Testimony heard on shootings

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Two women wounded by gunfire in July testified today during a revocation hearing in 118th District Court for a Big Spring man on felony probation for blinding one of two men he shot in 1986.

Lydia Yanez, 39, and her daughter Lizzie Franco, 20, testified that Pedro Cantu, 40, and two other men opened fire with a pistol and other guns on Yanez's husband, Jimmy Yanez, about 10:30 p.m. July 15 at the Northerst Apartments, 1002 N. Main St. She identified the other shooters as George Armendariz and Adam Valencia.

Jimmy Yanez also testified about the shooting incident, during which Lydia Yanez sustained gunshot wounds requiring surgery and Lizzie Franco was wounded in the arm.

Mrs. Yanez said Cantu confronted her husband while the family was in their automobile returning to their apartment from shopping.

She said Cantu threatened her husband with a knife. She said she saw police — who were on the scene during the confrontation — search Cantu and find no weapon at that time. The police then left, she said.

Mrs. Yanez said she and members of her family were outside their apartment, after police had advised the Yanezes that Cantu's brother Miguel would control Pedro or take him to another location, when Cantu walked across the street with a pistol in his hand and began firing at Jimmy Yanez.

"Then he was shooting everywhere," she said.

She said her husband took her infant son from her after seeing she had been wounded, carried the child into their apartment, turned out all the lights and returned from the apartment carrying "a sawed-off shotgun, to defend us, because I was hit already."

She said her daughter began to scream that she had been hit, under a barrage of questions by Cantu's defense attorney C.E. (Mike) Thomas III, she said there was sufficient light to recognize Cantu's face and that she also knew him by his walk and his clothing.

Then Franco described being pinned down between two cars, where she had taken cover when the shooting began, and watching as her mother was shot, and her father took the child — Franco's child, whom Franco said her mother has raised — into the house. She said she did not

Few clues; officials seek break in heist

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Authorities have received little response to their request for the public's help in solving the Tuesday afternoon robbery of First Federal Savings, 500 South Main St., Police Lt. Juan Palacios said today.

A white male suspect in his early 20s described as being five-feet, seven-inches tall with a slender build, thick, curly shoulder-length brown hair, a medium complexion and very pronounced, pock-mark scars on his face is still being sought.

Palacios said the suspect forced a teller to put cash into a bag he was carrying after presenting a threatening note.

Investigators are unsure if more than one person was involved in the robbery, Palacios said.

"Everyone assumes he had an accomplice, but he may have lived around there (scene of the robbery), had friends around there..." he said.

Tom Clark, one of the special agents investigating the robbery, said today he has been pursuing leads — with little success.

"It's not that we don't have any new leads, but we haven't come up with anything positive. We're checking on information that witnesses gave us and looking at similar crimes that have occurred in the region. We're basically doing legwork and hoping for a break," he said.

Police Chief Joe Cook said his department is checking several leads, "but nothing of any real consequence."

Charles Beil, president of First Federal Savings, said routine business is being conducted since the robbery.

Beil advised that the robbery is the first in the savings and loan institution's 53-year history and he is thankful no one was hurt during the heist.

The teller who complied with the robber's demands did what she was supposed to do, he said.

Asked if there is a procedure tellers are asked to follow in the event a robbery does occur, Beil explained:

"Regardless of the procedure used, the individual is instructed to comply (with the robber's) demands. We don't want any heroes. Money's cheap and life isn't."

Although it has been a number of years since a robbery occurred in Big Spring, the city's banking institutions have not been spared from crime.

John Currie, CEO at State National Bank, 901 Main St., recalled two previous robberies at that longtime Big Spring banking institution.

Although Currie said he couldn't remember the exact years the robberies occurred, he estimated one happened about 40 years ago. The more recent, which transpired approximately 20 years ago, he recalls more vividly.

Currie's father was kidnapped briefly and pistol whipped.

"My father got a pretty good bump on his head in that one. There might have been one or two before those, too," he recalled.

Wayland Reeves, senior vice president at Security State Bank, 1411 Gregg St., said, "I've been here seven years and there has been no robbery attempts in that span of time."

Another banking official who requested anonymity, said however, Security was robbed "12 to 15 years ago."

Security's CEO J.D. Nelson is on vacation and unavailable for comment.

First National Bank President J.P. Taylor said that banking facility — which opened its doors in 1895 — has never been robbed.

Formerly West Texas National Bank, it was merged and became First National in 1932. The bank is located at 400 Main St.

New to Russia: 'Comrade, copies for only 10 cents'

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — A landmark U.S.-Soviet venture will bring copying and printing services to citizens of the Soviet Union, where at one time possession of a mimeograph machine might have meant a one-way trip to Siberia.

In addition, the profit-oriented partnership will sell computers, software, audio-visual products, advertising advice, and American souvenirs, books and magazines in the Soviet Union, according to those involved.

California businessman Martin B. Lopata, chief executive of the U.S. side of the project, said the idea came from the Soviets last winter and flows from the policies of glasnost and perestroika, or openness and restructuring, begun by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

"This is a truly pioneering event," Lopata told a crowded news conference Wednesday.

"It's a very, very major political advance," said Jerry Hough, a Soviet expert at Duke University. "(Copying) machines have been under lock and key and it's been virtually illegal for most people to make copies in the Soviet Union."

Laura Frazer, program officer at the U.S. Information Agency in Washington, called the venture "extremely radical because even most Soviet government bureaucrats do not have access to copying machines."

"This will also be one of the first facilities to allow printing to the average Soviet citizen."

He said the new business will be open to all Soviets, charging rubles and dollars. The Soviets agreed to the deal as "an experiment, on the basis of 'let's see if it actually works,'" with plans to open offices in Moscow in January, Leningrad next summer and Kiev a few months later.

The Soviet Union has long exercised tight control over access to copiers, duplicating machines and printing presses, all of which are owned by the state. Lack of access to such services has been an obstacle to the many unofficial newspapers and journals that have arisen under glasnost.

"It's a very, very major political advance," said Jerry Hough, a Soviet expert at Duke University.

"(Copying) machines have been under lock and key and it's been virtually illegal for most people to make copies in the Soviet Union."

Laura Frazer, program officer at the U.S. Information Agency in Washington, called the venture "extremely radical because even most Soviet government bureaucrats do not have access to copying machines."

The joint venture is an outgrowth of the Gorbachev-Reagan Moscow summit meeting earlier this year, when "both sides reiterated their strong support for development of economic ties between the two sides," said Soviet Deputy Consul General Gennadiy I. Zolotov, who sat next to Lopata.

It also is the result of the Soviet Union's new "joint project" laws, he said, which encourages joint Soviet ventures with foreign firms.

"We greet you on a special occasion which does not happen too often in the Soviet-American relations, but is very indicative of the things which are happening... we hope, beneficial to both sides," Zolotov said.

He said a contract for the joint venture was signed recently by MIR, the Soviet publishing house; the Soviet cooperative Sintez; and Unicorn Investments International, a California corporation.

Dubbed SOVAMINCO, standing for Soviet-American International CO, the business was registered as a legal entity this week in Moscow, said Zolotov and Lopata. The company is jointly owned by MIR, Sintez and Unicorn.

"Instead of the Soviet systems of management, we'll be using American bookkeeping systems, accounting practices, salary programs and incentives," Lopata said.

Look ma, no wheels

GRAPEVINE — The tail end of an American Airlines Boeing 727 rests on the runway Wednesday night at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. Only one minor injury resulted from the emergency landing on the nosegear and belly of the plane on the same runway where a Delta Boeing 727 crashed Aug. 31, killing 14 persons.

Vacation Storm turns four men's dream into nightmare

BEAUMONT (AP) — Four Woodville men never before had stolen anything, but they didn't think twice about breaking into a restaurant after Hurricane Gilbert battered the resort town of Cancun, Mexico.

This was not the vacation they hoped for — no food or water for two days and no idea how much longer that situation would last.

They knew military police were patrolling the town with semi-automatic rifles and had been ordered to shoot looters, but those warnings weren't as loud as their stomachs growling, the men said this week after returning home.

"It was just the thought of having food," Troy Dinger, 23, said of the ham, cheese and fruit they took. "We didn't know how much longer we'd have to go without it."

The food and water shortage was bad, but the lack of information was the most frustrating part of their ordeal, said his brother Todd, 26.

"Before the hurricane got there, they were saying it's just a little storm that would blow over," he said.

Their seven-day vacation turned into a nightmare. Todd and friend Carl Pope, 26, watched satellite dishes, trees, shingles and tin scraps fly through the air from the door of their hotel. Troy Dinger and Derrick Rains, 26, slept through the worst of it.

The water-filled bathtub was the only drinking water they had for the next two days.

After they were ordered out of the hotel, "We were no longer tourists. We were refugees. No one would tell us anything," Todd said. A cab driver charged $15 to take them to another hotel one-eighth of a mile away, Rains said, and the hotel manager told them to take only a toothbrush.

"He said we would be allowed to come back the next day," Rains said. When they finally returned, their suitcases had been rifled for valuables. A camera, shoes and watch were missing. Hotel officials dismissed the problem, saying the hurricane could have blown them from the room anyway.

"A hurricane didn't unzip our suitcases, and that's how we found them," Todd said.

Once they got to the airport, they were relieved they hadn't arrived earlier. With 5,000 people crammed into the tiny terminal, it was like a sauna and smelled bad. Some people were so sick they vomited quietly in corners or out in the open. Babies cried as constantly as the drone of flies inside and people who spent the night there gave reports of cockroaches the size of a toddler's foot. It took two days for some to get out.

"We would have gone anywhere just to get out," Rains said.

They finally got tickets on a flight to Cleveland and were told it was leaving in eight minutes. Three hours later, they took off.

Troy vows to never leave the United States again.

"I was 26 when I left for Mexico," he said. "And I'm 40 now."

Cavazos hoping to lower dropouts

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos may have only four months on the job, but he says he'll use the time to fight the dropout rate and advocate education for all.

The first Hispanic member of a president's Cabinet, Cavazos said he is concerned about keeping all students in school, and points to a Hispanic dropout rate of about 30 percent.

"We can't afford to lose that many people," Cavazos told a news conference Wednesday, his first day on the job, as he answered questions in Spanish.

Cavazos said his mission would be to "get out there... and really have people understand the seriousness of the issue. We've got to start now. We can't delay. We've

727 jetliner makes emergency landing

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — An American Airlines 727 jetliner was forced to make an emergency belly landing Wednesday at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport when its main landing gear jammed, officials said.

In addition, another American flight en route to DFW from Charlotte, N.C. was forced to make a non-scheduled landing in Nashville, Tenn., because of possible engine trouble.

Passengers on that flight were moved to another plane before the rest of the trip to DFW, officials said.

On the flight which belly-landed, passengers evacuated the aircraft on an emergency slide, according to John Hotard, a spokesman for the airlines. Hotard said only one person was hurt, receiving an ankle injury.

