Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, voted against the bill, saying that wearing of a helmet should be a matter of personal choice.

"This is just another case of the government taking away individual freedom," Fraser said today. "I don't think it should be dictating every aspect of our personal lives.

"Personally, I ride a motorcycle, and I wear a helmet," Fraser added, "and I insist that my kids wear a helmet everytime they ride motorcycles . . . but I think it should be a personal choice."

Fraser said he supported two amendments to the bill that were defeated Wednesday.

The first amendment would have freed the state from any that you and I take for granted. finacial responsibility from injuries suffered from any riders everything all over again. The bill passed on second reading Wednesday, and must be accepted on a third reading before it goes to the governor, Fraser said, adding that the final reading is expected today.

Rep. Larry Warner called the measure "a nanny bill" and said the current law requiring helmets for those under age 18 is sufficient

"This is a baby-sitting bill," AUSTIN - Gov. Bill Clements said Warner, D-Port Isabel. He suggested that future measures in the same vein might "tell us we need to get more exercise and eight hours' worth of sleep and stop smoking and eat all our vegetables and sit up straight."

Rep. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, also defended his right to choose whether to wear protective headgear.

"I own a motorcycle, and I own a helmet. Sometimes I wear a helmet, and sometimes I don't. It's a matter of choice. Sometimes I like to feel the wind blowing through my hair,' Wallace said.

Candidates differ on taxes

Mayoral candidate A.C. "Cotton" Mize told area business men and women that the city can't progress in the 1990s without a tax increase, while opponent Maxwell Green said the city can get along just fine without one.

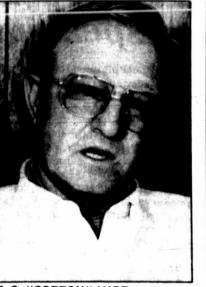

The two made their comments this morning when they squared off in a quasi debate sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

The informal breakfast meeting at Furr's Cafeteria gave each candidate a chance to answer six business-related questions.

When asked if the city could move forward without some kind of tax increase, Mize, current Big Spring mayor, said: "I don't believe we can without a tax increase. We've got a lot of programs going, and programs cost money.

However, he said, the city should try to find other ways to increase the general revenue fund, including pursuing the federal detention center being considered for placement in Big Spring.

"That's one of the avenues we've got to explore to increase revenues in our general fund," Mize said of the detention center.

Green contended, however, that the city can move forward without a tax increase. He advocated more efficiency within city government while promoting greater growth.

"Growth generates additional revenues for the city," he said. "We have to determine what services are absolutely essential or vital to our community. If we will control our costs. . . if we will plan, we can get through.

Green said as mayor he will begin with a budget of zero, then require each city department to justify its programs' existence and Mize and Green said the city could increase tax revenues by increasing its tax base. Mize said Big Spring should be more aggressive in the competition among West Texas cities to attract businesses.

While agreeing to a bigger tax base, Green said the city shouldn't offer tax abatements or incentives unless it offers them to all businesses in Big Spring. However, he said, some type of incentive should be offered to city employees to increase their efficiency. Mize advocated a tax abatement program modeled after that used by Beaumont.

Both candidates stressed a positive attitude when asked for specifics about their vision for the city through the next decade. Green advocated a cleaner, nicer community to better attract "The big thing I think Big Spring needs... is an attitude that says 'We can do it,' " Green told the crowd of nearly 75.

Mize believes the city should strive to be the best town of its size in the state.

'My vision is, I think, a realistic one. I don't think our town can ever be a Dallas or Lubbock, but I think our town can be the best of 20-25,000 (population) in the state," he said. To make the city more attractive

Search ends in arrests

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

Five Big Spring men were ar rested Wednesday evening on charges of possession of a controlled substance, possession of drug paraphenalia and possession of marijuana under 2 ounces, Sheriff A.N. Standard said today.

Standard said the arrests on drug charges represent nothing on any large scale" but may be a stepping stone to solving future drug-related

The five arrested are: Abel Martinez, 34, 504 N. Runnels; Joe Alcantar, 23, 502 N. Runnels St. Montana Rosenda Jr., 22, 301 N.W. 10th St.; Johnny Hilario Munoz. 227, 108 N. Nolan; and Adam Valen cia, 28, 202 N.E. Third St. Bond for the suspects is expected to be set later today.

The arrests of the five came after the sheriff's department received confidential information that peo ple at the location were selling drugs or possibly trading drugs for stolen guns, a sheriff's report said.

Standard said he believed there was enough evidence for probable cause, based on the information he received, and asked Justice of the Peace China Long to issue a search warrant.

Because the search warrant was to be issued within city limits, Standard said city police were contacted beforehand and asked to participate in the search. "It was initiated by this office, (but) we asked the police department to participate)," he said.

Five sheriff's deputies and a city police officer served the search warrant at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday at 1111 W. Fourth St.

A search of the location turned up alleged drug-related paraphenalia in the southwest corner of the building, the sheriff's report said.

A search of a blue 1970 Buick alledgedly belonging to one of the men - located in front of the building yielded three bags of a green leafy substance thought to be marijuana, the sheriff's report said. A red toolbox in the truck of the vehicle allegedly contained a white powdery ball.

