SWCID founder praised

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles on deaf awareness week.

When Douglas Burke — one of the founders of SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf and its first executive director — died Wednesday, the deaf community lost "a stimulating, gifted, well-educated leader," said Ron Brasel, SWCID executive director.

Burke, 56, died at his home in Big Spring as a result of a lingering illness.

"Doug was an excellent role model to all individuals in the deaf community, not only in the state of Texas but in the nation," Brasel said. "He was a poet, writer, initiator and well-respected gentleman in the field of deaf education."

Brasel, who first met Burke in 1986, said the students and faculty who knew the former director "had the greatest respect for him."

"He always had the deaf people and their needs at heart," he added. "I know he will be missed in the deaf community."

"Doug Burke as we knew him was a real trailblazer," said Gary Olsen, executive director of the National Association of the Deaf in Indianapolis. "He was always going for something big and new, and he will be missed by the National Association for the Deaf and many others."

Burke was serving as the Regional Superintendent of the Texas Day School Program for the Deaf and living in El Paso in the late 1970s when he began to formulate the initial proposal to create a college for the deaf in West Texas.

"This pioneering effort required an undaunted courage as well as consummate skill in administrative affairs," said Robert F. Panara, a professor at the National Technical Institute for the Deaf in a letter recommending Burke for an honorary doctorate at Gallaudet University.

"Burke masterminded the whole concept in acquiring, designing, equipping and staffing this unique two-year college program of liberal arts and vocational studies (and became) the first deaf administrator of a college level program anywhere."

Burke served in the administration at SWCID until the fall of 1983 when he began working for the Texas Commission for the Deaf. He retired from the commission in October 1984 for health reasons.

He was born in Minneapolis and held a B.A. degree in English from Gallaudet University, an M.A. degree in education administration and supervision from California State University and a doctorate in educational administration from the University of Rochester.

His contributions to the deaf community were wide ranging. He established the Miss Deaf America Pageant, which was dedicated to Burke this year for his contributions to the deaf community nationwide.

In 1968, he established the National Association of the Deaf Cultural Program, an organization that promotes deaf artists, writers and performers.

He also helped establish the National Theatre for the Deaf and was

It's off: Shuttle launch 'great'

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — More than 2½ years after the trauma and tragedy of the Challenger disaster, the shuttle Discovery rocketed into orbit today, carrying five astronauts on a comeback flight that NASA hoped would signal a rebirth of the American manned space program.

Riding two redesigned booster rockets, the winged spacecraft blasted off launch pad 39B at 11:37 a.m. EDT. Liftoff was delayed 98 minutes while NASA awaited a shift in peculiarly light winds along the Discovery flight path.

The craft was safely in orbit, its crew ticking off a routine system checklist, when NASA officials stood before launch officers to hail the beginning of the four-day mission.

"It's great to be back in space again," said the director of the Kennedy Space Center, Forrest McCartney. "Wow," said NASA administrator James Fletcher. "It's been a long wait."

The tension here was considerable and did not abate until Discovery shed its booster rockets, on schedule at 2:04 after liftoff. It was a faulty booster which led to the Challenger catastrophe.

"Good luck and Godspeed," was the send off from Launch Control to Commander Frederick Hauck. As the ship entered orbit, the communicator from Mission Control confirmed. "Performance nominal."

Later today, the astronauts were to release from the shuttle's cargo bay a $100 million communications satellite.

Months of remorse, restructuring and rebuilding ended when the winged spacecraft entered its initial orbit, about 110 miles above Earth, heading for 160 miles.

President Reagan drew applause when he announced the successful launch at an awards ceremony in Washington. Saying the shuttle was "headed into orbit and America is back in space," he saluted the bravery of the crew and added, "We ask God to bless this important voyage."

Trailing a 700-foot geyser of fire, Discovery vaulted from its pad and within seconds rolled into its desired course to orbit. An estimated quarter-million people watched from roads, river banks and other viewing spots in the Kennedy Space Center area.

The atmosphere was anxious as the shuttle moved successfully through the stage of maximum aerodynamic stress at which Challenger broke apart, dooming its crew of seven on Jan. 28, 1986 just 73 seconds after liftoff.

The flight passed its most critical milestone when its two 149-foot-tall solid fuel booster rockets burned out on schedule and jettisoned toward the Atlantic Ocean.

The failure of a joint in one booster allowed flames to escape and led to the Challenger explosion. The accident triggered hundreds of modifications to the shuttle and a new launch-oversight procedure in which former astronaut Robert Crippen held one-man authority to approve launch.

He did, sending the shuttle toward orbit through partially cloudy skies. Aboard with Navy Capt. Hauck: Air Force Col. Richard Covey; Marine Lt. Col. David C. Hilmers; John M. Lounge; and George D. "Pinky" Nelson.

With the boosters shed, Discovery's three liquid fuel main engines burned for another 6½ minutes to propel Discovery and its crew into orbit.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, indeed the entire country, had to be relieved. Another catastrophic failure could have killed the shuttle program and seriously jeopardized future U.S. space efforts.

"We've got about nine minutes of work left to get this program back into space," said Bob Sieck, the launch director, as he briefed the flight crew and restarted the countdown clock.

The morning countdown was smooth, excepting Florida's fickle weather.

Chamber director post's emphasis to change

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Interviews for executive director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce candidates are set for Monday and Tuesday, chamber president Clyde McMahon Jr. told a chamber board meeting Wednesday.

But the new executive's duties will have a different slant, according to the chamber directors. Directors Bob Moore, Shirley Shroyer and Sandra Waggoner said Wednesday the new person will be expected to have the capability of attracting industry, pursue grants for that purpose and oversee the development of tax incentive programs to bring new employers to Big Spring.

The new director's salary is expected to increase — although no exact figures were available — over the approximately $42,000 annually a chamber spokeswoman said former executive vice president F. LeRoy Tillery was paid.

Cantu denies he's guilty of shooting

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

A 40-year-old Big Spring man — whose felony probation was revoked Sept. 22 and is awaiting transportation to the Texas Department of Corrections — has denied he participated in the July shooting of two women at a north-side apartment complex.

Pedro "Pete" Cantu maintains he was not involved in the wounding of Lydia Yanez, 39, and her daughter, Lizzie Franco, 20, at the Northerest Apartments, 1002 N. Main St., during the early morning hours of July 15.

District Judge James Gregg revoked Cantu's 10-year felony probation on an aggravated assault conviction in connection with the March 30th, 1986 shooting of Ramon Calderon at Comanche Trail Park.

Cantu wrote a letter to the Big Spring Herald concerning a story that appeared in Friday's edition about his probation being revoked.

In the letter, Cantu alleged the "real facts" were not presented in the story.

Shortly after receiving the letter Tuesday morning, Howard County jailer Robert Puente contacted the Funds for industrial development, "is money that we can't afford not to spend . . . I'm excited about this prospect, I think this is the beginning of an important and a positive chapter in the chamber." — Robert Moore Tillery resigned effective immediately Friday to accept an economic development position in Weatherford.

McMahon said the chamber is planning to work with the city and the county as well as the industrial foundation in order to "build community spirit" and bring new industries into Big Spring.

Moore indicated that a candidate for the post should, ideally, have "experience in the city, in the chamber and in industrial recruitment and development."

Shroyer — who affirmed in answer to another director's question that Tillery had been paid an unspecified extra sum by an agreement to do so if he had left the chamber by the end of September — also emphasized that the new program would "neglect existing businesses in Big Spring."

Tillery's contract with the chamber ran through December, and the board was willing to honor it, but agreed to a severance payment upon his resignation, although it did not amount to the full contract, according to the board.

Tillery was offered the opportunity to apply for the position, chamber directors have said, but he declined.

Moore told directors during the meeting that funds for industrial development, "is money that we can't afford not to spend." Part of the funds will be sought from the city.

"I'm excited about this prospect, I think this is the beginning of an important and a positive chapter in the chamber," he concluded.

McMahon said the chamber board will have the final say in choosing the new executive, but would seek input from the city and the industrial foundation. First National Bank President Jimmy Taylor said today that the Industrial Foundation's board has unanimously voted to continue to supplement the chamber's budget in order to assist in paying the salary for the new executive.

City mayor A.C. "Cotton" Mize, who could not be reached for comment today, has supported the plan, McMahon told the directors.

Shroyer and Waggoner said they want to stress the positive aspects of the new plan. The first step in the plan has been achieved, Shroyer said, with the departure of Tillery.

The next step is to find a new executive, she noted, "who can work well with the city and the county and the chamber to promote Big Spring as a place for industries that are looking to relocate."

City Manager Hal Boyd, contacted late Tuesday, said he had not heard of the plan but was "sure the city will cooperate. We have a contract for $6,000 in industrial advertising with the chamber, and we will be glad to work with whatever individual they choose and assist that person in any way we can."

County Commissioner William B. (Bill) Crooker Jr. expressed the same sentiments, and both he and County Judge Milton Kirby noted

U.N. peacekeeping forces awarded Nobel Peace Prize

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

OSLO, Norway — The Nobel Committee today named U.N. peacekeeping forces around the world as winners of the 1988 Nobel Peace Prize.