Hotard said Flight 135, carrying 81 passengers and seven crew members, was due at 9 p.m. CDT from Oklahoma City on a non-stop flight when the pilot could not get the main landing gear to descend.

The pilot circled the airport to expend fuel for the emergency landing, airline officials said, and brought the 150-seat plane in around 9:40 p.m. CDT.

"The aircraft belly-landed and the foam was immediately applied," said Angel Biasatti, a spokeswoman for DFW Department of Public Safety.

The emergency slides were deployed and passengers evacuated, Hotard said. He said there was no fire. DPS officials said no one was transported to a hospital.

Airline officials said one of the two main landing gears in the rear of the plane could not be extended.

"He (the pilot) decided to retract the one main landing gear that had extended before and just come in to DFW with the nose landing gear extended," said American spokesman Jim Brown.

The airplane landed on the same runway where Delta Flight 1141 crashed Aug. 31. Fourteen people were killed in the Delta accident.

In the American flight en route from Charlotte, spokesman Al Becker said the pilot shut off one of the engines and then landed in Nashville.

Becker said he didn't know any details about the problem, but called it, "simply a precautionary engine shutdown."

Jim Farrell, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was aboard the Charlotte-Dallas flight and said the pilot announced he lost an engine and he was setting down in Nashville.

"He made all the necessary apologies that passengers were going to have to be late," Farrell said. "We were exactly one hour late as he predicted."

Farrell was shocked to hear of the emergency landing that occurred just before his flight arrived. "We didn't have anything near that exciting," he said.

Texas leads nation in blood bank problems

DALLAS (AP) — Federal officials say hundreds of units of blood that had tested positive for hepatitis or the AIDS virus were mistakenly shipped for use in transfusions last year by blood banks and plasma centers in Texas and elsewhere.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, which conducted a survey, said more than 11 million units of blood were donated in the United States last year at 2,422 blood centers. In the seven-month survey, the FDA cited 39 of those centers for mistakenly distributing contaminated blood.

Don Heaton, director of the FDA's Dallas office, said three of the 142 facilities dealing with blood products in Texas were forced to recall blood contaminated by the virus that causes AIDS.

He said the Dallas Blood Center and AMTEC Diagnostic in Conroe, Texas, each required two recalls, and Houston Apheresis had a single recall. All the contaminated blood collected in Texas was successfully retrieved, as was most of the blood elsewhere in the country, said Heaton.

Officials of the Dallas Blood Center did not immediately return telephone calls by The Associated Press.

The federal agency's survey was prompted by concern about the safety of the nation's blood supply. Hepatitis and the AIDS virus — both potentially fatal — can be transmitted through blood, blood plasma or other blood products from infected donors.

Heaton said Texas has more problems with its blood banks and plasma centers than any other state in the nation and has recently faced a disproportionate share of federal actions to correct violations.

House delays Big Thicket bill

BEAUMONT (AP) — The U.S. House of Representatives delayed a vote on a controversial bill that would add 14,000 acres to the Big Thicket National Preserve, pending notification of longterm costs to the government and property owners.

The week-long delay Tuesday came at the request of Republicans on the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which sent it to the House. Republicans on the committee sided with timber companies, property owners and local governments who fear the action will cause them financial harm.

The National Park Service has been asked to inform Congress what the longterm costs of the addition would be.

Supporters and opponents expect the House to approve the measure if it reaches the floor. Its fate in the Senate is less certain, however, and time is running out for action in this session as members race toward adjournment in early October.

If Congress fails to act this year, sponsors would have to start over in the new Congress, which convenes next January, and go through the committee process again.

The bill would add three corridors to the preserve, linking existing units.

Buyer loses bottled mouse case

EL PASO (AP) — A woman who says she found a mouse in a bottle of Tab diet soda won't be getting any compensation from the bottler or the store that sold her the 32-ounce bottle.

A district jury decided Tuesday that Magnolia Bottling Co. of El Paso was not responsible for the alleged contamination of the bottle. The jury rejected Dan and Sandi Gravell's request for compensation of medical expenses, pain and suffering and mental anguish because of the alleged incident.

The couple filed the civil suit in 1985 against Magnolia and the retail store that sold the six-pack of Tab bottles. The suit contended Mrs. Gravell suffered a bowel infection as a result of drinking from the allegedly contaminated bottle.

The jurors apparently were not convinced the mouse was in the bottle when it left the plant.

Ken Coffman, the bottler's attorney, said a mouse could hardly get through a bottle washer that cleans and sterilizes the containers. The bottles are inspected by four people and a machine, he said.

A thorough inspection of all 133,000 bottles that go through the plant daily is necessary because people stuff bent bottle caps, cigarette butts and ashes and other foreign matter in bottles, according to testimony.

Youths held in stabbing death

HOUSTON (AP) — Police today were holding a second 15-year-old boy in the stabbing death of a 66-year-old woman who was attacked in her Houston home.

The boys are being held by Harris County juvenile authorities and will be charged in juvenile court with capital murder in the slaying of Gloria Pastor, Homicide Sgt. E.T. Yanchak said. He said it was not certain if prosecutors would seek to have the boys certified to stand trial as adults.

The first boy arrested was found in a van taken from the woman's home. Yanchak said the 15-year-old implicated the other youth his age in the killing, and police arrested that boy at his home Monday night.

Ms. Pastor was stabbed once in the chest with a butcher knife from her kitchen between 10:30 and 11:40 a.m. Monday, police said. The woman apparently was asleep when the two youths allegedly broke through a rear window in her house. A relative found her body.

The youths had sold a television and videocassette recorder taken from the woman's home, police said.

Boy shot in mouth as punishment

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury has found a Houston man guilty of punishing his young stepson by shooting him repeatedly in the mouth with a BB gun.

The jury in State District Judge Ted Poe's court deliberated part of Tuesday and most of Wednesday before convicting William Williams, 39, of injury to a child. Further evidence was to be presented today by prosecutors in the punishment phase of the trial. Williams faces from two years probation to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

During testimony Wednesday, Williams denied shooting Terrence Harper in the mouth with a BB gun during the summer of 1986. He had told police that he did not remember shooting the boy and that it could have occurred one day when he was drinking and shooting at balloons.

Harper, now 11, testified that Williams forced him to hold back his head and stick out his tongue, then shot him in the tongue eight times with the gun. Harper said he was being punished for revealing to his mother that Williams had beaten him the day before, "because I was bad."

He said Williams threatened to kill him if he told anyone. The BBs were discovered, still lodged in his mouth, earlier this year by a dentist.

Blood-smear mail sent to judge

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston federal judge is barring his staff from opening blood-smear mail sent to them by a convicted arsonist because he fears his employees could be exposed to disease.

In an order released Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Norman Black said Damon Downs, 20, known as the Fonda Firebug, has been sending blood-smear letters to his office.

Black ordered his court personnel to return Damon's mail unopened. The judge said if Downs disguises his envelopes and they are opened inadvertently, the mail should be resealed immediately and returned. Downs is serving a 50-year sentence for setting a string of fires in southwest Houston in late 1985.

He has threatened numerous public officials, including President Reagan and two state district judges in Houston. One of the threats, to Judge George Walker, resulted in an additional 10-year prison term.

Downs last year filed a federal lawsuit charging he was unlawfully prosecuted. Black dismissed the suit and since then Downs has continued to correspond with the court.

Doctor says victim injured by gang rape

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The doctor who examined the alleged victim of a gang rape said the 19-year-old woman was bruised and scratched up when she arrived at a hospital for treatment.

"She told me she had been sexually assaulted by as many as 20 to 23 men," said Dr. Vilma Garcia, who examined her at Humana Hospital-Corpus Christi on March 27.

The woman told the doctor "that they were her neighbors." Dr. Garcia testified Wednesday in the sexual assault trial of 23-year-old Orlando Garza, the first to be tried of 10 men indicted in the case.

Assistant District Attorney Rodolfo Gutierrez said he expected the alleged victim to testify today.

Injuries the woman suffered included a bruised cervix and bruises and scratches on her upper body and buttocks, said the doctor.

The alleged victim, who was a resident of San Diego at the time, told authorities she was kidnapped and sexually assaulted by the men over a period of several hours on the night of March 26-27.

All 10 men have pleaded innocent to charges including kidnapping, aggravated kidnapping and sexual assault.

A prosecution witness said

Wednesday the alleged victim scratched her attackers, cried out for help and fainted while she was being gang-raped on the hood of a car near a shed north of town where an illegal cockfight was taking place.

Jose Carlos Briones, 29, said during the attack, the woman was crying. "Help me, please help me."

When defense attorney Albert Pena asked him if the woman was making sounds of pleasure, Briones answered, "It was nothing about being happy."

Garza held the woman's wrists during part of the alleged attack on the hood of the car in a rural subdivision north of this South Texas town of 5,000, Briones said.

"He (Garza) told me to hold her because she was scratching him," Briones said.

Briones said he saw several of the other gang-rape defendants assaulting the woman.

One of them, Felipe Chew, sexually assaulted her with a beer bottle, Briones said, and added, "Right after it happened, she just fainted."

Chew, a 28-year-old Mexican national, faces sexual assault and aggravated kidnapping charges in the case.

Prairie dogs plague Odessa park officials

ODESSA (AP) — Prairie dogs are popping up all over a city park and scaring residents who fear bites and disease from the rodents.

Prairie dog burrows have destroyed several of Sherwood Park's soccer fields since last summer, and the damage continues to escalate, said Parks and Recreation Superintendent Richard Galle.

"They are popping up into our ball fields," said Galle. "When they do that, we try to run them off."

The problem began in 1959 when a now-forgotten Rotary Club member persuaded parks officials to cultivate a prairie dog village at the park in north Odessa. Now, park visitors are stumbling into burrows dug by about 400 of the rodents.

"I think that at one time, people thought they were cute and so they brought them in," Parks Director Joe Carithers told the Odessa American on Tuesday. "But it was a mistake from the very beginning. Now, it's a real liability issue."

A dog-catcher has failed in several attempts to flush out the prairie dogs by filling their burrows with water. The elusive rodents have survived the floods.

Carithers said he was preparing a report for City Manager Bill Brown that outlines the problem and describes alternatives.

The Texas Department of Health has recommended a reduction program for the prairie dogs, said Guy Moore, a control specialist in the agency's El Paso office.

Prairie dogs can be killed by applying a fumigant called phosphoxin and sealing off the burrows, where the chemical turns into gas and kills the animals, explained John Dorsett, district supervisor of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Animal Damage Control division.

But Don Hallmark, president of the Odessa chapter of the West Texas Humane Society, said his organization opposes the chemical warfare.

"What we've tried to tell (the city) is the only logical thing to do is trap the animals and do something with them," he said.

State medical schools profitable

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Recent proposals to cut back on state support of medical education disregard the economic boost that medical research and services provide the state, a top Texas medical educator says.

