Political asylum-seekers face arrest

By JOEL WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE - The Immigration and Naturalization Service today revealed a plan for onthe-spot adjudication of political asylum cases and the immediate arrest of asylum-seekers whose applications are denied.

Alan Nelson, INS commissioner, said the plan involves the addition of 500 INS personal in South Texas to stop what the agency called abuses of the system.

Tens of thousands of Central Americans are expected to cross the Rio Grande in southern Texas this year, according to the INS, which says political asylum requests from Central Americans have risen almost sevenfold over the past four years. More than 50,000 sought asylum in fiscal year 1988, compared to 7,063 in 1985.

"We intend to send a strong signal to those people who have the mistaken idea that by merely filing a frivolous asylum claim, they may stay in the United States," Nelson said. "This willful manipulation of America's generosity must stop.

Those denied asylum will be placed in deportation proceedings and given a hearing before an immigration judge where they may renew their applications for asylum. They will be detained at existing INS detention facilities. A group called the Brownsville

INS has since Jan. 9 required the agency to allow asylum-seekers to travel on to their intended U.S. destinations to pursue their cases.

The agency on Tuesday regains the authority to restrict travel. The U.S. government provides asylum to those who can show they are fleeing any of various forms of persecution in their countries. INS officials maintain that most of the Central Americans are here for economic reasons, and therefore do not qualify for political asylum.

During the five-day period ending Sunday, INS records show a total of 3,136 people applied for asylum at the agency's Port Isabel Service Processing Center, a rural detention center 15 miles northeast of Brownsville, where asylum processing was moved Wednesday.

The 347-acre, minimum-security center normally is used for holding aliens facing deportation proceedings.

An intercity bus company has started making stops inside the detention center to pick up asylumseekers in a hurry to reach points north of the INS' Harlingen District, said Alfonso De Leon, assistant district director for examinations.

Houston hopes for a record rodeo turnout multimillion-dollar Astrodome party has begun, and officials are banking that the jingle of spurs and the stomping of hooves draws a stampede of money-spending spectators for the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

'New Orleans has its Mardi Gras, San Antonio has its Battle of Flowers. Houston has the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, which is the largest social and charitable event in Houston each year," said Hal Hillman, show president.

Hillman and other officials hope that this year's event will surpass the $175 million economic boost from last year's show, a figure more than 21/2 times higher than the much-lamented Democratic National Convention would have generated.

The massive Houston event, which began with the arrival of thousands of trail riders and a downtown parade Saturday, also generates more than $1 million in scholarships for Texas agriculture students and provides a showplace for top breeders.

And it draws thousands of tourists anxious to see first-class rodeo action and a host of country music stars including Crystal Gayle, Kenny Rogers and George

Its profits are spread throughout the state, ranging from endowments to colleges and universities to contributions toward research and other agricultural programs, as well as junior livestock shows and scholarships and graduate assistantships.

HOUSTON (AP) - The city's largest donor of agricultural scholarships in the world," said Leroy Shafer, the show's assistant general manager.

Four-year, $8,000 scholarships are awarded each year to 50 Texas FFA and 50 Texas 4-H members who want to major in agriculture or life sciences at a Texas college or university. Another 24 scholarships are awarded with no restriction on academic majors.

The show, with revenues last year of about $12.8 million and expenses of $8.7 million, made contributions of more than $3.3 million last vear.

Hillman says the awards are "a goodwill gesture to the community which supports our show.'

Support for the annual show is widespread, with about 18,000 show members and 6,000 committee volunteers, the majority of whom are in the 60 counties comprising the show's "Go Texan" promotional area, Shafer said.

"Bank presidents and CEOs of major corporations sit right beside pipe fitters, school teachers and homemakers," he said.

In return, the rodeo and livestock show provide a significant economic boost each year to an area still struggling through a downturn in the oil industry.

Money comes not only from those buying tickets to the rodeo, which drew more than 640,000 last year, but also from the major entertainment groups who perform at the shows, the more than 800 cowboys after prize money, and the thousands of breeders, youths and parents who take part in the livestock show.

Judge to decide on damages in FBI suit

EL PASO (AP) — A federal assuage Bunton. judge is scheduled to hear testimony this week on how the FBI should change itself and compensate Hispanic agents who successfully sued the bureau in a racial discrimination lawsuit.

The damages portion of the trial is scheduled to last four or five days, starting Tuesday in Midland before U.S. District Judge Lucius

In the first half of the two-part trial, Bunton ruled last September that the FBI had discriminated against Hispanics in job assignments, promotions and working conditions. The suit was filed by Bernardo "Mat" Perez, the agency's No. 2 man in El Paso, and 310 of the bureau's approximately 400 Hispanic agents eventually joined the class-action lawsuit.

