DALLAS - Big Spring's postmaster of 20 years, Frank Hardesty, who retired two years ago, was elected president of the Postmasters Retired at a Dallas convention Wednesday Hardesty, who as a postmaster HARDESTY was extremely active in the National Postmasters of the United States organization, said he will serve a two-year term as president of the group

"This is an organization of postmasters who have retired but still are interested in the Postmasters of the United States," he said. "I think so far as our state of Texas is concerned we have some 955 members, and nationally I think our total . . . is a little over 15,000.'

As president of the Texas branch of retired postmasters, Hardesty said he will serve on the executive board of directors of the active postmasters, helping to formulate policies and programs. He also will represent the state's retired postmasters at national meetings.

As an active postmaster, Hardesty served as president of the state association in 1978 and served two years as the national vice president. He currently is chairman of the national legislative committee of retired postmasters.

"I've kind of kept a hand in s," he said.

Bill Kennedy, a retired costmaster from Woodsboro and editor of the group's monnewsletter, sald Hardesty's position as an advisor is vital to protecting the interests of retired postmasters. "Frank was very important nationally and he's even going to be more important nationally with this office," Kennedy said.

Stacy Dam work 'almost' on schedule

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

STACY DAM SITE - After a couple of slow months, construction of the Stacy Dam is nearly back on schedule, with closure expected to occur in mid-November.

More than 300 construction workers are involved in the project, which will cost in excess of $68 million when completed, according to Joe Pickle, secretary/treasurer of the Colorado River Municipal Water District

Most of the work now being done is centered on the dam's spillway; work on the embankment is at a said.

Three of the spillway's six gates - each 50 feet wide - are in place, and fabrication of the others is continuing. Brown and Root, the project contractor, is working two shifts a day from now until closure, he noted.

After all the gates are in place, workers will then construct an overhead trolley to facilitate easier repairs on the gates.

> "We've lost comparably little time because of the rainy weather," Pickle said. "The lost time involved has been minimal." About $1 million was spent on the project last month, bringing expen-

Protection of the snake, considered to be an endangered species, has been the major stumbling block to the project in the past.

Pickle said, however, said that CRMWD officials may have to construct fewer of the protective riffles than previously believed.

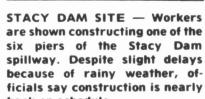

The latest census shows that there are nearly 300 of the snakes in the reservoir area.

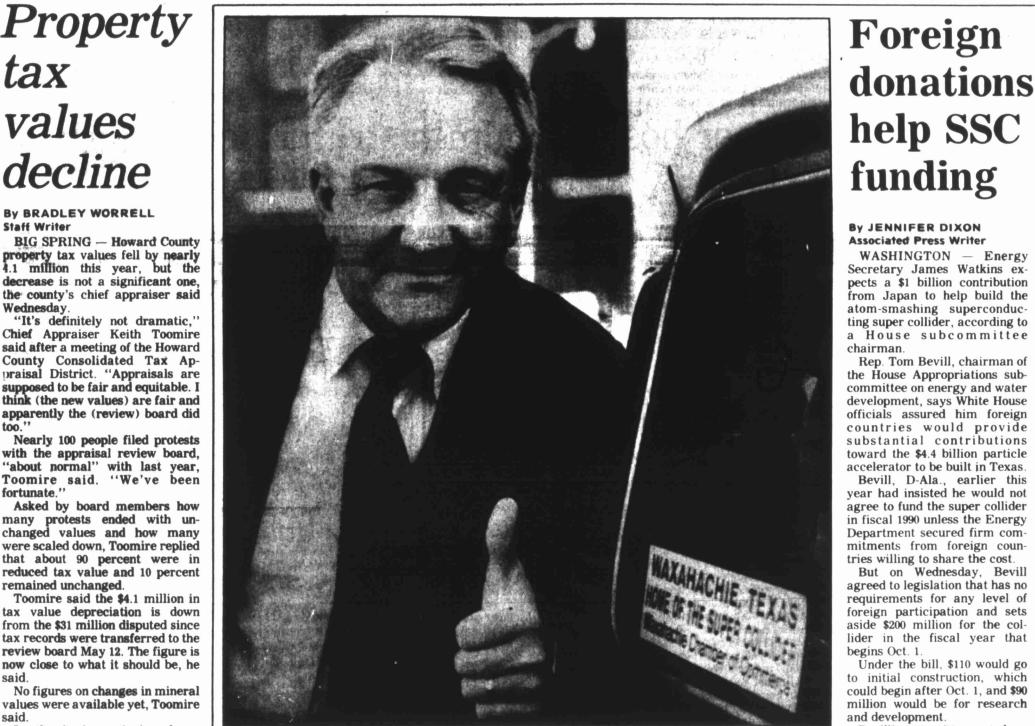

In addition, release points have been incorporated into the dam's spillway so that the snake may freely migrate, Pickle said.

• The water district acquired 309 more acres of land to bring it within about 1,000 of the 21,000 acres needed for the reservoir. In addition, brush clearing in the basin area is about 72 percent complete.

"It's definitely not dramatic," Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire said after a meeting of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District. "Appraisals are supposed to be fair and equitable. I think (the new values) are fair and apparently the (review) board did too.'

Nearly 100 people filed protests with the appraisal review board, "about normal" with last year, Toomire said. "We've been fortunate.

Asked by board members how many protests ended with unchanged values and how many were scaled down, Toomire replied that about 90 percent were in reduced tax value and 10 percent remained unchanged.

Toomire said the $4.1 million in tax value depreciation is down from the $31 million disputed since tax records were transferred to the review board May 12. The figure is now close to what it should be, he said.

No figures on changes in mineral values were available yet, Toomire said.

Rep. Tom Bevill, chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on energy and water development, says White House officials assured him foreign countries would provide substantial contributions toward the $4.4 billion particle accelerator to be built in Texas. Bevill, D-Ala., earlier this year had insisted he would not agree to fund the super collider in fiscal 1990 unless the Energy Department secured firm commitments from foreign countries willing to share the cost.

But on Wednesday, Bevill agreed to legislation that has no requirements for any level of foreign participation and sets aside $200 million for the collider in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Under the bill, $110 would go to initial construction, which could begin after Oct. 1, and $90 million would be for research and development.

Bevill's committee voted on the bill after he attended a meeting at the White House with President Bush.

Senior citizen flap angers city council

By RUTH COCHRAN Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Big Spring City Council members heard perhaps more than they wanted to about the Senior Citizens Center during their regular meeting Tuesday.

Center Director Jaynet Smith appeared before the board to request help in paying the center's pest control bill. Smith made the request but also blasted the council for what she feels is the city's indifference towards senior citizens and its neglect of the center.

"Is the senior center the example you would set to business or industry wanting to come to Big Spring?" Smith asked the board.

Smith scolded the council, saying the city hasn't helped to properly maintain a valuable property the center - and hasn't contributed much money to the center. Council members, surprised and angered by the attack, countered that the city has indeed supported the center, which by lease contract is to be maintained by Howard County

"The city paid over $1,000 to help repair an engine in your (the said center's) station wagon,' Councilman Chuck Condray. "I bring that out to counter the fact that you say 'Hey, you're not concerned'.'

The city also provides the center with water, sewage and waste removal services, Condray said.

Councilman D.D. Johnston also was angered.

"It kind of irks me a little bit to say we've never done anything out there." Johnston said.

Council member Pat Deanda chastised Smith, saying the center is trying to force the council's hand by making the city appear negligent.

"It sounds like coercion to me," Deanda said. "They come over

District Judge Enrique Pena Wednesday extended Ricardo Santiesteban's probation for another five years, without ruling whether he is guilty of violating terms of the earlier probation.

'While you have no special right to escape incarceration or for that matter shock probation . . . incarceration is not the answer," Pena told the 23-yearold El Paso man. He also warned that any new violation could result in revocation of the probation and a prison sentence.

Prisons closed again

HUNTSVILLE (AP) - The Texas prison system was closed Wednesday to new prisoners because the inmate population surpassed a court-ordered limit, a corrections spokesman said.

The closure, which began at the end of the day Wednesday, was the eighth so far this year, Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said.

Brown said the prison system will be closed to new inmates for the rest of the week.

"Hopefully, we're going to open Monday or Tuesday or next week," he said.

The prison population Wednesday totaled 39.875 inmates, or 95.25 percent of capacity - 103 prisoners over the 95 percent limit.

AUSTIN (AP) - Disabled persons, who say they are frequently physically blocked from the halls of government, protested their plight behind the Governor's Mansion, saying, "No more back door."