"Some people say we've got too many medical centers in Texas," said Dr. Richard DeVaul, dean of Texas A&M University's College of Medicine. "Actually, you may want to have six more medical centers, because currently, the medical centers in Texas bring in $800 million from outside the state."

The medical industry, he notes, doesn't depend on the price of oil, cattle or real estate, but generates some $4 billion in economic activity.

Overall, the state's academic medical centers generate more than 76,000 jobs and more than $1.3 billion in household income, according to a study by University of Texas medical economists.

DeVaul says current questions about the cost of medical education in Texas appear to ignore the fact that medical schools do more than train future doctors.

"We're still seen by the public and the Legislature as educational institutions, period," he said. "Most people are used to thinking of education like a high school where you pay teachers to teach and you're concerned about indices of a quality product coming out the other end."

"Nationally, medical centers bring in two to five dollars for every dollar the state puts up," DeVaul said. "That's an investment you can't beat."

Politicians quickly deny cuts in Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The co-chairman of the congressionally appointed National Economic Commission says he did not call for tax hikes or cuts in Social Security to help erase the federal deficit, despite several reports to the contrary.

"I am somewhat surprised that there has been so much interest in my remarks" in a speech Tuesday to an economic consulting firm, Robert S. Strauss said in a statement Wednesday. "Let me make it clear that I did not call for or endorse cuts in the Social Security programs. Nor did I endorse a tax increase."

"I did tell the cold, statistical truth about the size of the deficit. I further stated that the views expressed were my own."

But several newspapers interpreted Strauss' remarks to mean he expects the commission to recommend tax increases and cuts in programs including Social Security.

The Washington Post quoted Strauss as saying in the speech, "We have to go to Social Security; we have to go to Medicare — entitlements generally — and we have to go to defense," because these programs are "where the money is."

Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis said Wednesday if the commission recommended cuts in Social Security "they won't get to first base in a Dukakis-Bentsen administration."

"I oppose reductions in scheduled payments to Social Security recipients, and I am committed to maintaining full benefits and full cost of living increases," Dukakis added.

Strauss, a lawyer and former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said in the statement that defense expenditures account for 28 percent of the federal budget and entitlement programs account for 47 percent.

"That leads to an inescapable conclusion: to the extent that we reduce the debt by reducing outlays, it has to be done largely in defense and entitlements," he said in the statement.

Nevertheless, reports of Strauss' remarks spurred a vehement Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., to promise Social Security will "never" be cut to help wipe out the federal deficit.

"As chairman of the (Finance) subcommittee on Social Security, I'm here to say never," Moynihan said at a news conference Wednesday. "It mustn't be done and it won't be."

Moynihan is one of the commission's 12 members, and, in fact, the body was created by legislation he sponsored, at the urging of New York Gov. Mario Cuomo.

"We have finally got the Social Security system in stable, solid, surplus condition," Moynihan said.

"To start raiding the trust fund would be unforgivable, given what we did in 1983."

That year, Congress passed Social Security reforms that resulted in $160 billion worth of additional revenues and benefit reductions over the years 1983 to 1990, according to Moynihan.

"That was the contribution of the Social Security system to reducing the deficit, a contribution already made," he said.

The commission is composed of six Republicans and six Democrats appointed by Congress. After the November election, the new president will appoint two new members, one from each party.

Robbery

manager at Big Spring Savings Association (a division of Home Savings & Loan Association of Lufkin), said she believes the institution has been in existence for about 17 years and has never been robbed.

Jo Etta Hart, branch manager at Southwest Savings Association of Dallas, 1810 E. FM 700, said there has never been a robbery during its seven years of operation in Big Spring.

The facility opened its doors in June 1981 as Home State Savings, became City Savings in October 1985, and came under its current ownership in May, Hart said.

Authorities are still asking that any person who may be able to provide them information about the First Federal robbery to contact the Abilene office of the FBI at (915) 677-6191; the Big Spring Police Department Criminal Investigation Division at 263-8311; or the Crimestoppers line at 263-1151.

Cavazos

waited too long."
To get his message across, Cavazos said he would meet with local officials, professional education societies, and members of Congress.

"The next few months will give us the forum to talk about the issues that are vital to America," he said. "How do we position this country, this nation, to really be competitive at the turn of the century — and I don't just mean economically."

"Rather, let us look to make sure every person in America today is educated to his or her full potential. My interest is to awaken America to recall that our strength really has come because we had an educated electorate," Cavazos said.

Cavazos was confirmed by the Senate and sworn in Tuesday by Vice President Bush. On Wednesday, Cavazos said he had "struck absolutely no deal" with the Republican presidential nominee to remain in office if Bush wins the November election.

"We never even discussed the possibility of my staying beyond the January date," said Cavazos, who is taking a leave of absence from his job as president of Texas Tech University and its medical school.

But some Republicans have said they wouldn't mind seeing Cavazos in the next administration, and Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah told fellow Republicans last week that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., leaned over to him at the end of Cavazos' confirmation hearing and said that if Michael Dukakis is elected "I'm going to talk him into keeping him on as secretary of education."
Kennedy told the Senate on Wednesday that Cavazos "has the perspective to be a superb secretary of education."

No new leads in hit and run accident

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Department of Public Safety officials are still investigating the hit-and-run death of a 28-year-old Colorado City man early Saturday, but have little information available, DPS Sgt. Frank Woodall said today.

Eusibo Gonzalez was struck and killed by the driver of an unknown vehicle shortly after midnight as he walked northbound on U.S. Highway 87, 2.3 miles north of Big Spring.

Gonzalez' body — which was partially concealed by tall grass — was discovered about 8 a.m. by oil field workers on their way to work. "We're chasing some leads down, but don't have anything concrete," Woodall advised.

Shooting

see her father shoot a gun.

Yanez said after the shooting began he came out of his house with a shotgun and told bystanders to get down. Cantu was running toward him with a pistol, Yanez testified, when Yanez came out with the shotgun. He said Cantu turned to start running and he fired the shotgun.

Big Spring Police Detective Brad Ingram testified that he had investigated the shooting and spoken to Cantu afterward in the hospital, and that he had gone with Cantu later to look for a gun — a .380 semiautomatic pistol — that "(Cantu) told me he had thrown down the night before."

Thomas called four witnesses — George Armendariz, 23, Odessa, also alleged to be one of three men firing guns at Yanez, who invoked the Fifth Amendment; Thomas Lujan Jr. and Sammy Ventura, both returned on bench warrants from the Texas Department of Corrections to testify, and a sixth-grade student from Goliad Junior High — before the defense rested.

Judge Gregg recessed the hearing to reconvene at 1:30 p.m. today as soon as the student, who told the court only Yanez fired a gun and that he did not know Cantu owned a pistol or a shotgun, had left the witness stand.

Ventura said he heard only shots that sounded like a shotgun and did not see either Cantu or Yanez at the time of the shooting.

Lujan said he saw only Yanez with a gun and that Yanez fired first. He said he did not see Cantu fire a gun. Under questioning by District Attorney Rick Hamby, however, Lujan told the court he had at one time suspected Yanez of the 1986 slaying of his half brother, Ernesto Morales.

Police beat

A 19-year-old Big Spring man was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated after allegedly making an illegal turn and striking a patrol unit, according to police reports.

Gary Melcher Rodriguez, 104 N.W. Seventh St., was also cited for turning right from the wrong lane, reports stated.

The car Rodriguez was driving was traveling north in the 500 block of North Lamesa Highway and Big Spring Patrol Officer John Stowers was traveling in his patrol unit in the left lane shortly after 9 p.m. when Rodriguez attempted a right turn into the parking lot of Kwikie Drive-In Grocery No. 1, according to reports.

Rodriguez' vehicle collided with Stowers' patrol car in the process, reports stated.

A 29-year-old passenger in the Rodriguez car suffered minor injuries, according to reports.

Big Spring police also reported investigating the following incidents:

• Carlos Vega, 26, 405 S. Benton St., was arrested on charges of Class A assault and resisting arrest. Sara Heredia, 32, 1209 Young St., was arrested on charges of Class C assault and resisting arrest in connection with the same incident.

• A woman who resides in the 1500 block of East 11th Street reported unknown persons took credit cards and jewelry valued at $300.

• The manager of Kwikie Drive-In No. 1, 510 Lamesa Highway, reported someone cashed a forged check.

Political briefs

Hobby endorses Avery

Texas Lt. Governor Bill Hobby gave his endorsement to Johnnie Lou Avery, Democratic candidate for the 69th District legislative seat, during a stop in Big Spring Tuesday.

Speaking to a crowd at Howard College, Hobby noted: "Johnnie Lou Avery is exactly the kind of person Texas needs in Austin to help make the tough decisions which will confront the Legislature when it convenes its 71st session in January."

"Education and economic development are two of the greatest challenges facing the Texas Legislature," he said. "Johnnie Lou Avery's experience, intelligence and dedication will be instrumental in making sure the job gets done."

"We need the leadership of people like Avery. She will help make sure the next century is one of prosperity, hope and opportunity," Hobby added.

"I'm very happy about the impressive endorsement of Lt. Gov. Hobby," Avery said. "His record of service and dedication for the citizens of Texas is outstanding. I appreciate him and his endorsement."

After making the endorsement Hobby attended the Agriculture Appreciation Barbecue at the Howard County Fairgrounds. He then met with a group of Coahoma educators and a reception at Coahoma State Bank, before touring Cosden and the cogeneration plant.

Fraser office has grand opening

The combination office of Troy Fraser for state representative and the Republican headquarters has opened at the southeast corner of 17th and Gregg Streets, with the official opening conducted Wednesday morning.

Fraser is Republican candidate for the state representative's seat for the 69th District and is being opposed by Democrat Johnnie Lou Avery.

Fraser said that approximately 100 people were on hand for the opening, which included performance by a trumpeter, flag raisings and a joint expression of the Pledge of Allegiance.

In another area, Fraser, one of nearly a dozen nominees for the honor of volunteer developer of the year award from the Texas Industrial Development Commission, was topped for the award by a volunteer from Corsicana, local chamber of commerce officials said.

Fraser, nominated for his efforts while local chamber president, was competing in the 50,000 and under population category, according to Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President LeRoy Tillery, who made the nomination.

Tillery said that the winner of the award had led the creation of an incubator program, resulting in 200 new jobs and $20 million in capital investments by new businesses.

The winner in the over 50,000 population category was from McAllen, where 3,300 new jobs were created during the period considered for the award.

Second mortgages needed reform

The movement to allow second mortgages is producing some interesting battle formations: Last week, the Dallas Citizens Council adopted a resolution calling on the Texas Legislature to amend the Texas Homestead Act to allow second mortgages.

Not long before, the Texas Bankers Association decided to abandon that fight on the assumption it was a lost cause. Just prior to the bankers' retreat, a cabal of interests led by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower gathered on the steps of the Capitol to demagogue an issue of critical importance to the state's economic future.

The Citizen's Council is dead right. . . . The bankers were foolish; they should reconsider their action. Texans have $240 billion in equity they cannot touch for new business start-ups, college tuition or other critical needs.