The substances were taken to Midland for analysis, Standard said. Test results could be in later today or in 2-3 weeks. The confiscated items are suspected to be crack, cocaine and marijuana, he said.

Standard said the arrests were "nothing substantial by any means," but said, "hopefully it will subdue other (drug-related) activities in Howard County.'

modest fixed income did not allow them to finance needed repairs such as roofing work. So, despite their concern for their longtime residence, the couple could do little more than watch their home on Peach street slowly deteriorate. However, the couple's worry was replaced by optmisism when their home was chosen last year by the organizers of Christmas in April as a local residence the volunteer group would renovate at no charge. Christmas in April was organized in June to repair the houses of local elderly and handicapped residents. In April 1988, more than 600 volunteers completed repairs on 15 homes

This year, Bob Noyes, president, expects more volunteers and to repair at least 20 houses.

Noyes called the group's accomplishment last year "the largest volunteer community project ever put on in Big Spring." But for the Burchams, the most impressive aspect of the project was not its scope, but the dedication and kindness of the Christmas volunteers during the 1988 campaign. About 20 houses are scheduled to be worked on this year.

Congressman says scientific community doesn't support SSC

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Penn- Democrat and member of the sylvania Republican says support for the super collider is "very thin" in the scientific community, but Texas Democrats argue that beyond the turf battles for funds is commitment to the particle

This project is virtually devoid of support from the scientific and engineering community," Rep. Don Ritter told a House committee Wednesday that was reviewing the site selection process that awarded Texas the $4.6 billion project.

The real question is not how, it is now where, not when, it is if (it will be built)," Ritter said after the hearing. "The real issue is are we going to commit $10 billion.'

Rep. Ralph Hall, a Rockwall

House Science, Space and Technology Committee, said he agrees there is some opposition to the project in the scientific community, as well as support.

'It's hard for me to believe there's quote 'no' support at any level of science," Hall said. "I think there is some support for it, but it's correct to say there's some opposition.'

The subcommittee on energy research and development was scheduled to decide this afternoon whether to authorize construction of the project, but officials say the real battle in Congress will be over the level of funding and what is essential to begin actually building the 53-mile underground tunnel on farmland south of Dallas.

"There is no question some scientists are opposed to the SSC due to the competition for scarce research funds," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a Texas Democrat.

'But there are enormous scientific gains to be made from the SSC project in a wide variety of fields and I am convinced that when you get beyond some of the turf fights, the scientific community recognizes the benefits and understands the need for the project," Bentsen said.

Ritter, however, said he has found a "decided lack of interest" within the engineering and scientific community and even hostility toward the proposed spending of what he estimates as $10 billion over the next decade on the highenergy physics project.

The Energy Department estimates construction costs in current dollars at $4.6 billion.

Ritter said scientists outside the high-energy community were never involved in Congress' decision to pursue construction of the collider, which backers hope will help science understand the fundamental nature of matter.

Rep. Robert A. Roe, D-N.J., the chairman of the House committee, said he saw no evidence to indicate the Energy Department's decision to locate the project in Texas was subject to "chicanery" or "some kind of hidden agenda.

Congressmen from Illinois and Michigan complained the DOE may not have adequately assessed certain factors in making its choice over six other finalist states, including their own and Tennessee, North Carolina, Colorado and Arizona

"I've not seen that they've (Energy Department officials) made any significant mistakes," Roe said.

Rep. Harris W. Fawell, R-Ill., repeatedly questioned witnesses from the Energy Department and the National Academies of Sciences and Engineering, which chose the finalist sites from 35 candidates, about whether the potential contribution of Fermilab, a particle accelerator near Chicago, was adequately assessed.

Ritter questioned whether the Energy Department gave enough attention to the potential impact the venemous fire ant would have on the collider. He said the agency devoted only a paragraph to the fire ant in its lengthy environmental impact statement.

S. Bradleigh Vinson, professor of entomology at Texas A&M University, said that while the fire ants of Central Texas do threaten electrial power systems and people, they can be "effectively dealt with." While fire ants will chew through underground electrical wiring and cause outages, Vinson said the super collider would be deep enough to avoid the ants, and the thickness of the concrete and plastic liners would be an effective

Wright skirted speaking fee limits

Speaker Jim Wright converted a $3,000 speaking fee from a Texas university into a bulk sale of his book, "Reflections of a Public Man," because he otherwise couldn't accept the money under House rules, the speaker acknowledged.

The sale of 504 copies of the book to Southwest Texas State University following a 1984 lecture Wright delivered at the school is under examination, along with other such sales, as part of an ethics committee investigation of the speaker's

An aide asked him what to do about it, Wright told reporters on Wednesday.

"I said $3,000 is actually more than I can properly accept," the speaker said he responded. "He said, well, maybe they want to buy some books. I said if they want to buy some books, that'll be fine. I don't think there's anything wrong with that."

Wright's income from the book sales — about $1,650 — was not subject to House limitations.

The incident is similar to a previously reported bulk sale of the book in 1985, when Wright sent 336 copies to the New England life insurance company in return for $2,000 initially intended as an honorarium.

