By PETER ROPER Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON – Rep. Charlie Stenholm, D-Texas, helped lead an was generally opposed to raising unsuccessful effort by House Republicans to block legislation $4.25 target would be less harmful raising the minimum wage to $4.55 an hour Thursday.

After rejecting the Republican proposal, the House approved the wage increase on a vote of 240 to 179, even though President Bush has said he will veto any wage increase above $4.25 an hour.

Stenholm helped lead the Republican campaign Thursday to hold the increase to only $4.25 an hour. The proposal also allowed employers to pay a sub-minimum wage to new workers for a sixmonth "training" period.

The Stamford lawmaker said he the minimum wage, but said the to business and low-income workers. Stenhold said he agreed with Republicans who complained that raising the minimum wage would only lead to cutbacks in minimum wage workers.

House Democrats, however, passed legislation that would lift the wage to $4.55 over three years and cut the training period to only 60 days.Stenholm voted against the $4.55 wage. Stenholm said a major problem is the Democratic bill does not include agricultural workers. 'That means agri-businessmen would not be able to offer a training wage to their young or inexperienced workers," he said. Democrats disagreed, however,

A major problem is the Democratic bill does not include agricultural workers. "That means agribusinessmen would not be able to offer a training wage to their young or inexperienced workers." - Congressman Charles Stenholm.

> claiming agricultural workers would be covered by their 60-day "training" allowance. They also countered that giving employers a six-month "training" period would only lead to a "revolving door" where workers lost their jobs after six months.

The key vote Thursday was the passage of the Democratic compromise 240-179, with 221 Democrats and 19 Republicans voting "yes" and 28 Democrats and 151 Republicans voting no. Earlier the Republican substitute was narrowly rejected 218-198.

There was only a 30-cent difference between the Democratic compromise and the proposal advanced by Bush, but nevertheless it is not known whether the measure approved by the House is acceptable to the White House. The Senate will take up the bill early next month after the Easter Recess.

The bill approved by the House will advance the present $3.35 hourly minimum wage to $4.55 in three stages spread over a three year period. Bush wanted to hold the wage raise to $4.25.

The most significant concession made by the Democrats in their compromise measure was acceptance of the concept of a subminimum wage for new workers, an idea they have fiercely resisted in the past because of organized labor's opposition. The new bill provides for a two month subminimum wage that is 85 percent of the regular wage. Bush wanted to allow a six month sub-minimum wage for new workers.

Bomb victims' kin: Disclose all terrorist threats

By DAVID BRISCOE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Government reluctance to make public an air terrorism threat in Europe is bringing new calls from relatives of the Pan Am Flight 103 bombing victims for disclosure of all serious threats against commercial aviation.

White House, State Department and Transportation Department officials all attempted on Thursday to downplay the hijacking threat against U.S. airlines in Western Europe. Still, some officials, Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner in particular, expressed inger that it was released to the public in leaks to British news media.

"Going (to the center) kind of picked me up," Gilbert said. "I was trying to find a job but without a high school diploma it was hard.'

Gilbert's story exemplifies the opportunities available at the center, according to Jackie Henry, director.

The center - open to 16- to 18-vear-old Howard County school dropouts — began operating in late November; and since then five of its students have received their GED, Henry said

Seven of the center's students have taken the GED test, she said, adding that one of the students who didn't pass the test successfully completed five of the test's seven sections.

Of the five students who received their GED, three are enrolled at TSTI in Sweetwater, where they will receive specialized job training. One of the center's graduates is interested in JTPA's college assistance program, and the other has not told Henry of his future plans.

Henry said she feels "pretty good about (the center's GED passing rate.) "I would like 100 percent, but I feel like five of

She is also encouraged because "the majority of the students are staying with it." There have been only a few students who have enrolled and quickly dropped out, she said.

The center is modeled after other "alternative schools," which came about as a direct response to the state's growing dropout problem.

Located in the Permian Building, the center's instructors tutor students so they can pass the GED test. The center also provides instruction in job search skills such as interviewing and resume writing.

Ninety percent of the school's students must meet the income requirments of JTPA, which is financing the center during its first year of operation. Once accepted, students attend the school free of charge.

After it has been operating one year, the Big Spring Independent School District will become primarily responsible for funding the center.

But several relatives of victims of the Dec. 21 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Scotland said they believe the way the government handles terrorism bulletins warns diplomatic and military personnel while keeping other potential passengers uninformed about risks.

British investigators have concluded that a terrorist bomb concealed in a radio-cassette player blew up the Boeing 747 over Scotland, killing all 259 people aboard and 11 others on the ground in Lockerbie, Scotland.

The relatives, in telephone interviews, criticized government failure to provide the public with information about terrorist warnings, such as the March 16 memorandum sent by the Federal Aviation Administration to airlines, airports and European security officials.

The FAA acknowledged the existence of the memo, but declined to discuss its contents, which were nonetheless reported by the Daily Express and other London news media.

The newspaper said a hijacking by three Palestinians was threatened during the Easter weekend. U.S. officials denied that the bulletin contained any reference to this weekend. They also denied the newspaper's assertion that U.S. diplomatic and military personnel were warned of

'We don't think they should use the American public as live bait,' said Colleen Hermann, of Huntington, N.Y., whose brother John Michael Ahern was killed on Flight 103.

Bert Ammerman, a spokesman for the relatives of Lockerbie victims, said the group is not calling for general public announcements every time there is a terrorist threat.

But he said that until "prudent security measures" can be taken to protect American carriers throughout the world, a telephone number should be set up for travellers to call to get information on any threat against a flight they plan to take.

"I don't think that's going to paralyze the aviation industry, said Ammerman, of Demarest, N.J., whose brother, Tom, was killed in the Pan Am bombing.

Some of the relatives noted that Pan Am warned passengers of a New York-Paris flight last week of a bomb threat and gave them the option of taking another plane. Pan Am said only 17 of the 200 passengers left the plane, and 11 of those flew the same flight the following day.

Minorities fare poorly on skills test

By PEGGY FIKAC Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Higher failure rates of minorities on the new basic skills test for college students can be attributed in part to more of them being poor, Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby said.

Forty-two percent of blacks, 31 percent of Hispanics and 13 percent of whites failed at least one section of the Texas Academic Skills Program test, officials announced Thursday. The failure rate - 19 percent overall - is expected to rise in the future.

"Minority youngsters in this state and across the nation are much more likely to be raised in poverty," Kirby said. "I think there's a high correlation between learning difficulties and poverty, just because of the many disadvantages associated with being poor in this country.'

Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth said minorities also are coming through school

mathematics test is required for freshmen and transfer students entering Texas public colleges beginning this fall. The test, giving for the first time March 4, also served as a substitute for the exam formerly given only to education majors.

Of those who took the test, 419 were black, 1,600 Hispanic and 5,339 white.

One reason the failure rate is expected to rise is that 6,135 of the 7,763 students who took the initial test are education majors who already are in college, officials said

The remaining test-takers were high school students who chose to take it instead of taking an exemption. Students are exempt from the test if they have earned at least three semester credit hours of college-level work before fall 1989.

Also, only 6 percent of those taking it indicated they plan to attend a community college. Students The reading, writing and must pass the test to complete associate degrees or certificate programs that include nine or more semester hours of general education course work.

The passing rate is "higher because this group is not representative of the total group that's going to be taking this test in the months ahead, and certainly next year," Ashworth said.

In fall 1990, the full entering class of freshmen will be taking the test, a number estimated at about 100,000 students. The test cannot be used to bar college admission, but a student must pass it to take upper-division courses.

Students who fail could need several semesters of non-credit remedial courses. The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board requested $36 million in additional state funds for remediation.

Big Bend rafters fired on

BIG BEND NATIONAL PARK (AP) - Park officials have closed a five-mile section of the Rio Grande while investigators try to figure out who shot at three rafters for more than three hours

None of the three Texas men were hurt Wednesday when someone shot at them 20 to 30 times from a canyon rim on the Mexican side of the river a few miles from where a Texas man was shot to death in a similar incident last vear

The men, all about 30 years old, were riding a rented raft through San Vicente canyon when at least one and possibly two snipers began firing at them about 4:15 p.m., Big Bend National Park spokesman Roy Given said.

The men dived into the river, pulling their raft behind them, swam to shore, hid behind rocks and shrubbery until night fell, then walked to a dirt road and hitchhiked to Rio Grande Village, Given said. They got to the village, about 12 miles downstream from the canyon, about 1:30 a.m. Thursday, he said.

