WASHINGTON - Oliver L. North today drew a three-year suspended prison term and a $150,000 fine for his role in the Iran-Contra affair. "You're not the fall guy," the judge said in sentencing the former White House aide.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell placed the former National Security Council assistant on two years' probation and ordered him to perform 1,200 hours of community service administering a new program to help inner-city youth avoid involvement in drugs.

Gesell cited North's distinguished career as a Marine officer before he became a staff member happened.' at the White House during the Reagan administration.

He told North that during the Iran-Contra affair "I don't think you were a leader at all." He said North was "really a low-level subordinate who was carrying out the instructions of a few cynical superiors.

North, who has said he will appeal his conviction on three counts, had faced a maximum of 10 years' imprisonment and fines totaling $750,000.

In pre-sentencing remarks, North denied the prosecution's contention that he lacked remorse, saying, "I grieve for what has

North gets suspended sentence

Speaking in a soft voice, North said he had served his country for 20 years. "I would never knowingly do anything to hurt it or its institutions. I have made many mistakes. I have been convicted of serious crimes," he said.

Pronouncing sentence, Gesell told North:

"Along the way you came to accept the view that Congress couldn't be trusted ... that the fate of the country could be left to a small inside group not elected that was free to act as they chose while publicly professing to act differently

North was following orders, "you're not the fall guy for this tragic breach of the public trust."

The judge told North that "I believe you still lack a full understanding of how the public service has been tarnished" by his activities. But Gesell added, "Jail would only harden your misconceptions.

Gesell also barred North from holding federal office.

North and his attorney urged the judge to consider the suffering the former presidential aide has already endured because of extensive publicity surrounding the case

Clean-up volunteers turn tide on litter

By RUTH COCHRAN Staff Writer

BIG SPRING - A drop in the bucket seems insignificant, but enough drops can cause a flood.

Local officials are hoping they can organize just such a flood of volunteers and turn the tide against trash and litter in Big Spring. Whayne Moore, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said he and city officials are working to coordinate the many volunteers in the area for a concerted clean-up effort.

If the Rig Sublad City Council agrees, the chamber will allow groups, organizations and individuals to adopt areas of the city for clean up. The volunteers will sign a contract, during a city coun-

At least 33 people died in traffic accident on Texas highways and officials were optimistic the number of Fourth of July accident victims would be below predictions.

Fireworks caused six grass fires yesterday, none of which did any property damage, said Fire Marshall Burr Lea Settles.

Settles said the number was an increase over last year.

"Last year we only had one grass fire, but we attribute that to the rain we had on the days leading up to the Fourth, and the showers on that day," he said.

The fire department did have related fires two years ago, Settles said.

"Considering it was dry this year, we had only a minimal number of runs," he said. "Maybe people were more fireconscious this year.

While local firemen were chasing fires, local police were responding to 24 calls about illegal fireworks set off in the city limits.

Big Spring Police Chief Joe Cook said his officer issued verbal warnings to suspected offenders because officers generally arrived on the scene too late to catch them in the act.

"It's one of those things that you can't prove," he said.

Officers also were busy with two hit and run accidents Tuesday night. The driver of a Honda Nighthawk motorcycle was knocked into the eastbound lane of Highway 80 by a fourdoor gray car after stopping in the northbound lane of FM 700. The driver was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center with unspecified injuries, while the driver of the car fled the scene. PORT ARTHUR (AP) - One man suffered second and third degree burns when a fire ignited in an outdoor storage tank early this morning at the Chevron U.S.A. refinery.

The man, contracted to gauge the quantity and quality of the carbon black oil in the tank, was in critical but stable condition today at St. Mary Hospital in Port Arthur hospital, said Chevron spokesman Art Spencer. He was to be transferred later today to the burn unit at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

Two Houston men were killed when a car and motorcycle collided at a rural Harris County intersection Monday night. The accident that killed Ben Russell Frazier, 19, and Theodore N. Flesher, 44, was the first of the holiday in which more than one person died, Wells said. Three others were injured.

An Omaha, Neb., woman died in a two-vehicle accident on Highway 274 in Seven Points. Anna Ingram Staggs, 55, died when the car she was in crossed into the lane of an oncoming vehicle Sunday night.

Dellanita Balderas, 38, of Dallas died at 4:15 p.m. Monday when a tire blew out on Interstate 35 in Abbot and the driver lost control of the car the woman was in, Wells salid. The vehicle rolled over on a median throwing people from the car. Four others in Ms. Balderas' car were injured.

"Only one ingredient seemed to be consistently lost," he said. "Continuity or accountability.

A coordinated effort would not only simplify the process, he said, but it also would improve results.

"I think the real thing is the continuity," Moore said. "It is a mechanism where public recognition and continuity can be presented.'

Volunteer groups can do excellent work, he said, "but if it does not have that sense of acceptance or authenticity . . . you really don't have the support you need.

With the Adopt-a-Spot program, volunteers could call the chamber to find out what's available, he said. Then they can adopt a spot as large as a city block or as small as the area around a corner stop sign - whatever volunteers think they can handle, he said.

"It can be as big a bit as you want to take in your town," Moore said. "They can select their own spot. If they own it, that's great."

Man who guesses how many die on roads wants to be wrong

AUSTIN (AP) — Unlike most Tuesday. forecasters, Jim Templeton would love to be wrong.

Unfortunately, he's usually close. Dead close.

Templeton is the statistician who predicts for the Texas Department of Public Safety how many people will die on Texas roadways during holiday periods. He predicted that 52 people would be killed during this Fourth of July period, running from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight

"I would be very, very happy if we missed it so badly that nobody was killed," said Templeton, an Austin resident.

Late Tuesday night the number stood at 33, but a final count was to be issued today.

"From now (4 p.m. Tuesday) until midnight is the most dangerous time of this holiday," he said Tuesday afternoon. "A lot of people had been enjoying the day and are going home. Some people are going to drink and drive. Some will be tired. And everyone's hurrying to go home.

A good guess says 20 won't make it, he said.

Escapee recaptured

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -Authorities say they are holding a Texas man who escaped from a halfway house and was recaptured late Monday after his car crashed while being chased by police.

Authorities said Johnny Deakins, 31, who had been released from the Texas Corrections Department to a halfway house in Bridgeport, Texas, on June 16, was arrested after the accident and is being held at the Cleveland County Jail in Norman on complaints of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and attempting to elude police.

