was not pressured by the NRA. But when the voting began, she watched the NRA supporters pile up an increasing margin for their substitute language.

Campaign debates are high-risk political arena

New poll shows Bush in the lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican George Bush was picked to win the presidency by voters who were asked to set aside their political preferences and predict the Election Day victor, according to a poll released Saturday by U.S. News & World Report.

Fifty-three percent of the 669 respondents to the telephone poll said they expected Bush to win this fall, while 26 percent picked Democrat Michael Dukakis to be the victor. Twenty-two percent said they didn't know.

The poll, conducted Wednesday and Thursday, had a 3.8 percentage point margin of error. It was conducted by U.S. News by KRC Research/Hotline with Everett Ladd of the Roper Center for Public Opinion Research.

While voters picked Bush to win in November, by a slight margin they thought Dukakis would fare best when the two candidates square off in a debate on Sept. 25. Thirty-one percent said they thought Dukakis would win over the most people to his side on the basis of his debate performance, while 26 percent thought Bush would outperform Dukakis.

Fifteen percent thought the two would tie, and 28 percent didn't know or had no opinion.

A full 50 percent of the survey's respondents, when asked to summarize the campaign to date, said the candidates' positions haven't been spelled out.

have not produced his finest moments in politics. He sat silent and frustrated in Nashua, N.H., in 1980 while Ronald Reagan, then a rival for the Republican nomination, took command of the microphone — and their presidential primary debate.

Primary campaign debates multiplied in the race for the 1988 nominations. Everybody wanted one, which produced a roster of more than 40 debates and candidate forums.

Bush took part in seven debates with his rivals for the Republican nomination.

Dukakis has had more warmups, including 21 campaign debates on his way to the Democratic nomination. Between his two tours as governor, after Massachusetts voters denied him renomination a decade ago, Dukakis spent part of his time moderating a debate program on public television.

"I have respect for him as a debater," Bush said.

That fits one of the favored tactics of 1988, lowering expectations.

Avery plans open house

Johnny Lou Avery, Democratic candidate for the 69th District representative's legislative seat, has scheduled an open house for Sunday at 2 p.m.

She will host the reception in her offices in Suite 210 of the Permian Building and discuss her position on issues, said Frank Hardesty, working with the campaign.

She faces Republican Troy Fraser in the Nov. 8 election.

For 90 minutes, with no notes, no managers and no neutral corners, George Bush and Michael Dukakis meet one week from tonight in a presidential debate. It is a high-risk political arena and in a close, volatile election campaign, the debate and a mid-October rematch could be pivotal.

This Great Debate, like those that have gone before, is likely to defy the long-rehearsed efforts of the candidates to take control of its course and outcome. Over the 28 years since the first nationally televised debates, the most telling issues generated have not been on topics the candidates chose but have involved image, style — or error.

The unpredictable, unmanageable nature of the debates seemed to concern Vice President Bush and his Republican camp more than it troubled Dukakis. The Democratic nominee wanted more debates, four instead of two, and a less controlled format, without a panel of questioners.

In the debate over ground rules, Bush chairman James A. Baker III

Sheriff's log

The following incidents were reported by the Howard County Sheriff's Department as of 7 p.m. Saturday.

Anti-abortion protests held

By The Associated Press

About 350 anti-abortion activists were arrested during demonstrations Saturday outside clinics where abortions are performed in New Jersey and California, police said.

The arrests were the latest resulting from Operation Rescue, a New York-based organization that has spawned anti-abortion protests around the nation in recent months.

Police in Shrewsbury, N.J., arrested about 250 chanting and singing protesters for blocking entrances to a Planned Parenthood clinic.

The Planned Parenthood in Shrewsbury is the only one of eight in New Jersey that performs abortions as well as provide family planning counseling, said Phyllis Kinsler, executive director of Planned Parenthood of Monmouth County.

She said the 15 or so women who had appointments for abortions for Saturday were warned of the demonstration, but none rescheduled their appointments.

The demonstrators were taken to the Shrewsbury Fire Department, where they were arraigned on charges of trespassing and violating a 1984 court injunction that prohibits protests at the clinic.

In San Francisco, about 100 people were arrested Saturday when they surrounded the Pregnancy Consultation Center, police said.

Police estimated 250 anti-abortion protesters and 50 counter-protesters demonstrated at the center, which performs abortions twice a week.

"We're just trying to prevent abortions," said Liz Brouth.

Pedestrian killed

A Colorado City man was killed early this morning in a hit-and-run accident that occurred on U.S. Highway 87, 2.3 miles north of Big Spring.

Eusebio Gonzales, 28, was walking northbound on the paved shoulder of Highway 87 sometime after midnight when he was struck from behind by vehicle that left the scene, according to a Department of Public Safety report.

There were no witnesses to the accident, and an investigation is underway in the case.

Gonzales' body was discovered at approximately 8 a.m. by a passing motorist.

Gonzales was pronounced dead at the scene by Howard County Justice of the Peace Willie Grant.

President salutes U.S. Olympic athletes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan saluted U.S. Olympic athletes Saturday and urged Americans to "remember, win, lose or draw, how much we have to be proud and thankful for."

The president devoted most of his weekly radio address, delivered from the presidential retreat at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, to the Games that began Friday in Seoul, South Korea.

The patriotic tone of the address recalled Reagan's acceptance speech at the 1984 Republican National Convention, in which he spoke of that summer's Olympics.

In that speech in Dallas, Reagan likened the Olympic runners' torch to "another torch, the one that greeted so many of our parents and grandparents... Miss Liberty's torch."

"Our athletes are a remarkable group, not only for their achievements, but also for how they represent so much of what is good and beautiful and splendid about this sweet and promised land," the president said.

Olympics The games begin

The lighting of the torch above the 100,000-seat Olympic Stadium in Seoul, South Korea, Friday signaled much more than the start of another Olympiad.

It heralds the best-attended games in history — 13,600 athletes from 161 nations. The 24th Summer Olympics will also be among the least politicized, with only six nations (Albania, Cuba, Ethiopia, Nicaragua, North Korea, and the Seychelles) being absent in boycott. Moreover, athletes from the United States and the Soviet Union will pit their skills against each other for the first time in 12 years.

One of the most remarkable aspects of this Olympiad is its very location.

Who would have dreamed only a few years ago that South Korea would be capable of hosting the Olympic Games? For most of its history, Korea has been a backwater Asian nation. Soon after gaining its independence from Japan, the small but developing Korean economy was devastated by the 1950-1953 war following the invasion by communist North Korea.

As recently as 1961, the country was beset by extreme poverty, as well as political and social unrest. Korea's phenomenal transformation, since its delivery from near-conquest by U.S. and U.N. forces has been one of history's most remarkable industrial achievements.

South Korea's gross national product now exceeds $80 billion and is increasing by more than 10 percent each year. Per-capita income 25 years ago was only $82; today it is more than $2,000. By the turn of the century, South Korea is projected to be the 15th largest economic power in the world and among the top 10 trading nations.

This unprecedented economic growth would have been impossible without a political evolution that has gradually eased South Korea toward democracy. After three decades of diminishing authoritarian rule, the ruling party finally agreed last year to a direct presidential election. Roh Tae Woo's impressive victory augurs well for the country's democratic evolution.

The same tenacity that produced the South Korean miracle was instrumental in the nation being selected to host the Olympics.

In 1986, for example, Seoul hosted the Asian Games as a prelude to the Olympics. The South Koreans were required to complete construction of virtually all the Olympic sites, almost two years before the Olympiad. Those 35 sites along with the village that will house the athletes during their 17-day stay have been called the best, and most secure, ever.

More than 120,000 members of the specially trained South Korean Olympic security force will protect the participants at the village, the 35 competition sites, 32 warm-up sites, 29 major hotels, and 23 facilities where cultural events will be held. No wonder the International Olympic Committee has called this the "best prepared Olympic Games in history."

The 1988 summer games will feature some of the world's finest athletes and showcase South Korea's emergence as one of the most impressive new players on the international stage.

Let the games continue.

Biting the business bullet

To the readers: Unpopular subject of the day: Increase in the price charged for the Big Spring Herald.

Personal opinion: I did not want the price increased; professional judgment: There are times when you simply have to bite the bullet and face the music.

A few letter writers have taken the opportunity to play the music that hurts our ears while venting their spleens about the increase. In all honesty, I had hopes of seeing a letter or two that reflect that, all in all, a newspaper that costs 24 cents a day when purchased by the month is a pretty fair bargain — especially when it has the heart and soul of the editorial staff that pours its energy into it every day that we work here.

Amazing, isn't it, that people become so irate with an increase in price when they are sure they know of this paper or that paper that does this better or that better than the one you're reading today?

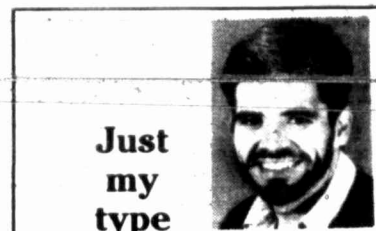

In fact, we're told, there are papers circulating today that carry more news about Big Spring and its residents — and at a lower price. We review those papers; we're aware of our competition, and from an entirely personal point of view I'd say that if you can find a newspaper that carries as much news about Howard County and cares more about this community and its residents, truly cares, than you better grab it fast and hang on — at any price.

It's not often that a letter writer will get a specific response in this space, but I must tell you that the lady who wrote a week ago complaining that the reason for an increase is because of all the people who stand around and "chit-chat" has not spent time in my department, nor in the departments of my colleagues at this newspaper.

Truth be known, the reporters on my staff apparently aren't aware of the law that calls for a 15-minute break within a four-hour period and a regular, one-hour noontime lunch break.

No, it's not idle chit-chat, and it's nothing so simple as "fire an employee or two."

Truth time once more: There is not a single department of this newspaper that has as many employees as it did one year ago. Everyone has less manpower. Perhaps I can go one step further: There is not a single management position being paid as much as those positions paid a year ago. Belt-tightening has not been an idle phrase around here.

Just my type

Several years ago I learned an important lesson from a long-time newspaper publisher for whom I have great respect. The lesson is a fact of life every healthy business recognizes.

I was publishing two weekly newspapers at the time and every supplier we dealt with was hitting us with price increases: Photography supplies, newsprint, the cost of fuel, electricity and water; there was no choice, we had decided, but to increase the price of our product. But I was dragging my feet; I did not want to face the music.

He had only one piece of advice about all of this, and it was offered quietly and sincerely: "Your first obligation to your readers is to stay in business." Fewer than a dozen words, but oh, so true.

Our first obligation is to stay in business, because a business that fails to maintain itself is a business no longer.

I will grant you the argument that the Midland paper, the San Angelo newspaper and the Dallas papers all carry more stories, more pictures and — without doubt — more advertising. We have volumes of state, national and international news available at our fingertips to include. But that's not possible.

Why not? Perhaps it's a bit of newspaper business we assume more people understand than is actually the case: Advertising is the lifeblood of our existence.

Without more advertising, there can be no more news printed; in fact, the amount of news is directly proportional to the amount of advertising. It's always been that way and it always will be.

So what's the big deal lately? It doesn't take a master's degree in economics to figure this one. Kmart went out of business — no advertising there; Furr's buys out Safeway — scratch those advertisements; Wonder World closes its doors — forget about seeing those advertisements.

Those formerly major advertisers are no more.

We on the news side of this operation like to keep a healthy distance from the business side; never the twain shall meet we idealistically believe. Yet we know how important advertising is and you should too.

No one cares for price increases — and you can bet no one else announces a price increase on the front of their product as we have. But can you imagine this? You don't like the price of a can of pork and beans at your local grocery store, so you go home, sit down and write a letter to the store manager to vent your spleen. Do you suppose he's going to tape that letter to the front door so everyone can be sure to read it? Don't bet your beans.

The fact is that a community newspaper is a personal, integral part of any community. Its success is tied directly to the success of its community — there's no way around it. And, its integrity is based on its honest appraisal and reporting of the life and times of the community — good and bad.

So what do you get for your 24 cents a day if you subscribe to the Herald? The week of August 22 was used for a random sample of this product. Monday through Sunday, six days' worth of newspapers include a total of 460 stories; 288 advertisements; a television guide; 18 pages of classified advertisements; 84 comic strips and 10 advertising supplements. In addition, there were coupons worth more than $200.

All of that for $1.44, about the price of a pack of cigarettes. Is it worth it? Only you can decide.

Cisneros moves arrange a business-political future

By JESSE TREVINO

San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros' decision to forego reelection comes at an important time in the development of national political leadership.

The decision makes him a more powerful political force than he is now. Unlike the death of Willie Velasquez, Cisneros' removal from public leadership is not permanent.

Here's why: Coming as it did during National Hispanic Heritage Week, the announcement drives home the point that the development of leaders within the Hispanic community is following patterns different than those of other groups.

There is no question, for example, that the Rev. Jesse Jackson is the undisputed leader of Black America. Blacks have remained a fairly cohesive group and Jackson has forged a national political organization. He may not be the Rev. Martin Luther King, but he has a political following that is more awesome than King's ever was.

But he has also painted himself into a corner, even though he and his supporters would claim that many non-Blacks supported his candidacy.

Only some of that is true. The greater truth is what Cisneros may be seeking to avoid: Being viewed only as an Hispanic or regional personality.

Thus, Cisneros can have it both ways. He will remain the single most recognized Hispanic in the land and do so without having to assume the mantle that would begin the process of hemming him into a leadership role that leaves many Americans uneasy.

Cisneros' new-found political home is unlike any ever developed by any politician. Free of personal taint and enjoying a spectacular political career, he has secured a rather powerful position for himself.

About to launch a business career that is bound to make him a wealthy man, he will be free of having to face the public yet free to demand its public's attention at any moment. It is a brilliant move that makes him a force to be reckoned with in the near future.

In a state that takes symbols very seriously, Cisneros is the very symbol of Texas future: More urbane than most of its present leaders, he represents the new Texas in which every ethnic group makes a significant and responsible contribution.

Oddly, while everyone is again wondering what his next move will be only a week after his announcement, he has already made it. He has made himself a new political force in Texas with his new-found freedom.

What Cisneros will now move to do more aggressively is replicate his San Antonio success throughout Texas. The basis of his mayoral success was his use of the mayor's office to reconcile two historically antagonistic institutions: the world of business and the world of fear.

By moving Hispanics closer to the business-corporate world that controls the political world, Cisneros melted away what, for many people, was a century-long fear of Hispanic political emergence.

Now, he may be able to achieve greater accommodations and understandings as he reaches out to other institutions of the state in the role of businessman. The number of corporate boards he will be invited to join allows him almost unlimited access to decision-makers who will listen to Cisneros make a case for Texas and Hispanics, the like of which few people have ever been able to do.

Cisneros, then, is well on his way. I think he can be believed when he says he has no exact week-by-week battle plan, as other politicians do, to achieve great national prominence, even the White House.

But his self-removal from San Antonio's mayoralty will inevitably bring him back to the official public scene in a big way.

Jesse Trevino is a member of the editorial board of the Austin American-Statesman.

Varied Bible opinion offered

To the editor:

In response to the article you ran Sept. 11, 1988 titled "Bible Says No Rapture", I must say that Mr. Patton needs to read further into his Bible. When he said the dead in Christ will rise up (which can be found in Thess 4:16-17) he failed to quote verse 17 which states "Then we which are alive and remain, shall be caught up (or raptured as we call it) together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air." I'm sorry Mr. Patton, but how much more plain can it be said? Also you said that the Bible does not teach that Christ will reign for a thousand years. Sir, I quote you the last sentence in Rev. 20:4 "... And they lived and reigned with Christ for a thousand years." It is sad to think how many people you have disillusioned with what you said in the Big Spring Herald. Please think about it and read again.

Public help for the private?

To the editor:

I am so thankful that, the "highly emotional issue" of abortion having surfaced once again, we have a "reasoned, rational" editorial writer on the staff of the Herald to put matters into proper perspective.

After reminding his readers that the U.S. Supreme Court in 1973 "recognized abortion as a fundamental constitutional right," our cool-headed writer notes his consternation that a hospital in San Antonio "has had its funding threatened because of the abortion issue." Now it appears that a previously obscure principle may have been discovered here — that it is incumbent upon government to fund activities which are clearly legal! I must say that the ramifications of this principle excite me.