Park rangers, U.S. Border Patrol agents and state police from Mexico searched the area, but no one was arrested and clues were scarce. Given said.

The men told authorities the shots continued until about darkness fell as they dashed from cover to cover on the river bank.

"They were being shot at, but to deliberately try to hit them or harass them or scare them. I don't know," Given said. "We don't really know what provoked this, but we don't believe drug-smuggling is involved.

Four teen-agers were arrested after a similar incident in Dale Adams arrived home to rous-November that resulted in the death on an Eastland man.

In that incident, a few miles upstream from the park, 40-yearold Michael Heffley was shot fatally as he shielded his wife from the bullets. Four youths were arrested, one in the United States and three in Mexico, and all are awaiting trial on murder charges.

Texas to support Roe vs. Wade

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' support of the U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion involves personal privacy and state's rights, the Texas attorney general's office says

The state isn't "coming from a pro-abortion or anti-abortion stance" in signing a legal brief with six other states asking the Supreme Court to affirm its 1973 Roe vs. Wade judgment, said Elna Christopher, spokeswoman for Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox

"We coming from more of the states' rights stance," Ms. Christopher said Thursday in describing the brief to be filed in a Missouri case before the Supreme Court that could change the landmark abortion ruling.

Mattox gave approval for Texas to be represented in the brief, which must be filed in Washington by March 30, Ms. Christopher said. She said the approval was based on the Texas Constitution and on state laws regarding abortion.

keeping the big government off people's backs," Ms. Christopher said. "Our Texas Constitution, if you look at it, was written to really keep government from interfering with individual privacy.

"That is our historical perspective and our legal perspective,' she said.

"We don't have any laws like (those in) Missouri" that are involved in the Supreme Court case, Ms. Christopher said.

Texas' abortion laws require annual reporting of abortions to the state health department and disallow abortions during the last three months of pregnancy unless the mother's life is in danger, Ms. Christopher said.

Under dispute in the Missouri case is a state statute that says human life begins at conception and that unborn children have protectable interests in life, health and well-being.

The law, ruled unconstitutional by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, prohibits public funding of abor-

Aliens strain health services in South Texas

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - A doctor who has provided free medical care for many immigrants says the number of Central Americans in crowded government custody in southern Texas poses a public health threat.

"They are putting a burden on an already strained medical delivery system," said Dr. Lorenzo Pelly, a Brownsville physician who fled Cuba in 1961.

Pelly praised the work of the U.S. Public Health Service personnel attending to the immigrants at the Red Cross shelter and at the immigration service's detention center northeast of Brownsville. More than 2,300 people were at the detention center Thursday.

But he said the number of people in crowded conditions at the facilities heightens the risk of epidemics of diseases such as measles, chicken pox, tuberculosis and hepatitis.

"Now that they are housing people in specific places, yes, there is a potential health threat," said Pelly, adding he sees more malaria cases than most U.S. doctors. "At this junct ture, there is a potential for major medical problems.

Brownsville Community Health Center recently stopped taking asylum-seeking immigrants at its clinic, which for years has struggled to keep up with the local population of people unable to afford medical care.

Officials at the center have said they lack the resources to serve local needs and care for the influx of more than 40,000 Central Americans through the area during the past year.

Center director Paula Gomez, who was not available for comment Thursday, has complained for months that the immigration service has not done enough to serve the Central Americans it detains in the area

She has said that sooner or later people will die as a result either from disease or from problems in childbirth.

Patient visits at the center rose from 94,000 in 1987 to 117,000 last year. It had been accepting referrals from the American Red Cross shelter in Brownsville, where 969 Central Americans were housed Thursday.

The Red Cross is under a $3 million contract with the Justice Department's Community Relations Service to shelter family groups of asylum-seekers who ust stav in southern Texas unti

"It's an issue of privacy and of tions or abortion counseling when the mother's life is not in danger, and it requires a doctor's determination of the viability of the fetus.

In its appeal, Missouri asked the Supreme Court to validate its law and reverse the Roe vs. Wade judgment.

Ms. Christopher said Massachusetts contacted Texas and other states through the National Association of Attorneys General.

"They sent us a lot of background information on the case and requested other states to sign the brief," she said.

Mattox is authorized to issue the state's stance on the case "because the (Texas) constitution says the attorney general shall handle the legal matters for the state," Ms. Christopher said.

She said Texas lawmakers already have made decisions about abortion for the state "and the federal court should not be jumping back in and telling them what they can do at this point."

Lawmakers criticize farm relief

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm state lawmakers say the U.S. Department of Agriculture is mishandling last year's emergency drought relief and ignoring this year's arid, potentially disastrous conditions on the High Plains.

Rep. Bill Sarpalius, a Texas Democrat and member of House Agriculture subcommittee on wheat, soybeans and feed grains, said the Texas Panhandle is extremely dry, yet he can't find out "from anybody" what "we can do to help our farmers."

Milton Hertz, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, countered that farmers receiving drought benefits do not face an undue paperwork burden. He also said he doesn't believe the agency has suffered during the transition to the Bush administration.

As of Feb. 28, more than 558,000 producers have received disaster payments and emergency feed assistance amounting to more than $2.7 billion, Hertz testified.

The amount paid to date represents 70 percent of what the agency anticipates will go to farmers stricken by the devastating drought of 1988, he states, including Florida, are experiencing gradual declines that may reflect a failure by many fastgrowing districts to update their about the desegregation of black desegregation plans, the report schools.

Alabama and Mississippi "show major increases in segregation and have joined the list of the nation's most segregated states for black students," said the study released Thursday by the National School Boards Association.

The report, based on federal statistics, cited encouraging trends in black-white integration through mandatory city-suburban busing plans in St. Louis, Las Vegas, Indianapolis and elsewhere.

But the picture was uniformly grim for Hispanics. "Hispanic students are becoming more highly segregated in virtually every part of the country and among each major subgroup," the report said. Hispanic students are increasingly isolated in center cities with Other Southern and border declining white enrollments, it said, and have been largely ignored by the government agencies and civil rights groups that brought

'The march to school integration on effective desegregation techni- ship'' between high minority stuis certainly not over, and school systems are finding no quick and easy solutions," James Oglesby, president-elect of the association, said in issuing the study of desegregation trends from 1968 to

At the national level, the study found that school desegregation remained relatively stable in the 1980s "in spite of the harsh attacks by the Reagan administration and the widespread impression that the policy was being abandoned."

Nevertheless, the study said, the federal government should "end its attacks on school desegregation and its efforts to dismantle plans that are stable." Other positive steps would be to resume research ques and offer assistance to districts trying to desegregate, it said

Gary Orfield, a University of Chicago professor and co-author of the study, suggested that the nation make a concerted effort to achieve residential integration which would automatically result in integrated local schools. He also said rapidly developing areas should update their desegregation plans.

The report uses federal statistics to rate regions, states and cities on their desegregation efforts. Orfield said it is not meant as a commentary on the quality of education in particular communities, but noted there is "a very strong relation-dent populations, low test scores and high dropout rates.

The study said Hispanic segregation has always been worst among Puerto Ricans in the Northeast but statistics show alarming trends elsewhere. The percentage of Hispanic enrollment in 90-percentto-100 percent minority schools rose from 6.8 percent in 1968 to 23.5 percent in 1986 in the Midwest, and from 11.7 percent to 24.7 percent in the West.

The growing proportion of Hispanic students and the lack of major desegregation litigation 'suggest a future of continuingly increasing segregation," the report said.

Reagan testimony sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - Oliver North's lawyers today sought to force former President Reagan to testify when the defense opens its case next Friday at North's Iran-Contra trial.

"The importance of Mr. Reagan's testimony to the defense of this case is clear both from the record in the trial to date and from" North's opposition to Reagan's efforts to quash the subpoena, said North lawyer Brendan Sullivan.

In a two-sentence motion, Sullivan asked that U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell "enter an order" enforcing an earlier subpoena for Reagan's appearance at the trial of the former White House national security aide.

Gesell ruled Jan. 30 that the former president shall remain 'subject to call" in connection with a subpoena issued by North's lawyers Dec. 30.

North's lawyers have tried to bring out at the trial that Reagan was much more involved in secretly assisting the Contra rebels in Nicaragua than has previously been known publicly.

Sullivan brought out that the president personally approved, based on a recommendation by North and others on the National Security Council staff, a secret 1985 deal to give Honduras $110 million

Stacy Dam closure expected on schedule

By JOE PICKLE Special to the Herald

Good progress is being made on two major construction projects of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, Gen. Mgr. Owen H. Ivie told directors at their Thursday meeting in Big Spring.