About 15 members of the Coalition for Texans with Disabilities on Wednesday protested a ceremony at the mansion. Ironically, "the ceremony was to present awards to those who have raised the awareness of problems besetting the disabled.

Carole Patterson, executive director of the coalition, and a disabled person, said, "We're tired of going through the back door of government."

'It's a bigger issue than just this building," Ms. Patterson said. "The Capitol and the Capitol grounds are difficult if not impossible to get around. Disabled people are literally trapped in their homes because of the inaccessibility that exists," she said.

Ms. Patterson said that attempts to improve disabled access through legislation died during the regular session that ended May 29.

But members of the Governor's Committee for Handicapped Persons, who were sponsoring the awards ceremony, criticized the protest.

Disabled protestors decry lack of accessibility

"It's inappropriate," said Kent Waldrep, who is chairman of the committee and a wheelchair user. "I think the only reason they chose (to protest at the Governor's Mansion) was because it was a media event."

He also argued that although the disabled access entrance is in the rear of the mansion, it is the main entrance to the mansion.

"The entrance that wheelchair users have access to is also the primary entrance for the governor himself, or for any dignitaries attending a function," he said.

At the ceremony, Texas first lady Rita Clements, on behalf of the Committee for Disabled Persons, was scheduled to present the Barbara Jordan Media Awards. The award is in recognition of media that promote a greater public understanding and awareness of Texans with disabilities. It is named after Ms. Jordan, a former congresswoman who uses a wheelchair.

Larry Correu, president of the coalition, said it was ironic that an award bearing the name of a civil rights leader would be presented in ting, "No more back door."

someone. Now a Midland company is finding its own niche in the booming greeting card industry by designing cards not for a special occasion or to express a special feeling but for special people - those going through 12-step recovery programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous or Overeaters Anonymous. "These cards carry the message that we're loved and that we're all just doing the best we can," says Julie Williams, founder of Synergy and designer of the cards. "Part of the recovery program is spreading that message, and, for me, this is a way of carrying the message."

The line of cards - there are 32 designs — and posters feature friendly animal designs and offer messages of encouragement, ranging from 'Hang in there' to 'Let go and let God.

Ms. Williams - who is herself in a 12-step program and has worked through a divorce and other personal difficulties - got the idea for the cards about a year ago. "I was working for a credit union at the time and trying to decide what I needed to do with my life," she recalls. "And this idea came to me at work one day. I scoffed at it, but Eventually, she discussed the idea with some friends, who gathered with her to make the cards a reality. After an artist hired to design the cards decided not to continue the project, Ms. Williams sat down with index cards and marking pens and began drawing the covers.

"I was real insecure about it, because I'd never done any artwork except for doodling with my kids," she smiles.

Four friends have since joined her in running Synergy; she designs the cards with some help from Donna King, who writes most of the messages; Sue Johnson handles the inventory and accounting; Mark Clark markets the cards; and Steve Dunstan is in charge of keeping the company financed.

In fact, the company's name came from the bond the five have formed to produce and market the cards. "The name is based on 'synergism,' parts coming together to make a whole. We feel that's what God did when He brought the five of us together," Ms. Williams explains.

She finally left her job at the credit union earlier this year to concentrate on the greeting cards. After having some samples made, the five travelled to San Francisco to test market the cards. Recovery groups in the area led them to Fremont, Calif.-based Creative Arts Unlimited, a national card wholesaler.

Creative Arts now distributes Synergy cards to different recovery hospitals such as Bocky Mountain Treatment Center in Montana and The Meadows in Arizona, which is about to start carrying them, as well as bookstores and shops that specialize in recovery items. They're also being considered by several well-known foundations for inclusion in their catalogs.

She says the cards are useful as tools in treating recovering patients, and as expressions of encouragement and support. She was surprised, she says, to discover the cards have great cross-over appeal to buyers who aren't in 12-step programs. "I'm told people are buying bunches of them at a time," Ms. Williams says. "I guess it's the messages - everyone needs some encouragement."

Right now, the group is searching for the best way to market and distribute the cards

They are also planning a calendar and special occasion cards such as Christmas or Mother's Day or Father's Day. "It's hard sometimes for a person in a 12-step program to find a Mother's Day card," Ms. Williams notes. "All they can find are cards that say 'To the best Mom in the world;' well, a lot of these people came from dysfunctional homes and that's not what they feel, but they still love their Mom and want to tell her so."

Korean memorial to feature statues of weary soldiers

WASHINGTON (AP) - The memorial has been raised thus far, design for a $6 million Korean War White House contemplates visitors walking among statues of 38 weary-looking soldiers and becoming "at one with the figures."

The memorial, to be erected on the stretch of parkland known as the Washington Mall, will be built near the Lincoln and Vietnam Veterans memorials when the $6 million it costs is raised.

President Bush, guest of honor at a Flag Day ceremony Wednesday in the White House Rose Garden to unveil a model of the planned memorial, said: "Until recently, the Korean War was not formally remembered...It's time to remember.

Also on hand were a dozen celebrated Korean War veterans and advice columnist Abigail Van Buren – "Dear Abby" to her readers - who has helped raise funds for the project.

Bush credited the columnist with 'almost unbelievably'' raising $330,000 from readers by writing about plans for the memorial.

Some 5.7 million Americans served in Korea during the 1950-53 conflict. More than 54,000 were killed.

Four Pennsylvania State University architects won a contest to design the privately financed memorial, which they said combines sculpture, architecture and landscape design.

Statues in the memorial depict 38 soldiers heading unevenly down a 120-yard, tree-lined path toward the American flag. Some of the soldiers face in different directions, and two appear to help an injured buddy. A red line is to be drawn down the middle of the "platoon" for visitors to follow.

A statement released by the architects said: "The visitor is an observer, in the act of commemoration, and is simultaneously at one with the figures, the 39th presence.'

There will be 38 statues because the war began after the Soviettrained North Korean army crossed the 38th parallel into South Korea. Fighting ended with a truce on July 27, 1953.

The soldiers depicted will include blacks and members of various ethnic groups. No women are included but female nurses and other support personnel are to be featured on etchings on a wall that is part of the memorial.

Bush said the Korean War exemplified the American policy of containing communist aggression. That policy, he said, "created the conditions for the tide toward democracy now changing and uplifting our globe.'

The new GOP measure would be closely studied by Democrats looking to draft a new bill that will attract enough support to override Bush in the event of a second veto. While he introduced a measure identical to the one vetoed, Kennedy said he considered it only a start and would consider amendments. In the House, Hawkins was considering a proposal calling for an increase in the minimum wage to $4.25 an hour within two years. That level matches Bush's final target for the minimum wage but would bring it there a year earlier than Bush favors. After the meeting, Deanda said Smith, who took over as director of the center several months ago, should have done her homework before accusing the city of ignoring its responsibilities.

'The general atmosphere here was we were offended," Deanda said of the council. "She (Smith) specifically mentioned she had no prior knowledge (of the city's actions) yet said we'd done nothing." Deanda said that overall, the city goes above and beyond its responsibilities in all areas.

"It just so happens we're never recognized for anything we do unless it's negative," she said.

The center's request for funds died for lack of action during Tuesday's meeting, and afterwards Smith said she wasn't too disappointed.

"It was about what I expected to happen," she said.

Smith said she didn't mean to offend the council with her strong approach -- she was just stating her feelings

Weather

In Texas, a few showers and thunderstorms hit the lower Rio Grande Valley. In Dallas, police evacuated parts of residential Rochester Park because of flooding.

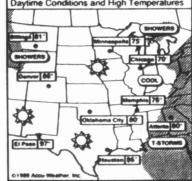

Two young brothers drowned Wednesday after being swept away in a rain-swollen creek in Dallas' Oak Cliff section, bringing to five the total of fatalities from the flooding since Tuesday. At one other man is feared missing.

Showers and thunderstorms developed ahead of the pair of cold fronts, scattering showers and thunderstorms from the central Gulf Coast to the Ohio Valley.

In the mid-Atlantic Coast region, a stationary front was creating more rain and thunderstorms.

The strongest thunderstorms were bearing down on northern Georgia early this morning. A severe thunderstorm watch was in effect for parts of northern Georgia and northwestern South Carolina.

On Wednesday, thunderstorms produced severe weather in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Ohio and Virginia. There were nearly 50 reports of severe weather, including seven tornadoes — four in Alabama — along with 19 reports of #### damaging winds.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms from the East Coast to the Mississippi River, from Louisiana to southcentral Texas, the upper Ohio Valley, and Alabama and northern Georgia; scattered showers in the Pacific Northwest; and scattered showers and thunderstorms from eastern Washington and Oregon to the northern Rockies.