Even if the equity was released into the state's capital-starved economy at $24 billion a year, a massive infusion of capital would occur.

As Jim Hightower should well know, no one is suggesting the Homestead Act be repealed, only changed slightly. Current Texas law does not allow a homeowner to borrow against the equity on his homestead.

Elements of the business community of Texas that are concerned about economic growth and job creation, and that realize that capital is a key to both, should stand fast and close ranks to press lawmakers to adopt this absolutely essential reform.

The Dallas Morning News

Improve the commission's odds

A funny thing happened to the search for an executive director of the Texas State Racing Commission. One by one, all the three "finalists" being considered for the position counted themselves out.

That leaves the commission back at the starting gate. But Chairman Hilary Doran expressed optimism there'll be other candidates to consider next month.

Maybe so. But the fact that all three of those culled from previous applicants turned the job down before it was offered suggests there's a problem. It could be the pay scale — $60,000 per year. That simply may not be enough to entice the sort of first-teamer, experienced in racing and with impeccable credentials, the state should have as its racing chief. This is a vital position; it shouldn't go to a less than top-notch candidate for want of sufficient salary. That would be the worst form of false economy.

Corpus Christ Caller-Times

Fetal tissue can help patients

Fetal tissue resulting from abortions has become an issue unnecessarily confused by ideology. Scientists want to continue research on fetal tissue, since it holds great promise for the treatment of maladies such as Parkinson's disease. The Reagan administration wants it halted.

To his credit, Health and Human Services Secretary Otis Bowen . . . announced he will not go along with the White House's proposed ban on the practice until the National Institutes of Health complete a thorough, scientific study of the practice and its scientific and ethical ramifications.

Fetal tissue is particularly well suited for research because it is relatively pure and is dividing rapidly. Also, human tissue is a much more valid experimentation medium than animal cells.

The White House wants to ban all such research, because the material emanates from abortions, which the president would like to ban, but cannot.

Secretary Bowen noted reasonably that "inasmuch as abortions are legal, being unable to utilize the tissue . . . would result in the waste of a resource that is life-saving and curing for several diseases." The secretary is correct.

Pat on the back to TV campaign

The television industry deserves a pat on the back for developing a campaign against drinking and driving.

So does Jay Winsten, an assistant dean of the Harvard School of Public Health, who thought of the project.

Winsten announced that the three major networks and 13 studios which create most of their programming have agreed to sponsor a two-pronged attack: Public-service advertising to encourage the use of "designated drivers" among drinking groups — one who abstains from drinking and sees that his friends get home safely; and the insertion of dialogue in entertainment shows toward the same end.

For example, in a bar scene, a person might be asked to have a drink and that person will respond, "No thanks, I'm driving tonight."

Let's hope that the television campaign will more firmly implant in the minds of the American public the fundamental truth that drinking and driving are a dangerous and often fatal combination.

El Paso Herald-Post

Ban honoraria to congressmen

Because of public disagreement over what constitutes adequate pay, salaries for members of Congress have been unrealistically low for years. Lawmakers depend on "honoraria" to augment their incomes.

Those who hand out honoraria, and those who accept, should quit kidding themselves that there is anything honorable about the custom. Despite the euphemistic label, honoraria paid to or charged by lawmakers has the unmistakable taint of influence peddling and should be stopped.

Members of Congress should be paid salaries commensurate with the service they are elected to perform, and outside compensation relating to their office should be outlawed.

That means making it an impeachable offense for senators and representatives to accept gifts and fees for delivering speeches and making public appearances.

A new salary commission will be appointed in October to make recommendations on congressional pay. The previous commission recommended senators and representatives both be paid $135,000 a year. That is reasonable compensation.

Representatives now make $86,263 a year and senators $87,483.

The Waco Tribune-Herald

Joint effort moves closer to reality

Although the U.S.-Mexico Binational Commission has achieved some results in reducing environmental problems, such as last year's pact to enforce emission controls on a Mexican smelter that spread toxic waste into Arizona, more needs to be done by both nations.

And more is beginning to be done. Last week, a U.S. Senate committee approved legislation that would authorize negotiations with Mexico over cleaning up the Rio Grande, which is polluted by . . . industrial waste and raw sewage.

Such cooperation is vital. The United States and Mexico are no different from Europe or other industrialized areas in that pollution knows no international boundaries, and it requires mutual, international cooperation to keep the environment clean.

Ghostly comments on the election

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Several friends of mine have been bemoaning the lack of excitement — and quality — in this year's presidential candidates.

"It figures," one said. "I finally get up the energy to go register to vote, and I get to pick from two guys who could make golf exciting."

I don't know if I would go that far, but I get the point.

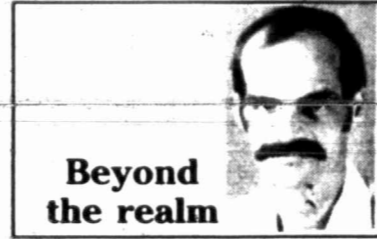

Another friend asked a question that has been heard far and wide this year: "Where have all the really good candidates gone? I mean, Bush and Dukakis are nice enough guys, but out of 210 million people, you'd think there'd be a Franklin Roosevelt or two in the bunch."

"Yeah," the first one said, "what do you think Tom Jefferson and Ben Franklin would think about this bunch?"

It was then that I heard trumpets and a mystical light began to appear. Another column subject had raised its ugly head.

What would those two esteemed Founding Fathers say about George, Michael, Dan and Lloyd — or is it Bob and Ted and Carol and Alice?

I am sure they would have several interesting opinions about the current state of affairs. However, I am also sure those two shuffled off this mortal coil some time back, so communications could be a major problem.

But do you think that stopped me? You're darn tootin' it didn't, Buck-o.

In my several years (read 16 months) as a reporter, I have developed several good sources of information. One source that I don't exactly brag about is my medium. It's not like I'm exactly ashamed about talking to a mystic on occasion, but she isn't exactly the most reliable person in the world.

The main problem with my medium — Madame Tasha The All-Seeing is her handle — is that she's confused easily. I remember one time when I asked her to locate Jimmy Hoffa for me, and she contacted Elvis, instead.

Bad news, folks: The King really is dead — but back to my story.

Tasha surprised me this time. In practically no time, I was talking with the long-departed spirits of Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin, esquires.

They were slightly miffed at me because we had interrupted a hot bridge game. Jefferson was ahead by 200 points, just when Ben had bid three no-trump and was closing.

After I explained my request, however, they were more than happy to oblige. "After all," Jefferson explained, "there's not much else we can do up here except play bridge and talk politics."

"That and who gets to take out the garbage," Franklin added.

"There's nothing else to do there?" I asked.

"Well, sometimes, when we're really bored, we'll hide George Washington's wooden teeth, or short-sheet Abe Lincoln's bed," Jefferson said. "But other than that, there's not much else."

"So, where are you, sir?" I asked Franklin.

"We're not 100 percent sure about that," he replied. "We're all here in this great, big house with about a million rooms, but except for weekend trips to the A&P, we never leave the place."

"A servant came in about 50 years ago, and I asked him the same question," Jefferson added.

"He simply frowned, made rude noises and told me that if I didn't like the arrangements, I could very well sleep in the hall. Nasty man."

"You know what I think?" Franklin said. "I think the Catholics were right, and we're in purgatory now. I mean, this may be heaven, but it's boring as . . ."

"Gentlemen, this is all very enlightening," I interrupted, "but if you don't mind, I need your opinion on who's going to win the election."

"Oh, Dukakis, no doubt," Jefferson said. "He's a very fine man, and patriotic without wrapping himself in the flag like that scoundrel Bush."

"Can it, Tom," Franklin said. "Fine is fine, but we need somebody tough who'll stand up against the Russkis — and that's Bush. Why, give him half a chance, and Dukakis'll probably scuttle the Seventh Fleet."

"Benjamin," Jefferson said. "To use the vernacular, you're full of beans."

"Look who's talking," Franklin replied.

"Gentlemen . . ." I said.

"Dukakis!" Jefferson said.

"Bush!" Franklin said.

"Gentlemen . . ." I tried to say. "Dukakis, you little worm!" Jefferson roared.

"Bush, you pompous bag of hot air!" Franklin retorted. "Why don't we step outside and . . ."

It was at this moment that Madame Tasha's contact ended. As I thanked her and left — shaking my head at the thought of these two great men having a fistfight — one reassuring thought came to mind: Finally! Someone's gotten excited about this election.

Hold the applause

To the editor:
My wife and I applaud the BSISD school board's decision to form a minority committee — provided, of course, that it is a sincere effort. We've been lied to with kisses before, and have had too many negative experiences not to be extremely gun shy.

A sample of this is that this past year both of us have attended various meetings composed of respectable numbers of black and Mexican-American parents and teachers. We met with a Justice Department representative who took an extensive, reasonable, and well thought-out list of our concerns to Superintendent McQueary asking that the school district negotiate these with us.

McQueary turned us down flat — certainly with the support and concurrence of the board.

A few short weeks ago, Amelia Ornelas, one of the many parents who had attended the above mentioned meetings, included those same still-festering concerns when she delivered her petition asking that Mrs. Deanda not be transferred to another school.

Absolutely nothing but shame and embarrassment to Mrs. Ornelas came of all that effort. So it is no wonder that we will approach this with doubts.

Nothing but good can come from a properly-constituted committee addressing our complaints and concerns, but it must be an action committee and must have among its membership representative minority members — minority teachers too — carefully selected people who have the confidence and respect of the minority community. It won't take long to tell if this will be a truly serious attempt, or just one more put off.

And as for the customary brayings of we-represent-the-entire-community Bill Brooks he'd make best use of his talents by gaining membership in The Earth is Flat Society.

Price hike unavoidable

To the editor:
I read with some interest your comments in the Sept. 18 issue of the Herald regarding the recent price hike. As one who deals with publications, I must face the same hard decisions each year with the high school yearbook and newspaper.

Students continue to wonder why the yearbook costs more each year. With major advertisers leaving town and closing doors, and the economy the way it is, few retailers are willing to support the publications the way they once did. I can understand that.

Ten years ago we had 18 students producing a $12,000 yearbook containing 45 advertising pages. This year five students are producing an $18,500 yearbook with eight pages of ads. The book isn't fancier, it simply costs more to produce. If the student purchaser paid for his book, he's pay between 30 and 35 dollars. Advertising supplements that cost. But the supplement continues to decrease.

I used to feel badly about charging more than $20 for the book — until I saw students paying $200 for a senior ring, $80 for invitations, $200 for prom expenses, $40 for Homecoming mums, etc. Suddenly $20 seems rather trivial.

Yes, our book will cost more this year. With prices and conditions as they currently are, we have few alternatives but to pass the cost on to the consumer. The only other alternative is to cease publication altogether.

No, I don't like to pay more for the Herald than you do, but I will. It's still a bargain. Tell your readers if they really want to complain about getting less for more, they should take a good look at their health insurance.

