WASHINGTON, D.C. — With House Speaker Jim Wright and Vice President Dan Quayle watching, George Bush is sworn in as the 41st President of the United States by Chief Justice William Rehnquist.

By TERENCE HUNT

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON - George Herbert Walker Bush was inaugurated 41st president of the United States today, describing the nation at the end of the Reagan era as prosperous and at peace while adding, "a new breeze is blowing."

Bush told political leaders his would be "the age of the offered hand." To the world, he said, "the offered hand is a reluctant fist. But the fist, once made, is strong and can be used with great effect.

At precisely 11:03 a.m., Big Spring time, Bush recited the 35-word oath of office, resting his left hand on two Bibles held by his wife Barbara. One edition was a family Bible: the other was used by George Washington at his swearing-in 200

Bush took the oath of office at the West Front of the Capitol. He spoke directly to the Democrats who dominate Congress, saying the nation needs "compromise where there has been dissension."

Bush said Republicans and Democrats have often been too mistrustful, an attitude he traced back to the Vietnam war. "The final lesson of Vietnam is that no great nation can long afford to be sundered by a memory," he said. With that, Bush said he meant to

The United Way of Big Spring's denial of a Salvation Army request for an additional fund raising appeal has left the Army's commander concerned that the agency might have to cut services offered to the community.

During the United Way's annual meeting Wednesday, the board voted not to grant the Salvation Army's request for an additional fund raising appeal.

Since the Army is among the agencies that receive United Way funds, its board must approve any requests for additional fund raising drives. Sarah Bordofske, United Way executive director, said the appeal was denied because the organization's board believes that additional fund raising campaigns would inhibit the United Way's ability to generate funds for its member agencies.

The United Way emphasized during its 1988-89 campaign that it serves as an "umbrella" fund raising organization for 10 local nonprofit agencies.

Additional fund raisers by member agencies would serve to "confuse the public" and create misunderstanding about the United Way's role, Bordofske said.

The Salvation Army currently appeals for funds three times each year, which fund the Army's Christmas/Winter relief program, children's summer camp program and world service program.

Bordofske said the United Way allows its member agencies to continue fund raising drives established before the agencies became affiliated with the United Way. However, the vote to deny the Salvation Army's request, "completely caught me off gaurd," said Lt. Tex Ellis, Salvation Army commander.

"I was really expecting them to say, 'fine,' (to the request),' he said.

Ellis - who has served as commander of the local Salvation Army for 19 months - said the Army is experiencing the most difficult financial crisis since he arrived in Big Spring.

The United Way has allocated $29,848 to the Salvation Army this year, but the agency requested $78,000, Bordistike said: Mikrotinishina

She said member agencies' requests are typically more than what is eventually allocated.

The Salvation Army's 1989-90 budget is more than $250,000, Ellis said. It receives more than $200,000

Garden City damage is gone with the wind

By SARAH LUMAN

GARDEN CITY — Six weeks after an unseasonable windstorm did more than $25,000 damage to the Glasscock County Independent School District's new athletic facility, no signs of the destruction remain.

Although contractor Lee eorge said today the project behind schedule since the accident occurred, site secretary Dean George noted that only a portion of one day was lost when the building blew down.

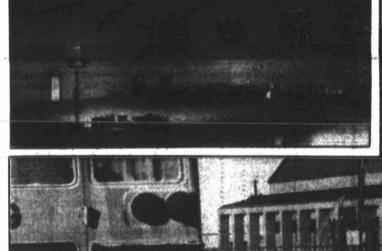

The concrete block and metal structure appears to be rapidly nearing completion. Mrs. George said the millwork and doors for the building should arrive "about the first of the month.

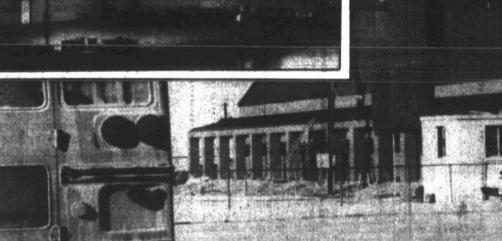

"It's about four weeks behind schedule," Lee George said. The Dec. 12 accident caused $25,760 damages to the structure.

Work on the building resumed the Thursday following the accident. "Of course we lost the rest of that (Monday) because of the danger out there," Mrs. George said. "But that was the only work day we lost.'

The sudden gust of wind entered the building's partly complete north wall and slammed into the south wall full force. It shed concrete blocks from the walls' skin and left the metal upper half of the wall billowing, sail-fashion.

By today, not only had the rubble from the concrete walls been removed, but progress in construction in the intervening weeks

Fire marshal Settles is the likely choice

By BRAD WORRELL Staff Writer

Big Spring will soon have a new fire marshal, providing the city council agrees to new civil service classifications at its Jan. 24 meeting, City Manager Hal Boyd said this morning.

'The City Council meets again on (Jan.) the 24th — it's on the agenda for then," said Burr Lea Settles, candidate for fire marshal and current acting fire marshal. Settles said he believes the job will begin immediately if approved by the city council.

If the city council approves the new classifications, it will be the fire chief's decision to appoint the fire marshal, Boyd said. He said he believes if the proposition is accepted Settles could be appointed the following day. He is the only candidate for the job,

Montford's insurance push praised, blasted

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Consumer groups applauded an investigative report on the State Board of Insurance, which said the insurance regulatory agency is "dangerously mismanaged.

State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, who initiated the probe, has urged Gov. Bill Clements to ask for the resignations of all three board members.

"Recent insurance company insolvencies and a lack of responsiveness to consumer complaints have left Texans wondering what's going on at the Insurance Board," said Consumers Union director

John Hildreth on Thursday. Public Citizen and Texas Consumer Association also joined in approval of the report. Now consumers know what the problem is - a lack of a priority commitment to policyholders on the part of the board," Hildreth

He said there needs to be a clean sweep of the board. "I think it is timely in the sense that if we act now we can avoid a lot of problems," he said.

But Insurance Board members blasted Montford.

"In my view, the nature of the report suggests a witch hunt rather than an objective inquiry," said Board Chairman Edwin Smith Jr.

In separate news conferences, chairman Smith and board member David Thornberry said they would not resign, although Smith, a Clements appointee, said he would tender his resignation if the governor requested it.

Clements' spokeswoman Rossanna Salazar said Clements would review Montford's report. Other Montford said the probe shows state leaders had mixed reactions

Bentsen Sr. was eulogized Thursday as a South Texas pioneer and devoted family man at a funeral attended by more than 1,000 at McAllen's First Baptist Church. The 95-year-old elder Bentsen

Waiting for justice

LOVELADY (AP) - In his white uniform, in a room bound by metal bars, convicted police killer Randall Dale Adams describes the seemingly endless waiting game he plays.

It's a game he's accustomed to after more than 12 years in state prison, mostly at the Eastham Unit, a sprawling prison farm in East Texas sometimes called America's toughest.

But even after a judge ruled in his favor last month in a request for a new trial and the movie "The Thin Blue Line" questioned his guilt in the 1976 fatal shooting of Dallas police officer Robert Wood, Adams, now 40, doesn't expect his waiting to end soon. "I'm still at Eastham" is the refrain of his conversation.

