Nation remembers Martin Luther King

By JOHN A. BOLT
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — Black leaders nationwide remembered the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. on what would have been his 60th birthday by urging a new generation to use — not confuse or abuse — the rights they enjoy because of his struggles.

Thousands of Texans began celebrating Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday with parades and marches this weekend, but state agencies and some schools planned to remain open during the federal holiday Monday.

King's oldest son, Martin Luther King III, told a Dallas audience that students who must attend class Monday can remember his father in school.

The NAACP planned to demonstrate Monday against the Grand Prairie school district's decision not to close, officials said.

"We'll have signs, we'll have chants and we'll sing some songs just to continue to press this issue," said Lee Alcorn, president of the Grand Prairie chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

But King said he thought his father would challenge a "school system to be a better school system, not necessarily to close it." He did not criticize districts that chose to remain open, but encouraged students to celebrate by "living a day in peace."

local chapter, said that anyone interested is invited to join; they can call 263-4043 or contact Frances

Montague, membership chairman, 263-8966. Today is a federal holiday honoring the slain civil rights leader, and the commemorations included the swearing in of the first blacks on the Dallas County (Ala.) Commission in more than a century. The ceremony was scheduled for Selma, where King began the 1965 Selma-to-Montgomery march that resulted in passage of the Voting Rights Act.

The Liberty Bell in Philadelphia was to be symbolically tapped today and church and school bells were being rung in Michigan. Golfers were to tee off in a suburban Los Angeles tournament benefiting King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson was scheduled as the featured speaker at King's church in Atlanta.

President-elect Bush was planning to attend an ecumenical prayer breakfast organized by the Inaugural Afro-American Committee in Washington. Other events in the nation's capital included a benefit and fashion show.

Jackson's keynote address at Ebenezer Baptist Church capped a week-long observance in King's hometown. At the church Sunday, King's widow urged Bush to hold true to his call for "a kinder, gentler nation" and to impose strict sanctions against South Africa.

Texas' SSC OK planned

DALLAS (AP) — Somewhat like a bride-to-be, Texas has anxiously been waiting to be finally handed a large ring.

And beginning today, President Reagan could give the state the most expensive ring the federal government will have created — the $5-billion atom-smashing oval known as the superconducting super collider project.

Officials said the confirmation definitely will be made by Friday when the Reagan administration leaves office.

A final, 10,000-page environmental impact statement officially was noted in the Federal Registry Dec. 16.

"The law says that no sooner than 30 days from the official availability of the (statement) can the agency make a final decision. The time has to pass," said Energy Department spokesman Jeff Sherwood.

U.S. Energy Secretary John Herrington in November named Ellis County as site for the project, pending the outcome of the environmental impact study. The 30-day waiting period is permitted for public commentary on the study.

Texans passed a bond proposal in 1987 promising to kick in $1 billion to help cover such costs as building the super collider lab, electrical utility capacity and for higher education and physics research projects.

The 53-mile oval-shaped super collider underground tunnel project will yield about 4,000 construction jobs, some 3,500 permanent jobs, prestige in the scientific community and spinoffs for transportation, medicine, communications and defense.

The Reagan administration is recommending $250 million be spent on the project in the 1990 fiscal year. Some $90 million of that appropriation would be spent on research and development while the remaining $160 million would pay for initial construction of the project.

"If approved by Congress, this will get us off to a strong start on building the superconducting super collider," Sen. Phil Gramm said.

The congressman whose district includes much of the supercollider site, Joe Barton, said he was pleased to see the proposed allocation in the Reagan budget.

STACY DAM — Cranes and construction workers labor in wintry conditions Thursday as work on Stacy Dam continues. Halfway through the project, there have been only two lost-time accidents, according to construction officials.

Stacy Dam Project nearly accident free

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

STACY DAM — Halfway through its completion, this $30.5 million construction project has seen a miraculously low number of accidents, officials said.

There have been only two lost-time accidents, according to project manager Ron Hayes, an engineer for Brown and Root USA, builders of the dam.

"We had a field engineer hospitalized for 10 days after a Honda four-wheeler went off into the river, and we had a water truck that got away from the operator and bruised his hip," Hayes said Thursday during a press conference.

Spectacular accidents have occurred involving a dynamite truck and a Manitowoc crane, but no injuries resulted, according to Hayes and Colorado River Municipal Water District secretary Joe Pickle.

Hayes himself was involved in one accident when he drove along a construction road toward a blind intersection early one morning — and collided with a one-ton dynamite truck.

"It didn't hurt his truck as bad as it did my pickup," Hayes said, noting that rather than replace the vehicle Brown and Root had it repaired at a cost of $4,000.

"There was no danger of an explosion," he said. "Modern explosives are virtually impossible to detonate that way."

It does raise eyebrows among listeners, however, when he mentions walking away from a collision with a dynamite truck.

Neither Hayes nor truck driver Jimmy Wells was hurt in that mishap, but field engineer Don Williams was less fortunate when his Honda ATV went off the road at almost the same spot.

Williams and the vehicle tumbled into the Colorado River; a staph infection occurred in a cut on Williams' arm, and he was hospitalized for 10 days, Hayes said Thursday.

Those crashes happened "almost a year ago," the project manager noted. Following his collision with the dynamite truck, signs were posted by construction workers designating the roads leading to the accident site "Hayes Road" and "Wells Drive," respectively.

Along Hayes Road, traffic cones mark the lane approaching the intersection. Some five feet from that sign stands another, "Williams Crossing," pointing from the roadway over the embankment and down into the Colorado River.

The most recent accident happened one night in December, when a crane operator and his machine plummeted 40 feet down an embankment, Hayes said.

"It happened around midnight about six weeks ago on the night shift," he explained. "We lost a load of RCC (a high-density, low-moisture concrete) and the crane operator went to grab it."

"When he swung the crane around and got hold of it, it pulled him over, off about a 40-foot embankment," Hayes said. The crane came to rest at the bottom, upside down. Damage to the machine necessitated replacing it.

He explained the rules of the road for the construction site: "If it's yellow and it's on rubber, it's got the right of way."

"If you hit one of these pieces of yellow metal we've got out here, you'll come out worse than it will," he said.

Speeds among the earth-moving machinery approach 40 miles per hour. With a full load, the machines may weigh from 60,000 to 80,000 pounds, he said.

Inauguration time: Texan's arrest time

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Another presidential inauguration is likely to mean another arrest for Stacy Abney, an expatriate Texan who is routinely carted away by police from a Capitol archway whenever new presidents and foreign dignitaries appear.

Abney has been arrested 21 times for refusing to leave the archway, where he has slept on scraps of carpet for the past 14 years.

Rain falling on a recent January day sluiced over the edge of the archway and kept Abney from his usual daytime perch in the middle of the Capitol's main steps, where he crouches with a placard listing health problems blamed on his World War II military service.

Tourists, he says, have told him the Capitol steps "are too good" for someone like him. But as the chilling cold turns each word into puffs of mist, he declares that he isn't going anywhere until the government relents and gives him disability payments.

An arrest at this year's inauguration of a fellow Texan, George Bush, "is a given," says U.S. Capitol Police spokesman Dan Nichols. "As part of his protest he refuses to leave."

Abney is cited for unlawful entry when he won't budge for police securing the building for special occasions. He is taken to a District of Columbia jail, but always comes back to the Capitol upon his release.

"Mr. Abney is never disorderly," Nichols said. "He's very docile as far as police go. He presents no special problems."

Nichols, who used to patrol the east side of the Capitol where the 77-year-old stages his lone and silent protest, says tourists sometimes complain that Abney ruins their pictures, sitting on the imposing Capitol steps with his roughly scrawled cardboard sign.

Nichols says he always explained to the visitors that only in the United States would a protester be allowed to demonstrate at the foot of the Capitol. "They should be happy that's allowed in our country," he said.

"We consider him a demonstrator, not a homeless person," Nichols said. "He demonstrates every day on the Capitol steps and at night, by being on the Capitol grounds."

Born a mile from the Louisiana border in northeast Texas, Abney says he came to the Capitol to fight for disability benefits he believes he deserves for serving in the military — 18 months and six days in the United States and 25 months and two days overseas, in England, France, Belgium and Germany.

Nichols said that after his discharge, doctors told him not to work on account of his weak heart, high blood pressure, gout and arthritis, and he hasn't held a job since 1948.

"I don't get nothing from the VA (Veterans Administration) in Texas for 29 years," he says, so he came to Washington.

He says some people give him food and money as they bustle past him on their way to tend to congressional business, but he still shivers through the winter and sweaters in the summer.

"When the wind comes through here, it's as cold as ice. I stand here all day in the cold, freezing weather. I ain't got no sign of fire, no sign of heat," he says, wiping a drop of rain from his face with a crumpled paper towel.

In the summer, he says, he finds places where he can rinse the dirt from himself and his clothes.

"Then I sit out in the sun like an animal and get dry," he says.

Teens arrested in fatal police chase accident

DALLAS (AP) — A second Dallas teen-ager was arrested on a murder warrant early today for his alleged role in a police chase that ended in a crash that killed two young officers.

Officers Lisa Sandel and Mark Fleming were killed when their police cruiser went out of control on a rain-slickened street during the Friday night chase. A police recruit riding in the back seat of the car was seriously injured.

On Sunday night, a mother brought her 16-year-old son to police after hearing they wanted to talk to him in connection with the accident. Police arrested a 17-year-old male on a murder warrant after questioning the first teen-ager, said Detective Roy Hodgins.

Both youths have been charged with murder, said Detective J.C. Davis. The 17-year-old was in the Lew Sterrett Justice Center in lieu of $100,000 bond. The 16-year-old was in the Dallas County Juvenile Detention Center. Bond has not been set, but police will try to have the teen certified as an adult, Davis said. Charges related to the vehicle's theft were pending, he said.

Hodgins said it was too early to discuss the specific roles the youths may have played in the car theft and chase.

"It's hard to accept on its own face that two officers have been killed. When the person that cost or directly resulted in their deaths is out there, you don't feel good about it."

The first teen-ager's surrender came, ironically, just as police and their loved ones were gathering Sunday to mourn the deaths of the two officers.

"Obviously, it would be somewhat of a relief that a suspect is at least being questioned about this," said Sgt. Jim Chandler of the Dallas police public information division following the arrest of a 16-year-old.

"It's hard to accept on its own face that two officers have been killed. When the person that cost or directly resulted in their deaths is out there, you don't feel good about it."

Chandler said a break in the search for someone who might be able to explain how the officers lost control of their car and slammed into an oncoming pickup came after officers recovered a stolen car on Saturday.

"Detectives canvassed the neighborhood and talked to a lot of people out there who provided them with a description," Chandler said. "This juvenile matched this description."

About 200 police officers, their families and city officials gathered Sunday for a 6 p.m. candlelight vigil honoring Sandel and Fleming, who worked in the Southwest Patrol Division.

Many in the group let out an audible sigh when Deputy Chief Terrell Bolton, head of the Southwest Patrol Division, announced at the start of the vigil that a person the officers may have been chasing had been arrested.

Nathaniel White, 25, a recruit riding with the officers, was in serious condition today in the intensive care unit at Baylor University Medical Center, officials said. White was heavily sedated and was expected to remain so for two to three days, police said.

Willie Earl Henderson, 62, driver of the pickup, was in stable condition today at Charlton Methodist Hospital in Duncanville, said Kim Hollin, a hospital administrator.

A 26-year-old Louisiana native who joined the department in March 1987, Sandel attended the University of San Francisco on a basketball scholarship. She later transferred to Kansas State University on a track scholarship and in 1985 graduated from the University of Houston with a business-marketing degree.

Fleming, 24, an Ohio native, also joined the Southwest Division in spring of 1987. He attended high school in Houston before enrolling at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville. He was involved in Police Officers for Christ.

Authorities said wet weather played a part in the accident, but they were still trying to determine the exact cause of the crash.

Election challenge withdrawn

AUSTIN (AP) — Ed Watson, a Deer Park Democrat who lost his House seat on Nov. 8 after 16 years, today told a special committee looking into the matter that he was withdrawing his challenge of the election results.

