COLORADO CITY — A proposal to allow legalized bingo in this Mitchell County city for the first time in several years may pit non-profit organizations against local churches as voters take the issue to the polls Saturday.

Colorado City was one of several Texas towns that had bingo games sponsored by non-profit organizations, civic groups and some church groups in the 1970s, but the state ruled that such activities were illegal and the practice was stopped, City Secretary Glenna Garrett said today.

But all that changed when Fire Chief Gary Parker brought a proposal to legalize bingo in Colorado City before the city council as a way to raise funds for the fire

"I haven't taken any strong action... You can't protect people from the evils of the world. They have to come to those decisions on their own. I basically don't use a 'thou shalt not' approach... I haven't found it to work too well with Methodists." — Rev. Julius Early, pastor.

That proposal was put on the May 6 ballot by city fathers. If the proposal passes, other non-profit organizations will also be able to hold bingo games, although only one other group — the local Veterans of Foreign Wars — has any plans to hold bingo games.

"Yes, we would hold a bingo night. We did once before. It's been legal before but we had to quit in 1980. The state cut it out all over Texas," VFW Quartermaster Phil Ball said.

"It's the only kind of gambling you'd see in Colorado City. Bingo's not really gambling, it's just a game."

Asked if he thought bingo would lead to other forms of gambling, Ball replied, "No, I don't think it will. I guarantee it won't up here."

At least 5 killed in Texas storms

GRANBURY — Storms in North Texas overnight have claimed at least five lives, including four people killed in flash flooding in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

At least 20 people suffered minor injuries when a series of tornadoes ripped through Granbury, southwest of Fort Worth.

Wind and hail damage was widespread across North Texas.

A man and two boys apparently were swept away when they got out of a car while trying to escape rising waters in a northwest Fort Worth neighborhood, according to medical examiner investigator R.O. Medford. Three others fleeing in the car escaped, he said.

The bodies of Raul Ortega Jr., 13; his brother Jessie, 5; and Tony Medina, 29, were found in flooded Marine Creek early today, said Fort Worth Fire Department Lt. F.D. Tacker.

One man drowned early today in flooded Cottonwood Creek in the Dallas suburb of Grand Prairie while his sister and a friend survived by clinging to trees in the creek, said Grand Prairie Police Lt. J. M. Gatlin.

The three were caught in a flood when they stopped their car to change drivers, he said.

Killed was Jonathan Fuller, 22, a U.S. Navy man stationed in Long Beach, Calif. His sister Monica Kaatz, of Arlington, and Kim Bumpus, escaped with minor injuries, Gatlin said. Fuller was found in the car.

Gatlin said authorities are searching for 60-year-old George Brookins, whose truck was found in the same creek.

A Wichita Falls man died in the storm late Thursday when his boat overturned on Lake Arrowhead, about 15 miles southeast of Wichita Falls, said Ray McDonald, game warden for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

George Angel, 58, had been fishing with another man under a bridge when their boat capsized about 9:30 p.m. Angel, who was wearing a life jacket, tried to swim about 20 yards to shore as winds gusting to more than 60 mph, McDonald said.

"It was fairly calm until then," McDonald said. "The storm just blew in from the north."

"It just hit all of a sudden."

Hood County officials estimated six tornadoes roared through Granbury, about 40 miles southwest of Fort Worth, sending about 20 people to Hood County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. Three were held overnight for observation and were to be released today, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Rescue workers had to clear power lines and other debris in order to reach victims in the area.

Fifteen mobile homes, including one that was blown into Lake Granbury, were destroyed by the twisters, county officials said.

The tornadoes spun from a storm that roared from Colorado into the Panhandle and north central Texas late Thursday. The system also spawned severe weather in East and Southeast Texas Thursday night and today.

Power outages were reported in many communities in north central and east Texas as utility lines snapped in the winds that reached speeds of more than 100 mph.

Ollie North: I'll fight 'as long as it takes'

By PETE YOST

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Blasting prosecutors and vowing to "fight hard, for as long as it takes," Oliver North says his conviction on three felonies in the Iran-Contra affair will eventually be overturned.

The first person to go on trial in the scandal that rocked the last two years of the Reagan administration, North lost his $23,100-a-year Marine pension as soon as the jury delivered its verdict Thursday.

Ex-President Reagan, who successfully resisted a defense subpoena to testify at the trial, declined to comment after the man he once called a national hero was found guilty.

North was acquitted of nine of the 12 criminal charges against him and prosecutor John Keker appeared less than satisfied with the decision.

Still, Keker said, "Colonel North has been convicted of three very serious charges. The jury has spoken." North called it "a partial vindication."

North, to be sentenced June 23 by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, faces a maximum of 10 years in prison and $750,000 in fines. As a first-time offender with an exemplary 20-year military career, North almost certainly will get penalties far less severe than that. Court appeals could take years.

The National Security Council's former "action officer" on Central America counterattacked less than two hours after walking out of the federal courthouse. He defiantly criticized the cost of pursuing him through the legal system and suggested the prosecution had

U.S. space robot heads for Venus at 25,000 mph

By LAURA TOLLEY

Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The robot probe Magellan streaked across the solar system today at 25,000 mph on its way to Venus, and the astronauts who launched the spacecraft turned to more routine tasks aboard Atlantis.

Deployment of the probe from the shuttle's cargo bay Thursday night signaled a revival of an American planetary-science program that has been dormant since 1978.

"The spacecraft is performing just beautifully. All systems are operational and nominal. It couldn't be better," John Gephiede, Magellan project manager, said a few hours after the probe was launched.

Atlantis' fiery blastoff Thursday afternoon followed a cliff-hanging, 59-minute wait that ground controllers and the five astronauts endured because of the fickle Florida weather. With just five minutes left in the shuttle's launch window, controllers found a hole in the clouds and Atlantis thundered into the sky at 2:47 p.m. EDT.

About six hours after the liftoff, Magellan was gently ejected from the shuttle's cargo bay and the $550-million interplanetary mission began.

"At last check, all systems were working exceptionally well on Magellan," Mission Control commentator Jeffrey Carr said early today.

The space shuttle also was performing well, Carr said.

Mission Control awoke the crew today at about 9:20 a.m. EDT with a rousing rendition of the theme music from the movie "Superman."

"Good-morning and congratulations on a super day yesterday,"

Rapist sentenced to death

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston jury deliberated for about an hour before returning a death sentence for a 24-year-old man convicted of the stabbing deaths of a 15-year-old girl and her 3-year-old cousin.

Preston Hughes III already was on probation for a 1985 sexual assault of a 13-year-old girl when he was charged with the Sept. 26 slayings of Shandra Charles and Marcell Taylor.

Both had been stabbed twice but Miss Charles, who also was raped, was still alive when police found her on a wooded path behind a west Houston restaurant and identified "Preston" as her attacker. Officers followed the path to an apartment complex where Hughes was the only tenant with the name of Preston.

He told police Miss Charles attacked him, prompting his attack on her, and that he stabbed the Taylor when the boy came between him and the girl.

Assistant District Attorney Chuck Noll said it was ludicrous to believe Miss Charles would attack Hughes, whom she knew, because Hughes has a black belt in kung fu.

Noll said Thursday he believed the girl was raped and then killed so she would not report the crime.

Growers upbeat about marketing plan

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Pecan growers, faced with dwindling profits because of fierce competition from almonds and walnuts, are optimistic about a promotion plan that would help them survive.

"There's been no profits in the pecan industry in the last three or four years," said grower Fred Beshears of Monticello, Fla.

Beshears, one of about 20 speakers Thursday at the 24th annual conference of the Georgia Pecan Growers Association, noted that almond and walnut growers spend $15 million and $10 million, respectively, on promotion.

In contrast, previous efforts to unite the pecan industry have failed, so there has been no concerted effort to increase consumption.

"They're educating the consumer to eat walnuts and almonds, but people outside the pecan belt don't know about the benefits of pecans," said Beshears, president of the Federated Pecan Growers, a group that represents growers in all 16 pecan-producing states.

Speakers at the meeting discussed marketing, economics, pest control and growing techniques. The 200 growers attending packed a conference hall in the morning when Beshears discussed the proposed federal marketing plan.

Under the plan, growers would be assessed 1/2-cent on each pound of peanuts they sell. The money would generate between $1 million and $1.5 million a year for research and advertising, he said.

A bill establishing the marketing plan is scheduled to be introduced within a week by Sens. Wyche Fowler of Georgia and David Boren of Oklahoma. A 15-member board would oversee the program.

House approves common law bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Although one opponent dubbed it "the yuppie-shacking-up insurance bill," a measure abolishing common law marriage won preliminary House approval.

The bill, tentatively passed Thursday with a 72-61 vote, requires another House vote to be sent to the Senate. It would not affect people living together before Jan. 1, 1990.

Rep. Patricia Hill, sponsor of the bill, said 1 million unmarried couples live together in Texas.

"I dare say most of them — certainly not all of them — do not want to be married and they do not intend to be married," said Ms. Hill, R-Dallas.

"And I don't think Texas... should be a big brother, trying to impose marriage on people who don't want it, never intended it and would probably be shocked to find out that was the situation," she said.

Ms. Hill, an attorney, said only 12 other states still recognized common law marriages.

Rep. Ron Wilson opposed the measure, calling it anti-family and saying it would harm women and children.

"The only folks that have a problem with common law marriages are some of these yuppies... who are deciding — after they go and hold themselves out to get their new condominiums as being married — that the law does in fact presume them to be married," said Wilson, D-Houston.

Ms. Hill told of a case in which a woman, who had lived with a man only three days before he died in an air crash, was awarded the man's estate under Texas' common law marriage statute.

She said even if couples keep separate bank accounts and keep property separate that a court could declare them married under common law if they live together for any period of time.

