Cotton surge may add $500,000 to area economy

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

LUBBOCK — Explosive trading on the spot cotton market, fueled by rumors of major new purchases by China, may put up to one-half million dollars in the economy of Howard County

In what was believed to have been the largest daily turnover ever recorded in any cotton market anywhere in the world, the Lubbock spot cotton market traded 600,000 to 700,000 bales Tuesday.

The surge in cotton prices may put up to $10 million dollars into the hands of West Texas producers within the next 24 hours. About onehalf million of that could come to tion in Howard County of about 105,000 bales," said Delta Cotton Company's Richard Pitts. "After the surge in the market, sellers were making five to seven dollars a bale more than what they would have received previous to yesterday . . . the little export market they developed Tuesday might just put another half million dollars in the economy here that would not otherwise have been here.

An additional 215,000 to 315,000 bales traded outside the electronic The Lubbock-based Telcot elec- system, trade officials estimated.

Trading on Telcot alone through much of the day averaged 1,000 bales a minute, with the computerized system handling about 10 transactions per second. The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported that the cotton traded on Telcot will put about $10 million into the hands of area producers within the next 24 hours. Equity prices strengthened during the day and ended with most bringing about $25 to $30 per bale.

Rumors of new sales to China could not be confirmed, but merchants said the trading activity suggested the country may have purchased as many as 500,000 or more bales.

A wide "redemption window," the spread between the front futures contract and the adjusted world price (AWP) or loan redemption rate, contributed to the hectic activity. But it alone would not have been expected to have generated such a huge turnover.

"We've never seen anything like this in this market, and may never see it again," said Wayne Delozier of the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association, a marketing organization owned by producers.

An estimated $132 million will be required to redeem about 600,000 bales from the price support loan program. Producers have entered most of the 1988 crop into the loan, and trading now centers on loan

Medicaid income cap may be raised for nursing homes

By STEVE GEISSEN Staff Writer

Legislation that would allow more low income, elderly Texans to receive state and federal financial assistance for nursing home care is being considered by the Texas House of Representatives and Senate.

If the measure is passed, the Medicaid income cap set by the state - which determines who is eligible for financial assistance would be raised to the amount allowed by the federal Currently to qualify for assistance from Texas' Medicaid nursing home program, a person immediately raising the income can have an income of no more than $715 per month.

The state's income cap results in Catch-22 situations because nursing home care in Texas generally costs substantially more than $715 per month.

Therefore, persons whose incomes are slightly above the $715 cap cannot receive Medicaid assistance nor can they afford the expense of paying for nursing home care.

Only one state - Delaware - is tighter with its federal Medicaid dollars than Texas, which also ranks among the bottom four states in Medicaid reimbursement rates paid to nursing homes.

Senate Bill 97, authored by Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, and House Bill 392, authored by Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, seek to raise the income cap to the amount allowed by the federal government, currently $1,104.

State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, supports passage of Senate Bill 97, according to a staff spokesperson.

District 69 state Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, said he is "very supportive of the concept" of House Bill 392, but does not support cap to $1,104.

Instead, Fraser said he supports raising the cap in increments, so the economic impact to the state this biennium would not be as

"It's been recommended that they increase the cap in incremental steps," Fraser said. "First, to $900 and eventually to $1,104. I'm supportive of that. I think it would be easier for the state to handle it from a financial standpoint.

At an assembly this morning to promote academic achievement, 270 Big Spring High School students received honor roll cards as well as coupons from 20 local businesses

The awards presentation is part of a newly-created program to recognize academic excellence that was established by a committee of students and teachers, said Kent Bowermon, principal.

Students who made the fall straight "A" honor roll, the "A-B" honor roll and the straight "B" honor roll were recognized during the assembly. The students received coupons from local business such as restaurants, movie theatres, and clothing and department stores.

Grand prize drawings for gift certificates were held as well. Bowermon said it is the first time such an awards presentation has been held at the high school. "We're charting unknown paths now," he said. "We're trying to find out what we can do to motivate the kids."

The program will likely be expanded in the future to include HONORS page 3-A

Bush begins hectic, 18,000-mile Far East trip

By TERENCE HUNT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Bush set out today on a hectic fiveday trip to Japan, China and South Korea to demonstrate that "the United States is an Asian power.'

Bush and his wife, Barbara, departed before sunrise in a light drizzle aboard Air Force One, heading for a refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska, en route to Tokyo. In Anchorage, Bush will give a speech outlining themes of his trip.

The overseas trip comes with Bush barely in office for a month, and with most aspects of the new administration's foreign policy still officially under review.

But Brent Scowcroft, the president's national security adviser, on Tuesday disputed suggestions that Bush is making the journey before he has a cohesive foreign policy in

'The president is not trying to make quick headlines," Scowcroft said. He said Bush wants to develop policies that "will aid us in where we think we'd like to be at the end of the century.

Over the next five days, Bush will travel 18,095 miles. He'll spend 36 hours on his plane before returning to Washington on Monday

Scowcroft said the trip underscores the strategic importance of the three nations that Bush will visit, as well as "the growing importance of the U.S. relationship

INS slowly processing asylum applications; no approvals

BAYVIEW (AP) - The process to speed up asylum decisions for Central Americans who say they are fleeing political persecution. began slowly, but immigration officials say the pace will pick up when hundreds of federal workers arrive to help.

Two State Department officials Tuesday began making recommendations on asylum applications under a plan announced Monday to speed up the weeding out of "frivolous" claims by Central American immigrants.

But the plan took shape slowly and by Tuesday afternoon, only 45 Central Americans, half from Nicaragua, were under review while 200 others were waiting to be processed.

"Of those (45) we have 25 denials, no approvals," said Immigration and Naturalization Service spokesman Mario Ortiz, adding that the remainder were still under review. By late Tuesday, the INS decided at least 12 should be detained and set up with deportation hearings.

INS District Director Omer Sewell said the addition of 500 federal workers to the Brownsville area, the main entry point for Central American asylum seekers, would help as the new process is phased in during the next few weeks

But critics say it is already operating at inhumane speed, particularly because rejected applicants may be detained in tents erected inside the fence of a minimum-security prison.

persecution are entitled to asylum; those who come to better themselves economically can be deported. The INS maintains that most Central Americans arriving in South Texas do not qualify for refugee status.

Under the new plan, asylum applicants may get an answer on the same day they apply, but they are subject to immediate arrest and detention if denied asylum.

Before Tuesday, applications could take weeks to process, and aliens were released on their own recognizance while they awaited appeals or deportation.

The INS began erecting tents at its rural Port Isabel Service Processing Center here in case the number of detainees at the facility exceeds bed space. The agency said as many as 5,000 could be detained in large circus-like tents within the 315-acre facility that is surrounded by a 7-foot fence topped with barbed wire.

Many of the applicants showing up at the center Tuesday were unaware that they were subject to arrest if their cases were denied.

'We didn't know about it," said Luis Vasquez, 29, from El Salvador, adding he would take his chances anyway.

"I just can't go back to Nicaragua," said Manuela Diaz, who started crying while talking about conditions in her homeland. The applicants entering the facility generally paid little attention to six people who were fasting across the road from the center in protest of the new procedures.

The three Salvadorans and three Roman Catholic nuns from South Texas said they would remain there until the government granted regugee status to Salvadorans and halted military aid to that country.

"We don't plan to finish this fast until we have a specific answer' from the U.S. government, said Jose Amaya, one of the fasting Salvadorans.

Helmet opponents deny usefulness

AUSTIN (AP) — The kind of motorcycle helmets most people buy would not prevent death or serious injury, says an opponent of a proposed Texas helmet law.

Showing lawmakers two helmets and the cross-section of another, Rick Michael, member of a 3,000-member group against the proposal, said the one that would offer "minimal protection" costs about $250.

The type most people would buy costs about $50, and is "garbage," said Michael, spokesman for American Bikers Against Totalitarian Enactments.

"This is the helmet that the father is going to go out and buy his son at Target if you mandate helmets, because you'll be saying that he'll be safe if he puts it on not true," Michael told the Senate Committee on Health and Human Services Tuesday.

About 100 bikers looked on from the Senate gallery as testimony was heard for and against the bill, proposed by Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall

Michael, wearing a leg cast from a motorcycle accident, said even the expensive helmet would not prevent brain injury during impacts at greater than 13 to 15 miles per hour, and he had an associate drop a helmet on the Senate floor to show how it bounced.

"The helmet is not an accident prevention measure. Safety training is," Michael said. He urged lawmakers to fund motorcycle safety programs and to look at the incidence of alcohol use in fatal or serious-injury motorcycle

Lyon's bill is the same as the one state senators passed in 1987, but which failed in the House. A state law requiring helmets was repealed in 1977.

