MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A baby girl born with a bullet in her chest was resting comfortably Tuesday at the Regional Medical Center in Memphis where she is recuperating from surgery.

The youngster, as yet unnamed, was wounded Saturday when her mother, Evelyn Page, 31, was shot in the stomach with a small-caliber handgun. Ms. Page gave birth by Caesarian section shortly after the shooting by an unknown assailant who tried to force her into his car.

"What should I name her? Miracle Baby or what? That's what I was thinking because she is a miracle baby," Ms. Page said as she and her daughter were listed in satisfactory condition.

CRMWD meeting

STACY DAM — In one of those rare times when the Colorado River Municipal Water District directors meet other than in Big Spring headquarters, the board will convene Thursday, July 13, at the Stacy reservoir project site.

Before they get around to touring the construction site, directors face a busy agenda.

Included are:
 • Consider employment of a financial advisor for a possible refunding of the 1985 (Stacy) bonds and issuance of bonds to cover a diversion project in Mitchell County for quality enhancement.

• Authorize up to $200,000 for rehabilitation of wells and equipment and possible additional wells in the Ward County field.

• Consider extending water sales contracts with Pierson-Siebert and with Orxy (Sun) Oil in Coke County.

• Execute a right-of-way easement in Coleman County for a public road to the projected Padgett recreation area at Stacy.

• Consider employment of a legislative consultant for the years 1990 and 1991 (Ed Howard, Austin, is the present advisor).

• Adopt a resolution to replace a lost 1966 Series bond.

Brutality trial

BIG SPRING — Jury selection began this morning in the case of a local woman who alleges she was the victim of police brutality, and who police charge was guilty of resisting and fleeing to elude arrest.

The trial could begin this afternoon in Howard County Court in the case of Leslie Shulze — who sustained a broken arm while police were handcuffing her. Shulze was arrested after leading officers on a 27-minute chase, according to police.

Police also acknowledged that the window on the driver's side of her vehicle was broken and she was pulled through the window. Shulze had resisted arrest by remaining in the vehicle, police said.

County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said the case should take about a day to try.

Another case allegedly involving police brutality which was originally set for trial in county court this week — the Ricky Elvis Heffington case — will not go to trial, Wilkerson said. Heffington will plead to offenses other than the one he was arrested for by city police in March, Wilkerson said.

Groups appeal for United Way funds

Salvation Army, Red Cross fear cutbacks

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Budget woes for two United Way member organizations could limit their ability to provide aid for the needy.

Directors of the American Red Cross and Salvation Army chapters told a meeting of the United Way allocations committee Monday that unless they receive adequate funding, service to area residents could suffer.

Asked what would happen if the local Red Cross did not receive all of the $12,647 it is asking from the United Way this year, director Marianne Brown said, "I'll have to come back to you" and ask for more money later. The chapter needs "every penny" it is seeking, Brown said.

The local Red Cross already owes the national chapter $29,000, Brown reported previously. "They know full well we can't come up with that," Brown said, adding that she is negotiating with the national chapter to forgive at least some of the old debt.

But the national agency is demanding that the local chapter pay $3,000 in dues for this fiscal year, which runs from July to June. Half of that amount must be paid by the last day of December, the other half by the

YMCA warns it may have to pull out

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — The local YMCA warned Tuesday that unless the agency receives adequate funding from the United Way it may quit the organization and raise its own funding.

"We can't operate on $5,000. We need to be at the $20,000 level," YMCA treasurer James A. Welch told members of the United Way allocations committee Tuesday.

The YMCA has received about $5,000 annually from the United Way in recent years but is seeking $25,000 this year.

Welch said the YMCA has little alternative if the allocations committee does not approve the extra funding. "We're up against the wall," he said.

For several years, the "YMCA took the brunt of the cuts" in allocations, Welch said. In 1987 the agency was even asked to remain in the organization but accept no funding, he contended.

That point was disputed by allocations committee members, who said YMCA officials probably misinterpreted what the United Way actually wanted.

Welch said when the YMCA had a surplus and other United Way member agencies were in need of money in the early 1980s, the YMCA voluntarily reduced the

Sparks fly in area 'cat and dog' fight

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A representative of Berea Baptist Church who expected a "pretty heated discussion" at Tuesday's Humane Society meeting almost got the cat and dog fight he anticipated.

Humane Society representatives and angry residents, who want the Humane Society moved from its current location, met to discuss the center's relocation to a spot one mile west of the city off I-20.

After a nine-month search, local businessman Stan Partee recently offered to give 10 acres of land to the organization. Residents near the current location are eager for the move, but the Humane Society said it needs a lot of help to complete the transfer of facilities.

Although only seven participants attended the meeting, the discussion became loud and angry at times.

Banks said he was anxious for the Humane Society to move because "... they (the dogs) bark all night long," and noted that the smell was another factor.

A resident of Silver Heels, who declined to give her name, said she attended the meeting to "make sure they aren't trying to bring them back to Silver Heels."

A Humane Society spokesperson noted that the organization is preparing to move to their new location — but added "We need the help of the community."

"We're all volunteers who are almost all middle-aged women. We are all full-time employees and there is a limit to the amount of work we can do," she said.

Bettie Cox, Humane Society president, estimates the move will cost $25,000. She said if those who are against the adoption center remaining at its present location can't help with labor, the least they can do is help financially.

"It's only fair to help financially... we need lots of it," Cox said. A spokesperson for the Humane Society noted that the organization needs money and manpower to move and build fences, move the existing cat house, and entirely re-roof an existing building at the new location.

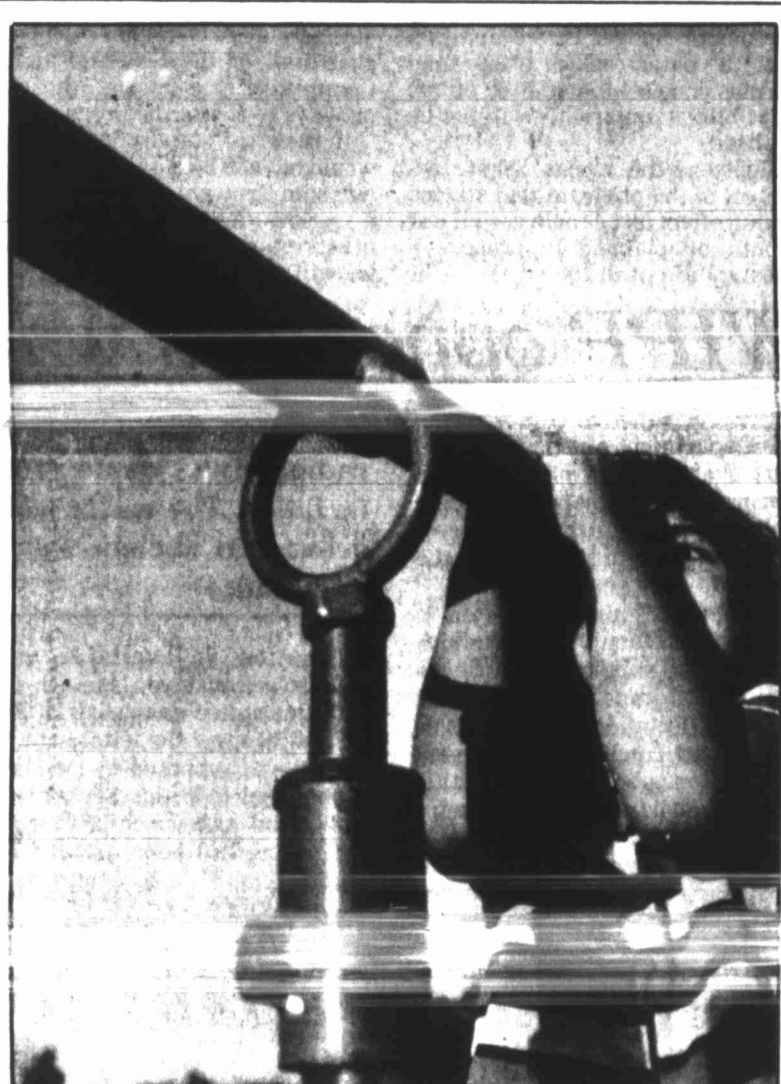

"We're entirely dependent on community support," she said.

County Commissioner Bill Crooker, mediator, said although he had hoped for a better turnout, he was pleased with the meeting's progress.

"We've been at it since last November... we've had difficulty finding a location," Crooker said.

When asked if the area's residents should help the Humane Society with its move, Crooker said, "You bet they should help... They should try to help in

Council OKs BSSH plans for better water system

By RUTH COCHRAN

BIG SPRING — City officials will begin advertising for bids on improvements to the Big Spring State Hospital water and sewage system.

City council members approved plans and specifications for the work during their regular meeting Tuesday and authorized the bidding process. The improvements are part of the city's recent agreement with the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board.

Big Spring officials and MHMR state board members ended decades of discord and court battles in April when they negotiated to revise a long-standing contract between the two to provide water to the state hospital.

The city and MHMR agreed to make certain improvements to the hospital's water system, while the hospital will pay the city viable rates for water and waste water.

City manager Hal Boyd said the original contract, established in 1938, allowed the hospital to purchase water at a fixed rate.

"In the spirit of cooperation between the state and the city, we have re-negotiated that contract,"

Bush to communists: The Iron Curtain is parting

By TERENCE HUNT
AP White House Correspondent

BUDAPEST, Hungary — President Bush, declaring that "the Iron Curtain has begun to part," promised today to give Hungary unlimited access to American markets and send the first Peace Corps volunteers ever dispatched to a communist nation.

He also offered a $25 million grant to spur this reform-minded East Bloc nation's fledgling free-enterprise system.

Saluting political and economic reforms here, Bush said there is "no mistaking the fact that Hungary is at the threshold of great and historic change."

Bush made his comments in a speech at Karl Marx University, which was broadcast live on Hungarian television, following talks with Hungarian leaders who presented him with a box containing barbed wire fencing torn down along the Austrian border.

In his speech, Bush noted that barbed wire separating Hungary and Austria had been dismantled and stacked into bales earlier this year.

"For the first time, the Iron Curtain has begun to part, and Hungary is leading the way," Bush said.

Making the same offer he presented in Poland, the president promised that the United States

"will be your partner" as Hungary tries to establish economic freedoms.

"I believe you are ready to meet the future," Bush said. "I see a country well on the way. I see a country rich in human resources and rich in moral courage of its people. I see a nation transcending its past and reaching out to its destiny." Bush did not link the assistance with any demands for austerity, as he did earlier this week during his visit to Warsaw, the first stop on a 10-day European tour.

White House Chief of Staff John Sununu said that in his talks with Hungarian leaders, Bush emphasized he would "be thrilled" if Soviet troops withdrew from Hungary and the United States would be able to remove its troops from Europe.

Hungarian officials seemed satisfied with Bush's aid proposals.

"The Americans are not selling us the fish but the net," said Tamas Beck, the foreign trade minister. "We want to see other countries periences, but we don't want to copy the systems of others," said Laszlo Kovacs, state secretary in the Foreign Ministry.