A kind word for the Herald

To the editor:
Please enlighten me to the newspapers that provide more information about Howard County and its residents. I certainly haven't read one. I don't believe one exists.

I have had the opportunity to spend some time at the Herald, learning first hand what goes into publishing our paper. It's easy to criticize, for whatever reason, without the realization of the effort put into our paper every day.

The Herald staff is the most dedicated group of people I've ever met. Each day, they pour all of their hearts and souls onto the pages of our newspaper. No value can be placed on that. It's priceless.

FBI checks baby swap charge

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The FBI said Wednesday it has launched a kidnapping investigation based on a couple's allegation that their healthy baby was swapped in a hospital nursery nearly a decade ago for a fatally ill child.

Ernest and Regina Twigg of Langhorne, Pa., contend someone at the hospital deliberately switched the children, allegedly to provide for someone willing to pay to adopt a well baby.

Meanwhile, the father of a 9-year-old southwest Florida girl said he will not permit a blood test to satisfy questions about whether she is his biological daughter, the St. Petersburg Times reported Wednesday.

The Twiggs think the girl may be their daughter and their lawyer, Marvin Ellin of Baltimore, said sophisticated genetic blood testing should resolve the question. Ellin said he talked to the girl's father and "he indicated that he would think about it."

Ellin has filed a $100 million lawsuit against three doctors, a nurse and Hardee Memorial Hospital in Wauchula. He also has asked federal authorities to look into the possibility that the babies' identification bracelets were switched and hospital records altered.

Arlena Twigg, the child raised by the Pennsylvania couple, died last month of a lifelong heart problem. A month earlier, sophisticated blood and tissue testing at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore concluded that the girl was not related to the Twiggs.

Court rules against rancher

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ranchers have no constitutional right to kill grizzly bears to protect their sheep, a federal appeals court ruled Wednesday.

The grizzly bear is a threatened species, and the government is entitled to prohibit its killing except in self-defense, said the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in a case from Montana.

The 3-0 decision upheld a $2,500 civil penalty against rancher Richard Christy for killing a grizzly that was menacing his sheep on land near Glacier National Park in 1982. Christy gave up his lease on the land later that month, having lost 84 of his 1,700 sheep to bears in two months.

U.S. District Judge Paul Hatfield's ruling upholding the law was affirmed by the appeals court, which said there was no fundamental constitutional right "to kill federally protected wildlife in defense of property."

Repairs skipped on rail cars

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's railroads routinely use freight and passenger cars with defective brakes, wheels and undercarriages despite warnings from safety inspectors, according to a newspaper report.

Business pressures have created a tug-of-war between inspectors who order cars repaired in the shop and transportation employees who schedule trains, said Peter Brawley, assistant general foreman of Amtrak's coach yard at Philadelphia's 30th Street Station.

"I'm not going to tell you that there aren't cars getting out of here that shouldn't be moving. It happens," Brawley told The Pittsburgh Press in an article published Wednesday.

"An inspector finds something wrong and wants to shop the car, but transportation needs that car for a train leaving in three hours, so the car goes out," he said.

More corporations now pay taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landmark 1986 tax overhaul boosted the bite on 250 giant, profitable corporations by about $9 billion last year but still left 16 of them legally paying no federal income tax, a private research group said today.

The number among the 254 that paid no tax was down from 40 in 1986 and from a high of 72 in 1982, according to Citizens for Tax Justice.

The 1986 law cut tax rates for most individuals and corporations but took away or reduced several deductions and credits.

Spirits high as NASA prepares for launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The signs today read "7 Days to Launch" as NASA prepares for Discovery to lift off with five astronauts on a flight the space agency hopes will restore credibility to America's manned space program.

The signs, at entrances to the Kennedy Space Center, greet the 13,000 workers here who have labored 32 months since the Challenger tragedy to return the shuttle to flight.

Next Thursday, barring any problems, Discovery will be fuming on the launch pad, its flight crew ready to go.

Spirits are high among shuttle workers. They began soaring after a successful launch pad test-firing of Discovery's engines Aug. 10 and an almost flawless countdown practice Sept. 8, the last two hurdles before launch.

"We clearly demonstrated we are ready to pick up the count for real," the space center director, Forrest S. McCartney, told cheering workers after the countdown test.

But one possible threat to Discovery's launch was revealed Wednesday, when NASA officials said an old-model nozzle inlet ring was used in the final test of Morton Thiokol's redesigned space shuttle booster rocket.

However, NASA doesn't believe the finding will delay next week's launch, spokesman Ed Medal said.

Kennedy Space Center has adopted the slogan "America's Pride... The Journey Continues" for Discovery's mission. It is proclaimed on a banner at the launch pad entrance, in offices and on thousands of pins worn by employees ranging from engineers to secretaries.

At Johnson Space Center in Houston, Discovery's crew was scheduled to discuss the mission in late afternoon during a visit with President Reagan. Afterwards, Reagan was to address center workers on the space program.

Once the countdown is under way, the astronauts will fly here Monday afternoon to make final preparations for flight.

Commanding the crew is Navy Capt. Frederick Hauck. The pilot is Air Force Col. Richard O. Covey.

Kenya cracks down on poachers

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The government has suspended 33 wildlife officers suspected of collaborating with poachers who have slaughtered scores of elephants, said a senior Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife official.

The department has acknowledged that poachers have killed 92 elephants in Tsavo National Park during the past four months.

Five game wardens and policemen have been killed and at least nine wounded in clashes with poachers during the past month, officials said. President Daniel arap Moi ordered rangers on Sept. 13 to shoot on sight poachers caught in the country's national parks and game reserves.

Studies by the Nairobi-based U.N. Environmental Program show that in the past 15 years, Kenya's elephant population has dropped 85 percent. An aerial survey in February of the vast Tsavo park in southeastern Kenya found 5,363 elephants.

Presidential vote splits Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The speaker of Parliament today put off voting for a new president for 24 hours in a last-ditch effort to avert a showdown that is threatening to partition Lebanon and throw it back into civil war.

Twenty-seven Christian members of Parliament boycotted today's session to elect a successor for President Amin Gemayel, blocking a required quorum of 51 in the 99-seat one-house body. Gemayel's six-year term expires today.

If no president is elected by Friday, Gemayel is expected to form a caretaker Cabinet headed by a Christian prime minister to run the country until a head of state is elected.

Moslems and leftists have declared they would recognize only the current cabinet of acting Sunni Moslem Prime Minister Salim Hoss.

The emergence of two rival governments would formalize a de facto partition of the nation into Moslem and Christian mini-states.

About 130,000 people have been killed in Lebanon's civil war since it began in 1975. Shiite Moslem and Christian militias have done most of the fighting.

Drought affects Soviet harvest

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's grain harvest this year will be smaller than the relatively good harvests of the two previous years because of drought in the country's breadbasket, Izvestia reported.

The Soviet government newspaper gave no figures, but said the harvest was just drawing to a close and it was clear it would fall short of the 231 million tons harvested in each of the past two years.

A significant shortfall in the grain harvest would be a blow to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's efforts to improve food supplies to consumers and reform agriculture. It also would require the Soviet Union to use more of its scarce foreign currency to buy grain instead of machinery and equipment to modernize the economy.

Crown Prince assumes duties

TOKYO (AP) — The Cabinet today temporarily passed the imperial mantle to Crown Prince Akihito as Japan fretted over the failing health of Emperor Hirohito, the world's longest reigning monarch.

Officials of the Imperial Household Agency, which runs palace affairs, set up booths today around the country and allowed people to sign their names in books for the emperor.

Crowds have gathered in front of the Imperial Palace in central Tokyo since Hirohito took to bed with intestinal hemorrhaging four days ago. Palace officials said today that he remained in serious but stable condition.

The United States forced the emperor, who has occupied the throne since 1926, to publicly renounce his claim to divinity after World War II. He remains a symbol of Japan without wielding any real power.

Fragile peace in Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Occasional gunshots and scattered violence threatened a fragile peace today in an impoverished neighborhood where rioting by hundreds of blacks was triggered by an interracial, drug-related killing.

The almost exclusively black area known as Cedar Grove became the province of rioters and looters for about five hours Tuesday night and early Wednesday after a black man was killed by a white woman shopping for cocaine, according to police and witnesses.

Less intense violence surfaced again Wednesday night despite pleas for calm by black ministers and politicians. Police detoured traffic when cars passing by the neighborhood were pelted with rocks, bricks and bottles. Then they sealed off a 12-block area when gunshots were heard.

An estimated 300 to 500 people were on the streets at the height of the riot, during which three stores and several cars were burned. Police Chief Charles Gruber said about 200 officers waited for the violence to subside.

The riot was centered near a park where police said dealers provided "curb-service crack."

Ten years ago, the neighborhood was a mixed-race working-class area, but it has become increasingly poor, violent and dangerous, authorities said. Vacant buildings give the appearance of a war zone and drug dealers have intimidated the elderly and families.

High teen-age unemployment and a feeling that police had failed to provide equal protection for blacks have made the area "a time bomb waiting to explode," said State Sen. Greg Tarver, a black former city councilman.

"You can come through here any time, get robbed, get cut, get shot," added Richard Kenner, a policeman who has patrolled Cedar Grove from midnight to dawn the past seven years. "There'll be 100 people standing around and nobody saw anything."

There were no arrests or injuries Wednesday night, but a pickup truck containing three whites had its windshield shattered in three places and its passenger-side window smashed out.

Officials said the trouble was triggered by the Tuesday night slaying of William David McKinney, 20, who lived in the neighborhood. A witness said McKinney just happened to be standing nearby when Tamala C. Vergo, who was shopping for cocaine, opened fire on some men who snatched her purse.

Vergo, 17, was being held today on a charge of second-degree murder, police said. Another woman, apparently a companion, was questioned but no charges were filed, said police Cpl. E.T. Rushing.

At least five blacks were arrested during the rioting on misdemeanor charges ranging from inciting a riot to resisting arrest, police said. Some of them also were booked for looting. All remained in jail today.

Mayor John Hussey and Chief Gruber, along with black political and religious leaders, appealed for calm after a meeting Wednesday.

Hussey and the Rev. E. Edwards Jones, a local pastor and president of the National Baptist Convention of America Inc., agreed problems run deep throughout Shreveport's black community. "We've got problems in our economy, we've got problems in our racism, we've got many other problems," Hussey said. Hussey said the strategy again Wednesday night was to wait out the troublemakers.

Their way may be wrong way

MIAMI (AP) — Patrons reading Burger King's paper tray liners are finding the fast-food chain has served up U.S. history its way — but not necessarily the right way.

before Thomas Jefferson could pen our Constitution, he was schooled in history.

Promotional material for the Miami-based company's "Education Enriches Everyone" campaign incorrectly credits Thomas Jefferson with writing the U.S. Constitution. It also lists the wrong birth year for President Lyndon Johnson — 1903 instead of 1908.

