Workers' comp overhaul gets strong backing

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

District 69 state representative Troy Fraser and more than 50 conservative lawmakers have endorsed a bill that would overhaul the workers' compensation system in Texas.

The Conservative Coalition — which includes about 55 senators and representatives, both Democrats and Republicans — said Thursday the group will work together to pass the bill.

House Bill 1 would revamp the state's workers' compensation system by: increasing the maximum weekly benefits for injured workers; broadening the powers of the system's governing body; adressing work place safety; and restricting lump sum settlements.

The measure is currently before the House Business and Commerce Committee. The bill's author, Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, has said he hopes to see it come before the full House for a vote in about two weeks.

The measure has also been endorsed by the House Republican caucus, and Smith has said he would like to meet with the black, Hispanic and Democratic caucuses to win their support as well.

Fraser, one of the nine members of the Business and Commerce Committee, said the bill would benefit both Texas employees and employers.

"In Texas, the premiums that companies pay (for workers' compensation insurance) is twice as high as the next highest state," Fraser said. "But we're ranked among the lowest in the United States in regard to the benefits that get back to the workers."

"...What's happening is that the benefits the employees should get are getting eaten up in the middle," Fraser said.

Money that could be paid to injured workers is being spent on rising insurance rates and attorney fees, and health care provider abuse, according to the bill's supporters.

The bill calls for an increase in the maximum weekly benefits for injured workers. Currently, an injured worker can receive no more than $225 per week compensation; the bill would raise the ceiling to $416 per week.

The bill would also change the process of determining the settlements in workers' compensation cases.

"We want to take these cases out of the courtroom, and give the Industrial Accident Board more authority," Fraser said.

The Industrial Accident Board is the governing body of the workers' compensation system in Texas.

"Rather than having cases appealed to state district court, we want them to appeal to a higher level of the Industrial Accident Board," he said.

The board hearing appeals would be composed of three employers, three labor representatives and three independent representatives, Fraser said.

"Forty-seven other states are using this method and it works very well," he said.

During committee hearings, lawmakers "have heard from 15

Bush 'not worried' about Tower probe

By DONNA CASSATA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The White House is standing by John Tower amid growing public criticism by Democrats and Republicans and new allegations that the defense secretary-designate kept mistresses in Geneva during arms talks.

JOHN TOWER

President Bush, on a visit Friday to St. Louis, told reporters, "I'm not worried." White House spokesman B. Jay Cooper said there was "no discussion whatsoever about any change in confidence in Senator Tower's nomination or that he will be confirmed."

But the ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, John Warner of Virginia, refused to assess Tower's chances "until the evidence is in."

Tower has been dogged by allegations of drinking and womanizing, and a number of senators have expressed concerns about Tower's ties to defense contractors after he received more than $1 million as a consultant since he left the Senate in 1985.

Warner told an impromptu news conference that the panel has received additional material on Tower which it has forwarded to the White House. He described the material as "several letters" but refused to elaborate or discuss their contents.

The senator said he and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the panel, were available "whenever the White House wants to meet" to review the latest FBI report, which is expected early next week.

The committee will then meet either Tuesday or Wednesday to consider the nomination amid increasing public criticism of Bush's selection.

On Thursday, Sen. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., said he doubted Tower could be confirmed by the full Senate. And Rep. Sid Morrison, R-Wash., suggested that Tower has become a political liability for the new Bush administration and urged the former senator to withdraw his nomination.

Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., said Friday he will reserve judgment until he reads the FBI report, but conceded he is troubled by the nomination.

"It's the only Bush nomination I

Welfare program provides loans

By KATHY EYRE

CANTON, Miss. — A bank would never risk a dime on Rosie Moore, but a pilot federal program is loaning thousands of dollars to her and other welfare recipients who want to start their own businesses.

"I've always worked for someone else. I'd like to become my own boss," says the mother of two.

She's getting her chance under a pilot Self-Employment Initiative program in which Mississippi, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota and New Jersey are participating.

Moore, of Canton, says she worked for seven years in a bank's collection department and a year for a private collection agency.

She wanted to open her own collection agency, but is supported by the Welfare Department's Aid to Families with Dependent Children program and until now couldn't afford to start her own business.

Bush administration begins to change zero tolerance drug policy

By CHRISTOPHER CALLAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — In the wake of a steady stream of complaints and cries of discrimination from irate yacht owners and commercial fishermen, the Bush administration is slowly modifying Ronald Reagan's "zero tolerance" anti-drug policy.

The controversial program, which emerged last spring in the midst of the nation's anti-drug furor, called on the Coast Guard to seize vessels if any amount of drugs were found on board, down to a single seed of marijuana.

The concept behind zero tolerance was to attack the user side of the drug problem and force boat owners to help in the anti-drug effort.

But recreational boat owners and commercial fishermen said they were being discriminated against, complaining that they could lose a multi-million dollar vessel because a guest or crew member was found with a small amount of drugs, and that the drug violator would face only a minor criminal penalty.

Last fall, Congress inserted into the sweeping anti-drug bill orders requiring the executive branch to alter the policy on several fronts, a move that was strongly opposed by the Coast Guard, then Transportation Secretary Jim Burnley and others in the Reagan administration.

The Bush administration, which already missed Congress' deadline to install the new rules, last week issued interim guidelines that prevents the Coast Guard from seizing commercial fishing vessels at sea for small amounts of drugs. Under the new policy, the Coast Guard can issue a summons and have a forfeiture procedure when the fishing trip ends.

The new guidelines also require forfeiture procedures to be decided within 20 days.

But an "innocent owner" provision of the law, which sparked the most controversy on Capitol Hill and intense opposition from the Reagan administration, is still being developed by the Customs Service attorneys, and it may not turn out to be what Congress had in mind when it wrote the law.

One of the key concepts behind the zero tolerance policy was not only to "educate" boat owners not to use drugs on board their vessels, but to force them to take a series of steps — such as written anti-drug policies — to help make sure no one else on board was using drugs.

"We want to make people aware that no more can they afford to go out there and say to 12 friends very nonchalantly, 'Hey, let's just get on the boat and go.' They have other responsibilities," Janet Labuda said in an interview last year when she was head of the Customs Service program overseeing the zero tolerance policy. "We're asking people not to turn a blind eye and to be a little bit more aggressive in trying to find things out."

Under that policy, Labuda and others said, an owner could forfeit the vessel even if he or she did not possess drugs or were unaware of drugs on board.

Big Spring company builds robot 'brains'

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Hidden among the large hangars at the McMahan/Wrinkle Industrial Park is Building 64.

In it, Ron Osborn has quietly and steadily developed electronics systems for companies building everything from state-of-the-art military equipment to bomb detectors.

Osborn — who founded Avantech Corp. in 1982 — recently developed an electronics system for an ordinance disposable robot and is producing them for a Dallas-based company that was awarded a contract with the U.S. government.

The ordinance disposable robot is actually the electronic equivalent of a human bomb squad expert.

"It (robot) is an alternative to having people deactivate bombs. With this device someone can operate the robot by remote control," Osborn said.

The company actually builds the computer or "brains" that is mounted on the robot — complete with micro processor; radio receiver; power card; and intelligence circuitry. Also produced at Avantech is the remote control device that operates the robot.

"The robot can perform several functions. First, it can carry an X-Ray machine that will take pictures of a suspected package (containing a bomb)," Osborn said. "Also, a shotgun can be mounted on it and be detonated by remote control."

He added the robot also has the capacity to distribute large amounts of water that can diffuse a bomb.

The person operating the remote control box can see what the robot is doing from a navigation camera — similar to a television screen, Osborn said.

"They are a fairly new product, but are increasingly being used

Judge rules INS can limit travel for asylum seekers

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Officials were trying to figure out how to shelter thousands of Central American immigrants, many of whom were preparing for a hasty departure before renewed travel restrictions take effect.

A federal judge on Friday reinstated an Immigration and Naturalization Service policy that bars the immigrants from traveling beyond the Rio Grande Valley while their applications for political asylum are pending.

Tomas Martinez, 34, of Honduras said she was surprised to hear of the travel restriction that will go into effect again Monday night.

"I guess I'll have to leave pretty quick," said Ms. Martinez, bound for New York.

Justice Department officials by late Friday had not revealed any plan for sheltering thousands of Central Americans expected to start gathering here again as they wait for applications to be processed.

U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith, R-Texas, said Thursday the INS plans to set up a detention camp for them at the agency's Port Isabel Service Processing Center, an INS facility on 347 acres 15 miles northeast of Brownsville. But the INS said such a camp is only one of several options under discussion.

U.S. District Judge Filimon Vela on Jan. 9 had blocked the INS from restricting the travel of the immigrants after a group of immigration attorneys sued the INS over the procedure that was blamed for flooding the area with hundreds of homeless Central Americans.

But Vela on Friday agreed with the INS that public comment was not required for the travel restriction because it merely constituted "general statements of agency organization, procedure, or practice," and did not remove the opportunity to apply for asylum.

The changes were "procedural, rather than substantive," the judge stated in his ruling that reinstated the INS policy banning travel for applicants.

Asylum is granted to those fleeing various forms of persecution. The INS contends, however, that the vast majority of those seeking asylum are here only for economic reasons, and do not qualify for asylum.

Of 9,700 who applied in Harlingen between Jan. 9 and Feb. 9, 38 percent were from Nicaragua and 28 percent were from El Salvador, 18 percent from Honduras and 13 percent from Guatemala, with a smattering of other countries represented, including Costa Rica.

The INS also has been sued by local officials who contend the asylum-seekers should be able to travel to cities where they have families and friends and better access to legal representation while pursuing their cases.

"We think that's going to create a multitude of problems here in the (Lower Rio Grande) Valley," Mark Schneider of Harlingen, one of the attorneys who sued the INS over the matter, said after learning of the judge's decision.

Brownsville immigration attorney Linda Yanez, who sued with Schneider, filed an appeal of Vela's ruling Friday and sought an injunction pending the appeal, but Vela denied the injunction Friday afternoon. Ms. Yanez said she is seeking an emergency stay through the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Former Klan leader wins close election

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — David Duke, a former grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, narrowly defeated homebuilder John Treen to win a seat Saturday in the Louisiana Legislature after a campaign peppered with charges of racism.

Duke had 8,456 votes, or 51 percent, and Treen had 8,232 votes, or 49 percent — a scant 224-vote difference.

Duke, 38, and Treen, 63, battled it out for a month to represent the almost all-white House district in Metairie, a New Orleans suburb with about 21,000 voters. Both men ran as Republicans.

Fearing a Duke victory and an embarrassment for the GOP, President Bush and former President Reagan threw their considerable weight behind Treen, a longtime party functionary.

Nearly 78 percent of the voters turned out for the runoff election where Duke won 33 percent of the vote to lead a field of seven in the Jan. 21 primary. Treen got 19 percent.

Under Louisiana's open primary system, the top two vote-getters in a primary, regardless of party, face each other in a runoff if no candidate receives more than half the vote. The seat opened up when Metairie's representative was elected to a judgeship with about three years left in a four-year term.

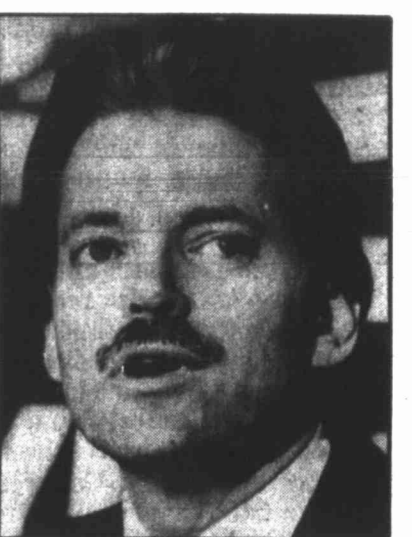

The election returned the spotlight to Duke, who in the 1970s was photographed in a Nazi uniform and boldly removed the hood of his white robe to become an international spokesman for the Klan.

It's an era that Duke claimed to be sorry for, but Treen said he didn't believe that.

"I regret it because... people might think I'm racially or religiously intolerant," Duke said.

Duke left the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in 1980, accused by another leader of selling secret membership rolls. He formed the National Association for the Advancement of White People, which he says is a civil rights organization for everyone.

The final days of the race brought renewed charges that Duke still was associated with right-wing extremists, including ex-American Nazi leader Ralph Forbes of Arkansas. Duke acknowledged Forbes had been campaign manager in his 1988 bid for the presidency as a member of the Populist Party.

In the general election, he ran in 15 states and drew less than .05 percent of the national total vote.

He began his presidential bid as a Democrat but was repudiated by party officials. He got no delegates at the Democratic National Convention.

Two days before qualifying for the House race, he registered with the GOP, but the Republican National Committee also rejected him.

Fearful the charismatic Duke would overshadow the mild-mannered Treen, the committee enlisted their top two politicians in the 11th hour of the campaign — Bush and Reagan — to try to keep Duke from going to the Legislature as a member of their party.

The backing from Bush and Reagan is unprecedented in a local legislative race, state and national GOP officials said. Locally, an archbishop, senators, a university president and Democrats voiced their support for Treen or their opposition to Duke.

Letters from Bush promoting Treen's candidacy arrived at most homes in the district by election day.

"I can't help but tell you of the high regard I have for one candidate in the race for the 81st district — John Treen," Reagan said in the heavily played radio spot.

The race also attracted international attention.

U.S. officials agree to cooling off period in beef trade battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and European negotiators agreed Saturday to a 75-day cooling off period in their increasingly abrasive trade war involving American beef containing growth hormones as they intensified their search for a compromise to resolve the dispute.

U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills, holding her first discussions as the Bush administration's top trade negotiator, said that substantial progress had been made in the two days of talks with representatives of the 12-nation European Community.

The two sides agreed to establish a high-level task force to study the issue over the next 75 days with the goal of coming up with ways to export hormone-free American beef to Europe.

The task force will also consider an American demand that a panel of experts should be established to consider whether growth hormones constitute a health risk.

"We made good progress in working out a procedure with respect to our differences in the hormone area," Mrs. Hills told reporters after the meeting ended. "We have a high-level task force to deal with that issue, to work out the differences if at all possible."

