Expert: Sex was murder motive

• Defense ends testimony in murder trial of former Big Spring GI. Story, page 3-A.

Special to the Herald

FORT BENNING, Ga. — Whoever killed Debra Jean Nichols and 2nd Lt. Todd Justin Dunlap intended to have sex with Ms. Nichols while Dunlap was forced to watch, a crime analysis expert testified last week in a Fort Benning murder trial.

"That's what I'm thinking was going to happen in the case," said Judson Ray, an instructor at the FBI's National Center for Analysis of Violent Crimes. "This crime... had more to do with sex, and the person responsible went there with sex on his mind."

Ray, who was a Columbus, Ga. policeman from 1975-80, appeared as an expert witness for the prosecution. He gave his analysis of the personality and probable motives of the killer.

Staff Sgt. Jeffrey L. Meeks, 29, a former Big Spring resident, is being tried for the Nov. 22, 1987 slayings. Ray took the stand after the jury heard 3 1/2 hours of taped statements Meeks gave to the Criminal Investigation Division this year.

Ray, however, based his analysis solely on the crime scene, evidence and witness statements. He asked that he not be told who any suspects were to prevent bias.

Nichols and Dunlap were killed by a lone, organized person who went to Nichols' Fort Mitchell, Ala., mobile home motivated by sex and prepared to kill them both, Ray said. The killer knew both victims well, he said.

Nichols and Dunlap could have been isolated and killed individually, but it was the killer's intent to slay them both at the same time, he added.

"It is my opinion that the perpetrator of this crime wanted them both together," Ray said.

He ruled out a "hit" or someone

Heat is on over burning trash in Coahoma, Forsan

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Coahoma and Forsan are among several small Texas communities that may soon find themselves in a bind if state health regulations concerning trash burning are not eased.

Both Howard County towns rely heavily on burning to dispose of their trash, but that may change because of recent moves on the part of the Texas Department of Health.

Coahoma and Forsan — and several other towns that burn their trash — have until Aug. 31 to find alternative disposal methods or else face the possibility of heavy fines from the TDH.

According to State Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, laws against trash-burning have been on the books for several years, but it is only recently that TDH has decided to start enforcing the codes.

"State law says (communities) can't burn their trash," Fraser said. "It just got to the point where TDH is starting to enforce the law."

The impending deadline has both communities searching for an alternative. Unfortunately, Coahoma and Forsan's mayors both say that a solution hasn't yet been found.

"We're just holding our breath until the last of August," Forsan Mayor O.W. Scudday said. "We're hoping that the state will give us an extension... We've kicked a few ideas around, but we haven't come up with anything solid yet."

"That's the $65 dollar question,"

Officials deny harassment in Gomez death

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

An official with the Texas Attorney General's office and the Mitchell County district attorney strongly refuted recent allegations by a San Antonio civil rights attorney that a second grand jury hearing on the Sammy Gomez case in Colorado City would be a "circus" and a "charade."

Ruben Sandoval, the attorney representing the Gomez family, told a meeting of District 5 League of United Latin American Citizen members last week that Attorney General investigators have harassed witnesses in the case and that a fair and impartial hearing cannot be held in Colorado City.

But Ron Dusek, a spokesman for the Attorney General's office, said Sandoval's assertions were "just an attempt by the attorney to drum up publicity for himself."

"We have no reason to (harass witnesses), Dusek said. "We're an outside entity coming in to take an objective look at this. We have absolutely no reason to do anything like that."

The grand jury meeting on the Gomez case was originally scheduled for Friday, but the Attorney General's office postponed

Newton gets 48 years in radio DJ's murder

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

Capital murder defendant Pamela Newton was sentenced to 48 years in prison Friday afternoon after an 11th hour plea-bargained agreement.

"We think it was a good plea," said William Dupree, assistant district attorney. He noted that because it was a plea-bargained agreement no appeal is possible.

Newton, who pleaded guilty to the murder of long-time Big Spring radio personality C. Vance Kimble, will begin serving her sentence immediately. Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said Newton will be transferred to the women's Texas Department Corrections facility in Gatesville at "the earliest possible date."

Asked when that might be, Standard replied, "I can't give you that, a definite date. I made a request (to the TDC) today. I would think sometime in the near future."

Dupree said the plea-bargained agreement was arranged at the last moment. "It came quickly. We had intentions of trying it up through (Friday) morning until 10 a.m.," he said.

Jury selection in the capital murder trial was to begin Monday. The death penalty is one option upon conviction for capital murder.

Such last minute arrangements are not uncommon, Dupree said. "There's nothing unusual about her pleading at the courthouse doors. If I were in her shoes... I'd consider what other options I had available too," he said. "It's the essentials of which plea-bargains are made."

Previous to the plea-bargained agreement, Dupree said the district attorney's office had spent the morning hours Friday "firming up loose ends of evidence."

Prosecutors still needed a blood test from Newton, to compare with clothes allegedly belonging to Newton. The purpose of such a test

Street widening project causing some problems

By RUTH COCHRAN
Staff Writer

Although the Gregg Street construction project has caused a certain amount of frustration for the owners of businesses faced with the upheaval, customers, for the most part, have remained undaunted.

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation began preparations for the widening project Monday and started construction Tuesday near FM 700, blocking off the outside northbound lane of Gregg. Work is slated to continue for about four months until the street is widened sufficiently for a turn lane from FM 700 to First Street.

The project has been an inconvenience to motorists and businesses, but businessmen are enduring the work with a sigh of resignation. They say the project, which involves tearing out the existing curb and placing it seven feet further out, has hurt their businesses some, but not significantly.

Ida Wallace, owner of Donuts Etc. at 2111 Gregg, said the construction work did cut into Wednesday's and Thursday's business to the tune of several hundred dollars.

"It didn't hurt us today (Friday)," Wallace said, "but when the bulldozer and backhoe were here yesterday it did."

Although the construction crew did leave a narrow strip of driveway on Gregg Street, customers had trouble getting access Wednesday, she said, because both that, and the side street drive the hearing, and it will likely be held in mid-June, according to Frank Conard, Mitchell County district attorney.

The grand jury that heard the case one week after Sammy Gomez was shot May 13, 1988 by Billy Ray Williamson, a part-time Colorado City police officer, voted not to indict the officer.

City officials have said Williamson shot Gomez — a suspect in a sexual assault case — because the 27-year-old attempted to attack him and Lt. Pat Taylor with a knife.

However, Sandoval and attorney John Garcia, state LULAC director, have alleged Colorado City Police "summarily executed" Gomez and planted a throwdown knife at the scene of the shooting.

Gomez died from a bullet wound to the back of his head. He was also shot in the left side of his chest and in the back of the left shoulder.

A source close to the first grand jury — which met before the autopsy was completed — told the Big Spring Herald "the term 'shot in the back'" was never mentioned (by witnesses testifying during the hearing.)

But Texas Ranger John Billings who conducted the initial investigation on the shooting contends grand jurors were told about the shot to the back of Gomez's head.

Asked what brought about the June grand jury hearing on the case, Dusek said: "A second grand jury is being held because the Attorney General's office has become involved — that in itself should say something."

"If we hadn't gotten involved this thing would have been long over," he added.

Dusek said no consideration was given to a change of venue because

"this is not a court trial — the grand jury in the county where an incident occurs should be the one that reviews the evidence."

"If a trial becomes necessary at some point in the future and if someone wants the trial to be held somewhere else, then they could file for a change of venue at that time."

In addition to the Attorney General's involvement in the case, the FBI announced in February it was also investigating the shooting.

In an impassioned speech before about 90 LULAC members last week, Sandoval blasted the Attorney General's office, saying investigators were "harassing witnesses and putting words in their mouth."

Sandoval stood behind his allegations when contacted by the Herald Friday.

Two witnesses whom the civil rights attorney declined to identify said the investigators accused them of giving answers that were the result of coaching, Sandoval said. Investigators also badgered witnesses, saying that the attorney wanted to use the grand jury's ruling to support a civil lawsuit, he charged.

"What other lawsuit?" Sandoval asked. "I don't have another lawsuit."

Sandoval has previously told the Herald he was representing the Gomez family to ensure justice was upheld in the case.

In January, Sandoval said he "would not preclude civil action at this point," but added, "a monetary judgment is not salutary to solving the problem."

Because of the tactics of the investigators, Sandoval said he told the witnesses not to talk to the officials without a court reporter present.

The investigators refused the request, Sandoval said.

"The objectivity of this (investigation) was crap," he said. Dusek termed Sandoval's comments "ridiculous; they're just not true," he said.

"The people he asked us to interview — he told us they had new information, but some of them refused to talk to us and some of the people we tried to talk to said (Sandoval) told them not to talk to us."

"The others he wanted us to talk to did not have the type of information he said they would have."

As for Sandoval's request for a court reporter to be present during the interviews, Dusek said, "The investigators do not travel with a court reporter. No investigator anywhere travels with a court reporter."

"This particular lawyer just does not know anything about how an investigation should be conducted, and if he does he's just trying to stir up publicity."

District Attorney Conard objected to Sandoval's stating that a fair hearing could not be held in Colorado City and if an indictment is issued Mitchell County prosecutors "are not going to want to convict" the officers involved in the incident.

"Mr. Sandoval is totally wrong," Conard said. "A person of any race can get a fair hearing in Colorado City."

"Other grand juries here have shown me the citizens on the grand jury try very hard to do the right thing. Whatever the right thing is, they try to do it."

(Sandoval) doesn't know me from Adam," Conard added. "He doesn't know what I'll do or say, or what I'll recommend. I will prosecute cases appropriately as they are presented."

Conard said he has talked on the phone with Oscar Ortiz, president of the Colorado City LULAC chapter, to open a dialogue and "to hopefully answer any questions they might have about the process and whether it's going to be a fair process, and that's what it will be — fair to everybody involved."

He said the two would meet in person later to discuss the process again.

Sandoval, in his speech, urged District 5 LULAC members from towns such as Colorado City, Big Spring, Odessa and Abilene "to stand up and be counted" by continuing their letter writing campaign asking for justice. Sandoval provided members with the addresses of state and federal government officials.

"The FBI in Washington, D.C., and the Attorney General's office in Texas have received oodles and oodles of letters and mailgrams, saying, 'We want justice and we do not want a circus, that this damn thing is going to be done right or all hell is going to break loose,'" Sandoval said at the meeting.

Dusek confirmed that the Attorney General's office has "received a lot of letters and phone calls" about the Gomez case.

Macario and Minnie Gomez, Sammy's parents, and Ortiz have said they do not believe an impartial hearing can be conducted in Colorado City.

Ortiz did not return a phone call from the Herald on Friday.

Dusek expressed dismay when told of statements made by those questioning the objectivity of a grand jury in Colorado City.

"If you don't have trust in the integrity of the people on a grand jury, then something is wrong with the system," he said.

School builds barrier to help stop bullets

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A chain-link fence didn't keep flying bullets off the schoolyard, so workers are finishing up a 10-foot high wall to shield basketball playing junior-high school students from a nearby drug marketplace.

Faculty and administrators wore T-shirts Friday depicting the wall and bearing "The Great Wall of Lindbergh" logo, excited about the $160,000 project scheduled for completion at Lindbergh Junior High School in six weeks.

Judy Wade, a physical education teacher, has said she's seen beer bottles and even bicycle handlebars tossed at students during her 25 years at the school. "Now, it's not what they're throwing, but what they're shooting," she said.

Students were evacuated from the recreation fields twice during one week in April because of gunfire.

"There is a manifestation of familiarity at the crime scene," he said. "The way he attacked (Nichols) was very personal, the way he attacked the face... A stranger has no need to continue to punish a dead body. At worst, (the killer) was on the periphery of their social network."

Nichols' face was smashed with a fire poker and she was stabbed in the back five times after she had died, the medical examiner testified Wednesday.

The killer was also familiar with the mobile home and surrounding area, that was evident, Ray said, because the killer hid Nichols' car by driving it to another trailer park less than a mile away.

"If you had a stranger in here, certainly driving a car approximately a mile just doesn't fit," he said. "If the guy was totally alien to this community, he would have needed the vehicle to get much farther away."

The killer went to Nichols' home with the weapons he used. And because there was no sign of a struggle or forced entry, Ray believes the killer knew both victims well.

Trash

Coahoma Mayor Eleanor Garrett said when asked what the community will do. "We're in hopes of getting some place from the county... but really, it's up in the air right now."

"Smaller communities have been getting away with (trash burning) for years," Scudday said. "But (with the TDH deadline), a lot of other places are going to be in the same boat as we are."

Both towns have dumping facilities, but Scudday and Garrett say they are inadequate to satisfy TDH and federal regulations.

"We have several more years on the lease (for the Coahoma landfill)," Garrett said. "It's good for a few more years, but we need to find another place."

"We can dump some things, but we have to cover them up," Scudday said. "Other things, we can't dump."

Garrett said Coahoma is in negotiation with Howard County officials to find a site that would be acceptable to both TDH and the federal Environmental Protection Agency guidelines. Forsan officials are working with Fraser in hopes that the state guidelines can be eased or that smaller communities can be excused altogether from the legislation.

"It's a problem," Fraser said. "About the only way to get around it is to excuse cities under a certain population from the guidelines... From a financial standpoint, they can't comply with the regulations."

Another possible solution that has been informally discussed by Coahoma and Forsan officials is for those towns to take their trash to the Big Spring landfill.

"We've asked (Big Spring) if we could use their landfill," Garrett said. "They said we could only in an emergency... it would be ideal if Big Spring could take the trash."

Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said the city has not received a formal request from either Coahoma or Forsan to use the city landfill.

"There were some formal discussions on the subject a couple of years ago, but nothing recent," Decell said. "There's been no formal proposal to that nature... Nothing has been brought before the city council, and they are the people that would make the decision."

However, Decell added that the city landfill has adequate capacity to handle the added trash should permission be granted for Coahoma and Forsan to use the facility.

"Yes, we do (have the capacity)," he said. "We have about a 37-38 year life expectancy in our facility."

were blocked.

However, she said, most customers have managed to find a way in to the shop, and as long as the drives aren't blocked, she expects the business to do OK.

"I'm just glad they started on our end first," she said. Marge Kolden, manager of Payless Shoes, said construction hasn't caused any problems so far and shouldn't hurt business.

"Some people of course had most of their drive taken away," she said, "but ours is OK."

Fae Hall, who operates The Hair Clinic, hasn't faced an access problem to her shop at 2105 S. Gregg, but she did have a slight water supply problem. Construction crews dug up her water meter, which city crews hadn't moved yet.

Although Hall was upset, she also was philosophical. "We were friendly with them," she said of the construction crew. "What else can you do?"

Wanda Harrison, who manages K&M Beauty Supply next door, said the upheaval definitely has cut into her shop's sales, as some walk-in customers have been discouraged.

"It's been a problem, but we're just waiting till it's over," she said. "I do look for it to hurt us some. The word gets out it's hard to get in here."

Harrison said the construction will be a bigger problem when crews finally remove the store's driveway to Gregg Street.

"In two to three weeks, all across the road will be closed for two or three days," she said. "That will hurt us."

Mike Chetty, resident engineer with the highway department, said

Traffic signals to be removed

Highway department crews will remove four signal lights from Gregg Street, according to department officials.

Mike Chetty, resident engineer, said the signal at Edwards will be removed and replaced with stop signs. Signals at 18th, 17th and 15th streets will be removed and eventually replaced with new signals, he said. While they are being replaced, however, either four-way or two-way stop signs will be installed, he said.

The work will take from one to two weeks, "and we'll get the signals up just as quickly as we can," Chetty promised.

His crews are working as quickly as possible to get the project completed and get out of the way. The work involves tearing out old curbs and driveways, building a new curb and a subbase, then laying the asphalt.

Crews currently are building a new curb line and new driveways, Chetty said.

"When they get out in front of them a little ways, then the pavers will come in behind them and put in the new asphalt," Chetty said.

The asphalt work itself won't take long, he said, as long as the rest of the preparations are completed.

"Depending on how many different areas they're going to work, it will take about three to six days to do the concrete work," he said. During that time, customers will still have access to businesses along Gregg Street. When the asphalt is put in, however, driveways will be blocked for two or three days, he said.

"We need to do it a block at a time with our asphalt," Chetty said. "If we don't do at least a block of work with the asphalt then the ride will suffer," from too many joints in the roadbed. "We're used to working five to six miles of asphalt at a time."