The committee cited the forces for building a confidence in the United Nations that allows it to play a growing role in global affairs.

The five-member committee praised the blue-bereted troops in the Middle East, Cyprus and the Indian subcontinent for subduing tensions where armistices have substituted for peace.

The citation said the peacekeepers "have played a significant role in reducing the level of conflict even though the fundamental causes of the struggles frequently remain."

The decision was widely regarded as an indirect award to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, who scored diplomatic breakthroughs this year in mediating an Iran-Iraq cease-fire, a Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan and progress in talks on southwest Africa.

The peacekeepers "have played a significant role in reducing the level of conflict even though the fundamental causes of the struggles frequently remain."

Perez de Cuellar was ineligible for this year's prize because he was nominated after the Feb. 1 deadline.

The committee said the peacekeeping forces have helped reach one of the main goals of the United Nation. "Thus the world organization has come to play a more central part in world affairs and has been invested with increasing trust," it said.

It was the fifth time that a U.N.-related body won the coveted peace prize since it was first awarded in 1901 from the estate of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

In all, 97 individuals and organizations were nominated for the prize. President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev reportedly were among the leading contenders.

It was the 16th time that an organization rather than a person was named the Peace Prize laureate.

The announcement, read by committee chairman Egil Aarvik at the Nobel Institute, said the U.N. forces "represent the manifest will of the community of nations to achieve peace through negotiations, and the forces have by their presence made a decisive contribution toward the initiation of actual peace negotiations."

Aarvik, speaking to reporters afterward, said he hoped the award would "give the U.N. and the forces increased prestige."

He said he expected Perez de Cuellar to come to Oslo to accept the award at the annual ceremony on Dec. 10, the anniversary of Nobel's death in 1896.

The first U.N. troops were sent to monitor the armistice between Israel and the Arab states in 1948. Today, most U.N. forces are sta-

During a brief conversation with a Herald reporter that took place in the Howard County jail, Cantu said he did not shoot Yanez or Franco and would appeal the probation revocation.

Cantu also said that the testimony presented at the probation revocation hearing cannot be used against him if and when he

Panal withholds data in Wright ethics probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrat-controlled House Intelligence Committee has rejected an effort to turn over classified information for a requested ethics probe of whether Speaker Jim Wright improperly disclosed a secret CIA operation in Nicaragua, sources said.

Wednesday's action, on a party-line vote during a closed-door session, had been mapped out a day earlier in a private meeting of committee Democrats, who hold an 11-6 majority on the panel.

Majority members argued that they were under no obligation to provide classified information relevant to Wright's disclosure in part because the House ethics committee, which investigates breaches of confidentiality, had not formally asked for the material, said sources who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

Chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, pointedly reminded committee members as the meeting broke up that the rules prohibit members from discussing anything done in secret session. The reminder angered some Republican members, who complained that they apparently were being put under stricter rules than the speaker and vowed not to let the matter drop.

Wright, D-Texas, told reporters last week that he had "clear testimony" from the CIA that U.S. agents had sought to provoke demonstrations and civil unrest that would lead to harsh crackdowns by the leftist Sandinista government. The aim, Wright contended, was to sabotage faltering peace talks between the government and the Contra rebels.

In a subsequent interview, Wright said the information had been given by the CIA under congressional questioning. But he later denied violating House rules, contending the information he had relayed already was publicly known.

The disclosure prompted House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., and Intelligence Committee member Rep. Dick Cheney, R-Wyo., to formally ask for ethics and intelligence investigations into whether Wright had violated House rules against divulging classified information.

Asked whether Wednesday's action by the intelligence panel effectively closed the matter, a grim-faced Cheney responded: "Not as far as I'm concerned."

It appeared that Democrats, in seeking to head off the investigation, had traded Wright's potential rules and ethics problems in the incident for political trouble.

Republicans indicated they would seek first to have the ethics committee, formally called the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, make a direct request for the information. That committee is made up of six Democrats and six Republicans.

If that effort fails, there could be an attempt to raise the matter on the House floor and further embarrass Wright, GOP lawmakers confirmed.

The speaker already is under investigation by the ethics committee on a variety of allegations that he improperly profited from his official position and that he improperly intervened with federal regulators on behalf of constituents. The House on Wednesday approved a $550,000 boost in the panel's budget to pay for the mounting costs of that investigation.

Texas town turns out to reject dump

SPOFFORD, Texas (AP) — A corporation wanting to put a low-level waste dump in this community got a Texas-sized dose of opposition Wednesday as hundreds of area residents turned out to blast the idea.

The majority of an estimated 300 people who turned out for the meeting at the Brackettville Civic Center, opposed the idea of Browning-Ferris Industries Inc. putting a low-level radiation waste dump in Spofford, about 35 miles southeast of Del Rio.

BFI is planning to build a first-of-its-kind facility for the disposal of "naturally occurring radioactive material" waste, officials said.

One of the sources of waste is pipe scale from the inside of oil pipelines.

Eddie Solis of Spofford told representatives from the bureau of radiation control and from Tex-Cor Industries at the meeting, a local company involved in construction of the facility, that the dump would ruin the drinking water in the well his father had dug.

"I want you out of here. I don't want you close to Spofford. Please get out," he said.

The meeting drew residents from Brackettville, about 10 miles north of Spofford, and other outlying areas in Kinney County.

Many others believe their drinking water would be affected.

"When it gets out on the ground, it gets in the creek, and then you're in trouble," Herndon said. "There are wells all around here."

Many Spofford residents who have posted signs opposing the facility.

"Let those Yankees way up there in New York and those places keep their trash," Spofford Mayor J.B. Herndon told the Del Rio News-Herald. "We don't need it down here to bother us."

Long-time Brackettville resident Madge Belcher Keyes said a petition drive had been started and 75 to 100 people are opposed to the project.

Suit filed to stop diet patch sales

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox said he filed a lawsuit Wednesday against the makers of a "diet patch," alleging the item is misbranded, an unapproved drug and not recognized as safe and effective for weight control.

The suit was filed in Dallas County against Dynamic Technical Products, Inc. of Irving and Galen Hartman of Duncannonville, Mattox said.

There was no telephone listing for the company in Irving, and a telephone operator said Hartman had a non-published number.

Mattox alleged in the lawsuit that the defendants make and distribute a diet patch known as A.S.A.P. or Appetite Suppressant Application Patch.

Labels on the patch instruct users to attach one patch daily to the skin, so the ingredients in the patch can be absorbed and act on the brain's hunger control system, according to the suit.

Mattox said in the suit scientific experts do not recognize A.S.A.P. as safe and effective for use in the treatment of obesity or for regulating the appetite functions of the body. Neither the daily dosage nor the means of administering it is so recognized, the suit said.

The suit alleged the defendants have failed to get U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval for the product, and have misbranded it.

Mattox is asking the court to prohibit the defendants from selling the product illegally and order them to pay civil penalties of $2,000 per violation.

Airline plans expansion

FORT WORTH (AP) — American Airlines officials soon expect approval of plans to build a $750 million to $800 million terminal complex at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

The 17,800 acres and original buildings on the west side of DFW cost $440 million. The land and buildings at DFW, which opened in 1974, now are valued at $2.6 billion. If the board approves the plan at its Oct. 19 meeting, construction could begin in late 1989.

"We would like to take our plans to the board sometime this fall, either the October or November board meetings, if things fall into place," Kiernan said. "But I don't think you're ever going to see a decision (on the west side terminal) where we make an announcement, skyrocketers go off and we say we're going to start building the next day."

Mother receives 70 year sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — A Pasadena woman was sentenced to 70 years in prison after being convicted of injury to a child by omission for failing to seek medical attention for her 5-month-old son.

Jurors in State District Judge Mary Bacon's court took four hours and 15 minutes Wednesday evening to reach punishment for Reba Annette McFadden. The same jurors took less than an hour Wednesday afternoon to find the 22-year-old mother guilty.

The woman's boyfriend earlier was convicted of killing the child, and Ms. McFadden said the man had threatened her if she sought help for the boy.

Defense attorney Sandra Williams called the punishment a "very, very severe sentence" and said an appeal is planned.

Ms. McFadden testified Tuesday she didn't take her son to a hospital because her boyfriend, Chance Saunders, 17, threatened to blame the injury on her.

Ms. Krocker showed jurors pictures of a raw wound on the back of little Darrell McFadden's head. Ms. McFadden said she thought the festering sore was caused by cradle cap.

No evidence of the skin condition appeared in official pictures taken Oct. 17, when the baby died of a skull fracture. The mother said the cradle cap had cleared up two days earlier, but the injury remained.

Defense attorney Xavier Grenas said his client was threatened by Saunders.

"I think the evidence is conclusive," Grenas said. "Even experts, even the police department did not see something which raised their suspicions. If they couldn't see them how could she be expected to see them. She had explanations and according to the state's own medical examiner those explanations were reasonable."

Boy and mother kill intruder

HOUSTON (AP) — An 11-year-old boy and his mother shot and killed an armed intruder in their home in a neighborhood recently plagued by burglaries, authorities said.