Three years ago, after officials at Howard College decided I was no longer fit to teach there, I decided to make my living by establishing a small printing firm in Big Spring. I must confess that at times additional funds would have been (still would be) most helpful to me in the exercise of my clearly legal activities in business. Although there may be some in the community who would prefer (perhaps even feeling strongly about it) that I not be carrying out the legal procedures I practice in my business, that should not be a hindrance to the application of our writer's newly-discovered principle.

I am excited about the prospects! Already I am making preparations to appear before the Commissioners of Howard County and the Council of the City of Big Spring to request appropriate funding of my legal, business activities.

WILLIAM A. SPRINKLE, JR.
209 W. 3rd St.

Editor's note: The editorial to which the writer refers (published Sept. 11) focused on a hospital that is publicly-owned and funded and is not a private enterprise.

Rapture makes her wonder

To the editor:

It is now late Sunday evening and my grandparents haven't shown up yet. I know this "Rapture" stuff is between today and Wednesday, but since my grandfather was a minister, I thought for sure today would be the day, being Sunday and all.

I thought maybe they don't know our new address because we've moved quite a bit since their deaths. I have married, and so has one of my brothers.

So if an old, bald-headed gentleman that looks as if he's been dead for about 20 years comes in and asks for my address, please feel free to give it to him.

I would go out to the cemetery and wait for them myself, but if I told my boss I need the day off to wait for my grandparents to come back to life so that I could give them a ride home, he might have me committed. Besides, cemeteries give me the creeps.

Perhaps I will just hire a taxi to pick them up. I wonder if the dispatcher would hang up on me after I made the request? I wonder if my grandparents could still collect Social Security? Could they get life insurance?

Making his position clear

To the editor:

In the August 6th edition, you ran a story regarding the dispute involving a judge's resignation. The story stated that I had "refused to place Democratic Appeals Court Candidate Ron Carr's name on the November ballot."

According to the oath I took when I became secretary of state, the statutes and the Texas Constitution govern my actions and the discharge of my duties as chief election officer of the state of Texas. At no time did I act in any fashion contrary to this oath. Even the Democratic Party, which initiated this court action, agreed that I had no discretion in the matter, and was prohibited from acting until such time as the resignation was accepted by the Governor. Subsequently, the Supreme Court resolved the dispute, and Ron Carr's name will appear on the November ballot.

My purpose in writing is to make my position clear. I intend to support legislation in the next session of the legislature that will clarify resignation procedures to prevent similar disputes in the future.

Los Angeles police arrest 225

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police rounded up 225 people on felony and misdemeanor charges in the latest of several sweeps aimed at ridding city streets of violent gang activity, authorities said Saturday.

The sweep, which began Friday evening and concluded early Saturday, was conducted in crime-ridden inner-city areas, police Detective David Powers said.

Police Officer Jim Farris said 225 people, 146 of them suspected gang members, were either cited or taken into custody for offenses ranging from minor traffic violations to possession of guns and drugs.

There was no violence involved in any of the arrests, he said.

In all, police arrested 39 adults and 23 juveniles on felony charges, Farris said.

Officers also seized two guns and $250 in cash, Farris said.

The sweep involved 200 officers who took part in the department's "Hammer" task force, so named by Police Chief Daryl Gates.

Ransom paid; victim not freed

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A $100,000 reward is on the table and nearly $1 million has been paid in ransom, but authorities say they still haven't gotten a break in the kidnapping of the ailing wife of a Jackson multimillionaire.

Earlier this month, FBI officials released a statement by Robert M. Hearin offering the reward and asking for the safe return of his wife, 72-year-old Annie Laurie Hearin, who was abducted from their home July 26.

Mrs. Hearin suffers from intestinal ileitis, a disease that can result in life-threatening complications without medication.

"Nothing is new," said Police Department spokesman Sgt. Chip Phippen. "To my knowledge, at least in the police department, we've had no response to the reward."

FBI agent Wayne Taylor said federal authorities had nothing new to report.

Since Mrs. Hearin's disappearance, the only word from her has been a letter, which the FBI said was in her handwriting, with an Atlanta postmark.

A typed ransom note was left at the house when Mrs. Hearin was abducted. Small spots of blood were found inside and outside the front door of the two-story house.

The crudely phrased note, the only direct word from the kidnapers, instructed Hearin to pay an unspecified amount of money to 12 people he had allegedly wronged.

States have record debts

WASHINGTON (AP) — State governments were more than $265 billion in debt last year, an all-time high, the Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

State government debt at the end of fiscal 1987 totaled $265.7 billion, up from $247.7 billion a year earlier, the bureau reported in its annual analysis of state government finances.

That amounted to a debt of $1,094.32 for every man, woman and child on a national basis, although indebtedness varied widely from state to state.

At the same time, the bureau reported, revenue received by state governments climbed to $517.0 billion while spending rose to $455.8 billion. Both were up 7.4 percent from the year before.

At the same time, state governments issued $49.8 billion in new long-term debt, while retiring $33.2 billion.

Texas ranks 49th, just above Kansas, with a 1987 per person debt of $317.40. Alaska has the greatest debt, at $1,788.18 per person.

Guns startle breakfast guests

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's top law official pulled two "Saturday Night Special" handguns from underneath his business suit to make a point at a breakfast for gun control advocates.

Bishop L. Robinson, the secretary of public safety and correctional services, pulled out the guns to illustrate how easily they could be concealed, stunning guests invited to Gov. William Donald Schafer's fund-raising breakfast Friday morning.

War Games

TOVIK, Norway — U.S. Marines from the 2nd Battalion move inland from the beach during the NATO "Teamwork '88" amphibious assault exercises in Norway. Throughout the war games, U.S. Marines, working with marines from Great Britain, Canada and the Netherlands, will face resistance from Norwegian army troops.

Would-be Rambos hold convention

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Rambo clones and mercenaries spoiling for a fight invaded a Strip hotel for a Soldier of Fortune convention this weekend, dotting over exotic weapons and attending lectures on battles to be won in far-off places.

Meanwhile, the promoter of the event collected donations in large glass bottles to help fight a $9.4 million judgment awarded by a Texas court that ruled his Soldier of Fortune magazine was used to recruit a contract killer.

Before the weekend was over, the 8th annual convention was expected to draw several hundred competitors for a wide range of paramilitary events.

Participants spent the earlier part of the week attending shooting matches and learning survival, commando and defensive techniques. Seminars ranged from air operations in Nicaragua to Middle East terrorism and new Soviet weaponry.

One gray-haired woman, clad in a camouflage hat, slacks and jacket and a T-shirt touting the Survival Store gun shop, huffed her way up a disabled escalator to a convention area where some 200 exhibitors were displaying their weapons.

Intratec of Miami featured its new Scorpion, a pistol capable of firing 30 rounds as fast as the finger can squeeze the trigger.

"It's for defense and recreation," said company spokesman Tom Conrad. "It's great for a family, for recreational shooting. A child can handle it. It's great for plinking tin cans."

At the end of one aisle, a man on a videotape discussed "the myth of shooting to wound versus shooting to kill," saying the latter was the smarter policy.

T-shirt vendors were doing a booming business, with messages such as "Mercenaries Never Die. They Just Go to Hell to Regroup," "Dirty Deeds Done Dirt Cheap," "Fight Crime — Shoot Back."

World

Disease follows flooding

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Pneumonia and eye and skin diseases have broken out in Bangladesh in the aftermath of floods that claimed at least 953 lives, doctors and officials said Saturday.

"Over 3,500 medical teams working in the flooded areas are not fully equipped to handle these new diseases," said one Health Ministry official. "Most of them are not carrying enough medicines for these ailments."

The government's toll of 953 from the flooding, which inundated about 80 percent of the country, is considered low. Newspapers put the toll in excess of 2,000.

At least 51,792 cases of diarrhea have been reported from flooded areas, where victims had little or no way to boil water. A government effort to bring water purification tablets to the countryside has been largely unsuccessful.

The reports of the disease outbreaks come as the levels of major rivers in the low-lying country begin to recede.

The floods have inundated 53 of the country's 64 districts. But government efforts to get relief to an estimated 40 million people have been hampered by lack of communications and resources.

Poland refuses to lift union ban

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (AP) — The government said Solidarity has a future in Poland but refused to lift a 6-year-old ban on the East bloc's first independent union federation, a union leader reported Saturday.

"They clearly said, 'Give us time,'" said Wladyslaw Frasnynik, describing a meeting Friday between Solidarity chief Lech Walesa, Interior Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak and 22 other people from the government, Solidarity and the church.

Walesa agreed to end a wave of strikes last month after the government agreed to talk to Solidarity about legalization. The labor unrest posed the strongest challenge to the communist government since it crushed Solidarity in the 1981 martial law crackdown. The union was banned in 1982.

Frasynik, Solidarity leader in the southwestern city of Wroclaw, met with a small group of reporters early Saturday.

He said Kiszczak informed Solidarity members Friday that Solidarity has a future but told union activists that he could not take a decision on legalizing it now because his hands are tied.

Air crash deaths now at 63

MAINZ, West Germany (AP) — A 64-year-old West German man died from severe burns, raising the death toll from last month's Ramstein air show disaster to 63, a state official said Thursday.

The victim died in a Stuttgart hospital late Wednesday, said Juergen Dietzen, spokesman for Rhineland-Palatinate state.

Dietzen said 153 people remained hospitalized in 46 hospitals as a result of the Aug. 28 accident. He said at least 25 were in serious condition.

The accident occurred during a 10-airplane Italian Air Force stunt team performance in which three of the jets collided. One of the planes plowed into the crowd and exploded, and the other two crashed a short distance away.

The dead are 56 West Germans, a U.S. soldier and her 9-year-old son, one French citizen, one Dutch citizen, and the three Italian pilots.

Rebels obstructing relief supplies

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Rebel attacks are preventing convoys of relief supplies from reaching the famine-stricken south, a provincial governor was quoted Saturday as saying.

The Sudan Peoples' Liberation Army is obstructing relief operations to southern Sudan and that has stopped the works of the Red Cross there," Mauris Lawya, governor of Equatoria Province, said in a statement to the Sudanese daily Al-Nahar.

The rebels believe the government might use relief convoys as a cover to move military reinforcements into areas under guerrilla control.

ON YOUR FEET

Dr. CARLOS DIMIDIJIAN Podiatrist

TOO MUCH PRESSURE ON YOUR TOES

If too much pressure is exerted on your toes when you walk, you will probably develop one or more corns because of the constant friction and irritation. A corn develops when there is an increase of epidermal cells that cause pressure on the papillae of the skin. Unlike a callus, which develops in flat planes, a corn is shaped like a cone, with the tip penetrating deeply into the tissue. Any direct pressure on a corn may cause severe pain.

Soft corns are usually found between the toes and often in pairs, with one facing the other. They form when one toe rubs against another at a site of bony prominences. Another kind of corn is called seed corn because it tends to develop in even larger groups. Seed corns are small, sometimes as tiny as a pinhead and are usually found on the soles of the feet.

Corns, like calluses, are not problems in themselves but symptoms of foot disorders that need the professional help and treatment of your podiatrist.

PECOS — U. S. Border Patrol agents watch the Texas border recently, looking for signs of illegal aliens.

Suits filed against Delta

DALLAS (AP) — An Idaho couple injured in the Aug. 31 crash of Delta Flight 1141 filed suit in state district court against Delta Air Lines and the plane's pilot.

Wilbur and Bernyce Hill of Buhl are seeking unspecified damages from the airline and pilot Larry Lon Davis. It was the second lawsuit filed as a result of the crash at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport in which 14 people were killed.

According to the suit, filed Friday, the couple boarded the flight in Dallas and were en route to Salt Lake City on a return trip to Idaho. When the plane crashed about 9 a.m., they escaped through a hole torn in the passenger cabin behind the cockpit.

Hospital records show that

Wilbur Hill, 64, was treated at a local hospital and released, while Bernyce Hill, 71, was admitted with fractures. The suit states the couple struggled through billowing smoke from the burning wreckage before jumping to the ground.

The suit, filed by Dallas attorney John Howe, alleges the airline did not provide proper care in maintenance, service and operation of the aircraft and that Davis was negligent in the operation of the plane.

Another passenger injured in the crash, Alicia Hayes of Dallas, filed the first damage suit on Sept. 9. It also named the airline and pilot as defendants and asked for unspecified damages.

Mexico drops tourist rates

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hotel rates throughout Mexico will drop through the end of November as part of Mexico's anti-inflation program, a national tourism official says.

The biggest discounts will be applied in Caribbean and Pacific Coast beach resorts where prices will drop by 15 percent. Hotels in Mexico City and the rest of the country will fall 5 percent, Assistant Tourism Secretary Guillermo Grimm said.

The Caribbean resorts of Cozumel and Cancun, damaged by Hurricane Gilbert which hit Mexico's southern Yucatan Peninsula this week, should be reopened in six weeks, Tourism Minister Antonio Enriquez Savignac said Friday.

Grimm said the hotel discounts should boost the number of national tourists during the low tourist season.

Auto rental agencies also agreed to lower their prices by 5 percent, Grimm said.

Midland man dead of apparent suicide

MIDLAND (AP) — The shooting death of 41-year-old Midland School Board President Robert Rich Jr. has left friends and colleagues shocked and authorities looking for answers.

Rich, owner of an oil and gas lease company, was found dead of an apparent gunshot wound to the head Thursday night in his garage, said Midland Police Cpl. Jim White.

Justice of the Peace Robert Pine told the Odessa American he plans to rule the death a suicide. Police recovered a .38-caliber handgun and a note.

Funeral services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday at First Baptist Church in Midland.

Rich was elected to the Midland school board and named president by his fellow board members in May. Ken Morrison, who serves on the school board and worked with church youth groups with Rich, recalled Rich as a positive leader who strove for compromise.

"This is a shock to me," said fellow board member Adela Marmolejo. "I still can't believe it."

Ms. Marmolejo said Rich talked Tuesday about traveling to El Paso Friday to watch his son play football against the El Paso Andress Eagles.

Man killed in freak lawnmowing accident

BEAUMONT (AP) — A man mowing a vacant lot was killed when he was attacked by a swarm of bumble bees and his mower ran over him, authorities said.

Edward Earl Clark, 41, of Beaumont was using a tractor and mower to cut grass at the lot Friday when he ran over a bee mound and the insects started attacking him. Clark fell from the tractor and was run over by the mower, said Beaumont Fire Department spokesman Tommy May.

The tractor continued moving about 30 feet, knocked down a fence and ran into the side of a house, May said. Firefighters and paramedics battled the bees as they treated Clark.

"There were quite a few bees and they somewhat hampered the rescue, attacking the firefighters and paramedics," May said.

"Some had to swat at the bees while the others worked on the man. They were definitely in an attack mode."

The victim suffered cuts all over his body, including deep cuts in his head, May said. One of his arms was partially severed.

Paramedics took him to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where doctors pronounced him dead.

Turkey trots

WORTHINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Hot, humid weather was perfect for Ruby Begonia, a turkey from Cuero, Texas, who outran Worthington's Paycheck to win the first leg of the 16th annual Great Gobbler Gallop Saturday.

