Crossroads weather

Forecast for the Big Spring area: Mostly cloudy tonight with a slight chance of showers. Not as warm Friday. Lows tonight mid 50s to near 60. Highs Friday in the 70s. The high for Wednesday was 82 and the low was 55.

20,000 expected for show

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Sponsors of Saturday's Vietnam Veterans Memorial Airshow remain hopeful that a crowd of 20,000 will attend, according to Phillip Welch of the airshow committee.

All spectators for the show are asked to use the main McMahon-Wrinkle Industrial Airpark gate on West Fourth Street — U.S. Highway 80 — only, Welch said Wednesday.

"People who try to come in through the base, down by the Federal Prison Camp, are going to just find roadblocks and delays," he said, noting that the prison camp's grounds will be closed to the public Saturday.

The show is combined with a reunion for former Webb Air Force Base personnel, civilian and military, and that adds to the crowd potential, Welch said.

He said Wednesday, "We're still hoping (for 20,000) and we're trying to put together a show that will accommodate that many people."

Confirmed aircraft include a C-130 Hercules from Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, Welch said, noting that support from U.S. Representative Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, had been helpful in obtaining that plane for the show.

Plans still call for aircraft to begin arriving at noon Friday, Welch noted.

Retired U.S. Air Force Colonel Harry Spannaus will serve as honorary chairman of the airshow, Welch said. The last commander of the 78th Flying Training Wing at Webb Air Force Base before its 1977 closure, he also was involved with converting the base into a municipal airport and industrial air park for the city of Big Spring following his retirement.

Spannaus is the executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association headquartered in Midland.

A schedule of events for Saturday's show includes a radio controlled model aircraft demonstration at 1 p.m., opening remarks by Col. Spannaus at 1:30 and a West Texas SkySports parachute team jump to open the aerial portion of the show.

Aerobatic pilot Brad Baysinger and his Pitts biplane will also perform as the show opens. A skydiving demonstration will follow at 3 p.m., with the West Texas Aerobatic Club members' demonstration immediately afterward.

Aircraft — including a confirmed appearance by a U.S. Navy T-34 trainer from Corpus Christi Naval Air Station and U.S. Air Force trainers from Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock — will perform flybys and depart the airshow grounds beginning at 4 to 4:30.

After the show there will be a reception from 4:30 to 6:30 in the senior citizens' center for Webb exes.

69th District actions draw fire

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Fear and loathing has been interjected into the race for 69th District state representative, Democratic candidate Johnnie Lou Avery has alleged.

In a press release issued on Tuesday, Avery said she is "saddened by the smear campaign run by Troy Fraser," the Republican candidate seeking election to the state representative's seat vacated by Larry Don Shaw.

She alleged Fraser is misrepresenting her position on such emotionally-charged issues as abortion and gun control.

Avery further stated that prior to entering the race, Fraser attempted to dissuade her from running.

"When he first learned I was considering entering this race, Mr. Fraser called me to urge me not to run. He said it was going to be a bloody battle and that I couldn't possibly win," she said.

Avery alleged Fraser told her he would "do anything it would take to win the race."

What has most upset the Democrat is a pamphlet that has been circulated in Pecos and to at least one church in Big Spring linking her to the pro-choice movement.

Avery said the pamphlet misrepresents her stand on abortion and information contained in it is a "bald-faced lie."

The pamphlet is entitled, "Troy Fraser/Johnnie Lou Avery and Pro-Life Concerns," and lists her name next to six paragraphs that link the Democrat to the pro-abortion movement.

At the bottom of the page is Fraser's name with attribution that he "emphatically" favors the pro-life movement and will vote on related issues accordingly.

Avery said the pamphlet is "very one-sided and nobody ever asked how I felt."

Deede Cauley, a Big Spring woman who admits she is ardently opposed to abortion, said she composed the flyer, but had nothing to do with its circulation. However, she did bring a copy to the Big Spring Herald.

She said she spoke privately to Avery about her stand on the abortion issue and made the attributions to Avery on the flyer based on that conversation.

"I really tried to be as accurate as I could," she advised.

Avery emphatically denies Cauley's version of the private conversation.

"The only time I had a conversation with her was when she came to our fair booth and started speaking loudly about (abortion) statistics and rudely interrupted conversations we were having. She was so upset her lips were quivering," Avery said this morning of the incident.

TROY FRASER

Avery added that she didn't know who Cauley was prior to that night and told the woman to mail her abortion-related statistics and questions "because she was acting so irrationally and so rudely I just wanted to get rid of her."

Avery said she is "personally against it (abortion), but it is the law of the land and I'm a law-abiding citizen."

The Democratic candidate said she didn't believe abortion would be an issue in the state legislature.

Fraser said he opposes abortion and his position has not changed.

"Mrs. Avery's position has flipped since she started her campaign because she found her position was unpopular with voters," he said.

Voters will cast two ballots for Avery or Fraser on Nov. 8. A special election was called by Gov. Bill Clements and the winner will fill the unexpired term of Shaw from election day through Jan. 10.

Voters will also select one of the candidates to serve a four-year term as state representative for the 69th District that includes 13 counties.

Cauley said she produced the pamphlet without consulting Fraser and set it on a table — along with other political flyers — when she hosted a Citizens For Family Issues at her home Oct. 6. Neither Fraser or Avery attended the forum.

Fraser said the issue of the abortion pamphlet is "between Johnnie Lou and Deede," that Cauley is not involved in his campaign and

Bush: Rural picture improved; Dukakis: Economy still ailing

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Many American farmers have endured tough times during the Reagan era, capped by a withering drought that played havoc with crops in this election year.

But that same drought has driven up prices and mopped up surpluses, and that could strengthen Republican George Bush's appeal for farm votes that many politicians thought once were locked in for Michael Dukakis and the Democrats.

In agriculture, Bush sees a rural America on the mend and headed for greater prosperity built around a free-market philosophy.

Dukakis sees a rural economy still seriously ailing and in need of government help to support the family farmer and guarantee reasonable prices for crops.

"The difference between the two is Bush is happy. We think there's a crisis still out there," said Ted Mondale, the Dukakis Midwest political director.

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., a Bush agricultural adviser, called the Dukakis program "a big mystery that is causing anxiety in farm country."

"They seem to be in favor of massive cutbacks in production," Cochran charged.

The Democratic nominee has not endorsed the stringent production controls that two farm state Democrats, Sen. Tom Harkin of Iowa and Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, have sought. Their bill died in the 100th Congress.

Mondale said Dukakis supports the concept, but not the particulars, of the Harkin-Gephardt legislation.

Dukakis, in his position paper on agriculture, said U.S. farm policy "must include a combination of supply management and reasonable price supports in a way that makes it possible for family farmers to earn a decent living from the land."

'88 Issues

While Bush often refers derisively to Dukakis' "supply management" ideas, the 1985 Farm Bill that Bush lavishly praises also gave the government supply management powers, and Mondale said the Reagan administration's price supports and set-asides were all supply management tools.

Bush has said the bipartisan 1985 Farm Bill is just beginning to pay off for farmers. It has led to lower commodity prices which, coupled with the drop in the dollar's value, helped boost farm exports 18 percent last year, he says. And he boasts that net cash farm income last year was a record $57 billion.

"Rural America has been strongly tested in recent years. However, I believe we have seen the bottom and are headed back up," says Bush.

The vice president says he would press ahead with efforts "to phase out over a reasonable period those subsidies that distort agricultural trade if, and only if, other countries do the same." But he promises to "preserve a true safety net to ensure the viability of the family farm and rural America."

Dukakis says farmers and ranchers are "being squeezed at both ends," facing lower commodity prices and a shrinking share of each food dollar (down from 32 percent in 1976 to 25 percent now).

"Still lower prices are not the answer," the Democrat argues. "Our present policy seems to be guided by a desire to drive commodity prices lower and lower in the hope of some future recovery of lost markets."

71 in county don't pass, won't play

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

Six weeks grade reports given to Big Spring High School students today reveal that the state's no-pass, no-play ruling will affect 61 high school students involved in extracurricular activities, said Kent Bowerman, principal.

This year is the first year the school has kept records of the numbers of students affected by the ruling, officials said, thus it cannot be verifiably determined if more or fewer students were affected by the no-pass, no-play ruling this year than in past years.

Last fall, according to a report in the Big Spring Herald, 19 students were ruled ineligible at the high school as a result of no-pass, no-play. The report stated the 19 students affected represented a decrease from the 48 students ruled ineligible during the fall of 1986.

But, according to Bowerman, the 19 students cited last year represented only the students participating in major sports that were ruled ineligible, and did not include members of the band or minor sports.

Bowerman estimated there has actually been a decrease in the number of students affected by the ruling, and said that detailed records would be compiled in the future.

The no-pass, no-play ruling was instituted in the spring of 1985 and is one of the reforms brought about by House Bill 72.

The ruling requires students participating in extracurricular activities in grades 7-12 to receive passing grades in all classes. Students who receive one or more failing grade are ruled ineligible to participate in extracurricular activities for at least the next six weeks.

This fall, 8 percent of Big Spring High School's 1,160 students received at least one failing grade, Bowerman said. In comparison, NO-PASS page 3-A

Planning board supports bridges; funding questioned

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

MIDLAND — The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission voted unanimously Wednesday afternoon to support construction of three new bridges in Howard County. The total cost of the projects is estimated in excess of $231,000, of which 80 percent will be federal funds.

The other 20 percent, ($46,200) according to PBRPC planning director Jerry Tschauner, must come from county matching funds. He said Howard County has already provided half that requirement.

County Commissioner O.L. (Louis) Brown, the sole representative of Big Spring and Howard County on the commission, said Wednesday he believed the project would not require any matching funds from the county.

Tschauner researched that question in response to concerns expressed by the board members, he said, and quoted Johnny Moore in the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation office in Big Spring as his source concerning the funding requirements.

Moore, an engineering technician, explained today that when the estimates are prepared by the department, the county pays 10 percent of the estimated cost.

"When the job is completed the county makes up the difference to pay 20 percent of the actual cost," he said. He also said estimates of the cost are preliminary. Bids for the bridge replacement projects are scheduled to be let in June 1989, he said, with completion expected by January 1990.

The planning commission, before adjourning Wednesday, also unanimously voted to support a sewage treatment system for the city of Toyah in Reeves County.

The bridges to be replaced in Howard County are described as "substandard and deteriorated." One of the three, a one-span steel I-beam bridge with metal deck on County Road 209 at the crossing of Elbow Creek, is also described as too narrow and rated at only five tons.

Because this paved county road carries a significant amount of traffic, according to Tschauner's summary of the state proposal, plans are to replace it with a multiple concrete box culvert capable of handling a 10-year flood at a cost of $44,000.

Like the remaining bridges, an environmental assessment is planned but no environmental impact statement is expected concerning the bridge.

The summary identifies two other bridges for replacement: one located on County Road 214 at the crossing of Elbow Creek, at a cost of $78,000, also a paved road carrying significant traffic where a one-span steel bridge with metal deck is to be replaced by a multiple concrete box culvert, and the crossing of County Road 170 at Morgan Creek.