The boy, whose father is a Houston police officer, fired a single shot from a 20-gauge shotgun at the burglar, who died at the scene despite the efforts of a Life-Flight helicopter crew. The incident occurred about 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, said sheriff's Lt. W.T. Sparks.

Sparks said the boy, a middle school student, was home alone because he was ill.

"He heard a knock on the front door and went up and looked through the peephole and saw a white female with blonde hair," Sparks said.

"He didn't know who she was, so he didn't answer. Then he heard the sound of the patio door breaking," Sparks said. "He got a shotgun and called his mother to ask if anyone was coming over. She said no, and she then dialed 911."

The youth barricaded himself in a bathroom.

Detective Max Cox said that when the burglar approached the bathroom door, the boy heard his mother drive up to their home.

"He flung open the door and fired at the suspect," Cox said.

Cox said the boy's mother heard the shot as she got out of her car and pulled out a pistol that she carries.

After the unidentified burglar was declared dead, detectives searched his body and found a .25-caliber pistol underneath it.

Deputies and area residents said many burglaries and thefts have been reported in the east Harris County neighborhood recently.

Texans arrested in drug bust

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — State police making a routine traffic stop found 150 pounds of cocaine in the car of a Texas couple and their teen-age son and charged the trio with drug trafficking Wednesday, authorities said.

State troopers found the 72 kilograms of cocaine, with an estimated street value of $12 million, hidden in the roof of the family's 1982 Ford station wagon late Tuesday on Interstate 55, said Trooper Marvin Rutledge, a spokesman for the state police at Pontiac.

Roman Alvarez-Quiroga, 43, and his wife, Juliana Cardenas Alvarez, 43, both of Houston, were charged in a federal criminal complaint with possession with the intent to distribute the cocaine, said U.S. Attorney J. William Roberts in Springfield.

U.S. Magistrate Charles Evans ordered Alvarez-Quiroga held without bond, and released his wife on her own recognizance.

The couple's son, Roman Alvarez Jr., 17, was charged in state court with possession of more than 900 grams of cocaine; possession with intent to deliver more than 900 grams; and controlled substance trafficking, said Livingston County State's Attorney Don Bernardi.

Laredo bank enters guilty plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Laredo National Bank in Laredo, Texas, has pleaded guilty to four misdemeanor counts of filing false documents with the Export-Import Bank and agreed to a civil settlement worth more than $4.5 million, the Justice Department said Wednesday.

The Laredo bank entered the guilty plea Tuesday and was fined $2,000 on the criminal charges of filing false documents to support claims to Ex-Im Bank on defaulted loans which Laredo made to Mexican borrowers. Ex-Im Bank had a loan guarantee agreement with Laredo.

The department said Ex-Im Bank relied on documents submitted by the Laredo bank in making $1.1 million in payments on claims involving 59 loans by Laredo in 1983.

How's That?

Prefix

Q. Does Big Spring have a new prefix, 264-, for the phone numbers?

A. Yes. Big Spring has had the new prefix, 264-, since January, when Southwestern Bell made the conversion with the new central office. The prefix is used when a multi-line system with enhanced features, such as an answering service, is installed. It may also be given to new customers, according to Darlene Gifford of Southwestern Bell public relations.

Social Security is political weapon of the '80s

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security, in sickness and in health, has been one of the Democratic party's most potent political weapons of the 1980s.

This election, like the past two, finds the Democratic candidate — Michael Dukakis — accusing his Republican rival of harboring malevolent intentions toward the program that 38 million retirees, disabled workers and their dependents rely on.

As president of the Senate, George Bush cast a tie-breaking vote on May 9, 1985, against exempting Social Security's cost-of-living adjustment from a fiscal 1986 budget freeze. The tally was 50-49.

In this campaign, as in 1986, Mr. Senior Citizen himself, 88-year-old

'88 Issues

Democratic Rep. Claude Pepper of Florida, will be on the airwaves attacking the Republicans on Social Security. The National Council of Senior Citizens is running Pepper ads attacking Bush and distributing posters that scream, "Bush whacked my Social Security on May 9, 1985."

Robert Strauss, the former Democratic party chairman and co-chairman of the National Economic Commission, touched off a firestorm Sept. 20 when he said that if the budget is to be balanced, then "we have to go to Social Security, Medicare and entitlements generally and we have to go to defense." Both the Dukakis and Bush campaigns disavowed Strauss' statement.

The Social Security issue was of scant help to Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale against Ronald Reagan, but Dukakis hopes this fall it will give voters pause about backing Bush.

The $210 billion retirement and disability program, on the verge of bankruptcy five short years ago, now is piling up huge surpluses. Its trust funds which grew to $69 billion last year, will add $40 billion more in 1988 and are expected to swell to $646 billion by the end of 1995.

Dukakis, in last Sunday's debate, accused Bush of planning to "raid the Social Security trust fund" to help reduce the deficit and pay for tax cuts and Pentagon weapons.

In fact, the growing trust funds already help reduce the deficit.

Although Social Security's trust funds technically are listed apart from the government's other accounts, they are lumped together for purposes of the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law.

Federal law prohibits spending Social Security's reserves on other programs, but every dollar added to the trust funds reduces the overall deficit.

And since the trust funds must be invested in interest-bearing U.S. securities, they reduce the amount the government must borrow in private markets. The government uses the funds generated by selling bonds to Social Security to cover the operating deficit in the rest of its programs.

Bush has said repeatedly he will not touch Social Security. It is the one program he plans to exempt from his "flexible freeze" to curb the deficit.

In 1981, in the throes of Social Security's difficulties and in his quest to cut federal spending, Reagan sought sweeping cuts in benefits for early retirees and others. Congress eliminated college students' benefits and some others.

tioned in the Middle East. The committee singled out the U.N. Interim Forces in Lebanon, which has suffered more than 200 casualties since it was sent to Lebanon's southern border region with Israel in 1978.

A U.N. peacekeeper, U.S. Marine Lt. Col. William R. Higgins, is one of nine American hostages in Lebanon. Higgins, who headed a 76-member U.N. observer group, was kidnapped in south Lebanon on Feb. 17.

His pro-Iranian kidnappers, the underground Organization of the Oppressed on Earth, said April 21 that he was to be tried on charges of spying for the United States. The United States and the United Nations have denied the spying charge.

The prize will be awarded at a ceremony Dec. 10, the anniversary of Alfred Nobel's death in 1896. Nobel built a fortune from his invention and marketing of dynamite and other explosives.

The peace prize is the first this year to be announced of the six annual Nobel Prizes. The others for literature, medicine, chemistry, physics and economics will be announced next month in Stockholm, the Swedish capital.

Each prize carries a cash award of 2.5 million Swedish kronor, or $390,000 at today's rate. It is divided among the winners if there is more than one.

Nobel never explained why he stipulated that the peace prize be awarded in Norway, which was under the same king as Sweden until 1905.

The first peace prize in 1901 was given to the founder of the International Committee of the Red Cross, Jean Henri Dunant of Switzerland, and to Frederic Passy, founder of the French peace society.

It was won last year by Oscar Arias, president of Costa Rica, for his Central American peace plan.

Of the 87 peace laureates, there have been 17 Americans, 9 Frenchmen, 7 Britons and 5 Swedes. The prize has been given to seven women. The International Red Cross has won it three times and the office of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees won it twice.

Only one winner declined the prize. He was Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam, who was to have shared it with then U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

that the county already contributes toward the Industrial Foundation's income.

Kirby said today that he had heard such plans before. "Cooperation with the city and the county is always fine with those people as long as the county pays the bill," he said. However, chamber officials said they do not expect to receive additional funds from the county.

Crooker said the air park property, owned by the federal government and leased by the city, originally was offered to the county. But because the county felt the city would be in a better position to manage the property at that time, he said, they turned it over to the city.

The county also closed the former county-owned airport and turned that property over to the Industrial Foundation, Crooker said. The foundation now rents the property and receives the proceeds, he said.

stands trial on the aggravated assault charges. He has not yet been indicted by a grand jury in connection with the shooting.

Cantu, who was also wounded in the shooting, was arrested the day of the shooting and has remained in jail ever since.

Big Spring attorney Mike Thomas — who was appointed to represent Cantu at the probation hearing — said an appeal must be filed with the 16th District Court of Appeals in Eastland by Friday.

The revocation could also "possibly" be heard by the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin, Thomas advised.

Asked if he would file an appeal on Cantu's behalf, Thomas responded: "I don't feel comfortable commenting while we're in the process of negotiations."

He said is continuing to consult with his client about the appeal.

Thomas did say, however, that witnesses' testimony at the hearing could not be used to incriminate Cantu at any future trial.

At the hearing, Franco and Yanez positively identified Cantu, along with George Armendariz and Adam Valencia, as one of the gunmen who shot them.

Armendariz, also charged in connection with the wounding of Franco and Yanez, invoked his fifth amendment rights against self incrimination at the hearing.

He is currently serving a two-year prison term for an unrelated, Ector County conviction.

Valencia has never been charged with the wounding of the women.

What most upset Cantu about the hearing was the testimony of Jimmy Yanez, he said.