"My information is that the choice of this committee would be that we would have another election in House District 129," Watson told the committee.

After looking at the "personal sacrifice" required of himself, his family and his contributors, Watson said, "I have come to the conclusion, my family has come to the conclusion, that we would request this committee not to take any further action in this case."

Watson said he would miss serving with his colleagues and hoped for the best for the man who beat him, State Rep. Mike Jackson, R-La Porte.

Jackson said he was relieved the challenge was over and added that he was "very anxious to go to work."

Recount results in the election showed Watson losing to Jackson 13,009 to 13,002. Watson had said there were discrepancies in vote-counting, and that he should have won. Jackson had said he won "fair and square."

Also in the House, standing committees are ready to receive bills weeks earlier than usual, because Lewis appointed them on the second day of the regular session. Usually, such appointments aren't made for two to three weeks in the House.

Third body found in desert

EL PASO (AP) — Three bodies were found in the east El Paso County desert near Interstate 10 in the past week, but police say the deaths appear to be unrelated.

The latest discovery was Sunday afternoon, when a transient looking for a place to rest discovered a human skeleton in a drainage tunnel under eastbound I-10 a mile east of the town of Fabens, police said.

That grisly find came one week after the skeletal remains of 17-year-old Angela Irsay were found near I-10 in east El Paso. And on Thursday, a passerby found the body of a woman about five miles west of Fabens and 25 yards south of I-10. Her killer bound her, shot her in the head and then wrapped a cloth over her head and set it afire.

No arrests have been made in any of the three deaths. The last two victims have not been identified, and police do not yet know the sex or cause of death of the body found Sunday in the drainage tunnel, detective Marvin Ryals of the El Paso County Sheriff's Department said. He added the body appeared to be that of an adult.

"It looks like it's been there awhile," he said, adding that parts of the skeleton "were scattered around like they are when animals get to them."

No weapon was found, but investigators intended to continue a search of the area today, Ryals said.

Miss Irsay had last been seen Sept. 22, according to police. Her cause of death could not be determined.

Engine fire forces plane to land

LINTHICUM, Md. (AP) — Witnesses on the ground say they saw flames spouting from an engine of an American Airlines jet that was forced to return to Baltimore-Washington International Airport minutes after takeoff with 91 people aboard.

An airline spokeswoman said the fire may have been caused by birds or ice being sucked into the engine. But a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said that explanation seemed unlikely.

Flight 201 took off at 7:53 a.m. Sunday and returned shortly after 8 a.m., said American Airlines spokeswoman Susie Robbins. The 85 passengers and six crew members were unharmed, she said.

A piece of the left engine apparently came loose and a compressor stalled in the engine, prompting the pilot to shut down that engine of the plane, Ms. Robbins said.

"We believe something, ice, birds, was ingested into the engine on takeoff," she said. "The tower reported flames coming from the engine, which happens a lot when something is ingested."

But FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said late Sunday afternoon that "a foreign object being ingested would not have caused" the engine malfunction known as compressor stall reported by the pilot as he throttled up the McDonnell Douglas MD-80 jetliner for the non-stop flight to Texas.

Stalls can result from "a disruption of air going into the engine," Farrar said, and are often caused by the attitude of the plane on takeoff, with wing position or abrupt changes in wind speed or direction altering air flow to the engine intakes.

Ms. Robbins said American Airlines crews in Baltimore were replacing the left engine Sunday. Passengers were put on other flights to reach their destinations.

Smuggler well paid for informing

HOUSTON (AP) — A convicted Colombian drug smuggler received nearly $100,000 and a shorter prison term after providing information about other people who allegedly worked for him in the smuggling organization, a newspaper reports.

Idinael Martinez also received a shorter prison term and has been placed in a federal witness protection program, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday in a copyright story.

Shortly after his arrest at Houston Intercontinental Airport in October 1984, Martinez told prosecutors he had information about a Colombian smuggling ring and would testify about its higher-ups.

Martinez was arrested after smuggling more than 1,800 pounds of cocaine into the Houston area and faced up to 300 years in a federal prison.

Federal officials quickly struck a deal with Martinez that included a 10-year maximum prison sentence and putting Martinez and his family in the witness protection program.

The Chronicle said the federal government also has paid Martinez $98,174 in the past three years, including $4,000 in cash within the past several months.

Now federal prosecutors admit that Martinez headed the drug distribution ring in the United States and his cooperation has primarily resulted in the indictment of alleged underlings in his own organization.

Only one person who may have played a larger role than Martinez in the smuggling operation has been indicted. He is Pedro Ortegón, a reputed drug exporter who is hiding in his native Colombia.

"Martinez led the government to believe that he could help them catch the big fish," said Kent Schaffer, a defense attorney representing one of Martinez's alleged associates. "Now they realize that he is the big fish."

Federal prosecutors refused to be interviewed about Martinez, the Chronicle said.

Federal authorities claim Martinez's drug ring was responsible for importing more than 5,000 pounds of cocaine between 1982 and his arrest in 1984, with much of it smuggled into the Houston area.

Some questions have been raised about the money paid to Martinez, which included $29,000 for housing, $16,000 for medical expenses and $39,000 in spending money that was all given to his wife, according to information the newspaper obtained.

U.S.-Vietnamese teams search the countryside for MIAs

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — While some Americans still await word of a husband, father or son, U.S.-Vietnamese teams patrol the countryside in the biggest effort yet to find remains of fallen airmen and send them on a final, peaceful journey home.

Some families, an unspecified but apparently small number, have been told five teams are investigating and excavating sites where relatives are believed to have crashed during air strikes between 1964 and 1972. This is the fourth joint operation since October.

"Due to privacy considerations of the affected families we cannot discuss the specifics," a statement from the U.S. delegation said. "However, those families have been notified of the investigation and will be fully advised of the results."

The two dozen U.S. specialists will be in Vietnam until Jan. 23 and will leave with 25 sets of remains that are being prepared for repatriation and identification at the U.S. Army laboratory in Hawaii.

Previously, Vietnam had allowed only four U.S. teams in at a time. It has repatriated 63 sets of remains in the past month.

"The U.S. government is pleased that Vietnam has agreed to expand the ongoing effort from four to five teams," the American delegation said. "The U.S. government appreciates the initiative taken by Vietnam to repatriate these remains and hopes to continue the increasing joint cooperation to resolve the long-standing humanitarian issue."

Nguyen Can, acting director of Vietnam's office for MIAs, those missing in action during the long war that ended in 1975, agreed that cooperation has been good and the issue is humanitarian rather than political.

"We don't want to use this as any kind of leverage because we understand the feelings of the American families whose loved ones did not come home after the war," he said. "We have our own MIAs, more than the United States."

"We want to solve this question and let bygones be bygones," he said. "What's the good of keeping this alive? It would only let the spiritual wounds of war bleed, and that would not be helpful to any understanding between the two people."

Both governments have sought in public pronouncements to separate the human side of the war from politics, but the MIA issue figures into the process of establishing the diplomatic relations Vietnam seeks.

Washington has said all Vietnamese troops must be removed from Cambodia before it will consider an exchange of ambassadors, economic aid and lifting the U.S. trade embargo.

Fewer than 10 percent of the remains of Americans listed as missing in Indochina have been recovered since U.S. forces were withdrawn from Vietnam in early 1973.

DALLAS — Two Dallas firefighters approach the scene of an Sunday morning fire in north Dallas. No injuries were reported in the five-alarm blaze. A police helicopter assisted at the scene, which required 31 pieces of equipment.

GM executive named for No. 2 Pentagon job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The No. 2 job at the Pentagon will go to Donald Atwood Jr., vice chairman of General Motors Corp., sources in President-elect Bush's transition operation said today.

Atwood, 63, is the top choice of Defense Secretary-designate John Tower to be deputy secretary of defense.

Transition officials, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said Atwood's selection would be announced Tuesday.

GM spokesman Jim Crellin said today in Detroit that Atwood was unavailable for comment.

"Mr. Atwood is aware he's on a list of candidates for a position of deputy secretary of defense," Crellin said. "He does not feel that it would be appropriate to comment on the matter until a final decision."

The likelihood that Atwood would be selected was first reported by The New York Times.

The newspaper said Sunday that Atwood was at the top of a list of contenders that included William Paul, senior vice president for defense and space systems at United Technologies Corp., and Vincent Cook, a vice president of International Business Machines Corp.

The deputy has responsibility for the Pentagon's daily operation.

Atwood has filled management positions at GM for 27 years. As vice chairman of GM he supervises divisions that manufacture electronics and airplane systems for the Pentagon.

An engineer by profession, he has had experience running large industrial organizations including GM's truck and bus group and the Hughes Aircraft Co. after GM acquired it in 1985.

Death under investigation

HERALD STAFF REPORT

An 18-year-old Big Spring man died Friday in Lubbock General Hospital of a single gunshot wound, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

She said she could not give the location of the wound which killed Tony Rodriguez, but said the cause of death was a gunshot wound and confirmed that it was a single wound. The hospital notified Lubbock County Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack of the death, she said.

Big Spring Police Chief Joe Cook confirmed today that his office is conducting a "routine investigation" into the man's death.

"Right now we are treating it as a self-inflicted" wound, he said, declining to describe the cause of death. "So as not to muddy the waters, we'd rather not have anything get out (to the media) right now."

Blalack confirmed today that he was called to the hospital at the time of Rodriguez's death. "I had an autopsy done and I have talked to the pathologist. I do not have his report yet but I have talked to him and I have talked with the police department there in Big Spring. They advise me that it was apparently a suicide," Blalack said.

must do more by "providing education and economic assistance directly to black South Africans who bear the brunt of suffering in that troubled land."

"I think we ought to take the president-elect at his word and hold him to his call for a kinder, gentler nation where peace and justice are in fact a reality," she said. "But a kinder, gentler nation will require kinder, gentler leaders."

Mrs. King gave her speech before an estimated 1,200 people at the church where King and his father were co-pastors. It may have been her final "State of the Dream" address as president of The King Center, a memorial and policy center in Atlanta.

On Saturday, she announced that her 27-year-old son, Dexter Scott King, would assume the presidency April 4 — the 21st anniversary of King's assassination at a Memphis, Tenn., motel in 1968.

Today is the fourth year for the King national holiday. In 1983, after considerable debate, Congress named the third Monday in January as a national holiday honoring King, whose actual birthday was Sunday.

Most states also observe Martin Luther King Jr. Day as a state holiday. Among the few that don't is Arizona, where rallies were planned in Phoenix and Tucson and where prospects are uncertain for a measure that lawmakers plan to introduce this year.

"When will those who have been elected to lead our great state into the 21st century finally remove all the suggestions of racial bigotry and narrow, myopic political viewpoints and let this state join the entire nation?" said the Rev. Warren Stewart during a church service in Phoenix on Sunday.

Former Gov. Bruce Babbitt created a King holiday for some state employees in 1986 after the Legislature refused to act on a broader bill, but the state attorney general ruled it illegal without legislative action.

Babbitt's successor, Evan Mecham, rescinded the order before the first holiday could be celebrated. The uproar helped create a climate that led to Mecham's impeachment and removal from office last year.

Jackson, the former Democratic presidential candidate, was in New York on Sunday where he told about 1,500 people in a Harlem church that too many young blacks are confused about what their civil rights are.

"If you know your history, you'll have a sense of destiny," Jackson said. "If slavery could not stop us... if apartheid could not stop us, nothing can stop us now."

He also urged people to avoid drug abuse.

"That is a civil wrong. Dr. King did not die for your right to sniff cocaine and crack and heroin. Stay the dream. Don't betray the dream," Jackson said.

Martin Luther King III on Saturday encouraged the overhaul of the city's public housing system and urged Dallas residents to move forward with the recommendations made last week by a mayoral commission that studied race relations for nearly a year.

Actress Cicely Tyson gave a reading of portions of King's speeches and other passages relating the black experience to a San Antonio audience of 400 on Saturday night. Ms. Tyson planned a similar appearance in Dallas Monday.