Wright received 55 percent of the proceeds from each copy of the slim $5.95 volume, collecting a total the $23,630 maximum he could ac- of $55,000 in royalties:

The ethics committee was meeting again today and had a full day of deliberations scheduled for Friday. Chairman Julian Dixon, D-Calif., said he anticipated some conclusion in the case next week.

As the committee went into the home stretch in its deliberations, Wright's allies were preparing their defense, compiling lengthy point-by-point rebuttals to potential findings of rules violations.

But the speaker's opponents said even if some charges are dropped, the remaining issues are serious enough to cause the speaker severe political damage.

Business

McALLEN (AP) - Public demand for pesticide-free food is fueling a rising interest in natural pestcontrol methods, said participants of an international meeting on use of biological agents in farming.

More than 200 scientists and agriculture officials from around the world took part in the three-day International Symposium on Biological Control Implementation, which concludes today.

Biological control is the use of beneficial insects and other organisms to attack harmful pests and weeds. The biological agents typically eliminate or reduce the use of chemicals

The symposium observed the centennial of the 1889 use of the Vedalia beetle to control a parasite the cottony cushion scale — that threatened the California citrus industry. Importation of the Vedalia beetle marked the beginning of biological control in the United States. Recent scares resulting from possibly harmful chemicals in apples and other fruits and vegetables and in the water supply have contributed to a rising public demand for biological pest control, said scientists at the meeting sponsored principally by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the North American Plant Protection

The public is so concerned about the chemical residues that eating," said Edgar King, lab director for the subtropical agricultural research laboratory of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Weslaco.

"The driving point on the implementation of biological control, is going to be the food-safety and ground-water quality issues, coupled with escalating costs and availability of effective insecticides," King said.

USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service also took part in the symposium.

While insects continuously develop resistance to pesticides, government regulation makes it increasingly expensive to introduce new chemicals, said William Metterhouse, director of the Division of Plant Industry with the New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

New Jersey has been a leader in biological pest control since the 1923 use of nematodes and bacteria to control the Japanese beetle that was destroying crops there.

Another successful program is the use of parasites to fight the cereal leaf beetle, Metterhouse

"We're saving millions of dollars in insecticides resulting from that program," he said, adding he has seen a growing interest for research in such programs in other states, "because of our need to find alternatives to pesticides.'

Biofac Inc., based in the South Texas city of Mathis, is one of many companies hoping to prosper with the market for biological control agents. Biofac President Budare in and on the food they are dy Maedgen said he is marketing

'It's out of the hippie realm now," said Maedgen, a former farmer. "I think there are a lot of people in middle-class America who are demanding pesticide-free foods and water.'

One problem of commercialization is that natural organisms cannot be patented, "unless you have a process you can protect," said David J. Greathead, director of Ascot, England-based CAB International Institute of Biological Control, which is owned by 28 British Commonwealth governments and Advances in research depend on easy international exchange of beneficial organisms, he said.

Demand for biological control also is increasing in Latin America, said Cristina Rodriguez-Padilla, with the biological sciences faculty at the University of Nuevo Leon in Monterrey, Mexico.

"It's more a matter of health and ecology," she said. "It's a way to keep from ruining the world."

House panel decides to equalize school funding

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee has decided to set aside money to equalize public school funding, a reversal of its stance on the issue. Committee members on Tuesday rejected a proposal to earmark $675 million for equity funding, then Wednesday voted to spend $500 million for such a plan.

The funding plan follows a court ruling two years ago that declared the school finance system unconstitutionally flawed. An appeals court sided with the state, however, and the issue is pending before the Texas Supreme Court.

The committee's turnaround came after House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, urged it to reverse the initial decision. Lewis has been pushing for $600 million in equity funding for the 1990-91 budget period.

Panel OKs removal of price controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee today approved a bill that would remove remaining price controls from natural gas on

Jan. 1, 1993. Approval by the energy and power subcommittee of the House Energy and Commerce Committee came on a voice vote, sending the bill to the full committee. A similar bill has been introduced in the Senate. The subcommittee's action ratified a consensus achieved earlier this year in back-room negotiations among all the major factions involved in what has sometimes been one of the most bitter fights in Congress. From 33 percent to 40 percent of all natural gas, which supplies roughly a quarter of the nation's energy needs, is still sold at controlled prices The controls, established in 1954, have evolved through several control schemes since then. A partial decontrol in 1985 confounded many observers when it was followed by a price collapse, driving some well operators to accept prices below their ceilings. The gas still under controls comes from wells that were in production in 1977. The average March spot price in producing states, as reported by the newsletter Natural Gas Intelligence, was $1.44 per thousand cubic feet; contracts for pre-1977 gas range down to about 30 cents per thousand cubic feet. A 1978 bill established several price categories for gas discovered after that date, some of which became free of controls in 1985. The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission allowed the lowerpriced categories of the rest of the post-1978 gas to rise to the highest price, which was above the market

Palestinians: Ideas needed

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir came to Washington Wednesday bearing peace. At least that was the message from Jerusalem on the eve of his trip. A Shamir aide said the prime minister is bringing "new ideas for negotiating a settlement" to the intifada, the 16-month-old Palestinian uprising in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

As welcome as such an initiative would be from Israel's intransigent champion of current policy, it's likely that the "new ideas" are as old as Israel's Camp David accords with Egypt, which Shamir opposed 10 years ago. The Shamir interpretation of those agreements today is totally inadequate for dealing with the present situation.