"We made good progress in working out a procedure with respect to our differences in the hormone area." — U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills

Frans Andriessen, the top trade negotiator for the European Community, said that he was encouraged by the talks with the new administration and predicted "our good will and good spirit" would guide the way to a solution.

Both President Bush and European officials have expressed a desire to defuse the trade dispute, fearing that the battle could aggravate tensions just at a time when the new administration is trying to forge closer ties with its European allies.

The current trade dispute began on Jan. 1 when the Europeans imposed a ban on shipments of U.S. beef because the meat contained growth hormones used to fatten American cattle.

The Reagan administration charged that the European action, which affected about $100 million in annual meat shipments, represented an unfair trade barrier and that there was no scientific evidence that the hormones were a health threat.

In retaliation, the Americans slapped 100 percent tariffs on $100 million worth of European products, ranging from canned tomatoes to fruit wines and instant coffee. Those tariffs are just now showing up in higher prices at U.S. grocery stores.

The weekend negotiations were held in an effort to avoid a counter-retaliatory step threatened by the Europeans on Monday, when the governing body of the European Community will meet to consider imposing 100 percent tariffs on $100 million of American exports of walnuts and dried fruit.

Refugees are to be expected

The day after the presidents of four Central American countries sacrificed the Contra rebels as a burnt offering to Nicaragua's Marxist regime, a half-mile-long line of refugees formed outside the new Immigration and Naturalization Service processing center in Bayview, Texas. The thousands of refugees, mostly from Nicaragua and El Salvador, were seeking political amnesty in the United States to escape the darkening future of their homelands.

Almost on a daily basis, thousands of other refugees from the region are streaming into South Florida, producing a human flood unmatched since 125,000 Cubans fled communist rule in the 1980 Mariel boatlift. The new immigration tide is a sign that, despite the optimistic declarations made at the two-day regional summit in El Salvador, democracy and peace are still little more than elusive dreams for most of Central America.

The leaders of El Salvador, Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica, and Guatemala convened recently in a bid to revive the 18-month-old regional peace accord authored by Oscar Arias. The result was an agreement to dismantle the Contra resistance movement in exchange for more dubious promises of democratic reform from Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega.

To be fair, the principal blame for abandoning the Contras does not rest with the five presidents of the region. Twelve months ago Congress cut off U.S. military aid to the Contras, leaving them to the mercy of the much larger Sandinista army. The Soviet-armed Sandinistas promptly drove the rebels back into their base camps in Honduras, where they have become a festering problem for President Jose Azcona.

Now the 11,000 Contra fighters are to be expelled from Honduras. Many if not most of the rebels and their 10,000 family members are likely to join the underground circuit of refugees pouring into the Rio Grande Valley. Certainly the United States, as the capricious sponsor of the Contras, now has an obligation to help relocate them.

To finish off the Contras, President Ortega has pledged to hold presidential and local elections a year from now. Opposition parties would be allowed to participate fully, with equal access to radio and television, which the Sandinistas control. Mr. Ortega also has promised to make the elections open to international observers.

Yet the overriding problem, as always, is that President Ortega's promises are as worthless as the drastically devalued Nicaraguan cordoba.

When he signed the Arias peace plan in 1987, the Sandinista leader pledged to negotiate a cease-fire with the Contras. Instead, he launched one of the largest military offensives of the civil war as soon as Congress cut off lethal aid to the guerrillas. He promised to guarantee a free press but instead shut down and harassed La Prensa and Radio Catolica. He promised amnesty for political prisoners but continues to jail thousands of political prisoners. He promised to allow opposition political activities but instead mounted a crackdown down on dissent, including police attacks on peaceful anti-government demonstrators.

The litany of betrayed commitments strongly suggests that the "elections" which Mr. Ortega has agreed to stage will turn out to be yet another bitter disappointment to those who seek genuine democratic reform in Nicaragua.

Thus far, the Central American peace accord has achieved only the surrender of the Contras. The repressive Marxist regime in Managua remains firmly entrenched. The communist guerrillas in El Salvador have stepped up their attacks on the democratic government of Jose Napoleon Duarte. And the threat to regional stability posed by the Sandinista's oversized military forces is as strong as ever.

No one should be surprised that the tens of thousands of Central American refugees pouring into the United States are unimpressed by the latest diplomatic accomplishments.

Learning about our newspaper

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

I read a letter in Dear Abby just last week about the use of telephone surveys. Apparently Abigail Van Buren opposes them and a writer attacked her because he says it's the purest, most honest answer available — over the telephone, speaking to a faceless voice.

She dismissed him and his argument, contending that a person's privacy is invaded this way and the practice should be outlawed. Gosh, that seems extreme, when all you have to do is tell them "No thanks."

Is that what you'd do? Or would you answer and try to learn just what they are trying to figure out? That's what I did.

I'd never been surveyed — at least I could say that until the second Sunday of October. It was about 8:30 that evening when my phone rang and an innocent-sounding voice asked me, among other things, "May I please speak with the male or female head of the household?" That's me.

And, although I was a little hesitant, the next line intrigued me — "Our firm is conducting a brief study about newspaper readership in the Big Spring area," and she explained that she had a few questions about news service.

Somehow, that really grabbed my attention.

I agreed to talk about what I thought of the local newspaper, if she would tell me more about the survey and its purpose afterward; she agreed.

And that's how the managing editor of the Big Spring Herald learned that a survey of the paper in his community was being conducted. And on my birthday at that, so I've had no trouble remembering just when it occurred.

Believe me, the young woman asking the questions was more than a little frustrated after asking all of her questions and getting her answers, only to learn that it was the editor she was talking to.

Although I was only one of 250 Big Spring residents contacted on this matter, likely I was the only one who asked nearly as many questions of the questioner. And she seemed most concerned that she might lose her job somehow, after facing my curiosity.

So, she wouldn't tell me who was financing the survey, or how the results were going to be used, for that matter. She just knew that she wasn't the one who was to be answering questions.

It was not until this past week — four months later — that I finally got the full details. Ernest and Whitney, a Big Eight accounting firm, conducted the survey through a Chicago marketing company to learn such things as how long the respondents have been in Big Spring, their age and various aspects of their readership of the Herald. It was interesting to be asked the questions; it was real interesting to read the results.

Here's some of what I've learned; I'll leave the analysis for another day:

- 151 of the 250 respondents were female;
- More than 60 percent didn't know how long they expect to remain in the area;
- More than 70 percent began subscribing voluntarily;
- 76.9 percent currently subscribe, nearly 80 percent market penetration;
- 84.5 percent rank the Herald between mid-range to highest as a source of advertising of local merchants' sales;
- More than 73 percent assigned mid-range to high marks to the Herald as a source of local news;
- More than 60 percent consider the Herald within that range for fashion and gift ideas;
- 81 percent responded that two, three or four people in the households read the Herald daily;
- 35 percent spend up to 30 minutes reading their paper; 13 percent spend up to 45 minutes; 12 percent spend up to one hour and 13 percent spend more than one hour;
- Of the 235 who gave their exact age, 34 percent are 30-39 years old; 14.5 percent are 18-29; 17.9 are 40-49; 14.9 are 50-59 and 18.7 are 60 and older.

And that, no thanks to Abigail Van Buren, is what I've learned about the Big Spring Herald.

Redefining political boundaries

By JESSE TREVINO

Texas is being taken apart and put back together again. In fact, the whole country is. Not to formally take effect until 1991, the decennial process of redrawing political districts to account for population shifts during the previous decade has already begun. From the lowliest justice of the peace precinct to the districts of the most powerful committee chairmen in Congress, redistricting is upon us.

Most of the important changes will occur at the local level, but congressional redistricting gets most of the attention. Montana, for example, has launched a desperate campaign to lure new residents there before the 1990 census. Unless the state's population grows quickly, Montana will lose one of its two seats in Congress to a state which has grown in the last 10 years.

Texas is one of those states. The question is, how many seats will Texas gain? Projections estimate a pick up of three seats, possibly four.

In any case, the state Legislature, in deciding where the new seats go, should follow at least three basic rules: First, the new districts should go where the population has grown the most. Second, the state's power in Congress should be protected by protecting incumbent congressmen. Current district boundaries should be maintained whenever possible, including a Congressman's home base. Third, the basic character of a district should not be compromised, be it urban or rural, Democratic or Republican.

The first rule is straightforward. Conveniently, three areas of the state have outstripped all others in population growth: Dallas, Houston and South Texas.

That brings up the possibility that one of the three new seats may well be a predominantly Hispanic district. The possibility presents a problem for U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, chairman of an all-important committee to Texas, House Agriculture. Although the conventional wisdom would give the new South Texas district to a Hispanic, South Texas already has ploded, and a few surrounding counties. But this could actually endanger the increasingly influential de la Garza by giving an advantage to the ambitious and popular young politicians of South Texas.

These younger politicians, more popular among the increasingly younger Hispanic population, can indeed be a danger. Former congressman Chick Kazen of Laredo, a friend of de la Garza's, learned a bitter lesson in 1984 when the changing demographics in his district finally ate away his base, leaving him open to a successful challenge.

Some of the most interesting redistricting questions arise in Dallas and northeast Texas. With four new seats, the extra population of Dallas-Ft. Worth could easily be absorbed by parts of two new districts. With only three new seats, however, outlying areas might have to pick up some of the excess.

The upshot could change boundaries that were painstakingly drawn to separate Democrats from Republicans in one of the few areas of Texas where Democratic presidential candidates still win votes. For example, if the 4th District has gained too many people in Collin, Rockwall, and Kaufman Counties (suburban Dallas), will Republican Gregg County (Longview) be pushed into the surrounding 1st district, upsetting the 1st District's precarious balance?

These kinds of questions may come to naught, depending on the outcome of a court case which challenges the counting of illegal aliens as population.

The lawsuit, filed by legislators who maintain that other areas of the country are losing congressional seats because illegal aliens are included in census counts, is making its way through the courts.

If the lawsuit is successful, Houston alone could lose as many as 150,000 people in the census, and Texas would probably gain just two new Congressional seats. If that happens, redistricting will grow more intense.

A note of appreciation

To the editor:
Sharon and David Justice deserve a big thanks for providing the Learning Center for the Heart Association Dinner Saturday evening. Preparing for and cleaning up after hundreds of guests (and some ungracious people) was a big project. It was very generous of them to donate their time and efforts as well as their facility for a special event that Big Spring looks forward to each year.

One month is not enough

To the editor:
Did you know Black History Month began years ago as Black History Week during the first week in February?
How ironic it is that the people who were scourged, enslaved and forced to fill this American soil are given only a few pages and a few days in the history books of America. In spite of the accomplishments and achievements of Afro-Americans we have yet to overcome. If we continue to sit on the security cushion provided by our foreparents we shall remain on our knees.

Swaggart blames plight on Satan

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A year after being disgraced by charges of sexual misconduct, evangelist Jimmy Swaggart portrays his plight as a life-and-death struggle against "pornographers" who are trying to topple his TV ministry.

"This is the crisis point in this ministry. Satan has come at us with his mightiest blow. He has not succeeded. He will not succeed," Swaggart said last weekend on his hourlong television program.

"You are making a choice today, a choice between the por-nographers that are working more diligently than you will ever know... or it's us. It's either the devil or darkness or it's God and light."

Swaggart said that without an influx of donations, his television ministry will leave the air Feb. 26 — a year and five days after he tearfully confessed from the pulpit to an unspecified sin.

Once the highest-rated television preacher with viewership estimated at more than 2 million, Swaggart was dropped from three major cable television networks.

Ice floe carries off 175 people

CATAWBA ISLAND, Ohio (AP) — About 175 people trapped on a mile-long stretch of ice on Lake Erie that broke free and floated about a mile out into the lake were rescued Saturday by helicopters and boats, officials said.

U.S. Coast Guard helicopters lowered large baskets to rescue one by one some of those stranded, most of whom were ice fishermen. Two civilian boats and Coast Guard boats also aided in the rescue, which took three hours. No one was injured.

The ice floe "took off pretty fast," said Dave Matta, an ice fishing guide from nearby Port Clinton, who said he jumped over a 6-inch gap to a secure piece of ice when he noticed the slab cracking away from the shore.

The lake temperature was 33 degrees Saturday, cold enough so that a person's chances of surviving in it for more than a few minutes were slim, officials said.

Chief Larry Provoncha of the Marblehead Coast Guard Station said officials were concerned that the ice floe might break up.

Provoncha said the ice floe might have separated from shore because it was too thin to support the weight of so many fishermen at once.

Floating ice floes similar to Saturday's occur once or twice each winter on the Ohio side of Lake Erie, Provoncha said.

Prince plays polo for wildlife

PRINCE CHARLES

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles stroked a panther Saturday before mounting up under sunny skies for a benefit polo match before 4,000 fashionable spectators.

The Prince of Wales arrived at Patrick Air Force Base during the morning, a day after he met with President Bush, and was whisked to the new Windsor Polo and Beach Club. He was not accompanied by his wife Diana or their two children on his fifth trip to south Florida since 1980.

The polo match, a benefit for the Friends of Conservation, a group that raises funds for African wildlife, was the first Prince of Wales Cup match.

After he arrived, Charles mounted a dais for a wildlife display conducted by television naturalist Jim Fowler.

Dangerous chemical list gets U.N. support

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A "red flag" list of dangerous chemicals has been created so Third World nations can avoid importing toxic substances they can't handle safely, U.N. officials said.

The list, and a system of notifying chemical-producing nations, resolves a longstanding clash between chemical exporters and developing nations.

The director of the U.N. Environment Program, Mostafa K. Tolba, said Friday that such a list might have prevented the deaths of thousands of Egyptians in his homeland in 1984, when the government sprayed a toxic insecticide on cotton fields.

For more than a decade, developing nations have feared chemical manufacturers in the United States, Europe and Japan were sending them products they did not have the sophistication to handle or dispose of safely.

"Illiteracy and a lack of education makes them unable to recognize the danger" involved in handling such toxic chemicals, said Tolba.