Actually, Jefferson didn't even attend the Constitutional Convention. He did, however, write the Declaration of Independence, and initially objected to the Constitution's lack of protection for human rights.

The information was published on millions of tray liners and is part of a promotion that includes bookmarks and about 35,000 posters to be mailed to classrooms across the nation.

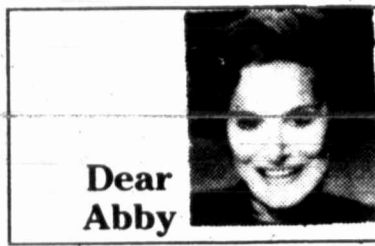

When the misinformation was brought to Burger King's attention Monday, company officials conferred with The Block Group of New York, the public relations firm that created the promotional material.

According to the tray liners,

Barbara Gothard, the Burger King executive in charge of the campaign, called Johnson's birth date "a genuine typographical error" but held fast to the notion that Jefferson did "pen" the Constitution.

Phone call-waiting: Blessing, curse

DEAR ABBY: You agreed with a reader who said that a call-waiting signal was a "rude interruption." Picture this: A lonely wife, passing time on the phone with her mother, sister or friend, when her serviceman (or traveling) husband calls home. If he's in the service, he has probably stood in line for two hours to get his turn at the phone. But wait! Abby says it's "rude" to have her call interrupted — so let him get a busy signal.

Dear Abby

How about the parents of a runaway finding comfort in a phone call from a dear friend; the child, in a moment of loneliness, decides to call home. The line is busy! The child has a change of heart and decides not to call after all.

We should all have the option of knowing who wants or needs to talk to us.

In today's busy, hectic world, with so many two-job households, our time at home is limited, and Call waiting allows us to know that someone is trying to reach us. If you happen to be on a call that is of vital importance and do not wish to be notified if someone else is trying to reach you, call waiting can be turned off during your conversation.

Please rethink your opinion, Abby.

PENNY RITTER, OLYMPIA, WASH.

DEAR PENNY: I plead ignorance. I was not aware that the call-waiting signal could be temporarily deactivated by the one who has the service. Thank you. Your letter was one of several hundred to promptly get that message to me.

I realize that when a pregnant woman enters a room, all mothers must feel some sort of bond with her and feel it's necessary to "share" — with only good intentions, of course.

DEAR ABBY: I am seven and a half months pregnant with my first child, and I cannot help thinking about the many horror stories I have been told since I became pregnant. Abby, even though I have withstood a tremendous amount of physical trauma and have been in and out of the hospital a good deal of my life, childbirth is still a bit unnerving. Just yesterday, a young woman in a store began to chat with me, and went on to tell me of the "horrible experience" she had with her first.

But I wish these women would think about what they are saying, and the effect it could have on someone who has never before gone through this experience. Let her doctor tell her the risks and complications that could arise. Just share with her the happiness and joy she is trying to feel. And if you must share something, please let it be courage, strength and hope.

Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I just had to tell somebody!

EXPECTING IN SILVERDALE, WASH.
DEAR EXPECTING: Glad to lend an ear.

Hyperion clubs meet

The Hyperion Clubs met for 1988 at the Big Spring Country Club on Sept. 15. Patti Horton, president of the 1953 Hyperion Club, presided and called the meeting to order. Grace Long, of the 1965 Hyperion Club, gave the invocation.

Honoree

Club presidents were introduced: Mrs. R.C. Thomas, 1905; Mrs. Dan Wilkins, 1930; Mrs. Jerry Grimes, 1946; Mrs. Robert Moore, 1948; Mrs. Bill Wilson, 1955; Mrs. Dewayne Fraser, 1970; and Mrs. Joe Horton, 1953.

Ruby Bell Billings will be honored on her 95th birthday at an open house at the First Baptist Church, 705 W. Marcy, Monday from 4 to 6 p.m.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Morris Rhodes and Mrs. James Williams. Katie Grimes, president of 1946 Hyperion Club, introduced Mrs. Cloetta Shotts, chairman of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Cultural Affairs Committee and representative of the Spring City Theater.

Everyone is invited. Refreshments of cake and punch will be served.

The Spring City Theater group presented a dramatic reading "Two Ladies in Suits at Lunch", acted by Debbie Reid and Charla Martin.

The hostesses, Barbara Carey and Virginia Hewitt, ask that no one bring gifts.

Katie Grimes, secretary of the Hyperion Council, read the minutes of the 1987 Hyperion Luncheon. Eunice Choate moved they be approved and Lila Brewster seconded. The minutes were approved. Mrs. Kay Fraser, president of the 1970 Hyperion Club, will serve as Hyperion Council treasurer. Carolyn Freeman presented the treasurer report in Kay Fraser's absence.

Military

Patti Horton thanked the 1905 Hyperion Club for planning the menu, the 1953 Hyperion Club for the decorations and the 1946 Hyperion Club for the entertainment.

Marine Pvt. Buster D. Gartman, a resident of 2608 Alamesa, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

Reports were presented to the council by all club presidents. The 1955 Hyperion Club won the attendance award with 70 percent present.

During the 11-week training cycle, Gartman was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid.

A 1983 graduate of Big Spring High School, he joined the Marine Corps Reserves in May 1988.

Petting zoo — a major attraction for young fair-goers

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

The moment they had been waiting for was at hand, but the group of kindergartners seemed to be having second thoughts.

Apparently wary of the goat that ate the fair schedule held by one of their compatriots, six kindergartners stopped in their tracks, blocking traffic at the entrance of the Texas Safari Petting Zoo at the Howard County Fair.

"Move on in, they won't hurt you," said Jack Walton, of Texas Safari, as he pushed back a pack of sheep and goats, making room for the kindergartners.

"But watch your name tags, you better take those off, the goats might pull them off, and get the pin stuck in their throats. I had one eat a name tag this morning and I'm hoping it don't die."

As they made their way into a pen holding approximately 60 animals, some of the kindergartners were obviously more worried about their own welfare than that of the animals.

A few terrified children clung to the skirts of chaperones and teachers — and others screamed in fear.

But most of the children, fists full of feed, wandered happily, if somewhat timidly at first, through the pen feeding, petting and learning the names of the assorted animals.

The petting zoo, open Thursday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to closing, features animals ranging from the ordinary farm variety to the exotic.

The animals were transported to the fair from Texas Safari wildlife park in Clifton, about 35 miles west of Waco.

The more than 400 kindergartners from the Big Spring school district who filed through the petting zoo on Wednesday had the opportunity to see: Tennessee feinting goats, a pigmy zebu brahma, spotted fallow deer, llamas, Jacob four-horn sheep, a Vietnamese pot belly pig, a young African lion (kept in a cage), miniature horses, Sicilian burros, emus, an albino racoon, and Clyde, a 2,000-pound camel.

Most of the kindergartners had never had the opportunity to see many of the animals at the petting zoo, said Ruth Nanny, kindergarten teacher.

"Where else can you pet a deer, or a llama or a camel?" she asked. "I've never been that close to a camel. You can't get that close in a zoo."

"The children are still learning their senses — seeing, smelling, hearing. Today, they got to touch."

Asked if they liked petting the animals, the children in Nanny's class quietly raised their hands and gave the "thumbs up" hand gesture — their sign for "yes."

An informal poll revealed the goats, deer and miniature cattle were the most popular animals with Nanny's class.

"I liked to pet the baby goat," said Brad. "He kept throwing me around." "I liked the cow because he licked my hand," said Lindsey. "It tickled like a feather."

When the children returned to school, they would discuss what they had seen and draw pictures of the animals, said Sally Grove, teaching assistant.

Nanny had nothing but praise for the people operating the petting zoo, and this year's fair in general.

"The people at the petting zoo were so cooperative and receptive to us this year," she said. "It's a much warmer fair this year. This is definitely the best fair yet."

As the last of the kindergartners trickled away, heading towards the art exhibit, Walton looked toward the entrance to see if another group of children had assembled.

No visitors were present, but it wouldn't be long before the petting zoo was swarming again with children, he said.

"For the kids, this is one of the most exciting things going on at the fair," Walton said. "They'd rather be here than anywhere else."

"Almost every kid that comes to the fair passes through this barrier right here."

Benefit performance

Final Option, a Big Spring rock band, will perform at a benefit Saturday night to raise money for the funeral expenses of Jimmy Carrillo, 26, who died Sept. 3.

The group will perform at the Rusty Bucket, 3704 W. Highway 80 from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Band member Darrell White said Carrillo was one of the band's most avid supporters, and that band members decided to organize the benefit after learning of his death.

Admission to the benefit will cost $3 per person or $5 per couple.

The local band has played extensively in Big Spring for the last three months, and recently played at Ziggy's in Odessa, White said.

'Baby Boom' — two viewer types

NEW YORK (AP) — "Baby Boom" is perhaps intended to appeal to two types of viewers — single women whose biological clocks are in alarm mode and single mothers who wish raising a child was that easy.

Another instance of NBC's current "nothing-but-clones" programming philosophy, "Baby Boom" isn't just based on the film, starring Diane Keaton. It is produced by the same people and has the same guy (Sam Wanamaker) playing the boss, plus the same kid — actually the twins Michelle and Kristina Kennedy.

Kate Jackson takes over the lead role of J.C. Wiatt, a tigress of industry who quite accidentally acquires a baby. This 2-year-old seemingly travels alone across the Atlantic, and arrives via a freight company. Viewers who swallow that are what the advertising community calls a desirable audience.

J.C. has oodles of money, a Harvard education, a nanny, a huge apartment and a toddler who doesn't cry. The biggest problem to be solved in the first episode is finding the child's blanket, and J.C. is absolutely equal to the challenge.

"Baby Boom" is about angst among the pampered, which is far down on anyone's list of important or interesting problems.

The show may at least answer the question of whether two babies are cuter than one John Ritter, whose "Hooperman" on ABC is the competition on Wednesday night, along with CBS' "The Equalizer."

At the movies

The following movies will be showing this weekend at local theaters:

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit," rated PG, and "Coming to America," rated R, will be showing at The Cinema in College Park.

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit" stars Bob Hoskins as a tough private-eye who lives in a magical world where human beings co-exist with the likes of Bugs Bunny, Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck. When Roger Rabbit, one of the town's most beloved citizens, is implicated in a crime, it's up to Hoskins to get him off the hook.

"Coming to America," features Eddie Murphy playing an African prince who, while trying to act like a commoner, comes to the United States to find a bride.

"Tucker," rated PG, "Stealing Home," rated PG, "Big," rated PG, and "Young Guns," rated R, will be playing at Movies 4.

"Tucker" tells the story of Preston Tucker (Jeff Bridges) who invented and tried to mass produce "the car of tomorrow today." The innovations Tucker incorporated into his cars challenged the Detroit automobile makers, but rather than adopt Tucker's high standards, they sought to put him out of business.

"Big" tells the story of a little boy who visits a traveling carnival and asks a fortune telling machine to grant his wish to be "big." The next thing he knows he's inside the body of a 35-year-old man (Tom Hanks) and on his way to New York where he climbs the ladder of a toy company.