That project is expected to be the most costly, according to Tschauner's summary, with a projected price of $109,000. A 28-foot clear roadway multiple concrete box culvert bridge is planned, replacing a one-span I-beam bridge with metal deck.

That bridge is located northeast of Coahoma, Brown noted, and south of Vincent.

Clements shifts blame for furlough program

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said the Texas furlough program that allowed murderers to temporarily leave prisons is not like the Massachusetts program for which Republicans have harshly criticized Democrat Michael Dukakis.

"There's a vast, vast difference between the two programs," said Clements, a Republican who co-chairs GOP presidential candidate George Bush's Texas campaign.

The governor also said Wednesday that he was not responsible for the Texas program, blaming it instead on "bureaucracy" in the state Department of Corrections.

"We've stopped it, we're reviewing it, and we're going to change it," he vowed.

Clements said that "this business of letting these murderers out for whatever the reason, and like Dukakis did in Massachusetts let this person out who in our system here in Texas would have been on death row... to commit additional crimes and so forth — we're not going to tolerate that."

Convicted murderer Willie Horton was furloughed under the Massachusetts program. He did not return to prison and later was convicted of raping a woman and assaulting her fiancé.

Robert Hinkle, a press secretary for the Dukakis campaign, noted that convicted murderers have been furloughed in Texas. About 5,000 felons, including 517 convicted of murder or voluntary manslaughter, have been furloughed in Texas since 1987, according to news reports.

"Murder is, obviously, murder," Hinkle said.

Clements would not discuss a prison-related bill he signed into law last year that included a reference to the furlough program. Furloughs are provided for under a 1977 law that was amended in 1979 to include discretionary furloughs for reasons determined to be appropriate by TDC, the governor's office said.

The program is "under the control and under the jurisdiction of TDC," Clements said. "That's what the legislation says. I don't have any direct control over it. I did not know what was going on. I don't share any responsibility for it," Clements said.

"The point is that the intent of the Legislature was aborted in my opinion by TDC, in the bureaucracy... It does have a sort of a generalization in it, and that's what TDC hung their hat on. I didn't know they were doing this. The TDC board didn't know it was done," the governor said.

Charles Terrell of Dallas, TDC board chairman, has placed a freeze on furloughs to convicted murderers and said a board subcommittee is expected to recommend later this month that furloughs be denied to anyone convicted of murder, drug trafficking or rape.

Clements said he expects the prison board to produce a "reasonably modified situation" that would make it clear "that on a properly evaluated basis, that these people can go on a limited leave for funerals, for emergencies and for mental health, mental retardation examinations, that sort of thing."

Mandated drug tests may be costly shock

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The oil and gas industry could face an expensive surprise when the U.S. Department of Transportation releases proposed rules for drug testing of workers in transportation jobs, said the head of a company who screens energy industry employees.

Ira Jane Hurst, founder of Ira Jane Hurst & Associates, was an exhibitor at the Permian Basin Oil Show to advertise her company's employee screening services to thousands of oil and gas supply, service and technology personnel.

Proposed drug testing, to be released by the end of the month, mandate drug testing for a wide range of U.S. workers whose jobs involve transportation.

Those workers include many in the energy industry, including pipeline workers, truck drivers and boat and helicopter pilots who work on offshore rigs, said Ms. Hurst on Wednesday, the oil show's opening day.

"It affects anyone whose work comes under the auspices of the Department of Transportation," she said.

While many oil and gas companies already screen their employees for drugs, the rest will be starting, said Ms. Hurst.

"It's going to have a considerable impact on their bottom line because of the cost," she said. "They (the energy industry) don't realize what these new regulations will do."

Her Lafayette, La.,-based company conducts a variety of employee tests, including psychological profiles, motivational examinations and drug screening. It even has teams of drug-sniffing dogs that can search boats, industrial facilities and offshore platforms and rigs.

"We provide the logistics for a company to test its employees and comply with the new rules," said Ms. Hurst, whose employees are all women.

The newest type of drug testing Hurst & Associates employs is hair analysis.

Veteran journalist criticizes campaign

AUSTIN (AP) — Veteran journalist Walter Cronkite, in a stinging criticism of the 1988 presidential campaign, said television ads should be longer and feature only the candidates so they could not hide from criticism made of their opponent.

"If they want to deal in a kind of below-the-belt, dirty campaign, they're going to have their face hanging out there saying it... I think it would purify the process considerably," Cronkite told a news conference at the University of Texas at Austin, where he has been teaching a three-day seminar for students.

He said two-minute long commercials would not allow campaigns to package their candidates "like soap."

Cronkite also proposed that interested groups — such as those representing voters and consumers, and "think tanks" — work together to "put on a massive public information campaign" and create a demand for at least six presidential debates of two to three hours each for the future.

Although political parties likely would object to the idea, Cronkite said, negotiations should begin before the next administration takes office. Cronkite called the proposal a "crash program right on the heels of the disappointment of the American people expressed everywhere."

"The people generally across the entire spectrum of political belief are unhappy with the way this campaign has gone," he said.

Cronkite said this year's campaign is one of the worst he has seen.

"I don't recall anything quite like this year. It's been, I think, a most unfortunate year for the American people, for our democracy," he said.

Issues — such as the deficit, education, foreign policy and defense — have not been adequately debated and discussed by Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis and Republican George Bush, Cronkite said.

"It means that the winning candidate will go into office next January without a clear mandate,"

AUSTIN — CBS news anchor Walter Cronkite talks about his experiences at the University of Texas Wednesday. The veteran journalist told a news conference that this year's presidential campaign is one of the worst he's seen and recommended changes for the future.

Legislator airs plan for property tax relief

AUSTIN (AP) — The state should provide money to local governments when it requires them to provide new programs, says a legislator who promises to introduce a constitutional amendment next year that would require such funding.

Rep. Dan Morales, vice chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said Wednesday there is a widespread feeling among lawmakers that local property tax rates are too high in Texas.

"Texas property tax rates are now arguably among the highest in the nation," the San Antonio Democrat said Wednesday.

Morales said that during its 1 1/2 years of study, the Select Committee on Tax Equity has heard repeatedly that local property taxpayers "are being asked to bear an unreasonably large portion of the overall tax burden."

In recent months, the lawmaker said, there has been "an unprecedented increase in property tax rates at the local level. Municipalities, counties, school districts and other local taxing jurisdictions have been forced to seek additional revenue due, in significant part, to state-imposed mandates."

Morales said 14 other states currently have laws which require the state to pay for programs it requires of local governments.

At the present time, a number of counties are protesting that problems with overcrowded state prisons have forced them to house state inmates in their county jails — but the state pays nothing toward those costs.

Morales said his proposed amendment might address such a problem, but he also said he's not yet certain what form that amendment would take when introduced in the 1989 Legislature.

However, he predicted such a plan would be approved by both lawmakers and voters. "It's extremely likely it would pass," he said.

While such a provision could limit government spending or force state tax increases, Morales said, "Nothing would be more irresponsible than to transform state fiscal difficulties into state and local fiscal difficulties."

Moose is loose

MIAMI (AP) — A moose is loose in the Texas Panhandle, with residents reporting sightings of animals that a game warden said might be refugees from forest fires in northern parkland.

The moose migration might have begun with recent northern forest fires, said Roland Williams, Roberts County game warden.

The closest area to Texas that moose are known to inhabit is the northwest corner of Colorado, more than 1,000 miles away.

Legislators say worker is often forgot

AUSTIN (AP) — The workers themselves often seem to be forgotten in the state's workers' compensation insurance system, say two legislators who are part of a committee studying the problems.

Issuing a report Wednesday on problems with the system, Reps. Richard Smith and Rick Perry said they believe major revisions in the state law will be needed.

"In all of this back and forth that we've had here for the last eight to nine months, it's apparent to me that the workers of the state of Texas a lot of times get forgotten about in the process," said Perry, D-Haskell.

"Either the insurance company wants to be taken care of, or the hospitals and the doctors want to be taken care of, or the attorneys want to be taken care of. We've heard so much more about those particular industry needs, a lot of the workers of the state are forgotten about," Perry said.

Smith said the state Industrial Accident Board, which handles job injury cases, hasn't been adequately funded by lawmakers.

The committee issued a report Wednesday on problems it finds with the system. Smith said he hoped recommendations could be finished by mid-November, in advance of the 1989 legislative session.

Toopers to pass out teddy bears

AUSTIN (AP) — Officials kicked off "Project Trooper Teddy," which will provide teddy bears to children involved in serious accidents.

"This small token of affection may provide the security and stability that might prevent a permanent emotional scar from attaching itself to the life of a child," said House Speaker Gib Lewis Wednesday in announcing the program.

The approximately 2,000 teddy bears were donated by Bill Hames Circus-Shows, of Fort Worth.

The teddy bears will be handed out by Texas Department of Public Safety troopers to children who may be frightened following an accident.

Inmate education saves money

ROSHARON (AP) — A Texas Department of Corrections program expected to graduate its first master's degree candidates this year will ultimately help save taxpayer dollars, prison officials say.

"Education has saved taxpayers money by taking people out of the criminal justice system and getting them good jobs that allow them to pay taxes," said George Trabing, director of the university's program at the prison.

Studies have shown that the return rate of inmates who take college courses is as low as 15 percent, Trabing said.

The program is part of a plan by the prison system and the university to enhance the prisoners' chances of finding a job upon release and to stay out of prison, Trabing said.

The university offers inmates with clean disciplinary records and 54 credit hours of college classes a chance to work toward a bachelor's or master's degree.

TDC will pay for one class per semester for eligible students, but inmates usually pay their tuition through federal grants or from their own pocketbooks, Trabing said.

Woman subdues would-be rapist

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A knife-wielding would-be rapist was subdued by a former Miss San Antonio who attributed her ability to fight off the man to recent physical conditioning.

Sylvia Fernandez Barton, 36, who was crowned Miss San Antonio in 1974 and finished as third runner-up in the Miss Texas Pageant, told police she struck the man over the head with a coffee cup and wrestled and attempted to reason with the man for 15 minutes Wednesday before he became exhausted and fled.

The man had threatened to kill her unless she agreed to submit, she said.

Mrs. Barton, the mother of two daughters, ages 6 and 9, said she had returned home after taking the girls to school when she noticed the front door of her home, which she had locked, was ajar.

The man grabbed her as she walked into a bedroom, she said.

Mrs. Barton screamed at first, then saved her strength to try and fight off her attacker, who had hurled her partially onto the bed. She said he had one hand around her neck, while the other held a knife he had apparently earlier taken from her kitchen.

The woman said she grabbed the knife with her left hand and struggled to keep it away from her.

Widow and child win pothole suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Bexar County jury has awarded nearly $280,000 in damages to the widow and youngest daughter of a man who died after the bicycle he was riding struck a pothole on a San Antonio street.

Felipe Rangel, 77, suffered a broken neck and died two months after his bicycle struck the pothole on a city street June 19, 1986, as he rode his bicycle in the dark to buy a morning newspaper. The bicycle flipped over and Rangel struck the pavement, investigating officers said.

Rangel's survivors sued the city of San Antonio, claiming street workers were negligent in not repairing the damaged street.