Ron Hall, vice chairman of the Texas Association of Independent Motorcyclists Inc. told the Senate panel that the option to not wear a helmet was "a personal freedom."

Hall, who also called for increased safety programs, said adults should not be forced to wear helmets, but said he supported the current law, which requires those under 18 to wear them.

The committee also heard testimony Tuesday on a bill proposed by Sen. Steve Carriker, D-Wichita Falls, that would increase funding for motorcycle education and safety programs.

Most witnesses who testified against the helmet law supported Carriker's measure.

In defense of the helmet bill, Lyon said, "There will be a few people who will say it is the individual's right to drive on the highways without a helmet.

"Unfortunately, I don't think that's the case, because the bottom line is the insurance ratepayers and the taxpayers, through the funding of public hospitals, pay for a tremendous number of medical costs each year" due to motorcycle accidents, Lyon said. A spokesman for the Texas Department of Health said a 1987 study showed motorcycle riders serious or fatal head injuries, and also were less likely to have health insurance.

Zane said the cost since 1987 for medical care and rehabiliation of unhelmeted motorcycle accident victims was $32 million.

Panhandle Eastern bids for Texas Eastern Corp.

HOUSTON (AP) - Panhandle Eastern Corp. began a cash tender offer today for Texas Eastern Corp.'s outstanding stock after a merger agreement between the two Houston-based natural gas companies apparently blocked a hostile takeover attempt by Coastal Corp.

The agreement, subject to approval by federal regulators, was accepted by the Texas Eastern board Monday afternoon, just hours after the $3.2 billion offer was approved by Panhandle Eastern's board of directors, said Panhandle Eastern spokesman Jim Hart.

The combination of the two Houston-based natural gas companies would create a 27,000-mile system and result in the nation's second-largest pipeline company in terms of total miles, Hart said.

'We filed papers this morning with the SEC (Securities and Exchange Commission), and that begins the clock," Hart said, adding that the cash offer will expire at midnight March 20.

In today's tender offer, Panhandle Eastern plans to buy up to 80 percent of Texas Eastern's 60.8 million outstanding shares, Hart the cash offer will be exchanged for Panhandle Eastern stock at the same $53-a-share value, which Texas Eastern praised as significant for its stockholders. Texas Eastern's stock, which closed at $48.50 a share in New York Stock Exchange composite trading Friday, opened at $51 today and had increased to $52.50 by midmorning. The exchange was closed Monday in observance of President's Day. Panhandle Eastern has access to large mid-continent supplies of natural gas, including Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and the Gulf of Mexico, and also operates a large liquefied natural gas facility in Lake Charles, La.

The company also has connections to Canadian gas through the Northern Border Pipeline, Hart said, while Texas Eastern has access to the rapidly growing New England natural gas market.

"The combined systems will provide access to almost all the major gas processing markets in the nation," said Texas Eastern spokesman Fred Wichlep.

Lawmaker: Not satisfied with White House denials former chairman of the House intelligence committee testified today that he wasn't satisfied with White House denials of news reports that Oliver L. North was helping Nicaraguan rebels in defiance of a congressional ban on such assistance.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., testified that then-national security adviser Robert McFarlane assured him in two letters and a committee briefing that North or other National Security Council aides were not helping the Contra guerrillas. "Were you satisfied with the response?" prosecutor John W. Keker asked Hamilton, the lead-off witness in the trial in U.S. District Court.

"No, I was not," Hamilton replied. "The press stories continued in large numbers; it was of great interest to Congress."

The inquiries were first made in August 1985 following news reports that North was helping raise money for the Contras and giving the rebels tactical military advice despite prohibitions on U.S. aid enacted by Congress in 1984.

Prosecutors are trying to show that North, a former National Security Council aide, subverted the processes of government by helping McFarlane draft false

North is charged, among other things, with obstructing congressional inquiries into his activities in 1985 and 1986. McFarlane, who is expected to testify as a prosecution witness, has pleaded guilty to four misdemeanor counts of withholding information from Congress.

Hamilton said the news reports about North's fundraising activities sparked "enormous inamong House members because "the debate in this country through a large part of the 1980s was on whether or not the Contras should be funded by the United States government.'

'That became a very controversial debate," Hamilton said, culminating in the passage of the so-called Boland Amendment in 1984 that prohibited U.S. intelligence agencies from using money to help the Contras.

Accurate answers to congressional inquiries are needed, Hamilton said, because "we can't fulfill our responsibility unless we have accurate information from the executive branch.'

inside the Internal Revenue Ser- and is generally perceived as vice are recommending a thorough overhaul of the 150 separate civil penalties that can be imposed on people who make tax mistakes.

Although the proposals have not been approved by the IRS or higher federal agencies, most of the suggestions have been endorsed by IRS Commissioner Lawrence B. Gibbs. He says the present crazyquilt penalty system is difficult for taxpayers to understand and the IRS to enforce.

'While the merit of each individual penalty can be defended, when taken together they sometimes produce unintended results and have a combined impact that can be too severe," Gibbs said Tuesday in presenting an IRS task force report on penalties to a House Ways and Means subcommittee.

If taxpayers do not understand why they are being penalized, he said, compliance with the tax laws

When the 1954 tax overhaul was re only 14 civ penalties. Most taxpayers will never encounter the bulk of today's 150 penalties, which are used to punish behavior ranging from defacing a stamp on a liquor bottle to fraudulently failing to report income.

The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants recommended that Congress streamline RS penalty procedures but take its time creating new penalties.

'Now that the interest paid by individual taxpayers is no longer (fully) deductible while the interest received from the government is fully taxable, it does not seem that this differential is necessary, logical or fair," said Arthur S. Hoffman, chairman of the organization's tax division. "It is a

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts major irritant to many taxpayers patently inequitable.

Chief Judge Arthur L. Nims III of the U.S. Tax Court asked Congress to increase the penalty that the court may impose on taxpayers who file frivolous tax suits. Raising the $5,000 penalty would discourage tax-shelter suits, he said. He also recommended the court be permitted to penalize lawyers who draw such suits.

Gibbs said that if the IRS taskforce report should become law, it would result in considerably fewer separate penalties. As for simplification, he promised only that the new system would not be more difficult to comprehend than the present one.

A typical low- or middle-income taxpayer is likely to encounter only three or four of the 150 penalties. For example, failing to file a return or to pay taxes owed can result in a penalty. A filing error caused by negligence can bring another. Fraud can mean still another.

In 1986, the IRS imposed 22.9 million penalties for $6.9 billion, but 49 percent of the dollar amount was wiped out, usually as a result of negotiations with taxpayers.

For the IRS, the biggest problem is with informational returns, such as the requirement that employers and financial institutions file reports of wages or interest paid. About 6 million payers send the IRS 1 billion documents. Failing to include the correct Social Security number or filing the documents late can result in a penalty on the payer of $50 per document

The group also proposed that a person who is entitled to a refund be subject to a $100 penalty for failing to file a return. Apparently, many taxpayers in that category now do not file.

Racism as seen by Rome

Virtually everywhere the Vatican looked on the face of the globe, it found racism. In its relatively short commentary on this pervasive human failing, the Pontifical Commission for Peace and Justice singled out for special attention the institutional racism found in the constitution and laws of South Africa, as well as anti-Semitism cloaked as anti-Zionism. Both deserve the Vatican's denunciation because each in its own way provides the underpinning for social, political and economic injustice.

"The Church and Racism" acknowledges failure by church leaders and its members over the years to stand up against racism as well as they should. It also emphasized the church's record of opposition to discrimination.

Regardless of one's interpretation of the church's history as it pertains to racism and discrimination throughout history, the important thing today is that the Vatican has spoken out forcefully against major forms of racism. The report contains instructive material for Catholics and non-Catholics alike.

In its comments on South African racism, perhaps the most perceptive point is that the situation "carries within it the seed of racist reflexes on the part of the oppressed, which would be as unacceptable as those of which they are victim today." Racists should hardly be surprised if they find themselves the object of racial hatred.

Referring to so-called anti-Zionism, the Vatican report again was quite perceptive. The rising anti-Semitism in many parts of the world has sometimes been traced to reactions to Israeli policies against the Palestinians. But, said the Vatican report, anti-Zionism "serves as a screen for anti-Semitism, feeding on it and leading to it." The distinction is worth noting, and is all too often ignored by those who would have their bigotry excused.