Kovacs said Foreign Minister Gyula Horn told Secretary of State James A. Baker III in a separate meeting that Hungary would welcome a delegation of economic experts from the seven-nation summit of industrial democracies meeting in Paris this weekend to help promote Hungary's industrial modernization. Bush flies to Paris from Hungary on Thursday to attend the economic summit.

Sununu explained that Hungary has taken many steps toward a free-enterprise system and said they are "quite justifiably proud."

The White House said the Peace Corps volunteers being sent here will assist Hungarian efforts to develop and expand English-language teaching. Russian-language training is no longer required in schools, and Hungarian officials have expressed interest in expanding the use of English here.

In offering the Peace Corps volunteers, Bush said: "The teaching of English is one of the most popular American exports."

The volunteer teachers who come here will help "open the global market to more Hungarians," Bush said.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Texas man charged with trying to illegally ship an Oregon-made high-speed computer behind the Iron Curtain has been ordered to appear Monday in U.S. District Court in Portland.

William Arthur Roessl, 47, of Dallas was ordered to appear in Portland after being released on his own recognizance by a federal magistrate in Dallas. A government request to detain Roessl was denied in Dallas.

Roessl is accused of paying $75,000 to undercover federal agents for an FPS Model 164 array processor and software on June 27 in Beaverton.

The device is a super-computer capable of performing millions of mathematical calculations per second.

The Model 164, introduced in 1981 by the company formerly called Floating Point Systems, can be used in military and intelligence applications.

PRI wins 12 of 18 seats

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Final returns today in the bitterly contested Michoacan state assembly election show the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party won 12 seats, one short of a majority, while its main opposition won six, the official Notimex news agency said.

Although the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, known as PRI, fell one short of a majority, the outcome was seen as a victory for a party that last year lost all but one of the Michoacan congressional seats in the national elections.

There are 24 seats in the assembly, six of which are assigned to minority parties who failed to win any of the 18 races. The PRI needed to win 13 for a clear majority.

Notimex said leaders of the opposition Democratic Revolutionary Party leaders may ask for new elections because of alleged irregularities in the July 2 balloting and the subsequent count.

Cocaine washing onto Texas beaches

PORT O'CONNOR, Texas (AP) — There's more than trash and seaweed washing up on Texas beaches as bundles of cocaine continue to arrive from what some officials believe was a smuggler's cache lost in a tropical storm.

The largest find to date was a $2.5 million package that washed ashore here Monday evening and was turned in to authorities by a man who found it while walking along the sea at Crystal Beach, officials said.

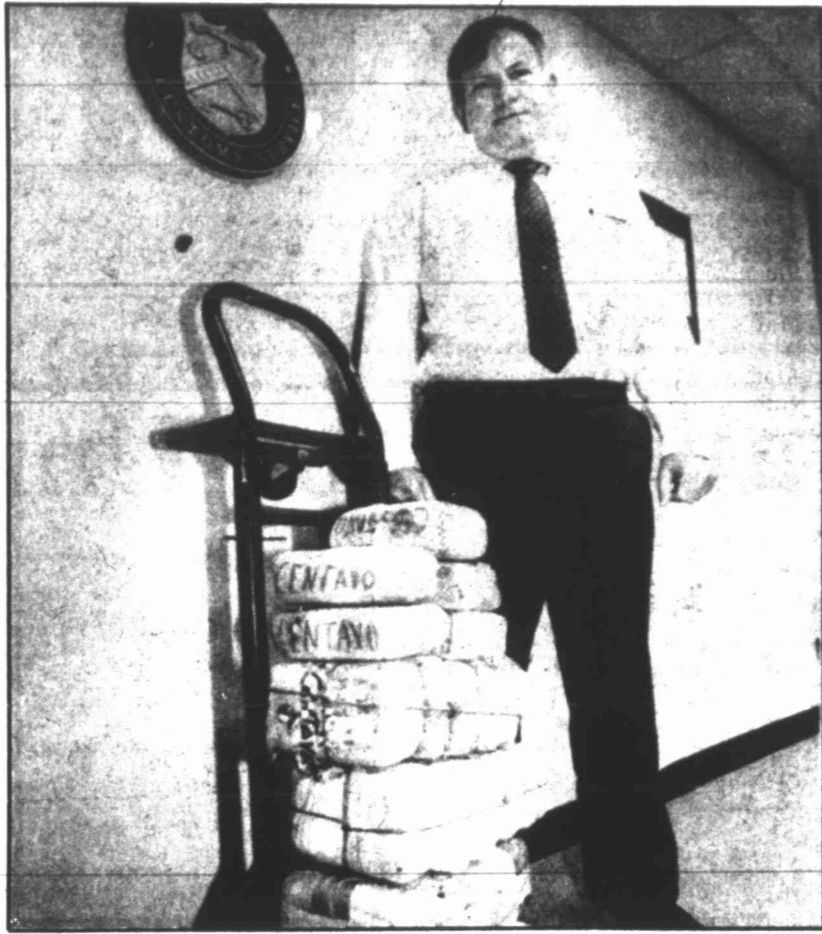

Coast Guard boats are patrolling desolate stretches of beach regularly, hoping to intercept any more packages.

"If anybody finds any of it, I hope nobody opens the package," said Coast Guard Petty Officer James Gutknecht, at the Port O'Connor station. "This cocaine is pretty potent stuff."

Gutknecht said officials aren't sure exactly how many packages have washed up so far from what some believe is cargo from a drug smuggler's ship that went down in Tropical Storm Allison three weeks ago.

"We've had seven in the Port O'Connor area," Gutknecht said. "They all weighed about one kilo each."

A Coast Guard boat on beach patrol found another 2.2-pound package on Tuesday near Matagorda.

da Peninsula. Coast Guard boats are patrolling the area around Port O'Connor about five hours daily, Gutknecht said.

The largest find to date came when a Galveston found 55 pounds of cocaine and reported it to the Galveston County Sheriff's Department, according to U.S. Customs spokesman Cliff Wolfe.

Wolfe told the Beaumont Enterprise that the cocaine was wrapped in plastic, tied with rope and marked with the word "centavo."

"We did a field test on it, and it checked out positive," Wolfe said.

A fisherman made the first find on June 30 when he reported discovering 11 pounds washed up on Matagorda Island, said DeWayne Mathews, a Nueces County constable.

Two San Antonio youths found another 2.2 pounds which had markings identical to those found by the fisherman three days later between the jetties and the pier in Port Aransas, Mathews said.

According to Mathews, the packages have all washed up between Galveston and Port Aransas.

Galveston County Sheriff Joe Max Taylor said there are the first instances of cocaine being washed up on beaches although bales of marijuana have washed up in the past

More athletes arrested

DALLAS (AP) — An All-American schoolboy star said he and others are dismayed that more members of Carter High's state championship football team were arrested in a string of as many as two dozen armed robberies.

Jesse Armstead, one of the nation's most recruited linebackers, said Tuesday's arrest of six more current and former Carter students is giving an undesired black eye to the school and its football team.

"Everyone's making it look like it's the football team," Armstead said. "But it's not the team — it's a couple of guys who happened to play on the football team."

Armstead, who signed with The University of Miami, graduated from Carter at midterm and has been attending a community college. He said he had finished his classwork at Carter and wanted to get on to new challenges.

But he said some of his teammates may have been bored.

"Everybody had their own ways," Armstead said. "I really didn't have no reason to believe they'd do something like this, but the way everybody's talking, it must be true."

Why six of his teammates and two other Carter students allegedly became involved in armed robberies between December, 22 and June 20 "probably never will be answered," Armstead said. "The only thing I can see is it's a game."

On Tuesday, police arrested Cowboy teammates Carlos Dwayne Allen, Keith Campbell and Patrick "P.K." Williams in connection with several armed robberies. Former junior varsity football player Aric Andrews and basketball team's reserve forward Jimmy Lee Edwards Jr. also were arrested. All were 18 years old.

A 17-year-old student also was arrested on an armed robbery charge, but because the offense occurred when he was 16, it is being handled by juvenile authorities and his name has

Bentsen looking for ways to cut surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A projected surplus in the catastrophic health plan's trust fund may not be there after all, threatening hopes that a controversial surtax that would help finance the Medicare expansion could be cut without touching benefits.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas said Tuesday he was told by Congressional Budget Office analysts that a catastrophic trust fund surplus once estimated at $2 billion to $4 billion apparently will not be realized.

Bentsen, the major Senate architect of the program that started taking effect last January, said last month he planned to propose a substantial cut in the surtax — or so-called supplemental premium — imposed on elderly Americans in upper income brackets.

But that intention was based on projections that more money was coming in from the surtax than originally calculated and that the tax could be cut without trimming benefits.

"I'm having trouble finding numbers I can count on," Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said during a hearing on ways to revise the program.

If there is no surplus, benefits would have to be cut if the surtax is cut, said Bentsen. "We have to take a serious look at benefits, and prescription drugs is one of those we will look at," he said.

The provision to have Medicare payments for prescription drugs would be phased in over three years and would be partly paid for by the surtax.

When the catastrophic program was passed last summer — the first major expansion of Medicare in its two-decade history — the idea was to build up funds in advance for the new benefits so the program would operate on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The surtax this year is 15 percent of underlying tax liability and can range up to $800 for roughly 5 percent of the 33 million people eligible for Medicare.

However, about 60 percent of those eligible for Medicare would not be subject to the surtax because of their low incomes.

Congress has been hit with thousands of letters from elderly people complaining they are being forced to pay for additional coverage they could better afford to buy on their own.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, a member of the Finance Committee, praised Bentsen's intention to push for changes in the program.

"Some of us would like to hang on to this program, but make whatever changes are necessary," the program, he said, does contain some inequities — mainly by overlapping coverage that some of the 33 million eligible people already had.

Southwest Research's Don Hancock said the groups tried to let Watkins know that calling for a new environmental study would go a long way toward reassuring skeptics that he is serious about making WIPP safe.

The groups sent a letter to Watkins in March saying they were concerned that the Energy Department meet federal laws designed to ensure safe disposal of radioactive and hazardous wastes. The groups threatened to sue DOE if those laws weren't met to their satisfaction.

WIPP opponents want DOE to start over

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The Department of Energy should start over again in its study of a proposed permanent nuclear waste repository near Carlsbad, several environmental groups and the Texas attorney general contend.

The groups said in a letter to Energy Secretary James Watkins that the draft supplement to the environmental impact statement for the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant was flawed and contained insufficient information about the scientific aspects of the site and transportation.

"Your withdrawal of the draft (environmental study) until such information is available will demonstrate that you are serious about this stated change in DOE's WIPP strategy," the letter said.

WIPP was supposed to open last October and then this September, but Watkins announced last month the opening has been delayed indefinitely until he is confident it can open safely.

WIPP is designed to hold low- and medium-level radioactive waste from the nation's defense facilities. The waste would be kept 2,150 feet below ground in ancient salt beds 26 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

Japan: It's the hecklers vs. loyal employees

TOKYO (AP) — Corporate raider T. Boone Pickens is one of the few Americans to have experienced firsthand one of the stranger traditions of capitalism in Japan: the battle of sokaiya, or professional hecklers, versus loyal company employees at annual shareholders meetings.