Closure of the Stacy Dam could begin in the last quarter of this year as planned, he reported, and prospects are good that work can be completed close to the original estimate of $68,000,000. While substantial savings have been realized in construction, earnings on bond money during construction will fall about $3,500,000 short of projections. Mitigations for environmental matters will far exceed first estimates.

Terrestrial mitigation (land for wildlife management) are expected to be concluded soon with acquisition of 400 acres of additional land at about $110,000.

The District contends that research findings thus far on the Concho water snake indicated that there is no need to expend funds for artificial habitat, said Ivie.

Widening of U.S. 87 may start in May

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Widening of U.S. Highway 87 may begin in May or June, the executive director of the area Chamber of Commerce said Thursday.

Members of the Highway 87 Association held a coordinating session Tuesday to plan the widening of the highway from a two-lane to a four-lane divided highway, Executive Director Whayne Moore said.

"There was good and solid discussion ... it was a very positive meeting," Moore said.

The Big Spring delegation, coor dinating for San Angelo, Midland, Oddessa and Big Spring, is committed to the purchase of the lands needed make the highway widening a reality, he said.

Moore noted that Howard County Commissiers have approved efforts to gain the right of way along the highway and said he hopes Glasscock County Commissioners will also support the widening efforts.

Moore said he does not have any figures on the cost of the project.

alternative schools. Currently there are 37 active students at the center, and four more are scheduled to complete their orientation soon.

The center is designed to accommodate 40 students — 20 during a morning session and 20 during the afternoons. But Henry said the limit is flexible and depends upon the numbers of students enrolled who require a high level of supervision.

Christi Mills, who was among the center's first group of students to enroll, said she is progressing steadily and plans to receive her GED and enroll in college.

The center has provided her with a second chance at completing her high school education requirements after dropping out of Forsan High School, where she didn't "get along with big authority

Mills said she is prospering at the center because "you don't get bossed and you go at your own pace.' "I do more work than I ever did in high school," she said. "In high school I played around all the time.'

Nancy Parker, a 16-year-old member of the center, described herself as a good student at Big Spring High School. But when she ran into "a lot of problems," she decided to leave and attend a private school. The private school closed, so she decided to enroll at the Personalized Achievement Center. After receiving her GED, she plans to attend college and major in psychology.

"We're real good friends," she said. "We help each other with different subjects. If one person is poor on a particular subject another person who knows the subject well will try to help them. We depend on each other because we're all trying to get our GED.'

Henry said the burden of learning the material is placed squarely on the shoulders of the students. She and the center's other instructor provide direction, but the students quickly learn they must attend regularly and put forth a serious effort to learn.

A specialized curriculum, educational tapes and computer software programs are all available to help students reach their goal.

Students who enroll, then begin to miss class are given one opportunity to come back. But if they don't attend regularly afterwards they are refused re-admission,

Henry said. "In order to continue to be members, they have to sit down, get to work and show some selfmotivation and interest," she said

For the most part, the students have not taken the opportunities available at the center for granted, Henry said.

"I think its going very well," she said. "The attendance has been good for the most part, and the attitude of the students has been very good. I think we're really making some progress.'

Who is head AIRLINE of ARENA?

The decisive victory by El Salvador's rightist Nationalist Republican Alliance (ARENA) in presidential elections last day (March 19) was no surprise. The outgoing Christian Democrats, in power for the past five years, are debilitated and in disarray. The party's leader, President Jose Napoleon Duarte, is dying of cancer; several of his top aides are accused of corruption in office.

Inflation is rampant, poverty is as pervasive as ever and the Duarte government has shown little if any progress in its war against leftist guerrillas. It's little wonder that the ARENA candidate, Alfredo Christiani, won nearly 54 percent of the vote.

But the inevitability of ARENA's ascension doesn't lessen apprehension.

The concern is that El Salvador's newly elected president, an immensely wealthy coffee planter and sportsman, is merely a figurehead. Behind the facade may be the sinister hand of Roberto D'Aubuisson, the man who created ARENA in 1981 as a paramilitary organization.

D'Aubuisson, a former army major, is allegedly the man who organized the right-wing death squads that have murdered thousands of suspected leftists in El Salvador. He has been accused of masterminding the assassination of Roman Catholic Archbishop Oscar Romero and of plotting the assassination of an American ambassador. He's now a member of El Salvador's parliament and perhaps the most popular man in the country.

Christiani, realizing that American aid is jeopardized if death-squad activity increases, has tried to distance himself from D'Aubuisson. During the campaign, he proposed talks with rebel leaders, promised to increase spending for education and health care and to improve the land redistribution system that his party has always opposed. He even acknowledged the social roots of his country's civil war.

Although Christiani deserves a chance to make good on his promises, a certain amount of skepticism on the part of El Salvador's chief benefactor, the United States, is healthy. Despite American aid to El Salvador totaling $1.5 million a day, "things in El Salvador are getting worse," as Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., observed this week. Hatfield, ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee, has an idea about what ought to be done.

The Oregon senator wants to hold back half of El Salvador's military aid for six to give the new government an opportunity to pursue a negotiated settlement of the war. The six-month hold also would give Congress an opportunity to monitor death-squad activity under the new government.

To wit, "Name me one politician in the United States who has run successfully for political office who believes in legalizing drugs. There are two preliminary difficulties with that statement. The

One participant asked how many politicians running for office in 1800 came out for abolition? A third participant (a professor) favored legalization, a fourth opposed it for non-addicts. favored it for the addict population. What proved most curious is that there was a substantial lobby that night, among the literati of Louisville, for every position. For rigid, diehard, call-in-the-Marines suppression; for complete legalization, together with heightened educational efforts to cure and to dissuade; for submitting everyone to random testing; for not submitting anyone to random testing; for executing certain classes of drug vendors: and for not doing so. I ran into my grandmother's bedroom and screamed, 'It's Gabriel! My grandmother tried to convince me it wasn't, but I refused to go back into my own bedroom, just in case – what with the graves opening and the scorpions and all. And another thing, if there is, in fact, to be no Second Coming, an editor friend of mine has wasted a lot of time getting prepared for it. I won't mention his name because he's an executive with a major newspaper chain now, but there was a time, when we were both younger, that he saw the Second Coming as a news event that could not be handled properly without advance contemplation. So, he designed a front page that would announce the event. There was to be a large photo of Jesus' descent. He figured somebody would get one, and the wire services would send it along to him. Then, there was to be a giant headline above the photo with a smaller headline beneath it. The headline above, in large, bold type, was to say, "HE'S BACK!" Underneath, the headline would read, "Details Page Two." I realize the scholars in California are learned individuals who know much more about the Bible than I do. Both the new government and the insurgents must realize that an end to the killing is not in sight. Neither side is close to military victory. The Bush administration's message to El Salvador must be that a negotiated solution is the only alternative to a brutal and exhausting war. And that continued American aid will hang in the balance.

political enemies. The commission learned that people had been arrested and jailed for something as simple as possessing a Bible or reading a book of the wrong political persuasion.

Even more disturbing is what happened because of the commission's visit. Police harrassed and arrested people who tried to give information to the commission. Here is what happened to just a few of those people:

- Lazaro Linares Echevarria was arrested in September when he tried to contact the commission, according to Americas Watch, the independent human rights monitoring group. He is reportedly serving a six-month prison term on a charge of contempt.

- Jose Carlos Montero Ocampo was interviewed by the commission. The next day, he returned to the delegation's hotel with some documents. He was arrested a Benitez Ferrer were believed to be near the delegation's hotel when they were arrested. Francisco is a former prisoner of conscience. He served a prison term for spreading propaganda and had only been free about two weeks before he was arrested again while trying to reach the delegation. He was reportedly sentenced to six months in prison for insulting a police officer and resisting arrest. His brother Aleiandro was sentenced to three months for being disorderly.

The U.N. Human Rights Commission must use a very narrow definition of abuse if it does not consider those arrests to be a violation of human rights.

The failure of the commisson to schedule Cuba for another human rights evaluation this year proves that Castro can make a mockery of the United Nations and continue to stay in its good graces.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) -Yale University and a Chicago ar-

Mario Gandelsonas, a New York City architect and faculty member at Yale University, will spend much of the next three years studying the city's layout and architecture. JERUSALEM (AP) - Scores of pilgrims, carrying crosses and guarded by hundreds of Israeli forces, made their way along the Via Dolorosa on Good Friday to mark Christ's path to crucifixion.