On Monday, the Black Heritage Society in Houston and the North Houston Frontier Club will sponsor a breakfast and parade. With Mayor Kathy Whitmire making a formal city declaration honoring King, the two organizations will also sponsor an afternoon tribute with entertainment and speeches at Hermann Park.

In San Antonio, about 20,000 people will march from four directions to the city's Martin Luther King Plaza Monday morning, said organizer Jaime P. Martinez.

Sheriff's log

Howard County Sheriff's Department officers reported the following incidents as of 10:15 a.m. today:

• Venancio Duenes Martinez, 25, Ackerly, was released on $1,000 bond after being arrested by city police on charges of driving while intoxicated.

• Raul Eduardo Campos, 36, 4103 Muir Ave., was released on $1,000 bond after being arrested on charges of revocation of probation for DWI.

• Daniel Rodriguez Sanchez, 39, Fort Stockton, was released on $1,500 bond on charges of DWI and $750 bond on charges of resisting arrest.

• Anthony Dwight Pipestem, 31, 2007 N.W. 16th St., was arrested at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp on an Oklahoma fugitive warrant.

• A McGregor Road man reported his seven-year-old son was injured when a neighbor's dog bit him on the leg.

• A deputy reported a break-in at Ace Wrecking on the Snyder Highway. The owner said nothing appeared to be missing, according to sheriff's reports.

• A Westover Road woman reported the tires on her 1988 Ford Escort were slashed while it was parked at the Brass Nail club Saturday night.

• A Williams Road man reported damage of undetermined value to his 1980 Chevrolet pickup by a man he did not know who also assaulted him by threatening him at the Brass Nail parking lot.

• Ralph Reinert reported the theft of approximately 100 pounds of copper wire from Reinert Welding Shop on U.S. 87 North.
• A Coahoma woman reported the theft of a $500 ring from her home.

• A 44-year-old Kingman, Ariz., woman was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center with injuries after the car in which she was a passenger went out of control and struck a guard rail on an icy road Friday. The 1979 silver Mustang was driven by Ayse Turgot, 19, Kingman, Ariz. A hospital spokeswoman said today the woman is not listed as a patient now.

• A 28-year-old Coahoma man was reported injured in an automobile accident on the South Frontage Road of Interstate Highway 20 Friday. Douglas Paul Nixon was transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center after his 1988 blue Mercury Tracer went out of control on an exit ramp, struck two highway signs and overturned onto its left side.

Abortion activists predict battle

AUSTIN (AP) — An abortion rights leader says her group may have a fight on its hands to convince lawmakers in the future not to rewrite the state's abortion statutes and that her group will work to change the lineup of individuals who might make such a decision.

Phyllis Dunham, executive director of the Texas Abortion Rights Action League, agreed that the current Texas legislature probably will outlaw abortions if such given a chance by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court agreed last week to revisit the Roe vs. Wade case, a Dallas lawsuit that led to the landmark ruling establishing a woman's right to abortion.

Before the Roe vs. Wade case challenged Texas' abortion law in 1973, the statute was known as one of the toughest in the United States. It remained virtually unchanged since it went on the books in 1854 and permitted abortion only when a woman's life was endangered.

The Supreme Court's decision on the abortion matter is not expected until summer or fall, after the 71st Legislature adjourns.

Ms. Dunham said she expects a "tremendous fight."

"We probably have nine to 11 pro-choice votes in the Senate (among 31 members), maybe 40 to 50 votes in the (150-member) House," Ms. Dunham said. "Draw your own conclusions. It looks grim."

Bill Price, director of the Texas Coalition for Life, said a major obstacle to passage of an anti-abortion law is Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who has the power to keep such legislation from coming up for a vote.

Hobby, a Democrat first elected in 1972, is considered no friend of the anti-abortion movement and is blamed by Price and others for preventing several previous attempts to restrict abortion.

But Hobby did not hinder a bill before the last legislative session that restricted abortions in the last three months of pregnancy. Hobby will leave office in 1990. That, along with the timing of the Supreme Court's decision, make the 1990 elections important to activists on both sides of the issue.

North slips through system

Whatever happens from here on, the dismissal of the main charges against Oliver North leaves the Iran-Contra case with more questions than answers. The most important of those questions have to do with the president's knowledge of, and involvement in, the illegal diversion of funds from the sale of weapons to Iran to the support of the armed Nicaraguan opposition. That's an issue that has more than academic consequences. Both the law and constitutional checks were violated, and there is not likely now to be either redress in a court of law or resolution of North's contention that he was innocent because he and his collaborators acted under orders. The charges left for the court — lying to Congress, the petty diversion of funds for personal use — are more likely to look like harassment than prosecution for heinous offenses against democracy.

There is no evidence that the administration's unwillingness to make available the classified documents that North's lawyers demanded for his defense was based on any intention to sabotage that trial. But neither is there doubt that it had little interest in having this prosecution go forward. On the contrary, given the clear potential for embarrassment, it had considerable interest in aborting it.

The heart of the difficulty here lies in the nature of the special prosecutor law itself. Under the law, the government acts with two wills — the will not to investigate and prosecute one of its own, on the one hand, and the special prosecutor's decision to pursue a case, provided the facts warrant it, on the other. And while there are often conflicts within the administration about whether a proposed prosecution — say of an alleged spy — is worth the disclosure of classified data that it may require, those conflicts are generally resolved within an administration acting with a single will.

And yet the case also is unique. It's not likely that the country will soon again have a president as disconnected from his own government, and thus as plausibly ignorant, as Ronald Reagan seemed to be in this case. And while other presidents may be subject to the "gray mail" — the threat that national security secrets and presidential complicity will be exposed if the case goes forward — with which North's lawyers threatened this government, there are remedies for presidents ill-served or illegally served by their subordinates. Unfortunately, in this case, Reagan acted as if North had served him loyally. And for that Reagan himself has to take the blame. The special prosecutor law is a reasonable remedy for a government that refuses to investigate and prosecute its own malefactors. But it cannot guarantee that the president will be either honest or competent.

Cordie Mae's special diet for skinny people

Everybody and his fat sister-in-law is trying to lose weight. I must see 15 different diet programs advertised during just one night of television.

That's fine, but aren't there some people out there who want to gain weight? I see skinny people everyday.

These people look pale, sickly, underfed and they couldn't be happy looking like that.

But nobody helps them. Nobody offers a gain-weight diet. At least I haven't seen one, so I've decided to help.

I phoned an old schoolmate of mine, the former Cordie Mae Poovey, who still weighs more than the mobile home in which she lives with her devoted husband, Hog Philpott.

(Hog's no lightweight himself. Down at Mudd's Gulf, where he works, they refer to Hog as "Al." Al as in Alps.)

As for Cordie Mae, the stork didn't bring her. UPS did. It took the entire plane.

Cordie Mae can look at a bowl of mashed potatoes and sprout a new 45-pound arm. She tried to visit Rhode Island once but they wouldn't let her in. There wasn't enough room.

(I would steal Rodney Dangerfield's line here, but I'm not that kind of person. So I'll give him credit for saying he went out with a girl who was so fat when she wore watches on each of her wrists they were in different time zones.)

I told Cordie Mae of the plight of skinny people and she agreed to share her county-wide, famous "When-Your-Arms-Get-Tired-of-Shoveling-in-the-Food-Then-Eat-With-Your-Feet-Bloatation Diet."

"Just give us a typical one-week program," I said.

"I'd be happy to," said Cordie Mae, reaching into her icebox for a quart of lard on which to snack while she dictated her gain-weight diet. Clip and save the following:

MONDAY: Breakfast, a dozen eggs, six cinnamon rolls, a chocolate cake, then go to Shoney's for the breakfast buffet. Lunch, a jar of mayonnaise, three Wendy's double cheeseburgers, four grape snowcones, and a gross of Butterfingers. Dinner, a barbecued goat, hold the mayo. You've had enough of that for lunch.

TUESDAY: Breakfast, a dozen chocolate Dove bars, a liter of Pepsi, and whatever was left of the barbecued goat. Lunch, call Dominos for pizza. Order their entire inventory. Dinner, a Waffle House.

WEDNESDAY: Breakfast, a tub of grits (with butter), four vanilla milkshakes and one pork chop for every year you've been able to vote. Lunch, all the pork chops you want, no limit. Dinner, what the heck. Eat another barbecued goat.

THURSDAY: Breakfast, a dozen Twinkies, and then go to Baskin-Robbins for some real food. Lunch, some munchies from Kroger. The entire aisle. Dinner, a gallon of mashed potatoes and a banana-split salad.

FRIDAY: Breakfast, two boxes of donuts, and a jar of peanut butter mixed with whipped cream. Lunch, fill up the back of your truck at the McDonald's drive-through window. Dinner, one large buffalo cooked any way you want.

SATURDAY: Just lay around the trailer all day and relax with a vat of banana pudding.

SUNDAY: A day of rest. Send your husband or wife out for tacos, and stop by the Chinese place for egg rolls and then go to the deli for potato salad and cheesecake. And if a chicken walks through your house, knock it in the head and fry it in case The Colonel is closed when you need a midnight snack.

Cordie Mae says good luck — and good gaining.

QUESTION: WHEN IS A PARDON NOT A PARDON?

CLASSIFIED INFORMATION.
ANSWER: SORRY...THAT'S

Nixon should have stopped Gadhafi cold

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — If Moammar Gadhafi has become a pain in the American derriere, we can thank Richard Nixon, who likes to boast that, whatever his inadequacies, he guided U.S. foreign policy with uncommon skill.

It is worth recalling, therefore, how he handled Gadhafi's arrival on the world stage. Gadhafi was a 20-year-old communications lieutenant when he overthrew the legitimate government of Libya in 1969.

He headed a band of young conspirators, representing no constituency in particular, who usurped power at gunpoint. By an Arabian Nights ruse, they got the palace guards drunk, carried them off to prison, then crept through the darkened streets in the wee hours to arrest the key leaders.

Gadhafi displaced a constitutional government, which had succeeded ages of foreign rule and imposed puppets. King Idris I had followed a pro-Western policy and became the preeminent oil supplier of several NATO countries. Overnight, Gadhafi tore up existing treaties, proclaimed his alignment with radical Arab states and indulged in radical rhetoric and posturings.

The young pretender displayed all the symptoms of deep hostility toward the United States. The second day after the coup, the revolutionary junta demanded that Wheelus Air Force Base, then the centerpiece of the U.S. defense system in the Mediterranean, suspend flight operations temporarily. The purpose was to block any arrivals or departures not under junta control.

The United States immediately complied, thus according sovereignty to what was merely a splinter group of pretenders.

Shortly after the junta, the U.S. Air Force rescued a Libyan Jew from the Gadhafi's clutches by hiding him in a crate supposedly carrying musical instruments and flying him safely to Malta. The junta raised a howl when the escape was discovered. The United States, which in a more robust age would have gloried in the deed, officially apologized and agreed to allow more Libyan controls at Wheelus.

Not long afterward, the United States meekly closed down its most important foreign base at Gadhafi's request.

We have it from Nixon's then-national security adviser, Henry

On the right

Kissinger, that the U.S. government debated within itself whether to accept or reject the Gadhafi seizure of power and that Kissinger had analyses made of various actions that could be taken against it.

The Central Intelligence Agency insisted that it would be simple to engineer a coup and replace Gadhafi with a leader more friendly to the West. What's more, the United States could have acted not as a conqueror, but as a defender of the lawful government, interceding at its request.

What then, with the redoubtable Richard Nixon at bat, was the rationale behind what Kissinger would later confess as his administration's passivity in Libya?

The State Department's explanation, given in a Senate inquiry, was that there was a local intelligence failure which made misjudgements unavoidable. Kissinger's suggestion is probably more accurate. He said that the lower echelons of the U.S. foreign policy apparatus were soft-headed about America's true interests and had a schoolboy's crush on left-wing revolutionaries.

Or, as Kissinger put it, "The working level of our government, especially in the State Department, operated on the romantic view that Third World radicalism was really frustrated Western liberalism."