That's the message President Bush must deliver when he meets Thursday with the prime minister. He must seek to persuade the prime minister that permanent Israeli rule is not only undesirable; it is a threat to Israel itself.

Although Shamir has hinted for some weeks that he has a new peace proposal, he has kept details to himself. He is expected, however, to call for the election of Palestinian representatives from the West Bank and Gaza to negotiate with Israel.

Unfortunately, Shamir's interpretation of "autonomy" for the occupied territories includes neither Palestinian sovereignty nor Israeli troop withdrawal. Nor does it include direct talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization, the only body capable of speaking on behalf of the Palestinians.

The United States, of course, has been talking to the PLO for four months — since PLO chairman Yasser Arafat publicly renounced terrorism and recognized Israel's right to exist. Talks earlier this week between President Bush and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak also seemed designed to press Israel to make concessions. Bush said afterward that both Egypt and the United States want an end to Israeli occupation.

Bush also gave qualified support to an international conference on the Middle East, an idea that Shamir adamantly opposes. "A properly structured international conference could play a useful role at an appropriate time," the president said.

Thursday, President Bush will say similar things to Prime Minister Shamir, but his basic message must be unequivocal: The United States will not support endless. Israeli rule over 1.7 million people who bitterly reject it.

There is room for negotiation, of course, when it comes to how the occupation ends, and the Palestinians themselves share in the responsibility for making sure that peace prevails. They must do whatever is necessary to assure the people of Israel that Arabs still aren't bent on conquering Israel and annihilating the Jewish population. That assurance has not been forthcoming, despite Arafat's repudiation of terrorism.

Bush aptly described what is ultimately needed in the Middle East — from Shamir and from the Palestinians

'There is a need now for creativity, demonstrable commitment and the application of sound principles. Creativity in order to look again at old problems, and then devise imaginative ways of solving them; commitment to face the challenges and risks of making peace rather than throwing up our hands and giving up.

Past performance offers little reason to believe Shamir brings those qualities with him to Washington this week, but that's no reason for "throwing up our hands and giving up." Circumstances change, and so do minds. Making peace in the Middle East is likely to take a long time.

Quayle jokes by Quayle

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Live, from Washington, it's a new crop of Dan Quayle jokes, as told by Vice President Dan Quayle.

He poses no retaliatory threat to the TV comics who have made him the butt of their humor, but Quayle is polishing his style as a black and white-tie humorist.

'Mr. President,' he said to George Bush and 629 other people at a formal dinner Saturday night, "you've been so supportive of me. 'The other day he called me into the Oval Office and said . . . I want to do something that will show the nation what faith I have in you, in your maturity and your sense of responsibility.

'Would you like a puppy?'' The Quayle performances at the dinner of the Gridiron Club and earlier at the Radio and Television Correspondents Association's dinner are in keeping with the springtime rites of Washington, which include a round of formal dinners featuring the leaders of government needling journalists and themselves

Self-effacing humor is deemed best, and the higher the rank, the bigger the laughs. Curiously, that is doubly so if the official involved has been facing the kind of sharp, sometimes personal criticism that has been Quayle's lot ever since he was nominated.

Quayle made his debut as a humorist at the 45th Radio and Television Correspondents dinner a couple of weeks ago. Reviews varied. He was panned in the

That drew more groans than laughs, although variations on the gag had been making the rounds since Tower's rejection by the Senate. "It gets better," Quayle told his tough crowd.

Quayle said some people expected that as vice president he'd behave like Spiro T. Agnew, public enemy of the news media during the Nixon administration until he resigned rather than face prosecution on bribery charges. So, he joked, he'd sought Agnew's advice on press relations. "This time around, tell them 'No More Mr. Nice Guy," he said Agnew counseled.

Gridiron dinners have been the setting for the repair of some political reputations and the denting of others. Nancy Reagan sang "Second Hand Clothes" early in the Reagan administration and deflected criticism of her costly, borrowed gowns and White House china

In keeping with the ritual, Quayle turned his best lines on himself. He said Bush had offered him a new title to describe his duties: "funeral czar.

"I think the president truly appreciates my insights," he said. 'Just the other day he was telling the Cabinet 'If there's one thing I won't tolerate, it's yes men. " 'Isn't that right, Dan?'

table at Secretary of State James A. Baker III. "I owe him so much," he said. "During the campaign he took me under his wing. And kept me there.

Quayle looked down the head

He said Baker advised him on the way to handle the questions about his experience in the vice presidential campaign debate. 'Wait for a strategic moment, then compare yourself to John Kennedy. "Thanks, Jimmy."

Quayle said complaints about youth and inexperience didn't really bother him during the campaign. "What really burned me up were all the stories about my socalled handlers. I finally got so mad I went right to the top. I said 'Marilyn, you've got to do something about this.'

