Recruiting, relations committee goals

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

Recruiting minority educators and improving relations between the minority community and the school district are likely goals of the newly formed Big Spring School District Advisory Committee on Minority Concerns, according to committee members.

The formation of the committee was approved Oct. 13 by the district's board of trustees. Billy Pineda, board member, was appointed chairman of the committee, and Pineda appointed the following committee members who were approved by the board:

Albert Alvarez, Barbara Davis, Pat Deanda, Hebrew Jones, Raul Marquez and Margaret Trevino.

Barbara Davis, 45, an administrative technician in the staff development department at Big Spring State Hospital, is secretary for the Howard County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Davis acknowledged the difficulties in recruiting highly sought minority education graduates, saying, "I don't think we'll have a lot more success than the administration."

But the committee could possibly develop a means of encouraging local students considering a teaching career to continue their education and perhaps return to Big Spring after graduating from college, she said.

Aiding the district in the recruitment of minority faculty members will also be one of the committee's priorities, she said.

Davis also said the committee should improve communication and relations between the minority community and the school board.

The board of trustees "tries real hard to be fair to everybody," she said. But added, "Sometimes they don't see a problem when there is a problem, and if you don't see the problem you can't address it."

The committee can help to present the concerns of the minority community to the school board, but solving problems shouldn't be left solely in the hands of the board, she said.

"We can't expect our school board to do it all... the parents have to help, too," she said.

"Maybe (the committee) can help get the parents involved. It has to be an all-around effort."

Two charged with attempted murder for Sunday shooting

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Two Big Spring men were arrested Monday afternoon on warrants charging them with two counts each of attempted murder in connection with the wounding of a Big Spring couple, Detective Sgt. Bill King said.

Guadalupe Lara Sr., 67, was arrested at 3:50 p.m. at his home, 1502B Lincoln Ave., and his son, Ramiro Lara, 34, was arrested about one hour later during a traffic stop at N.E. 10th and Runnels streets, King said.

Both have been charged with the drive-by shooting of Ernest Zubiate, 36, and Adela A. Juarez, 25, P.O. Box 3190, about 10:10 p.m. Sunday as they stood next to a car in the 600 block of N.W. 4th St.

Howard County Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles issued the attempted murder warrants, King said.

Zubiate managed to drive to a local convenience store to summon help, according to police.

Zubiate and Juarez are listed in stable condition today at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, a nursing supervisor said.

Zubiate was wounded in the left arm and back. Juarez underwent surgery Monday morning and is in the hospital's Intensive Care Unit, the supervisor said.

The couple who King said identified their assailants, was shot with a small caliber handgun, although the gun has not been recovered. "We don't know where the gun is. We're still looking," King said.

Howard County Justice of the Peace Willie Grant set bond at $75,000 each for both men and they have been released from the sheriff's department, King said.

Asked if there was a dispute between the assailants and their victims, King responded: "We're still working on that."

Zubiate is related to Eladio Aleman Zubiate, 56, whose body was found in a shallow grave on Jan. 5, 1983 northeast of Big Spring. Pathologists believe it had been buried for at least a year, according to published reports.

An autopsy revealed he died from a blow to the head.

His body was not identified until Feb. 11, 1983 with the assistance of renowned Oklahoma anthropologist Dr. Clyde Snow, published reports stated.

Gary Lee Willingham, a former Howard County resident, was returned to Big Spring from the Tennessee County state prison farm unit in October 1983, pleaded guilty to Eladio Zubiate's murder and was sentenced to 13 years with the Texas Department of Corrections by District Judge James Gregg, reports stated.

Willingham was arrested again on burglary charges by Howard County sheriff's deputies in December 1987, according to published reports.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard confirmed today that Willingham was on parole for Zubiate's murder when he was arrested on the burglary charges.

He pleaded guilty to two counts of burglary of a habitation and was sentenced to two concurrent 15-year prison terms.

Awaiting Nov. 8

State Senator John Montford, D-Lubbock, visited Big Spring on a campaign swing Monday afternoon, addressing more than 125 supporters at separate functions. He outlined major legislative issues for the next legislature, including workman's compensation, prisons, judicial reform, the budget and higher education, as well as the need for increased law enforcement manpower to conduct "a meaningful war on drugs."

While making his speeches at the Days Inn and the Boxing Club Building, Montford endorsed the candidacy of Johnnie Lou Avery, Democratic candidate for the 69th District representative's seat. She faces Republican Troy Fraser in the race. Montford praised Avery, saying that "she has the vision Texas needs." From left are Avery, Roosevelt Shaw, Frank Hardesty, Shirley Shroyer, Al Valdes, Margaret Ray and Montford.

Campaign '88: Good jobs, good wages in eye of beholder

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — When it comes to all-important pocket-book issues, George Bush and Michael Dukakis seem to be describing different countries.

Bush's America is one whose citizens enjoy unprecedented prosperity, with 17.8 million new jobs created over the past six years.

"Good jobs at good wages," the Republican says, swiping Dukakis' own tag line.

Dukakis, however, describes a far different America, where wages are stagnating and the rich have prospered at the expense of everyone else.

"The rich have gotten richer, the poor have gotten poorer and those in the middle — and that means most of us — are getting squeezed," the Democratic nominee insists.

'88 Issues

The basic argument is over whether high-paying factory jobs are being replaced by low-paying jobs in the service sector. "The United States is becoming a nation of hamburger flippers," critics of President Reagan's economic recovery contend.

The issue emerged in a 1986 study for Congress by economists Barry Bluestone and Bennett Harrison. They argued that "America may be on the verge of losing its middle class."

The two professors reached the conclusion that nearly three-fifths of the jobs created during the Reagan years paid less than $7,000. By contrast, such low-wage jobs represented just one-fifth of new jobs during the pre-Reagan 1963-79 period, the authors said.

"New, lower-paid service jobs just won't support a family. For every new job in Silicon Valley or Wall Street, with high pay and perks, there are many more jobs in the (shopping) mall that don't pay much more than minimum wage," Bluestone and Bennett write in a new book, "The Great U-Turn."

A study in September by the Democratic-controlled Senate Budget Committee reached a similar conclusion.

"The dominant trend in American job creation during the 1980s has been for low-paying jobs to replace those which provided a middle-class standard of living," the report said. "Between the peak of the business cycle in 1979 and the latest year of the current expansion, only 38 percent of the increase in employment was in middle-wage jobs."

Republicans counter that many studies cited by the Democrats slant their results by counting not only full-time jobs but also part-time employment, thus lowering the wage averages.

When part-time jobs are excluded, the statistics show the bulk of job growth has been in the middle, say the Republicans. To bolster this view, they point to a recent study by two Bureau of Labor Statistics economists.

The BLS study concluded that the middle, defined as earnings between $20,000 and $60,000, is indeed shrinking but that virtually all of the families leaving it have moved up, not down.

The Republicans brag that by almost all measures the Reagan record looks better than the Jimmy Carter years, when rapid inflation eroded earnings. The Bush campaign says median family incomes, after adjusting for inflation, have risen 10 percent during the Reagan years after falling 7 percent from 1977 to 1981.

Maybe so, the Dukakis camp says, but this growth has been supported by a dramatic increase in the number of working wives as

Amazing: Lost cat's now found

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas woman doesn't know how her cat got 10 miles from home and survived for 32 months, but she's glad to get Winston home again.

Eleanor Kilgore has her black cat back home just in time for Halloween. She had believed he was dead after he strayed from her home almost three years ago.

"It's like he has been resurrected," Ms. Kilgore said Monday. "This is one cat that really has nine lives, I guess."

A telephone call from a woman across town Sunday afternoon sent Ms. Kilgore racing to see if the cat that was wearing Winston's worn leather collar and metal identification tag was really her lost cat.

"I hopped in the car, with tears streaming down my face," Ms. Kilgore said.

The woman said Winston emitted a meow of relief as Ms. Kilgore picked him up for the first time since Feb. 16, 1986.

"I think he was as surprised and

T-Hangar renters face prospect of contracts

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

City Manager Hal Boyd reviewed the first draft of a proposed contract for persons who rent T-Hangars at the Airpark and asked for input from council members at a Monday night work session.

The city has never previously required formal contracts with T-Hangar renters.

The Federal Aviation Administration and Howard County donated the T-Hangars to the city when Webb Air Base closed in the late 1970s and there are three 10-unit hangars moved from Howard College, Boyd said.

Problems have arisen because some people who lease the hangars either don't own aircraft or are violating specific FAA rules, Boyd advised the council.

Contract stipulations will call for aircraft alone to be stored and commercial business will be prohibited.

Leases will also be allowed to perform only minor maintenance on aircraft, a stipulation that Boyd said is "being violated every day."

"We already have a city ordinance that allows only qualified people to perform major repairs," he said.

The contract will prohibit the storage of fuel or other vehicles not specifically outlined in the contract, Boyd said.

Persons who violate a provision that prohibits subleasing of the T-Hangars will automatically default on the contract.

"This has been going on since day one," Boyd advised.

There will also be a provision that calls for a 30-day termination notice "with or without cause," a stipulation that prompted Councilman D.W. Overman to express reservations.

Overman said he felt this clause would facilitate favoritism, although Boyd denied that would occur.

"We don't kick someone out for no reason at all. I'm not going to kick someone out without a reason. We need something definite to make people who rent T-Hangars sign (a contract) or move out," he said.

Economic climate attracts businesses

AUSTIN (AP) — A number of companies are speeding up plans to move to Texas because of the economic opportunities available right now, according to officials of the Texas Department of Commerce.

"There's been a growing trend in the number of quality prospects we're getting," said Phil Brewer, the department's director for national business development.

"In the past, there were lots of cases where initial inquiries were never heard from again. The most recent year, however, we've had more inquiries followed by site visits. One reason is because Texas is such a good deal right now, and we're getting a lot of that positive news into the national and international media," he said.