The Texas oilman is a major shareholder in a Japanese auto parts maker called Koito Manufacturing Co., and when he came to Tokyo last week, he experienced "the most unusual shareholders' meeting I've ever attended in my life."

Tough-looking men in flashy suits and tightly perm hair filled some of Pickens' own, and badgered the visibly shaken management of Koito for an hour on a half.

"Hey you," shouted one young man at the president of the company. "What kind of education are you giving your employees? I passed 10 of them on the way in this morning, and only two said good morning. Is that any way to treat a shareholder? Huh?"

"Profits are down," said another in tones so velvety it was almost scary. "It really doesn't appear that you're putting out much effort."

Finally, an older man who identified himself as part of the Japan

Youth Society, an ultra-right-wing group, gave a virtuoso performance. He began in a soft, throaty voice like Marlon Brando's in "The Godfather" and ended with a ringing gutter-language parody of pundits criticizing Japan's lack of international spirit and its recent scandals.

Pickens later praised the hecklers. "I thought they asked some very good questions," he said. Still, he admitted, "That's an interesting way to ask for an income statement."

Police say the sokaiya, who use their legal rights as shareholders to attend meetings, have ties to the underworld.

How's that? AARP

Q. When is the AARP free blood pressure check?
A. The AARP will sponsor a free blood pressure check from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Kentwood Center, on Lynn Street, Monday. It is open to the public.

Calendar Narcotics

THURSDAY
• Narcotics Anonymous will meet at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 10th and Goliad Streets.

• There will be a Summer Reading Program closing party and costume contest at 10 a.m. at the Howard County Library.

• Commodities for the month of July may be obtained between 8:15 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center in the Comanche Trail Park. All recipients must have their certification cards with them in order to receive the food.

• Valve and fire hydrant crews will be exercising valves in the Coronado area all week. People in this area may experience low water pressure from time to time.

FRIDAY
• Water will be off behind the VA Hospital from Pennsylvania to Ryan Streets from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to repair a leak. The water will also be off on Stanford Street between S. Monticello Street to 11th Place in order to extract a sample from the water line.

• There will be a senior citizens dance beginning at 8 p.m. in Building 487 in the Industrial Park.

SATURDAY
• The Humane Society will have a community tick dip from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the First National Bank parking lot.

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

• A woman reported receiving terroristic threats from a man.

• The burglary of a habitation in which an air compressor valued at $275 was removed.

• The burglary of a vehicle in which gasoline valued at $9 was removed.

• A business reported a theft in which lumber, nails and other items valued at $1,085 were acquired by a person by deceptive means.

• A woman reported a class C assault and a theft from person. Jewelry valued at $225 was taken, and the woman sustained bruises and bite marks.

• Street 15th was reported at 6 p.m. Tuesday. A legally parked car was struck in the rear by a car travelling west on 15th. No injuries were reported.

• An accident involving a motorcycle was reported Tuesday. The driver of the motorcycle lost traction in gravel while attempting to turn east on Dallas Street from Pennsylvania Street. The driver was bruised and scratched but not seriously injured.

• A two-car, non-injury accident was reported at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday. A vehicle traveling south on S. Gregg struck another from behind while the second vehicle was stopped behind a car attempting to make a left turn.

• A driver was cited for disregarding a stop sign Tuesday morning after his car struck another vehicle in the intersection of 18th and Gregg streets.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incident:

• A man who resides on Route 2 reported the theft of a riding lawnmower, valued at more than $750.

Environmentalists protest arrival

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Environmentalists protested the Exxon Valdez's planned arrival in San Diego Bay and called for a new national energy policy as the tanker circled offshore, leaving an oily sheen in its wake.

About 100 supporters of such groups as Greenpeace and the Sierra Club gathered in nearby Coronado on Tuesday and called for a policy to reduce dependence on fossil fuels by encouraging mass transportation and the development of renewable energy resources.

"If we don't develop (such a policy) soon, we'll go the way of the dodo bird and the dinosaur because we're not using our brains," said Rick Nadeau of Greenpeace.

The demonstrators originally had planned to meet the ship as it entered the harbor Tuesday but the vessel was ordered to stay at sea until damage to its hull could be repaired and the leak of an oillike substance could be plugged. Officials said it won't be able to enter the harbor for several more days.

The 987-foot ship was damaged in March when it crashed into a reef in Prince William Sound off Alaska. It spilled nearly 11 million gallons of oil, the worst spill in U.S. history.

Officials were awaiting results of samples sent to a Coast Guard laboratory in Connecticut to determine the source of this week's leak.

"We have confirmed that there is material coming out of the Valdez on the starboard (right) side," said John Tompkins, fleet services manager for Exxon Shipping Co. "But we haven't yet confirmed for ourselves what it is."

On Tuesday, an oily sheen 10 miles long and about 50 yards wide extended behind the tanker as it moved slowly under its own power about 50 miles southwest of San Diego. Another slick, discovered Monday, had been 18 miles long.

Officials said the impact on fish and wildlife was expected to be negligible.

YMCA

amount it sought from the agency. But now that those surplus funds have been spent, Welch said, the YMCA needs more money to continue with its programs.

"It's time for us to get back in the driver's seat," Welch said. "I feel like some of the other organizations have had their chance... Now maybe it's time for the (YMCA) to receive."

United Way President Scott McLaughlin asked if the agency's contributions to the YMCA didn't give the organization an unfair advantage over private businesses that offer some of the same services. Welch responded that the YMCA offers special programs for groups like youth that no other private businesses could afford to handle.

McLaughlin asked Welch what benefits the community would lose if the YMCA remained in the United Way and retained the same level of financial support.

Welch responded: "We'd have to cut out what's causing the deficit: the youth program." There are about 30 people on the payroll for the summer youth program.

"We're one of the largest organizations that deals with young people," he said.

In an interview after the meeting Tuesday, McLaughlin said he understands some of the YMCA's concerns. "I see where they're coming from. Their reserves are eaten up (and) they're looking for compensation for the sacrifices they've made for the last five to six years."

The YMCA was originally asked to reduce its funding because the budget was tight in 1983 and there was a "perception the YMCA could handle its own," McLaughlin said. He questioned why the agency did not come to the United Way before about budget concerns.

If the YMCA drops out of the United Way, McLaughlin said it will be "a blow to the agency, but we would still go on."

During Tuesday's meeting, the allocations committee also heard presentations from the Westside Community Day Care Center, the Texas Girl Scout Council, the Boy Scouts and the Boy's Club.

"Now the hard part begins," McLaughlin said after the last presentation was finished. The next step for committee members is to decide how much they feel each agency deserves and what the United Way can realistically expect to contribute, he said.

McLaughlin called the allocations committee "as fair a process

"I'm not going to say it isn't harming the environment," said Reed Smith of the California Department of Fish and Game. "But we haven't seen oiled birds or any other evidence of damaged wildlife."

Officials also have to contend with at least three rocks embedded in the tanker's hull, remnants of the ship's grounding on the reef.

The rocks have damaged five steel plates that peeled from the bottom of the hull during the 2,500-mile journey.

Conditions offshore were too rough for divers to make repairs to the bent steel plates.

as you can get" to determine how to apportion money the United Way receives from the public.

On Friday, the committee's worksheets will be turned in to Sherrie Bordofsky, executive director of the United Way, and then all of the amounts assigned by committee members to agencies will be averaged. The average should represent what each group will receive, barring a shortfall in funds.

Campaign Chairman Steve Fraser recognized the difficulty in raising the funds groups are asking for this year. "It's just not going to happen in Howard County in 1990," he said.

The committee set a goal of raising $205,000 last year; a goal has yet to be set this year. Fraser said he would like to see last year's goal increased.

Two female participants agreed to plan a rummage sale to help defray moving costs.

Anxious to begin the move, Wesley Thixton offered to tear down existing fences. "I'll assure you I'll tear the fence down — I'll start tonight," he said.

some chainlink fence "if it's a good price."

To help with costs and to improve chances of a quick sale, another participant suggested listing the property and house with a realtor.

Cox, who noted the various community services provided by the Humane Society, said "We give and give and give to this community — and we'd like to see it reciprocated."

Woes

end of June. The United Way — which issues monthly checks beginning in January — will not be able to contribute to the December payment, but will be able to help defer costs on the June payment, Brown explained in an interview Tuesday.

The Red Cross director said she believes the local organization will survive in spite of current budget woes.

"We're enthusiastic we're going to make it," she said. "We'll just manage. It's just got to work."

Brown told committee members Monday that if the local chapter were to close, the next Red Cross agency available for help is in Dallas.

Dallas. Midland, one of the nearest chapters, would not be able to pick up the slack because they don't have the funds to come in to other counties, she said.

Using the services of a non-local Red Cross would also slow the process of providing aid to those who need it. "If we're going to go through Dallas everything is going to take a lot longer," she said.

Brown reminded allocation committee members that the Red Cross also covers the Glasscock County area. Although it provides a range of disaster service relief and programs for people in the armed forces and their relatives in that county, not much money is raised there for the Red Cross, she said.

Brown said she always has to remind people "We're not a government-funded organization." The recipients of the agency's aid are not expected to pay back the Red Cross because the assistance it provides is a "gift of the American people."

Lt. Tex Ellis, commander of the Salvation Army, told allocations committee members, "We'll appreciate whatever you give us... If you only give us what you gave us last year we'll thank you."

But Ellis also expressed concern that the local chapter — which already owes the national organization about $20,000 — would be hard-pressed to find areas to cut from its proposed budget.

"The national (organization) has carried this office for the last eight years," he said. "I'm not sure why they did that" from a financial point of view.

"The (Salvation) Army has a lot invested in Big Spring," Ellis said. The agency helps 35 to 40 people every other day, nearly 16,000 cases a year, he said.

Although many people think of transients when thinking of the Salvation Army, Ellis said, "That's a very small part of our program." The local agency also aids single parents, veterans and people released from the state hospital.

The Salvation Army has been forced to cut back on the amount of services it provides for the area in recent years, he said. The thrift store, which does not receive United Way funding, has reduced its hours.

The allocations committee also heard presentations from the West Side Community Center, the North Side Community Center and the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Monday evening. Two organizations that did not appear before the committee but requested financial assistance — the West Texas Epilepsy Foundation and the Southwest Diabetic Foundation — were turned down for consideration because committee members did not feel the organizations have enough local interest.

he said. Although the city will have to expend several hundred thousand dollars for the purchase, the more equitable rates will "pay for it in less than four years based on the history of usage," Boyd said.

In other action, the council: • Agreed to give the Big Spring Senior Citizens Center $2,541 for pest control. The council's decision was an about face from an earlier meeting when they refused a request for funds from Center Director Jaynet Smith.

At that meeting, council members were angered by Smith, who had accused the council of not caring for the center.

Tuesday's request came via Boyd after he received a letter from Howard County Judge John Coffee. Boyd said Coffee asked for the city's assistance in paying the bill, but Boyd asked the council to foot the entire bill for pest control. Although the city owns the center, it is not obligated to pay maintenance costs under the terms of a lease agreement with the county.

• Unanimously approved a resolution supporting a constitutional amendment banning desecration of the American flag.

• Scheduled a 1989-90 budget workshop for Saturday, July 29, beginning at 8 a.m. Council members will receive copies of the proposed budget around July 19.