Predicted highs: 90s in the south Atlantic coastal states, eastern Montana, portions of Utah, along the Rio Grande in Texas and California's interior valleys; and 100 to 115 in the desert Southwest.

"The president should understand that this is an issue on which Congress has only begun to fight,' said Kennedy, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee. "The issue is fairness and America's working poor deserve a fair increase in the minimum wage.

Kennedy, too, said he hoped to strike a compromise with the White House and with Hawkins invited Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole to appear before a joint session of the labor committees next week

But Kennedy served notice he wanted to advance a new bill quickly and would do so whether or not Bush gives ground.

"I would prefer to work out an acceptable compromise with the administration," Kennedy said. "But if that is not possible we will try to enact a measure that has the support of a veto-proof majority.

Initial White House reaction indicated that Bush was not about to budge

A pension by any other name

In 1981, the U.S. Supreme Court interpreted federal law as prohibiting divorced wives from receiving any part of their ex-husband's military retirement pay. The court was moved by neither the plight of many of these divorced women nor the fact that the pensions had been earned during their marriages and, in community property states like California, were commonly understood to be shared. The public outcry was such that Congress quickly passed a new law, the Former Spouse Protection Act, that was supposed to leave no legal ambiguities for the court to misinterpret. It provided that, in community property states, a military spouse is entitled to half the military pension earned during the marriage.

But in writing the new law in 1982, Congress inadvertently left open a new loophole by defining its terms so that only the part of the retirement benefit specifically labeled as such is covered. Since most military retirees take as much of their retirement pay as they are eligible to in the form of a "disability benefit"- because of the tax advantages of doing it that way - the 1982 law left a major ambiguity. And now the court has entered the fray again and ruled that ex-spouses are not entitled to any part of a military retiree's "disability benefits."

It's arguable whether the court could have decided any differently, given the sloppy language in the 1982 law. Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, in dissent, wrote that the court should not be sidetracked by definitional minutiae and should have let the law achieve what it was plainly intended to. However, for the majority, Justice Thurgood Marshall said the court's hands were tied; he urged Congress to change the law if it disagreed with the decision.

And that is precisely what Congress now must do. Retirees who choose to take the maximum "disability payment" for which they are eligible are not doing anything wrong or illegal, but since these payments are undeniably part of their retirement pay — are considered by the military to be dollar-for-dollar interchangeable with regular retirement pay — there is no logic to holding otherwise in the event of a divorce. Congress had the right idea when it first agreed that the states' ordinary divorce laws should apply in these military cases. All it has to do now is redraft that policy into language that sticks.

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." - Voltaire

Liberals are losing in the courts

By GEORGE F. WILL

WASHINGTON -- While Americans are marveling at the vitality of democratic ideas abroad, the consequences of democracy are appearing in the Supreme Court. These consequences are making many liberals cross

Consider a recent case: An Alaskan salmon cannery has two categories of jobs, skilled and unskilled. The former are filled mostly by whites, the latter by Filipinos and Alaskan natives.

A suit filed on behalf of non-white employees said, and a lower court agreed, that this statistical disparity, even without evidence of intent to discriminate, placed on the employer the burden of proving that the hiring practices that pro-duced it do not violate the 1964 Civil Rights Act banning discrimination in employment.

The non-white employees relied on a 1971 ruling by the unanimous Burger Court that a mere statistical showing of "disparate impact" would be virtually suffi-cient to invalidate "practices that are fair in form but discriminatory in practice." In the cannery case, the Court, abandoning the 1971 reasoning, ruled 5-4 that mere statistical evidence that non-whites are "underrepresented" in particular jobs does not do much to advance a discrimination complaint. Disparities must be shown to be caused by particular hiring practices, and employers can validate those practices by showing a legitimate business reason for them. The Court says plaintiffs have the heavy burden of showing a causal connection between a disparity and a particular hiring practice, and demonstrating an alternative practice that would achieve the same business end with less racial impact. This ruling will undermine has led, in turn, to statistical remedies: racial quotas. These have been imposed by public authorities or adopted preemptively by employers seeking to defend themselves against litigation.

Liberalism has developed the bad habit of invoking principles it does not believe. Today many liberals are saying that the "retreat" from the 1971 ruling is inherently disreputable. Their point ostensibly is that an 18-year life puts a precedent beyond challenge. But liberals know that a 58-year-old precedent was reasonably overthrown in 1954 in the schooldesegregation ruling that repudiated the "separate-butequalt dectrine. That repudiation was scalled har correction? not a retreat.

The liberals' actual principle, which they are too decorous to assert, is respect for the liberal ratchet: All irreversible change is in their direction. But the ratchet has been repealed.

Court (Rehnquist writing for the majority) affirmed the right of whites to sue. The Court held that a voluntary agreement between two groups is not immune from challenge by a third group, in this instance firemen who were not employees in 1974. Rehnquist's reasonable principle is that, "A person cannot be deprived of his legal rights in a proceeding to which he is not a party. This decision may mean an explosion of conservative legal challenges. Litigious liberals are not happy.

Both these decisions are deeply satisfying as ratifications of the sovereignty of the political process. The majority in these cases was completed by the addition of Justice Kennedy. He was nominated when Robert Bork was blocked by forces now fiercely unhappy about both decisions

The country has said emphatically that it wants at least 12 years of conservative Republican Presidents who will appoint justices who are kindred spirits. The attempt by some liberals to nullify that mandate, using the Senate confirmation process, has failed.

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Random thoughts while wonder ing whatever happened to David Hasselhoff:

As my wedding day fast approaches, I have been wondering about the keys to a happy marriage. Advice from several friends has been plentiful, but I'm afraid most can't be included in a family newspaper

Besides, when one looks at the track record of some of my friends when it comes to marital bliss, maybe I've been looking for recommendations in the wrong places.

But, just when I was about to forget about the whole thing and hope for the best, along came some sound advice, courtesy of the news wire

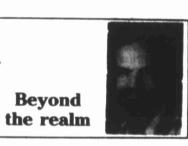

Addie and John Chapman, of O'Fallon, Ill., recently celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary. And what is this couple's secret to long-term happiness?

"Eat what's good for you, exercise and stay away from doctors,' John told the Associated Press. If only the rest of life were so simple. Addie had a more sedate answer, stating that the key to a good marriage was to "be happy and do for one another like you should do."

All of this is fine and good, but I think I'll try to follow the advice of a couple I talked to a few years ago. They were customers on my paper route and had just celebrated their 50th anniversary. Being a curious sort even then, I asked them how they had accomplished this sterling feat.

"Well, Steve," the man replied, 'it's like this. When we got married, we made an agreement: I'd make all the big decisions and she'd make all the little ones. "And you know what?" he added. "There hasn't been a big decision come along yet.'

I can live with that - and I bet my fiance can, also.

Big Spring spelling ace Carvell Nguyen may not have won this year's national Spelling Bee, but he might be able to take solace in the fact that the word he misspelled stumped me, also. That's not saying an awful lot, I

The word Carvell missed was "ciborium," which is a canopy over an altar. Shoot, I can't even pronounce it correctly, much less spell it sight unseen.

Carvell placed 30th in this year's Bee, his second such trip to Washington, D.C.

Before he finally bowed out of the competition, he correctly spelled 'sumptuous," "concrescence," "orizivorous," "bolus" and 'bronchoconstrictor.'

I'm don't know what that last word means, since it isn't in my dictionary, but I'm fairly sure it doesn't refer to some sort of snake that attacks wild horses.

Anyway, congratulations, Carvell. You did Big Spring proud and if you ever want a job proofreading a certain Big Spring Herald columnist's copy, come see me reverse discrimination (affirmative action). The fact that mere statistical disparities have often been considered sufficient to demonstrate illegal discrimination

The majority decision in the cannery case was written by Justice White, a John F. Kennedy appointee (who participated in the 1971 decision). He was joined by Chief Justice (by Reagan's nomination) Rehnquist and three Reagan appointees: O'Connor, Scalia and the newest justice, Anthony Kennedy.

One week later, in another civilrights case decided 5-4, the same majority further impeded the "race-conscious" policies of affirmative action. It was a case brought by a group of white firemen in Birmingham, Ala. They charged that under a 1974 agreement between some employees and the city, less qualified blacks have been promoted ahead of them. The political movement is part cause and part effect of liberals attempting end runs around the political process. Too often they have resorted to litigation rather than legislation — judicial fiat rather than democratic persuasion - to achieve their agenda. Now liberals have lost (at least on some important issues) even the Supreme Court.