For a common law marriage, state law requires couples to agree to consider themselves married, hold themselves out as married and live together.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, who did not vote on the bill, said he would have voted against it because the common law statute "has been tried and proven in the court several times." Rep. Greg Luna, D-San Antonio, said, "I'm not interested in the yuppies... I'm interested in the kind of people I get asking for survival benefits."

He said abolishing common law marriages would allow men to father children and leave the responsibility for raising them to women, and he urged lawmakers to vote against the bill "in a sense of justice."

Border patrol cuts force

McALLEN (AP) — The Border Patrol reports a significant drop in apprehensions of Central Americans, and has cut by nearly half the extra forces brought into far southern Texas to stop the influx of asylum-seekers.

From January to March, the Border Patrol's McAllen Sector added 192 extra agents to stem a flood of Central Americans entering the country illegally. The bulk of the extra agents brought in from other parts of the country patrolled mainly in the Brownsville area, the closest border crossing point to Nicaragua, El Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala.

The agency began detaining nearly all of those apprehended, rather than releasing most on their own recognizance, as it had been doing.

Its crackdown accompanied an Immigration and Naturalization Service policy that began Feb. 21, in which asylum applicants are processed in one day and immediately detained if their initial claims to refugee status are denied.

Vaccine discouraged

ATLANTA (AP) — Seventeen years of study of rubella vaccinations on pregnant women show chances of fetal infection are small, but health experts warn that women still should be vaccinated long before they get pregnant.

Although rubella, once known as German measles, is mild in most cases, congenital rubella syndrome — rubella at birth — can cause blindness, retardation and heart defects.

Since the rubella vaccine was licensed in 1969, the national Centers for Disease Control have recommended against pregnant women getting the vaccine because of the possible risk of passing rubella on to their babies.

No cases of congenital rubella were detected in the children of 305 women who participated in a study from 1971 to 1988, the CDC said. The women were susceptible to rubella and received rubella vaccine within three months of conception.

School law changed

AUSTIN (AP) — School reform legislation establishing strict guidelines for attendance has punished students too severely, says a sponsor of that legislation who won passage of a bill to make it less so.

Sen. Bill Haley, an architect of 1984 school reform, said legislation had addressed attendance in a "negative fashion" by disallowing credit for a class if a student had more than five unexcused absences in a semester.

A Haley bill, which cleared the Senate on voice vote Thursday, would amend the law to require that a student attend class for 80 days in an 86- or 89-day semester to receive credit.

Pit bull kills child

CLUTE (AP) — A 3-year-old child has died of injuries he suffered when he was mauled by a pit bull terrier owned by his grandparents.

Dustin Webb, son of Steve and Debbie Webb, died Thursday at John Sealy Hospital in nearby Galveston, a day after he was attacked by the dog as he played in the backyard of his grandparents' home.

Clute Police Chief Mark Wicker said the boy was playing in the back yard while his grandmother, Geraldine Webb, was in the house.

A neighbor quoted the child's grandmother as saying the boy had been chasing insects around the back yard and that his quick movements and shouts may have led to the attack.

Wright claims he's a victim of negative campaign tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the House ethics committee continued its probe of Speaker Jim Wright's lucrative gas-drilling venture, Wright today sought to portray himself before a hometown audience as the victim of political enemies.

The ethics panel went behind closed doors to question witnesses for the third straight day about the gas well deal that turned a $9,120 investment by Wright and a business partner into a $340,000 profit in just five months last year.

At the same time, The New York Times reported that Wright, D-

Texas, received special treatment when a 1983 investment in a nursing home business went sour, getting back at least $22,000 of his $100,000 investment when others who put money into the venture were getting nothing.

The ethics committee chairman, Rep. Julian Dixon, D-Calif., said that investment, and the debt it left for Wright, were relevant to the panel's probe of the gas drilling deal. The profits from the gas deal were used last June to pay off the loan Wright obtained to invest in the nursing home.

The committee today interviewed Doug Jaffe, who brought Wright's investment partnership, Malligto, into the drilling deal in January 1988. Dixon said Jaffe was the last of what he termed "the first series of witnesses" in the probe of the gas venture.

Dixon said he and the committee's senior Republican member, Rep. John T. Myers of Indiana, would meet next week to discuss whether further investigation is needed. The committee still must decide whether to add any charges from the gas deal to the 69 counts of rules violations already alleged.

Wright is expected to go before the ethics committee late this month for a disciplinary hearing, a trial-like proceeding in which evidence is presented to determine whether the charges can be proven.

Wright, in a Law Day speech in Fort Worth, sought today to refocus the debate on his ethics to public policy rather than personal finances, and he blamed his problems on political opponents.

"I have tried to be a voice for the voiceless, to provide a source of power for the powerless," Wright said, noting his public service record dating back to service in World War II.

"The plight of the homeless bothers me," he said in his text, distributed by his Washington office. "And nobody who really wants to work should be without a chance to work... These are some of the things which preoccupy me when I think of what is moral and what is ethical for a great nation."

Wright said he had been taught as a child to be grateful for health, intellect and other talents and to defend the weak.

"This, to me, constituted morality and shaped my notions of what is an ethical life. In my own flawed fashion I have attempted to follow those precepts," he said.

Wright said he had made "formidable political opponents" over the past four decades because of his political beliefs. "But I have never sought to destroy another man's character, nor to deprive him of his dignity..."

"It is a sad and sickening thing to see the political life of our nation become increasingly dominated by the tactics of negative campaigning," Wright said. "It contaminates the atmosphere of political dialogue and poisons the well of creative political thought."

"As I understand it, it's for charitable organizations. But I don't think they're thinking bingo is gambling," said the Rev. Julius Early, pastor of Colorado City's First United Methodist Church.

"I basically don't think gambling is the way we ought to spend our money. What we have to ask ourselves is, 'can you accomplish a good by a bad means?'"

"It's a mild form of gambling (but) when you put your money down it's gambling," he said. Early said the problem is that even something as innocent looking as bingo can become addictive.

"After more than two and a half years and over $40 million of our taxpayers' money spent on investigations, congressional inquiries and now a special prosecutor who has likened me to Adolf Hitler, we now face many months and perhaps years of fighting the remaining charges," North said, reading from a statement.

"As a Marine, I was taught to fight and fight hard, for as long as it takes to prevail," he added. "We will continue this battle and with the support and prayers of the American people, we will be fully vindicated."

In closing arguments last month, Keker said North and his former boss, national security adviser Robert McFarlane, "are following Adolf Hitler's old strategy: The victor will never be asked if he told the truth."

North got an endorsement of sorts from one of the jurors, 65-year-old Earl Williams, who served in Patton's 3rd Army in World War II.

"Good morning Houston," commander David Walker replied. "We're up and around. Everybody's feeling good, trying to find our toothbrushes."

"We thank you for that fine wake-up music," Walker said.

During the rest of the mission, the astronauts will try to photograph lightning systems at night and attempt to grow crystals of indium by melting and then resolidifying the material.

The crew members also will take other photographs of the Earth as well as test various systems on the orbiter. Another planned project includes taking saliva samples during the flight to determine how an anti-motion sickness drug is absorbed by the body in zero gravity.

Atlantis, in orbit 184 miles above the Earth, is scheduled to land Monday afternoon at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

"It was really a wonderful day for us, the beginning of the rebirth of the planetary program," Gerpheide said. "It's the beginning of a really grand set of missions which will last for quite a few years."

"While it's too early to tell about the major portion of Magellan's mission, we're pleased it's gone so well so far," Walker said when told Magellan had been launched on its journey.

Magellan was the first planetary craft deployed from a space shuttle.

The Magellan is moving at a rate of 25,000 mph, relative to Earth.

An inadequate attack on sleaze

Americans properly resist trusting public servants who exploit their jobs for personal gain. But cashing in on government ties has become commonplace.

Some officials rake in thousands of dollars for giving speeches or serving on private boards; others jump straight from public posts into jobs lobbying old colleagues. And some lawmakers pour leftover campaign funds into their own pockets.

A new bill offered by President Bush would mop up some of that sleaze, but it overlooks some of Washington's muddiest ethical swamps. To restore faith in government, Congress should expand on the president's promising start.

Much of Bush's ethics package mimicks the one that his predecessor vetoed just before leaving office. It would oblige lawmakers and top government aides to wait a year after leaving office before lobbying former colleagues. Executive-branch officials — already subject to such a ban — would be barred from lobbying not just their old agencies, but any executive-branch department.

Bush also favors tougher financial-disclosure rules and sharper limits on outside income for many federal officials. And his plan urges an array of changes that could foster quality in government service: an overdue 25 percent pay raise for judges; a ban on using surplus campaign funds for personal use; a tax benefit for appointees who must sell off assets to avoid conflicts of interest.

Praiseworthy as it is, Bush's plan fails to unsnarl some of Washington's knottiest ethical tangles. Though his own ethics commission urged a ban on speaking honorariums for members of Congress, the president insisted a ban should only be discussed in the context of a congressional pay raise. But without a presidential nudge, lawmakers may never muster the political will to forgo special-interest cash.

Nor are they likely to resist the influence of political-action committees, which pump millions of dollars into congressional campaigns every election. But though Bush wisely favors a ban on direct PAC campaign contributions, he rejects out of hand a substitute that Congress should consider: public financing of congressional campaigns.

The president's ethics plan may indeed keep many public servants from milking their jobs for personal profit. But the milking can be further reduced by severing other lucrative links between policymakers and special interests. If Bush and Congress are serious about desleazing government, they should improve the cleanup scheme.

Transition to statesman isn't easy

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newt Gingrich seems to be taking out his frustrations on the pavement as he sets off on a 6 a.m. walk down Washington's Mall.

The morning newspaper includes a poll showing that two-thirds of Americans aren't paying much attention to the ethics problems of House Speaker Jim Wright and just 37 percent know that he's a Democrat. Gingrich, the newly elected No. 2 leader of House Republicans, is annoyed.