"Don't think 13 years is the ending to it, because it's not," said Adams, who has been serving a life sentence since his death sentence was commuted in 1980.""This is the beginning of the end, but it's taken 13 years to get back to square one.'

At a Dallas hearing in December, state District Judge Larry Baraka ruled that Adams did not receive a fair trial. The judge recommended he be granted a new one or set free.

At that hearing the key witness against Adams changed his story and testified that Adams didn't commit the murder and wasn't even in the car Wood stopped just before he was gunned down.

Lower rates give needed boost to oil companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior [Secretary Donald P. Hodel took steps in his last day on the job to boost the nation's oil production by granting new benefits to oil

Following reports this week of slumping U.S. oil production, Hodel on Thursday lowered the rates oil companies pay to drill on leased federal land and recommended the vast Alaska wildlife refuge be opened to oil exploration.

Decreasing the leasing fees for millions of acres in the West could cost taxpayers an estimated $35 million annually, Marta Witt, a spokeswoman for the department's Bureau of Land Management said.

The move, published Thursday in the Federal Register and scheduled to take effect March 1, will lower leasing rates that now range from $2 to $3 down to $1 per acre.

'This action is consistent with other steps the department has taken over the past two years when oil prices bottomed out and U.S. production began to dwindle to the point of serious concerns, to the point of even national security impact," said Timothy Lock, a spokesman for BLM.

According to Witt, about 70 million acres of federal parkland in several western states are currently leased to oil exploration firms. About half those are already leased for $1 per acre, she said.

"We hope this decreases the holding costs for these existing leases," said Witt. "We don't envision this (leased) acreage being increased so much as we hope that what is already leased remains in the hands of companies longer and the savings are used to develop the land." In the second move, Hodel recommended that Congress allow native Alaska corporations to trade ownership of land they hold for mineral rights to thousands of ment spokesman Tom Wilson said. The right to allow such exchanges rests with Congress. The federal land would remain acres in the federal Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, Interior Depart-

U.S. government property, with the Indian, Eskimo and Aleut corporations taking over rights to what oil analysts project as massive oil deposits below the Prudhoe Bay region.

Environmentalists have opposed Reagan administration moves to allow oil exploration of the refuge. Wilson said Hodel's recommendation came after the department completed a two-year environmental impact statement.

The American Petroleum Institute announced Wednesday that U.S. imports jumped 9 percent in 1988 to the highest levels in nine years. At the same time, API reported that domestic oil production sagged to a 12-year low of 8.1 million barrels a day last year, down 3 percent from 1987. "The actions this week are a reaction to the same kind of statistics we've been seeing that show problems in American production," said Witt.

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department on Thursday proposed new rules that will give the agency a say in the leasing of national forest land to oil and gas developers. Leasing authority has been held exclusively by the BLM, but legislation in 1987 expanded the authority of the secretary of Agriculture

• Continued from page 1-A of its operating funds from direct private donations from local individuals and church organizations, he said.

The Salvation Army made extensive cuts in its operating hours and staff in January 1988, Ellis said. And its current financial situation could lead to cuts in services the Army provides. The Army's social operations such as food and clothing assistance — are now offered three days per week as opposed to the standard five days per week, Ellis

Ellis said the Salvation Army headquarters in Dallas is not pleased that the local agency has reduced its hours, but it cannot provide the financial assistance needed to extend the hours. "The headquarters can't afford it," Ellis said. "We pay a tithe of 10 percent to them. We're really on our own out here. The United Way's allocation is appreciated by the Salvation Army, Ellis said.

"But it's never enough," he added. "The Salvation Army has been here 60 years, and we've been in debt 60 years. But you can't keep going into debt.' Bordofske said the United Way sympathizes with the Salvation Army's problem, but added that 'additional fund raisers are what the United Way is trying to get away from."

The Salvation Army is the only United Way member agency that requested an additional fund raiser, she said.

Johnnie Lou Avery, a Salvation Army board member, said the organization's financial situation is a result of "an increased need in the community while the economy has gone down.' She said the Salvation Army's requested allocation to the United Way was "very realistic," and that since the allocation was substantially less than what was requested the Army needs to raise additional Avery said she understands the United Way's policy of discouraging additional fund raisers, but added, "by the same token, if the allocation is only half of what you need to meet the needs of the community, then it's of no value.'

Bob Crowell, Salvation Army board member, responded to the denial of the request for an appeal, saying: "I'm sure the (Salvation Army) board would have been pleased if (the request) were granted, but I also respect the position of the United Way. They try the best they can for all the agencies they serve."

But Ellis said he is having trouble understanding the United Way's decision.

"They're saying, 'No, you can't go out and help the needy people of Big Spring.' That's the way it came across to me.'

Darman insists Bush will remain firm against taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - George Bush's choice to be budget director shut the door on the prospect of tax increases to balance the budget a week after he suggested a number of revenue raisers.

Richard Darman, nominated by Bush to be director of the Office of Managment and Budget, insisted during five hours of testimony yesterday before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee that Bush was not wavering in his "read-my-lips" stand against tax increases

Darman, who served as a White House aide and deputy Treasury secretary during the Reagan administration, was questioned at length about such things as higher gasoline taxes, boosts in levies on cigarettes and alcohol, taxing employee-provided fringe benefits and taxing a larger proportion of Social Security benefits for highincome beneficiaries.

In written responses provided to the Senate Governmental Affairs committee last week, Darman had suggested these various proposals, which would raise billions of dollars in new revenues, could be described as "user fees" or "benefit reductions" rather than Democrats seized on Darman's written response as the first signal that the new administration might be receptive to revenue increases. Many Democrats in Congress believe Bush will eventually be forced to propose higher taxes to pay for the increases in education, day care and the environment which he is expected to seek.

Darman said Thursday,

'The president meant no new taxes as it would ordinarily be understood by ordinary Americans. I think the burden of that is the duck test - if it looks like a duck, it's a duck."

Darman, who repeatedly used the fowl analogy during the hearing, was presented by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, the committee chairman, with a mock trophy featuring three rubber ducks and the label: "If it quacks, its a tax." Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., said he believed Darman had left Bush with some "wiggle room" room on the tax issue despite Darman's protestations that Bush's feet were set

"There will not be any new taxes in the Bush budget as defined by a reasonable observer," Darman told reporters during a break in the hearing.

However, Darman did carve out some exceptions that he said would not qualify as a tax, in part because the revenues raised would be relatively small.

One of those items, requiring state and local government workers to pay for Medicare coverage, would bring in an additional $2 billion next year. That idea was in Reagan's final budget and Bush has supported it in the past, Darman said.

raise $1 billion in new revenues by imposing a variety of user fees such as a required $25 boat decal and higher charges to veterans taking out home loans could also show up when Bush submits his own budget plan.

Those were among the few hints he revealed about what might be in Bush's budget plan, which will go to Congress after Bush addresses a ioint session on the deficit issue, a speech expected to take place Feb.

Burnine fills void at rehab center

By SARAH LUMAN

Harold H. "Hank" Burnine, who retired from the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center Tuesday, has accepted the post of interim director of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. "I'm extremely pleased to have him," said rehab center board member Robert H. Moore III, a local attorney. "I wish, I'd just give anything if we could have him on a permanent basis, but that's not to be."