The jury award went to Rangel's wife, Emilia, 73, and Candelaria "Candy" Rangel Romo, 34, his youngest daughter and was for medical and funeral expenses, pain and suffering endured by Rangel before he died and the loss of companionship and mental anguish suffered by his widow and youngest daughter. Six other grown children who joined the suit as plaintiffs were awarded nothing.

The jury ruling that the city was 50 percent responsible for the accident.

Fraud, misconduct found in majority of S&L failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fraud and misconduct touch one of every four savings and loan institutions and play a part in more than three-quarters of all S&L failures, a congressional report concludes.

"The U.S. government is now confronting a growing and long-term epidemic of... abuse, misconduct and criminality in financial institutions," said the study, released Wednesday by a panel of the House Government Operations Committee.

The problem among commercial banks is serious but not as severe, the report said. It linked a third of all bank failures to misconduct.

The House study comes during the worst year for failures of both banks and S&Ls since the Depression and amid congressional debate over whether taxpayers will be required to bail out the fund insuring S&L deposits.

Federal regulators estimate it will cost $45 billion to $50 billion to restore the savings industry to health. Private analysts put the price tag as high as $100 billion.

According to Rep. Doug Barnard Jr., D-Ga., chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee on monetary affairs, recent efforts by the Justice Department to combat bank fraud have been "severely hindered" since April when department officials transferred $1.1 million in travel money to one of former Attorney General Edwin Meese III's favored projects, an anti-obscenity task force.

The report said Justice Department attorneys working on bank fraud cases have been forced to stop traveling to some cities. The result has been a significant delay in investigations, it said.

Nearly half of bank and savings and loan failures are concentrated in Texas and other Southwestern states suffering economically from the collapse of oil prices in 1986.

But industry critics say many of the institutions have been victims of highflying owners and officers who misused their insider status, running up huge losses through recklessness and sometimes outright fraud.

The Barnard panel said regulators found misconduct in 168 of 210 S&L insolvencies during the 3 1/2 years ending in June 1987. They also found it in another 313 ailing S&Ls and 295 healthy institutions. All told, that represented about 25 percent of the entire industry, the report said.

At commercial banks, 98 of 334 failures in 1985, 1986 and the first half of 1987 were associated with fraud and insider abuse.

At the end of June, 7,350 bank and S&L cases were being investigated by the FBI and federal grand juries. Forty-six percent involved losses of $100,000 and more, and a third involved institutions in Texas, California and Florida. Those three states have been criticized for lax banking regulations.

approximately 20 percent of the school's students had at least a B average for the the six weeks, he said.

According to figures released by Bowerman, the breakdown of the numbers of students ruled ineligible for the following six weeks in the school's extracurricular activities are as follows: band — 23, varsity football — none, junior varsity football — 6, freshman football — 15, swimming — 2, golf — 4, cross country — 5, varsity girls' basketball — none, junior varsity girls' basketball — 1, freshman girls' basketball — 2, varsity volleyball — none, junior varsity volleyball — 1, freshman volleyball — 2.

At Forsan High School, two members of the varsity football team, three members of the girls' basketball team and three members of the high school band were ruled ineligible as a result of no-pass, no-play, said George White, principal. There are 129 students involved in extracurricular activities at the high school, he said.

Last fall, according to a report in the Herald, 10 band members and six junior varsity football players at Forsan High School were affected by no-pass, no-play.

At Coahoma High School, only two band members were ruled ineligible as a result of no-pass, no-play, said principal Dennis Ward. There are 273 enrolled at Coahoma High School and approximately 165 participate in extracurricular activities.

Last fall, according to a report in the Herald, one varsity football player at Coahoma High School and 10 band members were affected by no-pass, no-play.

she had contacted him once about his stance on abortion.

Cauley said that she does not know how many copies of the pamphlet were originally produced.

"I gave them to a guy to make copies, along with other political information on candidates, but I didn't bother to ask him how many he made," Cauley explained.

She said some people who attended the forum asked her if they could take some copies of the controversial pamphlets with them — a request Cauley said she approved.

She denied that she has ever stated that Avery favors abortion and explained she authored the pamphlet "to point out the differences between Avery and Fraser (on the abortion issue) and if they (voters) know where she stands on the issue and think she is right, then they should vote for her."

When asked, Cauley admitted that the "innuendo is very strong" in the pamphlet that Avery supports abortion.

She also admitted she approved the request of one woman to circulate the pamphlets at a Big Spring church because "family-related issues are church-related issues."

Cauley said that although she supports Fraser in the Nov. 8 election — in part because of his stand on the abortion issue — she has not been involved in the Republican's election campaign.

Cauley said she is devoting her energies to helping elect Beau Boulter, a candidate for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democratic vice presidential candidate Lloyd Bensten.

Avery called Fraser's brand of politics "dirty."

"If Troy or anybody else can't win (an election) by playing it straight they should get out of the race," she said.

In the press release, Avery also alleged that Fraser is "saying that I support gun control," a contention she said is also inaccurate.

"I do not support gun control and it really seems strange to me that I would support gun control when my husband (Jerry) sells guns," Avery said.

Fraser said he has received the endorsement of the National Rifle Association "for my stand against gun control."

He said the endorsement "tells me that the NRA is concerned about her position as a loyal Democrat, just as they are concerned about Michael Dukakis."

"In order to keep the campaign positive, the voters know that I have completely ignored Mrs. Avery. I have spent my time speaking against tax increases and a state income tax where he has stated she would 'consider' raising taxes and I would not consider any increase," Fraser explained.

Avery also linked the Fraser camp to vandalism and theft of her campaign signs.

"My large 4 x 8 signs are disappearing and my yard signs are being defaced. I find this both puzzling and perplexing. What's the point?" she asked.

Fraser said the insinuation that he or any of his campaign volunteers are involved with that type of activity is "absurd" and suggested she consult the State Highway Department because her signs may be disappearing because they have been placed in right-of-way zones.

Questioned if she believes Fraser had first-hand knowledge of the alleged smear tactics, Avery said: "I hate to believe it, but he had to have known. Either that or the people who control him did it without his knowledge."

Fraser said he "strongly" supports education and local control for school boards and added that he is "spending many hours working" to find a solution to the funding shortages that hinder rural health care.

"The senior citizens of West Texas need to be assured that the state will be there when nursing home care is needed," he said.

The Republican candidate said his "positions on the issues are clear and I refuse to let her drag me into any type of smear campaign."

Avery said the smear campaign has already started and Fraser initiated it.

"I very truly hope that the tone of the campaign will no longer deteriorate. It will not on my part. His misrepresentation of my positions on issues has deeply hurt my family, friends and supporters," she said.

program benefits to family farmers "who need them most."

Dukakis hopes to narrow the federal deficit by reducing farm subsidies. In his last debate with Bush, the Massachusetts governor said he was sure a Dukakis administration could "give our farm families a decent income without spending $20-to-$25 billion a year in farm subsidies."

Farm subsidies shot up from $5 billion in 1980 under the Carter administration to $25 billion in 1986 under Reagan. This year the administration and Congress came up with nearly $4 billion in emergency drought aid.

But the drought-fed higher crop prices also reduce the need for government price supports.

Mondale, son of the former vice president, said ruefully that Bush was claiming credit for higher prices and exports that really belongs "to the weather and the Democrats." Farm state legislators, most of them Democrats, had to "shove the export enhancement program down the Reagan administration's throat," he said.

Bush constantly reminds rural audiences of the Carter administration's 1979 grain embargo against the Soviet Union and implies that Dukakis is liable to try another. Bush promises he won't "use farmers and ranchers and their families as foreign policy pawns."

But Dukakis says, "In no instance would I impose an embargo."

Dukakis says the productivity of U.S. farmers "should be viewed as a blessing, not a curse. Surplus farm commodities should be better used to feed hungry people both at home and abroad." He favors barter with countries "that want our farm goods but don't have the needed currency."

Bush has promised to devote an economic summit meeting with the major U.S. allies to the subject of agriculture.

Both candidates support wider use of ethanol, the alternative fuel made from gasoline and alcohol.

Emergency Applications available

County Judge Milton Kirby said today local organizations such as churches and community centers interested in applying for funds from a national United Way grant may obtain applications in his office.

The completed applications must be returned before an Oct. 27 board meeting, he said, during which the board will determine which agencies may participate. All applicants must be represented at the board meeting, Kirby said.

"This is not our local United Way," he stressed. "This is a national grant from the United Way headquartered in Maryland."

The program will allow Howard County local residents who have an emergency such as a fire to go to participating agencies and pick up a voucher to purchase groceries, Kirby explained.

"It is for our local residents, now, not for transients," he pointed out. "It is a voucher program and the agencies applying need to be represented at our board meeting, Oct. 27 at 2:30 p.m. in my office."

The board consists of Kirby, Sherrie Bordofsky, Boyd Carson, Pat Lawlis and Hooper Sanders.

Water District to discuss lake releases

Reports and recommendations from the Long Range Planning committee concerning Natural Dam Lake will top the agenda when the Colorado River Municipal Water District board of directors meets Oct. 27.

CRMWD public information officer Joe Pickle called the Natural Dam Lake releases' impact on district water quality a "perennial thorn in the flesh."

"The heavily salted lake has spilled, and at times threatened to overtop its natural plug across Sulphur Draw," according to a statement from the CRMWD which said "the spillage has aggravated quality problems."

Other important agenda items include adopting an operating budget for 1989, the statement said, and consideration of recommendations from the Employees Pension Trust committee. A proposed code of ethics for officers and employees is also scheduled for consideration.

The pension trust panel will meet Oct. 25 in Odessa, according to the statement.

Death

Jessie Johnston
 Jessie E. Johnston, 91, Big Spring, died Wednesday, Oct. 19, 1988 at Golden Plains Care Center.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Friday at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. Bob Brown, pastor of Airport Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be at Mount Olive Memorial Park.

She was born Sept. 9, 1897 in Eastland County. She married W.A. (Albert) Johnston Dec. 19, 1917 in Dunn. He preceded her in death March 17, 1964.

She came to Big Spring in 1937, and was a long time member of East Fourth Street Baptist Church, where she sang in the choir.

She was a member of a pioneer Scurry County family, who came to the Dunn Community in 1915.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Charles (Mildred) Engle, Big Spring, and Mrs. Raymond (Norma Lee) Berry, Prit

Sheriff's log

Howard County Sheriff's Department officers have seized equipment used to manufacture methamphetamines from a northeast Howard County location. No arrests have yet been made and an investigation is continuing, according to sheriff's department records.

Deputies Jack Howard and George Quintero made the seizure, acting on information received, records indicated Howard said early today that the recovered equipment was not a large lab, but consisted of "some chemical and glassware, and the cooker."

Chief Deputy Robert Puente said, concerning an unrelated matter, that parolee Jesse Nunez Torres has been moved out of a special isolation cell in which he had been held.

Torres was moved back to a regular cell early today, Puente said. "He said he was ready to go back today. He's been very cooperative."

Sheriff A.N. Standard had said Torres appeared to be calming down following several days of violent behavior. Torres remains in custody in lieu of $50,000 bond on a charge of armed robbery.