After Bunton's ruling, the FBI promised to provide more education for equal employment opportunity specialists — FBI employees who try to solve discrimination complaints internally.

Bunton ruled the FBI discriminated against Hispanic agents by assigning them too often to monitor Spanish-language wiretaps that could be monitored just as easily by Spanish-speaking Anglo agents or by non-agent language specialists. In response, the FBI proposed hiring at least 30 Spanish-speaking linguists to monitor wiretaps. It proposed bonuses for agents who improve their foreign-language ability.

None of these measures is enough, the plaintiffs' lawyers said late last month before Bunton imposed a gag order. Plaintiffs' attorney Hugo Rodriguez labeled the FBI's proposals "cosmetic and prophylactic" measures to

The plaintiffs want the FBI to pay agents bonuses for using their foreign-language abilities instead of paying incentives for learning, but not necessarily using, foreign languages.

Under the FBI's foreignlanguage proposal, an agent entering the bureau at the highest level of fluency — a 5 on a grade of 0 to 5 — would not be eligible for any bonuses because he would not be able to demonstrate improvement.

Perez charged that the bureau's subjective, oral Spanish tests are flawed because Hispanic agents tend to get higher scores than non-Hispanic agents of comparable ability. Higher scores tend to result in less-desirable wiretap assignments, he said.

Both sides are expected to address the issue of whether and how much each Hispanic agent should be compensated financially for discrimination. Bunton has implied institutional changes within the FBI might be enough.

The first part of the trial, in which both sides argued whether the FBI discriminated against Hispanics, took place in August in El Paso, where Perez filed the suit. The second half of the trial is taking place in Midland,

Lobbyists submit first legislative spending report

AUSTIN (AP) - For January a month when the Legislature was in session for three weeks - lobbyists reported spending about $244,940 on entertaining legislators and other state officials, according to records filed with the secretary

If divided equally among the 181 members of the state House and Senate, that comes out to about $1,353 spent on each legislator for entertainment.

The reports come at a time when there is a push among some legislators for a constitutional amendment to raise their pay from $7,200 annually to about $23,000.

Entertainment expenses include funds spent on food, beverages, hospitality rooms, sporting events, theatrical and music events, transportation and lodging.

The amount of money spent and the issues of interest to lobbyists representing their clients provides a view of the major political battles occurring in the Legislature.

Some of the major issues lobbyists are focusing on include proposed changes to the workers' compensation system, the regulation of utilities and legislation pertaining to the chemical industry.

Workers' compensation has become a major battleground, with lobbyists for insurance, doctors, trial lawyers, business, and labor jockeying for position over a proposed overhaul of the system to compensate workers injured on the

The body of lobbyists, who often mill around outside the House and Senate chambers to confer with legislators, is often referred to as Texas' "Third House.

Under state law, lobbyists must file monthly expense reports when the Legislature is in session.

The lobbyists also are required to note what legislative or administrative matters they are try-

The top spending individual lobbyist in January was Neal T. Many lobbyists simply report they are interested in matters affecting their clients, without naming specific proposals, although some attach long lists of House and Senate bill numbers they are monitoring.

Routine stop results in arrest of Michigan man

A routine traffic stop by Big Spring police Saturday morning resulted in the arrest of a 46-yearold Michigan man being sought by Florida authorities on attempted murder and armed robbery warrants.

Sgt. Drew Bavin said patrol officers stopped a car being driven by Marvin Patrick Jr., Adrian, Mich., about 8:15 a.m. in the eastbound lane of Interstate 20 at mile marker 178.

When officers ran a NCIC computer check they discovered Patrick was being sought on the felony warrants from Hillsborough

Patrick - who was arrested without incident - was transported to the city jail where he is being held without bond, Bavin said.

Patrick was released on $50,000 bond after being charged with attempted murder and armed robbery in connection with a Jan. 16 incident in Tampa, according to a spokesman for the Hillsborough County jail.

The warrants were issued when Patrick faied to appear at a scheduled court appearance, the spokesman said.

Nursing homes say new law may hinder care of the mentally ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nursing home owners say a new federal law that is aimed at assuring care for mentally ill and mentally retarded patients may instead force these people into the streets.

The law, which went into effect Jan. 1, is designed to prevent warehousing of mentally ill and mentally retarded patients in nursing homes and assure that they get the specialized treatment they

Nursing homes are being told they will lose Medicaid funds if they accept patients who suffer from mental illness or mental retardation unless they also need nursing care because the homes don't offer such specialized services.