The areas being worked in now should be finished within the next couple of weeks, Chetty said. Work after that could go faster.

"Once we get the train (of workers) stretched out, we shouldn't be in front of any particular business longer than two weeks," he said. "We're doing all right."

Work has been helped, he said, by the cooperation of businesses along Gregg Street.

"The number one thing that happened was that the ignorance of the situation was our biggest enemy," Chetty said. The highway department has tried to keep everyone informed, "and as a whole the people on Gregg Street have been very professional."

"That's what's making it so good; everyone is cooperating with one another."

Although construction has been painful for some businesses, the end results could be even more so. The street widening means some shops will lose parking spaces.

Harrison said K&M will lose several spaces but can't do anything about it. Wallace said her business will lose some space, but it shouldn't be a problem.

"We're really not going to lose anything," Wallace said. "It's not going to hurt us that much. We're one of the fortunate bunch."

was to eliminate the possibilities that it was her blood or that of an animal.

Asked if prosecutors didn't already have blood tests done, Dupree replied, "Apparently the lab didn't; there's always some loose ends that way."

The blood test may have been the thing that caused Newton to seek a plea-bargained agreement, Dupree said, stressing that it was only speculation. "The blood test may have brought the thing home to her... that her case would go to trial," he said.

Dupree, stressing he could only speculate, estimated Newton may serve 12-15 in the TDC. He advised contacting Big Spring District Parole officer David Harmon, but attempts to reach him for comment Friday and Saturday were unsuccessful.

Three other capital murder defendants are still awaiting trial in connection with Kimble's death. Newton's brother Patrick, 18; Dennis Noggler, 18; and Michael Hodnett, 24; were also indicted by a grand jury in connection with the murder.

Kimble's body was discovered by sheriff's deputies at his home April 1, 1988 three miles south of Big Spring after fellow KBYG employees reported he did not show for work. Kimble was shot in the upper chest, apparently as part of a robbery, Sheriff Standard said at the time.

The three men have been released on $50,000 bond since June, after 118th District Court Judge James Gregg reduced their bonds. A bond reduction was denied for Pamela Newton; she was also indicted by a grand jury for retaliation by threat to kill a law enforcement officer in May 1988.

According to an indictment filed against Newton, she "knowingly and intentionally" threatened to kill Deputy Barney Edens for his actions in the line of duty.

She has remained in the Howard County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond since she, her brother and Noggler were extradited from Louisiana, where they were arrested by New Orleans authorities April 1, 1988. Michael Hodnett was arrested and extradited by Florida authorities a short time later.

The Newtons and Noggler were arrested after allegedly attempting to use a credit card belonging to Kimble.

Meeks called 'outstanding' soldier in defense testimony

By KIMBALL PERRY
Special to the Herald

FORT BENNING, Ga. — The defense rested Friday in the murder trial of Jeffrey L. Meeks after calling soldiers to testify that Meeks was an "outstanding" soldier.

The witness that drew the most attention, however, was the man Meeks believes is responsible for the murders of which he is accused.

Sgt. 1st Class Patrick Nichols, the estranged husband of Debra Nichols at the time she was killed, was called Friday by the defense. Nichols said that he and 2nd Lt. Todd Justin Dunlap were neighbors and golfing partners for a while, but he stopped associating with Dunlap "because of the things that were going on between him and my former wife."

Meeks has accused Nichols of killing Ms. Nichols and Dunlap in statements given to the Criminal Investigation Division. In those statements, Meeks said he fabricated a story. He said he was forced to cut Ms. Nichols' throat by an unknown man, but later said he made up the story to keep the investigation alive. He believed Nichols was the killer and said in those statements that the man he saw beating Ms. Nichols looked like Patrick Nichols.

Meeks later recanted his confession and now says he killed no one.

He is accused of cutting the throats and brutally beating Ms. Nichols and Dunlap on Nov. 22, 1987. They were killed in Ms. Nichols' mobile home in the Oswichee Trailer Park.

The Nichols moved to that trailer park in May 1986 and he lived there until April 1987, when he moved out because of marital problems. He said he filed for divorce Nov. 20, 1987, two days before the slayings.

Nichols, who is now stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C., said he was last in the trailer Nov. 21, 1987, to pick up a sports jacket for a date he had that night. He took out a $50,000 life insurance policy on Ms. Nichols in January 1987, he said.

The prosecution began the day's proceeding by resting its case. This was followed by a motion from Capt. William Hudson, Meeks' military lawyer, to find Meeks not guilty based on insufficient evidence.

Hudson claimed the prosecution had no physical evidence to link Meeks to the crime scene and that Meeks had never given any statements about wanting to harm Dunlap. The motion was denied by Col. Richard P. Scheff, the military judge.

Hudson then called a series of witnesses to present the possibility that someone other than Meeks killed Ms. Nichols and Dunlap.

The first defense witness was Kenneth R. Bell, who lived in the Oswichee Trailer Park when both Dunlap and the Nichols' lived there. Bell, whose father, Rayford, owns the trailer park and was later called as a defense witness, said he saw three strange men in a pickup truck at Ms. Nichols' mobile home the day of the murder. He also saw a small car at the Nichols house that day that he had never seen before.

Rayford Bell followed his son to the stand and said he told Nichols that Dunlap was at Ms. Dunlap's trailer when Nichols called him one day.

Hudson then called several soldiers who said Meeks was a good soldier, did his job well and was never a problem. He also submitted Meeks' work evaluation into evidence.

One of those soldiers, Lt. Col. David W. Wilson, said he had to counsel Dunlap about fraternizing with Meeks.

Wilson, commander of Meeks' and Dunlap's outfit at the time of the slayings, said he also had to counsel Dunlap about his finances and relations with a married woman. He also said he had referred Dunlap for psychological tests and that Dunlap had undergone two such tests before the slayings.

The trial is to resume at 9 a.m. Monday with closing statements and the judge giving the jury its instructions. The jury will then begin deliberations.

Anti-drug, alcohol rally has good turnout

HERALD STAFF REPORT

More than 300 people, including representatives from all of the Big Spring schools, turned out Saturday for the Students Against Driving Drunk and Just Say No Anti-Drug Rally.

The rally, held in the Big Spring Mall parking lot, was organized to raise the consciousness of young people about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse, said Gay Herren, chairperson for the event.

"The more fun they can have at events like this, the more of an impact it will make on them," said Herren, a library aide at Runnels Junior High School who organized the school's SADD chapter.

Cheerleaders and band members from Big Spring High School, Runnels and Goliad Middle School performed at the event as did the Drugbusters dance team and members of the high school and junior high SADD chapters.

Speakers included Drew Bavin of the Big Spring Police Department who spoke on the recently organiz-

U.S. students march in sympathy demonstration

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 3,500 Chinese students, in a raucous exercise of the democratic rights sought by their colleagues at home, marched upon their embassy Saturday, shouting "Down with martial law!" and "Freedom now!"

The hastily organized sympathy demonstration drew participants from more than a score of American universities. Some were natives of Taiwan or Hong Kong, but the vast majority were citizens of mainland China.

There are an estimated 40,000 students from the People's Republic of China in the United States. Virtually all are postgraduate studies, and about half are financially supported by their government. Others have won U.S. scholarships or obtained other outside sponsorship.

On a day when many students were beaten by police in Beijing, the U.S. demonstrators were given a full escort and high praise by capital law enforcement officers, who diverted traffic from an eight-block stretch of Connecticut Avenue as the marchers made their way from Dupont Circle to the Chinese Embassy.

"We've had no problems whatsoever," said Deputy Chief E. J. Spurlock of the D.C. Metropolitan Police, who estimated the marchers totaled 3,500. "These are the nicest people I've ever met," he said.

The marchers, many wearing shorts and T-shirts on a bright, balmy day, chanted "Down with Li Peng," the premier of China, and "Down with Deng Xiaoping," the senior Communist Party leader. Most wore headbands with

Herald opinion

Legislation misses mark

A majority of the Texas House of Representatives believe they can help cure one of the state's major woes by depriving underage dropouts of a driver's license. Proponents may need to return to school on this one. Supporters of the measure obviously believe that denying a dropout the right to drive will prompt him to remain in school. The bill, passed Thursday by the House and sent to the Senate, calls for anyone under the age of 18 to be denied a license unless he has proof of graduation, current enrollment or participation in a General Equivalency Degree program.

There is no doubt that Texas faces a formidable task in addressing its dropout problem.

• However, this legislation appears to raise more questions than it answers, including constitutional issues, enforcement problems and the hassles described by Big Spring school superintendent Bill McQueary in the form of monitoring student attendance in a mobile society.

What is next? Depriving them of a hunting and fishing permit? Denying the dropouts' pet of a city dog license? What of permission to attend movies?

What the legislation obviously does not do is address the basic problem: Why do we have so many dropouts? While steps are necessary to ensure that the greatest number of young Texans will remain in school and complete their high school requirements, this bandage legislation seems to miss its mark.

Let's concentrate on the problem and not punish those who are victims of the problem.

Action speaks loudly

Take a bow, parents and students. Saturday provided prime examples of the roles both can play in making a difference — even in a world that can sometimes seem indifferent at best.

The "Just Say No" to drugs and alcohol rally at the Big Spring Mall was a step in the right direction. Concerned students and parents made public their disdain for use and abuse of such substances and encouraged youths to abstain for their own good. It also served as a good reminder for adults who find themselves overly tempted.

Fighting drug use may seem like a hopeless battle at times; for many who have succumbed and are either unable or unwilling to resurrect themselves, it is hopeless.

Where is the hope? Right where these folks are aiming their message: In their children.

Without question, the key to controlling this massive problem is in the hearts of the children who must face the decision of using or refusing. Given the strength provided by both genuine and continued reinforcement, children can evolve into young adults with the self esteem and inner courage necessary to say no when faced with the choice.

That their own parents may not possess that strength or intent may typify a generation whose youth included an attitude of trying at least a little bit of everything; such an attitude while lacking self discipline can lead to disaster. Examples of such disasters are widespread in our society.

Today's children are exposed to an array of potential disasters at an age when their parents or grandparents would never have believed such things were available. The battle that is faced in arming these children with the weapons and information they need to evolve into responsible, clear-thinking adults is often complicated by the lack of a solid home life.

As a result, such efforts as Saturday's rally may smack of simplicity but can have a significant impact on the impressionable minds they are aimed at affecting.

Likewise, the caring parents who have devoted recent days to providing an alternative to dangerous after-prom parties deserve a pat on the back.

The dangers involved with drinking and driving have been enumerated long and often, but such exhortations are of little value when they lack evidence of concrete alternatives.

By providing such an alternative, through an adult-sponsored, all-night party for prom-goers, parents are ensuring their children a choice at a time when youths need all the positive choices possible.

Labels make the cotton sing

By STACY PAYNE

January 30, 1986.

My brother, Michael, and I sat in someone's pickup off away from the crowd and watched as our daddy climbed up on the last tractor and revved the engine. The auctioneer began his final song and it wasn't too long afterward that the tractor was driven away.

I clearly remember looking in the direction it traveled and continuing to do so a good while after it was no longer in my view.

Michael and I sat there for the longest time, not saying anything. Instead of allowing the pain we felt to embrace us, we kept it locked inside like good strong farming stock, and when the auction was over we all headed to the cafe.

A waitress poured us a cup of coffee. Daddy stirred in two teaspoonful of sugar and said, "The sun will shine in the morning, Stacy."

For the very first time in my life, I thought he was lying to me. He wasn't. The sun did shine in the morning.

Yet, after listening to Sharon King, a member of the National Cotton Womens Committee, speak to the Lunch 'n Learn Club last week on "Buy American, Buy Cotton," I wonder if things might have been different if "little" things like checking labels on products mattered.

King is convinced that "little" things not only matter, but that they can lead to significant enough changes in the practices of retailers to affect West Texas farmers. She, along with 52,000 other Cotton Women (I didn't dream that figure), spend most of their spare time and their own money telling others how to force retailers to supply what we demand.

She really believes that if enough of us write to our congressmen things will change. She thinks that if we refuse to buy products made and/or grown in other countries, and demand home-grown and home-made products, we will actually get them.

Sharon King thinks if people really care, changes are going to be made. She thinks this even while the literature from the National Cotton Womens Committee is hesitant to be too optimistic.

"While the women acknowledge that consumer demand for cotton products is on the rise, they caution that the demand is increasingly being met by foreign-made items of foreign-grown cotton. In fact, four out of every five cotton garments purchased today are likely to be made of foreign cotton," a NCWC release stated.

King isn't worried. "If five people will continue to tell five new people just to check labels on

Gilda lives on

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

For those who consider the '70s part of our "growing up" years, Saturday Night Live was something special.

It broke what we considered new ground in the world of mild adult humor, tinged with the excitement accompanying the realization that performers were laying themselves on the line because it was a live performance.

Early television watchers might tell you the same of the Ernie Kovacs show and the antics of Milton Berle. But being of the same generation as the groundbreakers of "Saturday Night," it's difficult not to relate personally with the characters who caused us to want to stay home — on Saturday nights of all nights.

The show has regained some of its prestige in the past two years, although little of today's show or its cast can compare to the first two or three years of the program's existence. If you have any doubts, catch a few of the late-night reruns and keep your own scorecard. If we're anywhere near on the same wavelength, you'll likely agree those early shows are a treasure house of comedy.

It may have been the newness, it may have been the quality of the writing, or it may have been the fact that a generation of television watchers were looking at something they'd not been treated to before.

From my perspective, however, none of those things could have been enough to make the show what it was without the personalities that made the cast so exceptional.

The accomplishments of Chevy Chase, Dan Ackroyd, Jane Curtain and even the late John Belushi continue, all propelled by the success they made of "Saturday Night Live."

For all of their achievements, however, there was one cast member who always stood out for me — even more than all of the rest.

Gilda Radner was always quite out of the ordinary.

Something of a "Everywoman," she was nimble enough to shift from character to character, never demanding the spotlight but often quite casually commanding it.

She died early yesterday, at the age of 42.

It was only two days earlier that a late-night hour found me switching television stations, searching for a bit of entertainment and coming upon a replay of one of those first-year shows. Something about the innocence she projected caused her to stand out above the rest.

The creator of such goofy and lovable characters as Roseanne Roseannadanna and dimwitted Emily Litella died of the ovarian cancer which had been diagnosed in early 1986. Her husband of five years, actor-filmmaker Gene Wilder, was at her side.

Among the favorites in her repertoire was the scatterbrained broadcaster Ms. Roseannadanna, whose catch phrase, "It's always something," became the title of a book she wrote detailing her fight with cancer. Another favorite was Baba Wawa, a character who spoofed news interviewer Barbara Walters, as well as the nerdy teenager Lisa Lubner.

The compelling interview published in Life magazine in 1988, during which the comedian told her interviewer that "cancer is about the most unfunny thing in the world," details her battle with the disease and is worth a second reading.

Miss Radner was a rightful winner of an Emmy Award for outstanding performance by an actress in a variety series.

She continued her work after her television success, appearing in several films, including "First Family," "The Woman in Red," a 1984 hit written and directed by her co-star, Wilder; as well as "Haunted Honeymoon," "Hanky Panky" and "It Came From Hollywood."

For me, however, nothing ever quite compared to the hard-of-hearing Ms. Litella, who delivered misguided opinion pieces on such things as "violins on television," and discussing "presidential erections" on network news every four years before backing off with a sweet "Never mi-i-i-ind" when her error was pointed out.

It's a somber day for Gilda Radner fans; long may her art live on.

All Yellowstone fires to be fought

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Every fire that starts in Yellowstone National Park this year will be fought, a park spokeswoman said today.

The announcement extends a moratorium of the "let it burn" policy that had been due to expire by midsummer. The moratorium is now in effect through the summer and fall fire season, said Yellowstone spokeswoman Joan Anzelmo.

The "let it burn" policy, adopted in 1972, allowed all naturally caused fires that did not threaten life or property to burn without intervention. Fires caused by humans were fought.

The policy came under widespread criticism last year after both man-caused and lightning-strike fires burned sections of nearly half of the 2.2 million-acre national park. The fires were exacerbated by drought and high wind.

Anzelmo said heavy snow this winter and wet spring conditions do not compare to last year's low snowpack and dry spring. "We should be moving into the early summer with a lot of moisture on the ground," she said.