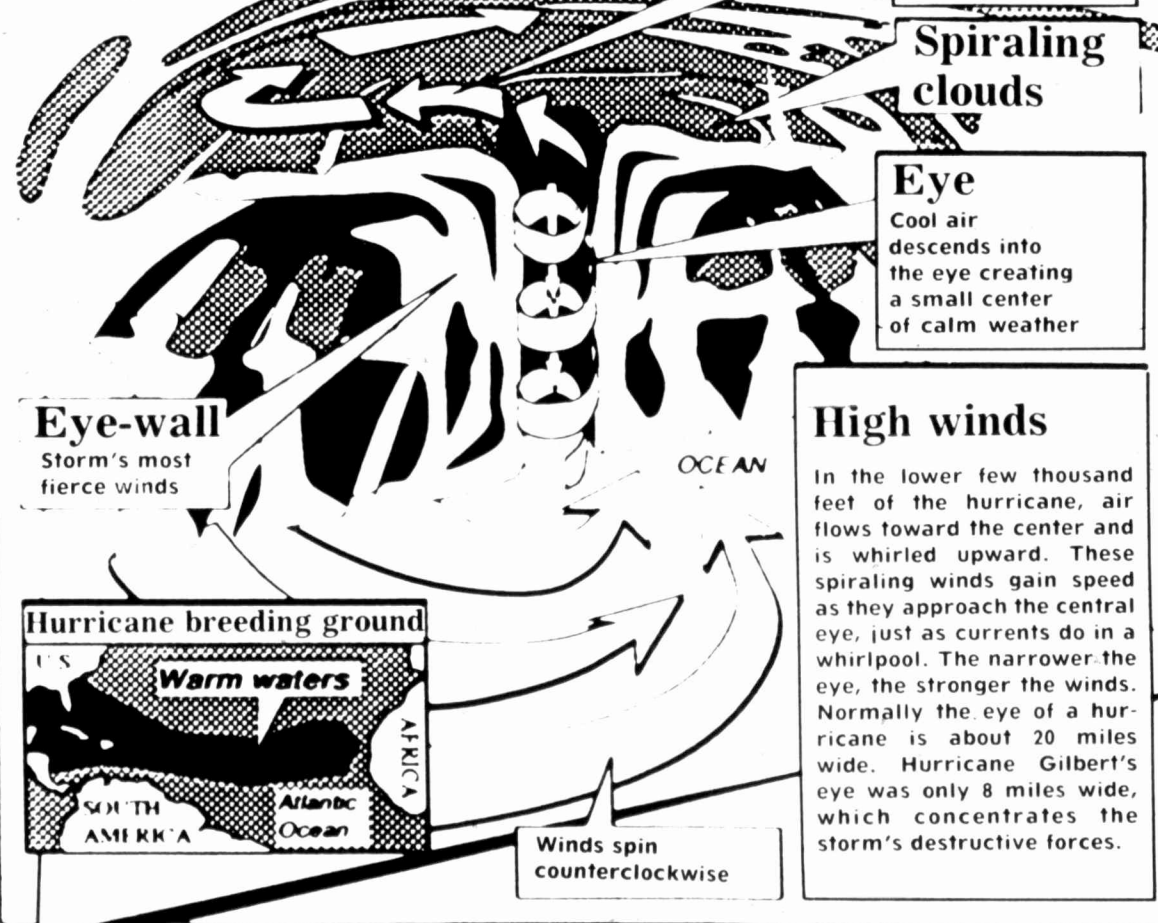

"We brought with us the hot Texas weather, the kind of weather our bird likes," said Cuero's coach, C.L. Duckett, after the southern bird won at Worthington's King Turkey Days.

The gallop was started in 1973 to decide which city would claim the title "Turkey Capital of the World." The first leg is held in Worthington, the second leg in Cuero. Whichever turkey has the best combined times is named overall winner. Paycheck has won the last three years.

Hurricane

Hurricanes are born in the steamy late-summer environment of the tropics when rapidly evaporating ocean waters combine with strong wind currents to spawn a hurricane. Several hundred miles wide and packing winds of over 100 m.p.h., hurricanes cool the Earth by sucking heat from the Earth's surface and drawing it into the upper atmosphere (above 40,000 feet).

Storm Cross Section

Storm Surges

Most hurricane deaths occur from drowning. Within the storm's eye, a violent drop in pressure has a 'plunger effect' on the sea where walls of water 30 feet high are generated and radiate outward, flooding low coastal areas.

Tax & financial planning

SURVIVING IN BUSINESS

Surviving in the business world today is a challenge, and you need all the help you can get. Here are some suggestions that will improve your chances for success.

Draft a written plan. Project for the next five years your market, your competition, costs, profits, marketing strategy, growth. Plan for every contingency — high interest rates, new competition, union problems. The more thought you put into your plan, the better it will serve you.

Watch your cash flow. Maximize it by negotiating with suppliers and monitoring inventory closely. Pay bills on time, but not until they become due.

Know your company's numbers, and compare them at least once a month so you can spot trends and have time to act. Know your industry's cycles; be ready for predictable downswings and to take advantage of annual hot markets.

Know your key ratios, for instance labor costs to sales, and have them ready for instant comparison. If you don't understand financial statement ratios, get professional assistance.

Seek information on customers, competitors, and the market. Talk to your customers, and encourage candid feedback. Assess competitors, and calculate their reactions to your business moves. Join trade associations and subscribe to industry publications.

Use advisors for their expertise and their objectivity. Diversify your products and your markets to avoid becoming dependent on one large customer or hostage to uncontrollable events, like oil shortages.

Get to know your banker before you need to borrow. When you borrow, make sure you borrow enough.

Train your employees. Let them know what you expect of them, and give them a chance to be heard. Above all, listen and communicate. Poor communication is at the root of many business problems.

state aid available to the county. Clements also said he would visit the area Monday to survey the damage.

"We're really fortunate that we haven't sustained more damage than we have," the governor said. "We've been blessed in that regard. Hopefully, we can get through this tornado exposure in the next 24 to 36 hours."

City officials on South Padre Island and in Port Isabel, who had expected most of the destruction as the once-fierce storm roared ashore, reopened their communities to the public at noon Saturday. Other cities along the Texas Gulf Coast began closing evacuation and emergency centers.

"I was surprised because I was expecting a lot of water," Eduardo Campiran, South Padre Island city manager, said Saturday. "We have no knowledge of significant damage. Most of the damage is like roofs, windows, awnings, things of that kind."

Island Mayor Bob Pinkerton Jr. estimated the storm would cost local business $3 million to $5 million in lost tourist revenue but said he expected business to be back to normal by next weekend. Only a few low-lying coastal roads remained closed because of flooding.

Laurie Swayze Miller, owner of a Harlingen jewelry store, was picking up after a twister hit her shop.

"Jewelry was scattered out everywhere," she said. "A policeman found a diamond ring out in the parking lot."

The greatest casualties appeared to be trees, with many uprooted or missing branches.

"It just trimmed the trees a little and that's about it," Ron Reynolds, 31, said as he cleaned up around his home. "My neighbor back there had a tree go through a fence. We came through it real lucky."

At least 110 deaths and billions of dollars in damage were blamed on the storm, which at one time was the most powerful ever tracked in the Western Hemisphere as it rolled through the Caribbean over Jamaica and entered the Gulf of Mexico after ravaging Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

But another 200 people were feared drowned Saturday in Monterrey, Mexico, after a river swollen by torrential rains from Hurricane Gilbert jumped its banks and overturned four buses.

Albert Wade moves his belongings from his tornado-damaged apartment in Northwest San Antonio Saturday morning. He's walking across rubble burying a parked car — one of scores damaged by the violent weather.

Tornadoes

"It was something weird. We had never seen something like that," said Tony Cardenas, a convenience store worker who saw the funnel drop.

He said the tornado missed the store and veered into a residential area. He said 3 or 4 houses sustained heavy damage.

Cisneros said most of the damage in San Antonio and Bexar County was the work of two tornadoes that skipped up and down.

A 59-year-old woman died of injuries she suffered when her trailer home was toppled by a twister about 7 a.m., according to Ron Dodson of the Bexar County Medical Examiner's Office.

Howe said elective surgery was shut down at both hospitals after the cooling towers were destroyed. Officials are concerned that all surgery would have to be stopped if the towers weren't replaced immediately.

The Army National Guard supplied reserve cooling equipment to help until the replacement equipment could be obtained.

The cooling systems not only provide air conditioning for patient areas but also are required for the hospitals' computer systems, laboratory research areas and infection control, Howe said.

Cisneros said the damage could have been worse from the several tornadoes that skipped around the city Saturday morning.

"These were the first tornadoes of this magnitude to touch down in this city. We can all say a prayer of thanks because the loss of life could have been significant."

"We're lucky here. There could have been even 50 or 60 people hurt or killed. With the swaths it cut and the jumps that it took, just one block in a different direction would have made a lot of difference," he said.

On Friday, a 41-year-old man was killed when a tree toppled onto his house during a thunderstorm.

A twister at Kelly Air Force Base destroyed four storage buildings and damaged a dozen other structures, officials said. A tornado reportedly touched down at Lackland Air Force Base too, but no damage or injuries had been reported.

A twister shattered glass windows and uprooted large oak trees at the Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans Hospital.

"The front of the hospital was pretty badly damaged," hospital director Jose R. Coronado said, but no injuries were reported.

Across the street, at the 12-story Medical Center Hospital, the tornado also shattered windows, knocked down trees and damaged vehicles.

Linda King, a spokeswoman for the hospital, said, "You know what a tornado sounds like — it sounded like a train," she said.

Near the two damaged hospitals, a twister roared through the Lodge Apartment complex, where it ripped off parts of top floors, exposing furniture and interior walls and leaving gaping holes in the buildings.

Belinda Ferguson, who lives next to the woman killed in a trailer park, said the woman's mobile home was destroyed by a tornado.

Airlines offering jet relief

DALLAS (AP) — Continental Airlines and American Airlines planned Saturday flights to the Yucatan Peninsula to assist travelers stranded by Hurricane Gilbert and return them to Texas, officials for both Texas-based carriers said.

Continental planned to resume eight daily flights to the Mexican Yucatan Peninsula, designating the service as "emergency relief flights."

Continental flights to Cozumel, Cancun and Merida will carry emergency relief personnel and supplies and return stranded vacationers.

The airline set up a collection point in Houston for residents who want to contribute emergency relief supplies.

American spokeswoman Mary O'Neill said one of two Boeing 727's would stop at Midland International Airport on Saturday to be outfitted with a field kitchen.

Each Cancun-bound jet was capable of carrying about 130 people, plus a flight crew, according to Ms. O'Neill.

"At this point we have several hundred American Airlines passengers that were down there (Cancun), that we assume are still down there," she said.

By MICHAEL HOLMES

CORPUS CHRISTI — When Hurricane Gilbert slammed ashore south of Brownsville, the storm's fury missed Corpus Christi's 260,000 residents. It also missed one couple for the second time.

Bob and Judy Forbes narrowly escaped from the Mexican island of Cozumel, off the east coast of the hard-hit Yucatan Peninsula, on Tuesday as the then-Category 5 hurricane was closing in.

They arrived home Wednesday to find weather forecasters saying Gilbert was after them again.

"We feel very lucky," Forbes said Saturday after taking down the shutters and rehanging outdoor plants at his home.

The couple had landed on Cozumel Monday, before Gilbert reached its most forceful stage. On Tuesday, when airport officials told him "they were not authorized to give out information" on the approaching hurricane, Forbes decided to clear out.

"There were big lines for Continental and American flights when we got to the airport. We're not sure those planes ever came in," he said.

Mrs. Forbes had seen some incoming tourists getting off a Mexicana Airlines plane, so the couple jumped to get on it.

"We'd decided that if there was no way we could get away, at least we were together," Forbes said.

"But it's a lot easier to stomach something like that storm when you're in your own home, with your friends, neighbors and family around you, than in a place where you can't even find a radio station and the airport control won't give you any information."

Gilbert's landfall on the Mexican mainland, more than 100 miles south of Brownsville, meant Corpus Christi was spared most effects of the massive storm. Rainfall totaled about 3 inches, and sustained winds hit only 47 mph.

City officials who had supervised the evacuation of an estimated 50,000 residents earlier in the week were able to joke about it all Saturday.

"I'd like to announce that the city of Corpus Christi has been nominated for the best-managed 2-inch rainfall," City Manager Juan Garza quipped at the start of his final storm briefing.

A smiling Mayor Betty Turner called the rain and wind "the world's greatest small storm."

According to Garza and other officials, some minor damage was reported — flooding in low-lying areas and along North Padre Island, a few road closings, damage to some boats left in the city marina, and minor damage from three tornadoes that hit around the city's fringe.

But the storm did less damage than some thunderstorms, they acknowledged.

Corpus Christi Police Cmdr. Henry C. Garrett said Saturday morning that all main roads to the city were open and evacuees could return.

However, city officials defended their warnings and preparations, noting that when forecasters first said it might hit the Texas coast, Gilbert was a Category 5 hurricane with winds clocked at 200 mph.

Baylor blanks Cyclones, 28-0

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Grant Teaff didn't seem surprised that his Baylor football team held Iowa State to just five first downs and 104 yards in total offense Saturday as he collected his 99th victory in 17 seasons as the Bears' coach.

"Sure, I thought we could stop them like that," Teaff said after the 35-0, non-conference victory. "It's a major part of our game plan, and we do it to most teams."

Baylor fullback Charles Perry scored in each of the first three quarters as the Bears forged a 21-0 lead and then took advantage of two Iowa State fumbles in the closing three minutes.

Perry scored first on a one-yard dive, then a one-yard option play and finally on a three-yard sprint.

Reserve running back Anthony Ray scored the final two Baylor touchdowns. One came on a 5-yard run that came three plays after Iowa State fumbled a punt at its own 15-yard line.

Iowa State turned over the ensuing kickoff at its own 10 and Ray dove over from the two on the second play.

The Baylor defense gave up only three first downs in the first three quarters — all of those coming on a failed second-quarter Cyclone drive.

Baylor improved its record to 3-0 while Iowa State is 1-1 after beating Tulane 30-13 last week.

Iowa State Coach Jim Walden said he had to tell his players to concentrate on Baylor after the Tulane game.

"You saw a great lesson in college football today," Walden said. "Baylor shut us off inside, stuffed our outside game and completely ran over our line to get to the quarterback. Give all the credit to Baylor. It was a clinic."

Iowa State quarterback Bret Oberg completed only six of 15 passes for a total of 46 yards.

The Cyclones had 200 yards passing and 51 on the ground in 36 carries.

Meanwhile, Baylor gained 302 yards in total offense, including 192 yards on quarterback Brad Goebel's nine completions in 22 passing attempts.

"They were a good team, but we just seemed to do everything right," said Baylor linebacker James Francis. "We really put pressure on their quarterback, so he played so far, but we had a good game plan, and we executed."

At one point, Iowa State went with Derek DeGennaro at quarterback. DeGennaro had been tabbed as the starter prior to the season, but has been on the sidelines since injuring a knee in practice. He said he hurt the knee again during a limited performance Saturday.

"I think I was kidding myself by

"Once I got hurt, I took myself out of the game because I wasn't helping the team. It didn't hurt until I scrambled to the middle on one play and reinjured it the same way I did before. It's pretty stiff."

Harriers sweep tri-meet Saturday

The Big Spring High School cross-county team produced winners in both the boys' and girls' divisions during a tri-meet with Midland Lee and Midland here Saturday.

For the girls, Yvette Regalado finished first, while Ginger McMullan and Erika Franks finished third and fourth, respectively, in the two-mile run, coach Randy Britton said.

Ben Gonzales and Chris Polyniak finished 1-2 in the three-mile race. Gonzales' time was 17:40, while Polyniak clocked an 18:27 time, Britton said.

Britton said all of his runners ran faster times than last year. He especially commended Regalado's effort.

The Big Spring finishers, their places and times were:

Boys — Gonzales, 1st, 17:40; Polyniak, 2nd, 18:27; Tim Pruitt, 18:40; Mario Ramos, 6th, 19:01; and Sean Daylong, 8th, 19:20.

Girls — Regalado, 1st, 15:02; McMullan, 3rd, 16:34; Franks, 4th, 16:36; Lillian Trevino, 5th, 16:40; Margot Perkins, 8th, 17:02; Shannon Spears, 9th, 17:04; Renae Osburne, 10th, 17:11; Wendi Lunsford, 12th, 17:19; and Rocky Alivar, 13th, 17:54.

BSHS boosters to meet Monday

The Big Spring Sports Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the high school cafeteria.

The varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams are scheduled to be introduced, to be followed by a film of the Plainview-Big Spring football game.

Sara Bavin of the Boosters Club said the organization is encouraging fans to wear black to all Steers' home games.

Volleyball meeting to be held

The Big Spring YMCA will begin its co-ed volleyball league this month, according to a YMCA release.

An organizational meeting for the league will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the YMCA conference room, 801 Queen St. Scheduling of initiating and times are among the topics that will be discussed.

For further information on the league, contact Maggie at 267-8234.

In a related item, there will be a reception for departing YMCA director Wallace Gill from 2-4 p.m. today at the First Methodist Church, 400 Scurry St., the release stated.

Boxer Frank Bruno shields family with body during storm

LONDON (AP) — British boxer Frank Bruno, the No. 1 contender to Mike Tyson's heavyweight crown, shielded his family with his body while the 200 mph winds of Hurricane Gilbert pounded Jamaica, a newspaper reported Saturday.

Nothing had been heard from the 26-year-old boxer, on vacation in Jamaica with his girlfriend, Laura, and their daughters Nicola, 6, and Rachel, 2, since the hurricane struck the island last Monday.

But on Saturday the London Daily Mail newspaper, which tracked them to their hotel at the beachside resort of Negril, told how Bruno had shielded his family with his 228-pound body while the storm battered the holiday complex.