• Approved the second and final reading of a resolution authorizing Mayor Max Green to sign a contract with Parkhill, Smith and Duggan for the proposed highway project on the west end.

The council approved the agreement only after councilmen Sidney Clark and Tim Blackshear met with representatives of the firm to discuss the contract. The council had been unhappy that the engineering service refused to take responsibility for the project.

Weather

By the Associated Press
In eastern Kansas, thunderstorms Tuesday night deluged the town of McFarland with more than 6 inches of rain. Three inches fell in three hours at Washington and heavy rain in Emporia left streets under as much as 3 feet of water.

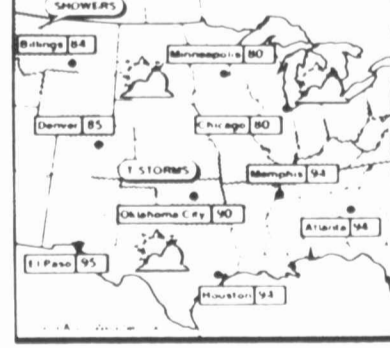

Slow-moving showers and thunderstorms continued to produced heavy rain in eastern Kansas and southwestern Missouri early this morning.

Showers early today brought welcome rain to eastern Colorado. Elsewhere, rain drenched parts of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Virginia.

REGIONAL WEATHER

Accu-Weather • Forecast for Thursday
Daytime Conditions and High Temperatures

Heavy rain fell in parts of West Virginia, resulting in flash flooding in southern Harrison County.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms scattered from the middle Mississippi Valley across parts of the Great Lakes and much of the Ohio Valley to the southern and central Appalachians, and along much of the Gulf Coast and across the central Rockies.

Predicted highs: in the 90s across much of the nation; in the 70s from much of Minnesota across the Great Lakes into northern New England; in the 60s or 70s along the Pacific Coast; in the 80s over the northern and central Rockies, and from eastern portions of the northern Plains across Iowa, northern Illinois and the central Appalachians to the southern half of the northern Atlantic Coast states; and above 100 degrees over the southwestern deserts, the inland valleys of Southern California and along the Big Bend of the Rio Grande Valley in Texas.

Terrorism calls for cooperation

The world sanctions terrorism by refusing to outlaw it. The killing and maiming of innocent civilians by terrorists, allegedly for political causes, should be deemed a crime that transcends borders. But there exists no international law to define terrorism, no world tribunal to judge terrorists and no international prison to punish them.

The result? "Terrorists continue to get away with murder by playing one nation against another, avoiding extradition, escaping prosecution and even securing their freedom by blackmailing powerful countries," writes Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., in The New York Times. "What is needed is a modern-day Devil's Island on international territory, where terrorists can be kept in the custody of the court — rather than the custody of an arresting nation — thus depriving terrorists of targets for blackmail."

A Devil's Island for terrorists may sound bizarre. But this proposal from a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee should not be taken lightly. As the Cold War thaws, the time may be propitious for world leaders to begin creating international institutions to combat terrorism through legal means — not impotent revenge. The first step is to define it: One person's terrorist is another's freedom fighter.

That paradox is facile. Terrorism is best viewed as a tactic — not a cause. As a weapon, the indiscriminate bombing of airplanes may be compared to the use of poison gas: However honorable the cause, the wanton butchering of innocent civilians cannot be morally justified.

By disengaging terrorism from the political intent of the terrorists and dealing with it as a crime, nations would take a step toward guaranteeing the safety of international travelers.

If this sounds Utopian, the failure to recognize the danger of terrorism as a threat to international security has been sorely underestimated. Indeed, international terrorism has cost the United States as much or more in the past decade as any purely military threat.

"A narrow definition of terrorism, limited to offenses such as hijacking and hostage-taking, could avoid the political quagmire of distinguishing between a terrorist and a freedom fighter," Specter writes. "Panels of the existing International Court of Justice could be used to try cases."

The Reagan administration refused to allow the World Court to rule on a dispute between Nicaragua and the United States, but in times past this country has adhered to international rulings. One precedent, of course, is U.S. participation in the Nuremberg Trials, where Nazis were convicted for crimes against humanity.

According to Specter, Soviet officials expressed an interest in international cooperation in recent discussions with Secretary of State James Baker. The State Department should follow up on the interest.

President Bush and Soviet President Gorbachev should put terrorism on the agenda of the next summit meeting. Cooperation between the superpowers would put pressure on Third World countries to stop backing terrorists.

Terrorism portrays itself as a force of change, but it often provokes violent resistance to change. By outlawing terrorism, world governments would be transforming the struggle for justice from violent to peaceful means.

That is a dream, of course. But without dreamers such as Arlen Specter there will be more terrorist bombs, more dead children, more parents blasted into debris.

Flag-burners have no respect

To the editor:
Dear American citizens, to respect your country, and your flag, you first must have respect for yourself, have character, and morals. People who follow the example of those in other countries by burning the American flag have the same regard for America as the mad foreigners. The American is just playing copy-cat.

If there were a war to break out, would the flag-burner be down in line to enlist to fight for his country? I say no, he has no regard for man or his country, to put his life on the line for any cause. You watch the big mouth people who lead these dishonorable protests; ask him, have you ever fought for your country. But I'll tell you one thing right now, there is no way you could force an honorable man to spit on or burn the American flag.

I know many in one organization that some one should show them up for what they are, but burning the American flag in front of their building would only show the public how dumb and ignorant I was, to dishonor the symbol of spirit and respect for our country. These sorry people that I dislike would really whoop and holler to see me do a horrible act such as that.

As the man said, "He had to be sick," and you can be sick in many ways. If he ever serves in the military, he'd better never let it be known that he burned an American flag in protest. Military men couldn't stand up to that. Someone would have to go. In fact if it were known, I don't think they would take him in the military for the trouble it would cause good men.

Art and the eyes of the beholder

By KAREN MCCARTHY
Staff Writer

Should literature and the arts receive financial support from the state? Most civilized countries think so, and in the United States we have the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The arts are in trouble with Congress over the question of funding control. Congress' policy has been to give grants to various art institutes and let the institutes decide how to spend the money. As a result, controversial artists have received federal funding to produce works that are not universally appreciated.

A recent example that was much in the news is a photograph by Andre Serrano of a plastic crucifix in a jar of urine. Tasteless and tacky, perhaps — I would not buy it, certainly — but the artist claimed he was making a statement about the commercialization of sacred imagery.

Unfortunately, beauty is in the eye of the beholder, as the cliché goes, and I frequently am at odds with the critics on what constitutes good art. (I really don't like Grandma Moses and other "primitives," and I do tend to like landscapes and barns, which tells you immediately that I do not have particularly sophisticated tastes in art.)

Congress, which cut funding to the National Endowment for the Arts once before over a question of taste and appropriateness, now wants more control over who and what gets funded. On the surface, this sounds reasonable. However, am I willing to let Congress pick what goes on my living room wall? No, I am not.

Artists who appeal to popular taste, like Norman Rockwell, for instance, can sell their works. On the other hand, tomorrow's great artists may be starving in their lofts and desperately in need of financial aid now. And would Congress have funded a Picasso?

If we start establishing guidelines as to what types of art projects will be funded, don't we run the risk of promoting only art that meets current standards of acceptability, eliminating experimentation and risks?

Such a policy would lead to artistic stagnation. Is this the route we want to take?

Remember the fuss over the Vietnam Memorial? It attracted a lot of criticism in the planning stages because it was judged by many to be too stark and bare. And yet the simplicity of the actual memorial is now widely praised. Certainly it has set a new standard in memorials for the country.

I doubt if a photo of a crucifix in a jar of urine is going to set any new standards. On the other hand, little is said about the rest of Serrano's work. If there are other photographs, maybe one of those not shocking enough for publicity will be judged great sometime in the future.

A lot of people, including art critics, were ready to write off Picasso in his cubist period as a producer of bizarre trash. Tastes have changed dramatically since then, going by current market prices.

Maybe art is something we have to take risks on. Let artists have their one-time grant and see what they make of it. That seems a better alternative than appointing a panel to decide what art work deserves to be funded and what doesn't. Even if we have to pay for some work that is just plain tasteless and tacky.

Saving taxes

Cut the waste, eliminate the deficit

By JACK ANDERSON
and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Approximately one-fourth of the taxes that every American pays to the federal government is wasted. Yet Congress is scheming to bail out the government, not by eliminating the waste, but by increasing taxes.

This is the latest finding of Citizens Against Government Waste. The commission found so much fat and maladministration in government spending that if it were excised, the budget could be balanced without cutting legitimate benefits or raising taxes.

What needs to be done, the commission declared, is to crack down on wasteful management, unintended benefits to people who don't deserve them, freebies to the unneedy and other preferential treatment that the public knows little about. All of this adds up to an estimated $140 billion a year, which could spell the difference between gaining control of the federal debt or falling into its remorseless grip. The debt has swollen to such massive dimensions that the personal taxes of all taxpayers west of the Mississippi barely covered last year's interest payments. We are close to the point that we pay so much interest on the past that we don't have enough income left to pay for the present.

This will force us to borrow more and more money just to pay the finance charges. Where once we borrowed by choice, we will soon be borrowing because we have to.

The U.S. government is close to that point. Almost two-thirds of last year's deficit can be attributed to the interest owed on previous debt. George Bush had to borrow just to pay the finance charges on the past borrowings of Ronald Reagan, who ran up more debt than that of all his predecessors combined.

This has already foreclosed on significant portions of the American dream. For example, the average family today must lay out half of its income every month to finance the purchase of a home — more than double the percentage of 20 years ago.

Most of our median-income families simply cannot afford to pay out half of their income for housing alone. For them, a key element of the America that used to be has already gone glimmering.

An unbuilt home also means an unemployed carpenter. And in the same way that deficits stop home construction, they stop the building of new plants and the modernization of existing ones. This, in turn, blocks the creation of jobs and careers.

Higher taxes should be a last resort, not a first resort. Isn't it wrong to demand higher taxes from people whose current contribution is misspent by one-fourth?

Footnote: Jack Anderson is co-chairman with J. Peter Grace of Citizens Against Government Waste.

MINI-EDITORIAL — We're happy to see the outbreak of patriotism surrounding public revulsion over flag-burning. President Bush never met a flag he didn't enjoy wrapping himself in. This whole regurgitation of "flag politics" reminds us of Samuel Johnson's admonition: "Patriotism is the last refuge of scoundrels." Today, patriotism is the last refuge of political image-makers.

Dukakis facing financial woes

BOSTON (AP) — After pitching his role in the "Massachusetts Miracle" during his presidential campaign, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis is winding down his final term trying to draw from a spending well that has all but run dry.

The darkest hour is expected Thursday, when Dukakis will announce $500 million in "deep and painful cuts" from a budget just enacted.

"Personally, I regret this," he said, "because Thursday is going to be a dark day in the history of this commonwealth, and it is all so unnecessary." He said the spending vetoes will lead to thousands of state employee layoffs, across-the-board cuts in government and the possible elimination of some agencies.

Dukakis said he has "a constitutional responsibility, a statutory responsibility and a practical responsibility to make sure that over the course of the next 12 months, spending does not exceed revenue, lest we go into the next fiscal year with an even worse situation than we face this year."