Although lightning fires started as early as June last year, Anzelmo said this summer will be too wet for early fires. She said park officials expected a normal fire season this year.

"In a normal season, it usually is the late summer or early fall before conditions are dry enough for lightning strike fires," she said.

Baby death ruled accidental

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cook County medical examiner has ruled that a 15-month-old boy unhooked by his father from a respirator died of accidental causes.

Dr. Robert J. Stein made the ruling Friday, the day after a grand jury declined to indict the father, Rudy Linares, 23, who removed his son's life support and held off hospital staff with a gun on April 26.

Samuel Linares had been comatose since accidentally swallowing a balloon last August. Officials at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center had refused the family's request to withdraw life-support.

Linares on Thursday pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a weapon, a misdemeanor, and was released on the condition he undergo psychological evaluation and possible counseling.

Police, rioters clash in Berkley

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A rally marking the 20th anniversary of the People's Park occupation turned into a melee reminiscent of one of the bloodiest riots of the 1960s. At least eight people were arrested.

Some of the crowd of about 1,000 scuffled with about 50 city and campus police during a spree of looting, arson and vandalism Friday night and Saturday morning. A Fire Department four-wheel drive vehicle was overturned and set afire.

Berkeley police reported eight arrests and several injuries, including one officer who was hit over the head with a bottle. He was not hospitalized.

The scene was an eerie replay of the 1969 clashes whose focus was the 2.3-acre university-owned lot that the university had targeted for housing. Activists wanted to turn it into a park, and the dispute came to embody all that the two sides hated about each other during that protest-filled decade.

UNIDENTIFIED LOOTER

SHANGHAI — An effigy of the Statue of Liberty stands in front of the Shanghai city government offices as demonstrators rally for democratic reform Friday.

Masses defy martial law to continue rally

BEIJING (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of people defied martial law and swarmed through the streets of Beijing on Saturday, keeping their huge pro-democracy uprising alive despite fears that a military crackdown was imminent.

Huge crowds jammed Tiananmen Square, the focus of the daily demonstrations and the symbolic center of China, to protect students who have led the rallies from possible police attacks.

An estimated 3,000 students who began a hunger strike in the square May 13 decided to abandon their fast Saturday to conserve strength for the struggle ahead, student leaders said.

Premier Li Peng on Saturday morning declared martial law for large areas of the capital, saying "we are forced to take resolute and decisive measures to put an end to the turmoil" of the student-led demonstrations.

But the People's Liberation Army, poised at various locations on the outskirts of the city, appeared paralyzed to act because of the huge crowds.

"Supporters are going in by the truckload to protect the students on the square," said one public transport worker. "We feel there will be bloodshed."

Military convoys that appeared on the street were quickly surrounded by crowds who appealed for them to turn back. Many did.

Four truckloads of soldiers tried to enter one street, but a few thousand people swooped upon them, surrounding the trucks and chanting, "Turn back, turn back." Onlookers cheered wildly when the trucks left.

The only violence reported Saturday was a clash between armed police and students in western Beijing in which students said they were attacked with electric cattle prods. One student injured in the attack said 45 students were hospitalized.

The square was occupied by about 200,000 students and supporters demanding a freer and more democratic society.

Converging on the square to show their support Saturday were hundreds of thousands of other people, many on bicycle, others in vans and trucks.

At some intersections on a highway surrounding the city, citizens were setting up makeshift barricades to block military vehicles.

Police destroy fake watches

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Police used a steamroller Saturday to crush about 6,000 watches with famous but phony brand names, part of a crackdown on Bangkok's booming market in fake luxury items.

Crushed on the street in front of a riverside police station were watches carrying brand names such as Cartier, Rolex, Gucci, Omega, Longines and Seiko.

The watches are openly sold at numerous street stalls in the Thai capital. A fake Rolex sells for about $35, compared with more than $1,000 for some authentic models.

The United States in particular has complained about Thailand's wholesale piracy of foreign goods, patents, copyrights and trademarks.

Opposition leaders take to streets

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The three top opposition leaders defied a ban on rallies and marched through the streets on Saturday, their first public appearance since they were badly beaten following the May 7 election.

Presidential candidate Guillermo Endara and vice presidential candidates Ricardo Arias Calderon and Guillermo Ford were assaulted by paramilitary forces of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega on May 10.

Independent observers say the opposition candidates were leading the Noriega-picked government candidates in the national election when Noriega's troops seized election ballots.

The results of the election were annulled by the government. The government Saturday prohibited "marches, meetings, public demonstrations or caravans of vehicles" by any political organization until at least June 5.

"The prohibition does not have any meaning to us," Endara said as he wended through an outdoor market in San Miguelito on this capital's eastern outskirts. The stop was one of six made by a caravan of about 20 opposition vehicles.

The caravan briefly blocked traffic on some major arteries leading into the capital. Police watched but took no action.

Endara said the caravan was designed "to thank the people for their support May 7."

Ford said the action was intended "to reconstruct the confidence of the people in order to make another push."

Marcos supporters threaten U.S.

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — About 1,000 Ferdinand Marcos supporters marched today near the presidential palace to demand their leader's return and cheered when a speaker predicted "a lot of dead Americans" if Marcos dies in exile.

Marcos, 71, was in critical condition today in a Honolulu hospital after undergoing emergency kidney surgery.

President Corazon Aquino on Friday refused to allow Marcos to return from his Hawaiian exile and said her government will not permit the ousted president to be buried in the Philippines despite "a last appeal" from his wife.

Mrs. Aquino conferred today with five Cabinet members about Marcos' health, and afterward officials said the ban on the former president's return — dead or alive — still stands.

Marcos supporters blame the United States for "kidnapping" their leader to Hawaii during the 1986 popular uprising that toppled his government and propelled Mrs. Aquino to power.

Worldwide church conference

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — More than 600 people from 80 countries are converging on South Texas for the start on Monday of the World Council of Churches' Conference on Mission and Evangelism, which hopes to set a worldwide evangelical and service agenda for the next decade.

The conference, which will be held on the campus of Trinity University at Trinity Baptist Church and other area churches, will follow the theme, "Your Will Be Done: Mission in Christ's Way."

The conference will be divided into four sections.

One will focus on conversion, service and struggle with the world and witness among people of other denominations.

Another section will deal with power and powerlessness and suffering and struggling.

Land issues will be a major focus of another section titled "The Earth is the Lord's" and the fourth section will deal with the levels of local, regional and global — at which religious communities need to renew their effort in order to serve.

Candle burns home

AUSTIN (AP) — A family whose electricity was cut off because they hadn't paid their bills lost their belongings when a candle fell from a table and fire swept through their apartment, authorities said.

Charles and Sylvia Scott and their 19-month-old son were moved to another unit of the apartment complex after the blaze. The couple had no insurance, said fire investigator C.B. Neitsch.

Mrs. Scott told firefighters she had used candles for light in their apartment Thursday night after the city cut off the electricity earlier in the day, Neitsch said.

She left the apartment for a few minutes to use a telephone, and returned to find fire spreading across the living room carpet.

Storm damage costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A storm that slammed into the Army's Fort Hood, Texas, base last weekend caused at least $600 million in damage and possibly more, the Army said today.

The service, releasing a preliminary damage estimate, said repairs to almost 200 helicopters would cost an estimated $585 million and repairs to buildings and other facilities an estimated $15 million.

"Detailed, exact cost repair figures are not available," said Lt. Col. John Chapla, an Army spokesman at the Pentagon. "But our preliminary estimate now is that it will take about $600 million to repair the damage identified so far."

The powerful storm, packing winds of 95 miles an hour, ravaged the area May 13. Although there were no fatalities, the storm forced 25 military families from their quarters; damaged about 200 military helicopters and damaged at least 20 percent of the fort's buildings.

Matamoros slaying suspects accuse police of torture

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Four suspects charged in connection with 13 cult slayings in Matamoros say they were tortured by Mexican authorities into signing incriminating confessions to the crimes.

Cesar Ceballos Blanco, an attorney representing one of the four defendants, is petitioning a state court in nearby Reynosa to throw out the confessions.

"The complaint says that the judge (in Matamoros) violated the laws . . . by giving any validity to these (the four men's statements)," Ceballos told The Dallas Morning News. "They (the statements) are in doubt." Ceballos said his client, Sergio Martinez Salinas, 23, and the three other suspects deny any knowledge of the slayings or burial of the victims. Only Elio Hernandez Rivera, 22, has admitted being part of the black-magic cult believed responsible for the deaths, he said.

Ceballos and a Matamoros physician who examined them say the men have been tortured with electric prods, beaten and had their heads placed in plastic bags until they lost consciousness.

Ceballos, who is Martinez's uncle, said Martinez had a plastic bag wrapped around his head and bound at the neck seven times, until he lost consciousness from lack of oxygen. The attorney said one of Martinez' eardrums burst during one such incident.

Dr. Paulina Vela Esquivel, a professor of medicine at the University Autonoma of Tamaulipas, in Matamoros, visited the men in jail and took photographs of them earlier this month. She said Hernandez had broken capillaries in his left eye that are consistent with oxygen deprivation.

Ms. Vela said another defendant showed fading signs of bruises on his back and upper chest and apparently had suffered some broken ribs. Others had tiny red marks resembling pimples on their back and ears that resulted were from electric shocks, she said.

But a Federal Judicial Police officer in Matamoros said the men's claims are "lies."

"Of course they're going to deny they ever said that," said the officer, who declined to give her name in a telephone interview with The Morning News.

Ms. Vela said torturing prisoners is against Mexican federal law and against the law of the state of Tamaulipas. Yet, she said, prisoners are beaten "frequently here in Matamoros."

The four men — Martinez; Hernandez; Serafin Hernandez Garcia, 22; and David Serna Valdez, 23 — were arrested April 11 after Mexican authorities found the mutilated bodies of 13 men and boys buried at El Rancho Santa Elena near Matamoros. The ranch is owned by the Hernandez family, described by local authorities as involved in drug smuggling.

Although the four men were paraded before reporters on April 12, Ceballos said none asked the men if they had been tortured or if they could show evidence of torture.

Clements blocks refuge expansion

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, in a letter to U.S. Interior secretary, has blocked expansion of a national wildlife refuge near Freeport until the state is allowed to manage an environmentally sensitive Gulf Coast island.

But environmentalists warn that the arrangement would endanger rare birds and wildlife. They charge that Clements is acting at the behest of billionaire Perry Bass, whose family compound is on nearby San Jose Island.

have a greater say in management practices on Matagorda Island and would rely on state game and law enforcement personnel to "keep people away from his area."

A representative of the Bass family in Fort Worth did not immediately return phone calls today to The Associated Press. Reggie Bashur, a Clements spokesman, denied the charge.

He said Clements will meet next week with federal officials in Washington "to defend the rights and prerogatives of the state of Texas."

Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin.

"The governor views this as an important public policy issue on which he wants the best resolution possible for the people of Texas," Bashur said.

The federal government owns the entire barrier island, but exclusively manages only the southern portion. The state manages the northern part of the island. It is home to migratory birds, including the endangered whooping crane.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service officials want to buy 30,000 acres of coastal marsh to expand the Brazoria National Wildlife Refuge. But in an April 12 letter to Lujan, Clements said he would block the purchase by rejecting the use of federal grant funds for the purchase.

Border officials praise Mexican anti-drug effort

PHOENIX (AP) — Attorneys general of American states bordering Mexico-endorsed anti-drug efforts under Mexico's new president and urged the U.S. Senate to approve a mutual treaty.

"We feel that the efforts that have been taken by the Mexican governments since the (federal) government has been changed have been welcome, that they're promising," said California Attorney General John K. Van De Kamp in proposing a resolution unanimously approved at a conference of Mexican and American attorneys general.

Officials from California, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico also joined Friday with their counterparts from six Mexican states in unanimously approving a resolution calling for U.S. Senate ratification of a mutual legal assistance treaty that Mexico approved nearly a year ago.

On Thursday, Javier Coello Trejo, an assistant attorney general appointed four months ago by President Carlos Salinas de Gortari to head the Permanent Campaign Against Narcotics Trafficking in Mexico, detailed progress to date, including the arrest and indictment of 3,618 people accused of drug trafficking.

"Things seem to be on the move, and we're noting that just for the record, and we think that's very promising," said Van De Kamp.

Murder charges reduced

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — A capital murder charge against Travis Dale Gray of Big Spring has been reduced to first degree murder, the Mitchell County District Attorney said Friday.

Gray was indicted on a charge of capital murder by a Mitchell County grand jury March 17.

The indictment accused Gray of killing his wife, Tammy, for insurance and estate money. However, Frank Conard, district attorney, said the charge has been reduced because "we felt we didn't have the evidence to prosecute a capital murder offense."

Conard said after completing most of the investigation into the case prosecutors do not have the evidence to prove Gray killed his wife "for remuneration."

First degree murder is punishable by no less than 5 years in the state penitentiary and no more than 99 years or a life sentence.

Gray's case was scheduled to go to trial this week, but because of a heavy case load, it will be scheduled for a later trial week, Conard said.

"It will be set on the regularly scheduled criminal docket in Mitchell County, which is set about every two months," he said.

Conard said July is the earliest the trial could be conducted.

Harrison had previously said prosecutors planned to seek the death penalty in the case.

The indictment issued in late March stated that "Mr. Gray on June 23, 1988, did knowingly cause the death of Tammy L. Gray by asphyxiation, by manual strangulation and drowning," according to Glen Harrison, assistant district attorney.

"And said murder was for remuneration, namely money from life insurance and the estate of Tammy L. Gray."

After the indictment was returned Gray turned himself in to the Ector County Sheriff's Department, and was released on $50,000 without spending time in a jail cell.

Area volunteer firemen hone their team house recently as an inspector looks on to insure the job fire fighting skills at Concho Valley Fire training is performed the right way.

Volunteer firemen practice skills

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

A special firefighting training course last week allowed volunteer firemen to hone their skills and receive specialized training.

"Training, to me, rather than equipment... is probably the most important thing in a firefighting situation," said C. Roy Wright of Sand Springs, president of the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department.

"Training teaches firemen how to do things the safe way — how to save their own necks (and) how to develop priorities in firefighting," Wright said.

That training can pay off when it comes to handling as many fires as the volunteer fire department does, about 60 last year, Wright said.

Volunteer firefighters are not required to take any training courses, but Wright said, "It's best that they do go through training." The training is available to any volunteers willing to take the time to attend them, he said.

The firefighting school that volunteers attended last week in San Angelo is one of the closest training centers for the Howard County area, he said. Other training schools are held in Andrews, Lubbock and Bryan-College Area fireman gets fitted with an oxygen bottle and mask to prevent smoke inhalation while fighting fires.

Station.

Wright said the training volunteer firefighters receive at the schools is divided between classroom time and field training. The amount of time spent in class as opposed to in field training depends on the school, he said.

"Some schools spend most of their time in the classroom, others divide their time up pretty evenly," he said. Wright said the school in San Angelo provided a good mix of both.

In addition to polishing up their general firefighting skills, the training schools allow volunteers to develop specialized training, he said.

The Howard County volunteers received instruction on how to deal with hazardous materials as part of their latest training in San Angelo. "We'd ultimately like to have a hazardous response team," he said of the volunteer organization.

The funds for volunteers to attend the training schools come largely from donations — private individuals, oil companies and other businesses — many of whose homes or businesses were saved by volunteer firefighters, he said. Wright also acknowledged that firefighters have spent their own money for training.

"We've also paid for a lot of our equipment out of our own pockets," he said. Other, larger equipment, like the fire trucks used, is provided by the county.

Firefighters from Silver Heels, Tubbs Addition, Sand Springs and Forsan attended the training course.

Court filings

The state of Texas filed lawsuits against two individuals, seeking the legal forfeiture of items seized by local law enforcement officials.

• The state filed suit against Larry Don Haas, seeking the forfeiture of 10 high-powered weapons, weapon accessories and more than a hundred rounds of ammunition. No estimated value was given for the seized goods.

• The suit filed on behalf of the state alleges that the items should be legally remanded to the state because they were seized as part of a drug-related arrest.

• The state also filed suit against Christopher Gale Hobgood, seeking the forfeiture of $110 seized by sheriff's deputies April 18.

• The suit filed on behalf of the state alleges that the money is subject to forfeiture because it was seized as part of a drug-related arrest.

• Beckman Instruments Inc. filed suit against Scenic Mountain Medical Center, seeking compensation for goods and services it allegedly provided for the hospital.