Jesus Christ on Good Friday.

More than two hours before the official procession, pilgrims in small groups with priests prayed and chanted today at the stations of the cross, heading toward the site of Christ's death at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

Among the early pilgrims, who mixed with Palestinian shoppers, were Germans and Italians. Two German men carried a 4-foot-long wooden cross.

Because of the 15-month Palestinian uprising against Israeli occupation of the territories, hundreds of police, border police and soldiers were on duty along the narrow, cobbled street in Jerusalem's Old City

The route begins in the walled city's Moslem quarter. There, the pilgrims walked among Palestinian women in traditional embroidered dresses carrying baskets on their way to market.

One of the leaders carried a crucifix carved of olive wood from Bethlehem, by Christian tradition the site of Christ's birth.

At the Lion's Gate entrance to the Old City, Palestinian boys on donkeys waited for tourists, trying to earn pocket money by posing for pictures.

'One shekel, one dollar, one franc, one mark, one anything,' sang out a boy who gave his name as Ahmed.

The Lion's Gate, named for its lion carvings, is also known as St. Stephen's Gate because it is believed the saint was martyred nearby. It was through this gate that the Israeli army made its entrance into the Old City, then Jordanian territory, in the 1967 Middle East war. Since then, Israel annexed Arab east Jerusalem and joined it into the Israeli capital. But most foreign countries, including the United States, consider east Jerusalem disputed territory and keep their embassies in the Israeli coastar city of Tel Aviv.

Cristiani willing to meet rebels

Big Spring Herald, Friday, March 24, 1989

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - President-elect Alfredo Cristiani said he would accept peace talks with leftist rebels but warned of any U.S. interference in El Salvador's civil war.

"We are willing to open doors to the guerrillas to incorporate them in the Salvadoran democratic process," said Cristiani, the victor in Sunday's presidential election.

"We are willing to work with the United States," Cristiani added in remarks made available Thursday, "but this partnership must be based upon mutual respect and working together, not as an imposition.

Although President Bush congratulated Cristiani on his victory, some congressmen have said his right-wing Republican Nationalist Alliance party, known as Arena, should demonstrate it has become a democratic institution before more U.S. aid is provided. Human rights groups, diplomats and others have linked Arena to far-rightist death squads.

The Salvadoran government has been the biggest recipient of U.S. economic and military aid this decade, receiving more than $3.5 billion. Washington now provides $500 million a year in aid to El Salvador.

According to the final results, Cristiani won with 54 percent of the vote in an election boycotted by the rebels. Francisco Merino, also of Arena, was proclaimed vice president-elect.

More than 1.8 million Salvadorans were registered to vote, and turnout was 52 percent, election officials said.

Arab League tries to halt fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The Arab League stepped in today to try to halt renewed violence that has dragged Christian army units, Druse militiamen and Syrian gunners into the fighting, killing 81 people this month.

Fifteen of the deaths came during artillery duels the past 24 hours, police said.

Kuwait's ambassador to Syria, Ahmed Jassem, met today for 75 minutes with Gen. Michel Aoun, who commands the 20.000-member Christian force fighting against Druse militiamen and their Syrian backers. Aoun also leads a Chris-Moslem Cabinet for political control of Lebanon. Jassem, dispatched to Beirut late Thursday by the Arab League nations, said he met Aoun to discuss a cease-fire in the 14-year civil war and "a solution to the present confrontation."

Aoun and other Christian leaders say the Syrians have failed in the peacekeeping task the Arab League entrusted them with in 1976. The Christians also bitterly criticize Syrian support for Lebanese Moslems and leftists.

Judge names examiner for Eastern

NEW YORK (AP) — Eastern refused to cross the machinists' Airlines has been granted its request for a court-appointed examiner in its bankruptcy proceedings, but the airline appears to be getting one with broader powers than it wanted

In a surprising ruling Thursday, U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge Burton Lifland said he would appoint an examiner to oversee Eastern during its Chapter 11 reorganization. But he decided to give the official a broader mandate than requested by the airline, saying it was in the public's interest to do so.

Among other things, the examiner - still to be named would mediate differences among Eastern employees, creditors and other parties to achieve a consensus on a bankruptcy reorganization plan, Lifland said.

He described that role as "banging heads together by an independent entity.

The judge also refused a union request to order Eastern to release about $24 million in pre-strike paychecks and benefits frozen when the airline sought protection from creditors March 9, five days arguments by its unions that tranafter the beginning of the sactions between Eastern, its Machinists' union strike. bankruptcy court to appoint a trustee who would run the airline during its reorganization, bumping Texas Air Corp. Chairman Frank Lorenzo from that function.

An April 7 hearing has been scheduled on the trustee request. But an attorney for the Air Line Pilots Association indicated the union might be willing to drop the request because the new examiner's power would be so sweeping.

"It's rather an extraordinary appointment," Bruce Simon, who represented the pilots during Thursday's hearing, told reporters outside the courtroom.

He described the official to be appointed by the judge as a "supermediator" and a "superexaminer.'

Eastern President Phil Bakes also praised the judge's decision, saying, "We wish we had thought of it

Eastern's unions claim Texas Air has been stripping the airline of its assets while trying to bolster Continental.

Meanwhile, in Tallahassee, Fla., a federal appeals court delayed its ruling on Eastern's request to force the pilots back to work. Eastern asked the judges to overturn a lower court ruling permitting the pilots to honor striking machinists' picket lines under the Railway Labor Act.

In Miami, Eastern spokesman Robin Matell said the carrier planned to begin training replacement pilots Monday despite claims by the pilots' association that no qualified pilots could be found.

Eastern has been getting about 115 flights a day aloft recently, said another spokeswoman, Karen Ceremsak, and the new pilots will increase that number. Before the strike, the company had more than 1,000 flights a day.

And at Columbia College, an undergraduate school at Columbia University in New York City, students and supporters of the striking machinists called on the school to withdraw a top alumnus honor to Lorenzo.

Chilean fruit back in stores

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fresh Chilean grapes began moving back into U.S. stores Thursday after being deemed free from threatened cyanide poisoning. Industry leaders said consumers may initially see slightly higher prices.

Meanwhile, the Chilean government was working on a plan to compensate U.S. importers, wholesalers and retailers for at least part of their losses in having to dump large amounts of fruit, Chilean exporters said.

Losses to exporters and to U.S. fruit importers as a result of the cyanide scare are estimated at $240 million, said Ronald S. Bown, executive director of the Chilean Exporters Association.

The health scare began last week when the U.S. Food and Drug Administration said it had found traces of cyanide in two seedless red grapes from Chile. The inspections followed two telephone calls to the U.S. Embassy in Santiago in which an anonymous caller threatened to inject cyanide into Chilean fruit exports.

Last Friday, five days after the tainted grapes were discovered, the FDA announced a plan for stepped-up inspections of Chilean fruit at the docks and on ships, and said fruit that couldn't be readily inspected such as that being held by retailers and wholesalers would have to be destroyed.

"Between now and the end of April, we will run a 34-state field operation including targeting specific media markets," said Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

The Washington-based group describes itself as "the largest national, non-partisan organization working solely to keep abortion safe, legal and accessible.

Ms. Michelman said her organization last week hired the Washington firm of Greer, Margolis, Mitchell and Associates to create the national media campaign, which will include print, television and radio advertising.

She said that as of last Friday, 118,000 people across the country had signed up to assist grass roots organizing efforts. The abortion Exporters are concentrating their efforts on returning table grapes to U.S. markets, since grapes constitute 70 percent of the fruit exported from the South American country. Pears and nectarines will follow, and should be on some store shelves by the weekend, Bown said.

There was no estimate when other fruits may begin appearing. The FDA has been holding up distribution until laboratory tests can give inspectors a better idea how to see evidence of cyanide tampering.

Grapes will begin appearing first on the shelves of East Coast stores, FDA spokesman William Grigg Wednesday night, 600,000 said. crates were released from the port at Philadelphia after food graders, hired by U.S. importers and supervised by the FDA, inspected the required 5 percent of shipments. Other ports were to release some grape shipments on Thursday, he said. From the ports, fruit is usually shipped by truck to stores.

Prices initially may be "slightly higher" than they had been before the scare began because of pent-up demand, said George F. Carstens, president of the American Produce Association.

"When you return fruit to the pipeline, the initial demand will be very, very strong and ... the initial impact of the first few days might be perhaps slightly higher in terms of our prices to the retailers," he said.