"Young Guns" tells the story of six young men who are hired to take care of the ranch of an Englishman. When he is killed by a neighboring rancher, the young cowboys ride off in search of revenge led by Billy the Kid (Emilio Estevez).

"Die Hard," rated R, and "Crocodile Dundee II," rated PG, will be showing this weekend at the Ritz.

"Die Hard" features a New York City cop (Bruce Willis) who finds himself trapped in a Los Angeles office tower that has been seized by terrorists on Christmas Eve.

Local boxer wins second pro bout

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Local boxer Juan Baldwin won his second professional bout last Saturday in Dallas, defeating Houston boxer Arturo Salcedo. Just like his first bout, Baldwin knocked out his opponent in the first round.

"I hit him with everything," said Baldwin. "I cut him real bad around the eyebrow with my first punch. He went down in about 20 seconds. When he got back up I broke his nose. I thought they should have stopped the fight."

Baldwin put Salcedo down for the count with three seconds remaining in the round.

"It was a better performance than my first fight because he was a better boxer. I just caught him early," said Juan.

Baldwin is managed by Mark May of Midland, and trained by dad Jamie Baldwin Sr. He issued his thanks to locals Roy Green and Ed Garza for helping him with his training.

Baldwin's next bout will be Oct. 8 in Las Vegas.

D vs. O Area teams to square off Friday

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

When the Garden City Bearkats host the Stanton Buffalos Friday night it will be a good offense against a good defense. And when the Class A Bearkats and Class AA Buffs get together, you can be sure there will be lots of hard hitting and fancy moves.

Garden City is off to one of its best starts in years, winning all three of their games. Coach Sam Scott's team has risen from 94th to a hefty number 15 ranking in the Harris Poll.

The Bearkats own a power-packed offense, led by the passing of Codie Scott and the rushing of Tony Ramirez. The Bearkats are averaging 35 points and 443 offensive yards per game. It is divided up equally, 183 passing and 248 rushing.

Codie Scott has passed for most of the yards, and his leading receiver is twin brother Jodie, who has 15 catches for four TD's. Tailback Ramirez is averaging 125 yards per game. Fullback Weldon Hilliger is averaging 75 yards per game.

Stanton heads into the contest with a 2-1 record, after suffering its first loss last week, a 14-8 setback to Greenwood.

Head coach Dale Ruth has installed a new offense and defense, and it shows offensively, where the Buffs have been struggling. The Stanton offense is averaging just nine points per game and a meek 140 yards offensively per contest.

The Buffs split-six defense is definitely where it's at. Stanton has yielded just 20 points this season, allowing opponents 180 yards per game.

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearkat defense swarms for the ball when Roby running back Michael Carreon fumbled during fourth quarter action last Friday night in Garden City's 48-6 victory. Garden City linebacker Michael Jones (51) takes a bead on the loose ball. The 3-0 Bearkats will host the 2-1 Stanton Buffalos Friday night.

Leading the charge are linebackers David Mendez and Geroge Reyna, who average 12 and 10 tackles respectively. End Jeff Hall has been another consistent performer, said Coach Ruth.

These three may be the leaders against the run, but backing them up are three secondary players that have been awesome against the pass.

The Buffalo secondary has seven interceptions and safety Robert Jones leads the way with three thefts. Halfback Anthony Inman, who was out last week with the flu, has two interceptions, and halfback Steve Scurlark and outside linebacker Randy Esparaza have one pick-off each.

Coach Ruth is very impressed with this year's version of the Bearkats. "They are very good. I've been at Stanton 10 years and this is one of the best Garden City teams I've seen. They can run and throw the ball offensively, and they've got a good defense. We'll have our hands full."

Ruth is hoping his offense will come alive this week. "We've been working harder on offense and this week it's looked better," said Ruth. "Last week we had a chance to win against Greenwood and we ran a pass pattern wrong and they intercepted at their 10 late in the

Evans, Biondi strike gold

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Californians Matt Biondi and Janet Evans built up their medal hoard with another gold apiece Thursday night, swimming to astonishingly easy, record-breaking Olympic victories.

Biondi, winner of two golds, a silver and a bronze, needs three more medals to become the first Olympian to capture seven in one Games since Mark Spitz' all-gold feat of 1972.

Biondi, the world record-holder in the 100-meter freestyle in 48.42 seconds, set an Olympic record of 48.63 in his specialty, while fellow American Chris Jacobs won the silver in 49.08. Stephan Caron of France won the bronze in 49.62.

Biondi, 22, of Moraga, Calif., held the old Olympic mark of 49.04, set earlier in the day in the preliminaries.

Evans, who won the 400 individual medley earlier in the week, churned through the 400 freestyle in 4 minutes, 3.85 seconds, lowering the world mark of 4:05.45 she set last December.

When she saw the time flash on the scoreboard, her eyes popped wide and her mouth opened in disbelief.

Heike Friedrich of East Germany won the silver in 4:05.94 and East German Anke Moehring took the bronze in 4:06.62.

Evans, 17, of Placentia, Calif., beamed broadly on the victory stand, waved to the crowd, and sang the Star Spangled Banner while the American flag was raised. Moments later, Biondi did the same.

Kristin Otto of East Germany won her second gold, taking the 100 backstroke in 1:00.89.

Peace, harmony, progress — the theme of the 1988 Olympics posted all over Seoul — lost some meaning earlier in the day when enraged Korean boxing coaches punched a referee and gave the Games a nasty black eye.

SEOUL — United States' Janet Evans of Placentia, Calif., waves to the crowd after her gold medal victory in the Olympic 400 meter freestyle swimming event.

The chaos and disgrace at the boxing arena cast a shadow over a day of perfect 10s by Soviet men gymnasts, speed and hustle by American women in a basketball shootout, and a dramatic comeback victory by the defending gold medal U.S. men's volleyball team.

Even Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi chipped in from afar with some criticism, citing

Could Doomsday be back?

IRVING (AP) — Lost in the furor over "phantom" safeties and quarterback Steve Pelluer goofs, is the play of Dallas' defense which has closely resembled the Cowboys' old "Doomsday" outfit of the 1970s.

Dallas is seventh in the NFC in total defense and tied for sixth in points allowed.

"I'm delighted with the way we are playing defense," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "We still lack a scoring punch on offense but our defense is hustling and doing the job."

With injuries at linebacker, the Cowboys picked Garry Cobb off the waiver wire when the Philadelphia Eagles released him and he has begun establishing himself as one of the team leaders.

"Cobb is playing very well," Landry said. "He was at the experience level we wanted. He has already made some big plays. I'm delighted by his progress."

Ironically, Cobb was with the Cowboys in training camp nine years ago but was cut and picked up by the Eagles.

"Cobb just knows how to play the game," Landry said. "He is picking up the defense very fast."

Cobb beat out Garth Jax for the right outside linebacker's job.

"You just can't beat experience and Cobb has it," Landry said. "He's been a real find for us."

Cobb said "It's been fun watching the defense come together. It should keep getting better and better."

An increase in pressure from the defensive front has given the Cowboys nine quarterback sacks for 66 yards in losses.

"We have one of the best teams we've ever had just for the pure fact of playing hard," Landry said.

Landry has moved Randy White to defensive end on some pass rush situations.

"Randy is starting to become more active," Landry said. "He had a good game against the Giants."

On pass defense, Robert Williams has sparkled as a cornerback replacement for Ron Francis, who came back this week after sitting out almost two months with a separated shoulder.

"I've been well pleased with Williams," Landry said. "He has great closing speed on long routes. He isn't beaten very often."

"Right now, our defense is carrying our offense," Landry said. "The defense is moving forward but the offense lacks scoring punch."

Surprise! Astros win a 1-0 game

By The Associated Press
Bob Knepper pitched the best game of his career, but it came too late to help the Houston Astros.

By The Associated Press
The Massachusetts Miracle is going to have to wait.

After taking three out of four against the New York Yankees last weekend, Boston seemed to have sealed its hold on first in the American League East and buried any memories of its collapse in 1978.

But thanks to the pesky Toronto Blue Jays, the Red Sox are suddenly vulnerable again. They dropped two out of three at Toronto and start a weekend series Friday at New York, which swept a three-game series from Baltimore to pull to within 4 1/2.

Milwaukee is just four games back and Detroit trails by five. The Red Sox have 10 games left to play.

"We still control our own destiny, boys," Boston manager Joe Morgan said after his team fell 1-0 to Mike Flanagan and the Blue Jays Wednesday night. "It's been that way since April or whatever. We're still out in front and they've got to catch us."

The Red Sox have dropped eight of 10 against the Blue Jays this season and must face them three more times next week. This weekend, Boston will have its top three pitchers — Roger Clemens, Bruce Hurst and Mike Boddicker — facing the Yankees.

Flanagan scattered four hits in eight innings and did not allow a Boston baserunner past first. Duane Ward worked the ninth, retiring Jim Rice with two outs and two on to earn his 15th save.

Brewers 10, Angels 3

Milwaukee maintained sole possession of second place in the AL East, completing a three-game sweep at California as rookie Gary Sheffield drove in three runs.

The Brewers, who have just eight games remaining, play host to the Oakland Athletics this weekend. Sheffield's RBI single in the sixth chased Willie Fraser, 11-12. In the eighth, Sheffield hit a two-run homer, his third of the season and second in two nights.

Yankees 3, Orioles 2
New York made the most of its series with last-place Baltimore, taking all three games. Don Slaught's one-out homer in the bottom of the 12th inning Wednesday night completed the sweep.

The Yankees, held to one hit in the previous five innings, won when Slaught hit the first pitch from Mark Thurmond for his ninth home run. Thurmond, 1-8, entered in the 12th and struck out Gary Ward to start the inning.

Tigers 3, Indians 2
Darrell Evans' two-out double in the bottom of the eighth drove in Matt Nokes with the go-ahead run as Detroit beat Cleveland.

With two outs in the eighth, Nokes singled off reliever Brad Havens, 2-3. Evans hit a line drive to right center which got past a diving Cory Snyder, the right fielder, and rolled to the fence as Nokes came around to score.

Athletics 6, Twins 3
Oakland set a major-league record for saves in a single season, made possible, ironically, by shortstop Walt Weiss' first error in 59 games.

The error allowed Minnesota to score an unearned run in the top of the eighth inning, pulling the Twins within three runs and setting the stage for Dennis Eckersley to earn his 43rd save of the season and the 61st for Oakland.

Royals 5, Mariners 4
Bo Jackson homered twice and scored the go-ahead run in the ninth inning as Kansas City beat Seattle.

Jackson walked to lead off the top of the ninth against reliever Mike Jackson, 6-5, stole second and scored on Jim Eisenreich's double.

White Sox 6, Rangers 1
Shawn Hillegas allowed no hits for 6 1/3 innings before combining with Bobby Thigpen on a three-hitter to lead Chicago.