And now Sen. Howard Metzenbaum (D-Ohio), a high-octane liberal, has an idea. He is so out of sorts about the Court's ruling in the cannery case that he is contemplating an attempt to amend the Civil Rights Act to codify the position the Court took in 1971. Imagine: a liberal resorting to legislation to change the law. What will they think of next?

"People have to understand how treacherous it is to try and live on $3.35 an hour." - Lee Soule, who owns a small restaurant in San Francisco, referring to President Bush's veto of a measure to gradually raise the current $3.35 hourly minimum to $4.55.

to every Disney character in the book. Down the aisle came a 7-yearold, returning from the bathroom. He didn't seem to be in a hurry, so his mother shouted, "Get back here this instant, or you won't see the Magic Mountain until you are

He weighed this statement very carefully, and then it seemed to him that it was just another example of his mother losing complete control of herself, as she did every time they got on an airplane.

At that moment a small girl ran down the middle of the plane, sucking her thumb and dragging a wooden duck. The father was chasing her. "For that you get no cotton candy, and you can't have your picture taken with the Seven Dwarfs." I thought to myself, "I can see what attraction Disney World holds for parents, but I just don't understand what's in it for the kids. The whole trip is one giant threat."

At the hotel, the scenario was repeated. One 5-year-old child was warned that if he didn't straighten up and fly right, he would be chewed up by the porpoises at Sea World. Another was informed that he was going to spend the entire trip locked in his hotel room with a Do Not Disturb sign on the door.

A third, who lay on his stomach by the bell captain's desk, was told by his mother that all his souvenirs would be confiscated by the hotel manager and thrown into the parking lot.

Not since Dostoevsky had I witnessed so much crime and punishment as I did on the way to Disney World. It seemed as though all the children were ruining the wonderful trip their parents had prepared exclusively for them

The plane ride back was another story. The adults were too exhausted to threaten anybody. They had yelled at their kids for four days and now they were so hoarse that they couldn't speak. The children were marching up and down the aisles wearing their Mickey Mouse hats and holding Donald Duck quackers in their mouths. Occasionally, a parent would raise a hand weakly and try to say something, but the words wouldn't come out. ## Panel approves raise in SS ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bill approved by a House Ways and Means subcommittee would allow older Americans to earn more wages before losing a portion of their Social Security pensions.

The latest in a long series of efforts to reduce the Social Security earnings limitation would permit those between the ages of 65 and 69 to make almost $1,100 more next year before they have to give up part of their pensions.

The increase was added to a package of amendments that includes one to strip the Social Security Administration away from the Department of Health and Human Services. The ad-

The package now goes to the full Ways and Means Committee, where there is considerable support for raising the earnings limitation. The Senate went on record in favor of a higher limit earlier this year.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) -San Quentin Prison issued the first college diplomas in its 137-history, as three inmates serving life sentences slipped black robes over their prison denims. In a short commencement

BEIJING (AP) - State television today showed detainees crammed into police vans and paraded before large rallies in scenes reminiscent of the Cultural Revolution as China continued its nationwide roundup of critics and dissenters.

The noon news showed 26 workers, their heads shaven, being led by armed police onto a stage before a packed hall in the northeastern city of Changchun.

Several had large placards around their necks giving their names and accusing them of instigating social unrest and spreading rumors.

The signs said they had been sentenced to labor reform, a type of prison.

The placards are a throwback to the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution, when leftist Red Guards paraded their victims through city streets wearing duncecaps and signs on their chests.

In another scene eerie like those of the Cultural Revolution, people are being shown on television led into police stations with their arms wrenched in the air in a posture the Chinese call "the airplane position.'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) -Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck look-alikes met their end as police set fire to thousands of fake Walt Disney products in Bangkok.

About 15,000 comic books as well as children's clothes and souvenirs produced in Thailand using the famous cartoon characters without permission were burned Wednesday in a bonfire in a dump truck in the city center.

The products were seized from outlets in Bangkok after lawyers for the Walt Disney Co. complained about the unlicensed reproduction of their products in Thailand, said Tagorn Nampratan, lawyer for the company in Thailand.

Counterfeit products are openly sold in Bangkok, and authorities are clamping down on the trade. Last month, police drove a steamroller over 6,000 fake Cartier watches.

He hailed a declaration on European goals that he signed with Chancellor Helmut Kohl on Tuesday as the visit's most imtoward "dissolving the confrontational nature of our relations."

Gorbachev was asked if he considered the Berlin Wall, which divides the two Germanys, an unacceptable symbol of a time of more troubled relations

Army AIDS cases exceed expectations

BOSTON (AP) - About 600 of the 770,000 active duty members of the U.S. Army will become infected with the AIDS virus each year, according to a study.

The estimate was based on repeated AIDS testing of soldiers, which found that 77 of every 100,000 acquires the AIDS virus annually. When testing for AIDS infection became available in 1985, the military checked recruits as well as all of its current personnel. It found that 150 of every 100,000 soldiers already were infected.

They said the rate of new infection was higher than expected. The work suggests "that the overall prevalence of infection in the Army should approximately double in two to three years, even if infected applicants are excluded from service in line with current policy."

The report was written by Dr. John G. McNeil and colleagues from Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington. It was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The study found 78 new infections per 100,000 soldiers among white men, 122 among black men and 194 among Hispanic men. Among women, there were 27 new infection for every 100,000 whites and 75 for blacks. No new infections were found among female Hispanic soldiers

Convict hangs himself

NACOGDOCHES (AP) - A man facing a possible return to custody of the Texas Department of Corrections hanged himself Tuesday in the Nacogdoches County Jail.

The 24-year-old man was discovered Tuesday afternoon hanging from a bandana tied to the top of his jail cell. He was identified as Marvin Oliff and had told authorities he originally was from Virginia.

Oliff was being held for investigation of burglary of a motor vehicle and was placed on a hold by the TDC for investigation of a parole violation from a previous conviction, according to Nacogodches County Sheriff Joe Evans.

The sheriff's office refused to comment further Tuesday night.

Psychic indicted

HOUSTON (AP) - A selfdescribed psychic known as "Mother Cantina" was indicted on theft charges after allegedly taking money from an undercover officer posing as a distraught father.

Sandy Evans Ross, 22, is being held without bond in the Harris County Jail while authorities try to determine her actual identity. She was indicted Tuesday.

Sgt. P.J. Schneider said the woman allegedly advertises in supermarket tabloids that she can solve all types of problems.

"They would contact her by phone and send money in exchange for her solving their problems. It usually involved finding lost relatives,' Schneider said.

After being unable to help a person, Schneider said, the woman allegedly would tell the victim she had buried his or her money because it was evil and the cause of the person's problems.

Schneider said police know of at least seven people taken in by the scam and estimate $50,000 to $60,000 was paid to the woman.

On Friday, police Sgt. R.D. House went to Ms. Ross residence and identified himself as an oil executive needing help finding his daughter.

"She guaranteed him she could find his daughter," prosecutor Jean Spradling said." "First, she did a palm reading and he had to shell out $150 for that and some candles. She

Young eagle used in tracking test

TULLAHOOMA, Tenn. (AP) -A young eagle carrying a 5-ounce transmitter is helping develop techniques to track ships, stolen cars or even prison inmates.

'We want to show that it can be done, that we can track something the size of an eagle and for a reasonable cost," said Carey Roberts, a researcher at the University of Tennessee Space Institute. The transmitter costs $3,500, and time on a French weather satellite is about $500 a month.

The two-year project, using a French weather satellite, is a joint venture of the university and the Tennessee Wildlife Resources

Agency, which hopes to learn more about the travel patterns of bald eagles

The 1-year-old eagle, a male named Phoenix, was released at Reelfoot Lake near Tiptonville, on May 31. It is the first of several eagles, perhaps as many as 12, expected to eventually take part in the project, said Bob Hatcher, endangered species coordinator for the TWRA.

The solar-powered transmitter strapped to the eagle's back will send signals twice a day to a commercial satellite called Argos, which will relay the signals to a ground station in France, which will relay them to a station.

Chinese students worry over monitors in Texas

HOUSTON (AP) - Many Chinese students in Houston who support the country's democracy movement believe their government is monitoring them and worry that they - or their families in China — may face retaliation.

And an official of the Chinese Consulate in Houston said Tuesday that it is not "proper" for Chinese students to protest in the United States.

"I've been thinking about this (possible retaliation) for some time," said Fan Lu, 28, a prodemocracy leader who recently received a doctorate in physics from Rice University. "But a lot of students risked their lives on Tiananmen Square."