"It was worse than anything you can imagine," the Mail quoted Bruno as saying. "There was nothing to do but duck down, box clever and pray and hope it would go away."

"Nothing can scare me now. Tyson will be a breeze after this little lot," the boxer, whose title fight with the American has been postponed twice, was quoted as saying.

Bruno would not have been on vacation at all had his title fight with Tyson, originally scheduled for Wembley Stadium Oct. 8, not been delayed. The champion suffered a concussion in a car crash at his New York state home two weeks ago and no new date has been fixed.

The Daily Mail said other guests at Bruno's hotel talked with admiration of the fighter's efforts to protect his family and help local villagers replace tin roofs on their shattered homes.

They quoted West German engineer Frank Oesterle, vacationing at the same hotel as Bruno, as saying: "He is a big man in every way with a big heart. He worked like a Trojan to help clear up the mess and he was out among the guests cheering them up."

"He told me that during the height of the storm his family was very frightened, crouching on the floor, and he used his big arms and body to protect them," Oesterle told the Daily Mail.

Bruno told the newspaper: "Quite frankly we were all shocked. We did not think it was going to be as serious as it was even though we had a warning."

In London, Bruno's manager Terry Lawless, who spent four days trying to contact the fighter, said, "Thank God he's safe."

Sands wins homecoming battle, 22-7

HERALD STAFF REPORT

What do you do when it rains on your homecoming? Sands knows how to make the best of such a bad situation.

Despite a game-long drizzle and rain, the Sands Mustangs managed to keep Blackwell out of their end zone until it didn't make any difference, winning their homecoming challenge, 22-7, and boosting their record to 3-0 for 1988.

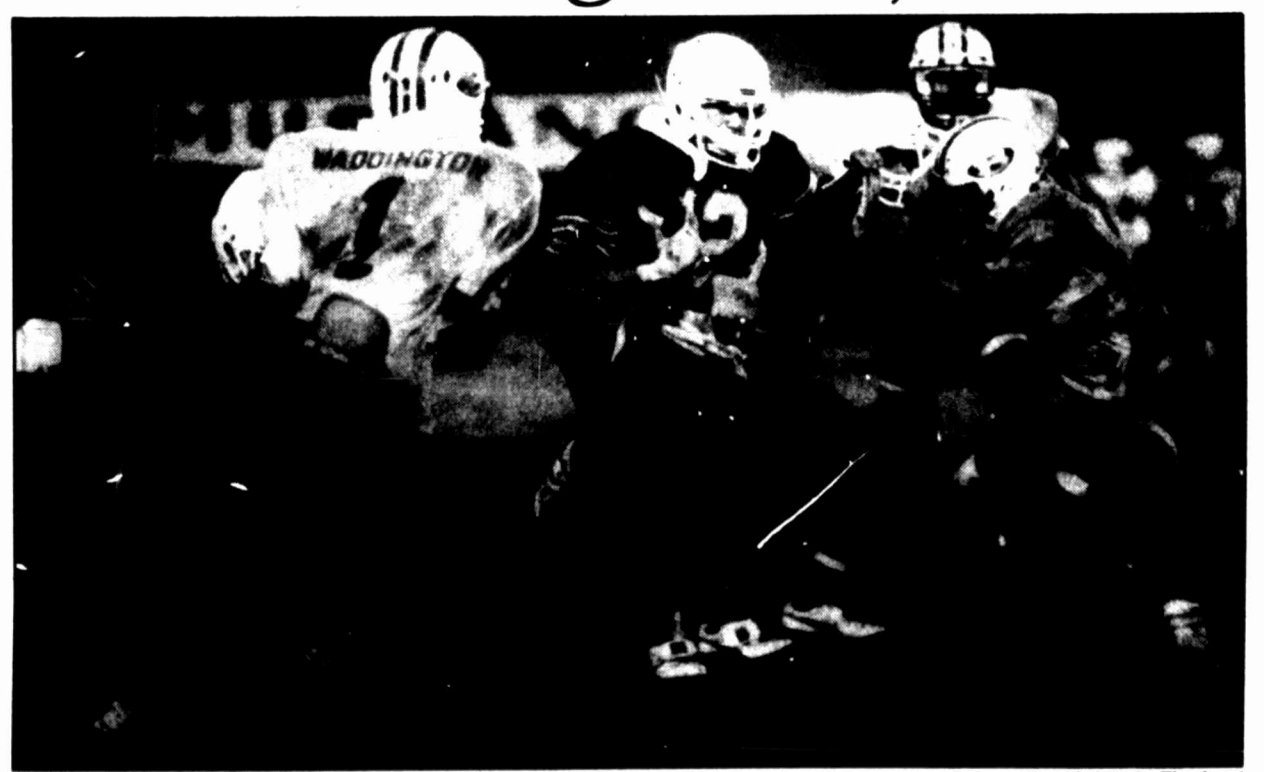

Sophomore John Young handled all the scoring that was needed for the Mustangs to win this game, scoring twice in the second quarter. Both drives were precipitated by fumble recoveries.

Young went in from the nine yard line with 8:28 remaining and a failed kick by Jay Johnston left the 'Stangs with a 6-0 advantage.

Again taking advantage of a Blackwell miscue, the Mustangs pounced on another fumble seconds later and within 35 seconds of his first TD, Young was crossing the line once more. He went over from the one-yard line with 7:53 left in the half.

This time, Johnston's kick was on target, and the homecoming-happy Sands squad went into the locker room with a 14-0 edge.

The last of the Sands scoring came in the third period with 1:25 remaining, when Albert Franco connected with Johnston on a nine-yard pass. Johnston, a junior, made good on his third PAT attempt and the hosts held a 22-0 advantage going into the fourth period.

With less than half a minute remaining, Blackwell finally got on the scoreboard with a three-yard run by Grady Hancock. Although the PAT kick snap was bobbled, a pass from Wall to Hoyle was successful and the Hornets had completed the game's scoring.

The Sands coaching staff was pleased with the results of the game, especially in light of the poor field conditions.

The Mustangs will test their perfect record when they travel to Highland Friday.

Plainview opportunistic in victory over Steers, 34-16

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

PLAINVIEW — The Plainview Bulldogs took advantage of their opportunities and the Big Spring Steers didn't. The end result? A 34-16 win for the Bulldogs in their home opener here Friday night.

Big Spring squelched three scoring chances in the first half, and it was more than enough to open the door for the Bulldogs, who led 14-0 at the half. It was an equally-fought half, but only the Bulldogs got into the end zone.

The Steers got the ball four times in the first half, and on three occasions drove inside the Plainview 20, only to come up empty each time.

Twice Big Spring failed on fourth down situations. The first time, fullback Rodney Brown dropped two Rance Thompson passes; on the second drive, Thompson's pass attempt to wingback Tony Lewis was incomplete.

Halfback Dennis Hartfield fumbled on the third drive at the Plainview five yard line.

"Those three times we got the ball inside their 20 and didn't score really hurt us," said Big Spring coach David Thompson. "We moved the ball well and didn't put it in. That's a sign of our inexperience."

Meanwhile, Plainview did convert in the first half, and its offense improved in the second half.

On their first possession, the Bulldogs drove 70 yards on six plays. The majority of the yardage was a 49-yard scoring pass from fullback Stan Robertson to wide receiver Wayne Jackson.

Reg Martin kicked the first of his four extra points, and the Bulldogs led 7-0 with 2:39 left in the first quarter.

Plainview's next drive was an 11-play, 82-yard march in the second quarter. Jackson scooted 21 yards on a reverse and quarterback J.J. Smith threw a 31-yard pass to wingback Ellison Collins.

On a fourth-and-two from the Big Spring 12, Collins took a quick pitch, stiff-armed cornerback Terry Bailey, and scooted in for the score.

The Steer defense weakened against the run in the second half, and the Bulldogs added three more scores.

"Our defense didn't play up to par," Thompson said. "We forced them to make the big play and they did — we didn't. But the kids played hard. We just have to figure a way to get over the hump."

Plainview took the opening kickoff of the second half and marched 70 yards in 12 plays. Robertson and halfback Brian Defense.

Robertson scored from eight yards out; Martin's PAT was blocked, but Plainview led 20-0 with 7:36 left in the third quarter.

One minute later, Plainview padded the lead to 27-0 when linebacker Bill Mulder intercepted Thompson's pass and returned it 15 yards for the score.

On their next possession, the Steers marched 55 yards in seven plays. Lewis took the kickoff 35 yards, and Big Spring was in business.

Steer backs Brown and Hartfield ripped sizable chunks of real estate, and Thompson completed two passes. The last completion was a seven-yard scoring pass to John Wofford. Thompson then hit Kenny Everett for the two-point conversion.

The Bulldogs added an insurance TD in the final period, covering 55 yards in eight plays — despite three penalties. Smith's dump pass over the middle to Brazier resulted in a 31-yard touchdown. Brazier broke three tackles along the way.

The Bulldogs go to 1-2 for the season, and Big Spring falls to 0-2. The Steers are idle next week.

Bearkats storm past Roby, 48-6

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City offense was merely a strong breeze in the first half of the Garden City-Roby game here Friday. In the second half, however, it took on the qualities of Hurricane Gilbert.

Fueled by a second half explosion that saw them score 34 points, the Bearkats roared to a 48-7 win against the Lions.

The comparison to Gilbert is apt in many ways. The Bearkats started slowly, but gradually gained strength until they flattened the game-but-outmatched Lions.

The 'Kats had fashioned a 14-7 halftime lead, thanks to two touchdown passes by quarterback Codie Scott — one of 59 yards to Juan Morales; the other for 42 yards to brother Jodie Scott.

For two-and-a-half quarters, however, Roby was able to keep the storm at bay. Behind the rushing of senior tailback Ronnie Rodriguez — who gained 185 yards on 20 carries — the Lions held the same 14-7 margin with three minutes left in the third quarter.

Garden City coach Sam Scott blamed his team's slow start to two things: poor technique early on the 'Kats' part, and a different defensive look from the Lions.

"I thought early in the game that we had the homecoming syndrome, whatever that is," Scott said.

But after that slow start, the walls came tumbling down, as the hurricane-strength Bearkats scored 28 points in less than five minutes to put the game — and the Lions — in the bag.

The onslaught began after the 'Kat defense held on downs at the Garden City 47-yard line. Four plays later, qb Scott connected

GARDEN CITY — Garden City tailback Tony Ramirez (21) cuts upfield in search of more yardage as Michael Carreon (33), Eddie Gonzales

"There were a lot of activities and distractions early in the week. We didn't play real good in the first half.

"(Roby) was using a different type defense than what we prepared for," he said. "It caused a little confusion, and it took us a little bit longer to adjust to it than it should have."

But after that slow start, the walls came tumbling down, as the hurricane-strength Bearkats scored 28 points in less than five minutes to put the game — and the Lions — in the bag.

The onslaught began after the 'Kat defense held on downs at the Garden City 47-yard line. Four plays later, qb Scott connected with his brother for a 33-yard scoring play to give Garden City a 21-7 lead with 2:20 left in the third stanza.

But that was only the beginning. After forcing Roby to punt on its next possession, Garden City tailback Tony Ramirez tore through the Lions' defense for a 62-yard score on the drive's first play. Scott's conversion kick gave the 'Kats a 28-7 lead after three quarters.

Garden City again scored on a one-play drive the next time they had the ball. This time, the scoring honors were performed by fullback Weldon Hillger, who rambled in from 52 yards out.

The Bearkats were relatively slow scoring on their next drive, taking all of three plays to move 73 yards, with Ramirez dashing in from 30 yards out. Scott's PAT kick gave Garden City a comfortable 42-7 lead with 9:04 left in the game.

However, the energy of Hurricane Bearkat was not fully spent. Defensive back Allen Hoelscher intercepted a Michael Carreon pass at the Lion 23. Three plays later, Hoelscher — substituting at quarterback for Scott — plunged over from the one to complete the wreckage.

The Bearkat defense was equally responsible for the damage wrought upon the Lions, limiting the Roby offense to only 19 yards total offense in the second half.

Roscoe gives Buffs unhappy homecoming

By SARAH LUMAN Staff Writer

FORSAN — Homecoming Night is a tough time to lose — especially by 26-2; but that's what happened to Forsan Friday night.

Patrick George's safety in the first quarter was perhaps the brightest football moment the Buffs had all night, giving Forsan a 2-0 lead with 2:58 left in the first quarter.

Roscoe's Plowboys took over shortly thereafter and remained firmly in control of the game until it ended, despite losing seven fumbles and two interceptions.

Roscoe's first possession ended in a fumble when Chas McGlothlin mishandled the ball at his own 48; James Lopez recovered. Forsan held on to the football for its most impressive drive of the night, amassing 14 plays enroute to three first downs.

But a Todd Snyder pickoff of a Stephen East pass killed the drive. Richard Griffin, who would do much of Forsan's loadcarrying Friday night, stopped Snyder at the 24 to save a touchdown.

Roscoe scored on a Snyder run with 7:05 left in the half, but the conversion failed. The Plowboys forced the Buffs to punt, recovered their own fumble on the 35 and scored again on a 72-yard pass play to Snyder, running a post pattern

FORSAN — Forsan tailback Charley Newton runs for yardage as a trio of Roscoe defenders give visitors to a 14-8 victory Friday night at Buffalo Stadium.

After both teams were unable to start any type of offensive maneuvers on their first possessions, Greenwood's quarterback completed a 40-yard pass to Tom

Marvin at the Buffalo 45-yard line to began a drive. On the very next play, senior safety Steve Scurlack of Stanton intercepted a Greenwood pass at their own 31-yard line to stop the Rangers' threat.

The Buffs again were stopped on 62-yards on first down. Bailey's tackle saved a touchdown on the Buffalo 15-yard line; a three-yard pass lathe Buff defense fell on McGlothlin like a wall in the backfield — and then the west side stadium lights went out, with 5:32 remaining in the third period.

About seven minutes passed in a surrealistically-shadowed limbo; returning to play when the lights were repaired, Roscoe mounted a power formation that ended in a fumble on the Forsan three.

McGlothlin got the ball back, but the fourth-down play had failed. Forsan went nowhere in four plays and returned possession at the 25 with 4:07 left in the quarter.

Roscoe did not score again until Garcia's 73-yard gambol in the fourth quarter.

Greenwood runs past Battlin' Buffs, 14-8

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ For The Herald

STANTON — After two scoreless quarters, Greenwood quarterback Randy Donnell used second half jaunts of 15 and 20 yards to outrun the Stanton Buffalos and pace the visitors to a 14-8 victory Friday night at Buffalo Stadium.

After both teams were unable to start any type of offensive maneuvers on their first possessions, Greenwood's quarterback completed a 40-yard pass to Tom

Marvin at the Buffalo 45-yard line to began a drive. On the very next play, senior safety Steve Scurlack of Stanton intercepted a Greenwood pass at their own 31-yard line to stop the Rangers' threat.

Area round-up

Coahoma 14 Tahoka 6

TAHOKA — Ronnie Ruiz replaced an injured Shane Walker at quarterback and threw two touchdown passes to lead the Coahoma Bulldogs to a 14-6 win over Tahoka here Friday night.

It was Coahoma's first win of the season, while Tahoka evened its mark at 1-1 with the loss.

Big Red coach Steve Park was understandably pleased with his team's victory.

Slaton 21 C-City 2

SLATON — The Slaton Tigers used a ball-control offense to overcome the Colorado City Wolves, 21-2, in a non-district game played here Friday.

"Slaton played very well," C-City coach Tom Ramsey said. "They executed very well, and didn't turn the ball over, while we didn't execute well at all and turned the ball over."

Slaton did all its scoring in the first half. Tiger running back Gaylon did the opening honors with a 35-yard run in the opening quarter, followed by Steve Nava and Marcus Kirkwood, who scored on runs of 4 and 9 yards, respectively, in the second quarter.

Loraine 56 Grady 34

LENORAH — An inability to score early — combined with seven touchdowns by Loraine running back Josell Williams — spelled defeat for the Grady Wildcats here Friday night.

Grady's offense came up empty four times inside the Loraine 10-yard line, assistant coach Randall Peel said, but rebounded in the second half for a good effort.

"We're disappointed with the

SA Central 8

SAN ANGELO — The Fort Worth Dunbar Wildcats overcame four fumbles to down the San Angelo Central Bobcats, 14-8, here Friday.