Sheriff's department officers also reported the following incidents as of 8:30 a.m. today:

- Three inmates were transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections to begin serving sentences in the state penitentiary.
- Jimmy Lunford, 32, 2206 S. Monticello Ave., was transported after being sentenced to revocation of probation for delivery of marijuana in 118th District Court, Paul Andre Davis, 26, 307 N.W. Eighth St., was transported after being sentenced to revocation of probation for theft by check; and Arthur Clay McIntire, 19, HC 76, was transported after being sentenced to 16 years in the state penitentiary in District Court following his conviction on voluntary manslaughter charges Oct. 6.
- Three persons were released on $3,000 bond each after being arrested by city police on charges of burglary of a building: Trevor Scott Moore, 19, 2513 Carroll St.; Rudy Olivas, 21, 1103 Lamar Ave.; and Casey Chance Harrison, 19, HC 76.
- Gerald Don Mireles, 19, 1206 Dixie St., was released on $7,500 bond after his arrest on charges of burglary of a habitation.
- Luanna Kay Franco, 25, 120 Airbase Road, was released on $1,000 bond. She had been arrested by city police on a charge of making a false report to a peace officer.
- Clarence Augustus Ussery, 27, 1202 E. Third St., Apt. 20, was released on $2,000 bond. He had been arrested by city police on charges of forgery.

Police beat

Big Spring police reported investigating the following incidents:

- Four men were arrested shortly after 1 a.m. today at the Seven-11 Food Store, 1209 11th Place, on burglary of a building charges.
- Those arrested include:
 - Rudy Olivas, 21, 1103 Lamar Ave.
 - Irlando Manuel Jackman, 24, 404 W. 6th St.
 - Trevor Scott Moore, 19, 2513 Carroll St., and
 - Casey Chance Harrison, 19, HC76, Box 136F.
- A woman who resides at the Northcrest Apartments, 1002 N. Main St., reported unknown persons took $250 in cash and currency and tools valued at $50.
- A man who resides in the 3600 block of Hamilton Street reported four firearms valued at $1,975 were taken from his motor home.

Hole in the ozone treaty

Scientific evidence of the destruction of the protective ozone layer in the earth's stratosphere is piling up faster than governments can act on it. It took several years to put together the international agreement signed last year in Montreal, which calls for a 50 percent cut by 1998 in worldwide production of the chemicals that seem to be causing the ozone depletion.

Yet, since then, researchers have found the problem to be even more severe than previously estimated, and they have produced even more conclusive evidence that the culprits are chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), chemicals used in refrigeration fluids, as foam-blowing agents, as solvents and, outside the United States, as aerosol propellants. Estimates now are that ozone-destroying chlorine concentrations in the stratosphere will double or triple over the next century, even if every nation in the world follows the Montreal treaty scrupulously.

American CFC producers have not ignored these newest warnings. The DuPont Co. recently announced it has found a safe substitute for one of its most widely used CFCs, although further tests are needed before it can be marketed. Other companies also have stepped up their research and are talking about recycling CFCs to avoid spewing new amounts into the atmosphere. But welcome as these private efforts are, they are not enough. As the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced the other day, what is needed to avert an environmental catastrophe is an immediate worldwide ban on new CFC production and a 200 percent reduction in worldwide use of the more powerful CFC compounds.

The EPA is not known as an alarmist. Until its most recent reassessment, it was urging a go-slow approach and arguing that there was plenty of time to strengthen the Montreal treaty, if needed, as further evidence came in. Thus, the agency's new stance should have a significant impact in Europe and elsewhere, where earlier warnings from environmentalists were often dismissed as hyperbole. The task now is to turn the EPA influence into action.

The Montreal treaty provides for reconvening its signatories if stronger CFC-control measures seem warranted. As the EPA has urged, the United States should set that process in motion immediately.

Guns don't kill, people do

To the editor: They say it's not the gun that kills, but the one holding the gun, whether it be accidental or on purpose. If a person knows of a gun to have gone off accidental in the past, why pick it up unless that person intends to shoot someone? Now, I don't know all the facts in this case but a very sweet boy is dead and one is in jail. I don't know the McIntire's at all, but I do know the Crawfords. They're a good bunch of people and very good friends of mine. They've had more than their share of heartache and heart break. My heart and prayers go out to both families. To Ginnie who has lost a son, to Mildred who has lost two sons and now her grandson. To Lilo whom I don't know, her husband is in jail. Yes, my heart aches for all of you, but I can't get it out of my thoughts that someday Clay will come home, live out the rest of his life with his family. Randal never will. SHARON OSBURN 1709 W. 4th

Guns cannot be treated like cars

To the editor: I can see it now. I take my dozen or so firearms down to the local garage and pay the $7.50 inspection fee to have each one inspected. When I get through there, I can take them to the Texas Department of Gun Control office in the courthouse to have them registered. (See Car control worse than gun control, Oct. 17, p. 4). Then comes the real dilemma. Where do I stick the registration plate? Do I nail it to the $500 Gucci designer stock? Do I weld it to the $2000 custom barrel or receiver? Surely I can't just carry it around in my wallet like a driver's license can I? That would be registering me, not the guns.

What sort of bureaucracy do we set up to handle it? And on what level? How many tax dollars do we appropriate to sniff out all the guns bought in the last 200 years to have them inspected and registered? How can you compare guns with cars? Whether you believe it or not, many citizens do believe our right to keep arms is guaranteed by the Constitution. Cars are not. When cars were becoming popular in the early part of this century, our legislators had the foresight to recognize cars and

Votes are in: Steers win this one

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Dear Readers: We-e-e-ll, I think this is one baby we're just about ready to put to bed.

I want to take the opportunity to thank all the people who responded to my "Dump the Steer" poll, and I think it's fairly safe to say that Big Spring High School's beloved mascot — neutered old beast that it is — is safe for now.

Whether I am open to debate. The overwhelming majority — 70 percent — of the respondents cast their ballots in favor of keeping the Steers, and many of the bovine-lovers suggested that if anything needed dumping, it was yours truly.

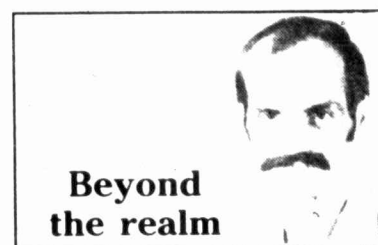

"Let's dump Steve Reagan and keep the Steers!!!!!!!" wrote Jacquelyn Mauch, a proud (her word) member of the BSHS class of 1966.

Sadly — for me, anyway — that sentiment was shared by more than one other person.

"Whoever is trying to cause trouble should be supporting the Steers," one person wrote. "Tell Steve Reagan to mind his own business."

Loyal Steer fan John Hooper changed his ballot to read, "Should Big Spring Herald dump Steve Reagan?" and happily — I suppose — marked the Yes box.

Others had less personal, but nonetheless strident, opinions. "Stupid idea," Paula Duncan wrote. "Please find something more interesting." "Surely you have something better to do beside this harebrained idea," opined another person. My two personal favorites however, came from anonymous sources. "If this is all you have to do to stay busy, you must lead a very dull and boring life," wrote one, while the other asked, "What nut came up with this idea?"

Beyond the realm

This nut, I'm afraid. Thelma Ditto said that BSHS should keep the Steer as the boys' mascot, but added that the girls' teams should be called the Steerettes.

The others in the pro-Steer faction marked their ballots without further comment, for which I say, "Whew!"

A couple of those who voted in favor of changing the school's mascot had a bit of fun with the idea. Boosie Weaver suggested that Jokers should be the mascot, and added "not kidding" in parenthesis.

"Maybe we should dump football and take up math," Weaver commented, along with another suggestion, to change the school colors to red and black.

The suggested replacement that most caught my eye, however, came from the anonymous person who wrote that the new mascot should be "the Malayan Leaf-Nosed Bat." This person further opined, "The school song and fight song must go! Dull, boring and stupid!"

Three respondents voted in favor of keeping the mascot in the cattle family. Two — including my esteemed colleague Sarah Luman — suggested the Longhorns, while one thought Bovines had a nice ring to it.

Another anonymous suggestion was "either the Rattlers or the Lions — Rattlers because Big Spring is surrounded by them, and Lions because they sound tough."

The Big Spring Falcons was the suggestion by one person, who thought it would go nicely with the Howard College Hawks.

There were other suggestions — The Plenarians, complete with a two-headed mascot that divides at halftime, and the Deep-Water Sewer Rats were among the better ones — but they were greatly outnumbered by the pro-Steer faction.

Again, I want to thank all of those who responded. To those who took the whole thing as the bit of spirited fun it was supposed to be, keep those cards and letters coming in.

To those I may have offended, I hereby take a solemn oath that I will never, ever again suggest replacing the Steer as dear ol' BSHS' mascot.

Now, about the Coahoma Bulldogs. Steve Reagan BSHS class of '73

Questions the panel didn't ask

By ART BUCHWALD

I am sad that there will be no more presidential debates. The reason for this is that there are so many questions left unanswered. The panel members for the three debates did what they could to draw the candidates out, but I believe that they should have been tougher. Here are the questions I wish they had posed to the contenders:

"Sir, if you were a gypsy moth, what kind of gypsy moth would you be?"

"Name the last three Dead Sea Scrolls you have read in the original and why you would recommend them to every American child."

"If your wife were knocked down on a dark street, brutally kicked and her purse snatched away from her, would you still pardon Ollie North?"

"Do you believe a man on welfare, who refuses to look for a job, is entitled to a ZIP code?"

"Would you recommend three good restaurants in the Boston area to a convict who is going on a weekend furlough?"

"If you were a guacamole dip, what kind of guacamole dip would you be?"

"Do you believe that card-carrying members of the ACLU should lose their driving privileges on federally funded interstate highways?"

"If someone took all the garbage in Boston Harbor and dumped it off the beaches of New Jersey, would the people of New Jersey consider that a cheap shot?"

"Please give me four dates on which the Japanese might have bombed Pearl Harbor."

"If Sen. Bentsen gets elected, will those lobbyists who could not afford $10,000 for breakfast in his office be entitled to meet with him for $5,000 in the Senate cafeteria?"

"If you were a Scotch-tape dispenser, what kind of Scotch-tape dispenser would you be?"

"Would you advocate the death penalty for any pregnant woman who does not believe in the right-to-life movement?"

"Governor, when you play baseball with a kid for the TV cameras, do you ever put pine tar on your glove?"

"Mr. Vice President, do you think Mike Tyson and Robin Givens represent the family values that you hold so dear?"

"Sen. Bentsen, if Dan Quayle is no Jack Kennedy, does that make Mrs. Quayle no Jackie Onassis?"

"Sen. Quayle, if we refuse to embargo American wheat and sell it to the Russians, won't they become healthy and want to kill us?"

"Governor, the polls indicate that the only way you can win the election now is to tell us how you made Massachusetts one of the great states in the Union. Are you prepared to break your vow of secrecy and tell us how you did it?"

"Sen. Quayle, would you agree to enroll in the Electoral College if your father made a large donation to the school?"

"Please tell us the names of all your heroes, and whether any of them has done TV commercials for Wheaties?"

"Do you think a gun is the best answer to poor grades in school?"