"My party is simply not an aggressive, tough competitor compared to the Democrats," he says, in full stride in hiking boots and a sweatshirt as the sun begins to rise on the dogwoods and azaleas on the Capitol lawn.

"Given a comparable problem at any given moment, Republicans are slower and softer and vaguer. We are not in the habit of going out and being tough. We're in the habit of being a minority."

What should the Republicans be doing in the case of Jim Wright, who has been charged by the ethics committee with 69 violations of House rules?

"Here's a chance to say over and over again, 'It's sad, but you can understand after 35 consecutive years of being in power why the Democrats are having a hard time,'" Gingrich says, making his favorite link between power and corruption.

"Republicans have a chance to communicate what's wrong with the way the House is currently run. We're not using it. It's as though somebody filled up a theater for us, and our side decided not to perform."

Gingrich, the strident conservative whose complaint last year launched the ethics case against Wright, seems to be having some trouble making the transition from gadfly to statesman.

The Georgia lawmaker has had some early successes in his new job as GOP whip, lining up an organization that includes not only his supporters but also some old-line moderates. And he demonstrated vote-counting skills last week when he was one of the few to foresee a chance to win a key budget vote on the House floor.

But it has been difficult for him to follow the advice of senior Republicans who have told him to sit out the Jim Wright affair.

"Everybody pretty much agrees that for right now it doesn't serve anyone's interests to have Newt as the spokesman," says Rep. M. J. Weber, R-Minn., a close Gingrich ally. "It's very delicate right now. Members of the House may be asked to act as jurors. It's very hard for him to play any kind of a role in that environment. The country should not see Republican members of Congress as a hanging jury."

Part of Gingrich's problem has been his inability to sell the notion that there is a clear link between a politician's ideology and his ethics. He has been striving to make that case in recent weeks, pointing to big-city Democratic political machines as evidence that the party's ethical problems extend beyond Washington.

"Ethics is in the long run a devastating issue if you're on the wrong side of it," he says. An occasional jogger slows to stare at this prematurely gray former history professor who is bustling along the Mall, keeping up a steady patter of politics before breakfast.

"Those Democrats who want to gamble that Jim Wright's little problems will disappear are welcome to do it. But it's both historically and morally wrong, and they're going to find that politically it's a disaster."

"Disaster" seems to be one of Gingrich's favorite words, along with "profound," "fundamental" and the phrase, "corrupt liberal welfare state."

When pressed, Gingrich concedes that the Republicans have had their own ethics problems — Watergate, and more recently Deaver and Meese — which have been costly. But without elaborating, he insists those have been less "systematic" than the moral shortcomings of the other party. And he doesn't mention his own book promotion deal, which is being brought to the ethics committee's attention by House Democrats.

"It's almost impossible to convince the American people that one party is the clean party and the other is the corrupt party," Weber says. "They tend to view us all as the same. There is no clear partisan advantage."

Despite his beliefs, Gingrich has been trying lately to suppress his instinct to batter Wright publicly. And at a National Press Club speech last week he wore a button that said, "Moderates make a difference."

"I obviously am more cautious now that I'm whip because I don't just speak for Newt Gingrich," he said. "I speak for 174 other Republicans in the House."

Lewis Grizzard

Forget the fashion statement

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
Rarely do I make bold fashion statements. I prefer to remain quietly traditional when it comes to my apparel.

As a matter of fact, I stick by quite a rigid set of rules when it comes to the way I dress.

I never wear anything with a picture of an opossum on it.

I never wear anything that glows in the dark or frightens small children.

I never shop for my clothing at a place that also sells tires. And, under no circumstances, will I wear pastels before Easter — a virtual fashion-hanging event.

However, I recently decided to make a daring move. I bought myself a pair of white Gucci loafers. I sold one of my cars to get the money.

I'm not certain where or when the seed was planted to take such a risk.

I am fully aware that the only men who wear non-athletic white shoes are used-car dealers, baseball writers and opossum trainers.

Unlike that group, though, I did not buy a white belt to match my shoes. Keep an eye on a man who wears white shoes with a belt to match. He will stick you with a bar tab, deflower your daughters, rig opossum races and sell you a 1962 Ford Fairlane with a bad transmission.

"How correct are these loafers?" I asked the Gucci salesman, a tall severe man named Lamont, who obviously knew his way around a leather grip shoehorn.

"It depends, sir," he said.

"On what?"

"On how much you value your reputation, friends and employment," he answered.

"It's that big a risk?"

"The last man I sold a pair of white loafers to," said Lamont, "was president of a billion-dollar corporation. Now, he's a short-order cook at a Waffle House and his wife ran off with his chiropractor."

"That's terrible."

"One other thing," said Lamont. "If you decide to purchase these shoes, we ask you to sign a disclaimer which states we cannot be held liable for any misfortune which might befall you as a result."

"If white loafers can lead to such hard results, why do you continue to sell them?" I asked.

"The boss used to train opossums."

"Enough said," I replied. Despite the dangers I had been warned about, I went ahead and bought the shoes and began to think of when I should debut them. Certainly it would have to be after the arrival of spring.

I thought maybe I would go to the Breakers in Palm Beach and they'd be just the thing for a polo match. But what if I were to step into pony leavings?

After that, I considered debating my new shoes at the fashionable Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs. Certainly I would be invited there for several spring functions. But I moved recently. That's probably what happened to my invitations.

But what about the Beverly Hills Hotel? Maybe I could put on my new shoes and head down to the pool and lounge in my cabana making deals with guys named Irv and Marty.

But do you know what a room costs at that place? I wouldn't have enough left for gin with Burt and Johnny.

So what I finally decided to do with my white Guccis is introduce them at the Waffle House down the street where I often have breakfast.

Grover, the cook, probably put it best: "Where in hell," he asked, "did you get them shoes?"

After breakfast I went back home, took off my new white Guccis and put them in the closet.

Opossum racing season begins soon. They'll be perfect for that.

EPA falls short in monitoring sludge dumping in Northeast

By JACK ANDERSON
and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Some hard-working fishermen in the Northeast say their catch is dwindling and the fish they manage to net are dirty and diseased.

The culprit is sludge — the murky organic byproduct of treated sewage. Sludge is what is squeezed out of wastewater when that water is strained, treated and dumped back into rivers and streams. Like everything that humankind throws away, sludge has to be put somewhere. Farmers have experimented with plowing it into their fields as fertilizer, but mostly it is dumped in places where it can gradually decompose.

New York and New Jersey pour tons of sludge in the ocean as casually as plopping leftovers into the garbage disposal. Congress has voted to ban ocean sludge dumping after 1991. In the meantime, the Environmental Protection Agency is supposed to monitor that dumping to make sure the ecology of the ocean is not overwhelmed by too much sludge. But the EPA is doing a lousy job.

That is the conclusion of a report by the EPA inspector general's office, the watchdog over the agency. Our associate Scott Sleek has obtained a copy of the investigation into sludge dumping off the coast of New Jersey. The report says the EPA has failed to properly monitor the sludge that is pumped into a dumpsite 106 miles off the coast. More than 8 million tons of sludge are dumped there every year by New York and New Jersey.

The EPA may be "vulnerable to criticism that it is not adequately determining the impact that dumping 23,000 wet tons of sewage sludge per day is having on the marine environment," the report says. In other words, if the EPA wants to boast that it is taking good care of the fish, it will have to spend more time counting tons of sludge.

Investigators initially began reviewing the ocean dump site because of the beach garbage panic last summer. Medical waste began washing up on East Coast beaches, and the inspector general wanted to find out if the EPA was doing its job of monitoring what was dumped in the ocean. It wasn't.

New England fishermen complained to the inspector general that the sludge dumping is hurting their catch and jeopardizing their livelihood.

A Rhode Island lobsterman who heads the Coalition to Cease Ocean Dumping, claims that 90 percent of the crabs and 10 percent of the lobsters caught near the dump site are diseased. He also claims that the number of lobsters caught in the underwater canyons near the dump has dropped 70 percent since the sewage dumping began.

The sludge does not have the drama of an Alaskan oil spill, but for the people who make their living on the ocean, it is just as devastating.

PAY-THROUGH-THE-NOSE TV — Just when America was getting comfortable with cable television, greed is threatening to mess things up. Cable TV companies hold a virtual monopoly in most communities because it isn't economical for them to compete head to head for the same territory.

So far, the trend has been for the companies to offer more service for the money. But that could change at any time.

Florida orange juice gets paler

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Growers are worried that there's too much sunshine visible through the Sunshine State's famed orange juice these days.

Although Florida's juice tastes as sweet as ever, it's gradually becoming paler, according to many of Florida's 12,000 growers.

Consumers apparently prefer darker orange juice and industry insiders fear today's Florida orange juice — which often is more yellow than orange — could affect the state's $4 billion a year industry.

But growers seeking to harvest their fruit before the January and February freezes are planting oranges that mature early. The main early-season juice-fruit, the Hamlin orange, ripens as early as October and produces a sweet juice.

Unfortunately, juice from Hamlin oranges is far lighter in color than the late-season Valencia orange.

Union Station marks 50th year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Union Station, the landmark rail depot where Betty Grable vamped for photographers, Dustin Hoffman bid farewell to Tom Cruise in "Rain Man" and thousands of servicemen departed for wars, is 50 years old.

The celebration was scheduled to get under way today with the arrival of Southern Pacific's "Daylight" locomotive 4449 that pulled the "Freedom Train" across the United States during the nation's 176th bicentennial.

Festivities focusing on Union Station's role as the city's transportation hub continue through the weekend with exhibits, speeches and entertainment.

While airplanes derailed interest in train travel for decades, depot spokesman Tom Buckley said there has been a resurgence in Union Station travelers. Amtrak's San Diegoan, for instance, carries 5,000 people daily.