TERRORIST WAR — The existence of a chemical weapons plant in Libya is a danger, but not because Moammar Gadhafi would embroil his country in a declared war with a chemical arsenal. The worry is that Gadhafi, the darling of international terrorists, will supply chemical weapons to them. The low cost of chemical weapons makes them attractive to terrorists. Chemical weapons can also be smuggled into a target area without detection. And the United States is a wide-open target area. In fact, one expert has warned the Secret Service that a terrorist, posing as a tourist, could stroll through the White House with a tour group and leave behind a poison that would kill everyone in the building.

Heros and fanatics

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The last few weeks have convinced me that most of the trouble in this world can be traced back to one cause: ardent believers.

Ardent believers in the rightness of their causes have blown airplanes out of the sky and car-bombed whole cities, assassinated presidents and overturned governments, infiltrated jungles and conducted suicidal raids on the nation's banks.

Ardent believers are people like John Hinckley, who ardently believed that if he succeeded in killing an American president, the girl of his dreams would fall in love with him.

Ardent believers are people like Moammar Gadhafi.

We might not have had a Spanish Inquisition in a world without ardent believers; the Salem witch trials might not have been conducted; World War II might have been — no, surely would have been — avoided, were there not ardent believers in the rightness of the Nazi cause, Mussolini's programs and Hirohito's Empire of the Rising Sun.

Ardent believers are people like Reza Pahlavi — and Ruhollah Khomeini. Much of the agony in Iran and Iraq today can be traced to the ardency of their beliefs in fundamentally opposed courses of national development.

For that matter, so may much of the grief so abundant in Lebanon. Were it not for pro-Israeli Revolution forces and Palestinian homeland advocates, the Zionist question wouldn't be a source of guerrilla warfare and terrorism.

Yasser Arafat would be an unheralded desert pirate, not the man for whom the United Nations moved to Geneva in special session.

Ardent believers created the Soviet Union. Equally ardent believers are striving to bring the Soviet Union into the real world today through such seemingly impossible quests as perestroika and glasnost.

At least some of our ardent believers, Jim and Tammy Baker wouldn't have their own television show anymore — and neither would Jimmy Swaggart. Pat Robertson would be just another would-be president.

Ardent believers are inspira-

Write from the heart

tional figures too, though. Consider what the legends of English and French history would lack in appeal were it not for such ardent believers as Joan of Arc and D'Artagnan.

The world would not be richer without ardent believers. It would not be more peaceful. It would not be more satisfactory. What it would be is lacking — lacking in the energy and strength with which ardent believers try to live up to their convictions.

It would be something else, too: a place without Holy Grails, justice for all, civil rights, and professional sports teams.

It would be a world bereft, in many ways, of the essential spice of life — variety, debate, excitement.

And it would be bereft of the beautiful aspects of ardent faith, as well as the horrors such ardent faiths can provoke.

Without ardent faith in the rightness of his cause, we wouldn't have had Franklin Delano Roosevelt pledging to rebuild the American economy; Ronald Reagan negotiating to reduce the world's stockpiles of nuclear weapons with Mikhail Gorbachev; we would not have had Greg "Pappy" Boyington leading his Black Sheep and their battered Corsairs across the skies of the Pacific; Winston Churchill pledging all Britain had — blood, sweat and tears — to overcome Hitler.

We would have been without Norman Vincent Peale were it not for ardent believers, without a U.S. Constitution, a Bill of Rights, a Miranda ruling and in all probability a nation, had not the insistence of the Mayflower party's beliefs driven them to Plymouth Rock.

Without ardent believers, our terrorists, our enemies, our targets for opprobrium. But it would deprive us of something far more important.

If we didn't have believers, we wouldn't have heroes.

Quotes

"I think we ought to take the president-elect at his word and hold him to his call for a kinder, gentler nation where peace and justice are in fact a reality. But a kinder, gentler nation will require kinder, gentler leaders." — Coretta Scott King speaking in her "State of the Dream" speech on what would have been the 60th birthday of her late husband, slain civil rights leader Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

"They are generally experienced, hopefully pragmatic people, and we won't have the rigid ideology of the first Reagan term."

— Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, saying he is impressed with President-elect Bush's cabinet appointees and expects the Senate to work well with them.

"It's more than a symbol. It tells you, by its very presence, that you still have a long way to go." — Secretary of State George P. Shultz renewing his call for the tearing down of the Berlin Wall as he arrived in Vienna for the signing of a review on the 35-nation Helsinki accord on security and human rights in Europe.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed:

Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes.

They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered.

They must be signed, free of libelous statements and in good taste. Political endorsements won't be accepted during a campaign. Letters listing numerous donors to projects are not published.

Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published.

Homestead offer gets response

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An offer of free 40-acre parcels for people willing to settle in a remote county on the Canadian border has brought more than 4,000 inquiries, some from as far afield as West Germany and Guam.

"It's been mind-boggling," said Jim Lemieux, a member of the Bidead Advisory Council in International Falls, county seat of Koochiching County.

Homesteaders will be required to build a home and live there for at least 10 years. They are expected to be self-sufficient, so as not to drain the local economy, and are subject to an extensive credit and criminal-records check.

The offer received widespread publicity last month, and since then Lemieux said the county has received inquiries from all 50 states and Canada, Ireland, England, West Germany, Spain, Mexico, Japan, Puerto Rico and Guam.

The 4,000 calls and letters add up to more than a quarter of Koochiching County's population of about 15,700, scattered over 3,120 square miles and eight communities in an area about 300 miles north of Minneapolis.

The county's population has dropped by about 2,000 since 1980.

Marcos returns to hospital

HONOLULU (AP) — Former Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos was in guarded condition with pneumonia after entering St. Francis Medical Center for the third time in little more than a month, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The 71-year-old Marcos, also suffering from bronchial asthma, returned to the hospital Sunday afternoon, said nursing supervisor Cindy Miller.

He was moved to intensive care, according to Marcos spokesman Gemmo Trinidad. Ms. Miller said she was unauthorized to confirm that. His two previous hospital stays, one for nine days and the other for seven, were for treatment of congestive heart failure, his doctors said.

A federal court hearing was scheduled for Thursday in New York to determine if Marcos is healthy enough to travel there for arraignment on racketeering charges.

An indictment returned Oct. 21 accused the Marcoses of plundering more than $100 million from their homeland and using the money to buy art and real estate

Skaters die after fall through ice

BANGOR, Pa. (AP) — Four skaters, including a mother and her two young children, died after they fell into a frigid lake despite a fisherman's efforts to save them and signs warning of thin ice, authorities said.

Carolee A. Strunk, 27, her children, April, 8, and Jared, 5, and the children's playmate, SaraAnn Bowers, 8, all of East Bangor, were walking across the lake when the ice cracked underneath them, authorities said.

The group had planned to go skating at the popular ice-fishing spot 65 miles north of Philadelphia, said Monroe County Coroner Robert Allen.

The four were in the water about 35 minutes before they were rescued, and clung to life up to nine hours after the accident. They fell through the ice about 150 yards from shore, said Capt. Darryl Moser of the Portland Ambulance Corps diving unit.

One of the first rescuers to arrive, Detective Sgt. Joseph Vitorio of the Upper Mount Bethel Township Police Department, said he also tried to help but turned back when he realized the ice would break again.

The ice was 1 to 1½ inches thick in the area, said Moser, who responded with three divers and two other rescuers.

Signs warning of thin ice were posted near the area and the victims were only 75 feet from open water, Moser said.

"I don't know if they didn't see the signs or just didn't pay attention to them," he said.

No need to pass hat for Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Reagan heads "back to the ranch" on George Bush's inauguration day, he will carry with him a passel of perquisites that presidents receive when they become former presidents.

For one thing, he will fly to California on Air Force One, but that's only a one-shot deal. The plane will be flown back to Washington without him and after that will be earmarked for the new president.

There will be no need, however, to pass the tin cup for Reagan. Unlike such early presidents as Thomas Jefferson, who had to sell his books to make ends meet, Reagan will, like other recent ones, be quite comfortably off.

He gets two pensions, around-the-clock Secret Service protection, an office allowance and the use of a townhouse in Washington. In addition, the government will pay to ship his papers to California, process them and run his presidential library.

Reagan already receives a pension of $29,188 a year from the state of California, because of his eight years as governor.

Now, with eight years as president under his belt, he will receive a federal pension equal to the annual salary of a member of the Cabinet. This is currently $99,500 but will jump to $155,000 if Congress approves a salary increase Reagan has recommended.

The Secret Service protection applies to both the president and his wife, Nancy. Should Reagan die, she would receive lifetime protection unless she remarried. The Reagans' children will receive no protection, since they are all adults.

Former Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., who waged a campaign to scale back benefits for former presidents during his Senate career, estimated the cost of the Secret Service protection at $9.3 million in 1986. This covered former Presidents Ford and Carter, but not Nixon, who chose to hire private bodyguards.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see that double in the first year that Reagan is out of office," said Robert Coakley, who was Chiles' staff director and is now on the staff of Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio.

Coakley said the first year out of office is always the most expensive because of equipment purchases.

Also, although Reagan spoke in his final presidential radio address Saturday of going "back to the ranch," he and Mrs. Reagan actually plan to live in a fashionable Los Angeles neighborhood and continue to use their 688-acre ranch north of Santa Barbara as a vacaallowances, but it failed to win approval in the House.

Chiles did secure enactment of a bill requiring the private backers who put up the funds to build presidential libraries also to create an endowment to underwrite the cost of running them. There's a catch, though. At the insistence of the administration, the bill exempted the Reagan library, now being built in Simi Valley, Calif.

In addition to the cost of running the library, National Archives spokeswoman Jill Brett said an estimated $500,000 is ticketed for moving Reagan's presidential papers to California and $1.3 million for renovating and equipping storage room for them in the Archives' facility at Laguna Niguel and in rented space at Culver City.

James B. McKinney, director of the White House Military Office, which oversees transportation, medical and other services for the president, said those services will be available to the ex-president for six months, but he will have to pay for them. Weinberg said Reagan expects to use only "some limited communications support to facilitate the transition."

Reagans' personal finances are hard to measure, since most of his assets are in a blind trust. His latest government financial disclosure form, which discloses assets in broad categories, said only that the trust is worth more than $250,000. The Reagans bought their ranch for $526,000 in 1974 and made $127,000 in improvements to it eight years later. The new home in Los Angeles was purchased for $2.5 million by California friends from whom the Reagans are leasing it for a reported $15,000 a month.

Both of the Reagans plan to write books and make speeches, for which they are expected to command handsome fees.

All in all, if Reagan's presidential limousine turns into a pumpkin at the stroke of noon on Friday, it certainly should be a prize pumpkin.

DHAKA, BANGLADESH — People gather around damaged train cars after an express passenger train and mail train collided Sunday. At least 100 people were reported killed and 1,000 others injured in the accident.

Signal mix-up possible cause of head-on crash

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Operators using a newly-installed system may have given the wrong signal to two trains that crashed head-on, killing at least 110 people and injuring 1,000 in the country's worst rail accident, officials said.

About 40 people remained in critical condition today, according to one hospital official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, and the government declared a day of mourning.

The 10-car express train and seven-car mail train slammed into each other Sunday outside the farming village of Maizdi Khan, sending cars tumbling and tossing passengers into freshly-harvested rice paddies.

The express train was traveling at about 50 mph, the mail train coming to a halt, authorities said.

Communications Secretary Mazurul Karim estimated that more than 2,000 people were aboard the trains, many of them Moslem pilgrims. He said, however, that people routinely ride between the cars and on the roofs, making a precise count difficult.

Rescue workers using two large cranes to pull apart the crumpled wreckage finished the search for victims early today and reopened the track. Karim said no bodies were found inside.

Shortly after the accident, senior officials of the state-run railroad said they suspected operators may not have known how to properly work a sophisticated digital signaling system installed five days earlier.

The government appointed a commission to investigate the collision and ordered that the panel's findings be ready within two weeks.

At the scene, sobbing relatives tried to look for loved ones among rows of bodies laid alongside the single track, but were held back by police.

The government offered $3,125 as compensation to relatives of the dead and $2,560 to each of the injured.

