Reading program

The Howard County Library's Summer Reading Program for children in the second grade and up, begins today.

"Creature Features," this year's theme for the library program, will include several special events, including a pet show, puppet show, arts and crafts and a chance to hear special speakers, event organizers said.

Activity days are scheduled from 10-11 a.m. Thursdays for children in second grade and up and 10:30-11 a.m. Wednesdays for younger children, as part of the Read To Me Program.

Windy wreck

Severe winds blew over two trailers in tow and sent a truck careening into a fence Friday, according to a Texas Highway Patrol report released today.

The vehicle's driver, Frank Larry Robinson, 47, Lewisville, was traveling east on Interstate 20 in the area of mile marker 191 when high winds caused the trailers to fall over on their side and the truck to hit a chain link before stopping. The driver was not injured.

A mobile construction office in the same area was also turned over by the wind, the report said.

Farmers to replant cotton after storm

By STEVE RAY Herald Editor

Some farmers are getting ready to replant cotton after weekend storms washed away the area's top cash crop late last week

Others are planting their crops for the first time, hoping the rain that pelted area counties will be enough to ensure good cotton that means millions of dollars to local economies

In some areas the rain came too little, too late to help many cotton farmers, already strapped with deadlines to meet insurance and certification requirements and left them hoping for more rain to add moisture to the soil.

But in neighboring Glasscock County, where nearly 90 percent of the cotton had already been planted in April or the first of May,

"It's still dry south of town in some places. Most of the rain came in Big Spring or on the rangeland. It just looks like concrete and rocks received more rain that anywhere else." - Don Richardson, Howard County agriculture agent.

In Mitchell County the rain and hail left a path of destruction on already planted cotton crops.

"In places we had a lot of damage, but it's real spotty," said Mitchell County Agriculture Agent Mike Mauldin. "We have areas that had hail and close to five inches of rain. We're going to get hail damage and water damage in some areas.

'The cotton that was planted in those areas is going to have to be replanted," Mauldin said. "We probably had 50 to 60 percent of the cotton planted before the rain hit. We were waiting on the moisture to • COTTON page 3-A

A chance to swim, socialize, and hear music courtesy of a local radio station made Saturday's Splash Day a resounding success, an event organizer said today.

"It was fantastic, we had terrific turnout. I would guess we had 500 (people) for Splash Day,'' pool manager Stan Feaster said.

Outrageous winners

SOMERVILLE, Ala. (AP) -Although eating worms was a crowd-pleaser, a dive into a pile of cow manure put a couple over the top in two 'outrageous behavior'' contests sponsored by Alabama radio stations.

For their troubles, Michael and Sonya Nau won $5,000 from WZYP-FM in Huntsville on April 14, and $10,000 from WAPI-FM in Birmingham on May 6.

"We've been renting all of our married lives and we wanted to buy some land and build a house," Mrs. Nau said.

Their act began with Mrs. Nau leading her chain-clad husband on stage on a leash. After tearing off his shirt, he wrapped himself in flypaper, drank from a mixture of egg yolks and honey and poured the rest over his body.

Nau then rolled in Fruit Loops, dumped flour over himself, ate a green-tinted oatmeal mixture and then chomped on regular and extralarge fishing worms.

Mrs. Nau said the wormeating stunt brought screams from the audience. "He just left them dangling out of his mouth and they were wiggling," she said. For his finale, Nau donned a diving mask and snorkel, bounced on a pogo stick over to a trampoline, and dove facefirst into a wading pool full of manure and rotten vegetables.

Inmate loses appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) Texas death row inmate Kenneth Gentry, convicted of a 1983 murder near Denton, lost a Supreme Court appeal today

The justices let stand rulings that Gentry received a fair trial and a proper sentence.

His appeal had contended, among other things, that his videotaped confession to police wrongly was used as evidence against him. The appeal said the confession had been given under duress and was tainted by a prior, inadmissible confession.

Gentry was convicted of killing Jimmy Don Ham, a traveling companion, on Sept. 10, 1983. Prosecutors said Gentry, a fugitive, had decided to assume Ham's identity.

In Washin ton, President Bush condemned Chinese authorities for the "bloody and violent" crackdown. He said he was ordering a suspension of American military sales and commercial export of weapons to China.

One Chinese military source said soldiers fought each other around the Nanyuan military air base on the southern outsksirts of the city today. He said the fighting was serious.

But residents living near the restricted base said they had seen a steady stream of planes landing and taking off but had not seen or heard fighting.

Artillery shelling also was heard in a far northwestern suburb.

Asked whether soldiers were fighting each other, one Western diplomat said: "It's more than that. There is solid evidence." He would not elaborate.

Chinese sources said the People's Liberation Army is deeply split over the government's May 20 decision to declare martial law and send troops to Beijing. The 38th Army, based around Beijing, reportedly refused to advance on the city.

The source said the 38th was ordered to take over from the 27th Army, which is responsible for the carnage over the weekend. It is not clear whether the army is obeying the order.

to the swimming pool party at Commanche Trail Park "really enjoyed themselves." He commended KBST Radio Station for their part in providing musical entertainment.

Saturday's event drew people of all ages. "They were mostly teenagers, however we did have a few families here - usually a husband and wife and one or two kids. We'd be glad to have anyone, senior citizens as well,' he said.

Feaster, who previously managed a local theater, said he's enjoying his new role as pool manager. "I'm loving it. I'm seeing a lot of the same people (from the previous job as theater manager). It was good seeing them," he said.

A large number of people are expected to use the pool this year, especially since the pool entrance fee was recently reduced by a vote from the city council. "I really do (think) the lowering of fee from $2 last year to $1 this year will make a difference. I'm really excited about it. Hopefully we'll have some good summer days," he said.

Asked how much difference the one dollar fee reduction will make, Feaster replied, "I think it will make a considerable dif-POOL page 3-A

TEHRAN, Iran - Millions of mourners today flooded into a square where Ayatollah Ruhollah

Khomeini's body lay, causi n g a stampede the official news agency said killed eight people and injured at least 500

Khomeini's only son, KHOMEINI Ahmad, read over Tehran Radio the first pages of his father's political testament, which is believed to contain guidelines on how the Islamic Republic should be governed. The section broadcast warned against U.S. plots and called for unity, Jut it made no reference to the problem of succession.