Crowds still stream into downtown Union Station, enraptured by its ornate 52-foot ceilings, its Spanish-Moorish architecture, gardens and old Harvey House restaurant.

Sixty trains a day used the station before World War II, when 100 trains came and went daily, many with soldiers and sailors going to war.

Oil drillers oppose refuge drilling

NEW YORK (AP) — The union that represents U.S. oil workers says it's opposed to drilling in the coastal plains of Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge until a cohesive national energy policy is in place.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union says a moratorium on drilling in the environmentally sensitive refuge is not antithetical to its members' need to work.

"I'm for drilling, but there has to be some sanity to the process, and there doesn't seem to be any," OCAW Vice President Robert Wages said in a recent interview.

"Saying you shouldn't drill in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge ought not be viewed as religious heresy by the industry," Wages said.

He said union leaders are trying to rally support for a better-defined national energy policy.

Previously, the union was neutral on coastal drilling, although the membership had passed several resolutions asking its leadership to be sensitive to both jobs and the environment.

But when the Exxon Valdez ran aground March 24 and spilled 10.1 million gallons of crude oil into Alaska's Prince Edward Sound, union opposition galvanized.

The stance "is certainly not jobs-producing, but we don't believe it's jobs-destructive either," Wages said.

The union, which represents about 40,000 oil workers and 70,000 chemical and atomic workers, is pushing for more effective recovery of oil at existing fields rather than exploratory drilling in environmentally sensitive areas.

Iranian speaker calls for American deaths

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iranian Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said today that Palestinians should kill Americans and other Westerners in retaliation for attacks by the Israeli military in the occupied territories.

"If in retaliation for every Palestinian martyred in Palestine they will kill and execute, not inside Palestine, five Americans or Britons or Frenchmen, they (Israelis) could not continue these wrongs," Rafsanjani was quoted as saying by the official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia.

"It is not hard to kill Americans or Frenchmen. It is a bit difficult to kill (Israelis). But there are so many (Americans and Frenchmen) everywhere in the world," he said.

At least 460 Palestinians and 20 Israelis have died in the 17-month-old Palestinian uprising against Israeli in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, which Israel seized from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war.

IRNA said Rafsanjani spoke at a prayer sermon today in Tehran before huge rallies to mark the Iranian holiday in support of the Palestinian cause.

Television showed pictures of thousands of demonstrators. Excerpts of the speech also were carried by Tehran Radio.

"God knows there is a solution if you announce today that from now on you will threaten American interests throughout the world," Rafsanjani said.

IRNA said Rafsanjani also encouraged Palestinians to hijack planes to force Israel to release prisoners and to blow up factories in Western countries.

Rafsanjani criticized PLO leader Yasser Arafat for renouncing terrorism and recognizing Israel's right to exist.

He also brushed aside Western reaction to his support for violence.

"Now they will start saying that so and so, as a man in charge, and as the speaker of Parliament has officially called for acts of terror... But let them say it... aren't they saying it now?"

World

Worldwide AIDS cases top 150,000

GENEVA (AP) — New figures from the United States pushed the total of reported cases of AIDS around the world to more than 150,000 last month, the World Health Organisation said today.

Updated reports received during April listed 5,191 new cases, nearly half of which were registered by the United States, according to the U.N. agency's latest monthly survey.

A total of 151,790 cases have now been registered since WHO started keeping records in 1980.

Twenty-eight of the 148 reporting countries say they have no victims.

The United States, which accounts for nearly 60 percent of the world's total, reported 2,845 new victims between the end of February and mid-April. This brought the U.S. total up to 89,501 cases.

France, which ranks second only to the United States in the number of reported cases, found 754 new sufferers in the first three months of the year.

Canada opens 9-mile rail tunnel

ROGERS PASS, B.C. (AP) — North America's longest rail tunnel, a nine-mile stretch under Glacier National Park, has opened to link Canada's coal and mineral-producing hinterland with the West Coast and the Pacific Rim countries.

The tunnel was inaugurated Thursday in a ceremony accented by the sound of bagpipes and attended by rail executives, industrialists, politicians and some of the 1,100 railway workers who worked on the $422 million project.

The new route, completed ahead of schedule and $84 million under budget, ends the cumbersome practice of adding extra locomotives to trains that had to negotiate 4,000-foot Rogers Pass and should increase westbound capacity by as much as 60 percent, authorities say.

Major improvements, including the Mount Macdonald Tunnel, reduced the steepness so that pushers are no longer needed on the southeastern British Columbia route.

"This is the biggest thing the railway has done since the building of the transcontinental," said Barry Scott, chairman and chief executive officer of CP Rail.

"After nearly 104 years of railroading in these Selkirk Mountains, we have finally tamed the geography — or at least as much as man is ever likely to do," said Scott.

Party chief calls for dialogue

BEIJING (AP) — Communist Party chief Zhao Ziyang called for a dialogue with students in authorities' first public comment following historic pro-democracy rallies in Tiananmen Square, official media reported today.

Students marched by the tens of thousands to occupy the square Thursday and rally for more freedom. Some returned to class today to end a two-week boycott but student leaders at Beijing University refused to immediately call off the strike.

Zhao, in a speech made Thursday but reported today in the party organ People's Daily, said, "Now we need broad consultations and dialogue — dialogue with students, dialogue with workers, dialogue with intellectuals."

Student activists want the government to open talks with them on demands for democracy, freedom of the press and an end to official corruption. Zhao, while saying talks were needed, did not specifically promise any meeting.

The party leader acknowledged that great numbers of Chinese are expressing anger toward official corruption, and attributed the problem to a lack of openness and a faulty legal system.

Zhao also seemed to tone down earlier official claims that students were being manipulated by people who wanted to see the country in turmoil. Such people "are extremely few and we should maintain vigilance. I think the vast majority of students understand this."

Lotto winner wins political asylum also

MIAMI (AP) — A U.S. Immigration official decided to grant political asylum to a Nicaraguan immigrant despite inaction on his case by the State Department after the man won $5.3 million in the Florida lottery.

Justo Ricardo Somarriba, a 33.50-an-hour hardware store clerk who entered the country illegally in 1987, picked all six numbers in Florida's Lotto drawing Saturday, splitting the pot with another ticketholder.

After he appeared at the state capital Monday to receive his first annual check of $240,000, U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials revealed that the State Department had failed to support Somarriba's request for political asylum.

But INS district director Perry Rivkind reviewed the case Wednesday after publicity about Somarriba's plight, and decided the immigrant and his family deserved legal residency.

"I never expected this would happen in this country," Somarriba said Wednesday, reflecting on his winnings and his family's newfound protected-immigrant status. "It's just great."

Rivkind said Somarriba probably would face repression if he returned to Nicaragua.

"He was a teacher in the government education department, and there is no question he resisted Sandinista propagandizing in the school system," Rivkind said. "That clearly gives him a well-founded fear of persecution."

But the INS official joked that he also had to consider the immigrant's newfound status as a wealthy man.

"Now that he is a capitalist, I think the Marxists would like him even less," Rivkind said.

Somarriba immediately quit

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Nicaraguan immigrant Justo Ricardo Somarriba, shown at lottery headquarters with his wife Maria Eilana, not only was a $5.3 million Florida LOTTO winner, but the immigration service announced he will be granted political asylum.

his job after confirming his windfall, and said he hoped to use the money to bring the rest of his family from Nicaragua and open his own hardware store in the United States.

Like about 40,000 other Nicaraguans in Florida, Somarriba was employed under a special work permit while waiting for his asylum application to be processed.

Early last year, the State Department refused to support Somarriba's petition, saying it had insufficient information.

Rivkind said the State Department, which previously made yes-or-no recommendations on almost all such applications, has lately avoided making decisions on about half of the requests sent its way.

Even if Somarriba's request had been denied, however, it is unlikely he would have been deported.

Deportation notices must be approved by the Justice Department, and so far the agency has returned only convicted criminals to Nicaragua, said Rivkind, adding the remaining deportation requests are simply stalled in Washington.

In addition, anyone who is denied asylum can appeal that decision, a process that takes between one and two years in most cases.

In California, an illegal Mexican immigrant was deported — with his money — after winning the lottery in that state.

Somarriba, from Masaya, Nicaragua, a rural town about 90 miles south of Managua, entered the country "without inspection" by crossing the Rio Grande near Brownsville, Texas, on March 22, 1987, said Richard Smith, deputy INS director.

He lives here with his wife Maria Elena and three children Rosa Elena, 9, Maria, 7, and Yuliza, 3.

The winning ticket was bought at a restaurant in Miami across the street from Miami Pepe's hardware store, where Somarriba worked for two years.

He said he just picked the winning numbers — 14-17-27-36-39-46 — at random.

Firemen take time to bury pets that die

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) — The fire was out, an injured woman had been taken to a hospital and the equipment was back on the truck. But the Fire Department had one last duty.

The firefighters paused last week to conduct a brief service for Madeline Murray's cat.

The simple grave near the charred home was the latest in the department's long tradition of burying pets who die in fires.

"We've always had the custom of burying them, but in the past year or so we've started having a little service, making it real dignified," said Lt. Jerry Allen. "It is just a simple thing we do, but people seem to appreciate it."

When firefighters discover that a pet has died, they ask the owners if they would like them to bury the animal.

"It is hard enough losing your couch, your paintings, your furniture," he said.

For the ceremony, the firefighters gather and take off their helmets. One will "say a few words," Allen said. The site is not marked, but the owners, if they are not present, are told of the general area of the burial.

Gap between richest, poorest cities widens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gap between the nation's richest and poorest cities widened in 1987 as the posh Connecticut suburbs of New York stayed atop the per capita personal income list while Texas towns along the Mexican border remained last, the government reported Thursday.

In a report on 1987 personal income in the nation's 318 metropolitan regions, first place belonged to the Bridgeport-Stamford-Norwalk-Danbury area of Connecticut, with per capita income of $26,316, the Commerce Department said.