Speaking for retailers, Charles Tryon, director of produce for 3,200 Super Valu stores and presidentelect of the Produce Marketing Association, said: "We won't see dramatic increases in costs.

Networks of home school families form to establish a library or share computers. Many hire tutors or retired teachers to teach advanced subjects like algebra, chemistry and foreign languages.

'We certainly don't encourage parents to think they have to teach every subject every year,' McHugh said.

While opponents say home schools isolate children from their peers, McHugh said the students actually see more of the real world than their counterparts at traditional schools.

'You can take your schooling on the road if you want to," he said. "Education becomes a family affair. Mom and Dad start seeing life as a learning adventure.

Correspondence schools like Christian Liberty offer a variety of services ranging from pre-testing to teacher orientation tapes to college entrance exams. McHugh stronly recommends that parents join an organized program if they are new to home teaching.

But the U.S. Department of Education estimates that fewer than half of all home schools participate in such programs. It is this lack of conformity that concerns the National Association of State Boards of Education.

He lives! After three days, Jesus was resurrected

EDITOR'S NOTE: This final installment of a three-part Easter series about the military and Jesus is drawn from the Bible, historical sources and ancient non-Biblical Christian literature. Atmospheric details are supplied in keeping with old documents, but dialogue is quoted verbatim.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

The night weighed heavily on the Roman legionnaires posted at the garden tomb of Jesus. They had an eerie duty, guarding the dead, and even the tree limbs against the moonlit sky seemed to stretch out like skeletal arms.

A field tent had been set up alongside the tomb, but the squad of eight soldiers still lingered outside, sitting bunched together, swatting at insects, their camp fire dwindled to ashes.

Pretonius, a junior centurion, had assigned them two-by-two to the four watches of night, but so far they all remained wakeful, apparently jittery at these ghoulish precautions.

Details of the scene, the name and numbers, are given in ancient non-canonical writings. The military governor of the province, Pontius Pilate, had been urged to post the guard by temple officials, who told him in Matthew Pilate, now edgy about the affair, had personally quizzed the great stone door with a rumblanother centurion, Longinus, who had headed the execution detail. making sure Jesus had been dead. He also asked about the odd darkness that shrouded the event.

"There was an eclipse of the sun after the accustomed sort," Longinus had responded in crisp. military manner, keeping his own anxieties to himself.

Pilate ordered the tomb guarded for the next two days, also directing that it be tightly sealed.

A cataract of blinding light poured down on them, engulfing all that place in dazzling brilliance, a white immensity that towered to the heavens and flooded the tomb's interior.

Pretonius, distressed as his unsteady conduct but overcome by the experience, blurted out, "He liveth! Of a truth, he was the son of God.

Warning against such incriminating sentiments, Pilate ordered the centurion and the soldiers to keep quiet. "Say nothing," he instructed, according to the ancient documents. Scripture says the temple

Teen's idea causes parents to hit the roof

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old and consider myself a man. I work full time, live with my parents and pay room and board. My question: Shouldn't I be allowed to have my girlfriend sleep over in my room? She's 19 and my one and only girlfriend.

I believe that since I am paying for this room and am of age, I should be able to have overnight company here if I want to. My parents disagree. They think I should live by the house rules they set before I turned 18. I always respected their rules and never complained.

I love my parents and enjoy living with them, but think they should not put any restrictions on what I can do in my room as long as I am paying rent. What do you think? Must I move out to avoid a hassle? This is the only thing we ever argue about. - A MAN WITH LITTLE BOY RULES DEAR MAN: Obviously your OLD OCEAN (AP) - It seems only natural that John and Nancy Bannister make and repair furniture from the 1800s and sell antiques of all sorts at their store, the Old Post Office.

John Bannister's family tree, like the cypress he sometimes uses to construct a raw fireside chair, is deeply rooted in South' Texas history

"I don't try to make anything fancy. I like to make them primitive," he said.

John Bannister's great-greatgrandfather, John Sweeny Sr., who helped settle thousands of acres of land in the early 1800s in what is now southern Brazoria and Matagorda counties, received land deeds from Texas patriot Stephen F. Austin.

John Bannister owns those deeds, which are on display at the Brazoria County Historical Museum.

The John Sweeny Jr. Plantation, located just down the road from the Old Post Office, was established by John Bannister's greatgrandfather and it is the last plantation in Brazoria County still owned by the descendants of the original owner.

Indeed, the city of Sweeny, just four miles southeast of Old Ocean, was named in the late 1800s after the Sweeny family, particularly John Bannister's great-uncle, Will Sweeny, an influential postmaster at the time.

Probably with Will Sweeny in mind, John Bannister's well-known mother, Catherine, appointed herself postmaster of Old Ocean and built the tiny post office that is now the town antique shop. Catherine constructed the post office in 1943 and remained postmaster until 1968. In 1973, a larger post office was built across the street.

John Bannister said his mother was told by the government she had to be appointed to the position, but she was stubborn and persisted with her ambition nonetheless.

"It wasn't that she needed a job, she just wanted something to do,"

OLD OCEAN - Restored wooden cabinets, photographs from the past, and old trinkets are among the many antiques John and Nancy Bannister restore and sell at their store.

John Bannister said. "She could sit in the window and talk to people all day. The clerks did all the work and my dad wrote all the reports. She had it made."

Old Ocean is dominated by a maze window shutters saved from ruin of pipes and smokestacks that make up the Phillips 66 Co. The Sweeny family sold more than 500 acres of land to Phillips for production purposes during the past four decades. But John Bannister, who retired from the Houston oil business in 1981, and his wife prefer to surround themselves with antiques.

are dominated by restored antiques. The couple thrives on buying items from estate sales and by saving furniture that would otherwise be thrown into the fire.

"I like to salvage any old piece of furniture that is on the verge of being destroyed," said John Bannister. "I don't like to see old furniture thrown away. People think, 'Oh, it served its purpose, throw it away.' I like to make it useful again."

The Bannisters' store and home are filled with thick brown wooden cabinets, once used to cool freshly baked pies. Other furniture includes fireside chairs - some con-Today, the post office and all of structed from scratch - and heavy

The 15 active members of the club range in age from 14 to "almost 70" and include students, teachers, engineers and hospital personnel. The club ranges from beginners to members with more than 30 years experience.

Club member Bob Teeter said model railroaders have a variety of specialties. "There are some that are completely into scenery, some are into the electrical aspects and some are super detailers. But it all fits and it's all part of the hobby.'

The East Texas Model Railroad Club has a permanent home in Greenville in which members are setting up modules, or miniature scenes, to run their trains through. Member Sam Westwood said

Hawks complete Otero sweep

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

Although the Howard College Hawks didn't set the world on fire with defense in their doubleheader opener against Otero College Thursday, they were still good enough to come away with a 10-7 victory at Jack Barber Field.

In the second game, the Hawks wasted little time with their Colorado visitors, scoring 11 runs in the first two innings on their way to a 13-3 blowout.

The Hawks made six errors in the opener, but got consistent pitching from Bailey Deeds and reliever Ruben Felix, and clutch hitting from shortstop Jay Williams and second baseman Darren Glenn Williams also played a strong defensive game, collecting six putouts and making several diving stops. Being the leadoff hitter for the first time this season, the shortstop from Essexville, Mich. hit a double and single in three at bats, driving in three runs.

The power-hitting Glenn tripled and homered in four at bats. He busted his 10th round tripper of the season in the sixth, giving Howard a 10-4 lead.

The Hawks' generosity left coach Bill Griffin unhappy. "I'm dissapointed in our defense," he said. "I think it's because we have mental lapses. We're creating opportunities for other. Usually we've been able to overcome it. But it will really hurt you against the good teams.

Deeds got his second win over Otero in the series. Monday he pitched a six-hitter in Howard's 12-2 win. Thursday he went three innings, allowed four runs and four hits. Two of the runs were unearned top of the first. Adams reached base on a fielder's choice and eventually scored on a double to the right field wall by Willie Brunz.

Felix, a left-hander from El Paso, went the last four innings, allowing three runs on two hits. He surrendered a two-run homer to Otero catcher Brian Adams in the last inning.

Howard came back with four runs in the bottom of the second. Glenn went opposite field and tripled against the right field fence. Next, Bard grounded to the first baseman, who chose to try to throw out Glenn at home, but he slid in under the tag, tying the game at 1-1.

Kenny Frederick walked and Brian Betancourt, singled, loading the bases for Williams. The HC shortstop promptly rapped a double off Otero hurler Mike Lopez, scoring Bard and Frederick.