President Ali Khamenei, named Sunday to succeed Khomeini, told state television today: "We hope temporarily to be able to fill the leadership, because the new terms of the constitution are currently under review." Khamenei retained his title as president and is considered an interim leader.

The Islamic Republic News Agency said in addition to those killed and injured in the stampede outside Mosalla Mosque, scores of people were knocked unconscious as temperatures soared to 100.

State television showed victims being carried out of the square as crowds scrambled to get closer to the air-conditioned cubical where Khomeini's shrouded body lay in a glass-covered bier.

HOUSTON (AP) - Chinese students and their supporters wore black arm bands in memory of the hundreds of people who died in Beijing this weekend as they marched to the Chinese consulate's office to protest the violence.

An estimated 600 people, including many non-Chinese, participated in the march Sunday. which began in a city park and continued about two miles to the consulate's office.

Fake white flowers were pinned to the arm bands worn by most of the marchers. Some wore red or white head bands with Chinese characters printed in black, and a few were splattered with red paint to resemble blood.

Several people at the front of the peaceful procession carried a large wreath of yellow and white flowers.

AIDS has killed 1,008 people in Dallas County.

So far the disorder, which strikes the body's immune system, has hit hardest among the homosexual and bisexual populations. But now acquired immune deficiency syndrome is quickly spreading among intravenous drug users.

The AIDS-causing virus is most commonly spread by sexual intercourse and the sharing of intravenous-drug needles. In Texas, IV-drug users make up or 343 of the 6,707, according to the Texas Department of Health. Nationally, 20 percent of the 94,280

AIDS cases have been among IVdrug users. Another 7 percent, of 6,620, were homosexuals who used IV drugs Several local service agencies are seeing the results of the spread of the disease into the drug-using community.

Court to consider case against magazine

HOUSTON (AP) - A federal appeals court this week considers whether Soldier of Fortune, the self-styled "Journal for Professional Adventurers," must pay $9.4 million to the family of a Texas woman gunned down by a hit man hired through an ad in the magazine.

After a three-week trial, a U.S. district court jury in Houston last year made the award to the son and mother of Sandra Black, who was shot to death Feb. 21, 1985 at her home in Bryan, about 90 miles northwest of Houston.

Gary Wayne Black, now 19, was awarded $1.5 million. The jury said Mrs. Black's mother, Marjorie Eimann, 65, should receive $400,000. The two also were awarded $7.5 million in punitive damages.

So far, none of the claims has been paid, although $500,000 from the magazine's insurance carrier has been put into a trust account pending the outcome of the appeal, question this case is destined for according to Larry Thompson, the the Supreme Court if they choose to magazine's trial attorney.

"They have to convince the 5th Circuit that advertisements placed by hit men are protected by the First Amendment, even when the publisher knows the reason for the advertisement." - Ronald Franklin.

On Wednesday, a three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans will hear arguments from lawyers for both the magazine and the plaintiffs -20 minutes for each side, then take the matter under advisement. No decision is expected for at least three months, attorneys said, with any ruling likely to be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"It's primarily a First Amend-ment argument," Thompson said. "That's really the thrust of the argument. I don't think there's any accept it." "I'd be happy for the case to go to the Supreme Court," Ronald Franklin, Mrs. Eimann's attorney, said. "I think we're going to win at whichever level. The appeal centers on a pretrial ruling from District Judge David Hittner, who ruled Soldier of Fortune could not enjoy full First Amendment protection because of the commercial nature of the ad.

"They contend they are immune from civil liabilities because they are protected by the First Amendment," Franklin said. "They're not complaining of any factual problems with the jury verdict. It's as I understand a pure legal argument."

'There are a lot of problems we had with the trial," said E. Barrett Prettyman, the Washington lawyer who will present the magazine's side before the appeals court. "It breaks down into two very broad categories. One is simply the negligence law of Texas. The other relates to the First Amendment."

Prettyman said if the jury finds negligence, it should be against the advertiser and not against the magazine.

'There are plenty of cases which I certainly would say hold our view that this is improper," he said.

Mrs. Black's husband, Robert, is on the Texas death row for paying hit man John Wayne Hearn $10,000 to kill his wife. Hearn, who shot Mrs. Black twice in the head, is serving three life terms in Florida for the Black slaying and two others in that state.

Robert Black contacted Hearn through a personal services classified ad Hearn placed in late 1984 in Soldier of Fortune.

The ministers of the oil producing nations are meeting to set their output and price goals for the last half of the year.

Saturday

Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Hisham Nazer, said he would like to see higher crude prices, but declined to say how much. "The market decides the price," he said.

Nazer, the pivotal negotiator in the talks, said he expects crude oil demand to increase "a substantial amount" in the remainder of the year.

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest crude exporter, pumps nearly a quarter of all OPEC oil, giving it powerful leverage over the negotiations.

With forecasts of higher demand, the ministers appeared ready to boost their production ceiling from the current level of 18.5 million barrels a day.

Food stamps feed Dallas crack trade

DALLAS (AP) - Food stampsare being bartered for everything from crack to birdbaths in the poverty pockets of Dallas. For drug dealers, the monthly allotments can mean up to $500 a day in earnings, a newspaper reported.

The government-issued food stamps have become the currency of an illicit underground economy in the city's destitute areas.

"You can buy almost anything with food stamps if you look hard enough," said Gordon Hardy, the inspector general for Texas' Department of Human Services. the agency responsible for overseeing the state's $948 million food stamp program. In Dallas, nearly 29,000 households receive food stamps

"I don't know what a branch of government can do" to halt the abuses, Hardy told The Dallas Morning News.

On a daily basis for two months, the newspaper observed the food stamp-for-crack trade in George Loving Place, home to 212 families and one of 17 public housing projects operated by the Dallas Housing Authority.

Although the government sets stringent guidelines to ensure that the stamps get into the right hands, no agency oversees whether the stamps are used for their intended purpose

The government estimates that about $24,000 worth of stamps illegally change hands in Dallas' drug trade each month. But Dallas police and clergy in West Dallas say that figure is far too low.