Cantu said Yanez, 39, the husband of Lydia Yanez, has little credibility because of his background.

Lydia Yanez testified her husband grabbed a sawed-off shotgun from their apartment and began firing at Cantu.

Responding to a question from Thomas at the hearing, Yanez boasted: "I've never been convicted of anything."

That may be true, but that's not to say he hasn't had problems with law enforcement personnel.

In January 1974, a Howard County grand jury indicted him on a charge of murder with malice in connection with the Nov. 1, 1973 shooting death of Abraham Lopez, however, the charge was dismissed Jan. 1, 1986, according to courthouse records.

The case was dismissed because "... many prospective witnesses are not available and to best meet the ends of justice, no good cause exists for continuing this prosecution," court records stated.

In October 1981 Yanez was indicted again on a charge of aggravated rape, records state.

That indictment alleges Yanez committed rape by "threat of death," according to courthouse records.

That charge was dropped on Feb. 16, 1982 because the victim requested it be dismissed, courthouse records state.

Thomas said he was unsure whether he would be appointed to represent Cantu if he is eventually indicted on the aggravated assault charges.

Voting dates announced for November election

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Absentee voting by mail has already begun, and Howard County voters must register before Oct. 9 in order to participate in the November general election, officials said today.

County Clerk Margaret Ray began mailing out absentee ballots by request on Monday. Absentee voting by mail may begin 45 days before the election, she said, and the deadline for such votes is Nov. 1.

"We have to have it back in the office no later than the first of November," she said. "Absentee voting by personal appearance begins Oct. 13, and we will have the office open Oct. 29, a Saturday, for people who can't come during the week."

For by-mail absentee voting, an applicant must be older than 65, physically unable to come to the polling place, or expect to be absent from the county on election day, Ray said. For personal appearance voting, "anybody can come in and vote absentee. They don't have to have an excuse."

Voters must register, if they are new residents of the county or if they have a change of address, before Oct. 9 to be eligible for the Nov. 9 general election. According to County Tax Assessor/Collector Kathy Sayles, applications are available in her office or at local 7-Eleven stores.

She said several individual voters in the county were deputy registrars this year but she was unaware of any voter registration drives currently underway.

"It is important to come in and register if you have moved or if you have an address correction so that we can get a voting card to you," Sayles said today.

She said the county currently has 16,068 registered voters, but that she expects to continue adding to that number until the deadline Oct. 9.

"If you have a permanent address in Howard County but you are going to be living in Lubbock County, for instance, to go to school, then you need to be registered here so you can vote," Sayles said.

Applications may be filled out in her office or taken home to complete and mailed in, she said, but applications must be postmarked no later than Oct. 9 if they are mailed.

Sayles' office, located in the Howard County Courthouse Annex Building, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, she said, and "there will be somebody here, if they come in (to register) who can help them."

"It's important for anybody who has had a change of address to come in to be sure they are registered in the correct precinct for the general election."

Hopes high for timely budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and the White House may be about to accomplish something they've not done since Harry Truman was president — enact all federal spending bills before the start of the fiscal year.

Although it's not likely to spark a giddy citizenry into launching fireworks, approval by Saturday of all 13 spending bills would be a political coup for both parties.

It's already inspired people on both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue to begin publicly patting themselves on the back.

As the start of the new fiscal year approaches, lawmakers and the administration are working out disputes that in ordinary years could take weeks or months to resolve.

This is no ordinary year. It's an election year, and Republicans and Democrats want to avoid any blame for a replay of last year's budget embarrassment.

The quicker-than-usual action this year is due in part to last fall's budget summit agreement between Reagan and congressional leaders. In that pact, both sides agreed to broad spending totals for 1989, leaving only less-sweeping issues to be worked out.

Brawley denies lying about rape

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Saying "I am not a liar and I am not crazy," a black teen-ager who claims she was abducted and raped by whites rejected the reported conclusion of a grand jury that she fabricated her harrowing tale.

"I have not deceived my advisers, my family and most of all, my people," Tawana Brawley said at a news conference Wednesday in her first public comment on the case, which sparked allegations of a racially motivated cover-up.

After she read her statement, Miss Brawley, 16, declined to answer questions about November's incident.

"I will give full testimony to an impartial grand jury — or a congressional committee," said Miss Brawley, who so far has refused to testify.

Earlier Wednesday, her advisers — the Rev. Al Sharpton and lawyers Alton Maddox and C. Vernon Mason — asserted that New York state Attorney General Robert Abrams and New York Gov. Mario Cuomo had illegally leaked the grand jury findings to The New York Times, which published the panel's conclusions Tuesday.

During an interview on WLIB, a black-oriented radio station in New York City, Sharpton said the three black activists would lead a protest in Brooklyn this afternoon to "make the whole city stand still."

Evidence led the grand jury to conclude she was not abducted Nov. 24 as she claimed, but stayed at least part of the time in the vacant apartment.

Three convicted of killing agent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The conviction of three Mexican nationals in a U.S. drug agent's murder in Mexico is being hailed by federal law enforcement officials as "only the beginning" toward bringing all the killers to justice.

"Our goal is to see that everyone who participated in the torture and kidnapping and murder of agent Enrique Camarena is brought to justice," U.S. Attorney Robert Bonner told reporters after Wednesday's verdict against the third of three co-defendants.

In Washington, John C. Lawn, chief of the Drug Enforcement Administration, said he will press "the crusade for justice" in Camarena's killing, which authorities allege was masterminded by reputed Mexican drug baron Rafael Caro Quintero.

The eight-week trial included evidence that Mexican police took bribes to protect drug smugglers, and the case strained U.S.-Mexican relations.

A U.S. District Court jury that deliberated six days returned its last verdict Wednesday, finding convicted drug trafficker Jesus Felix Gutierrez, 38, guilty of aiding and abetting the 1985 torture-murders of Camarena and his pilot, Alfredo Zavala Avelar.

Earlier, the same jury convicted a homicide investigator in Guadalajara, Mexico.

PHILADELPHIA — Burned and overturned cars lie in a north Philadelphia street Tuesday night after a melee the police said was in retaliation for the shooting death of a reputed gang member. A crowd of about 200 youths flipped and burned cars, looted a store and fired shots into the air.

Gang leader slaying sparks city rampage

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A man was charged in the killing of an up-and-coming drug gang leader, a slaying that sparked a rampage by up to 200 youths who flipped and burned cars and torched and looted a store, authorities said.

Several of the youths fired shots into the air, but no one was injured or arrested in Tuesday night's rampage, police said.

The mayhem came in retaliation for late Monday's killing of Luis Antonio Ortiz, 20, whom Police Commissioner Willie Williams described Wednesday as an emerging drug gang leader.

Wednesday morning, Andres Albaladejo, 33, surrendered and was charged with murder and weapons offenses, police said.

Ortiz's pickup truck was adorned Wednesday with funeral wreaths and candles.

"I was very upset that we still live in an era when the death of a drug dealer who peddles death, a man who is accused of a homicide himself, but not convicted, was being made a hero... in a neighborhood where drugs are taking more lives than perhaps anything else," Williams said at a news conference.

"It indicates that we and the community have a lot of work to do to correct this." Williams said police would increase patrols in the poor Hunting Park neighborhood through the weekend. He said the force would comprise a mixture of uniformed officers and plainclothes Civil Affairs negotiators.

The first signs of trouble came hours after Ortiz's death, when youths looted and burned a grocery store owned by a brother of Albaladejo. Williams said the department was investigating reports that police stayed away from the store even though they knew of the looting.

The trouble brewed through the early morning hours Tuesday, and firefighters were called to the store a second time when another fire was set, Williams said.

The melee broke out in full Tuesday evening, when about 20 or 30 men flipped and set afire two cars that police have been told were owned by relatives of Albaladejo.

About an hour later, when an officer responded to an unfounded call about a burglary, an empty beer bottle was thrown through the rear window of his cruiser.

Williams said. For five hours, up to 200 people milled around the neighborhood.

Chinese minister to visit Russia

BEIJING (AP) — Relations between China and the Soviet Union, strained by nearly three decades of ill will, took a major step toward normalization with the announcement that China's foreign minister will visit Moscow this year.

Qian Qichen's visit is expected to advance talks on ending Vietnam's occupation of Cambodia, the most serious issue dividing the two Communist powers, and set the stage for the first Sino-Soviet summit since 1959.

China and the Soviet Union split over ideological and strategic differences around 1960, with hostilities increasing until the two sides fought a brief border war in 1969.

Political normalization talks, accompanied by increased trade and other unofficial contacts, began in 1982, but China has refused to fully restore normal relations until "three obstacles" are removed.

Two of those obstacles have been lowered with the Soviet Union beginning its withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan and the reduction of tensions on the Sino-Soviet border.

Protestors object to movie

PARIS (AP) — Protesters who failed to win a national ban on a new movie about Christ's life took matters into their own hands by disrupting showings with tear gas, stench bombs, and an attack on a projection room.

About 600 demonstrators clashed with police Wednesday in front of a Left Bank movie house in Paris, and a police officer was reported injured.