• The computer company charges that the hospital has refused to pay $27,457.87 still owed the company. It is suing for post-judgment, attorneys fees and costs of court.

• Coy McCann filed suit against Neil McMorris and Jerry John Curries, charging that negligence by the two men resulted in physical injury to McCann.

McCann alleges that at midnight Jan. 12 he was in the home of Curries, speaking with another man when McMorris physically jumped on the back of the other man, causing the man to fall on McCann.

The suit alleges that as a result of the man's fall, McCann also fell to the ground, breaking his arm in the process.

The suit filed on behalf of McCann charges that Currie, as the owner of the residence where the accident allegedly took place, had an obligation to warn McCann of the intoxicated state of some of his guests before inviting McCann in. The suit states that McMorris was in a "state of high intoxication."

McCann is seeking an undisclosed amount in damages and costs of the suit.

• C.E. Boyd filed suit against Lomax Farmer's Gin, Inc. charging that he was fired without cause and is entitled to benefits promised under a contract signed with the gin and punitive damages for mental anguish he endured.

The suit filed on behalf of Boyd alleges that "Without notice or opportunity to defend himself (Boyd) was terminated by the Board of Directors (of the gin) without just or good cause, although (Boyd) was performing his duties in a competent and professional manner."

Boyd is seeking the rest of his salary and benefits — totaling $37,711 — he alleges he is entitled to under the one year contract the board made with him and for an undisclosed amount in punitive damages, attorneys fees and court costs.

• The city of Big Spring filed suit against Charles W. Smith, seeking to set aside a decision made by the Industrial Accident Review Board of Texas. The board awarded Smith an undisclosed sum.

The city filed suit seeking to set aside the decision of the review board ruling, for Smith to take nothing and for Smith to pay for the costs of the suit.

Smith filed a counter claim, alleging that he was injured on the job while employed by the city and also seeking to set aside the decision of the Industrial Accident Review Board.

The suit filed by suit seeks attorneys an undisclosed amount in a lump sum, attorneys fees and court costs.

• Billy J. Long filed suit against Carlton A. Smauley, charging that negligent driving by Smauley resulted in physical disability to Long.

The suit filed on behalf of Long alleges that he was driving north on U.S. Highway 87 when "suddenly, without warning, (Smauley) turned his vehicle into the path of (Long's) vehicle," causing a collision that injured Long.

The suit further alleges that Smauley failed to keep a lookout, that he changed lanes in an unsafe manner, that he changed lanes in an illegal and improper manner, that he made an illegal left turn and that he was negligent in general.

Because of the accident, Long alleges that he suffered physical impairment, disfigurement, considerable medical expenses, loss of present and future earning capacity and physical and mental anguish.

He is suing for an undisclosed amount, pre-judgment interest, court costs and general relief.

Texas had 188,788 farms in '87 census

Early data from the 1987 Census of Agriculture show that the state had 188,788 farms, 68,792 of which had annual product sales of $10,000 or more.

Land in farms totaled 130,502,792 acres, 85 percent of them in farms with $10,000 or more in sales, the Commerce Department's Census Bureau reported.

The census showed that the state's farmers and ranchers sold $10.54 billion in agricultural products and that farms with $10,000 or more in sales averaged $147,748 per farm.

Other findings: $2.96 billion or 28 percent of total agricultural sales were for crops, while $7.58 billion or 72 percent came from the sale of livestock, poultry and their products.

The agriculture census obtains information on all identified farm and ranch operations in the United States.

Changes in cotton program are announced by Yeutter

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will consider possible changes to the upland cotton program to make U.S. cotton more competitive in world markets.

Yeutter said that the current adjusted world price (AWP) formula for upland cotton seems to be limiting the international price competitive of U.S. cotton, a result that clearly was not intended when the cotton marketing loan program was established.

In addition, he said that widespread use of the 8-month loan extension, stimulated by the current Commodity Credit Corp. policy on interest and storage charges, seems to have artificially reduced supplies available to the market place even though inventories are increasing.

These factors are causing a loss in exports of U.S. cotton, and they also increase raw material costs for domestic textile mills.

This last year, 1988, has been a real test for me and the company. We suffered a tremendous loss with the passing of my dad, Jack Barber. I worked with and under his direction for seventeen years. However, with the knowledge he has left me and the qualified experience of our staff, Barber Glass & Mirror Co., Inc. will continue to grow. I also feel that Barber Glass & Mirror Co., Inc. is your best source for all your glass and glazing needs. I want to thank everyone for your help and understanding. I look forward to seeing you in the near future, with business as always. I will take your calls anytime and will work with you personally as you have been used to in the past. Our business hours are 8:00 am to 5:00 pm Monday through Friday. The business phone is 263-1385 and my home number is 263-4976.

Thanks,

St. Lawrence woman pushes West Texas cotton

By STACY FAYNE
Staff Writer

STANTON — Sharon King doesn't get paid for the work she does in West Texas.

She is a farm wife from near St. Lawrence who drove to Bonnie's Restaurant recently to speak to the Lunch 'n Learn Club on the topic, "Buy American, Buy Cotton."

It was part of her volunteer efforts on behalf of the West Texas cotton farmer.

"My main goal . . . is to increase awareness of what is and is not made in the U.S.," said King, who is a member of the National Cotton Women's Committee and is coordinator for the St. Lawrence - Pecos region. "And just as importantly, what is and is not grown in the U.S."

"The people of this area, for the most part, are cotton farmers. They can help themselves by being aware of what they're actually buying. Many consumers do not realize that just because something is made here does not guarantee that the cotton was grown here. I want consumers in West Texas to know what they are purchasing."

King said that she and several other women, mostly farm wives, travel to malls and department stores just to check labels on clothing items.

"You would be surprised at how many clothes are not made in the U.S. An item might read, 'Imported Cotton, made in the U.S.A.', or the tag may say that it is made in China, Hong Kong, New Zealand, Thailand, Korea, et cetera."

"I recently went to a department store in Midland and was shocked at the very few articles with home grown cotton in them," she said. "I spoke to the manager and followed it up with a letter about how we want only homegrown and homemade cotton products in our stores."

"All of us need to be made aware of what is being done, and then be willing to do something about it. We have to make retailers in our area cooperate with our wishes and needs."

King said that the National Cotton Women's Committee in Mississippi has been successful in making retail owners do just that.

According to Maggie Brumfield Parker in a speech presented before the 38th Oilseed Processing Clinic in New Orleans last March, Cotton Wives of the Mississippi delta region used a back door approach to demand and supply.

"For any occasion we were available with fashion shows using local stores that featured domestic cotton items made in the U.S.A.," Parker said. "Then we entertained the merchants with thank-you luncheons. Using this approach to demand and supply I am pleased to say that there are loads of cotton clothes in our stores.

Sharon King, National Cotton Womens Committee, advises Rebecca Riley and Kathryn Burch on the value of using cottonseed oil.

"To educate the consumer we went to any civic club that would give us a chance to speak out for cotton. We went to schools with slide show presentations, label contests, essay contests. Billboards were bought. Of course, we had no money, but we asked gins and mills for help."

Locally, King suggests that consumers do the same. "Also, we need to write our state and federal legislators. We have to be willing to do something. As I said, we are a region wherein the state of agriculture affects every element of its cities and towns. If farming families are pushed out of the market by the import/export situation, then local businesses cannot be supported."

She quoted from a report released by the Cotton Wives' committee on how several Wall Street Journal reporters spent two days of rigorous shopping looking for Made in the USA labels. According to the report, the journalists-turned-shoppers allowed themselves a budget of $2000. After two days they gave up, having spent only $1870 in their search.

They said they had difficulty not only in the apparel industry, but could find very few appliances made in the U.S.A. The reporters wrote that the American market is inundated by imports, especially in textiles, apparels and shoes.

King said she realized that people think their individual efforts will not amount to much.

"They are wrong. We have convinced retailers to change lines of clothing. We have convinced grocery stores to carry products with cottonseed oil, instead of the more fatty oils."

She told the Lunch 'n Learn Club that the National Cotton Women's Committee was formed after a cotton farmer's wife attended an annual Staple Cotton meeting in Mississippi. The statistics on cotton imports being reported by a speaker at the meeting so alarmed her that she shared them with Cotton Wives in her area.

The news spread overnight to other Cotton Wives in the state, and the national committee was formed — after an individual became concerned enough to get involved.

She said that many Cotton Wives work individually in their own communities. Joan Balfour of North Carolina made speeches to homemakers in her home town. Richlyn Buchanan of Alabama is not a speaker, so she arranged for people like Balfour to do that job. Buchanan also writes letters to retailers on a continual basis. A group of women in Missouri wore cotton corsages on their cotton dresses to the Governor's Convention last year in an effort to make a statement about homegrown labels," she said. "Check to see what is in the food you purchase as well. You will be surprised at how much cottonseed oil is used in the food industry." King passed out a list to the group that contained the names of nearly 200 products made with cottonseed oil.

"You can make a difference," King said. "I want to issue all of you two challenges. Number one: make every effort to buy U.S. grown and U.S. made products, cotton and otherwise; Number two: tell at least five people to check labels when they shop for clothes and food."

"Again, the individual can make a difference. Do something in 1989 to support Grown and Made in the USA — It Matters'."

A few facts about cotton:
● Cotton textile imports have more than doubled since 1980.

● The cotton industry has lost 40 percent of its American fiber market to textile imports. If they continue growing at their present rate of more than 20 percent a year, by 1990, they will take more than three-fourths of U.S. cotton farmers' home market.

● The increase in textile imports alone have cost the American farmer $1.25 billion since 1984.

● The cost to the general public because of textile imports in one year was $40 billion.

● A good portion of China's labor force of 447 million picks cotton by hand at an average monthly salary of $28.60. Chinese textiles and apparel since 1985 displaced U.S. production by $3.76 billion in terms of value.

CRMWD income

A repetition of the first quarter of modest income increases and substantial expense underruns was repeated in April for the Colorado River Municipal Water District. As a result net income of $2,035,013 was up 13.4 percent over budget projections for the four months. Revenues of 3,995,675 were up $112,751 or 2.90 percent over budget estimates. Most of the income, or $3,928,449 was from water sales. Expenses for the four months which amounted to $1,943,364, were $110,687 less than projections, or 5.39 percent. Electric energy for pumping totaled $1,001,082, or $65,651 less than estimated, a margin of 6.15 percent less.

Through April, water sales amounted to 4,742,278,750, just 21 million gallons more than the same time a year ago. Water in reserve amounted to 201,310 ac. ft., or 37.72 percent of capacity. Lake Spence had 205,300 ac. ft. and Lake Thomas 56,010 ac. ft. or 27.5 percent.

Truck turnover

John Thomas Midkiff of Midland survived a one-vehicle crash near Stanton last week. Midkiff escaped with minor scrapes and cuts on Haggard Road, north of the Martin County town. Highway

Patrolman Mike Dawson of Big Spring said that Midkiff was looking at a telephone book when the truck went into the bar ditch. Midkiff then overcorrected in steering the vehicle back onto the roadway, causing the truck to roll over on its side, along with the semi trailer he was towing. Midkiff was treated and released at Martin County Hospital.

Extended Coverage by Danny Weir

Hazardous waste is not just an ecological problem at the national level; every home has its share of dangerous substances.

Store paint thinners, pesticides and antifreeze in a cool, dry, well-ventilated place. Keep them safe from children and pets. (Dogs like the sweet taste of glycol, but it's poisonous.)

When it's time to dispose of these products, DON'T throw them in the garbage or down the drain. They're dangerous to garbage workers — and to the ecology, including your septic system and the local sewage plant.

DO arrange for a special pickup with your local sanitation department. If you have to deliver these substances to the dump yourself, wrap the containers in newspaper and then in plastic bags, to prevent any leakage or injury.

Hospitals have special disposal techniques for needles and other medical waste. Similarly, needles used in the home — by a diabetic, for instance — should be placed in a sturdy cardboard box and marked.

Oil/Gas

First production data have been posted for a good producer in Howard County's sector of the Howard-Glasscock Field, about 15 miles southeast of Big Spring.

Mobil Producing's No. 3 Doris Gale flowed 205 barrels of 50-gravity oil along with 147,000 CF gas daily on a 12/64 choke. It registered flow pressure of 300 PSI.

Mobil bottomed the well at 6,000 feet and perforated the Wolfcamp Formation for production at 7,432 to 7,460 feet into the hole.

The production life of the No. 44 H.R. Clay was extended when Exxon successfully recompleted the well in the Howard-Glasscock Field, 13 miles southeast of Big Spring.

From new perforations at 2,225 to 3,124 feet, the well pumped 20 barrels of oil daily from the San Andres-Glorieta Formation.

Exxon originally completed the well in the autumn of 1987. It pumped 50 barrels of oil daily from the Glorieta Formation, 2,932 to 3,134 feet into the wellbore.

GLASSCOCK COUNTY
Flowing 220 barrels of oil with 1,200,000 CF gas per day, the No. 3 Kay Gunn has been brought on line in the SFM Field, about 16 miles northwest of Garden City.

The well was an exploration venture of John L. Cox.

Oil tested at a valuable 52-gravity.

The well went to total depth of 10,348 feet and was perforated to produce from Strawn (Pennsylvanian) perforations at 10,156 to 10,254 feet into the hole. The well registered solid flow pressure of 2,075 PSI on an 11/64 choke.

At a nearby location in the same field, Sun Exploration finished the No. 1 S.O. Woody "B" flowing 2,000,000 CF gas per day and showing flow pressure of 2,118 PSI on an adjustable choke.

The absolute open flow rating came in at an even 8,000,000 CF.

Bottomed at 10,348 feet, the Woody well will produce from an open-hole interval (no perforations). The pay interval is at 10,130 to 10,348 feet into the hole.

BORDEN COUNTY
Pumping 95 barrels of oil with a minor volume of gas and 17 barrels of salt water daily, the No. 7 Ed Murphy has been brought on line in the Von Roeder Field, Borden County.

Location is 16 miles southeast of Gall.

Mobil Producing of Midland is the operator.

Mobil took the hole to a 6,794-ft. bottom and plugged it back to 4,900. Production will be from a set of Clear Fork perforations, 4,320 to 4,344 feet into the wellbore.

MARTIN COUNTY
Parker and Parsley Petroleum of Midland has posted first production figures for a trio of new producers in Martin County's portion of the Spraberry Trend.

The wells include the No. 1 Scharbauer "K," about 30 miles southwest of Lenorah; the No. 1 Scharbauer "T," eight miles northwest of Tarnax; and the No. 1 Mabes "U," 21 miles southwest of Lenorah.

The wells pumped at the rate of 72 barrels of oil and 98,000 CF gas; 71 BOPD and 61,000 CF gas; and 64 BOPD and 50,000 CF gas, respectively.

Water production ranged between 158 and 170 barrels per day.

Production of hydrocarbons will be from Spraberry perforations ranging from 8,032 to 8,632 feet in the Spraberry Formation.

Bank builds success on others' failures

DALLAS (AP) — Deposit Guaranty Bank didn't exist 15 months ago. Now it is a $600 million-asset, privately owned bank built mostly from the ashes of other failures.

Deposit Guaranty is the sole holding of TexOp Bancshares Inc., which still has $30 million left to keep adding to its holdings — enough capital to become a $1.5 billion-asset bank without more financing.

Given the troubles of the Texas financial community, with banks and thrifts failing almost weekly — some in multimillion-dollar federal bailouts — Deposit Guaranty is swimming against the tide.

But Chairman Ron Steinhart and President Terry Kelley figure they have a sound plan to stay afloat.

"The mission is to build a profitable, healthy Texas banking organization and to take advantage of the problems, which are opportunities for somebody," Kelley said in a recent interview.

"There was some management in place in various banks that had no capital, and some capital was available if you could find management," he said.

"We felt like it was a rare opportunity if we could provide the capital and the management at a time when things were as they were," Kelley said.

Timing also was important, he said, because they believed the state was headed back to economic health.

"Five years ago we'd never have tried it," Steinhart said, "and I don't think three years from now we'd try it because the opportunity would have passed."

While the building blocks so far have generally been small, often one-branch institutions, Deposit Guaranty executives still toy with the idea of going after some of the large Texas banks that remain on the auction block.

Steinhart, a veteran of buying and selling Texas banks, admits to continuing interest in Texas American Bancshares Inc., the largest of the remaining problem banks to be recapitalized.