Sgt. Herbert Steele, commander of the Lakewest station at George Loving Place in West Dallas, said the government's estimate of fraud probably would not even account for the total illegal trafficking in the Loving projects alone.

"It's a bunch. It's a business. It's an economy. I call it the 'poverty industry," Steele said.

"We deplore the decision to use force," Bush told reporters in a hastily convened mid-morning news conference. He urged Chinese authorities "to avoid violence and to return to their previous policy of restraint."

Hundreds of Chinese have been killed, and many more wounded, since the army moved in over the weekend to clear Tiananmen Square.

Bush said he thought it was impossible for China to return to the days of total repression. "We're beyond the kind of cultural revolution response," he said referring to the crackdown on dissent and diversity that began in the mid-1960s

He said he wanted to forge a careful response to the situation in China, and rejected advice from some who recommended the withdrawal of the U.S. ambassador. He said the ambassador had been active in monitoring events in Beinjing and provided an important resource for the United States.

Bush said his response to the weekend of violence in Beijing did not include imposition of economic sanctions. But, he added, "I reserve the right to take a whole new look at things if the violence

Bush also was asked about events in Iran, where radical leader Avatollah Ruhollah Khomeini died over the weekend. He said "we're not sure yet" what will happen with the government in the Islamic nation, although he said President Ali Khamenei appears to be in charge.

'There's a way for the relationship with the United States to improve and that's for the release of the American hostages" being held in Lebanon, he said.

Bush also said he welcomed Sunday's elections in Poland in which candidates endorsed by the trade union Solidarity appeared to have gained decisive victories.

'Communist bureaucrats seems to me like there's quite a he said:

move moving toward freedom and democracy.

Bush's comments on China were strikingly similar. "I think the depth of the feeling toward democracy is so great that you can't put the genie back into the bottle," he said.

"This is not the time for an emotional response," Bush said. He said it was not possible to know who exactly is in charge in China. "I don't want to see a total break in this relationship and I will not encourage a total break. When you see these kids struggling for democracy and freedom, this would be a bad time for the United States to withdraw," Bush said.

But in announcing steps that included a freeze in contacts between beware in Poland," Bush said. "It U.S. and Chinese military officials,

"We cannot condone the violent attacks and cannot ignore the consequences for our relationship with China.

He added, "Throughout the world we stand with those who seek greater freedom and democracy."

Bush, who was expected to meet at the White House later in the day with congressional leaders, won immediate applause from one liberal Democrat for his announcement.

"I think he's taken the exact, appropriate steps," said Sen. Alan Cranston of California. "He has avoided taking extreme steps that would not contribute to the resolution of the problems.'

Bush spoke as eyewitnesses reported soldiers had swept through Beijing earlier in the day, shooting at enraged civilains. The civilians were angered by the Army's weekend sweep through the center of Beijing that routed the pro-democracy demonstrators, killing hundreds in the process.

There also were reports of fighting between military units sent to quell the unarmed prodemocracy protests

Bush noted the reports of inter nal military strife, but said. "I cer tainly want to stop short of predic ting a civil war between up its of the People's Liberation Army

Among the other steps, Bush also said he would order U.S. officials to give a "sympathetic review" to any request by Chinese students for an extension of their stay in the United States and would offer assistance through the interna tional Red Cross.

Khomeini, 86, died Saturday of a heart attack, 11 days after intestinal surgery, leaving the country gripped by its worst political crisis since the revolution that catapulted the Moslem cleric to power in 1979.

Khamenei, 49, apparently was appointed to avoid a leadership vacuum.

Khomeini's body was transported by ambulance to the mosque, where hundreds of thousands of his followers had waited all night. He is to be buried Tuesday.

Wailing men, women and children screamed and pounded on the ambulance as it moved slowly through the crowd.

Beating on their breasts and heads in a traditional Shiite sign of mourning, they screamed "Sorrow, sorrow is this day Khomeini the idol smasher is with God today!"

Crowds waved life-size portraits of the stern-faced, white-bearded Khomeini decorated with black ribbons and red flowers.

Readings from the Koran, Islam's holy book, blared from the mosque's minaret.

"We have been orphaned! Our theft of $64.50 in alchohol and $232 father is dead!" several women A woman who resides in the screamed.

representative of the prophet among Iran's merchant class and Mohammed.

The constitution requires an ayatollah lead the country, but Khamenei is a hojatoleslam, a middle-ranking cleric.

Sections of Khomeini's "divine political will and testament" read Sunday at an emergency session of Parliament gave no hint on resolving the crisis.

In a five-page preface, the ayatollah denounced the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, whom he toppled in 1979 ending 2,500 years of Iranian monarchy. He called the shah and his father, Reza, corrupt and "uncultured tyrants

Then he cautioned Iranians against "plots hatched by the enemies, and the world-devouring America," which, he said, is spending many millions of dollars sending envoys to sow disunity in the region.

'Now that the Islamic Republic has been founded, it is up to you to preserve it," said Khomeini's last message to his people.

"You are duty-bound to strive to the best of your abilities ... to preserve this system, which in such a short time has had such an important impact, and whose light, it is hoped, shall shine on all the Moslem countries, and all Moslems of the world.'

An 83-member assembly, handpicked by Khomeini to formulate the Islamic Constitution and decide on a successor, elected Khamenei, who is considered a pragmatist opposed to fundamentalist radicalism.

Likely results include changing the constitution to increase the president's powers at the expense of the prime minister and downgrading the religious qualifications for leadership. Khamenei has strong support moderates who favor restoring ties with the West. But he lacks a strong political power base.

Khamenei said the constitutional reform would not be completed in two to three months and put to the vote Aug. 18, when Iranians also will elect a new president.

It was not clear what, if any, effect Khomeini's death would have on 15 foreign hostages held in Lebanon, most by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem extremists. They include nine Americans

It also was not clear what effect Khomeini's testament will have on a resurgence of radical fundamentalism that began in February.

Khomeini then urged Moslems to kill British author Salman Rushdie for writing the novel "The Satanic Verses," which many Moslems consider blasphemous.

Opposition groups in exile predict a crisis.

Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, the former president exiled in France, said Khamenei's appointment indicates "a total failure."

"Imagine a church that cannot find a pope.... It is exactly the same. Like a dynasty that cannot find a king. . . . It will not last," he said.