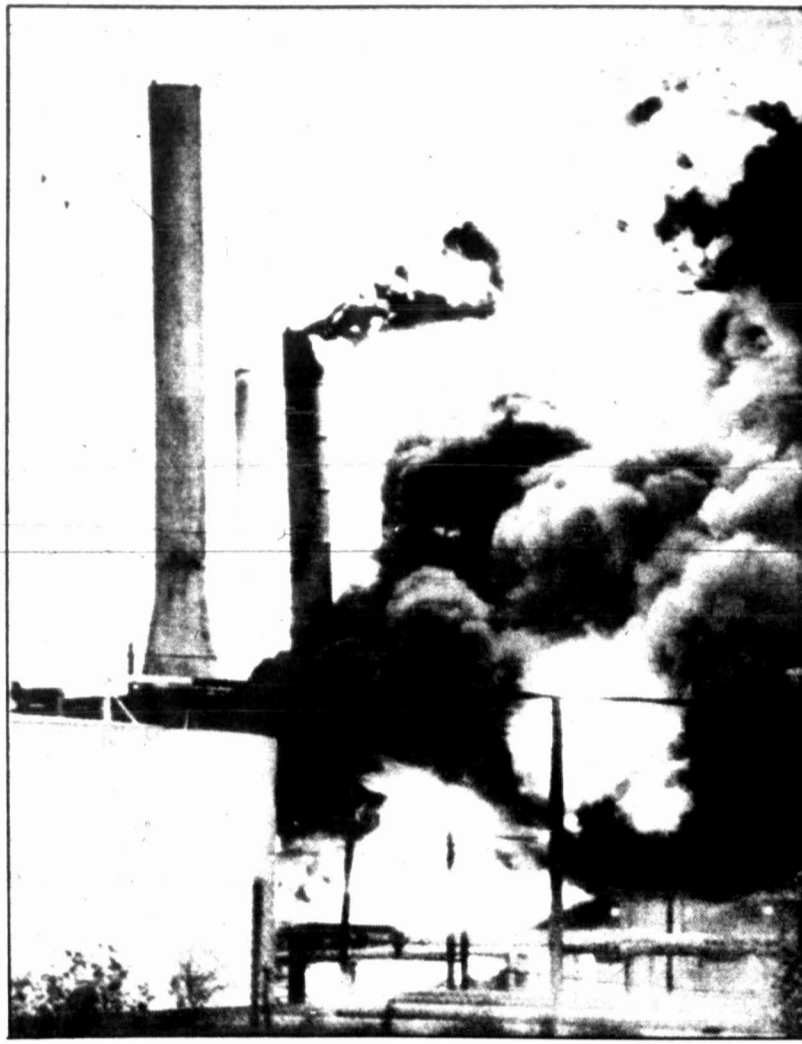

The department reported Monday that its efforts created 4,260 jobs in the state during its first year of operation, and it predicted creating 9,000 more during the next 12 months.

The department, formed from several old state agencies last year, said it has teamed with communities across the state to attract 24 companies and keep or help expand four others to create those jobs.

Economic models indicate that another 6,367 jobs were indirectly created from those efforts, for a total of 10,627 and an increase in personal income of more than $244 million.

The department reported that prospects had been located into every region of the state and represented a wide sector of business, including electronics, computers, petrochemicals, manufacturing and recreation.

The department's report said prospective employers have been lured with a simple message: Texas offers plenty of land and office space at bargain rates, the dollar is low against foreign currencies and there is a large pool of skilled labor available.

TEXAS CITY — A hydrocarbon leak at Amoco Oil Co. ignited a fire and blackened the sky with smoke Monday. A plant spokesman said a tube ruptured inside an ultraforming unit, spilling gasoline into a furnace fueled by natural gas. No injuries were reported.

Distributors refuse Spin magazine issue

FORT WORTH (AP) — Tarrant County's main magazine distributor says copies of the November issue of Spin magazine will not be distributed in the county because the edition contains a free condom and explicit instructions for its use.

Trinity News Co. has joined a number of other distributors, supermarkets, convenience stores and booksellers around the nation in refusing to distribute the current issue of the youth culture magazine.

Publisher Bob Guccione Jr. said the Trojan condom and a 10-point set of instructions for its use are in the magazine because, "We want to make the immensely important statement to our young readership that safe sex can save lives."

"We think that the presentation of a real condom in this fashion will leave an impression that no picture or text can convey, so that when our young male readers have sex, and they will have sex, they will think more seriously about wearing a condom," Guccione said.

Lynn Bartlett, general manager of Trinity News Co., had a simple explanation for his company's refusal to distribute the magazine.

"Our customers didn't want it," he said.

"We checked with the supermarket and convenience store chains and other outlets and they were appalled," Bartlett said. "They said absolutely not. We would not make a decision like that on our own."

"What we do is dictated by what our customers want."

Ben Martin, president of Martin News Co. in Dallas County, said his company handled the situation differently.

"We sent out notices informing our customers about the condom insert and giving them the option on accepting the magazine," Martin said. "Tom Thumb and Kroger were the only chains that said they would."

Martin said the two chains are leaving it up to individual store managers whether to stock the magazine or not.

Guccione, who said the magazine stands to lose about half its normal distribution because of the bans by distributors and chains, called the refusal of the distributors to handle the magazine "blatant censorship."

"It's absurd and hypocritical," he said.

Bingo causes rift in Kickapoo Indian tribe

EAGLE PASS (AP) — A lawyer for the Kickapoo Indians here says they are considering a break from their parent tribe in Oklahoma because of differences over construction of a high-stakes bingo palace on the reservation.

"They're concerned they're moving too fast and they think Tribal Administrator Dale Sailors is moving too fast," lawyer Kurt Blue dog told the San Antonio Light Monday by telephone from his office in Minnesota. "Bingo would be a part of that."

Tribal leaders from McCloud, Okla., had asked the tribe and its administrator to move slower on the bingo deal proposed by San Antonio businessman Eddie Garcia, Blue dog said.

"I think the tribal officials in Oklahoma asked them to slow down," Blue dog said. "That led to some frustration down in Texas."

The five-member Traditional Council, which governs the Texas Kickapoos, has agreed to break away from the Oklahoma group. They must now submit the proposal to a vote of the entire tribe. A date for the vote has not been scheduled yet, he said.

Under the bingo deal, which has not been finalized, Garcia would invest $5 million in building a bingo center and purchasing all the equipment for it. Garcia would then get 43.5 percent of the profits.

Garcia, known at San Antonio as the "Bingo King" because he operates several bingo halls, denied Monday that his proposal was the reason for the tribal split and said the high-stakes game would bring much-needed money to the tribe.

Alexander said the agency's increased organizational prestige and access to the President will have a salutary affect on all VA operations.

"It will not affect the facility's day-to-day operations," Alexander said. "Our mission is to provide the best possible service to Big Spring area veterans who are entitled to it. Our 402 employees, many of whom are veterans themselves, are all dedicated to that goal, and being a Cabinet level agency will not change this. However, we do believe the increased attention, access to the President and public awareness of veterans' contributions and needs can't help but strengthen support of our work here."

Veterans get Cabinet status

President Reagan's signing of the "Department of Veterans Affairs Act," makes Big Spring VA Medical Center part of the newest and one of the largest agencies on the President's Cabinet.

Conrad Alexander, director of the Big Spring VA Medical Center, described VA employees as "delighted" by the signing of the bill conferring cabinet status on the Veterans Administration, and re-maintaining it the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The new Department, the 14th Cabinet agency, will officially replace the VA on March 15, 1989.

At the formal signing ceremony today, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Thomas E. Turnage said, "This is the most significant day in America's long history of providing comprehensive services to those who have defended freedom and Democracy — our veterans."

Turnage noted that cabinet level status for the agency will give it greater opportunity to represent the interests of 80 million veterans and their dependents in helping shape national policy.

Alexander said the agency's increased organizational prestige and access to the President will have a salutary affect on all VA operations.

"It will not affect the facility's day-to-day operations," Alexander said. "Our mission is to provide the best possible service to Big Spring area veterans who are entitled to it. Youth hurt in AstroWorld shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — A 17-year-old youth who suffered a gunshot wound to his mouth in a late-night shooting at AstroWorld remained in fair condition, officials said.

Police were unable to confirm details of their investigation into the Saturday night shooting, but AstroWorld spokeswoman Debra Ford said to her knowledge, police had no suspects, no witnesses and no weapon.

Meanwhile, Arthur Jones was in fair condition Monday at Hermann Hospital.

The shooting, the first in the 20-year history of the amusement park, is thought to have occurred about 11:30 p.m. shortly before

Jones approached a security guard and said he had been shot, Ms. Ford said.

A few minutes before the shooting victim appeared, security personnel had investigated reports of a fight in the Cone Island section of the park, Ms. Ford said. Officers found nothing there to indicate a disturbance.

AstroWorld was more crowded than usual Saturday, which was the season's first "Fright Night." At the time of the shooting, about 27,000 people were in the park. A total of 38,000 had entered the park by 6 p.m., when the gates were closed for the day, Ms. Ford said.

Children report conflicting events

FORTH WORTH (AP) — Police say the difficulty in investigating the death of a 5-year-old boy is compounded by the fact that most of the witnesses are children between ages 5 and 11.

"With kids, you've got to determine whether they're telling you what they actually saw or what they overheard," police Sgt. Paul Kratz said. "Kids say a whole lot of different things."

The body of Michael Totson was found by his 11-year-old cousin Sunday morning in a wooded area close to his grandmother's east Fort Worth apartment complex. The boy, who spent weekends with his grandmother, had been reported missing Saturday afternoon when he didn't return from playing with friends in the complex.

Some children said they saw Michael being lured or dragged into a black truck. Others said he left the apartment complex in a brown and tan car. Another reported a mysterious stranger who beckoned to several of the children before Michael disappeared.

Police said Michael died from a blow to the head but would not give details about a possible murder weapon or where the child was hit.

High enrollment rate unexpected

AUSTIN (AP) — State higher education officials say they hadn't expected as large an enrollment increase as Texas colleges and universities reported this fall.

The Higher Education Coordinating Board on Monday said preliminary figures for the fall 1988 semester showed a combined enrollment at all institutions of higher education that totaled 834,444, a jump of 5.8 percent or 45,916 students over 1987.

Enrollment at public junior and senior colleges and universities in Texas totaled 731,783, a 6.5 percent increase.