U.S. office ignores harassment charges

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON - For five years, a Census Bureau employee has tried to force the agency to discipline her boss. Today, she still works for the man who she says sexually harassed her.

The story of Evelyn Hudson will sound familiar to anyone who has ever fended off the boss's advances

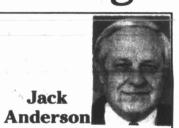

A federal investigator examined Hudson's charges in 1987. More than a dozen Census Bureau women were interviewed. At least 10 said that Robert Bartram, the director of the International Statistical Programs Center, had never bothered them. But Hudson and another bureau employee claimed they had been sexually harassed by Bartram, and two other women said he had made passes at them.

The investigator was told by a Census staffer that Bartram offered to arrange a part-time work schedule for a typist in exchange for sexual favors. Another staffer claimed that Bartram made suggestive comments about her clothing and body and that, on a business trip to Las Vegas, he asked her to spend the night in his room. One woman claimed Bartram tried to kiss her and that she had asked a friend to stay late so she would not be stranded with Bartram when she held an office party at her home.

Census Rureau Director John Keane reviewed the women's affidavits and concluded that Bartram had used "very, very poor udgement." But Keane decided Bartram was not guilty of sexually harassing anyone. Now Hudson fears her job as coordinator of travel for the Census Bureau is in jeopardy because she spoke up.

Hudson began speaking up five years ago. In her affidavit given to the federal investigator, Hudson claimed that in 1984 Bartram visited her home, uninvited, after watching two Washington Redskins games. Hudson claims she fought off his attempted hugs and kisses

The Hudson affidavit, and others, say that she reported the advances to her supervisors, but that Bartram's boss ignored the Hudson claims that after she threw cold water on Bartram's alleged ardor, she was passed up for what had been a certain promotion. Affidavits from Hudson and her former supervisor maintain that Bartram spread complaints about her work.

In the spring of 1987, Bartram told Hudson she would be transferred to another department. That's when she hired a powerful Maryland attorney to fight for her career, which for 26 years at the bureau had been exemplary. It was the prodding of the lawyer, not the complaints of the woman, that got the government to investigate the Bartram told our associate Jim Lynch: "An investigation was held by the proper authorities. They did not charge me with sexual harassment. Therefore, I was obviously never punished in any way. This matter is closed and I refuse to deal with it any further."

Hudson's story rang a bipartisan alarm in Congress. Jim Phillips, a staff investigator for Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, on the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, said he considers Hudson's case to be the "most blatant example of sexual harassment I have ever seen documented."

The Hudson case is a microcosm of the problems federal workers face when they complain of sexual harassment. A recent study by the Office of Personnel Management revealed that 42 percent of the women surveyed claimed they had been sexually harassed in the federal workplace in the past two years. Of the women who felt strongly enough to file formal complaints, the majority said they regretted it, according to the survey. It takes an average of 421 days for a complaint to be investigated and the report rarely sides with the employee who complained.

"He said I shouldn't have written about Jimmy Swaggart because Swaggart is a man of Jesus." That's the kind of thing you like to hear before you've had your first cup of coffee.

The Salman Rushdie novel "The Satanic Verses" has awakened the kooks of the Moslem religion to violent thoughts and actions. Art Harris has had only a few phone calls, but he is, in fact, going through a period that is at least kin to the Rushdie episode.

Art Harris is the guy who nailed Jimmy Swaggart.

As a reporter for The Washington Post he was dispatched to South Carolina to cover the Jim and Tammy Bakker saga. There, his digging chronicled Jim Bakker's lavish lifestyle, financial excesses and alleged secret bisexual life. He was also the first to report that Jessica Hahn, the scarlet woman in the Bakker affair, was more vixen than victim.

After Jimmy Swaggart's teary confession of unspecified moral failure last year, Art Harris' research led him to New Orleans where he tracked down the prostitute who said evangelist Swag-gart had paid her to act out various sexual fantasies. He wrote that story as thouse as well. That has led to the telephone calls and the threat of a megamillion dollar libel suit Swaggart has filed against Harris and Penthouse. Art Harris can't say a lot about the case, but he does say of the New Orleans stripper, "I believe her story. Otherwise I wouldn't have written it."

The Ayatollah Khomeini has called Salman Rushdie a blasphemer. Jimmy Swaggart and his people are referring to Art Harris as a "porno writer."

Art Harris is simply a reporter who got hold of a story and wouldn't let it go.

"What people must understand," he says, "is televangelism isn't just about saving souls. It's about ratings and market shares. It's a billion-dollar industry.'

Art Harris' work has hit the Swaggart people square in their pocketbooks. Before Art Harris, Jimmy Swaggart had the number one television preacher show. After Art Harris, Swaggart has fallen to No. 3, and that's saved a lot of old people and ignorant people a great deal of money. Those who continue to support Swaggart should realize it's their money that is going to pay for Swaggart's legal fees in the Salman Rushdie had every right to author his book. If it offends you, don't read it. The same for the producers of the movie "The Last Temptation of Christ." If it offends you don't go see it.

Art Harris isn't a porno writer. He has a wife and two small children and he is a serious journalist. I've know him for 15 years. We worked together in the features department of the Atlanta Constitution. I once assigned him a story on the city's pigeons. He thought I was crazy, but he did the story anyway and it was probably the best story ever written on city pigeons.

sacrifice too many

By KAREN McCARTHY Staff Writer

I've lived for 24 years with a deaf person — my son, Mike.

Life has gotten complicated sometimes. We learned to sign together, a feat which took years and one at which I am, even now, sometimes embarrassingly inept.

But, like most people who live together for any length of time, he usually knows what I mean, just as I can guess what he means, even if I miss a word.

For most of his life Mike did not live at home during the school year. Like many deaf children, he went away to the state deaf school, so when he came home on weekends and holidays, he was more of a guest than a family

But Mike has never let being deaf keep him from doing anything he wanted to do. He has always been very independent and the fact that he is deaf is not the major thing people think of when they are with

There are some minor obstacles, of course, that are hard to overcome. With a telecommunication device for the deaf, or TDD, he can talk on the phone, but the catch is that both parties have to have one. He can't call me at work, for instance, because there is no TDD at the Herald, so if he wants something immediately, he has to drive downtown to see me.

If someone knocks at the door, unless he notices the dogs rushing past to bark, he doesn't realize anyone is there. Since we live at the Humane Society and have a lot of people coming on animal business, know people have probably seen Mike in the house and gotten irritated that he ignored them.

But these are minor inconveniences that we try to anticipate or work around. His deafness rarely caused major problems, until recently

We got our first television set when we moved to Big Spring three years ago. We had lived in the country, too far in the hills of southern Ohio to get good reception, and on a farm there was never much time for television anyway. But Mike enjoys TV, especially the sports shows, so I bought one. It has a remote control so we can sit across the room and flick a switch to change channels or adjust the volume, which always seemed to me to be the epitome of modern technology. Mike learned immediately how to mute the sound when he was watching by himself so I would not have to listen to what seemed to be non-stop sports. My daughter loved having a television and even I had a few favorite shows I watched when I could.

Then, this Christmas, I bought Mike a closed captioned decoder. This is a box that picks up a written translation of everything that is said on those shows that are captioned. This meant that Mike could watch a show and know what was going on without having either his sister or I interpret it for him. It was a real convenience for Mike, but it came with it's own remote So Mike had two remote controls to flick. That was a small price to pay for such a remarkable invention and he learned to work both of them together. It didn't affect me too much because he turned the decoder off when he wasn't But the cable-ready television and the decoder didn't work on any channel above 12. That meant no Showtime. So we took the decoder down to Larson Lloyd at the cable company and he played with it for awhile and finally determined that we needed a cable box

Guess what? The cable box came with a remote control, too. We now have three remote controls to watch one television set and none of them function independently.

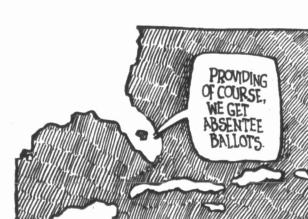

I had a rare free hour at home alone the other night and I thought I would watch television. By the time I had played with all three remote controls for a full 45 minutes I had lost any interest in the TV set. I started out with one channel, with caption but no sound. I ended up with several channels worth of black screen and a very loud noise on all of them. There was no in-between

I have made many sacrifices for my children, like every mother does, but none have rankled so much as the loss of the television

Plane's crew presumed dead

HURLBURT FIELD, Fla. (AP) - Workers today were building a bridge so vehicles could get to the remote, swampy site of a jet cargo plane crash that presumably killed eight people, officials said.