Bringing up the rear was the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area of Texas, with per capita income of $7,001.

The first and last areas were the same as in 1986, but the gap between them grew as the 9.1 percent rate of per capita income growth in the Bridgeport area more than doubled the 4.2 percent pace in the McAllen region.

The per capita income gap between the two regions was $19,315 in 1987, up from $17,412 a year earlier.

For the nation as a whole, per capita income rose 6 percent in 1987 to $15,484, according to the report by the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis.

The study showed income in America's cities advancing at an uneven pace — growing fastest in communities along the East Coast with slow-growth areas concentrated in the oil-producing states.

Twenty-three metropolitan areas registered per capita income growth at least 2 percentage points above the national average of 6 percent. Seven of those cities were in New England; six were in the Middle Atlantic region; five were in the Southeast.

Income in 60 metropolitan areas, meanwhile, grew at a rate that was at least 2 percentage points below the national average. Forty-one of those areas were in the oil-producing states of Alaska, Colorado, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming.

"A lot of growth in New England is driven by services and high-tech industries," said the bureau's Kathy Albetski. "The slow growth was driven by the weakness in oil."

The fastest growth rate was recorded in the Visalia-Tulare-Porterville region of California.

where per capita income rose 9.7 percent to $12,968, a level still well below the national average.

In addition to the McAllen region, here are the other metropolitan areas in the bottom 10 for 1987 per capita personal income:

Laredo, Texas, $7,035; Brownsville-Harlingen, Texas, $7,409; Provo-Orem, Utah, $8,870; El Paso, Texas, $9,484; Las Cruces, N.M., $9,578; Pascagoula, Miss., $10,231; Houma-Thibodaux, La., $10,582; Jacksonville, N.C., $10,668, and Bryan-College Station, Texas, $10,688.

Court OKs most of insurance initiative

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In a huge victory for consumers, the state Supreme Court today unanimously upheld virtually every major provision of the Proposition 103 insurance initiative.

However, the court modified the measure's most important immediate effect, a 20 percent rollback and one-year freeze on auto and property insurance rates. It said it would allow exemptions for insurers who could prove their rates were inadequate to earn a "fair return."

But the justices rejected every other challenge to the measure by insurers, who claimed it violated their constitutional property rights. Insurers have said the measure will cost them $4 billion a year and will drive many insurance companies out of California.

The ruling allows auto and property insurance rates to be reduced 20 percent below November 1987 levels and frozen until this November, unless an insurer can show that an increase is justified.

Until November, insurers will be allowed to raise their rates without state approval, but must pay refunds with interest of any amount that the insurance commissioner later rules to be excessive. After November, state approval will be required in advance for rate increases.

Other provisions upheld include restrictions on geographical rate-setting for auto insurance; a mandatory 20 percent discount for "good drivers," and a veto power for the state over future rate increases. All those provisions take effect this November.

It was a stunning decision by the conservative-dominated court, in the face of widespread predictions that substantial portions of Proposition 103 would be overturned.

"They did something nobody expected," said James Wheaton, a lawyer for Consumers Union, one of the sponsors of the initiative.

"For the first time in California history, consumers are going to have protection from insurance company greed."

"This is an inside-the-park home run for consumers, but obviously the ballgame isn't over yet," said Attorney General John Van de Kamp, who opposed Proposition 103 on the ballot but helped to defend it in court.

Insurers could ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review their claims that restrictions on rates and non-renewals of policies violate property rights under the U.S. Constitution.

In the one portion of the ruling that was a victory for the insurance companies, Justice Allen Broussard wrote that the proposition's standard for exemptions from the one-year rate freeze was unconstitutional.

But, in a crucial portion of the ruling, he said the invalidity of the short-term standard for rate increases did not require throwing out the entire initiative.

"The voters who enacted Proposition 103 would presumably prefer rate-setting and regulation under the balance of the initiative to the method of setting insurance rates which existed before the initiative was enacted," Broussard said.

After this November, Proposition 103 requires an insurer to submit any rate increase in advance to the state insurance commissioner, who will decide if it is "excessive, inadequate or unfairly discriminatory." The court left that provision intact.

The court ruled one other provision of the measure invalid. It would have required creation of a private nonprofit corporation to represent the interests of insurance customers. The justices said it violated a state constitutional provision forbidding the naming of a private corporation to perform any function.

Tree Top says no Alar

SELAH, Wash. (AP) — Tree Top, the nation's largest apple processor, says it will break contracts with apple growers who use the chemical Alar on this season's crops.

The growers' cooperative in Idaho, Oregon and Washington said Thursday the move was to allay consumer fears over reports that Alar can cause cancer.

Under the expanded ban, no apples will be accepted from any growers who use Alar on any of their apple trees, even if the specific apples submitted to Tree Top aren't treated with the chemical.

Tree Top previously urged the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to ban Alar use altogether, and it has requested the chemical's manufacturer, Uniroyal, to stop its production.

The chemical is legal to use but it has become highly controversial since the Natural Resources Defense Council reported earlier this year that the chemical leads to cancer in children.

Center schedules workshop

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas will sponsor a one-day workshop May 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., using the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator to help participants understand, accept, and appreciate the uniqueness and strengths of their personalities.

At the workshop, the eight preferences: extraversion, introversion, sensation, intuition, thinking, feeling, judgement and perception, will be defined and experienced by the participants.

Information on developing opposite preferences also will be shared. In addition, practical ways to use personality type in communicating, managing stress, and decision-making will be explored.

The workshop will be conducted by Rev. Norman Godfrey, who is a pastoral psychotherapist with 15 years counseling experience. In addition, he has successfully completed the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator Professional Qualifying Program and uses it regularly for individuals, couples, and families in therapy.

An Open Letter To the Citizens Of Big Spring

You have provided me with trust and confidence by electing me as Mayor of Big Spring. This responsibility has been foremost in my mind and heart as we have built a solid foundation for the future of our community.

The challenges of change have been met and the directions established for continued responsible government. Budgets are balanced and new sources of revenue have been attracted. A new contract with the State Hospital resulting in $65,000/yr.

A new detention center to add $100,000/year to the city income and 50 new jobs and payroll — Plus we have cut the city budget 3/4 million.

A city/county/business/community partnership is meeting the challenges of today, while building momentum for our future. Big Spring is one community in Texas that is:

- doing something to attract jobs.
- doing something to improve public facilities.
- doing something to add events for all our citizens.
- doing something to meet the need for income and exercise economy in budgets.

The city of Big Spring is moving forward into the 1990s with a positive attitude to build for now and for the future.

I ask for your vote Saturday to continue the job that we have begun together.

Can love pass the test of time?

DEAR ABBY: (I can't believe I've actually written those words.) I'm a 36-year-old divorced woman — no children by choice. I won't bore you with the story of my failed marriage. I just want you to know I was in love with "Gary" when I married him and tried my best to make our marriage work, but he never was a one-woman man and I couldn't change him. End of story.

I've been single for nearly two years and can honestly say I was not looking for another marriage because I have a flourishing little business of my own and enjoy my independence. Well, you guessed it. I met a man five months ago, and I am walking on air! So what's my problem? Abby, he's 26 years old. He has everything I have ever wanted in a man and he's talking marriage.

Am I crazy? Will it work? I'm not worried about what people will say, but I'm wondering what will happen when he's 46 and I'm 56. Or when he's 56 and I'm 66? What do you think? — WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: Run — do not walk — to wherever Pocket Books paperback are sold and buy "Loving a Younger Man" by Victoria Houston, who did just that (second time around). And if you don't think it's worth $4.50, I'll send your money back.

DEAR ABBY: Another holiday has passed and my children again overdosed on sugar. Why does everyone think they have to give candy to children on every holiday? I suppose it's considered a treat, when actually it is torture to the children's parents. We know that too much sugar is bad for children's teeth as well as their bodies, yet adults continue to reward children with candy, cookies, etc.

There are many other things we can give children. Let's cut the sugar and get more creative. — GLUCOSE MAMA IN WEBSTER

Dear Abby

GROVES, MO.

DEAR MAMA: I agree, there are far better gifts for children. For example, books — to nourish and expand their minds, instead of their behinds.

DEAR ABBY: I loved the letter from the English clergyman who had had enough hugging from strangers.

I am also from England and joined a church here in California when I emigrated. Some years ago, we had a minister who advocated hugging all and sundry when we entered the church on Sunday morning.

I also felt it bespoke false intimacy and kept out of it as much as possible, for which I was severely criticized by some. (I was English, therefore "cold.")

The minister left our church, and shortly after, left his wife and four children for a member of his new congregation — so obviously somewhere his hugging must have gotten out of hand.

It is nice to be greeted warmly by one's friends and associates, but for the others, a more moderate approach will do. In fact, somewhere between kissing and hugging, and shooting! — LEILA IN GRANADA HILLS

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé recently became an ensign in the U.S. Navy. We are planning to marry soon and he wants to wear his uniform instead of a regular tuxedo. It's going to be a formal church wedding. None of the males in the wedding party are in the military, so my fiancé will be the only one in uniform.

Do you think it will look tacky if the groom is the only one in a uniform? Please hurry your answer. — TERRI IN QUINCY, MASS.

DEAR TERRI: Tacky? Absolutely not. A uniform is considered appropriate attire for any formal occasion. Good luck and anchors aweigh!

DEAR ABBY: My parents divorced when I was nine. In the years that followed, I lived with my mother for the most part, but the time I spent with my father was wonderful. My mother had a lot of ill feelings toward my father. She put him down constantly and told me some very personal things about their love life. I didn't want to hear these intimate details, but more important, I didn't want to hear negative things about my father.

All this time, he never said a negative word about my mother. He never failed to pay child support, and was far more generous to me and Mother than he had to be.

