Taxpayers can protest

Taxpayers in the Howard County Appraisal District now have an opportunity to protest their property values, which are used to set local tax rates, Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire said.

Taxpayers who have a discrepancy with the appraisal district-set property value are encouraged to contact the appraisal office between now and June 12, Toomire said.

The appraisal office will remain open on June 5-6 until 8 p.m. to allow those people unable to make it during the regular business hours to discuss any value discrepancies with an appraiser, he said. "If we can't settle it, they'll have a chance to go before the Appraisal Review Board," he said. The review board will meet June 13 for mineral claims and June 14-16 for all other claims.

The State Property Tax Board publishes a booklet entitled "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities" that outlines the property tax system and how to prepare an ARB protest, he said. Copies of the booklet can be obtained from the county appraisal office, 315 Main Street.

Tennis courts tabled

FORSAN — The drop in oil production has forced the tabling of tennis court construction by the Forsan school district.

School board members tabled the tennis court construction during a Monday meeting. "We were going to look at some estimates on building four additional tennis courts," said J.F. Poyner, superintendent. "However, we have lost quite a bit of value because of the drop in oil production. There was no way with that loss we could consider more courts, so the board tabled it."

In other action the board:

- Discussed the Students at Risk and Gifted and Talented programs at the school.
- Agreed to continue participation in the Region 18 Service Center
- Discussed results from various school tests, including the TEAMS results, California Achievement test and ACT test results. "Overall, we're quite satisfied with these results," Poyner said.
- Agreed to leave cafeteria prices for the coming year at this year's rate of 75 cents for lunch and 50 cents for breakfast.
- Voted to continue membership in the Texas Association of Community Schools for 1989-90.
- Agreed to pay their share of the cost of a cooperative child care study for the area.

Anti-drug rally set

An anti-drug rally — featuring school bands, cheerleaders and free refreshments — will be held Saturday from 2-4 p.m. in the Big Spring Mall parking lot.

The rally, during which school anti-drug poster contest winners will be announced, is sponsored by Students Against Driving Drunk and the Just Say No club.

"The purpose of the rally is to get the community together on this ... so the kids can see the community is supporting them," said Gay Herren, organizational chairperson.

"The only way we can wipe this out is for us to all do it together."

Skits will be performed by the Big Spring High School and Runnels Junior High SADD organizations, McGruff and Kim Savage and Hershey.

Also to be featured during the rally include: the Big Spring High School band and cheerleaders, the Runnels Junior High band and cheerleaders, the Feaster puppets, Goliad Middle School band and cheerleaders and a balloon launch.

Organizations who would like to participate may call Gay Herren at 267-7641 or 263-3767.

Radioactive waste to go through area

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

The federal government may soon begin transporting garbage through the Big Spring area — but it will be very special garbage.

Officials with the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant project were in town Tuesday to explain WIPP's plan to transport low-level radioactive waste through Big Spring on Interstate 20.

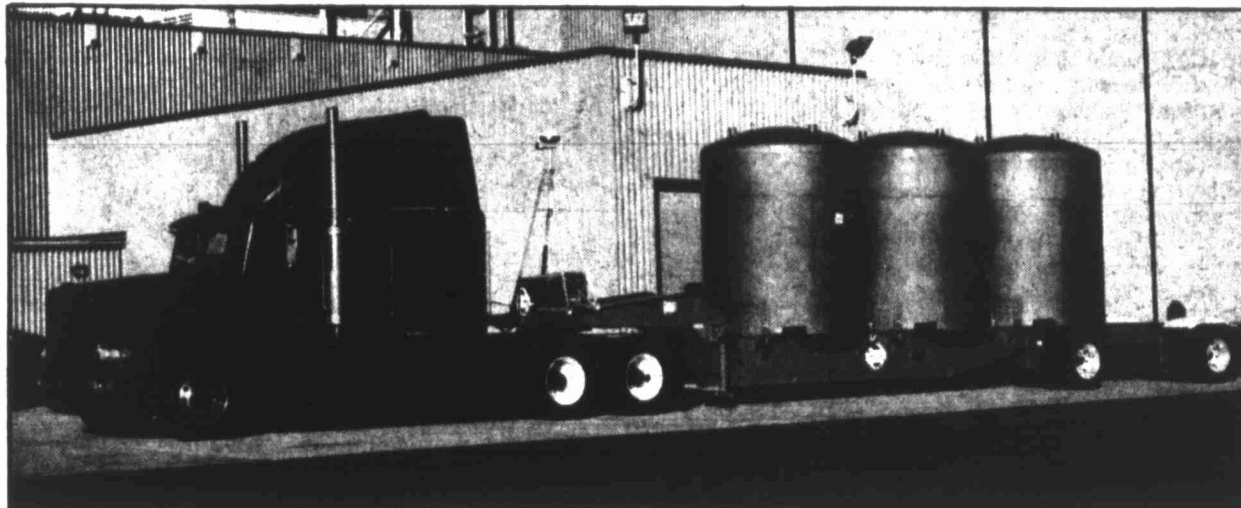

Following that route the radioactive material will pass through Colorado City, Coahoma, Big Spring, Stanton and other areas along I-20.

If Congress approves the project, WIPP will begin shipping the waste from the Savannah River, S.C. nuclear weapons plant to a storage site near Carlsbad, N.M. about once a week along I-20.

And Tarek Khreis, media coordinator for the project, was quick to add that local residents should not be alarmed at the prospect of radioactive waste traveling through the area.

"It's basically trash," Khreis said. "We're talking about lab gloves, clothing ... things that get contaminated when you're developing weapons. It's what we call contact-handled waste."

He added, however, that precautions must be taken because of the long half-life of the contaminant, in this case plutonium. "The problem's not with the radioactivity — it's very small," Khreis said. "It's that plutonium has a half-life of about 24,000 years. We just have to isolate the stuff."

Tractor-trailer rigs carrying three vessels, each with 14 55-gallon drums of nuclear waste materials, may be passing through Big Spring along Interstate 20 approximately once a week.

To solve the problem of possible contamination while transporting, WIPP officials developed a three-walled container to hold the material. The containers, which Khreis said exceed federal specifications against puncture, collision or fire, will be transported by truck along various interstates to the Carlsbad site.

The shipments will begin six months to a year after final federal approval is received, he said, estimating that a total of 2,060 shipments will pass through Big Spring during the 25 years of the project.

Khreis was uncertain as to when the first shipments would pass through Big Spring, saying it was dependent on when Congress approves the project.

In case of an accident, project officials have devised contingency plans to deal with the emergency. "We've done almost everything possible to reduce the risk to the public and our workers," he said.

If one of the trailers — which are tracked by satellite — overturns in the area, a local group of responders trained by WIPP officials will be first on the scene and will determine if the containers are breached.

Regardless of whether a breach has occurred, the area will be cordoned off and a state response team will be contacted. It will be this team's responsibility to determine what, if any, further action needs to be taken, Khreis said.

Newton murder trial set Monday

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

Capital murder defendant Pamela Wayne Newton's case was officially set for trial after attorneys for the defense and prosecution said Tuesday they are prepared to begin.

Newton's case — which has taken more than a year to reach a final trial date — was set for Monday during a routine docket call in 118th District Court, used to establish the order of cases set for trial.

Because Newton's trial has now officially been set, no other cases have been scheduled for the following week, William Dupree, assistant district attorney said today.

"There were a lot of other cases ..."

A third prison for Big Spring?

HERALD STAFF REPORT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Big Spring is one of three Texas locations that could benefit if Congress passes the anti-crime package proposed by President George Bush Monday.

A spokesman for Sen. Phil Gramm's office confirmed today that Big Spring would be "high on the list" of any new federal prison sites that would come about with the passage of $1 billion dollars in funding for new prisons asked for by Bush.

"Three towns in Texas have expressed local interest in having a prison," a Gramm spokesman said. "Big Spring, Lufkin and Beaumont."

"They are three of several localities mentioned as potential sites if Congress funds the President's request for prison construction."

Bush made the announcement of his crime package Monday. A part of that proposal asked Congress to approve $1 billion in new funding for prison construction.

If Big Spring was chosen as the site of a federal prison, it would mean three prisons for the city including Big Spring Federal Prison and the recently approved detention center in the former Homestead Inn.

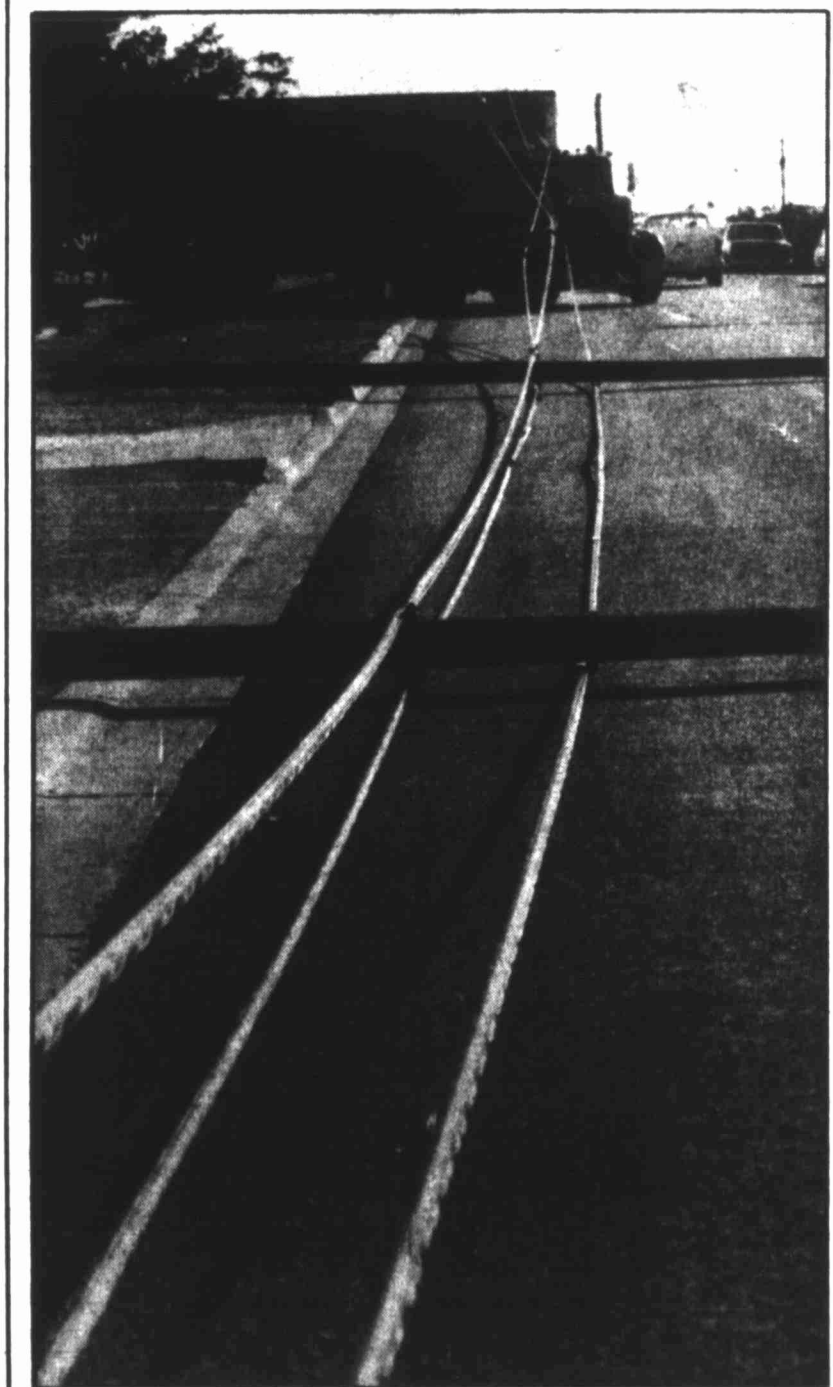

City Manager Hal Boyd said today that several area groups had sent a letter to Gramm's office noting that the city would be interested in obtaining a new prison.

The letter was signed by the Southwestern Bell employee James Powell kneels beneath one of the downed telephone poles, preparing to remove one of the phone lines after an accident Tuesday.

On the east side of the street, where the truck remained, poles lay along the street or at crazy angles along the ground.

Truck KO's Ma Bell!

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Phone lines were down for a section of the city Tuesday after the top of a freightline truck caught several telephone cables, bringing down the lines and six telephone poles, according to a police report.

Phone lines were down from 4:30 p.m. until 2 a.m. this morning, a spokesperson for Southwestern Bell said today. She said a report on the accident did not indicate how many people were without phone service because of the accident.

"A lot of people saw the phone lines down so I'm not sure how much of a disruption it was," she said.

The accident occurred after the truck's driver, Wayne William Popnoe, 57, Lamesa, entered the 1900 block of Wasson Road and his truck caught the wires and brought down three telephone lines and the poles, the report said.

The Southwestern Bell spokesperson said two of the poles were snapped in half because of the accident; all six poles were replaced, she said.

Popnoe was cited by police for failure to maintain financial responsibility.

GI jury chosen in trial

By KIMBALL PERRY
Special to the Herald

FORT BENNING, Ga. — A jury of 11 Fort Benning soldiers was selected Tuesday, paving the way for opening statements to begin this morning in the murder trial of Army Staff Sgt. Jeffrey L. Meeks, originally of Big Spring.

Fifteen soldiers were sworn in as prospective jurors shortly after court began Tuesday. The 11 were selected after lawyers questioned the panelists. Court recessed about 4 p.m. Tuesday, shortly after the jury was seated.

It was the second day of the post's first capital punishment trial since 1964. Meeks is accused of killing 2nd Lt. Todd Justin Dunlap and Debra Jean Nichols in Ms. Nichols' Fort Mitchell, Ala., mobile home, Nov. 22, 1987. He is charged with two counts of premeditated murder.

College withdraws computer contract

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Howard College trustees withdrew approval for a $400,000 computer hardware/software contract from a Cincinnati, Ohio company after the two could not agree on what should be included in the agreement.

"Since we couldn't agree to a contract that would suit us and suit them ... we were at an impasse," said College President Bob Riley. "We had selected their software package but we could not negotiate a contract with them and the board withdrew their approval."

"There were some things we wanted done that they weren't comfortable with and they had some things we weren't comfortable with," Riley said. Bids for new specifications should be going out this week and "with a lot of luck we might have bids for the June meeting but it will probably be July."

During the president's report to the board, Riley told the trustees that Ruby Pope Joy Bayne had endowed two scholarships in psychology/sociology in memory of her husband John Bayne, a former psychology/sociology instructor at the school.

Bayne donated $12,000 and the college will use the interest of that gift to provide two scholarships per year beginning in the fall of 1990.

Drug law passes

AUSTIN (AP) — Persons under 21-years-old could have their driver's license suspended if convicted of drug or alcohol offenses under one of several crime bills approved by the Senate.

The Senate on Tuesday sent the bill by Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, to the House on a voice vote.

Another Zaffirini bill that gained Senate approval would make it illegal to deliver, sell, possess or manufacture paraphernalia used to inhale chemicals, glue, or paint.

A person convicted of the offense could face a maximum of one year in prison, a $3,000 fine, or both.

In other action, the Senate adopted a measure by Sen. Kenneth Armbrister, D-Victoria, that would increase the term of imprisonment by a minimum of five years if a person is convicted of selling "crack."

Drought hearing slated

AMARILLO (AP) — Agronomists, agriculture organization officials and farmers will testify Friday in Amarillo before congressional subcommittee members conducting the first of two hearings this week on drought conditions in the Farm Belt.

House Agriculture committee chairman Rep. Kiki del la Garza, D-Mission, and Rep. Bill Sarpalis, D-Amarillo, are scheduled to attend the hearing sponsored by the House subcommittee on wheat, soybeans and feed grains. Subcommittee chairman Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kansas, also is expected to attend.

A second hearing will be held Saturday in Great Bend, Kan. "Congress responded quickly and effectively last year to drought conditions across the country," said Sarpalis, a member of the subcommittee. "This year we have a drought that could be worse. Some counties in (Sarpalis' district) already have three-quarters of their wheat crop severely damaged or lost and the problems are just as bad in the other states."

Ancient graves found

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — An archaeologist says eight graves discovered at the city's Botanical Gardens are believed to date back nearly 2,800 years and may have links to the ancient Mayans.

Herman Smith of the Corpus Christi Museum said the find, discovered last week, appears to have connections with a 13-grave burial site unearthed last February at the Botanical Gardens.

Both groups are believed to date back to 800 B.C., he said, and there are indications they had links to ancient Mexican and Mayan civilizations.

"What is most intriguing of all is that we have the suggestion that South Texas may have been the conduit for culture traits from southern Mexico into the Mississippi River Valley," Smith told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

Tornadoes, thunderstorms march across Texas

By The Associated Press

A tornado struck the Central Texas town of Jarrell in Williamson County early today, destroying several homes, damaging an apartment complex and five 18-wheelers that were on Interstate 35, the Texas Department of Public Safety reported.

Emergency medical personnel have been called to Jarrell from around Williamson County although most injuries were believed to be minor.

In addition to the homes and apartment complex, several businesses, including some service stations, were also damaged, officials say.

The Jarrell tornado came as severe thunderstorms triggered tornadoes, flash flooding and hail across a vast area of Texas from the Rio Grande to the Red River.

And forecasts called for the relentless onslaught of violent weather to continue across much of the state through today.