Authorities said the car Deakins was driving had been reported stolen in Arlington, Texas.

The chase began after Moore police received a complaint from a clerk at a gas station who said a man appeared to be intoxicated when he bought gas

The Fort Worth Professional Musicians Union, unhappy that they were asked to perform for

"There will be no strike," said Paul Lazzaro, a spokesman for the union. adding that details of the agreement were not immediately available.

The musicians were originally scheduled to go on strike at 12:01 a.m. today.

Scott shares a hospital room with Cpl. David W. Garlick Jr., who suffered severe burns on his right side. Garlick said he vaguely remembers the two months he spent in the burn center's critical care unit, under heavy medication that "doesn't really kill the pain, just makes you not remember it later.'

"My dad was there and was telling me about some pigeons that had built a nest on the ledge outside the window by my bed," the 21-year-old said. "They laid eggs and everything. I remember I stayed there long enough for those things to hatch and for the baby birds to fly away."

Flag waving and festivals were sprinkled with fireworks and fisticuffs during Texas Fourth of July gatherings that sometimes turned violent.

A flag burning protest on the State Capitol steps became a fist fight, a South Texas concert and fajita cookoff turned into a massive shoving match, and rock-throwing youths forced about 70 Fort Worth police to retreat.

But in other parts of the state, other Texans enjoyed a much more serene holiday, with parades or fireworks spectaculars or family barbecues.

former PTL aides accused of diverting $1.1 million from the evangelical empire built by Jim Bakker had authorization to use ministry credit cards and take out cash advances, their lawyer argued today.

Brothers David and James Tag gart went on trial today on federal charges they failed to pay $487,000 in income taxes on the amount from 1984 to 1987 and spent the money on such personal items as a condominium, jewelry, luxury cars and clothing.

The case is expected to bring out allegations of high living in the inner sanctum of PTL before Bakker's downfall in a sex and money scandal in 1987.

But special prosecutor Joseph Bender told the jury the case is not about Jim and Tammy Bakker or whether defendants collected exorbitant salaries or bonuses

"It's about the income the defendants failed to pay taxes on," he said

In his opening remarks, defense attorney Ben Cotten argued: "This case is not about taxes - we con-

If convicted, each could be sentenced to 25 years in prison and fined more than $1 million.

A grand jury indicted the brothers in December, the same day PTL founder Bakker and his former top aide, Richard Dortch, were indicted on charges of mail and wire fraud for allegedly diverting more than $4 million of PTL money to their own use and conspiring to defraud PTL contributors.

Bakker and Dortch's trial is set for Aug. 28. However, a hearing was scheduled today on whether to move the trial because of heavy publicity.

U.S. Magistrate Paul Taylor wanted to hold the hearing behind closed doors, but several news organizations appealed, and an appeals court overruled him

Read our lips, Secretary Lujan Will the Interior Department ever learn?

Can it understand that America wants its majestic coastlines held in careful stewardship, protected from risky offshore drilling and careless tanker operations. This is the message citizens keep sending Washington. Finally, someone listened.

Recently, the House Appropriations Committee approved a sweeping one-year moratorium on offshore oil exploration. This unprecedented action is the first time that pre-lease activity off the California coast has been curbed by Congress. This means that Congress is having to take control over the nation's increasingly threatened shores from the Interior Department, thus sending a clear signal to the oil industry

Assuming that a similar appropriations bill is approved by the Senate, as appears likely, federal spending for leasing oil or gas tracts off California would be banned until Sept. 30, 1990. The drilling-lease moratorium also would cover Alaska's Bristol Bay, southern Florida, the New York coastal zone and Georges Bank, a major fishery off New England.

Unfortunately, Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan Jr. refuses to heed the public will. He reacted to the moratorium vote by the House Appropriations Committee by announcing that he would allow oil companies to start drilling in a new 28-million-acre, oil-rich chunk of the continental shelf under the Gulf of Mexico.

Such is the secretary's defiance of explicit public opinion that began building against the oil industry with the mammoth Exxon Valdez oil spill in Alaska's Price William Sound and which has crested with three recent oil spills in or near U.S. harbors.

The bedrock reason for the two bills in Congress is that offshore areas covered by the proposed moratorium contain only a trivial percentage of U.S. petroleum reserves. In the case of California, for example, the estimated 155,000 barrels of oil per day that could be extracted from all of the state's offshore reserves would reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil by less than 1 percent. The potential yield is hardly worth the awful consequences of a single well blowout or tanker spill.

Mr. Lujan notwithstanding, the Bush administration should understand the clear reading from California and other coastal states. The American people and the Congress want to shackle the Interior Department's apparent eagerness to put oil interests above public interest.

Flag office pushes to fill orders

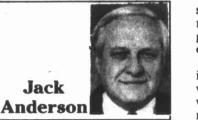

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON - About every five seconds a piece of American history is made, thanks to the activities of an obscure office in a deep, dark corner of the U.S. Capitol — the flag office, which is in charge of flags that have flown above the Capitol.

In Chinese fire drill fashion, flags are taken to the roof of the Capitol and flown for anywhere from five seconds to a minute on two 10-foot flagpoles. A seven-person staff is required to handle the requests for flags that flow in from senators and House members on behalf of constitutents.

After the flags have been hoisted and lowered, the flag office processes the Congress member's request, preparing certificates bearing the name of the constitutent, the member of Congress who ordered the flag to be flown and the date on which it was flown. No was the flag's moment aloft.

"I dread doing flags became it means spending the whole day dragging a huge handcart piled five feet high with flags all over Capitol Hill," one congressional page told our reporter Tim Warner. "Once I finish my flag run (delivery of flown flags to congressional offices) I blow off work and go sleep somewhere.' Members of Congress clearly see the flag as a P.R. goodie they can offer folks back home. Requests became particularly brisk after members of Congress began offering the service in their district newsletters. Attesting to their popularity is the expanding stockpile of red, white and blue boxes of American flags that sit floor to ceiling in the Flag Office.

Despite the recent Supreme Court ruling declaring that flag burning is protected under the First Amendment, demand for Old Glory has never been stronger. In fact, the flag business is one of Washington, D.C.'s true growth industries. This will be one of the busiest years ever for the flag office staff, which has already distributed over 56,000 banners. This figure is dwarfed by the record 10,471 flags flown over the Capitol on one day – July 4, 1976. Last year, computers were brought into the Flag Office to accelerate the preparation of the cercharged for the flag flown on their behalf. Congress has even assigned a price to this symbol of patriotism. Most House offices charge from $6.58 for a 3-by-5 foot nylon flag and $7.29 for a 3-by-5 foot cotton flag. Prices on the Senate side run higher The congressional flag service

The building consisted of double wall construction, was wellinsulated, and featured an exterior wall constructed of corrugated sheet metal 12 feet high, with a roof of clear plastic sheets.