"This level of growth is far above what was expected. If we add to this year's growth the increase for last fall, our public colleges and universities have grown by almost 70,000 students in two years," said Kenneth Ashworth, state higher education commissioner.

Ashworth said that growth has come since the Legislature last was in session, and he said the expanding student body will have to be recognized in the money appropriated for colleges and universities when lawmakers convene again in 1989.

Thirty-three public senior universities reported combined increases of 19,533 students, while two reported a combined loss of 72 students, the coordinating board reported. Total enrollment at the 35 schools was 385,343, up 5.3 percent from last year.

Texas A&M University at Galveston reported the largest percentage gain, 34.9 percent, while the University of Texas at Austin reported the largest increase in students, with 2,364.

Enrollment also was up at 42 of the 49 public junior college districts.

Prosecutors: North offers 'shocking and cynical' view

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oliver North offers a "shocking and cynical" view of democracy by arguing that his lies to Congress weren't crimes because other high officials deliberately misled lawmakers, Iran-Contra prosecutors say.

Responding to North's motions to dismiss charges he lied about his covert assistance to Nicaraguan rebels, prosecutors said the former White House aide's arguments are "incompatible with the aspirations of our system of government" and "inconsistent with any but the most jaundiced view of the realities of politics and government."

The spirited attack on North was offered Monday by independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, who consented to a defense motion to dismiss a charge that the former Marine officer and National Security Council aide obstructed an investigation of who paid for a $13,800 security fence outside his house.

Lawyers for the retired Marine lieutenant colonel said any alleged fabrication of documents in December 1986 to conceal payments for the fence by arms dealer Richard V. Secord wasn't obstruction of justice because the Iran-Contra grand jury did not begin its work for another month.

While conceding a legal deficiency in one of 16 charges against North, Walsh's office urged the court to reject a series of defense motions to dismiss other counts of the indictment.

Prosecutors disclosed new details about North's destruction of key National Security Council documents in November 1986 as the Iran-Contra affair was unraveling.

North destroyed original copies of so-called "System IV" documents at the National Security Council that prosecutors called "the most sensitive records in the NSC's carefully constructed system of document control."

There is also evidence he purposely withheld from NSC files original copies of documents that were the "sole record of the events and activities described therein," prosecutors said.

They also ridiculed North's defense that he was not warned that lying to Congress in unsworn statements could result in criminal prosecution.

The defense had claimed that North was the first government official to be prosecuted for alleged falsehoods in unsworn statements to lawmakers.

North's lawyers recounted a history of lies to Congress by top government officials, including Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' false denial of CIA involvement in a 1958 plot to overthrow Indonesian President Sukarno.

Prosecutors said such a rebuttal "reflects a shocking and cynical view of the relations between the people's elected representatives in Congress and officials of the executive branch."

North's defense, in effect, is an argument that "lying is so ingrained and pervasive a practice in Washington that — despite laws clearly making it a crime for ordinary non-office-holding citizens to make false statements to government agencies — executive officers lack fair notice that there is not an implicit exception putting them above such laws," prosecutors said in papers filed in U.S. District Court.

Among the charges against North is that he drafted false letters in 1985 to the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence and a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee.

North also is charged with making similarly false statements during a 1986 briefing to members of the intelligence committee.

Crude futures plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — Worries about a continuing oversupply of oil following another failed OPEC meeting could further erode prices this week, analysts say.

The December contract for West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, tumbled $1.20 a barrel on Monday, finishing the day at $13.17 per barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

On Friday, the near-term contract had finished at $14.37 per barrel, off 7 cents for the week.

The sharp drop in crude oil dragged down the prices of refined products as well. The November contract for unleaded gasoline dropped 1.26 cents to finish at 49.96 cents a gallon, with other contract months down as much as 2 cents a gallon. The heating oil contract for November closed down 2.81 cents, to a settlement price of 39.90 cents a gallon, with other contract months also down sharply.

Analysts said the crude price erosion reflected investor worries

Witches brewin'

Witches and a fairy godmother will be among the participants in the Canterbury Retirement Center spookhouse open to Big Spring children Monday from 6-9 p.m. at 1700 Lancaster St. The witches, from left, are: Vada May, Willie Mae Carter, Myrtle Keele, Mable Wilson, Nena Grenon, Pauline Bauer, and Gladys Choate. Nola Wood will be fairy godmother. An estimated 400 trick-or-treaters wandered through the spookhouse last year and were given candy. The center began hosting the event in 1979 to "provide a safe Halloween for the children of Big Spring," said Pat Johnston, assistant director.

Police beat

Big Spring police reported investigating the following incidents:

- Johnny Earl Clovis, 38, was arrested on charges of assault by threats and disorderly conduct.
- A woman who resides in the 1600 block of Jennings Street reported unknown persons took two rings valued at $1,020.
- A man who resides in the 600 block of Elgin Street reported unknown persons took items valued at over $600, including a shotgun.
- A man who resides at the Coronado Hills Apartments, 801 W. Marcy Drive, reported unknown persons took a shotgun, valued at $150, from his car.
- It was incorrectly reported that a male passenger was riding with Janice Lee Parras, 23, 409 S. Benton St., when she was injured in a traffic accident early Saturday. In fact, the passenger was her daughter, Dominique Parras, 2.

Bomb threat

The third bomb threat in three weeks was reported Monday as students at Big Spring High School were evacuated while police searched the building, Lt. Jerry Edwards said.

Following a thorough search, police determined the call was a hoax, Edwards said.

A male caller telephoned a police dispatcher at 12:26 p.m. to inform them there was a bomb in the high school and investigators contacted school officials who evacuated the building, he said.

Students were told they were participating in a fire drill while a search of the building was conducted by police, Edwards said.

Anyone who may have information about the threats is encouraged to call the Big Spring Police Department.

cash-strapped families struggle to maintain their standard of living.

"All across America, we see two parents working harder and harder to buy what one income could buy before," the Massachusetts governor says.

And even with more family members working, the median family income last year of $30,853 got Americans back essentially to where they were in 1973. After posting rapid gains through the 1950s and 1960s, family incomes have been essentially flat for the past 15 years.

Economists cite several factors for this development.

First, the country absorbed large numbers of new workers entering the labor force in the 1970s as the Baby Boom generation reached maturity. Young, inexperienced workers were a drag on productivity and competed with each other for jobs, holding down wages.

From 1949 to 1973, non-farm productivity — the amount of goods and services turned out in an hour — rose 2.5 percent a year. Since rising productivity provides the room for wages to grow without fueling inflation, median family incomes roughly doubled during this period.

By contrast, productivity growth from 1974 through 1980 averaged a mediocre 0.4 percent a year.

In addition, salaries in the late 1970s were jolted by double-digit inflation caused by oil-price increases. Then in the mid-1980s, workers in American industries lost ground to stiff foreign competition as the soaring value of the dollar opened the country to a flood of imports and priced American products out of overseas markets.

Many economists see signs that these unfavorable trends are being reversed. They predict better

Absentee voting high

HERALD STAFF REPORT

With 104 residents taking advantage of the first day of in-person absentee voting and 633 ballots mailed, Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray says 1988 is well on its way to being a record year for voter turnout.

In-person absentee voting opened Wednesday in Howard County, Ray noted, and in four working days 479 Howard County voters had taken advantage of the new rule allowing anyone to vote absentee. Mailout ballots have been sent to an additional 704 voters, Ray said, with 396 general election ballots returned and 242 special election ballots returned.

The ballots are mailed, marked and returned separately. The special election ballot allows

A Big Spring woman remains hospitalized in the intensive care unit at Scenic Mountain Medical Center today following a Sunday accident.

Flora Williams Dyer, 68, remains in ICU today, according to a Scenic Mountain nursing supervisor. The supervisor also confirmed that one minor child injured in the accident had been taken to Lubbock General Hospital, but did not identify the child.

Texas Department of Public Safety Highway Patrol officers reported that five persons were taken to Scenic Mountain by Rural/Metro following the Sunday evening mishap in which a 1969 Ford driven by Dyer was struck by a 1981 Suburban.

Reports indicate Dyer failed to yield the right of way at a stop sign at the intersection of Anderson Road and FM 700.

The names of the injured children were Savanna J. Hambrick, 2; Christy L. Hambrick, 8; Skipton L. Kloss, 2; and Michael E. Kloss II, 7.

All four children were passengers in the Suburban.

Howard County Sheriff's Department officers reported the following incidents as of 9 a.m. today:

- A large amount of marijuana was confiscated and harvested by sheriff's officers Monday in the eastern part of the county. The weight and value of the drug have not been determined yet, according to sheriff's records, and no arrests have been made.

- Raimiro Lara, 34, 1002 N. Main Apt. No. 20, and Jose Guadalupe Lara Sr., 67, 1502 B Lincoln Ave., were released on $75,000 bond each Monday afternoon. They were arrested by city police on two charges each of attempted murder.
- Johnny Earl Clovis, 38, 700 E. 14th St., was released on bonds totaling $2,500. He had been arrested by city police on charges of family violence and assault by threat.
- A woman who lives east of Christian Construction Company on Oasis Road reported that someone she knows assaulted her and beat her about the head and face.
- Texas Highway Patrol officers are continuing investigations into a hit-and-run accident at the corner of Hilltop and Gatesville Roads. A telephone pole and junction box were heavily damaged, according to sheriff's records.
- Highway Patrol officers also investigated an accident 25-30 miles north of Big Spring on FM 669. At least one person was transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center's emergency room following the accident at 8:48 p.m. Monday.

Contracts

promptly and live up to the terms of the contract they will be allowed to stay, Boyd stated.

City attorney Jean Shotts maintained that the 30-day requirement gives the city "flexibility."

"We may need to terminate a lease because of changing events that we cannot even foresee," he said.

One problem Boyd said he has encountered is people who lease hangars and haven't even owned aircraft for an extended period of time.

As an example, he cited one man who crashed his plane on Christmas Day 1985 and hasn't stored an aircraft since that time.

Boyd said one concern expressed to him by people who currently house aircraft in the T-Hangars is not allowing anyone but city residents to sign leases.

He added, however, that anyone who can pay the rental fees and live up to the terms of the contract will be eligible.