Even as the water began to recede on streets and highways of North Texas, another storm system was reported to be building in West Texas and Southwest Texas, the National Weather Service reported.

A funnel cloud was reported just west of Del Rio early today and a severe thunderstorm that contained at least one funnel cloud damaged homes, barns and outbuildings near Bracketville in Kinney County.

To the northwest, funnel clouds were sighted in Terry and Lynn Counties early today and a severe thunderstorm caused some wind damage in the Lubbock area.

GAINESVILLE — Chuck Milan, right, and Tim Biggs lead Milan's horse, Raggedy Ann, toward her stable after she and several other horses were washed away in flood waters here Tuesday morning.

One tornado struck in the Mitchell Bend area of Hood County, only a few miles from Comanche Peak nuclear plant.

Heavy rains sent water over the spillway at Squaw Creek Lake, the cooling reservoir for the plant, which is not yet loaded with nuclear fuel.

"There is high water flowing over the dam, but it is not causing failure of the dam," said TU Electric spokesman George Hedrick.

Some of the heaviest damage appeared to be in Cleburne and Granbury, where high winds ripped off the roof of a nursing home at Cleburne and some mobile homes were damaged at Granbury.

At Cleburne, authorities said a woman was injured when wind blew out the glass door at a shopping mall and several residents of mobile homes suffered minor injuries, according to City Manager Lloyd Moss.

At least six tornadoes were reported in the North Texas area Tuesday night.

Some homes in the Johnson County town of Alvarado, about 10 miles from Cleburne, were damaged, but there were reports of injuries.

"We have floods and water going everywhere, an 18-wheeler and a car off the highway," Alvarado Mayor Bob Roberts told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

As the thunderstorms roared through the Dallas-Fort Worth area, causing flash flooding on many of the area's main roads Tuesday night, even air travel was slowed and in some cases virtually stopped.

Officials at Dallas' Love Field shut down operations for a time Tuesday night, but normal operations resumed after a severe thunderstorm passed to the east late Tuesday.

Several flights had to be diverted from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and some planes that did manage to land were delayed by as much as two hours.

"I've been working here since 1973 and this is the worst thunderstorm I've ever seen," said Warren Kneis, area supervisor for the Federal Aviation Administration at the Dallas-Fort Worth control tower.

Tuesday night's storms came about 12 hours after another line of storms caused extensive flooding north and northwest of the Dallas-Fort Worth area, dumping more than 7 inches of rain in some locations.

Southmark reports billion-dollar loss

Business

DALLAS (AP) — Southmark Corp.'s billion-dollar-plus quarterly loss puts the Dallas-based company in violation of agreements with holders of about $1.1 billion in bonds, the company said.

But Southmark also said it has more than $60 million in cash "to maintain operations and to remain current with its suppliers, vendors and creditors for some time to come."

Southmark, which has seen its top executives ousted this year and faces a proxy fight Friday with a disgruntled investor, on Tuesday reported a $1.04 billion quarterly loss.

The loss is mainly attributed to a huge reserve for losses from its real estate portfolio.

Stockholders' equity has dropped from $701 million on June 30, 1988 to a minus-$428 million on March 31.

"We are determined to make the best of the opportunities Southmark has and to save something for its equity holders if possible," said Chairman Arthur G. Weiss, a Georgia businessman brought in to run the company after directors fired Chairman Gene E. Phillips and Vice Chairman William S. Friedman in January.

"As much as we regret the position Southmark is in, we must recognize that Southmark does not have the financial resources to continue to support many of the syndicated partnerships that it has financed and to hold on to all of the assets it owns until the company can realize the full value of its investment," Weiss said.

Southmark reported a $936 million loss from continuing operations, including an $829 million loss provision, in the quarter ended March 31. Other losses were $104 million from discontinued operations involved in the anticipated sale of the company's insurance holdings, $57 million in interest expense and $49 million for other losses, bringing the total loss to $1.04 billion.

That compares to a loss of $12.3 million in the comparable quarter last year.

Revenues for the quarter were $406 million, compared to $431 million in the year-ago period; per-share losses were $23.30 in the 1989 quarter compared to 49 cents last year.

Susan Seiter, Southmark's vice president for investor relations, said the company hopes, but cannot guarantee, that this quarter's loss provision will be the last necessary. She said the provision is the result of re-evaluation of the company's $8 billion in assets undertaken by the new management.

In February, Southmark reported a $100 million loss reserve.

"Southmark's assumptions have been changed to reflect that depressed conditions in important real estate markets have continued longer than previously anticipated," Weiss said. "Real estate is a cyclical business... The real estate depression has lasted much longer than anyone expected."

Borger man indicted for seed rustling

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A West Texas businessman has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges he stole a popular grass seed from a military range in southern New Mexico.

Kenneth Chapman, 59, of Borger, Texas, was indicted last Friday by a federal grand jury in Albuquerque. The indictment charges Chapman with theft of U.S. property, entering a military reservation to commit a crime and aiding and abetting.

Specifically, the government contends Chapman was in possession of 107 sacks that contained blue grama grass seed. Chapman is accused of obtaining the seed by mowing blue grama grass growing on the McGregor Range, a large restricted military reservation south of Alamogordo.

Gary Olson, an investigator for the Bureau of Land Management, the agency responsible for resource management on the range, said the case was unique.

"We are not aware of a case like this ever being filed anywhere in the nation," he said.

U.S. Attorney William Lutz said Chapman had a permit to graze cattle in the area of McGregor Range, but the permit did not allow him to cut any of the grass or harvest the seed.

Bill Fuller, a plant materials specialist with the Soil Conservation Service, said the value of blue grama grass seed has increased substantially since 1985, when the Conservation Reserve Program encouraged farmers to plant some of fields in grass instead of more traditional crops.

Fuller said some 400,000 acres in New Mexico, Texas and Colorado are now involved in the program and the demand for blue grama seed has grown accordingly.

"There is a big business in growing and harvesting and selling this stuff," Olson said.

Protestors march against Medicare change

DALLAS (AP) — At least 100 elderly citizens, chanting slogans and carrying signs at City Hall Plaza, protested changes in the catastrophic illness provisions of Medicare.

Dodging rainfall, the protesters heard speakers decry the Medicare expansion that began Jan. 1, saying it costs more than its worth.

Tuesday's protest was sponsored by Seniors March Against Catastrophic Health Care Act, a Dallas-based group that wants the law repealed or frozen for a year until new legislation can be written.

"The Big Depression, The Big

War, The Big Rip-Off — We've Seen It All," read a sign carried by a protester. But for many of those at the hour-long event, it was their first organized protest.

"We never protested anything before," said Florence Wetzig, 69, an organizer of the demonstration. "But the point is if there's something you don't like, it doesn't pay to complain to your neighbor or your brother-in-law, you tell the people who can do something about it."

The Coalition for Affordable Health Care, a Washington-based group formed to lobby against the law, released on Monday a poll that suggests only about 60 percent of the 33 million Medicare beneficiaries covered by the program are familiar with it.

Of that 60 percent, the survey found, 53 percent said they are disenchanted with the new program signed into law last year by then-President Reagan after overwhelming congressional approval.

For more than 60 percent of those eligible for Medicare — those with too little taxable income to have to pay federal income taxes — the only additional expense this year is a $4-a month flat premium for the catastrophic illness provisions.

"We never protested anything before. But the point is if there's something you don't like, it doesn't pay to complain to your neighbor or your brother-in-law, you tell the people who can do something about it." — Florence Wetzig.

Soviets promise new era of peace

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer

BEIJING (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev today promised a new era of peace in the Far East, said the Red Army would reduce its forces in the area and urged Washington to pull its soldiers out of South Korea.

As the Soviet president spoke, a mighty flood of more than 1 million Chinese poured into the streets to demonstrate for democratic reforms in China and took control of the center of Beijing.

In his speech to Chinese academics in the Great Hall of the People, Gorbachev said the 4,300-mile-long Soviet-Chinese frontier should be turned into a "border of peace."

Gorbachev's historic visit to Beijing is to normalize relations after a 30-year chill between the two largest communist countries.

At the news conference later, Gorbachev defended socialist countries experiencing unrest as they try to reform their systems.

"If anyone thinks this will lead us to the ash heap of history, I think they will be disappointed again," Gorbachev said.

The news conference was delayed because it was moved to another location to avoid the hundreds of thousands of marching protesters.

"I would not try to assume the role of a judge," Gorbachev said when asked about the student unrest.

But he stressed that such problems "reaffirm the fact that changes under way are of a profound nature.

"Some regard this as a crisis of socialism," he said. Problems, he said, "may bring some pain. But we will stay the course" of democratic reforms.

He made a point of acknowledging receipt of a letter from the students who led the demonstrations, saying it was "a very warm letter, full of feelings of support for perestroika," Gorbachev's reform program.

During a trip outside the city to visit the Great Wall, Gorbachev's motorcade passed waves of demonstrators making their way in trucks, buses, by bicycle and on foot toward downtown.

Within hours, central Beijing streets were crammed with students, workers, teachers and journalists swelling out of central Tiananmen Square into the streets to march for democracy.

Gorbachev and his wife, Raisa, canceled plans to tour the Forbidden City because of the large crowds.

The Soviet leader said at the news conference today that he "got a little emotional" from the warmth of young people he met during a visit to the Great Wall today. "But I'm human." He added that "I feel those three decades were as if they never were."

In his speech a day after the first Sino-Soviet summit since 1959, Gorbachev called for a regional security network in Asia that would provide a means of settling disputes. And he said an earlier pledge to withdraw 200,000 troops from Asia would be fulfilled by the end of 1990 and would include the pullout of 12 divisions, or 120,000 soldiers, from the China frontier.

The Soviet Union is believed to have 600,000 troops along the Chinese border. The Chinese, armed with older equipment, have more than 1 million troops stationed there.

Gorbachev said 11 air force regiments would be disbanded and 16 warships removed from the Pacific Fleet.

On Tuesday, in a meeting with Premier Li Peng, Gorbachev said "we want the Soviet-Chinese border to be protected only by friendship." He also called for regular consultations between the militaries of the two countries.

in the (docket), obviously those cannot be tried now," Dupree said.

Dupree estimated jury selection would take about a week and the trial itself a week or possibly two. Dupree stressed that there are no hard and fast rules on how long a capital murder case can take.

Newton, 22, is charged with capital murder in the death of long-time Big Spring radio personality C. Vance Kimble. Kimble, 61, was found dead in his home of a single gunshot wound to the upper chest.

Several of Kimble's personal effects and two vehicles were stolen from his home after the murder, the sheriff's department said at the time.

Newton's brother Patrick, 18, Micheal Lee Hodnett, 24, both of Big Spring and 18-year-old Dennis Wayne Noggler, Coahoma, were also charged with capital murder. The cases will be tried separately, Dupree said earlier.

The Newtons and Hodnett were apprehended in New Orleans, La., where Pamela Newton allegedly attempted to use one of Kimble's credit cards. The Newtons and Hodnett were later extradited to Howard County.

Noggler was taken into custody in Florida and later extradited to Howard County.

Patrick Newton, Noggler and Hodnett are free on $50,000 bond each; Pamela Newton has remained in custody since her extradition.

If convicted of capital murder in the death of Kimble, Newton could face the death penalty.

Meeks, through Capt. William Hudson, his military attorney, pleaded not guilty to those charges Tuesday. Hudson hinted during the questioning of potential jurors that he may not allow Meeks to take the stand during the trial. He stressed to each potential juror that Meeks should not be presumed guilty if he does not take the stand on his own behalf.

Meeks testified Monday in response to a defense motion to suppress statements he gave to the post's Criminal Investigation Division earlier this year. During that testimony, Meeks said he fabricated a story about a man forcing him to cut Ms. Nichols' throat. The story, he said, was fabricated to keep the investigation of the killings open and to satisfy CID demands for a confession. He now says he killed no one.

The jury to decide Meeks' fate consists of seven officers and four Riley also told the board that five Howard College instructors will be attending the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development in Austin.

Lynn Walling, Gary Grant, and Lila Adkins will attend as outstanding faculty members from Howard College and Paul Ausmus and Mel Griffin have been selected as outstanding faculty members in the state and will be recognized at the NISOD meeting.

Trustees also received a brief update on college dormitory construction.

Riley told the group that there will be another work session on May 31 to finalize plans and allow the board and administration to give additional direction to the construction management and architectural teams.

College board members also heard a report from program director Charla Lewis on the Emergency Medical Technology Program.

Howard College has classes ongoing in seven different locations in the area, training volunteers to assist persons in their communities.

In other action, the board:

• Hired three instructors, including Diane Murphy, developmental math instructor; Billy Stiles, automotive technology instructor; and Elizabeth Lowery, speech instructor.

• Accepted the resignation of Ginger Bryant, interpreter at SWCID.

Panel investigating spill

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The captain of the Exxon Valdez smelled of alcohol but did not act intoxicated before the tanker ran aground, a shipping pilot told a federal panel investigating the nation's worst oil spill.

Before William E. Murphy testified on the first day of National Transportation Safety Board hearings, other crewmen told the panel they didn't notice alcohol on the breath of Capt. Joseph Hazelwood.

Third Mate Gregory T. Cousins, whom Hazelwood left at the helm, testified Tuesday that the ship had been on automatic pilot until 12 minutes before it ran aground in Prince William Sound and spilled nearly 11 million gallons of oil.

Cousins, who was not certified to operate the ship, said he could not explain why it was on automatic pilot when Exxon policy limits use of the device to open waters.

Murphy, who helped pilot the tanker through a narrow part of Prince William Sound before the ship hit a charted reef, said that he had a good opinion of Hazelwood's skill before the accident.

"I would characterize it as outstanding," he said.

Hazelwood failed sobriety tests administered about nine hours after the March 24 wreck.

Murphy said Hazelwood smelled of alcohol but spoke clearly and gave no sign of impaired judgment.

Cousins and four other crew members agreed that Hazelwood did not seem intoxicated but added that they did not smell any alcohol on the captain.

The witnesses said Exxon has a strict policy against alcohol or drugs on board, and they testified they had never seen the policy violated. They also said they had never had their bags searched for alcohol or drugs.

Cousins said Hazelwood had left the bridge to send out messages from his office. Although leaving, an uncertified crewman in charge is against company policy. Cousins said other captains have left him alone at the helm for brief periods.

Murphy, who left the ship about 45 minutes before it ran aground, said he found it unusual that Hazelwood was not on the bridge for much of the time.

Cousins said Hazelwood had ordered the 967-foot tanker out of the normal traffic lanes to avoid ice.

Moments before the wreck, Cousins called Hazelwood.

"I said to him at that time, 'I think we're in serious trouble.' At the end of that talk is when I felt the initial shock," he said.

Healing the Eastern rift

Thirty years of cold war on the Sino-Soviet border ended this week with the summit meeting of Soviet and Chinese leaders in Beijing. Former adversaries went out of their way to apologize for past conflicts.

"Very probably we are also responsible for that (cold war) period to a certain extent," said Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

A ceremony planned for a central Beijing square was moved to the airport after Chinese students, rallying for Soviet-style democratization, refused to move from the square.

Young Chinese have Russian stars in their eyes. Soviet visitors are looking for China's secret ingredient of "market socialism."

It was not always this way. In 1969, Chinese and Soviet border guards fought and killed each other. Since then, the Soviets and Chinese have massed huge armies along their border.

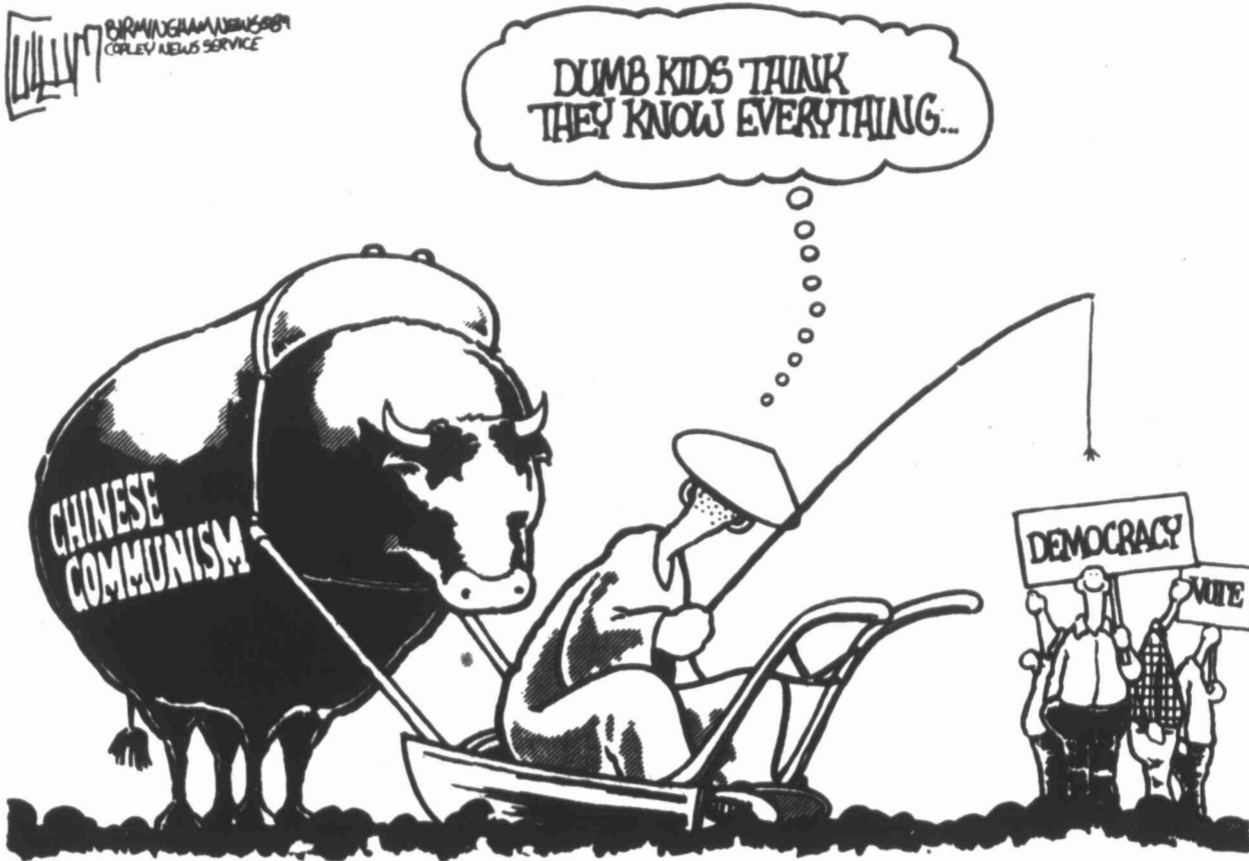

Healing the rift between the world's most powerful communist countries is good news for both the Soviets and the Chinese, who have expended billions on military deterrent forces. Now, instead of threatening each other over border disputes, they are learning how to reform themselves by following each other's example. Soviet political liberalization would be good for China; Chinese market innovation might put goods on barren Soviet shelves.