Lu said being in the United States lightens his personal fears. "I think the leverage they (the Chinese government) have is against my family," he said. He has not talked to his relatives in China about his involvement in the pro-democracy movement, he said. "I will not put their lives in jeopardy.'

Lu and other students said the six organized demonstrations outside the Houston consulate since April could have been videotaped by a camera attached to a lamppost outed by that type of activity." Another Chinese student - who did not want to be named because he fears the Chinese government will be making arrests based on Western news reports - said that after the first Houston demonstration, a student close to consular officials warned him "not to organize any more demonstrations. Any objections or opinions, you should tell the consulate."

Wenlan Zhao, a consul in Houston, denied that consular officials have been monitoring individual student activists. "It's all rumor," Zhao told the Houston Chronicle. The camera outside the consulate is used to monitor visitors and has not been used to videotape demonstrators, he said. He said local students' concern about China's "domestic situation is quite understandable. But we do not think it is proper for Chinese students to demonstrate in front of the Chinese Consulate because the consulate is the representative of the government." He declined to elaborate.

Zhao said he does not believe student protesters here would face prosecution in China

Trick sport may have come to end of its rope

Big Spring Herald, Thursday, June 15, 1989

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - Joan Rogers. A 10-minute trick-roping Wells admits her sport may have come to the end of its rope.

Wells, soon to be inducted into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, said rodeo trick roping is not the popular sport of her youth.

"There aren't too many good trick ropers left," she said. "Trick ropers today aren't taking the time to learn the intricate tricks. They're basically just learning enough to get by.

When Wells travels to Hereford, Texas, for Saturday's ceremonies, she will join Willa Cather and Mari Sandoz as Nebraskans recognized by the Western Heritage Center.

Although she admires both women, Wells said she is glad not to share one trait with her fellow honorees. Cather, Sandoz and the two other 1989 cowgirl honorees, trick rider Vaughan Krieg and bronc rider Ruth Roach Salmon, are deceased

"It's nice that they decided to honor me while I'm still alive,' said Wells, the 1979 Women's World Champion Trick Roper. "There aren't too many of us left."

Wells is a native of Seward but now calls Lincoln home. She knows of only six professional trick ropers who still practice the rodeo craft made famous by Oklahoman Will act, done correctly, takes two or three years to learn, she said.

The graceful Floreo de Reata, or "roping with a flourish," style has almost disappeared from the United States, she said, but it remains popular in its Mexican homeland.

"The way that the Mexican people view trick roping, they'll never let it die," she said. Neither will Wells. The Kearney State College graduate with a bachelor's degree in education spends her time away from the rodeo and performance circuit trying to keep the sport alive.

"No brag, just fact," she said. "I'm probably the best trick-roping teacher left. Some people can trickrope, but they can't teach.

She tutors an 11-year-old boy in Texas a couple of times a year and has taught third-graders at Lincoln's Beattie Elementary School.

"Kids are very responsive to it," she said. "It's that cowboy image." Children and adults alike are suspicious of the sport. Wells has had people of all ages check herb ropes for wires or other gimmicks.

'There is nothing that's phony or rigged about trick roping," she said. If people don't believe her, she simply hands them a rope.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) -The place where baseball slugger Harmon Killebrew once belted home runs is about to become a monstrous shopping center billed as a combination of Disneyland, Bourbon Street and the Champs Elysees.

Marion (Gena Rowlands) is a successful college professor, financially secure, well-married, cultured and elegant. She also is miserable, though at the start of Woody Allen's "Another Woman" she is not aware that she is.

She is so separated from her feelings she is awakened only by the mournful talk of Hope (Mia Farrow) to her therapist, heard through a heating vent in Marion's office.

What Marion says she needs in order to work on her book could also be what she needs to maintain her balance in the life she has created: "It requires that I really shut myself off from everything but the work.'

Hope's sadness forces Marion to confront her own passionless life, and the possibilities for passion she rejected again and again, primarily when she married Ken (Ian Holm) and rejected Ken's best friend, Larry (Gene Hackman). The cast is terrific, and "Another Woman" is affecting, despite Allen's tiresome focus on the neuroses of educated, white Manhattanites. The scenes and the clothing are in brown, beige and olive tones. And the movie is quiet, subdued and proper.

"Picasso Trigger" (Warner Home Video. VHS-Beta, $79.95. Rated R)

A movie that combines "Charlie's Angels" and James Bond can't be all bad, but it can't be all good, either. "Picasso Trigger" features about a half dozen angels and hunks with bare chests, some sex and lots of mayhem done with all sorts of neat goodies including a rocket-launching crutch. It has a thin plot involving a drug lord's revenge against a bunch of federal agents — the angels and hunks - who wipe-out the gang.

Actually, the plot is no thinner than that of the late TV show or some of the Bond movies.

Husband leaves a bitter legacy

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my late 30s, recently divorced after a nine-year marriage. I have been told I am attractive, personable and marriageable. So what's my problem?

A year after my marriage, I learned that I had herpes! My world came tumbling down. I had been a faithful wife, and the only way I could have gotten herpes was from my husband. He finally admitted that he had had mild symptoms when he met me, but didn't think it was anything to be concerned about. It wasn't easy, but we were able to live with it.

After nine years of marriage, my husband told me he wanted to be remarried — so I suspect he had a lady waiting in the wings. It has been two years, and I am am afraid. - alone, but you are far from it. An estimated 30 million Americans have become infected with herpes although less than half of them are aware of it.

The Herpes Resource Center has a network of approximately 90 local support groups around the country. They provide information and emotional support, and offer an opportunity to talk about your situation (or listen to others) in a confidential environment. Sharing experiences and obtaining a broader knowledge of how the virus affects its victims' lives is the main theme of these meetings.

For a list of local support groups and a free pamphlet that answers basic questions about herpes, send a long, self-addressed, stamped (45 cents) envelope to: Herpes Resource Center, P.O. Box 13827-H, Research Triangle Park, N.C. 27709.

possibility of tornados didn't dampen the spirits of more than 100 participants of the 12th Annual Cannibal Draw Reunion.

The event, which was everything and more it was promised to be, was conducted Saturday evening at La Posada restaurant when members reunited to share memories of the good ol' days.

In addition to the traditional activities, more than 100 former east Big Spring residents honored one of their own as speakers and participants took a trip down memory lane.

Dr. Clyde E. Thomas Jr., who retired in May, was honored for his dedication and hard work in fond memories of growing up in the community.

According to Mack Underwood, Heavy rains, lightning and the reunion organizer, Thomas . . is a true friend and advisor, who practiced medicine in the community for 49 years."

Members came from throughout Texas to shake hands, hug and just reminensce.

For traveling the longest distance to take part in the festivities, Don Thomas, Houston, was the recipient of a plate inscribed with the reunion date. The eldest man present was J.C. Stripling, 87, and the eldest woman present was Lillian Patton, 91

A quilt, handcrafted and donated by Ernestine Gulley Styber, was won by Elnora Hart, whose husband, Tommy, recalled Cannibal Draw

Speaker Joe Pickle presented Thomas, who has missed only one reunion since its inception in 1978, with a jar that contained dirt, rocks and sticks from Sugarloaf Hill, a dirt landmark, where the men played as boys.

Harvey Hooser recalled when his former playmates rode wild donkeys. Garrett Patton vividly told the story of Thomas teaching a group of Boy Scouts the correct procedure of riding a wild burro.

Although this year's attendance of 110 didn't break the record of 115 in 1985, the first year women were invited to attend, Underwood deemed the reunion a success. "Thunderstorms and sickness couldn't keep them from attending."

'Splashy' U.S. Open begins

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Bernhard Langer of West Germany birdied four of the first nine holes and took the early lead Thursday in the first round of the U.S. Open.

Langer, 1985 U.S. Masters champion, turned in 4-under-par 31 after birdies at the first, fourth, seventh and ninth holes. Emlyn Aubrey, a 25-year-old graduate of Louisiana State who plays the Asian tour, was at 3-under after 16 holes on the sopping wet Oak Hill course.

Hubert Green birdied three of the first four holes, then splashed back to earth with a 1-under 34 on the front nine. Green, who won the 1977 U.S. Open, birdied the first two holes - par-4s of 440 and 401 yards - then birdied the 570-yard, par-5 fourth, going 3-under-par on Oak Hill's 6,902-yard East Course. On the 406-yard fifth hole, a tight, water-guarded par-4 nicknamed "Double Trouble," Green took a double bogey, dropping back to 1-under-par over this soggy, heavily treed course, which plays to par

Also at 1-under after nine holes was Clarence Rose, who had a double bogey on the third but birdied holes four, six and seven.