Four bodies have been removed from the wreckage of the C-141B Starlifter plane that went down on military reservation in the Florida Panhandle, said Staff Sgt. Robert Pfenning, a spokesman at Norton Air Force Base at San Bernardino, Calif., where the plane departed panel today is to open an investigation of the Monday evening crash at the Eglin Air Force Base Reservation.

Meanwhile, a special Air Force

Air Force civil engineers worked through the night to build a half-mile dirt road to the site.

The swampy terrain, thick brush and a series of thunderstorms Tuesday hampered rescue and recovery efforts. Helicopters, bulldozers and bridge-building equipment were used.

The plane went down about four miles north of Hurlburt during its final approach. No cause has been determined for the crash.

Boat owner fights one-man war

MIAMI (AP) — An unhappy boat owner is going to unusual heights in his one-man war against a Washington-state boat maker

"Want trouble? Buy my Tollycraft!" reads a giant sign pulled by a plane over the Miami Boat Show every afternoon since last Wednesday.

Henry A. Leonard is paying $3,000 to fly the sign for a week in his latest effort to get the Tollycraft company to reimburse him for his 34-foot boat, which he claims has a defective hull.

Leonard, a commercial property appraiser from Tarrytown, N.Y., also has been at dockside wearing a T-shirt that says "My Tollycraft is garbage" and handing out a flier that says "My Tollycraft is a lemon.

He says he has spent between $25,000 and $30,000 at boat shows in three states and in legal fees on a pending New York lawsuit in which he seeks about $180,000 in reimbursement for what he claims to have spent on the boat.

"I don't care how much it costs if I can stop one person from being hurt," he said.

Tollycraft representatives declined comment on Leonard but the company has responded with its own campaign after failing to get a federal judge in New York to stop Leonard's on grounds it is defamatory.

A flier prepared by Tollycraft's attorney accuses Leonard of trying to coerce the company into meeting his outrageous demands.

According to the flier, Leonard has refused to allow the company to fix the problem and has sued demanding that it "refund his purchase price, plus every penny he has ever spent on the boat. Yugoslavia prayers for rain, Argentina is rationing electricity and reservoirs in the United States are dropping as seemingly unrelated weather in several regions of the world has led to drought

Spain

The problem is critical in southern Europe, where about 25 percent of the normal amount of rain has fallen since Dec. 1, and in the South American countries of Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay, officials say.

In northwestern Spain, drinking wells have dried up in some towns in Galicia and potable water has had to be brought in by truck. Water is being rationed in other towns in the region. Weather records in Oviedo, the capital of Asturias, show it's the worst drought since 1876.

Electricity in Buenos Aires is shut off for up to three hours a day in different sections of the capital because river levels are too low for hydroelectric plants to operate at full power

In the United States, the Agriculture Department's chief meteorologist, Norton Strommen, said a recurrence of last year's severe drought is unlikely. However, the Northeast coast has had a dry winter and officials in New York and Boston are worrying about water shortages.

Extremely dry weather has also Africa."

(AP) Italian priests are leading hit southern Florida, and water usage is being restricted in several towns along the Gulf of Mexico. Sévere to extreme drought conditions are also persisting in large sections of the country's Midwest and West, turning the winter wheat crop yellow in some areas.

Below 50% of normal precipitation

Peter Newhouse, a cereal crop expert at the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization in Rome, said the agency is worried the droughts will hurt the world's grain production.

"This year is crucial more than any other year because poor crop production in the last two years has brought stock levels down nearly to those of the world food crisis in the early 1970s. An unprecedented 200 million tons are needed to re-build stocks to the minimum levels needed for global food security,' Newhouse said.

Most of Africa, where large regions are perennially parched, is enjoying a relatively wet year, however, with replenishing rains falling even in the normally dry Sahel region south of the Sahara

"Africa has been, for the most part, pretty good," says Dave Miskus, a meteorologist with the U.S. Climate Analysis Center in Washington, D.C. "The only really dry area has been southern Zimbabwe and northeastern South

Security intensifies in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) - Security checks intensified today after the discovery of two projectiles on launchers aimed at the runway of a Tokyo airport where dignitaries have begun arriving for Emperor Hirohito's funeral, officials said.

An unprecedented number of foreign dignitaries are streaming into Japan for Friday's state funeral for Hirohito, which radical groups have threatened to

On Tuesday, police discovered timers set on two mortar-like projectiles on explosive-charged launchers aimed at the runway at Narita airport. Police would not disclose when the projectiles were set for launching.

As a result, authorities stepped up security at Narita and Haneda airports, where 71 foreign delegations were to arrive today.

In all, dignitaries representing 163 countries were expected for the funeral, including President Bush, who arrives Thursday.

The launchers apparently were set by radicals.

Khomeini attacks liberals in Iran

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iranian fundamentalist leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini lashed out today at what he called the liberals in the Islamic Republic's government, saying he would not cede his power to

"As long as I am here I will not let the government fall into the hands of the liberals," Khomeini was quoted as saying by Tehran Radio. He did not mention anyone by name.

The 88-year-old fundamentalist patriarch appeared to be seeking to quash efforts of those in the government who in the past two years have been seeking better ties with the West. Khomeini said people in the government were acting against

"At the beginning of the revolution we gave posts to people who were not totally with us in ideology and the bitter results of that are plainly evident," he was quoted as saying.

Khomeini did not elaborate, but since the Aug. 20 cease-fire in the eight-year Iran-Iraq war there have been increasingly open, bitter feuding between the pragmatists and hard-line elements in the Iranian government

Ship sinks, no survivors found

LONDON (AP) - Royal Air Force rescue aircraft battled stiff winds and rough seas to search for the 17 crew members of a cargo ship that sank early today in the Atlantic Ocean about 350 miles west of Scotland, the coast guard said.

Lifeboats were lowered from the Panamanian-registered Secil Angola just before it sank at 7:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. EST), but the first aircraft on the scene reported no sign of survivors, said coast guard spokesman John Griffiths.

The crew members' nationalities were not immediately known, he said.

"Weather conditions are making it difficult to spot exactly what's going on," said Griffiths, a district staff officer in Clyde,

He said winds in the area were about 45 mph and waves were 20 feet high.

Griffiths said the 2,625-ton Secil Angola was transporting salt from Spain to Iceland when it lost its forward hatch coverings and started taking on water. He said the ship's captain sent a last dramatic message: "There is great danger. Helicopters please hurry.' An RAF Nimrod maritime reconaissance aircraft, the first on the scene, reported the stricken vessel was awash - just above the surface of the water at 7:20 a.m., said Griffiths.

Minutes later the pilot reported radio contact has been lost, the ship had turned on its side and Griffiths said the Nimrod dropped three life rafts and other rescue equipment onto the water.

Authors, press, heads of state condemn Khomeini for threats

Boorstin, a former Librarian of Congress.

Outrage at Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's call for Moslems to kill novelist Salman Rushdie spread with authors, an international press institute and President Bush all declaring it an insult to the civilized world. Today, in an indication of possible domestic objection to Khomeini's order, the 88-year-old fundamentalist patriarch vowed not to let the Islamic Republic's government "fall into the hands of the liberals."

Iranian leaders who have begun courting the West are "not totally with us in ideology," Tehran Radio quoted him as saying. Khomeini did not name names.

Literary figures including American authors Norman Mailer, Susan Sontag and William Styron expressed indignation at Khomeini's threat and at decisions not to publish or sell Rushdie's "The Satanic Verses.'

"It isn't censorship we're taking about. It's fear and terrorism. It's the example that was set," Mailer said Tuesday night. "I think it was shameful for a major book chain to pull a book because of succumbing to threats.'

Major U.S. bookselling chains such as Waldenbooks, B. Dalton and Barnes & Noble and booksellers in Japan have withdrawn the book from their shelves, citing threats.

That has left only independent bookstores to continue to stock the novel that many Moslems consider sacrilegious.

Despite the controversy, the book will debut as No. 2 on The New York Times Book Review's bestselling hardcover fiction list in the March 5 issue, the Times said today.

The paper ran a full-page ad today by the Association of American Publishers, the American Booksellers Assocation and the American Library Association that says: "Free people write books, free people publish books, free people buy books, free people read

Many Moslems say "The Satanic Verses" is sacrilegious because it casts doubt on central tenets of the Islamic faith. The book, for example, portrays the prophet Mohammed's wives as prostitutes and suggests he wrote the Koran, the holy book of Islam, rather than receiving it from God. "I think the best form of protest is to patronize those who are selling the book and to remember the places that have failed to make accessible to us the works that are forbidden by terrorists," said historian Daniel Boorstin, a former Librarian of Congress. He and Mailer spoke on ABC-TV's Nightline show.