"If you were President of the United States, and someone asked you to recite the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, knowing what you know now, would you do it?"

"If you were a Manhattan telephone directory, what kind of telephone directory would you be?"

"If you were Vice President of the United States, and the President just had a meal on Northwest Airlines, what is the first thing you would do to restore confidence in the country?"

Judge killed by officer husband

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A judge begged for help over a courthouse intercom moments before her estranged husband, an off-duty police officer, fatally shot her in her chambers, authorities said.

District Judge Carol S. Irons, 40, was shot in the throat at least once Wednesday and stumbled into a hallway, where her husband, Clarence Ratliff, 53, followed her and fired at least two more shots, police said. She was pronounced dead in a jury room minutes later.

"Judge Irons came out of her chambers bent over with her hands reaching for her throat, asking ... 'Please, help me!'" Police Chief William Hegarty said at a news conference.

Ratliff, a 21-year police department veteran, briefly exchanged gunfire in a corridor with officers who answered Irons' pleas, and then barricaded himself in her chambers.

He surrendered within minutes and was arrested at the courthouse, the site of the couple's marriage four years ago.

Birthday song company for sale

NEW YORK (AP) — "Happy Birthday to You," a song that seems to belong to everyone, can be bought by whoever purchases the company that owns its copyright.

The Sengstack family of Princeton, N.J., which for half a century has owned Birchtree Ltd., the company that holds the copyright to the song, has decided to sell the company. The New York Times reported today.

The concern could sell for $12 million or more.

"Happy Birthday" brings in about $1 million a year, the newspaper said. The song's 75-year copyright expires in 2010, when it enters the public domain.

Patty Smith Hill and her sister, Mildred J. Hill, two kindergarten teachers from Louisville, Ky., who also taught Sunday school, wrote the song. It was included in "Song Stories for the Sunday School," a book they wrote in 1893.

In its original version, the "Happy Birthday" melody had the lyrics: "Good Morning to you, good morning to you, good morning dear children, good morning to all."

Memories of crash trickle back

NEW YORK (AP) — An unfounded rumor about George Bush was enough to trigger a brief plunge in a still-unstable stock market on the anniversary of the crash of 1987.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 22.58 points Wednesday from a post-crash high of 2159.85, only a hint of the 508-point drop on Oct. 19, 1987, when panic wiped out half a trillion dollars of stock wealth.

Wednesday's late drop was the biggest excitement on a low-key crash anniversary day that Wall Street employees marked by trading stocks, bonds and horror stories and raising an occasional glass of champagne.

The rumor was that The Washington Post would publish a story potentially damaging to the Republican presidential candidate. The Post denied having or planning any such story.

But traders who had made profits in the market's recent rise sold on a hint of problems with the vice president, who is leading Democratic candidate Michael Dukakis in most polls.

Too much iron may be bad risk

BOSTON (AP) — While too little iron in the body is clearly a health hazard, a study published today suggests that too much of the essential nutrient also may be bad, possibly increasing the risk of cancer.

The study found that men with high levels of iron in their bodies are more likely to have cancer of the colon, lungs, bladder and esophagus, suggesting that the widespread habit of supplementing the diet with iron may not be in the best interests of people who are already getting enough.

"People have long studied the consequences of iron deficiency," commented Dr. Katherine McGlynn of the Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia. "It's only recently that people have studied iron overloading and raised the possibility that we have gone overboard in fortifying all the food in sight."

The latest study was directed by Dr. Richard G. Stevens of Batelle, Pacific Northwest Laboratories in Richland, Wash., and published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

BARROW, Alaska — A trapped California gray whale surfaces as biologists and veterinarians ponder what to do next.

Weather, bears threaten whales

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — A huge icebreaking barge began its journey to rescue three trapped whales as scientists worried that plunging temperatures and polar bears would threaten the mammals they have named Bonnet, Crossbeak and Bone.

At dawn, a National Guard helicopter rigged to tow the 185-ton "hover-barge" was to resume the 230-mile trip along the desolate Arctic coast from Prudhoe Bay. It moved about five miles Wednesday through sand bars, mud and shallow water.

Eskimo whalers using chain saws in sub-zero temperatures cut holes in the thick Arctic Ocean ice to help the California gray whales breathe. The 24- to 30-foot-long mammals, whose species is endangered, became trapped in the ice two weeks ago while migrating south.

The tired whales can survive for several more weeks despite being battered and bleeding from grating against jagged ice, said John Lien, professor of animal behavior at Memorial University in Canada.

"They can bleed a barrel and still be fine," said Lien, who has helped free whales from ice for 20 years. "We're talking about a big animal here, between five to 20 tons."

The whales also may have to contend with polar bears. Reporters flying by helicopter Wednesday spotted five prowling the ice a few miles from the whales.

"There are polar bears that are certainly going to be attracted to this," said Ron Morris of the National Marine and Fisheries Service. "If they're going to take the whales, we're not going to stop them."

He said polar bears hunt at night, when biologists are usually the only people near the breathing holes, 18 miles northeast of this Eskimo village.

The whales were named by biologists so the mammals' respiration could be monitored when they surfaced. One was dubbed "Bone" because so much of its snout has been scraped away by the ice. Eskimos have given them their own names: Siku (Ice), Putu (Icehole) and Kanik (Snowflake).

Thousands flee threat of flood

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Thousands fled the Caribbean coast as Hurricane Joan closed in on Central America today with heavy rains and 115 mph winds, threatening to unleash a torrent of flash floods and mud slides.

The storm was moving west after leaving 35 people dead or missing in Colombia and thousands homeless.

mountainous regions of Central America.

"Unfortunately, they are getting a lot of rain ahead of this storm, which is going to affect the area and cause a lot of mud slides and flash flood in the mountains," he said. "The biggest threat to life will be from flash floods and mud slides."

Max Mayfield, another forecaster at the hurricane center, said the portion of the Caribbean where the hurricane is bound has never experienced a storm of such magnitude.

Gilbert Clark, meteorologist at the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla., said the damage could be severe in the Israeli leaders vow retaliation

METULLA, Israel (AP) — Israeli leaders vowed today to punish the Iranian-backed Hezbollah for a suicide car bomb that blew up at a border crossing in Lebanon, killing seven Israeli soldiers and wounding 10 others.

The attack on the army convoy Wednesday afternoon was the worst against an Israeli target in Lebanon since Israel withdrew most of its occupation troops from the country three years ago.

"I am sure that the state of Israel and its army will not remain still until we reach the source of the evil, the source of the attack," Foreign Minister Shimon Peres told Israel radio. "What must be clear to Hezbollah is that it will receive its just punishment."

"Israel's just and secure hand will reach the killers, each and every one of them," Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said.

Investigators question sabotage

AHMADABAD, India (AP) — Investigators have not ruled out sabotage in the crash of two domestic airliners that claimed the lives of up to 165 people, a government official said today.

"Two crashes on the same day in two hours is too much of a coincidence," said the official, who is closely associated with the investigation into Wednesday's disasters.

A Boeing 737 operated by Indian Airlines crashed while trying to land in heavy fog at Ahmadabad airport in central India. The plane clipped a tree, struck a power line and exploded on its final approach.

All but five of the 135 people on board died. Doctors said one of the survivors was in critical condition today.

Less than two hours after the disaster, a 30-year-old Fokker Friendship propeller plane leased by Indian Airlines to another domestic carrier, Vayudoot, slammed into a hill in eastern India during a severe rainstorm.

North Korea proposes new Korea

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — North Korea has proposed creating a new non-aligned Korean nation in which the communist north and its enemy, the capitalist south, would peacefully co-exist.

North Korea's deputy foreign minister, Kang Sok Ju, told the 43rd General Assembly that the new nation would "realize national reunification, leaving the two social systems in the north and the south as they are."

"There is no hidden attempt to insinuate 'unification through communization' and no intention to impose our ideas and system on the other side," Kang said.

The Korean peninsula was divided at the end of World War II.

'Accused' challenges rape stereotypes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Inside a scruffy tavern called The Mill, patrons sip beer, a boxing match flickers on television, a jukebox plays and back in the game room, a group of men gang-rape a woman atop a pinball machine while others cheer them on.

In the new movie "The Accused," it's just another wild night out for the rapists and their chanting throng.

"The Accused," which chronicles the crusade of a rape victim (Jodie Foster) to bring both her assaulters and their applauding spectators to justice, shows in frank detail what rape is really about. And for actress Kelly McGillis, who plays the prosecutor, the movie had an even more personal note.

"I was raped by two men in my apartment in New York City in 1982, so for me it's far more than a movie," said McGillis, who found that while watching the completed film was "difficult," it did address some important issues.

The actress only recently began talking publicly about the crime. In a recent interview with the New York Daily News, she said she decided to speak out after attending a fund-raiser at a Los Angeles rape treatment center. "I was overwhelmed by the strength of the women I met and thought that I had been a coward by not speaking out myself," she said in the interview.

McGillis was not the only person associated with the film who had an intimate knowledge of rape and its aftermath. A former girlfriend of Jonathan Kaplan, the movie's director, was gang-raped for 12 hours in their apartment while Kaplan was out of town, he said.

"Rape has almost become a rite of initiation at fraternity houses," said Sherry Lansing, who co-produced "The Accused" with Stanley Jaffe.

"That's appalling... What I hope will happen is that no one will ever look at a rape victim the same way again," Lansing said. "No one will ever say, 'She asked for it.'"

Angie Way, curator of the Heritage Museum, positions a piece of art on one of the display boards for an exhibit titled "Webb Air Base and Big Spring Bombardier School — A Retrospective," which will be on display from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and will continue to be displayed through Oct. 28. The retrospective will feature photos from the bombardier school and the airbase as well as plaques, literature and annuals. A related story appears on page 1-A.

At the movies

The following movies will be playing at local theatres this weekend:

"Platoon Leader," rated R, and "Patty Hearst," rated R, will be playing at the Cinema in College Park.

"Platoon Leader," based on a book by James McDonno, tells the story of a young officer's struggle to lead his men into battle in Vietnam.

"Patty Hearst" is a docudrama based on Patty Hearst's own story of her abduction in 1974.

"Heartbreak Hotel," rated PG-13, "Pumpkin Head," rated R, "Big Business," rated PG, and "Halloween 4," rated R, will be showing at Movies 4. "Heartbreak Hotel," starring David Keith and Tuesday Weld, tells the story of a teenage boy who gets Elvis Presley (Keith) to help his troubled family.

"Big Business," stars Bette Midler and Lily Tomlin who play two sets of identical twins, one set having been brought up in a wealthy environment and the other having grown up on the wrong side of the tracks. A complicated legal matter brings them together 30 years after being separated, leading to mistaken identities.

"Willow," rated PG, and "Betrayed," rated R, will be showing at the Ritz.

Lonely wife questions divorce

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old married woman with two children, 11 and 14. I've been married for 16 years to a career Army man, (I'll call him Al.) Al was given the choice of going to Germany for three years with his family or two years without us. Without even discussing it with me, he chose to go to Germany without us.