Moreover, the facility was outfitted with an automatic sprinkler system with several large water tanks within the building, as well as fans, humidifers, grow lights, central air conditioning and a portable generator in case of electrical failure.

"It also contained a furnace for heat and a 500-gallon tank containing liquid fertilizer," the report

"The warranty only helps if something happens to the popcorn maker while it is being used on a nuclear submarine.

"You have to be kidding."

"It also guarantees the machine for parts and labor if it breaks down in the Amazon rain forest. Sir, it's none of my business, but you would be much better off with a service contract. With this contract, a company representative will fly from Asia on the same day to fix your machine."

"But you told me yourself that no customer has ever brought back one of these popcorn makers.'

Official hits use of aid money

WASHINGTON (AP) - Not a single family benefited during the first 10 years of a $134 million U.S.-Egyptian program to provide housing for low-income people near Cairo, according to the Agency for International Development.

A new report to Congress by AID Inspector General Herbert L. Beckington complains about U.S. aid operations in Egypt. At $2.3 billion a year, Egypt gets more U.S. aid than any country except Israel. The project begun in 1978 at Cairo, was to cost $160 -million, shared equally by the two governments. By March 31, 1988, the United States had spent $71 million and Egypt $63 million and not one family had occupied an apartment, the report said.

John Riddle, a spokesman for the agency, said that since Beckington's report was written, 205 families have moved into 158 apartment units. The project had been planned to include 4,000 units.

Abortion activists rally, burn flag

Abortion-rights activists clashed with police in Boston and burned a flag-draped effigy of a justice in Atlanta during demonstrations against the U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing states to restrict abortion.

Pro-choice protesters who burned an American flag in Minneapolis were attacked by three waiters from a topless bar. One man was arrested and several protesters suffered bruises and abrasions, police said.

On a day when Americans celebrated their liberty, thousands of people in at least 10 cities heard July Fourth calls to safeguard abortion rights.

Counterdemonstrations were held in three cities, but the antiabortionists were vastly outnumbered. The rallies came a day after the high court upheld a Missouri law imposing restrictions on abortion, inviting other states to do the same.

Scientist: sub leaked radiation

OSLO, Norway (AP) - A ty Board, said the submarine ap-Soviet nuclear submarine that caught fire last week off Norway leaked small amounts of radiation, and its reactor may have come close to a meltdown, a Norwegian scientist said.

Traces of radioactive Iodine 131 were found in a water sample taken two days after the June 26 fire aboard the Echo II class vessel 70 miles off Norway's coast in the Norwegian Sea, state researchers said Tuesday.

Knut Gussgard, director of the Norwegian Nuclear Energy Safe-

Gussgard said the radioactive iodine is a byproduct of nuclear fission, which means the "core must have leaked coolant, exposing (uranium) fuel rods that may have burst or even began to melt."

"The chances that this kind of radiation came from anything but the core are slim," said Ugletveit in a telephone interview.

The value of the dollar, Poland's most valued currency, fluctuated wildly before stabilizing after the government announced a monthlong wage and price freeze as of July 1.

In postwar Poland, governmentmandated price increases have touched off labor unrest that has toppled regimes and, last August, led authorities to agree to negotiate Solidarity's reinstatement.

Unclear now is whether Solidari ty will help the government by assuming part of the responsibility for seeking a way out of the economic crisis.

The union is asking Western leaders for $10 billion in new aid that would allow Poland to continue on its path of reform - encouraging free market mechanisms and closing moneylosing industries - without labor turmoil.

Walesa had a place of honor at the front of the Sejm for the opening session. Sitting a few yards away was Jaruzelski.

When the Senate met, the two sat side-by-side at the front of the chamber and seemed to joke with one another.

But as leaders of the two chambers were elected and sworn in, an intense political struggle persisted over who they will elect as president when they meet in joint session. That election may not take place until after President Bush visits next week.

Jaruzelski said Friday that he did not want the post and recommended Interior Minister Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak, but Jaruzelski was believed to be reconsidering at the urging of some party members.

Jaruzelski, the Communist Party chief, crushed Solidarity with a 1981 military crackdown, jailing thousands of Solidarity activists, including many of the new senators and deputies. Walesa was interned tor it thomas.

Recipes for a nutritious picnic

Who says picnic fare has to be cold cuts, potato salad and chocolate chip cookies?

The foods featured in this week's Recipe Exchange are easy ideas for outdoor eating, yet they all have delicous and nutritious advantages.

In Orange Crunch Chicken, the drumsticks are skinned to reduce the fat. Then they are coated with an orange-flavored, fat-free yogurt mixture and dipped in cereal.

The result is a finger food with less fat and more flavor than traditionally prepared fried chicken, plus a bonus of fiber and essential nutrients.

Fresh Peach Coffee Cake makes a dessert that is virtually cholesterol-free with the use of non-fat yogurt, egg whites, skim milk and margarine.

And the substitution of whole heat and bran cereal for part of the flour mixture adds fiber to this treat.

Ready-to-eat cereals are versatile and healthful ingredients to use in these recipes. Aside from adding their own distinctive flavors and textures, nutritionally speaking, most cereals are low in fat, naturally cholesterol-free and contain fiber, vitamins and minerals.