"On the right basis, we'd have an interest," Steinhart said, suggesting he would be more interested if federal regulators would sell off parts of the Fort Worth-based bank instead of selling each holding company intact, as they have in the past.

And while the company would have to raise more money to get involved in such an acquisition, Steinhart believes it could be done.

Since it was formed on Feb. 8, 1988, Deposit Guaranty has purchased 13 banks — 11 of them in closed-bank, federally assisted transactions that leave it with what Kelley calls "sterilized assets."

The money came from a pool of private capital raised by Goldman, Sachs & Co. — $8.8 million to buy the first bank and then $62 million more to finance other purchases.

In its first 11 months of operation, Deposit Guaranty earned $1.27 million for its investors.

Deposit Guaranty looks for acquisitions in metropolitan areas, generally already established banks.

The Brownies toured Domino's Pizza Saturday and learned how to make pizza as part of a community involvement project. The Brownies also enjoyed watching store manager Buddy Aichert toss a pizza as part of the "hands-on" tour.

Two more Texas banks close down

DALLAS (AP) — Regulators closed two one-branch Texas banks Thursday, bringing to 57 the number of failed institutions sold to new owners so far this year.

The U.S. Comptroller of the Currency shut down The First National Bank of Gordon, in Gordon, while Texas Banking Commissioner Kenneth W. Littlefield closed Security Bank and Trust Co., of Wharton.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was named receiver in both cases and the federal agency immediately sold the banks to new owners.

Sunday Silence on Triple Crown threshold

BALTIMORE — Sunday Silence, with Pat Valenzuela up, noses out Easy Goer to win the Preakness Stakes here Saturday. Sunday

Silence, who won the Kentucky Derby May 6, can win the Triple Crown with a victory in the Belmont Stakes in three weeks.

By ED SCHUYLER, JR.
AP Racing Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sunday Silence and Easy Goer, a couple thousand pounds of straining horseflesh, provided a ton of excitement and memories Saturday in the Preakness.

At the end of an eye-to-eye stretch duel, Sunday Silence was the winner by a nose and on the threshold of becoming the first Triple Crown winner since Affirmed in 1978.

To many who watched on a breezy, warm day at Pimlico it was a flashback to 11 years ago when Alydar, the sire of Easy Goer, chased Affirmed home in each of the three races.

"It was a great race, but I wish it hadn't have been such a great race," said Shug McGaughey, Easy Goer's trainer. "I wish somewhere along the line we could've switched the roles. Then it would have been a lot more fun."

The race really began at the end of the backstretch, when Easy Goer moved around Sunday Silence, boxing him behind Houston.

Sunday Silence then moved outside and past Easy Goer, who fought back to duel the Kentucky Derby winner head-to-head for the last quarter mile.

"He had us beat all the way to the sixteenth pole, but this horse is game," said Charlie Whittingham, Sunday Silence's 76-year-old trainer.

"So if you don't think he's a champion, just look at him. He's there. I think he'll run a mile and a half — no doubt."

Sunday Silence, who beat Easy Goer by 2 1/2 lengths in the Kentucky Derby, can win the Triple Crown at the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes on June 10.

The photo-finish victory became official after the stewards disallowed a foul claim by Easy Goer's jockey, Pat Day, against Sunday Silence and jockey Pat Valenzuela.

Valenzuela said he didn't panic when Easy Goer took a slight lead in the stretch.

"I had plenty of horse left," the jockey said. "I got up and thought I put him away."

Just moments after the finish, two foul claims were lodged — Day's against Sunday Silence and Larry Snyder, who rode fourth-place Dansil, against Chris Antley and third-place Rock Point.

The stewards deliberated for seven minutes before allowing the order of finish to stand.

Garden City honors athletes, students

HERALD STAFF REPORT

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Boosters honored the 1988-89 Bearcats athletes, band members and U.I.L. participants with a banquet Friday night.

Coach Sam Scott opened the ceremonies, thanking everyone for attending the gala, especially the administration, the school board and the boosters themselves.

Tennis coach Terry Burelsmith gave the invocation expressing thanks for a very positive year with both ups and downs. Scott introduced the athletes and awards with a question.

"What is class?" Scott asked. "When you win it's great. When you lose it's not so great. But when a coach walks across the field after a ballgame and says we have a great operation, we (coaching staff) are doing our job. The kids, if they win, won with class, and when they lose they lose with class. What can you ask or expect of these young men and women: nothing but class."

The first sport to be recognized was football — a team with more than 400 yards of offense and the capability to score 31 or more points a game, while stubbornly keeping its opponents to a low 188 yards per game and allowing a mere 7 points per game.

The 1988 area champion, sporting a 10-2 record, consisted of 16 seniors and 22 underclassmen.

The 1988 offensive player award went to Codie Scott, while the defensive player award went to Eleazar Madrid. The Coach of the Year award went to Coach Scott.

Madrid, defensive end, was first team all-district, MVP defensive lineman, first-team all-area defensive lineman, all-West Texas, and all-state defensive lineman.

Codie Scott, who attempted 140 passes completed 76 for 1,486 yards, accounted for 1,624 yards for the Kats, three field goals and 35 PATs, was first-team all-district quarterback, all-West Texas, all-state, and second-team all-district kicker.

The girls basketball awards went to the senior Kristi Jones, defensive player of the year, and Becky Pinkard, offensive player of the year.

On the boy's side, Coach Epley named Weldon Hillger his outstanding defensive player of the year, while Jodie Scott grabbed the offensive honors.

In Tennis, Leasa Cypert and Kelli Stringer shared the girl's singles title and Laini Hollifield and Becky Pinkard received the doubles honor. The boy's singles title went to Jason Cox, while the doubles titles went to Stuart and Steven Jost.

In track, the field event went to Winnette Hillger, while teammate Laurie Penn captured the track runner award.

The boys' honors went to Codie Scott in the field event award. Codie Scott received a certificate of achievement for his trip to the state meet. The team of Juan Morales, Jodie Scott, Curtis Wilde, and Edward Lopez won the track

Fast-pitch ball returns to Big Spring

By STEVE RAY
Herald Editor

It's been four years since a softball sailed over homeplate at Cotton Mize Field at speeds up to 100 mph.

It was then that Mize and his Cotton Chippers were among the top teams in state fast pitch softball circles. And it was then, in 1985, that the last Cotton Mize Fast Pitch Invitational was held.

Cotton's Chippers are no longer around — instead they've become the Big Spring Oilers with the sale of the potato chip company formerly owned by Mize.

But the group of Little Leaguers who grew up together on the softball field are still here.

Not exactly here.

They've moved on in one sense — to towns like Amarillo, Brownwood, Corpus Christi, Stephenville, Ft. Worth, Dallas, Austin, Lubbock and Denton.

But every weekend about this time they fly, drive and otherwise get to tournaments around the state to play fast pitch softball — and they do it all for Big Spring.

This year, the boys will have a reunion of sorts.

On Memorial Day Weekend, May 27 and 28, fast-pitch softball comes back to Big Spring.

"It's been about four years since we've had the tournament here," said Mize. "Most of our boys that grew up around here went off to college and it was just too much for me to try to do it by myself."

"Some local merchants and a lot of citizens in town have encouraged us and helped us financially."

Exactly why those businesses want the return of the softball tourney is easy to see.

Mize says each team will average about 30 people counting players, wives and children. And if this year's tournament draws in the expected eight teams, that's "roughly 200-250 people coming in to Big Spring for the weekend."

"If you figure that they will average spending $150 a person for that weekend... that's quite a few dollars especially when it turns over six or seven times," Mize said.

This year the tournament has changed from the Cotton Mize tourney to the Crossroads Championship Challenge.

"We hope to make it an annual affair," Mize said. "We plan on eventually incorporating some other activities to coincide with the tournament. Eventually we want to make this a big weekend where a lot of folks will want to come in and we'll have something for everybody."

Cheating alleged at Oral Roberts

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Former and current coaches at Oral Roberts University maintain that reports of NCAA violations alleged in Saturday's Dallas Morning News are false.

The paper reported Saturday that basketball players drove coaches' cars, billed the university for a $1,200 beer party and that a former player's mother has been living in student housing for the past three years.

"This thing is so ridiculous. It's absurd," assistant coach Dave Pritchett was quoted as saying in Saturday's editions of The Tulsa Tribune.

Ken Trickey, head basketball coach and athletic director, defended Pritchett and questioned the motives of those quoted in the Dallas paper.

"They don't like Dave because they are gone and he's still here," Trickey was quoted as saying. "This whole thing is a joke."

Three former assistants, five former players and three former athletic department employees were quoted by the News as saying that between August 1985 and April 1987, players charged $50,000 to university telephone credit cards and received prepaid plane tickets

INGLEWOOD, CALIF. — Los Angeles Lakers' Magic Johnson (32) files up and over the Phoenix Suns' Tyrone Corbin Saturday during first-half Western Conference final action from the Forum. The Lakers won the game to take a 1-0 lead in the series.

Lakers beat Suns, 127-119

By BERNIE WILSON
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — James Worthy scored 32 points and Magic Johnson returned midway through the fourth quarter Saturday, sparking the Los Angeles Lakers past the Phoenix Suns 127-119 in the opener of the NBA Western Conference finals.

Johnson left with 4:07 remaining in the third quarter after being called for his fifth foul. He returned with just over seven minutes left in the fourth quarter.

Johnson made a long jumper with 7:03 remaining to put the Lakers ahead for good at 101-100. Johnson then had three assists and made a layup with 3:37 left, giving Los Angeles a 111-106 lead.

He fouled out with just more than two minutes left, finishing with 18 points.

Eddie Johnson of Phoenix scored with 2:00 to go, pulling the Suns to within 116-111. But Orlando Woolridge completed a three-point play with 1:35 remaining for an eight-point lead.

It was the Lakers' 10th consecutive playoff victory over two seasons, an NBA record. Los Angeles is undefeated in eight games this year and extended their overall winning streak to 13 games since an April 15 loss to the Los Angeles Clippers.

Phoenix, which lost for the first time in four road playoff games this year, got 27 points and 15 assists from Kevin Johnson and 20 points from Jeff Hornacek.

Game 2 is scheduled for Tuesday night at the Forum.

Byron Scott scored 24 for the Lakers, A.C. Green 18 and Woolridge 13. Tom Chambers had 15 points, 11 below his average, for Phoenix and Armon Gilliam added 14.

Los Angeles led 91-89 after three quarters but the Suns went ahead for the first time since early in the game at 92-91 when Kevin Johnson made a three-point play nine seconds into the fourth quarter.

Los Angeles went back ahead on Mychal Thompson's layup and Worthy's dunk.

Phoenix got its last lead at 100-99 on Eddie Johnson's scoop shot from the key.

Magic Johnson then returned for the Lakers and made a 17-footer. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar dunked for a 103-100 lead before Magic Johnson assisted on two baskets by Scott and one by Woolridge for a 109-104 margin.

Los Angeles led 50-34 following Worthy's fast-break layup with 7:28 remaining in the first half.

Phoenix then went on a 16-4 run, capped by Eddie Johnson's baseline shot at 3:48, closing to 56-50. Gilliam scored six points in the run and 10 in the quarter, but also committed three fouls.

Phoenix pulled to 61-55 on Kevin Johnson's three-point play at 2:00 and closed to 61-57 on Mark West's shot off a rebound with 55-seconds left. Thompson scored from the baseline with 14 seconds remaining to give the Lakers a 65-59 halftime lead.

The Suns led 14-12 with 6:07 left in the first quarter following two long shots by Hornacek.

Los Angeles then began a 17-2 run on consecutive baskets by Green and Scott, a free throw apiece by Green and Johnson and a layup from Worthy for a 20-14 lead. The Suns scored on Hornacek's layup.

Phoenix called time and the Lakers continued the spurt with a fast-break layup from Scott and a jump-hook from Green. Johnson made a fallaway jumper from 12 feet and a free throw to complete

College baseball

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Scott Bryant, pitching for only the third time in his career, shut down Arkansas on three hits as Texas eliminated the Razorbacks from the Southwest Conference baseball tournament Saturday afternoon with a 9-1 victory.

The 10th-ranked Longhorns, 47-16, were paired against No. 1-ranked Texas A&M in the championship game of the double-elimination tournament at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Arkansas, which tied A&M for the regular-season SWC title, dropped to 46-13 with the loss. Bryant, a junior, was known more this season for his batting. He won the SWC batting title, leads the nation with 104 RBIs, and he had two of Texas' 16 hits against Arkansas. On the mound, he struck out eight Razorbacks and allowed only three walks to go with the three hits. Curry Harden pitched the last four innings to get the save.

Yeoman contract

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Yeoman, former Houston football coach, reached a contract settlement with the university, although nothing has been signed yet, the chairman of the university systems board of regents said.

Yeoman is in the third year of a four-year, $412,000 contract. He remains employed by the university as a fund raiser — housed in a university office complete with secretary — five months after most of his responsibilities were eliminated.

A high-level school official has said Yeoman, who resigned after heading the Cougars for 25 years, is on administrative leave, but school spokeswoman Trish Healy said Yeoman "is still a full-time employee of this university."

LPGA tourney

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Ayako Okamoto says no matter how many victories and how much money she wins in the United States, it will take a major championship to fulfill her ambitions.

Okamoto moved a step closer to that goal Saturday in the LPGA Championship as she shot a 3-under-par 69 for a 206 total and a one-stroke lead over an all-star field.

Hawks knocked out of state tourney

BRENNHAM — Alvin Junior College scored nine runs in the second inning, then held off a Howard College rally to down the Hawks, 11-6, in state junior college tournament action Friday.

The loss eliminated Howard from the tournament. The Hawks ended their season with a 44-19 record.

"The second inning just killed us," HC coach Bill Griffin said.

"We were down 10-1 pretty quick... and we didn't have anybody to put out the fire."

Corey Zielinski started the game for Howard, but was ineffective and was relieved by Bailey Deeds. Deeds was in good shape until Alvin struck for its nine runs — all with two outs in the second.

Deeds surrendered five runs in the second before being relieved by Ruben Felix. Felix, however, was ineffective as well, surrendering three more runs before being pulled in favor of Greg Kroeger.

Kroeger, who pitched 10½ innings in two state tournament games, proved to be the only effective Hawks' hurler, giving up only one run before being lifted in the eighth inning.

Howard used six pitchers in the contest. Combined, they gave up 11 runs on 11 hits, walked 10 and hit four. For the tournament, Kroeger walked three and struck out 12 while giving up four runs.

The Hawks rallied in the fourth inning, scoring five runs on five hits — all singles — two walks and one hit batsman. "We thought we were back in striking distance then," Griffin said.

But Alvin's hurlers settled down thereafter, and allowed Howard only one more run, a ninth-inning solo home run by first baseman Mike Bard.

"Sure, I'm disappointed," Griffin said. "For the first time, we let a team get away from us in one inning... but we had a good year. We went down there with the idea that we had a chance. We played two good games down there... I'm looking forward to these kids coming back next year."

Detroit anticipates rough, tough series

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Coach Chuck Daly is taking nothing for granted as his Detroit Pistons go into the NBA Eastern Conference finals against the Chicago Bulls, starting Sunday.

The Pistons beat the Bulls in six games during the season, and eliminated Chicago 4-1 in the second round of the playoffs last year.

But the Bulls also were 0-6 against Cleveland this season, and they eliminated the Cavaliers in five games in the opening round of the playoffs.

"I don't particularly like the fact that we've beaten them nine straight," Daly said. "It's a great psychological tool. They've got that reverse psychology on us."

Daly is most concerned about the lack of playing time for his players, who have not been in action since Monday night when Detroit wrapped up its four-game sweep over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"I'm just so happy that we'll be playing Sunday," Daly said. "I don't know if I could have stood three more days of practice without playing a game."

The key to beating the Bulls is containing Michael Jordan, who had 40 points and 10 assists as Chicago defeated the New York Knicks 113-111 Friday night and won their series 4-2.

"I knew he (Jordan) would raise his level," Daly said, "but I didn't know he'd raise it to the level to take them possibly to the Eastern Conference finals. They've surprised me a bit."

Detroit has played seven playoff games and won all seven this year without any player averaging more than 20 points per game. Joe Dumars leads the Pistons with a 16.1 scoring average.