Manufacturers had opposed suggestions that chemical shipments receive advance approval from the country it was being sent to; a system called Prior Informed Consent. Technical experts from 26 countries, chemical manufacturers, and environmentalists such as Operation Greenpeace met this week at U.N. headquarters to recommend an "informed consent" system agreeable to all parties.

The International Register of Potentially Toxic Chemicals, a U.N. agency in Geneva, will compile notifications from developing nations of which chemicals they refuse to accept.

That agency will then transmit that list to governments of industrial countries at regular intervals. Those governments will then notify chemical manufacturers of the limitations.

Since the manufacturers, developing world and environmentalists agreed on the system, its adoption by U.N. Environment Program in May appeared certain, said Jan Huismans, the head of the International Register of Potentially Toxic Chemicals.

"If an industrial chemical or a pesticide appears on the banned or severely restricted lists of 10 or more countries, then it is clearly so dangerous that importing countries should be alerted," said Huismans.

U.S. blamed for emergency

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — The government declared a nationwide state of emergency Saturday and blamed U.S. aid to Afghan guerrillas in part for the move, which sharply reins in civil liberties.

The emergency was announced on state-run radio and television by President Najib, who said it was needed "to ensure peace and security" in Afghanistan.

It came three days after the last Soviet soldiers, who had been backing Najib's army in its war with Moslem guerrillas, left the country.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Mohammad Nabi Amani told foreign journalists that troops would have the right to open fire if they believed reporters or photographers were behaving suspiciously.

The city of 2.25 million people remained relatively calm. But guerrillas surround Kabul, and many diplomats believe the government will collapse shortly.

The state of emergency allows the government to suspend or limit constitutional rights that protect against confiscation of property and searches of property; provide for confidentiality of correspondence and telephone conversations; allow peaceful assembly and demonstrations; protect freedom of expression; and provide for freedom from compulsory labor.

Clairvoyant predicts earthquake

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A fruit seller's prediction that Lisbon will be hit by a major earthquake Sunday created so much anxiety that officials issued a statement assuring residents there was no need to worry.

Vivina da Conceicao, who makes her living selling fruit and claims to be a clairvoyant, made banner headlines in local newspapers with her ominous prediction.

"We've been inundated with about 100 calls a day this week," said Luisa Senos, at Lisbon's National Institute for Meteorology and Geophysics.

"I've been explaining to these poor people that there's absolutely no cause for alarm, there's no scientific basis" for the prediction, she said.

An earthquake flattened most of Lisbon in 1755.

Rushdie's apology not accepted

LONDON (AP) — Author Salman Rushdie on Saturday apologized to Moslems angered by his novel "The Satanic Verses," but Iran indicated his words were not enough to win him a reprieve from a death sentence ordered by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

In a brief statement, the 41-year-old Indian-born British writer, now in hiding, said: "As author of 'The Satanic Verses' I recognize that Moslems in many parts of the world are genuinely distressed by the publication of my novel."

"I profoundly regret the distress that publication has occasioned to sincere followers of Islam."

Rushdie, who was born into a Moslem family, was sentenced to death by Khomeini, who said his novel is insulting to Islam. Iranian leaders have offered a bounty of $5.2 million for his death.

Border governors discussed problems

SALTILLO, Mexico (AP) — Governors from U.S.-Mexico border states say they built bridges of understanding during a meeting here while calling for increased construction of real bridges to keep pace with growing trade between the two countries.

Deukmejian, Texas Gov. Bill Clements and New Mexico Gov. Garrey Carruthers spent Friday discussing issues of mutual concern with their counterparts from Mexico's six border states. Arizona Gov. Rose Mofford was unable to attend the conference because bad weather grounded her plane.

The governors, in a three-page resolution, said demands placed on communications and transportation systems along the border because of growing industry and increased trade require construction of more international bridges.

Carruthers and Deukmejian, meanwhile, told reporters that the United States realizes it must reduce the demand for illegal drugs on the American side of the border to the war against narcotics trafficking.

U.S. authorities often have criticized Mexico for not doing enough to persecute drug traffickers in their country, while Mexico criticizes the United States for not taking responsibility for the demand.

Pilliod said earlier in the conference that narcotics trafficking, and the failure of the United States and Mexico to work out a solution is the most serious problem hampering relations between the two countries.

The governors' resolution, signed in ceremonies Friday evening, called for increased public and private funding for water recycling and wastewater treatment facilities along the border.

Anti-abortion protesters arrested in Dallas, Austin

AUSTIN — A U.S. postman walks through anti-abortion protesters after delivering mail to The Ladies Center, an abortion clinic in Austin. Over 100 people were arrested for being in violation of a restraining order and for criminal trespass.

AUSTIN (AP) — Approximately 140 anti-abortion protesters were arrested Saturday outside a clinic on criminal trespass charges, officials said, as a weeklong protest by Operation Rescue continued.

Meanwhile, 32 people — many members of the same organization — were arrested outside a Dallas clinic where they had blocked entrances, a spokeswoman said.

Last Saturday, about 106 protesters were arrested in Austin, including Rex Moses, spokesman for the anti-abortion organization.

Moses was later sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $500 after being found in contempt of court for violating an order not to block or harass patients and employees at abortion clinics.

Moses requested leniency during sentencing, saying, "I'd like to ask you to let me go home tonight so I can be with my children, and go out and rescue children tomorrow."

On Saturday, the protesters gathered at the Ladies Center.

By 2 p.m., officers had arrested 140 protesters and were in the process of booking them on criminal trespass charges, said police dispatcher Bruce English. He said he did not know how many had posted bond.

"By the time I came on duty, they had all been brought in," he said.

A spokeswoman for the Ladies Center said the most recent protest was apparently in retaliation for Moses' arrest.

"They had recruits; every time the police arrested one, they would send in two more," said spokeswoman Nola Puente.

"Then they would start crawling across the parking lot. They still had a lot more people coming when the police announced they would arrest all of them."

Center officials performed 23 abortions after the entrances were cleared, she said.

About 50 percent of the protesters were from outside Austin, including residents of San Antonio, Houston and Laredo, she said. Arrests at the center this week totaled 205, said Ms. Puente.

"The citizens of Austin are getting tired of getting their privacy invaded by these people wanting media attention," she said.

At the Routh Street Woman's Clinic, Dallas police arrested protesters about 2 p.m.

"The police were very cooperative and helped us get the patients into the clinic," said Ms. Kaplan.

Four killed in bus accident

FALFURRIAS (AP) — Four people were killed and 20 others injured Saturday when a bus skidded out of control on a rain-slickened highway and rolled over twice, officials said.

"It rolled over about two times, tossing victims out through the windows," said paramedic William Stover of Falfurrias, the first to arrive following the 3:45 a.m. crash.

Only four people managed to stay inside the vehicle, and one of those died of injuries sustained as the bus tumbled, he said. The bus was carrying 24 people, officials said.

Many of the injured, some in critical condition, were transported to Corpus Christi and other area hospitals by helicopter and ambulances Saturday morning.

The accident occurred as the bus was trying to negotiate a curve about six to seven miles south of Falfurrias on U.S. Highway 281, Stover said.

Officials are still trying to determine what caused the Valley Transit Company Bus to crash, but already are certain the wet roadway was a factor.

"We did have rainy weather," said Melinda Williams, a dispatcher for the Brooks County sheriff's department in Falfurrias, about 60 miles southwest of Corpus Christi. "It was pretty bad out there."

Ms. Williams said three were pronounced dead at the scene and 21 others were first taken to Brooks County Hospital. Many were later transferred to other hospitals in South Texas.

Stover said people were lying on the ground all around the bus.

"It was a mess," Stover said. He said he spoke to a man and woman who sustained minor cuts. "They both told me the bus slid sideways into the ditch, rolled once, and then the bus continued on over again," he said.

Stover said emergency rescue vehicles and personnel from several surrounding communities converged on the rural location as word of the crash spread.

Killed in the crash was Paul Salinas, 20, Stover said. He said families of the other three victims — one man and two women — had not been contacted by authorities and their identities were not released.

The two men and a woman died at the scene and the other woman died of injuries at Brooks County Hospital about two hours after the crash, he said.

The least seriously injured was an unidentified 20-year-old woman, who suffered only a bump on her face.

A 5-year-old girl was in guarded condition in the pediatric intensive care unit at Driscoll Children's Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman said. The girl's mother had earlier been treated and released from Humana Hospital in Corpus Christi.

Three men were in guarded condition at Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi.

At Alice Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, a woman remained in critical condition and two men and two women were treated and released.

At Spohn-Kleberg Memorial Hospital in Kingsville, one man was in stable, but critical condition and may be transferred later to a Corpus Christi hospital. Two other men were in stable condition.

Two were treated and released from Brooks County Hospital.

No identities are yet available on the injured, Ms. Williams said. Most suffered lacerations and fractures, and several had major injuries, Stover said.

The bus driver was not believed to be seriously injured and was walking after the accident although he and many others seemed to be in shock, Stover said. The bus driver was later taken to an Edinburg hospital by a family member, he said.

Rape defendant gets probation

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors say they are disappointed with the punishment handed down against a 26-year-old man found guilty of sexual assault in the gang rape of a San Diego woman and also wonder what message it might send to the remaining defendants.

Roberto Perez will serve no time in prison for his involvement in the incident last March, a jury decided late Friday night. Perez received a two-year suspended sentence and five years' probation, but was not fined.

"I think the jury gave us a trial like they told us they would," said court-appointed defense attorney Homero Canales.

The case was moved to Hidalgo County after the defense complained of excessive publicity in Duval County, where the incident occurred.

After the guilty verdict was handed down, Assistant District Attorney Rodolfo Gutierrez said prosecutors were in a "much better bargaining position" to obtain plea bargains from the remaining defendants.

That was before jurors returned with a punishment that included no time in prison.

Perez is one of 10 men and a 14-year-old boy who were indicted last April on charges ranging from kidnapping to aggravated kidnapping to sexual assault. Two other men have been sentenced to prison terms in connection with the incident.

Perez, who could have received a two- to 20-year sentence and a fine of up to $10,000, smiled and embraced emotional family members after receiving the punishment. Asked what he planned to do over the weekend, Perez grinned and said, "No drinking, that's for sure."

The jury deliberated about 3 1/2 hours before returning the guilty verdict shortly before 9 p.m. Judge Ricardo Garcia of the 229th Judicial District gave the jury the option of returning Saturday to assess punishment, but the jurors chose to remain.

"This woman has been sentenced to life," District Attorney Heriberto Silva told jurors before they deliberated punishment.

"I'm sorry for (the victim)," Canales told jurors in arguing for probation. "She's been through a hell of a lot. I'm sorry, but she has. But so has the defendant."

Earlier Friday, Perez testified he arrived at a ranch near San Diego with five others including three juveniles about 1 a.m. the March night the alleged attack took place. He said he saw the female victim sitting on the hood of a car. Shortly thereafter, Perez said, he and the 20-year-old woman began making advances at each other.

"We started talking and getting to know each other," he said, adding that they began kissing and had oral sex.

He said he later asked the girl to leave with him, and she agreed. They left with a carload of five other people, Perez testified.

After dropping off three of them, Perez said the group went toward a dirt road outside of town, where Perez, Alejandro Bear and Roberto Garcia had sex with the woman on the trunk of the car.

Perez said he later dropped off Bear and Garcia, and he and the woman went to another spot, where they had sex two more times. The defendant said the woman consented to all of the sexual acts.

As they drove around later, Perez said, he noticed a car following them and the woman told him it was her husband.

"She ducked down on the floor," Perez said. "I didn't know what to do, so I started going fast to try and lose the car, and I did."

The woman testified last week that Perez sexually assaulted her at the ranch and then at two other locations.

Lady Steers lose heartbreaker

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

ABERNATHY — A two-point second quarter performance was too much for the Big Spring Lady Steers, as they fell to the Dumas Demonettes 47-46 in bi-district play Saturday.

The Lady Steers — led by Stephanie Smith's 13 points, rallied from an 11-point deficit early in the fourth quarter to pull within one point on Smith's field goal with one minute remaining.

Dumas brought the ball downcourt and froze the ball for 50 seconds until Smith fouled Nicole Guidrey. Guidrey missed the charity toss, Tami Wise rebounded for the Lady Steers, and threw an outlet pass to Peggy Smith.

The Big Spring point guard drove the length of the court, and with three seconds left, shot a five-footer that bounced off the rim.

"We just waited too late to do it — that's obvious," Big Spring coach C.E. Carmichael said. "I think I probably should have gone to the pressure defense earlier, but our scouting report said the Guidrey would blow the press apart. We had a chance, we just didn't quite get it done," Carmichael added.

Leading 17-15 after one quarter, Big Spring committed three consecutive turnovers which Krista Perry and April Garrett converted into baskets to give the Demonettes a 19-17 lead with 6:33 left in the first half.

The Lady Steers were ice cold from the field as they managed just two free throws in the quarter, in addition to going 0-for-9 from the field.

Dumas meanwhile shot an even 50 percent from the field enroute to a 28-19 halftime lead.

"You have to give Dumas credit," Carmichael said. "I'm not taking anything away from them, but that was just about as well as they can play. The second quarter definitely was the difference in the ballgame. We just kept turning it over against their press."

The lone bright spot for Big Spring in the first half was the shooting of Peggy Smith, who canned all three of her three-point attempts for nine points. Dumas' defense limited all-district post player Wise to four points in the first 16 minutes of play.

Big Spring started hot in the third quarter as baskets from Wise, Jennifer Hendleman and Stephanie Smith narrowed Big Spring's deficit to 30-25 with 4:48 left in the third.

Guidrey responded by nailing a three-pointer from the top of the key, added a two-pointer to compliment a short jumper from Garrett to increase the Demonettes' lead back to 10, 37-27, with 1:27 left in the period.

Amy Jowell hit a three-pointer 10 seconds into the final quarter to give Dumas its biggest lead of the night, 40-29. The Lady Steers however, began their comeback behind the sister duo of Stephanie and Peggy Smith.

Stephanie hit three free throws and Hendleman two charity tosses to cut the Big Spring deficit back down to single digits with 5:50 left in the game.