Burnine, who spent more than 30 years working for the VA, assumed the temporary duties while a search committee continues to refine the executive director job description.

Burnine said he looks forward to working with the board and helping spread the word about the facility to the counties it serves -Howard, Mitchell, Sterling, Glasscock, Martin, Borden, Dawson and Reagan.

"I really am impressed with the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center," Burnine said Thursday. "I had been out at the VA for 16 months, but I hadn't really had an opportunity to realize what a fine rehab center this is, not only for Howard County but for the other counties we serve.

Clients come to the center from Big Lake, Garden City, Sterling Gity, Colorado City, Gail, Lamesa, Stanton Cdahoma, Westbrook, Vincent, Vealmoor. Ackerly, Lomax and Fairview as well as Big Spring, he said.

Describing Burnine's service as similar to that of an "out-ofhouse consultant," Moore said the former associate director of the Big Spring VAMC will help evaluate the center, its services and what changes can be made to better serve the public.

"We have a search committee . . . and we're in the process of a search to locate a (permanent) executive director.

"Mr. Burnine has been hired on an up-to-six-months basis,' Moore said. "We have in excess

"This really makes me feel good, having the opportunity to do something for the community. I spent the first 10 years of my career in (the field of) rehabilitation," Burnine said, adding that having a chance to work with children - something he couldn't do at the Veterans Administration hospital — has increased his appreciation for the post.

A bold stroke by Salinas

Calm has returned, for the moment at least, to Mexico's vital petroleum industry after the arrest of Joaquin Hernandez Galicia, the politically powerful leader of the 200,000-member oil workers' union. Known throughout Mexico by his nickname, La Quina, the oil workers' chieftain was seized in a shoot-out at his home between government agents and his own heavily armed personal security force.

The move against La Quina by President Carlos Salinas de Gortari was so bold that it prompted fears of a presidential assassination by the small army of thugs who have long surrounded the union leader. At the time of La Quina's arrest, federal agents confiscated 200 Uzi submachine guns and 30,000 rounds of ammunition at his home and office compound in Ciudad Madero in northeast Mexico.

La Quina and 50 of his cronies are now being held on weapons-smuggling and related charges. The oil-workers chief himself is also charged with murder for the death of a government agent slain in Tuesday's shoot-out.

Far more important than the actual crackdown on corrupt union bosses are the far-reaching political ramifications of President Salinas's courageous challenge to La Quina and Mexico's strong labor movement in general.

Like other union leaders, the legendary La Quina has wielded enormous political power within the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI). For the last six decades the PRI has been held together in part by the strong backing of the potent unions, whose support has been purchased at an enormous price to the Mexican economy. Widespread featherbedding, gross inefficiency, rampant graft, and other abuses, particularly in the oil workers' union, have sapped the country's economic

Not unexpectedly, President Salinas's drive to impose market-oriented principles in order to revitalize the failing economy has provoked only contempt and staunch resistance from most union bosses. Many, including La Quina, sought unsuccessfully to prevent Mr. Salinas from inheriting the leadership of the PRI from retiring President Miguel de la Madrid.

Apart from the threat to his personal safety, President Salinas now risks destroying a large part of the PRI's traditional power base by alienating the mighty union chiefs. Yet, he has no choice. Yielding to the reactionary demands of the labor barons would eviscerate the government's economic recovery program. Sweeping economic reform offers the only hope of restoring prosperity after six years of steady decline during which the incomes of most workers have been cut in half.

The danger posed by union resistance was underlined by Fidel Velazquez, the aging leader of the Confederation of Mexican Workers, which represents 4 million members. Mr. Velazquez denounced the government's case against La Quina as illegal, raising concerns that workers in other industries might support the sporadic oil-industry strikes that followed his arrest. A wave of nationwide walkouts spurred by dissatisfaction with President Salinas could drive the Mexican economy over the brink and spawn widespread social and political

Because of his slim election victory and pervasive accusations of vote fraud last July, President Salinas has been viewed by many Mexicans as a relatively weak president. His valiant willingness to take on La Quina and the powerful oil-workers' union in the first weeks of his presidency suggests that Carlos Salinas's six-year tenure may be full of surprises — both good and bad.

PASCO, Wash. - The caller wanted to know when I planned to leave town. "Tomorrow morning." "That's good. Then they'll stop persecuting us dissidents. It's like Nazi America here." A third school is of the kind that never engages the mind. These are Nader-types, who would destroy the wheel if they could, and fancy that sitting-in to prevent the continued manufacture of nuclear weapons (they age at the rate of 5 percent per year, needing shots of fresh tritium even as car tires need air) contributes to something other than Gulag.

Michael Fox is a scientist who is scornful of the notion that the government has singled out the communities surrounding nuclear reactors for victimization. "What is an acceptable risk? What is acceptable to one group of people may not be acceptable to another. There are roughly three schools Why is it that 45,000 deaths per of thought. But the most interesting voice in the chorus is that of a professor at MIT. Lawrence Lidsky wrote (in The New Republic) that the whole country is moving away from nuclear energy. "We thought we had been having a great national debate over nuclear power. Instead, we have merely been discussing the acceptability of the LWR (light water reactors). But the LWR is no more a surrogate for the potential of nuclear power than the Hindenburg was for the potential of air transportation." The mistake we are making, says Professor Lidsky, is to persist, as a matter of pride and to justify ancient investments, in the present light-water-reactor architecture. "Reactors can be built today that are able to survive the failure of any single component or any combination of components without fear, indeed, without even the possibility, of fuel damage. ... The key to the new reactors is a radically different fuel form that is capable of withstanding very high temperatures. The reactors are small to ensure that it is physically impossible for such temperatures ever to be achieved. Such reactors are termed 'inherently safe.' ... Inherently safe plants can produce electricity at less than one-half the

But, he predicts, this is unlikely to come along for 20 years or so, because existing forces stand by their polemical guns. The doubters and the Luddites refuse to move either their brains or their behinds: They prefer to sit-in, and to not-think. The Establishment insists on saying nothing is wrong and nothing should be changed And meanwhile, we flirt with unilateral disarmament and a scarcity of energy.

BY LEWIS GRIZZARD

It is rare that I agree with anything that appears on the editorial pages of The New York

Whatever I believe, the Times seems always to be to the left of it. That's OK. Phil Donahue has rarely said anything I can nod affirmative to either, and I even went against Judge Wapner twice last week in "People's Court."

But there was a smashing editorial in a recent Sunday Times. It was signed by Don Wycliff.

Don Wycliff is the first person I've read in years who gave this country credit due it in the area of civil rights.

Listen to Mr. Wycliff: 'The anti-African student riots of the last two weeks have opened a new window on China and the view isn't pretty: black students under attack . . . beaten by police . . . detained incommunicado . . . shocked on the genitals with cattle prods. Continuing: "...The Chinese aren't alone in these attitudes or their uninhibited expression. Russians have long been known for racist contempt of the African students in their country. "Amerasian children in Vietnam, especially those whose fathers were black suffer brutal ostracism. In Japan, senior political figures regularly give voice to insulting stereotypes of American blacks.

"As hopeless as race relations in America occasionally seem, this nation truly is decades ahead of most others. The late Bayard Rustin was right when he said America's civil rights revolution was unique in modern times. . .