Boyd said there are 26 people on a waiting list who are attempting to lease a T-Hangar.

"We've got people waiting," he advised.

The contract will be revised and brought before the council for approval on Nov. 1 and then presented to the Airport Safety Commission, Boyd said.

The council also gave city officials permission to renegotiate the water and wastewater contract with the State Board of Control.

Boyd said "we don't have any real details" about the specifics of talks, but said he hopes to bring a renegotiated contract before the council within 90 days and would make all the details public at that time.

The contract is related to the city's contract to provide water and wastewater treatment for Big Spring State Hospital, Boyd said.

Council members also listened to a fire prevention program by Acting Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles.

Pat Deanda was the only council member absent from the work session.

Facing the press

In a parliamentary democracy such as Great Britain, the prime minister is required to appear regularly before the House of Commons to answer often-hostile questions from opposition members. Question time provides a searching examination of the government's policies on a routine basis; it is also the principal forum in which the prime minister explains and defends his or her programs and builds support for them among the electorate.

In this country, the president cannot be compelled to appear before Congress for questioning. The adversarial role filled by opposition party members in a parliamentary system rests instead with the American news media.

But the press's opportunity to interrogate the president depends almost entirely on the whim of the chief executive. Some, such as Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy, met almost weekly with reporters (although FDR usually declared his sessions off the record). Others, such as Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan, virtually hid out from the White House press corps.

Mr. Reagan, who is skilled at giving speeches, has never communicated nearly as well when speaking off the cuff. Consequently, he has averaged fewer than six press conferences a year — an all-time low in the television era. Journalists in search of the President's views are generally forced to shout questions at Oval Office photo opportunities or over the roar of helicopter engines.

In part because he has held so few news conferences, Mr. Reagan is the most packaged president in U.S. history. Americans have had far too few chances to see him in the relatively uncontrolled setting of a televised press conference. The extraordinarily high voter interest in the presidential and vice-presidential debates — which were really joint press conferences — shows that the electorate is hungry to see their leaders in a less-varnished environment.

To answer this need, a Harvard panel of distinguished journalists and academicians has urged the next president to stage at least two daytime press conferences each month in addition to six prime-time appearances each year. Michael Dukakis endorsed the proposal in principle without committing himself to the specific numbers. Vice President Bush flatly rejected it.

Presidents are understandably reluctant, particularly during times of great controversy, to face the skeptical questioning that lies at the heart of democratic rule. But the failure to confront such queries not only insults the American voters from their elected leader; it also insults the president from the concerns of the people.

Democracy in this country is best served when there is an open clash of ideas and a clear understanding by the electorate of the views and objectives of the occupant of the Oval Office. In the absence of an official question time, White House press conferences provide the best vehicle for such an essential dialogue. The next president needs to bring them back from the brink of extinction.

DOT pursues charges against pilots

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Dangerous lies are finally coming home to roost with some of the nation's pilots.

The Department of Transportation is pursuing charges against pilots who lie about their past alcohol- and drug-related offenses. Twenty-seven pilots were indicted in Florida last month on charges that they made false statements about their records when they applied for medical certificates to certify they were fit to fly.

We reported last year on the disturbing outcome of an investigation by the Inspector General's Office of the Transportation Department. The department checked the police records of the more than 711,000 licensed pilots in the country. Investigators found that 10,300 of them had lost their driving privileges in the past seven years for driving while intoxicated. The Inspector General planned to do a similar check for drug-related convictions.

Pilots are supposed to report those convictions when they are given periodic medical exams that they must have to keep their pilots' licenses. Not surprisingly, 76 percent of the pilots with drunk driving records failed to mention it. That's 7,850 pilots who lied to the Federal Aviation Administration.

Until the recent crackdown, the pilots could file false information with a strong degree of confidence that they would not be found out. The FAA had no uniform policy for revoking a pilot's license because he or she had a drunken driving conviction. The strongest thing the FAA could use to nail a pilot was to charge him or her with lying on the federal medical forms.

To its credit, the FAA did just that with the 27 pilots charged last month. Transportation Secretary James H. Burnley IV promised there would be more indictments to come. Burnley is eager to show that his department is not soft on drugs or alcohol. Some of the pilots indicted in Florida were reportedly involved in drug-related crimes.

We didn't win any friends among pilots when we reported the alarming statistics last year about drunken driving offenses. In fact, the Air Line Pilots Association accused us of unfairly singling out their members for criticism. Thirty of the 7,850 pilots allegedly caught in a lie by the investigators were employed by major airlines.

That is disquieting to anyone who flies the airlines, but no more disquieting than knowing that more than 10,000 commercial and private pilots with drunken driving records are sharing the skies with airliners.

The Inspector General's investigators did not draw the conclusion that a drunken driver means a drunken pilot, and neither did we. But, the presence of a conviction while on the ground is enough to sound the alarm about the pilot's judgment and ability to weigh his or her own fitness to fly or drive. In the case of drug trafficking convictions, the FAA should think twice about licensing a person in the transportation business, even if that person has paid the debt to society.

The investigators turned up some cases where evidence pointed toward a pilot who drank in the air as well as on the ground.

For example, a Milwaukee pilot died at the controls of his cargo plane in a 1986 crash. His blood alcohol level was four times that which the FAA considers impaired. A Florida pilot who was seen drinking before, during and after a flight, buzzed an airfield so low that he took the roof off a parked van.

In the past, the FAA has complained that it did not have the resources to keep track of the police records of its pilots. That lack of resources forced the FAA to rely on the pilots themselves to tell the truth. We commend Burnley for realizing that trust doesn't always work.

It's time for the baby boomers

By ART BUCHWALD

George Bush said he picked Dan Quayle as his running mate because Quayle represented a younger generation of voters. The people who make up this generation have been described as baby boomers — the ones who were conceived after World War II.

The question I've been noodling with is, are baby boomers ready to fulfill the great dreams George Bush has for them?

James Grove, the president of the Baby Boomer Defense League, believes that the boomers, now hitting their 40s, are thrilled to be finally recognized as a voting bloc.

"If I asked you why is it a good idea for a baby boomer to be a heartbeat away from the Presidency, what would your response be?"

Grove replied, "The baby boomers took a long time growing up — but George Bush believes that they are now ready to run the country."

"Who exactly are the baby boomers?" I wanted to know.

"They are a generation of children who never had to make their beds. The males didn't pick up their pants, and the females didn't hang up their skirts."

"Why not?"

"Their parents wouldn't let them. The mothers and fathers of baby boomers were very frightened of their young because they became hysterical when criticized," Grove told me.

"It's hard to imagine that boomers were so powerful within their own families."

"Look at Dan Quayle, who Bush says is representative of his generation. Quayle's father had to help him do everything. Quayle couldn't even get through law school without his father carrying his lunch pail for him. Bush wants Quayle to be his liaison with the boomers because Dan knows what it is like to have it all."

"Are baby boomers yuppies?" I asked Grove.

"While yuppies are baby boomers, baby boomers are not necessarily yuppies."

"Do baby boomers have a dream?"

"It's the same dream everyone in America has. We want to have our own golf carts."

"And Quayle can do this for us?"

"He's 41 years old. Only one baby boomer can appreciate what another baby boomer yearns for. Bush was no fool when he selected Quayle as his running mate. Dan is his own man. He looks exactly like they do."

"Do you think that baby boomers will vote as one?"

"Definitely. Boomers see a lot of each other in supermarkets and at football games. All they really have to talk about is what a great President Dan Quayle will make if George Bush falls off his horse in the Rose Garden."

"It's hard to believe that we would send a baby boomer up against Mikhail Gorbachev."

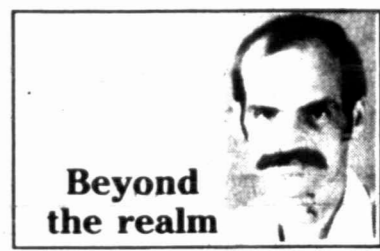

Grove assured me, "Quayle is well qualified. He has been marshal of the Indianapolis 500 for three years in a row."

"Do baby boomers believe in Mom's apple pie?"

"If you are talking about Japanese Mom's apple pie, they do. They have never known what an American Mom's apple pie tasted like."

"The big question remains, however, will the boomers come out to vote on Election Day?"

"It doesn't matter. In order to prove their love just one more time, their parents will come out and vote for them."

Vote '88: Choice is profound

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

OK, folks, it's two weeks away from the big event — the presidential election — and I'm confused.

This may seem rather wishy-washy of me but I can't help it. I have listened with more-or-less rapt attention as Messrs. Bush and Dukakis promised to do so-and-so or eliminate such-and-such for the past several months, and I'll be hanged if one stands above the other.

Let's see: Bush is against abortion but favors the death penalty (I guess it's like Dennis Miller of Saturday Night Live says: It all depends on the timing). Dukakis is in favor of gun control but promises a strong defense. Bentsen is only a heartbeat away from not having a heartbeat, and everybody knows Dan Quayle isn't Jack Kennedy.

If I vote for Bush, I'll be saying that it's OK to have a trillion-dollar deficit that'll eventually hand the country over to the Arabs and Japanese, because it's a sure-fire bet the guy will do everything in his power not to raise the taxes necessary to balance the budget.

What's worse, if Bush dies in office, that'll leave Quayle in charge. I mean, the senator from Indiana has a winning smile and a cute wife, but everybody knows he's no Jack Kenn — but I already said that, didn't I?

Now, if I vote for Dukakis, I'll give the nod to someone who will probably raise my taxes before the inaugural parade is finished. What he'll spend all that new-found revenue on is anybody's guess... since he's promised to make cuts in almost every department of government.

Oh well, I can take some comfort in the fact that if Dukakis kicks the bucket while in office, I'll have some knowledge of what President Bentsen (has a certain ring, doesn't it?) has to offer.

Of course, of Lloyd is no spring chicken anymore, which means he'll die in office, also, and we'll get someone like John Glenn as president, and who knows who he'll pick as vice-president?

I could always vote for the Libertarian candidate — Ron Paul — but I don't quite know where he stands on the issues. For that matter, I'm not quite sure who Ron Paul is. He ran for the Senate — or was it governor? — a few years ago in Texas, but so has everybody else at one time or another.