Blaize Roberts scored on a 4-yard run in the second quarter, and Wyland Bursleson tallied on an 8-yard run to pace the Wildcats.

San Angelo's lone score came in the fourth quarter, when David Brainard returned a kickoff 79 yards for a score.

Steve Walsh passed for two touchdowns in the last five minutes and his throwing set up Carlos Huerta's 29-yard field goal with 43 seconds left as top-ranked Miami, Fla., overcame a 16-point deficit to beat No. 15 Michigan 31-30 on Saturday.

"We've been in this situation before. We can come back and do it," Walsh said he told his teammates before the late rescue of the nation's longest winning streak, 14 games.

"We knew we could go out and score a touchdown," Walsh said. "One thing just led to another."

"It was an ungodly set of circumstances," Michigan coach Bo Schembechler said after the Wolverines' second straight loss, the first 0-2 start at Ann Arbor since 1959.

"It's nice to know this team plays well on the road," Miami's Jimmy Johnson said. "With 105,000 people screaming at you... it's difficult to come back like we did."

Miami wasn't the only Florida team to pull a late escape. No. 10 Florida State, No. 1 until thumped 31-0 by Miami in the season opener, used a 78-yard run by LeRoy Butler on a fake punt to set up a 19-yard Richie Andrews field goal that gave the Seminoles a 24-21 decision over No. 3 Clemson.

In other games involving the Top Ten, it was No. 4 Oklahoma 28, Arizona 10; No. 8 Notre Dame 20, Michigan State 3, and No. 9 Louisiana State 34, Tennessee 9.

In the Second Ten, quarterback Sal Aunese ran for two scores, the last a 1-yard sneak with 5½ minutes to play, as Colorado surprised No. 19 Iowa 24-21. In other games, it was No. 12 West Virginia 55, Maryland 24; No. 14 South Carolina 17, East Carolina 0; No. 16 Penn State 23, Boston College 20, and No. 17 Washington 31, Army 17.

Later Saturday, No. 2 UCLA was at home against Long Beach State, No. 6 Auburn played host to Kansas, No. 7 Georgia visited Mississippi State, and No. 18 Ohio State called on Pittsburgh.

No. 5 Southern California, No. 11 Nebraska and No. 20 Oklahoma State were idle. No. 13 Alabama's visit to Texas A&M was postponed until December because of Hurricane Gilbert's impact on the state of Texas.

Miami 31, Michigan 30

The Hurricanes seemed finished after the third touchdown pass by Michigan's Michael Taylor gave the Wolverines a 30-14 lead with 10½ minutes left in the game.

But Miami, its hopes of a second straight national championship on the line, pulled within 30-28 on Walsh passes of seven yards to tight end Rob Chudzinski with 5:23 remaining and 48 yards to fullback Cleveland Gary with 2:58 left.

Following Gary's third touchdown of the game, Miami recovered an onside kick at the Michigan 47. Walsh hit Andre Brown for 14 yards and Gary for 18 to move the ball well within field goal range.

Florida St. 24, Clemson 21

Butler's run from punt formation came with only 91 seconds to play and Florida State facing a fourth-and-4 from its own 21. The winning field goal followed by less than two minutes a 19-yard run by Tracy Johnson that pulled Clemson, 21, into a 21-21 tie with the Seminoles, 2-1.

Florida State's explosiveness served to silence a record crowd of 82,500 on hand for the first meeting between two top-10 teams in the 46-year history of the stadium. The previous attendance high of 82,492 as set when the Tigers took on South Carolina in 1986.

Held to 71 yards and trailing 14-7 at halftime, Florida State got even when Deion Sanders returned a punt 76 yards with 11:30 to go in the third period.

After forcing another Clemson punt, the Seminoles drove 77 yards in only five plays to take their first lead. Chip Ferguson completed three passes for 80 yards in the drive, the last a 36-yarder to Bruce LaSane at the Clemson 1. Dayne Williams scored on the next play for a 21-14 lead with 8:27 left.

Oklahoma 28, Arizona 10

Option wizard Jamelle Holieway rushed for one touchdown and threw a 43-yard scoring pass to Eric Bross for Oklahoma, 2-0. Holieway completed three of seven passes for 73 yards and rushed for 75 yards. Leon Perry scored on a 1-yard run and Holieway added a 15-yard touchdown run as Oklahoma built a 14-3 halftime lead.

Arizona, 2-1, drew within 14-10 when Pete Russell recovered Holieway's fumble at the Sooners 45-yard line to open the second half. The Wildcats scored six plays later on Mario Hampton's 9-yard run.

A 34-yard Holieway run moved Oklahoma to the Arizona 45. Two plays later, Holieway lofted a scoring pass to Bross, who slipped behind two Wildcat defenders and caught the ball at the 3-yard line.

The Sooners' final score came midway through the fourth quarter when Kevin Thompson intercepted a pass from Ronald Veal and returned it to Arizona's 18-yard line. Anthony Stafford scored three plays later on a 5-yard run.

NFL previews

Houston (2-0) at New York Jets (1-1)
Cody Carlson, who replaced the injured Warren Moon, may turn out to be the steal of the decade. Last week he rallied the Oilers from a 28-14 deficit to a 38-35 win against the Raiders and finished with 21 of 34 for 276 yards and two touchdowns.

Denver (1-1) at Kansas City (0-2)
Seattle (2-0) at San Diego (0-2)
Call it ring-around-the-AFC West — the Seahawks beat the Broncos the first week and now they're exchanging Week 2 opponents in Week 3.

Seattle, which beat Kansas City 31-3, figures to continue to feast down south; the Broncos, 34-3 winners over the Chargers, may have a little tougher time in Kansas City, where they've lost five of the last seven times they've played.

Denver's problem is injuries at receiver, where the Three Amigos are now down to one — Ricky Nattiel. The only other healthy wideouts are Sam Graddy and Rick Massie, both of whom have already been cut, although Steve Sewell, nominally a running back, can also play there.

Seattle's Steve Largent figures to hit the next of the many receiving records he'll get this year — he needs 51 yards to take over the leadership in career yardage from Charlie Joiner, now a Chargers assistant coach, who has 12,146.

Mark Malone relieved Babe Laufenberg at quarterback for the Chargers last week but Laufenberg will be back for this one. Since San Diego is getting closer to the No. 1 draft pick and Troy Aikman, does it really matter?

The Falcons were troublesome for the Saints, leading 14-3 before doing their usual quick comeback.

Both these teams have their wins over Atlanta, which says it may not be something given the relatively new hopes these two had starting the season.

Saints coach Jim Mora is concerned about the defense that carried New Orleans to a 12-3 record last year. It gave up six yards a carry on the ground in the shaky win at Atlanta.

"If there's one area that concerns me it's that we're not playing good defense," Mora says.

Green Bay (0-2) at Miami (0-2)
The Packers may have bottomed out by losing at HOME to Tampa Bay, 13-10 in a game that was duller than the score in dicates. If the Dolphins, who have one touchdown in two weeks, don't get started here, they probably never will.

Miami's problems are defense and the offensive line, where the anchor, center Dwight Stephenson, may be out for the season and the second best lineman, guard Roy Foster, may miss Sunday's game with a sprained ankle.

Phoenix (0-2) at Tampa Bay (1-1)
The Bucs lost twice to the Cardinals last year, once blowing a 28-3 fourth quarter lead. In fact, their win at Green Bay last week ended a nine-game losing streak that began with that game.

It's a toss-up for the result to change this week. Vinny Testaverde is still having trouble learning to read NFL defenses and the Cards are at a far more advanced level — even if they read it all wrong.

Philadelphia (1-1) at Washington (1-1)
The Redskins barely survived scrambling Bobby Brister in their last minute 30-29 win over Pittsburgh last week. Now they get Randall Cunningham, who has always given them fits.

Throw in the knee injury to cornerback Barry Wilburn and the task gets even tougher. Wilburn will be replaced by Brian Davis.

The Skins will also have to deal with an angry Reggie White, who was held sackless as Boomer Esiason passed for 363 yards in Cincinnati's 28-24 upset win last week. White figures the more stationary Doug Williams is a better target.

Cincinnati (2-0) at Pittsburgh (1-1)
Two early surprises — even in good years, Cincinnati usually starts 1-4 or 0-5 — the Steelers and Bengals have become factors in the AFC Central, because of injuries to Bernie Kosar in Cleveland and Warren Moon in Houston.

So far, Brister has filled Pittsburgh's gaping quarterback hole. And Cincinnati defense, while still giving up yardage, has played well in the pinch — stopping Philadelphia and Phoenix in the final minutes to seal victories.

New York Giants (1-1) at Dallas (1-1)
Speaking of crazy things, they almost always happen to the Giants in Dallas.

The Giants are favored, but the omens seem to favor Dallas.

New York is without the suspended Lawrence Taylor, and coming off a demoralizing 20-17 last minute loss to San Francisco.

Indianapolis (0-2) at Cleveland (1-1) (Monday night)
If there's ever an NFL game where nobody throws a pass, this could be it.

Cleveland, which lost Kosar 36 seconds into the season, then had Gary Danielson break an ankle last week, has yet to score a touchdown this year. The Colts' Jack Truadeau went 4 for 15 last week and Gary Hogeboom has slipped so far into Ron Meyer's doghouse that rookie Chris Chandler came in when Truadeau was shaken up last week.

Rams (2-0) at Raiders (1-1)
This is like an extra home game for the Rams, the kids from the Santa Ana Freeway. They may have more fans on their side than the home team, the Harbor Freeway gang.

This is a prove-it game for the Santa Anas, whose two wins are over Green Bay and Detroit, both of whom figure to be out of the playoff race by midseason.

the 18 yard line of the Buffalos.

On fourth and one-foot from the nine-yard-line, the home team made a valiant stand, stopping Greenwood for a loss to the Buff 26.

The Rangers started the second quarter on Stanton's 37 yard line after another bad snap on the prior punt. The home team again put up a fight at their goal with fine performances from Anthony Inman and Brian Cain to halt the Greenwood surge. The Stanton offense could not move the ball, and Greenwood could do no better as both teams went into the locker room with a 0-0 halftime deadlock.

Greenwood opened the half by kicking off to the Buffs but stopped Stanton on three plays, forcing the home team to punt. Donnell ran for 20 yards on an option keeper, and teammate Jimmy Cox added 23, moving to the Buffalo 15 yard line. From that point, Donnell managed to put Greenwood in the lead for good as he scampered around the right end for 15 yards.

A failed PAT gave the visitors a 6-0 lead with 9:17 to go in the quarter.

Donnell began to work on another score for the Rangers, with a series of option keepers and fine running by Cox and Marquez. On the next play, Donnell hit the line of scrimmage like lightning and squeezed into the end zone for his second score. The PAT pass to Sean Holcomb was successful, to put the Rangers up 14-0 with 11:04 left.

Six seconds later, Stanton began a scoring drive, using a good mix of offensive plays to leave Greenwood flat on its heels. With strong running by Kevin Barnes, along with five passes from Brad Holland to Gilbert Ruiz, Stanton put their first points on the scoreboard to cut the visitors' lead.

The PAT was good, adding two points to Stanton's effort, on a fine catch by Randy Esparza leaving the score at 14-8 in Greenwood's favor.

Despite recovering two fumbles, on the Rangers' side of the field, Stanton could not move the stubborn visitors and the game ended when Tim Flowers intercepted a Holland pass, squashing any hopes of a Buff comeback.

Brazil dunks Canada; Chen leads diving competition

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Highlights of the Summer Olympics:

MEN'S BASKETBALL
Oscar Schmidt, who sank the United States in the finals of last year's Pan American Games, scored 36 points as Brazil defeated Canada 125-109.

WOMEN'S DIVING
Attempting the most difficult dives of the preliminary platform competition, 14-year-old Chen Xiaodan of China moved into first, leading a field of 12, including Americans Michele Mitchell and Wendy Williams, into the finals.

QUOTE OF THE DAY
"Maybe it doesn't have quite as much height and maybe not the one individual star, but we still have more quickness and more speed and more balance throughout. After we play this tournament, I'll know the answer to that question. It's very difficult to say right now."

— U.S. women's basketball coach Kay Yow, comparing this year's team with the 1984 gold medal winners in Los Angeles.

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE

Medal Events
Seven medals will be awarded: Women's 100-meter freestyle and 400-meter individual medley swimming; men's 100-meter breaststroke and 200-meter freestyle swimming; 56-kilogram weightlifting; and men's small bore rifle and women's short pistol fire.

Women's Basketball
The United States — including returning veterans Teresa Edwards and Anne Donovan — begins defense of its Olympic gold medal against Czechoslovakia.

Men's Swimming
American Matt Biondi is featured in the 200-meter freestyle.

Women's Swimming
American record-holder Janet

Evans competes in the 400-meter individual medley.

Women's Gymnastics
Women's compulsory competition begins with world champion Romania, led by current world champion Aurelia Dobre and Daniela Silivas, facing the Soviet Union, led by former world champion Elena Shushunova. America's top hope is national champion Phoebe Mills.

Bowling

Sport almost arrives at Olympics

By FRED BAYLES
AP National Writer

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Forget about it right now. No mention of beer, hops or brewski. You might think there would be because of the subject of this story. Bowling. Olympic bowling.

Sure, snigger if you want. Say bowling isn't in the same, well, league with other Olympic sports like badminton or synchronized swimming. But the fact is this year it is. Almost.

For the first time since the 1936 Berlin Games, bowling is in the Olympics as an exhibition sport. Exhibition sports rank below demonstration sports which rank below medal sports.

But that doesn't lessen the honor for U.S. kglers Mark Lewis and Debbie McMullen who represent not only the United States, but the continents of North and South America as well.

"This is an absolute thrill," said McMullen, a 27-year-old bowling center employee from Denver. "I got to march in the opening parade and when people were shouting 'USA' it just brought tears to my eyes."

Lewis, a 33-year-old McDonald's manager from Wichita, Kan., is more experienced in the foreign arena. He's been in international competition for years.

That's right, international competition. Bowling is not just an American sport. It's big in Finland and Sweden, Japan and Germany. Korea appears to be nuts for the game, judging from the number of giant bowling pins on roof tops that mark the bowling alleys.

Some 100 million people around the world bowl, according to Roger Tessman, president of Federation Internationale Des Quilleurs. Loosely translated, that's the international federation of bowlers.

"The only sport bigger is soccer," said Tessman, of Greendale, Wis.

The two Americans earned their place in the round-robin tournament by winning their respective preliminaries last month in Florida against competitors from the Americas.

Although bowlers had hoped for Olympic games pitting country against country, officials said it would take too long and limited the competition to the top players from three zones, the Americas, Europe and Asia.

The Olympic committee was so stingy with the time allotted to bowling that the 12 men and 12 women competitors must squeeze their opening ceremonies, initial competition, finals and medal presentations into nine hours.

Despite the stepchild's treatment at Seoul and the initially cool get into the 1992 Games in Barcelona, they are hopeful bowling will someday become an Olympic medal sport.

"We must do everything we can to get into the Olympics and we will succeed," said Gerth Bettnger, a German bowling official and coach of West Germany's Wolfgang Strupf, a 23-year-old competitor from Munich.

Lewis, a slim, intense competitor who threw strike after strike at a practice session, spends 25 hours a week at his bowling, practicing, working out with weights and squeezing a tennis ball to improve arm and wrist strength.

"People make fun of bowling, but it's really not much different than something like archery," he said. "You have to aim accurately at a target 60-feet away and hit it with a 16-pound ball."

Lewis has spent most of his life in bowling competition, so it's understandable that he is a little annoyed when he is asked the beer question.

"No," he says after a long silence. "I don't think I've ever had a beer when I was bowling."

His coach, Bob Mills of Chicago, bristles at the suggestion that serious competitors drink. Do people think pro golfers drink because of the casual duffer's dalliance on the 19th hole? he asks.

It's showtime for NBC's TV coverage

By RICK WARNER
AP Sports Writer

SEOUL, South Korea — For the 9,627 athletes at the Summer Olympics, the opening ceremony was a time to relax and have fun.

But for those working on NBC's telecast of the event, it was a pressure-packed time that would set the tone for the network's 179 hours of coverage from Seoul.

After Saturday's four-hour telecast went off without a major hitch, everyone at NBC breathed a little easier.

"We were relieved that technically we got the show on and off the air," said John Gonzalez, who produced the show from Olympic Stadium.

"All the cameras worked, all the microphones worked, all the switches worked. As complex as the production was, a lot of things could have gone wrong. But they didn't, and that gives us a good feeling going into the competition."