Bravo. The official policy of this country — the law of the land — for 25 years has been that it is unlawful to discriminate because of color.

Since then, that has been broadened to include outlawing of sexual discrimination, discrimination because of age and, if you will, discrimination period.

Don Wycliff is right. "... As hopeless as race relations in America occasionally seem, this nation truly is decades ahead of most others.

I know of no country that could have done what this one did - and that was to stare the customs of discrimination and oppression in the eye and declare there would be no more.

We'll never completely rid our society of racist feelings and anxieties, but we've come a million miles since 1964, and such a leap toward brotherhood is unparalleled.

It is that thought — and the thoughts of Mr. Wycliff of the Times — that causes my stomach to turn when I hear of the likes of the Rev. Al Sharpton, he of the Tawana Brawley fiasco, he of the "free James Brown" movement.

If Al Sharpton couldn't stir up a little racism every now and then, he'd have to cut his hair and get a regular job.

The same goes for Joseph Lowery of the Southern Christian Leadership Council. Give him an issue - any issue whatsoever and the first thing out of his mouth is "Racism!"

"..... And what does it say," concluded Mr. Wycliff, "when an African-American quarterback leads a team nicknamed 'the

Your careful, well researched, well balanced reporting of the Sammy Gomez story was splendid and may well prove to be an important catalyst in ventilating this many-faceted problem and in getting the answers to a lot of questions about this worrisome case.

If we are gun shy (no pun intended) about such matters it is because painful experience has taught us that the survival of every small town is predicated on accommodation. So, breezy official handling of small town killings make a lot of red flags pop up for us. We become doubtful because we know that such towns teach their insiders that they are not accountable; that there is no reason to fear harsh judgment from anything they do. Thanks. and recreational facilities to exemplary neighborhood watch programs...George Bush will award $5,000 to the best 25 teachers in each of the 50 states. . .thirty million jobs in the next eight years." Get along with the neighbors:

"We must support genuine freedom fighters and assist fledgling democracies. . . The integration of the European community scheduled for 1992 should also reach across the North Atlantic. . . The American-Israeli strategic partnership is going to be even stronger tomorrow. . . I will propose as one of my first acts as president, to convene an early NATO summit.

If Bush lives up to those and hundreds of other pre-nuptial promises, the next four years will be wedded bliss.

For her part, the bride promises to be flexible, but not a pushover. When Bush steps out of line, he'll hear about it. In the words of H.L. Mencken: "A man may be a fool and not know it, but not if he is married."

Family rescued from stalled car BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) -

A railroad worker rescued a woman and five screaming children from a stalled car seconds before it was demolished by an Amtrak passenger train.

"If those workers hadn't been there, we would have had six dead people," said police officer Richard McMillen.

Santa Fe Railroad employees Joe Otero, 44, of Anaheim, and Anthony Morales, 32, of Hesperia, were working nearby when they saw the car stopped on the tracks at a railroad crossing.

Otero helped pull the woman and the children, ranging in age from 2 to 8, to safety and he and Morales then comforted them until rescue personnel arrived.

The train hit the car just seconds after Otero pulled the last child to safety, Morales said.

School lunches trashed after call

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) -Police arrested a high school student on charges he telephoned his school cafeteria claiming all the food had been poisoned, forcing officials to throw away about $2,000 worth of lunches.

Peter Frederick Arnold, 19, was charged with making harassing and threatening telephone calls. He remained in the High Point Jail under $2,000 bond Thursday night.

Arnold, the younger brother of state Rep. Steve Arnold, was charged with telephoning cafeteria manager Manilla

Dunlap at Andrews High School Wednesday morning and telling her that arsenic was in all the cafeteria's food.

Arnold was arrested after the call was traced to an office in Andrews High School, and police narrowed down a list of people who could have used the phone, said Capt. G.W. Thomas of the High Point Police Department.

Dunlap said the caller told her he was on drugs and had taken a hypodermic needle of arsenic and shot it into the cafeteria's food Tuesday afternoon.

Illinois town buys residents

OHIO, Ill. (AP) — This central Illinois community of 550 wants more residents, and it's willing to pay for them.

State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino announced Thursday he has signed a check for $100,000 as part of a commitment of up to $1 million under the state's Linked Deposit Program to help Ohio's population grow.

The money will be deposited in a nearby bank, which in turn will loan up to $5,000 at a low interest rate for families to move to Ohio, Cosentino said. HIS GHALDING

Jack Piper, a local businessman and school board member, said the community has been suffering from school enrollment declines and business stagnation.

'We decided to do something about our problems," Piper said 'We formed an Ohio Growth Foundation and decided to offer $3,000 to purchasers of existing homes and $5,000 to families who build new homes in Ohio."

Since the foundation was formed last year Piper, said dive families have moved to town.

Waite's fate unknown even after two years

LONDON (AP) - The archbishop of Canterbury today prayed for the safe release of his envoy, Terry Waite, whose fate remains a mystery two years after he left his Lebanon hotel to negotiate the release of foreign hostages.

"To observe a second anniversary is a disappointment, but we remain ever hopeful of his return," the Church of England's spiritual leader, Robert Runcie, said in a nationally broadcast sermon from a London church.

He also prayed for the release of all others "unjustly imprisoned" in Lebanon, where 15 foreigners are held hostage, including nine David Waite expressed optimism his brother will be freed and said he was satisfied with official efforts to gain Waite's release. 'We are still optimistic," he who became the personal emissary of Runcie, was last seen leaving the Riviera Hotel in Moslem west Beirut on Jan. 20, 1987, to meet with Shiite Moslem kidnappers. He told his Druse bodyguards he MOSCOW (AP) - 'A Soviet icebreaker punched through a wall of ice, heavy snow and wind on its second try to rescue scientists stranded on a drifting ice floe off Greenland, Tass said today.

The icebreaker Rossiya failed on its first attempt to reach the North Pole 28 station from the south on Thursday, but swung

Philippine troops raid rebel camp

MANILA, Philippines (AP) -Government troops raided a heavily fortified Communist rebel camp in the southern Philippines, killing 20 of the insurgents in a three-hour gunbattle, the state news agency said today.

The Philippines News Agency said the attack, the first major military offensive against the Communist New People's Army this year, took place Thursday in the mountain village of Kimbaratic, about 600 miles southeast

Army chief Maj. Gen. Mariano Adalem was quoted as saying the government raiders surprised the rebels, who were cooking lunch.

Poll: Public views Bush favorably but doubts tax pledge

Americans think well of George Bush and hold high expectations for his presidency, but an overwhelming majority believes he will abandon his pledge of no new taxes, a national poll has found.

Six in 10 respondents to the Media General-Associated Press survey said Bush, who made his "read my lips — no new taxes" pledge a cornerstone of his campaign, should not seek a tax increase. But 71 percent said they expect him to do so.

Nonetheless, Bush, who takes his oath Friday as the 41st president,

NEW YORK (AP) - Most won high marks for his Cabinet fall. choices and his preparations for office since the election.

He was viewed favorably by 59 percent of those surveyed, precisely the same approval rate President Reagan received in a Media General-AP poll last spring. Twenty-five percent rated Bush unfavorably; the rest withheld judgment.