He said Khamenei will be part of a troika ruling Iran, along with Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani and Khomeini's son. All three are middle-ranking Islamic clergymen.

Khomeini ruled Iran during the 8-year war with Iraq, and Iraqis cheered the news of his death and expressed hope Iran now will sign a treaty to end the conflict permanently. Khomeini is survived by his wife, three daughters and son. His eldest son, Mustafa, died while Khomeini was in exile in Iraq.

the cotton is going to come up and see how much of it was hurt by the hail

Mauldin said the county also suffered some sand damage Thursday when the wind blew so hard before the rain" and that he expected some Mitchell County farmers to start planting in "a couple of days.'

In Howard County, extension agent Don Richardson said it was basically still real dry in the Lomax area

'They are still dryplanting to meet crop insurance regulations,' Richardson said. "In the Knott community we're in pretty good shape because they had two to three inches of rain.

"The same goes for the area towards Coahoma. Most farmers are planting. In Knott we had some washing and some hail, but no crops were hailed out. Some farmers will have to replant it rained so hard.

"It's still dry south of town in some places. Most of the rain came in Big Spring or on the rangeland. It just looks like concrete and rocks received more rain that anywhere else.

Newt Gingrich is next subject of House ethics committee

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House ethics committee soon will begin reviewing a complaint against Republican Whip Newt Gingrich, an omen that the chamber's ethics problems are not a bad dream that will vanish with the departure of Speaker Jim Wright and Majority Whip Tony Coelho.

Ethics committee members could begin as early as Thursday, at their next meeting, to review a Democratic member's complaint that Gingrich, R-Ga., violated rules on outside income and receipt of gifts.

The allegations against Gingrich, revolving around a partnership formed to promote a book he co-authored, are not the only reasons an ethics cloud will hover over the House while Democrats stry to divert attention from their leaders' conduct.

Still pending are Justice Department investigations of House members' personnel practices, Justice Department internal probes of leaks about those investigations, the conviction of a Republican lawmaker for having sex with a minor and more public hearings by a House task force considering changes in ethics rules.

But as Wright prepares to leave Congress rather than fight 69 charges of rules violations, and as Coelho, D-Calif., plans his exit to avoid repeated questions on a junk bond deal, many seething Democrats will pay close attention to the case against Gingrich. The Georgia Republican filed the original complaint against Wright, although the allegations he cited were later dropped.

Asked if he expected to be a victim of retribution, Gingrich said last week, "I may be," but added he would trust the judgment of the eight-member ethics panel that is equally divided politically.

Gingrich said he wouldn't be sur-prised if the committee — officially the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct - took up his case this week. Committee Chairman Julian Dixon, D-Calif., said the panel may consider the complaint, filed by Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., within two weeks.

Rep. Beryl Anthony Jr., D-Ark., chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said Democrats "do not have an organized strategy where we met and said, 'We're going to do A, B or C on Newt. Our strategy is to sit back and let the process work. The assumption is the committee will move with deliberate speed. They've got nothing to gain by postponing it."

Banks face burdens of foreign debt

WASHINGTON (AP) - It gets to be a pattern. A Third World country falls deep in debt. It looks for help and advice. The United States and other rich countries tell it to pull in its belt. That translates to raising food and gasoline prices, devaluing the currency, getting rid of the budget deficit, firing useless government workers.

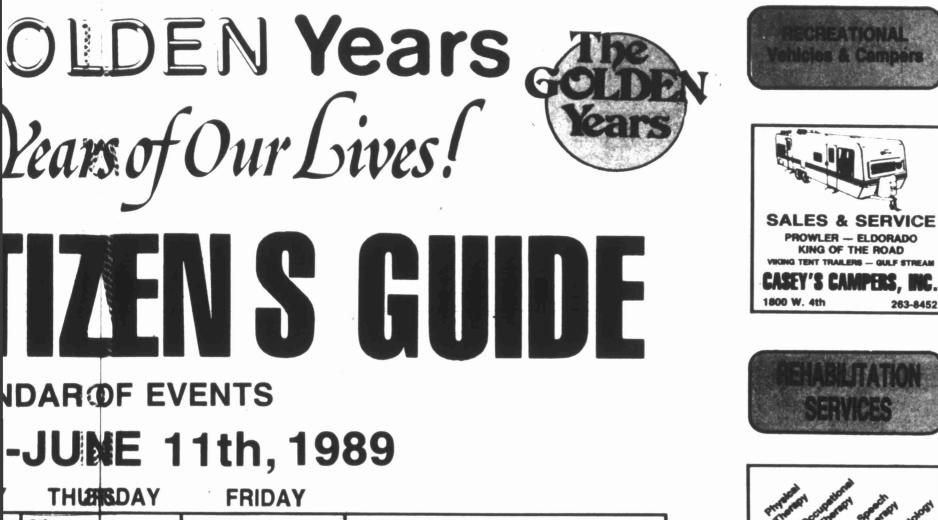

The poor country follows the advice, or some of it.

That's when the rioting sometimes starts.

Now it's Nigeria, the most populous country in Africa. Last month it was Jordan, which gets extensive aid from other Arab countries and the United States. Before that it was Venezuela, one of the more stable and prosperous countries in Latin America. Sometimes there's also rioting when not all the advice is followed, as happened last week in Argentina.

Some austerity programs succeed. South Korea has had a series of successful ones. Chile and Turkey are also cited as examples of what can be done by taking unpleasant economic medicine. But the prospect of political upheaval makes leaders of many countries unwilling to ask for help or to meet the conditions set for it when they do.

Americans are changing the way they manage their own bodies, but they are still getting fatter every year. At a time when the public has more information than ever before about health and fitness, about what foods are healthful . . . , the increase in the percentage of overweight Americans is alarming and disappointing.

Polster Louis Harris pointed out that two-thirds of Americans weigh more than their height and body type justify. And two-thirds . . . said they don't exercise strenuously.

Junk food continues its popularity; and exercise, while gaining in visibility, has not worked its way into the daily routines of enough Americans. It's time for a federal initiative, similar to President Kennedy's President's Council on Physical Fitness, something to inspire all of us to keep fit and stay healthy. The Westerly (R.I.) Sun

Making skyways safer

Three cheers for the Federal Aviation Administration, which has taken an important step toward making flying safer.