Woman suffers ordeal at airport

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 70-year-old woman spent five days in an airport after she was separated from her family as a result of a series of misunderstandings, police said.

Initially, it was feared the woman might have been left behind by relatives, but that turned out not to be the case, police said Tuesday.

Irene Rodriguez wandered around Los Angeles International Airport after she went there July 5 to board a flight to Lincoln, Neb., and found there was no ticket waiting for her.

Police began a criminal investigation, believing that pages in the woman's address book were torn out, that her bank account had been cleaned out and because officers were unable to locate her children.

But her son, Robin Breadwell, 39, and his 47-year-old wife, Emily, 47, reported his mother missing when they arrived in Lincoln after driving there. Their trip was delayed by vehicle troubles, said police Detective Mel Arnold.

Rare tornadoes hit Northeast

(AP) Dozens of stunned homeowners were homeless after rare tornadoes in the Northeast destroyed their property and hundreds more cut up fallen trees and installed new windows. Thousands of homes today remained without power.

Monday's violent storms cut a swath of destruction from northern New Jersey to central Massachusetts. The tornadoes were blamed for the death of a 12-year-old girl in Connecticut who was camping when a tree fell on her tent, and for the injuries to hundreds.

At least 50 homes and 40 businesses were demolished in one Connecticut community, while 24 condominium apartments in a New York town were shattered.

A heat wave in the Midwest, meanwhile, brought temperatures in the 90s for the second day Tuesday, but a "cooling center" was largely ignored in St. Louis, where a second heat-related death was reported this week.

Agent Orange study bungled, Weiss says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study on exposure to Agent Orange, the toxic defoliant used in Vietnam, may have been designed by the government to fail, a congressman charges.

Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., also said Tuesday the decision two years ago to cancel the massive study by the Centers for Disease Control has wrongfully put the lid on other government research.

"The federal government has effectively used the CDC study to stifle any attempts to link Agent Orange to health effects," Weiss said at a hearing of his Government Operations subcommittee on human resources and intergovernmental relations. "CDC has had the last word on Agent Orange."

"Either it was a politically rigged operation or it was a monumentally bungled operation," Weiss said.

Dr. Vernon N. Houk of the CDC said the study was abandoned because the CDC couldn't find the right data to develop a valid method to study the health effects of the defoliant.

But several other scientists, including former CDC researcher Dr. Dennis M. Smith, testified that the needed data, including detailed troop movement, were available from the Defense Department's Environmental Study Group.

Houk, chairman of a scientific panel of the White House Agent Orange Working Group, demurred suggestions by Weiss that the White House called the shots on the study.

"The science panel was not considered and is not considered and has never functioned as a political entity," he said.

Weiss said CDC conducted another study finding a low sperm count and malformed sperm among Vietnam veterans. As a result of the earlier study, CDC dismissed any link between those findings and Agent Orange because "we found that few Army ground troops were heavily exposed to dioxin-containing herbicides," Weiss said, quoting the report.

Many Vietnam veterans have said they have developed cancer and that their children have a high incidence of birth defects because of Agent Orange, which was used to clear dense jungle during the war.

There are 34,000 veterans seeking government benefits as a result of disabilities they say were caused by Agent Orange. The active ingredient of Agent Orange is dioxin, a cancer-causing chemical.

Afghan troops fire on rebel bases

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Government forces fired 100 rockets at Moslem guerrilla bases in the hills around the capital hours before a government-declared cease-fire went into effect, authorities said today.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said in a dispatch from Kabul that 44 guerrillas were killed and 62 wounded in artillery battles in the Kabul area and elsewhere around the country.

Tass said insurgents fired missiles Tuesday at the central mosque in Kandahar while a religious service was in progress. It said eight people were killed and 20 wounded. Battles also were reported Tuesday in Kabul and the provinces of Ghor, Balkh, Fariab and Badakhshan.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Mohammad Nabi Amani said 100 rockets were fired late Tuesday into the Paghman Mountains, 12 miles northwest of Kabul.

"We understand our brave armed forces have successfully carried out the task given to them to destroy the (guerrilla) positions," Amani said. He did not have casualty figures.

Speaker appears to be shoo-in

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — This month's Iranian presidential election appears a one-horse race dominated by Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani and if the Tehran media is anything to go by, the result is a foregone conclusion.

A poll published Tuesday by the radical Abar daily, which has been critical of Rafsanjani's so-called pragmatist faction in the past, indicated that 86 percent of Iranians will vote for him in the July 28 balloting.

Eleven percent said they would vote for his challenger, former Agriculture Minister Abbas Sheibani of the Freedom Movement, Iran's token opposition party.

Three percent said they would not vote in the election, given special significance because it comes so soon after the June 3 death of fundamentalist patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The transition of power has been smooth so far, despite fears of a struggle between Rafsanjani's so-called pragmatists and hard-liners led by Interior Minister Ali Akbar Mohtashemi.

Rail strike paralyzes London

LONDON (AP) — Strikes today paralyzed the national rail network, the London subway, the port of London, 41 other British docks and local government services across the nation.

The 24-hour national rail strike by the National Union of Railwaymen was its fourth Wednesday stoppage in as many weeks. And the daylong strike by London subway drivers is their 10th since April 5.

This has been the worst week of labor unrest since Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher came to power 10 years ago, and polls show the popularity of her governing Conservative party sinking.

On Monday and Tuesday, rail services were badly disrupted by a ban on overtime by train drivers belonging to another union, the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

Today's rail strike followed the breakdown Tuesday night of 12

On the light side

Snake stalls plane takeoff

BALTIMORE (AP) — Piedmont Flight 1253 to New York City was delayed for more than an hour, but the reason wasn't a mechanical problem, bad weather or labor strife — it was a 4-foot snake.

The plane was taxiing out to take off from Baltimore-Washington International Airport when a passenger saw the serpent slithering down the aisle and alerted a flight attendant, said Larry Pickett, spokesman for USAir, Piedmont's parent company.

"The pilot pulled back to the gate and all the passengers deplaned, the maintenance people did their thing and the plane took off about an hour later," Pickett said.

Workers had to remove three seats in order to capture the critter, a harmless gopher snake, Pickett said. Airline officials did not know how it got into the plane, he said.

The reptile was sent to a pet store.

Judge just likes unusual weddings

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — They'd never set foot in the Metrodome and aren't long-time Minnesota Twins fans. So why did Xonda Odil and Jerry Diven get married in the Metrodome?

"To please the judge. 'I don't play golf, hunt or fish, so I do weddings,'" said Judge Howard Albertson of Stillwater, who especially likes to find unusual spots in which to perform his hobby of performing wedding ceremonies.

He's tied the knot on pontoons, aboard a hot-air balloon and on sternwheelers on the St. Croix River. But never in the Metrodome. So he mentioned the possibility while touring sites with Odil and Diven, who originally planned to be married in the Washington County Courthouse in Stillwater.

"You meet such a nice person like the judge, and the way he said he had never done it before, and would like to be the first to do it, you know why not help the guy out?" said Diven, 35.

Besides, he said, "We thought the Twins needed the publicity." Their brief ceremony was held Saturday before a few friends and 55,000 empty seats. They paid $25 to rent the stadium for half an hour. The six-person wedding party then had to leave the field so the Twins could take batting practice for their game against the Texas Rangers.

Twins spokesman Tom Mee said the wedding was a first for the team. But it wasn't a first for the Dome. One couple exchanged vows a few years ago on the 50-yard line during the Minnesota Vikings' season, said Dennis Aillon, the Dome's permanent director.

Home turns into one big beehive

NASHUA, N.H. (AP) — Nancy Brehm said she and her daughter and grandson were upstairs in their house one recent afternoon when they heard an odd noise in the living room. About 12,000 bees, apparently swarming or looking for a new hive, had flown down the chimney and tried to take up residence in the Brehm house.

Mrs. Brehm made a beeline for the upstairs telephone and called her husband, Bruce, at work.

"I know my wife and daughter don't like insects, so I thought they were exaggerating," Brehm said. "I expected 10 or 20 bees. I couldn't believe what I saw when I got there."

Nomadic nurse likes new places

By PAT YADON
Beaumont Enterprise

BEAUMONT — Sandra Boucher has the perfect job to scratch the itchy feet of wanderlust. A widespread shortage of nurses has created opportunities for hospital workers to hop jobs and see the world.

Ms. Boucher, who calls herself a "traveler," works for a nursing agency based in Florida that supplies temporary help to hospitals. The nurses sign short-term contracts, then pack up and try another state.

"A lot of travelers are looking for a place to live," Ms. Boucher said. "Once you find a place that you really like, you get comfortable and settle down."

But some nurses Ms. Boucher knows have been traveling for 15 or 20 years, and the 24-year-old native of Canada has no plans to put down roots anytime soon.

The 3-month job at Baptist Hospital in Beaumont is only her second assignment. She worked in Hartford, Conn., and will begin a stint in Winston-Salem, N.C., on Aug. 1. "A lot of hospitals will offer bonuses if you stay a little longer," she said. "The next place I'm going is offering $6,000 to stay for six months," she said.

After North Carolina, her next trip will be a six-month vacation in Europe, and then she hopes to find work in Africa. She wants to spend some time in Alaska, too, but eventually she plans to live in Canada in the summer and the southern United States in the winter.

Ms. Boucher's lifestyle not only provides plenty of adventure, it pays well, too. Temporary employees earn substantially more than permanent nurses, and her agency pays for a furnished apartment wherever she goes.

Since she moves so often, Ms. Boucher doesn't own anything, she said. She thinks about saving money for retirement but spends most of her salary on plane tickets and other travel expenses. "I find I have to have a vacation at least every 13 weeks," she said.

Not owning furniture and other household items is one of the few problems Ms. Boucher can see with her life. Adjusting to new towns and different hospital set-ups and policies can be confusing, she said, and she is not always able to find jobs in neurology, her specialty.

The nomadic existence might sound lonely, but nurses from the agency become friends and often wind up at the same hospital, Ms. Boucher said. Plus, her relatives take advantage of the chance to see the states and often visit her, she said.

BEAUMONT — Sandra Boucher, R.N., checks the printout from a patient's heart monitor while working as a temporary nurse in Beaumont. Boucher is employed by a Florida-based company that supplies temporary help for hospitals.

Nurses who can work almost anywhere in the country probably would not put Beaumont first on their list, but Ms. Boucher says she has enjoyed it and definitely preferred it to Connecticut. "The people here are wonderful that I work with," she said. "Some friends of mine said, 'Don't go to Texas, because there's no nurses there. You'll be the only nurse in all of Texas, and they'll work you to death.'"

The nursing shortage does seem to be more severe in Texas than in other states, but Ms. Boucher said she does not know why. The supply of nurses is short in Canada and other countries, too. The warm climate and higher salaries in the United States attract Canadian nurses, Ms. Boucher said. Doctors and nurses earn more in the states than they do in Canada, which has socialized medicine. But doctors and hospital officials there seem less money-hungry, Ms. Boucher said.

"Most of them (Canadian doctors) don't drive Mercedes, but they lead a comfortable life, with nice houses with their little swimming pools and stuff like that," she said.