In another favorable comparison with his popular predecessor, expectations for Bush's presidency came close to the ratings of Reagan's performance in a Media General-AP poll conducted in the Forty-eight percent in the new poll said Bush will be a good president and 13 percent said excellent. Similarly, this fall 47 percent said history would view Reagan as a good president, 20 percent

The new poll was conducted by telephone Jan. 4-12 among a random sample of 1,162 adults nationwide. It has a three-point margin of sampling error.

Although the survey found considerable levels of unfamiliarity with Bush's nominees for his Cabinet, 45 percent said their overall impression was that the Cabinet was a good one, and an additional 8 percent called it excellent

Among those who had opinions of the more prominent nominees, they were overwhelmingly positive. And there was limited desire for more women or minority nominees, with 70 percent saying race and sex were irrelevant. Bush has picked two women, one black and two Hispanics for Cabinetlevel jobs.

Of his better-known nominees, the best known and best liked was former Transportation Secretary

Elizabeth Dole, nominated as secretary of labor: Two-thirds viewed her favorably, a rating better even than Bush's, while 7 percent disapproved. The rest, 28 percent, had no opinion.

Others also did well. Former Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, nominated as secretary of state, was viewed favorably by 57 percent and unfavorably by 7 percent; former Rep. Jack Kemp, picked for secretary of housing, had a 52-10 positive rating, and Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, chosen to keep his position, scored 51-7. The rest had no opinion.

Majorities had no opinion yet of other key nominees — former Sen. John Tower, named to defense; Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, keeping his job, and Louis Sullivan, health and human services nominee. A huge 83 percent had no opinion of former New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu. named chief of staff.

Even with his good grades, public doubt about Bush's campaign pledge of no new taxes extended even to members of his own party. Six in 10 Republicans, and as many conservatives, said they think he will seek higher taxes in the nex four years.

WASHINGTON - Texas Republicans have invaded the nation's capital this week to show the Georgetown socialites how a real inauguration party is thrown.

Inaugurations mean a long list of high-priced parties and receptions many states trying to trumpet their hometown virtues. For example, the Indiana crowd is boasting about the Apple Brown Betty that is on the menu for their bash Fri-

Farewell tears WASHINGTON - President and Mrs Reagan

wipe away tears during an emotional farewell with White House staffers Wednesday. The presi dent and first lady will leave for California Friday after eight years in the White House.

The old Reagan gang leaves town

Hodel is going skiing. Ann McLaughlin is going back to school. George Shultz is going to have to get a driver's license.

As Ronald Reagan's presidency comes to an end, so do the heady times atop Washington's power structure for many members of his Cabinet and other ranking officials of the administration.

Some are staying on with President-elect Bush, including Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos, Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, and administration veteran James Baker III, who will be the new secretary of state.

But for some of the others, January has meant packing boxes, selling homes and deciding what to do next. In some cases, what's next may be a fat salary and a job with a least a month after leaving Colorado.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Don big law firm or corporation. Or it Washington. may mean taking it easy.

Secretary of State George Shultz and his wife Helena have sold their house in Bethesda, Md., and booked a commercial flight back home to California on Inauguration Day.

Shultz plans to write his memoirs and consider what else to do. He has a standing offer to return to teaching at Stanford University, but he appears to have left behind the corporate world, where he earned $1 million a year as an executive of Bechtel Corp.

But first things first. After 61/2 years of being chauffeured and accompanied by security agents, and not driving a car once, Shultz plans to take the California driver's test to obtain a new license.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr., the only member of Reagan's original Cabinet to last all eight years, plans to return to New York, where he has kept a home two blocks off Central Park. At age 66, he'll return to practicing law, although he says he may not return to the firm he left in 1981.

"I've been in Washington three times," Pierce said. "I served under three separate presidents. And each time I always do the same thing — I go back to New York and practice law and join a bunch of boards of companies.

he be hoist by his own petard, George Herbert Walker Bush will begin his presidency with one of the sorest arms in history

About 35,000 little American flags will be distributed to spectators at his inaugural Friday. At least 700 larger flags will be carried before him in the hours-long parade to follow.

Can the man who espoused the pledge of allegiance to the flag with religious fervor in the last campaign get by with just an occasional salute? With all those flags, just a token movement of the arm toward the heart could leave Bush with the sorest arm since Sandy Koufax quit baseball.

The marching band from the University of Texas alone could wear out the new president. Its 320 marchers will carry 30 flags along with 60 trumpets, 40 trombones, 20

WASHINGTON (AP) - Should baritones, 24 tubas, 26 percussion, 36 clarinet, 30 french horns, 25 saxophones and 24 piccolos. Can a man from Texas stand motionless before all that?

The statistics come courtesy of the inaugural committee, which produced a handbook of breathtaking scope. It tells far more than you could possibly want to know about inaugurals in compelling detail. For example:

Bush and the six presidents before him were all born between 1908 and 1924, a fact the need of which is not yet clear.

Bush will rank with the four tallest presidents in history, behind Abe Lincoln, Lyndon Johnson and Thomas Jefferson. He also will enter history books as one of four left-handed presidents, the others being James Garfield, Harry and contracts as much as four inches because of the heat of the sun by day and cooling by night, which is in sharp contrast to most of its tenants who are known to expand frequently and contract seldom.

Mrs. William Howard Taft was the first woman to ride in an inaugural parade in 1913. Warren Harding was the first president to ride to his swearing-in in a car. Richard Nixon was the first to review his parade behind bulletproof glass.

Bush is 31st among college graduates who made it to the White House, 12th among Phi Beta Kappa boys, second among Yale men.

Married 44 years, George and Barbara Bush bring the ninth longest marriage to the White House. John and Abigail Adams were married the longest, 54 years and three days. But Bush is the only president born in June.

Architect moved inauguration

WASHINGTON — George M. White never could understand why the President of the United States was inaugurated facing into a

When millions of television viewers watch President-elect George Bush take the oath of office Friday at noon, they will note the ceremony is taking place on the western plaza of the U.S. Capitol which has a majestic view of the Mall, the Washington Monument, and the distant Lincoln Memorial.

"Soon after I was appointed Architect of the Capitol in 1971, I walked out on the western terrace and realized it offers a view of one of the most magnificent urban spaces in the world," White said Thursday.

Despite that, presidents had insisted on being inaugurated on the other side the Capitol for 150 years. The eastern plaza is a basically a large parking lot, and workers had to build massive steel bleachers and tempory buildings for the ceremony.

"Just before President Reagan was inaugurated in 1980, I decided I would be more persuasive in urging the inaugural committee to move the ceremony," White said. "Fortunately, President Reagan was willing to break the historical precedent.

The western plaza offers so much more space for spectators and so much more majesty because of its many marble staircases, that White is confident that all future inaugurations will occur there.

White, 68 and a native of Cleveland, Ohio, has been in charge of the Capitol for 17 years.

Rumors could force husband from closet

DEAR ABBY: OK, here goes: I am a gay man. A few years ago I had a steady relationship with a man I'll call Bruce. Due to pressure from his church group, Bruce married a woman, so I ended our relationship.

About a year ago, Bruce called to tell me he "missed" me and asked if we could resume our relationship (behind his wife's back, of course). I told him, no, we couldn't.