District Champs! Steers snare elusive crown after 32 years

FORT STOCKTON — Even with a shortage of players, there was nothing that was going to keep the Big Spring Steers from winning the District 4-4A basketball title Friday night.

Despite having two guards out with the flu, the Steers romped to a 97-59 win over the Fort Stockton Panthers to conclude regular season play. With that convincing win, Big Spring captures its first district championship in 32 years, dating back to 1957.

Big Spring heads into the state playoffs with a 20-11 record. The Steers were 13-1 in district play. Andrews finishes as the district runnerup, with a 12-2 league mark.

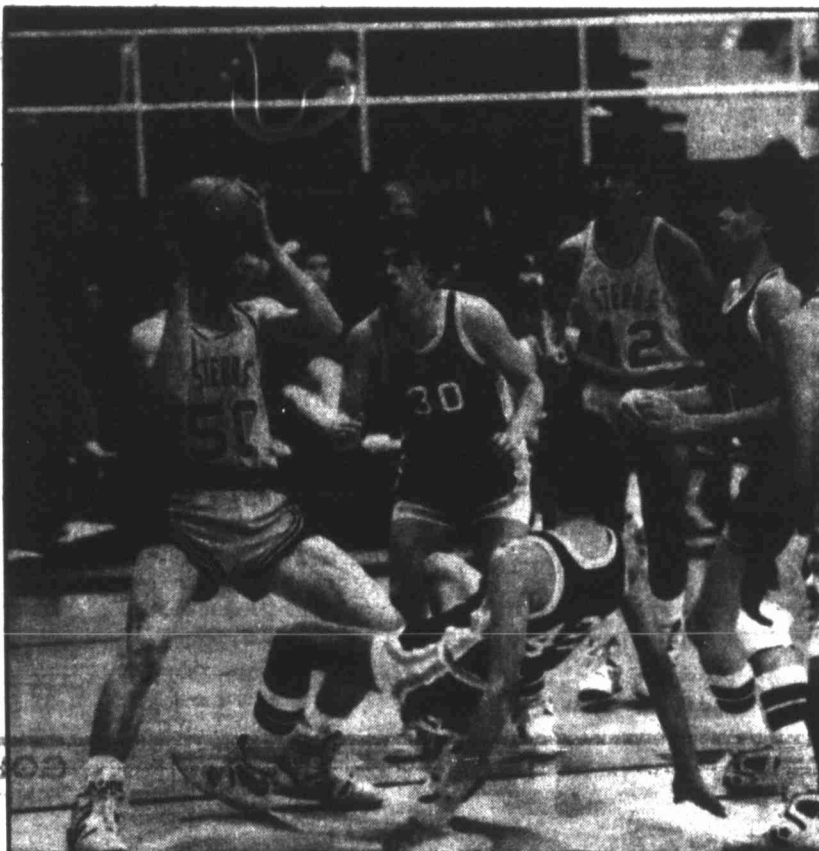

Coach Boyce Paxton's Steers were short-handed for this one, without the services of starting point guard Tony Lewis, and part-time starter Brandon Burnett.

Burnett didn't even suit out. Lewis started the game, but had to come out in less than two minutes.

"Tony couldn't even breathe, that's how bad he was hurting," said Paxton of Lewis' flu bout. "He needed a rest and this was a good time get some."

With their teammates missing, the Steers went out and played a very consistent game, playing tight man-to-man defense, and running the fast break well.

It turned out to be a fun game for Big Spring Steers' post player Thane Russey (50) pulls down a rebound against Fort Stockton in the game played earlier this season in Big Spring. Also in the photo in Steers' Junior Lopez (42). Friday in Fort Stockton Big Spring captured the District 4-4A title by downing Fort Stockton 97-59.

Big Spring and Paxton played his reserves freely. Excluding Lewis, all of the Steers scored, including four in double figures.

Leading the way was guard Abner Shellman who pulled off his first triple-double of the season. The 5-11 senior had a hot shooting night, hitting 9 of 12 field goals. He finished the game with 21 points, 11 assists and 11 steals. He also found time to snare six rebounds, and thrilled the Fort Stockton fans with one of his one-handed dunks.

Shellman's performance was typical of the team. Big Spring made 40 of 62 field goal attempts, for a sizzling 65 percent. Senior guard Doug Young was also scoring from the field, canning 8 of 13 field goals, including three three-pointers. Young also had six rebounds and six assists.

Reserve post player Louis Soldan was just as hot as Shellman and Young. The 6-3 sophomore made 10

Sonora stops Coahoma

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
For the Herald

SAN ANGELO — The Sonora Lady Bronchos came away with an impressive 66-52 win over the Coahoma Bulldogettes in AAA bi-district action at Bobcat Gymnasium Friday night.

With the win, Sonora improves its record to 21-9, while the Bulldogettes finished with the same record.

With 6:39 left in the opening quarter, Mitzi Joy scored the first points of the game to give the Lady Bronchos the first lead of the night. A beautiful feed under the basket by senior Paula Clanton to teammate Kelly Williams produced a Sonora foul and the basket, to give the Bulldogettes a 3-2 early lead.

Following a Sonora turnover, senior Christie Adkins stole a Bulldogette miscue and put the Lady Bronchos in the lead 4-3. Both teams traded baskets as the end of the first quarter came to a close.

Trailing 17-15 at the start of the second quarter, the Bulldogettes came right back and tied Sonora with an assist from Paige Wilson to Anne Damron. Tied at 19-19 with 6:19 left in the first half, Coahoma took the lead for the second time of the night as Wilson hit two of her free throws following a Sonora foul.

The Lady Bronchos recaptured the lead with a Kay

Williams three-pointer and never looked back.

Sonora rolled to eight points as the half came to an end. The fullcourt press gave the Bulldogettes fits all night, causing 12 turnovers in the first half. Sonora led 32-23 at the half.

Both teams went without a score for a little over two minutes at the start of the third quarter. Then Sonora scored six unanswered points building their lead to 38-23. With 2:44 left, Coahoma's Williams got into foul trouble adding more problems to the Bulldogettes.

COAHOMA (52) — Clanton — 4-19; Williams — 5-17; Damron — 5-14; Wilson — 1-3; Gee — 2-0; Anderson — 1-0; Totals — 18-52. Three-Pointer — Gee. Fouled Out — None. Rebounds (18) Assists — Wilson 2; Clanton 3. SCORE BY QUARTERS
Coahoma	15 8 12 16 — 52
Sonora	17 15 16 18 — 66

Adkins added 10 points in the final quarter and the Lady Bronchos were on their way to a bi-district win. The Coahoma Bulldogettes had put up a game fight, but came up short. Sonora wore out the Bulldogettes with fine shooting from the outside, outrebounding Coahoma 22-18. Sonora will play Abilene Wylie Tuesday in the area round. The game is tentatively scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at Lake View High School gym in San Angelo.

Queens bury Weatherford

WEATHERFORD — The Howard College Hawk-Queens showed the Western Junior College Athletic Conference's supremacy as they easily whipped Weatherford College 88-59 Friday night.

The win clearly showed the dominance of the WJCAC, as Weatherford, 15-12 for the season, will advance to the regional tournament in Waco as the tournament's No. 4 seed from the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference. Howard, 13-16 for the season, is currently sixth in WJCAC play with a 2-8 record.

"That shows the strength of our conference," said Stevens of his team's victory, adding that Howard has already beaten Cisco Junior College — the regional tournament's No. 2 seed from the NJCAC — twice.

"We can't finish in the top five of our conference. They're (Weatherford) going to the regional tournament and we come down here and drill them like this," Stevens said.

The game was close for a half, as Howard led 35-30 at intermission. But, at the start of the second half, the Queens blew the home team away, running off a 32-4 spurt.

Tankers a strong third in district swim meet

FORT STOCKTON — The Big Spring Steer and Lady Steer swim teams both finished third in the District 4-4A meet concluded here Saturday afternoon.

Big Spring coach Harlan Smith called it "a very good meet for the team."

The Steer boys scored 59 points. Meet favorite Andrews won the boys division with 91 points. Pecos was second with 77 points.

The Big Spring girls scored 35 points. Monahans won the meet with 92 points and Andrews nosed Big Spring out for third with 40 points.

"We're feeling real good about this meet right now," said coach Smith. "The kids preformed well."

Fourteen of Smith's 15 swimmers qualified for the regional meet in Lubbock two weeks away.

The top six finishers in each event qualified for regional. Junior Johnny Webb was the leader of the medal brigade for Big Spring. Webb set school records while swimming his way to victories in the 200 yard freestyle (1:57.13) and 500 yard freestyle (5:24.69). He also swam on the winning 400 yard freestyle team along with Abel Diaz, Chase Fraser and Chris Fuqua.

For his efforts, Webb was voted by district coaches as the Top Male Swimmer at the meet.

Big Spring also got a second place performance from diver Bryan Gordon. Fuqua finished third in the 100 freestyle in 53.05, after setting a new school record in the prelims (51.89).

"The boys did a super job," said Smith. "Chris (Fuqua), Chase (Fraser), Abel (Diaz) and Russ (Rhoten) all came through with some big points. We really didn't count on getting some of those points."

The Big Spring girls were paced by a second place finish in the 400 yard freestyle relay. The team of Ericka Clarkson, Sally Lopez, Rene York and Debra McMillian swam a 4:40.29.

"The 400 relay team performed beyond my expectations," said Smith. "They knocked 12 seconds of their time. They decided they were going to swim — and they wanted it."

Clarkson finished second in the 100 freestyle (1:05.67) and third in the 100 backstroke. Sally Lopez was second in the 100 butterfly (1:19.90) and fourth in the 200 freestyle.

Evansville guard burns Dayton for 65 big ones

By The Associated Press
Pete Maravich, Calvin Murphy and Scott Haffner.

Scott Haffner? Haffner scored 65 points — tied for the sixth-most in a Division I game — and led Evansville over Dayton 109-83 Saturday.

Haffner, a senior guard, made 23 of 29 shots from the field, including 11 of 13 3-pointers. He was 8-for-8 from the foul line.

"You just get into a groove where everything feels like it's going to go in, and that's what happened," he said.

Haffner's total was the highest in a Division I game in 12 years. He left with 1:30 remaining and fell short of Maravich's record of 69 points against a Division I opponent, set for LSU against Alabama in 1970.

Maravich and Murphy, each All-Americans and NBA All-Stars, are among the handful of players ahead of Haffner. Frank Selvy of Furman set the Division I record of 100 points against Newberry on Feb. 13, 1954.

Steer linksters win own tourney

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
For the Herald

The Big Spring Steer golf team hosted the Big Spring Invitational Friday and Saturday and came away with an convincing team championship.

Friday play was at Comanche Trail Golf Course, while the final round was the Big Spring Country Club.

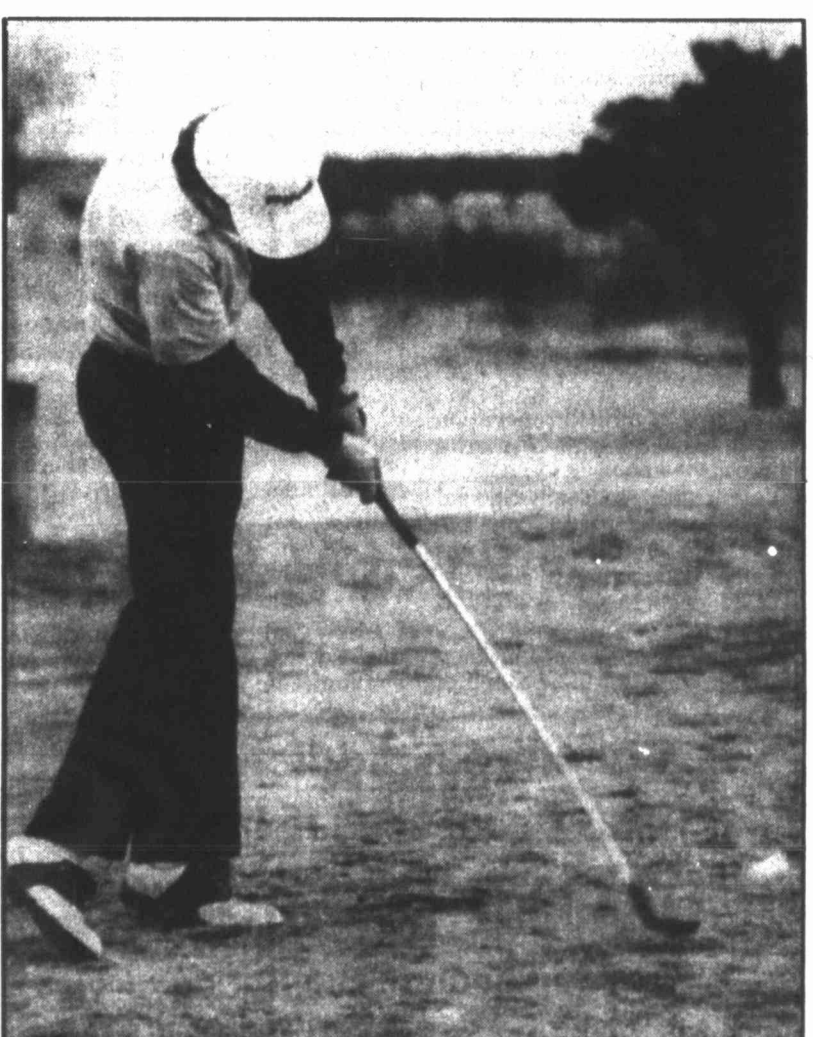

The Steers held a narrow 319-321, lead in the first round Friday over district foe, Sweetwater. The final round was all Big Spring as they increased their lead to nine strokes 649-658. Midland High's junior varsity jumped to second place, while Sweetwater fell to third place with a 660.

Chris Sims did not let the cold damp weather spoil his golf game as the senior blistered Friday's round with a one-over-par 72, while keeping consistent with a four-over-par 75 on Saturday, for a 147 two-day total. Tony Lara of Sweetwater, just two strokes behind Sims in the first round, couldn't press as he finished with a 77 final round score. Lara finished four strokes behind the tournament medalist with a 151 total.