ORANGE CRUNCH CHICKEN

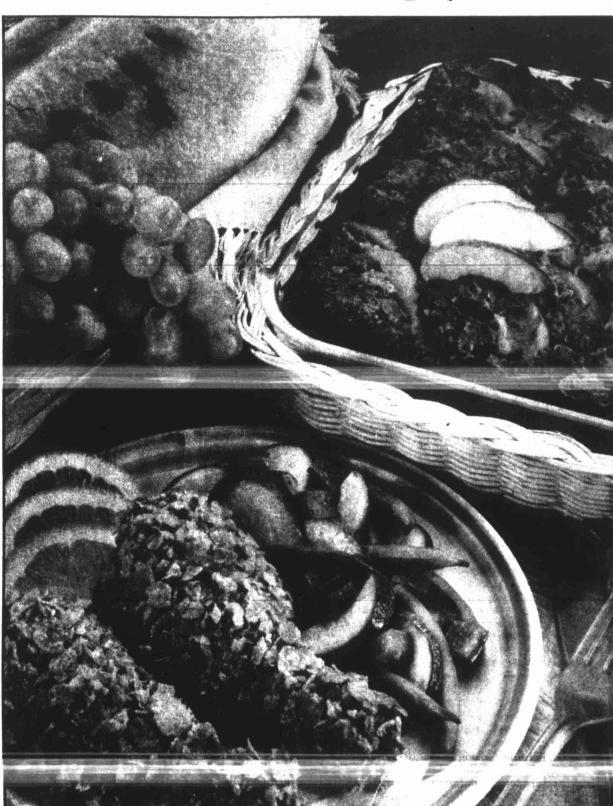

1 container (8-oz.) plain nonfat yogurt

11/2 tsp. grated orange peel 1/2 tsp. salt

1/8 tsp. ground black pepper 8 chicken drumsticks, skinned (about 2 pounds)

3 cups Honey Bunches of Oats cereal, very lightly crushed

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Spray a shallow baking pan with non-stick cooking spray; set aside. In a medium bowl, combine yogurt, orange eel, salt and black pepper. Place cereal in a shallow dish. Dip

Kitchen is ideal place for kiddie conversation

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) -Adults have long enjoyed food and conversation, and now there's some evidence that the combination works well for children just learning to talk.

Lucia French, an early-learning expert at the University of Rochester, is studying the conversations of tiny talkers and has found that young children do some of their best) conversing in the kitchen.

"Conversational skills are crucial to a child's later success in school and society," says French, an associate professor at the university's Graduate School of Education and Human Development.

After observing many conversations between young children in preschool settings, French and fellow researchers noticed that in all cases the longest and most complex conversations took place in the kitchen corner rather than in other play areas.

Even children who had not yet learned to talk had extensive nonverbal interactions in the kitchen corner, where they exchanged plates and mimed eating, she found

"Often, their first words were an attempt to name imaginary food that they pretended was on the plate," she says, "or what they wanted to have on the plate. The 21/2-year-olds used language to describe more complex kitchen activities such as preparing and serving pancakes." The reason that kitchen settings stimulate conversation appears to be simple: Preparing and eating food is an activity familiar to every child, and the kitchen setting gives children something in common to talk about.

In contrast, French points out, "In the block corner, children have to work hard to create the shared knowledge that constitutes communication." For example, a child has to interpret his playmate's intent in building and knocking down blocks. But actions like stirring imaginary food in a pan are easy to interpret.

"In this situation, they use language to accompany rather than explain their play," she says. 'Because it is easier for them to use language in this setting, they get more practice in conversation."

French also has found that at a certain point in a child's development, conversations with peers spur language development more effectively than adult-child conversations.

"We don't know whether the parent unconsciously does most of the conversational work, or whether the child defers to the parent's superior language facili-French says "But either way the adult's fluency seems to inhibit the child's developing skills.

Easy-to-prepare summer salad recipe

By PAPA JOE REED

"Summertime and the living is easy" goes the old song, and to quote another old song, "It ain't necessarily so.

Summertime is not "easy living" if you have to sweat (I mean sweat, not perspire) in a hot kitchen fixing meals for the family. In the past, this actually happened. Women fainted from the heat. To free themselves from flushed faces (which ruins the makeup) and the sweaty clothes, they came up with the most insidious idea of the past millennium. They convinced man that he was the greatest when it came to barbecuing meat. When men accepted that premise, the world has never been the same.

Summertime, and now the woman, dressed in a cool and comfortable summer frock, with makeup in perfect order; sits on the patio with a tall, cool drink, and watches her poor slob of a husband as he fights the battle of the bar-bcue grill. There he is, in all his glory. Dirty

Some primeval instinct goads him, and as his prehistoric ancestor offered a charred, half-cooked dinosaur haunch to his mate, modern man offers a charred, half cooked steak or rack of ribs to his wife. I tell you, it is a sorry sight. Enough to make a grown man cry. I guess there is some good that has come out of it. Manufacturers of bar-b-cue grills have sold millions. Butchers have gotten wealthy, and if there are gods that still require burnt offerings, the smoke ascends daily.

English is Greek in Japan

TOKYO (AP) - Sushi chef Yasutoshi Eda says he spends $2,000 a year on twice-weekly English lessons because "I want to more enjoy using English."

Like most Japanese, Eda took six years of English in school, but to little avail. When I was high school student,

I don't like English," he says. "English time was sleeping time, I thought."

Now he is one of the hundreds of thousands of Japanese who study English at commercial language schools. Alert and talkative in class, he plans to use the language on vacations abroad.

"But my heart still pounds," says Eda, 27, "when I have to speak English."

With an education system admired worldwide, why can't Japan produce more people adept at English?

Because, critics say, there's too much emphasis on rigorous high school and college entrance exams and too little on conversational skills. Thus, the system creates English teachers on the street

"As long as the examination system stays the same - and it's not likely to change soon - English education will not be geared toward communication," says Hideko Midorikawa, who has taught English at public high

The way English is taught is so misguided that it has a negative value for students, says Professor Gregory Clark of Tokyo's Sophia University. "It would be much better if most Japanese students did not learn a word of English in schools rather than be subjected to the mental damage that the present system creates.

Some examples of instructional sentences in public school texts: 'My neck looked as if it were a piece of twisted bread," and "He moved my head in such a way that it hung from the counter.'

She said her fiance knew about her divorce, but he asked her not to disclose this fact to his parents. Because of this, you told her you thought her fiance was 'adolescent."

Abby, before judging the young man, you should have considered that there may have been other facts of which you were not aware.

When I first started dating, my father forbade me to date anybody in whose family there had been a divorce. As you can guess, that eliminated a lot of boys.

Fiber: A hot topic

From MATURE OUTLOOK Health is just as likely to be the focus of conversation over a golf or bridge game as is gossip.

With each finding in nutrition, there's more information to sort through. But, as Mature Outlook magazine says, sometimes these new reports seem to contradict earlier advice, especially on topics such as fiber, sodium and caffeine.

Fiber is certainly big news. "Oat bran is the current craze," says David Kritchevsky of the Wistar Institute in Philadelphia. The reason: Oat bran helps lower cholesterol. This source of soluble fiber is almost flying off grocery shelves.