After 10 months of being alone, I became romantically involved with my chiropractor. (I'll call him Seymour.) Seymour is 34, has never been married, and he treats me like a queen. Never in my life have I been this happy. When Al came home, I told him the truth and asked for a divorce so I could marry Seymour. Al was shocked because all through our marriage, I had been true-blue, while he played around.

Now I'm getting advice from all sides. Al's family has called me every name in the book. My friends who know how much I had to put up with over the years say, "Dump Al, and go for it with the doctor." My 11-year-old says, "Stay with Daddy." The 14-year-old says, "Daddy deserted us when he went to Germany, so marry Doc." What should I do?

ARMY WIFE

DEAR ARMY WIFE: Only you can make this decision. Do nothing while you are still in doubt. You need to sort out your feelings with a counselor to determine whether your marriage can, or should, be saved. Your husband should also be counseled, because unless you both "fix" what went wrong with your marriage, a reconciliation would be only temporary.

DEAR ABBY: Your recent article deploring the ignorance of most people concerning geography reminded me of an incident that occurred in my parish a few years ago.

The church had sponsored a trip to Hawaii. One of the parishioners who had signed up telephoned and asked, "What time does the bus leave for Hawaii?"

I explained that the bus left for the airport at such and such a time. Then the would-be traveler screamed, "You mean I have to fly? Cancel me out!"

Professional schedules now listed in Braille

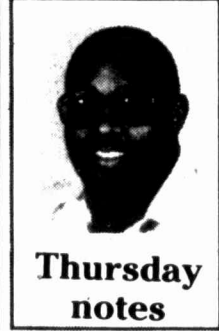

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Blind sports fans can keep track of their favorite teams with sports schedules being issued in Braille, according to the Library of Congress.

The library is producing Braille schedules for the National Football League, National Hockey League, National Basketball Association, Major Indoor Soccer League and the American and National baseball leagues.

The schedules are put into Braille form as they become available throughout the year.

Interested persons can obtain the schedules by calling 1-800-424-8567 or writing the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20542.

Thursday notes

After nine years, the American Fishing Institute's National Bass Institute continues to gain prominence and recognition as the nation's premier educational fishing school.

Now for the first time, AFI is giving western anglers the opportunity to learn there's more to fishing than just luck. The Phoenix Civic Plaza in Phoenix hosts this award-winning program during the weekend of Nov. 12-13.

To attend the school, entry fee is $60 per person or $90 for a family of four. For each full paying adult, one youth, aged 10-15, can attend free. Spouses will be admitted for half price.

For more information call American Fishing Institute in Terre Haute, Ind. at (812) 237-2345 or toll free at 1-800-551-1639.

Autumn brought new fishing patterns to area lakes but results were generally good.

Lake Spence showed a gain in white and black bass catching with a decline in the size of striped bass being caught.

At Lake Thomas, crappie and channel catfishing were good to excellent. Crappie were being caught on minnows 15-20 feet deep. Black bass fishing in brushy area and a few small white bass were being caught by trollers.

At Lake Spence, Ruby Patton of Amarillo caught a 16-pound striped bass while Dan and Maraha Blair of Paint Creek caught 18 white bass.

Last week at Lake Thomas, Ronnie Gaskin of Big Spring caught a pair of 28-pound yellow catfish on trotline. Roy Gardner and Melvin Altom of Big Spring caught a pair of four-pound, also eight and 19-pound yellow catfish.

News from the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association...

In nine-hole alternate shot play on the back nine Monday evening, Tammy Newsom and Annie Ward came in first; they shot a three-over-par 41. The team of Mary Malone, Patti Woodall and Dee Jenkins finished second.

The Hispanic Women For Progress Organization, sponsored by the Chicano Golf Association, will host an ABCD tournament at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

The tournament is scheduled for Oct. 30, starting at 10 a.m. Entry fee is $10.

Food will also be served at the tournament. Breakfast burritos will be served at 8:30 a.m., and lunch burritos will be served starting at 11 a.m.

For more information contact Lupe Dominguez at 267-2888 or Felix Martinez at 263-4559.

The Big Spring Steers are still second in offense in District 4-4A behind Sweetwater. Big Spring is averaging 330 yards per game, while Sweetwater is averaging 383 yards per outing. Monahans is third, averaging 282 yards per game.

Defensively, Sweetwater leads the pack, allowing 96 yards per game. Fort Stockton is second (193) and Monahans is third (201). The Steers are out of the cellar in team defense, allowing 297 yards per game. San Angelo Lake View is now the worst defensive team in the league, allowing 308 yards a game.

Big Spring quarterback Rance Thompson continues to lead the league in passing, having thrown for 894 yards and eight TD's. Tony Lewis continues to lead the receiving corps. He's caught 17 passes, averaging 21.7 yards per catch. Joe Downey is sixth, with 10 catches for a 20.1 average.

Dennis Hartfield is sixth in rushing with 362 yards. Rye Bavin is third in interceptions with two.

There will be 350 runners from across the Lone Star State in Midland Nov. 5 to take part in the Fourth Annual Midland Reporter Telegraph-YMCA Run and Relay.

The competition will consist of both a half-marathon for individuals and a half-marathon for four-person relay teams. Awards will be presented in various age categories for men and women.

Entry fee is $10 per person. For more information call 682-5311.

Former Big Spring Steer Charles White is doing fine at North Texas State, said North Texas Sports Information Director Doug Ray.

White, a freshman running back, has traveled with the team on a couple of trips, and plays fullback on the junior varsity squad.

Also at North Texas is redshirt freshman receiver Buddy Everett.

North Texas is 5-1, ranked number one in the NCAA II poll.

Homecoming time for Steers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

When the Big Spring Steers host the Pecos Eagles Friday night, the homecoming crowd is likely to see lots of fireworks.

That's because both the Steers and Eagles possess two of the most explosive offenses in District 4-4A, along with the weaker defenses.

Pecos, 3-3 for the season but 0-3 in league play, is ranked fourth in the league in offense, averaging 250 yards per game. Big Spring is ranked second in total offense, averaging 383 yards per contest.

At the same time Big Spring is ranked next-to-last in team defense, allowing opponents 297 yards per contest. Pecos is just a step above, allowing 270 yards per contest.

The game will feature two of the best quarterbacks in the league with Big Spring's Rance Thompson and Pecos' Bobby Ray Smith.

Thompson is leading the district in passing, and is one of the top passers in the state, having completed 44 of 114 passes for 894 yards and eight touchdowns.

Smith, a 5-11, 160-pound senior, is starting for the third year for the Eagles. He's completed 24 of 68 passes for 500 yards, and rushed for 174 yards in 62 carries.

Pecos Coach Daylon Whitehurst says Smith has a chance of playing college football.

"Bobby Ray is the best running threat we've got. He's not a Kenneth Norman (Sweetwater running back), but he's a good runner. I think he has the potential to play college ball, maybe as a receiver."

Big Spring coach David Thompson labels Smith a John Elway-type performer. "He's what makes them go. He's unpredictable, you never know what he's going to do. He can throw it and he can run it. If we don't contain him, we'll be in trouble," said Thompson.

Coach Whitehurst is worried about defending the Big Spring I-attack.

"Big Spring is one of the best 1-4 teams around. They've played a tough schedule, opening up with Estacado and Plainview. The teams they lost to in district, Sweetwater and Monahans, are the best in our district."

"Big Spring has a balanced offensive attack. In fact it's a little more lopsided towards the pass, which is unusual in our district. The Thompson kid is a good quarterback and the tailback Hartfield (Dennis), can bust the big play."

"We've got to play better defense. You can't give up 27 and 39 points and win many games," he said referring to a 27-12 loss to Andrews and a 39-13 loss to Sweetwater last week. The Eagles also fell to Fort Stockton 14-0.

The Big Spring defense has been playing considerably better this past couple of games. Last week, led by the play of Chris Mason, Jason Phillips, Michael Hilario and Dusty Reeves, Big Spring limited Lake View to 208 yards total offense.

"The defense is catching on to how we want them to play," said Steers defensive coordinator Dwight Butler. "They are playing more aggressively and with more excitement. Now what we're fighting is them thinking they're better than what they really are. They still have to go out and play every week. We want them to be confident, but not overconfident," said Butler.

Coach Whitehurst figures the game will be a crowd-pleaser. "With each team's defensive record, there's a strong possibility a lot of points will be scored. It will be an exciting game — definitely worth the price of admission."

Dodgers one win away from crown

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jay Howell got even with Mark McGwire and stopped the Oakland Athletics from getting even in the World Series. Now it's up to Orel Hershiser to get it all for Los Angeles' depleted Dodgers.

Howell retired McGwire with the bases loaded in the seventh inning Wednesday night, preserving a 4-3 victory and putting the Dodgers within one game of the championship.

They lead three games to one, an advantage that 30 of 35 teams have turned into the championship.

"What a tremendous victory for one of the weakest teams in the history of the World Series to beat one of the strongest teams," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said. "They're so good, they should allow us two runs before we begin."

Los Angeles did score twice in the first inning, but clung to a one-run lead when McGwire, who hit a game-winning homer off Howell in the ninth inning the night before, stepped to the plate in the seventh.

This time, Howell got revenge when McGwire swung at a first-pitch fastball and popped up. McGwire was left on deck when Dave Parker popped up to end the game with a runner on first base.

Hershiser will try to give the Dodgers their sixth title and first since 1981 in Game 5 Thursday night against Oakland's Storm Davis.