"I started the first three holes with bogies, but I settled down and got a birdie and I had par on the rest of them. On the backside I had one birdie and even the next eight holes," said Sims. He added "I played pretty good today, I shot even in the front nine, and four-over on the back."

Here are the top three finishers Friday's first and second round:
Teams — 1. BIG SPRING — 319-330 (649); 2. Midland High JV's — 333-325 (658); 3. Sweetwater — 321-339 (660); 15. Big Spring JV's.

LADY STEERS FINISH SEVENTH

The Big Spring Lady Steers hosted the two-day Big Spring Invitational Friday and Saturday with 18 teams par-

The Big Spring girls started at the Big Spring Country Club, with the final at the Comanche Trail Golf Course. The Lady Steers finished with a 828 two-day-total good for seventh in the tournament, with district rival Andrews taking top honors with a two-day-total 693.

Sports Briefs

Borden County plays Monday

The Borden County Lady Coyotes, an 88-9 winner over Grandfalls-Royalty in the first round of the state playoffs Tuesday, will face Marathon in a second round game at 6:15 p.m. Monday evening at Chaparral Center in Midland.

Marathon — runners-up in District 14-A — defeated Sierra Blanca in a first-round playoff game Friday.

"They're big and young, and that's all I know about them," Borden coach Bill May said of Marathon. He added that he doesn't believe his team's first-round blowout will lull the Lady Coyotes into a false sense of security.

"Our kids are smart enough and know basketball well enough to know that Grandfalls was a weak team... From here on out, it's going to be a whole lot tougher."

If the Lady Coyotes win Tuesday, they will advance to the 1-A regional tournament, to be held Friday and Saturday in Levelland. Borden's first-round opponent would be the winner of the Sundown-Lorenzo playoff tilt.

HC hoopsters in home finale

The Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens will play their final home game of the season when they host the Western Texas College men's and women's team Monday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Everybody wearing red will be admitted free to the games, according to Howard College officials.

The Queens, 13-16 for the season, will host the 21-8 WTC Dusters at 6 p.m. The Dusters are currently 8-3 and in second place in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference standings. Western downed the Queens, 78-64, in the teams' first meeting earlier this season in Snyder.

The Hawks — who have clinched a spot in the regional tournament for the first time in five years — will take the floor at 8 p.m. against the 3-10 Westerners. Howard won the first meeting between the teams, 110-101, in Snyder.

The Hawks and Queens will conclude the regular season Thursday night in Levelland against South Plains College.

Hawks baseballers hosting DH

The Howard College Hawks will be in action Monday and Tuesday when they host Brookhaven College out of Dallas in doubleheaders at Jack Barber Field.

The Hawks, 4-0 for the season, scheduled doubleheaders this weekend with Vernon Junior College were called off because of rain. Action will begin on both days at 1 p.m.

Curt Schmidt will be the opening day hurler for the Hawks.

International LL to meet Monday

The International Little League will have a preseason meeting Monday, Feb. 20 at 7 p.m. at the National Guard Armory on West Farm Market 700.

All officers, managers and coaches and anyone interested in helping should attend.

This place has good fishing

FORT WORTH (AP) — There'll probably be a line of people who want to fish with Fred Casados.

The Fort Worth resident hauled in a 13-pound, 9-ounce largemouth bass on Thursday at Lake Fork in northeast Texas.

Casados then went back out with a fishing buddy, Hunter Chism of Pampa, to show him how he had done it. Chism pulled in a 13-pounder of his own.

Both catches came in about 5 feet of water, but at different locations.

Both men donated their huge fish to be used for spawning in the state's Lone Star Share A Lunker Program at the Tyler state fish hatchery.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Special Olympics, which have been held on the University of Texas-Austin campus for 15 years, will be at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos this year.

Organizers of the annual competition, the largest athletic competition in the country for people with mental retardation, ruled out UT's Memorial Stadium because of construction planned to begin a week before the games start May 23.

UT plans a $1 million renovation to replace the track at Memorial Stadium. Officials with the Texas Special Olympics said they were concerned about the safety of the games amid a construction area, and asked UT to push back the start of construction.

But university officials said they could not because they faced a tight schedule to complete the project in time for UT football practices.

UT President William Cunningham expressed regrets over losing the games.

Special Olympics spokesmen said they were unsure how the move from Austin to San Marcos will affect the commitments of $40,000 and more than 500 volunteers from a dozen Austin companies.

Craig McBurnett of MCI Telecommunications said the company will re-examine its $10,000 commitment to underwrite the 50-meter dash competition for men and women. The company also provides a minimum of 200 volunteers for the yearly event, he said.

"Now that Special Olympics has decided, we will go back and re-evaluate our sponsorship."

Levelland girls whip Sweetwater in bi-district

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Rachel Hesse and Carol Bailey keyed a fourth-quarter run that enabled the No. one ranked Levelland Loboettes to down a stubborn group of Sweetwater Lady Mustangs, 60-43, at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Friday night.

Bailey scored 19 points and Hesse 18 to lead the District 1-4A champion Loboettes, now 30-1 for the season. Michelle McCain scored 12 points and Letha Atkins 10 for the District 4-4A runners-up Lady Mustangs, who finished their season with a 23-7 mark.

Levelland only trailed once in the contest, but had trouble shaking coach Barry Hughey's Sweetwater crew. At halftime, the Loboettes led by three, 28-25.

Sweetwater twice narrowed the deficit to one point — the last time on a pair of Atkins free throws at the 3:53 mark to make the score 34-33.

But Bailey, Jeree Blakemore and Lee Ann Potter responded with baskets to increase the Loboettes margin to seven points entering the final quarter.

Levelland increased its lead to 48-38 on a Twylana Harrison basket with 5:21 remaining, and the Loboettes gradually expanded the margin from there to take the victory.

The Loboettes will play Waco Midway either Monday or Tuesday in the second round of the Class 4A playoffs.

Porkers win another indoor crown

FORT WORTH (AP) — Arkansas' Joe Falcon, the nation's premier collegiate long distance runner, led the Razorbacks to their ninth consecutive men's Southwest Conference Indoor Track and Field title on Saturday.

In the women's division, Texas' Lady Longhorns captured their fifth straight title behind triple winner Carlette Guidry.

Falcon, an All-American for all four of his years at Arkansas, paced a Razorback charge that piled up 22 points in the mile run. He clocked a meet record 3:58.7 and teammate Ruben Reina was timed in 3:58.88.

Falcon then won the 3000-meter run in a 1-2-3-5 Razorback finish that gave the Hogs 26 points in the event. Falcon was clocked in 8:10.98 to 8:11.00 for Reina who was again second. Paul Thomas was third at 8:11.40.

Falcon now has 11 indoor and outdoor SWC titles.

It marked the ninth straight season a Razorback had won the 3,000 meter run at the SWC indoors. It was the first time any competitor had cracked the four minute barrier indoors in SWC history. Falcon held the meet record of 4:02.14. Arkansas' Eric Henry got four points with a fourth place finish.

As expected, the Hogs were tough in all the long-distance events, winning the 3200 meter relay with a fine anchor by Anthony Carney. It gave the Hogs' 20 points.

Lorenzo Brown defended his 800 meter title as the Hogs piled up 18 points in that event.

Guidry won the 55 meter dash, the 200 meter run, and the long jump to give the Lady Longhorns 30 points in defense of their crown at Tarrant County Convention Center.

Leslie Hardison of the Lady Longhorns set a meet record in the 400 meters with a time of 53.24. Tanya McIntosh of Rice set the old standard of 54.07 last year.

Shola Lynch of Texas ran the 800 meters in a meet record of 2:09.19 to break the mark of 2:10.86 set by Arkansas' Melody Syc in the prelims.

Freshman Richard Bucknor of Texas A&M established a meet record in the 55 meter hurdles with a 7.31 clocking to 7.32 by John Register of Arkansas in 1988.

Baylor's Michael Johnson set a meet standard in the 200 meter run with a time of 21.07 to eclipse a 21.12 clocking in 1988 by Joe DeLoach of Houston, who went on to win an Olympic gold medal last fall.

Arkansas will open defense of its NCAA title March 10-11 at Indianapolis. The Hogs have won five straight NCAA indoor crowns.

Dantley wants to meet with Mavs' president

DALLAS (AP) — Adrian Dantley, acquired Wednesday from the Detroit Pistons in a trade for Mark Aguirre, has requested a meeting with Dallas Mavericks owner Donald Carter before he will report to his new team.

Dantley's agent, David Falk, informed Carter of his client's wishes by telephone Saturday.

"He wants to meet me eyeball to eyeball," Carter said before Saturday night's game against the Houston Rockets.

"I can respect that. When a man's moved around as often as he has, I can understand that. I can understand him wanting to know what the Mavericks are all about."

Carter said Falk gave no indication that Dantley wanted to renegotiate his $1.25 million a year contract.

"He just wants to meet me," Carter said.

Carter said he hoped to arrange the meeting for early next week. "He wants his agent to be there so the date of the meeting will depend on all of our schedules," Carter said. "But I'm anxious to get together with them."

Mavericks officials still have not spoken to Dantley since the trade. All communication has come through Falk, Dantley's wife and his mother.

Coach's Comments

BY ROYCE PAXTON
Steers Basketball Coach

I am very proud of the Big Spring Steers!

The Steers has survived a tough schedule. The Steers have won eight out of 10 home games, all seven in district. To date this team has been a good road team winning 12 games away from Steer gym. The tough pre-season schedule has paid by dividends this year. Good competition has brought out the best in this team. The only black eye on our district record was last Friday's loss to Andrews.

Although we felt we played good enough to win, we didn't get many breaks to go our way. A future meeting of District 4-AAAA top two teams could materialize if we both advance in the regional playoffs.

Facing the playoffs is a welcomed challenge. Dunbar and Pampa will represent District 1-AAAA, our first round opponents. We will play Dunbar in the first round Saturday night at 7:30 at Oressa College in bi-district. Down South in our region, Boswell and Burkburnett have filled down spots in District 5-4A. Everman won District 6 with Brewer and Cedar Hill vying for second. District 7 is represented by Brownwood and Cleburn.

Pflugerville has won District 8 and Waco Midway appears to be the runner-up. Those teams will make up the field in Region I in the quest for a trip to Austin to the State Tournament March 9-11.

After district play, the Steers would have to win only three more games to earn that trip to Austin — that is and has been a goal of ours since day one of the season.

The team has played very well for the last several weeks with solid efforts. It is always tough to play on the road, but this team has risen to the occasion all year long. The playing area is always the same, it is just the surroundings that are different.

We've had good team efforts in recent wins, the starters did their job and the bench made the difference in back up roles. One big ingredient for this team has been their cohesiveness, closeness and unselfishness. Their team play has produced about 20 assists a game. Scoring, rebounding, steals has been spread around. As a coach I appreciate the efforts and attitudes of these young men. As we move into the playoffs, we will continue our approach of one game at a time.

A big thank you to the coaches and athletes at Runnels and Goliad who finished their successful season this week. Coaches Jim Weriwahn, Bill Williams, Mike Wallace, and Tommy Gibson have done outstanding jobs with our young prospects for the future. Big Spring is learning to be winners.

At the high school, the freshmen finished their season Friday night beating Pecos, finishing with a solid 25-3 record. Coach Tim Tannehill has done a great job with the fish this season. The JV team also finished the season Friday and have made good progress throughout the season finishing 7-7 in District play. Coach Mike Ritchey has done a great job with this team as well as assisting me with varsity games. I have valued his opinions, coaching and suggestions throughout the season.

One fear lurking around concerning us is colds, flu, and the measles threat. Trainer Jim Campbell is in constant touch with us keeping our players healthy and on the floor.

I want to thank and commend the Big Spring fans for the show of force and support at Andrews last Friday. Our fans were super; you showed up early and made a big difference filling up the entire side of the gym. Your support has been greatly appreciated this year. Stay with us through the playoffs. See you at the games.

Boston hurler nixing press

By The Associated Press
Roger Clemens arrived at the Boston Red Sox training camp Saturday and had nothing to say about his $7.5 million, three-year contract. He had nothing to say about anything else, either.

"I'm not talking at all," Clemens told some two dozen writers and sportscasters as he joined 20 other pitchers and five catchers in the Red Sox' second workout at Chain O'Lakes Park in Winter Haven, Fla.

Clemens has been criticized in the Boston newspapers and on radio and television for remarks about Boston and its fans.

"I think he's concerned about things said and written about him," Rex Sox general manager Lou Gorman said. "I'll talk to him, but right now I think he feels he's better off saying nothing."

The Red Sox, especially after losing Bruce Hurst to the San Diego Padres, need an outstanding year from Clemens.

"Yesterday we had no chance," Boston pitching coach Bill Fischer said. Today we're a contender for the American League East championship."

The controversy generated by Clemens, Wade Boggs and Mike Greenwell has put the Red Sox in position to take over as the league leader in off-the-field melodrama this year, replacing the perennial champion New York Yankees.

Dallas Green, the new Yankees manager, is doing his best to keep us, however. And the tension in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is starting its inevitable buildup.

Tommy John was brought to spring training as a non-roster player by principal owner George Steinbrenner. John was told he would have a chance to make the team. Green has said all along he doesn't want the 46-year-old left-hander.

"Tommy feels he can pitch and help the ballclub. You know how I've felt about the situation all along," Green said. "That hasn't changed."

John does not need to be reminded of his situation.

"I'm 19 of 19, aren't I?" said John, alluding to the 18 pitchers who are members of the 40-man roster. "I will pitch as often as they give me the chance and do what they say."

Meanwhile, the American League leaders on the field last year, the Oakland Athletics, opened camp in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Teresa Welch discusses the process of grief with people who are pre-arranging funerals. A Big Spring funeral home will sponsor a seminar to help people deal with grief beginning Tuesday.

Funeral home sponsors grief seminar

By STEVE RAY
Herald Editor

Death and grief. Two words that go hand in hand. Two words that a Big Spring business hopes to help people learn to deal with.

"We've seen the need down through the years of a kind of follow-up after a funeral," says Teresa Welch of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home. "People are still grieving and yet there didn't seem to be anything we could do to help them."

"We had heard about this seminar in Odessa so we felt like we ought to give it a try."