Two ounces of this grain - cooked up as a breakfast cereal, mixed in the batter of a healthful muffin recipe or sprinkled onto just about any food - may lower blood cholesterol levels 5 percent, note researchers for a recent study done at the University of California.

Oat bran alone, however, will not negate the effects of an otherwise high-fat, high-cholesterol diet. 'Oat bran is useful as an adjunct to an already good diet," says Kritchevsky.

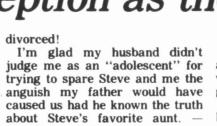

Because of all this hoopla about oat bran and other sources of soluble fiber, some people are tempted to shun insoluble fiber. A good diet hould contain a halance of both.

Insoluble fiber, such as wheat bran, also plays a vital role. Although it may not be as protective against cancer as once thought, insoluble fiber has at least one major redeeming feature. "Insoluble fiber is a good laxative,' according to Kritchevsky.

Soluble or insoluble, most Americans eat little fiber. The National Cancer Institute has noted, that most people probably benefit, from an intake of 20 to 35 grams of, fiber per day. Kritchevsky recommends calculating total fiber intake based on calorie intake: 15 grams of fiber for every 1,000 calories

And when it comes to fiber, sources he says, "It's better to get, fiber from the grocery store than from the pharmacy" because foods high in fiber contain a variety of other important nutrients not found in fiber supplements.

Women truckers learn the ways of the road

WAXAHACHIE (AP) - Reba Redic's red Roper boots looked more festive than their owner as she sat in an MTA Truck Driving School classroom and rubbed the arm that hasn't been the same since she learned how to doubleclutch

At the table next to her, wearing a perky smile and an arm cast sat Sheila Hart, who had sprained her right wrist the night before while trying to signal another student backing into a tight space. The back of the truck had struck her arm as she was waving to the driver.

Both-women bore their injuries with little complaint. After all, they had sustained them in the name of love.

Mrs. Hart is learning to drive trucks so she can go on the road with husband, Randy, who also is training at MTA. As for Ms. Redic, she doesn't mind wrestling with the clutch of an 18-wheeler if it means enjoying the clutches of her boyfriend, trucker Sam James, who urged her to become his partner on the road.

Trucking officials say truck driving schools and companies across the country are seeing an increase in women learning the delicate art of maneuvering semis so they can better maneuver their truck driver mates into more family-oriented lifestyles.

"We're beginning to see more women and there are a lot more couples," says Janie Waters, traffic and operations manager for American Driver Leasing Inc. in Dallas. "It's been hard for some of us to break into it."

Some officials say that companies who hire trucking teams to haul loads over long distances are opting for husband-wife teams or boyfriend-girlfriend teams because they don't seem to get on each other's nerves as much as duos of the same sex.

"The best way to move freight is with a male-female team," says Dennis Parsley, director of the Thomas Pinion of Mesquite, who has spent 29 years on the road, can hardly wait for his wife, Doris, to finish her training so she can join him in the cab. And their 6-year-old granddaughter, Ashley Pinion, can hardly wait either because she wants her "Munner" to make sure her "Popo" doesn't sneak smelly cigars on the side or eat too much 'cholesterol stuff."

"When was sitting in her grandmother's lap one night she said, You call me when ya'll are on the road and if he's still smoking those cigars you put him on the phone,' says Mr. Pinion, 49.

while Mr. Pinion was at home watching the grandkids, Mrs. Pinion hoisted herself up 8 feet into the cab of an MTA truck for her first try at driving the huge piece of machinery on a real road with real traffic. Her previous driving had been in a large lot next to the school, which sits off Interstate 35 near Waxahachie

With a textbook in one hand, Mrs. Pinion, 48, and fellow student Barbra Ellison went down a safety list of things to check both inside and outside the truck before it was time to get behind the wheel and get serious

"It was exciting," Mrs. Pinion says of the first time she got behind the tire-sized steering wheel and got a look at the intimidating controls and gearshifts. "It was a little frightening because I didn't know anything about doubleclutching."

Neither did Ms. Redic. She still

While many women who are lear ning the trucking trade to join their sweethearts look upon it as a romantic venture, Ms. Redic. 33. doesn't consider trucking a Harlequin Romance kind of existence. She and her boyfriend, she savs. have agreed to try life as a trucking team for six months. If it doesn't work, well, let's just say hey libe parking at separate truck

"If we don't get along, he'll go his way and I'll go mine,"she says.

Ms. Ellison, 26 has a more starry eyed view of her future traveling down the country's highways and byways with her boyfriend, Victor Montgomery. She believes the couple will survive the cramped quarters of a cab and earn respectable incomes.

While she's not joining Mr. Montgomery in order to keep an eye on him, she does plan to maybe make him eat a little more. "He needs to eat. Myself, I eat

Mr. Pinion doesn't think fellow truckers will consider him henpecked when he starts driving with his wife — they may even be a little jealous. And he doesn't doubt his ability to get along with his wife of 32 years.

"We have a good relationship," he says. "We can always think of something to talk about.

Mrs. Hart says she is hopeful about life on the road with her husband. And so anxious is she to make a go of it that she's willing to forget that her husband was the one giving directions to the student who inadvertently injured her wrist

Lendl whips American; makes Wimbledon semis

By ANDREW WARSHAW AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) -Ivan Lendl reached the semifinals of Wimbledon for the fourth consecutive year today, beating American Dan Goldie 7-6, 7-6, 6-0.

Lendl, the top seed in the tournament he yearns to win most, needed six set points to take the opening set from the unseeded Goldie in a 10-8 tie-breaker. He then took the second-set tie-break 7-4 before rolling through the third.

Lendl will play for a spot in the finals against the winner of a later quarterfinal between two-time winner Boris Becker and another unseeded American, Paul Chamberlin.

John McEnroe was playing Mats Wilander before a packed Centre Court, with the winner of that match advancing against the winner of a meeting between defending champion Stefan Edberg of Sweden and eighth-seeded Tim Mayotte of the United States.

The women's semifinals are Thursday, with Steffi Graf against Chris Evert and Martina Lindqvist.

Lendl, who needs Wimbledon to complete his Grand Slam title set, served 21 aces, and Goldie had to limp through the final two sets after apparently injuring his left leg.