Next Jose Rubiera reached base on an error by the shortstop, allowing designated runner Tim Demerson, running for Betancourt, to score

Howard committed two errors in the top of the third, leading to a three-run Otero inning. Otero got singles from Randy Sale and Steve Hazlett in the inning. A throwing error by first baseman Bard allowed Hazlett and Keith Beatty to score. Sale scored from third on a wild pitch, tying the game at 4 apiece.

The Hawks took the lead for good in the bottom of the inning. Bard and Frederick singled, and Betancourt got an infield hit. Bard scored from third when the first baseman missed the throw. Williams gave Howard a 6-4 lead by singling in

The Hawks added another run in the fourth. Camara walked, stole second, and scored on a single by Wallace.

In the sixth Howard added insurance runs, thanks to Glenn's homer. Rubiera got an infield hit and Todd Kolbicka singled. Glenn then took a 3-2 pitch and golfed it over the left field wall for a three-run homer.

Otero made the score respectable by tallying three times in the top of the seventh, mainly due to Adams' two-run homer.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) -Virginia, by doing the little things well, moved one step closer to college basketball's big show.

The Cavaliers took good shots, rebounded well and played sound defense in beating top-seeded Oklahoma 86-80 Thursday night in the NCAA Southeast Regional.

Now Virginia, the No. 5 seed, must beat third-seeded Michigan in the regional final Saturday to earn a trip to the Final Four at Seattle. Michigan, behind 34 points by Glen Rice, beat No. 2 seed North Carolina 92-87 in Thursday's other Virginia did most everything right against the high-powered Sooners, who ended the season 30-6 in failing to repeat last year's visit to the Final Four.

The Cavaliers, 22-10, made things miserable for All-America center Stacey King in the first half while opening as much as a sevenpoint lead, then had the poise to stay in their offense when the Sooners made second-half runs.

King took only four shots in the first half and scored two points. The Sooners' 5-of-13 shooting from Upsets page 2-B

The Los Angeles Dodgers are already worrying about injuries, and the Cincinnati Reds are worrying about what's going to happen next

Even if Orel Hershiser pitches 300 scoreless innings, the Dodgers need a healthy Kirk Gibson to repeat as World Series champions. Gibson has not recovered from his knee problems suffered last October and may go down at any time. If he does, the Dodgers are in trouble.

Fernando Valenzuela is pitching but still doesn't have the same stuff and John Tudor (elbow surgery) isn't expected back until at least July.

The Dodgers have added first baseman Eddie Murray and second baseman Willie Randolph. But the 34-year-old Randolph is coming off knee surgery.

The Reds have finished second four years in a row and they're the surgery, hit .280 in 150 at-bats last only team in the division not to finish first this decade. At least the law of averages is on their side.

Baseball's investigation of Manager Pete Rose has caused a media circus and may unsettle Cincinnati. But if the Reds can make it through some tough days ahead, they have the best balanced team in the division.

much-improved Padres, Giants in 1977-78 and Astros all figure to make it a close race

Cincinnati Reds The top of the Reds' order has: shortstop Barry Larkin (.296, 12 HR, 56 RBI, 40 SB), third baseman Chris Sabo (.271, 11 HR, 44 RBI, 46 SB), left fielder Kal Daniels (.291. 18 HR, 64 RBI) and center fielder Eric Davis (.273, 26 HR, 93 RBI) and is perhaps the most explosive in the league.

Sabo, the Rookie of the Year, tired in the second half and hit only 216 with one homer and nine RBI. Bigger things can also be expected of Davis. He's capable of 40 homers and 120 RBL

The right fielder, Paul O'Neill (16 HR, 73 RBI) bats fifth and newly-acquired first baseman under 3.00 it will be regarded as an Todd Benzinger hits sixth. With Boston last season, Benzinger had 13 homers and 70 RBI in 405 atbats. Second baseman Ron Oester, back after recovering from knee season.

The catching could be a problem. Bo Diaz (219) is 36 and playing on sore knees

The Reds have an experienced bench with Ken Griffey, Joel Youngblood and Manny Trillo. Los Angeles Dodgers

How tough is it to repeat as world champions? It hasn't been done After the Reds and Dodgers, the since the New York Yankees won

The Dodgers weren't expected to win last year, so GM Fred Claire knew it was no time to stand pat. In 12 seasons with Baltimore, Eddie Murray averaged .295 with 28 homers and 99 RBI. He's happy to be in LA and should have a big season with Willie Randolph, Alfredo Griffin (coming off a dismal .199 season) and Gibson (if healthy) hitting at the top of the order. Having Murray hitting fourth should also help Mike Marshall (.277, 20 HR, 82 RBI), center fielder John Shelby and catcher Mike Scioscia. Third baseman Jeff Hamilton, who only had 10 walks in 309 at-bats, hits eighth.

Orel Hershiser says if he doesn't win 20 games and have an ERA unsuccessful season. The Dodgers don't have to worry about Orel, but will Tim Leary (17-11) and Tim Belcher (12-6) pitch as well?

San Diego Padres The Padres made a dramatic improvement last season and became a genuine threat with some bigtime acquisitions during the winter Luc Longley scored on a layin with 48 seconds remaining to give the Lobos a 65-64 lead. New Mexico didn't score again.

The Lobos had a chance to take a three-point lead with less than 20 seconds left, but Newberry stole the ball from Willie Banks in the corner and fed Gray under the basket for the winning score.

The Lobos had another chance with four seconds left, but Newberry again stole the ball and threw it in the air as time ran out.

Gray scored 34 points -21 in the second half - and grabbed 11 rebounds to pace the Billikens, 26-9. Bonner added 16 points and 10 rebounds.

Soviets heavy steroid users

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet sports is riddled with steroid use and Olympic athletes even had a secret laboratory on a ship near Seoul to make sure their urine would pass doping tests, a magazine reports.

'On the ship 'Mikhail Sholokhov,' which was docked 60 kilometers from Seoul, there was an area that was probably even more heavily guarded than the reactor on a nuclear submarine," the youth magazine Smena said. "But it held not a reactor, but a $2.5-million laboratory for doping analysis.

Doping begins very early for many Soviet athletes, Smena said. At the last Spartakiad, a national youth Olympics, dozens of cases of drug-use were discovered, the magazine reported.

The magazine quoted an athlete who claimed that she and her teammates were given drugs by the team doctor and told they were vitamins.

"They knew what kind of 'vitamins' these were," said the athlete, who asked not to be unidentified. "And that if you refused, you'd be thrown off the team. ... Now I'm practically an invalid .... constant pains ... my whole hormonal system is destroyed, my health is ruined ... and my life is still ahead of me, I would have liked to become a mother.

Drug use among athletes has long been hushed up in a "pact of silence," the magazine said, and the officials charged with controlling it are more interested in racking up the maximum number of medals.

The article listed several cases when Soviet athletes suddenly bowed out of competition, claiming injury or illness when actually secret tests revealed telltale signs of drug use in their urine.

At the Winter Olympics in Calgary, it said, Soviet skier Allar Levandi did very well in the trials, but then his trainers told him, "You've suddenly gotten a terrible stomach ache, you understand?"

Similar withdrawals following positive test results occurred repeatedly this decade at international competitions in track and field, pentathlon and weightlifting, Smena said.

Soviet athletes not only use anabolic steroids, they also sell them, it said.

The best-known recent case involved speedskater Nikolai Gulvaev, who was accused of selling steroids at a competition in Innsbruck, Austria. In 1984, Canadian customs agents nabbed two Soviet weightlifters with steroids.

Smena praised current efforts in the West to crack down on drug use in sports, saying that at least there, "The violators themselves are not charged with catching the violators, as they are here.

Ex-HC coach may get SHSU job

HUNTSVILLE - Sam Houston Athletic Director Ron Randleman said he plans to announce a new men's basketball coach today, and a Huntsville radio station is reporting that South Alabama assistant Larry Brown will get the job. Brown coached the Howard College Hawks during the 1986-87 season, leading the Hawks to a 14-15 record.

Randleman has scheduled a morning news conference to announce a replacement for Gary Moss, who was fired Jan. 7 after being slapped with stiff penalities by the NCAA for infractions committed while he was at West Texas State Huntsville radio station KSAM reports its sources close to the situation say Brown is SHSU's choice.

NFL to keep instant replay

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) - NFL owners voted to continue their instant-replay experiment for a fourth straight year, approving a one-year extension by a 24-4 vote.

The 24 votes were three more than the three-quarters needed and the most the experiment ever has received.