As a father, he did not fall short. Aside from meeting his financial obligations, he was kind, gentle, supportive and just strict enough for my own good. He still is. My mother continues to bad-mouth him, which leaves me feeling angry and sad.

Why am I writing you all this, Abby? Because I want you to tell other divorced parents that if a parent has faults, the kids will notice them — they do not need to be pointed out.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest.

A DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: I'm glad you wrote. Perhaps those who need to be reminded of your message will read it, and heed it.

Howard athletes honored

The Howard College Athletic banquet was an emotional one, especially with the departure of Hawk-Queens basketball coach Don Stevens.

Stevens, who coached at Howard for 13 years, was presented a portrait of himself from the college. Athletic Director Bill Griffin presented the award.

The awards ceremony began with a few choice words from Howard president Bob Riley. Riley told the crowd that many of the future leaders of the world are the ones that dedicated themselves to athletics. "The athletic department teaches the values of life. A lot of athletes learn that from Howard College," said Riley. "It is something that will stay with you the rest of your lives," Riley told the student-athletes.

First-year rodeo assistant coach Bobby Scott started the awards presentations. The high academic cowgirl award went to Judy Engle, who had a 3.5 grade point average. Wade Carper was the high academic boy, with his 3.1 GPA.

The high point cowgirl award went to Jana Pierce and Ken Berry was the high point cowboy.

Next, head rodeo coach Dusty Johnston singled out the athletes that were going to the national finals in Bozeman, Mont. — Berry, Mike O'Gorman and Corey Ross.

The all-around Hawk award also went to Berry. Johnston then gave an special appreciation award to Harvey Rothell.

Next came women's basketball and coach Stevens told the crowd that "this team will stand out, not because of a championship, but because of all the people that make up this team. This is a special group," he said of this year's Hawk-Queens.

The hustle award went to Ana Carroll and Cindy Johnson received the academic award. The most improved player was Linda Waters and the coach's award went to Monique Cook. Shannon Lawson received the MVP award.

Hawks basketball coach Steve Green followed Stevens. Green said this year's team, which went 20-13 and earned a spot in the regional tournament, "achieved all the goals I had set for them."

Green issued special awards to Rene McCarter, assistant coach Eddie McCarter's wife, and to Karen Reeves. Then coach Green gave special awards to sophomore captains Michel New and Larry Pettigrew.

The hard work award went to Willie McCaster and there was a tie in the academic award between Brazilians Carlos Thumm and Natan Vieira.

Green also praised New and and Terrance Lewis for making the all-region team.

Trainer Everett Blackburn then presented the outstanding student-trainer's award to Bryan sophomore Reggie Williams.

Next it was time for the baseball team and captains Jose Rubiera, Jay Williams and Kenny Frederick gave bat girl Ginger Griffin a gift for her hard work.

Assistant coach Frank Anderson then presented the baseball awards. The academic award went to Jay Williams, who had a 3.46 GPA. The MVP was Gerald Camara.

Griffin issued a few special awards. They went to Hawk Club Secretary Jan Forseyth, Ginger Griffin and Stevens.

The banquet concluded with Dr. Riley naming John and Paula Farquhar to the Howard College Hall of Fame for their constant support to HC athletics.

If the Big Spring Lady Steers are going to win their fourth consecutive basketball title next year, they'll have to do it without the man who coached them to the first three.

C.E. Carmichael, who has coached here the past four years, confirmed Thursday that he has accepted a similar head coaching position in Stephenville.

Carmichael said that the offer to coach the Honeybees — who have gone to the playoffs 17 of the past 20 years — was simply too good to refuse.

New Queens coach signs three guards

New Howard College Hawk-Queens coach Royce Chadwick has signed his first recruits for next year, three guards from Houston.

The first Howard signees are Cindy Williams, Shantell Cole and LaSonya Conley. Cole and Conley graduate from high school this month, Williams was a red-shirt at Sam Houston State University last year where Chadwick coached.

Coach Chadwick calls the 5-8 Cole and 5-7 Conley "big-time" players. "They've both got the potential to really be something," said Chadwick.

Conley hails from Forest Brook High School. She was the leading scorer in the Greater Houston area and made the all-district, all-region and all-state teams. She was a USA All-American and rated the third best player in Texas by the Houston Chronicle and the Dallas Morning News.

Conley averaged an incredible 39 points per game and scored 59 points in one game, the 11th highest total in Texas high school history.

"LaSonya is definitely a Division I ballplayer. USA Today rates her as the No. 2 guard in the nation," said Chadwick. "She visited USC, Texas, Louisiana Tech and Texas Tech. I've seen LaSonya pull up three steps after crossing halfcourt and hit a jump shot, not a set shot, but a jump shot. She's one of the best recruits I've ever signed."

Cole hails from Sharpstown High School in Houston. She was the third leading scorer in the Greater Houston Area, averaging 25 points per game. She also made the all-district, all-region and all-state teams, as well as being the MVP of District 18-5A. Cole was rated in Texas' Top 30 players by Dallas Morning News and the Houston Chronicle.

"Shantell is very close to Conley in ability," said Chadwick. "Shantell is probably a better rebounder, and she's got a tremendous jump shot. She visited Sam Houston when I was there."

Williams played high school ball at Stephen F. Austin High School. In the 1987-88 season she averaged 22 points and nine rebounds per game. She was the fourth leading scorer in the Greater Houston area. She was an all-district player for three years, and made the All-Houston team. Last year she was a red-shirt at Sam Houston State University.

"Cindy is about three or four months away from becoming the player she needs to be," said Chadwick. "With those three guards, it gives us a very good guard group."

Easy Goer 3-5 Derby favorite

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Now, Shug McGaughey can restart his heart and take a few easy breaths before Saturday. Easy Goer is the Kentucky Derby's first odds-on favorite in this decade, and the main horse is in the main gate.

Easy Goer will break from the 14th of 16 post positions Saturday, taking what many believe will be the first step on a Triple Crown road last traveled in 1978 by Affirmed.

"Somebody said they heard my heart pounding through my shirt when they drew the first, 15th and 16th post positions," McGaughey, Easy Goer's trainer, said. "I took a deep breath and relaxed a lot."

The main gate holds 14 starters. The 15th and 16th starters, 50-1 outsiders Wind Splitter and Northern Wolf, will break from an auxiliary gate set up at the end of the main gate.

While there may be concern about the auxiliary gate opening, it's never failed in the Derby. The most obvious disadvantage is that because the auxiliary gate doesn't fit tightly against the main gate, the 15 and 16 starters are forced even farther outside.

Easy Goer, who has won all three starts this year with ease, was a 3-5 early favorite, coupled in betting with stablemate Awe Inspiring, the Flamingo Stakes winner who will break from the No. 13 post. Even without the entrymate, Easy Goer almost certainly would be odds-on.

Not only is McGaughey's entry the first odds-on Derby favorite since Spectacular Bid won in 1979, but Easy Goer also will be trying to become the first 2-year-old champion since Spectacular Bid to win the race.

Derby winner trained by Charlie Whittingham, will start from the 10th post and was made the 3-1 second choice when 16 3-year-old colts were entered Thursday.

The D. Wayne Lukas entry of Houston, winner of the Bayshore and Derby Trial, and grass specialist Shy Tom was made an 8-1 third choice, along with Harvey Vanier's Western Playboy, winner of the Jim Beam and Blue Grass stakes and apparently recovered from an infection in the hock of his

Houston will start from the No. 6 post, and Western Playboy, from No. 3. Shy Tom, a late entry who hasn't raced on dirt since last December, will start from the fifth spot.

Lukas said horses have a natural tendency to drift toward the rail since that's the way they are trained.

McGaughey, who will send Pat Day out to ride Easy Goer, said his main worry starting from so far outside was the dash to the first turn of the 1 1/4-mile race.

Each starter will carry 126 pounds, and if they all go to post, the race will be worth $753,200, with $584,200 to the winner. ABC will televise live from Churchill Downs from 5-6 p.m. EDT, with the race scheduled to start at about 5:33 p.m.

The field, in position order with jockeys: Clever Trevor, Don Pettenger; Flying Continental, Corey Black; Western Playboy, Randy Romero; Hawster, Marco Castaneda; Shy Tom, Chris Antley; Houston, Laffit Pincay; Dansil, Larry Snyder; Faithless Ensign, Chris de Carlo; Triple Buck, Jose Santos; Sunday Silence, Pat Valenzuela; Irish Actor, Don Howard; Notation, Herb McCauley; Awe Inspiring, Craig Perret; Easy Goer, Day; Wind Splitter, Donnie Miller; and Northern Wolf, Jo Jo Ladner.

Easy Goer worked a half mile in 47 1/5 Thursday and galloped out in 59 3/5, too quick for McGaughey's taste. He chewed out exercise rider David Carroll for letting Easy Goer go after another horse for the second time this week.

"I was just irritated because things didn't go perfect," McGaughey said.

McGaughey said.

Sunday Silence also had his final workout Thursday, going 46 3/5 for a half mile and galloping out five-eighths in 1:01 3/5.

Easy Goer, winner of four of six career starts, has not lost since last Nov. 5 here in the Breeders' Cup Juvenile, when he finished second, 1 1/4 lengths behind Is It True over a muddy track.

The weather forecast calls for rain Friday and, for Saturday, cloudy skies, scattered showers and temperatures in the mid-50s. McGaughey is not worried.

In his last outing, Easy Goer won the Wood Memorial April 22 by three lengths over Rock Point, with Triple Buck third. Easy Goer won the April 8 Gotham by 13 lengths in 1:32 2/5, one-fifth of a second off Dr. Fager's 1968 world record for the mile. Easy Goer also won his 3-year-old debut, the March 4 Swale, by 8 3/4 lengths.

Whittingham, meanwhile, kept Sunday Silence out West. He won his last start, the Santa Anita Derby on April 8, by a record 11 lengths, and, like Easy Goer, has won all three starts this year.