Neither player lost serve through the first two sets, with Lendl overpowering the American with his serve. Goldie managed to hold serve despite increasing problems with his leg, which was examined during several changeovers by a trainer

By the third set, Goldie could hardly move, losing 14 points in a row at one stretch as Lendl closed out the match with little resistance. All of the set points for Lendl came in the tie-break, which Lendl led 6-3 at one point. Goldie saved two set points on his own serve, then Lendl double-faulted on the third. Goldie saved two more set points before Lendl finished him off with an ace and a passing shot off a service return as Goldie dived for the ball.

The second-set tie-break was not quite that dramatic, but Lendl needed his best shots again, winning the set on the second of two tiebreak aces.

Evert, a three-time women's champion at Wimbledon, was two points away from a quarterfinal defeat to unseeded Laura Golarsa when she realized where she was and that she might never return.

It wasn't how the 34-year-old U.S. tennis great wanted to end an 18-year success story at i thought, This isn't the way i would like to go out of the tournament,"' Evert said Tuesday. "Certainly, if it would be my last year, which probably it would be, it would not be the way to go out.' Inspired by that notion, Evert cracked a trademark two-handed backhand down the line. On the next point, Golarsa missed a volley. In a flash, a match Evert had no chance of winning was hers for the taking And she took it.

"I certainly never thought I was going to win that match," Evert said after a 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 victory that put her into the semifinals for the 17th time in 18 years after the greatest comeback of her Wimbledon career.

Navratilova, edging closer to a record ninth Wimbledon singles title, overpowered Gretchen Magers 6-1, 6-2. Graf avenged her French Open final defeat by Arantxa Sanchez, beating the 17-year-old Spaniard 7-5, 6-1

Lindqvist ended the run of Ros Fairbank, who had beaten two seeds. The South African lost 7-5, 7-5

Navratilova, who shares the record of eight Wimbledon singles titles with Helen Wills Moody, said she didn't want to discuss breaking it — vet.

Graf, beaten in three sets in Paris by Sanchez, avenged that defeat easily and hasn't dropped a set on her way to the semifinals.

Last season, Magrane led the NL with a 2.18 ERA while going 5-9. His five victories were the fewest ever by an ERA winner and he was the first Cardinal to lead in that category since Harry Brecheen in 1948

Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog said Magrane needed only 76 pitches to get through the first eight innings of the game.

'He threw 12 in the ninth. He threw 10 of them to Mike Marshall," Herzog said. "He's capable throwing 같아!!!!!

In 1988, Magrane sustained a torn muscle in his right side in mid-April and didn't return until June. The 25-year-old left-hander was slowed by nagging injuries in spring training this year and got off to a slow start.

Since coming off the disabled list on April 30, Magrane has a 7-4 record and a 1.85 ERA. Overall, he is 8-6 with a 3.24 ERA.

"He proved you don't have to strike everybody out to win; you've just got to get them out," Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda said. 'Magrane kept the ball down and got ahead of the hitters.

Elsewhere in the NL it was Cincinnati 2, Philadelphia 1; Houston 10, New York 3; Chicago 5, San Diego 1; Pittsburgh 5, San Francisco 3, and Atlanta 9. Montreal 3.

The Cardinals scored two runs in the first inning off Fernando Valenzuela, 4-7, on Ozzie Smith's RBI double and Pedro Guerrero's runscoring single.

As far as Smith is concerned, the Cardinals are at their best when they can use speed — on the bases and on the clock.

"It keeps everybody in the game," Smith said of Magrane's effort. "His last two outings have been very indicative of what can happen if he allows the guys behind him play.'

Rose's attorneys continue efforts By JOE KAY

AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) -Lawyers for Pete Rose attempted today to keep his lawsuit in a state court in Cincinnati, where the Cincinnati Reds manager already has won an order that protects him from suspension or firing.

Rose's lawyers filed papers today in U.S. District Court in Columbus to try to block Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti from moving the case to the federal court system.

Rose's lawyers told Judge John D. Holschuh that there were no legal grounds for the case to be moved out of the state court system. Pointing to baseball's failures to convince state judges of the merits of their arguments, Rose's lawyers accused them of trying to "seek a third courtroom in which to vindicate themselves or at least free the way to boot Pete Rose out of baseball without a fair hearing before an impartial decision-maker."

Holschuh gave no immediate indication when he would rule in the case

Baseball's lawyers asked the federal courts on Monday to take the case away from Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Norbert A. Nadel, who has given Rose a temporary restraining order that prevents Giamatti from deciding the manager's fate. Baseball's request was filed with the U.S. District Court in Cincinnati, which transferred it to a federal judge in Columbus to avoid appearances of impropriety.

The question of which court gets to handle Rose's lawsuit could be pivotal in deciding the outcome. Federal courts repeatedly have upheld the sweeping powers of the baseball commissioner, while Nadel has shown a willingness to go into what he described as "uncharted waters" in handling the lawsuit.

"Federal courts are much more aware of the needs of baseball and much more willing to accept the authority of baseball and the commissioner," baseball lawyer Louis Hoynes Jr. said.

Holschuh was awaiting the response today from Rose's lawyers before deciding whether he has legal jurisdiction over the lawsuit, or whether it should go back to Nadel.

Rose's lawyers had expected baseball to try to change the courtroom in which the lawsuit will be heard. They argue the matter belongs in the state courts.

"Federal court has no jurisdiction over this case," Robert Stachler, one of Rose's lawyers, said

While Holschuh considers the legal skirmish, Rose remains under the protection of Nadel's 14-day order. That order blocks Giamatti from holding a hearing with Rose on evidence that the manager bet on his own team, an offense that carries a lifetime ban from baseball

Player files suit

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) - Forward Gabe Estaba is turning to a court of law to see if he can play on the basketball court one more season for South Alabama.

Estaba said he intends to file suit against the NCAA next week

South Alabama President Frederick P. Whiddon said the university was raising money for Estaba's defense and supported the lawsuit "100 percent.

At issue is an NCAA ruling that Estaba used up his eligibility by playing three years in junior college and one season at South Alabama, where he helped lead the Jaguars to the NCAA Tournament last season.

Estaba, a 6-foot-7, 220-pound native of Caracas, Venezuela, contends he only played two years in junior college because he lost one year due to an injury. NCAA Division I schools, however, do not accept medical hardships from junior colleges.

At career's end, Mahan had finished in the Top 15 all-around standings 11 times, bareback nine times, saddle bronc nine times and bull riding eight times, giving him the most ever NFR qualifications for a roughstock cowboy. The Oregon native had also added the 1967 bull riding title to his '65 feat. Mahan also came away with fame from the award-winning length de montary about for rodeo," he said. "That one kinda flipped the light switch on the sport.