If my sense of humor is particularly quirky on Election Day, I might just pull the lever for Lyndon LaRouche. After all, someone who says the Queen of England smuggles drugs might be good for a few laughs.

So maybe you can understand my confusion. It's not every election year that one can make the choice of presidential candidates from among an aging preppy, a Greek promising gifts, a virtual unknown Libertarian or an arch-conservative who gossips about the Queen.

Is this a great country or what?

Quotes

"George Bush wants to give people like himself a tax break that's more, in some cases, than the average worker in California makes in a year." — Michael Dukakis, saying George Bush's proposal to cut capital gains taxes will result in a $22,000-a-year tax break to Bush himself.

"We're going to stick to our agenda and we're not going to worry about ankle-biting by the opposition." — Sheila Tate, Bush's press secretary, asked Monday about Dukakis' comments.

"I will push for a cut in the capital gains tax for a very simple reason: It's not to favor the rich; it will help create jobs." — George Bush, on the capital gains tax.

"They're bearing false witness against Michael Dukakis. And we're going to set that record straight. The truth is catching up, and the power of the truth will prevail." — Lloyd Bentsen, telling a church audience the Democrats plan strong counterattacks to Republican campaign tactics.

"That's absolutely absurd to say that liberal has some sort of racial connotation. Liberalism is a political philosophy." — Dan Quayle, asked about a contention made by Jesse Jackson that Republicans are using the word liberal to refer negatively to civil rights activists.

Production delays flu vaccines

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A delay in the production of flu vaccine will keep people from receiving influenza shots until the end of the peak time for protecting patients.

But as the season approaches, Medicare subscribers in 10 areas of the country were told they will receive free flu shots for the first time as part of a $100 million program aimed at saving the lives of thousands of people killed by influenza each year.

The drug companies who make the vaccine say the U.S. Centers for Disease Control took longer than normal to identify the strains needed in the vaccines, in part causing a two-month delay in delivering the drugs to doctors.

Agents impound $14 million jetliner

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines demanded that the Customs Service release a $14 million jetliner impounded after agents found 56 pounds of cocaine aboard, saying it is an ally, not an enemy, in the war against drugs.

Monday's discovery of a bag of cocaine aboard an L-1011 a day after it arrived here from Bogota, Colombia, was the fourth drug confiscation involving an Eastern flight since August.

The Customs Service said the plane would not be released until Eastern pays a fine of $896,000 — or $1,000 an ounce — and pledges to improve drug security.

Eastern executives, who are appealing $13 million in fines from the three earlier seizures, said they found the latest action difficult to understand.

Trapped whales reverse course

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — Two trapped whales reversed course and headed back toward shore, frustrating efforts to coax them toward open water, as scientists probed an ice ridge for a weak spot that Soviet icebreakers could attack.

Apparently spooked by a shoal that has stymied progress for three days, retreated about 800 yards. "Why come back here when they know it's open up there?"

The California gray whale struggled up for air, firing quickly as they poked their way through large slabs of Beaufort Sea ice and thick slush left by efforts to carve them a path to freedom.

Collapse claims one, injures nine

NEW YORK (AP) — A six-story building in Manhattan's Garment District collapsed Monday, killing one man and injuring at least 10 people, including a woman who was trapped for more than eight hours in the rubble.

The collapse caused a major disruption of rail and subway service and street traffic just before rush hour.

About eight hours later, a body was pulled from the rubble and tentatively identified as the building's owner, Frank DeSantos, who had been last seen on the roof, Police Chief Robert Johnson said.

Johnson identified the injured woman pulled from the rubble as Robin Fischer, who was conscious and talking when rescued and was taken to Bellevue Hospital. She was in critical but stable condition in the emergency room early Tuesday.

SAN DIEGO — The USS Vincennes pulls into dock in San Diego Monday after returning from a tour in the Persian Gulf, where it shot down an Iranian passenger jet during combat operation in July.

Typhoon Ruby sinks filled passenger ship

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A passenger ship sank with more than 500 people aboard during the height of Typhoon Ruby, which killed at least 46 people and today roared across the agricultural heartland of central Luzon Island.

Coast guard officials said rescuers had found some survivors from the 2,845-ton Dona Marilyn, which sank Monday in the Visayas Sea, about 300 miles southeast of Manila. It was not yet clear how many people were lost.

Maripipi island. They said others may have been able to swim ashore because there are several other small islands in the area.

Others missing and feared dead in the storm included 25 in the Mindanao Island coastal city of Cagayan de Oro, 15 more in Mindanao's Zamboanga del Sur province and about 70 aboard a bus that plunged into a swollen river Monday.

Carlos Go, general manager of Sulpicio Lines which owns the vessel, said the Dona Marilyn was carrying 451 passengers and 60 crew members on a voyage from Manila to Tacloban on Leyte Island when it radioed a distress call.

President Corazon Aquino's spokesman, Teodoro Benigno, said a state of calamity might be declared in the six-province Bicol region of southeastern Luzon, which was without electricity today.

The weather service said Ruby's center passed about 50 miles east of Manila and swept into the provinces of Tarlac, Bulacan and Nueva Ecija, the Philippines' rice-producing heartland.

In the Manila suburb of Marikina, two helicopters from the U.S.-run Clark Air Base helped men in boats pluck survivors from rooftops after a river flooded its banks.

Government meteorologists said more than nine inches of rain fell at the city's airport in 24 hours.

Casualty and damage reports were incomplete because of poor communications. Figures compiled from the Red Cross and various government agencies showed 15 dead in Zamboanga del Sur.

South Africans urged to fast, pray

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Archbishop Desmond Tutu today urged South Africans to fast and pray as they boycott Wednesday's nationwide elections for segregated municipal councils. He appealed to all sides to avoid violence.

Tutu, along with other black anti-apartheid leaders, have been calling for a national day of protest and a boycott of the balloting for segregated municipal councils.

Tutu, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1984, called for fasting and prayer but said the he and other anti-apartheid leaders were not necessarily calling for a general strike.

Since a state of emergency was declared in 1986, it has been illegal to call for nationwide strikes.

Tibetan, Chinese talks scheduled to resolve the issue of Tibetan autonomy.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Dalai Lama will send representatives to Geneva in January to hold the Tibetan government-in-exile's first official talks in four years with Chinese officials, his office said today.

The Dalai Lama, god-king of the Tibetans, fled his homeland in 1959 after the Chinese occupation of Tibet and took exile in India, where he set up a government-in-exile.

Spokesman Lodi Gyari said the exact date has not been set yet.

The Tibetan offer of a time and date for official talks came in response to an offer Sept. 21 by the Chinese government.

King's appearance causes clash

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Likud and Labor parties clashed over a U.S. television appearance by King Hussein of Jordan in which the monarch said he was ready to head a Jordanian-Palestinian delegation in peace talks with Israel.

In television commercials on Monday, the left-wing Labor Party claimed Hussein proved the credibility of its peace platform by announcing he was ready to take an active part in talks with Israel.

The right-wing Likud Bloc accused Labor of being ready to hand all the territories Israel captured in the 1967 Middle East war to Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Western-style campaigning

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet citizens may see some Western-style campaigning for the first time next spring under a draft law that would permit competing candidates, television time and a campaign staff.

The law says candidates for the 2,250 seats in the new Congress of People's Deputies will be given time off from work to campaign, free public transportation within their district, and access to the state-run media.

They also may ask 10 friends to help them campaign.

Salvage efforts

But it seems competing political parties are still out of bounds and unaffiliated candidates will be restricted in what they can advocate, since the Constitution defines the Soviet Union as a socialist nation led by the Communist Party.

community Center and numerous local steering committees.

"The thing I would most like to accomplish is to improve relations between the minority community and the school board," said Marquez. "Once we do that, we can move ahead and accomplish other things."

Marquez praised the appointments to the committee made by Pineda.

"I think (the committee) represents a cross section of the community," he said. "I give credit to Billy Pineda for knowing who is involved in the community."

Marquez said he was aware that board members have indicated the committee was not initiated to provide a forum for "gripe sessions."

But he added, "If we do not hear grievances from the minority community then we do not know what needs to be changed." The job of the committee should be to look at the ideas and gripes from the community and see if they merit the attention of the school board members."

Marquez, who has worked with the school district in the past as a representative of LULAC, said, "I'm really ready to make the committee work and ready to work with the administration."

Albert Alvarez, 31, is a general manager of merchandise at Don's IGA, and is also pursuing a business management degree at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

Alvarez echoed the concerns of Marquez and Davis, saying an immediate goal of the committee would likely be to "better relations between the minority community and the school boards so there won't be any static."

Helping the district recruit minority faculty to serve as role models is also a priority to Alvarez.

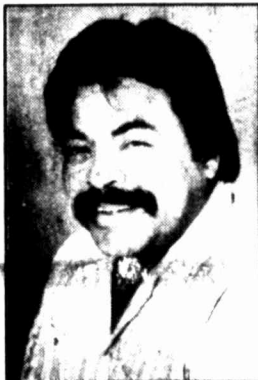

"I think we especially need to hire more minority teachers for our elementary schools," he said. "That's where the problems start for a lot of kids. They run into barriers that they can't break out of."

Pat Deanda, a bilingual teacher at College Heights Elementary, is the only educator on the committee. A city councilwoman, Deanda is also involved with LULAC and NAACP.

the functions of the school board and administration should be one of the issues addressed by the committee, she said.

"People don't understand what process the school administration plays in school affairs," she said. "They need to have an understanding of what the administration does."

Deanda described the committee appointees as "conscientious people who are very interested in the problems in the community."

And she said the committee would attempt to alleviate problems "that have been festering in the minority community for years."

Deanda also praised the school board for forming the committee.

"An honest effort has been made by the board to communicate," she said. "... They've done what nobody else has ever done before."

If communication is improved, "maybe the minority community will feel a lot more confident and less leery about the administration and what they're doing to affect their children now and in the future," she said.

Margaret Trevino, 51, is a homemaker, full-time student at UTPB and vice president of the Hispanic Women for Progress.

Trevino said she would like the committee "to serve as a liaison for the minority community and to improve relations between the minority community and the schools."