"The (American) hospitals that are privately owned seem to spend so much time trying to save money that they are skimping," she said. "They just seem to scrimp and save on these piddly little things, and a lot of times there are emergency things that we can't get hold of because the hospital hasn't bought them. In Canada, the hospitals are well-equipped because we demand that the hospitals be well-equipped."

Canadians pay extremely high taxes to support the socialized medicine system, but Ms. Boucher said she does not mind paying more to ensure that everybody has access to the care they need. "It breaks my heart when people (in America) come in the hospital that don't have insurance, and they say, 'I can't afford to find out what's wrong with me,' and they go home," she said. "It's terrible."

"The health care system in Canada is certainly not perfect," she said. "The whole country's going broke."

But home always seems best, she said, even to the travelers who can't wait to move on.

Texas ads are working

AUSTIN (AP) — Some of the state's top tourist attractions are reporting large increases in the number of out-of-state visitors, the Texas Department of Commerce reports.

J. William Lauderback, department executive director, said Tuesday that the surge shows state's tourism marketing efforts — which include national television ads describing Texas as being "like a whole other country" — are working.

According to a department survey, attendance is up this summer at Six Flags Over Texas in Arlington; Astrodome in Houston; the Prude Ranch in the Davis Mountains; Sea World in San Antonio.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT available to area women!

BIG SPRING, TEXAS
FRIDAY, JULY 14TH
HIGHLAND MALL

Call 263-1132 for appointment

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. (The cost is only $50.00)

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small... even before it can be felt.

ENCHILADA SAUCE

2 16-oz. cans whole tomatoes
2 tbs. vegetable oil
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, crushed
3 tbs. chili powder
½ tsp. cumin
¼ tsp. oregano
1 tsp. salt
Saute onion and garlic in oil. Add the remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. If a smooth, unumpy sauce is desired, cool and puree in the blender.

CHILI con QUESO

Can be used as a sauce for hamburgers and hot dogs. Add a cup to cream of corn soup for a super lunch dish. Use as a sauce to leftover chicken. Make ahead, refrigerate to use as needed.

1 lb. Velveeta cheese
1 large onion, chopped
1 tbs. vegetable oil
1 tbs. flour
1 tbs. chili powder
1 clove garlic (optional), minced
1 10-oz. can tomatoes and green chiles

1 chopped jalapeno pepper (optional)

Saute onion and garlic in oil until transparent. Add flour and chili powder. Cook 1 minute. Add tomatoes and green chiles and cook until sauce is thickened. Add cheese in chunks and cook until melted. Serve hot in a chafing dish with tostados. Yields 4 cups.

PICO de GALLO

Rooster's beak
4 ripe avocados
2 tomatoes
1 medium onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 tbs. lemon juice
1½ tbs. juice from canned jalapenos
2 tbs. olive oil
2 tbs. fresh cilantro or 1 tsp. dried
Salt and pepper to taste

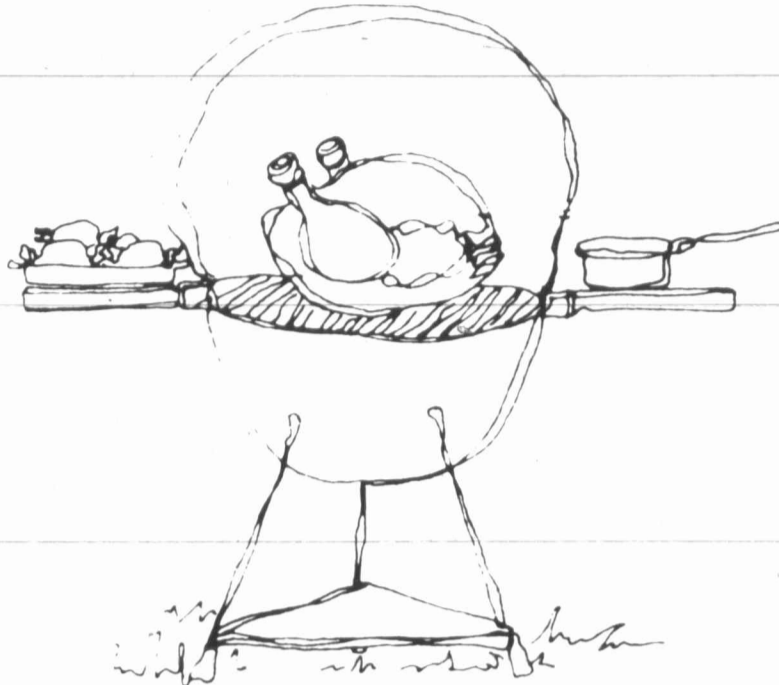

Chop the avocados, tomatoes and onions. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Make this several hours prior to serving. Refrigerate covered.

ARROZ con POLLO

Good ol' chicken and rice
1 frying chicken, cut into serving pieces or 6 chicken breasts

½ cup oil
½ cup chopped onion (one small onion, chopped)
1 cup uncooked rice
¼ cup chopped green bell pepper
1 clove garlic, minced

In a heavy skillet, with a tight-fitting cover, brown chicken lightly in the oil. Remove chicken from pan and set aside. Saute onion and pepper until just golden brown. Remove onion and pepper

½ cup water
1 28-oz. can tomatoes, undrained
Juice of ½ lime
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. cumin
1 tsp. chili powder
½ t. dried sweet basil or 1 tbs. fresh sweet basil, chopped
¼ tsp. oregano

with slotted spoon and set aside. Saute the rice until golden, stirring frequently. Return onion, pepper, garlic, tomatoes, water, salt and seasonings and bring to a boil. Add the browned chicken, cover tightly and simmer for 30 minutes or until chicken is tender. This dish may also be cooked in the oven in a heavy casserole after browning steps on top of stove. Bake 45 minutes in 425 degree F. oven. Garnish with parsley and pimientos for color.

CHIMICHANGAS

2 to 2½ pounds stew beef
3 cloves garlic, minced
1½ tsp. cumin
3 tbs. chili powder
1 onion, sliced
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
6 8-inch flour tortillas

Place cut up stew beef and seasonings in saucepan. Add enough water to cover beef. Simmer covered for about 2 hours or until meat is tender. Reserve broth. Shred beef when cool enough to handle. Moisten shredded beef with ½ cup of cooking broth. Add more salt and pepper, if desired. Wrap the tortillas tightly in foil. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Place 3 to 4 tbs. of beef in the tortillas. Fold the right and left sides of the tortillas to partially cover the filling. Roll the tortillas from bottom to top. Heat about 1 inch of oil in a skillet to 350 degrees F. Place the rolled tortillas seam side down in the skillet. Fry 2 to 3 minutes at a time, 1 minute per side or until golden brown. Serve on a bed of chopped lettuce. Top with sour cream and guacamole and pass the salsa.

Perfect summer salads

By PAPA JOE REED

The long, hot days of summer are the perfect time for salads. Not only are salads good tasting, but also economical. But I think that the nicest thing is that they are so easy to prepare.

When I talk salads, I talk about more than the old stand-bys such as lettuce and tomato and potato salads. I talk about salads that are such taste treats that the family will be asking for more.

Today, we will be fixing a "Ham 'n Tater Loaf". This is actually two salads in one.

HAM 'N TATER LOAF

Celery (½ cup, chopped)
Pickle juice (3 tbs.)
Salt (1 tsp.)
Salad dressing (¾ cup)
Sweet pickle (½ cup)
Mustard (2 tsp.)
Potatoes (7 medium, boiled, cubed)

After getting all your ingredients together, line a 9-inch loaf pan with waxed paper. Mix the ham with ½ cup of the salad dressing. Press this mixture onto the bottom of the loaf pan. Now mix the celery, pickle juice, salt, sweet pickle, mustard, and salad dressing. Now add the potatoes, and mix lightly.

Be sure the potatoes are completely covered with the salad dressing mixture. Cover with foil on a bed of leaf lettuce and garnish with onion rings, or sliced green pepper. Serve with crackers and iced tea, and you have a great supper that is delicious and not too filling. Besides that, it's pretty.

Now that we have had one nice salad with meat, let's try one without meat. I'll assure you it's delicious. I call it "Papa Joe's Bean 'n Macaroni Salad". It's great for lunch.

PAPA JOE'S BEAN 'N MACARONI SALAD

Macaroni (1 cup, cooked)
Celery (½ cup chopped)
French salad dressing (¼ cup)
Salt (¼ tsp.)
Pepper (¼ tsp.)
Three bean salad (1 can)

Pickle relish (1 tbs.)
Tabasco sauce (10-12 drops)
In a large bowl, combine the cooked macaroni, the undrained three bean salad, chopped celery, and coarsely chopped eggs. Now blend together the French dressing, pickle relish, salt, Tabasco sauce and pepper. Pour this over the macaroni mixture, then toss lightly. Chill for about one hour and then garnish with hard-boiled egg slices, or onion rings, bell pepper slices, or carrot curls. Another delicious salad. Easy on the pocket book and easy on the waistline. Till next week, good eating.

Papa Joe's Kitchen Tips: If your aluminum pots and pans are damaged, you can repair them by boiling in them two teaspoons of cream of tartar mixed in a quart of water. About 10 minutes will do it.

Questions & Answers

Q. I have juniper berries that I bought for one specific recipe. What are other ways to use them?

A. Juniper berries, dried to be used in cooking, can be used for marinades, sauces and stuffings for meats and game. The pungent flavor of the berries subdues wild game's strong flavors.

Q. Is there any difference in food value between green and red tomatoes?

A. Green tomatoes have a few more calories due to slightly more carbohydrate and protein than ripe, red tomatoes. Ripe, red tomatoes have more than three times as much Vitamin A and slightly more Vitamin C.

Q. What makes sweet pickle shrivel when I pour the hot brine over them?

A. A number of factors may be responsible. The brine may be too concentrated with vinegar, sugar or salt. Start with a weaker solution of brine and gradually add the full amount indicated by the recipe. Pickles may be overcooked or overprocessed in the jars or cucumbers themselves may be the source of the problem. Cucumbers may shrivel if growing season is too wet or too dry, if plants were hot healthy or if cucumbers were stored too long before pickling.

Q. Why are my doughnuts filled with holes?

A. Hole or tunnels are caused by too much leavening or overmixing the dough.

Q. How do you harvest and prepare sunflower seeds?

A. Let sunflower head dry thoroughly, preferably on the stalk. Remove seeds with your thumb or a stiff brush. To hull, place seeds briefly in boiling water, then hand hull. For a large quantity, use a grain mill.

Area brief

Workshop to build self-esteem

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas is offering a one-day workshop to help individuals raise their self-esteem. The workshop will be conducted Aug. 5, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The goal will be for participants to grow in self-confidence and self-respect. The workshop will define "positive" self-esteem as well as help participants identify and deal with self-defeating thoughts and learn self-acceptance, living consciously and authentically, liberation from guilt, and helping our "child self."

The workshop will be led by Dr. Norman D. Godfrey, executive director, who has 15 years experience as a pastoral counselor and is an accomplished workshop leader who is committed to building self-esteem in himself and others.

The fee is $25.00 per person. For additional registration information, call (916) 563-4144.