Marilyn, of course, is Mrs. Quayle. Some of the vice president's critics say she's the brains of the family.

"I'll never forget that magic moment we met," Quayle said. 'You remember, dear. When you caught me peeking over your shoulder during the bar exam.

Trying to outdo the hostile humor may seem a strange way to counter it. But it's worked before. Still, there's a lot of mileage left in Quayle jokes. At the Gridiron dinner, Ronald H. Brown, the Democratic chairman, reminded everyone that Washington now has an 11 p.m. curfew for juveniles who do not have essential employment. He turned to Quayle.

"You've only got about an hour and a half, Mr. Vice President.'

Guerrillas wary of Vietnam plan

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - Resistance groups warily greeted Vietnam's pledge end its 10-year military intervention in Cambodia by Sept. 30, and China vowed to continue arming the insurgents until the withdrawal is complete.

China, the main supplier to the three groups seeking to topple Cambodia's Vietnamese-backed government, said it was "entirely just" to keep aiding the resistance until Vietnam makes good on its promise.

'We hope that Vietnam will truly honor its announced commitment, thoroughly and completely withdraw all its armed forces from (Cambodia) as scheduled and that Vietnamese forces will not return under any pretext," the Chinese Foreign Ministry said in a statement.

On Wednesday, Vietnam announced that its remaining 50,000 to 70,000 troops would leave this war-ravaged country to encourage a peaceful resolution of the turmoil that followed its invasion a decade

Wednesday's announcement did not indicate any conditions attached to the withdrawal. But the Vietnamese news agency quoted Vietnam's Foreign Secretary Nguyen Co Thach as urging Sihanouk to break with the Khmer Rouge, strongest of three guerrilla groups in his three-member coalition.

Fear of a return to power by the Khmer Rouge has been a major problems in negotiations on a political settlement. Vietnam ousted the brutal Khmer Rouge regime when it invaded Cambodia. In a statement read to reporters captain of the Exxon Valdez surrendered to police Wednesday, and salvage crews freed the tanker from the reef that ripped its hull and spilled more than 10 million gallons of crude oil.

Cleanup crews continued to skim William Sound, but progress was slow and the oil had spread over an area larger than Delaware. The animal death toll rose and salmon hatcheries remained endangered.

Fired tanker captain Joseph Hazelwood, 42, surrendered to police on New York's Long Island and a judge set his bail at $500,000, dation of $25,000. He had been sought since Saturday on a fugitive warrant on misdemeanor charges of operating the tanker while drunk.

Stripper crashes party

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a party to honor a much-loved and highly respected high school teacher who was retiring after 38 years of service. His wife and family attended, as did all the other teachers.

The social committee hired a young woman to "crash" the party dressed in a policeman's uniform, and give the retiring teacher a "citation." Then, to the accompaniment of some taped music, she stripped down to a black fishnet body stocking with a few doodads here and there, and proceeded to fondle the honored guest while trying to involve him in a very sexy dance!

The honoree was visibly embarrassed but tried to be a good sport. The guests were also embarrassed, but laughed to hide their embarrassment. I was more angry than embarrassed. My first impulse was to leave, but I didn't want to insult the guest of honor and his family, so I stayed and simmered.

I never realized how unusual my mother was until I started working in a beautiful dress shop. I am appalled at the way some women treat the clothes they have tried on! They drop them on the floor and step over them, or wad several dresses together and throw them over a chair — not to mention how they yank the garments over their thighs and split the seams.

Once I waited on a young woman who was trying on dresses. Her mother was with her, and when the girl started to put a dress back on the hanger, her mother said, "Oh, don't bother to do that - the salesgirl will do it!"

Please mention this in your column. Perhaps some people don't 3. realize that when they beat up the merchandise, the store has to mark it down, and they're the ones who take the beating. — OLD-TIME SALESGIRL

DEAR SALESGIRL: You may have done the retail merchants a great favor by writing this letter.

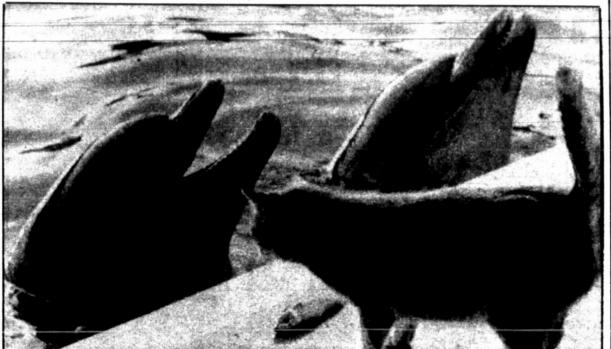

(It's a first.) Ladies, when trying on garments, treat them all as though you were going to own them.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the letter from "Mr. Clean Plate," whose wife considered it bad manners to finish all the food on the plate. You answered, "It's bad manners to mop up every drop of gravy with a piece of bread.'

Abby, that's true in public or when you have guests for dinner, but it's all right in your own home with family. My mother is a wonderful cook. When she makes goulash or chicken livers with rice, I clean my plate. Sometimes when no one is looking, I even lick my plate! Mom considers it the highest compliment. - LICKIN' AND LOVING' IT ON LONG ISLAND

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) -Singer-songwriter Kris Kristofferson and his wife, Lisa, want to fulfill a promise they made to their children's nanny, who was shot to death by her estranged husband.