"Ostensibly this law is out to do a good thing, but it simply will not work given the reality of what's available," Paul Willging, executive vice president of the American Health Care Association, which represents nursing homes said.

"It will mean great numbers of homeless mentally ill and mentally retarded people," he said. Willging estimates that 5 percent to 10 percent of the nation's 1.5 million patients in Medicaidcertified nursing homes are mentally ill or mentally retarded. Government officials say the nursing homes' warnings are off base and advocates for the mentally ill and mentally retarded who supported the law say they have no evidence that people are being turned out into the streets. Terry Coleman, deputy ad-

Critics also fear that while the law does not consider Alzheimer's disease a mental illness, some Alzheimer's patients may be wrongly classified and turned

Opinions from across the U.S. Tower should step aside

The first vote on John Tower's nomination as secretary of defense has been put on hold for two weeks while the FBI reviews new allegations about his finances and excessive drinking.

Tower has vowed to stick with the fight for Senate confirmation. That's a mistake. He should withdraw and allow (President) Bush to submit another nomination.

Many of the allegations against Tower may well prove to be unfounded. But there have been enough serious questions about his character that it is doubtful that he could function effectively in one of the nation's most vital Cabinet positions. . .

Tower has not been convicted of any misdeeds. But questions about his personal life and hints and allegations of conflicts of interest have not subsided. If anything, they grow as time passes.

The result is a dangerous void in one of the nation's most important leadership roles. Even if he survives confirmation, lingering doubts will impair his ability to lead for many months, at best.

Mob was outside the law

What happened to a mugger who got caught in Brooklyn's close-knit Williamsburg section . . . tells us again that when people take the law into their own hands . . . the consequences may also be criminal.

A man who held up another at knifepoint . . . and slashed his face when he resisted was chased by a crowd of some 50 people and beaten unconscious. Should a mob, even well-motivated against crime, . . . have meted out this rough justice? This society long ago established the principle . . . that it is the function of the police to apprehend suspects and of the courts to determine their guilt or innocence.

That angry crowd . . . should have grabbed him and held him for the police. That, in sum, is what the rule of law is all about.

A lot of kindness anyway

George Bush apparently wasn't kidding around with all that talk of new breezes, outstretched hands and loyal opposition.

His first major policy address, delivered to a joint session of Congress on Thursday (Feb. 9), was a genuine effort to salve wounds, establish common ground with Democrats and squeeze the most kindness and gentleness possible out of a straitened federal budget.

In his speech - if not in the actual spending plan he submitted to Congress — there was something for just about everyone. .

The hitch is that all these things cost money. And while Bush — with obvious conviction and idealism outlined in detail what he wanted government to do, he provided no realistic plan for financing his initiatives. . .

It's hard to believe that President Bush can deliver these goods without raising taxes. But Bush apparently intends to prevail by the sheer force of optimism and what seems a near-impossible dream. The Morning News Tribune, Tacoma, Wash.

A hollow victory

We "won" this round, and it feels fine, thank you. Just exactly what we "won" remains to be seen.

Yes, the outlandish 51 percent pay raise for Congress was defeated, and even more important the public let their leaders know that even the gullible can't always be conned by the empty protestations of members of Congress who would have us believe a pay raise is being forced down their powerless throats.

The victory is, however, somewhat hollow. The truth is, there is probably justification for a congressional pay increase, as well as the need for more compensation for judges and other federal workers.

And the victory leaves us with a system where members of Congress can still take hefty honoraria and other financial perks.

So the issue is by no means dead. We think the American people will be more than generous if the administration and Congress join together to present a reasonable pay increase-reform package.

Nail glue among toxic cosmetics

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — It is painful to listen when Dana Colla speaks. Her words come through the telephone like a scratched record. She says her job took away her voice.

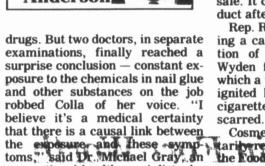

While Colla worked as a manicurist in Arizona beauty schools and salons, she gradually lost her voice. Today, she cannot speak above a raspy whisper. She has trouble swallowing and even sleeping. Her doctors say she suffered what appears to be permanent neurological damage from the tools of her trade - chemicals used to create beautiful fingernails.

We recently reported on the potential danger of ingredients in makeup, sculpted nails and other beauty products. Our report brought silent sufferers forward. They spoke of ailments ranging from allergic reactions, such as headaches and rashes, to memory loss and breathing problems.