I have since heard from several reliable sources that Bruce has been sleeping around with several men, and he is not practicing safe

Abby, his wife is a wonderful person and she knows absolutely nothing about Bruce's relationships with men. Should I tell her? MICHAEL (NOT MY REAL NAME)

DEAR "MICHAEL": The rumors may be false, but because you heard them from several reliable sources, let's assume they're true.

Call Bruce and tell him what you have heard. Then urge him to tell his wife immediately. And tell him that if HE doesn't tell her, YOU will. And give him a deadline.

DEAR ABBY: You advise people never to lend money without getting a "note" stating the terms of repayment. But if the borrower is a flake, you'll have a hard time collecting, regardless of a written note — even with a court judgment.

In addition to a written note, a smart lender will secure collateral property. People are far less likely to walk away when something valuable can revert to the lender.

I should point out that many a borrower has every honest intention of repaying, but "times get tough" or other "unexpected bills" pile up. Whether planned or unintentional, a default turns that lender into a donor. Everyone should regard a loan — even to a friend or relative — as a business transaction, and treat it accordingly. - NO SOFTIE

DEAR NO SOFTIE: You are right, of course. A good rule to follow: Lend no more than you can afford to lose. Or, putting it another way: Consider the money you lend a "gift," and if (or when) it's repaid, regard it as a present.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen anything regarding answering machine etiquette — what kind of message is proper, and what is not. Are there any guidelines? I have heard some rather wild and crazy stuff on answering machines. Some are even X-rated. — CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: On your own machine, resist being clever, cute or original. Simply say, "Hello, you have reached..." (then state your telephone number). "If you wish to leave a message, please do so — but please wait for the beep."

When leaving a message on someone else's machine, simply leave your name, the hour and day you called, and if you want the party to return your call, leave your phone number.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for including the USS Midway in your America Remembers/Operation Dear Abby IV campaign. The response has been absolutely incredible! Our public affairs office has a bin full of letters from all over the United States. The guys

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Andrew Wigglesworth, a 10-year-old boy who lost a leg to a tumor, had a thriller of a day when he met rock star Michael Jackson in Los Angeles, then visited Disneyland with actor Martin Sheen.

"He was just awe-struck," Andrew's mother, Philippa, said of her son's meeting with Jackson in Los Angeles.

Sheen, who met Wigglesworth last November when the boy appeared as an extra in a movie, arranged the trip for Andrew and his mother. He met them at the airport Tuesday and escorted them to meet Jackson backstage before a concert.

During the concert, Andrew stood up in the aisle and began dancing as Jackson performed the hit, "Thriller."

During the visit to Disneyland on Wednesday the youngster was mobbed by Disney characters.

For Sheen, making Andrew's dreams come true was simply 'an honor."

In the end, Andrew couldn't decide what he liked best about the trip. "Everything was good," he said. "Everything."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Wayne Newton says a public survey satisfied him that his reputation has been restored since he won a multimillion dollar libel lawsuit against NBC.

"This was not a matter of money. This was a matter of vindication of my name," Newton said Thursday.

Lady Steers challenged; they'll respond as usual

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

The other

Steve's stuff

If the first half of District 4-4A girls' basketball action proved anything, it's that the league can no longer be named "Big Spring and the Seven Dwarfs."

Perhaps a more appropriate title would be "Big Spring, Sweetwater and the Five Spoilers."

After having dominated the district for the past two years, the Big Spring Lady Steers now find themselves in the unaccustomed position of having to play catchup, thanks to a 41-39 loss to Sweetwater last Tuesday.

> Coach Barry Hughey's Lady Mustangs lead the district at its halfway point with a 7-0 record, followed by Big Spring at 6-1, Andrews and Pecos at 4-3. Lake View and Snyder (3-4), Fort Stockton (1-6) and Monahans (0-7).

Although there were several reasons for the Lady Steers' loss to Sweetwater, perhaps the most important was a defense that limited Big Spring's leading scorer, Tami Wise, to a season-low 10 points.

If the Lady Steers have shown a weakness this season, it's an over-dependence on Wise to shoulder the scoring load. The Lady Mustangs used what Hughey described as "a hybrid 1-3-1 defense," with a constant double-team on Wise, to exploit that weakness

With Wise blanketed, it then became incumbent upon the other Lady Steers to compensate for the lack of scoring. Unfortunately, they did not do so until late in the game, and not effectively enough to alter the game's outcome.

It is a fairly safe assumption to say that Wise will continue to face two or three defenders for the rest of the season. For opponents to do otherwise would be tantamount to conceding defeat.

The six-foot Wise is simply too good to defend one-onone. On occasions this season where that has been the case, she has dominated the low post area, consistently scoring between 20 and 30 points per game.

Given the above assumption, does this neccessarily mean that Big Spring's string of league titles is in jeapordy? Well, yes and no.

The answer is yes if the other Lady Steer starters -Peggy Smith, Debbie Pulver, Jennifer Hendleman and Gisila Spears — do not take up the slack that will result from Wise's diminished scoring.

However, several factors are in Big Spring's favor as it starts second-half action.

First, there is the schedule. The Lady Steers major competition—Street ater. Indrews and Pecos Carlotte play in the confines of Steer Gym, where the Lady Steers haven't been defeated in two years.

Conversely, Sweetwater must travel to Big Spring, Pecos and Andrews during the second half of the district season. It is not a safe assumption that Hughey's squad will emerge from those games unscathed.

Secondly, the Lady Steers have begun showing signs of weaning themselves from their heavy dependence on Wise. The Andrews game last Friday was a prime example.

Big Spring faced a defense similar to that displayed in the Sweetwater game. Wise, again facing a double-team, was limited to four points in the first half. However, unlike the Sweetwater loss, the other Lady Steers compensated.

Smith and Pulver, in particular, displayed fine shooting touches against Andrews. With those two scoring from the outside, the Lady Mustangs were forced to abandon their double-team of Wise, and the Big Spring post player burned Andrews in the second half.

If this carries over to the second half, the Lady Steers can make life miserable for their opponents.

The third factor in Big Spring's favor is a simple one: revenge. Head coach C.E. Carmichael hates losing practically more than anything else, and the Lady Steers have followed his lead. They should give Sweetwater more than the Lady Mustangs can handle when the two teams meet again Feb. 7.

The final factor is one of intangibles. Big Spring has developed a winning tradition and has become accustomed to being top dogs in the league. They will not look kindly upon Sweetwater or anyone else taking away what they feel is theirs.

The prediction from this corner is that the Lady Steers will go undefeated during the second half, and will end the season in a tie with Sweetwater. If that happens, the two will meet in a playoff game to determine the district champion.

Regardless of what happens, however, the next month or so should be interesting. Big Spring starts second-half action tonight in Steer Gym against Pecos.

As David Letterman might say, be there or be square.

Jones seeking third straight

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) -Steve Jones isn't leading, but he's still very much alive in his quest for a rare third consecutive victory on the PGA Tour. "I feel very good about it," Jones said Thursday after a 68 in the uncompleted first round of the $700,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

"I really thought I had it going after that chip-in," which provided one of his seven birdies. "But then I made a couple of mistakes," including hitting one into the water. He bogeyed two of the last three holes on the 6,992-yard, par-71 TPC at Scottsdale.