"We don't have the player the Bulls have," Daly said, referring to Jordan. "But we have a lot of good ones."

The Pistons also have the Bad Boy label that has sparked camaraderie on the team. The baddest of the bad — 6-foot-11 Bill Laimbeer and 6-10 Rick Mahorn — have racked up more than five figures in fines each this year for their rough style of play.

"I know Detroit is waiting on us," Jordan said. "We'll be the underdogs again, I'm sure. Hopefully, we'll go up there and play better than we did during the regular season."

The Canadiens beat the Flames, 4-3, during the second period of overtime Friday to take a 2-1 lead in the Stanley Cup series finals.

Agassi reaches first tourney final in months

ROME (AP) — Andre Agassi reached his first tournament final in eight months Saturday as he used a blistering forehand for a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Sergio Bruguera in the Italian Open tennis championships.

Alberto Mancini of Argentina, seeded No. 11, celebrated his 20th birthday by defeating unseeded Jordi Arrese of Spain 6-2, 6-4 in the other semifinal at the Foro Italic.

Sunday's final, a matchup between two of the best clay court players in the world, comes just a week before the start of the French Open, a Grand Slam tournament played on the same type of clay surface.

Agassi, ranked No 5 in the world and seeded second, has not lost a set in the tournament. He got a spirited challenge from the 18-year-old Spaniard, but time and again, the American came through on the big points by blasting his trademark forehand.

Agassi broke Bruguera's serve three times in the first set. Breaking for the set in the ninth game, Agassi ran off three straight winners — a forehand, a swinging forehand volley and a perfectly-placed backhand topspin lob.

Agassi raced to a 3-0 lead in the second set, dropping only three points in the first three games.

But Bruguera, 81st in the world and playing in his first Grand Prix semifinal, wouldn't quit. As Agassi began rushing his shots and making a slew of unforced errors, Bruguera won the next three games, including eight of nine points in one stretch.

"I felt he was out of the match and I let up a little bit," Agassi said. "He kicked up the gears and took me by surprise. Then I bore down again."

With the two even on serve and the American leading 5-4, Agassi broke in the 10th game to close out the one hour, 16-minute match. He squandered two match points before converting on the third with a forehand into the backhand corner.

"I definitely could have played better today, but I did what I had to do," Agassi said. "I see a lot of potential in Bruguera. He hits off both sides and he's not scared."

Bruguera said before the match he asked his father and coach, Luis, for advice.

"My father told me to keep the ball long and to slow down the pace," he said. "Next time I think I can give Agassi a tougher match."

Agassi won six tournaments last year but has come up empty since capturing a hard court event in Los Angeles in September. He said he has turned his game around since helping the United States win a Davis Cup match against France in San Diego in April.

Agassi credited the turnaround to his decision to ignore the stories, that complained of his showmanship and attitude toward other players.

"The press and a lot of people started to voice doubts about me and were very critical in a vindictive way," he said. "It affected me. I was shellshocked. They first built me up as a role model, then they attacked me."

LEXINGTON — University of Kentucky President David Roselle's face said it all Friday when the NCAA announced sanctions against the university's basketball program. Roselle, left, is speaking with Athletic Director C.M. Newton.

Kentucky basketball penalized by NCAA

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — There won't be a sixth national championship for Kentucky in the near future. But there will be a basketball program this fall.

Kentucky's basketball program, which has produced five national titles and more wins than any other college, was penalized Friday for the third time by the NCAA.

The NCAA said it could have justified shutting down the basketball program entirely, but instead put the Wildcats on probation for three years and banned them from postseason competition the next two years for recruiting and academic rules violations.

"Make no mistake, the penalties are serious and they are damaging," university president David Roselle said.

However, the school avoided a repeat of 1952, when the basketball program was shut down for a year because of eligibility violations and payments to players. In 1976, the program was placed on probation for two years because of improper benefits to players.

Still, the penalties announced Friday could have long-lasting effects.

"It will take years for them to recover from that, even with the emphasis and resources that they have," Mississippi coach Ed Murphy said.

Two players, Chris Mills and Eric Manuel, were declared ineligible for their part in the violations. Mills, last season's second-leading scorer, was barred from playing again at Kentucky. Manuel, who sat out this past season because of questions about his college-entrance exam, was declared ineligible at any NCAA school.

Oakland A's whip Boston, 6-3

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dave Stewart allowed six hits in 7 2-3 innings to win his major-league leading eighth game Saturday as the Oakland Athletics beat Boston 6-3.

Mike Gallego and Terry Steinbach homered and Dave Parker added two run-scoring singles to support Stewart, 8-1. Dennis Eckersley, who gave up a 10th-inning grand slam to Dwight Evans Friday night, finished for his 13th save.

AL Roundup

Oakland has won 10 of its last 11 home games against Boston, including a sweep in last year's playoffs, and 16 of 18.

Wes Gardner, 1-4, was knocked out after 1 1-3 innings. He allowed five hits and five runs.

In other American League games, it was the Orioles over the Indians, 5-1, the Tigers over the Royals, 2-1, and the Blue Jays over the White Sox 11-1.

Orioles 5, Indians 1
BALTIMORE (AP) — Jeff Ballard, off to the best start by a Baltimore pitcher since 1976, allowed four hits in 7 2-3 innings for his seventh victory as Orioles beat Cleveland.

Ballard's 7-1 record is the best start by an Oriole since Wayne Garland won his first eight decisions 13 years ago. Garland's 8-0 mark came in 17 starts, while Ballard has pitched in only eight games this season, all starts.

Ballard, who walked two and struck out two, was relieved by Gregg Olson with two outs and two on in the eighth. Olson allowed Joe Carter's RBI single before retiring Pete O'Brien.

ANAHEIM, CALIF. — Milwaukee Brewers Manager Tom Trebelhorn shares his thoughts Friday with first-base umpire Al Clark over a disputed eighth inning call. Trebelhorn lost the argument, however, and the Brewers lost the game, 3-1, leaving the Angels tied for first in the American League-West.

Joe Orsulak had two hits and scored twice for Baltimore.

Tigers 2, Royals 1
DETROIT (AP) — Alan Trammell led off the ninth inning with his second home run of the season, giving Detroit its ninth straight victory over Kansas City at Tiger Stadium.

Mike Henneman, 2-0, allowed one hit in two innings after relieving Frank Tanana. Tom Gordon, 4-2, was the loser.

It was the second straight night the Tigers beat the Royals on a ninth-inning homer. Lou Whitaker's two-run homer Friday night gave the Tigers a 3-2 victory.

Kansas City scored its only run in the third on Danny Tartabull's RBI grounder. The Tigers tied it in the sixth on Chet Lemon's RBI single.

Blue Jays 11, White Sox 1
CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Whitt had four hits, including a three-run homer, and drove in four runs and Lloyd Moseby added three RBI's as Toronto routed Chicago. Jimmy Key, 5-2, allowed five hits, struck out two and walked none in eight innings for his third straight victory. The only Chicago run came in the fourth on Ron Kittle's solo homer.

Moseby had a two-run single in the first and an RBI single in the third and capped a six-run eighth inning with his first homer of the season.

Shawn Hillegas, 1-5, was the loser.

SF shuts out Mets; Astros edge Pirates

In 1969, the New York Mets were shut out 14 times and went on to win the World Series. Their offense is doing a pretty good imitation this year.

Mike Krukow improved to 21-7 lifetime against New York and Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell hit consecutive fourth-inning home runs Saturday, leading the visiting San Francisco Giants past the Mets 3-0. It was third shutout against the Mets this season.

Krukow, 3-1, allowed four hits and struck out four in 5 2-3 innings. Mike LaCoss finished for his fourth save, finishing the combined six-hitter.

"I still feel we are close to breaking out of it," Mets manager Davey Johnson said. "This is as close to the bottom as we can be. It's a sad state of affairs when I had to think about taking the pitcher out in the fifth inning."

Clark led off the fourth with his seventh homer. Mitchell followed with his major league-leading 13th homer.

Bob Ojeda, 1-5, allowed three runs and five hits in five-plus innings. Last season, Krukow was 3-0 against the Mets and beat Ojeda twice.

"I can't explain the success I have against them," Krukow said. "I hope it continues. This park has been very good to me over the years."

In other National League games, it was the Astros over the Pirates, 5-4, the Dodgers over the Expos, 3-2, the Cubs over the Reds, 7-3, the Padres over the Phillies, 3-2, and the Cardinals over the Braves, 1-0.

Astros 5, Pirates 4
HOUSTON (AP) — Rafael Ramirez homered in the eighth inning and hit a game-winning RBI single in the 12th after Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonds tied the game with an RBI double in the ninth.

Agosto, 1-1, pitched two innings and struck out four. Bob Kipper, 0-1, pitched 1 2-3 innings, allowing three of Houston's season-high 17 hits. The Pirates lost for the seventh time in 10 games.

ings to win for the third time in four starts and Mike Scioscia hit a run-scoring single in the 10th inning.

Hershiser, 6-3, struck out seven and walked three, sending Montreal to its fifth consecutive loss. He's won four of his last five starts against the Expos, giving up six runs in 43 innings. Jay Howell pitched a one-hit 10th for his sixth save.

Cubs 7, Reds 3
CINCINNATI (AP) — Former Red Lloyd McClendon drove in three runs with a home run and a single as Chicago beat Cincinnati for its fifth straight victory.

McClendon, who was traded to the Cubs last December for outfielder Rolando Roomes, hit his second homer of the season in the second and a two-run single in the third to give the Cubs a 4-2 lead.

Padres 3, Phillies 2
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Carmelo Martinez hit a two-run triple and Garry Templeton homered as San Diego defeated Philadelphia for its fifth straight victory.

Dennis Rasmussen, 2-4, who allowed six hits in five innings, won his first game since April 7. He had relief help from Greg Harris, who pitched four hitless innings for his third save. Don Carman, 1-6, took the loss, the Phillies' fourth in a row.

Cardinals 1, Braves 0
ATLANTA (AP) — Terry Pendleton's run-scoring single with two outs in the 13th inning lifted St. Louis past Atlanta.

Ozzie Smith led off the 13th with a triple to right field off reliever Joe Boever, 2-2. Boever struck out pinch-hitter John Morris and got Tom Brunansky to ground out to shortstop before Pendleton singled sharply to center, scoring Smith.

Preakness

"They rode each other close," chief steward Clinton Pitts Jr. said. "It was just good, clean race riding. There was no reason for a foul."

Completing the order of finish were Hawkster, Houston, Pulverizing and Northern Wolf.

There has never been a disqualification from first for a foul committed in a race in Triple Crown history. Dancer's Image was disqualified from first in the 1968 Derby after a banned medication was found in his system.

Sunday Silence carried scale 126 pounds over the 1 3-16 miles in 1:53 4-5, which was the third fastest of the 114 Preaknesses.

The son of Halo, owned by Whittingham, Arthur B. Hancock III and Dr. Ernest Gaillard, paid $6.20, $3 and $3.20 and earned $438,230 from a purse of $674,200. The victory gave Sunday Silence a bankroll of $1,428,530 on a record of five wins and two seconds in seven career starts.

He is unbeaten in four starts as a 3-year-old.

Easy Goer, the 3-5 favorite who was also favored in the Derby, returned $2.40 and $2.40. Rock Point, making his debut in Triple Crown competition was $3.60 to show.

Valenzuela said Sunday Silence proved he was the best horse.

"My colt was underrated, but Easy Goer was underrated," he said.

Whittingham, who forgot his binoculars and had to watch with the naked eye, was confident that his post-Derby prediction of a Triple Crown for Sunday Silence would come true.

"There's only one more to go," he said.

Sunday Silence has overcome a lot to reach the brink of the Triple Crown. He almost died of a virus as a weanling and he escaped serious injury when a van he was riding in overturned in 1988.

Should Sunday Silence become the 12th Triple Crown winner, he would get a $5 million bonus, which would include the winners' shares from all three races. If there is no Triple Crown winner, the horse with the most points based on five for a win, three for a second and one for a third would earn $1 million.

A horse must run in all three to be eligible.

Sunday Silence now has 10 points and Easy Goer six and they are the only two eligible for the $1 million bonus. They could tie if Easy Goer wins the Belmont and Sunday Silence finishes third. Easy Goer could overtake Sunday Silence if he wins the Belmont and Sunday Silence finishes out of the money.

In 1958, Milo Valenzuela, Pat's uncle, rode Tim Tam to victory in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. But that colt finished second in the Belmont.

Alydar finished 1 1/2 lengths behind Affirmed in the Derby and a neck behind him in Preakness. Easy Goer finished 2 1/2 lengths behind Sunday Silence in the Derby and was a nose behind Saturday.

and cash from Pritchett. Pritchett was quoted by the Tribune as saying the credit-card incident was overblown, that players did not receive free airline tickets or unwarranted cash and that he had no involvement in securing housing and employment for a player's mother.

He was quoted as saying telephone credit cards were stolen from him and several other coaches and that the numbers were circulated to other besides basketball players. He said the team was not responsible for a large portion of the total charges and said they were not as much as $50,000. He also was quoted as saying calls made by players were reimbursed by players who admitted using the numbers.

"The highest bill I remember for any one player was about $300," he was quoted as saying.

The News stated in its story the players said they never paid the charges.

Pritchett said cash given to players was done so when they were entertaining recruits, which is allowed under NCAA rules.

Former coach Ted Owens was quoted by the News as saying, "I ran a heck of a clean program."

The paper reported he said that he had heard rumors of wrongdoing within the program and made inquiries, but could not verify them.

The school announced May 2 that it was dropping its NCAA affiliation immediately in an effort to save between $500,000 and $1 million a year in its athletic program. Evangelist Oral Roberts made the announcement near the end of an $11 million fund raiser to pay overdue bills.

The day after the announcement, Trickey said NCAA investigators had questioned him about alleged rules violations two weeks earlier.

In 1980, the NCAA placed ORU on probation for paying for players' air travel, giving them cash, allowing televisions to be rented at the university's expense and paying for phone bills and clothing.

Oral Roberts said at the time that if the university were ever placed on probation again, he would close the athletic program.

The science awards went to Lisa Garrett, Eric Seidenberger, Kristi Jones, John Seidenberger, and Cody Pinkard, who won district and regionals and was a state qualifier.

The literary awards went to Mary Schafer and Cody Pinkard.

Aching arm doesn't stop Sullivan at Indy

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Motorsports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Neither an aching arm nor a gusting wind could keep Danny Sullivan from qualifying Saturday for the Indianapolis 500.

Sullivan, ignoring the pain and discomfort caused by his broken right forearm, was the fastest of Saturday's five qualifiers for May 28 race, turning a 10-mile, four-lap average of 216.027 mph with a fast lap of 216.753.

Two more positions in the 33-car field still need to be filled with six more hours of time trials scheduled Sunday.

Sullivan's effort was nowhere near the record-smashing performances last Sunday of Penske Racing teammates Rick Mears and Al Unser, who qualified for the May 28 race at the front of the tentative lineup. But Sullivan, the 1985 Indy winner, was satisfied.

"It's a big relief," he said. "It's a big burden off my shoulders. I was concerned if I could go that fast, now I'm just relieved."

As Sullivan posed for pictures in the pits following his qualifying run, his crew, arrayed behind the defending CART-PPG Indy car champion, grabbed cloth slings from their pockets and put them on without Sullivan noticing. When he turned away from the camera, the 1985 Indy winner broke up at the sight.

Laughs did not appear to be in his immediate future when the 39-year-old driver from Louisville, Ky., crashed during practice on May 11, sustaining a mild concussion and a broken right forearm.

The broken ulna was put back together and held in place with a metal plate and seven screws and

INDIANAPOLIS — Four-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt shows Marilyn Quayle his race car at the Indy 500 Motor Speedway Saturday. The wife of Vice President Dan Quayle toured the speedway in anticipation of attending with her husband the May 28 running of the 500-mile race.

Sullivan got back onto the track Thursday with the help of a special brace designed to keep his arm from twisting.

"We're still modifying the seat and steering and Dr. (Terry) Trammel will continue working with me on modifying the brace,"

Sullivan said. "Hopefully, with eight days more rest, we'll be strong enough to run 500 miles."

Asked if the arm hurt, Sullivan said, "Oh yeah, there's going to be pain for a long time. But when you're out here running around on the speedway the pain seems to go away."