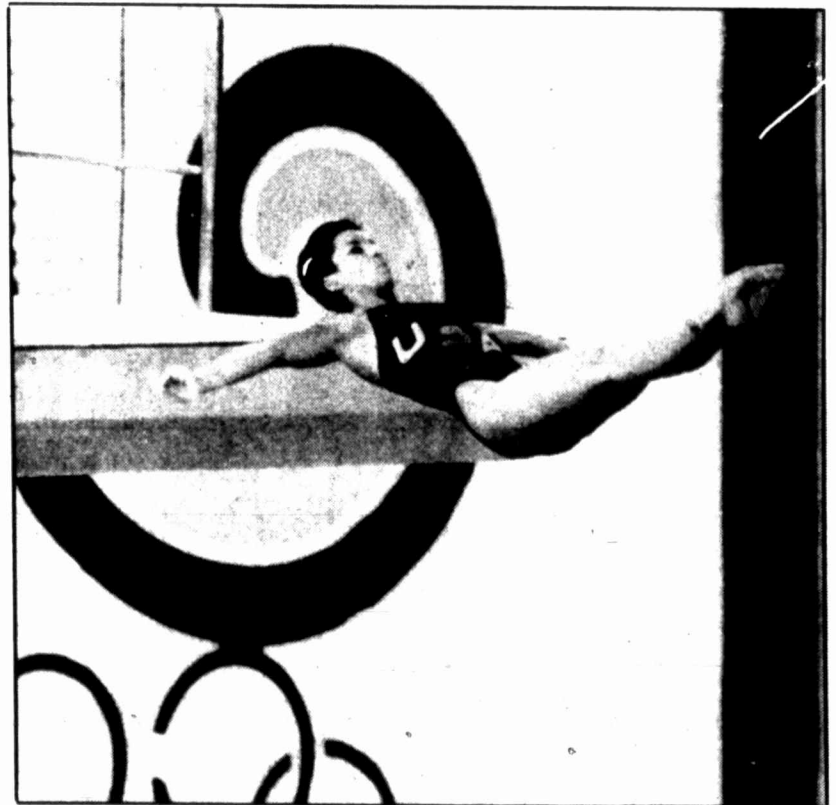

One of the highlights of the show was an aerial shot of a group of parachutists forming the Olympic rings 10,000 feet in the air. The picture was taken by a "point-of-view" camera attached to the helmet of another parachutist floating above the group.

"That 15-second picture cost $75,000, but I think it was worth every cent," Gonzalez said. "It was one of the most dramatic shots ever on television."

The Korean Broadcasting System, which is providing the world feed of the Games, used about 30 cameras to cover the opening ceremonies. But NBC relied almost exclusively on its own nine cameras.

"We wanted to give viewers more wide shots, more of an overview than they would get from the world feed," Gonzalez said. "Our style of coverage is a lot different than theirs. They show a lot more tight shots and close-ups."

The bulk of Saturday's show

SEOUL — Michele Mitchell, of Boca Raton, Fla., makes her second dive of the preliminary platform diving competition Saturday. At the end of preliminaries, Mitchell was in second place.

consisted of the colorful parade of nations.

Watching 160 teams march around a track for two hours can get tedious, but hosts Bryant Gumbel and Dick Enberg kept it interesting by providing anecdotes and background on the athletes and nations.

For instance, viewers were told that the Iranians objected to marching behind a woman sign-carrier because of their Islamic beliefs. The woman was replaced with an Iranian soldier.

Viewers also learned that some Israeli athletes may miss out on medals because they won't compete on Yom Kippur, the holiest Jewish holiday. And that French athletes were granted a prohibition waiver at the 1932 Los Angeles Games so they could drink wine.

Although the overall tenor of the telecast was serious, it had a number of light moments.

When the cameras showed the daughter of Spain's King Juan Carlos carrying that country's flag, Enberg called the Olympics a "microcosm of the world, from royalty to the common man."

"But I wonder if she's staying in the Olympic Village," Gumbel quipped. "Let's not carry this thing too far."

Enberg was struck by the multi-colored uniforms worn by the Ghana delegation.

"And you thought fluorescent Flo Griffith had some outfits," he said, referring to the U.S. sprinter known for her eye-catching track suits.

One of the funniest moments occurred when the Yugoslavian team marched into the stadium.

"That's the captain of their women's handball team carrying the flag," Enberg said, obviously reading from prepared notes.

Seconds later, the camera panned to the front of the delegation, where a large man with a mustache was carrying the Yugoslav flag.

"Obviously, not all our information is up to date," Enberg laughed.

Unlike ABC, which has tended to gloss over controversy and negative news in its Olympic telecasts, NBC showed a willingness to acknowledge that the Games take place in an imperfect world.

Gumbel, Enberg and news anchor Tom Brokaw mentioned the North Korean boycott of the Games, the heavy security in Seoul, the Soviet Union's domination of recent Olympics, the deadly hurricane that swept through Jamaica several days ago, and even John Thompson's ultra-strict handling of the U.S. basketball team.

"It's almost like they've been in jail," Enberg said. "It's caused some grumblings among the players."

The candid comments were refreshing, but most of the live interviews weren't.

Track star Carl Lewis and swimmer Mary T. Meagher wore microphones during the parade so they could talk with the NBC anchors. But their words added little to the telecast.

The soft theme music composed by Boston Pops conductor John Williams was a pleasant contrast to the pounding anthem used by ABC. So far, the Olympics are sounding and looking good.

Matching memories to muslin

BY TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Charlene Bulls of Spearman is into all sorts of things. She and her husband bought an old hotel building, restored it and made it into a gift shop. She also has a ladies clothing store in downtown Spearman.

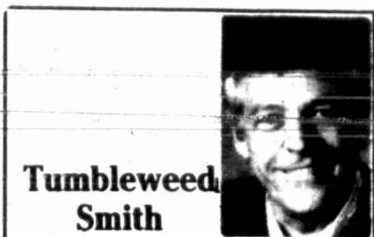

Once at market she noticed she was buying items that she could make herself, so she started doing just that. Most of the things had to do with country crafts and sewing.

While copying some quilting patterns one day she got the idea of copying a photograph. She put a photograph on the copying machine and ran it through. The results were good. As an experiment she tried to copy a photograph onto a sheet of muslin. The photograph showed up extremely clear on the fabric.

Charlene was excited and felt she had really come up with something significant. She spent the next two years getting a patent for her idea. It was issued finally in February.

Since that time, Charlene has sold her fabric photos all over the United States and beyond. She charges five dollars per picture. Handling charges are $2.50. "Customers send me their photographs, I reproduce them and send their photos and the reproductions back," says Charlene.

She went to New York and visited with some people who publish a monthly sewing magazine. They liked her idea, too. They agreed to give Charlene a page a month for three years. On the page, Charlene dozen photos of her son. "His quilt started with his birth announcement and ended with his graduation from college picture. There were various pictures in-between showing his accomplishments and experiences through the years."

She can reproduce the photos in a variety of colors. She recommends blue or brown.

She knows how valuable some of the family photographs are and treats each picture with respect. "The owners of the photographs don't want to part with them," says Charlene, "but they want to show them to family members. This is an easy way to reproduce them and share those photographs that may be in somebody's old trunk somewhere."

Charlene is working on a ranch quilt. Each square of the quilt represents a section of land. Photos of windmills, structures, cattle, vehicles and irrigation patterns are reproduced on the quilt.

"One of the most interesting quilts I've made recently is a retirement quilt for the mayor of Spearman," says Charlene. "We started with a copy of the minutes from his very first city council meeting and ended with his last one. In the quilt we used photos and newspaper stories about him that were printed over a twelve year period."

Pictures up to size 8 by 10 in black and white or color can be put onto the fabric.

conversion attempt was no good. But two more Williams' runs and a pass to teammate Casey Cooper would provide the Bulldogs with a cushion they would maintain throughout the contest.

Glaze was the leading passer in the game for the Wildcats, completing 12 of 22 tosses for 201 yards and three TDs. Julian Valle was the leader rusher for Grady, with 61 yards.

Despite the loss, Peel sounded optimistic when talking about the remainder of Grady's schedule. "We're getting there," he said. "Offensively, we moved the ball a lot better than we did last week, and we're getting the people on defense we need."

Williams had a hand in every TD and passed for another. His first, a 55-yard run, gave the visitors an 8-0 lead with 6:13 left in the opening quarter.

Grady closed the gap to 8-6 early in the next stanza when Scott Terrell took a Scott Glaze pass and rambled 11 yards for the tally. The

Harris Cabinet Works started out as hobby

When Denver Harris retired from the railroad in 1983, he quietly opened up a shop to house his hobby — woodworking — and kept busy making cabinets and wood products for a select few friends.

His talent became so well-known — and his work so much in demand — that he decided it was time to make the change from hobby to business. His son, Gary, joined him in the enterprise in January.

Fine wood cabinetry for kitchen and bathroom is the firm's specialty, says Gary, but they also build furniture for home or office.

"People bring in pictures clipped from magazines," says Gary. "These are frequently items built from particle board, and the customer wants them made from solid wood."

Furniture they have constructed in the past include computer housing — hutches and desks; a 32-gun case with glass doors; free-standing and built-in bookcases.

One of the most unique jobs was a radial spoke wood-and-glass transom and sidelights for the front entrance of a renovated vintage home south of town.

"We also build dressers and night stands — and we'd like to build some water bed frames," says Gary.

The two men do all the finishing and trimming of everything built in the shop. If replacement cabinets are in order, they tear out the old ones and install the new. Cabinet jobs can include anything from adding doors to custom-designing and installing complete new cabinets. They also cut counter-tops and lay formica.

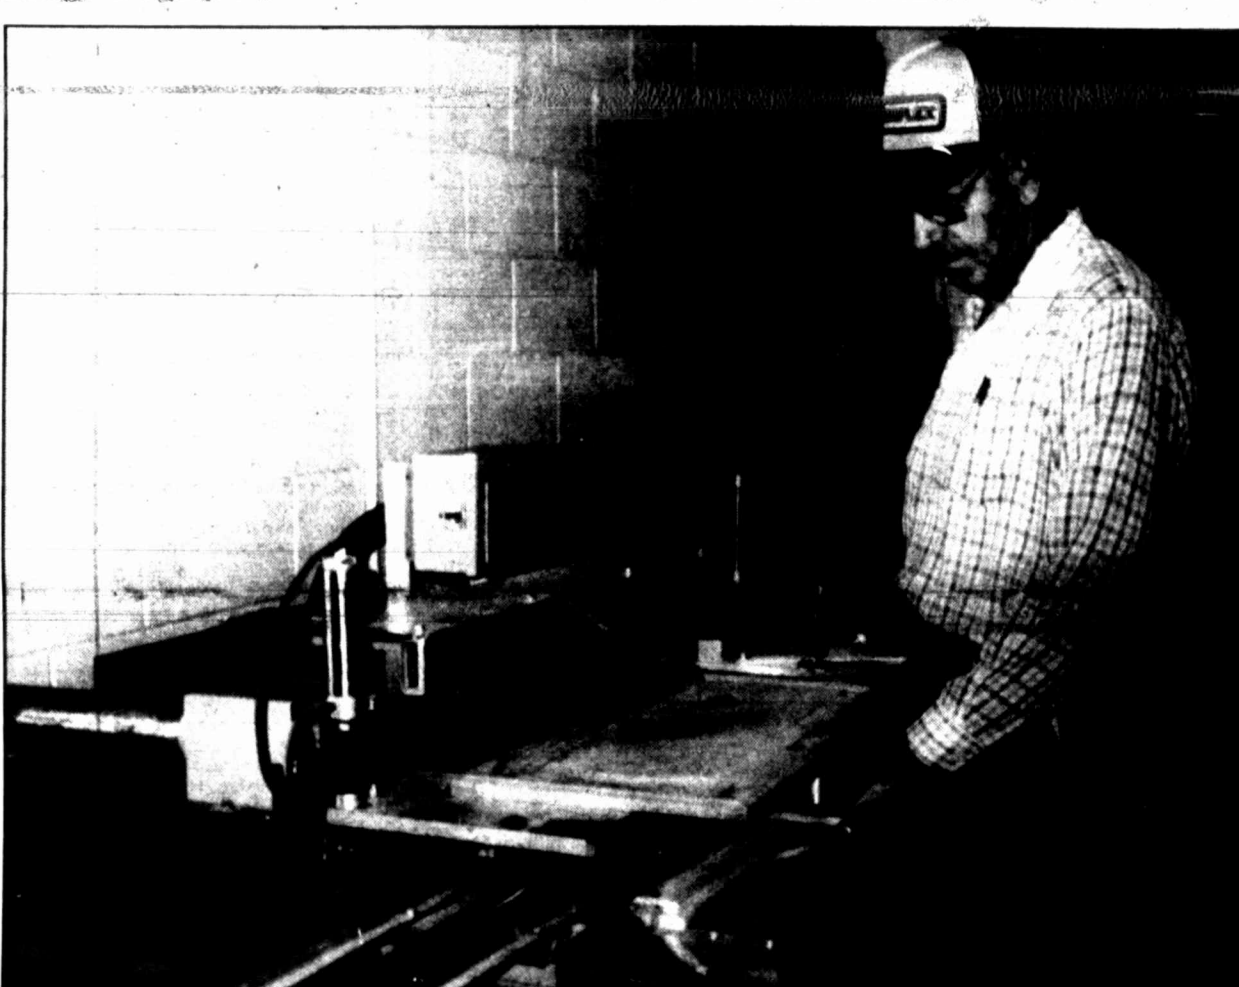

The shop — roomy and well-lighted — is equipped with thousands of dollars worth of specialty machines. There's a machine to make raised-panel doors, one to make drawers with dove-tail slots, and another to make the face (front) of cabinets, to name just a few.

Many accessories can be made to match your cabinets — lazy susan, potato bins and the like.

Their newest service is the capacity to supply and install cultured marble tops with integral sinks for bathrooms.

Gary advises that the shop can purchase materials at wholesale prices. "We can get anything on the market," he says. "We're trying to provide another choice in Big Spring for fine wood-working."

Harris Cabinet Works is located at 2810 FM 700. Business hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Denver Harris demonstrates his mastery of a raised-panel door machine used in the construction of custom cabinetry. He and son, Gary, build fine hardwood products — including furniture — at Harris Cabinet Works, 2810 FM 700.

Hurst, Red Sox avoid a repeat of history

By The Associated Press
 Lightning didn't strike twice for the New York Yankees.
 New York was hoping for a repeat of its infamous four-game sweep at Fenway Park 10 years ago, but with Boston's Bruce Hurst on the mound Saturday, the Yankees' dream of catching the first-place Red Sox has faded.

AL

Dwight Evans homered to lead off the eighth inning and Hurst outpitched Charles Hudson as the Red Sox strengthened their hold on first in the American League East with a 3-1 victory over the Yankees.

The Red Sox, who have won 10 of 13, increased their lead over New York to 5 1/2 games. Detroit and Milwaukee both started the day five back.

"I felt real comfortable and it was a lot of fun," said Hurst, 18-5, after he struck out nine and walked two while allowing only two runners to reach second base.

Boston has taken two in a row from the Yankees after dropping the series opener and will have Mike Smithson pitch Sunday.

"We played real well," Hurst said. "It was just the way it was supposed to be. I had to be careful because there was no room for mistakes."

Hurst, who has lost just once in 14 decisions this season at Fenway, allowed only three hits for his sixth complete game in 30 starts.

Evans lined a 2-0 pitch from Hudson into the left-field screen for his 16th homer and 100th RBI of the season.

Hudson, 4-4, was a last-minute replacement for Tommy John, who had a virus. Hudson had allowed only two hits before the home run, but then gave up a one-out double to Todd Benzing and left with a 3-2 count on Ellis Burks.

Twins 3, White Sox 1
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jeff Reardon became the first pitcher in baseball history to save 40 games in both leagues and Allan Anderson won for the 10th time in his last 13 decisions as Minnesota beat Chicago.

Anderson, 14-9, allowed five hits in eight innings, struck out a season-high eight and walked two. Reardon pitched the ninth for his 40th save in 47 opportunities. In 1985, he saved 41 for the Montreal Expos.

In the sixth inning, Tommy Herr walked and Gary Gaetti connected one out later off Jerry Reuss, 11-9, for his 28th homer.