Improved artificial limbs

By NYU MEDICAL CENTER
New computerized design systems and materials make artificial limbs more comfortable to wear and more useful than in the past, according to a researcher at New York University Medical Center. "Electronic equipment is replacing the laborious process of making plaster molds to fit artificial arms and legs," said Dr. Richard Lehnis. "The result is a more precise and more comfortably fitting limb with improved mobility and flexibility."

An article in an upcoming issue of the center's Health Letter explains that a prosthetic device has a socket which attaches to the remaining part of the limb, commonly called the stump. Previously, layers of plaster had to be placed on the stump to form a mold, a process that frequently required several adjustments to attain a correct fit.

"With a computer-aided design and manufacturing system, prosthetics designers use an electronic sensing tool called a digitizer to determine the volume and shape of the remaining part of the limb," Lehnis said. "The information is fed into a computer, which generates an image of the limb. Adjustments can then be made on the screen, not on the person."

Once the limb's design is completed, it is transferred to the system's manufacturing capacity, which digitally carves a plaster cylinder into an exact replica of the design. "Exact fit has been achieved in nearly three-quarters of the limbs designed and manufactured in this way," said Lehnis, research associate professor of rehabilitation medicine. Newly developed or utilized materials have also led to important advances. "Carbon fiber composites and titanium have changed the nature of prosthetics," Lehnis maintained. "These materials are very strong yet light in weight. They provide support for the wearer, and are much more comfortable."

In addition, new plastic materials are used for the socket, giving the wearer more flexibility. Formerly, sockets were completely rigid.

One problem that the new materials have solved arose from fitting prosthetics for amputations above the knee. "About 80 percent of prosthetics are for older people who have lost limbs because of complications from vascular disease and diabetes," Lehnis said. Those amputations, as well as those of people with bone cancer and those who have been in accidents, must often be above the knee.

"Recently, we have begun designing more comfortable sockets for above-knee amputees," he observed. "The development of more flexible plastics has been an important factor."

Another major improvement has been "energy-storing feet." In the past, Lehnis noted, prosthetic feet were relatively stiff, which limited mobility. New materials have made it possible to add a plastic spring. "When body weight is put on the foot, the spring is compressed, which stores energy," he said. "When weight is taken off the spring, it expands again, letting the wearer expend much less of his or her own energy. These feet allow amputees to run more normally."

Strict time limit at day care is not good care

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding "No Nonsense in N.W. Jersey," the day-care professional who said, "Any child not picked up by 6:30 p.m. will be taken to the county social service facility for children."

Your answer to her was, "Most parents are on time, but I'll wager not many parents are tardy twice when faced with this kind of penalty."

Is that the best response you could come up with? Abby, that lady should be working in a factory making clocks! Her responsibility to the child far outweighs any spite she may feel toward inconsiderate parents. The person she is hurting is the child. She has no business being in the day-care business — and less business calling it "day care." There is NO care. She should advertise: "Day storage: We are not responsible for items left after 6:30 p.m."

Can you imagine what it must do to small children to be taken by someone they are supposed to trust and dumped with strangers in a strange place? At that age, they can't understand what's happening. They can't even be sure that their parents will come and get them. In their minds it can be nothing short of abandonment, and it must be terrifying.

Dear Abby

Your letting "No Nonsense" get off without letting her have it with both barrels shows that you aren't in the child-care business. Thanks for hearing me out. — DISGUSTED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR DISGUSTED: You're right. I should have come down much harder on her. But I didn't get away with it. It would have done your heart good to see all the negative mail I received.

DEAR ABBY: I just had to write after reading the letter from "Fuming in Ontario," the man who was angry when people cut in ahead of him in line. I, too, used to get angry and fume about this. Actually, I was more angry at myself for not having the nerve to say something to them at the time. Then I decided to be more assertive. (I discovered that one need not be obnoxious to be assertive.)

I learned to say, politely but loudly, "Perhaps you didn't notice that the end of the line is over there, and I'm sure you won't mind waiting your turn like the rest of us have." It works every time. — ASSERTIVE IN URBANA, OHIO

DEAR ASSERTIVE: Good suggestion. Here's another one:

DEAR ABBY: Whenever someone tries to get in line ahead of me, I say, loudly, "I don't mind letting you in ahead of me, if all those people behind me don't object."

Then I address the people in line with, "What do you say, folks?"

Naturally, everyone in line is "thumbs down" on the idea, and they start yelling, "Nothing doing! No way! Go to the end of the line like we did!" — NO CUTTING IN IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: I've been a delivery person for many years, and you could help all of us in the trade by impressing upon your readers how important it is to be specific when giving an address. It may seem rather unimportant to indicate whether it's street, avenue, boulevard, road, drive, court, lane or whatever when specifying a delivery address. Given how most metropolitan areas may have a 24th Street as well as a 24th Avenue, or an Elm Street, Elm Place, Elm Drive, etc., there are a lot of important documents, parts orders, blueprints and pizzas needlessly heading off in the wrong direction. Thanks, Abby! — GREG PALMER, OAKLAND, CALIF.

DEAR GREG: A misdirected pizza is merely an inconvenience, but an ambulance, fire truck or police car heading off in the wrong direction can be a major catastrophe. Readers, pay attention when you give your address. And by the way, is your residence clearly marked and visible at night.

Large profits from Japan

By TOWN & COUNTRY
The Tokyo Stock Exchange has surpassed New York as the world's richest — a fact that can mean profits for the smart American investor.

At last count, according to an article in the current issue of Town & Country, the aggregate market value of Japan's shares totaled $3.9 trillion — more than the combined worth of all the stocks quoted in New York ($2.6 trillion), London ($375 billion), Frankfurt ($235 billion) and Paris ($215 billion).

Tokyo's Midas touch may be disconcerting for Americans old enough to remember Pearl Harbor. But huge wealth is being created in capitals of the Pacific Rim, a longitudinal slice of Asia that is dominated by Japan but includes South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore — aptly known as the four tigers.

Thailand also is on the way to earning its trade-surplus stripes. Malaysia, Indonesia, the Philippines and mainland China could one day join the ranks if they overcome internal problems.

Americans must overcome their customary indifference toward Asia and find ways to profit from its prosperity.

Most analysts agree Japan represents the safest harbor for American investors. The country has shown an uncanny ability to overcome economic adversity by working longer hours to turn out better products. Its social structure is so cohesive and centrally planned that some foreign residents jokingly call Japan "the only communist nation that works."

Unburdened by big military budgets or spendthrift consumers, Japan has steadfastly saved and invested for the future, which has never looked brighter.

A few skeptics warn that Japan's 15-year-old bull market is perilously long in the tooth. But Japan's big four brokerage houses, Nomura, Jaiwa, Nikko and Yamaichi, believe the yen's heady rise and the Tokyo Stock Exchange's dramatic recovery from the 1987 crash marked the transfer of world financial leadership from New York to Tokyo.

Internationals remain undefeated

BIG SPRING INTERNATIONALS 8, MIDLAND EASTERN 7
ODESSA — Brandon McGuire and Jesse Hernandez combined to pitch a seven-hitter as the Big Spring Internationals won their second game and remained undefeated.

Dist. III

Tourney

Hernandez started, and last two-thirds inning. McGuire went the remaining five-and-one-third innings, getting the win. Mike Adams took the loss for Midland Eastern. The Internationals took a 3-0 lead in the first inning. With two outs John Oliva doubled to right field and Gabriel Aguilar walked. The next two batters were hit by pitches, bringing in Oliva. Next T.J. Rios' fly was dropped by the right fielder, allowing two more runs to score.

Midland Eastern tied the game in the bottom of the first, thanks to a two-run homer by Vito Ochoa.

The Internationals added three more runs in the second, combining two walks and a triple by Jason Henderson. But Eastern tied it in the third with two singles and a three-run blast by Ochoa. The game remained tied until the top of the fifth. Hernandez began the inning for Big Spring with a single to center. Rios then blasted a two-run shot over the right field fence, giving the Internationals a 8-6 lead.

Eastern added a run in the bottom of the sixth when Ruben Flores singled in Ochoa, who had walked. The Internationals put the game away when center fielder Charles Angel fired a perfect strike to third baseman Henderson who tagged out Flores who was trying to go from first to third on a base hit by a teammate.

The Internationals will play Lamesa Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. at Jim Parker field.

MIDLAND MID-CITY 6, BIG SPRING NATIONALS 1

ODESSA — A booted ball in the second inning proved fatal to the Big Spring National League All-Stars as Mid-City rolled to its second win of the tournament, handing the Nationals their first loss.

With two outs and two men on, the National League shortstop booted a grounder, bringing Jeffrey Bishop to the plate. Bishop took Jacoby Hopper's offering out of the park for a grand slam, keying the win for Mid-City. The blast was Bishop's second homer in as many games.

Leading hitters for the Nationals, now 1-1 in tourney play, were Brant Farris, Dallas Hopper, Trey Cauble, Jason Roberts and Chad Kemper.

The Nationals will play El Paso tonight at 7:45 at Sherwood field.

BIG SPRING AMERICANS 16, COAHOMA 2

ODESSA — The Coahoma All-Stars were eliminated from tournament play as they got pounded by the Big Spring Americans. The Americans are now 1-1 in league play. Derek Hick was the winning hurler for the Americans, and Freddy Olivas took the loss for Coahoma. He was relieved by Brian Ruiz.

American shortstop, Trey Terrazas, who was intentionally walked two times, made the most of it when Coahoma pitched to him. Terrazas, Big Spring's home run champ, belted his 21st homer of the season, and hit a single.

Ruiz tripled for Coahoma. The Americans will play Midland Tower at 5:30 today at Jim Parker Field.

Bo leads AL to 5-3 victory

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Somewhere, there may be a baseball player who can hit a ball farther and run faster than Bo Jackson.

If there is, though, he sure wasn't at Anaheim Stadium Tuesday night for the All-Star Game.

Jackson drove in two runs, one with a 448-foot homer, stole a base and made a nifty running catch.

Jackson's heroics helped the American League and Nolan Ryan beat the National League 5-3. It is the first time since 1957-1958 that the AL has won consecutive All-Star Games.

"He's exciting," NL manager Tommy Lasorda said of Jackson, the game's MVP. "When the bat hit the ball on his homer, it sounded like he hit a golf ball. He's awesome."

Awesome was only one adjective used to describe Jackson's dominant performance in the 60th All-Star Game.

The game started at 5:42 PDT and the twilight was supposed to bother the batters. But they seemed to see things just fine.

The NL took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first off Dave Stewart and then was hit by Bo Jackson.

Jackson hit Rick Reuschel's second pitch of the game into the batter's eye in center field, 448 feet away.

"I rarely turn and watch a home run," Reuschel said. "There was only one other time — and that was in spring training — when I watched because I was so sure it was going out."

Center fielder Eric Davis was watching, too.

"I really thought I might have a chance for it," Davis said. "I saw it climb and then there was nothing for me to do but watch it."

Reuschel might not have wanted to watch what happened next, though.

Wade Boggs homered to left-center field on a 3-2 pitch.

It was the first time in All-Star history that a team led off with consecutive homers and only the fourth time overall.

"Bo is scary," Boggs, a five-time batting champion, said. "He is redefining the game."