Giving it a try is exactly what the funeral home decided to do — beginning Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The seminar, which will continue each Tuesday, for six weeks is entitled "When Someone You is free to the public.

"Each week she has a new subject," Welch said. "The first one will be on the nature of loss and grief. Next Tuesday will be something different. Each week she addresses something different about grief."

"If we get a good response with the seminar, we hope to continue to have even more seminars or even something that would be an on-going thing," Welch said. "It is just our way of trying to help people deal with grief after death."

"It is something we wanted to do to help people in the community... the funeral is really the first step in the grief process and after that we haven't been able to do a whole lot more for them."

"We've just kind of seen the need and hope this will help solve it."

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is off to a good financial start for 1989, with revenues slightly ahead and disbursements slightly behind budget estimates.

January income of $980,127 was $16,000 above budget and expenses of $44,306 were $13,000 under projections. For the first time in years, the outlay for electric energy of $232,923 was over budget, but overall operation and maintenance were right on target.

Water deliveries of 1,074,293,330 gallons (925,108,330 municipal and 149,189,910 oil and industry) were 30 million gallons above January, 1988.

Of the total amount 976,910,020 gallons were in potable water, while 97,388,310 gallons were in diverted non-potable water sold to oil companies.

At the end of January, lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence had 289,975 ac. ft. of water in storage, or 39.97 percent of capacity. Withdrawals totaled 2,739 ac. ft. and inflow 514 ac. ft.

Tax & financial planning

SOME INCOME IS TAX-FREE

Surprise! In the bleak world of taxes, there are rays of sunshine. You don't always have to pay, pay, pay. There are several kinds of "income" (money received) that are tax-free:

- Inherited money and property
- Money you borrow
- Interest on most municipal bonds
- Most dividends on life insurance policies
- Up to $125,000 gain on the sale of your home if you or your spouse is at least 55 years old
- Regardless of age, you can postpone tax on the sale of your home if you buy another for a like amount within two years
- Income of $70,000 earned while living abroad
- Annuities (the portion you paid for with after-tax dollars)
- Life insurance paid to you as beneficiary
- Gifts
- Child support payments you receive (But alimony is taxable.)
- Scholarship and fellowships received by degree candidates to pay for tuition, books and course equipment
- The principal portion of loans repaid to you
- Income from renting out your vacation home for 14 or fewer days per year
- Money paid to you in a lawsuit as an award for personal injuries
- Money you take from your IRA (a "rollover"), provided you get the money back into the same or a new IRA within 60 days

Also, these fringe benefits received from your employer are not taxable:

- Premiums on up to $50,000 of group term life insurance
- Medical insurance or expense reimbursement
- Meals furnished on your work premises

If you received money or benefits in 1988 about which you have questions on taxability, see your tax advisor.

Gun company finds it difficult to place women's handgun ads

DALLAS (AP) — Smith & Wesson apparently is off target with its new line of women's revolvers as the gun manufacturer finds it increasingly difficult to place the handgun ads, company officials said.

"We're not sure what makes these (ads) controversial, except that they come from us," said Smith & Wesson spokeswoman Sherry Collins.

Some women's magazines that Smith & Wesson had said would publish ads for the gunmaker's new petite "LadySmith" revolvers have rejected the advertising copy. Harper's Bazaar, Redbook and Town & Country will not publish the ads, according to Charlotte Veal, director of public relations for Hearst Magazines.

"Among our women's magazines, Cosmopolitan was the only one that was approached to run that ad," she said, adding that Cosmopolitan decided not to do so. The initial phase of the ad camaign does not picture or mention the LadySmith.

One depicts a woman coming home to find the glass in her back door broken. The ad discusses the need for caution and lists a toll-free Smith & Wesson number. The phone line is staffed by female experts on firearms.

Another, showing a startled woman in bed, reads: "Things that go 'bump' in the night aren't always your imagination." An ad depicting a woman with car trouble says, "This is no place to take a walk."

Andrea Kaplan, spokeswoman for the Working Woman-McCall's Group, which also publishes Working Mother, said those three magazines will not run the ads. Ms. Kaplan said the magazine group decided against the ads after discovering they were for handguns and not home security.

"We feel we've been duped — that these ads are misleading and misrepresenting," Ms. Kaplan said. "If Smith & Wesson wanted to sell handguns in a direct way, why didn't they feature the product in the ad?"

Vanity Fair has decided against publishing the Smith & Wesson ads, said Kathy Laureano, secretary of the magazine's advertising director. She declined to specify a reason.

Martin Herman, vice president for sales at Shape magazine, said he declined the Smith & Wesson ads.

"I look it upon myself to say, 'No, it is not acceptable,'" Herman said. "I just felt uncomfortable with the category."

But Executive Female, affiliated with the National Association of Female Executives, reached a different conclusion.

"Based on the ads themselves, they're tastefully done and were accepted them," said Leslie Hlop, advertising director for Executive Female.

Tested on an 18/64 choke, the well registered 330 PSI flowing tubing pressure.

A successful Glasscock County wildcat flowed 425 barrels of oil per day plus 175,000 CF gas when completed eight miles south-southeast of Garden. It is known as the No. 1 Nestle Schwartz.

Union Texas Petroleum of Houston took the well to total depth of 10,183 feet and completed the well without perforations for Fusselman Formation pay. The pay interval is at 10,130 to 10,183 feet into the wellbore.

Potential was gauged on a 14/64 choke with flow pressure coming in at an even 1,000 PSI. Oil tested at a lofty 53-gravity.

Written off as a dry hole when completed in June of 1984, the No. 1 Brunson "B" has been brought in as a Dewey Lake Field oiler on a re-entry bid, 12 miles west of Garden City, Glasscock County.

The well flowed 62 barrels of oil plus 250,000 CF gas per day on a 12/64 choke. It registered 150 PSI flowing tubing pressure.

TGB Inc. of Midland has replaced Badger Oil as the operator. Badger had drilled the well to total depth of 10,170, reporting no commercial shows. TGB perforated the Strawn Formation for production at 10,000 to 10,123 feet into the wellbore.

The production life of the 304 Calvin (Dean) Unit was extended when Standard Oil Production of Houston re-completed the 38-year-old well in Glasscock County's Calvin Field. The lease is five miles west of Bigly Corner.

Production will be from new perforations in the Dean Formation, 8,303 to 8,440 feet into the wellbore. The well potentiated at 33 barrels of oil and 160,000 CF gas, pumping on an open choke. Water production totaled 47 barrels per day.

The well was an impressive flowing oiler when first completed in 1951 by Sohio Oil. It made 887 barrels of oil per day from Spraberry Sand perforations, 6,850 to 6,940 feet into the hole.

Borden County
Showing ability to pump 10 barrels of oil with 12,000 CF gas per day, the 221 Reinecke Unit has been brought on line in the Reinecke Field, Borden County, about 17 miles southeast of Gail. Union Oil of Midland is the operator.

The well probed to total depth of 7,000 feet. It will produce from a set of Cisco Reef perforations, 8,919 to 8,965 feet into the hole. Oil tested at 49-gravity. Water production totaled 822 barrels daily.

Union Oil has junked and abandoned the No. 224 Reinecke Unit in the Reinecke Field, about 17 miles southeast of Gail. The well was spudded on Oct. 9 and was drilled to a 445-ft. depth before running into wellbore problems. The well had carried permit for 7,000 feet of hole making.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Water is Tex-Pure's business — their only business

Tex-Pure Drinking Water Systems 1719 Gregg, is a specialty store. Their business — their only business — is reverse osmosis water and ice.

In their latest move to expand services, the company now operates the only commercial ice delivery routes in Big Spring — for restaurants, fast food outlets, hospitals and others on a regular or emergency basis. Emergency calls are handled 24 hours a day.

In addition Tex-Pure operates 18 ice merchandisers located at convenience stores, service stations and business firms which employ outside crews.

"We're a truly complete water store," says Ellouise Swinney, owner. "We handle anything connected with water or ice." She says Tex-Pure is the only locally-owned ice company.

Tex-Pure's services include water delivery to homes or business. "We come at the customer's convenience," says Swinney. "You don't have to wait for a 'regular delivery date.' When you need water, we deliver it. Our water comes sealed in sterilized containers."

For those who wish to pick up their water, Tex-Pure's staff fills the customer's containers and sells

Heed this tip if you re-use water bottles

Ellouise Swinney reminds customers that when water goes through reverse osmosis, the chlorine is removed. Therefore, water bottles and dispensers and other containers should be sterilized periodically.

She suggests using one capful of bleach and a few drops of liquid detergent with a small amount of water. Swish around; then rinse well with city water.

This action disinfects the bottle and prevents the growth of algae. Your bottles will be fresh and sanitary for the next refill.

new bottles. Bagged iced is ready-to-go in 10- or 20-pound containers, or the staff will bag special orders in any size from five to 50 pounds. A welcome addition is "curb service" for elderly or infirm customers, or mothers with infants.

For those who take their water drinking seriously, Tex-Pure leases or sells and installs reverse osmosis systems for the home. Under the leasing arrangement, Tex-Pure handles all maintenance.

Oasis water dispensers for home or office are available for sale or rental, with cold, hot and/or tap (room temperature) water. Tap and hot water spigots are convenient for food preparation.

Customers can be confident that the water or ice they buy from Tex-Pure is the finest quality available, prepared under the most sanitary conditions, says Swinney.

Tex-Pure submits a sample of its water product each month to Howard County Health Department for testing at an independent laboratory in Midland.

Ice is manufactured and bagged under careful supervision.

"We think monthly testing of our product by an independent laboratory is the very best service we can provide to our customers," says Swinney. "We can devote the time and attention necessary for a quality product because water services are our only business."

The company is home owned and operated by Ellouise and Don Swinney. The staff includes Ella Carrol, office manager, and Joe Chavez, service manager.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE — Tex-Pure Drinking Water Systems is a full-service store providing reverse osmosis water and ice to individuals, homes and businesses. The firm will deliver its products, or customers can pick up water and ice at their location at 1719 Gregg. Showers are Joe Chavez and Ellouise Swinney, owners.

Natives still say city park

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

He tried to pass himself off as a native, but his ignorance gave him away.

This man and I were talking the other day, and to make a long story short, he was explaining how Big Spring is going to hell in a handbasket.

"Yeah, it's not like it was in the old days," he said. "First, Webb closed, then all those businesses pulled out. Why, even Comanche Trail Park doesn't look as good as it used to."

And that's when I knew the man wasn't a Big Spring native.

Any self-respecting native Big Springer knows that it's not Comanche Trail Park. Oh, that might be its proper title, but to those of us who have lived here for most of our lives, it's simply the City Park.

I have nothing against newcomers, mind you. Big Spring can stand all of them it can get. But, if you are relatively new to our fair city, at least have the courage to confess your newness — don't try to pull the wool over our eyes.

There are several ways one can determine if the person they are talking to is a native. Simply follow these easy steps:

- Ask them for their phone number — This one gave my girlfriend away. If the person responds with a seven-digit number, chances are they are new to the area.

- If, however, they give a five-digit answer, you just might be talking to a dyed-in-the-wool Big Springer. Until a few years ago, one could omit the first two digits and still dial anywhere in the city.

- In addition, if the person begins to give you a number with AM in the front, there's a strong possibility he or she's been here about as long as the West Texas dust.

- Ask for directions to the Federal Prison Camp — If, at any time, the respondent uses the work Airpark in the directions, you've got a probable Yankee on your hands.

- If, on the other hand, the person tells you to go to "where the air base used to be," he or she more than likely is a native.

- And, if the person uses words such as "the old officers' club" or "the old barracks," he or she probably was on a first-name basis with the original city council.

- Ask them who the Cosden Cop is — This will definitely separate the wheat from the chaff, so to speak. Even people who have lived here for 10 or 20 years might have trouble answering your question.

- But, a true native knows the answer: The Cosden Cop was the symbol for Cosden oil and gasoline products. Much like Exxon's tiger and Mobil's flying horse, the Cop was well-known among West Texas drivers a few decades ago.

- The Cop vanished into history, alas, when Fina purchased the refinery back in the 60s. If anybody ever devises a Big Spring version of Trivial Pursuit, this will be a great question.