Until now, FAA policy has been to regularly inspect airliners, looking for signs of cracks, corrosion or metal fatigue. When problems were found, parts were ordered replaced.

Last year's Aloha Airlines accident tragically illustrated the inadequacy of that policy. The aircraft involved, an older Boeing 737, passed its inspection. But later, in flight over the Pacific, the top third of the aircraft peeled away. A flight attendant died when she was sucked out of the plane and 61 of the 94 other people on board were injured before the pilots safely landed the aircraft on the island of Maui.

Since the Aloha incident, the FAA has re-examined its safety policies for older aircraft and it's now decided to order many parts replaced at a certain age, regardless of their condition. . .

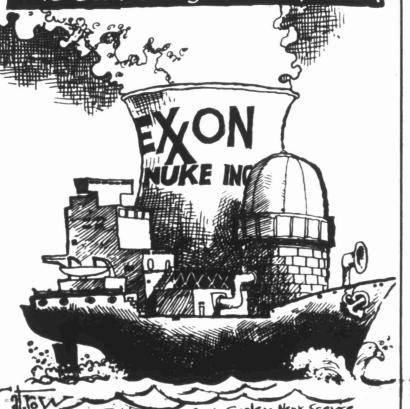

The FAA says the new policy will cost the airlines more than $140 million over the next few years. But that will be a cheap price to pay if it makes the skylanes safer.

Diplomatic poker by Bush's rules

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent MAINZ, West Germany (AP) -It turns out that President Bush knows how to play poker — by his own rules. Bush waited for the Soviet Union to raise twice before he even put his arms control ante on the table.

Then the president upped the stakes, called the hand, and said the next move was Moscow's.

In his debut at the western summit, Bush claimed a double hit, proposing conventional arms limitations he said would transform the military map of Europe, and gaining a compromise on his terms to settle West Germany's unwelcome demand for immediate negotiations aimed at reducing short-range nuclear missiles.

After a quick, aerial commute from Brussels to Bonn on Tuesday, he assured the Germans that they were happy about it. What's more, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl agreed, and said the president's overnight visit would be a major political plus as he seeks to defend his leadership in elections next year.

The administration's concern is that negotiations on short-range nuclear missiles might bring pressure to eliminate those weapons, just as Moscow and Washington agreed in 1967 to eliminate intermediate-range nuclear missiles. Bush and Secretary of State James A. Baker III both said, and repeated, that there can be only partial reduction in short-range missiles, that they will be needed for the foreseeable future to offset Eastern bloc manpower in Europe.

In any event, the missile negotiations are not even to begin until there is a pact on reduction of conventional arms in Europe. That will not satisfy Kohl's opposition on the left, even though the chancellor said the compromise made everyone a winner

To ease any political sting, Bush, who faced U.S. criticism and pressure of his own for going slow-ly of arms control, spoke of that problem Wednesday in a speech in Mainz weapons. Bush held his cards and kept his poker face, although the administration welcomed Soviet arms cut proposals that were offered 10 days ago, saying they held promise and moved toward the goals of the western allies.

Moscow now has called the Bush-NATO proposals to limit troops and weapons a positive step, sug-gesting at the same time that conventional arms cuts should cover everything. The Bush plan doesn't mention naval forces in the European theater.

While Bush said he'd known where he was going all along, there had been evidence of White House frustration at Gorbachev's success in dominating the debate.

According to the administration, the Bush proposals for conventional arms cuts began to take their final form after discussions at his home in Kennebunkport, Maine, over a long weekend visit that began May 18. Administration emissaries were sent to NATO capitals to talk about the arms reduction proposal, brief allied leaders, and build a consensus.

Baker said the arms cut plan was shaped "on a separate track," apart from the policy review.

"All the various bureaucracies in the federal government that have to consider these things ultimately considered this proposal," Baker said. "But it wasn't put into the general review; it was dealt with at a higher level in the government.'

Finally, on Monday, Bush was ready, unveiling at NATO his call for cuts to 275,000 U.S. and Soviet troops in Europe, with ceilings on tanks, artillery and combat air-craft as well. It built on both Western and Soviet proposals. And Bush proposed that it all be done about five years faster than Gorbachev suggested. While Bus said he'd been im

If you wondered what happened to Evel Knievel, he's alive and well - temporarily, at least - and operating under the name of Newt Gingrich.

Knievel, of course, was the accident-prone daredevil who thought he could defy gravity over the Grand Canyon on a motorcycle.

Rep. Gingrich, fast-talking, impulsive Republican from Georgia, has the equally madcap idea he can fly over the congressional ethics carnage without a scratch.

I'd say odds are 2 to 1 Gingrich winds up in the political version of an emergency ward.

Gingrich's crash landing would be applauded by at least 200 House Democrats. Expect no get-well cards.

Democrats can't forget that Gingrich relentlessly pursued (House Speaker Jim) Wright, kicking him for a "Mussolini-like ego" while Wright was down. So, they're combing Gingrich's past, photostating copies of a 1984 Mother Jones magazine piece on his messy divorce.

And the nastiness won't stop with Neutron Newt. These guys make the Hatfields and McCoys look like a

Environmental concern

A survey . . . shows that Americans are aware of the rapid increase in the pollution of our environment and they want goverment to take urgent action to halt it.

The message hasn't yet been understood by the politicians and the bureaucrats who have been charged with protecting the environment. Public support for cleanups has been greatly underestimated.

The survey, undertaken by Media General and The Associated Press, clearly demonstrated that the public is not blind to what's happening and not unconcerned...

It is no suprise that the people polled were aware of what's happening. The media have been documenting the problems.

What is encouraging is that the survey shows just how willing people are to support efforts to halt the pollution. even with measures that would be inconvenient and costly to them.

Employers can contribute to educational quality

By Joseph Dawes

I started teaching mathematics in 1961 and added computing in 1967. I have become concerned in recent years with the large number of students who come to me illequipped to learn what I have to teach. This problem has now moved into the national consciousness as a result of the reasons listed in your article - the need for a skilled work force to meet the challenges of the technological era and maintain American competitiveness.