Officials said many involved in the crash were pilgrims traveling to Tongi, where hundreds of thousands of Moslems have gathered for Biswa Ejtama, or World Congregation, Islam's largest gathering after the Haj in Mecca.

Firecrackers set bus on fire

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Firecracker powder ignited by a cigarette engulfed a Vietnamese passenger bus in flames, killing at least 43 people, official Radio Hanoi reported.

The bus suddenly burst into flames on Saturday while waiting to cross a bridge in Thanh Hoa province south of the capital of Hanoi, the radio said. A text of Sunday's broadcast was seen in Bangkok today.

"According to initial reports, 43 people were killed and four others seriously injured," it said. "The fire was caused by a large amount of firecracker powder carried on the bus by passengers which was ignited and set off by a cigarette butt."

The brief broadcast said the express bus was travelling from Hanoi to Nghe Tinh province just south of Thanh Hoa.

Austerity program imposed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Jose Sarney has laid off 60,000 government employees, frozen wages and prices and revamped the currency in a program of "national salvation" designed to combat 93.3 percent inflation.

"No democracy can be preserved in a situation of hyperinflation," he said in announcing the austerity program to the nation late Sunday. "We need to summon our courage to make sure that we don't see blood and tears. To avoid that, we must rely on our sweat and sacrifice."

Union leaders immediately threatened to call for a nationwide general strike to protest the measures, which eliminate a system that ties wage increases to inflation.

The new program is the fourth major package of economic measures imposed by Sarney, who took office in March of 1965, ending 21 years of repressive, right-wing military rule.

The program scraps the automatic monthly indexing of contracts, savings accounts and most financial transactions to cost of living increases.

Union figures show that in the past two years, workers' purchasing power has dipped by about 40 percent due to inflation.

Brazil's inflation rate hit an all-time-high annual rate of 933 percent in 1988, substantially higher than 366 percent during the previous year.

Brazil is the Third World's leading debtor nation, owing $115 billion.

Two Koreas agree to talks

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Communist North Korea today agreed to rival South Korea's proposals to hold the highest-level political and military talks on easing tensions since the Korean War.

Prime Minister Yon Hyung Mok of North Korea accepted the south's proposal that he and his South Korean counterpart, Kang Young-hoon, should head their respective delegations at talks to be held in both country's capitals.

Yon repeated the north's demand for separate talks with South Korea and the United States on reducing tension on the divided peninsula. He also demanded an end to annual South Korea-U.S. military exercises.

"It is obvious to everyone that the north and south can not fundamentally resolve the question of peace by setting aside the United States, which is the party responsible for the aggravation of tension," the letter said.

South Korea and the United States have rejected the north's demands for separate three-way talks.

The two sides have failed to make progress on improving relations in scattered talks over the past two decades, and a major diplomatic breakthrough is seen as unlikely by many observers as long as North Korean leader Kim Il Sung remains in power.

Kim ordered the 1950 invasion of the south that started the Korean War.

Forgive the errors of others and you will know true peace

DEAR READERS: Did you know there is an International Forgiveness Week? Well, neither did I, until last year. And this is the week.

If you are a card-carrying member of the human race, there is at least one person in your life who needs your forgiveness. Or perhaps it's YOU who needs to be forgiven. So, get aboard the mea culpa bandwagon. Robert Muller, former assistant secretary-general of the United Nations, wrote this piece especially for International Forgiveness Week:

DECIDE TO FORGIVE
Decide to forgive
For resentment is negative
Resentment is poisonous
Resentment diminishes and devours the self.

Dear Abby

Be the first to forgive,
To smile and to take the first step.
And you will see happiness bloom
On the face of your human brother or sister.
Be always the first
Do not wait for others to forgive
For by forgiving
You become the master of fate
The fashioner of life
The doer of miracles.

To forgive is the highest,
Most beautiful form of love.
In return you will receive
Untold peace and happiness.

Here is the program for achieving a truly forgiving heart:
Sunday: Forgive yourself.
Monday: Forgive your family.
Tuesday: Forgive your friends and associates.

Wednesday: Forgive across economic lines within your own nation.
Thursday: Forgive across cultural lines within your own nation.
Friday: Forgive across political lines within your own nation.
Saturday: Forgive other nations.
Only the brave know how to forgive. A coward never forgives.

It is not in his nature.
—ROBERT MULLER

Many years ago, B.C. (Before Column), I came across this particularly poignant description of forgiveness:

"Forgiveness is the fragrance of the violet which still clings fast to the heel that crushed it." No source was credited, so I searched for years until I finally found it. And here it is:

FORGIVENESS
by George Roemisch
Forgiveness is the wind-blown bud which blooms in placid beauty at Verdun.
Forgiveness is the tiny slate-gray sparrow which has built its nest of twigs and string among the shards of glass upon the wall of shame.

Forgiveness is the child who laughs in merry ecstasy beneath the toothed fence that closes in Da Nang.

Forgiveness is the fragrance of the violet which still clings fast to the heel that crushed it.

Forgiveness is the broken dream which hides itself within the corner of the mind oft called forgetfulness, so that it will not bring pain to the dreamer.

Forgiveness is the reed which stands up straight and green when nature's mighty rampage halts, full spent.

Forgiveness is a God who will not leave us after all we've done.

DEAR ABBY: The question of what to do when an artist gives you one of his paintings, and it's not to your taste, reminded me of this: I know of a good California artist who, when visiting friends to whom he had foolishly given one of his best works, looked around the house and didn't see the painting anywhere. He searched all the closets, finally found it, put it under his arm and took it home without a word!

Lions International hosts annual mid-winter conference

Despite depressed economic conditions in the wake of the oil boom collapse six years ago, Lions of District 2A-1 have nearly halted membership loss and are expanding civic service, according to a report from the organization's annual mid-winter conference conducted Saturday in Big Spring.

On the international front, Donald E. Banker, third vice president of Lions International, Terrance, Calif., informed participants that membership is gaining and is now past the 1,360,000 mark.

Lions International Foundation is expanding its philanthropies around the globe, with Japan now replacing the USA as the chief supporter, Banker said.

The association has added a "marketing division" to sell people on membership.

Echoing a report by Leonard Hanson, district membership chairman, Midland, Banker said the greatest opportunities for gains lie with young people, women and senior citizens.

Hanson reported the Concho Valley Club that is organizing in San Angelo will be the first club strictly for senior citizens.

A new women's Lions Club is organizing, and Banker noted that in many countries the women are melding rapidly into Lions International, which is the only service club which welcomes women in every country.

Banker told the group assembled at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum that another development is a "debriefing" of district governors at the end of their terms to learn what is going on and what national and area needs really are.

Past International president Eb

Lionesses listen to speaker Oscar Cook, Lioness chairman, San Angelo, during a meeting at Wesley United Methodist Church Saturday during the Lions International mid-winter conference.

Grindstaff, Ballinger, speaking to his own district, introduced the term "revisco," to succeed in the face of adversity to challenge 2A-1 Lions. District Gov. J.E.

Barrington, Midland, declared "the way to do it is together." Reports from various zones reflected a proliferation of humanitarian activities from scores of eye glasses, to eye banks, to diabetes screening and research, to 11,000 high school anti-drug programs, to a VCE-equipped van for hearing impaired children — the first multi-district enterprise in the area.

The meeting drew good attendance, especially during the banquet Saturday evening at Howard College, in spite of ice and snow.

Lions and ladies joined at noon for a luncheon at Wesley Methodist Church, where the Lionesses attended a meeting.

Big Spring Evening Lions hosts for the two-day gathering of Lions from Midland, Sweetwater and Ozona-Lake Buchanan, placed Lt. Gov. Robery Noyes, Big Spring, in nomination for district governor at the April 14-15 meeting in Brownwood.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jay Leno, Corbin Bernsen and Ed McMahon were among the 250 celebrities and friends who honored NBC entertainment president Brandon Tartikoff at a surprise 40th birthday party at Dodger Stadium.

Tartikoff was flown by helicopter into the stadium Sunday where he was met by a marching band and Leno, who was host of a "This is Your Life, Brandon Tartikoff" tribute.

Among the stars cheering in the stands were McMahon, Bernsen and his wife, actress Amanda Pays; Bernsen's fellow "L.A. Law" actor Harry Hamlin and his wife, Laura Johnson of ABC's "Heartbeat"; Justine Bateman and Michael Gross of "Family Ties"; George Wendt and John Ratzenberger of "Cheers"; Anthony Denison, Susan St. James, Sandy Duncan and Dodgers

JOHNNY CARSON manager Tommy Lasorda. The party was arranged by Tar-tikoff's wife, Lilly. Guests received blue baseball caps that said "Brandon, still a wonder at 40," a reference to his former nickname as the boy wonder of television programming.

"This has all been overwhelming," Tartikoff told the crowd. "Not only has my life been so blessed and so wonderful, but I wondered (when I was flying in here) when will my life be happier than at this moment?"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly nine years after former President Jimmy Carter commuted Patty Hearst's prison sentence, President Reagan is looking into a possible pardon for the newspaper heiress.

Reagan was asked Sunday on his return to the White House from Camp David whether he planned to pardon Ms. Hearst, who received a seven-year sentence for par-

PATTY HEARST participating in the armed robbery of a San Francisco bank.

"All of this thing, I have asked everybody to look into this for me," he replied.

He walked into the White House without elaborating.

After Carter commuted her sentence, Ms. Hearst was released from prison Feb. 1, 1979. She had served 23 months.

Ms. Hearst last August made a quiet bid for a pardon, asking for forgiveness for her role in the 1974 robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch.

She has maintained she was brainwashed by the radical Symbionese Liberation Army, a group of self-styled revolutionaries who abducted her in Berkeley, Calif., in February 1974 and orchestrated the bank heist.

Chapter mothers meet

The American Gold Star Mother Chapter met Thursday at the home of Martha Moody.

President Kathryn Thomas presided and opened the meeting according to ritual.

Chaplain Odell Turner voiced the ritual prayer.

Chaplain Turner, escorted to the altar by Sargent-at-arms Betty O'Brien, draped the chapter charter in memory of Marie Clyburn.

Kathryn Thomas and Betty O'Brien served refreshments Dec. 21 at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. Christmas gifts were presented to the third floor patients.

The community service report noted that 11 trays of food were given to the needy, seven vases of flowers were given to shut-ins, and $36 was donated to charity.

The February meeting will be at the home of Odell Turner.

Jones wins in overtime

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Steve Jones describes himself as a "staircase player."

But now he's taking the steps two at a time.

"I learn something, then work on it and use it to take the next step up," Jones said. "I can't believe it," he said. "I win one tournament in five years and then come out — not really feeling like I was ready to come out — and start off Boom-Boom."

Boom No. 1 came in the Tournament of Champions at La Costa a little over a week ago when he scored a three-shot victory in an elite gathering of winners only from the 1988 season.

Boom No. 2 came Sunday at Bermuda Dunes when he made up three shots over the last three holes of regulation play, then beat Paul Azinger and Sandy Lyle in a sudden death playoff in the Bob Hope Classic.

It made him the first man since Gil Morgan in 1983 to sweep the first two events on the PGA Tour schedule.

And it came as something of a surprise to the 30-year-old who scored his first career victory less than a year ago.

He was expecting to miss the cut until he scored two eagles en route to a 9-under-par 63 Saturday that put him back in the tournament. And he was playing for second after 87 holes of the 90-hole, five-day tournament.

"I wasn't even thinking about Paul (Azinger, the tournament leader)," Jones said. "I was just trying to get second."

But he ran in a 10-foot birdie putt on the 16th hole and then chipped in for birdie on the 17th to get to within one stroke of the lead.

When Azinger three-putted for bogey — missing a 6-foot par putt — on the final hole of regulation play, Jones and Lyle suddenly had a second life.

Jones made the most of it. After Lyle and Azinger missed long birdie attempts on the first playoff hole, Jones rapped in the winner from four feet.

"I was very nervous over the putt," he said. "I don't know how I shook it in, but I did."

It was worth $180,000 from the total purse of $1 million and pushed his earnings for the young season to $315,000, more than he'd won in any previous full season.