Publishers in France, West Germany, Greece and Turkey have canceled plans to publish the book, whose author was born a Moslem in India and is a naturalized British citizen. "The Satanic Verses" has been banned by at least seven countries, including India, Pakistan and Egypt. No matter how offensive Rushdie's book may be to Moslems, "inciting murder and offering rewards for its perpetration are deeply offensive to the norms of civilized behavior," Bush said Tuesday.

Khomeini issued the death decree — which also applies to the book's publishers — eight days ago and Iranian clerics offered up to $5.2 million in bounties for Rushdie's death.

In London, the 2,000-member International Press Institute voys from Tehran for deplored the threats as "a gross violation of civilized standards on the right of life and the right to freedom of expression.

In Ottawa, Foreign Minister Joe Clark said Tuesday that Canada was withdrawing its charge d'affaires from Tehran for consultations.

Revenue Minister Otto Jelinek, who made the decision not to ban "The Satanic Verses" in Canada, said he was under police guard after receiving death threats.

Postpartum blues may become serious

By NYU MEDICAL CENTER

So many new mothers experience some sadness and apprehension about the responsibility of caring for their babies that these feelings cannot be considered abnormal.

However, in some instances postpartum depression can develop, which can become a serious problem, according to a psychiatrist at New York University Medical Center.

"At least half of all new mothers experience some signs of postpartum blues a few days after delivery," said Helen DeRosis, M.D., associate clinical professor of psychiatry at the Medical

"The feelings may be aggravated by a nonexistent or weakened support system." DeRosis observed. "The husband has to go back to work, other helpers and family members leave, and the woman is alone with an overwhelming and seemingly endless responsibility." Hormonal factors associated with childbirth may also affect mood.

An article in an upcoming issue of the New York University Medical Center Health Letter explains that the typical "baby blues" usually disappear within two weeks and need no treatment other than emotional support from spouse and family.

"If these feelings last longer than three weeks and are not resolved, a major depression may be develop-DeRosis maintained

The setting of the Howard College play "Buyin' Time," a Midwestern bar, and the play's central characters, laid-off factory workers, could lead one to anticipate a Sam Shepard-type drama.

Of course, "Buvin' Time" is not written by Shepard, but rather is an adaptation of an short story written by an Angelo State University

"Buyin' Time," unlike the better work of Shepard, for example, does not feature a central theme from which various levels of meaning reverberate.

In this play what you see is what you get. The play begins with the central characters - a professor, and three laid-off factory workers — discussing the pains of unemployment. Two of the former factory workers, Sonny and Max, quickly express drastically different viewpoints.

Sonny, a not-too-bright macho sort. exclaims that he wouldn't return to his factory job even if the company wanted him back

"I ain't gonna die a factory rat the way my old man did, no way," he

Max, one of the bar's more introspective patrons, is obviously not as comfortable with unemployment as is Sonny. And when Sonny uses the fact that Max must rely on his wife for financial support as ammunition in an argument, the two become openly hostile.

Also during Scene I of the one-act play, Jack, the third unemployed worker, is introduced. Jack is shown as ambivilent about his situation and faced with dealing with the demands of Darlene who wants him to enroll in school, rather than mope at the bar. In Scene II, the action moves to the living room of Max and Margaret. Max tells his wife of his loss of selfrespect as a result of his unemployment, and Margaret assures him of her faith in him.

"It may be a cliche," she says. "But when I married you 20 years ago it was for better or worse.'

Margaret adds that the couple still has their dreams, but Max responds, saying, "I can't think of that now. I can only think about surviving."

Act III takes place at the bar, where the patrons watch a TV newscast featuring a story about a young man, an heir to a family fortune, who commits suicide by leaping

The patrons, bartender and waitress discuss the incident and talk about the young man who died. The man's father was dying of cancer, they say, and he would have soon inherited his fortune. However the young man apparently did not want to enter the family business, despite the pressure on him to do so.

Max, who has sullenly entered the bar and not participated in the conversation, eventually says he witnessed the suicide. He explains that he empathized with the young

"I was yelling inside. . .," he said. "I felt his pain.

However, Sonny can't begin to understand why the young man would take his own life.

As is often the case with student creative writing efforts, "Buyin' Time" suffers from the fact that character development and theme have been sacrificed to drive home a

The message the play tries to impart by contrasting the suicide against the workers' situation is: "Hey, You think you've got it bad. Things aren't always as bad as they may appear. Keep trying to achieve your dreams."

But shackled to this end, the play's narrative bogs down.

The average theatregoer - this writer included - attends a play to aren't we?'

witness the telling of a story, one that preferably is interesting, as well as entertaining and/or enlightening.

To adequately tell such a story, obviously the central characters must be developed. But despite the play's message of hold on to your dreams, the audience is never made aware of just what dreams these characters have embraced.

Margaret mentions that she and Max dream of moving to Florida, but nothing is explained concerning their aspirations.

Scene II, apparently designed to develop characters of Margaret and Max, is riddled with cliches. At its close the audience has learned little about who these people are.

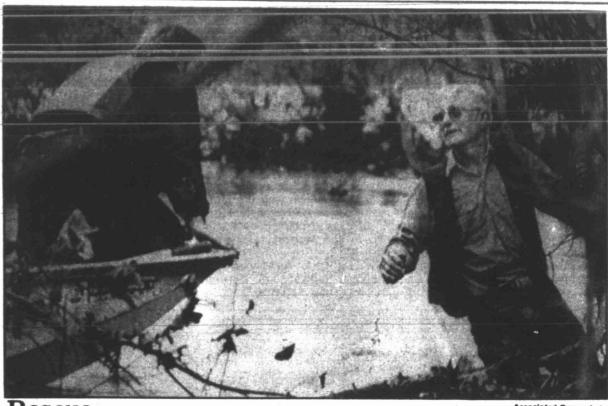

As for the other characters we learn even less about them. The professor, who fittingly is not mentioned by first name, fits the stereotype of the smug, literary-quote-spewing academic, and Sonny serves as the classic macho, know-nothing bar

As for Jack, the third laid off worker, he could be eliminated from the play without changing its

This is not to say the play suffered from bad acting. The Howard College actors, for the most part, performed competently considering the inherent limitations of the material.

And director Bill Doll obviously had his actors well prepared; this wasn't a production thrown together haphazardly.

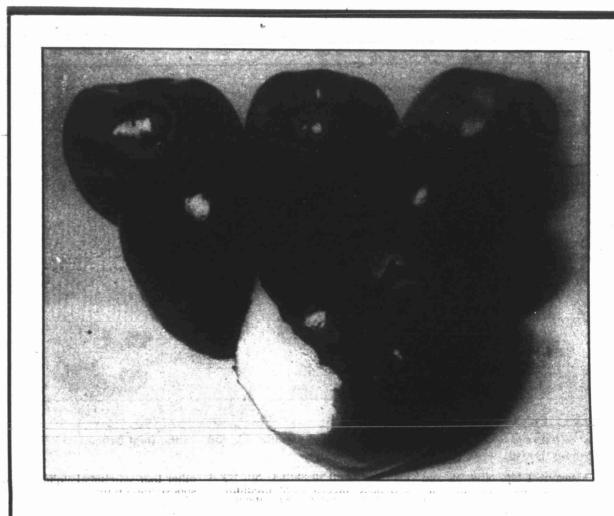

But ball and chained to portraying a pat "message" that prohibits the play from kicking into gear, the actors are not able to achieve their potential. As Margaret says in Scene II, "We're really full of cliches today,

Touch of America found in the middle of Paris

PARIS (AP) — In the heart of Paris, home of fantastic foie gras and sublime sauces, Americans can satfisy an urge for pumpkin pie, peanut butter, creamed corn and even Cheerios But The General Store is more than just a kitchen away from home for expatriates. Its operators, Jean-Pierre and Elaine Bourbeillon, say it is increasingly popular with the French, who are developing a taste for American food.

Bourbeillon is French and his wife is from New Zealand, but they know a lot about cranberry sauce, chocolate chip cookies, taco shells and molasses

They got hooked on American fare when Jean-Pierre was a commodities trader in the United States from 1976 to 1984

"The European idea of American food is built on preconceived notions and prejudices, mostly developed from lack of knowledge and being exposed to the fast-food craze," Bourbeillon, 46, said recently as he served customers. "There is more to American food than burgers and hot dogs.' When the Bourbeillons returned to France from Boston, they made a list of foods, "a good representative idea of what America has to offer, regional products like maple syrup and clam chowder from the Northeast and Tex-Mex from the Southwest," he said They opened the store three years ago, and their clientele is split evenly between Americans and the French.