Hillegas, 2-2, allowed a single to center by Pete O'Brien in the seventh. The only Rangers to reach base prior to the hit were Jerry Browne, who walked in the first, and Geno Petralli, hit by a pitch in the second.

FLORENCE GRIFFITH JOYNER, United States — A fine world-class sprinter for several years, she blasted into international prominence with a series of spectacular performances at the U.S. Olympic Trials. In the 100, she ran the four fastest times in history — a world-record 10.49, a wind-aided 10.60, and 10.61 and 10.70. In the 200, she missed the world record by only .06 of a second but set the American record of 21.77. In addition to her sprinting, Griffith Joyner showed a spectacular wardrobe, including several one-legged body suits. She is married to 1984 Olympic triple jump champion Al Joyner.

JACKIE JOYNER-KERSEE, United States — The world record-holder in the heptathlon, with 7,215 points at the U.S. Olympic Trials, she is the only heptathlete to exceed 7,000 points, having accomplished it four times. She is unbeaten in eight heptathlons since 1985, and was the world champion last year in that event and the long jump. She equaled the world record in the long jump at the 1987 Pan American Games and shares the American record in the 100-meter high hurdles. She is the younger sister of 1984 Olympic triple jump champion Al Joyner and is married to her coach, Bob Kersee.

ROGER KINGDOM, United States — The 1984 Olympic champion in the men's 110-meter hurdles, he has returned to top form after more than two years of injuries. This year, he has run 13.14 and 13.15, the fastest times in the world in three years. He also was the 1983 Pan American Games champion. After these Olympics, Kingdom, a former college football player, intends to try the decathlon.

STEFKA KOSTADINOVA, Bulgaria — The star of the women's high jump, she holds the world outdoor record of 6-10 1/4 and the world indoor record of 6-9. She won at the 1987 World Outdoor Championships and at the 1985 and 1987 World Indoor Championships. From 1984-86, she won 34 consecutive competitions, and after losing once in late 1986, she ran off another string, of 19 victories, before losing again last year.

INGRID KRISTIANSEN, Norway — She is the only athlete ever to hold world records in the 5,000 meters (14:37.33), 10,000 meters (30:13.74) and marathon (2:21:06). When she set the 10,000 record, she took an amazing 45.68 seconds off the old mark. Rarely beaten, she lost twice this year, but afterward it was discovered that she was ailing. She also won the World Championship in the 10,000 meters last year and holds world bests on the road for 10 kilometers, 10 miles, 15 kilometers and the half-marathon. In 1983, she won the Houston Marathon only five months after giving birth to her son. She also was a former world-class skier.

CARL LEWIS, United States — Matched Jesse Owens' 1936 feat by winning four Olympic gold medals in the 1984 Games — in the 100 and 200 dashes, the long jump and the 400 relay. He will try and match his own and Owens' accomplishment this time — and become the first Olympian to win those events more than once. In the U.S. Olympic Trials, he won the 100 in a wind-aided 9.78, the fastest time under any conditions. He has the best non-altitude performances for the 200 (19.75) and the long jump (28-10 1/4, twice), and he has won 55 consecutive long jump competitions since 1981.

EDWIN MOSES, United States — The premier 400-meter intermediate hurdler in history. He has broken the world record four times, lowering it to 47.02. He compiled a remarkable winning streak of 122 races, including 107 finals, from 1972-1987, and after this year's U.S. Trials, his career record was 173-8. He won World Cup titles in 1977, 1979 and 1981, the World Championship in 1983 and 1987, and Olympic gold medals in 1976 and 1984. If he wins at the Games again, he would be the first three-time Olympic gold medalist in his event.

ROSA MOTA, Portugal — With Ingrid Kristiansen declining to run the marathon, Mota, the 1987 world champion, is the Games' favorite. She has won nine of 12 marathons, including the European Championships in her first marathon in 1982, and again in 1986. In 1984, she finished third in the Olympic marathon, and her bronze medal was the first medal ever won by a Portuguese woman in the Games.

BLITCH REYNOLDS, United States — After threatening for more than a year to break the 20-year-old world record of 43.86 in the men's 400, set by fellow American Lee Evans in the 1968 Olympics, Reynolds finally shattered the mark with a 43.29 on Aug. 17 in Zurich. At the U.S. Olympic Trials, he came the closest ever to Evans' mark, clocking 43.93. Last year, Reynolds ran 44.10, 44.13 and 44.15, the three-fastest times ever at non-altitude until his brilliant performances at the Trials and Zurich. He finished third at last year's World Championships, after an exhausting season of more than 70 races and despite a stomach illness.

TATYANA SAMOLENKO, Soviet Union — Trying to match the 1976 feat of her countrywoman, Tatyana Kazankina, by winning the Olympic 1,500 and 3,000 meters, Samolenko won both those events at last year's World Championships, duplicating the accomplishment of Mary Decker Slaney of the United States at the 1983 World Championships.

bullfighting as one of the Olympics' violent and brutal sports.

The only bull at these Games was the excuse offered by Korean boxing officials to justify a melee in the ring after one of their fighters lost.

The coaches and a Korean Olympic official stormed the ring and threw several punches at referee Keith Walker of New Zealand, hitting him at least once, after a 4-1 decision by 119-pound Bulgarian Alexander Hristov over Korean Byun John-il.

"The Korean man, he should win," said S.H. Yoon, a Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee official who was one of those who charged Walker. Yoon and the coaches claimed Walker unfairly deducted two points from Byun for butting.

That excuse didn't win much support from higher Korean authorities.

"It was very disgraceful behavior," said Shin Hyon-ung, spokesman for the organizing committee. "Necessary action will be followed by the authorities concerned after a full investigation."

A chair and bottle also were thrown into the ring, but police restored order quickly and shielded Walker as he left the arena.

However, Byun refused to leave.

In a silent protest after the ring was cleared, Byun, 19, sat in his corner with his arms on his knees. A few minutes later, clad in his blue and gold robe, he got up and sat on his stool and stared impassively across the empty ring.

He sat and he sat and he sat some more — 67 minutes in all, breaking an unofficial sitdown record of 51 minutes by South Korean boxer Choh Dong-kih at the 1964 Tokyo Games after he was disqualified.

When the lights went out after the afternoon card was finished, Byun finally stood and climbed through the ropes. He returned, though, a moment later, to bow courteously in several directions to the empty seats and a few remaining supporters.

The fracas stole some of the thunder from a victory by American 119-pounder Kennedy McKinney, who knocked down Erick-Giovanni Perez of Guatemala twice and stopped him at 1:44 of the first round.

On the fun side of things, Jeff Stork came off the bench to rally the defending gold medal U.S. men's volleyball team from a 0-2 deficit to a 3-2 victory over Argentina that virtually clinched a spot in the medal round.

Stork, the usual starting setter, sat out the first two games with a back injury, then turned the match around in the third game with his spinning, dipping, left-handed serves.

He won his first five points, one on an ace that made it 9-4, and got fine support from Steve Timmons, Craig Buck and Bob Ctvrtlik to win the match 11-15, 11-15, 15-4, 17-15, 15-7 and run the U.S. record to 3-0.

In women's basketball, the United States fell behind Yugoslavia by eight points before its running game and trapping defense kicked into high gear. Then it was goodbye.

The Americans became only the second women's basketball team in Olympic history to top the 100-point mark, winning 101-74. The only other women's team to score 100 was the Soviet Union, which beat the United States 112-77 in 1976.

"Naturally, a coach would like to have a strong start, but you'd rather have a stronger finish," Coach Kay Yow said. "You just go with the flow. That's this team's personality. I don't feel you can force something on a team just because that's what I would want to do."

With a 2-0 record and only a Sunday game against China remaining in pool play, the United States is assured of getting into the medal round.

The Soviets, as expected, dominated men's gymnastics as Vladimir Artemov captured the all-around gold to lead a sweep of all three medals.

Artemov, 23, outlasted teammates Valery Lyukin and two-time world champion Dmitri Bilozherchev in a display of perfection.

Bilozherchev, 21, drew six 10s in three days of competition but ended up with the bronze because of one mistake on the high bar. Lyukin, 21, took the silver.

The Soviets added six perfect scores in the all-around finals to the seven 10s they posted in Tuesday's team optionals.

Charles Lakes, the U.S. national champion from Chatsworth, Calif., was the top American finisher in 19th place. His best score was in his specialty, the high bar, where he scored a 9.950 with a series of flying releases over the bar and a double somersault dismount.

The other Americans in the all-around finals, Kevin Davis and Lance Ringnald, finished 34th and 35th in the 36-man field.

Weightlifter Mitko Grablev lost his gold in the 123-pound class and was banned from the Games after testing positive for a diuretic he used to shed a few pounds.

team we've faced this year. They got all that speed and they have played some good teams.

"They're just learning that Wing-T offense. But they've got what it takes to be very explosive. I just hope this isn't the week they put it all together."

Friday night everyone will see if a good defense prevails over a good offense.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will be richly rewarded for being one of life's great doers and planners. Financial security is a top priority. A special collection may have to be divided or moved. Setbacks will be galling but strictly temporary. The way you handle them will determine how successful you will be in business. Those in banking and retailing enjoy unexpected fringe benefits. Romance will be slowed only if you delay making your intentions known.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: tenor Julio Iglesias, singer Ray Charles, actor Walter Pidgeon, longtime star Mickey Rooney, rock star Bruce Springsteen, actress Gail Russell, musician John Coltrane, sculptress Louise Nevelson.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Some will argue long and hard with you, but you will win in the end. Apprehension over a business deal should not be ignored. Wipe the slate clean and begin again.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Financial support will be there if you need it. Tensions on the work scene need to be discussed. Stay in control in a relationship. Do not be taken in by an emotional appeal.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A disappointment will lead to a great success. A change of scenery helps you escape business worries. You will return to work refreshed. Use tried-and-true methods now.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be sure that everything you do now will be beneficial to a relationship you really believe in. Shun the political battles going on at work. Find a quiet place to complete your assignments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Try not to let down those who are counting on you — particularly your boss. A financial windfall could be announced this weekend. Keep a commitment, even if you get a better offer later.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Women find their business partners more receptive than before. A job search can be difficult, even if you have good references. A romantic relationship becomes more fulfilling. A student may change majors.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Focus on making a new start. A turnaround is near in the financial area. Letters will help open doors on a business trip. Romance will not work if you try to change each other.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have your feet firmly on the ground. Do not give in to peers who want you to follow their lead. Outdoor living always makes you feel fit and adventuresome. Plan a trip.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Redouble your efforts at work so you can take a breather over the weekend. A change of pace will restore your energy and alertness. Spend a quiet evening with mate.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are constantly amazed at how respected you are. You shouldn't be. You have earned all the praise you receive. A voice from within helps determine the choices you make today.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not let an authority figure down. A written message could prove even more significant in a week or two. Tend to business matters and let others settle their own differences.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A project begun today will bring rewards as early as next week. Travel for fun, not business. A phone call or casual social outing could change your views on a money matter.