The Kristoffersons, parents of three young children, would like permanent custody of the nanny's three girls, ages 4 to 12.

Maria Juana Aguilar, 32, asked two years ago that the singer and his wife take care of her children should anything happen to her. The Kristoffersons were awarded temporary guardianship a year ago.

But relatives of Ricardo Arauz now want guardianship of the two youngest girls, fathered by Arauz. Kristofferson said in court documents he wants to provide a warm, loving, supportive and stable home environment for the children of his Salvadoran housekeeper of 10 years.

A hearing was scheduled for May

Arauz, 38, shot and killed the housekeeper a year ago at the Los Angeles home of a relative. Arauz pleaded guilty March 17 to seconddegree murder and faces 17 years to life in state prison when sentenced April 21.

'Mason' does musical turn

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES - "Perry Mason" is doing its first musical mystery on NBC this Sunday, but don't look for Raymond Burr to sing and dance his way into your heart.

Debbie Reynolds, in a guest appearance as a fading movie star looking for a comeback in a Broadway-bound play, handles that chore.

The two-hour movie, "Perry Mason: The Case of the Musical Murder," also stars Raymond Burr as the intrepid lawyer, Barbara Hale as Della Street, William R. Moses and Alexandra Paul as his new investigators, and Jerry Orbach and Dwight Schultz. It was filmed on location in Denver.

Reynolds performs as Amanda Cody, whose play is suddenly derailed when the promising young stage manager is accused of murdering the director. In the play, called "Polly," she's a bawdy house madam and sings two songs, "Polly" and "Madam," written by the show's musical director, Dick Debenedictis

'We did the musical in a lovely theater in Denver that Raymond had gotten permission for us to use," said Reynolds. "Polly's like a Polly Adler. She runs a house of ill repute. That gives it a little color, since it's not my image to play a madam. There aren't many good scripts for a woman my age.

Reynolds made two attempts at TV series, "The Debbie Reynolds Show" about 20 years ago and "Aloha Paradise" in 1981. Both shows were unsuccessful.

The real Hawks show up

By RUTH COCHRAN Staff Writer

Howard College found the antidote for their Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde potion — the same team showed up for both games of the Hawks' doubleheader with Vernon Junior College Wednesday.

On Tuesday, the Hawks were whipped by Vernon in the first game then found a different team to come back and return the favor. Wednesday, Coach Bill Griffin's team smashed Vernon, 13-3, in the first game then managed to field the same team for a 9-3 win in the Howard improved to 32-9 on the year with the wins, while Vernon dropped to 22-13.

Griffin said it was relief to have the right team show up Wednesday.

"It's hard to determine what team we've got until they show not have showed up for all I know.

'The right (Howard) team evidently came out today to play. HC will need another consistent effort Friday and Saturday when they travel to Borger for a threegame stand with conference foe Frank Phillips College. "We've got a lot at stake too because we're in third place (in the Western Conference)," Griffin said. "This helped us get ready.

"I think we played extremely well today. Hopefully we can carry this over when we go up.' First Game

With one left in the bottom of the sixth, the game was called after Howard took a 10-run lead on Vernon. The Hawks squashed Vernon in the third inning, cracking eight hits and five runs for an 8-0 lead.

"That's what opened the door," he said. "They kicked the ball around. We had six outs.

David Wallace batted in four runs, and Darrin Glenn knocked in three runs to lead the Hawks. The team tallied 10 hits with Glenn sailing one homer over the fence

The Hawks couldn't break a persistant Vernon team, but they were a model of consistency over six and one-half innings for the 9-3 win. "We hit the ball better," Griffin said. "I thought we played better defense.'

HC ran off 11 hits, getting only two errors from Vernon and committing none themselves. Homerun ace Glenn knocked in his 14th homer of the year when he sent one over the left field fence in the bottom of the fourth. Two innings later, Paul Spyhalski sailed one over the right field fence for his fourth of the year.

The Hawks got some outstanding base running from Tim Demerson. The Lamesa product tallied two hits by outrunning the throw to first, and he stole two bases.

Dennis Jaeger got the win for HC, starting his record at 1-0.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Players are better, courses are worse and the cascade of greenbacks blows the mind, says golf's ageless patriarch, looking back over nearly a century of the game.

Dapper in his tan knickers and jacket, made in Japan and tailored to specifications, Sarazen sat on the balcony of Augusta National's antebellum clubhouse and whimsically watched golf's modern parade pass before his eyes.

"Look at them," he said. 'College-bred, smart as a whip, most of them millionaires and soon-to-be millionaires. So many that no one man among them will be able to take charge and win those big titles in clusters.

Johnson-Chambers show stops all that Jazz

PHOENIX (AP) — If this was a sneak preview of the playoffs, Kevin Johnson says he wanted his Phoenix Suns to get rave reviews. Johnson scored 13 of his 32 points in the fourth period and Tom Chambers had 11 of his 30 in the final seven minutes as Phoenix beat the Utah Jazz 114-104 Wednesday night.