Is Sino-Soviet rapprochement good — or bad — for the West?

The reduction of Soviet troops along the Chinese border could mean that they are repositioned on the European frontier. But Gorbachev's policy of perestroika is dependent on reducing military spending, meaning the troops may just go home. On the positive side, the reduction of Sino-Soviet military competition in regional conflicts could bring an end to conflict in Cambodia.

Gorbachev and Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping are from different generations. But they share a commitment to pragmatic reform of Marxist dogma. Deng's famous dictum, "It doesn't matter if a cat is black or white, as long as it catches mice," is close to Gorbachev's credo of perestroika.

The hammer and sickle of Stalinism once helped forge Chinese communism in its image. But evolution is occurring in the communist world. If communist superpowers can teach each other how to end the long, dark night of repression, central planning and ideological rigidity, then the whole world can benefit from this summit meeting.

Wright way to sell books

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

I phoned my mother to give her the bad news.

"I'm afraid that when my new book comes out, we can't have the same arrangement as we've had for others," I explained.

"Do you mean you're actually going to give me a book this year, rather than selling me one at 15 percent off?" my mother asked.

Writing a book is hard. You give your mother a book, then your grandmother will want one free, too, and pretty soon, you're giving away books to your entire family.

Fifteen percent off for my mother isn't a bad deal. I only knock off 10 percent for close friends.

"My publisher and I have decided to try something different with the new book," I went on. "Instead of selling books one at a time, we're going to deal only with volume buyers."

"Where did you come up with an idea like that?" my mother asked. "Haven't you been paying attention to the news?" I asked back. "It's the way politicians are peddling their books, and if it works for them, it might work for us."

"You mean like Jim Wright of Texas?"

"That's exactly what I mean. Jim Wright didn't piddle with selling one book at a time. He moved them a truckload at a time," I answered.

"Now," I continued, "I have you down for 600 books. At $16.95 each that comes to right around $10,000 plus tax."

"But, son," said my mother, "I can't afford to spend $10,000 on books. And where in the world would I put 600 books?"

"How about in my old room?"

"I rented it out to a boarder."

"What you do with the books," I said, "is your business, and tell the boarder I'm putting him down for 100. It's the least he can do if he's sleeping in my old room."

I called my cousin Edward next. He runs a service station.

"Edward, remember how I always swapped you one of my new books for a free tuneup?"

"Yeah," he said, "and I hope your car's running better than your last book read."

I never cared for Edward when we were children. I like him even less now, and the only reason I swapped him a book for a tuneup is that I keep hoping his vast ignorance of literature might be improved. Except for my books, the only thing Edward ever reads are the owner manuals he finds in customers' glove compartments.

"Listen, Edward," I said. "Forget the little book-for-a-tuneup favor I've been doing you all these years. I'm simply not going to be a nice guy about it this year because I have discovered a new and better way to sell books. It worked for the speaker of the House and I don't know why it won't work for me."

"Edward, you have to buy 250 books from me this year."

"Wait a minute," said Edward. "Hey, Harvey, will you turn off that engine for a second. I can't hear a thing."

"Tell me what you just said again," Edward went on. "It sounded like you said you wanted me to buy 25 books this year."

"Two-hundred-and-fifty, Edward," I said.

"That's somewhere in the neighborhood of $4,500. I'm taking a check from Mom for her books, but I want cash from you."

Later I called some other relatives, close friends, my dentist, my doctor, my bartender, the guy who works the meat counter at the grocery store, my barber, my golf pro and a few names I picked out at random from the phone book.

At last count I had nearly 10,000 books accounted for, and I haven't even begun hitting on religious groups, Boy Scout troops, the National Rifle Association, and all those Rotary Clubs I made speeches to for free.

I think I've got a best-seller on my hands. Mom will sure be proud.

Ship tracking system unwanted

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

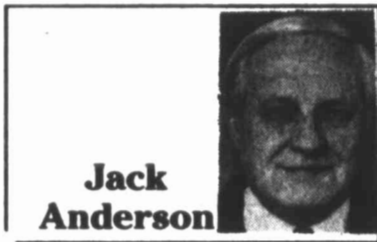

WASHINGTON — The Exxon Valdez oil spill on March 24 was a personal tragedy for James L. Baker. A decade ago, he developed the technology to prevent oil tankers from running aground. It was cheap and easy, but the federal government wasn't interested.

Baker, a retired navigation expert with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, proved to the Coast Guard that satellites could be used to alert ships when they were about to run aground or collide. His simple communications system could have warned the crew of the Exxon Valdez that the tanker spilled 10.9 million gallons of oil into Prince William Sound — the largest oil spill in U.S. history.

Our associate Scott Sleek spoke with Baker at his home in eastern Maryland. In 1979, he had proposed the sea-going equivalent of an air traffic control system to be tested in three of the nation's busiest sea lanes — George's Bank off Cape Cod, the Santa Barbara Channel and Prince William Sound.

The federal government never pursued the plan and it was soon forgotten, by almost everyone except Baker. When he heard about the Exxon spill in Alaska, he was disheartened but not surprised. "We predicted this. We said it's an accident waiting to happen," he told us.

The tracking system became Baker's prize project after he retired from NASA in 1974 and opened a consulting business. He proposed equipping ships with computerized navigation equipment. The ships would transmit their position to a command center on the mainland. If a ship ventured off course, an alarm would be beamed from the command center to the satellite and back down to the ship. The system meant that someone besides the captain was making sure the ship stayed in safe waters. The command center could keep tabs on an entire coast, warning ships away from traffic and dangerous reefs.

Compared to the cost of cleaning up multiple oil spills, Baker's idea was a bargain — about $10,000 per ship for the equipment. Baker did not work up the figures for a fully operational system, but he estimated it would be inexpensive. The system would have used existing government or commercial satellites. (Exxon has already spent $95 million on the Valdez cleanup operation.)

Baker teamed up with NASA's Goddard Space Center to flesh out his idea, in addition to investing a substantial amount of his own time and money. In 1979, officials from Goddard and researchers at the University of Miami helped Baker demonstrate his idea. Using a NASA satellite, they proved the system worked by piloting a yacht through the Chesapeake Bay. Baker sailed the yacht, and the alarm sounded as soon as he ventured a quarter mile off course. More than 100 people watched from the temporary command station at Goddard.

The project caught the attention of Congress, and Baker testified before a congressional subcommittee in 1980. He said his demonstration team was ready for an even bigger test — tracking ships from Prince William Sound to Long Beach, Calif. But the idea never got that far, and Baker and other sources aren't sure why.

Some who were close to the project speculated that the federal government wasn't ready to fund the system and wasn't about to push the oil companies to foot the bill. Government officials told the technology is easy to develop for experiments but more difficult on a larger scale.

Baker's associates at NASA remember the test, but we could find no one at the Coast Guard with a record of it. A spokesman told us that the Coast Guard has ongoing research into systems for tracking ships.

Ongoing research won't clean up Prince William Sound.

HOW'S THE WEATHER? — The main topic of conversation in the farm belt is the weather. A drought is going into its second year there threatening farmers with bankruptcy. One insurance appraiser there told us that 85 percent of the winter wheat crop is in poor condition, and the harvest will be less than half the normal yield. Even worse, farmers are running short on silage to feed their cattle and may be forced to sell their stock. Kansas is the center of the drought, but it reaches deep into Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri. One official told us that the spring water level in many Kansas reservoirs is below what it normally is in September.

MINI-EDITORIAL — On the campaign trail, George Bush promised that one of his first priorities would be to sponsor a world environmental conference. But since he took office, a good deal of his time has been taken up responding to environmental conclaves sponsored by others. Environmental Protection Agency Director William Reilly reportedly is ready to roll on an American conference on global warming. But White House chief of staff John Sununu says the timing isn't right. It's a good thing Bush wants to be known as the "education president" because he certainly isn't earning a name as the "environmental president."

Dear grads: Allow for the unexpected

By KAREN MCCARTHY Staff Writer

For one reason or another, I've attended several student award ceremonies recently. Some I've covered for the paper, one I attended as a mother.

Over and over I've heard educationalists say, "You can be whatever you choose; you can reach whatever goal you aim for." I don't disagree — that's very likely true.

But it's also true that some of the most satisfying things I've done have come about by accident. A matter of luck, of being in the right place and the right time.

If I had reached my original college goal (I wanted to be in the diplomatic corp), I wouldn't be writing this column. And I find writing this column, and all the other jobs I do, immensely satisfying.

Not too long ago, a friend of mine turned 40. Like many 40-year-olds, he brooded about his accomplishments of the past twenty years and felt they fell short of what he should have done. He wasn't rich, he wasn't famous, he had never set the world on fire. He decided he was a failure because he hadn't reached the goals he had set for himself as a young man.

Fortunately he looked around at his pleasant wife and reasonably great children, his modest home, his rather mediocre job that paid the bills and was undemanding enough that he could spend some time with his family, his friends and his hobbies. He decided that what he had was pretty good, and the last time I saw him, he had quit worrying about what he hadn't accomplished.

Very few of us take a straight path from point A to point B. Instead we venture down a lot of side roads, a few dead ends, some circular drives. There's a lot of fascinating scenery along the way. There's nothing wrong with stopping somewhere in between.

So I would tell young people just starting out: There's nothing wrong with goals, particularly short-term ones. But allow for the unexpected, the opportunity that looks too good to pass up, the chance that might pan out. If you fail, that's part of the learning process. There's nothing wrong with failure if you learn something from it and if you don't give up because of it.

Not everything you try is going to be right for you. Sometimes you'll want to backpedal a little. But each new experience, good or bad, adds to the person you are. Could anything be sadder than to be exactly the same at age 38 as you are at age 18?

To all you young people just starting down the path of adulthood, I hope you have a good life and remember: Nothing ventured, nothing gained.

TWA hijacker convicted

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Mohammed Ali Hamadi was sentenced to life in prison after being convicted today of air piracy and murder in the 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner in which a U.S. Navy diver was slain.

It was the maximum penalty under West German law.

The three-judge District Court convicted the Lebanese Shiite Moslem for his role in the hijacking of 39 Americans for 17 days and the brutal beating and shooting of Robert Dean Stethem of Waldorf, Md.

Stethem's body was tossed from the plane onto the tarmac at Beirut Airport.

Hamadi, 24, admitted to taking part in the hijacking of Flight 847, which had been bound for Rome from Athens, but denied killing Stethem.

He stood looking straight ahead impassively as Chief Judge Heiner Mueckenberger read the verdict to a packed courtroom inside Frankfurt's fortress-like Preungesheim prison.

Mueckenberger said the court found Hamadi guilty of "joint participation in murder." By law, a defendant taking part in a serious crime may be convicted of murder even if he does not actually kill the victim.

U.N. urges investment in women

LONDON (AP) — Women hold the key to economic development and slower population growth but many are trapped by cultural values and fundamentalist religions that put men first, the head of the U.N. Population Fund says.

Dr. Nafis Sadik of Pakistan issued the agency's 1989 State of World Population Report on Tuesday and called for a fivefold increase in world spending on family planning. She said governments should put population control on a par with major economic investments.

With the world's population at 5.2 billion and current growth at 90 million people a year the United Nations forecasts a stable population of 10 billion about a hundred years from now.

"But this will not happen unless more of the world's women are given more health care, family planning services, education and employment opportunities," Mrs. Sadik told a news conference.

The dead included two Americans, gaffer Don Marshall and key grip Mike Graham, Gadi Danzig, an Israeli cameraman, and the Filipino pilot, officials said. No hometowns were available.

Norris was not on the set of "Stranglehold: Delta Force II" when the crash occurred, although he was in the Philippines, Cannon Entertainment spokesman Randy Maier said from Los Angeles.

BEIJING — University students here relax in Tiananmen Square as their hunger strike continues into its fifth day Wednesday.

Chinese protesters support big strike

BEIJING (AP) — More than 1 million people demanding democracy and supporting student hunger strikers marched triumphantly through Beijing streets today in the biggest protest in Communist China's 40-year history.

The protest began after the more than 3,000 hunger-strikers rejected Communist Party chief Zhao Ziyang's appeal to end their four-day fast, which has embarrassed the government during Mikhail S. Gorbachev's historic visit.

Today's protest was dominated for the first time by workers rather than students, who launched the pro-democracy, anti-corruption movement a month ago.

The march began in central Tiananmen Square, where the hunger-strikers sat, to the peal of firecrackers set off under the huge poster of Mao Tse-tung at the entrance to the former Imperial Palace.

Fifty taxis stuffed with flag-waving passengers led a procession of workers, journalists, government employees and even soldiers.

Smaller marches headed outward from the square, China's symbolic center of power, while more people streamed on bicycle and foot toward the square, which has been clogged for four days by protesters.

Most streets in the center of this city of 10 million people were clogged. Police made no effort to intervene and few were seen on the streets.

"Chinese aren't stupid," said marching journalist Shen Yinghua. "You can suppress us for a long time, but when we blow, we spit fire."

As pro-democracy protesters massed in the square this morning, Gorbachev met with academicians in the adjacent Great Hall of the People.

The protests forced him to cancel a visit to the Imperial Palace, the latest in a series of schedule changes they have forced.

NASA astronaut almost crashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commander of the space shuttle Atlantis came within 500 feet of crashing his NASA jet into a Pan Am airliner as he flew to Washington for a White House ceremony honoring the astronauts, say aviation officials.

The incident is being investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration, said FAA spokesman John Leyden.

"We are looking at a possible pilot deviation," he said Tuesday night, referring to Navy Capt. David M. Walker.

The incident occurred at about 6:35 p.m. Monday some five miles west of Washington Dulles International Airport in the northern Virginia suburbs, Leyden said.

Although Leyden couldn't confirm that the David Walker piloting the NASA T-38 was the same man who commanded the space shuttle Atlantis last week, National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman David Garrett confirmed that the space agency employs no other pilot by that name.

Father found guilty of killing sons

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A jury rejected an insanity defense and convicted a man who killed his two young sons by putting them in a red-hot foundry ladle.

Bartley J. Dobben was found guilty of first-degree murder but mentally ill in the Thanksgiving Day 1987 deaths of his sons by a Muskegon County Circuit Court jury on Tuesday.

First-degree murder carries a mandatory sentence of life without parole. A guilty but mentally ill verdict allows psychological treatment for convicts.

Dobben, 28, of Muskegon, was accused of killing his sons, Bartley, 2, and Peter, 15 months. He was charged with putting the boys in a 1,300-degree foundry ladle at the plant where he worked while his pregnant wife waited outside.

Military families leave Panama

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The first wave of American military personnel and dependents who have been advised to leave Panama arrived back in the United States looking tired but happy.

A chartered jet with 276 people aboard touched down at Charleston International Airport late Tuesday.

The Pentagon on Tuesday announced it would step up efforts to protect relatives of military personnel and requested that those dependents either move onto bases in Panama or leave the country.

Lt. Col. Bob Skinner said the withdrawal was "primarily because of concerns regarding the current uncertain situation in Panama."

CHARLESTON — The first group of Americans evacuated from Panama arrive here Tuesday.

Affluent teen-agers bashing gays

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A group of affluent teen-age "skinheads" suspected in attacks on up to two dozen homosexual men boasted to police after their arrest in a park, authorities said.

"We're still shaking our heads at how freely they talked about their actions," Deputy Police Chief Terrence Rickard said

Tuesday. "It's a sad commentary on our society."

The loose-knit group calls itself the Buffalo Rochester Aryan Skinheads, or B.R.A.S.H.

"We didn't even know this group existed until we arrested them and they told us who they were," Rickard said.

Sweetener ban may be lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The artificial sweetener cyclamate may find its way back on the market after being banned for 20 years as a suspected carcinogen, but probably not before next year, the Food and Drug Administration says.