1969 that "25-year-old rodeo champion Larry Mahan is getting rich in one of the roughest, toughest ways possible." In those days year-end, years he won the all-around. "I'm happy to see it and I hope it keeps going," he said. "Although the No. 1 people in rodeo are making that much, there are top people in other sports making a lot more.

"That (corporate sponsorship) has helped because you need them to help sell the sport.'

Business, whether it be ranching or western wear, still keeps Mahan on a "go-at-the-drop-of-the-hat" pace. But good times and the people of yesterday always find their way back into today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Brace yourself for a stiff test in the marketplace or classroom. Persis tence will pay off handsomely. Make the most of a social opportunity that could mean new financial gains. Showcase your special talents.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may feel like bucking the odds. Put vour best foot forward. Fight through obstacles rather than turning back. A romantic encounter will prove memorable. Avoid confiding too much too soon

CALVIN AND HOBBES

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your ability to concentrate improves once you settle a domestic matter. Haul out the welcome wagon for new neighbors. Your gracious hospitality could win you a friend for life. Listen attentively.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Spontaneous gestures will work best in fanning the flames of romance. Focus on possible social conquests and material gains when making a business choice today. Influential people open new doors.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Staying power is the key to landing a better job or leadership post. You are going to end up in hot water if you act selfcentered. Reach out to a group that feels neglected.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You could be moving into a place where the action is right now. Think about the possible consequences of a romance with an associate or the boss. Protect your reputation from gos-

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you don't mind some uncertainty, go ahead and tackle an intriguing problem. The results will be better if you don't take yourself too seriously. Seek constructive suggestions from co-workers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Try not to take on a stranger's headaches. You already have enough on your plate. Someone will find you extremely attractive this evening. Pursue romance if so inclined. Lasting alliances are favored.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are on the ball today. Others will have difficulty getting anything past you. An excellent time to start a diet or other health program. Self-re straint seems easier now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19): Try not to take on responsibilities that others can handle better. Call a friend living at a distance if you have an exciting-idea to share. A trip turns into a real adventure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Spending more quality time with children will improve family life. Be prepared to accept some impulsebuying by a loved one. Unmet needs can lead to defiant behavior. Be a good listener.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This is no time to take unnecessary financial risks. Practical tasks go smoothly if you use your ingenuity. Romance becomes more exciting than in the recent past. Choose your confidants with care.

Baseball celebrates 50th Lou Gehrig Day

By RONALD BLUM AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Franz Opper was born on Lou Gehrig Day -July 4, 1939. He was at Yankee Stadium for the 50th anniversary, connected to a respirator, suffering from Lou Gehrig's disease.

Opper listened as Gehrig's chilling words once again echoed through Yankee Stadium:

"Today, I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth."

The scoreboard video screen was replaying Gehrig's goodbye to the Yankees. More than four dozen workers for the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Association were standing on the foul lines, each wearing a replica of Gehrig's No. 4.

But the most affected person was in Box 332 behind home plate, attending his first ballgame in years.

"He's so thrilled," Barbara Opper said as a nurse attended to her husband, who is able to move only the muscles that control his evelids. Opper was a Yale classmate of Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti and deputy commissioner Francis T. Vincent Jr. They arranged pre-game ceremonies that made the ceremony as much a tribute to Franz Opper as to Lou Gehrig. At age 28, Opper was put in "Who's Who in America." He was counsel to the House Energy and Commerce Committee. Ten years ago, he was stricken with ALS, popularly known as Lou Gehrig's disease. He has been unable to talk for four years, a prisoner locked in his own body.

Opper's daughter, Gretchen, received the bronze statue of the Iron Man from former Yankees an-Opper had painstakingly prepared a speech for the occasion. To write it, his nurse held up cards containing letters, and Opper blinked when she raised a card with the desired letter on it. She would point to the letters on the card, and Opper would blink again when she pointed to the right letter. "Ten years ago, when I was diagnosed with ALS. I had no idea what it was," Opper wrote. "I soon learned that it is a progressive nerve disorder which would leave me completely paralyzed, able to move only my eyes and unable to use the muscles to breathe. Had I the resources or insurance to continue, I could go on a respirator. I had enough insurance and the incentive for the respirator: I wanted to see my daughter and son grow the time I was diagnosed.

"One cannot appreciate the feeling of being trapped inside a lifeless body, able to communicate only by blinking, unless one has been there. Sooner or later, all ALS victims — if they live long enough — find themselves in the same situation. ALS also takes a devastating toll on the families of its victims. Most families cannot afford outside help. The sheer physical and emotional demands of caring for an ALS patient can tear a family apart. If it does not, the strain inevitably leaves an indelible imprint upon the family members - especially the children.'

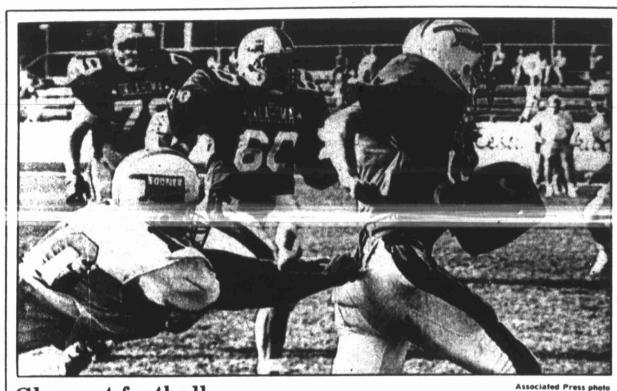

Lou Gehrig's disease strikes one in 100,000. Most victims die within three to five years. But Opper, who lives in Chevy Chase, Md., has fought and never lost his sense of humor. In his speech, he kidded Giamatti about some old articles in the Yale Alumni News.

"Giamatti was not one for convention and regaled his readers with baseball, emphasizing the pennant races with style and wit. When he disagreed with a ruling of the baseball commissioner, whom he would later succeed, he called him 'The Lord of Misrule.' He talked about a prominent catcher who could not throw out Amy Carter and of a shortstop who could not hit a fire hydrant with a broom, and bandied about statistics that showed the wrong teams won pennants."

"You don't know what to say to him," Vincent said. "What do you say to someone with such a serious disease? He has a lot of courage and we all adore him.'