Indians 12, Blue Jays 3
TORONTO (AP) — Jay Bell's two RBI singles highlighted an eight-run fifth inning as Cleveland beat Toronto.

The Indians hit nine singles in the fifth, two short of the major-league record, and took advantage of two Toronto errors as they chased Blue Jays starter Jimmy Key, 10-5.

Luis Medina led off the fifth with an infield hit, took third on Andy Allanson's single and scored on Bell's single. Julio Franco, who lost by Pittsburgh totaling five will bring the division championship.

Montreal, which has lost seven straight to the Mets, tried to make the best of the situation.

"There are still two weeks left. Let's do something. It would be nice to finish second," said Dave Martinez, who hit two solo home runs for the Expos.

Martinez went 3-for-3 against winner Ron Darling, 15-9, but it was not enough as the Mets won despite getting just seven hits off Bryn Smith and Jeff Parrett.

Smith, 11-10, allowed three hits in six innings.
 Darling walked one and struck out one in eight innings before leaving with a back spasm. He gave up had three hits, and Reggie Williams followed with RBI singles to knock out Key.

Greg Swindell, 17-13, allowed nine hits in six-plus innings. Jeff Dedmon pitched three innings of one-hit relief to earn his first save in the American League.

Tigers 7, Orioles 3
DETROIT (AP) — Alan Trammell, returning to the Detroit lineup after missing five days, snapped a tie with a two-run single in the seventh and Chet Lemon hit a three-run homer in the eighth off Doug Sisk, Lemon's 13th this season.

Detroit remained five games behind Boston and moved into second place, one-half game ahead of the New York Yankees, who lost to Boston 3-1.

Doyle Alexander, 12-11, won for the first time in eight starts since Aug. 6. Mike Henneman got the final out for his 20th save.

With the score tied 2-2, Lemon led off the seventh with a double.

Mets lower magic number; bomb Expos

By The Associated Press
 The New York Mets' magic number is five. Manager Davey Johnson's is 90.

Johnson became the first National League manager to win at least 90 games in his first five seasons when the Mets beat the Montreal Expos 6-2 Saturday.

NL

"I expected that," said Johnson, who has battled with general manager Frank Cashen over personnel. "I expected it as soon as they let me manage this year."

New York officially eliminated third-place Montreal from the National League East race and any combination of Mets' victories or two hits in each of the first three innings but then settled down. Randy Myers closed.

Giants 4, Astros 2
HOUSTON (AP) — Rick Reuschel scattered 11 hits to win his 19th game and Will Clark drove in his 100th run of the season as San Francisco beat Houston Astros for its fifth straight victory.

Reuschel, who has lost just eight times, walked none and struck out two for his fifth complete game. He won 20 games for the Chicago Cubs in 1977.

Robby Thompson led off the fourth with a single against Jim Deshaies, 10-13, and went to second on a wild pitch. Clark followed with an RBI double and scored on Candy Maldonado's single to give the Giants a 2-0 lead.

 Clark leads the National League in RBI. His previous career high was 91 last season.

Cubs 6, Cardinals 4
CHICAGO (AP) — Darrin Jackson drove in three runs with two solo homers and an RBI double as Chicago beat St. Louis.

Jeff Pico, 6-7, replaced starter Jamie Moyer with none out in the sixth and shut down the Cardinals on four hits.

The Cubs scored twice in the sixth to snap a 4-4 tie. Doug Dascenzo led off with a single to left against reliever John Costello, 4-2, and took second on left fielder John Morris' fielding error.

Dascenzo was sacrificed to third and scored on Ryne Sandberg's sacrifice fly.

A master of glass

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

To most people a clear pane of glass is something to look through, not at.

But when Luis Molina looks at a pane of glass, he sees a medium for a work of art.

Molina, 27, a former carpenter, now supports himself by transforming glass and mirrors into objects of art using an acid etching process.

"Glass is just glass to most people," said Molina. "But to me, it can be a piece of art. Glass is everywhere, so it can get monotonous, just plain glass. This (etching process) really turns a regular piece of glass into a work of art."

Molina, who was born and raised in Coahoma, has been turning glass into art for the last three years. His interest in etching images into glass began when his brother Emilio showed him the process.

Molina said he wanted to put a design on the back window of his pickup, and Emilio suggested using an acid etching process that he had learned about in high school.

Since then, Molina has completed between 300 and 400 etchings in mirrors and glass.

What began as a hobby has developed into his "bread and butter," Molina said. He has given up the construction business to devote himself to developing a full-time glass-etching business.

He recently went to Dallas for six months in an attempt to establish his business there. Molina said he found plenty of work in Dallas, but soon got homesick and returned to Big Spring.

The etching process Molina uses is painstaking; it requires a steady hand, for there is little room for error.

"Any little flaw in this picture, and I'm liable for the glass," said Molina as he carved an outline in contact paper affixed to the sunroof, valued at $196.

Molina first draws an outline of the image on contact paper, and affixes the contact paper to the glass or mirror.

He then carves away sections of the contact paper, and brushes acid over the openings. The acid removes a fine layer of the glass, creating the images.

Molina then puts the final touches on the glass or mirror by hand etching the remaining details.

Since he would have to spend at least 6 hours etching the sunroof design, Molina estimated he would charge about $65 for his work.

Manufactured etched glass can be acquired cheaper, he said, but a buyer has a limited choice of stock designs.

Each of his works is an original, said Molina, adding that once an image is etched into glass the value of the glass increases.

Most insurance companies will recognize the increased value of the glass, whether it be in a home or automobile, he said.

Molina said he has refined his etching ability and can create highly detailed works. "The detail is the difference between an experienced etcher and the beginner," he said.

Currently, Molina receives most of his business by word of mouth and personal salesmanship.

Always on the lookout for potential projects, Molina said he will occasionally notice a house with a distinctive glass door, for example, and ask the owners of the house if they would be interested in having the glass decorated.

Molina said he acquired his largest project to date — one that took 18 hours to complete — by asking local resident Al Gluege if he would like to have a design etched into his glass door.

After looking at pictures of previous work Molina had done — etchings of flowers, nature scenes, animals, and portraits — Gluege had Molina etch an elaborate flower design on the door.

Molina said he is eager to acquire much larger projects.

"I'd like to get a hold of a major building in downtown Dallas or Midland," he said. "I'd like to do something really big."

One of Luis Molina's works adorns the back window of a truck in the top right photo. Molina works on a sun roof window on his dining room table as a young admirer watches in the large photo above. A steady hand is required to cut the details drawn on the contact paper in the left photo. As Molina works on a screen door, fiancee Jamie Galvez watches the traffic pass in the bottom left photo. After the contact paper is cut, acid is spread onto the glass, above left, and the paper is removed when the acid has dried, leaving the glass etched to the pattern.

Hernandez-Moreno

Lupe Hernandez, 1300 Lamar, and Martin D. Moreno, Fort Hood, exchanged wedding vows Sept. 3, 1988 at an 11 a.m. ceremony at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, with Rev. James P. Delaney, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Elvira Hernandez, 1300 Lamar, and the late Deciderio Hernandez Sr.

Bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Elpidia Moreno, El Paso.

The couple knelt on white satin cushions before the altar, which was among arrangements of summer flowers.

Organist was Eva Garcia. Guitarist was Carmen Brooks. Vocalists were Steve Chavez, Tommy Chavez, Melinda Hernandez, Norma Martinez and Mary Jane Salazar.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Steve Hernandez. She wore a white, floor-length gown of taffeta. The bodice was adorned with pearls, sequins and lace. Long sleeves were fashioned with rows of full ruffles, which matched her chapel-length train. Her bridal veil was accented with a full band of pearls, forming a point on the forehead. The band was adorned with a white poinsettia and a mixture of silk, white flowers with hanging pearls, beads and flowers on the left. She wore pearl and diamond earrings, a gift from the groom.

The bridegroom was dressed in full military blues with full decorations.

She carried a bouquet of white poinsettias with a mixture of small, white, silk flowers, pearls, beads and ribbon. She also carried one single white rose with baby's breath, which she presented as a gift to Our Lady of Fatima at the church altar.

Maid of honor was Dolores Cisneroz. Matron of honor was Margie Rodriguez.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Martha Hernandez, Mrs. Jovita Hernandez, Mrs. Margie Martinez, Mrs. Patsy Leos, Anna Martinez, Mrs. Catarina Espinosa, Melinda Hernandez, Mrs. Norma Martinez, Mary Jane Rios and Nancy Reyes. Trainbearer was Amanda Hernandez.

Local artist's recognition is 'a dream come true'

Local artist Sheree Moates displays the painting she completed under the tutelage of renowned landscape artist, Dalhart Windberg, at a recent landscape workshop.

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

For Sheree Moates, the most enjoyable labors are labors of love — and while she might insist "I'm just a housewife," her husband, Mike, or friends who happen to overhear it might differ.

"She's not just a housewife! She's a professional artist!"

"It's still hard for me to believe I'm an artist," Sheree says. "It's a dream come true."

But the credentials that back up her friends' fervent claim are growing rapidly. The most recent was her acceptance for an advanced artist workshop in Lake City, Colo. conducted by Dalhart Windberg, generally regarded as the country's best-selling landscape artist. This is the third Windberg workshop she has been accepted for; each is limited to about 20 students, carefully chosen from several hundred hopefuls.

To apply for a chance to wield brushes under the eye of Windberg, applicants must submit photos of some of their work, describe the training they have had, and state why they want to attend the workshop.

"The first time I applied, three years ago, for a landscape workshop at Goliad, Texas, I didn't really expect to be accepted," Sheree remembers. "And when I got there, it was just awful! All the other artists were teachers or professional artists. I was too embarrassed to paint in front of them."

Sheree turned to Windberg's assistant, Michael Gonzales, and moaned "Why am I here?" Gonzales told her that the master had seen "something in your work," and assured her she belonged there.

Windberg takes his students outdoors and encourages them to paint from nature. For many artists, this is the first time they have painted outside the "safe, secure confines of a studio." For all the art courses Sheree had taken, she still had questions. "I never asked a question about painting that Windberg couldn't answer," she says.

Sheree's entry into the field of art was literally by chance. While a business major at Howard College, a friend asked her to join a Tole painting class. Then Sheree decided to take art classes with a private teacher "just for a hobby."

As a lark, she displayed some of her paintings in her friend's booth at the Big Spring Arts & Crafts Festival. "I sold 14 out of the 20 I had prepared," Sheree recalls. "I thought to myself 'Now it's time to get serious!'"

Sheree immediately switched her major to art at Howard College. Studying drawing and design under the college's Becky Smiley "made a big difference. I could see it right away!"

The artist has won numerous local and regional awards at shows in Odessa, Andrews, Post and San Angelo as well as Big Spring. One of those she's proudest of is "The People's Choice" award three years ago in a Crossroads Fine Arts Association show: the public chose as their favorite her moving portrait of a farmer looking skyward and holding out his hand to the rain. Entitled "The Life Giver," the painting is not for sale.

"This is our family's favorite," explains Sheree.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: If you do your part, you will get even better than you give. Romance warms up for the young-of-heart in January. Marry in June. Invest money in safe places. It is time to put a limit on entertainment spending. Give those credit cards a rest! A handsome opportunity could drop in your lap if you travel. Financial rewards come from a variety of sources. Generosity and a forgiving attitude improve your chances for a meaningful, lasting relationship.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: author Samuel Johnson, actors Mel Stewart and Robert Blake, reclusive actress Greta Garbo, actor Jack Warden, Cubs infielder Ryne Sandberg, actress Claudette Colbert.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are in a loving mood. Someone's affection has made you more melow than usual. You want to share your good feelings. A celebration is in the offing. Keep the guest list short.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Football captures your attention, but could cause a rift with others. Be fair when setting up a new family budget. Do not scrimp on something you are buying for your partner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You will shine when you go out socially this weekend. Worship in the way that suits you best. Make your own religious decisions. Take a child to a sports event. Encourage confidences.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You always come through for others. Give them a chance to do something special for you. A good Chinese or Japanese meal would really hit the spot this weekend. Relax at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A new form of entertainment provides a welcome change of pace. Spice up romance and your social schedule. A phone call could prove to be an inspiration. Put family responsibilities before fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): In your heart of hearts you know what must be done to build a successful relationship. Romance is exciting, but may not last. Business affairs could cause temporary frustration. Do not fret.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be aware of creating the wrong impression while trying to attract the attention of someone who intrigues you. Shuffle the cards and add more variety to your leisure-time activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Act with confidence. Deep down you know what a special human being you are! Quit playing cat-and-mouse or romance will pass you by. Travel to the mountains or sea for fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The die is cast and no amount of battling will change a legal decision. Make the best of things and preserve the dignity of your family. Be more understanding with a young person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are practical and obstinate but must realize that work could be done better in a different setting. You find yourself attracted to someone you ordinarily would think too eccentric. Go slow on romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your unconventional approach to a family money matter works well, surprising most of those involved. Be more affectionate and playful with those you love. Plan a special outing for romantic partner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Acceptance and love help you turn a negative situation completely around. Seek spiritual guidance if still questioning. A hobby may demand more time than you have. Try something else. Mate is supportive.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will enjoy greater personal freedom and begin to build a more satisfying life. Your career and close relationships soar in October. Plan a romantic holiday over Christmas if you can afford it. Search for an island hideaway. You deserve all good things that are coming your way. Continue to dedicate your best efforts to work and loved ones. A scheme that did not work years ago could produce a bonanza now.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: basketball coach Larry Brown, singer "Mama" Cass Elliot, Justice Lewis F. Powell, Brooklyn Dodgers star Duke Snider, Broadway star Twigg.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expect the best from yourself and your children and that is what you will get. It should be easier to concentrate on business this week. Clear away paperwork and get better organized.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your rushing around will produce more benefits this week. Travel brings new business and raises your spirits. Replace bad habits with good ones. Avoid eating or drinking too much.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): World events could produce a better financial climate for your business. A parent-child relationship is strengthened by more candor on both sides. Heed the financial advice of an old friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You will find greater contentment when you become busier. Do not let a disappointment make you bitter. It is more important to have an affectionate, caring partner than a financial or intellectual equal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Nothing makes you more productive than a business challenge. Turn down a social invitation and use your spare time to plan how you can move up the career ladder faster. Your luck holds.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your serious, contemplative nature helps you move a major business deal along. Exciting money prospects are just around the corner. Details are more important than you imagine. Doublecheck facts, figures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Alienated family friends will return if you issue a gracious invitation. Time away from a worrisome situation will help restore peace of mind. Deal with a money matter first, though. Curb spending.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): People you do not even know have deep admiration and respect for what you are doing. If away from home, write regularly to loved ones. It is within your power to change a situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Short trips are lucky. Find new interests that will help you forget a recent disappointment. A single telephone call could solve a domestic problem. It is time to start saving more money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An unexpected financial windfall makes you extraordinarily happy. So does belated recognition for your good works! Travel could be a source of inspiration. See if a long-standing invitation still stands.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Something you dread could turn out to be a wonderful opportunity. Count your blessings and thank your friends. Someone who has been stringing you along needs to be set straight. Be candid.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Focus on one-to-one relationships and you will enjoy greater happiness than you have known before. You will be in a healthier frame of mind once you get something out in the open.

Bride-to-be ponders virtue of telling the truth

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to be married soon. Irving (not his real name) is 21 and I am 22. He is a virgin, but I don't think I am. We have talked about sex, and Irving confided that he is apprehensive about his "performance" due to his lack of experience. I have not told him that I may not be a virgin because if he knows this, he will be even more self-conscious about his performance.

It happened on a band trip when I was in high school. It happened only once, and neither one of us knew what we were doing — that's why I can't say for sure whether I'm a virgin or not.

I feel guilty getting married to a man who thinks I'm 100 percent pure, when I may not be. Should I tell him?

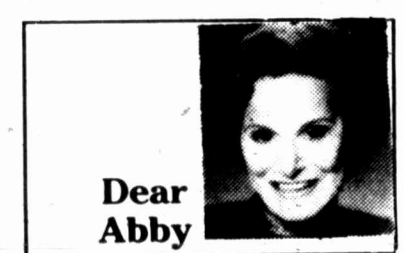

Sign me, "Ivory" — or ...
99 PERCENT PURE
DEAR IVORY: Don't volunteer any confessions — 99 percent pure is pure enough.

***
DEAR ABBY: You recently praised a father for teaching his young son to save money. This is commendable, but equally important as teaching a child to save is teaching a child to be charitable.

Giving to others is one of the deeply satisfying experiences we can teach our children.