"There has always been a lovehate relationship with the United States. The French have always had a tremendous fascination with anything American," Bourbeillon

A French woman, Francoise Roger, entered the store on a narrow Left Bank street for a look around, and bought a bottle of bleu cheese salad dressing and a jar of blueberry chutney.

"I'm curious about the tastes of other countries," she said. "Today, I'm concentrating on typical American tastes. I'm here looking for sauces.

Many customers come for the fresh brownies, cookies and pies Elaine bakes daily.

"In the beginning, we got a lot of press like we were some oddball operation, selling California wine to the French," Bourbeillon said. 'But the French have moved from a kind of amused interest to a genuine liking for American food. "And there are other trends. The French are taking to brunches and are starting to like making pancakes, or having a chili dinner for 20. It's becoming an accepted thing to do, at least in Paris.'

Said Mrs. Bourbeillon: "It is a change in attitude and a new way of life. I don't think it's a passing trend. It is an evolution."

Talk about a long time coming. If you don't think Big Spring hasn't been thirsty for a district basketball championship, you need to have your head examined.

It's been 31 years since the Steers have laid claim to a district basketball title. According to my sources, a tall lad by the name of Jan Laudermilk led the Steers to the crown

Laudermilk set a District 2-4A scoring record, averaging 21 points per game. The Steers went 22-6 and 7-1 in league play. Their only conference defeat was a 4-53 setback to second place Odessa

And if you don't think basketball championships at BSHS have been hard to come by, the last district championship before that was in 1930.

In '58 the members of this year's chamionship team's parents were probably in junior high or igh school. Steers coach Boyce Paxton was just a young

My, how the times have changed. Now players wear their jerseys untucked, there areno more canvass sneakers, and the dunk is legal.

I didn't give this year's Steers' team much chance of winning anything. Coach Paxton lost his franchise — Brian Mayfield — to graduation, and had only two returning starters. Of Paxton's three years at Big Spring, this was the least talented team, I thought.

But Paxton, with his high hopes and hyper demeanor, proved me wrong. All along, he kept telling me his team had a chance to make the playoffs, and I sarcastically thought, 'Yeah, right.'

thought, 'Yeah, right.'

But this year's Steers' team was different from the first two Paxton had. This group is a unit; they work as one. There is no turmoil on this team, no jealousy and no

The credit to Paxton dates back to when he first arrived in Big Spring. He was intent on emphasising basketball at the high school. He got young men into the program and encouraged them to play as much as possible. On most summer evenings, one can find the gym open, thanks to Paxton and Lady Steers' coach C.E. Carmichael.

To really appreciate that, one would have to live in a community where a coach wouldn't take the time to open the gym for his athletes to play. Such was the case where T I don't know blow many times there were when we wanted to go play basketball, and didn't have a place to

This says a lot for the Big Spring High School Athletic Directors. Too may times, schools in West Texas schools forget basketball and apply all their attention to football -

West Texas' sport. There are some schools that don't even have offseason basketball programs.

Basketball is now alive and well in the Spring City. Attendance at basketball games has grown considerably during the past four years.

This season has been a blast for me. Coach Paxton and his team has instilled in me that there can be a basketball craze in Big Spring.

And I think I express the view of the sports fans in Big Spring. Thanks fellows, hopefully the best is yet to come.

It's been a long wait Hawks blast Pioneers

Howard College batters continued their early-season onslaught, and the Hawks swept the final two games of their series with Brookhaven Institute, downing the Pioneers 16-1, 14-7, in a doubleheader at Jack Barber Field

The Hawks improved their record to 8-0 with the victories. First game

Howard pitchers Cory Zelinski and Bailey Deeds combined for a one-hitter, and Howard batters continued their early-season onslaught as the Hawks blasted the Brookhaven Pioneers, 16-1, in the first game.

The Hawks scored in every inning of the game, which was shortened to five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Starting pitcher Zelinski pitched three innings of no-hit ball to notch his second victory of the season against no losses. He struck out three and walked two. Deeds pitched two innings, allowing one hit and a run while striking out two and walking three.

"Cory did a pretty good job," HC assistant coach Frank Anderson said. "Bailey came in and was shaky at first, but got over it. It was his first time to pitch this spring . . . It's nice to go out with a 13-0 lead."

Zelinski didn't allow a Brookhaven runner past first base, but Pioneer starter Brett McIntire wasn't as fortunate. He was charged with 16 runs on 11 hits, struck out two and walked three in losing his first decision of the year.

Howard jumped on the Brookhaven starter immediately. Leadoff hitter Jose Rubiera beat out a drag bunt for a hit, then scored when David Wallace ripped a double to right center field.

After Darrin Glenn walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch, himself on an error and wild pitch.

designated hitter Gerry Camera hit a sharp grounder that Pioneer third baseman Rich Barroso threw away. The error scored Glenn, giving the Hawks a 3-0 lead after one

The Hawks picked up where they left off the next inning. Brian Betancourt led off with a triple, then scored when Jay Williams beat out an infield hit.

Williams went to third on Rubiera's double, then scored when Wallace flied out to right. Glenn rapped a single to left field, scoring Rubiera, then scored the third. Leadoff hitter Paul Spyhalski walked, then went to third on Betancourt's single. Barroso then committed another throwing error, which scored Spyhalski and advanced Betancourt to third.

Rubiera then hit his second double of the contest, which plated Betancourt and Williams. After Wallace grounded out, Glenn sent Rubiera home with a triple to deep center. Camera then was hit by a pitch and Michael Bard flied out to center, scoring Glenn.

Betancourt drove in the last run

Howard's biggest inning came in of the inning when he hit into a fielder's choice that scored Camera. By the time Williams hit a grounder for the final out, Howard had increased its lead to 13-0.

The Hawks added three insurance runs in the fourth, and then Deeds retired the side in the top of the fifth to secure the win.

First quarter dooms Lady Buffs

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

SWEETWATER — A poor first quarter was too much for the Stan-ton Lady Buffalos to overcome as they dropped a 56-47 decision to the Hawley Lady Bearcats in AA area basketball playoff action Tuesday

The Lady Buffs fell behind 15-6 after one quarter of play, and couldn't catch up to the Lady Bearcats. Good shooting and strong rebounding led to the Bearcats' first quarter domination.

Hawley hit its first four baskets of the game on the way to making six of 13 field goals in the first quarter. Stanton made just three of 11 attempts, two by Kelli Glaspie. Led by the boardwork of Anna Moore, Tracy Edmunds and Marla Beasley, the Lady Bearcats totally dominated the boards in the early

"After the first quarter we played on even terms," said Young. "All my kids played well; they played hard. We played a team that was bigger and faster than we were. In the first quarter we didn't shoot and run our offense well. They were moving and finding the open man.

"When you get into the playoffs you have to play four quarters.

But Hawley compensated for their turnovers by running a patient offense, led by point guard April Moore. The Bearcats shot 61 percent from the floor, compared to 35 percent for Stanton.

The 5-5 Moore had an exceptional game, finishing with 14 points, 10 assists and seven rebounds. Most of her assists went to forwards Marla Beasley, Anna Moore (no relation to April) and Tracy Edmunds. Beasley, a 5-10 sophomore, scored 14 points.

Stanton couldn't make up any

Kaki Elmore picked up the scoring slack for Stanton in the second half as the Lady Buffs made a couple of serious runs at Hawley. Elmore, a 5-9 senior post player, scored all of her 14 points in the second half, after suffering a 0-for-7 shooting performance in the first Stanton made its last run early in the final quarter. Karen Graves hit a long set shot and Elmore made two free throws, cutting the deficit to 44-35. Next Hawley made backto-back turnovers, but the Lady Buffs failed to convert.

Joyners a class act in track and field world

BY BERT ROSENTHAL AP Track Writer

"If we should lose, let it be by the code, and cheer as the winners go by, because one day you may be a winner and they'll cheer for you." - Arthur Marshall, track and field coach at East St. Louis (Ill.) High

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Joyner remembers those words well from his former coach, and both he and his wife, Florence Griffith Joyner, have learned to play "by the code" and become Olympic

They are the only husband and wife team from the United States to win Olympic gold medals in track and field — and only the third such couple in the sport's history.