The victory put Phoenix 31/2 games behind the pacesetting Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA's Pacific Division, but two games ahead of the Midwest Divisionleading Jazz in the race for the homecourt advantage in the Western Conference playoffs.

"It was a game we just had to win." said Johnson, who was 8-for-12 from the field and made 16 of 18 free throws. "We had to show them that we can play them even for the series just in case we end up playing them in the second round of the playoffs. It also lets them know that it's going to be very difficult to come in here and get a win.'

Utah lost for the seventh straight visit and 31st in 35 games at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum despite 29 points from Karl Malone and 28 from Thurl Bailey.

There will be a planning meeting for the Old Settlers Reunion, April 6 at 8 p.m. at the Martin County

The public is invited

Over 1,000 blank recipe forms have been distributed around the county.

The recipes are being collected to compile a Convent Cookbook. The deadline for turning in recipes is April 10. Forms can be turned in at the Extension office, City Hall or school offices.

Choose a recipe that has some meaning to your family and include a sentence or two at the end of the recipe. Some examples are as follows: "This is Aunt Sally's recipe. She came to Martin County in 1905." "This is my son Jeffery's favorite dessert. We brought him home from the hospital to live in Martin County in 1982." You might consider recipes that have been winners at the County Fair or 4-H Food Show.

Members of the Convent Cookbook Committee are: Mary Prudie Brown, M.J. McGilvray, Gwen Sawyer, Jo Jon Cox, Sharon Odom, Evelyn Holcomb, Marsha Todd and Kathryn Burch.

A tasting spree is planned for Thursday night before Old Settlers. Those who submit recipes are asked to bring one of the recipes prepared for the tasting spree.

'Dig out your favorite recipes and let's make this a cookbook we can really be proud of," said Chairman Kathryn Burch. This is a Convent Foundation project.

Suspects arrested in pump jack thefts

By STACY PAYNE Special to the Herald

Two suspects are awaiting arraignment in Haskell, while another sits in the Anson jail, after Texas Rangers received an anonymous tip concerning the theft of pump jack motors from Martin and other counties, Deputy Sheriff John Castro says.

According to Castro, five separate pump jack motor thefts were committed in Martin County in 1988. "We started getting reports of Continental C-96 pump jack motors missing. It was puzzling, because in order to steal them, some really big equipment had to be used, and for the longest time no tracks were found in the areas.

'For instance, from looking at what few tracks were left at the culprits went there in a pickup with a trailer and a dual wheel truck, possibly a wench truck. The trailer and pickup were used to haul the engine off, and the dual wheel truck was used to remove the engine from its base after it was unbolted. There were no skid marks on the base, indicating that rainy and/or windy weather before attempting to steal the motors. "By the time the theft of the motors was discovered, the rain and wind would wash the tracks and other evidence from the scene. This was the case on two different occasions out at the John L. Cox company lease four miles west of Stanton.'

Castro said that he "finally got lucky," on one of the thefts when the culprits miscalculated the weather. "One night it rained very little and these guys left perfect tracks, and they were very oddball tracks. We matched the tracks left at that scene with the suspect's vehicles — a perfect match.

'With the match from Martin County, and the anonymous tip that followed to alert Texas Rangers of the whereabouts of these guys, they were able to put a tail on them and watch them prepare for anotherjob. When they were just about ready to take a new motor at three in the morning in the Abilene area, the Rangers were waiting on them — caught them with two of the motors that had been reported missing.'

The financial loss for the companies located in Martin ran into tens of thousands of dollars, Castro said. "Just one of the motors, a Continental C 96 is worth $3500 used. Another, the Continental

Local couple provide homey care for aged VIPS off to a big start

HERALD STAFF REPORT

A desire to provide a place where the elderly can spend their last years in a home-like environment lead a Stanton couple to create a sort of rest home for the senior

"My facility will be more like a home than a facility," said Debbie Robinson, a former nurse and a partner with her husband Robert in the new nursing home alternative. If it seems the Robinson facility has more of a home-type atmosphere, some of it will undoubtedly be because it is a home.

'We did some building on to our grandmother's house," Mrs. Robinson explained. The Robinson home has two rooms and is able to accommodate four people. With some added renovations there may eventually be room for eight people at the home, she said.

Robinson said there are several benefits for those who chose to live in the home-style atmosphere of their facility as opposed to a conventional senior citizens home.

"It's going to be a lot more oneon-one care, and the food will be better," she said. Home cooked meals and doing the laundry are included as part of the service the facility offers, she said.

"(The facility) will be mainly for those that feel like they just aren't able to take care of themselves anymore," she said. Robinson declined to discuss the cost of care and housing, saying she would prefer to discuss that with the individuals who are considering living in a place less like a traditional nursing home.

d'It's probably a little less (expensive than a conventional nursing home, and) I feel like I'd take better care of them," she said. Robinson noted, "I am a nurse, I have cared for the elderly. That's been my field for the last 13 years. She was also director of nursing at Mountain View Lodge for six years. While she enjoyed her work as a nurse with a senior citizens facility there was so much paperwork involved she didn't get to spend as much time with the patients on a one-to-one basis as she wanted to.