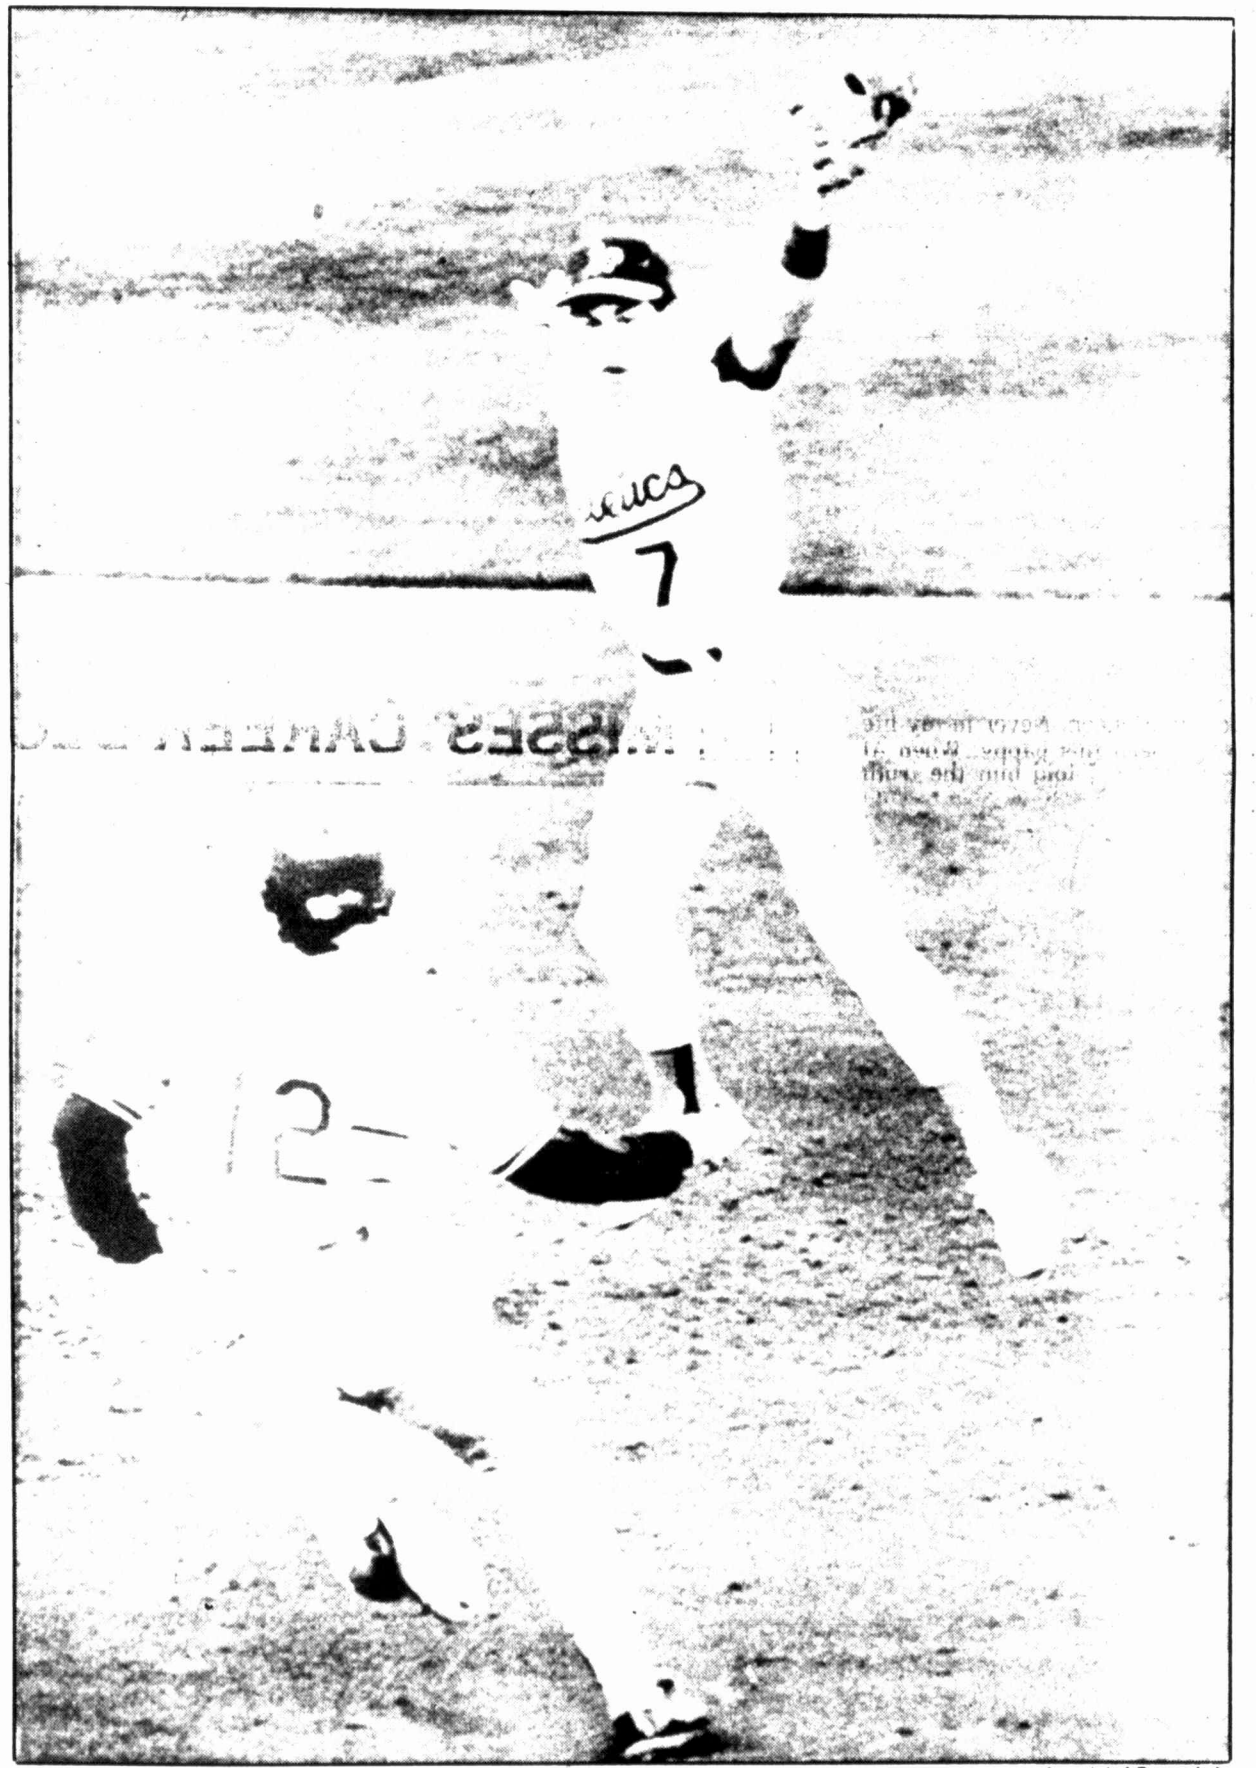

Hershiser, the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season, shut out the A's on five hits in Game 2.

"The Bulldog will be out there," Lasorda said. "The guys will be ready."

The last time a team to lose the World Series after being up three games to one was the St. Louis Cardinals in 1985. The Dodgers' longest losing streak this season was three.

The Dodgers won this one the hard way. Top hitters Kirk Gibson and Mike Marshall were unable to start — although Marshall made a defensive appearance in right field in the ninth — pitcher John Tudor was out for the Series with a sore elbow and catcher Mike Scioscia was forced out with a twisted right knee in the fourth inning. By the seventh inning, manager Tom Lasorda had only Gibson and 249 hitter Dave Anderson available for pinch hitting.

Lasorda said he told his players before the game that "we don't

Player sends message to others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former University of South Carolina football player Tommy Chaikin first started writing in his personal journal about how steroids pushed him to the brink of suicide "as a catharsis."

Later, he decided to publicly share his chilling experiences to help other young athletes avoid the same experience.

"I don't want the public to look at me as a martyr," Chaikin, 24, said at a news conference Wednesday dealing with questions about a Sports Illustrated story detailing the saga of his two-year struggle with the effects of the muscle-building drugs.

"I'm just a normal human being ... who just got caught up with it and became obsessed with winning."

Chaikin refused to detail his experiences with drugs, uneasily telling reporters, "It's in the article."

Instead, he focused on his motivation for going public, stressing his desire to help other athletes and denying he wanted to damage the Gamecock football program.

"The point of the article is not to do that at all," Chaikin insisted.

"The tone of the story should show people that's not my point."

Chaikin said an excessive focus on winning at the expense of athletes is a problem in college athletics nationwide, not just at South Carolina.

The SI article, written by Rick Telander, told a tortured tale of intense competition, physical side effects, mood changes and anxiety attacks that escalated until the drugs drove him to the brink of suicide.

Chaikin's father stopped him as he was preparing to pull the trigger of a .357 Magnum pressed under his chin because the drug-induced personality changes and mood swings had become "so intense that I couldn't stand them anymore. I'd lost control of everything ..."

so I could play this game that I love."

The near-suicide landed Chaikin in the hospital for a while and spurred him to stop using steroids. Gradually, he returned to school, building up to a full course load while struggling with his psychological and emotional struggle and lingering physical side effects.

"After I got out of the hospital, I went back to school," he said. "I decided to write a manuscript — a catharsis — and a lot of stuff just poured out." Seeing people he knew still caught up in the same cycle of pressure to win and steroids made him decide to go public with his story. He refused to reveal how much SI paid for his story.

Chaikin says he still feels residual effects from his use of steroids and other drugs. "I get sick more quickly. I can't exercise nearly as much. I have a problem with my ears because of it, although I don't know why." He said vision problems he had for a time have since dissipated.

The Great One returns home

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Maybe it was the front-page articles in almost every newspaper in Canada, maybe it was because everything seemed at once so familiar and yet so foreign.

Or maybe, just maybe, it's like the man said — you really can't go home again.

Not that Wayne Gretzky didn't try.

"Sometimes," he began quietly, drained by Wednesday night's 8-6 loss and the emotion of the preceding days, "these things tend to get a little hyped.

"It's unfortunate, it takes away from the game itself. It's hard enough just to play the game. You try your best to just concentrate on playing and winning," Gretzky added, "and sometimes it's hard."

The Aug. 9 trade that moved The Great One from this hockey-mad town on the edge of a cold, windswept prairie to the tropics of Los Angeles was almost without precedent in sport.

The Boston Red Sox sold Babe Ruth to the New York Yankees almost 70 years ago — before he reached his prime and before his bat was a known commodity — and paid the price every time he returned for a decade or more.

The San Francisco Giants unloaded Willie Mays on the New York Mets after the Say Hey Kid was propped up on tired, old legs, and all it did was cheapen a legend.

But Gretzky left behind the orange, blue and white of the Oilers at the peak of his considerable powers. And so when he came home Wednesday night, he did so warily, with jaw squared, teeth bared and his heart prominently displayed on the sleeve of the black, white and silver jersey of the Kings.

And he wasn't the only one wearing his emotions close to the surface.

Kids too young to know why sports heroes are exiled lined the boards during the pre-game skate and gawked, faces pressed against the glass, arms dangling pennants over the side.

Grown men handled the same disappointment only slightly better. They screamed and shook banners.

"Down the drain without Wayne," read one.

"Back in black," read another.

Gretzky's pre-game skate rated one standing ovation, and as he stood on the ice just prior to the playing of the national anthems, they rose again and screamed for nearly four minutes.

And when he came out for the Kings' first power play just 90 seconds into the game, they rose yet a third time.

They had come to see Superman: What they got instead was a 27-year-old kid virtually paralyzed by the kryptonite of expectations.

"It was not the nicest game to play, very emotional," said the Oilers' Jari Kurri, a linemate who shared four Stanley Cups with The Great One.

"It was nice to see the fans behind him because he deserved it. It was not easy for him to play this game. Maybe," Kurri added, "it was the toughest game he ever played."

Two assists would have been a fair night's play for a fair night's pay for most men — and enough for most fans.

But Gretzky had grown bigger in his absence to these people than he turned out to be in their presence.

And so, he felt compelled to apologize.

Never mind that since his arrival Tuesday, Gretzky had faced the same 100 questions that have dogged him since the season began and tried earnestly each time to come up with a new answer.

"I was nervous. We had two early power plays, I was nervous. I was non-existent the first couple of power plays. I was out of the play. I was nervous.

"I didn't really know what to expect, to be honest," he continued. "I don't think anybody really knew what to expect."

And more than a few, it turned out, weren't certain afterward what it was they had gotten.

"The game was sort of secondary, wasn't it?" said Dennis Breen, sitting in the deserted stands a half-hour after the contest ended.