Still, the man who won the first two titles on the PGA Tour this vear finished three under par and was five strokes back of Ken Green, who finished off a 63 moments before play was halted by darkness

Nine men were still playing when the round was suspended. They marked their positions and were scheduled to return shortly after daylight to resume play. None appeared to have a chance to finish among the leaders.

"It was getting pretty dark," said Green, who played his back nine in 30, highlighted by a 50-foot putt for an eagle-3 on the 13th and tap-in birdie putts of less than a foot on the 15th, 16th and 17th.

Scott Hoch, Ted Schulz and Mark McCumber were one stroke back of Green with 64's on a warm day without wind.

Lewis-Pettigrew display draws rave reviews

SNYDER - Terrence Lewis provided the hammer and Larry Pettigrew the anvil as the Howard College Hawks pounded out a 110-101 win against the Western Texas College Westerners in Snyder Coliseum Thursday night.

Lewis scored 42 points and Pettigrew 29 for the Hawks, now 14-7 for the season and 5-1 in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play. Ex-Howard player Bernard Williams scored 29 points and Bobby Spear 20 for the Westerners, who dropped to 1-6 in conference Hawk coach Steve Green said his high-scoring duo were the dif-ference in the game.

"They both played outstanding," Green said. "We knew it was going to be a fast-tempo game. The key was whether we could convert on our end of the floor. It gave Terrence and Larry plenty of oppurtunities to do something great.

Both Pettigrew and Lewis were particularly effective in the second half. With the Hawks clinging to a four-point lead at intermission, the duo keyed a 39-point outburst in the first nine minutes of the second half that saw Howard increase its lead to 81-64.

It was not strictly a two-man show for the Hawks, however. Michael New, saddled with three fouls and only two points in the first half, also saved his best for the second half. He finished with 11 points and was a defensive force in the waning moments when WTC threatened to close the gap.

Super Bowl XXIII

Both teams ready to get show on the road

MIAMI (AP) — Somewhere, out there, is a football game. THE football game.

For the Cincinnati Bengals and San Francisco 49ers, Sunday and the Super Bowl can't arrive soon

"Right now, I'm ready to go home," said cornerback Eric Wright, one of six 49ers seeking a third NFL crown this decade. "I wish we had come in on Friday and been able to treat this like a regular week.'

It became a regular week for the Bengals on Wednesday when All-Pro nose tackle Tim Krumrie tangled with tackle Brian Blados during practice.

"That usually happens to me on Wednesday or Thursday," Krumrie said. "If they turn around and there's a fight, they can pretty much guarantee I'll be in it.'

Normality rarely accompanies Super Bowl week. This year, the usual media crush, the hype and the wait have been accompanied by civil unrest.

Is it any wonder the players are ready to do the one thing they came here to do, play football? "Somehow, this game isn't just about football," Bengals All-Pro tackle Anthony Munoz said. "At least, it isn't until Sunday

"We talked about it all last week, how you have to hang in there, put up with this. By now, I have to admit, you get a little tired of it. Practice comes as a relief."

Except when shoving matches break out? "Nah, that's just how we keep track of Krumrie," Munoz said with a laugh.

Keeping track of Krumrie and other strategies pertinent to the game were not main topics of conversation Thursday. The players have answered enough questions about those things - and everything else, many of them say — and the media seems to have tired of asking them.

"This is our 24th game," said Mike Wilson, who will start at wide receiver if Jerry Rice's ankle sidelines him. Rice did some light work Thursday as the 49ers continued to drill without pads. "We started off in London (an exhibition game with the Dolphins) and it's a

The jury in the USFL's antitrust suit against the NFL found the NFL guilty of monopolizing the marketplace, but awarded the USFL only $1 in damages

U.S. District Judge Peter Leisure of the Southern District of New York, in his ruling rejected the NFL's arguments that the USFL had lost a major portion of its case and therefore wasn't entitled to have USFL general counsel Jane Ellison told the Los Angeles Daily Journal that the dozens of lawyers who represented the USFL already have been paid, and that the $5.5 million would go to team owners to reimburse a portion of their legal fees.

In addition to Leisure awarding the USFL $5,515,290 in attorneys' fees, he also awarded $62,220 to the defunct league in costs.

San Jose hoopsters walk off

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Eight walk-ons replaced 10 San Jose State players who walked off the team after demanding dismissal of Coach Bill Berry.

Fullerton State defeated the re-cast San Jose State team 82-60. Four of the eight replacements, who joined the four remaining members of the team, are football players. Only one of the fill-ins, 6-foot-9 Craig McPherson, a transfer from Santa Clara, has college basketball experience. University spokeswoman Karen Rosenzweig said that Berry, in his 10th season at San Jose State, will remain at least through the end of the season and that the boycotting players' athletic scholarship status will be determined in the next week.

Steinbrenner pleaded guilty in 1974 to charges of conspiring to violate federal election laws in connection with corporate campaign

He had also been accused of attempting to "influence and in-timidate" employees of his shipbuilding company into lying to a grand jury about the nature of a $100,000 contribution to Richard M. Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

SOME GRANDPARENTS STAY YOUNG BUT THEY ALL NEED LOVE

Grandparents, as well as other members of the older generation, come in many forms today. The traditional image of Grandma knitting in her rocking chair and Grandpa with a long white beard and a cane may still be in effect, but it's rapidly being replaced by their going to the senior citizen's center for lunch every day, playing bingo, doing aerobics and getting involved in political issues. In any case, our House of Worship reminds us that they deserve our attention and respect. Our children should be taught at an early age to be kind and considerate to all older people, whether related to them or not, and to listen to them. Sharing ideas and activities with them is the best way to bridge the generation gap, and it can be a very rewarding experience all around. Love has no age limitation, and this is one of the finest ways of showing it.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think there is really such a thing as Satan? If so, why does God allow him to exist? I've always thought that evil is real in the world because you see so much of it, but I don't think I can accept the idea of and a red suit. - K.M. DEAR K.M.: Satan is not a myth nor just a symbol for evil. The Bireal. Rather than some imaginary idea or picture, Satan is a master (John 8:44) of disguise and, according to 2 Corinthians 11:14-15, can even transform himself so he appears a devil who runs around with horns

like an angel of light. Satan is not the evil counterpart of God but is a fallen angel opposed to God at every point with a great although limited power. He will do against God and make us sin. He will make all kinds of promises and Have you taken that step? try to get us to believe that God is against us and it is foolish to follow

But Jesus clearly stated Satan's (James 4:7) true character: "He was a murderer from the beginning, not truth in him. When he lies, he Concord St., Orlando, FL 32801.

ble makes it clear that Satan is speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies."

We may not fully understand why God allows evil and Satan to exist right now - but some day Christ will establish his eternal Kingdom and Satan will be banished forever. (See Revelation 20:10)

In the meantime what should we do? We should turn to Christ and everything he can to turn us commit our lives to him, and we should live for him every day.

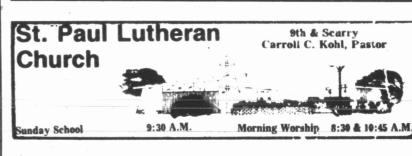

The Bible promises, "Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you."