Sullivan started with a lap of 214.715 then turned three consecutive laps around the 2 1/2-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval at more than 216 in his new Chevrolet-powered Penske PC18. "I had messed up in turn two," he said of the first lap. "The wind was blowing across the track. I knew it wasn't a good lap."

"I adjusted something in the cockpit on the backstretch. The car felt comfortable after that. I wasn't particularly surprised by the increase. I was surprised by how much it was."

Despite rain in the forecast for Saturday, the day dawned sunny and warm and there was only a 45-minute delay in waiting for the track to finish drying from overnight wet weather.

The first scheduled day of qualifications, May 13, was rained out and 26 cars completed qualifying attempts last Sunday, led by Mears at 223.885 mph.

Once the field is full, the slowest cars can be bumped by faster qualifiers. The fastest 33 cars by the end of Sunday's session, 7 p.m. EDT, will start the race.

Dominic Dobson opened the qualifying Saturday with a consistent four-lap run of 213.590, with a fast lap of 213.731 and a slow lap of 213.397.

Dobson, who is with Bayside Racing, a new Indy-car team, said, "Even though the team has no Indy-car experience prior to this year, it seemed to be able to get the chassis dialed in and the handling good."

Phil Krueger was next at 212.458, followed by Sullivan and then 1986 runnerup Kevin Cogan at 214.569.

Following Cogan's qualifying run, there was a long session of open practice until the track cooled and the winds died late in the afternoon.

A pair of rookies, trying hard to come up with enough speed to make qualifying attempts, were involved in crashes during that stretch. Buddy Lazier, whose father Bob drove at Indy, escaped injury when he spun and hit the wall in turn two.

Later, Steve Saleen spun in turn four and slammed into the wall virtually head-on. He was awake and alert, but had to be helped from the car and was taken to Methodist Hospital for further examination after complaining of pains in his lower back.

The qualifying resumed with just 50 minutes remaining in the session, with John Paul Jr., trying to come back after serving 28 months in jail for racketeering in connection with a drug smuggling ring headed by his father, waving off an attempt after three laps between 208.638 and 209.526.

Rocky Moran, driving for four-time Indy winner A.J. Foyt, who already was qualified for his record 32nd start here, was next out, putting together a solid four-lap average of 214.212. The engine on the 1986 March-Cosworth, the oldest car in the field, blew less than 100 yards past the finish line.

"The engine lived for four laps," Foyt said. "I'm just glad it didn't have to go five laps."

The field average now stands at 216.547 mph, breaking the record set last May of 210.254 for the first 31 qualifiers.

Several drivers warmed up for possible qualifying attempts but decided not to take the green flag. They included three-time winner Johnny Rutherford, who warmed up three times without starting an attempt, Paul, Bill Vukovich III and Rich Vogler.

With Sullivan qualified, Rutherford, trying for his 25th start here, is the last of nine active Indy winners not in the tentative lineup.

Recalling baseball games past

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

I experienced something similar to a time warp the other day.

I was on my way home when I passed a local Little League ballpark. Since I had a few minutes to kill, I decided to stop and see how the pint-sized Hank Aarons were doing.

They're doing pretty good, if the truth be told. I don't think the Cincinnati Reds have anything to worry about just yet, but for a bunch of 11- and 12-year-olds, the kids weren't shabby at all.

They definitely played better than I did in my Little League days.

It's not as if I was a lousy player; I made my share of good plays. But, there's no sense in trying to convince you I was the second coming of Babe Ruth, either.

If a book is ever published about my Little League career, its title will probably be something like "Profiles in Mediocrity."

But what is memorable to me about my playing days is not my individual accomplishments, it's the teams I played on — some of which would make the Bad News Bears look like the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The first team that was blessed with my presence was the Stingrays. If one is looking for a summary of the Stingrays' season, about the best he could say was that we always showed up for the games.

We were lousy. In 15 or 16 games that year, we won one — count it — one. For the record, the final score was something like 13-12 and the game was called in the fifth inning because another game remained to be played.

When the umpired signaled the end of the game, I remember looking at the coach and asking, "Did we win?" After receiving reassurance that, yes indeed, the impossible had actually happened, I raced out of the dugout and flung my glove in the air.

You'd have thought we won the World Series. My teammates celebrated about as wildly as a bunch of pre-teens could. We rejoiced in the fact the Stingrays were winners — at least on one glorious afternoon.

The rest of the season, however, we were mostly cannon fodder for the other teams. We had two or three good players, but the rest of us were strictly bush-league (no offense, Mr. President) material.

My job, you may ask? Well, as I recall, I mostly sat on the bench and cheered, cried and prayed.

Whenever I did play, it was mostly in right field. And, in those days, right field was the position reserved for the kids the coach said "really tried hard."

In other words, I had about as much natural ability as a snail.

But, although I didn't play very much, I still enjoyed the experience. I don't know quite how to describe it, but the combination of sunshine, green grass and your parents cheering you on in the bleachers made for a most enjoyable afternoon — at least in the eyes of a nine-year-old.

My playing time gradually increased during my four-year stint in Little League until, in my last year, I was a full-time starter. That's the good news; the bad news is that I was the catcher.

Catcher is not necessarily a bad position, unless you happen to be a left-hander. The reason for this is that catchers require a special mitt and almost every mitt in creation is built for right-handers.

What all this means is that I had to play the position wearing a standard fielder's glove and try to catch our pitchers' fastballs without breaking my hand in the process.

I managed — barely — to survive the season with hand and dignity intact.

The worst moment of the year, however, had nothing to do with sore palms. It was the time I tried to tag this big, beefy kid when he barreled home. The collision, as I recall, was awesome.

I tagged him, but the ball — and my wits — were knocked loose, and he was safe. That's when I decided to retire.

Sore palms I could handle; human freight trains, no way.

Nursing Home Week

Residents honored during national celebration

By LYNN HAYES

A Miss Legs contest, horseshoe pitching, dance contests, popcorn parties and various celebrations were conducted this week to honor the more than 300 residents of local nursing homes and their caregivers.

National and Texas Nursing Home Week is sponsored to encourage Texas communities to be more involved with the 37,000 Texans living in nursing homes, and to show appreciation for the loving, committed individuals who are dedicated to caring for the elderly, according to a news release from the Texas Health Care Association.

During the week of May 14-20, residents of Golden Plains Care Center and Mountain View Lodge were the guests of honor at specially-planned parties and activities.

Activity directors at Golden Plains Care Center conducted a dance contest Tuesday for its residents. Several members of the community judged the event as nursing home residents displayed their dancing talents.

Enthusiastic residents watched participants dance to "Great Balls of Fire," "Let's Dance," and "Puttin' on the Ritz." The judges, who agreed that everyone did a good job, chose Linda Davidson as the winner.

Keeping residents active is important to their happiness, well-being and self-esteem.

"It's important to keep the residents active," said Karen Edens, social activities director. "They respond well to music and to children," she said.

On Wednesday, several residents participated in a horseshoe pitching contest, won by Roselind Moreland, 68, who threw a ringer.

Mountain View Lodge hosted a popcorn party Wednesday afternoon, and in celebration of Nursing Home Week, residents were treated Thursday to a party, complete with cake and ice cream.

Although most nursing home residents need intense, heavy care, Golden Plains offers supervised living quarters for individuals who are mostly self-sufficient, said Edens.

Skilled-wing residents are mostly total-care patients and are either tube-fed or need assistance while eating, Edens noted.

According to the THCA, two out of every five people who live beyond 65 years of age will spend part of their lives in nursing homes.

Because the elderly may not have anyone to care for them at home, they are left with no alternative but to enter nursing home care.

"A lot of these people have no family... we become their family — they depend on us for everything," Edens said.

Giving up their freedom and their home isn't easy for nursing home residents.

"It's a big adjustment... they have to give up their homes — and their freedom," Edens said as she explained that because of state regulations smoking is supervised in designated smoking areas.

"Some of them don't understand why they can't smoke or do everything they want to do — but if you explain it to them — most of them accept it — they may not like it but they accept it," Edens said.

Edens noted that there is no set bed time or no set time for visiting. "Anyone can visit the residents at any time," she said.

Lucille Bradshaw, 84, who has lived at Golden Plains Care Center for nearly four years, entered the home with her husband, James.

After 28 years of marriage, James died of a heart attack two years ago. Lucille now shares a room with her sister, Willie Anderson, 80.

Although she never thought she'd live in a nursing home, Lucille said she likes her new home. "I like it... I appreciate everything we have here — and they're awful good to us," she said.

Because she can't walk and isn't able to care for herself alone, Lucille, who suffers from arthritis, said she "knew she had to do something."

"I lived at home and had a pretty yard with lots of flowers and roses," Lucille explained. "When I fell in my yard, I knew

Artist known for bold watercolors, exotic collections

WICHITA FALLS — (AP) — Remember the watercolor sets you loved as children?

Remember, like unused crayons, how fresh those vividly electric colors were and how each pool of color smiled up at us in anticipation of the drink of water that would give it life?

And, after we painstakingly applied those colors to a sheet of paper with just a drip here or there, remember how the paper surface formed slight hills and valleys, the result of too-generous drinks to the colors from small, overeager hands?

Imagine applying those vividly electric colors to paper — being paid for it and receiving awards for it — and having your work spotlighted on the covers of publications and displayed in art galleries around the country.

Using much more grown-up and expensive paints, brushes, and papers, Wichita Falls artist Elizabeth Yarosz, assistant professor of art at Midwestern State University, has built a successful career from the initial romance with art that so many of us enjoyed as children.

Her gift of drawing and painting talent surfaced early and did not go unrecognized.

"As a child, I drew baby carriages — circles and half circles. I was 3 when I really got a kick out of drawing something — and drawing it in many variations. My father's side (of the family) had the ability to draw and paint — my father did oil paintings. I was always encouraged," she recalled.

Although she played piano and oboe through college — her undergraduate degree at Lycoming College in Williamsport, Penn., was earned on a music scholarship

— she abandoned her music when she undertook her master's degree in fine arts at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio.

"Everything else had to go in order to get the most intense focus."

Her painting professor in the School of Art at Ohio University, Dana Loomis, had studied with Josef Albers. Albers is known, Yarosz said, as an institution in art at Yale University, and was a major influence in her development and success as an artist.

Intense focus and complete concentration are essential to the watercolorist because when painting, the artist cannot make an error.

If a mistake is made while working in oil, the artist can simply paint over it, but "watercolor is unforgiving," Yarosz said.

Her watercolors have been exhibited at Abilene Fine Arts Museum, Deland Museum in Deland, Fla., Springfield Art Museum in Springfield, Mo., and Zaner Gallery in Rochester, N.Y.

Examples of her work have been selected as the art for numerous gallery opening invitations and for publication covers, including "Personal Vitality." In addition, she recently juried the "Tenth Annual Lubbock Arts Festival."

Her works are currently on display at the Moss/Chumley Gallery in the Quadrangle in Dallas, Reuben Saunders Gallery in Wichita, Kan., and at The National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C.

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff Writer

It was quite a Mother's Day celebration for Helen Draper last weekend. One she almost missed.

Because of business matters, she and Bill thought they would not be able to attend graduation activities at Southwest Texas State University to see their son, Kelly, receive his master of arts degree. But at the last minute, the way was cleared, and they joined their other son, David, and his wife Sarah, Midland, for the big event.

Kelly received several honors at the end-of-the-year student banquet, including Most Outstanding Graduate Student of the Year in theater; Most Outstanding Set Design for the play "Female Transport"; and Most Outstanding Costume Design for the production "Beaux Stratagem." Kelly had been costume foreman for the theater department for the past year.

Kelly has taken a summer job as costume foreman for the Oklahoma Shakespearean Festival at Southeast Oklahoma State University. Durant — he will be responsible for design of sets and costumes for seven plays for the festival which will be held in July.

Kelly graduated from Big Spring High School in 1972 and from Howard College in 1975.

It was a case of beginner's luck for Taylor Leatham, 4, son of George and Mary Leatham.

Taylor caught a five-pound fish in a tank near St. Lawrence where George had taken him for his very first fishing trip.

"Taylor was so proud," says Mary. "He helped clean his fish, then planned the menu for a family dinner. He even helped prepare the French fries, and watched while I cooked."

Taylor's sister, Sydney, 6, shared in the catch.

Welcome back Denise Crenwelge! We love you. You're the best! You were missed dearly.

James and Lois Ellison have just returned from a two-week vacation in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

TIDBITS

They visited their daughter, Cheryl, and son-in-law, Dennis Coon. The Coons moved to St. Thomas from Pennsylvania last November.

The family shared a picnic on St. John; went deep sea fishing (reeling in an African pompano which even the boat crew had never seen!) and took a glass-bottomed boat to waters so clear you could see 72-feet down (and alas! there was a beer can on the bottom.)

Big Spring High School Homecoming is set for October 19-20, and the class reunions are already revving up, according to Craig Fisher.

Classes with plans underway include 1939 (Jackie Tooley, 267-2416, and Jean Jackson Cook, 267-8705); 1943-44-45-46 (general chairman, Pat Simmons, 283-4607; 1949 (Nancy Whitney Little, 267-2818); 1959 (Katie Thomas Grimes, 267-3129); 1979 (Kim Preston Finney).

The BSHS student council will celebrate its 50th anniversary this year, Craig says; 1939 class reunion chairman Jean Jackson Cook was the first student council president.

More facts from Craig: Did you know the high school football team used to be called the Yellow Jackets? The team was re-named Steers in 1924 by Coach Joe Ward, a University of Texas alumnus.

Recent houseguests of August and Phyllis Graumann were longtime friends, Dr. D'Wayne and Myrtle Collins, Manitou Springs, Colo.

The two couples met in Snyder in 1955 and have remained close friends ever since — although they see each other only about once every 10 years. One of the reasons for the infrequent get-togethers is that D'Wayne and Myrtle lived in Hawaii, Laos (where they established the first secondary school in the Laotian language), and Brazil. Together they authored "Survival Kit for Teachers and Parents," now in its 15th edition; and Myrtle co-authored "You Are Somebody Special" with Bill Cosby, James Dobson, Rick Little, Jim Fadiman and Charles Shedd.

After leaving Big Spring D'Wayne and Myrtle were to visit other friends in Texas and Florida, then head for England to see their daughter, Ann Greer.

Without your interest — and contributions — to Tidbits, there would be no column. We try to check out every item, make phone calls to verify spelling of names, and ask the right questions to get all the facts. But sometimes things go awry.

For example, a list provided to me of guests at the recent Senior Prom at Canterbury included the names of Hewett and Lillie Sides. Lillie pointed out that not only was she not there, she didn't even dance — and on that particular evening was in a wheelchair recovering from surgery!

Another time, Melba Robinson dropped in to tell me that her granddaughter, Kelsey Dene Eggleston, had won first place in Most Beautiful Baby and first place in playwear at the recent Kids of America Pageant in Grand Prairie. I failed to ask who the other grandparents were. Now I know they are Leo and Helen Eggleston.

An item about David Gomer's grandson, Michael Wayne Rodriguez, and his wife expecting a child — David's great-grandson — omitted other family members. Lola Gomez and Jeri Daniels are the expectant great-grandmothers, and Jeannette Brown is the expectant great-great-grandmother. Michael Wayne is the son of Susan Daniels Myers, Almoregordo, N.M., formerly of Big Spring; the anxiously-awaited baby will be Susan's first grandchild. Thanks to Susan for dropping me a note of explanation.

DATE SET — Kay and Andy Coleman, Garland, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kelly Denise Cotton, to Gregory Brian Jackson, San Angelo, son of Donna Jackson, Big Spring; and Bob Jackson, Houston. The couple will wed June 10 at First Baptist Church, Garland.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Fred York, Iowa Park, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Melody Renee York, Iowa Park, to Russell A. Churchill and Margaret Churchill, 1607 Vines. The couple will wed July 15 at First Baptist Church, Iowa Park, with Derryll Monday, pastor, officiating.

COUPLE TO WED — Wilburn and Bonnie Bednar, Garden City, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Debra Lynn Bednar, Abilene, to Tim Smith, Abilene, son of Travis and Maxine Smith, Mart. The couple will wed July 15 at Hillcrest Church of Christ, Abilene, with Travis Smith, prospective bridegroom's father, officiating.

How to correct cloudy drinking glasses

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Glasses washed in a dishwasher can be clean, but they may still be cloudy.

Cloudiness is due to build-up, a film of matter on the glass, and etching. To identify the type of cloudiness, try scratching the surface of the glassware with a pin or sharp object.