Many of the suggestions for preparing tomorrow's employees for that environment assume (as your article does) that the country should look first to the business community for answers to education problems, that teachers somehow lack the managerial sense needed to identify problems and apply resources effectively to their solutions

But as a teacher responsible for managing instruction in classrooms, I recognize a basic problem that other people do not see on a day-to-day basis: the failure of many parents to provide the support that is critical to the successful education of their children.

Any attempt to solve the educa-tion problems addressed in your article without modifying parental attitudes toward the education of their children is window dressing. Someone needs to work with the parents. We teachers can hardly ever contact them in any meaningful way. Both parents are usually at work all day, and our infrequent contacts with them come at awkward and inappropriate times and then are brief

But you people in business see nearly all of these parents every working day. You can have their ears nearly any time you wish. They would listen to you. As business people, you now receive the deference that teachers once shared. You could saturate the workplace with reminders about the role parents must play if their children's education is to be successful. You could set up an informal, voluntary program to encourage parental involvement in education. Whether such an approach is feasible for you would depend, of course, on the things that vould surprise you and, perhaps, give you better insights into the problems of education. If you asked your employees with school-age children what topics their children worked on at school in the past week, most of them wouldn't know. The lack of knowledge would increase in direct roportion to the child's grade level. You would be interested in the results of such other discussion topics as whether the parents:

States recommend AIDS education

WASHINGTON (AP) - AIDS education and state dollars to pay for it are on the rise throughout the country, with all but nine states now requiring or recommending what should be taught about the fatal disease and when, says a new survey.

The survey of education departments found that 41 states have a curriculum or curriculum guide for use in teaching students about AIDS — 13 more than last year. In addition, the number of states appropriating their own money for AIDS instruction has more than tripled, from eight to 27, since last

In 32 states the AIDS curriculum or guide is advisory; in seven states, D.C. and Puerto Rico it is mandatory. Eleven states include only secondary grades while 28 designate elementary and secondary grades; one includes only grades

Landslide victories likely for Solidarity

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Par-Poland's first democratic election since World War II indicated a strong Solidarity victory in the new Senate and the possible rejection of top communist officials in the lower house of Parliament.

However, the early returns tabulated by the Solidarity Citizens Committee still represented a tiny fraction of the more than 16 million votes cast Sunday, and a final official count was not expected until Wednesday.

There were no reports of a Communist Party candidate getting into the 100-member Senate, raising the possibility of a Solidarity sweep in the first freely elected legislative chamber in the East bloc.

Hundreds die in pipeline explosion

MOSCOW (AP) - A gas pipeline exploded as two passenger trains were passing by in the Ural Mountains early Sunday. Tass said some train cars caught fire and "hundreds" of people were killed. At least 400 people were reported injured.

Tass said President Mikhail S. Gorbachev and other top Soviet leaders rushed to the scene of the disaster, which the official news agency called a "huge catastrophe" and a "terrible tragedy.

It said the pipeline containing liquefied petroleum gas exploded at 1:14 a.m. as the two trains traveling in opposite directions passed by on the Trans-Siberian railroad. It said the gas leaked and caught fire.

Tass said the pipeline ran alongside the tracks and that some of the rail cars were incinerated. It was unclear what caused the leakage and explosion.

> "There is a process that most people believe is internal to the sun that's producing the solar cycle," he explained. "The cycle actually starts before the appearance of the first spots, those only appear in the later part of cycle."

While sunspots are easy to count and are the most visible part of the cycle, they actually have little effect.

What concerns scientists are bursts of radiation from the star that follow a cycle too, and are expected to occur in peaks and valleys, perhaps for as long as three or four years, Hirman explained.

Solar flares send out blasts of particles and radiation which can have serious effects on Earth when heading in this direction

This radiation could produce disruptive periods, such as occurred in March, once or twice a year during that time, said Hirman.

And when that occurs the pulses of radiation can interfere with 'There is no reason to think it radio transmissions, including won't continue to rise and so the radar and satellite communicamomentum will carry us to near tions. It can also affect the grids the top of past cycles," Hirman ex- connecting electrical generating

Another effect is the geomagnetic storm, a disruption of the Earth's magnetic field, which leads to the aurora borealis and aurora australis, the northern and southern lights. In March the northern lights were seen as far south as Houston

Some researchers have sought to link the 11-year solar cycle to weather and climate on the earth, but so far scientists have not come to a complete agreement on whether there is a measurable effect.

A 1987 study by the National Center for Atmospheric Research and the Free University of Berlin did indicate an influence on the paths of winter storms in the North Atlantic Ocean.

There can be a bright side to solar activity.

Increases in ultraviolet radiation in the past have helped induce increased formation of ozone in the upper atmosphere. Ozone helps protect the planet from damaging radiation and scientists have become concerned that chemicals are reducing the amount of ozone in the upper air.

Why do insurance premiums go up? You're looking at one big reason. Auto theft. The number of auto thefts has gone up 32% in the last 10 years. And the average value of those thefts has gone up 181%.

With the value of cars going up, a professional thief can easily steal over $50,000 worth of vehicles in a single night. And guess whose premiums pay for replacing those cars? If you feel a pain in your wallet, you guessed right.

At State Farm, we believe that ways must be found to keep these thieves from forcing premiums to go up. That's why we work closely with the National Auto Theft Bureau to help stop car thieves, throw them in jail, and recover the cars they stole. And why we started a pilot program to etch vehicle identification numbers on key parts of theftprone car models.

State Farm is there, every day. Finding more ways to help protect our policyholders from the causes of rising premiums. So we can keep insurance affordable.

While Steffi Graf remains on course for a third straight women's title, Sabatini was beaten Sunday by a player two years her junior. Mary Joe Fernandez, a 17-year-old American with braces on her teeth and a ribbon in her hair, upset the second seed 6-4, 6-4 to move into the quarterfinals against No. 10 Helen Kelesi

It was Fernandez' fourth straight win over Sabatini.

"I've played her many times," Sabatini said. "I think it's mental." Fernandez was joined in the quarterfinals by five other teenagers, including 15-year-old Monica Seles, a Yugoslavian now living in the United States.

Seles, the only unseeded player left in women's singles, beat Jo-Anne Faull of Australia 6-3, 6-2. Seles will next meet Manuela Maleeva, at 22 the oldest woman left in the draw.