Each of the three playoff participants played the final round in 3-under-par 69 and finished 90 holes at 343, 17 under par.

"Obviously, I'm incredibly disappointed. I made a mistake when I didn't need to," said Azinger, who also had a chance to win this title a year ago before he five-putted one hole during the final round and four-putted another.

He and Lyle, the burly Scot who holds the Masters title, each won $88,000. Mark Calcavecchia and Lanny Wadkins just missed making the playoff. Wadkins three-putted for par on the final hole and Calcavecchia failed on an 8-foot birdie putt on the same green.

That left him in a tie for fourth with Kenny Knox, Fred Couples and Lanny Wadkins at 344, one shot back. Knox and Couples each shot 69. Wadkins had a closing 68 and Calcavecchia matched par 72.

The tournament is sponsored by Chrysler.

C-City's Russell 1st team all-state

From staff and wire reports Mark Russell led a group of three Colorado City Wolves that were named to the Class 3A all-state football team that was selected by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Russell, a 5-9, 150-pound senior, was the lone Wolf named to the first team. He made the squad as defensive back.

Russell, the Herald's Crossroads Country Honor Roll Defensive Most Valuable Player, has been named to numerous other post-season squads.

Russell had 10 interceptions and three preserved victories that helped the Wolves win the 7-3A championship for the first time in 10 years. He also made 45 tackles and recovered two fumbles. He's also the school's first all-state pick since tight end Don Randle, who went to Eastern New Mexico University, made the squad in 1984.

Making the honorable mention squad were senior fullback Beau Rees and senior linebacker Victor Luera. Rees, a 6-3, 215-pounder, had his second straight 1,000-yard season, rushing for 1,067 yards in 180 carries.

For the second consecutive season the 5-8, 160-pound Luera was Colorado City's leading tackler. Luera made 97 tackles this season.

Cuero's Robert Strait, the No. 3 all-time rusher in Texas high school history, headlines the 3A team.

Strait, one of the top recruited schoolboys in the state this season, is joined in the starting backfield by quarterback Mike Uldrich of Southlake Carroll and running backs Todd Wageman of Springtown and David Blanchard of Southlake Carroll.

Offensive lineman David Leaks of Fairfield is the biggest player on the squad at 6-5, 315.

Robbie Chisolm of Corrigan-Camden is quarterback of the Class 2A team. He is joined in the 2A backfield by Kevin Horace of Groveton, Jerron White of Hemphill and Setrick Dickens of Quanah.

Rice hires coach

HOUSTON (AP) — Fred Goldsmith, assistant football coach for Southwest Conference champion Arkansas, has accepted the position of head football coach at conference doormat Rice, published reports say.

Goldsmith, Arkansas' defensive coordinator for the past five seasons, has accepted a four-year contract and will fly from Fayetteville to Houston this afternoon to sign the contracts, The Houston Post reported today.

Rice is expected to hold a news conference to make the official announcement Tuesday morning.

In addition to Goldsmith's announcement, the school is expected to promote associate athletic director Bobby May to athletic director.

"Obviously, we'd like to wait until Tuesday to announce the new coach," J. Evans Attwell, chairman of the Rice search committee which chose the new coach, told the Houston Chronicle.

"But I don't think it's going to come as any surprise to anyone."

Goldsmith, 44, will become the Owls' third head coach in five years and eighth since 1967. He replaces Jerry Berndt who resigned as Rice's head coach and athletic director last month to accept the head coaching job at Temple. Before Berndt, Watson Brown spent two years with the Owls (1984-85) before returning to Vanderbilt, his alma mater, as head coach.

West defense too tough for East in Shrine Bowl

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The West all-stars managed to contain the East's fleet receiving corps in the 64th annual Shrine game, but they couldn't corral a punter and linebacker on the run.

Two key plays by those players resulted in two touchdowns and a 24-6 East victory Sunday in front of 76,000 fans and dozens of NFL scouts at the nation's oldest collegiate all-star game.

"You have to have big plays in these kinds of games, and they were the ones who got them," West coach Larry Smith of Southern Cal said.

A rash of injuries and other late defections left the East-West game without a true marquee player, and both offenses sputtered for most of the day at sunny Stanford Stadium.

But several players stepped forward to give standout performances and enhance their standing in the NFL draft, among them East running back Lewis Tillman of Jackson State and West strong safety Steve Atwater of Arkansas, selected players of the game. Tillman, who broke Walter Payton's school rushing records, ran for 86 yards and a 1-yard touchdown, and Atwater picked off two passes and made 10 tackles, nine of them unassisted. YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — Robert Drummond started the show for Japanese football fans with a tackle-breaking 41-yard scoring run on the game's first series and his Syracuse teammate, Kris Ingram, effectively ended it with a fourth-quarter interception.

In between, the East All-Stars let the West in the game for only six minutes in a 30-7 triumph, only the fourth for the East in 14 Japan Bowls.

Drummond scored twice, adding a 1-yard touchdown plunge in the second quarter, and ended with 66 yards in eight carries and another 17 in three pass receptions as he won outstanding offensive player honors.

Duke's Anthony Dilweg, who threw three touchdown passes in the East's 21-10 victory over the West in the Hula Bowl a week earlier, threw 10 yards to West Virginia's Anthony Brown for the East's other touchdown.

Pete Stoyanovich of Indiana added field goals of 49, 30 and 22 yards.

After Drummond's early touchdown, the West, led by UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman, went 79 yards in 12 plays for its only offensive success of the game. Aikman completed four of five passes for 43 yards before UCLA teammate Eric Ball scored from the 3.

Then the West's Marcus Turner intercepted a pass by Michigan State's Bobby McAllister.

But Shon Morris of Auburn intercepted Aikman on the next play,

Aikman ended up with five completions in 10 attempts for just 54 yards. The West's other quarter-

San Francisco cornerback just hoping to play

MIAMI (AP) — When the San Francisco 49ers defeated Miami 38-16 in the 1985 Super Bowl, cornerback Eric Wright's spectacular interception was one of the champions' defensive highlights.

Wright's primary goal for next Sunday's Super Bowl against Cincinnati is just to make it onto the field.

The two-time Pro Bowl selection has been battling a chronic groin injury since the end of the 1985 season, and has started only 10 games in the last three seasons.

He came off the bench this season in the 10th game after incumbent right cornerback Don Griffin sustained a separated shoulder, and started the next six games for the 49ers. But in the final game of the season against the Los Angeles Rams, Wright reinjured the groin and hasn't played since.

Wright's status is up in the air for the Super Bowl, just as it is for his future. There has been speculation that the 49ers won't ask him back because he is in the final year of a contract that pays him $425,000 per year. There also is the reality that he might not be able to play next season because of the injury.

"I know I'm at the crossroads," he said. "I missed the last two games, but I'm optimistic that I'll be able to play in the big one."

"I would love to keep playing, but I have a realistic evaluation of things. At one time I thought I could play this game forever, but I'm beyond that stage now."

Even if Wright does finish the season with a flourish, he is concerned that the 49ers management might take a cold, impersonal approach to the contract talks.

"When you don't have a contract, the business part of it becomes a big factor," he said. "I know their stance is going to be how many times I've been injured, and it's a legitimate gripe from a business point of view."

Wright was a second-round draft choice in 1981 out of Missouri, where he played safety. As a rookie, he started in the Super Bowl seven years ago against the Bengals. He has had an excellent if injury-plagued career, but he said he won't hesitate to pull the plug on it if he feels he can no longer compete at a high level.

But he admitted that the big money is extremely hard to walk away from.

"If I play in this game (Super Bowl) and we win, then I'm going to play somewhere next year," he said.

After a pause, he amended his statement somewhat: "Let's say that I'm going to try out somewhere. ... And then again, they might invite me back here."

Prior to the 49ers' 34-9 victory over Minnesota in the first playoff game, Wright asked Coach Bill Walsh for permission to speak to the team in the dressing room. Several players said it was a highly emotional speech, and cited it as being inspirational in the solid victory.

"I told the team that if we lost, that Bill (Walsh) might not be the coach and that they would bring in someone else with different ideas and someone who would probably be a lot tougher," he said. "I said that everything upstairs could change. I told them that a lot of guys, including myself, might not be able to play next year."

Lakers end road woes

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Lakers found an easy way to end their long road losing streak. They played a game in Los Angeles.
Byron Scott scored 28 points and Magic Johnson got 22 as the Lakers beat the Los Angeles Clippers 116-95 Sunday.
Even though the victory at the Clippers' Sports Arena came just eight miles from their home at the Forum, it officially ended the Lakers' eight-game road skid. That tied for the longest in team history.
"We still put on the purple uniforms," said James Worthy, who had 21 points. "It's nice to get one on the road, whether it's 20 minutes from home or anywhere, but we can't dwell on the streak."
The Clippers, meanwhile, lost their ninth straight game.
The Lakers are the NBA's only unbeaten home team at 14-0. But the two-time defending champions are just 10-12 on the road after their first victory away from the Forum since Dec. 13.
The Lakers are 24-3 against their cross-town rivals since the Clippers moved from San Diego to Los Angeles in 1984.
"We just didn't have enough horses to compete with them," Clippers coach Gene Shue said. "We couldn't play much better than we did."
The Lakers scored the first nine points of the second half and increased their lead to 74-57. The Clippers got within 14 late in the game, but no closer.

DALLAS — Dallas Mavericks Brad Davis (15) passes off the ball after Portland Trailblazers Danny Young (21) and Terry Porter (30) go for the double team.

Heat 118, Pacers 117
Rory Sparrow scored 20 points, including four foul shots in the final 19 seconds of the second overtime, and Miami rallied from an early 29-point deficit to beat Indiana and end a 10-game losing streak.
Jon Sundvold scored 25 for Miami, including two 3-point baskets in the last 24 seconds of regulation. A pair of baskets by Miami's Pat Cummings in the final 50 seconds of the first overtime forced a second extra period.

Chuck Person led the visiting Pacers with 29 points.
The Pacers led 54-25 with 4:46 left in the first half.
Bulls 110, Celtics 104
Michael Jordan scored 42 points, Bill Cartwright had 23 and Scottie Pippen 20 as Chicago beat Boston. The Bulls won their season-high fourth straight game. The Celtics fell to 4-11 on the road.
With the score tied at 104, Cartwright made a pair of foul shots with 52 seconds left. Pippen's jump shot with 17 seconds remaining clinched it. Jordan scored 17 points in the fourth quarter.

Reggie Lewis led Boston with 32 points.
Mavericks 111, Trail Blazers 108
Derek Harper made a steal and layup with 17 seconds left as Dallas ended a seven-game losing streak by beating Portland for its first victory of 1989.
Harper's basket made it 110-107 and Detlef Schrempf added a foul shot with 11 seconds left. Portland's Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter missed 3-point attempts as time expired.

Bucks 120, Pistons 112
Terry Cummings scored 26 points and Milwaukee past Detroit for its sixth straight victory.
The Bucks, trailing by eight after three quarters, used a 13-2 burst to overcome a 95-93 deficit. Cummings got five points during the run.
Rickey Pierce added 25 points for Milwaukee.

Knight happier with 499th than with victory No. 500

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Bob Knight's 499th career victory, a one-point decision over Purdue a week ago, was more satisfying than his 500th, a 92-76 triumph over Northwestern.
That's because Knight measures success by how well the Hoosiers play against their potential, not their opponent. And by that standard, he was disappointed in Saturday's 16-point victory.
"We scored 92 points in the game, but I didn't think we executed nearly as well as the (74-73) game at Purdue," he said. "What we're constantly playing against is how good we can be, not how good they are, or how good they were or how good they're going to be or where we're playing or anything else."
"We got into the first part of the Northwestern game and immediately jumped out to an 8-0 lead. ... At no time in the game from then on did we have that kind of control over the ball game," Knight said. "In fact, in what was a much harder game for us on Monday night (at Purdue), we probably had points in that game where, at least relatively speaking, we had better control than we did in this game."
The victory, lackluster though it might have been, improved Knight's career record to 500-183, including a 13-4 mark with a 10-game winning streak this season. The Hoosiers are 3-0 and tied with Illinois for first place in the Big Ten.