The reactions to beauty products are not universal. Some stem from unique allergies to a product, others may result from misuse or prolonged exposure and still others may be the result of toxicity.

Colla told us she began working as a cosmetologist six years ago. Every day she worked with numerous chemicals when she created and applied artificial fingernails for her clients. Her speech problem was random at first. Then she started choking on hard food and suffering from headaches and insomnia.

Colla made the rounds of neurologists, speech therapists and other doctors. At one point, her problem was diagnosed as stress, and she was put on anti-depressant

SOUTH BOWERS, Del. - Archaelogist Charles Fithian of the Delaware Bureau of Museums and Historic Sties looks over artifacts recovered from the HMS DeBraak which was lost in a squall in 1798

SOUTH BOWERS, Del. (AP) — The wreck of a British man o' war hauled from the Delaware Bay almost 200 years after it sank is providing archaeologists a rare glimpse of shipboard life in the

The find has shown that sailors we're well-fed and enjoyed the use of Wedgewood ceramic plates and good-quality muskets, said Charles Fithian, curator of archaelogy for the Delaware Bureau of Museums and Historic Sites.

It also has revealed that the small two-masted fighting vessel had machine-manufactured fittings, one of the earliest products of the Industrial Revolution, he said.

"It's a whole chapter in maritime history," said archaeologist Garry Stone, past president of the Society of Historical Archaeology and special assistant for historic site development for the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

The HMS DeBraak was lost in a sudden squall in 1798 in the mouth of Delaware Bay and was quickly covered with mud, sealing the ship's remains in an almost oxygen-free environment 90 feet below the surface, Fithian said. A private salvage company raised the wreck in 1986.

The 26,000 artifacts recovered show that "by the 1790s, the material world of the sailor had improved," Fithian said.

A plethora of Wedgewood yellow ceramic plates indicate sailors were issued mess kits and no longer relied on wooden bowls. And despite contemporary accounts of bad food, the cuts of meat were good and the seamen probably ate well, he said.

Salvagers also recovered the largest known collection of men's footwear and such leisure items as

Other items recovered include a sailor's brimmed knit cap - only the second one of its era known to exist — a surgeon's tourniquet screw used to stop bleeding, a tooth extractor and a black Wedgewood teapot used during mourning.

Rumors of gold bullion aboard lured treasure hunters for two centuries, but only a few gold and silver coins were found.

EEC nations withdraw envoys

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The 12 EEC nations agreed today to recall their ambassadors from Iran to protest Avatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's order that author Salman Rusdie be killed for writing a novel considered blasphemous by many Moslems.

The decision by the European Economic Community foreign ministers came a day after the Iranian leader said Rushdie "could not be forgiven even if he repents" for having written "The Satanic Verses.

West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher said EEC nations also will hold off on sending any high-level delegations to Iran and limit the freedom of movement of Iranian diplomats in Europe to within 40 miles of where they are stationed. Rushdie, born in India to a Moslem family, is a British citizen and lives in London. Genscher called the EEC action a sign of solidarity with Britain.

"But it is also a signal to assure the preservation of civilization and human values, the preservation of freedom of speech and expression," he told reporters.

Moslems object to passages in Rushdie's novel such as a scene where prostitutes adopt the names of the wives of the prophet Mohammed.

Lebanese leaders begin talks

KUWAIT (AP) — Lebanon's top Moslem and Christian religious leaders arrived in Kuwait on Sunday for talks aimed at ending the 14-year-old Lebanese civil war and avoiding permanent partition

The talks, to begin Monday, were organized by the sevencharged with seeking a settlement of the political crisis that has left Lebanon without a president for the past 147 days.

The two governments emerged when President Amin Gemayel appointed Aoun prime minister of a caretaker military cabinet on Sept. 22, minutes before his 6-year term ended. Parliament member Arab League committee was unable to convene to elect a successor

Police raid Mandela home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Just days after anti-apartheid leaders disowned Winnie Mandela over allegations her bodyguards killed a young black, police raided her home, arrested four men and reportedly found bloodstains.

State-run Radio South Africa said the four men arrested in Sunday's pre-dawn raid were bodyguards of the wife of jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela.

Three Soweto men who are represented by an anti-apartheid attorney have said club members abducted them and Seipei and beat the four at the Mandela house. They claim Mrs. Mandela 'was involved" but have not elaborated.

Mrs. Mandela declined to answer reporters' questions on the police raid. She has suggested the whole case results from an effort to discredit her.