Having a chance to interact with the elderly on a more personal basis and being able to provide a pleasant place for seniors to spend their last years are some of the main motivations for starting the alternative senior care, she said. Robinson, the daughter of Leroy and Jenny Lenney, said she has wanted to do something like this for some time. "I've thought about it for years," she said.

'That's why we're real happy about receiving the other grant. We tried for this same grant the year before and lost out to someone else. The city didn't get enough to pave all the streets on the southside, but we'll do as many as we can. And though we cannot prevent major flooding should it come, we will now be able to improve the present drainage system.

Mathis added that the city of Stanton applies for grants frequently, and will continue to apply for those that will improve conditions for all city residents.

"The residents of the flooding area do not complain much, but they are good people, and we want them to know we care about their living conditions," Mathis

Wernsman said that he is pleased to have found a person with Stacy's background - both in the community and in journalism — who is so interested in a doing a good job for Stanton.

"I was terribly disappointed by Sarah's departure, but it was a situation that couldn't be anticipated. Now, with Stacy coming aboard in less than three weeks, I look forward to the Stanton Herald making great strides in 1989," he said

While Payne has concentrated on fiction writing, having completed one novel and working on two others, she said she is ready to get back to the newspaper business.

"There's nothing like reporting. The interviewing process is as exciting to me as the writing itself. And I assure you, Martin County is rich with news.

"The people here are so interesting — they have depth and character, and an inner strength that, in my opinion, comes from being so dedicated to their way of life, even during those times when farming seemed to hold no promise for them. I really, really admire that — and it's been this way for many generations. These are very special folks."

Payne said she has already begun making plans for the Herald. "I want the Herald to be involved with the community. I want Martin Countians to know this is their paper, that it will be serving them. We will not be able to be everywhere all of the time, but no one will try to do it like we will anyway. 'Stacy has the contacts, talent and intelligence to serve the needs of Stanton readers and I look for ward to her work to see that those needs are met," Wernsman said. Her move coincides with the move of the Herald across the street from its home next door to Stanton Drug for the past several months. "That move meant more room for Monarch Video and will mean a better office situation for the Herald at 210 N. St. Peter," Wernsman said.

'We are planning an open house for the afternoon of April 28, to which everyone in the community is invited," Wernsman said. "We plan to have our staff, refreshments and a good time.'

Payne is a 1975 graduate of Stanton High School, and a 1979 graduate of UT-Permian Basin. She has written for the Stanton Reporter, the Martin County News, and Petroplex Focus magazine. Her current projects include the nearly finished manuscript, Cotton Never Dies, and a collection of short stories entitled, The Cotton Stopped Growing.

Her completed manuscript, Innocence: Twice Removed has been recently been adapted into a screenplay, and is under consideration by Alan Sherr Productions of Hollywood, California

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTIONS

A homestead exemption lowers the property taxes on your home by lowering its taxable value. For example, if your home is valued at $50,000 and you receive a $5,000 homestead exemption, your home will be taxed as if it is worth only $45,000.

You qualify for a homestead exemption if you owned your home on January 1 and used it as your primary residence on January 1. It doesn't matter whether your home is a house, a condominium, or a mobile home.

Exemptions are available to all homeowners to lower their school taxes. Additional exemptions are available to homeowners who are disabled or age 65 and over. Other exemptions may be offered to homeowners by school districts, counties, cities, and special districts.

Who should apply? If you received a homestead exemption on your home in 1988, you won't need to re-apply unless your chief appraiser requires it.

If you became 65 or disabled before January 1, file a new application to receive the additional If you haven't received an ex-

RENDER YOUR PROPERTY

A rendition is a report to the appraisal district that lists all the taxable property you own or control on January 1, 1989. The form is available at your local appraisal district or you may draft a similar

You must file a rendition if you own tangible personal property used to produce income—such as the machinery and equipment used by a business

The appraisal district may require any taxpayer to file a rendition by sending the taxpayer a written notice and a rendition form.

The advantages of filing a rendition:

 You give your opinion of your property's value. If the appraisal district places a higher value on your property, it must notify you in writing of the higher value and explain how you can protest that value to the appraisal review board. You record your correct mailing address so your tax bills will go to the right address. If your bill is mailed to the wrong address, the law still holds you responsible for paying your taxes on time or paying extra charges for late payments. You can also file a report of decreased value, to notify the appraisal district of significant depreciation to your property in 1988. The district will look at your property before assigning a value

The deadline for 1989 renditions is March 31. You can get an extra 30 days if you ask for it in writing before the March 31 deadline.

File renditions with your local appraisal district at the address shown below.

Local hospital is excellent

Dear editor:

I recently had the opportunity to work in the county hospital here in Stanton. I would like to commend this fine little community on your hospital and staff. It is so hard and costly these days to keep a small hospital operating. The personnel you have on this staff are a very qualified and efficient crew. This community should feel proud and comfortable with the fact you have such dedicated and upmost professionals.

To all of you, keep up the good work and efforts to continue to maintain an outstanding facility. Support your local hospital in every way possible, for it's a "GOOD'UN"