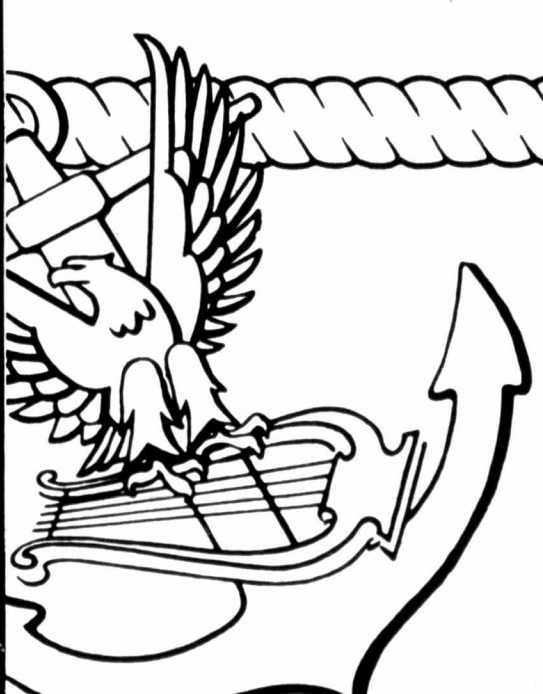

She also said the committee should aid in the recruitment of minority faculty members, especially counselors to serve in the district's junior high schools.

Trevino, whose daughter formerly taught in the Big Spring district, said she is aware of the shortage of qualified minority teachers, and suggested the committee could study the problem in an effort to devise feasible solutions.

Hebrew Jones, 43, is an employee at Fina and president of the Howard County Chapter of the NAACP.

Jones suggested that the committee confront the school dropout problem, seek to better relations between the minority community and the school board, and help the district recruit minority teachers.

As for the makeup of the committee, he said, "I feel the committee represents the community real well."

Anniversary

Local hospital celebrates 50 years

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

Nearly 1,000 area residents toured Scenic Mountain Medical Center's facilities Sunday, in connection with the hospital's 50th anniversary.

Dr. P.W. Malone and Mrs. John (Dixie) Hogan were on hand to greet visitors as they toured the five-story, 265,000 square-foot facility. Malone co-founded the hospital along with Mrs. Hogan's husband, who died in 1976.

The original hospital, located on Main Street where State National Bank now stands, opened in 1938.

Malone noted the eight-bed hospital and clinic had two physicians and one operating room, compared to the 37 physicians, five operating rooms, and 153 beds it has now.

The 300-member staff includes 110 nurses and 44 volunteers to serve the community.

In an effort to better serve the community, Malone and Hogan gave the hospital to Hospital Corporation of America, with the promise to build a first class building at a new location," Malone said.

Malone-Hogan Hospital d b a Scenic Mountain Medical Center opened the new facility in 1974, offering all the major specialties.

"We have an excellent staff of physicians," said Administrator David Wiley.

The hospital was renamed

Scenic Mountain Medical Center when National Healthcare Inc. purchased the facility last year.

Malone, 85, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, is an honorary member of the hospital's medical staff, serving as a consultant at the Veterans Administration.

The hospital, a prototype, is one of only three in the United States, said Wiley.

Wiley noted that a recent price survey revealed that SMMC offers high quality at a reasonable competitive price, compared to Midland and Lubbock hospitals.

"We have people who come from as far as New Mexico to use our facility," Wiley noted.

The hospital is equipped with a computerized, state-of-the-art chemistry analyzer, which can compute 40 different chemistry tests.

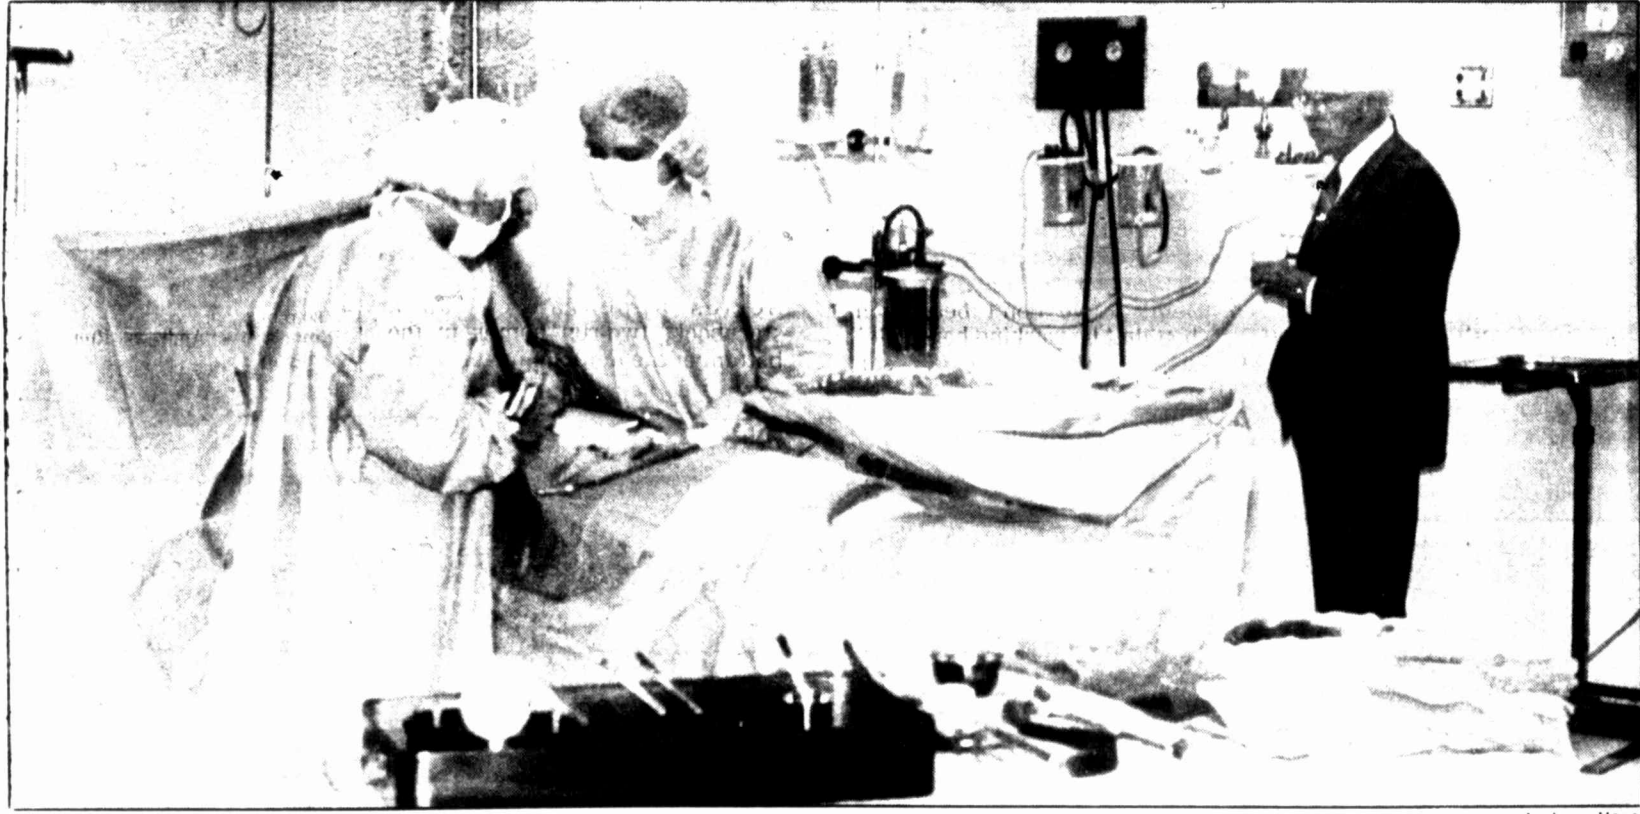

"The best hospitals in the country are equipped with this machine," Wiley noted.

SMMC also offers an eight-bed intensive care, and coronary care unit, a skilled nursing center, for patients who still need skilled care such as, IVs and intermuscular injections; Crossroads Recovery Program, a 30-day addiction treatment program; birthing and "Special Moments" rooms, located on the OB unit; and Texas Surgery, an outpatient facility.

A psychiatric wing is scheduled to open in November.

Shirleen Brown, director of nursing, arranges a dining table, which is located in one of Scenic Mountain Medical Center's "Special Moments" room. Parents are treated to a candlelight dinner to celebrate the birth of their baby.

LVN Lynda Grantham, left, and assistant operating room supervisor, Stacey Griffin, stand over an operating table in one of five operating rooms at the hospital, as Dr. P.W. Malone looks on.

Man praised for returning wallet

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from "Honest John's Mom," I was shocked. She said her son, John, was at the racetrack and saw a man drop his wallet. John picked it up, noticed that it was filled with cash, so he ran after the man and returned the wallet. John's mom said nearly everyone she told that story to said that John was "crazy" to have returned the wallet — he should have kept it!

Having recently lost my billfold containing a significant amount of cash and all my credit cards, I was relieved to have it returned to me intact.

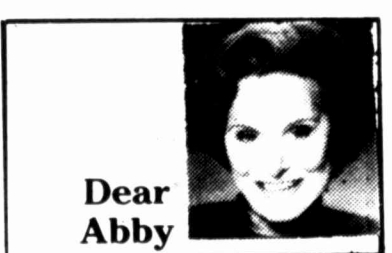

When I insisted that the finder accept a reward, he said, "Listen, Mister, I don't need a reward for returning something that doesn't belong to me!"

So, Abby, I say phooey to the people who told John he was "crazy" to have returned the wallet. It has renewed my faith in the human race to know that there are still "Honest Johns" in this day and age.

GRATEFUL IN MINNESOTA
DEAR GRATEFUL: There are more Honest Johns (and Janes) than you think there are, but, unfortunately, they don't make the headlines or the evening news.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my boyfriend, "Kevin," is 17. Kevin wrecked his car, and my dad loaned him the money to buy a motorcycle. Kevin agreed to make the monthly payments from his after-school job, but he was fired, so he quit making payments. Now I guess he will have to sell the motorcycle.