The others were Czechoslovakians Emil Zatopek and Dana Zatopekova, and American Harold Connolly and his Czech-born wife Olga Fikotova Connolly. Zatopek won the men's 10,000 meters in 1948 and the 5,000 meters and marathon in 1952, while his wife won the javelin gold in 1952. For the now-separated Connollys, Harold won the hammer throw and his wife took the discus, both at the 1956 Games in Melbourne, Australia, where they three golds and one silver. During the 1988 Games and since then, there have been accusations, including those by track and field competitors Joaquim Cruz of Brazil and Carl Lewis, accusing Griffith Joyner of having used performance-enhancing drugs.

Both Joyners denied the accusations Tuesday, calling the charges "petty jealousy.

"I don't use drugs, I never have and I don't believe in them," the usually calm Griffith Joyner said

"For athletes to accuse people because of certain achievements is wrong," Al Joyner said, also in an unaccustomed testy voice. "We have nothing to hide.

Griffith Joyner said she "would be willing to be tested every day,' while Dr. LeRoy Walker, the former president of The Athletics Congress, the national governing body for track and field, said the Joyners and Lewis were among several U.S. athletes who have said "they would be willing to be tested every week.'

'They said, 'You don't even have to tell me when you're coming,' Walker said.

Walker compared the drug problem to counterfeiting.

"You won't get it all out of the way," he said, noting, however, that big steps were taken in that directly recently, with the U.S., the Soviet Union and East German federations agreeing to year-long, drug-testing programs. But Walker indicated that such a program would help keep the sport cleaner.

Griffith Joyner said she was in favor of anything "that would help the sport get rid of false accusations.

Al Joyner called "great" the disqualification of Ben Johnson, after the Canadian tested positive for anabolic steriods following his first-place finish in the men's Olympic 100-meter dash in worldrecord time.

Wall holds off Reagan County rally

Staff Writer

The Wall Lady Hawks muscled their way to a 20-point lead after three quarters, then had to hang on by their fingernails to escape with a 45-43 win over the Reagan County Owls in Class 2A area playoff action at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Tuesday

The Lady Hawks, champions of District 8-2A, were led by Kathy Halimann with 12 points, and Kathy Ullrich and Tobi Cook, who scored 11 points each.

Using their superior height to good advantage, the Lady Hawks dominated the boards en route to a 40-20 lead after three quarters. They were inadvertantly aided by poor Reagan County shooting in the second and third quarters; the Owls tallied but five points in each period.

But the two teams reversed roles in the final eight minutes. Wall managed just five points in the last quarter, while Reagan County exploded for 23.

A factor in the Owls' comback was foul touble to Lady Hawks' starters. Halfmann, Melissa Multer and Ullrich all fouled out during the crucial fourth quarter.

Trailing 43-26, the Reagan County's fullcourt press finally began taking its toll on the Lady Hawks and, with 2:03 remaining, the Owls had cut the deficit

After the game, Reagan County coach Ron Taylor said the rally was simply a matter of the Owls executing their game plan.

"We've got a lot of pride," Taylor added. "We're not going to lay down and die for anybody. To come back against a team like that tells us we've got a lot of class, also." Wall coach Jerry Chitsey said

"We missed a couple of opportunities, and then we lost a couple of people we didn't need to foul out," he said.

By The Associated Press When baseball teams head to spring training, it's time to check not only the bats, balls and gloves, but also the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Ramon Martinez and Gilberto Reves of the Los Angeles Dodgers solved their visa problems Tuesday and are expected to report to Vero Beach, Fla., Thursday. Martinez, a pitcher, and Reyes, a catcher, are in the Dominican Republic awaiting their papers. The Oakland Athletics also are waiting.

Three other Dominican players - outfielders Luis Polonia, Stan Javier and Felix Jose - are missing from the Athletics' camp because of visa problems. The A's applied for the visas on Feb. 1 but were told by the IMS that the visas might not come through until late

Three players - Dave Parker, Mark McGwire and Glenn Hubbard - were among the early arrivals at the Athletics' spring training camp. Also on hand was third baseman Scott Hemond, Oakland's first-round draft choice in 1986.

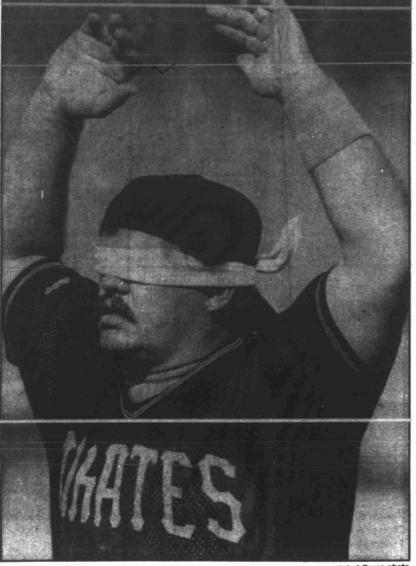

Two players settled contract disputes Tuesday: Mike Greenwell of the Boston Red Sox and Kevin Seitzer of the Kansas City Royals.

Greenwell agreed to a two-year contract worth $1.725 million, ending more than a month of negotiations

Greenwell will get $500,000 this year and $1.225 million in 1990. In addition, he would get a $100,000 for winning the American League MVP, $75,000 for finishing second in the voting and $50,000 for finishing third.

He earned $205,000 in base salary last year plus $100,000 in bonuses. Seitzer, who finished second to Oakland's Mark McGwire in the 1987 AL Rookie of the Year voting, agreed to a one-year deal for $340,000, a raise of $165,000.

Supersonics make sweep of Celtics

By The Associated Press It's payback time for many of those teams who spent most of the decade being thrashed by the Boston Celtics.

On Tuesday night, it was Seattle's turn as the SuperSonics swept the season series from the Celtics for the first time since 1981-82 with a 96-91 victory.

"To beat Boston twice in the same season is a premium, to beat them in the Garden was the biggest game for a lot of our careers." 8 Seattle guard Nate McMillan.

Seattle, which won 89-87 at Boston Garden on Feb. 5, held the Celtics to 19 points in the fourth quarter, while Derrick McKey scored 12 in the period, half of the Sonics' total.

"The opportunities were there in the second half," said McKey, who was scoreless in the first half but finished with 19 points. "The shots weren't falling in the first half, so I made up my mind to take what the defense gave me in the second half."

"Derrick was wide open for the shot," said Dale Ellis, who led the Sonics with 30 points. "He hit some big shots down the stretch for us.

Dantley still hasn't reported

Game time is 8 p.m.

DALLAS (AP) — Would-be Maverick Adrian Dantley was talking to Dallas team officials early today by telephone, trying to work out an arrangement in which he would report to the team.

The Mavericks were scheduled to play in Denver tonight. Dantley, traded to Dallas from Detroit for Mark Aguirre last week, has missed two games since the swap, costing him $30,487.80 in lost Team officials worked with Dantley and his agent for four hours late Tuesday night trying to resolve the dispute. Dantley spoke privately to Mavericks owner Donald Carter twice during the session, a team spokesman said.

"We had a talk, it seemed to be a pretty good talk between the two of us," Dantley said in a statement released through the Mavericks.

Pacers trade unhappy forward

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Donnie Walsh, the head chemist of the Indiana Pacers, hopes he's found the formula that will finally bring some consistent victories to a long-struggling team.

Walsh, in his role as general manager of the team, said he needed to change the bad "chemistry" that has led to 11 straight losses and an abysmal 11-39 record this season.

What he did this week was unload unhappy forward Wayman Tisdale to Sacramento for forward-center LaSalle Thompson and guard Randy Wittman, then send forward Herb Williams packing to Dallas for forward Detlef Schrempf. Walsh also cut loose veteran guard John Long.

Book won't be published

NEW YORK (AP) — A book that detailed alleged improprieties by Coach Jim Valvano and the North Carolina State basketball program will not be printed the publisher said today because it did not meet its Pocket Books, a division of Simon & Schuster, said the decision not to proceed with publication of "Personal Fouls" was made after a review of the manuscript with Peter Golenbock, the author. Excerpts of the book, based on book jacket blurbs, were published in the News and Observer in Raleigh, N.C., last month.

The book, according to the jacket, alleged improper gifts to players and grade changes. It also alleged that a player deliberately lost N.C. State's first-round game in the 1987 NCAA tournament to avoid detec-

"It proves that the system does he said.

The Joyners and Walker made their comments at the Waldorf-Astoria, where Griffith Joyner received the 1989 Jesse Owens International Trophy Award for her magnificent accomplishments last

At the Seoul Olympics, she won gold medals in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes and the 400-meter relay, and a silver medal in the 1,600-meter relay. During the year, she also lowered the world record in the 100 from 10.76 seconds to 10.49 and the 200 mark from 21.71 to 21.34 In balloting by an international panel of judges, Griffith Joyner received 159 points to 85 for runnerup Steffi Graf, the West German star who won tennis' four major gold, and 83 for swimmer Matt Biondi, winner of seven Olympic medals five golds

Since the Games, the personable and photogenic Griffith Joyner has been besieged by commercial offers for her many interests, including movie and television acting, writing books and poetry, drawing, designing and modeling.