Woman forgives ex-husband who refused to pay

DEAR ABBY: I must respond to your column on forgiveness: Forgiveness is a gift to the giver. I speak from personal experience.

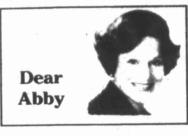

Years ago, I took legal action against my ex-husband for payment of back child support. I had a good job with an adequate salary, but I could have used some financial help, as I was raising our two sons alone. "Rob" had a drinking problem, which was one of the reasons we parted, but I was determined to get what he owed me -

Then suddenly, I asked myself: What am I doing? Our sons had always had a very good relationship with their father, and my taking Rob to court would only alienate him from his family.

I made up my mind that I would forgive Rob and forget the money he owed me, so I called my attorney and told him to withdraw the legal action — that I was letting Rob off the hook. As it turned out, that was the wisest decision I ever made. Seven years later Rob was dead of a massive heart attack. He was 48. During the final seven years of his life, our relationship was very cordial, and he was able to manager Larry Himes required the players to have all three stripes on their stirrup socks showing or face fines. The White Sox finished fifth that year and fifth again last year. Meanwhile, Randy Myers and Mike Greenwell are not quite sure they're ready to let the offseason end.

Myers, the left-handed reliever who led the New York Mets' bullpen with 26 saves, told the team he would not show up to spring training until his contract is resolved.

things are always settled," Mets general manager Frank Cashen said at the Mets camp in Port St. Lucie, Fla. "He doesn't have the seniority for arbitration or free agency. It has not place to go."

Mets manager Davey Johnson has become used to Myers' stubborness.

"There's not an easy way you can communicate with Randy,' he said. "I know he has ears, but I don't know if he hears with them. Where is he, in Vancouver? Is it cold there? He'll show up sooner or later." Greenwell, Boston's left fielder, had threatened not to report to camp, but he worked out Sunday in Winter Haven, Fla., with the pitchers and catchers.

"I want to play baseball and I'm ready to play baseball," Greenwell said. "It's my life. All I care about is playing baseball."

He might leave camp on Monday if his meeting with Boston general manager Lou Gorman does not go well.

"We're still pretty far apart," Gorman said. "Mike wants $1.9 million for two years and we've offered $1.2. That's a big difference."

Greenwell is angry that he is making so much less than Roger Clemens, who last week got a three-year contract worth $7.5

"One year, five years, 20 vears. I don't think it should matter," Greenwell said. "I've been here for at least part of the season for four years and feel I have the time. The Red Sox have been fair with me in the past and I think they will be fair with me

"I'd really like to stay here and pitch but I don't see that happening," said Aguilera, who pitched onlt 24 2-3 innings last year because of arm surgery. "I'm obviously not going to bump someone here. So I'll start anyplace I can."

Mets manager Davey Johnson spoke with him for 20 minutes Sunday, explaining the situation.

"I heard he had voiced a desire to be traded," Johnson said.

Waltrip beats the odds to capture Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip put on his best riverboat gambler persona Sunday and won an almost unplayable hand.

It didn't matter to Waltrip that he was running low on fuel as the Daytona 500 neared its end. He knew he couldn't outrun teammate Ken Schrader or Dale Earnhardt anyway.

Then, as the curtain was about to fall, the drama began.

As Waltrip related later in an emotional Victory Lane celebration, the final scene reminded him of a movie he had seen the previous night.

"These two guys were playing cards and one had a royal flush and the other had nothing," he said after winning the only major stock car prize ever to elude him. "The guy who had nothing won, and the guy with the royal flush just couldn't understand.

"That's what poker is all about."

Poker players, as Waltrip noted, have many anxious moments. In his case, nervous time was the final four laps -10 miles — at the Daytona International Speedway.

"With five laps remaining, I felt good," the three-time Winston Cup champion said. 'With four to go, I said 'I'm out of gas.' With three left, I said 'I've got it.' With two left,

I was out of gas again.

"When I saw the white flag (signifying one more trip around the 2.5-mile oval), I didn't know what to think."

But Waltrip, who won the big race after 16 frustating years of trying, had enough to finish — barely enough.

When his ecomony run ended, 7.64 seconds before Schrader hit the line, his gas tank was all but empty.

A spokesman for NASCAR, the sanctioning body for the Winston Cup circuit, asked an inspector how much fuel was left the Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

"For five dollars, I'd drink it," the inspector said.

Gas mileage, which Waltrip said is "overlooked as an important factor," had won the race.

Waltrip and crew chief Jeff Hammond had decided with about 35 laps remaining that they would try to go the rest of the way without refueling. Schrader and Earnhardt, who like Waltrip drove Chevrolet Monte Carlos, pitted for gas with 11 laps remaining.