While rebounding with a five-length victory in last Saturday's Derby Trial, Houston's reputation took a sharp dip in the Santa Anita when he finished fifth, 16 3/4 lengths behind Sunday Silence. Lukas blamed the 100-plus degree heat.

Western Playboy has won just two of his five starts as a 3-year-old, but they were the last two. He beat Dispersal by a half-length in the Blue Grass on April 15, and he was a 1 1/2-length winner over Feather Ridge in the Jim Beam on April 1.

Twins ace still searching for first victory

By The Associated Press
Frank Viola is still winless and it's driving him speechless.

"I've got so many things bound up to say but I'm speechless," Viola said after going 0-5 as the Minnesota Twins lost to the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2 Thursday night despite his complete-game eight-hitter.

While the Twins were suffering their 11th loss in 12 games and falling into the American League West Division cellar, in other AL games it was Cleveland 3, Kansas City 1 as John Farrell came within three outs of a no-hitter; New York 11, Texas 7; California 3, Toronto 2, and Chicago 5, Boston 4.

Viola, the 1988 Cy Young Award winner when he was 24-7 with a 2.64 earned run average, actually lowered his ERA to 4.84. The last time Viola went this far without a victory was 1983, his first full season in the majors when he didn't win until May 18, making him 1-2 en route to a 7-15 record.

Winner Don August allowed one run and six hits in seven innings. Chuck Crim retired the only batter he faced and Dan Plesac took over for his fifth save although he yielded a home run to Brian Harper with two out in the ninth.

The Twins gave it a shot for Viola in the ninth. Following Harper's homer, Carmen Castillo doubled, but Plesac speared Dan Gladden's line drive to end the game.

The entire Milwaukee team was on the field to congratulate Plesac when it was discovered that Harper's drive had bounced out of center fielder Yount's glove and over the fence.

Indians 3, Royals 1
Farrell held the Royals hitless until the ninth. Willie Wilson started the ninth with a grounder that skipped over first baseman Pete O'Brien's glove for a two-base error and Kevin Seitzer broke up the no-hit bid with a fly ball that dropped inside the right-field line for a single, Kansas City's only hit. Wilson scored when Doug Jones got Jim Eisenreich to hit into a double play.

Farrell was making his fourth start after beginning the year on the disabled list because of tendonitis in his right elbow. Loser Bret Saberhagen allowed three runs on five hits.

Cleveland broke a scoreless tie with three runs in the bottom of the eighth on a two-out RBI single by Jerry Browne and a two-run homer by Joe Carter, his third.

Yankees 11, Rangers 7
Two-run singles by Rickey Henderson and Don Mattingly highlighted light-hitting New York's largest outburst of the year, a five-run third inning. Winner Dave LaPoint gave up three homers and all seven Texas runs in 5 1-3 innings.

The Yankees chased Charlie Hough with four runs in the first inning, including Ken Phelps' RBI double and RBI singles by Wayne Tolleson and Alvaro Espinoza. Hough also lasted two-thirds of an inning against Cincinnati in 1979 as a member of the Los Angeles Dodgers, 268 starts ago. His previous shortest start with Texas was 1 2-3 innings.

Angels 3, Blue Jays 2
Lance Parrish led off the 10th inning with a double and eventually scored the winning run on Dante Bichette's sacrifice fly. Toronto's Junior Felix became the 53rd player in major-league history to hit a home run in his first at-bat with a third-inning shot off Kirk McCaskill.

MINNEAPOLIS — The Twins Tim Lauder (15) beats the tag of the Milwaukee Brewers catcher Chalie O'Brien (22) to score in the seventh inning.

Big Spring, 8-4 in league play and 13-10 overall, is coming off a 15-9 over San Angelo Lake View. The Steers are currently in a tie for second place with Fort Stockton and Andrews. Snyder leads the pack with a 9-3 mark.

GENERAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Fleisher, who founded the NBA Players Association and as an agent represented some of the biggest names in the sport, collapsed and died following a squash game. He was 58.

Fleisher was pronounced dead at Roosevelt Hospital, where a spokesman said it was policy not to release the cause of death.

Under Fleisher's leadership of 26 years, NBA players became some of the highest paid in sports and gained one of the best free-agent systems. Fleisher also worked with the league in developing a model drug-abuse program in which the union participated.

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Mogilny, a 20-year-old forward regarded as an up-and-coming star on the Soviet National Team, defected to the West, apparently to play in the National Hockey League, Soviet and Swedish media reported.

Mogilny is the first Soviet player to defect. Spokesmen for the NHL and the Buffalo Sabres, who hold Mogilny's rights, said they knew nothing of the reports.

Sands senior weightman Shannon Nail works out on the shot put in preparation for the state six-man track meet Saturday in Comanche. Nail will also compete in the discus.

Sands weightman after two state meet victories

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

ACKERLY — Although it will take a superior effort — and a little bit of luck — Sands senior Shannon Nail has the possibility of making history, not only at his school but in six-man track circles.

Nail has the chance to win two state gold medals in the same event. That's because Nail will compete in the state six-man track meet Saturday in Comanche and the regular state meet in Austin the following week.

Since this is the first year for the state six-man meet, Nail could have the distinction of becoming one of the first athletes to win two golds at two different state meets.

The big senior will compete in the shot put and discus at the six-man state meet, and in the shot put in Austin. The shot put is Nail's best event and he goes into Saturday's competition as the favorite with a best of 50-4. His closest competitor is a thrower from Zephyr, who's thrown 48-11.

His top discus throw of 151-3 ranks him third for Saturday's meet. A thrower from Rule has a best of 156 and a Groom thrower is two feet behind him.

At Austin, the shot put competition will be hot and heavy. A thrower from Mart is way ahead of everyone with his throw of 58-feet. After that, everyone is close, ranging from the 50-53 foot range.

Sands coach Randy Roemisch is very hopeful Nail can bring home two golds from the six-man meet. "He has a good shot at winning the shot," said Roemisch. In the discus

I don't know. If he gets off a good throw he could pull off a double. But his form is a lot better in the discus than the shot."

This is the first season, Nail, a transfer from Marathon, has used the spin technique in the discus. He used to throw from the front of the ring, not using all the power and speed one gets from spinning.

"I tried spinning a little last year," said Nail. "But this is the first year that I've done it all the way through. This is my last year, I figured if I didn't do it (spin) this year, I never would. I'm more mature now, and I've worked harder."

Nail has seen his discus effort improve tremendously this year, almost 20 feet so.

He readily admits that he is totally comfortable when it comes to putting the 12-pound shot.

"I've been throwing the shot longer, since the seventh grade," he said. "I'm more consistent in the shot. I try not to let anything bother me. I try not to think about it, I'm out there to do my best."

Nail says he's trying to place the same emphasis on both state meets. "I'm concentrating on the six-man meet right now. After that's over I can start thinking about Austin."

"I know Austin is going to be tougher because the difference in the sizes of the six-man and Class A schools. But I'd like to win at both."

And if that happens, Shannon Nail will go down in the record books.

Cardinals rout Dodgers, 12-1

By The Associated Press
On the bright side for Los Angeles, Mickey Hatcher pitched a hitless ninth inning against NL

St. Louis

By that time, however, most of the Dodgers weren't looking. Why?

The Cardinals piled up 21 hits en route to a 12-0 victory Thursday night over Fernando Valenzuela.

Hatcher, who does just about everything for Los Angeles, was called on to mop up the mess.

Milt Thompson sparked a five-run second inning with a two-run homer and Tony Pena paced the Cardinals' attack with four singles.

Astros 5, Expos 4
Bill Doran hit a home run with one out in the 10th inning to lift Houston over Montreal at Olympic Stadium.

Reliever Joe Hesketh, 3-1, struck out Rafael Ramirez to start the 10th, but Doran hit a 3-2 pitch into the left-field seats.

It continued a rough week for Hesketh, who allowed nine runs in 1 2-3 innings in his previous outing against the Reds on Monday night.

Danny Darwin, 3-1, who pitched a scoreless ninth, got the victory and Dave Smith retired the side in the 10th for his fifth save.

Carmichael

that the offer was too good to pass up. In this profession, you wonder how long it'll be before an offer like that will come along ... I wasn't looking for a job. I was happy here. But, it was too good to pass up," Carmichael said.

Carmichael is generally credited with taking over a lackluster BSHS girls' program and turning it into one of the most respected in the state.

Since coming to Big Spring from Cross Plains in 1985, he has compiled a 117-26 won-lost record. The Lady Steers also have won three consecutive District 4-4A titles under his guidance.

In the past three seasons, the team has compiled an 88 percent winning percentage. In addition, they haven't lost a home game in three years.

But it was not just Carmichael's basketball knowledge that impressed Stephenville officials.

"I think it was his personality and philosophy (that won him the job)," Stephenville Athletic Director Art Briles said today. "The man's got a lot of class and character. I think he'll be a good role model to our students and an asset to the community."

Briles said Carmichael was selected from about 30 candidates interviewed for the post, and will assume his new duties on the first day of the 1989-90 school year.

The Honeybees — long considered a power in girls basketball in that area — had an 18-12 record last season and failed to qualify for the state playoffs for only the third time in 20 years.

Carmichael agreed that he will be under pressure to perform at his new post, but added that it is a challenge he welcomes.

"Obviously, there is going to be some pressure in that job," he said. "But it'll be a different type of challenge. I would like to take over in a program that's had some success over the years and see how far I can take it."

Looking back over his Big Spring tenure, he said he is proudest of the girls that were in the program and that girls' basketball finally was established in the public eye.

"Some of the girls I've coached, they're not only good basketball players, but they're good people as well," Carmichael said. "We have five girls that were in the program that are now in college ... plus, I feel we finally got the attention of the public. We got people interested in girls' basketball here."