If the pin scratches off some of the cloudiness, film build-up is the problem.

Or drop vinegar on the glass and rub with your finger.

If the surface is clear when it has dried then film build-up is the problem.

If the surface of the glass seems pitted or remains cloudy after rubbing with vinegar, the cause of cloudiness is probably etching. The most common cause of filming is hard water.

Hard water mineral drops dry on the glassware and continue to build up with each dishwashing. Food films can form on glassware and dishes when hard water minerals combine with protein in the residue of milk, soft cooked eggs or rare meat.

Focus on family

Hot water sets these proteins. A hard film build-up can be removed by treating with white vinegar rinse, followed by chlorine bleach, then another white vinegar rinse in a dishwasher cycle.

Commercial products also are available.

Remove all metalware during the process. To prevent hardness filming, use softened water or increase the amount of detergent.

Using a rinse agent may be all that is needed. Food films can be removed by hand washing and drying. The first sign of etching is often an iridescent or "rainbow" appearance on glassware or on the glaze of china.

Poor-quality glassware is not necessarily more likely to etch than fine crystal. The true cause of etching seems to be related to soft water and/or overuse of detergent since the largest component of a dishwasher detergent is polyphosphate, a water softener.

Extremely hot water can speed the etching process. Damage from etching cannot be corrected.

Etching can best be prevented by adjusting the amount of detergent used.

If dishes are pre-rinsed, there may be little soil for the detergent to react with.

The combined softness provided by soft water and detergent attacks the glasses.

Try using only 1 tablespoon of dishwasher detergent in each detergent cup.

For antique and other glassware difficult to replace, hand washing and drying may be best.

'Heatwave' loves Laredo temperature

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

The most content weatherman I know is Richard Berler. He is a television weatherman in Laredo. His nickname is "Heatwave."

"When I was studying meteorology at Florida State all the meteorology kids noticed I liked it hotter and more humid than in Tallahassee. They gave me the name 'Heatwave' and it kinda stuck," he says.

He likes hot weather. Therefore, he likes Laredo. Sound logic.

Laredo is one of the hottest places in Texas. One of the very hottest, according to Heatwave.

"If you measure the hottest places by the number of days that exceed 100 degrees, Presidio comes out the hottest spot. That city averages about 83 days over 100 a year."

Laredo averages only 54. But in 1988 Laredo had 75 days over 100.

"By a measurement of days that exceed 90 degrees, it's a lot closer," comments Heatwave. "Presidio averages 178 days a year. Rio Grande City averages 179. Zapata 177. Laredo averages 171, but last year we had 194 days over 90 degrees."

Tumbleweed Smith

"If you measure by the average temperature for the whole year combined, averaging the daily highs and lows, Laredo and Weslaco tie for the lead with an average for the whole year of about 74 degrees."

Laredo has produced some of the hottest temperature records in the entire country.

"In January of 1936, Laredo hit 96 degrees, which is the highest ever recorded in the history of the U.S. in January," says Berler.

"One other note. In February of 1986 Laredo had three consecutive days to break 100 degrees, including one day that was 103. That's the only case in the history of the U.S. that a spot in February has broken 100 degrees three days in a row."

Heatwave can spout hot weather statistics all day long without looking at a single record book.

"I like the heat," he says. "I grew up in Westport, Connecticut and used to dream of walking the streets of Laredo at high noon."

He got his start in the weather business in Duluth, Minnesota, which is a little cooler than Laredo. He pursued his dream of going to Laredo and sure enough there was an opening and he came down.

"I feel quite at home here in the heat," says Heatwave. "I love this South Texas brush country."

Laredo and Duluth are at opposite ends of Interstate 35.

"When I left Duluth, I didn't even take a map," says Heatwave. "I just drove until the road ended."

Duluth weather is terrible.

"On one occasion the high temperature for the day was 22 degrees below zero," recalls Heatwave. "That was two in the afternoon. We ended up going down to 38 degrees below zero that night."

He left Duluth nine years ago. "On May 7th the last year I was there we had a high of 33 degrees with three inches of snow. You're supposed to be having springtime weather by then. How do people live up there?"

Q: My hair continually has split ends or breakage. What can I do?
A: Normal hair should stretch (when wet) to 1/8 to 1/6 of its length. If it over-dries or otherwise damaged, it won't have this elasticity and will break off at the shaft. A bad perm, too-vigorous brushing, combing or shampooing are often causes.

A tip to prevent breakage: Just as you wouldn't scrub your silk lingerie as you would denim, treat your hair gently. The proper way to shampoo: work the shampoo from the roots to the ends. NEVER scrub vigorously or in zigzag motions; also don't gather your hair in one bunch at the top of your head to wash it, this can cause tangling and breakage.

When combing, after shampooing, start with the ends and work upward until you reach the top of the hair. Comb slowly and gently.

HINT
When using combs and barrettes, plastic are better for the hair than metal. Don't use rubber or elastic bands, they grip too tightly and put stress on the hair strand.

'The Letter'

By LOUISE BURGESS
 I once knew this family, a husband and wife God gave them three children to brighten their life, but soon a dark tragedy entered their home. The death angel beckoned and the father was gone.
 The mother was left with three children to raise and from all of the neighbors came nothing but praise. She took them to church and taught them to pray and God seemed to bless them in his own special way.
 The years passed swiftly and the children were grown and one by one they departed the home. The mother was lonely, life wasn't the same and she looked for a letter, but no letter came.
 I was the mailman and each day without fail. She'd always be waiting when I delivered the mail. Anticipation and hope I could read on her face and a trace of tears which she couldn't erase.
 The long-awaited letter one day finally came and I smiled to myself as I turned down the lane. I gave her the letter and as I turned from the door with a soft little moan she sank down on the floor.
 She looked like an angel in her faded bed dress with the unopened letter clasped close to her breast. God in compassion must have thought what a shame — for he knew exactly what the letter contained.
 "Now, Mom, we've decided that you can't live alone. So we're looking around for "an old folks home. You can't live with us, cause we don't have the room, so get your things ready, you'll be moving there soon."
 I won't let this happen, the Lord must have said. She'll live here in Heaven in her mansion instead. Such news would have caused her much heartache and pain. Now she never need know what the letter contained.

This fish story isn't just another tall tale

DEAR ABBY: We have a goldfish named Spot. Whenever I walk into the room and Spot "sees" me (I assume fish can see), Spot gets very excited and swims rapidly back and forth in the corner of the fishbowl facing me.
 In order to test him, I have sneaked into the room quietly to find out if Spot is relying on sound, but apparently he is not because when he sees me, he reacts in an excited manner. You are not going to believe this, Abby, but when I call his name "Spot!" his excitement increases! To reward him, I give him a treat of extra "flakes" — fish food.
 Do you think Spot is reacting to the possibility of getting a treat? My family thinks I am totally nuts, but I say that Spot is one smart fish. What do you think? — SPOT WATCHER

Dear Abby

DEAR SPOT WATCHER: According to the curator of reptiles at the Los Angeles Zoo, Harvey Fisher (his real name), Spot IS reacting to the possibility of getting a treat. He said: "Fish are easily conditioned. When I was a teen-ager, I had a pet goldfish that would actually jump out of the water at feeding time."
 This may sound fishy, but I'll take Fisher's word for it.
 DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy with a steady job that pays well. At the end of each week, I have to bring my earnings home and turn them over to my father. He has charge of my money and will give me whatever I ask for whenever I want it, but it bugs me to have to ask him for money I earned.

 I have argued that it isn't fair for him to keep my money — I should be able to keep it myself. I even threatened to quit my job unless I could be in charge of my own earnings, but my father says he doesn't care whether I work or not.
 These arguments are getting very persistent lately, and I need some advice on how to put a stop to them. It seems to me that a person who is old enough to earn money should be old enough to handle it without any help from his father.
 Please answer this letter in your column, Abby. I'm sure I am not the only kid who has this problem. Please don't print my name. My father might not like the publicity.

 — BROKE IN BROOKLYN
 DEAR BROKE: I see a large communication gap between you and your father. Obviously, your father has reasons for insisting on knowing how you spend your money. Has he reason to doubt or mistrust you? Have you ever been in any kind of trouble? (How about your friends?)
 Count your blessings. You have a father who cares about you. Believe me, he's on your side.
 DEAR ABBY: We own a cottage where we spend most of our weekends. Our problem occurs when our recently divorced son and one or two of our grandsons all show up with their girlfriends.
 My wife and I have told them that they are welcome to come, but unless they are engaged to be married, we will not allow them to use our upstairs bedrooms.

 They sleep together, fully clothed, on the floor of our large living room in front of an open fireplace. They prefer this arrangement to sleeping in separate beds.
 These are not one-night stands, Abby; for the present, they care for each other and are going steady. The grandsons are in high school and college, and they want to finish college before making any commitment.
 Do you think we are being too old-fashioned and straitlaced? — PITTSBURGHERS
 DEAR PITTSBURGHERS: No. If you are "too old-fashioned and straitlaced," then so am I.

Paris man still fiddling around at 75

PARIS (AP) — With a bow in hand and a smile on his face, 75-year-old Frank Smith still plays a sweet-sounding waltz or a foot-stomping hoedown with the best of the country fiddlers.

Most any Saturday, Smith and a group of his fiddle and guitar-playing friends stir up a jam session at the Paris Violin Shop. That is, unless Smith is playing in a fiddlers contest somewhere in North or East Texas.

"Some of us get together every Saturday morning just like we have for more than 20 years," Smith said as he sat tuning one of his handmade fiddles. "It gives us a chance to practice, and a whole lot of enjoyment."

The Saturday jam session group has shrunk a little over the years. Some of the old-timers are gone. Smith, J.T. Bryan and Joe Julian are the only ones left of the original group. Ted Hastings and John Kelsey of Paris and one or two from Oklahoma usually join the trio on Saturdays.

Musicians from the Longview, Kilgore and Tyler areas occasionally come to Paris to sit in on the sessions.

"We welcome anyone who wants to come by and play, or just listen," he said. "But we don't want experts coming and talking while we are playing," he kidded.

The group of local and area musicians began gathering at Smith's service station. Smith sold the station that he had owned and operated for 27½ years and retired in April of last year, and Bryan, another fiddle player, retired and started learning to repair and build instruments. Together, they opened the Paris Violin Shop.

"That's a fancy name for us, isn't it," Smith said with a grin. What the two men actually do is repair fiddles and guitars, and buy trade and sell the instruments. And when they are letting the glue dry on an instrument, a customer may catch them sitting in the little store fiddling a tune.

Although 75 years old, Smith said he is still "just a boy. I don't feel like I think a 75-year-old should feel. I still love to play the fiddle and work on them."

The Paris native grew up on the farm and had a chance to listen to a lot of good country fiddlers, such as Bob Littrell of the Direct community. He decided that playing the fiddle might be fun and would help pass the time away during the rainy days on the farm.

"It was in 1935 when I first got a fiddle in my hand," Smith said. "In about four or five hours, I picked out my first tune and played it well enough that my mother could recognize the tune." The song was "Corrina."

From that time until he entered the military service in the early 1940s, Smith improved his playing style, and "played a few gigs around the area." Smith didn't pick up his fiddle when he returned from World War II, and actually didn't regain an interest in music until around 1965.

"That was more of a working period of my life," Smith said. "But when I started playing again, it became both a pastime and a second vocation."

Smith began studying the fiddle to improve his playing ability and learned the art of repairing and building the instrument. He repaired his first fiddles and guitars in 1965 and built 16 fiddles during the next six to eight years.

The craftsman also built two small fiddles, and a number of miniatures about four inches long. Smith said he constructed the miniatures as a learning experience to improve his standard models.

From his first handmade fiddle in 1966 to the last one he completed in the early 1980s, Smith said he never had to tear one apart to improve its structure or tone.

"I was lucky. All of my fiddles came out with powerful volume and a sweet tone," he said

Rest after any surgery

By NYU MEDICAL CENTER
Same-day surgery performed without hospitalization requires recuperation time to ensure successful recovery, according to a physician at New York University Medical Center.

"Anyone who is going to undergo anesthesia should know the body needs some time to recuperate from its effects," said Dr. Fred Danziger, associate professor of clinical anesthesiology. "There is no way to speed up this process, even if the shortest-acting drugs available are used in the lowest dose that provides safe and effective anesthesia."

"Most people need 48 hours of rest and relaxation at home before they resume normal activities following day surgery," Danziger said. "It is normal to feel tired and somewhat dizzy after anesthesia. The sensation is not so different from having a bit of a hangover."

Residents

something was wrong... I knew I had to do something."

With pictures from home hanging on the wall beside her bed and a her own TV, Lucille said she is comfortable with her surroundings and realizes this is the only home she has.

"This is my home until I die," she said.

Ellen June Pearson, 56, has been a resident of Mountain View Lodge for a year.

When she suffered a stroke in 1966, Ellen's husband cared for her at home until her doctor suggested she enter nursing home care.

Just before the death of her husband in 1967, Ellen entered a nursing home in Brownwood, the first of four nursing homes where she has lived.

"I was scared at first because I didn't know how I'd be treated," she said.

As the years have passed, Ellen said she loves her home and her caregivers. "They're good to me," she said.

The mother of five children and grandmother of 13, she enjoys bingo and participates in balloon volleyball and the various music programs.

Ellen said she is fortunate that four of children are Howard County residents because they are able to visit often. "They take me out to eat and take me shopping," she said.

Ellen said she especially looks forward to Christmas because area children visit and sing to the residents, often giving gifts.

Often pointing to pictures of her family, Ellen said she is comfortable with her new home and recommends nursing home life because of the care given to the residents. "People get the care they need at a nursing home," she said.

Mountain View Lodge offers several activities for its residents, including birthday parties, exercise programs, devotionals, and country western music, said Mary Garner, activities director.

Because most people don't know much about life in a nursing home, they are unaware of the professional services involved, as well as the fun and stimulating activities available daily to help residents reach their full potential.

The public is encouraged to visit nursing home residents.

"They need someone to say 'how are you,' or 'you look nice today,' or just a loving touch or smile," said Edens.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Kay Gilliam keeps her fingers on ATS Telcom's service information at the computerized control center located at Big Spring's Industrial Park. ATS, which sells, installs and services telephone systems for business application, maintains service offices in several other cities but tracks jobs at the local headquarters. ATS customers enjoy the advantage of local 24-hour service by radio-dispatched trucks.

Local schools, businesses choose ATS Telcom systems

"Chances are, if you make a phone call in Big Spring to a school, hospital, or city official — you'll be connected with one of our installations," says Gene Moses, president of ATS Telcom.

ATS, located in the Industrial Park, was founded in 1978 and is one of the oldest telephone equipment companies in West Texas. Their service area includes Midland, Odessa, Abilene, San Angelo, Lubbock and many smaller towns within a 150-mile of these cities. An office will be added in Austin later this year.

"We are installing second generation equipment for some of our original customers," Gene says. He points out the company sells, installs and services commercial firms only, installing a wide range of equipment from small analog key systems to large digital private-branch-exchanges.

"The advantage of ATS-installed equipment is that your company can pick and choose among the systems available," says Gene. "You get what you need to accomplish what you want, within your budget — from basic to highly sophisticated applications. Equipment is purchased from a number of major manufacturers."

An important advantage is that the customer has a local point of call for service. ATS operates service offices in many locales, and maintains a central computerized control center — at the Big Spring location — to keep track of customer information.

"ATS has radio-dispatched service vehicles," explains Gene. "Locally our maximum-response time is two hours — and we try to do better than that. The customer calls us, no matter what the problem is. If contact needs to be made with AT&T or Bell Telephone, then we do that for the customer."

ATS telecommunications systems may be rented, leased, lease-purchased or bought outright. There is a one-year warranty on all installations including parts and labor, and service contracts are available beyond that.

Examples of installations by ATS are Ector County schools; U.S. Agricultural & Soil Conservation Service offices in 20 counties; La Quinta motels in Abilene and San Angelo; Eckhard Drugs throughout West Texas; and more than 100 installations for Texas Highway Department.

"Even though we have about 250 installations in Big Spring, our firm is probably better known in other areas," Gene said.

The installation of private phone systems is still relatively new and not widely understood, according to Gene. Customer education continues to be an important part of their business.

ATS will send a representative to any business to discuss equipment evaluation. Their phone number is 263-8433.