The Hoosiers led Northwestern 43-37 at halftime but were outscored 10-3 in the first 2:28 of the second half. The Wildcats, 7-7 and 0-4, took their only lead of the game at 47-46 after two free throws by Bryan Ross.
Indiana scored the next 14 points, including six on a pair of Jay Edwards 3-pointers. The bolt to a 60-47 lead was completed with two free throws by freshman Eric Anderson, who had 13 of his 18 points in the second half. Edwards finished with 22 points.
"We didn't execute well, yet we still scored 92 points," Knight said. "I was particularly disappointed with the opportunities we had to score under the basket and the relatively few points we came away from it."
"We had a pretty good shooting game (58 percent), yet we did not augment our shooting percentage with good free throw shooting, crisp ball handling and alert defensive play," Knight said.
Joe Hillman added 15 points for Indiana and Jamal Meeks and Mark Robinson scored 13 apiece. Brian Schwabe led Northwestern with 17 and Phil Styles had 15.

Duke stays on top; Tar Heels out of top 10

By The Associated Press
After a week which saw nine ranked teams suffer 10 losses, Duke and Illinois remained the top two teams in The Associated Press' college basketball poll while the shuffling continued in the remainder of the Top Twenty and North Carolina had its string of 63 consecutive weeks in the Top Ten ended.
Duke, 13-0, and along with Illinois the only undefeated Division I teams, held the top spot today for the ninth consecutive week in the regular season as well as having been No. 1 in the preseason voting.
They received 51 first-place votes and 1,266 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters to easily outdistance Illinois, 15-0, which was named No. 1 on the other 13 ballots and had 1,229 points.
Duke now has the longest current streak of Top Ten appearances, 26 weeks, since the Tar Heels dropped from the upper half of the poll for the first time since the 1983-84 season.

There was major shuffling in the rest of the poll for the second straight week but two teams — Indiana and Stanford — did rejoin the Top Twenty as they replace Georgia Tech and Providence.
Georgetown, 12-1, jumped from seventh to third with 1,070 points after victories during the week over Pittsburgh and Boston College, the latter without coach John Thompson, who walked off the court before tipoff to protest the recently passed Proposition 42, a new set of academic entrance requirements, which the Hoyas' coach says is discriminatory against certain students.
Louisville, 12-2, also made an impressive jump, moving from ninth to fourth with 998 points after victories over Virginia Tech, South Carolina and Georgia Tech.
Oklahoma, which fell to 13-2 after losing to Pittsburgh on Sunday, dropped two places to fifth with 947 points, 12 more than Michigan, 14-2, which held sixth despite losing to Illinois on Saturday.

Iowa, Missouri, Arizona and Nevada-Las Vegas rounded out the Top Ten.
Iowa was another of the teams to lose last week as the Hawkeyes fell to Minnesota to drop to 13-2 and fall two places from last week with 807 points.
Missouri, 13-3, moved up two places with 779 points, 50 more than Arizona, 11-2, which jumped three spots from last week.
Nevada-Las Vegas, 11-2, moved up one spot from last week after receiving 668 points, 17 more than Syracuse, which started the Second Ten.
Following the Orangemen, who lost games to Villanova and St. John's last week and dropped from fourth in the poll, were Seton Hall, North Carolina, Florida State, North Carolina State, Ohio State, Kansas, Tennessee, Indiana and Stanford.
Last week's Second Ten was Nevada-Las Vegas, Arizona, Seton Hall, Florida State, North Carolina State, Kansas, Tennessee, Ohio State, Georgia Tech and Providence.

Indiana was ranked 20th for the first regular-season poll, then dropped out and fell to 3-4 after consecutive losses to Louisville and Notre Dame. Since then, however, the Hoosiers have run off 10 straight victories, including a 92-76 decision over Northwestern on Saturday, coach Bob Knight's 500th career win.
Stanford was No. 20 in the preseason poll and never was in the Top Twenty in the regular season until this week. The Cardinal fell from the rankings after losing to Indiana in the Big Apple NIT and they are now 12-3 after a two-point victory over Washington and a 42-point decision over Washington State last week.
Georgia Tech, which had been ranked every week of the season, dropped two games to ranked teams — North Carolina State and Louisville — to fall to 10-4.
Providence joined the rankings for the first time last week and lost to Villanova Saturday, the Friars' first loss of the season.

Griffin says player won't be back

Howard College Baseball Coach and Athletic Director Bill Griffin said today that Michael Kokora will not be back at the college.
Kokora, of Boulder, Colo., and Jeffrey Allen Seale, also of Boulder, were charged with second-degree burglary charges for breaking in 16 dormitory rooms on the University of Colorado campus Dec. 27.
Seale was playing baseball for the University of Texas Longhorns and Kokora was an infielder for Howard. Both 18-year-olds were drafted by the New York Mets last year.
"Kokora will not be allowed to return to Howard College this semester," said Griffin. "He has two options. If he wants to transfer to another junior college I'll release him, or if he gets his act together, we can talk to him this summer about returning in the fall."
"But we found out enough about the case to justify our not accepting him back," concluded Griffin.

HC hoop teams play Tuesday

The Howard College Hawks and Hawk-Queens will be hosting Clarendon Junior College in Western Junior College Athletic Conference basketball action Tuesday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.
Women's play begins at 6 p.m., followed by the men at 8.
The Queens, 9-10 overall, and 0-2 in conference play, are coming off a 73-66 loss to Odessa College Friday night. In that game forward Linda Waters turned in a good game for Howard, scoring 13 points and pulling down 12 rebounds. Shannon Lawson scored 20 points and Allana Cummings got eight rebounds.
The Clarendon women are 0-2 in league play.
The Hawks, 12-7 overall and 3-1 in conference play, are coming off a 102-52 bombing of New Mexico Military Institute Thursday.
Terrance Lewis led Howard in scoring with 24 points. Michael New scored 16 and Larry Pettigrew scored 14 points.
The Clarendon men are 2-1 in league play.

SMU loses leading scorer

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist coach John Shumate said the loss of Kato Armstrong won't be restricted just to just what shows up in the scorebook.
Armstrong was leading the Mustangs in scoring this season, but was declared academically ineligible to play for the spring semester, university officials announced Monday.
Shumate said SMU will miss the senior "not only for his outstanding play but also for his character and leadership."

Gunman doesn't faze shot putter

DALLAS (AP) — Randy Barnes of College Station, Texas, recorded the seventh-best indoor shot put ever Saturday with a mark of 71 feet, 10 inches in the Dallas Morning News Games on Saturday.
Barnes, the 1988 Olympic silver medalist, had to overcome an early morning confrontation with an Arkansas gunman. He was confronted by two men in the parking lot of a Little Rock, Ark., motel at 2 a.m. Saturday, following a meet in Jonesboro, Ark.

TCU keeps perfect slate by holding off pesky Owls

The Rice Owls make a habit of shaking the faith of Texas Christian's Horned Frogs on the Southwest Conference basketball court. And, even though TCU won Sunday to maintain a 4-0 record, the latest matchup proved to be no exception.
"Rice scares me to death," TCU coach Moe Iba said before the game. "I probably have spent more time worrying about this game than any thus far."
When TCU blew a 15-point lead before squeaking past the Owls 70-64 Sunday, all Iba could say: "See!"

SWC
With only 10:20 left in the game, Rice stood behind at 53-38. But as the clock ran down to less than a minute remaining, the Owls stood only five back.
"We pretty much just stood around on offense in the second half," Iba said. "Plus, it seemed like we went forever without a rebound when we really needed one. And, Rice was starting to get in its shooting rhythm."
Fortunately for Iba, TCU received a 55-point scoring lick from frontliners John Lewis (20), Craig Sibley (18) and Rich Antee (17) in staying off the Owls and runnings its SWC record to 4-0.
Now, Iba and his Frogs will be clinging to their one-game lead in Southwest Conference action — Arkansas and Texas are each 3-1 in SWC play — for at least a couple of more days.
"That's how long we have to get ready for our game at Houston," Iba said of the scheduled Wednesday night meeting.

Meanwhile, Arkansas Coach Nolan Richardson is getting the Razorbacks ready for tonight's meeting with the Aggies.
Texas A&M moved to 1-2 in the conference with a 62-53 victory over Baylor Saturday.
Richardson said 6-foot-7 forward Donald Thompson, who is averaging 19 points a game, is "awfully good." According to Richardson, "He's the type of guy who is going to score some points no matter what. That's A&M's biggest plus. He's the one they will go to when they need a hoop. Anytime he gets the ball around the basket, he's going to score on you. He also has a nice jump shot that allows him to be a very tough player to stop."
Arkansas defeated Southern Methodist 93-73 in Fayetteville with a relentless man-to-man defense that wore down the Mustangs.
The Texas Longhorns spent a successful week in Houston, keeping themselves in the conference basketball chase on a winning buzzer shot by Joey Wright and a missed last second shot by Rice's D'Wayne Tanner.
The Longhorns squeaked past Rice 66-65 on Wednesday when Tanner's desperate three-point attempt at the buzzer missed its mark.
"This gives us confidence because to be in the chase you have to win on the road," Texas coach Tom Penders said. "We have possibilities of being an NCAA tournament team."

Hart Lee Dykes were injured in the Hula Bowl a week earlier.
Gillette raced 18 yards out of a punt formation for a second-quarter first down formation that led to the only touchdown of the game's first 52 minutes for either side. It was a nifty bit of deception that found a loophole in the game's strict rules, which prohibit exotic formations and blitzing in order to best showcase the talent of top college seniors.
"That was the turning point," said East coach Mike Gottfried of Pitt. "It was (Miami coach and East assistant) Jimmy Johnson's idea. Johnson reviewed the rules yesterday (Saturday) and gave Gillette the green light."

Smith agreed that it may have been a game-deciding play.
"That fake punt really hurt us, and so did the missed field goal," he said, referring to a bad snap that ruined a 28-yard field goal try that would have given the West a 9-7 lead in the third period.
Olsavsky clinched the victory by chugging 75 yards with an intercepted pass for the final score with 4:40 remaining.

back, Chuck Hartlieb of Iowa, was intercepted twice as he completed five of eight for 40 yards.
"Their defense kept our quarterbacks from getting any opportunities. Our kicking was poor, our passing was poor and we had too many turnovers," said West coach Hayden Fry of Iowa.
For the 29,000 spectators, he added, the East "played American football at its best."
All-American linebacker Derrick

Thomas of Alabama, named the game's outstanding defensive player, said "The West has been arrogant in thinking that they dominate football. But we started a quest this year, and the East has won all four all-star games this year."
After Morris' interception, Stoyanovich lined up to try a 40-yard field goal, but after a bad snap from center he tried a pass and Doug Kline of UCLA intercepted.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1989

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Benjamin Franklin, actor James Earl Jones, hairstylist Vidal Sassoon, actress Betty White.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You thrive in the workplace. Avoid conflicts with higher-ups.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are on your way to the top again. Humor is one of your best allies.

partner also makes a big difference. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You have a chance to make a major career move if you want to.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): There is every reason to feel optimistic today. Your income is steady and will soon rise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Concentrate on your broad overall plan and try not to get bogged down by details.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emotions run high today. If aggravations add up, your temper could erupt before nightfall.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Do something practical to help a person who is in trouble. It may be inexpensive and still demonstrate a great deal of affection.

Someone may show hostility when you expected friendliness. Live and learn — and realize the hidden activity of some of the minds around you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Foreign travel opens up new social and business horizons. Obtain the help of professionals if hoping to turn a clever idea into a commercial success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Retirees find a more interesting lifestyle at a price they can afford. Think about changing directions if you feel bogged down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Look to mate or an old friend for comfort and inspiration. An alliance with a member of your own sex brings special benefits.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An early-morning telephone call leaves you feeling on top of the world! Follow through on your promises.

Warnings on powerful auto stereos falling on deaf ears

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Something strange happens when Peter Hofsaess turns up his car stereo. "It's kind of difficult to breathe and swallow," says the 21-year-old waiter. "The entire car starts moving. You start moving. It's really something if you're not used to it."