The protest was organized by followers of excommunicated Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, a traditionalist Roman Catholic with an international following.

The film, which depicts a Christ vulnerable to human temptations, has brought angry condemnation from some Roman Catholic and other religious leaders in the United States, Canada, and Britain.

The Court of Appeals in Paris refused on Tuesday to order a nationwide ban on showings of the film, which includes a scene in which Christ imagines having sex with the prostitute Mary Magdalene.

Beauty queen denied U.S. visa

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — She may be a hit in her homeland, but Miss Nicaragua is strictly a miss in the United States, a victim of chilly relations between nations.

"Yankee Administration Behaves Worse Than A Fool. They Deny Visa to the Belle," screamed a headline Wednesday in the pro-government newspaper El Nuevo Diario.

The newspaper said the reigning Miss Nicaragua, 19-year-old Gabriela Robledo Barquero, was denied a U.S. visa this week to enter Puerto Rico for an international beauty contest.

But a U.S. Embassy official in Managua said not even beauty queens can thaw the icy relations between Nicaragua and the United States, which has since 1981 backed the rebels known as Contras who are seeking to overthrow this country's leftist Sandinista government.

The embassy stopped issuing visas to Nicaraguans in July, shortly after Nicaragua expelled U.S. Ambassador Richard Melton and seven diplomats, accusing them of trying to undermine the government. The United States responded by expelling Nicaragua's ambassador and other diplomats.

Emperor's condition stable

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's media reported today that ailing Emperor Hirohito was losing strength because he has not eaten solid food in 10 days.

Officials at the Imperial Palace, however, said the 87-year-old monarch remained in stable condition with no new hemorrhaging. Hirohito, the longest-reigning monarch alive, has been bedridden since Sept. 19, when he began vomiting blood from intestinal bleeding. Palace officials have refused to respond to news reports that the emperor has cancer.

Arts Fest '88 opens Saturday

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Arts Fest '88 — highlights of which include a college theatre performance, an evening at the symphony and a U.S. Navy Band concert — will begin Saturday and continue through Nov. 12.

The annual event, a celebration of the visual and performing arts, is coordinated by the Cultural Affairs Council of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

The event will begin with a Big Spring Art Association show at the Big Spring Mall on Saturday and Sunday.

On Oct. 7, the mural on the Chamber of Commerce Building will be dedicated. The mural, titled "Once Upon a Time," depicts the history of West Texas. Ceremonies will begin at noon and will be followed by a reception honoring the artist, Coy McCann.

The Howard Drama Department presents "Twelve Angry Jurors," based upon the book "Twelve Angry Men," Oct. 6-8 in the Howard College Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Other events scheduled are:
• The Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival will be held Oct. 15-16 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. There is no charge for admission.

• A retrospective on Webb Air Base and the Big Spring Bombarrier School opens Oct. 22 at the Heritage Museum.

• The U.S. Navy Band will present "Country Current Ensemble" at the Municipal Auditorium Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Big Spring Herald. Admission is free but tickets must be picked up in advance at the Herald or Chamber of Commerce office.

• A Costume Bash sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Council will be held Oct. 28 at 9 p.m. at the Big Spring Country Club. Proceeds will benefit the Council.

Art exhibit highlights opening of Arts Fest '88

HERALD STAFF REPORT
Local artists of all ages will be showcased in the The Big Spring Art Association's annual membership exhibit and sale beginning Saturday at noon in the Big Spring Mall.

The exhibit and sale is the first event of Arts Fest '88, a celebration of the visual and performing arts coordinated by the Cultural Affairs Council of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Categories in the exhibit are oils, watercolor (transparent), opaque water media (acrylic, alkyd, quache), graphics (pastels, pen and ink, colored pencils), sculpture, photography, and miniature.

Works will be divided into professional, non-professional, novice and youth categories.

Youth participants in the exhibit do not have to be members in the association but must meet other requirements.

Several local artists have donated works to be given away at the awards ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets for the drawing can be purchased from association members. One of the works to be given away is an original by the late Roberta Ross, a founding member of the association and considered one of Big Spring's premiere artists.

The exhibit will be judged by Mary Nicholas, an artist, instructor, juror and motivational speaker from Midland.

The schedule for Saturday is:
• Invitational preview — 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.
• Judging — 9 a.m. to noon.
• Public opening — noon to 9 p.m.

The schedule for Sunday is:
• Open exhibition — 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

• Awards ceremonies and drawing for donated paintings — 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

• The exhibit "Bones and Stones" opens at the Heritage Museum Oct. 29 in cooperation with the Prospectors Club.

• An ALSA Club costume party will be held Oct. 29 at 9 p.m. at 1000 N.W. Paredes Street. Proceeds will benefit the American Association of Retarded Citizens.

• Robert Taylor, a nationally-known wildlife sculptor will present a lecture with slides Nov. 2 at the Howard College Art Department at 7 p.m. His appearance is sponsored by the Crossroads Art Association.

• The Big Spring Symphony Orchestra will perform Nov. 5 at the Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. Keith Graumann, a former Big Spring resident, will conduct the orchestra.

• Reuben Ramos, a Tejano musician, and the Texas Revolution Band will perform at a concert and dance Nov. 12 at the Howard County Fair Barn at 9 p.m.

For ticket or other information please contact the Chamber of Commerce at 263-7641.

NASHVILLE — Dwight Yoakum, left, and veteran performer Buck Owens have become buddies in addition to being musical performers, says Yoakum, one of a growing group of young performers who have returned to the roots of country. "It's hillbilly music. But a lot of people didn't like that term," says Yoakum.

College drama opens Oct. 6

The Howard College Drama Department is preparing its first production of the school year — "Twelve Angry Jurors" — to be presented at 8 p.m. Oct. 6, 7 and 8 in the college auditorium.

Bill Doll, third-year director and drama instructor at the college, is in charge of the two-act production, an updated version of the mid-1950s television classic "Twelve Angry Men."

The play, he explained, centers on a jury deliberating the fate of a 19-year-old boy accused of murdering his father by stabbing.

Having heard six days of testimony, the jury is overwhelmingly in favor of convicting the youth and sentencing him to death. However, the questions raised by a single juror who votes not guilty complicates the initial simplicity of reaching a quick verdict.

The play is more than simply a jury voting on a young man's fate, Doll said. "The underlying plot," he said, "is that there are a lot of social implications. Prejudice and bigotry are exposed as problems detrimental to society functioning properly."

"It shows how they can cloud and interfere with the process of making good choices and examine issues clearly."

He believes that it is as pertinent socially now as it was 30 years ago, in different ways. "Our racial biases are not as dominant," he said, but class systems continue to exist.

Cast members are: Lory Wyrick and Terry McMahan, Coahoma; Scott Timms, Seagraves; Moses Molina, Colorado City; Timmy Brunson and Steve McLaughlin, San Angelo; Chawndra Freeman, Rankin; and Eric Atkins, Loryne Russell, Stacey Leonard, Brandy Qualls, Robert Wernsman, Dwayne Woodall and Bill Barber, all of Big Spring.

Arley Garner, Big Spring, is stage manager.

Valley musician to be honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Known as "The Monarch of the Accordion," Pedro Ayala flavors a rich combination of music from around the globe with a sound all his own.

His style of "conjunto" music has earned him national recognition after a lifetime of combining farming and accordion playing. This week, he will travel from his home in the Rio Grande Valley community of Donna to be honored by the National Endowment for the Arts.

Ayala is one of 12 recipients of the 1988 National Heritage Fellowships. He will be presented Thursday with $5,000 and a certificate of recognition "as a Master Traditional Artist who has contributed to the shaping of our artistic traditions and to preserving the cultural diversity of the United States."

The awards will be given during a congressional reception on Capitol Hill. The artists will perform at a public gala Friday night at George Washington University.

The National Endowment for the Arts said the 12 were chosen from among 155 traditional artists nominated by their peers for the seventh annual awards.

"Without Pedro Ayala, the exciting, vital conjunto tradition that crosses not only national boundaries but influences both Mexican and Anglo popular music would be but a faint echo of a lovely past," the federal agency said.

The agency said Ayala has recorded 10 albums and numerous 78 and 45 rpm records and has composed more than 70 pieces including polkas, scottishies, waltzes and redovas.

Ayala, 77, said he came to the United States from a small town in the Mexican state of Nuevo Leon, about 100 miles south of Reynosa, when he was 8.

The National Endowment for the Arts said he began playing extensively as a professional by 1935.

"It is a social music, allowing for innovation, technical brilliance, creative composition, and musicianship of the highest order," the National Endowment for the Arts said.

Dear Abby

AIDS is an eye-opener for spouse

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for many years to a man who has cheated on me since our honeymoon. In the beginning, it hurt, but I chose this man, and there have been good times along with the bad.

Because of the publicity about AIDS, I have begged him to get an AIDS test, but he refuses. He travels for business reasons, and although I am not aware of any serious relationships, I know there have been countless one-night stands.