Graf's next opponent is Conchita Martinez, a 17-year-old Spaniard who advanced with a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Katerina Maleeva of Bulgaria. Another 17-year-old Spaniard, Arantxa Sanchez, beat Amanda Coetzer 6-3, 6-2 to reach the quarterfinals.

Graf continued to steamroll her opposition Sunday, routing Italian qualifier Silvia la Fratta 6-2, 6-1. Graf, seeking her sixth consecutive Grand Slam title, has lost only nine games in four matches.

While the youth movement is primarily on the women's side, teen-agers also are making their mark in the men's competition.

Byrum breaks four year drought with Kemper win

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) - Tom Byrum needed something to sooth his nerves as he entered the final round of the Kemper Open. What his memory didn't provide, his caddy did.

PGA

Drawing from the experience gained from two earlier crushing defeats and chuckling at his joke-telling caddy, a relaxed Byrum shot a 3-underpar 68 Sunday o win by five strokes with a tournamentrecord 268

Byrum, who entered the tournament winless in four years on the PGA Tour, began the final round with a two-shot lead. He had been close to that elusive first victory before. But in 1986

he blew a two-shot advantage in the Western Open, and last year he lost a four-stroke lead on the final day of the Pensacola Open. Both losses were crushing, but helpful

Byrum pulled away Sunday with three straight birdies on Nos. 4-6. That gave him a fiveshot lead, and the margin never got lower than three the rest of the way.

Tommy Armour III, Jim Thorpe and Billy Ray Brown finished in a tie for second. Thorpe shot a 67 to earn his biggest paycheck since 1986. Armour, who started the day two strokes back, had pars on the final 12 holes for a 71 and Brown shot a 67 after making birdies on the opening three holes.

Byrum iced the victory with a 12-foot birdie putt on the par-4 16th hole. He capped the round with pars on Nos. 17 and 18 to finish at 16-under for the tournament.

His wife, Dana, and the couple's daughter, 14-month-old Brittni, crowded around him after he dropped in an eightfooter on No. 18.

Byrum, who entered the Kemper having missed the cut in nine of 16 tournaments this year, had only six bogeys in four trips over the 6,917-yard TC at Avenel course. His total bettered the Kemper record of 270 by Bob Menne in 1974 and Tom Kite two years ago.

"I feel my hand is 100 percent, but my mind isn't 100 percent,' he said. "It just feels good just to be playing, though."

Sheehan beats Okamoto in playoff to capture Rochester International

PITTSFORD, N.Y. (AP) -The magic number to get into the LPGA Hall of Fame is 30. But for Patty Sheehan, the key number at the Rochester International was 17.

Sheehan eagled the 17th hole Sunday after making a double eagle there Saturday, then beat Japan's Ayako Okamoto in a one-hole playoff to win the $300,000 tournament.

LPGA

It was Sheehan's 20th career win, moving her another step toward the goal that's been in the back of her mind for a while a berth in the Hall of Fame.

"I feel like I've gotten over a hump in some respects," Sheehan said. "I knew I only had 11 more tournament wins to get in the Hall of Fame and now I only need 10. So, I'm working toward that."

But don't ask when or if she expects to make it into the Hall of Fame, which currently only mini-debates with herself over whether it's likely anybody, including herself, is going to make it into the Hall of Fame anytime soon

"I think it's got to be the most difficult Hall of Fame to get into," she said.

To get into the LPGA Hall of Fame, a needs 30 victories, including two major championships, or 35 wins with one major, or 40 victories.

Amy Alcott is the closest needing just three wins to make it. Pat Bradley needs seven.

Sheehan's up-and-down weekend began Thursday when she tied a tournament record with for lowest nine-hole score by shooting a 30 - after suffering through three bogeys on the first five holes. She ended up with the first-round lead at 68.

She dropped to second place Friday and stayed there until the par-5, 476-yard, 17th hole Saturday, when her 3-wood shot traveled 222 yards, bounced in front of the green and rolled into Sunday's final round.

The lead vanished with bogeys on the second and seventh holes and Sheehan appeared to be destined for another near-miss until she reached No. 17 again.

This time, she sank a 25-foot putt for an eagle-3 that put her back in front, but Okamoto, who got back into contention with four straight birdies on the back nine, made a birdie on the same hole and tied her at 10-under-par going into the final hole.

Okamoto, who won the Corning Classic last week and finish ed second two weeks ago at the LPGA Championship, could have won on the 18th, but missed a six-foot birdie putt.

They both finished at 10-under 278 after four rounds at the par-72, 6,126-yard Locust Hill course.

In the playoff, Okamoto missed a 12-foot par putt after her second shot ended up in front of 1/4h1/2 green on the right side. Sheehan made a short putt for

Mears becomes top dog with Miller 200 victory

Earnhardt dominates Bud 500

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Rick Mears is the winningest Indycar driver of the 1980s, thanks to a victory in the Miller High Life 200 where he combined skill, luck and patience - a familiar formula for him over the years. Sunday's victory was Mears' 25th overall and 19th in this decade, pushing him past Mario Andretti and Bobby Rahal.

Mears had to come from nearly two laps behind at Wisconsin State Fair Park, beating Andretti's son, Michael, who finished second

But Mears didn't take over until Indianapolis 500 winner Emerson Fittipaldi was bumped on lap 146 by Bernard Jourdain and dropped out 32 laps later.

After Fittipaldi's mishap, Mears waited while Fittipaldi and Michael Andretti fought for the lead. Then when Fittipaldi left the race with a broken

PHOENIX (AP) — Although 11 races remain on the 1989 Formula One schedule, Alain Prost said his race for the world driving championship would have been over if he hadn't won the Phoenix Grand Prix

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) - When San Jacinto College won the National Junior College World Series, pitcher David Evans had to be carried off the field on a stretcher.

Astros win another marathon

By The Associated Press The Houston Astros brought their long weekend to a successful finish by borrowing a trick from Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda.

When the Dodgers ran out of pitchers in Game 4 of last year's National League playoffs. Lasorda turned to ace starter Orel Hershiser, who retired the final batter of the 12-inning game to preserve the victory.