Ex-Steers second in nation

At Greenville College in Illinois, freshman defensive back Shawn Shellman is second in the nation in interceptions in the NAIA. The former Steer has intercepted four passes in four games. Linebacker Todd Coker is second in District XX in tackles, averaging 14 tackles per game. Defensive back Danny Williams and defensive tackle Doug Walker are seeing lots of playing time. Greenville has a 4-1 record.

Leonard splits from trainer

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard has split with his longtime trainer Angelo Dundee in a bitter dispute that has apparently ended a nearly-12-year relationship between them.

Leonard's lawyer, Mike Trainer, said Wednesday that Dundee will not work Leonard's Nov. 7 fight against Donny Lalonde, the first time Leonard won't have Dundee in his corner in a 35-fight professional career.

The split came after Dundee, unhappy with his payment for working Leonard's last fight against Marvelous Marvin Hagler, demanded that his own lawyer negotiate payment for working the Lalonde bout. Trainer and Leonard refused.

"It has nothing to do with money, it has nothing to do with boxing," Trainer said. "It has everything to do with friendship."

Dundee acknowledged he was out of the fight, but blamed Trainer for the breakup.

"I resented the little amount I was paid for the Hagler fight and I told them so," the veteran trainer said. "Evidently, I had the audacity to let them know it."

Leonard said late Wednesday that he was "very disappointed" Dundee wouldn't be in his corner, and said he was personally hurt by Dundee's demand for negotiations.

"I felt I had a relationship with someone that went beyond business, that went beyond boxing," Leonard said. "I'm shocked Dundee has said things to reporters that he wouldn't say to me."

Pistons drive Spurs, 120-96

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bill Laimbeer led Detroit with 17 points and nine rebounds and the Pistons outscored San Antonio 37-19 in the third period Wednesday night en route to a 120-96 NBA preseason victory.

Detroit, 4-0 in exhibition play, held a 50-46 halftime lead over San Antonio, 1-2. The Pistons' third-period surge came largely at the free throw line, where they scored 17 points.

John Salley scored 16 points for Detroit, the defending Eastern Conference champions.

Spurs rookie Greg Anderson led all scorers with 18 points. Alvin Robertson added 17 points and a game-high 10 rebounds.

Each team pulled down 40 rebounds, but Detroit shot 58.7 percent from the field while San Antonio shot only 40.4 percent.

The game was played before 7,321 spectators at Mid-South Coliseum.

Mariners offer job to Piniella

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Piniella has been offered the manager's job of the Seattle Mariners, according to published reports.

Piniella said he has been offered a three-year contract and will decide by the end of this week whether to accept, according to reports in Thursday's editions of the New York Times and the New York Daily News. He met Monday and Tuesday in Newport Beach Calif., with Seattle owner George Argyros, president Chuck Armstrong and general manager Woody Woodward.

Grades wipe out football team

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — It was bad enough that the San Antonio Memorial High School football team has the nation's longest losing streak, but report cards came out and so did 15 of 22 of the team's starters.

School officials announced Wednesday that 15 of team's 22 varsity starters are ineligible under the state's no-pass, no-play rules.

The Minutemen are 0-7 for the season and 0-2 in district play and have lost 47 straight.

There are 20 varsity players available for Friday's game against Pleasanton, including 14 sophomores without varsity playing time.

It was the hardest the Minutemen have been hit since the controversial education reform law, House Bill 72, went into effect in 1985.

Under the no-pass, no-play provisions, a student can not participate in extracurricular activities for six weeks if he fails one or more classes in a grading period. The first grading period ended last week, and ineligibility takes effect Friday.

Memorial was, by far, the hardest-hit local school. The average San Antonio varsity of 42 players lost only two members.

"It kills us. I can't imagine us lining up and trying to play Friday," said Memorial coach Glenn Keller, in his first year at the school. "We lost our quarterback, our JV quarterback, and our backup varsity quarterback is injured.

"I'm about to go out (to practice) and see if we at least have a kid who can take a snap."

Edgewood Athletic Director Domingo Rangel Jr. said Wednesday that Memorial will play on Friday and will finish out the year.

"As long as we've got 11 kids to put on the field, we're going to do it," Rangel said. "I don't believe in it (forfeiture). The kids this year, they'll hang tough. They're strong. It's a letdown, but I don't think the kids will crumble."

Houston running back big hit at Pitt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt lost a game, and $180,000, by playing in last season's Bluebonnet Bowl, but the Panthers won the services of the leading freshman rusher in major college football.

The 10 days Pitt spent in Houston last December easily could have been a lost cause, because the Panthers lost 32-27 to Texas, then never were fully paid off by financially strapped game sponsors.

But pardon Coach Mike Gottfried for thinking the Panthers won by losing, because they recruited tailback Curvin Richards of nearby LaPorte, Texas.

"We wouldn't have recruited him if we hadn't been in Houston. That did it for us, just by being there. ... Some pretty good people were recruiting him: Texas, Alabama and Oklahoma," Gottfried said. "We're out of a lot of money but we got a pretty good running back."

The 5-foot-10, 190-pound Richards, nicknamed Swervin' Curvin, has rushed for 523 yards and four touchdowns, despite playing only briefly in Pitt's first two games.

"I think I can do better," Richards said.

He was a highly regarded high school back after rushing for 1,159 yards and 14 touchdowns last year at LaPorte, a Class 5-A school, but he wasn't considered a blue-chip, superstar-quality back by many recruiting services.

But even Gottfried didn't know he had a back capable of gaining 202 yards in his first college game.

When All-American tailback Craig "Ironhead" Heyward passed up his senior season to turn pro, Gottfried turned to junior Adam Walker, who rushed for 374 yards in Pitt's season-opening victories over Northern Iowa and Ohio State and a loss to No. 6 West Virginia.

But when Walker injured his Achilles' tendon on the second play of Pitt's 34-31 loss at Boston College, Richards came off the bench and rushed for 202 yards and two touchdowns, including an 83-yard scoring run.

"We felt Curvin was going to be good, but he had a little trouble early learning the system and Adam really came on right away," Gottfried said. "But when Curvin came in, we didn't miss a beat. What we have this year that we didn't have last year are breakout threats.

have Gibson, we don't have Marshall and Tudor's out for the year. Everybody expects us to fold this tent and leave. I said, 'You guys are going to show them that you've been a winner all season and you're going to beat them with whoever goes out there.'"

Howell went out there, and this time he didn't let his teammates down.

Howell relieved starter Tim Belcher with two outs in the seventh and the Dodgers ahead 4-3, but a walk and error loaded the bases.

McGwire, just 1-for-13 in the Series, popped up to first baseman Tracy Woodson. Howell finished for a save in the same ballpark where fans constantly booed him last year when he pitched for the A's.

McGwire said the pitch he popped up was almost the same as the one he homered on Tuesday night.

Howell ended it by striking out A's home run king Jose Canseco, who hit a grand slam in the first game, on a 3-2 pitch and getting Parker on a foul pop to third.

The Dodgers ended a streak of 13 consecutive victories by the home team in the World Series.

Oakland's starting lineup had out-homered Los Angeles 132-36 this season, but Belcher and Howell continued the Athletics' Series-long slump.

Belcher, just the third pitcher to start in the Series on his birthday — he turned 27 — went 6 2-3 innings and allowed three runs, two of them earned, on seven hits.

Dave Stewart, the two-time 20-game winner, took the loss. He gave up four runs, only two earned, on six hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Neither team played particularly well. Oakland made two errors and Los Angeles one, although there were several other sloppy plays.

Dave Henderson, who had four of Oakland's nine hits, doubled home Walt Weiss, who singled, in the seventh. That finished Belcher, and Howell walked Canseco on five pitches before usually reliable shortstop Alfredo Griffin dropped a liner by Dave Parker, loading the bases and bringing up McGwire.

The Dodgers' injury problems continued when Scioscia twisted his knee on an unsuccessful steal try in the fourth inning and limped off the field and into the dugout. He might be able to play in Game 5, but the team said Scioscia would be in pain.

Rick Dempsey, the only other catcher on the Los Angeles roster, replaced Scioscia. All-purpose Mickey Hatcher would have been next in line if Dempsey had been hurt.

The Dodgers, though, did catch some breaks, mostly because Oakland couldn't catch the ball.

Steve Sax drew a walk to start the game and took third on Hatcher's perfect hit-and-run single. Sax scored when a pitch skipped off catcher Terry Steinbach's mitt for a passed ball.

Next, it was sure-handed second baseman Glenn Hubbard's turn to miff. He bobbled a routine grounder by Mike Davis — forced into the cleanup spot by injuries to Gibson and Marshall — that sent Hatcher to third. Another run scored when John Shelby's line drive skipped off Stewart's glove and went for an RBI groundout.

The two runs were more than Los Angeles managed in all of Game 4, which it lost 2-1.

The Athletics scored in their half of the first as Luis Polonia opened with a single, advanced on Scioscia's passed ball and came home on Canseco's groundout.

But the Athletics, the third-best fielding team in the American League, gave the run back in the third.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: New trends will help you win greater independence in the way you conduct business. Look for productivity and profits to rise. A rewarding alliance becomes even more satisfying. Be conciliatory with your elders. A tolerant attitude will help you handle some family disagreements, but do not surrender any of your rights. New sources of financial backing are found. You get a fantastic opportunity to revitalize your career! Determination is the secret of your success.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: pitcher Whitey Ford, jazzman Dizzy Gillespie, philanthropist Alfred Nobel, football player Brian Piccolo, poet Samuel Coleridge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are in the groove at work and wish this week had a few more days in it. Try not to take work home over the weekend. Travel is best postponed. Guard against carelessness.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Small pleasures come your way. Although your relationship will be tested, you and partner will be better off for the experience. You need to step back and enjoy life more. Travel is favored.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your sound practical skills serve you well today. Put an imaginative idea on the shelf until current projects can be finished. Your relationships and finances should improve this weekend.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Talking with a parent gives you a better perspective on a relationship or lack of one. You may be judging yourself too harshly. Self-criticism can be healthy. Just don't overdo it!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take greater interest in your health. Rest is essential. Follow your doctor's advice. Replace bad habits with good ones. Your stubbornness could land you in the soup. Let mate know your plans.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Set priorities and stick to them so you can use your time more productively. Changes at work are pleasing but may require some adjustment. Seek cooperation from your co-workers and family members.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Working alone will probably bring the best results. Ask a friend for advice if confused. Devote more time to financial planning. Enlist mate's help, too. A child does you proud. Show your delight!
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A small present will brighten your day. A friend with the gift of gab will try to influence you. Resist efforts to part you from your money. Accept additional responsibility gracefully to avoid conflict.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An effort to complete a project may be thwarted. Domestic problems will have to take precedence. Ask a brother or sister to look after children. Romance is in the air. Dress your best.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A change of lifestyle is indicated. Welcome it! New beginnings enjoy highly favorable influences. Secret transactions are best avoided. Concentrate on work projects in progress. An old flame is rekindled.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid gossiping with co-workers. Self-improvement projects increase your chances for career advancement. Joint funds can be invested to boost your income. Parent-child problems require more time. Be patient.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Continue work already under way. A family member who appears conservative is only too happy to help pay an older person's expenses. You find out that you have underestimated loved one. Make amends.