Hartford Open tourney title

Brooks, 28, won last year's $126.000 first prize when he sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole.

Brooks faces formidable odds in trying to repeat. No player has repeated as Greater Hartford champion since the tournament began play in 1952 as the Insurance City Open at Wethersfield Country Club

Brooks started this year slowly, missing six cuts in eight starts. But he found his stroke in the Canadian Open two weeks ago, finishing in a tie for fifth, his best placing of the year. That finish boosted his earnings this year to $93,230, 82nd on the PGA money list.

Missing from today's celebrity pro-am today was Sammy Davis Jr., the entertainer who attached his name to the tournament for 15 years before calling it quits last year.

"Everywhere I go, the first thing people ask is, Who's taking Sammy's place?' "Lydia Bartnik, celebrities chairwoman of the tournament, said. In fact, she said, no one is taking Davis' place.

Officials of the Greater Hartford Jaycees, which organizes and runs the tournament, said they miss Davis and his contributions, but that neither the mood of the tournament nor the attendance will suffer without him.

Daniel E. Kleinman, counsel for the tournament, said that Canon, whose initial five-year contract to sponsor the tournament ends this year, "will remain with the tournament as a sponsor."

Butcher, 1-3. Dan Rohrmier had an RBI single to highlight a two-run outburst in the first inning and lead the Tulsa Drillers to a 5-2 victory over the Jackson Mets.

Tulsa's first run in the inning came when Alex Marte scored on a throwing error

Jackson made it 2-1 in the fourth inning when Cruzito Lara singled, went to second on a balk by John Hoover and scored on a single by Howard Freiling.

The Drillers pushed the score to 3-1 in the bottom of the fourth as Gar Milay walked and came in on a single by Darren Loy.

The Drillers added solo runs in the fifth and seventh innings

Jackson's final run came in the seventh inning on a solo homer by fifth, bringing the score to 9-5. Arkansas added one more in the sixth, but so did Shreveport as Gregg Ritchie scored on a wild pitch by Andy Rincon.

The Travelers scored their final two runs at the bottom of the seventh.

Steve Connolly, 2-1, was the winning pitcher in the first game.

In the second game, Arkansas scored three in the first inning and one each in the second and third.

Geronimo Pena, who doubled. was scored on a single by Brewer. Ray Lankford crossed the plate on a Jesus Menez double and Brewer went home on a Julia Martinez fielder's choice grounder to make it 3-0

Bernard Gilkey made it 4-0 in the second with an RBI single and a Rod Brewer solo homer made it 5 for Arkansas.

Rich Aldrete's three-run homer in the seventh spoiled a shutout for Osteen and capped the Shreveport scoring.

HERALD STAFF REPORT

AUSTIN — A death penalty sentence for a Colorado City man convicted in the 1986 murder of a Snyder convience store clerk was recently upheld by The Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

On June 21 the appeals court upheld a state district court jury's decision to give Dorsey Lee Johnson the death penalty, a spokesperson for the appeals court confirmed Friday.

The court's decision means Johnson could face death by lethal injection.

Johnson was originally arrested in connection with the robbery and attempted murder of a store clerk in Colorado City. A subsequent investigation linked Johnson with the shooting death of Snyder clerk Jack Huddleston.

An accomplice in the Snyder killing, Amanda Lynn Miles, 22, pleaded guilty to aggravated robbery in the case and is currently serving a 60-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Johnson appealed his murder case on the grounds that the judge did not grant a change of venue, which would have changed the trial's location.

Defense attorneys argued a change of venue was in order because publicity surrounding the case hindered a fair hearing. But appeals court justices disagreed, saving media attention generated by the case was accurate, unprejudiced and far enough removed from the trial date to interfere with a fair trial.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Doyle's Tractor Service repairs large equipment

Tractor Service, repairs tractors, forklifts, backhoes and industrial maintainers. More often than not, he loads up his tools in his pickup and goes out onto the fields or roadways where his customers are waiting with down equipment. He specializes in John Deere equipment — but he works on other brands as well. He has a string of diplomas - eight in all - testifying to his mastery of John Deere training courses. And he has a diploma from Case training school.

Doyle has been making repairs on large equipment for about 16 years, seven of these in the Big Spring area. He presently maintains an operation at 110l East 2nd, where large equipment is brought in when it needs a major overhaul. During cotton stripping season he's available 24 hours a day seven whatever else is needed.

He handles everything that needs repair work - "from the ground up. I do everything except fix flats.

Doyle services a 75-mile radius, and the mobile phone in his pick-up enables him to stay on top of jobs. Business used to be more seasonal, he says, but now he's busy all year long.

There is no typical day in this business, says Doyle. "One day I may work on six tractors.' Another day he got a call at 1 a.m. to repair a mower which had been contracted by the Texas Highway phone now," Doyle says.

snod Localiv

Curtis Doyle, owner of Doyle's repair hydraulic cylinders or Department to mow a freeway median. "This equipment had to be on the job at sun-up," Doyle says.

"All our work is guaranteed," the owner stresses.

Jan Doyle works with her husband, answering the phone and doing the bookkeeping

The business prides itself on being easy to reach. Usual business hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, but customers are encouraged to come by or phone anytime they need service.

By LEA WHITEHEAD Staff Writer

Clyde E. Thomas Jr., began his career as an office boy and then took over the business, Joe Pickle told a crowd of hundreds of friends who gathered Thursday evening to help celebrate "Clyde and Jane Thomas Day.'

Clyde took a job running errands and tending to office details for Dr. G.T. Hall and Dr. M.H. Bennett in 1930. After his graduation from University of Texas Medical School in Galveston and internship at John Sealy Hospital, he returned to practice with Drs. Hall and Bennett, and become their "worthy successor" at the hospital they founded. Dr. Hall's daughter, Marie Hall, and Dr. Bennett's daughter, Louise Ann Bennett Worthy, were among the well-wishers crowded into the East Room at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It was during his internship at John Sealy Hospital that Clyde met Jane Lucas, a petite student nurse from Houston. They were married in 1940, and Clyde brought his bride back home.

The proclamation read by Mayor Max Green (making "Clyde and Jane Thomas Day" official) recounted the couple's five decades of contributions and service to the community. Faces in the East Room crowd included Pat and Joy Armstrong, Cecil and Norma Hansen, Louise Spencer and Janet Wolfe, Don Newsom, Joe and Patti Horton, the Henry B. Dirks, John and Ruth Currie, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Patton.