TAUGHT TO GIVE
DEAR TAUGHT: How true. As far back as my memory can take me, every Jewish home had a little blue-and-white box in its kitchen. It was called a "pushkeh," and whenever a family member had good luck, he or she would drop 50 cents or a dollar in the "pushkeh" — for charity. What a wonderful way to celebrate a happy event or good fortune, and what better way to establish the habit of giving!

***
DEAR ABBY: Thank you from the bottom of my heart for appearing before the Maryland State Legislature last March to plead for a bill to end the use of live animals for testing cosmetics and household products. Even though that bill didn't make it, it was close, and it got national attention because of your celebrity status.

Dear Abby

Is there a list of companies that use live animals to test their products? Also, is there a list of companies that do not test their products on live animals? If so, it would be wonderful if you could publish both lists.

These poor, tortured animals need to be spared.

JESSICA BERMAN,
BETHESDA, MD.

DEAR JESSICA: Space in my column is much too limited to publish either list, but both lists are available. Write to: PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), P.O. Box 42516, Washington, D.C. 20015.

Send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope. PETA is a non-profit organization, so please be a dear, and enclose a buck.

***
DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I divorced a man who had little time for me and our 2-year-old daughter.

The one serious relationship I had since my divorce recently dissolved, and now my ex-husband has been avidly pursuing me. He patiently waited for me during my love affair, and was there to pick up the pieces. Now he wants to remarry me. He's been to counseling and is sure that we can make a go of our marriage if he has another chance.

My question: What is the success rate of your readers who have remarried the spouses they once divorced? I am very much interested in the response this may draw from your readers. Please inquire. It would mean a lot to me.

PERPLEXED IN BETHLEHEM
DEAR PERPLEXED: I'll try. Readers, if you remarried your ex-husband, how did it work out? Please let me hear from you.

***
DEAR ABBY: A neighbor in our subdivision has been doing me the "favor" of retrieving my mail from my mailbox and bringing it to my door! I would accept it as a kindly gesture if it didn't always occur when there is an obvious change in our home routine — such as when we have company, or she is curious about our family activities. I understand she has done this to other neighbors, too.

There is nothing in my mail that would embarrass me, but I feel that my privacy is being invaded. This neighbor's children have also brought our mail to us on occasion, and I fear that an important letter or bill could be lost in the process.

I do not wish to confront this neighbor personally, as she has contact with many neighbors and I would hate to get on her blacklist.

Please comment on what she is doing. A mention in your column would be great.

LEAVE MY MAIL ALONE

DEAR LEAVE: It is a federal offense to remove mail from a mailbox other than your own. Leave a note to that effect in your mailbox where she will be sure to see it.

***
DEAR ABBY: I am a female working in a family-owned business. My father and sisters are my bosses. When I was younger, I was a little on the wild side, but since then, I've settled down dramatically. The problem is that I have two tattoos. One is on my left forearm and the other is on my right upper arm.

Military

Navy Seaman Apprentice Matthew S. Mayes, son of Fred R. and Janice L. Davis of 4105 Muir St., has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During his eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He is a 1988 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Local artist's recognition is 'a dream come true'

Local artist Sheree Moates displays the painting she completed under the tutelage of renowned landscape artist, Dalhart Windberg, at a recent landscape workshop.

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

For Sheree Moates, the most enjoyable labors are labors of love — and while she might insist "I'm just a housewife," her husband, Mike, or friends who happen to overhear it might differ.

"She's not just a housewife! She's a professional artist!" "It's still hard for me to believe I'm an artist," Sheree says. "It's a dream come true."

But the credentials that back up her friends' fervent claim are growing rapidly. The most recent was her acceptance for an advanced artist workshop in Lake City, Colo. conducted by Dalhart Windberg, generally regarded as the country's best-selling landscape artist. This is the third Windberg workshop she has been accepted for; each is limited to about 20 students, carefully chosen from several hundred hopefuls.

To apply for a chance to wield brushes under the eye of Windberg, applicants must submit photos of some of their work, describe the training they have had, and state why they want to attend the workshop.

"The first time I applied, three years ago, for a landscape workshop at Goliad, Texas, I didn't really expect to be accepted," Sheree remembers. "And when I got there, it was just awful! All the other artists were teachers or professional artists. I was too embarrassed to paint in front of them."

Sheree turned to Windberg's assistant, Michael Gonzales, and moaned "Why am I here?" Gonzales told her that the master had seen "something in your work," and assured her she belonged there.

Windberg takes his students outdoors and encourages them to paint from nature. For many artists, this is the first time they have painted outside the "safe, secure confines of a studio." For all the art courses Sheree had taken, she still had questions: "I never asked a question about painting that Windberg couldn't answer," she says.

Sheree's entry into the field of art was literally by chance. While a business major at Howard College, a friend asked her to join a Tole painting class. Then Sheree decided to take art classes with a private teacher "just for a hobby."

As a lark, she displayed some of her paintings in her friend's booth at the Big Spring Arts & Crafts Festival. "I sold 14 out of the 20 I had prepared," Sheree recalls. "I thought to myself 'Now it's time to get serious!'"

Sheree immediately switched her major to art at Howard College. Studying drawing and design under the college's Becky Smiley "made a big difference. I could see it right away!"

The artist has won numerous local and regional awards at shows in Odessa, Andrews, Post and San Angelo as well as Big Spring. One of those she's proudest of is "The People's Choice" award three years ago in a Crossroads Fine Arts Association show: the public chose as their favorite her moving portrait of a farmer looking skyward and holding out his hand to the rain. Entitled "The Life Giver," the painting is not for sale. "This is our family's favorite," explains Sheree.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

If you do your part, you will get even better than you give. Romance warms up for the young-of-heart in January. Marry in June. Invest money in safe places. It is time to put a limit on entertainment spending. Give those credit cards a rest! A handsome opportunity could drop in your lap if you travel. Financial rewards come from a variety of sources. Generosity and a forgiving attitude improve your chances for a meaningful, lasting relationship.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: author Samuel Johnson, actors Mel Stewart and Robert Blake, reclusive actress Greta Garbo, actor Jack Warden, Cubs infielder Ryne Sandberg, actress Claudette Colbert.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are in a loving mood. Someone's affection has made you more mellow than usual. You want to share your good feelings. A celebration is in the offing. Keep the guest list short.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Football captures your attention, but could cause a rift with others. Be fair when setting up a new family budget. Do not scrimp on something you are buying for your partner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You will shine when you go out socially this weekend. Worship in the way that suits you best. Make your own religious decisions. Take a child to a sports event. Encourage confidences.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You always come through for others. Give them a chance to do something special for you. A good Chinese or Japanese meal would really hit the spot this weekend. Relax at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A new form of entertainment provides a welcome change of pace. Spice up romance and your social schedule. A phone call could prove to be an inspiration. Put family responsibilities before fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): In your heart of hearts you know what must be done to build a successful relationship. Romance is exciting, but may not last. Business affairs could cause temporary frustration. Do not fret.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be aware of creating the wrong impression while trying to attract the attention of someone who intrigues you. Shuffle the cards and add more variety to your leisure-time activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Act with confidence. Deep down you know what a special human being you are! Quit playing cat-and-mouse or romance will pass you by. Travel to the mountains or sea for fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The die is cast and no amount of battling will change a legal decision. Make the best of things and preserve the dignity of your family. Be more understanding with a young person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are practical and obstinate but must realize that work could be done better in a different setting. You find yourself attracted to someone you ordinarily would think too eccentric. Go slow on romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your unconventional approach to a family money matter works well, surprising most of those involved. Be more affectionate and playful with those you love. Plan a special outing for romantic partner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Acceptance and love help you turn a negative situation completely around. Seek spiritual guidance if still questioning. A hobby may demand more time than you have. Try something else. Mate is supportive.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

You will enjoy greater personal freedom and begin to build a more satisfying life. Your career and close relationships soar in October. Plan a romantic holiday over Christmas if you can afford it. Search for an island hideaway. You deserve all good things that are coming your way. Continue to dedicate your best efforts to work and loved ones. A scheme that did not work years ago could produce a bonanza now.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: basketball coach Larry Brown, singer "Mama" Cass Elliot, Justice Lewis F. Powell, Brooklyn Dodgers star Duke Snider, Broadway star Twiggy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expect the best from yourself and your children and that is what you will get. It should be easier to concentrate on business this week. Clear away paperwork and get better organized.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your rushing around will produce more benefits this week. Travel brings new business and raises your spirits. Replace bad habits with good ones. Avoid eating or drinking too much.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): World events could produce a better financial climate for your business. A parent-child relationship is strengthened by more candor on both sides. Heed the financial advice of an old friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You will find greater contentment when you become busier. Do not let a disappointment make you bitter. It is more important to have an affectionate, caring partner than a financial or intellectual equal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Nothing makes you more productive than a business challenge. Turn down a social invitation and use your spare time to plan how you can move up the career ladder faster. Your luck holds.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your serious, contemplative nature helps you move a major business deal along. Exciting money prospects are just around the corner. Details are more important than you imagine. Doublecheck facts, figures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Alienated family friends will return if you issue a gracious invitation. Time away from a worrisome situation will help restore peace of mind. Deal with a money matter first, though. Curb spending.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): People you do not even know have deep admiration and respect for what you are doing. If away from home, write regularly to loved ones. It is within your power to change a situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Short trips are lucky. Find new interests that will help you forget a recent disappointment. A single telephone call could solve a domestic problem. It is time to start saving more money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An unexpected financial windfall makes you extraordinarily happy. So does belated recognition for your good works! Travel could be a source of inspiration. See if a long-standing invitation still stands.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Something you dread could turn out to be a wonderful opportunity. Count your blessings and thank your friends. Someone who has been stringing you along needs to be set straight. Be candid.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Focus on one-to-one relationships and you will enjoy greater happiness than you have known before. You will be in a healthier frame of mind once you get something out in the open.

Bride-to-be ponders virtue of telling the truth

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to be married soon. Irving (not his real name) is 21 and I am 22. He is a virgin, but I don't think I am. We have talked about sex, and Irving confided that he is apprehensive about his "performance" due to his lack of experience. I have not told him that I may not be a virgin because if he knows this, he will be even more self-conscious about his performance.

for testing cosmetics and household products. Even though that bill didn't make it, it was close, and it got national attention because of your celebrity status.

Is there a list of companies that use live animals to test their products? Also, is there a list of companies that do not test their products on live animals? If so, it would be wonderful if you could publish both lists.

These poor, tortured animals need to be spared.

JESSICA BERMAN, BETHESDA, MD.
DEAR JESSICA: Space in my column is much too limited to publish either list, but both lists are available. Write to: PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), P.O. Box 42516, Washington, D.C. 20015.

Send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope. PETA is a non-profit organization, so please be a dear, and enclose a buck.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I divorced a man who had little time for me and our 2-year-old daughter.

The one serious relationship I had since my divorce recently dissolved, and now my ex-husband has been avidly pursuing me. He patiently waited for me during my love affair, and was there to pick up the pieces. Now he wants to remarry me. He's been to counseling and is sure that we can make a go of our marriage if he has another chance.

My question: What is the success rate of your readers who have remarried the spouses they once divorced? I am very much interested in the response this may draw from your readers. Please inquire. It would mean a lot to me.

PERPLEXED IN BETHLEHEM, DEAR PERPLEXED: I'll try. Readers, if you remarried your ex, how did it work out? Please let me hear from you.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor in our subdivision has been doing me the "favor" of retrieving my mail from my mailbox and bringing it to my door! I would accept it as a kindly gesture if it didn't always occur when there is an obvious change in our home routine — such as when we have company, or she is curious about our family activities. I understand she has done this to other neighbors, too.

There is nothing in my mail that would embarrass me, but I feel that my privacy is being invaded. This neighbor's children have also brought our mail to us on occasion, and I fear that an important letter or bill could be lost in the process.

I do not wish to confront this neighbor personally, as she has contact with many neighbors and I would hate to get on her blacklist. Please comment on what she is doing. A mention in your column would be great.

LEAVE MY MAIL ALONE, DEAR LEAVE: It is a federal offense to remove mail from a mailbox other than your own. Leave a note to that effect in your mailbox where she will be sure to see it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a female working in a family-owned business. My father and sisters are my bosses. When I was younger, I was a little on the wild side, but since then, I've settled down dramatically. The problem is that I have two tattoos. One is on my left forearm and the other is on my right upper arm.

Military

Navy Seaman Apprentice Matthew S. Mayes, son of Fred R. and Janice L. Davis of 4105 Muir St., has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During his eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He is a 1988 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Add more fiber to diet

By NAOMI HUNT
Extension agent

For the sake of a healthier diet, Americans are being urged to eat more fiber.

The advantages of adding fiber are clear. Research indicates that certain types of fiber may help lower blood cholesterol levels and help regulate blood sugar levels. High fiber consumption may also help protect against cancer of the colon and rectum and even promote weight loss.

There's no specific recommended dietary allowance (RDA) for fiber, but health experts generally advise 15 grams for every 1000 calories. For most people, that's about 20-35 grams a day.

Most Americans eat about half that amount — 8 to 14 grams of fiber each day. Try these few changes in your eating habits to improve fiber intake:

- Eat more vegetables. Vegetables are the leading source of fiber in our diets. You don't have to stick with the obviously "high-fiber" vegetables like celery either. Peas, for example, are known for tenderness, yet they contain four times the fiber, ounce for ounce, than celery.
- Eat more legumes. If you like chili with beans, baked beans or bean soup you're in luck. The humble dried bean has a high fiber content. Yet only 13 percent of the population eats beans on any given day.

- Switch from white bread to whole grain breads. The dark breads, like whole wheat, cracked wheat, rye and others are a richer source of fiber than white bread. But only about 22 percent of the population eats whole grain breads daily.

- Eat more fruit. Apples, pears, peaches, oranges and almost any other fruit you can think of make quick, inexpensive and nutritious snacks. However, only 58 percent of the population eats fruit on a daily basis.

Cotton and mules to be big feature at fair

By DON RICHARDSON
Extension agent

When it comes to agriculture and its history in Howard County the question of which came first, the cotton or the mules, the answer is about as conflicting as the egg and chicken issue. Regardless, both mules and cotton played a big role in the development of the agricultural economy to Howard County — and both will be featured attractions at this year's annual Howard County Fair.

A new sponsor of this year's agricultural products show will be Holland Seed Company of Big Spring. Special awards will be given to cotton producers who bring in the tallest stalk of cotton, the cotton stalk with the most bolls, the best stripper type of cotton, the stalk with the most open bolls and the most unusual stalk of cotton.

Ask the agent

All cotton producers in the county are eligible to enter this contest and are encouraged to do so. Leon Langly, a member of our county crops program area committee, will serve at this year's agricultural products show at the fair and is looking forward to a lot of good entries in the cotton show.

Other awards will be given for the largest watermelon, the best watermelon and the best farm and garden products and an overall grand championship in the farm products show. All entries in this department must be entered before 5:00 p.m. Monday, in Barn 2 (center barn) of the county buildings complex on the fairgrounds.

Kenny Gellispie of Ackerly is chairing this year's highly entertaining mule show, featuring classes for mules in a halter class, performance classes such as a balloon bust, western pleasure, a bloomer race, a hide race, steer team roping, goat roping, and team penning. The champion all-around mule will receive a special handmade saddle blanket.

The roping and team penning contests are jackpotted events with cash awards for winners of these events.

This will be the second annual mule show for the fair and in spite of inclement weather at last year's fair the event remained one of the fair's most entertaining events. This year's show will begin at 5:00 p.m. Sept. 24 in the rodeo bowl on the fairgrounds. Regular fairgrounds admittance will enable you to see this event and all the other big events.

Artist

"It's especially meaningful because my husband is a farmer." — But Sheree does sell other paintings, and some of them have commanded up to $400.

If that's not enough to convince her she's an artist now, she might take note that her art classes for children at the Hitchin' Post fill up rapidly every fall. She's preparing for a booth for the fourth year at the upcoming Arts & Crafts Festival because "I've always done good at the Festival."

Now that both her children, Kirstie, 11, and Lindsay, 7, are in school, she feels she can devote more time to art. She expects to take off a year from studies and shows to "just paint." Then she will pursue a degree in art from Texas Tech.

Her husband is very proud and supportive of the place her talent fills in their lives. And philosophic, too.

"When I get crabby," Sheree says, "Mike says 'Why don't you go paint?'"