No formal action will be taken to find Carmichael's successor until the BSHS school board formally acts on his resignation at its May 11 meeting.

God sees adultery as sin

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have fallen in love with a man at work. The problem is he's still married. Would it be wrong for me to pray that God would make his wife divorce him so we could get married? I just feel God must have put us together because we are meant for each other. — A.L.

DEAR A.L.: I know it's not the answer you hoped I'd give — but I must say as clearly and forcefully as possible that it would be wrong for you to pray that this man's marriage would end up in divorce so you could marry him.

Your desire, I sense, is to try to avoid feeling guilty over breaking up this man's marriage — but you can't evade sharing responsibility for what happens. Furthermore, you are already guilty in God's eyes of doing wrong by being a party to this relationship and encouraging your friend to break his marriage vows. Marriage is not just a social convenience; it was given to us by God, and his perfect plan is for a husband and wife to be committed to each other for life. Jesus said concerning marriage, "Therefore what God has joined together, let man not separate" (Matthew 19:16). The Bible also says, "Marriage should be honored by all, and the marriage bed kept pure, for God will judge the adulterer and all the sexually immoral" (Hebrews 13:4).

LET'S HELP REBUILD THE LIVES THEY WOULD HAVE GIVEN

We send the members of our armed services into battle in unavoidable situations, knowing with sad hearts that many of them will not return home. There are, however, others who will, for although they have risked their lives for us they did manage to survive, even though in some cases with permanent disabilities. Let us never forget what we owe them for what they have done for us. We must give them every possible advantage in the way of job opportunities, housing, education and all the things they will need in order to resume their place in our society. We should also thank the Lord at our House of Worship for their safe return, and pray for their future well-being. It is incumbent upon us to do whatever we can to help them reconstruct their lives, which they were prepared to sacrifice for the preservation of our freedom.

Religion

Former missionary now preaches at local church

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

After spending nearly half his life sharing the gospel in a foreign country, Ron Duncan has returned to Coahoma to preach the word of God.

Sponsored by several Permian Basin Church's of Christ, Duncan spent 18 years as a missionary to Brazil. He now ministers at the Anderson Street Church of Christ.

RON DUNCAN

Duncan is an insurance agent in Odessa and teaches Spanish classes at Midland Christian School. He commutes to Big Spring on weekends to preach at his first official pastorate since returning to the United States.

Originally from DeKalb, Duncan left for Brazil in 1967, returning to Texas in 1971 to study at Preston Road School of Bible Studies in Dallas for two years. He then returned to Brazil where he preached for 10 years at a church in Londrina.

Describing himself as a modern-day circuit rider, he established and maintained interior churches in 20 cities.

Because the Church of Christ offers Bible courses in foreign countries, Duncan helped the Brazilians finish their studies and answered their questions about the Lord.

Although the majority of the Brazilian population is Catholic, Duncan said that some individuals practice Spiritism, an African religion that practices lowgrade witchcraft. "Those who practice Spiritism are tough to convert," he said.

Duncan recalled a time when members of the Spiritism religion tried to bind his powers as an evangelist.

"They tied a ribbon around a tree at my home... to 'tie me up'... to bound me... to limit my power as an evangelist," he said.

Macumba, a low form of Spiritism, is also common in Brazil, Duncan said. "The religion has a medium that invokes the spirits that inhabits the body of the medium and speaks through him," Duncan explained.

Duncan noted that the Brazilian people are abandoning old traditions. "Catholics believe they are losing ground in Brazil because of evangelical churches that are coming in," he said.

Describing Brazil as an open door to church groups, Duncan said the residents are "very receptive" to those who teach conservative Bible beliefs.

Because the Brazilians are emotional people, Duncan said teachings of the evangelical churches appeal more to them.

To communicate with Brazil's 135 million residents, Duncan, who speaks fluent Portuguese, said he learned Brazil's native language through five months of "very intensive training."

Duncan invites the public to attend services at Anderson Street Church of Christ.

Sunday Bible study begins at 9:30 a.m.; morning worship is at 10:30; evening services are at 6 p.m.; Wednesday services are conducted at 7 p.m.; and the Ladies' Bible Class is at 7 p.m. at 1204 Blackmon.

Whitten to perform in Midland

Joe Whitten, director of Joe Whitten Prison Ministries, will participate as a soloist in Felix Mendelssohn's great oratorio "Elijah" Sunday at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Midland, 2104 Louisiana at Garfield.

JOE WHITTEN

Whitten, who sings the role of Elijah, will be joined by Janice Archer, Viola Campbell, Roy Carley, Linda Flynt, Phyllis Hilburn, Rob Hunt, Martha Lewis, Mike Smith and Charlotte Whitaker.

Whitten has served as minister of music for 32 years in the West Texas area. He has participated in the Centurymen of the Radio and Television Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention.

According to a news release, except for Handel's "Messiah" in 1741, Haydn's "Creation" in 1797, and Beethoven's "Mount of Olives" in 1893, few great oratorios were written during the romantic period (1750-1900) of music until Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" in 1836, and "Elijah," written in 1846.

Nazarenes to sponsor 'Fly-In'

First Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster St., and Pastor Gary Smith will sponsor a "Fly-In" For Kids Sunday through Thursday at 7 p.m.

This exciting adventure will be traced nightly for five nights by Rev. and Mr. Willard Grant along with their flying machine, the Eagle. Pilot Willard and his wife, co-pilot Margaret, have been youth evangelists since 1955. The Grants travel 45,000 miles per year to minister to more than 50,000 children, according to a news release.

This is the 11th theme the Grants

Youth rally set for Saturday

Central Baptist Church, Elbow Community, will host a "Bring on the Summer" youth rally Saturday from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Speaker will be Mark McMillan, Ira Baptist Church; music will be provided by Jamie and Kelly Killian, Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Man to be honored for 25 years of church service

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

What began at home as a family pastime will culminate Sunday when Dwayne Clawson will be honored for 25 years of service as music director at a local church.

Members of First Baptist Church of Coahoma will honor Clawson during worship services at 11 a.m., and at 5 p.m. at a singing and reception. All friends are invited to attend.

Born in 1934 on the Conaway Ranch in Mitchell County, Clawson said he and his family would sing just "to pass the time away."

Although he has had no formal training, Clawson says he was "pretty close to being a country western singer," until an injury to his hand limited his ability to finger the guitar.

While dove hunting, he dropped a gun and it discharged hitting him in the arm and injuring the muscles leading to his fingers.

When Clawson was a fifth grade student, he joined a church in Westbrook and accepted Jesus Christ as his savior. In 1952, he married Lou Jarnagin, who has taught Sunday School for 34 years.

While employed by a lumber company in Coahoma, he and his wife were transferred to Snyder and then to Odessa where they attended Immanuel Baptist Church where he served as music director from 1955 to 1959.

He later served as music director at Vine Avenue Baptist Church in Odessa for a year. In June 1960, the Clawsons moved to Ft. Stockton where he managed a lumber yard and directed music at Northside Baptist Church until June 1963. The Clawsons moved back to Odessa where he served as music director at Grandview Baptist Church for nearly six months.

In 1964, he and his family moved to Coahoma and opened the former Clawson Lumber Co. That same year, the Clawsons joined First Baptist Church where he has served as part-time music director for the past 25 years.

In charge of the church's music program, Clawson said his duties are to keep the members' musical interest alive, to encourage young people to use their talents and to keep the choir going.

"He has a unique style of leading music and singing," said church member Jeannie Darden. "He is very good, if fact, when we hold revivals, the visiting preacher wants to take him back with him."

Clawson credits the pianist and organist at Immanuel Baptist Church for most of his musical abilities.

"After church, we would practice and they would tell me what I was doing right and what I was doing wrong," he said.

Clawson, who owns and operates Clawson Trucking Co. along with his wife, and son, Larry, also leads music at revivals throughout Texas and sings at weddings and funerals.

Clawson admits he still loves country music — but said his first love is directing music at his church. "I wouldn't give it up for anything," he said.

Weather

Tornadoes touched down near a number of Texas towns early today, causing damage to property but no serious injuries, authorities said, while heavy rains drenched Louisiana.

Winds gusted to 80 mph in Granbury, Texas, a town of 5,000 residents 20 miles southwest of Fort Worth, damaging many mobile homes, authorities said.

Gusts also were reported to near 80 mph at Wichita Falls, Texas, and 80 to 90 mph at Eldorado, Oklahoma. There were a large number of reports of winds to near 100 mph from Dallas County, Texas, to near Waco.

Shreveport, La., had some street flooding after an inch of rain fell in 30 minutes. Monroe, La., had more than 4 inches of rain in the six hours ending at 2 a.m. EDT, while Shreveport, La., and Fort Worth, Texas, had more than 2 inches. New Orleans had more than an inch of rain in the same period.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms extending from southeast Texas across much of the Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, the eastern Gulf Coast region to much of the Atlantic Coast. Thunderstorms were to be most numerous from southeast Texas across the lower Mississippi Valley and the Tennessee Valley, the central and southern Appalachians to the middle Atlantic Coast. Strong and gusty winds were forecast across the middle and upper Mississippi Valley and western portions of the upper Great Lakes.

High temperatures were expected in the 80s and 90s over Texas except the Panhandle, across the southern Rockies and the southern Plateau to inland California; and to 100 to 105 degrees over the desert Southwest. The remainder of the nation was to have high temperatures generally in the 60s and 70s.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Seek a better balance between work and play. Going to extremes is almost always a mistake. Others wonder what you will do next. Keep your own counsel! The element of surprise works miracles.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Good luck in love makes this a happy and exciting time. Your excellent memory helps you win a friendly competition with a family member. Try to lift a child's spirits. Keep your promises.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Work harder at making a relationship a success. Two heads are definitely better than one. Reach out to mate for advice on the best way to handle a sensitive money matter. Negotiate a compromise.