Of course, Hofsaess doesn't have your typical factory-installed auto stereo. His Plymouth Sapparo is hooked up with no less than $12,000 worth of Sony equipment that's capable of blasting 143 decibels of music through 24 speakers.

That's louder than a jet taking off or a jackhammer destroying a sidewalk.

The latest expression of automobile hip is a car stereo so big and so loud that it can blow out windshields and bulge car doors. The boom-boom-boom of a superstereo bass has become a common sound along popular cruising spots around the country, and hundreds of competitions called "sound-offs" have been held.

"We love the guys with the cars that go boom," says a Top 40 song by the female rap duo L'Trimm.

But police, community leaders and hearing specialists are concerned. They say the stereos drown out emergency sirens, anger neighbors and can turn the inner ear into mush.

"It's noise pollution," said Sgt. Dennis Zine of the Los Angeles

"To me these stereo competitions are nothing more than a contest to see who can go deaf first," said Dr. Maurice Miller, an audiologist at New York City's Lenox Hill Hospital. "This is dangerous to the point that when these people find out what it's doing to them, it's going to be too late."

Police Department's traffic division. "These cars just drive back and forth, cruising, playing their stereos so loud you can hear it a block away."

"It's a nuisance, and it's dangerous," said Randy Bomgaars, a city councilman in the suburb of Bellflower.

"To me these stereo competitions are nothing more than a contest to see who can go deaf first," said Dr. Maurice Miller, an audiologist at New York City's Lenox Hill Hospital.

For superstereo owners, such talk is harder on the ears than the rock group Van Halen at 124 decibels. To them, the high-powered systems are more than just a hobby.

They're an art form, an expression of individuality and a statement to society.

"Who's anybody to tell me what's too loud?" said Hofsaess, who has been cited a number of times for noise violations. "I mean, what might be too loud for one person, might not be loud enough for another person."

In evaluating workplace noise, the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration calls for abatement when the sound level reaches 90 decibels. And 140 decibels — approaching the peak Hofsaess says his stereo has reached — is considered dangerous for everyone.

Dr. Miller is concerned about boom stereos' effect on the fragile inner ear.

"This is dangerous to the point that when these people find out what it's doing to them, it's going to be too late," he said.

Frank Schettini, 22, of Chatsworth, Calif., said he does understand what his $20,000 stereo system is doing to him.

"I'm partially going deaf, but I blast mine as loud as I can everywhere I go," he said. He said he has reached 141 decibels with his 1,000-watt Rockford-Fosgate system featuring 21 speakers all packed into a customized four-wheel drive Chevrolet pickup called Big Dummy II.

Got the bacon

After having caught a pig by the hind leg, Adam Frysak, 7, son of Mark and Linda Frysak, heads toward the pens. He was among the Glasscock County youth racing after and attempting to catch young swine during the pig scramble as part of the 52nd Glasscock County Junior Livestock Show in Garden City Saturday morning.

Forsan takes part in field testing

Forsan ISD is participating in the field test of the physical science curriculum by the Texas Learning Technology Group. The program, the first of its kind in the nation, uses interactive video. It employs a laser disc, computer program and touch screen monitor to present a full physical science curriculum to students.

According to teacher Dennis Smiley, the program provides a variety of learning styles. It offers computer games to help students develop thinking skills using the science theories.

"I find it exciting working with this program," said Smiley. "It gives me more time to work with individual students in problem areas."

Last year the curriculum was piloted in 12 school districts. This year it is being field tested in 32 districts, three of which are in Seattle, Washington; Bloomington, Indiana; and Alexandria, Louisiana. The curriculum will be marketed to the nation next school year.

Death, divorce, separation, unemployment, handicaps, mental breakdowns, alcoholism, drugs are all crises that a family may sometime have to deal with. Students in the course, Individual and Family Life at Big Spring High School, are currently involved in a study of such problems and ways to prevent or cope with them. They are learning that understanding of each situation is important, and that community resources are available to assist the family.

Teacher Virginia Martin asked students in the one-semester course to rank a list of crises of young adults from most devastating to least devastating. Students uniformly agreed that death of a parent would be most devastating.

The class of high school juniors and seniors studied suicide and received information about recognizing warning signs in family and friends and responding to the troubled individual.

In their study of death, students have discussed the grief process and the role the funeral plays in coping with the crisis. They researched the cost of a funeral and became familiar with such terms as embalming, casket, grave liner, vault, mausoleum, crypt, entombment, cremation, columbarium, niche, and inurnment. In addition, they learned what is required by law.

Today the class visited Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home. Mrs. Martin believes that this study and the field trip will help reduce superstitions and misunderstandings about death. It also makes the students aware of the need for financial planning.

"After we have completed this unit of study, students usually agree that it is one of the most helpful things we do in the course," said Mrs. Martin.

Big Spring High School students enjoyed "Split Second," a multi-media presentation Jan. 11 in the high school auditorium. The presentation, a pre-finals gift to the student body from the student council, provided not only entertainment and relaxation, but also a thought-provoking message.

The multi-image presentation, a Camfel Production, is designed to encourage students to make tough choices before they get into tough situations. An outline provided to teachers encouraged discussion of such concepts as accepting responsibility for one's actions; making split second decisions correctly; and the fact that peers are likely to oppose one's individuality.

Sharon Richardson is the student council sponsor.

A piano recital by the Runnels Piano Class is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the high school choir room; 18 students are enrolled in the class, and each will perform a memorized solo. Afterwards, refreshments will be served. Family members and friends are invited to attend.

A SMILE — In a conference with parents a first grade teacher told them, "I'll believe half of what your child says about home if you'll believe half of what he says about school." This story from St. Mary's Episcopal School illustrates her point.

"My mother is going to San Angelo this week to get the bourbon," the small boy told his teacher.

Puzzled, the teacher asked, "Couldn't your mother buy it here in Big Spring?"

His answer was no, but every day through the week he told the teacher about the prospective purchase of the bourbon.

On Friday he was very excited and said, "My mother is really going to San Angelo today to get the bourbon."

On Monday the teacher asked him, "Well, did your mother go to San Angelo and get the bourbon?"

"Yes," he replied, "but she had to drive it home in a hail storm."

And that's how the teacher and the class learned that his family had purchased a new Suburban.

Fighting crimes with cash

MANSFIELD (AP) — Mansfield High School will pay cash for tips about campus crime in a program that police praise and the American Civil Liberties Union fears could be misused by vengeful teen-agers.

Police and school officials scheduled assemblies last week to explain the Crime Stoppers style program to students and ask for their anonymous help in solving two cases — thefts of a youngster's skateboard and a substitute teacher's car-hood ornament.

Kenneth Clarida, an Arlington police detective who helps administer the Tarrant County Crime Stoppers program, said, "We want students to know that they can be part of the solution or part of the problem."

When youngsters keep silent about a crime, they are assisting the criminals, he said.

Members of the American Civil Liberties Union, though, fears the turmoil of high school romances and other relationships might yield bogus tips, getting innocent students in trouble.

"A guy might use the program to get back at a girlfriend who dumped him or against her new boyfriend," said Don Gladden, general counsel for the Greater Fort Worth chapter of the ACLU.

"Mansfield High School doesn't have any rampant crime," but petty thefts, simple assaults and vandalism occur occasionally in the student body of 1,800, Clarida told the Dallas Times Herald.

By offering rewards, the Crime Stoppers program tries to gather information that otherwise would be unavailable.

Cynthia Williams, the school's alcohol and drug abuse counselor and Crime Stoppers administrator, said students will not be disciplined solely on the basis of a tip.

Williams has appointed a board of five students — who will remain anonymous, to prevent retribution — to consider each reported crime and decide how much of a reward to offer. Cases will be posted on a bulletin board and described in the school newspaper, she said.

The student board has not set any rewards yet, but they probably will be small, Williams said.

"It might be just a few dollars for a pair of gym shorts, but $20 or $25 for a (vandalized or stolen) computer," she said.

The student board plans to raise funds for the program, Williams said.

RUSSELL ROBERTS

Roberts selected

Russell Roberts, a senior at Forsan High School, has been selected to create the CBT lesson using the Quest Authoring System. Forsan is one of 100 high schools in the nation selected to participate in the Quest Authoring experience by Allen Communication, a computer firm located in Salt Lake City.

Dennis Smiley, computer, physical science and chemistry teacher at Forsan, will be working with Russell on the project.

Policeman submits to paddling for investigation

DALLAS (AP) — A police officer who graduated from high school eight years ago came full circle when he became a narc — drinking in the parking lot, going to student parties and even submitting to a paddling to make busts.

David Vessels posed for four months as a senior transfer student at W.T. White High School in northwest Dallas. He worked 80-hour weeks living and acting like a teenager: dressing the style and listening to rock music.

"It was always a job; I was just playing a role," Vessels said Friday. Police last week started making arrests for the 28 drug buys Vessels made during the operation.

Vessels, 25, skipped classes, drank in the parking lot before school and partied on weekends with students of all types who drank beer and boasted of using cocaine, marijuana, ecstasy and other drugs.

Vessels, to avoid retribution by drug dealers, will not allow his photograph to be released. But colleagues said that, with his shoulder-length hair and appropriate clothes, he could pass as a teen.

"One of the first things we told him was to quit being a policeman," said Sgt. David McCoy, Vessels' supervisor during the operation. "When something comes up, we told him, you have to think and act like a kid."

Academia

AUSTIN — Gloria Barr, a teacher of business at Sterling City, is one of 300 Texas teachers nominated for a Texas Excellence Award for outstanding high school teachers. Ten representatives, who will be announced in March, will receive $1,000 checks.

The awards, sponsored by The University of Texas Ex-Students' Association and UT Austin College of Education, recognize creative teachers who make a special effort to prepare their students for higher education.

The ten honorees will be invited to the UT campus in April for a special conference and awards ceremony. In addition to the cash gift, they will receive a commemorative sculpture and individually tailored VIP campus tour.

Gloria Barr, a teacher for 25 years, was nominated by the school's principal.

The Outstanding High School Student of America organization announced that the following have been selected as new members, based on merit and accomplishment. From this area, they include:

Steven M. Butler, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. M.Y. Butler, and of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nason, Big Spring; Will A. Rhodes, the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shive, Big Spring; Douglas E. Read, Austin, formerly of Coahoma, son of William Read, chief financial officer of St. Mary of the Plains Hospital, Lubbock, and the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Bill E. Read, Coahoma; Mark D. Brewer, Pittsburgh, N.Y., senior at Bukmantown Central School, New York, son of David and Sharon Brewer and the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. William Brewer.

FORT WORTH — Brian Jones, son of Clemont Jones and Dorothy Jones, 1900 Goliad, received the master of arts in religious education degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary during commencement ceremonies Dec. 16, while Russ Wayne Rainey, son of Emrie Gorman and Shirlene Rainey, Big Spring, received the doctor of education degree.

President Russell H. Dilday

awarded degrees to 300 students in Southwestern's schools of theology, religious education and church music.

Jones is a 1976 Big Spring High School graduate and a 1981 graduate of Texas Tech University; First Baptist Church, Big Spring, is his home church.

Rainey is married to Janet, whose parents are Leroy and Avis Dudley, Arlington. Fielder Road Baptist Church, Arlington, is Rainey's home church.

Since graduation, Rainey has been serving as staff counselor at Fielder Road Baptist Church, Arlington.

Southwestern, one of six seminaries affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention, is the largest theological school in the world. Each year more than 5,000 men and women train for ministry at Southwestern.

Gentry Shortes, an eighth grader from Ackerly, has been elected to the Student Council at Texas School for the Deaf in Austin. He will serve as sergeant-at-arms.

Shortes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Shortes, Ackerly.

Pricilla M. Escanuela, Connie Gatliff and Lisa D. Riley, all of Big Spring; and Shelly G. Tunnell, Stanton were among 651 West Texas State University students named to the Dean's List for the 1988 fall semester.

Students earning Dean's List recognition achieved a semester grade point average of at least 3.250 (of possible 4.000) with a minimum class load of 12 semester hours.