Aubrey, who failed to make the cut in last year's Open, made the turn in 1-over 36, but he birdied Nos. 10, 11, 13 and 16 to go 3-under at that point.

Such pressure might weigh heavily on most young shoulders, but not on Brown's. "Of all the guys on this staff, Kevin's the least likely to put extra pressure on himself," bullpen coach Dick Egan said. "And that's one of the things that's going to make him great.

Another is his impressive fast ball, consistently clocked at 95 mph. The natural slice in his pitches is what caught scouts' eyes when the Rangers made Brown the fourth player picked in the 1986 June draft.

That slice makes for a nice 93 mph sinker, the fastest in the American League, and reduces powerful swings for the fences into delicate ground balls.

Opponents are hitting just .199 off Brown, who's 5-3. Going into Thursday's games, only Ryan, at .191, and Oakland's Mike Moore, at .180, were containing hitters better than Brown Pitching on a damp New York evening with the wind-chill in the 50s, Gooden blanked the Cubs on four hits in six innings and the Mets won 2-0 Wednesday night in game called by rain in the middle of the seventh.

Gooden struck out five and walked two in winning for the 18th time in 21 lifetime decisions against Chicago. He did not pitch the seventh due to stiffness in his right shoulder.

"It's nothing," Gooden said. "I just thought it was the wind or something.

"I was tempted to send him back out there and see how it goes," Johnson said. "But all my logic tells me to be safe rather than sorry.

Rick Aguilera, who's allowed one earned run in his last 36 innings, worked the seventh inning to get his fifth save. The Cubs' comeback chances were dashed when rain began in the seventh, forcing the game to be called after a delay of 1 hour, 48 minutes.

Over 40 club beats California Angels

Don't try to tell the California Angels that life begins at 40.

The Angels helped Texas celebrate Old Timers' Night on Wednesday as Nolan Ryan and Charlie Hough combined to pitch the Rangers to a 5-1, 6-3 doubleheader sweep that stretched California's losing streak to seven games.

It was only the second time in the last 56 years that a pair of pitchers 40 years of age or older started a doubleheader for the same club. Ryan is 42 and Hough 41. The other time was in 1986 when Tommy John. 43. and Joe Niekro, 41, started for the New York Yankees.

Ryan allowed seven hits in 8 2-3 innings and became the sixth pitcher in major-league history to defeat all 26 teams.

"The only way to accomplish beating all 26 teams is to be in both leagues, with two clubs in each league," Ryan said. "It's no great accomplishment. It should happen if you hang around long enough and pitch well.

Hough blanked California on three hits over seven innings in the nightcap. He walked one and struck out four.

"My arm started getting a little sore and I didn't want to risk going on," said Hough, who recently got a cortisone sh

Kevin Hickey relieved and walked pinch hitter Steve Balboni. Mark Williamson took over and was greeted by Don Slaught's single that loaded the bases. Phelps batted for Alvaro Espinoza and a hit drive to left that would have been a game-tying sacrifice fly. But Bradley couldn't see the ball in a dense fog that settled over the field in the late innings and it landed on the warning track.

Aquino, 26, is scheduled to be tried in Santa Monica Superior Court before Judge David Perez. HOUSTON (AP) - Javelin thrower Duncan Atwood. suspended for more than a year for taking the same illegal steroid as Ben Johnson, believes it will be tough to police year-round testing

'I think it's going to be difficult to keep track of everyone," Atwood said Wednesday, referring to the various traveling schedules of the many athletes throughout the world

'And it will be difficult to enforce as long as there are loopholes. There will always be ways to try and get through them," he added, referring to the numerous masking agents available.

Atwood could not get through the rules when he was caught for using stanozolol, a performanceenhancing drug, in a 1985 meet at Koblenz, West Germany and suspended from February 1986-May 1987.

Since then, starting with Johnson's disqualification from the 1988 Olympics after he finished first in the men's 100-meter dash in  $9.79 \text{ seconds} - \mathbf{a}$  time that would have been a world record - countries have adopted more stringent rules to enforce drug-testing.

something was done.

Atwood said that the disqualification of the high-profile Johnson from the Seoul Games took some of the onus off field event athletes, who had been the prime targets of the drug-testers in the past.

"It can crush someone like Ben Johnson, and that's good," said Atwood, the 1979 and 1987 national champion, the 1979 and 1987 Pan American Games gold medalist and a two-time Olympian.

Atwood said he started taking the illegal drug "after guys were bragging to me the year before (1984) how well they were throwing. I said I would give them a taste of my own medicine.

However, he said he surprisingly threw better when he was off the drugs rather than when he was on them

"The drugs made me tight," he said.

Atwood said track and field "was an easy sport to pick on" for drugenforcers.

He pointed out that a first offense for a track and field athlete now results in a two-year suspension, while pro football players, for ex-

By STACY PAYNE Herald Editor

The earliest memory I have of my daddy is one in which the two of us are travelling in his pickup on a highway around Garden City. I am standing next to him, wearing a bright red cowgirl shirt, the kind that has real cowgirl snaps instead of buttons. I am wearing a blue scarf around my neck like real cowgirls do, along with brand new blue jeans and brand new boots.

One of my hands holds the neck of a Dr. Pepper bottle and the other is wrapped tightly around my By STACY PAYNE daddy's neck. My brothers are not with us, and I am as delighted at this aspect of my day as I am at having new cowboy boots. It is my folks around Stanton thought pret-Saturday with Daddy and not theirs.

so Benny Welch magically produced a pink gum cigar, and though Daddy said he didn't think I would be his little lady if I "smoked" the cigar, Benny told him I was a cowgirl, that cowgirls smoked cigars. Then he pretended to light it for me.

The proposed waste landfill is causing concern for Stanton City Council, which met in regular session Monday. According to a report by the engineering firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Inc., the costs to close the old landfill and build a new one could reach $750,000.

I remember all of those special moments with my daddy. And there were many.

Speaking of the green cafe, there was an early Saturday morning function so Daddy had to make breakfast. My brothers, Michael and Steven, wanted Daddy to make chocolate Malt O Meal, and I threw a screaming fit because I hated Malt O Meal, and I remember just like it was yesterday how unfair I thought they were all being to make me eat something I found (and still find) so repulsive that I would die a million times if I had to eat it.

I wanted pancakes.

Daddy then took an actual survey. Turns out that Steven wanted Malt O Meal when Michael loomed menacingly over him, and he wanted pancakes as I pinched him from behind where Daddy couldn't see what I was doing. Daddy, being a fair fellow, decided we would have to draw straws. We did. I won.

And since there were no pancake "fixins," we had to drive over to the green cafe. I grinned and giggled and made Michael and Steven madder with every squirt of the syrup bottle.

The part of that memory that I love the most is the first of it, when the three of us were all grabbing at Daddy and talking to him at the same time, so he just sat down in the kitchen floor and let us overwhelm him with our little kid questions and pleadings and kisses and hugs and giggles. I can close my eyes and see it and I'm warm all over

Daddy taught me about Plato and Aristotle early on Saturday mornings when the others were still asleep. I would will myself out of bed on Saturdays just to be with him.

Once, when I got up early, I stood at the hallway door and watched Daddy watch the sun rise. It was a still and quiet few moments as Daddy slowly brought the coffee cup to his lips, then slowly placed it back on the table several times, yet never took his eyes from the window.

There was a second or two there when the coffee cup stopped in midair and Daddy's eyes were riveted onto something. It was almost as if, well, as if time stopped for a second. Then the coffee cup was in motion again. Daddy stretched, finished that cup and got another. I visited with him, learned a little about Socrates, and went about my day. I could not get that scene out father was an all-around good guy. 'I wish I could have been more like him. He told me that there were some things you just can't do when Mama attended a sorority anything about and you just had to do what you could with what you had."

Katie Hughes, Mrs. John Rouche and Helen Ruth Louder, all members of the Stanton chapter of the American Cancer Society, said they agreed with the Surgeon General's announcement that smoking is bad for one's health. In Early 1989, Surgeon General Koop stated that smoking was a drug addiction, and not as previously believed, "just a nasty habit."

Koop also reminded Americans that each year sees more cancer deaths that are directly related to cigarette smoking and other tobacco usage. He stressed the need for education efforts in the battle against tobacco use.

Old Settlers Day is fast approaching. The date is Saturday, July 8, beginning with the parade at 10 a.m. This will be Martin County's 56th consecutive celebration of those pioneers who braved the frontier and founded our community.