Abby, there must be an entire group of middle-aged wives out there like me who have "looked the other way" for one reason or another. How do they handle this AIDS problem? And have you any concrete advice for us? — MIDDLE-AGED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Most wives who know that their husbands have been playing around within the last seven years are as frightened as you are. The smart ones refuse to engage in unprotected sex. (This means using condoms and a spermicide containing nonoxonyl 9 whenever they have sex.)

The fact that your husband has not had a long-term relationship is no cause for complacency. The more partners he has, the greater his risk of being exposed to the AIDS virus. (Most prostitutes have been.) AIDS is on the increase among heterosexuals because many are not aware that they are carriers.

DEAR ABBY: I won $10,000 in a church raffle. I bought the raffle ticket from a co-worker thinking I never had a chance; I stuck it in my wallet and forgot about it.

When I learned that I had won, I gave the woman who sold me the ticket $300 as a gesture of appreciation.

Later, I was told that she thought she was entitled to more than $300 for a $10,000 win. (I would have been deliciously happy if someone handed me a $300 gift.)

Maybe I'm naive, but is the person who sold me the ticket entitled to a certain percentage of the winnings? Someone suggested that 10 percent would be "about right." — PERPLEXED IN JERSEY

DEAR PERPLEXED: Unless a deal has been made beforehand, the seller is not "entitled" to anything. You gave her a $300 gift, which was very generous. Most people who sell a winning raffle ticket don't even get a verbal "thank you."

Ex-Steers making hits at Greenville

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Greenville College in Illinois likes Big Spring, at least the football team does. The National Athletic Intercollegiate Association school currently has four former Steers on its football team, which has posted a 1-1 mark.

Last year Greenville Coach Max Bowman recruited Todd Coker, who earned a starting spot at linebacker. Now three more players have followed suit. Danny Williams and Shawn Shellman are playing cornerback and Doug Walker is playing defensive tackle.

Greenville lost its season opener to Olivet Nazarene, Ill. 13-10 and won last week against Principia College, Ill., 42-0.

Coach Bowman said the former Steers are doing good jobs. Coker and Shellman are currently starting, and Bowman expects Williams and Walker to be starting in the near future.

Coker is currently District XX's second-leading tackler, with 33 stops. Shellman, making his first start against Principia, was named the District's Player of the Week. Last year's Steers quarterback intercepted three passes, returning one 38 yards for a touchdown. He also broke up three passes.

In fact, Greenville College has taken a liking to Texans. Eight Texas players are starting on defense and four Texans are starters on offense.

Padres flunk Orel exam

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The sheer improbability, the pressure and the countless scenarios that could have led to a run all made it seem unreal to Orel Hershiser when he rewrote the major league record for consecutive scoreless innings.

"I still think it's a dream because I didn't think I was capable of doing it. I just can't believe it's happened," the Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher said.

The 30-year-old right-hander broke former Dodger Don Drysdale's record of 58 consecutive scoreless innings by shutting out the San Diego Padres for 10 innings Wednesday night to extend his streak to 59.

"When people ask me what record would stand forever, this was the one I usually picked," Hershiser said. "Now I think someone's going to break it from me because I know I'm not any big deal."

"It's unbelievable," Los Angeles manager Tommy Lasorda said. "It's one of the greatest feats you'll ever see in baseball, bar none."

San Diego Manager Jack McKeon had predicted before the game that his team would be the one to break Hershiser's streak.

"I really thought we were going to get to him, but I guess every manager has thought that for the last 50 some-odd innings," he said.

Overcoming a case of the jitters and overtaking his pitching hero in the record book were the hardest things about setting the mark.

"I had so much pressure on me out there. That's probably the most nervous I've ever been in my career," said Hershiser, who called his father from the clubhouse after he finished icing his arm.

"I really noticed my nerves calm down after about the fifth inning. I realized that all I wanted to do was go out there and not choke at the beginning.

"I really and truly did not want to get the record," Hershiser added in a dugout interview with Drysdale, now a Dodger broadcaster. "Out of respect of the man next to me, I feel I should have stopped at two-thirds. I wanted to just put the ball down ..."

"But the guys next to me in the dugout kind of convinced me to go for it," Hershiser said.

Said Drysdale, among the first on the field to congratulate Hershiser and gave him a hug: "If I had known that I would have been down there kicking you by the seat of the pants."

The game itself went on for 16 innings, San Diego winning, 2-1, on pinch-hitter Mark Parent's two-out, two-run homer. Hershiser's starting opponent, Andy Hawkins, also allowed just four hits in 10 innings.

"It's pretty strange to throw 10 zeroes and not get a win," Hershiser said.

He said he was aided by Hawkins' effective pitching.

"When he's out there throwing zeroes, it does help," Hershiser said.

Because streaks do not cross seasons, an extra-inning shutout was Hershiser's best shot at setting the record. For once in his life, he needed a lack of support.

And the Dodgers as well as the Padres complied. While Hershiser did not allow a runner past first base through nine innings, the Dodgers' bats were equally silent, not advancing anyone past second.

"It's probably the most sharpest I've been mentally my whole career. With the pennant race, the close games, the lack of run support, just going out there throwing

U.S. women continue to flex their muscles

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — No longer the weak sisters of American sports, U.S. women are flexing their muscles as never before in the Olympic Games, grabbing a gold in basketball that eluded the men and setting records all over the track.

Four American boxers brawled their way into the finals Thursday but it was the women, paced by sisters-in-law Florence Griffith Joyner and Jackie Joyner-Kersey, who led a march to victory stands once seemingly reserved for East Europeans.

They stole the show from the world's greatest male athletes, laboring through the decathlon, and brought lightness and joy to an Olympics still burdened by a drug scandal that won't go away and, in fact, grows larger.

Fast Flo, Fluorescent Flo, Flo-Jo. By any name or measure, Florence Griffith Joyner, the swiftest female in history, graced the Games with one of its most spectacular performances.

Twice she set world records in the 200-meter dash — 21.56 seconds in a qualifying heat and 21.34 in the finals — to win a matching gold for the one she earned in the 100. The old record, 21.71 seconds by East Germany's Marita Koch, stood for nine years. Griffith Joyner lowered it twice in less than two hours.

Once again she came dressed to kill in pearl earrings, red lipstick the shade of her scanty shorts and shirt, eye make-up and long, and freshly painted fingernails, one of them gold.

She smiled as she waited for the gun and laughed through the finish, and along the way her long black mane flew back, her arms pumped high and steadily and her muscular legs ate up the ground with long, fluid strides.

Far behind at the end were Grace Johnson of Jamaica, the silver medalist in 21.72, and world champion Heike Drechsler of East Germany, the bronze medalist in 21.95. In the last three Olympics where East and West came, the 200 always belonged to East Europeans.

Steers start league play against Loboes

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers are hoping that some personnel changes in the defense will help result in a victory over the Monahans Loboes Friday night.

The Loboes and the Steers begin District 4-4A play at 8 p.m., as league play begins for all eight district teams. In other Friday night action, San Angelo Lake View will be at Snyder, Fort Stockton will be at Sweetwater and Pecos will host Andrews.

For the Steers, it begins a grueling two-week test: Where the season could be decided in the opening two district games. That's because Monahans is picked by many to finish second in the district, and the Steers will host No. one-ranked Sweetwater the following week.

"I'd prefer to play them (Monahans and Sweetwater) spread out, but you've got to play them anyway," said Big Spring coach David Thompson.

For this meeting with always tough Monahans, Steers defensive coordinator Dwight Butler has made quite a few changes. "It's a lineup shakeup all right," said Butler. "We've been working on it pretty hard last week and this week."

The Steer defense will have five changes in this week's starting lineup. Those changes include two in the defensive line. John Covington will start at end and Pat Wilbert — all 6-4, 263 pounds of him — will start at a tackle position.

Another change will be Chris Cole at a linebacking position. The other three changes are in the secondary. Rye Bavin will be moved from free safety to strong safety. Fred Reid will play free safety and Terry Bailey will start at the other cornerback position.

Butler is hoping it will improve a porous defense that ranks last in the league, allowing 375 yards per game.

"We've never questioned the kids' effort," said Butler. "They are just not tackling good. They don't understand what we want to play with more emotion and more heart. If we ever unlock that key, we'll be decent."

In Monahans, the Steers will face a fairly good offensive team. Coach Bren Holland's Loboes sport a 2-1 record, averaging 257 yards per game, 185 of it coming on the ground.

Monahans is led by tailback Ronnie Ramsey, who has 223 yards, averaging 6.4 yards per carry. Fullback Jason Martin averages 4.1 yards per carry and has gained 139 yards. Quarterback Carlton Jordan is a three-year veteran who likes to throw to split end Ralph Sanchez, who's caught 12 passes for 183 yards.

"Monahans is a well coached team that shows tremendous enthusiasm. They get after you; they have a lot of tradition," said Big Spring's coach Thompson. "It's no secret, we've got to stop the sweep. They've got a great tailback in Ramsey and their quarterback is excellent."

"We're not playing good against the run. We've got to play better. We play good for two downs and then let up on third and long."

On the other hand, coach Holland knows what it's going to take to sti-

Buffalo battle set to unfold in Stanton

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

When these two Buffalo teams meet Friday night in Stanton, one will be trying to stop a skid, and the other will be trying to continue a streak. Whatever the outcome, you can bet the Forsan-Stanton game will be a heated battle.