However, owners declined to include an experiment that would have an asterisk included on the videotape indicating the exact moment the referee whistled the play to a stop.

PHOENIX (AP) - Allison Finney birdied her first three holes and her final four for a 7-under-par 66 and a two-shot lead over Beth Daniel after the first round of the $400,000 LPGA Turquoise Classic.

Finney, whose best finish in her seven-year LPGA career is a tie for second place at the 1985 Hall of Fame Championship, came within one stroke of tying Amy Alcott's course-record 65 set in last year's first round.

Denver seeking Bills DE

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) - Bruce Smith, the Buffalo Bills' two-time All-Pro defensive end, agreed to a deal with the Denver Broncos for what sources said is $7.5 million over five years.

The Bills now have a week to match the offer or allow Smith to go to Denver in return for two first-round draft choices under the old freeagent rules, which require compensation and right of first refusal.

The 6-foot-4, 285-pound Smith was the first choice in the 1984 NFL draft and was second in the AFC last year with 11 sacks despite missing four games after being suspended for a second violation of the NFL's substance abuse rules.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Rick Mears, Al Unser and Danny Sullivan, who have a combined eight victories in the Indianapolis 500, were named as drivers on six entries announced for the May 28 race.

All three will be driving new PC-18 chassis powered by Chevrolet for Penske Racing. The Penske team also entered three other cars which will carry the Chevy Indy V-8 engine. No driver was listed for those entries.

In addition to the Penske entries, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway announced three entries for Italy's Teo Fabi by Porsche Motorsports and another from Milligan-Burns Racing, which did not list a driver.

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) Pete Incaviglia says his 1989 goals are to hit .300 and drive in 100 runs and that if he reaches them, the Texas Rangers could win the American League West. "I don't care how many home runs I hit," Incaviglia said. "I'm going to hit homers. I'll hit 25 by accident. But I want to hit .300 and drive in 100 runs because I know we'll be very, very close to winning (the division) if I do - and that's Incaviglia has made drastic changes in a swing that has produced three-year averages of .257, 26 home runs, 74 RBI and 169 Manager Bobby Valentine said Incaviglia shortened his stride from 36 to 16 inches, allowing him to keep his head still, pick up the ball quicker and see it longer. 'He looks like a legitimate, nice, pure hitter," Valentine said. "He's not there, but he's getting closer "The way he hit before, I thought was one of the most remarkable athletic feats — when he hit the ball. He did so many things. He had a 36-inch stride. His head moved half that distance forward and down. To still be able to hit the ball like that was remarkable.'

change, Incaviglia finally succumbed last winter. Beginning just after the holidays, he worked on the adjustments almost daily with Valentine.

"I went to Bobby and said, 'This ain't gonna work anymore,"' Incaviglia said. "I'll always be able to hit 30 homers and drive in 80 runs, but I want to hit 40 and drive in 120

"Bobby said, 'Why not cut down the stride, cut down the swing, see the ball better and cut down strikeouts?' Basically, overstriding caused me to see the ball too late. Now, I'm seeing the ball a lot longer.

"I put too much (emphasis) on hitting home runs. I never thought about (hitting) .300, or any of the little things like hitting the ball the other way with a man on third.'

Tuesday, Incaviglia hit his second homer in three days, his first round-trippers of the spring. His 1-for-4 day left him at .250 for the exhibition season in 44 spring atbats. He's also produced key singles and doubles.

Valentine said Incaviglia has been getting "very quality at-bats, quality swings, quality takes. He's doing the things he's supposed to be doing. It. (.300) is realistic.

Upsets

 Continued from page 1-B 3-point range in that half wasn't enough to loosen Virginia's sagging defense, and set the Cavaliers up nicely for the final 20 minutes. Coach Terry Holland told his team at intermission that, while Oklahoma was having some success from outside, "King only has two points, and we have 42 and they have 37.

Bryant Stith pounded Oklahoma inside with 17 first-half points, and Richard Morgan added 12 from outside. Those two continued their inside-outside success in the second half, while Brent Dabbs grabbed eight of his career-high 14 rebounds and John Crotty ran things from the point.

King helped Oklahoma take a 53-50 lead early in the second half, but a Morgan 3-pointer capped a 12-2 run that gave Virginia a 62-55 lead

After the Sooners rallied again to take a 72-69 lead with 5:08 left, Morgan hit a pair of 3-pointers in a 9-0 spurt that gave the Cavaliers the lead for good.

Michigan 92, North Carolina 87

Rice and the Wolverines, 27-7, did exactly that against North Carolina in avenging two previous NCAA tournament losses to the Tar Heels. Rice made eight 3-pointers, including a backbreaker with 1:02 left, as Michigan reached a regional final for the first time s nce 1977.

Rice's jumper from the right baseline gave Michigan a 90-85 lead, and the Tar Heels would get no closer than three after that.

Because of the all the injuries to the pitching staff last season, it's hard to call the Giants' 83-79 finish disappointing.

Houston Astros

The Astros tried all winter to come up with a big hitter and are still trying. General Manager Dick Woods has attempted to acquire Boston's Wade Boggs, but the Red Sox want right-hander Mike Scott in return.

What the Astros accomplished was hiring a new manager, Art Howe. The former Houston infielder is a little more mellow than Hal Lanier and plays a wide open game.

Even Boggs' addition would not solve the Astros' biggest need: power. Last season, the Astros hit 96 homers and first baseman Glenn Davis accounted for 30. Next in line was outfielder Kevin Bass with 14. Davis needs some support. He was intentionally walked 20 times last season and hit by a pitch 11 count. Pitching is expected to be the Astros' strength, but last season average when hitting with an 0-2

Scott (14-8, 2.92) slipped from 306 strikeouts in 1986 to 190 last season. But in 1988, opposing batters hit only .204 against him. He's followed in the rotation by Bob Knepper (14-5), Jim Deshaies (11-14), and newcomers Rick Rhoden and Jim Clancy (11-13 for Toronto). Nolan Ryan's fastball will be missed but Clancy may be able to match his 12 victories for the Astros last year.

The bullpen is strong with Dave Smith (27 saves), Juan Agosto (10-2, 2.26) and Larry Andersen.

If the Astros can improve on their .244 team average they will be in the race.

Atlanta Braves In 1988, the Braves scored the fewest runs (555) and allowed the most (741). They also led the league with 151 errors.

'The Last Supper'

To Leonardo da Vinci — and to most Christians — the image of The Last Supper, shown here in a 1950 photograph of da Vinci's "The Last Supper," is of a formal, seated gathering at a rectangle table. But scholars at a Bible research center say diners in Christ's era more likely reclined on floor cushions for festive meals, as the Romans did.

Craftsman signifies his faith

NEW YORK (AP) — Down in the hill country of south Texas, a craftsman with a fancy for symbolism pursues that ancient way of conveying faith, expressing it in signs and images.

They're myriad kinds – a fish, circle, dove, Greek letters, flames, a flower, anchor, crown, a cross

"I had something I wanted to say that's important to me, and I wanted to share it with others," says James Avery, 67, whose company at Kerville, Texas, turns out religiously symbolic jewelry.

"I know these things are strengthening to people," he said in a telephone interview, telling of many letters received

SAN ANTONIO (AP) – The church was jammed with worshipers when Rick Rodriguez was overcome by what he remembers as an intense white light.

Almost blinding, it was accompanied by a warm voice.

"Rick," the voice said, "one day you're going to serve me and it's not going to be as a deacon or lay person.

Rodriguez sat trembling in his front-row pew

"I thought everyone in that church knew it had happened to me," he recalled. "There's no doubt the Lord was calling me. Sometimes I pray for another one.

'In many cases, Hispanic parents feel they'll never be able to see their sons again," Garcia said. "Many have the image their sons will be locked up behind brick walls.'

Some Hispanic candidates for the priesthood also have heard the reservations expressed by parents. "Perdi mi hijo a la iglesia (I lost my son to the church)' is an expression used by some Hispanic parents," said 29-year-old Joe Aviles, who is in his fourth year at Assumption. "They describe a vocation to the priesthood in terms of a loss.

When Aviles told his parents he by Berma Small, ladies class was considering the priesthood, however, he said he received nothing but encouragement. "I praised the Lord when Joe told affirming it and special requests for items in times of crisis.

Pictorial art and symbols were - until the 15th century invention of the printing press the main representation for common people of Christianity, registered in church sculptury figures and mosaics.

But in modern times, such in direct religious expression has become less prominent, along with a shift away from decorative churches, with the meaning of many symbols often not known.