Hispanics join non-Catholic churches Religion

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) Lupita Ochoa of Corpus Christi is a Jehovah's Witness who abandoned Roman Catholicism two decades ago.

She's among an estimated 60,000 Catholic Hispanics a year joining non-Catholic churches, including congregations that challenge Catholic doctrines.

Such losses are a small percentage of Catholic Church membership, but sociologist Andrew M. Greeley of Chicago, Ill., a Catholic priest, estimates that a million Hispanics have left the Catholic Church for other denominations since 1972.

Greeley wrote in the July 30 issue of "America" magazine that Hispanics were continuing to leave Catholicism at a rate of 60,000 per year.

The Rev. Michael Heras, pastor of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Gregory and director of evangelism for the Diocese of Corpus Christi, views the situation from a historical perspective.

"We're not concerned because people are leaving," he said. "It's just that our people have a rich history in faith." Heras is a Hispanic Catholic reared in Christ the King parish on Corpus Christi's west side.

According to a 1985 study published by the Northeast Catholic Pastoral Center for Hispanics, nearly 80 percent of all Hispanic Catholics have been asked to change their religion by members of fundamentalist, Pentecostal or sectarian groups. It's people like Mrs. Ochoa who do the asking. Witness "pioneers," she said, are full-time missionaries who build congregations by walking through neighborhoods knocking on doors to get people to listen to their message

All serious Witnesses are required to evangelize, but 'pioneers'' are more serious than most, spending more than 90

Garcia is pastor of Primera Iglesia Bautista, Corpus Christi's largest Spanish-speaking Southern Baptist congregation, with 1,200 registered members and 500 regular worshipping members.

The Mormon church also is attracting Hispanic Catholics.

"Catholics make wonderful Mormons," said Dave Noble, a Corpus Christi geologist in charge of evangelism in the local stake, or district, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Mormon emphasis on family life and the church's teaching that families may be united for eternity appeal to Hispanics whose culture is deeply rooted in family loyalty, Noble said.

Corpus Christi Jehovah's Witnesses make most of their Hispanic converts among inactive Roman Catholics, said church elder Robert Guerrero, himself a former Catholic.

There are eight Spanishspeaking congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses in Corpus Christi, said Guerrero. They include nearly 600 church members who spread their faith once a month in residential neighborhoods and more than 100 who attend worship services, but don't witness door-to-door.

Mrs. Ochoa, a member of the Los Encinos congregation, is the daughter of a Pentecostal mother and a Catholic father, neither of whom was devout.

But Mrs. Ochoa, her brothers and sisters were sent to "the church on the corner" - Catholic Church, she said.

She dropped out of school to get married at 16. Before she was 19, she had met Jehovah's Witness missionaries at her sister-inlaw's house, visited a local congregation and decided that the Witnesses were right.

That was 20 years ago. Witness officials claim to be doing even

Henson: No. one ranking would be a curse

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

Illinois coach Lou Henson is a worrier. Now he's worried his team might be ranked No. 1 in the nation next week

"No one deserves the curse of being number one," Henson said after his undefeated and secondranked Illini got by Northwestern 75-70 Thursday night. "Maybe the players want it and the fans want it, but it means nothing to me. You have everything to lose and nothing to gain."

Of course Henson was worried about the Northwestern game.

"We knew it would be difficult to win," he said. "Everything was set up for an upset. We were coming off the Michigan game and there was an article in Sports Illustrated on us, and that usually does it."

Henson was worried about Northwestern's Jeff Grose, and he had every right to be. Grose scored 20 points, including five 3-pointers.

But Kenny Battle and four of his teammates scored in double figures to lead the Illini to their 16th consecutive vicory this season, including 4-0 in the Big Ten. Northwestern is 7-8 and 0-5.

The Illini may move into the top spot because No. 1 Duke lost to North Carolina on Wednesday

Elsewhere Thursday night, it was No. 16 Ohio State 102, No. 7 Iowa 91; No. 9 Arizona 97, Southern California 69; No. 10 UNLV 102, Utah State 80; No. 19 Indiana 61, Wisconsin 58 in overtime, and California 75, No. 20 Stanford 64.

"I've never seen Northwestern play better for 40 minutes," Henson said. "They would have beaten many teams tonight."

Three times Northwestern came within a point of the lead in the closing minutes, but the Wildcats were unable to tie it.

time in the last three minutes, they were able to handle it and we weren't," Northwestern coach Bill Foster said.

lane. Indiana's Brian Sloan hit two free throws to wrap up the victory The Hoosiers, 14-4 and 4-0 in the Big Ten, have now beaten Wisconsin 18 straight times. The Badgers, 9-5 and 1-4 in conference play, have lost four straight games. Danny Jones led the Badgers with 27 points.

California 75, No. 20 Stanford 64 California upset Stanford as Leonard Taylor scored 21 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Taylor led four Golden Bears in double figures as Cal, 13-5 and 4-3, snapped Stanford's eight-game winning streak. Stanford is now 13-4 and 5-2.

Coach's comments

By BOYCE PAXTON BSHS Boys' Basketball Coach

Friday night was not only a big win over Andrews but a very gratifying one as well because of the way we had to win. To coin an old cliche, we did it the hard way — we earned it.

As big as this win was, the game coming Friday against second place Pecos is just as big. Our first game with ed in double overtime. The game was marred with a controversy that was corrected by the officials. Pecos will be laying in the weeds for another shot at the Steers. They will be sky-high for us, as we have to play on their home court. This is the most important game on the schedule at this point in the season. The next game always is and always will be the most important one for us. A very bright spot in the Andrews game was the poise of our players. There were opportunities for our team to fold but we never did. We bent several times but never broke. One interesting fact is that the Steers scored the last basket of every quarter. That is part of our game plan every game, but against Andrews, those baskets couldn't have been more timely or beneficial to the team. Free throws were a big plus as well.

We've enjoyed this win, but it's time to put it behind us. A big game, but it's just number five of 14. We have nine more to go, one at a time.

The Pecos team we will face Friday is the best Pecos team we've faced in my three years here. They are quick, fast and have excellent outside shooters in Bobby Ray Smith and Tommy Cobos. They've averaged five to eight threepointers per game in district and we have to contain them to have the opportunity to win.

The tough games the Steers experienced earlier in the year are paying off. Our players feel that as long as any time is on the clock, we have a chance to win. We've won come-from-behind games against Midland, Wichita Falls, Andrews and Pecos.

By design, we have plays to fit each situation from 30 seconds down to 0. The execution of those plays makes the difference. Improved play and renewed enthusiasm is a plus and spark right now. Maintaining the same will be difficult but we will work hard every day to maintain and improve and jell together.

Congratulations to our Freshmen team on their sparkling 19-1 record and BSISD Freshmen tournament championship. This team is very exciting, aggressive and intense to watch. They would be worth anyone's time to go see.

We have nine district games left; three are at home and six are on the road. The Steers need your support at home and especially on the road. Support has been super at home. We look forward to seeing you at the gym next game.

Steers at Pecos, Friday, at 7:30 p.m., Eagle Gym.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

The entire Steer team is awarded Player of the Week for the great effort against Andrews. The attitude on the bench was great and the poise and effort on the floor won a big game for Big Spring High.