That left Waltrip and Alan Kulwicki to battle for the victory or run out of gas.

Waltrip, who dominated the race several times in the past, only to run out luck, ran into some for a change. With four laps left, Kulwicki cut a tire and was forced to pit.

Then the worrying began for the 42-year-old driver from Franklin, Tenn.

"The fuel pressure went down to nothing twice," Waltrip said. "I said (to himself) 'it's gone . . . it's out . . I can't go any farther."

But he was committed to the effort, holding the accelerator "halfway to three-quarters" to the floor.

"Each time I thought I was out, I told Jeff and he'd say, 'Shake, baby, shake,"' meaning to move the car from sideto-side to slosh the remaining fuel around. "I said (to himself) 'I can make it,' " Waltrip recalled. "Then I drafted, drafted. drafted, drafted.' That manuever, riding closely behind cars that broke his wind, allowed him to finish.

"I want to see that tank," third-place finisher Earnhard said.

What Waltrip did was prove that he could go - albeit slowly — three laps farther than the 50 Terry Labonte had driven Thursday in winning a qualifying race.

"We knew we could go 50 laps easily," Waltrip said, noting that he wounld't have taken on fuel in a qualifying race Thursday had he not stopped for a late-race tire change.

Scott and LA burn Celtics Sports Briefs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) -The Boston Celtics are sinking in the West

Following Sunday's 119-110 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers, the Celtics are 0-4 on their longest road trip of the season, which still has two more games to go.

But the Celtics say the problems go beyond the absence of Larry Bird, who has missed 44 games since undergoing surgery to remove bone spurs from both heels.

"We aren't waiting for Larry's return, we are trying to survive and become a better team," said first-year head coach Jimmy Rodgers, whose club has fallen four games below .500 since the All-Star break.

The Lakers played without Magic Johnson, but Byron Scott showed he has recovered from a urological disorder by scoring a season-high 35 points, including 14 in a span of less than eight minutes to put the Los Angeles in control.

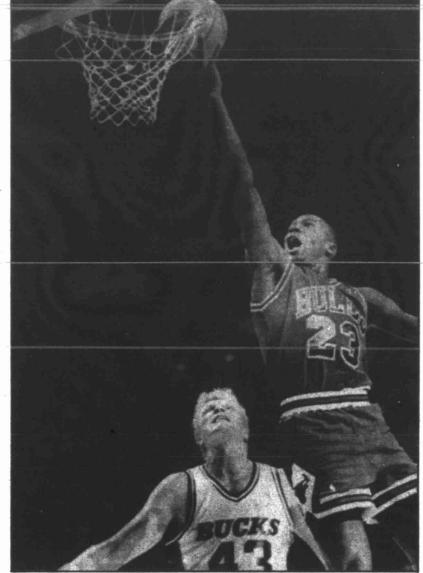

Johnson has missed three games with a partially torn left hamstring, making Sunday's game the first between the Lakers and Celtics that both Bird and Johnson have missed since coming into the NBA in 1979.

Sunday's game, which broke the Lakers' two-game home losing streak, was Scott's fourth game

Trailing 42-35 following Kevin McHale's jumper with 7:23 left before halftime, the Lakers went on a 7-0 run, including a steal by Scott, who passed to Worthy for a dunk that tied it at 42.

Scott made a jumper and two free throws for a 46-46 tie, then had a 3-point shot and a three-point play in the final 1:35 to help the Lakers take a 60-57 halftime lead.

He then made a layup with one minute gone in the third quarter to give the Lakers the lead for good, 62-61. It was Scott's 14th point in a 7:45 span and started a 16-2 spurt that made it 76-63.

Chicago never trailed after Jordan's two free throws with 5:24 left gave the Bulls a 96-95 lead.

After that, Sellers had two baskets on passes from Jordan. Sellers also converted two free throws with four seconds left for a 108-103 lead before Jack Sikma hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer.

Terry Cummings had 27 points and 13 rebounds for the Bucks and Ricky Pierce had 18 points.

Expansion Miami won its second straight game and set team records for points in a game, a half and a quarter, field-goal percentage, field goals and assists în an impressive victory over Atlanta.

The Heat, whose previous high in a regulation game was 111 points. led by 20 on four occasions early in the second half, but a 20-6 Hawks run sparked by Doc Rivers' seven points cut the lead to 113-109 with four minutes left.

Rony Seikaly then scored five points in a little more than two minutes, helping the Heat rebuild its lead to 120-111 with 1:42 left.