The FDA said Tuesday it is continuing a review of the sweetener, commenting in response to a Washington Post story that quoted an FDA official as saying the agency "made a mistake" in banning cyclamate.

The agency has been considering lifting the cyclamate ban since 1962, and though studies have challenged initial claims that the sweetener causes bladder cancer, other safety concerns remain.

Among the concerns are cyclamate's effects on blood pressure and whether it causes genetic damage, testicular atrophy or promotes tumor growth.

A big fish story

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Sometimes it takes a little nipper to catch a big fish.

Armed with her telescoping Fisher-Price rod clamped to her little tackle box, 28-inch-long Katie Miller nabbed a 27-inch walleye.

OK, she had plenty of help from her dad, Richard W. Miller. But the fact is that little rod, the one with the black plastic reel, hauled in this big 7-pound walleye to give 20-month-old Katie a successful fishing weekend.

Katie's mom, Anita, says the family was fishing Sunday night on the dock of their Island Lake home. Katie held the rod after her father cast into the water.

"My husband saw her line going out, and he said, 'Oh, she's got a fish!'" Mrs. Miller recalled.

"We got it in by the dock, and there was this great big swirl in the water. My husband said, 'Get the net!' Of course, we didn't have a net there. So, he got it under the gills and pulled it in. I'd never seen a fish that big."

Katie, who had become a spectator for most of this operation, evidently was pleased with her fish.

"She liked it," her mother said. "She touched it."

Katie's father had promised all along that he would have her first fish mounted. He was planning on something a little smaller.

"It's going to cost us $141 to mount this fish!" Mrs. Miller said.

No bargain basement

NEW YORK (AP) — File this in the only in New York category.

Where can diners walk through the bar into the kitchen, down a steep flight of steps to the basement and through a narrow hallway to a small room for the privilege of paying a minimum of $350 per person for dinner?

At the 21 Club. The club's famed secret wine cellar, where Prohibition guests downed drinks behind the protection of a 4,000-pound secret door, opened Monday night as a sanctuary for well-heeled diners.

Inside, a single table set with sparkling silver and a floral centerpiece sat amid floor-to-ceiling racks of wine bottles and a wooden booth where high-living Mayor Jimmy Walker used to knock back a few in the 1920s.

But intimacy, nostalgia and a six-course supper don't come cheap in the midtown Manhattan restaurant's one-table sanctum that can accommodate up to 12 gourmets.

"Prices start for dinner at $350 a head, and that includes a selection of wines we would recommend," said Ken Aretsky, chairman of the 21 Club.

Fifty-five years ago, the recess was hidden by pipes and hams, Aretsky said. A tap on the wall indicates nothing unusual. But when chief sommelier Matt Siegel sticks a long, slender steel rod into a tiny hole — Voila! — the secret 4,000-pound brick door opens.

During Prohibition, federal agents once searched 10 hours for the secret door, Siegel said. "They knocked on the walls and lit matches to find a draft," but never found it, he said proudly.

Black inventors get their due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Norbert Rillieux and Jan Matzeliger helped revolutionize American history with their inventions, but the two men scarcely rate a footnote in the annals of Yankee ingenuity simply because they were black.

Historian Portia James is setting matters straight with an ambitious new Smithsonian Institution exhibition that celebrates the genius of America's unsung black inventors.

The show, which opens Sunday, pays belated tribute to 40 inventors whose creations include a trouser-stretching device for eliminating wrinkles, a machine for producing paper bags, a press for baling cotton and a mechanical traffic signal patented in 1923.

"The exhibition says a lot about their urge to create, and how important it was for blacks to feel they were part of the growth of American technology," said Ms. James, the show's curator. "It was their assertion of black participation in the Yankee innovative spirit."

The exhibition at the Smithsonian's Anacostia Museum of Afro-American history and culture is titled "The Real McCoy: African American Invention and Innovation, 1619-1930."

The show's name is taken from an invention by mechanical engineer Elijah McCoy — a grease cup designed for lubricating rail locomotives while they sped down the tracks. Admiring train engineers nicknamed it "the real McCoy."

On display are the two devices created by black inventors which probably have had the greatest lasting impact on American society, said Ms. James, a native of Detroit who is the Anacostia Museum's resident historian.

One of them, developed by the New Orleans inventor Rillieux in 1830, is a vacuum evaporation machine that made refined sugar widely affordable. It later was used to produce such foods as evaporated milk and cocoa powder.

The other is Matzeliger's shoe-lasting machine, patented in 1883 by the inventor from Dutch Surinam. The machine radically changed the American shoe industry by eliminating the need for costly hand-stitching of soles to the soft leather uppers of shoes.

The museum duly recognizes one of the few prominent black inventors, George Washington Carver, with a sampling of the products he derived from peanuts, soybeans and sweet potatoes in his laboratory at Alabama's Tuskegee Institute.

But it also highlights such

WASHINGTON — Historian Portia James stands under a permanent wave machine, created by black inventor Marjorie Joyner, at the Smithsonian Institute. James is putting together a new exhibit for the museum that celebrates the genius of America's unsung black inventors.

unknowns as Lewis Latimer of Queens, N.Y., the only black associate on Thomas Edison's laboratory team, who patented a carbon light bulb filament. Another is Garrett Morgan of Cleveland, who invented both the stop-go traffic signal and an industrial "safety hood" or gas mask which he used to rescue workers trapped by a tunnel explosion under Lake Erie.

Ms. James notes that African slaves introduced the banjo to American music, and that Boston clergyman Cotton Mather learned of inoculation against smallpox from his North African slave, Onesimus.

The exhibition honors New York tailor Thomas Jennings, the first black believed to have received a patent, for his dry cleaning process in 1821. On display are three wood planes designed in the 1770s by Cesar Chelov, a freed slave from Wrentham, Mass., who is believed to be the earliest black toolmaker in America.

Ms. James said her research for the exhibition took three years because of the scarcity of historical records.

Material came from old newspapers and magazines published for the black community and from an exhaustive record of pre-1900 patents awarded to black inventors that was compiled by Henry Baker, an early black U.S. patent examiner, she said.

Forty-horse hitch is just for show

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Forty Belgian horses hitched to one wagon is like killing a mosquito with a bazooka, but Paul Sparrow says that's beside the point.

"It's the spectacle of the thing," he said.

The original 40-horse hitches were developed at the turn of the century to advertise the circus and at the time, he said, "It was the most spectacular thing they could do."

Sparrow is putting together a modern version of the big hitch, and the Zearing farmer says it's still spectacular. "Sometimes I almost get mind boggled by it," he said. "I wonder, am I in over my head?"

After months of training the animals, Sparrow planned to take them for their first practice spin around the farm today.

He said the last time family attempted a 40-horse hitch was in 1977, when his father, Dick, did it.

Since then, sponsoring money ran out, the Sparrows sold the animals and went back to farming. "We went all over the country, Rose Bowl, coast to coast," said the son. Now, thanks to a $120,000 grant from General Foods Corp., the Sparrows assembled a new team.

The grant covers expenses of training and transportation to the only planned public appearance, the Great Circus Parade in Milwaukee in July.

Sparrow, 34, said it takes patience and practice to arrange the animals correctly.

"It's like assembling a football team," he said. "Some animals are interchangeable and some aren't."

New pesticide may stop 'super' termite

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A new slow-acting pesticide approved for indoor use against cockroaches and ants also may stop the Formosan "super" termite that is spreading throughout the South, a researcher says.

"The Formosan termite is so aggressive that it's pushing out our native subterranean termites," said entomologist Nan-Yao Su, with the University of Florida Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences. "If we don't stop this pest, it's possible the Formosan termite could eventually replace our native species in the southern part of the United States."

The pest has been found in Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. One colony may contain 7 million termites and weigh 60 pounds, Su said.

"You could say one of these termite colonies is like a 60-pound animal eating about three pounds of wood every day."

"When you consider how aggressively this pest searches for wood, cardboard and paper, it's easy to see why it's so destructive."

With the beginning of swarming season, as many as 68,000 winged termites may emerge from one nest at night in search of places where they can mate and begin new colonies. Flights range as far as 1,500 feet from the nest.

Worse yet, Su said, the pests are attracted by lights — especially fluorescent lights. Warm, moist cracks or crevices in buildings are ideal entry points, and the Formosan termite can infest buildings from the top floor downward without the ground connection needed by domestic termites.

Mayhaw berries

Woman uses wild fruits to make jelly

DEWEYVILLE (AP) — Ginger Curl rumbles down the road in a dusty brown pickup with a crack in the windshield that matches those on the dashboard.

She always has one eye on the thick knot of trees and growth on the side of the road, looking for the scrubby gnarled trees with olive-green leaves that bear the tart mayhaw berry. Sometimes she points out a cluster of the thorny trees with a hot dog or a piece of chicken that she holds out the window to cool off before eating it. That's just before she slams on the brakes to scrutinize the area to decide if it's worth picking.

And when the road quits and the muddy bottoms start, she pulls the mud-spattered three-wheeler from the back of the truck and continues her search, always with buckets and sometimes with a terrified visitor bouncing along on a piece of plywood behind her.

"How brave are you feeling?" she asked a rider recently when she approached part of a trail submerged in two feet of water. Without waiting for a reply, she plowed the lurching three-wheeler into the mud and amazingly emerged at the other side after seeing only one snake.

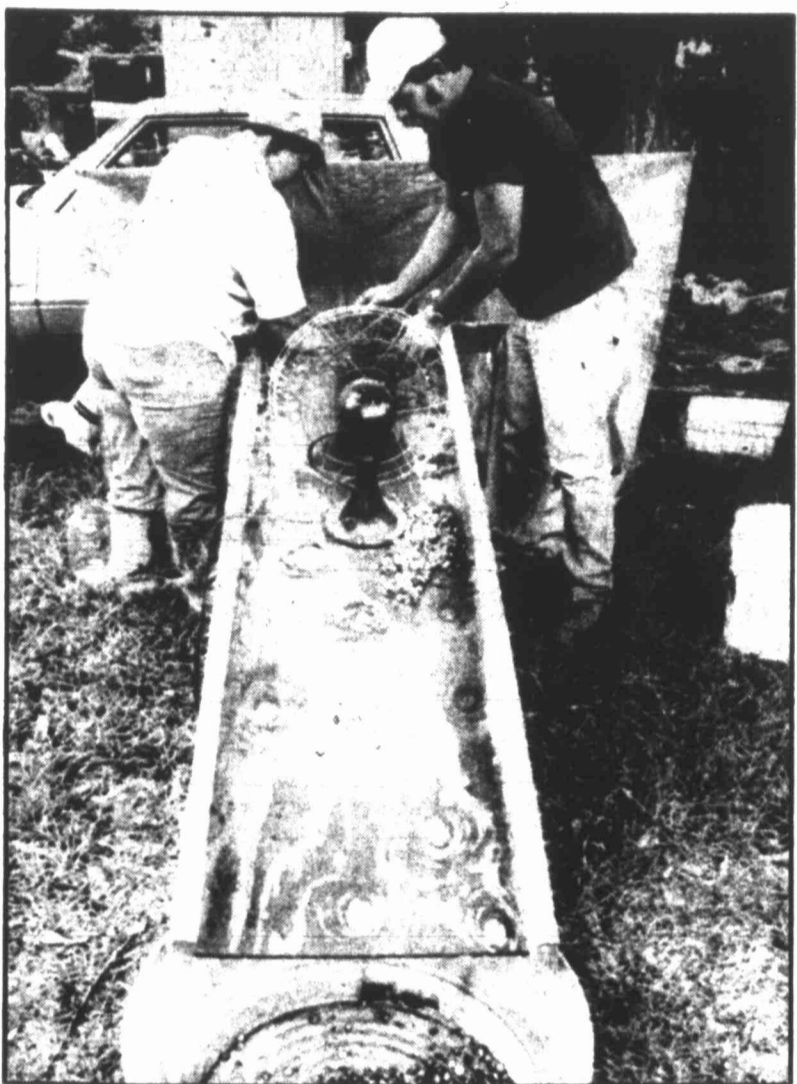

The seeming combination of Annie Oakley and Evil Knievel doesn't have time to waste the brief mayhaw season never lasts long enough for her to fill all her orders for jelly.

But she doesn't rest once the mayhaws play out — then there's dewberries, then blueberries, strawberries, pears, huckleberries, mulberries ... In other words, this jelly-maker's work is never done.

Ginger started in the mayhaw business three years ago, selling them from the back of her truck parked by the side of the road. Her husband, Clarence, was born and raised on the land where they live, and has been gathering mayhaws since he was a child. So he showed his wife, originally from Ohio, all his childhood gathering locations.

At first, Ginger didn't bother making it into jelly — she just sold the fruit by the gallon, scooping it out of a child's plastic swimming pool for customers who stopped and tending her infant daughter in between. Soon, she started making mayhaw jelly in addition to selling the fruit whole. People liked her jelly so well, she decided to try other flavors. Now, a list of her wares makes her look like the Baskin Robbins of the jelly world.

The freeze this year took its toll on the mayhaw crop, she says. She and Clarence generally gather the red fruit that grows in some of the area's most inhospitable land "by sheet," she says. They spread the sheet, which is actually two king-sized sheets sewn together, under a promising-looking tree and Clarence shakes the branches with a 10-foot pole that has a hook on the end. During a good season, Ginger says, it literally rains mayhaws, making the white sheet immediately red. They discovered a method for separating the twigs and other undesirable material that inevitably rains down along with the mayhaws by accident.

A friend was riding in the back of their pickup after a successful mayhaw hunt, and started pouring the berries from bucket to bucket, letting the wind blow the trash out.

Now Ginger and Clarence have simulated the wind in the back of a pickup by letting the berries run down a shrimp-culling chute with a fan blowing on them.

Like the other fruits from which she makes jelly, she tries to keep up with her daily harvest so her jelly-making tasks don't become too formidable, and they can pile up pretty quickly.

She used to work a part-time job, but discovered she could actually make more money in the jelly trade and not have to pay a baby sitter. And her 6-year-old son, Shiloh, doesn't make a bad assistant, she says.

She and her family plan to visit her relatives in Ohio in about three weeks, she says, but it's no coincidence that it will be at the peak of strawberry season there, where they get to be the size of large plums.

Ginger's face seems to be set in a perpetual smile as she drives down the road discussing the business that keeps her more muddy than not, and nothing seems to worry her.

A loud noise comes from underneath the truck as she turns a corner. "There went the muffler," she says cheerfully. So if you find yourself deep in the woods and come across a muddy woman wearing a welder's cap to keep her auburn hair out of her face and carrying as many buckets as two hands can, that's Ginger Curl plying her trade.

Go ahead and follow her if you want to find the best mayhaw flats. If you dare.

Grandmother played favorites

DEAR ABBY: Your column about grandmothers who favor one grandchild over another reminded me of my own grandmother. I am 51 years old and will never forget my fourth birthday. My cousin and I shared the same birthday, and our mothers had planned a party for the two of us.

My grandmother gave my cousin a set of dominoes and a large doll with blond hair. It was the most beautiful doll I had ever seen.

I opened my gift and found a piece of green corduroy yardage. Grandma said, "Your mother can make a dress for you out of this." I still recall thinking at that moment, "Grandma doesn't like me." To this day I can't remember ever having shared a hug or a kiss with her.

My only vivid memory of this grandmother was the hurt I felt on my fourth birthday. — ROSE MARIE POWERS, OLYMPIA, WASH.

DEAR ROSE MARIE: Your grandmother must have been a medical miracle. One wonders how she could have lived for so long without a heart.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to congratulate the students at Skeen Elementary School in Leesburg,

Dear Abby

Fla., for their "Litter Perfect" program, and to let your readers know about a national public awareness campaign called "Take Pride in America."

The U.S. Department of the Interior is the lead agency for the Take Pride initiative. Certainly, as "landlord" of more than 500 million acres of public land, I am familiar with the enormous problems associated with careless use and intentional abuse of America's precious natural and cultural resources. And, I believe it is our responsibility, our duty, to use these treasures prudently, and pass them unspoiled to our children and grandchildren. How we care for the land today will determine whether or not we will be able to enjoy its majesty and bounty in the future.

"Take Pride in America" promotes wise stewardship through volunteerism with the assistance of the Advertising Council Inc. in a public service advertising campaign. Equally important is a national awards program that recognizes annually the most outstanding stewardship activities occurring across the country. Anyone wishing more information about how to nominate deserving individuals and organizations for awards can write to: Take Pride in America, P.O. Box 1339-A, Jessup, Md. 20794.

Surely, these 12 young students at Skeen Elementary School are a bright and shining example of the "thousand points of light" upon which the American people, President Bush and his administration rely to contribute to the care of this great country.

Thank you, Abby, for helping us to spread this important message. — MANUEL LUJAN JR., SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D.C.

Getting kids to mind

By LADIES' HOME JOURNAL
 Is getting the kids ready for bed a daily nightmare? Are their toys frequently left scattered across the floor? Does discipline take the form of screaming battles?

1. Arrange and look for good behavior to reward. For example, send kids to get spoons so they can have some ice cream. Praise them when they come back with the spoons.
2. Be sure to get the child's attention before giving or repeating directions. Children are notorious for selective hearing, so avoid giving instructions when they are intent on an activity. Instead, interrupt by calling the child's name.
3. Give a child directives, not open-ended questions. The question "Shall we pick up our toys now?" invites a no. Try saying, "It's time to pick up your toys." And avoid putting the indecisive word "OK" after a directive.