The theme for Old Settlers Day this year is Martin County, Past and Future.

The OS Committee is still hard at work, discussing and planning the possibility of new events and activities. We want to make this the best celebration ever. We are determined to have events that will. interest every age and group.

The Stanton High School Band will assist in leading off this year's parade. We expect a larger number of floats. Ruth Reid and Nancy Holt are co-chairpersons of

In addition to floats, we expect to see lots more antique cars in this vear's parade. Don Tollison is chairman of the Antique Car committee. If you drive one of those wonderful old cars, let us have the opportunity to see it at the parade in July by contacting him for entry. Sammy Houston and Billy Houston have agreed to serve as Parade Marshalls. These brothers come from a long line of Martin County ranchers. Come help them lead the parade.

Cap Rock Electric is observing their 50th year of service in Martin County and will feature a parade float and an open house. A drawing will be held at Cap Rock for a free the Float Committee. They have prize, so, when making your OS

There will be the usual visiting, registration, and entertainment at the Community Center. Michael Payne is heading up the afternoon entertainment again. An antique quilt display will be a special feature this year. We have found a new protection method for these quilts while on display so you will not have to worry about your quilts if you decide to let us display them. Please help us in this endeavor. If you have a quilt, call Kathryn Burch at 756-3316.

Downtown games, sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, will begin soon after the parade.

The Martin County Historical museum will be open for tours as will the Old Jail Museum and the Convent. Sponsored by the Convent the restoration work at the convent.

Another new interest will be an open house at the old Texas theater. Jim and Jean McGilvray have restored this into a home. Their restoration is incomplete, but they want to afford visitors the opportunity to see "the progress in this interesting project. The American Cancer Society plans a week-long event that will culminate in an exciting moment on Old Settlers Day. It is the Kiss a Pig Contest. Jars will be provided with the names of willing and goodnatured local people. These jars will be used to collect money for the American Cancer Society. The person whose jar has the most money will "kiss the pig." So each contestant will work diligently to get contributions for their opponents.

tion among adults has fallen from 4,141 in 1974 to 3,121 in 1988 reflecting a growing number of exsmokers. This is the lowest per capita consumptiuon since 1944. From 1965 to 1987, the proportion of adult male ex-smokers (20 years and older) in the total U.S. population increased from 20 percent to 31 percent, while female ex-smokers rose from eight percent to 19 percent

A survey supported by the National Institute on Drug Abuse indicated that the percentage of high school seniors (aged 17 and 18) who smoked cigarettes daily decreased from 29 percent in 1976 to 19 percent in 1987.

It is now estimated — from past national surveys and data from the Cancer Prevention Study II - that there are about 40 million excigarette smokers in the U.S. today and about 50 million smokers.

At the same time, however, the average smoker appears to be smoking more heavily. The U.S. Office on Smoking and Health reports that the proportion of adult male smokers (20 years and older) consuming 25 or more cigarettes per day increased from 30.7 percent to 32 percent between 1976 and 1985, and female smokers from 19 percent to 21 percent.

It is important to remember that besides tar and nicotine, cigarette smoke contains a host of other poisonous gases such as hydrogen cyanide, volatile aromatic hydrocarbons, and especially carbon monoxide - possibly a critical factor in coronary heart disease and fetal growth retardation.

While some hazards are reduced slightly by cigarette filters, certain filtered brands have been found to actually deliver more carbon monoxide than those without filters

Involuntary Smoking Hazards -There are hazards for nonsmokers who breath the smoke of others' cigarettes. Several scientific studies, including a recent study by the American Cancer Society, have found an increased risk of lung cancer among nonsmoking wives of cigarette smokers.

Although some studies have not shown an effect, evidence continues to grow indicating that involuntary smoking is a hzarad.

Two major reviews in 1986 by the Surgeon General and the National Academy of Sciences state that involuntary smoking is a health hazard. Another NAS report, also in 1986, states that the amount of smoke inhaled on airplane trips constitutes a hazard, particularly smokers, and the comparable to airline personnel.

I had been watching God say 'good morning' to my daddy. Once when I was a college student, and Daddy had been a father (and adult) for several years, we decided we were tired of being on our best behavior at a Payne family gathering in Fort Worth.

We had been "good" for two and a half days and were flat sick of it, so we had a jello fight at a restaurant and then skipped up and down a huge mall. Just before we ran into someone, we'd let go of the other's hand, yell out some old world saying, go around the frightened shopper and grab hands again

Neither my grandmother, Lucille Payne, nor my mother found it very amusing. Come to think of it, no one in the entire mall did. That was the main reason we could not bring ourselves to stop doing it until the others headed toward the car.

Letter from Washington

By CHARLES STENHOLM

Recent mail and phone calls to my office, as well as local Letters to the Editor, have convinced me that there continues to be misconceptions regarding my position on gun related issues. For the record I want to reiterate my position on federal "gun control" issues for those people I have the honor and privilege of representing in the U.S. Congress.

In brief, I support reasonable legislation which will help combat America's crime problems and which I believe does not infringe on or violate the Second Amendment right of the U.S. Constitution "to keep and bear arms.

Alternatively, the National Rifle Association's position on all restrictive legislation on firearms is a flat, adamant "no." The NRA suggests than rather than deal with guns, we should enact legislation with more stringent penalties for persons convicted of crimes involving a firearm

I completely agree with the need to shore up our criminal penalties. We need to establish tough punishment in response to the crime committed, and then develop effective rehabilitative programs for those who can be rehabilitated.

In the 1968 Anti-Drug Abuse Act, I voted for the imposition of the death penalty for drug kingpins or other serious drug felons involved with the intentional killing of another person.

Again, in the current Congress, I am a cosponsor of legislation which would allow the imposition of the death penalty for first-degree murder of federal law enforcement officers. Furthermore, I support the construction of new prison facilities to incarcerate these felons. I believe that it is an injustice to allow convicted criminals to roam free for a lack of prisons disagreement is not at the core of fundamental philosophy but rather in the peripheral areas of gunrelated legislation. There are currently 20 separate bills in the 101st Congress which address the issue of gun control. I am opposed to 19 of these bills and I support one. The NRA opposes all 20. The bill I support would require a seven-day waiting period before the purchase of a handgun.

Where the NRA and I find

This proposed law would not deny law-abiding citizens their consititutional right to own a handgun. It simply would allow the purchaser's local law enforcement officials to exercise a background check on the purchaser of the handgun. The background check would screen for a problematic background of the purchaser, including anyone who is:

• Under indictment of a crime punishable by imprisonement for a term exceeding one year;

 convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year;

• a fugitive from justice;

• an unlawful user or one addicted to an illegal substance; adjudicated mentally defective; dishonorably discharged from the military; • residing illegally in the U.S.;

• or an American citizen who has renounced his or her citizenship.

A person must also be 21 years old to legally purchase a handgun in the U.S.

Local law enforcement cannot exercise arbitrary discretion in determining who should or should not own a handgun. The only criteria they may use in determining whether or not an individual is qualified to own a handgun are those just mentioned.

The handgun transaction may be finalized as soon as the background check is completed, or after a maximum period of seven days without confirmation from the local law endorcement official. On approved transactions, all records and transfers of those records sent to the local law enforcement officials must be destroyed within 30 days. If passed, this bill may slightly inconvenience a handgun purchaser, but it does not deny the right of law abiding citizens to own a handgun. The legislation is a reasonable attempt to deter some of the violent crime in America.

Granted, it will not solve every crime-related problem in the country. There will still be criminals who slip through the cracks. But by significantly reducing crimes of impulse or passion and by putting some enforcement width behind the already existing eight pro-hibitive categories, I believe we will add one valuable element to a comprehensive strategy necessary for crime reduction.

I do not agree with the current legislation introduced in the House of Representatives regarding semi-automatic "assault weapons." However, I would support legislation which would be more restrictive of certain firearms that are favorite weapons of criminals used for illicit purposes.

I am concerned with semiautomatic weapons which include some combination of the following characteristics: are easily concealable (shorter than 22 inch barrel and folding stock), are designed for hip fire, are capable of rapid fire, have an inaccurate projectile trajectory, including flash suppressors and bayonets.

I also am concerned about large capacity ammunition feeding devices. Obviously weapons which have several of those characteristics are not intended as hunting weapons; rather, they are designed for warfare.

Certification deadline near

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is now accepting reports for Upland Cotton, Grain Sorghum and ACR acreage.

The deadline for Certifying these crops if July 17, 1989.

'We encourage all farmers to file an acreage report and protect their crop acreage bases, whether they participate in farm programs or not," Nestor Hernandez, County Executive Director, ASC, said.