"It's a sometimes forgotten, but powerful language," Avery said

However, his output of symbol-bearing pins, rings, pendants, key chains, necklaces, bracelets, earrings and other items in silver and gold has grown from a one-man shop in his garage to a $22 million-ayear business.

It includes, besides his main design and hand-crafting center on a tree-clad hillside at Kerville, 22 retail stores, mostly in Texas and Oklahoma, plus an extensive mail-order trade, and employs about 600 people.

'I didn't get into this to make money," he said, relating how he turned to it at a stressful point in his own life to find a simpler, more constructive way of living

At that time, the Milwaukeeborn Avery, then a fine arts professor at the University of Colorado, had been without religious faith, his first marriage collapsed.

'It started me doing some pretty heavy thinking," he said. 'I was trying to get back on a track with some values and that were lasting." He returned to the Episcopal Church which he had abandoned in his college days.

Now a "a very strong, committed Christian," he said:

"There is no help in us ourselves. It comes from the outside. You can't stare at your navel and get it. It comes from without, from God himself. That's where the healing and help comes from.

Settling in 1954 in Kerville, northwest of San Antonio, he hung a sign on his garage, "James Avery Craftsman," the name of his company ever since. He wasn't even sure then just what crafting he would do. As a World War II Air Force bomber flier, while still an agnositic, he had carried a charm given him by an African native who said it would protect from "boom, boom."

til it produces its own leadership. About 40 percent of diocesan priests are from foreign countries, such as Ireland, Poland and Spain. If we didn't have foreign-born priests, we couldn't do the job we're doing now." -

Father David Garcia. following his graduation in 1982, he began answering the call in a seminary college in Columbus. From there, Rodriguez switched to Assumption Seminary on San Antonio's West Side where he was poised to become Toledo's first native-born Hispanic priest. Then he dropped out.

"There's something about life that the seminary can't teach you," said the 24-year-old Rodriguez, now a waiter at TGIFriday's while on a leave of absence from the seminary. "I want to be on my own for a while.

His departure unfortunately is typical. Not even a direct call from God, it seems, is enough to keep Hispanic males interested in the priesthood.

The problem especially is pronounced in the 23-county Archdiocese of San Antonio, where all but a few of the candidates study-

The pool, however, is not being tapped.

'The vast majority of Hispanic priests are not from here," Garcia said.

Of the 1,954 Hispanic priests in this country in 1988, only 252 were born in the United States. The majority were from Spain, Mexico and Central and South America.

As part of his nuts and bolts recruitment plan, Garcia will try to visit every parish in the archdiocese. He also will scout college campuses for prospective minority vocations, including some from the black community. There are no black seminarians studying at Assumption.

"I will be working with the black community to address that," Garcia said.

Probably the most baffling reason for the shortage of Hispanic priests in this country is the attitude expressed by Hispanic parents.

Local church officials say some parents discourage their sons from considering the priesthood because they believe that a member of their family is not worthy of such a sacred calling. Others believe that the church takes men into medieval monasteries and locks me he wanted to be a priest," said his mother; Julia Aviles, a Uvalde resident. "I wish all of my children would have a vocation.

In addition to Joe, one of her daughters also lives the religious life. Sister Dolores Aviles, 35, is the former principal of St. Teresa's Academy here. She was transferred to New Orleans after the school's recent closing.

Even without parental skep-ticism, potential Hispanic candidates are tempted away from the priestly life by careers that pay more than the $450 a month and $150 car allowance offered by the church.

"Free room and board isn't enough to make a difference, either," Aviles said, noting that the archbishop earns only $50 a month more than the troops.

'Hispanic men who are intelligent and ambitious are choosing to be doctors and lawyers. The priesthood is not an option for many of those, in terms of making it in the eyes of society," he said.

Gourley is adding a safeguard. As pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, Gourley exhausted a $2,000 donation to encourage gun owners to turn in their weapons, offering $100 for each. He collected 38 guns, about half with no request for payment.

But after one man reportedly used the $100 to buy an assault rifle, Gourley told the National Catholic Reporter that any extension of the program would require a signed promise not to use the money to buy another weapon.

Gourley notes that the Bible advises being "innocent as a lamb and wise as a serpent.

* * * NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) -Criswell College in Dallas, headed by the Rev. Paige Patterson, a fundamentalist leader among Southern Baptists, is negotiating to buy a financially troubled Belgian school, stirring unease among European Baptists.

"He doesn't seem to be very interested in what we think and feel," the Rev. Knud Wumpelmann of Denmark, general secretary of the European Baptist Federation, told Baptist Press. He said Patterson has made "no contact whatever" with the federation Pastor Bobby W. Fuiler will begin a special topics Sunday School class in the church auditorium Sunday at 9:45 a.m. The class is open to singles or couples.

The plan also was criticized by the Rev. R. Keith Parks, president of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, as violating its spirit of cooperation with European Baptists.

Patterson lately gained a seat on the board's trustees, becoming one of Parks' overseers

NEW YORK (AP) - More than 100 clergy and lay leaders of the United Church of Christ, many of them black, have appealed to President Bush to end U.S. aid to UNITA rebels in Angola.

Calling the rebels led by Jonas Savimbi a "terrorist group," the church leaders sent a similar appeal to the House and Senate foreign relations committees.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jewish leaders, after their first White House meeting with President Bush since his inauguration, said he emphasized he would use every opportunity to advance Middle East peace. He also said he would do nothing to diminish the close U.S.-Israel ties, according to Seymour D. Reich, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish Oranizations. He called the 45-minute meeting with 16 Jewish leaders "warm and friendly."

Buffalo goaltender Clint Malarchuk was released from Buffalo General Hospital Thursday, less than 24 hours after suffering a partially severed external jugular vein and a severed neck muscle goalmouth collision. He will miss at least another week

STATUS

SIGNING ON

Former NHL star Don McKenney, an assistant at Northeastern University for 19 years, Thursday was named to succeed Fern Flaman as head coach. Flaman retired after the 1988-89 season. McKenney played 13 seasons in the NHL and was a member of Toronto's Stanley Cup championship team in 1964.

SCOUTING Stephane Lebeau of Sherbrooke (Canadiens) scored his 69th goal of the season and had one assist, setting an AHL record with 131 points in a 7-7 tie against Halifax Nordiques). Paul Gardner scored 130 points in 1984-85 for Binghamton.

SPEAKING

When I saw the blood, I flipped my mask off. It was incredible. As my heart would beat, it would squirt. I thought I was dving then, I really did. I knew it was my jugular vein and that I didn't have long to live." - Buffalo goaltender Clint Malarchuk.

1988-Pittsburgh's Mario Lemieux had two goals and three assists against Montreal, giving him 155 points for the season the bighest total for any player other than Wayne Gretzky. Lemieux surpassed Phil Esposito's total of 152 set in 1970-71.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): People want you to go where you would rather not. Be kind but firm. As long as you remain calm, a disagreement should not produce strain. Simple pleasures hold the most appeal today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): It is hard to say "no" when an unexpected offer is so alluring. You can enjoy beauty without unpleasant entanglements. The best companions are those who have your interests at heart.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Golden opportunities appear, but you should not pursue them too hurriedly. Do not make commitments you might regret later on.

Bear with a misunderstanding for now. Time will prove you right.

CANCER (June 21 July 22): Do not let anger or frustration lead you into acting too aggressively. Choose your words with care. Punishing a young person severely can backfire. Use a reward system for good behavior.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A child will learn more from your example than from a lecture. Resist an inappropriate love match. Choose a spouse who will not embarrass you. Your friendships are a source of comfort

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Curb everyday spending so you can take that dream vacation! Enlist the cooperation of your family, too. A business or romantic meeting is featured tonight. The results should delight you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You could get the wrong impression about a pal unless you are alert to his body language. Romance is in the air. Be flexible if entertaining. Welcome the friend of a friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your social life should be more lively now, especially if your arrangements include visitors from afar. Afternoon is an ideal time for negotiating business deals. Press for the best terms you can get.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Trust your hunches if thinking about launching a new partnership. You may need more information before signing on the dotted line. Accept an interesting invitation for weekend travel. Romance has a new lustre.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Read between the lines today. Someone may have ulterior motives. Use your knowledge of others to gain a subtle advantage in negotiations. Resist an urge to delegate tasks you should handle personally.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Business and your personal finances require good judgment this morning; scrutinize paperwork carefully. Expect new developments through your friends or coworkers. Thank someone for working behind the scenes on your behalf.