AT&T MultiQuest™ Service

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. (AT&T) announces its intent to introduce within Texas on July 14, 1989, AT&T MultiQuest Service, a new interactive 900-type telephone service. Since February 19, 1989, this innovative service has been available to Texas businesses only on an intrastate basis. With AT&T MultiQuest Service, Texas business customers (otherwise known as sponsors) may offer value-added information services to callers originating long distance calls from Texas or elsewhere in the United States over AT&T's public switched network. A Texas caller, accessing the service by dialing the sponsor's 1-900 plus seven-digit number, can obtain recorded and/or live information by communicating with attendants, voice messaging equipment and computer data bases. Flat-rate, time sensitive usage charges will be billed to the caller for the sponsor's service.

AT&T is offering AT&T MultiQuest Service within Texas in response to requests by its business customers for a service that offers intrastate as well as nationwide interactive voice & data transport capability. Potential sponsors include entrepreneurial companies entering into new ventures that are information intensive, local mass announcement sponsors who want statewide as well as national coverage coupled with interactive capability and other information service providers.

The Texas intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service will be tariffed as an "add-on" offering to a sponsor's existing interstate AT&T MultiQuest Service. The intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service costs will be recovered from sponsor usage charges set forth in AT&T's intrastate tariffs. The usage charges billed to the caller are determined by the sponsor as appropriate to the service being offered and are not tariffed charges.

For more information about AT&T MultiQuest Service please call your AT&T Account Executive or AT&T's business consultants toll free on 1 (800) 552-0212. They can answer your questions regarding this service and how it can be of benefit to you.

AT&T intends to file a tariff to offer this service with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on June 13, 1989, effective July 14, 1989. Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may contact the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf, or write to them at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757.

Intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service is projected to generate $1.1 million in the first year of its offering or .1% of AT&T's total gross service revenues in Texas.

Reunions Reminisce with family recipes

Reunions are to summer what Thanksgiving is to fall — nostalgic gatherings to catch up on what family, friends or former classmates are doing. And food is the tie that binds.

One family's tradition may be a barbecue; another's a fish fry, picnic or clam bake.

Whatever the occasion, why not collect the recipes in a cookbook that will serve as a memento of the reunion as well as a treasured history of family and friends?

Find the group's natural organizer, get family and friends to write down their recipes and reminiscences or anecdotes, and set a deadline so you can have the cookbook by the next annual reunion.

Some basic foods team up to make especially easy meals for a crowd. Eggs are an inexpensive protein source. When combined with rice and vegetables, they supply high-quality protein, those complex carbohydrates that nutrition experts are touting today, and a host of vitamins and minerals.

This week's Recipe Exchange features easy-to-prepare egg and rice dishes.

"RICE AND EASY" VEGETABLE QUICHE

4 cups cooked rice, cooled
8 eggs, well beaten
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, divided
1 cup milk
½ tsp. seasoned salt
¼ tsp. each ground nutmeg and ground red pepper
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and pressed
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
1 medium fresh tomato, sliced and halved
Stir rice, ½ cup beaten eggs, and ¼ cup Parmesan cheese in large bowl until well blended. Press rice mixture onto bottom of lightly greased 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Beat remaining eggs, milk, salt, nutmeg, and pepper until well blended. Stir in spinach and mozzarella cheese. Pour over rice, spreading spinach evenly. Top with tomato slices and sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup Parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 40 to 50 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. To serve, cut quiche into 8 squares; cut each square diagonally into 2 triangles. Makes 8 servings (2 triangles each).

EGGSTRAVAGANZA RICE SALAD

8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
4 cups cooked rice, cooled to room temperature
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, thawed
1 cup chopped sweet red pepper
¼ cup sliced green onions, including tops
½ cup Italian salad dressing
Spinach or lettuce leaves (optional)
Reserve 4 center egg slices. Chop remaining eggs. Lightly toss chopped eggs with all remaining ingredients except spinach leaves in large bowl until

FAMILY FAVORITE FRUITED TEA

½ cup boiling water
½ cup instant tea
2 bottles (40 ounces each) chilled apple raspberry juice
2 quarts chilled ginger ale
Ice cubes
Lemon slices (optional)

Dissolve tea in boiling water; stir into juice in large bowl. Chill. To serve, stir in ginger ale and pour over ice cubes in pitcher, punch bowl, or 8-ounce glasses. Garnish with lemon slices, if desired. Makes 18 (8 ounce) servings or 1½ gallons.

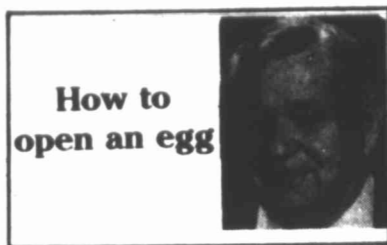

Stir-fry fish even the kids will like

By JOE REED

Everybody's feeling good tonight, huh? Well, they are going to feel better after dinner. Tonight we are going to get real fancy with a favorite of mine: STIR FRY FISH. Now don't start getting cold feet. I keep telling you. Trust me. I've taken care of you so far, haven't I? Let's get our ingredients together. Tonight, you're going to need:

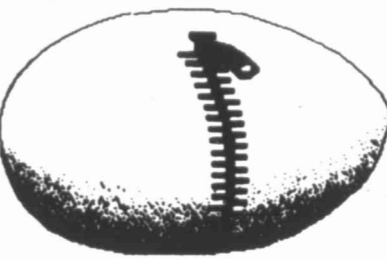

- Fish, frozen (one pkg.)
- Pepper
- Bell peppers (two)
- Cornstarch
- Peanuts (raw)
- Pineapple (one can chunky)
- Cooking oil
- Salt
- Soy sauce
- Rice

Let the fish thaw. While it's thawing, drain the pineapple. Be sure to save the juice. Mix the juice with one teaspoon of cornstarch. In this, mix ¼ cup of soy sauce, and a couple pinches of black pepper. Now cut the fish in about 1-inch pieces. Hey, nearly forgot the rice. Cook up about a cup. Now in a large skillet, stir-fry the fish chunks in about 2 tablespoons of hot cooking oil, until golden brown. Remove the fish, and stir-fry the bell peppers

How to open an egg

(chopped in large chunks). This will only take a minute or two. Now pour in about a cup of peanuts and stir-fry for another minute or two. Now add to his the pineapple juice mixture and bring to a slow boil, then stir in the fish and pineapple chunks. Cover the skillet and heat for about a minute. By this time the rice should be done. Make a bed of the rice on a large platter, and pour contents of skillet over the rice. When you serve this, you'll hear "oh's" and "ah's", but no conversation. Everybody will be too busy eating.

I said you could do it. Even the kids liked it, and they usually hate fish. They say fish is a good brain food. You know, with the kids of today trying to emulate Michael Jackson, Madonna, Duran Duran and Boy George, they need all the brain food they can get. Next week, we'll have a brunch. POTATO PANCAKES. Don't miss it.

'Sugar-free' may be just as fattening

NEW YORK (AP) — "Lite" olive oil may have no fewer calories, cereal boasting "all natural fruit flavors" may have more salt and coloring than flavor, and "sugar-free" snacks may have sweeteners as fattening as sugar.

And how many grams does it take to fill you up anyway?

What's a health-conscious consumer to do?

Frank E. Young, who heads the federal agency that regulates the labels on much of our food, can sympathize. He's a doctor, and even he has trouble.

It's hard "to read labels and figure out what to eat," said Young, commissioner of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, which is responsible for labels on foods not regulated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Labels on food, he said, are "a relic." He'd get no argument from consumer groups.

Statements on food packages by law must be true, but manufacturers may not tell consumers all they want to know. That sugar-free snack, for example, or an oat bran muffin with several tablespoons of fat, at 100 calories a tablespoon.

"Saturated fat is still not listed, cholesterol is still not listed, and fiber is still not listed... These are the nutrients the surgeon general has told the American public to watch for when they go shopping," said Bruce Silverglade, director of legal affairs for the Washington-based consumer advocacy group Center for Science in the Public Interest.

Food processors say the problem is that many consumers aren't sufficiently informed about ingredients to interpret information already on labels.

"You get into good food-bad food, good ingredient-bad ingredient, when what you want to look at is your overall diet," said Allen Mathys, director of regulatory affairs for the National Food Processors Association. Its 450 processors favor current regulations making many nutrition labels voluntary.

"You can reduce risks by modifying diet," Young said. "That means you have to give much more information, you have to give interpretations of the information."

The FDA was sidetracked from food label reform by such issues as AIDS and food additives, he said. But labeling will be a dominant issue this year, and the agency is considering new regulations.

How to properly boil and peel an egg

To hard-cook eggs, place eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling.

Let eggs stand, covered, in the hot water about 15 to 17 minutes for large eggs. Immediately run cold water over eggs or place them in ice water until completely cooled.

To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

Questions and answers

Q. I have trouble getting egg whites to whip like they should. What is wrong?

A. Eggs at room temperature will whip better than cold eggs. Also, even a tiny amount of fat from egg yolk or other fats on a beater or bowl will lower the volume of egg whites. Use a non-plastic bowl such as glass or stainless steel because fat is more likely to cling to plastic.

Q. What is a caper and what kinds of recipes include them?

A. A caper is the floral bud from a shrub native to the Mediterranean countries. Capers are pickled and add a salty-sour taste to cream sauces, creamed dishes and salads. They also can be used as a garnish for meats and fish.

Never know what to expect in state level competition

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

State track, tennis and golf competition is always my favorite time of the year, and this year was no exception. Although Crossroads Country athletes struggled a bit in Austin, this year could be termed the year of the underclassmen for the area.

The only athletes to bring back medals in state competition were a sophomore tennis player from Big Spring, and a junior distance runner from Garden City. Big Spring's Rocky Tubb and Garden City's Guillermo Morales are destined to stand on the winner's platform in Austin one day.

The baby-faced Tubb will probably go down as Big Spring's best prep tennis player. His third place finish at state was only a preview of what's to come.

Tubb lost in the semi-finals to senior Chike Obiauwu of McCallum. Obiauwu then lost to senior Sean Cobb of Crowley, who had beaten Tubbs in the Region I-4A finals. Tubb played Cobb just as close of match as Obiauwu did.

A glaring factor when Obiauwu beat Tubb was that Tubb only had an one hour rest from a two-and-half hour match with his first round opponent. On the other hand, Obiauwu took only 45 minutes to win his opening match. The longer resting period was probably the difference in Obiauwu's win over Tubb.

But the experience was good for Rocky, and even better, Obiauwu and Cobb will be gone next year.

Big Spring coach Dave Hay went as far as to say that Rocky will be one of the top two contenders in Class 4A tennis next year, and I believe him.

With an injury-free year, I think Morales, the Garden City flash, has a possibility of winning gold medals in the 3200 and 1600 meters.

Morales fought off two injuries, a dislocated shoulder, and a pulled leg muscle, to finish second in the 1600. Morales also had to deal with learning to run without having anyone push him, and sheer overconfidence.

I think he learned his lesson in both. Next year, a double gold medal winner.

Then there was Borden County sophomore golfer Eric Lusk, who finished fifth out of 48 golfers at the Class A state tournament.

Lusk was hampered by different playing conditions, and just the simple fact that he was a sophomore competing in the state golf tourney. Lusk had been shooting in the 70's, but shot an 82 and 88 in Austin and still finished fifth. The second time around will be sweeter for Mr. Lusk.

There were some mild disappointments for area athletes.

Big Spring's Ben Gonzales got caught in a box and finished fifth in the 800 meters, although he still ran a career-best 1:55.46. Gonzales will go to some college and become a top middle-distance runner.

Another runner I hope gets his chance in college is Steer sprinter Dennis Hartfield. Although is running style somewhat unorthodox, he has one of the best starts out of the blocks around. With continued improvement, he could be running a legitimate 10.2 100 meters and under 21 seconds in the 200.

I really expected Grady shot putter Naomi Morales to finish in the medal category at state, but she came up fifth. She had the best throw going into the competition (38-7), but threw two feet less in Austin.

As luck would have it, another shot putter threw three feet over her personal best with win with a 40-plus foot effort.

But that's what makes state competition so good, you can expect the unexpected.

Hawks swing into action

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawks will be making a familiar appearance in the state tournament in Brenham which begins Thursday. For the third time in four years, the Hawks will be competing in state tourney competition.

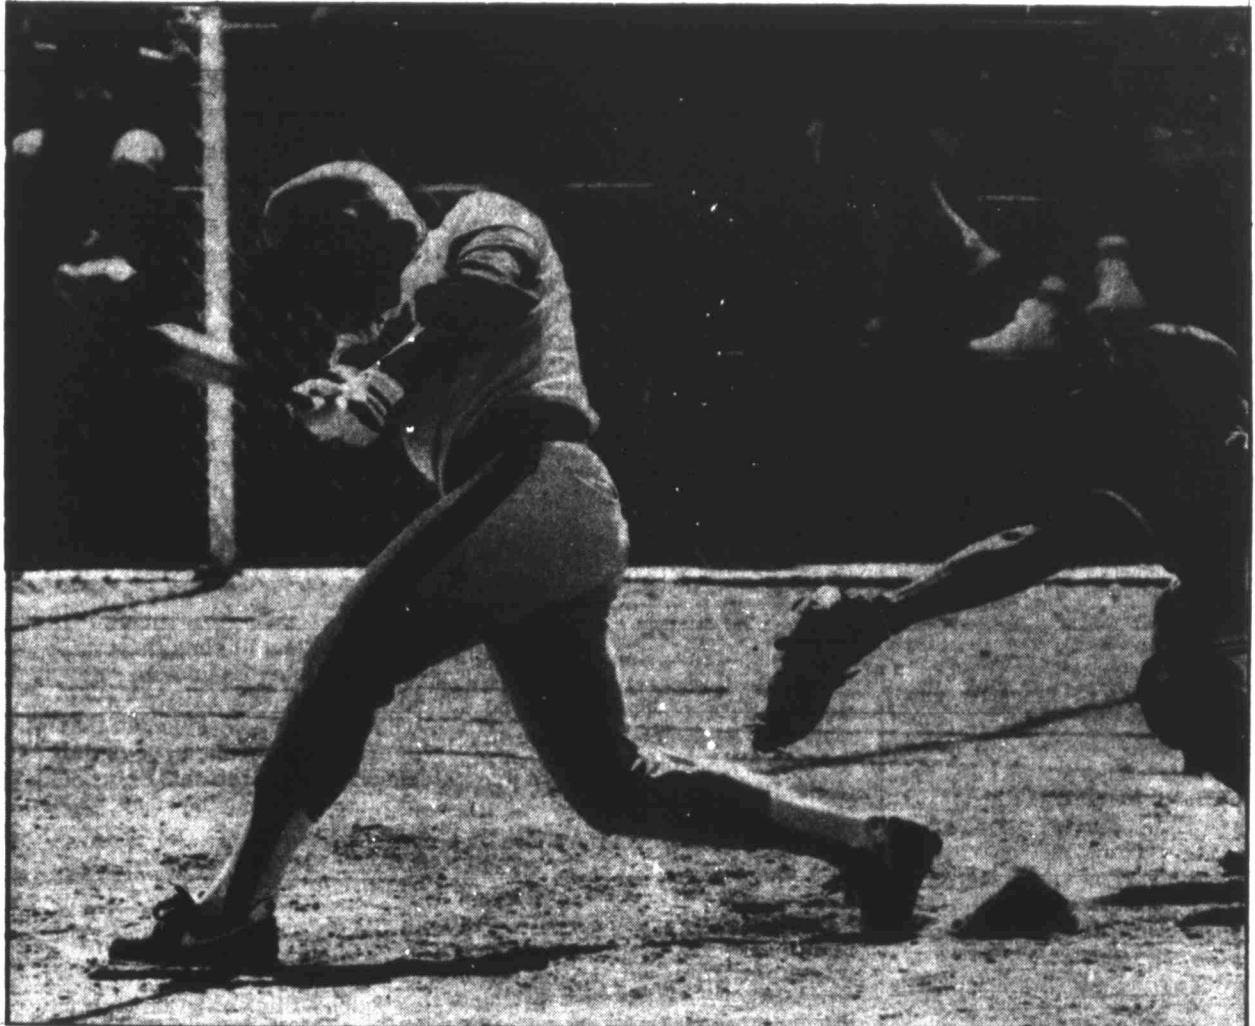

At stake for the winner is a trip to the national tournament, a place Howard hasn't reached. But in all fairness to the Hawks, the state tournament annually features two or three of the top teams in the nation.

Tourney Pairings
Vernon vs. Panola, 10 a.m.
San Jacinto vs. Hill, 1 p.m.
McLennan vs. Alvin, 4 p.m.
Angelina vs. Howard, 7 p.m.

The odds-on favorite would have to be the San Jacinto Ravens, currently the number one team in the nation, sporting a 48-10 mark. San Jacinto is in the other bracket of the eight team double-elimination tournament, along with Vernon, Panola and Hill colleges. Howard will face Angelina in its first game Thursday. The other two teams in Howard's bracket are McLennan and Alvin.

Coach Bill Griffin likes his team's chances though. "This is the first year I can honestly say that anybody can beat anybody at this tournament," said Griffin. "San Jacinto has three top-notch pitchers," but anybody can still win it."