Houston faced a similar situation Sunday. The Astros and Dodgers had played 22 innings the night before, were tied 6-6 after 12 innings and were out of pitchers.

In came Mike Scott, the 13th pitcher used by Houston in two games and the winner on Friday night. Not only did he work a scoreless inning, he also drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly for a 7-6 victory, the Astros' 10th in a row.

"When you are losing, you find ways to lose games but we're fin-ding ways to win," said Scott, 9-3. "When you come to the park, there's always a chance you're going to play. You've got to be ready.'

The Dodgers pounded starter Bob Forsch for five runs in the first inning, and made it 6-0 in the third. Louie Meadows' grand slam keyed Houston's comeback.

"When they got ahead 6-0, we were on the bench saying 'there's no way these guys are going to beat us,"' Scott said. "We've got that feeling that we are going to figure out a way to win even when we're down 6-0.

Elsewhere, it was Chicago 11, St. Louis 3; New York 4, Pittsburgh 3; Montreal 7, Philadelphia 4; Atlanta 6, San Francisco 3, and Cincinnati 5, San Diego 3.

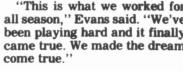

With the bases loaded and one one in the 13th. Scott hit the second pitch from Alejandro Pena, 2-2, to center field, scoring Rafael winning Ramirez. The Astros' streak ties a club record.

Danny Jackson, 4-8, allowed eight hits and struck out seven over 6 1-3 innings in his first start in a week. Jackson hadn't thrown from a mound since last Sunday because of a sore big toe on his left foot that required a cortisone shot and a week of rest.

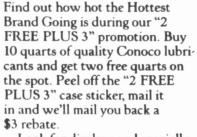

Jackson also had an RBI single in the four-run rally off Bruce Hurst, 5-4, that gave the lefthander his third win in his last five decisions.

John Franco, the third Cincinnati pitcher, worked the ninth for his 16th save in 17 opportunities.

her English teacher, Cindy Bryant, announced the contest.

Tasha, who enjoys writing, wrote a three-paragraph essay telling of her leadership qualifications, her desire to help others and her ambitions for the future.

She is one of 33 winners selected from 692 entrants in Texas and Oklahoma to receive this award. The scholarship may be used in any U.S. college. Tasha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Gilstrap.

First-graders in Mrs. Phillips' class at Kentwood enjoyed interesting visitors recently. Coming to contribute to the study of other parts of the world were Darlene Carroll, Pam Harvey and Malcolm Pointon Kristina Carroll and her mother, Darlene, showed slides of Mexico. Mrs. Carroll shared some of her experiences living in Mexico for five years.

Elizabeth Harvey and her mother, Pam, helped the class become enthusiastic about China by cooking Chinese food. Elizabeth demonstrated how Chinese eat with chopsticks.

Malcolm Pointon, a missionary visiting the United States, was a guest of Brian Morris. Pointon showed slides of New Zealand and talked about life in that country. Students were interested in lush green forests, the beaches and kiwi birds. They especially enjoyed hearing the way New Zealanders speak.

CUTE QUOTE: The school nurse was taking the blood pressure of each student in Mrs. Woodall's first-grade classroom at Kentwood. One of the little girls asked if anyone ever made 100 on the blood pressure test!

A SMILE: It happened at St. Mary's Episcopal School. Using the word "stork" in a sentence during a spelling test provoked the comment, "And storks bring babies."

Another student amended politely, "Not anymore."

Audio enthusiasts invest in high-powered sound systems

The three young men are part of a small but growing core of audio enthusiasts whose high-power, high-dollar sound systems will spark an impromptu concert anywhere they go.

Their vehicles are casually referred to as "boom-boom cars." The people who own them are sometimes called "installers.

Garry Erdman, owner of Dyer Electronics, which carries much of the equipment the installers use, said that the boom-boom car trend is a natural progression from other fads

"Back in the '70s, the big thing was how fast your car could go, Erdman said. "The high horsepower isn't in cars so much anymore. So now, it's not how fast; it's how loud you can go....Instead of how many lives you can put in jeopardy, it's how many ears you can blow

Part of the attraction of owning a boom-boom car is the attention it demands, Erdman explained.

"It's like revving an engine. Everybody turns and looks," said Erdman, who sponsored a crank-itup contest on a recent Sunday. Kent Massie, like most serious installers, puts an emphasis on sound quality as well as volume.

His system includes a Sony CD player with attached amplifier, a Sony equalizer, two speaker plates containing two speakers each, two 6-inch-by-9-inch 100-watt JBL speakers, a Harmon Kardon amplifier, two 10-inch sub woofers and a 75-watt Rockford-Fosgate worth of sound equipment. Why, then, does Nuzum have the kind of wattage that can blast out

'Because when I pull up along

So it's not only the younger set that's pouring money into fancy auto sound systems. Raef, one of Nuzum's employees, said he's seeing more interest from older consumers - the ones with money. Raef, 19, who has been in the business for about five years, specializes in custom building

His philosophy is simple: "If it's too loud, then you're too old. "I've sat in cars where you the East Coast, which is where he developed the interest. In California, he was sponsored by several manufacturers who paid for his equipment and his entrance fee for crank-it-up contests in return for the advertising he gave them. His van contained $15,000 worth of sound equipment, he said.

Nowadays, he's building up a system in his Chevy pickup.

He said he likes having a boomboom car because of the attention it grabs, plus, he enjoys have a one-of-a-kind ride.'

"I've got other friends with the same kind of systems and when we go to Lake Meredith, we open the doors and turn to the same station. We can still hear it when we're out on a boat. Other people will hear it, and they'll dock. We'll just have a good party all weekend long." So far, he said, he's invested about $3,000 in his car system.

"The way I look at it is, I don't have house payments or a lot of bills, so I can afford to go ahead and put my money into my car," he said

His reasoning is shared by his friend Matt Harding.

"People always ask you, 'Why would you spend so much money on this?' We're 19. What else should we spend it on? Drugs?

"These are my big guns," he said, flipping the bucket seat of his Toyota Celica forward to show the round black faces of 18-inch woofers.

His equipment is worth about $7,000. When he's finished adding on, he said, it will contain 20 speakers and be worth about $10,000.