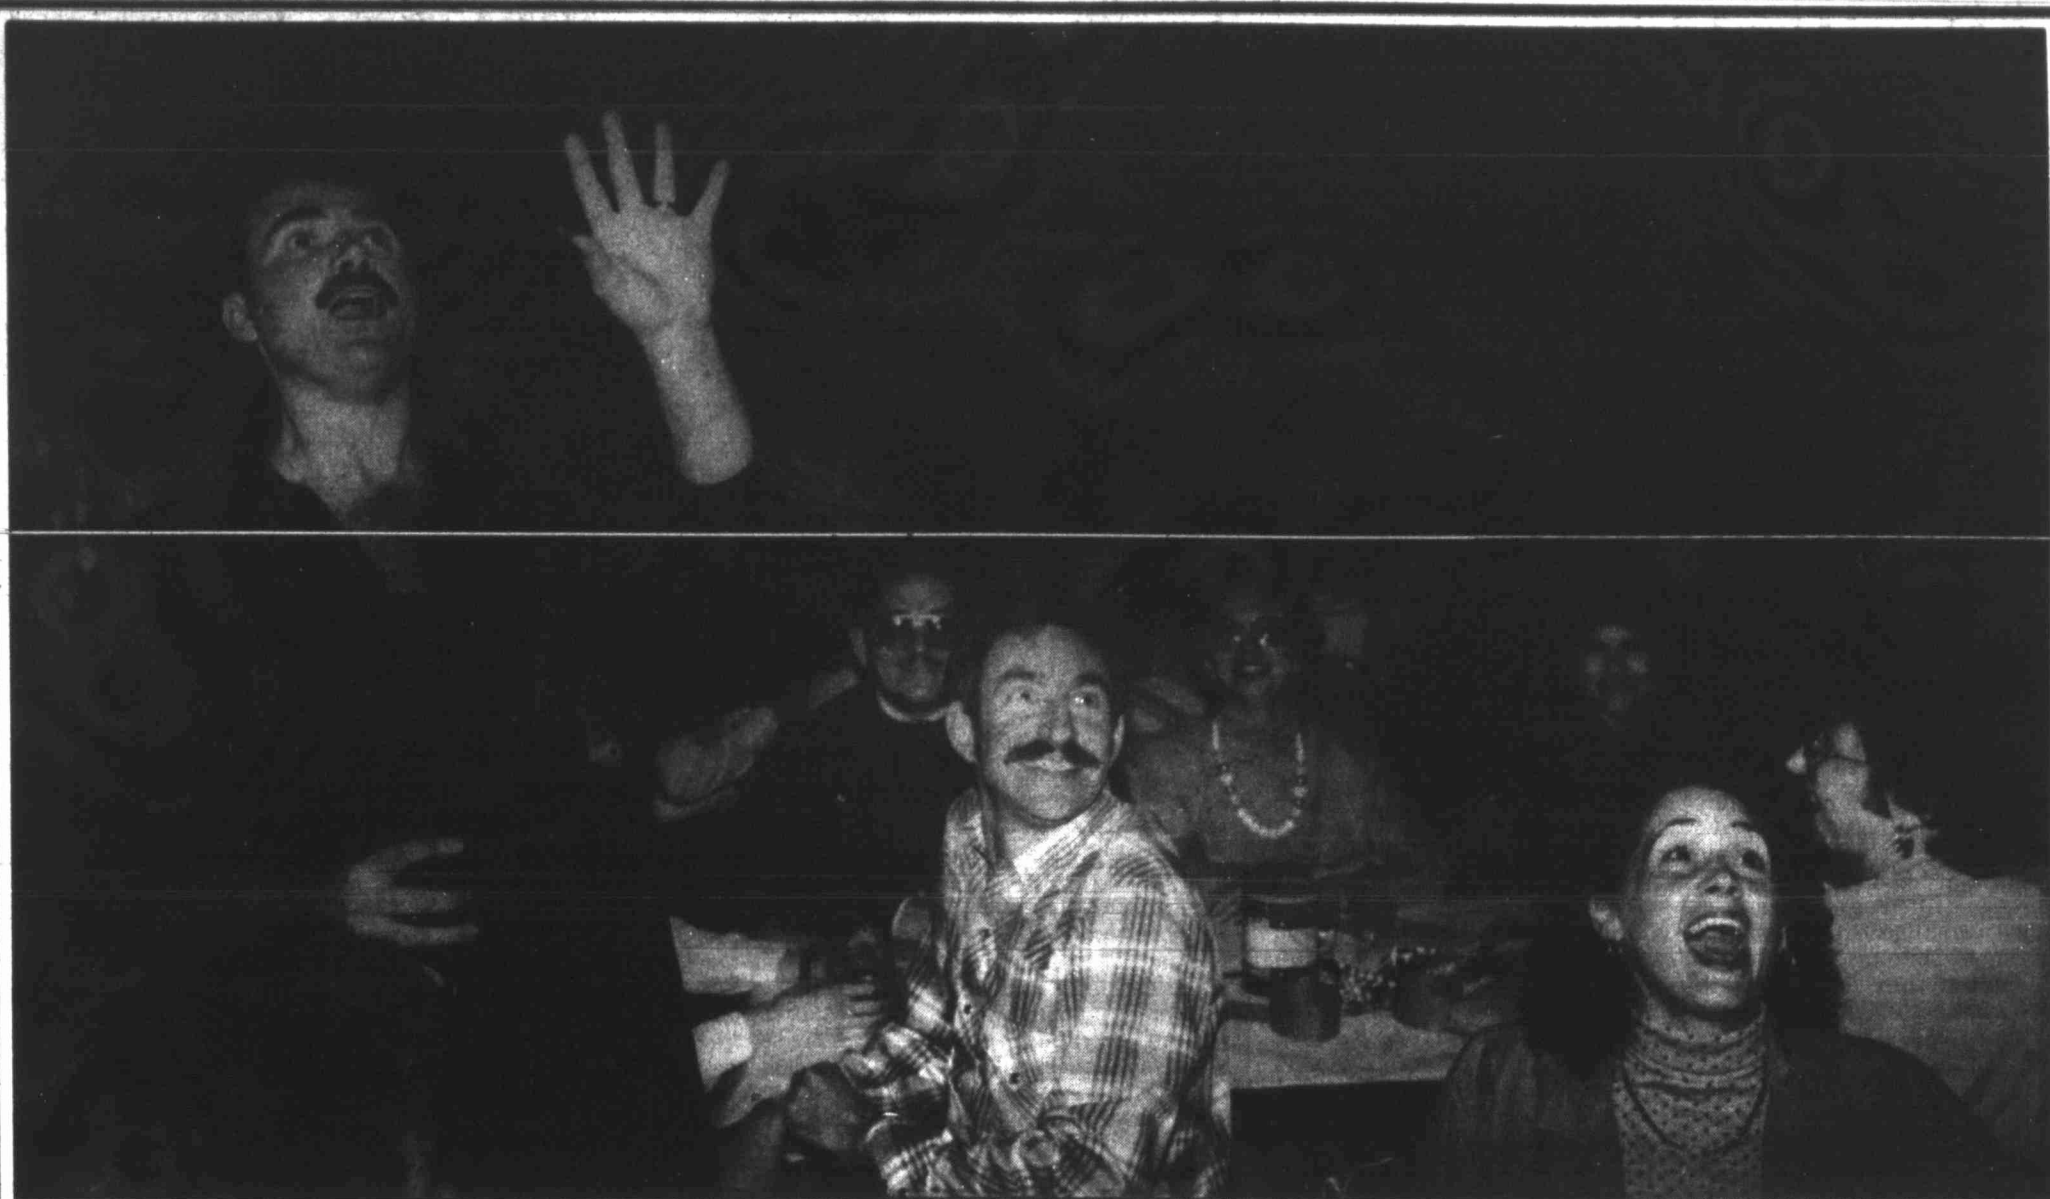

- Ask for the original location of the Jet Drive-In — Another toughie that will stump even the almost-natives.

- Before the Jet Drive-in began operation at its Wasson Road location, it was situated where Highland Mall stands today. Unfortunately, fire gutted the drive-in years ago.

- There are, of course, other memory-testers one can use to test how long a person has lived here and — who knows — maybe one day somebody will produce a Big Spring trivia game.

- Until then, however, we natives will have to make do by showing up the newcomers.

- Which may be pretty trivial in itself.

Fun and games for charity

Organizers of the fourth annual American Heart Association Celebrity Waiter Banquet found themselves with a pleasant problem Feb. 11 — an overflow crowd at the Learning Center.

Lynne Fowler, chairperson for the event and board member, estimated a $3,700 profit, exceeding last year's profit and comparable to earlier years, she said.

A total of 640 tickets were sold, with 601 tickets redeemed at the door; Fowler estimated that at least 50 volunteers participated.

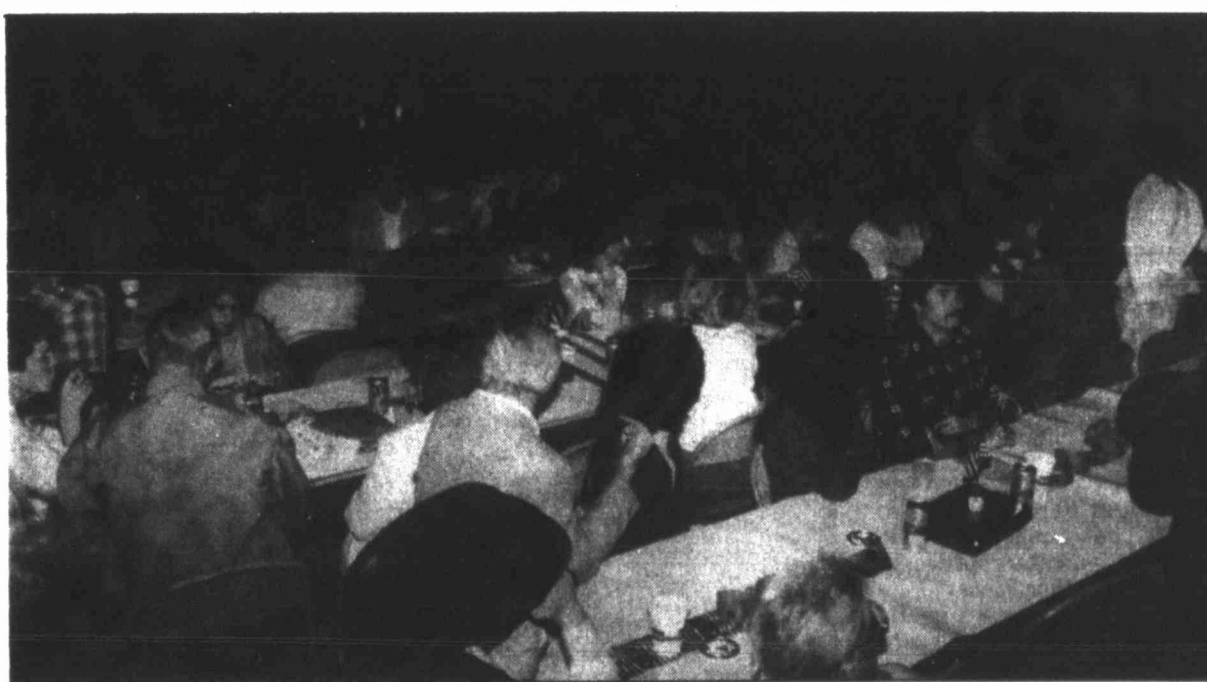

She attributed the increase to "greater participation from volunteers, and lots of effort from waiters selling far more tickets than in the past. I believe it was the biggest turnout ever." Fowler said she thinks the price — $25 per couple, instead of $50 as in the past — was a big factor.

She expects the price to be similar next year — "if I have anything to do with it; the more participation, the more success," she said.

The Federal Prison Camp collected the most tips, exceeding $300, with Bob Coltrane second, also over $300; Coltrane was the top ticket seller, having sold 132; Doug Peercy won the best costume contest, Fowler said.

Fowler, who praised the clean-up efforts afterward by members of The Corral, said that organizers "had not anticipated anywhere near 600 people; in light of that, the facility was smaller than could accommodate that number easily. We're sorry if some felt it was too crowded; next year, we'll be in a larger place."

She said that the use of the Learning Center facility was donated to the Heart Association.

Approximately 600 people attended the benefit at the Learning Center.

SUNDANCE, Utah (AP) — A burglar stole an antique clock and more than $1,500 worth of ski equipment from Robert Redford's office at his Sundance Ski Resort, police said.

Stolen early Tuesday were the clock, four pairs of skis, a pair of poles, gloves and some boots.

The burglar "went through a closet and took only the best skis and Robert Redford's ski poles," then left through the front door, according to a statement from the Utah County Sheriff's Department.

No arrests had been made by Thursday.

APPLETON, Wis. (AP) — Miss America Gretchen Carlson says the public often expects beauty queens to be knowledgeable on world issues and that she wants to be remembered for addressing the importance of family and education.

"There are a lot of issues that Miss America is asked to address and people think you are an expert on every world problem," Miss Carlson said during an appearance Wednesday.

"I would like to say that I am, but I am not," she said. "So you have to pick and choose. So those are the two that I have decided upon."

Miss Carlson, 22, of Anoka, Minn., said problems related to drugs, violence or teen-age sex are "a manifestation of the breakdown of the family and the discipline within our society."

She attributed that breakdown to homes where both parents work, adding that much of what she has achieved was done with her family's help.

"Family provides strength and guidance when you are trying to achieve goals," she said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Angela

ROBERT REDFORD

Lansbury has decided to return to CBS next year for a sixth season as a crime-solving mystery writer on "Murder, She Wrote." "Angela Lansbury as Jessica Fletcher is one of the most beloved characters on television," said Kim LeMasters, president of CBS Entertainment. "We are delighted that we will be bringing her back for one more season."

The agreement was signed earlier this week with Universal Television.

The actress had said previously this would be her last season on "Murder, She Wrote," CBS' highest-rated program, but added she would consider reviving the role in an occasional television movie.

CBS threw a lavish party for Lansbury on Sunday to celebrate the show's 100th episode.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mikhail Baryshnikov's new staging of "Swan Lake" will be the opening night attraction of the American Ballet Theater season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Baryshnikov announced the lineup for the May 8-July 1 season on Thursday.

It includes New York premieres of three works choreographed by artistic associate Twyla Tharp: "The Bum's Rush," to music by Dick Hyman; "Everlast," to music by Jerome Kern; and "Quartet," to music by Terry Riley. It also features company premieres of two more dances by Tharp, "The Fugue" and "In the Upper Room."

The new "Swan Lake" was first performed in Costa Mesa, Calif., in December. Other ballets scheduled for the Met engagement are "Don Quixote," "Romeo and Juliet" and "La Sylphide."

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Entertainer Shirley Jones is suing an Orlando radio station for invasion of privacy because of an unexpected, on-the-air wake-up call.

Jones was in Orlando for an October concert when WHTQ-AM telephoned her at her hotel between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m., the lawsuit said.

The station and its owner, TK Communications of Fort Lauderdale, have a celebrity wake-up feature in which well-known people are roused "from a deep sleep, without their knowledge, to see what embarrassing or confusing things might be said," according to the lawsuit.

Jones' lawsuit, filed Wednesday, also claims that WHTQ should have arranged for a commercial fee to be paid to her since the station informed its listeners in advance that it would be phoning the former star of television's "The Partridge Family."

WHTQ and TK Communications were unavailable for comment Thursday night.

DENVER (AP) — First lady Barbara Bush helped volunteers fill orders at a food bank warehouse and told the group its work does not go unnoticed.

"I am proud to be a small part of this wonderful organization," Mrs. Bush said Thursday. "It gives and helps bring food to so many people. You should be very proud."

Mrs. Bush and her son, Neil, went up and down the aisles of the warehouse, filling an order for a Denver agency that feeds the needy.

Mrs. Bush also accepted the honorary chairmanship of Second Harvest, the Chicago-based national food bank network that operates the Food Bank of the Rockies in Denver.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — John McEnroe celebrated his 30th birthday by advancing to the quarterfinals in the Stella Artois indoor tennis championships.