Howard played San Jacinto at the first of the season in a tournament and lost 5-3. The Hawks swept Angelina in a four-game series in Howard College Hawks outfielder Jose Rubiera to the state baseball tournament. Rubiera batted .346 for the season and drove in 31 RBI's.

Big Spring, 10-5, 9-5, 13-1, 11-4. Griffin says that's all in the past. In that series, Howard infielder Darin Glenn hit four homers and drove in 12 runs. "You don't even take into consideration when we played them (Angelina) in March. They had on-

When going gets tough — call Kroeger

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Howard pitcher Greg Kroeger is a man that thrives on pressure. That's why he's the Hawks ace relief pitcher.

In Howard's three-game series against Richland College this past weekend, Kroeger was the pivotal factor in Howard's win.

After Richland had won the first game of the best of three series, Kroeger was called upon to pitch in the first inning of the second game after starter Corey Zielinski suffered arm problems.

Not an easy task. Coming in cold in the biggest game of the season with men on first and second and no outs.

"The first thing going through my mind was to get out of the inning without allowing any runs," said Kroeger. "The next thing I was thinking was to get good and loose. They (umpires) let you warm up as much as you want when you come in after an injury."

Evidently Kroeger warmed up sufficiently, because he got out of the inning without allowing a run. The first batter he faced bunted and Kroeger got the force out at third. He got out of the inning by fanning the next two batters.

Then the sophomore from Omaha preceded to pitch a gem, allowing only a hit in the third-inning, striking out 12 and leading Howard to 4-0 win.

Kroeger says he prefers the role of a starter. In fact, he said when he came to Howard he asked the coaches if they would use him as a reliever, although he was his team's ace starter in high school.

"I don't like to start," he firmly stated. "I like to come in the game when the pressure is on. I have more confidence in myself after coming in, rather than starting."

"It wasn't that much pressure when I came in last week because I knew I still had eight innings to go. The real pressure is when you come in in the bottom of the seventh or ninth with runners on base, and if they score you lose. I try not to be concerned with the runners. If you let them bother you, you're not concentrating enough on the batter. I try to block all that out. I take the attitude, if they score, they score."

As far as relief pitching goes, the 6-2, 200-pounder has done his job well. Relying on his 87 miles-per-hour fastball, he's posted a 16-5 record in his stint at Howard. He has a 2.80 ERA, and averages a strikeout per inning.

Depending on the status on Zielinski, he might be pushed into a starting role at the state tournament. He has started three games in two seasons at Howard, winning one and losing two.

"If I have to start, I'll give it my best. It will be different because I haven't started that much," he said.

The University of Southern Louisiana-bound hurler is the only returning pitcher on Howard's staff. But Hawk pitchers have performed remarkably well. The staff has a 2.95 team ERA, and has allowed 100 less runs than last year.

"We had a new staff and it was kind of scary," said Kroeger. "We didn't know if the freshmen would produce. After a while we saw they were coming through, they've done a great job."

Was it a confidence-builder for him after having a good season last year?

"No, not really. In fact it puts more pressure on you to have a better season than you had last year."

Do the other pitchers consider him a leader?

"To tell the truth, they don't look to me as a leader. They do their own thing; and if that works, so be it."

What about Howard's chances at the state tournament?

"If we play with the same intensity, play errorless ball like we did last week, we've got a good chance to go all the way."

And Kroeger would like nothing better to pitch the last out in the championship game.

Ewing-led Knicks whip Bulls

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick Ewing says the only thing that bothers him about playing poorly is that it sometimes causes the New York Knicks to lose games.

"It's not me; it's New York versus Chicago," Ewing said. "All I want to do is win and be known as a winner. I wasn't disturbed at the way I was playing; I was disturbed we were losing."

The Knicks and Ewing regained the winning touch Tuesday night, defeating Chicago 121-114 as he scored 32 points on 12-for-20 shooting, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked four shots. The outcome left the Bulls with a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 Eastern Conference semifinal series, with Game 6 at Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Ewing, who made 56.7 percent of his shots in the regular season while scoring 22.7 points per game, was averaging 17.9 on 45 percent shooting in the playoffs before Tuesday.

"He's a man with great pride," Knicks coach Rick Pitino said. "I called him on the phone and told him not to get down because he's been great for us all year. A couple of off games shouldn't take away from that."

While winning was Ewing's first priority, he knew he had to improve his numbers against former teammate Bill Cartwright if the Knicks were going to send the series back to Chicago.

"I wanted the ball and my teammates got it to me in good position," Ewing said. "Coach told me to move from side to side and to use my quickness on Cartwright and get him in foul trouble."

Cartwright, who outscored Ewing

21-10 on Sunday, fouled out with 12 points in Game 5.

Ewing scored the Knicks' final nine points in the last 1:38, defusing a Chicago rally that cut a 96-77 lead to three. Michael Jordan keyed the rally by scoring 17 of his 38 points in the fourth period.

"They gave us a chance to get back in the game at the end, but they made the clutch shots and plays when they had to," said Jordan, who is averaging nearly 35 points in the series. "Patrick really did a good job."

Ewing took some heat after scoring only 10 points on 5-for-15 shooting in Sunday's 106-93 loss at Chicago, but he said he paid little attention to the criticism.

"I don't read much of what the papers say about me," he said. "My only vindication is winning. I don't blame myself that we lost. It's a team game. I scored a lot of points tonight, but it's not the only reason we won."

"Patrick was unstoppable," said Mark Jackson, who had 14 points and 14 assists for the Knicks. "He's a big-league player who hasn't been up to par lately, but he came through when we needed him."

Chicago is seeking to reach the conference finals for only the third time in franchise history. The Bulls lost to Milwaukee in 1974 and Golden State the following year.

The Knicks, meanwhile, are trying to become the fifth team in NBA history to win a playoff series after trailing 3-1.

The Bulls trailed only 63-61 in the first minute of the third quarter. But the Knicks outscored Chicago 31-16 in the rest of the period to lead 94-77 going into the final 12 minutes. "Patrick was very alive," Bulls coach Doug Collins said. "We thought maybe he would tire at the end. But he didn't. He finished very well."

Suns burn Warriors; next stop — Lakers

PHOENIX (AP) — Their fans are already chanting "Beat L.A.," but the Phoenix Suns know the next assignment won't be easy.

Rookie Dan Majerle scored nine of his 24 points in a pivotal third period and Tom Chambers had 13 of his 24 in the final 10 minutes as Phoenix beat the Golden State Warriors 116-104 Tuesday night to win their Western Conference semifinal series in five games.

The Suns, winning the last three games to take the best-of-7 series 4-1, advanced to the conference finals against the two-time defending champion Los Angeles Lakers, starting Saturday at Inglewood, Calif.

Phoenix has lost all five previous playoff series against the Lakers, getting swept twice.

But as far as Chambers is concerned, that's all in the past.

Golden State, which lost Game 1 130-103 and Game 4 135-99, led 47-36 late in the second quarter and 50-49 at halftime after forcing Phoenix into 12 turnovers and 21-of-51 field-goal shooting.

But the Suns went ahead to stay at 71-70 on Chambers' 15-foot jumper with 3:34 left in the third period.

Majerle, known more for his defense, came off the bench and hit a dunk with 1:26 remaining and a 3-point goal with 27 seconds to go for a 79-74 lead after three quarters.

The Suns opened the fourth period with five consecutive points, capped by Majerle's three-point play, and stretched the lead to 96-83 on Tyrone Corbin's steal and stuff with 7:36 to play.

Golden State, getting two jumpers and a 3-point goal from Rookie of the Year Mitch Richmond, cut the gap to 103-98 with 2:54 left.

But Eddie Johnson, the league's top sixth man this season, hit consecutive jumpers and Kevin Johnson's jumper with 1:35 remaining gave the Suns a 109-98 bulge. Chambers' two layups and a three-point play made it 116-102 with 26 seconds showing and clinched the victory.

"We played a great 46 minutes and then let down for the other two," Warriors Coach Don Nelson said. "A great team will come back on you and that's what Phoenix did. They had great teamwork and great intensity."

Kevin Johnson finished with 24 points and 11 assists while Corbin had 15 points and 10 rebounds. Chambers and Eddie Johnson grabbed 11 rebounds apiece as the Suns outrebounded Golden State 55-45 in Game 5 and 279-215 overall in the series.

"They're a great team," said Warriors forward Chris Mullin. "Whatever they needed — offense, defense, rebounding — they got it."

GENERAL

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley University's baseball team, stunned by a highway accident in Missouri that killed one player and injured two others, returned to the school's campus.

Tim Trunk, 19, of Oak Forest, Ill., was killed Monday when the van — one of three carrying the players to the Missouri Valley Conference tournament in Wichita, Kan. — collided with a truck on U.S. 54 about 12 miles east of Mexico, Mo.

Bob Becker, 21, of Belleville, Ill., is in critical condition and David Carr, 21, of Crown Point, Ind., is in serious condition at the University of Missouri hospital in Columbia.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali testified on behalf of Dr. Rajko Medenica — the doctor he credits with improving his life.

Medenica, a Yugoslav-born cancer specialist, is charged with fraud by Swiss authorities. He is accused of writing $2.6 million in fake bills while treating patients at a state hospital in Geneva in 1973-81. In the same case, a Yugoslav court sentenced Medenica to 20 years in prison in 1983 for defrauding the state social security system.

FOOTBALL

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Joe Montana had some "debris" removed from his left knee last week in what the San Francisco 49ers described as a minor surgery.

It was the quarterback's fifth operation dating to 1983 and the second on the left knee. But the 49ers said Montana, who turns 33 on June 11, should fully recover from last Thursday's arthroscopic surgery in four to six weeks.

HOCKEY

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Milbury, who played 13 seasons for the Boston Bruins, was named the 18th coach in the National Hockey League team's 65-year history.

Milbury, who was coach and general manager of Maine in the American Hockey League for two years after retiring as a player, also was named assistant general manager. He replaces Terry O'Reilly, who resigned on May 1.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Larry Pleau was fired as coach of the Hartford Whalers, less than a week after the NHL club named a new general manager. Johnston, who replaced Emile Francis as vice president and general manager, said the team will honor the final year of Pleau's contract, worth about $125,000.

Pleau's dismissal fueled speculation that the Whalers will name former Calgary Flames coach Bob Johnston as the team's sixth coach.

TENNIS

ROME (AP) — Andre Agassi and Jimmy Connors advanced to the second round of the $1 million Italian Open championship with straight-set victories.

Canadiens make change in lineup

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — The Calgary Flames say they may have one less reason to watch their backs when they take the ice for Game 2 of the Stanley Cup finals.

Claude Lemieux, the Montreal Canadiens' instigator extraordinaire, is in Coach Pat Burns' doghouse and, having not scored a point in seven straight games, is expected to be benched tonight in favor of rookie Brent Gilchrist.

"It's not a matter of being upset," said Lemieux, who scored 10 playoff goals to help the Canadiens beat the Flames in the 1986 finals. "I feel bad because I think I can help the team win. But if I have to be out of the lineup for us to win the Stanley Cup, I don't care."

Stanley Cup

The Flames don't figure to miss Lemieux. The flamboyant right wing has a reputation for starting trouble but not staying around to finish it. Lemieux is also known as a "diver" — a player who goes into animated acts to try to draw penalties.

"You gotta wonder when a big boy like that (6-foot-1, 206 pounds) goes to the ice every time he gets touched," Calgary defenseman Ric Natress said. "He's not afraid to check you from behind when you're not looking... he can dish it out but he can't take it."

Lemieux caught the ire of both his coach and the Flames in the third period of Calgary's 3-2 Game 1 victory when he sprawled to the ice after incidental contact with defenseman Jamie Macoun.

"I told him it works for a while but the referee's not stupid," Burns said. "It doesn't work any more."

Not only did referee Andy vanHellemond ignore him, so did his own trainer.

"When I saw no one was coming to help me," Lemieux said, "I felt like a fool out there."

"The players on the bench looked over at me and shook their heads say that he's all right," Burns said. "So I told the trainer not to go out. I thought we had tempo and I didn't want a long delay."

Of his style and his benching, Lemieux said: "There's bigger jerks than me that this could happen to. I think I'm a pretty nice guy."

The Flames disagree.

"I was just trying to make sure he wasn't coming up behind me. When your back's turned, he's at his best," Macoun said. "In the process, I tapped him. At first, I was disappointed that if I was going to get a penalty I didn't get more of him. Then, when I looked at him spinning like a top on the ice... and vanHellemond wasn't calling a penalty... I had to laugh."

Lemieux agreed that he hasn't played well, but he blamed an old groin injury. He also said that although he wasn't one of the best players in Game 1, "I don't think I was one of the worst, either."

Burns said the injury had Lemieux "out of condition."

"We decided to go with someone in condition," he said of Gilchrist, who has one goal in seven playoff games. "Lemieux is having problems going to the net. We need his physicalness, but he's not getting any hits in."

Both Lemieux and Burns vehemently denied a Montreal newspaper columnist's charges that Burns picks on French-Canadian players.

"I don't think that has anything to do with it," Lemieux said.

"That goes 10 feet over my head," Burns said. "I was born and raised in Quebec. My mother is French-Canadian. To say that is crazy."

Guy Carbonneau, another French-Canadian player, also dismissed the accusation.

"It's too bad that it's happening here in the finals," Carbonneau said. "You just have to overcome it."

The Canadiens already have to overcome long odds. The team that lost Game 1 of the finals has won the series just nine of 50 times.

Easy Goer doesn't want rain

BALTIMORE (AP) — Having done it once already this week, trainer Shug McGaughey and Easy Goer will be trying to dodge the rain the rest of the way to the Preakness.

"We've got our fingers crossed," McGaughey said Tuesday after arriving at Pimlico. "We've been told the weather is supposed to clear. We're looking for a good, fast track. This track has always been a fast-drying track. With all things being equal, we're looking to turn the tables."

Sunday Silence beat heavily favored Easy Goer by 2 1/2 lengths in the Kentucky Derby, but a muddy race track is thought to have compromised Easy Goer's chances.

"What I've tried to do is not make excuses, but look for an explanation," McGaughey said. "But all I can go on is that both of the races he hasn't run well the track was wet. Every other race, he's won easy and he runs fast, except the day of the Wood Memorial."

"... We came to run in the Preakness and we're going to run. I'm not closing the door if the track is off but that is something I'll have to discuss with Mr. (Ogden) Phipps (the colt's owner)."

McGaughey has shown an ability to dodge the wet weather with Easy Goer. The colt's final workout at Belmont Park earlier this week ended less than an hour before rains inundated the track.

"We got really lucky because... when I was driving to work it was raining as hard as it could rain," McGaughey said. "I wanted to go out early because I knew the forecast. A half hour later the track was a sea of mud."

McGaughey said if the rain keeps up, he'll enter Awe Inspiring in the Preakness with Easy Goer.

Sunday Silence, who went to the race track Tuesday for the first time in two days, is set to return today for the second test of his injured foot.

The Kentucky Derby galloped 1 1/2 miles Tuesday and showed no signs of being bothered by his bruised right front foot. Whittingham plans to work the colt a half-mile this morning.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Mary Jane McGaughey, wife of Easy Goer's trainer Shug McGaughey tries to restrain Easy Goer as she hot-walks him after the morning workout.

"Right now, health-wise we are in good shape," Whittingham said after colt was back in his stall.

Sunday Silence's right front foot, which he bruised sometime over the weekend, will be soaked in a tub of Epsom salts.

"All we are doing is keeping the circulation going in there and try not to get an abscess or something," Whittingham said.

The veteran trainer has had Sunday Silence out early for most of his preparations, but this workout could be different.

"I may go out a little late, it depends on the track," Whittingham said. "We might wait for a good track (after a break in training for the strip to be groomed)."

Rain fell hard on Pimlico's track at some points Tuesday morning and a layer of water still covered the racing surface at the end of the morning workout session.

There has been at least a trace of rain 14 of the first 16 days this month, with measurable amounts on 11, said Ray Newcomb, a forecaster for the National Weather Service. A total of 4.60 inches of precipitation has fallen on the Baltimore area. The average for the entire month is 3.44 inches.

Whittingham said earlier this week that Easy Goer would probably be the favorite in the second leg of the Triple Crown.

SCOREBOARD
Montreal Canadiens at Calgary Flames (Stanley Cup Finals, game 2, 9:05 p.m. EDT). The Flames won the opening game of the best-of-7 series 3-2.

STREAKS
Since 1967, only five teams — Montreal, Boston, Philadelphia, the New York Islanders and Edmonton — have won the Stanley Cup. At least one of those teams has been in the finals every year since 1964. There has not been an overtime game that ended 1-0 since April 18, 1979, when the Islanders beat Chicago 1-0 in Game 2 of the preliminary round on a goal by Mike Bossy — a span of 120 games.

STATS
Only three teams have ever won the Stanley Cup after losing the first two games of the finals. Montreal did it in 1986 and 1971. There have been only two seven-game series in the finals since expansion — 1971, when Montreal beat Chicago, and 1987, when Edmonton downed Philadelphia.

SHOTS ON GOAL
Calgary had the fewest shots against any team during the regular season (206, an average of 25.7). Montreal was second (212, 26.5 per game). Through Game 1 of the finals, the Canadiens had allowed 431 shots in 16 games (26.9), while the Flames had allowed 433 in 17 games (25.5).

they're playing much better ball now."