My father thinks Kevin should find a way to make the payments until he gets a buyer. He even offered him a job doing yard work at our house to pay for it, but Kevin turned him down. Dad says this shows that he is lazy and doesn't want to face up to his responsibilities. Dad thinks that I should stop seeing Kevin because he doesn't show "good character."

Abby, I really love Kevin and want to marry him when he graduates.

Please print this and help convince my dad that Kevin is OK. He's really a nice guy, if Dad would just give him a chance.

IN LOVE WITH KEVIN
DEAR IN LOVE: Sorry, I vote with your father. Kevin may be a "nice" guy, but he has much growing up to do. Your father has already given him a chance. He flunked.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "True to the Navy," the recruiter who refused to enlist his sleepwalking nephew in the U.S. Navy, was right — a sleepwalking sailor does not belong in the Navy.

In 1934, aboard the USS Tennessee in Long Island Sound, a sleepwalker fell overboard. Fortunately, he went over the side on a perfectly calm night and the Marine sentry saw him. Within seconds, the sentry had tripped an automatic lifebuoy and given the alarm, so the sleepwalking sailor was saved. Even under the best of circumstances, the rescue of men gone overboard is a very "iffy" affair. I have seen two men lost, one in broad daylight in a moderately calm sea. No one knows why he fell overboard. He may have been taking a sunbath.

I doubt if a sailor would be fined or sent to prison for lying about his sleepwalking — or simply failing to mention it. The armed services (contrary to what many believe) are not heartless, and the penalties for false enlistments are not severe, except when a criminal record is falsified. The chances are, upon discovery, he would simply be discharged. I am also "True to the Navy."

Fire prevention program

Sand Springs Volunteer Fire Department sponsored its second annual fire prevention program Oct. 20 at Coahoma Elementary School, presented by Jim Johnson.

Kindergarten through third grade students received information on the importance of smoke detectors and fire extinguishers in the home. Children viewed firemen dressed in firefighting attire. "A fireman can look like a monster when is in full bunker gear and air masks, and for a scared child in a burning house, this can be terrifying," Johnson noted.

Johnson emphasized the importance of not getting trapped in the house, and how to stop, drop and roll.

"The most important lesson the children learned is that firefighters are their friends."

Therapists honored this week

Physical therapists at the VA Medical Center, Big Spring, and throughout the nation are celebrating National Physical Therapy Week, according to Conrad Alexander, director.

The theme is "Physical Therapy Sharing the Challenge," selected to express the care, mutual effort, and concern present in the relationship between the physical therapist and the patient, Conrad noted.

National Physical Therapy Week was initiated in 1981 by the American Physical Therapy Association to focus attention on the contributions of physical therapy to the improvement of the health of all Americans.

The APTA is a national professional organization representing more than 48,000 physical therapists, physical therapy assistants and physical therapy students throughout the United States.

According to Alexander, the goals of the VA physical therapist, "are to improve the quality of life for our disabled veterans and to promote preventive measures to keep able-bodied veterans healthy through improvement of education, practice and research."

DHS to host Halloween party

The Department of Human Services and the Ector County Children's Services will sponsor a Halloween party Friday, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., for foster children and children of families who work with the agency.

The event will be hosted at 3603 Andrews Highway, Odessa.

Staff members will get in the spirit by decorating office doors, donning costumes, and passing out treats. There will be carved pumpkins, face painting and other activities.

"This Halloween event wouldn't be possible without the support of local merchants and community volunteers," said Rhonda Lightfoot, social worker and co-organizer.

Gwen Orr, Children's Protective Services supervisor, said, "It's a safe way of providing some Halloween fun for foster children."

Foster parents provide a substitute family for children whose parents need extra help with their situations, and for children who would not be safe living at home.

Crossroads Chalk Talk

Area high school football teams batted better than .500 last week, winning five games while losing four — and six of those teams still have realistic shots at making the playoffs.

In the only game where area teams clashed, Klondike bested the Grady Wildcats, 36-22. In other games, Garden City was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Rankin, 26-6, Stanton blasted Van Horn, 61-0. Sands zapped Loop, 38-14, Merkel edged Coahoma, 16-13, Eldorado nipped Forsan, 17-4, Borden County beat Dawson, 20-16 and Colorado City took sole possession of the District 7-3A lead by downing Wylie, 21-10.

Besides C-City, Klondike leads district 6-A six-man action, followed closely by Sands and Grady. Stanton is tied with Iraan for the 5-2A lead, while Garden City is tied for second in district 8-A with Water Valley and Irion County.

Here is what area coaches had to say about last week's games, and Friday's opponents.

Joe Bond

Joe Bond, Borden County, on the Coyotes' win against Dawson, and this week's homecoming game against Grady:

"We were real pleased with the kids' effort Friday. With the exception of the opening kickoff and drive, they shut Dawson down. We limited them to 125 yards rushing and 68 yards passing. Grady has a real good team. They've got some good kids who know how to move the ball. We know they'll be aggressive. It'll be a tough ball game."

Dale Ruth, Stanton, on last week's whitewash of Van Horn, and this week's game with district co-leader Iraan:

"We played pretty good in the first half, and in the second half, we played mostly second-stringers. Van Horn came at us pretty good, but we were able to get the big plays — but Van Horn played hard."

"Iraan is 3-0 in district, so this I'll probably be for the district championship. They've got a great quarterback in Robert King and a pretty good receiver named Robert Galindo. It'll be tough, and with it being down at their place, that makes it even tougher."

Jan East, Forsan, on last week's loss to Eldorado, and Friday's game with Winters:

"I felt like we played well enough to win both offensively and defensively, but we turned the ball over six times, so we kind of self-destructed. But I'm real pleased with the way the kids played."

"Winters is just your basic Wing-T team; they'll try to overpower you, and they play a split defense. They've got eight or nine returning starters on defense, so they should be pretty tough."

Tom Ham, Klondike, on last week's game against Grady, and Friday's game with Sands:

"I was very impressed with our kids. Grady had some surprises for us, and took the battle to us. It was a real dogfight, but the kids fought really hard and came back in the fourth quarter."

"Sands is a very important ball game for us — and for Sands, too. If we win, it'll insure us of a playoff spot. It's a good rivalry anytime Sands and Klondike meet."

Sam Scott

Sam Scott, Garden City, on last week's loss to Rankin and this week's game against Water Valley:

"Needless to say, we're real disappointed we didn't win. I felt like we had the opportunity to win even when we were down, 14-0, at the half. We just made some mental mistakes. But Rankin controlled the ball and iced the game in the fourth quarter."

"Water Valley runs a multiple-I offense similar to us and a 50 defense. They have a decent quarterback, an excellent tailback and good receivers. On defense they have a big ol' boy who was an all-district tackle last year, and their linebackers are playing pretty good this year."

Leandro Gonzales, Grady, on last week's loss to Klondike, and Friday's game with Borden County:

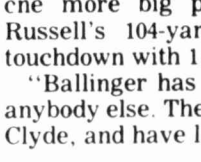

"Klondike has an excellent ballclub that executed well on offense and defense. Defensively, they read well and come at you. They were coached well and their kids gave 110 percent."

"Borden County lost one of their key players, and that hurt them, but I'm sure they have the attitude that they can win again. If we don't play well, it'll come back to haunt us. We're still in the playoff picture. If we pick our heads up, we'll make it."

Tom Ramsey, Colorado City, on last week's win against Wylie and Friday's game against Ballinger:

"It was an exciting game. There were so many big plays, neither team could sit on the ball. The big play kept cropping up, but we probably had one more big play than they did — Mark Russell's 104-yard interception return for a touchdown with 1:14 left."

"Ballinger has as good an offensive team as anybody else. They played a tough game against Clyde, and have lost to Clyde and Wylie."

Bears win defensive battle

CHICAGO (AP) — Dan Hampton and Steve McMichael led a defense that set up all of Chicago's points and shut down Joe Montana, Roger Craig and the rest of the league's leading offense as the Chicago Bears beat the San Francisco 49ers 10-9 Monday night.

Chicago's victory, which made them 7-1 at the midway mark, ended the 49ers' 11-game road-winning streak one short of a league record the 49ers tied a week ago.

It was mostly the work of the front four — Hampton, McMichael, Richard Dent and Al Harris, which almost completely shut down San Francisco after Montana hit Jerry Rice with a 23-yard scoring pass on San Francisco's first possession.

The 49ers, who got 97 yards on that initial drive, added just 120 more in the remaining 3 1/4 quarters. And Craig, who entered the weekend as the NFL's leading rusher with 764 yards, was limited to three carries for minus-2 yards in the first half and finished with just 30 yards on 10 carries.

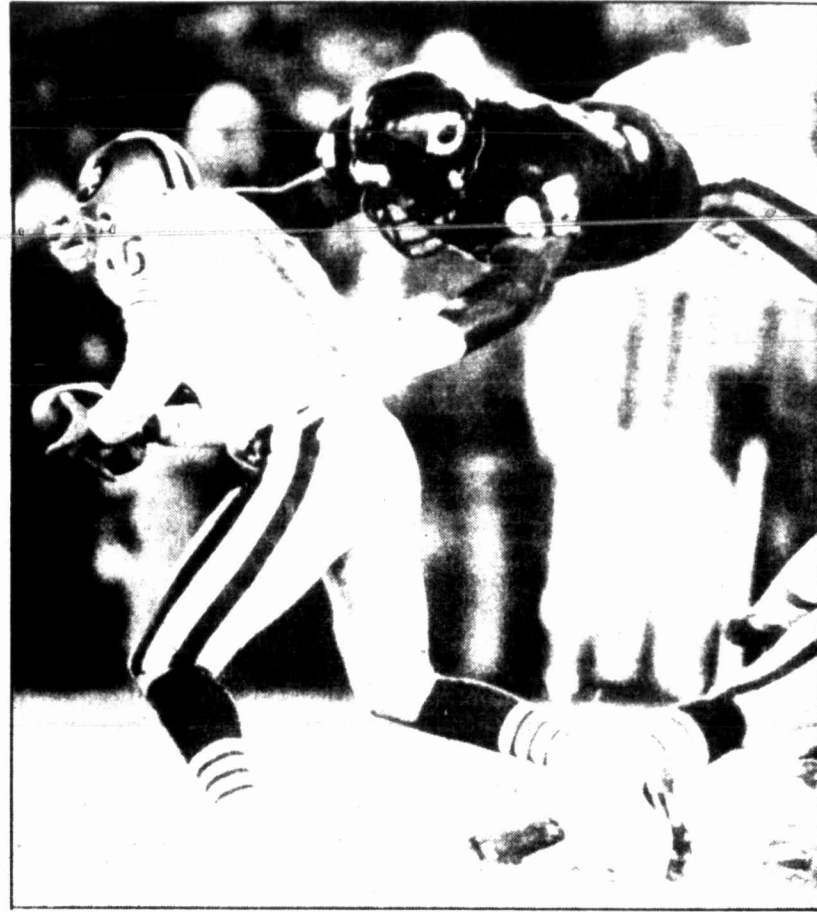

Montana was 13 of 29 for 163 yards, but was just 4-of-16 for 44 yards before leaving the game in favor of Steve Young for San Francisco's final series.