The Forsan Buffaloes will be trying to carry their winning streak another game. Last week the Buffaloes won their first game of the season, a 13-0 whitewashing of Sterling City, giving Forsan a 1-3 record.

After winning their first two games, the Buffaloes of Stanton have lost to Greenwood and Garden City, the latter a 24-6 drubbing.

Stanton coach Dale Ruth is worried about Forsan's execution and homecoming week at Stanton High School. He says the two together can cause problems.

"There are a lot of activities going on during homecoming week and it's easy for the kids to get their minds off football," said Ruth. "We really don't discourage them from participating in activities, but we keep reminding them the main thing is the game on Friday night."

"I've been watching film on Forsan; they are a fundamental team.

They do the fundamentals well. They are not big but the kids fire off the ball and (Forsan head coach Jan) East's son (Stephen) is a good quarterback."

With his young squad which fields only nine seniors, coach East knows he's in for a tough battle.

"Stanton is tough and they are big," said East. "The biggest problem we've got is size-wise. We've switched more to the Veer from the Wing-T and we'll try to get the ball around the corners. But they are so big, I'm afraid they might wear us down by the fourth quarter."

While Forsan is running more from the Veer with East and backs

Charley Newton and Richard Griffin in the backfield, Stanton is doing some experimenting of its own with its backfield. Last week Newton had his best game, rushing for 132 yards in 17 carries.

Coach Ruth began the season with Kevin Barnes at fullback and Robert Jones at tailback in the Wing-T attack. Last week Ruth tried Jones at fullback and Steve Scurlark at tailback. Scurlark responded with a 112-yard performance in nine carries, including a 71-yard TD jaunt.

"Right now I don't know if we'll stay with that lineup or not," said

Giants treat Jackson rudely

By The Associated Press
Giants 6, Reds 1
 Cincinnati's Danny Jackson was in no mood for celebrating, either. He was pounded for 10 hits and five earned runs in 5 2-3 innings and saw his chances for the Cy Young Award slip away.

NL
 Will Clark singled during an early San Francisco rally, and his 29th home run of the year was a three-run shot in the bottom of the sixth. Jackson, 23-8, had been Hersher's strongest competition to be named the National League's best pitcher.

Atlee Hammaker, 9-9, pitched a six-hitter.
Cardinals 2, Pirates 1
 Joe Magrane lowered his league-leading earned run average to 2.18 and Pedro Guerrero homered to lead St. Louis.

Magrane, 5-9, allowed eight hits, walked none and struck out six. Pittsburgh's Doug Drabek, 15-7, allowed eight hits in seven innings, losing for just the second time in his last 12 decisions.

Guerrero led off the top of the fourth inning with his ninth home run to give St. Louis a 2-0 lead.

Cubs 3, Expos 1
 Greg Maddux pitched a seven-hitter to win for only the third time since the All-Star break as Chicago beat Montreal.

Maddux, 18-8, had a shaky first inning but settled down pitch his ninth complete game. He struck out six and walked two in improving to 3-0 against Montreal this season. Maddux was 15-3 going into the All-Star game.

John Dopper gave up only six hits in seven innings but was victimized by sloppy defense as he dropped to 3-11.

Phillies 9, Mets 3
 Ricky Jordan and Ron Jopes each had three RBI and Philadelphia pounded New York ace Dwight Gooden for seven runs. Gooden, 18-9, pitching his final game before starting next Tuesday's National League playoff opener against the Dodgers, gave up 10 hits in five innings as the Phillies won their last home game of the season.

Braves 4, Astros 3
 Andres Thomas hit an RBI single in the bottom of the 17th inning and Atlanta snapped a seven-game losing streak.

Dion James doubled against Houston's Jeff Heathcock, 0-5, with one out in the 17th. Thomas, a pinch hitter, then lofted a bloop single down the right-field line.

Blue Jays finish Red Sox sweep

By The Associated Press
 The Boston Red Sox keep trying to blow the American League East, but the rest of the division won't let them.

The Red Sox lost again Wednesday night, falling 1-0 as the Toronto Blue Jays completed a three-game sweep at Fenway Park. Still, Boston's magic number for clinching the championship was reduced to two because New York and Detroit also lost.

AL
 "Good, we love it," Red Sox manager Joe Morgan said. "That's the best news we've had."

Brewers 4, Angels 3
 Bill Schroeder hit a three-run homer and Jim Gantner had an RBI single as Milwaukee scored four times in the seventh inning and rallied past California.

The Brewers, handing the Angels their ninth straight loss, are facing their smallest deficit since May 11.

Schroeder's fifth home run of the season tied the score and chased starter Chuck Finley. Reliever Sherman Corbett, 2-1, walked B.J. Surhoff and Gantner's third hit of the game put Milwaukee ahead.

Chuck Crim, 7-6, got the victory and Paul Mirabella pitched two perfect innings for his fourth save.

A crowd of 12,123 watched the Brewers' final home game in 55-degree temperature. Milwaukee drew more than 1.9 million fans, its third-best total attendance.

Orioles 2, Yankees 0
 Rookie Bob Milacki pitched a three-hitter and struck out 10 as Baltimore frustrated New York's hopes.

Milacki, 2-0, has allowed only two runs on nine hits in three starts since being promoted from the minors. Don Mattingly fled out to the fence in center field to end the Yankees' eighth with a runner on base.

The host Orioles scored in the second against Lee Guetterman, 1-2, when Ken Gerhart and Carl Nichols singled and Craig Worthington grounded into a double play.

Indians 4, Tigers 2
 Greg Swindell and Doug Jones checked Detroit on eight hits as Cleveland stalled the Tigers' bid for moving toward the top.

The Indians took a 2-1 lead in the eighth inning when Joe Carter was hit by a pitch from Walt Terrell, 7-16, with the bases loaded.

Swindell, 18-14, gave up five hits in eight innings. Jones got his 35th save despite allowing three hits, including a run-scoring single by Matt Nokes.

Terrell lost his sixth straight decision as the Tigers lost in Cleveland.

Athletics 5, Twins 2
 Rookie Todd Burns pitched six-hit ball for 7 2-3 innings and Oakland won in Minnesota and stopped the Twins' five-game winning streak.

Burns, 8-2, struck out six and walked two. Dennis Eckersley went one inning for his 45th save.

Bert Blyleven, 10-17, has lost six of seven decisions. He also tied a major league record, which he shared.

White Sox 3, Rangers 2
 Jerry Reuss won for the seventh time in nine decisions and Steve Lyons singled home the tie-breaking run in the fourth inning, leading Chicago over visiting Texas.

Reuss, 13-9, allowed five hits in seven innings and Bobby Thigpen closed for his 34th save.

Crossroads Little Football League

DIVISION I
Bulldogs 16, Bears 14
 Saturday in the opener of Little Football League play, the Bulldogs defeated the Bears despite efforts from John Smith of the Bears.

Smith scored all the Bears' points, and completed passes of seven and 10 yards to Derek Hobbs.

Buffaloes 32, Steers 2
 The Buffaloes tallied 150 yards total offense and Logan Gamble and Sky Massingale led a stingy defense against the Steers.

Brandon Curry scored on TD runs of 14 and 21 yards to lead the Buffaloes. Robert Hillger and Todd McAdams scored on runs of 15 and 27 yards, respectively.

Quarterback Frankie Green and fullback Dustin Yeigh were the top offensive players for the Steers. Brady Patterson was a top defender for the Steers. Chris Yanez and Trey Lockhart scored a safety for the Steers when they tackled a player in the end zone.

DIVISION II

Packers 28, Cowboys 0
 In the season opener for both teams, Ray McGee scored three times as the Packers romped over the Bears.

McGee scored on runs of 20 and 60 yards, plus he returned a kickoff for a score. The other score came on a 40-yard run by William Franks.

Defensively, Kory Ryan, Kinney Dupree, Jason Roberts and Mario Cuzov all had good games. Randy

Ortega intercepted a pass and Jason Roberts scored a safety.

Bulldogs 8, Buffaloes 0

The Bulldogs won their first game thanks to a safety by Jon White tackling Buffalo running back Jacoby Hopper in the end zone for a safety. The other score came when Chris Arguello scored on a busted end around pass from 40 yards out.

White also recovered three fumbles and Jerry Wayne Krause recovered one fumble.

WOMEN

 Joyner how can focus on winning a third gold in the 400 relay Saturday and, possibly, a record-setting fourth gold in the 1,600 relay the same day.

Joyner-Kersey broke two barriers by becoming the first American woman to win the Olympic long jump and the first to win the heptathlon. The world's longest leaping and best all-around woman athlete flew a Games' record 24 feet, 3 1/2 inches Thursday to gain her second gold.

She said she was a little tired after the seven-event heptathlon, but told herself not to dwell on it.

Mary Decker Slaney, worried about tripping but determined to win an Olympic medal, kept her hopes alive by qualifying easily for the finals of the women's 1,500-meter run.