Howard has been getting stout pitc ing, but its bats have been up-and-down. "When it comes to hitting the ball, we're Dr. Jeckel and Mr. Hyde," said Griffin. "We hit the ball well early in the year, took a tails spin, started hitting, and slumped again."

But in the last two games against Richland, the Hawks scored 17 runs on 23 hits. First baseman Mike Bard has been swinging a hot bat of late, going 10-for-19 in the last five games.

The Howard rotation is in limbo with the injured arm of left-hander Corey Zielinski. Zielinski fields a 11-2 record with a 2.29 ERA. If he can't start reliever Greg Kroeger might assume a starter's role. Howard pitching coach Frank Anderson said the right-hander Curt Schmidt will get the opening start against Angelina.

Schmidt has pitched the most in this year (104.6), compiling a 9-6 record with a 2.21 ERA. Howard can also turn to Bailey Deeds, who was the winning pitcher in the rubber-match against Richland. Deeds has a 4-2 record with a .362 ERA. Other dependable pitchers are Ruben Felix (4-0) and Tom Leahy (5-2).

"I would probably put Kroeger in a starter's status if Zielinski can't pitch," said Anderson. "You never know how they'll (HC pitchers) pitch at the state tournament. There are different teams down there."

The Hawks will play Angelina at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Rookie loses no-hitter

By The Associated Press
Randy Kramer lost two no-hitters in one night.

Kramer pitched a one-hitter in his fourth major-league start, blemished only by Ron Oester's two-out double in the eighth inning, and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-0 Tuesday night. "I had the obvious response. I wondered what would have happened — what if, what if," said Kramer, who was trying to become the 14th rookie to pitch a no-hitter. Kramer's bid was kept alive by a controversial scoring decision in the seventh inning. Oester, batting just .175, spoiled it for good by slicing a liner 10 feet inside the left-field line.

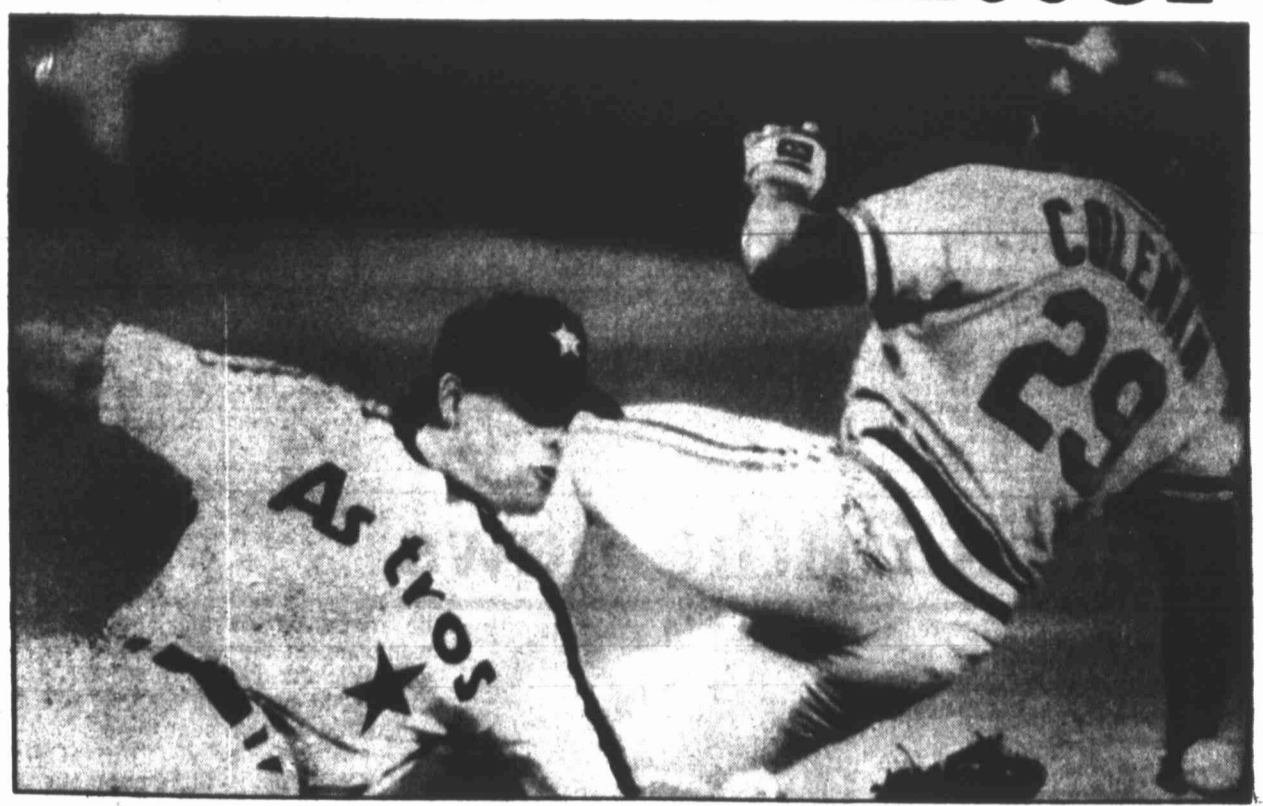

"I've never in my life played on a team that was no-hit, not at any level," said Oester, the eighth-place batter in the lineup. "You definitely think about the no-hitter at that time in the game."

In other games, San Francisco trounced Philadelphia 13-5, Houston beat St. Louis 9-7 in 11 innings, San Diego defeated Montreal 5-2 and Chicago held off Atlanta 4-3. Los Angeles and New York were rained out and rescheduled for Thursday.

Four pitchers have lost no-hitters in the ninth inning this season. Kramer, 1-1, had his hopes preserved with a close call in the bottom of the seventh.

Herm Winningham opened the inning with a hard grounder that bounced off first baseman Sid Bream's glove and rolled away. "I tried not to look at the scoreboard. I could tell by the response of the crowd," Kramer said. "If they cheered it was a hit. If they booed it was an error."

The fans did cheer when the Riverfront Stadium scoreboard operators, without waiting for a decision, posted "Hit." But official scorer Glen Sample ruled it an error after watching the replay.

"That's the way I've been calling them all year," said Sample, a former University of Cincinnati baseball coach and an official scorer for 10 years. "I thought the ball was one step away to his right. It bounced off his glove and went into the outfield."

Cubs 4, Braves 3
Astros 8, Cardinals 7
Rafael Ramirez hit a sacrifice highlighted a strange first inning and sent Chicago over Atlanta at Wrigley Field.

The Cubs scored four times in the first inning against Tom Glavine, 5-1. They opened with four straight hits and Glavine then left the game with a sprained left ankle, which he hurt covering first base.

Chicago used an error, a stolen base, two wild pitches and a passed ball for its 4-0 lead.

fly in the 11th inning and Bill Doran drove in five runs, helping Houston beat visiting St. Louis.

The Astros loaded the bases with none out in the 11th on a leadoff triple by Craig Biggio and two intentional walks. Ramirez flew to center field and Biggio beat Willie McGee's throw home.

Dan Schatzeder, 1-0, pitched three scoreless innings. Cris Carpenter, 1-3, took the loss. Doran tied a career-high for RBI with a two-run homer.

'Jays win for new manager

By The Associated Press
For six weeks under Manager Jimmy Williams, the Toronto Blue Jays did hardly anything right.

The Blue Jays couldn't get the big hit, failed to protect leads and lost 24 of their first 36 games.

But Williams was fired Monday, and in two games under interim Manager Cito Gaston, the Blue Jays have gotten the big hits and even a save.

Lloyd Moseby homered to snap an eighth-inning tie and Toronto rallied from a six-run deficit to beat Cleveland 7-6 Tuesday night for its second straight victory under Gaston.

"I'm not saying they (Toronto coaches) aren't qualified and I'm not saying I don't want the job because they're (management) saying it," Gaston said. "I just think that it's the right move. That was pretty tough for Jimmy to come from the third base coaching box and manage this ball club."

Moseby, who homered Monday night to snap an 0-for-27 slump, hit his fourth homer off reliever Keith Atherton, 0-2, with one out.

"I'm just trying to win ball games and help get this team together," Moseby said. "I don't know what it is. If I knew what the problem was, I would have been doing it a lot earlier."

Elsewhere in the American League it was Seattle 6, Milwaukee 5; New York 3, Oakland 2; California 7, Boston 2; Detroit 9, Chicago 7; and Kansas City 8, Minnesota 1. Baltimore at Texas was rained out.

Tom Henke, 2-3, pitched 1 1/3 innings in relief for Toronto to get the victory. After Henke walked two batters in the ninth, Duane Ward came on and got the last two outs for his second save. It was the Blue Jays' first save since April 21, when Ward got one against Texas. Mariners 6, Brewers 5

Ken Griffey Jr. snapped an eighth-inning tie with a pinch-hit two-run homer as Seattle rallied from a four-run deficit to edge Milwaukee at the Kingdome. Darnell Coles singled with one out in the eighth and Griffey, making his first major league pinch-hitting appearance, hit Bill Wegman's 1-0 pitch over the right-field wall for his fourth homer of the season.

Yankees 3, Athletics 2
Clay Parker, recalled on May 9, pitched seven-plus innings for his first major league victory and Steve Balboni snapped an eighth-inning tie with a two-out, two-run homer as New York beat Oakland at the Coliseum.

Curt Young, 1-4, gave up a two-out single to Jesse Barfield before Balboni hit a 3-0 pitch just over the 330-foot marker down the left-field line for his fourth home run.

Angels 7, Red Sox 2
Johnny Ray drove in four runs and Kirk McCaskill allowed two runs in eight-plus innings as California beat visiting Boston for its fourth straight victory. The Angels have won 15 of their last 18 games.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tenor Luciano Pavarotti hung his head and walked off stage during the third act of "Tosca" after his voice cracked.

The curtain was 45 minutes late going up for Monday night's performance of the Puccini opera because doctors were treating Pavarotti backstage for throat problems. The singer decided to go on but missed a high B-flat.

Pavarotti mumbled "Sorry" and signaled the conductor to start again, but approached the same note with the same results.

"I cannot do it. I am sorry," he said. The audience applauded after the curtain fell and the houselights

Building a strong family

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

During the holidays, families tend to spend more time together, to retrieve old and cherished traditions and rituals and to be more generous with time and money to be with other family members.

What is it about some families, though, that makes them enjoy being together — laughing and hugging, telling old family stories and dreading to leave after the holidays are over?

Often, such families are called "strong families," and research studies have identified characteristics of those families that seem to withstand both the good times and bad times of everyday family life.

Strong families work constantly to strengthen family ties. They have definite, clear values and all family members know what they are. Parents are the leaders in strong families and take their responsibilities seriously.

Strong families are optimistic and when trouble hits, they are flexible in looking for solutions. When faced with a crisis, a strong family rallies together and grows from the challenge.

Laughter and fun are important to strong families. They accept all members for their uniqueness. Parents have high self-esteem and build self-respect in their children.

Strong families, and yours is probably one, accept responsibility for both their successes and their failures. Because life means so much to strong families, they seldom feel overwhelmed by life events.

Quality daycare is economic issue for parents.

One of the most important issues facing parents who work outside the home is child care. Parents are concerned that their childcare dollars be well spent. In addition to concern for cost, parents want quality and convenience in childcare services they choose.

For many parents, purchasing childcare services presents an economic dilemma. Childcare costs constitute a big ticket item in many households. The average share of income spent on child care is about 10 percent, according to studies by the Urban Institute.

But the range of income parents devote to childcare cost varies. Wealthier parents may spend about 5 percent of their household income for childcare services while poorer parents may spend in the range of 20-26 percent of income on child care.

For example, some families may say childcare is important, but they may, at the same time, under value childcare services and be unwilling to pay the price for quality services. In addition, their spending patterns may reveal large expenditures for items that they do not really need. There is inconsistency between what they say is important and their spending behavior.

Public employees receive recognition

During Public Service Recognition Week, 14 public employees were nominated as Outstanding Public Service Employees. On May 5, a reception was hosted in their honor at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. During the reception they were presented with certificates for a job well done.

Edward Moughon, director of community programs for Big Spring State Hospital, was nominated for recognition as an Outstanding Government Employee in Big Spring by Robert von Rosenberg, BSSH superintendent.

"Though Mr. Moughon has only been employed at BSSH for slightly more than one year, he has demonstrated dedication to this facility and its mission, goals and objectives. He has demonstrated a commitment to the provision of quality services to clients and their families and to improving this facility's relationships with communities, advocacy groups, volunteers and other agencies.

Mr. Moughon is respected by his employees, peers, and hospital administration. He is energetic in his pursuit of perfection and motivates those around him. Without a doubt, Mr. Moughon is an outstanding government employee and is deserving of formal recognition for his efforts.

Also nominated by von Rosenberg was David Hernandez.

Hernandez, a specialist in nursing administration, was assigned to the Admission/Acute Care Unit as a Mental Health and Mental Retardation services assistant prior to his re-assignment to the Nursing Administration Office in November 1987.

"Mr. Hernandez is a qualified driver and demonstrates a caring and vigilant mannerism when transporting patients off campus. He is available to do what is needed to provide transportation and is commended for changing his schedule to meet unforeseen campus shortages in staffing/personnel.

He assists in campus surveillance and reports unusual incidents on his shift and handles the situation appropriately. He maintains current training and provides excellent support for residential units in emergency situations by using good judgment and follows hospital policies.

He keeps units informed of any aberrant behavior and is always alert to potential problems. He is always willing to do whatever is requested and assists his supervisor in any task assigned. Mr. Hernandez is a polite, well-mannered, honest, dependable and responsible individual who is concerned about patient care as evidenced by his empathy."

Surprised by his nomination, Hernandez said "I'm very honored to receive such recognition."

Kenny Bearden has been with the Bureau of Prisons since August 1987. He is currently the packaging foreman in the UNICOR Electronics Factory.

His hobbies include golfing, softball, and water and snow skiing. He coaches for a Division I girls' softball team and is also the player/coach for the softball team at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Bearden and his wife, Karen, have two children, Krysha, 7, and Kendra, 5.

"He was chosen because he does an excellent job and is very active in the community. He is very worthy of recognition," said Anne Beasley, associate warden. "I love it," said Bearden. "It's an honor to represent the Bureau of Prisons."

Cruz Olague began working with the Bureau of Prisons in 1983 as a contract employee teacher's aide in the Education Department. Along with this position, she also worked as the librarian. Olague, who received permanent employment as a clerk typist in August 1987, now holds the position of unit secretary. While in this position, she was selected as "Employee of the Quarter" in December 1988.

Olague and her husband, Arthur Jr., 2, and Aaron, 5. Their hobbies include bowling, camping, dancing and Little League baseball.

"Mrs. Olague was chosen because she does a lot of extra work and for her clerical support. She and her husband are excellent people in the community,"

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) — An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"
Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat
According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public
If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800) 527-9700, ext. W842. ADV. ©F.M. 1989

Storms hit area

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS
Sunday's thunderstorms hit Big Spring hard while leaving the surrounding area relatively untouched, area weather watchers reported today.

More than eight-tenths of an inch of rain and marble-sized hail was reported in Big Spring, according to the United States Department of Agricultural Research Service. But golf ball sized hail was reported in neighboring Coahoma.

The new rainfall brings the total to 3.85 inches of rain this year, above the 2.09 inches recorded at this time last year, but still down from the 4.67 inch average.

Tommy Hart, 1750 Purdue Ave., reported "considerable" pea-sized and marble-sized hail and seven-tenths of an inch of rain. Total rainfall amount for the week was 1.11 inches, he said.

A spokesman for the Colorado Municipal Water District reported six-tenths of an inch at the Big Spring monitoring station and nine-tenths of an inch at Moss Creek Lake.

H. Boyce Hale, Sterling City Rt., reported .04 inches of rain as of 6 a.m. Monday, bringing a total of .26 inches for the month of May and 3.63 inches for the year to date total.

In Luther, John Couch reported pea-sized hail and six-tenths of an inch of rain. He did not have a total for the week or year.

In Forsan, O.W. Scuddy reported one-fourth of an inch and no hail. The year to date rainfall amount in Forsan is almost 6 inches, he said.

Elsewhere across the state, a weak warm front lingered in North Texas, setting off thunderstorms in the Hill Country. Fog reduced visibilities to as low as one mile in the Panhandle.

A dry line maintaining its position in West Texas was the other dominant weather feature in the state.

Damage by a storm Saturday in the Killeen, Fort Hood and Belton areas in central Texas was preliminarily estimated at $3.5 million. Officials said 2,500 structures suffered damage.

Employees

said Anne Beasley, associate warden. "We have a tremendous staff. I'm surprised I was chosen," Olague said.

Social Security's unsung hero is Mary Martinez, claims representative. She began her career with Social Security in 1970 as a clerk typist. Due to dedication, hard work and diligence, she has worked her way up to her present position.

Mary was unanimously selected for this award by her co-workers, all who recognize the valuable asset she is to the office. Mary epitomizes Social Security's motto "Never stops working." She does not know the meaning of the word "No" when it comes to helping management, her co-workers and especially her clients. In helping others, Mary never complains nor does she boast about what she has done or whom she has helped.

In selecting her for this award, her co-workers also recognized Mary's compassion and the respect and dignity in which she treats all people. Visiting a Social Security office can be stressful as it often involves sickness, death, or an impending forced retirement. Mary readily recognizes this stressfulness and tailors her interview to accommodate all people.