McEnroe, a three-time Wimbledon champion, defeated Michiel Schapers of The Netherlands 6-2, 6-3.

GARY DON CAREY

Professional Grooming Advice:

Q.: My hair is dry and brittle. What can I do to help it?

A.: Dry: means a lack of moisture. Put conditioner only on the ends. Shampoo only the scalp, then rinse all of it well.

Brittle: means on the verge of breaking. Usually due to over shampooing over-processing, over exposure to sunlight or cold weather. Over conditioning is a very popular reason for brittleness. When you condition too often, a residue of protein and the elements can build up on the hair shaft and weigh it down. Condition your hair no more than once a month. If you feel your hair is really damaged, see a professional for advice.

HINT:

To replenish the moisture in your hair and skin, keep a humidifier running. Avoid applying unnecessary lotions and conditioners.

Woman mixes cake in cement mixer

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH
 Gladys Farek will bake you a 150 pound Texas-shaped fruitcake for $998. She mixes the ingredients in a cement mixer.

She has a cookie shop at a little place southeast of Austin called Cistern. It got its name during a drought when residents of the area built a large cistern.

Gladys used to run a country store at Cistern. The store had just about everything. Its motto was "You name it, we got it. If we haven't got it, we'll get it."

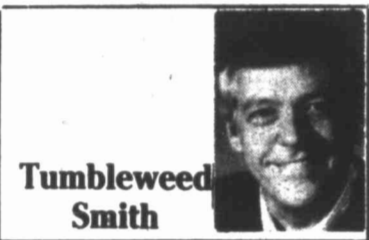

When Gladys' sixth daughter was born she thought it was time for her to leave the store and begin earning money at home so she could take care of her children.

She went to a restaurant 14 miles down the road and asked the owner if she could do something for him. He told her she could bake bread.

After awhile Gladys started baking cookies, too.

Business was good during the summers, but when school started, it dropped off. She needed a larger income to take care of those kids, so she began thinking of ways to earn money during the fall.

She decided on fruitcake. Gladys, like most of the other folks living around Cistern, is of Czechoslovakian descent. The Czech people are famous for their cooking, especially sweets. When she first started making her fruitcakes, Gladys didn't have a big mixing bowl or the money to buy one. While she was figuring out what to do she spied her red cement mixer.

She cleaned it out real good, put nuts and fruit in there and turned it on.

It worked perfectly. She took the blended ingredients and baked them and the outcome was excellent.

Gladys found out she knows how to sell. She went to fancy gourmet shops in San Antonio and Austin and asked the buyers to sample her wares. They were impressed enough to order large amounts.

Gladys then started contacting military bases and federal prisons around the country. Sure enough, they put her cakes in their commissaries. They sold well.

Gladys began merchandising various sizes and shapes of her cakes, putting them in decorative tin boxes and labeling each one

"Old Fashion Czech Fruitcake." She began making Texas-shaped fruitcakes.

Soon grocery chains were ordering $11,000 worth of cakes at a time.

Gladys developed a mail order business and offered schools and churches the opportunity to sell her fruitcakes at a good profit.

Recently an Austin newspaper staged a statewide fruitcake contest. A tasting panel rated six Texas fruitcakes, several of them gold medal winners in international competition.

Gladys's cake came out the winner.

This little homegrown gal from Cistern knows about promotion. For the state's 150th birthday party, she baked a 150 pound fruitcake. Her feat went into the Guinness Book of World Records.

She has baked a few big cakes since then, all in the shape of Texas. She had a special mold made so she could bake the cake in one piece. Five people are required to put one of the big cakes into the oven. It measures five by six feet.

Although, she's been in the fruitcake business for 14 years, Gladys still does most of the work herself, putting in 18-hour days.

She only makes fruitcakes from October to December. The rest of the time she bakes bread, pies and cookies for three restaurants.

Journal studies test's accuracy

BOSTON (AP) — Ordinary people frequently misinterpret results of home pregnancy tests, even though they are accurate when used by trained laboratory workers, a report concludes.

The report, published as a letter in the New England Journal of Medicine, questions whether the kits should stay on the market.

Dr. Jocelyn M. Hicks of Children's Hospital in Washington and Mariet Josephson of George Washington University asked secretaries, clerks, messengers and janitors to analyze 200 urine samples using two brands of home pregnancy tests. Ten percent of the results of one test and 13 percent of the results of the other were wrong.

However, when a lab technician used the test kits, one was 100 percent accurate. The other gave no false results, but the results were indeterminate in four cases.

"It seems clear from our observations that the discrepant results produced by laypersons were due more to difficulties in using the home test kits and interpreting results than to problems with the kits themselves," they wrote.

Policies

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
 Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS

If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS

Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Extended Coverage by Danny Weir

There's nothing quite so cozy as a fire in the fireplace when it's cold — or so awful as a fire gone wild that threatens your home. Safety precautions are vital.

Cresote buildup is a real fire danger. The black, tarry substance that is exuded when some wood burns is highly flammable. Chimneys should be checked and/or cleaned regularly.

If a fireplace or stove is designed to burn wood, that's all that should be used — not coal nor kerosene nor gasoline. Kindling is better than newspapers to start the fire.

Fireplace screens don't offer complete protection. That's why a fire should not be left unattended. Before bed, cover the fire with ashes. (Don't use water to put out the fire; it can crack the firebrick lining.)

Inflammables like draperies, carpet and upholstered furniture, should be kept at least three feet away from the fire. If the furniture feels warm to the touch, it's too close. Put ashes in a metal can, too. Talk to us at:

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

"There was a lot of huggin'," says Larry Shaw, describing the sixth annual Valentine's Day dinner and reunion of Knott's oldtimers.

The affair drew a number of Big Spring residents, according to Larry. "More Knott oldtimers live in Big Spring now than in Knott," he says. "Everybody had a good time returning to where they grew up or used to live."

Bertie Shaw, JoAnne Pugh, Sue Robinson, Patty Schulke, Juanita Adams and Euline Jones pitched in to handle the food and arrangements for this year's event held at First Baptist Church at Knott. It was JoAnne, you may remember, who hatched the idea for such a get-together.

Attending from Big Spring were Velma Roman (who formerly operated a grocery at Knott), Evelyn Kendrick, Wanda Lee Roman, Merle Roman, Gertie Hill, Nadine Hodnett (former teacher at West Knott School), Frances McKenzie, Etta Warren, Elaine Potter, Joyce Walker, Neva Jones, Allie Dorsey (a lake now covers her old home site), Ruth Grantham and Georgia Brown.

Opal Hill drove in from the Brown Community. Knott residents attending were Lloyd Robinson, John and Raye McGregor (she was a Knott school teacher), Lola Myers, Ima Robinson and Vaughnea White.

Joe Pickle was in Sherman recently, along with son and daughter-in-law, Gary and Jan Pickle, to attend a party marking the 90th birthday of Jan's grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Davis. Other guests included Joe's grandson, Ben Pickle and wife Lori. The younger Pickles all live in Austin.

The party was hosted by Ethel's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Davis, Houston, at the Sherman country club.

Joe was surprised to see old friends at the affair — Martha Kallas, daughter of the late Vinie White, Vincent, and her family; and Adm. and Mrs. Philip Crosley — he's the grandson of the late C.S. Holmes, Big Spring.

Mack and Helen Gamble, longtime residents of Big Spring, are moving to the Ozarks — they're buying a fishing lodge near Russellville, Ark. Mack went up this week to finalize the deal.

Mack, who is retiring from his paint contractor business, says this is something he has wanted to do for a long time. "It's really beautiful up there," he says. "I won't even have to change the name. It was already named Mack's Pines!"

The Gambles will operate a motel, cafe, gas station, RV park and gift shop. The location is in the heart of Ozarks National Park and just a short distance from Hot Springs, Dogpatch USA and other tourist attractions.

For Helen, it's going home. She was born and grew up in Arkansas, and in fact went to school in a community about eight miles down the road.

Rodney and Sherry Pyatt, Roscoe, had a special reason for driving to Big Spring to hear the 214th Army Ground Forces Band concert — Rodney's brother, Major Michael D. Pyatt, is the band's conductor. Young Amy, Shelly and Josh came with their parents — it was the first time the family had seen Maj. Pyatt perform with the band.

The Pyatt brothers are from Plainview. From the stage Maj. Pyatt recalled visiting Big Spring when he was announcer for the Texas Tech band while a student there.

Treva and Alton Hall are spending a long weekend in Santa Fe N.M. Treva says it's the first time she has ever been there.

They expected to meet Treva's daughter and son-in-law, Denita and Roger Kionka, former Big Springers, now living in Arlington. The Kionkas are decorating their new home in the southwest motif, and will buy some furniture in Santa Fe.

Robert and Mary Valli Miller were due back this weekend from a week's trip to Japan.

They visited Tokyo, Kyoto and Kanazawa with a group of travel agents at the invitation of Japan Air Lines. The itinerary included all the sightseeing tours, plus inspections of major hotels and restaurants.

It was the Miller's first trip to Japan.

Don't underestimate those 'old folks'

DEAR ABBY: I am 43, female, and I manage the Ridge Manor Senior Center. My friends are always asking me how my "old folks" are. Let me tell you about my "old folks."

Most of them get up at 5 or 6 a.m., shower, shave and do their laundry. Then they house clean and visit the center for lunch and crafts.

I don't see some of these people for days. They're too busy! They go on bus trips and fly across the country to visit relatives and friends. Some take dancing lessons, do aerobics, volunteer at hospitals, libraries and more. A few even take some courses at college.

Three groups of seniors in our area put on variety shows at shopping malls and clubs. They make their own costumes, write their own material and perform like pros. Abby, these "old folks" are between 62 and 92.

We need to quit putting youth on a pedestal. These seniors are survivors. They have lived through sickness, depressions, disappointments, financial reverses, the loss of loved ones and close friends, and they have survived. These "old folks" can teach us so much about life and values. Seek their friendship and advice. Don't shortchange yourself — or them.

JUDY MOLL, EMMAUS, PA.
DEAR JUDY: Thanks for a real

Dear Abby

able to graduate with a 3.5 GPA. I've added up my expenses over that five-year period, and they came to more than $25,000.

My parents are proud of me, and I'm proud of me. I could have stayed out all night if I wanted to — if I wanted to fall asleep in the class I was paying my own money to attend.

I became responsible out of necessity, and it paid off. Thanks for giving me the opportunity to gloat.

"BARB" IN MINNEAPOLIS
DEAR BARB: Go ahead and gloat. You earned it.

DEAR ABBY: You've had so much in your column lately about forgiveness, I'm enclosing a poem I clipped from your column some time ago. I hope you think it's worth another run.

JERRY F. AT THE CRANBERRY MOOSE

DEAR JERRY: It is. Thanks for sending it.

FORGIVENESS: The friend who ran off with your wife, forgive him for his lust; The chum who sold you phony stocks, forgive his breach of trust; The pal who schemed behind your back, forgive his evil work; And when you're done, forgive yourself For being such a jerk.

DEAR ABBY: With all the publicity you gave pantyhose, I have a true story for you.

When Mount St. Helens erupted in May of 1980, blowing the top 2,500 feet miles into the air, the volcanic ash was so heavy that in Spokane at 3 p.m., it looked like midnight! In Yakima, Wash., breathing was difficult.

The automobiles sucked the ash into their air filters, and the abrasion ruined the engines. One family was stranded when their air filter became plugged. The husband removed the plugged filter, borrowed his wife's pantyhose, wrapped them around as a filter, and continued their trip in safety.

They were stopped by a highway patrolman near Moses Lake, Wash., where there was up to 7 inches of the stuff on the ground. (You can still see it.) The patrolman asked how they could keep going. They explained that they had shaken the ashes from the pantyhose each time the engine quit.

The Highway Patrol then purchased pantyhose for their cars and continued to help stranded motorists in that area. Pantyhose saved many engines until proper filters could be installed.

KEN THELANDER, SEATTLE

DEAR KEN: Thank you for sharing your unusual story.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) - An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and caloric reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800) 527-9700, ext. W842. ADV. CP-M 1989

Card Of Thanks

Perhaps you sang a lovely song,
or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers,
If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food,
Or maybe furnished a car;
Perhaps you rendered a service unseen,
Near at hand or from afar;
Whatever you did to console the heart
We thank you so much,
Whatever the part.

When they say their orange is an apple...

Here's how to tell the difference:

Look at it like shopping for a new car. Two seemingly identical vehicles, parked side by side, may appear to be of equal value — look closely, however, for one lacks an engine.

A nationally-known, Big-8 accounting firm — Ernest and Whinney — recently conducted a random survey of the Big Spring market, and showed us just what horsepower the Big Spring Herald offers you. Here's what we learned:

20,000 people can't be wrong!

20,700 people in Big Spring and the surrounding area read the Big Spring Herald every day (and an additional 3,000 each Sunday!) — you can reach this market each, or all six days of the week we publish.

These are people paying for a product they want in their homes; they are proven consumers — your kind of people.

Giving them what they want!

What do these readers like about our product?

- Local news — according to the survey, no one does it better.

- 85 percent say they use the Big Spring Herald as a source of advertising of local merchants' sales — they are shoppers who are looking in the Herald for your message.

- If you are in the business of selling products or services in the Big Spring market, the Big Spring Herald is obviously the place to do it. Why? The survey shows that the combined force of Big Spring area consumers spend 13,250 hours each day reading their local newspaper.

We have the horsepower

This kind of horsepower can deliver your message like nothing else. But there's more. This vehicle has some luxury features — like more than 60 years of proven service to the community, as well as a guarantee the Herald will always be a concerned and involved member of this community.

We're your neighbors

This vehicle comes with a staff and support group of more than 200 of your neighbors — living, working, shopping and enjoying life in Big Spring and surrounding communities, and striving to improve the quality of life.

Apples or oranges? Engine or not? Advertising without results, no matter what the costs, is money lost for you. These aren't questions to take lightly. They mean the difference between advertising as an unrecoverable expense to your business — or advertising as an investment that pays dividends with every placement in the Herald.