By certifying crop acres, farmers establish documentation for future crop acreage bases as well as elligibility for different benefits if they decide to participate in farm programs.

Hernandez said that it is mandatory for farmers who are participating in this year's programs to give an acreage report, because without it, they are not really a program participant. The report must be filed in order to determine the level at which the producers are eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other program benefits.

The acreage reports contain crops and acreages planted, the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres to be devoted to the acreage conservation reserve.

The acreage reports may be filed weekdays, and appointments can be scheduled by contacting the Martin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office.

Our awards dinner in celebration of Older Texan Day was especially nice this year with 49 people signing the guest book

A special welcome and thanks to Stacy Payne who served as Mistress of Ceremonies. She is doing an outstanding job as the new editor of The Herald and putting out the best paper we have had in a long time.

A special award was given to Bessie Estrada of the County Health Clinic and Kathryn Burch of the Home Extension Service. They have been more than generous in their donation of time and skill. For vears. Bessie has been coming to the Depot once a month to check blood pressure.

Kathryn Burch presents an ongoing series of lectures and presentations on nutrition and related subjects.

We® are especially indebted to Mike Payne, who provided the entertainment. He is always there when we need him. In our opinion, his talent merits a much bigger audience than our little town can provide.

Green Thumb is a government agency that places senior citizens to the music. for employment with community agencies. Anyone who is over 55 and interested in working should contact Sally Carroll at the Depot for further information

Lorena Polk, Fay Rhodes, Margie Sims and Findley Rhodes were among those who attended the school district's ice cream party for its volunteers.

Seniors all over the country were saddened by the death of Rep. Claude Pepper last week. He was among the first leaders, beginning in Franklin Roosevelt's day, to fight for social security and medical benefits for the elderly.

In addition to our regular activities, we have planned a shopping trip for this month. Anyone who wants to go should sign up now.

Council meeting will be at the regular time this month, on June 15 at noon, and all members are urged to be present. One intem for discussion will be our booth at the county fair in August. If you have any ideas or suggestions for activities, please let Sally know.

A vacation at home could be a lot of fun this summer and most of us would be surprised at all the interesting things to see and do in the Permian Basin and West Texas.

We have thought of going dancing at the Senior Center in Big Spring or Andrews. Even if you don't dance, it's fun to watch and listen

We would like to remind the Senior Citizens of Martin County that in addition to five hot meals a week, the Depot offers a wide variety of programs and activities.

Clements to sign TDA sunset law

Martin County farmers, along with a coaliton of 40 mainstream agricultural organizations, may be disappointed to find that Governor Bill Clements announced that he will sign the Texas Department of Agriculture sunset legislation.

"Although we are deeply disap-pointed in the governor's decision, the creation of a scientifically oriented pesticide review board is a small step in the right direction," the coalition said. "We now have 40 diverse, mainstream agricultural organizations united and poised for the next phase in the much-needed correction of the Texas Department of Agriculture," they said.

Spokesmen for the coaliton, Jimmie Powell, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association; S.M. True, president of the Texas Farm Bureau and Wes Bonner, president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, said they had hoped the governor would veto the sunset legislation.

"Although the sunset bill creates a nine-member pesticide review board, which is a good concept, it does not address the inherent problem of TDA's structure," the agricultural leaders said. "Under the existing strucrure, mainstream producers are virtually locked out of decisions that are important to agriculture."

The coalition had urged the governor to veto the sunset bill land push for legislation creating an appointed commission to head the agriculture department. The commission would determine policy and, in turn, hire an executive director to run day-to-day operations.

'We appreciate the legislature's efforts in working toward a solution, but much more needs to be done," the spokesmen said.

"We will keep this group together in an effort to modernize the agriculture department and make it more responsive."

Superintendent Ronnie Kincaid said board members OK'd the committee report on ways to improve the school district.

'We're looking at trying to improve on community-school relations and addressing our instructional focus.," Kincaid said. "We want to make sure we're doing what we should be doing in those two areas.

In other action the board: Awarded the depository contract for the school to State National Bank in Big Spring; awarded student insurance; discussed resurfacing the track; and discussed the budget for 1989-90-budget.

"We ended up talking about legislative action and what affect it will have on Grady school," Kincaid said. "Over the next biennium we should get about $45,000 ... $17,000 the first year and the rest the next year. We don't get much state aid anyway but every little bit helps."

A wet rodeo

For the first time in the 65-year history of the Big Spring Cowboys Reunion and Rodeo, beer will be sold. Coors, who has been a sponsor of the rodeo for the past several years, will have its beer sold.

The Big Spring rodeo will be held June 21-24 at the rodeo bowl.

Coors will donate $5,000 in prize money for the rodeo. Handling the beer sales, as well as all other concessions will be the American Business Club (AMBUCS). The beer booths will be outside the Rodeo Bowl. No beer will be brought into the arena.

The proceeds from the beer will be divided between the Big Spring Rodeo Association, AMBUCS, Coors and Bad Company Rodeo, the stock producer. But the selling alcohol beverages has brought mixed reviews from some of the people involved. Big Spring Rodeo Board Secretary Malcom Patterson says he sees both sides of the fence. "If we could do away with selling beer, I'd be the first to get rid of it," said 35-year board member. "But it's here and it's going to stay here and there's nothing we can do about it.

Stanton board

Stanton School Board trustees voted Monday to hire four new teachers for the 1989-90 school year, including Steven Turnbow for High School Government and History; Don Barry to teach English and coach athletics; Ted Gates, former Grady High School teacher for High School Science. Derrick Osborne was hired for a junior high teaching and coaching position.

The board accepted a bid from State National Bank in Big Spring to act as depository for the 1990-91 biennium

Fishing report

The striped bass season exploded last weekend at Lake E.V. Spence with catches all the way from 3 to 30 lbs. Mixed in were a few black bass, yellow catfish and crappie, but it was almost a total striper show

At Lake J.B. Thomas trotline fishing dominated, with Jim Griffin, Vincent, setting the pace with a 25-lb. catch. Blue catfishing was good, and channel catfish were being caught on both rod and reel and trotlines. A few crappie showed up in 10-15 feet of water, taking live minnows.

Dr. Hampton, one of the premiere striper fishermen, had the biggest one of the week at 30 lbs., while Van Baucum, Sweetwater, came in with one at 29 lb. Reports from various concessions included

PAINT CREEK MARINA -Tom and Jammie Tidwell, San Angelo, three yellow catfish from 1134 to 231/2-lbs.; Annette and Benny Watson, Odessa, three stripers to 15-lbs., 13-oz.; Randy Barron and Randy Chambers, Odessa, four stripers to 111/2-lbs.; Gene Miller, Odessa, 81/2 lbs. striper; Glynn New and Rick Rench, 91/4 and 11-lb. stripers; Joe Bushong, Odessa, 6½-lb. striper; Lee Sosebee and Ernest Spraberry, Anson, five stripers to 134-lbs.; Jana and Jimmy Williams, 10-lb. striper; Jimmie Anderson, Hobbs, N.M., 4¾-lb. striper; Lee Slocum, Lubbock, six stripers from 5¼ to 18 lbs. in three days of fishing; Glen and Lillie Jones, San Angelo, nine stripers from 61/2 to 16-lb., 3-oz. in two days; Clyde and Donny

Martin and Glasscock County munity Service Project.

Heart disease kills more Americans than do cancer and accidents combined. The 4-Hers will be asking for donations as they share a flier called "Cholesterol & You." If you are missed by the 4-Hers and would like to make a contribution, mailers will be coming out in the next few weeks.

The quilt is being string-pieced by the 4-Hers from scraps of cotton fabric. The array of colors is beautiful. The quilt will be given away at the County Fashion Show. The show is scheduled for Friday, June 16, 7:30 p.m., Garden City Church of Christ.

Watkins and Brian Braden, 15

Martin and Glasscock County will be holding their county fashion show together for the first time in over 20 years. Winners from each county will advance on to District, July 6 in Ozona. The Co-Op Gin is sponsoring $200 in prize money for garments that are at least 65 percent cotton.

The quilt-piecing experience improves the child's ability to guide the fabric through the machine and sew an even seam allowance. They are also learning to work with color and fabric coordination. They learned to use a rotary cutter.

During the kick-off meeting Thursday, 4-Hers saw a video on cotton "Field to Fabric." Using fashions borrowed from Haislip's Department Store, the 4-Hers learned about points to look for when purchasing a garment. Patty Schuelke did a presentation on mending. The 4-Hers sewed on buttons and put hems back in garments.