Miami's top rookies had big games as Grant Long had 30 points and 10 rebounds, Kevin Edwards added 21 points and Seikaly 14.

The Hawks, who trailed 72-54 at halftime and 38-27 after one quarter, were led by Dominique Wilkins with 25 points and Rivers

The Aggies' 82-71 victory at College Station coupled with Texas' vital 84-82 victory over Texas Tech in Lubbock locked Arkansas and Texas in a 10-3 tie atop the SWC standings.

Arkansas would be the No. 1 seed in the post-season classic in Dallas if it is tied with Texas at the end of victories over the Longhorns. The Hogs have lost only six games this year and five of them have been on the road. They have one road game left, at Rice on March 1.

Here's the schedule for Arkansas and Texas the rest of the way: ARKANSAS — Baylor Feb. 22

(home), Tulsa (non-conference) Feb. 25 (home), Rice March 1 Houston March 5 (home). TEXAS - Miami Feb. 22 (home), TCU Feb. 25 (home), SMU

Feb. 28 (away), Texas A&M (away) March 4. Texas definitely has the toughest of the schedule with road games to SMU and Texas A&M.

In other games on Saturday, Rice beat SMU 67-65 behind freshman Dana Hardy's 35 points grip on third place with an 82-66 victory over Houston.

TCU is 8-5 while Houston and Tech are tied for fourth with 6-6 records. Texas A&M and SMU are each 5-7 while Rice is 5-8. Baylor, now 1-11, as the last-place team will be the only SWC club not in the post-season tournament.

A&M's resurgence has been one of the big surprises of the seson.

"(Coach) Shelby Metcalf told me at the beginning of the year he had his best team as far as quickness," said Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson. "I could tell it was just a matter of time before A&M got it going. They are playing very Penders figures it will take 22 wins to get Texas into the NCAA tournament if the 'Horns don't win the post-season classic to earn an automatic berth.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - A lawyer for Kentucky coach Eddie Sutton says a school official sought to discredit the coach by leaking part of the university's response to 18 NCAA allegations of wrongdoing by the UK basketball program.

"They just want him out," Terry McBrayer told the Lexington Herald-Leader. 'Somebody is beginning to draw a line.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, quoting from the response to the NCAA, reported Sunday that Sutton "may have wanted a high school basketball coach 'to give false and misleading information to the NCAA."

Mixed reactions OU football players have guns,

University of Oklahoma fans expressed mixed reactions to problems within the school's football program while another state newspaper joined the clamor for a shakeup in the athletic department. Keith Kahle of Fort Worth, Texas, a former Oklahoma resident and self-described dedicated Sooner fan, expressed support for football coach Barry Switzer in a letter in Sunday's editions of The Daily Oklahoman, based in Oklahoma City. "Please count me in strong support of coach Barry Switzer. The basic problems, in my opinion, are above the very able Barry Switzer," Kahle wrote. "Hang in there, Barry. We used to weed and thin our corn so the healthy stalks had a better chance to be more productive," wrote J.R. McKinney of Moore. "Your next year's crop has already been thinned a mite. Emmett Phillips of Edmond

One writer suggested that legendary Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson's name should be removed from the athletic dorm.

"A good replacement might be an old military one, 'mess hall," suggested J.R. McClead of Oklahoma City.

Another writer suggested that the recent troubles are helping the Sooners stay ahead of Oklahoma State in areas outside the athletic "I finally admit the University of

A longtime fan wrote he was concerned about the safety of people who attend Oklahoma games in the

"I have been going to OU football games since the 1920s. Now I am afraid to go since so many of the pistols and machine guns in their rooms and autos," said Oklahoma City resident Hervey A. Foerster. The letters followed a spate of problems at the school that included the arrest of quarterback Charles Thompson last week on charges that he sold 17 grams of cocaine to an undercover FBI agent. His arrest shortly followed rape charges against non-starters Nigel Clay, Glen Bell and Bernard Hall and charges of shooting with intent to injure against teammate Jerry Parks. According to court documents, ammunition was found during a search of the Bud Wilkinson athletic dorm in connection with the rape. The shooting also allegedly occurred in the athletic dorm.

The Muskogee Daily Phoenix on Sunday joined other state papers in calling for changes to reform the football program.

"The governor and Oklahomans are telling OU regents and the acting president to get the place in order," the paper said. "If that takes firing some people, so be it. Whatever it takes, the university's bad reputation must be reversed.'