A client working with Mary may be apprehensive when first coming to the office, but always leaves with a sense of pride and accomplishment. "Being the quietest person in the office, Mary rarely gets the recognition she deserves, yet everyone in the Social Security office does recognize that Mary is truly an unsung heroine," Gloria Hopkins, branch manager. "I'm very happy," said Mary. "I was surprised to receive this honor because my co-workers deserve the award too."

The Howard County Junior College District nominated Kelli Ballard for Public Employee of the Year.

"Kelli is the voice of Howard College, serving as PBX operator for the campus. She enthusiastically greets visitors and communicates college information in a very professional manner. The faculty and staff employees call on Kelli for help with special projects and she will always step forward with the extra effort in addition to her normal responsibilities. Kelli is a very conscientious and caring employee and we take great pride in bestowing this honor on her," said Jan Foresyth, director of personnel.

"It takes all us working together to be successful at our jobs," said Kelly.

The HCJCD also nominated about him not showing up for work... I know he'll be here."

"I think it's quite an honor," said Piper.

Vevagene Williams and Selma Hicks were both nominated by the Big Spring Independent School District for outstanding performance on the job.

pleased to be picked," said Williams.

Hicks, who is also retiring this year, is a fourth grade teacher at Marcy Elementary School. She has taught for 37 years, spending 20 years with BSISD. The March PTA Scholarship was named for her during the 1988-89 school year. "I think it's great. I was surprised," Hicks said.

"Both ladies have 20 plus years with BSISD and have done outstanding jobs. They represent the district well," said Murray Murphy, assistant superintendent.

Clifford Hart, a county employee for 33 years, was chosen to accept the award for all county employees, said Bill Mims, county engineer.

Put Your Little Foot, the Cotton Eyed Joe, the waltz and the two-step were the order of the evening Thursday at the annual Senior Prom at Canterbury South.

Dancers showed off their blue jeans, denim skirts, bandanas and boots as they whirled around the floor to the music of Bob Dykes & the Gamblers.

Tables were trussed in bandanas and barbed wire in keeping with the Prom theme.

Attendance was close to 150 seniors from all over Howard County. Many came to sit and listen to the music and watch the action on the dance floor — but most came to dance.

Guests included Sarah Findley, Lee Nix, Walter and "Pete" Witte, Mitchell and Bonnie Cross, Linda Stanford, Keith Oldaker, Gladys Choate, Nola Wood, Josephine Myrick, Bea Hill, Joe Dann, Bill Cauble, Jeannie Lawson, Beth Brigman and Jamie Bennett.

Others on the dance floor were Hewitt and Lillie Sides, J.C. and Mammie Madry, Gerald Sheid, Velma Lloyd, Jennie Barber, Leah Smith, Pearl Grissam, Paula Jones, Alton Allen, Leta Jones, Don Coppock and Ann Bailey, Clint and Wanda Marsh, Tacoma Draper, Lila Drewery, Ada Chandler, Nena Grenon, Loretta Cone and Juan Lujan, and many more.

Canterbury staffers and directors were also on their feet, including Pat Johnston and Ivan Williams, Orville Chapland, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rainwater (just back from a dentistry convocation in San Antonio), Jim and Jean Lancaster, and Pete and Jean Jenkins.

China Long has been in Austin getting acquainted with her first grandchild, Matthew Long Hudson, born April 26.

"Frank and I drove to Austin the day he was born," says China. "Frank came home, but I stayed to help my daughter, supposedly with the housework, but really just to become acquainted with the baby. He's precious — even at 12 a.m., 2 a.m. and 4 a.m.!"

Matthew's parents are Leslie and Mike Hudson. Mike's mother and step-father, Alta and Mike Holt, are the other proud grandparents.

Robert and Mary Miller and Charlie and Joy Neefe were at the scene of a "murder" last weekend. They were among the guests at the historic 1880's St. James Hotel in Cimarron, N.M., for a Wild West adventure weekend in which each guest is assigned a character in a mystery.

Guests bunk in elegantly restored rooms, decorated with antiques; dine on continental cuisine and enjoy Wild West entertainment, sing-alongs and chilling ghost stories — playing their "parts" and gathering clues all the while.

Bob's character was Pancho Gringo, "a hired gun who hates prune juice, lawyers and curly haired men." Mary portrayed Jackie Hachet, one of "the spinster twin sisters who are out to correct the faults of mankind... leaders in the local temperance brigade."

Charlie's character was Rev. Oscar P. McMains, "a man who knows how to read the Bible and pass the hat," and Joy's part was that of Mrs. Oscar P. McMains, "a pious, self-righteous battle-ax."

Guests are encouraged to "dress the part," says Mary, and individual instructions are given to each participant.

It's certainly a different kind of weekend, the local couples say — but they're already planning to join a cast of new characters in the fall!

Robert Wernsman is beaming these days — and with good reason: His son, Aaron, 17, has just received a major scholarship to DePaul University's Acting Conservatory in Chicago.

Aaron, who will graduate from Huntsville High School June 3, has won several acting awards during his high school career. The young thespian lives in Huntsville with his mother and two sisters, Kate and Rachel.

Robert will attend Aaron's graduation, and return to Big Spring with Kate and Rachel in tow to spend the summer.

Acting seems to be a Wernsman family affair — Robert appears regularly in local theater presentations.

It was a big week for Beatrice Burke.

She left Wednesday for Pampa to receive an award as the national Pilot Club Woman of the Year for her outstanding work as a deaf educator. (She had already claimed local, district and state level awards.)

From Pampa, Bea flew to Washington, D.C., to receive honors from Gallaudet College Saturday. She was joined in the capitol by her sons, Steve, Odessa, and Patrick, Mesquite; and daughter, Teresa, who lives in Virginia.

Bea will be a contender for the International Pilot Club Woman of the Year in June.

Drilling report

Flowing 106 barrels of oil with 152,000 CF casinghead gas per day on a 9/64 choke, a new producer has been brought on line in Howard County's Sleeper Reef Field. Location is about three miles northwest of the Knott Community.

With Rosewood Resources of Dallas as the operator, the well bottomed at 10,800 feet and was plugged back to 9,397. Production will be from a perforated interval in the Canyon Sand, 9,329 to 9,333 feet into the wellbore.

Oil tested at 43-gravity. Flow pressure came in at 570 PSI.

The new producer is known as the No. 1 D.C. Johnson.

The No. 2 Doris Cole has been finalized in the Howard-Glasscock Field, about 16 miles southeast of Big Spring. It pumped 77 barrels of 40-gravity crude per day plus 55,000 CF casinghead gas.

Mobil Producing of Midland is the operator.

Mobil took the hole to an 8,000-ft. bottom, plugged it back to 7,623 and perforated the Wolfcamp Formation for production, 7,482 to 7,512 feet into the hole.

Good shows of crude oil potential, plus some casinghead gas pay, have been reported at the No. 1 S.O. Woody, a Glasscock County wildcat located 17 miles northwest of Garden City.

Sun Exploration is the operator.

The well was spudded early last February and was drilled to total depth of 10,348 feet. It reportedly has been perforated to produce from the Strawn Formation. State potential testing is pending.

EP Operating is nearing the 7,200-ft. drilling mark at the No. 1 Jurecek "B," a developmental try in Glasscock County's Saint Lawrence Field. The well is located about three-quarters mile northeast of the Saint Lawrence townsite. It was spudded on Feb. 21, with total depth projected to 10,300 feet.

John L. Cox, independent operator from Midland, has called in a completion rig at the No. 2 Kay Gunn, a developmental venture in Glasscock County's SFM Field. Located about 15 miles northwest of Garden City, the well was spudded on March 20. It is bottomed at total depth of 10,350 feet. No details have been revealed regarding production outlook.

Meridian Oil is testing for potential at a Borden County wildcat located about 14 miles southeast of Gail. Meridian's No. 1 Chilton was taken to total depth of 7,910 feet and has been perforated for possible pay at a depth of about 7,835 feet.

Drilling is nearing the 9,400-ft. mark at the No. 1 Smith, a Borden County wildcat situated about 18 miles northwest of Gail. Spudded on April 8, the well is under permit for 10,500-ft. maximum hole. J. Ingram Oil and Gas is the operator.

'Buffs' banquet honors Stanton's best athletes

HERALD STAFF REPORT

STANTON — The Stanton Buffalos Booster Club hosted the annual Athletic Banquet Tuesday at Bonnie's Restaurant. Coach Dale Ruth, Stanton High School Athletic Director, said that more than 200 people attended.

Clovis Hale, assistant coach for the University of Texas Longhorns, spoke to the athletes and their parents.

"Coach Hale gave a great speech," Ruth said. "The message was good. He told the students to never give up, to keep going, and to find what you really want and go for it. We are really pleased that he was able to attend."

Several awards and recognitions were presented to the athletes. Most Improved Athlete went to Stacie Tom and Matt Myrick. Mitzi Koonce and Kenneth McCalister were the recipients of the Newcomer of the Year awards.

Kevin Barnes and Anthony Inman tied for the 110 Percent Award. The female student receiving the award was Karen Graves.

"The 110 percent Award is received by those who go way beyond the call of duty," Ruth said. "They never give up. They always give their best shot, and these three athletes did that all year."

The award for Best All Around Athlete was presented to Kaki Elmore and Kellie Glaspie. Robert Jones also received the award.

"Both Kaki and Elmore are outstanding athletes," Ruth said. "They played basketball and golf and excelled in each sport."

"Robert Jones participated in all sports and performed very well in each," Ruth added. "He was All-District running back for the last two years. He was outstanding in basketball and track, too. He is quite a long jumper."

Brad Holland received the Coaches' Fighting Heart Award.

"This award goes to the athlete that is strong in both body and spirit," Ruth said. "This is for the student who never gives up no matter what happens."

"The student who receives the Fighting Heart Award has been the one who sets the best example for others to follow."

Brad Holland hurt his back two years ago and never once gave up. He's truly a great leader — a very courageous young man."

at a developmental bid in the Mesa Pavo Field, Borden County, 16 miles northwest of Gail. Designated as the No. 1 Scott Clayton, the well was taken to total depth of 9,800 feet. No details have been divulged regarding plans for completion.

McClure Oil of Midland is the operator.

Showing ability to pump 170 barrels of oil per day, the No. 2 Smith Hall Community has been completed in the R-K Field, Martin County, by R-K Petroleum Inc. of Midland.

The lease is situated about three miles northeast of Tarzan.

The well bottomed at 11,802 feet and will produce from a set of Devonian Era perforations, 11,755 to 11,768 feet into the wellbore.

Meridian Oil is the operator.

Elbow project helps clients

By JEAN WARREN

The fifth grade of Elbow Elementary School accepted the challenge when Scholastic News, an elementary school paper, invited its readers to enter a "good citizen contest designed to motivate students to participate in projects that help others and teach them the basic concepts of citizenship."

Students chose the Medical Unit of Big Spring State Hospital as their project because many clients in the units have disabilities that prevent them from being outside the unit on a regular basis; they set goals for activities that would bring enjoyment to the clients.

Under the direction of fifth-grade teacher and project coordinator Bo Fryar, students have carried out a variety of activities, including: A collage of students' pictures and letters; Halloween cards; nut and candy cups; valentines; Easter baskets; and candy filled umbrellas.

For Thanksgiving, students made brownies in class for the clients, along with original drawings depicting Thanksgiving traditions. The student group and Mrs. Fryar went to the Tollet All-Faith Chapel in December to present a Christmas musical program.

As a culmination of their year of caring and interest, students will present a program and have a "picnic" on May 26 for the Medical Unit clients. At that time, they will present a VCR to the Medical Unit.

For their participation in the project, fifth-graders were presented an award banner by Scholastic News. According to Mrs. Fryar, "We hope to make the 'Elbow Kids Care' project a continuing program for next year. It has been such a good experience for the children; they have learned so much."

The music department of Sands School will present a spring concert at 7 p.m. May 18 in the school auditorium. High school and junior high choirs will present "Friends Forever," and elementary students will present "Kids Are Music."

The Big Spring High School choirs will present a spring concert at 8 p.m. May 16 in the BSHS auditorium. Featured will be all solos and ensembles that qualified for the state contest to be held in Austin in June.

Selections by Meistersingers, Minnesingers and Rhapsody will be presented. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Masquerade was the theme of the banquet and dance for BSHS choral students Saturday night in the East Room of Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Honored by membership in Who's Who in Music were Christy Alexander, Daniel Andrews and Stacey Rogers. The same students, along with Donna Reitzer, received certificates of membership in the National Choral Hall of Fame.

Scholarships for the summer All-State Choir Camp at Texas Tech were awarded to Eric Dorton and Stacey Rogers.

Choir director Kristi Jasek also presented an award to the outstanding choir member from each class: Freshman, tie between Robin Cave and Bradley Heckler; Sophomore, Traci Clark; Junior, Stacey Rogers; Senior, tie between Christy Alexander and Daniel Andrews.

Outstanding Meistersinger was Alexander and the outstanding Minnesinger, Marci Weaver. Jasek also recognized the graduating seniors, honor choir students, choir lettermen for the next year and students with perfect attendance records in choir.

Members of the newly organized Runnels Junior High Dance Team have been selected. These girls will assist with and perform at pep rallies. They also will perform at half-time of home games.

Azure Miller and Liz Anzaldúa are captains of the team that includes: Amy Alexander, Kim Middleton, Jaime Parker, Brandi Borchart, Misti Cauble, Michelle Zapata, Debbie Cunningham and Amy Garcia.

Other members are Corina Ramos, Amy Cook, Peggy DeAnda, Diane Thomas, Brandy Castillo, Christi Torres, Cara Stathem, Amy Dominguez, Amy Earnst and Christy Miller. Their sponsor is Teresa Harrell.

Members of College Heights PTA honored faculty members with a luncheon May 9. PTA parents substituted in classrooms while teachers enjoyed the luncheon which featured a cake decorated with names of all faculty members.

Each teacher was presented a carnation. Mrs. Terri Gordon, president of the PTA group, coordinated the activities for Teacher Appreciation Week.

First-graders in Mrs. Davis' class at Washington Elementary made the costumes and scenery for two plays they presented to their parents on May 5. The plays were entitled "Little Red Hen," and "Little Red Riding Hood, Never Talk to Strangers."

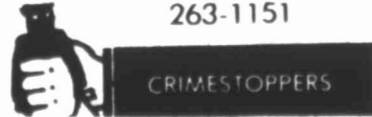

A SMILE — During a language class at St. Mary's Episcopal School, students learned that the subjects of sentences are always nouns or pronouns. When the teacher asked what kind of words are predicates, one student eagerly responded, "Verbs and preverbs!"

Peace William "Bill" Shankles, the report said.

• Scott Allen Goodblanket, 31, 3619 Conally, was released on $400 bond after being arrested on charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and public intoxication.

• Mike Fierro Hernandez, 56, 508 N.W. Fifth St., was released on $1,000 bond after being arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incidents:

• A drug raid by local law enforcement agencies Saturday reportedly netted a cache of drugs and led to the arrest of a Big Spring man, the Howard County Sheriff's Department said today.

Alvino "Al" Noyola, 36, Palmer House Hotel, 207 E. Second Street, was released on $10,000 bond after being arrested on a charge of possession of a controlled substance.

A search of Noyola's residence by sheriff's deputies and a city police detective allegedly uncovered three clear plastic bags of a substance believed to be cocaine and a rifle.

The street value of the substance believed to be cocaine was not known, Sheriff A.N. Standard said today. The substance was taken to Midland for analysis, he said.

The search came after the sheriff's office had obtained information about narcotic trafficking at the location and obtained a search warrant from Justice of the

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Doyle's Tractor Service has pickup — will travel

Curtis Doyle, owner of Doyle's Tractor Service, repairs the giants — tractors, forklifts and backhoes. And more often than not, he loads up his tools in his pickup and goes out into the fields or roads where his customers are.

He specializes in John Deere equipment — but he works on other brands as well. He has a string of diplomas — eight in all — testifying to his mastery of John Deere training courses. And he has one diploma from Case training school.

Doyle has been making repairs on a big scale for about 16 years, seven of these in the Big Spring area. He presently maintains an operation at 1101 East 2nd, where equipment is brought in when it needs a major overhaul.

Doyle provides monthly preventative maintenance contracts for all. During cotton stripping season he's available 24 hours a day seven days a week. Tractors and other equipment that's down can't make money for the owner. So Doyle goes on the road — or across the field — ready to fix air conditioning, adjust power lifts, repair hydraulic cylinders or whatever else is needed.

He services a 75-mile radius, and his pickup has a mobile phone.

There is no typical day in this business, says Doyle. "Today I've worked on six tractors." He handles everything that needs work "from the ground up. I do everything except fix flats!" Business used to be more seasonal, he says, but now it's busy all year around.

One morning he got a call at 1 a.

m. to repair a mower for a company that had contracted with the Texas Highway Department to mow a freeway median. They had to be on the job at sun-up, Doyle explained.

Jan Doyle works with her husband, answering the phone and doing the bookkeeping. Travis Coker helps out at the shop.

"We hope our business will grow," say Doyle. "I give the best service I know how to give." All his work is guaranteed.

The business prides itself on being easy to reach. Usual business hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, but customers are invited to come by or phone anytime. Office phone is 263-2728; mobile phone is 264-3192. "You can dial the mobile phone from any rotary phone now," Doyle says.