It has left her little time for training — she has not competed since the Olympics — and little time to ponder her achievements.

'We weren't looking for this," Joyner said of all the acclaim his wife has received. "We didn't expect her to become America's sweetheart.

'It hasn't yet hit her what's she's done ... what she's achieved. It'll probably hit her when she's 60 and in a rocking chair ... being the fastest woman in the world ... who can run 23 miles an hour.

"It's a dream come true."

Second game The Brookhaven bats finally awoke in the nightcap, and the Pioneers raced to a 6-1 lead after two innings, but all was for naught as the Hawks scored 13 runs in the middle innings to sweep the doubleheader

Howard starter Ruben Felix had a rocky outing, surrendering two runs in one inning of work. Reliever Dennis Jeagar relieved Felix in the second, but surrendered four additional runs. The pitchers were hampered by sloppy fielding by the Hawks in the early going. Dropped balls in the outfield led to five unearned Brookhaven runs. The Howard batters, meanwhile, had trouble with Pioneers' starter

Jeff Lightfoot until the third inning, when they touched him for three After Camera walked, Bill Alexander singled. Tim Demerson then followed with a three-run home run to get Howard back into the game. Howard pushed into the lead with a six-run fourth inning. Williams walked, Rubiera singled and Mike Hughes walked, loading the bases. Todd Kolbicka then delived a grandslam homer. Camera scored later in the inning on a wild pitch.

The Hawks added four runs in the fifth on a Betancourt solo homer, a RBI double by Camera and a two-run RBI double from Demerson. For the game, Demerson, a Lamesa native, was four-forfour with four RBIs and Kolbicka went two-for-four with five RBIs.

Jeager settled down after his shaky second inning to earn the win. He was aided by relievers Brett Tucker, who struck out five in two innings, and Greg Kroeger, who struck out "he side in the seventh.

The Hawks return to mey travel to Waco to take part in the McLennan Junior College Classic. Game times will be announced later.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)-An amazing new weight loss pill called 'fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.
You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising"

Flushes Fat Out of Body The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fatbonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and

Now Available to the Public If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Water is Tex-Pure's business — their only business

Tex-Pure Drinking Water Systems 1719 Gregg, is a specialty store. Their business - their only business — is reverse osmosis water and ice.

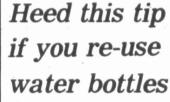

In their latest move to expand services, the company now operates the only commercial ice delivery routes in Big Spring — for restaurants, fast food outlets, hospitals and others on a regular or emergency basis. Emergency calls are handled 24 hours a day.

In addition Tex-Pure operates 18 ice merchandisers located at convenience stores, service stations and business firms which employ outside crews.

'We're a truly complete water says Ellouise Swinney, store," owner. "We handle anything connected with water or ice." She says Tex-Pure is the only locally-owned ice company.

Tex-Pure's services include water delivery to homes or business. "We come at the customer's convenience," says Swinney. "You don't have to wait for a 'regular delivery date.' When you need water, we deliver it. Our water comes sealed in sterilized containers."

For those who wish to pick up their water, Tex-Pure's staff fills the customer's containers and sells Ellouise Swinney reminds customers that when water goes through reverse osmosis, the chlorine is removed. Therefore, water bottles and dispensers and other containers should be sterilized periodically.

She suggests using one capful of bleach and a few drops of liquid detergent with a small amount of water. Swish around; then rinse well with city water.

This action disinfects the bottle and prevents the growth of algae. Your bottles will be fresh and sanitary for the next refill.

new bottles. Bagged iced is ready-to-go in 10- or 20-pound containers, or the staff will bag special orders in any size from five to 50 pounds. A welcome addition is "curb service" for elderly or infirm customers, or mothers with infants.

For those who take their water drinking seriously, Tex-Pure leases or sells and installs reverses osmosis systems for the home. Under the leasing arrangement, Tex-Pure handles all maintenance.

Oasis water dispensers for home or office are available for sale or rental, with cold, hot and/or tap (room temperature) water. Tap and hot water spigots are convenient for food preparation.

Customers can be confident that the water or ice they buy from Tex-Pure is the finest quality available, prepared under the most sanitary conditions, says Swinney.

Tex-Pure submits a sample of its water product each month to Howard County Health Department for testing at an independent laboratory in Midland.

Ice is manufactured and bagged under careful supervision.

"We think monthly testing of our product by an independent laboratory is the very best service we can provide to our customers,' says Swinney. "We can devote the time and attention necessary for a quality product because water services are our only business."

The company is home owned and operated by Ellouise and Don Swinney. The staff includes Ella Carrol, office manager, and Joe Chavez, service manager.

Pure Drinking Water Systems is a fullservice store providing reverse osmosis water and ice to individuals, homes and businesses. The firm will deliver its pro-

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD Staff Writer

"There was a lot of huggin'," says Larry Shaw, describing the sixth annual Valentine's Day din ner and reunion of Knott's oldtimers

The affair drew a number of Big Spring residents, according to Larry "More Knott oldtimers live in Big Spring now than in Knott," he says. "Everybody had a good time returning to where they grew up or used to live.

Bertie Shaw, JoAnne Pugh, Sue Robinson, Patty Schulke, Juanita Adams and Euline Jones pitched in to handle the food and arrangements for this year's event held at First Baptist Church at Knott. It was JoAnne, you may remember, who hatched the idea for such a get-together.

Attending from Big Spring were Velma Roman (who formerly operated a grocery at Knott), Evelyn Kendricks, Wanda Lee Roman, Merle Roman, Gertie Hill, Nadine Hodnett (former teacher at West Knott School), Frances McKenzie, Etta Warren, Elaine Potter, Joyce Walker, Neva Jones, Allie Dorsey (a lake now covers her old home site). Ruth Grantham and Georgia Brown.

Opal Hill drove in from the Brown Community. Knott residents attending were Lloyd Robinson, John and Raye McGregor (she was a Knott school teacher), Lola Myers, Ima Robinson and Vaughnea White.

Joe Pickle was in Sherman recently, along with son and daughter-in-law, Gary and Jan Pickle, to attend a party marking the 90th birthday of Jan's grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Davis. Other guests included Joe's grandson, Ben Pickle and wife Lori. The younger Pickles all live in Austin.

The party was hosted by Ethel's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Davis, Houston, at the Sherman country Joe was surprised to see old friends at the affair - Martha Kallas, daughter of the late Vinie White, Vincent, and her family; and Adm. and Mrs. Philip Crosley he's the grandson of the late C.S. Holmes, Big Spring.

Mack and Helen Gamble, longtime residents of Big Spring, are moving to the Ozarks they're buying a fishing lodge near Russelville, Ark. Mack went up this week to finalize the deal. Mack, who is retiring from his paint contractor business, says this is something he has wanted to do for a long time. "It's really beautiful up there," he says. "I won't even have to change the name. It was already named Mack's Pines!" The Gambles will operate a motel, cafe, gas station, RV park and gift shop. The location is in the heart of Ozarks National Park and just a short distance from Hot Springs, Dogpatch USA and other tourist attractions.

For Helen, it's going home. She was born and grew up in Arkansas, and in fact went to school in a community about eight miles down the road.

Rodney and Sherry Pyatt, Roscoe, had a special reason for driving to Big Spring to hear the 214th Army Ground Forces Band concert - Rodney's brother, Major Michael D. Pyatt, is the band's conductor. Young Amy, Shelly and Josh came with their parents it was the first time the family had seen Maj. Pyatt perform with the band.

The Pyatt brothers are from Plainview. From the stage Maj. Pyatt recalled visiting Big Spring when he was announcer for the Texas Tech band while a student Treva and Alton Hall are spending a long weekend in Santa Fe N.M. Treva says it's the first time she has ever been there.

They expected to meet Treva's daughter and son-in-law, Denita and Roger Kionka, former Big Springers, now living in Arlington. The Kionkas are decorating their new home in the southwest motif, and will buy some furniture in Santa Fe.

Robert and Mary Valli Miller were due back this weekend from a week's trip to Japan.

They visited Tokyo, Kyoto and Kanazawa with a group of travel agents at the invitation of Japan Air Lines. The itinerary included all the sightseeing tours, plus inspections of major hotels and restaurants.

It was the Miller's first trip to Japan.