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Although you are eager to mix business and pleasure, doing so would be a mistake. Move in a new direction. Concentrate on clearing up a misunderstanding within the business community.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your sense of daring carries you onward and upward today. You clear up any doubts about your deepest emotions. A relationship develops a whole new dimension. Romance plays a more meaningful

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Look for any weaknesses in your financial plan and seek ways to shore up your resources. You may be own progress. Instead, look for ways to capitalize on what is happening. Pursue a relationship with someone who will cherish

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Career advancement depends on your ability to keep your emotions under control. Occasional hurt feelings can be expected in any love relationship. Thy to avoid a battle of wills; be less critical of mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You cannot afford to take anything or anyone for granted today. Do your homework and you will succeed in whatever you undertake. A daily walk or swim will boost your physical fitness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your skill at obtaining cooperation makes you a very attractive candidate for a promotion. Cutthroat competitors will lose out. Be true to your high ideals. Set a good example for the young.

Runnels was over-crowded as junior high

Nearly 1,300 seventh, eighth and ninth grade students were enrolled in Big Spring Junior High School when I began teaching there in 1957. The cafeteria, located on the first floor, doubled as a study hall. The building that presently houses the cafeteria and shop was used for classrooms. Administrative offices occupied the building now used by the music departments. There was one gym.

Bouffant skirts and petticoats posed a traffic hazard in the crowded halls. The middle stairs were designated for use by students going up the stairs, and the end stairs for those coming down, and only a very foolhardy person would have tried to challenge the traffic. Some teachers "floated," meeting each class in a different room during the regular occupant's conference period.

Goliad was built in 1958, and the junior high population was divided between the two schools. I continued to teach at Runnels. Along with many people in Big Spring, I am sentimental about the old building with its thick walls and the beautiful view of Big Spring from the third story windows. The building was constructed in 1916.

There are many happy memories of Runnels. Junior high kids can be so much fun. Once as I was taking a rather noisy class to the library, instead of giving the usual admonition to be quiet, I said, "Hold your breath until we get there." We went down the hall and up two flights of stairs in unusual calm until students rushed through the door of the library gasping, "I did it! I did it! I didn't breathe all the way up here."

In that same librarys, the librarian found a string leading to the third story windows. Attached to the string fluttering in the breeze below was a paper on which was written, "dangling participle."

In 1968, ninth graders were moved to the high school; ten years later sixth and seventh graders were organized into Goliad Middle School, and eighth graders were assigned to Runnels. I was assigned to Goliad where I continued to teach seventh grade language arts until my retirement last year. These all those nice youngsters - their compositions, their exciting, if sometimes noisy, presentation of oral book reports, their enthusiasm. I remember the fun of working with the annual staffs.

Today Goliad Middle School has an enrollment of 689, with 45 teachers. The principal is Jim Holmes. Besides basic classes of math, science, social studies, language arts, and physical education, students have a wide choice of electives including homemaking, industrial arts, choir, band, art, and introduction to business. Two class periods are scheduled for language arts. This provides sufficient time for the teaching of grammar, spelling,

About 320 eighth graders attend Runnels Junior High. Principal Tom Henry heads the faculty of 27. In the seven-period day, students take five required classes plus one semester of computer literacy. One semester electives include home economics; life management skills; art (drawing and painting); art (crafts and sculpture); careers; applied music (piano instruction for students who have had no band; Introduction to Industrial Technology I; and Pre-vocational Agriculture I. One year electives are Art II, Band II, Choir II, and Introduction to Industrial Technology II.

The student council at Runnels provides many opportunities for leadership. Members are elected from advisory period, a time scheduled during lunch hour for study and counseling. A ratio of one representative for ten students is maintained.

The student council organizes many activities including canned food drive for Salvation Army; SADD, homecoming float, Valentine dedications, computer match-ups, volleyball tournament, candy sales, and various contests. The student council will be hosting an open house during Texas Public Schools Week. Gay Herren, Carole Lawson, and Karla Canada sponsor this to throw the book at Goldilocks for her antics while the Bears were away - breaking and entering, theft and destruction of property.

The Semmes, Bowen & Semmes law firm staged a trial Wednesday at the Herring Run Middle School based on the childhood favorite to illustrate how the criminal justice system works.

The jury of 83 sixth- and eighthgrade students heard testimony on how Mama, Papa and Baby Bear took a walk in the woods on a cold night while their soup cooled. They returned to find Baby Bear's chair in shambles.

"Baby Bear's chair was ruined," Father Bear testified.

On cross-examination, he admitted he might have left the door unlocked.

In her own defense, Goldilocks claimed she was searching for leaves for a science project and got lost. "I was cold and hungry. I