Slaney said she was hesitant and scared of falling, understandable for someone who stumbled and fell in her last Olympics and stumbled in both the qualifying heat and final of the 3,000 in Seoul.

Teresa Edwards, Anne Donovan, Cindy Brown, Cynthia Cooper, Suzie McConnell, Katrina McClain, Teresa Weatherspoon and the other basketball players who beat Yugoslavia 77-70 for the gold left no doubt about who is No. 1.

Women's basketball became part of the Games in 1976, and the first gold was won easily by a bigger, much more experienced Soviet team that had not lost in five years.

Well, the United States has caught up.

Edwards and Donovan, the only two holdovers from the 1984 team whose gold medal was devalued by the Soviet boycott, led the 1988 team to a 5-0 record.

In the 1972 Games, U.S. women won only a silver and two bronzes in track and field. In 1976, they won two silvers and a bronze. This year they already have won four golds, a silver and a bronze, with several more medals expected.

In freestyle wrestling, American John Smith shut out Stephan Sarkissian of the Soviet Union 4-0 to win the gold medal at 136.5 pounds.

In the boxing arena, light middleweight Roy Jones, heavyweight Ray Mercer, light flyweight Michael Carbajal and bantamweight Kennedy McKinney reached the finals with victories Thursday.

Mercer, a 27-year-old infantryman stationed with the Army in Germany, unleashed a thundering left to knock out Arnold Vanderlidge of the Netherlands in the second-round of a 201-pound semifinal bout.

Romallis Ellis of Ellenwood, Ga., lost in the 132-pound class and Kenneth Gould of Rockport, Ill., was beaten at 147 pounds. Both will settle for the bronze medals that go to losing semifinalists.

Carbajal, of Phoenix, sometimes counter-punching, sometimes attacking, scored a 4-1 decision over Robert Isaszegi of Hungary in the 106-pound semifinals.

McKinney, of Killeen, Texas, overwhelmed Pahjol Moolsan of Thailand, clubbing him with right hands to the head and stopping him at 2:32 of the first round in the 119-pound division.

In the decathlon, Christian Schenk of East Germany held a narrow lead over Christian Plaziat of France as the competition headed into a dramatic night finish in an almost empty stadium with the javelin throw and 1,500 meters remaining.

At the end of the pole vault, the eighth event, Schenk had 6,978 points. Plaziat was second with 6,933.

Torsten Voss of East Germany moved past two-time Olympic champion Daley Thompson of Britain, whose pole snapped on one of his approaches and left him limp ing. Voss, the world champion, had 6,910 points, while Thompson dropped to fourth with 6,859.

In tennis, Staffi Graf of West Germany, going for the first "Golden Slam," moved into the women's singles final with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over American Zina Garrison. In the final, she will meet Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, who lost to Graf in the U.S. Open final. Sabatini beat Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 6-1, 6-1.

Americans Ken Flach and Robert Seguso, the No. 1 seeds, defeated Czechoslovakians Milan Srejber and Miloslav Mecir 6-2, 6-4, 6-1 to reach the doubles final against Emilio Sanchez and Sergio Casal of Spain. The Spaniards beat Stefan Edberg and Anders Jarryd of Sweden 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The Ben Johnson drug case continued to cast a cloud over the Games.

The IOC also said the Hungarians had pulled their weightlifting team out of the Games, as Bulgaria did when two of its gold-medal lifters were caught using diuretics last week. But the Hungarians said they sent the team home on schedule Tuesday since it had no entries in the super-heavyweight class, the only one still to compete.

UGSA to elect new officers

The United Girls Softball Association will have a meeting to elect officers for the 1989 season Friday at 6 p.m. at H&R Block. All parents and coaches are urged to attend.

Big Spring netters whip Andrews

ANDREWS — The Big Spring High School tennis team remained undefeated in district 4-4A play, downing the Andrews Mustangs, 11-6, here Tuesday.

The Steer boys continued their rampage through the district, winning all nine matches without dropping a set. The Big Spring romp was illustrated by the fact that none of the boys lost more than one game per set.

"I think the guys' concentration level has improved," Big Spring head coach Dave Hay said. "I'm very proud of the way they've been playing."

For the season, the boys have now won 21 individual matches without dropping a set, Hay said.

The talented-but-inexperienced Big Spring girls, however, continue to struggle this season. Danene Moore had the only singles victory for the girls, and teamed with Stefanie Stevenson for a doubles victory.

Kathy Ogburn was leading her singles match with Mustang Shrayashi Jariwala, 6-4, 2-1, when play was suspended because of darkness.

"The girls showed that there's still work that needs to be done," Hay said. "They know they still have room for improvement."

The Steer netters return to action next Tuesday at home against Snyder. The two teams tied in a pre-season contest, with the Tigers winning five of six doubles matches.

"If we win against Snyder, we have a good chance of making regionals," Hay said. "I expect continued good play from the guys and I think we'll do well in the match."

Ruth. "We really didn't have it together against Garden City, but it was just our first time trying it out."

Another question mark for Stanton will be the quarterback position. Senior starter Brad Holland took a hit to the kidney and left the contest in the third quarter of the Garden City game last week. He was replaced by Randy Navarez, who's considered a better runner than passer.

Before exiting, Holland completed 6 of 10 passes for 81 yards.

"Earlier Brad was doing fine, but lately he hasn't been responding to treatments. Right now he's questionable," said Ruth.

Being the homecoming opponent may have its advantage," said East. "There's so much going on sometimes it distracts the kids. I wouldn't mind if it did that this week. We've got such a young team (but) we're getting better each week. We're going to get after of Stanton."

file a powerful Big Spring offense that's averaging 371 yards per game.

"Big Spring has a good coaching staff, and they have a knowledge of the game. They have an exceptionally good passing attack. For us to win, we've got to stop their passing attack."

Then Holland talks about his doubts of facing the Steer defense.

"Everybody knows what we do (offensively), we don't have very many plays. We've got to be able to run the ball. I just hope we can move it against those big boys they have."

OREL

 up a whole bunch of zeroes, not just worrying about giving up a run, but losing." Hersher said after Jesse Orosco relieved to start the 11th. "I was out there pitching for wins in a pennant race, not a streak."

Hersher, 23-8 after getting the no-decision Wednesday night, will next start in Game 1 of the National League playoffs against the New York Mets on Tuesday night.

Hersher, who had pitched five straight shutouts, gave up just four singles and did not allow a runner past first base until the 10th.

Marvell Wynne struck out to open the 10th but reached base on Hersher's wild pitch. Benito Santiago sacrificed and Wynne took third on Randy Ready's groundout. Garry Templeton was intentionally walked and took second on catcher's indifference — Mike Scioscia not attempting a throw — but Hersher retired pinch-hitter Keith Moreland on a fly ball for the record.

With a crowd of 22,596 cheering for Hersher, the Dodgers streamed from the dugout to congratulate their ace, who broke the mark set by Drysdale 20 years ago.

JEANE DIXON'S
Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Be less critical of partner and you will be amazed by how wonderful your relationship can be. Reassess certain material goals. Your past experiences will make a big decision easier. Your unconventional side emerges, affecting your ability to earn large sums of money. Travel less and turn your telephone into a fund-raising machine. A generation is bridged by heart-to-heart talks. Students excel.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Irish tenor Kenny Baker, author Truman Capote, Sen. James Sasser, actresses Angie Dickinson and Deborah Kerr, singer Johnny Mathis and Marilyn McCoo, columnist Jody Powell.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Unforeseen circumstances could change your plans. Have alternatives in mind. You will probably get lucky if you follow a hunch. Expose children to foreign languages at an early age. Encourage their curiosity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Rumors abound today. The important thing is to handle matters in your own way. Time is on your side. Why not wait until next week to sign a legal document? Investigate outsiders.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A hard-hitting approach may get you what you want. A legal opinion will give you some satisfaction no matter who wins. Compatibility is no problem for you and partner. Your rapport grows.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your lifestyle improves once you bite the bullet and make a relationship decision. A good friend cannot help you; you must handle this one yourself! Build a good credit record. Pay bills promptly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Put romance on the back burner until evening. This is no time to give less than your best at work. You have a chance to pull off a deal that will bring money, prestige.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This is one day you can count your chickens even before they hatch. Obstacles are removed. You find yourself in the right place at the right time. Be thankful! Nurture a close relationship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A wish comes true. A family member shows extraordinary loyalty once again. Read between the lines before signing anything that might be legally binding. Count your cash before you shop.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are right to call 'em the way you see 'em. If a relationship cannot withstand an argument or absence, it is not worth preserving. Remember: love is a two-way street.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Show appreciation for someone's efforts no matter how things turn out. You are building a team for tomorrow. Keep your long-range goals in clear focus. Dietary changes improve your health.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You receive invitations that promise new recognition and prestige. Build up your strength by eating smaller but more frequent meals. You cannot afford to get run down. Avoid working around the clock.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have gone too far to stop now. A rescue mission will be successful. Economic changes will hurt some people, but should make things even better for you. Keep your family up-to-date.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Seek out stimulating people. They will provide the inspiration you need to meet a challenge. Some kind of regular exercise is essential for good health. Cut out the junk food!