The Bears had just four sacks, but they were constantly in Montana's face, particularly at key moments, including a stand that allowed just one yard midway through the fourth quarter after John Taylor's 30-yard punt return had put the ball at the Chicago 35.

Mike Cofer's 51-yard field goal attempt then fell short.

Chicago's only touchdown, on Jim McMahon's quarterback sneak with 3:38 left in the half, came after the Bears got field position at 49ers 37 following contemp then fell far short. They also held the 49ers without a first down after their own fourth down-and-10 inches try at San Francisco's 45 fell short with 2:51 left.

They're still partying in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Tommy Lasorda danced for a city still giddy over the Los Angeles Dodgers' World Series triumph over the Oakland Athletics, then dropped an old-timer number on the rest of baseball.

"When we went to spring training, we had one goal in mind," Lasorda told thousands of cheering fans Monday at a rally on the south lawn of City Hall following a downtown parade.

"It wasn't to just win the division. It wasn't to win the playoffs. It wasn't to get into the World Series, but it was to win the World Series."

"No one outside of our fans and the baseball team and the Dodger organization ever had a feeling that we could win the division."

That said, Lasorda took a jab at a trio of National League West colleagues.

"Pete Rose said, 'I'm not worried about the Dodgers. I'm worried about San Francisco and Houston.' But you know what? He was right. Because when we went eight games above them (the Cincinnati Reds), he was tied with San Francisco and Houston."

"Roger Craig said, 'I promised the Giant fans that we'll be in the World Series.' He was right. He was there watching us play."

"Hal Lanier said, 'We can beat the Dodgers. We know we can beat them. If we don't beat them, I shouldn't be working here.' He's no longer working," Lasorda said of Lanier, who was fired as the Houston Astros' manager at the end of the season.

"They didn't want to play the Dodgers. Don Baylor said they wanted to play the best team in the National League East. But who did they play? They played the best team in the National League."

Lasorda kept his promise and did a few unidentifiable dance steps for the crowd in what has become known as the Plaza of Champions. The last celebration here was in June for the NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers.

The next stop for the Dodgers is a White House visit Wednesday.

Kirk Gibson, meanwhile, hinted that he'd rather still be playing ball.

Because of knee and hamstring injuries, Gibson's lone World Series appearance was a storybook, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning of Game 1 that beat the A's 5-4.

"It's kind of a sad day for me, I guess; it's a good day of celebration," Gibson said.

And, Gibson told the fans: "We have the bragging rights till opening day in April, so say plenty."

Expos outfielder has peace of mind

MONTREAL (AP) — Multimillionaire Tim Raines says his new three-year contract with the Montreal Expos finally gives him security.

The $6.3 million pact he agreed to Sunday will help Raines feel more comfortable, and assures the National League baseball club it won't lose its veteran superstar to free agency.

Raines, 29, said the contract, which includes a one-year option, allows him to concentrate on the game.

"I think it's important for any player to get a contract signed and not to have to worry about it," Raines said in a conference call Monday with Montreal journalists from his home in Heathrow, Fla.

"Now I feel I can settle down and concentrate on baseball instead of things off the field."

The eight-year veteran, who had finished two of the three years on his previous $5 million contract, alluded to the arbitration and free-agency turmoil he has undergone during his career in Montreal.

The Raines signing enables the Expos to devote the off-season to areas in need of improvement. There are a number of changes they want to make, but until they know whether Raines was returning their hands were tied.

Raines was one of eight 1986 free agents who arbitrator George Nicolau ruled had been victimized by owners' collusion.

As expected — and not coincidentally to the timing of the Raines signing — Nicolau ruled Monday that all eight could test the free-agent market again.

Expos general manager David Dombrowski admitted that Nicolau's impending decision was a major factor in negotiations with Raines, which had been going on since early August.

"We're going into the winter and we need to know how we're going to put our club together," Dombrowski said.

"If all of a sudden a decision had been made and Raines hadn't agreed, clubs could start talking to him and we'd be sitting there not knowing if we have Tim Raines or not."

The Expos and Raines agreed on money early on, but were stymied over the possibility of a strike or lockout when major league baseball's collective agreement expires before the 1990 season.

Under the contract they agreed to, the Expos will not pay Raines during a strike. They also wanted to avoid paying him if the owners lock out the players, and the compromise was closer to the Expos' position, Dombrowski said.

Basketball officials to meet

The Big Spring Chapter of the Permian Basin Basketball Officials will have an organizational meeting Oct. 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the Big Spring High School library.

All current basketball officials and anyone wishing to become a official should attend.

Street renamed after Matson

PAMPA (AP) — A Pampa street will be renamed in honor of Randy Matson, who won a gold and a silver medal in consecutive Olympics and set four world shot-put records in between.

Decatur Street will be renamed Randy Matson Avenue on Nov. 1 to honor the Pampa High School graduate, who won a gold medal in the shot put at the 1968 Mexico City Olympics and a silver medal at the 1964 Tokyo Olympics.

Yankees trade home run hitter

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A self-proclaimed "National Leaguer at heart," Jack Clark says his return as part of a five-player trade between the New York Yankees and San Diego Padres will improve his play.

"It feels good. It feels like where I'm supposed to be," Clark said Monday after learning he and left-handed pitcher Pat Clements had been sent to San Diego for reserve outfielder Stan Jefferson and right-handed pitchers Jimmy Jones and Lance McCullers.

Twins, Phillies make deal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — After months of rumors, the Philadelphia Phillies have traded left-handed pitcher Shane Rawley to the Minnesota Twins for second baseman Tom Herr and two other players.

The Phillies made the trade rather than wait to sign Herr as a free agent so as not to lose any draft choices, he said.

Philadelphia also received catcher Tom Nieto and outfielder Eric Bullock from Minnesota and sent the Twins an undisclosed amount of cash.

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Emotions run high in a close relationship. The way you handle little things will help determine your future together. Health-related activities keep you fit and happy. The outdoor life holds the greatest appeal. Your career reaches new heights in mid-December 1988. A legacy could make money worries a thing of the past. Someone special brings out the best in you. You are willing to forgive and forget. Reconciliations come at the end of 1989. Concessions are possible on all sides.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Mahalia Jackson, actress Jaelyn Smith, TV host

Pat Sajak, journalist Arnaud de Borchgrave, actor Bob Hoskins.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Someone is watching your every move. Dress your best for a business meeting or lunch. Too many personal phone calls at work could affect your ability to win a promotion or raise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Although you hate small talk, this is a day in which it can help you in business. Stay out of a youngster's project unless asked for help. Encourage self-reliance at all ages.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You find yourself drawn to someone from your past. Travel is great for both business and your emotional health. Tie up the loose ends of one project before moving on to another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are vacillating without even realizing it. You do not need as much outside advice as you ask for. Your money management skills make you a prize catch for a partnership or company.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): You may be too emotional about a business decision. Stay calm and you will emerge a big winner. Luck is with you as long as you keep risks to a minimum. Act confident.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22): New ideas are worth pursuing today; they will produce splendid results. Group activities can lead to stimulating new friendships. Romance is on the upswing. Avoid acting needy. Partner admires independence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Start the day off right by taking advantage of some free advice. An older person plays a major role in your success. Postpone making a decision about a personal problem until things cool down.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Deceptive trends mean you should be cautious; you will be glad of your skepticism tomorrow. Accept invitations that might aid your career. Extending your sphere of influence boosts your chances for success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Move in new circles if you want to obtain support for a pet project. Keep tabs on spending so it does not get out of control. Loved one lends a helping hand. Show appreciation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Early morning trends promise good results if you are seeking cooperation from authorities. Keep money and friendship strictly separate. Romance deserves a second chance. Forgive past transgressions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Opt for a more diplomatic approach to a professional or marital relationship. Friends are a source of great comfort. A congenial meeting could lead to a new alliance. Put your best foot forward!

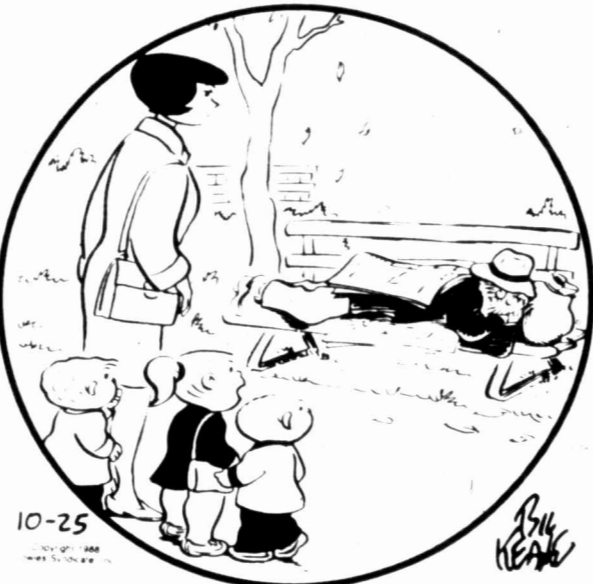

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good day to catch up on routine chores. Distant contacts could be a source of much-needed revenue. Family members will cooperate more if you pay greater attention to their individual needs.