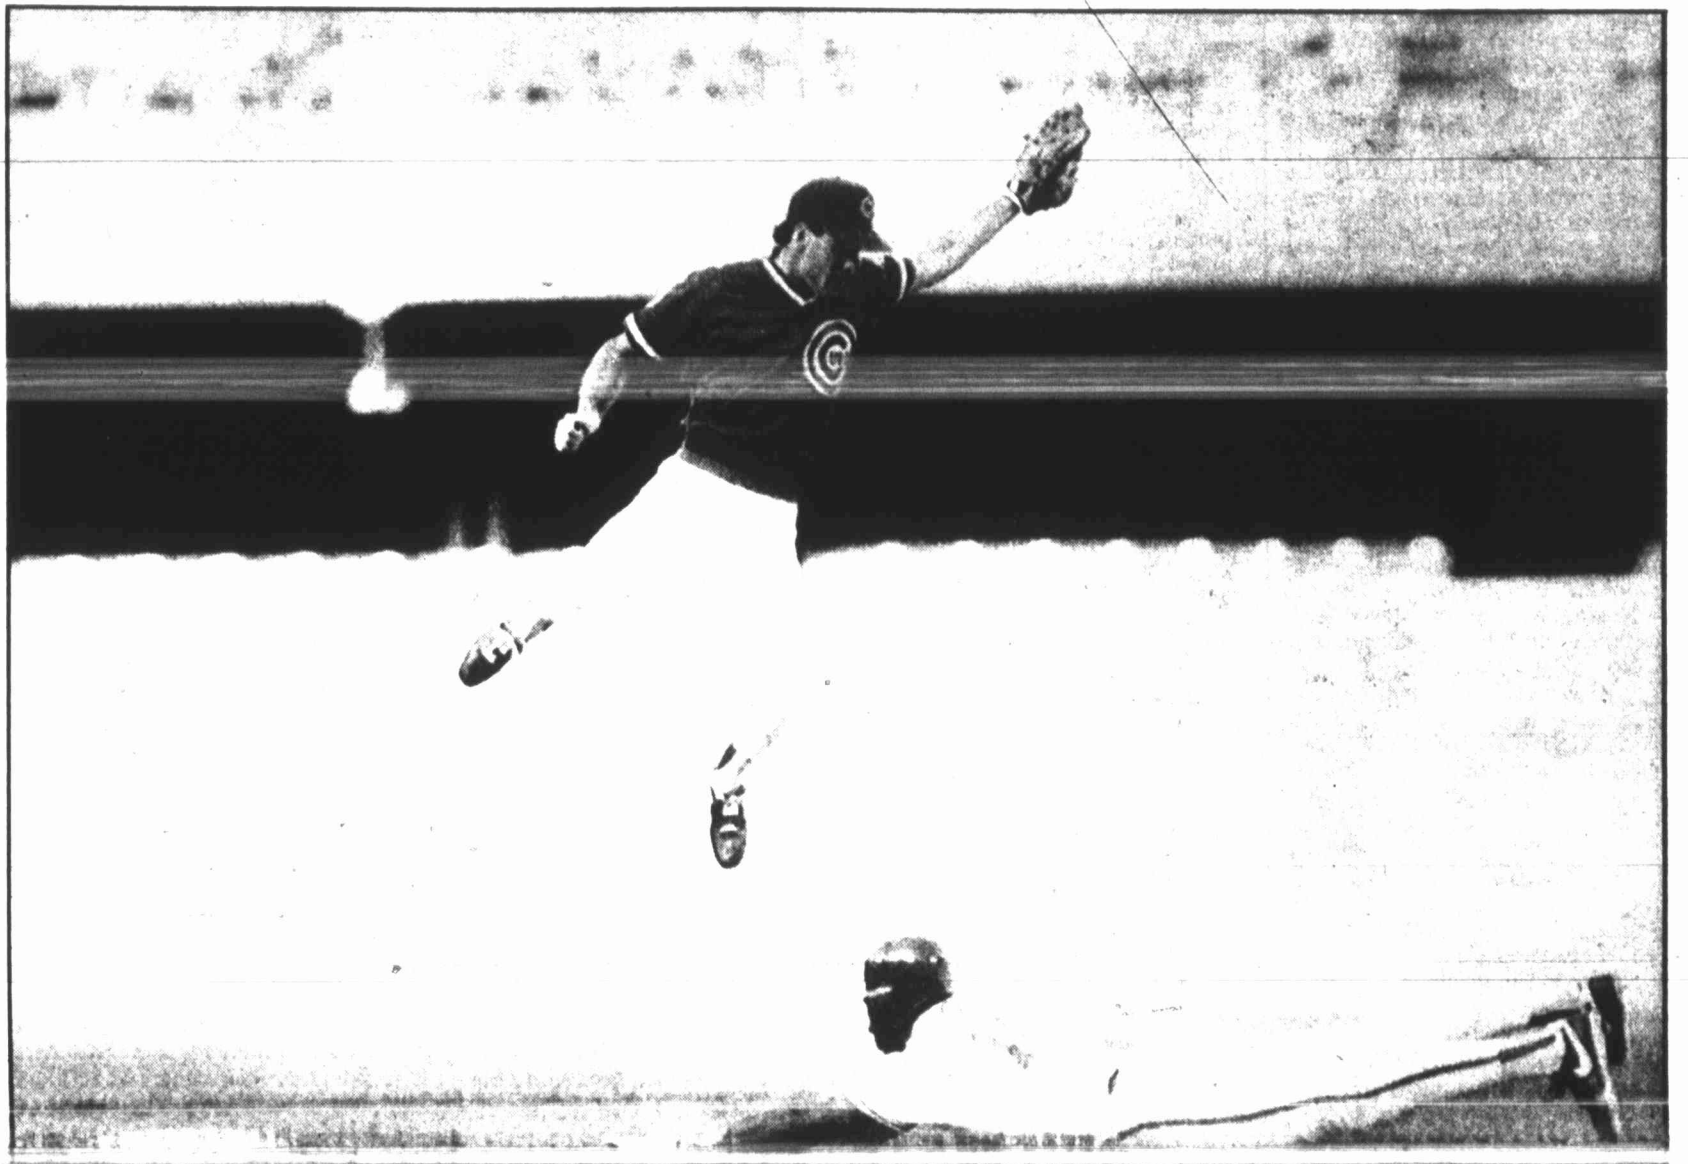

In the second inning, Jackson put the AL ahead to stay against loser John Smoltz with an RBI grounder. He also stole second in the inning.

The only other player to hit a homer and steal a base in an All-Star game was Willie Mays, in the second game in 1960.

"The twilight only effects mediocre hitters and there aren't any here," Lasorda said. "The early game didn't make a difference."

The last All-Star Game played at Anaheim was in 1967, and it took

The best of times for Ryan

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The 60th All-Star Game was certainly Nolan Ryan's finest. Was it also his last?

"Out of all the All-Star games I've been in, this one means the most," Ryan said Tuesday night after he earned his first All-Star nod.

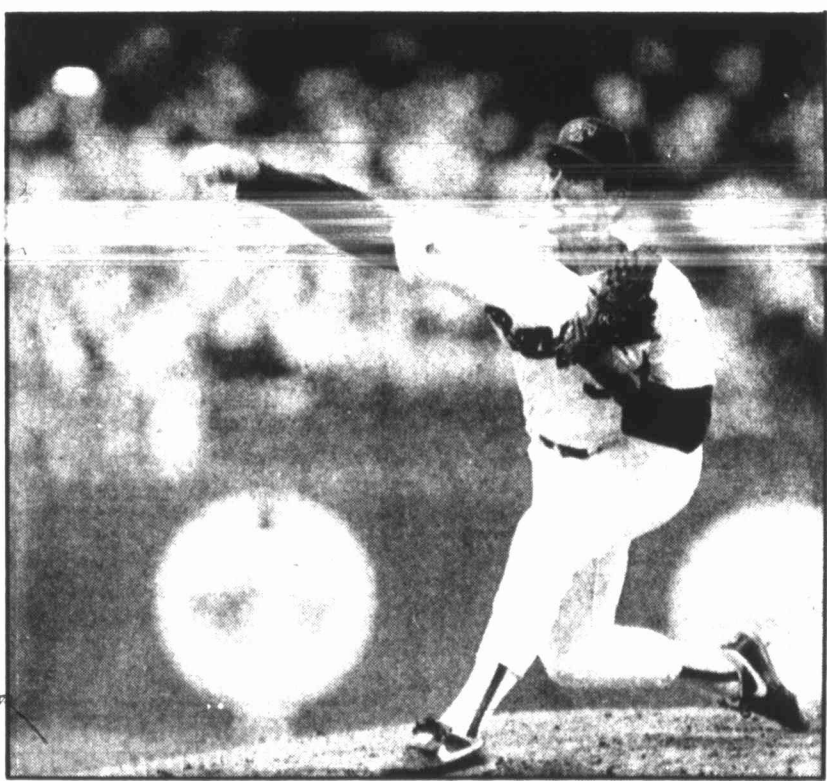

League for two innings on an infield single and striking out three in the American League's 5-3 win.

"It's special both because of coming back to Anaheim, all the games I've pitched here, the memories, and the fact that this could be my last All-Star Game."

Then again, Ryan, who at 42 became the oldest pitcher ever to win an All-Star Game, may be a threat to replace Satchel Paige, who appeared in an All-Star Game at 52, as the senior player ever in the contest.

"He's a rare man," said Jimmie Reese, the 83-year-old Angels coach who has been in the game since the 1920s, once roomed with Babe Ruth and has seen thousands of major leaguers come and go.

"He's a better pitcher now than ever," said Reese, a close friend of Ryan since the pitcher was with the Angels in the 1970s. "I think he may go on forever." Ryan, who says he will decide after this season whether he will retire, showed some young NL sluggers that he's developed some trickery to go along with his treacherous fastball during his 23 years in the majors. After getting Ryne Sandberg on a pop fly, striking out Benito Santiago and getting Mark McGuire on a popup in the second inning, the Texas Rangers ace gave up an infield single to Tony Gwynn to start the NL third.

Ryan then struck out Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell, who between them own 45 homers and 145 RBIs this season, then ended the inning by getting Eric Davis on a routine fly to right.

Working against Mitchell, the Giants' remarkable youngster who leads the majors with 31 homers and 81 RBIs this year, Ryan showed his command. He threw one sweeping curve — just inside for a ball — that had Mitchell ducking away from the plate.

Then, with the count 2-2, Ryan threw him a changeup that he fouled off, then fooled Mitchell completely with another curve on the inside corner for a called third strike.

"You've always heard about Nolan Ryan's fastball," said AL catcher Terry Steinbach who was a couple of years away from kindergarten when Ryan broke into the majors. "But he has a great curveball; he really kept the hitters off-balance."

"He threw a lot of breaking balls and he usually throws fastballs," NL manager Tommy Lasorda said of Ryan. "He's an amazing man."

Ex-49ers mentor to try announcing

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry O'Neil was taking a stab in the dark when he called Bill Walsh about auditioning for an analyst's job with NBC.

O'Neil, NBC Sports' executive producer, said Tuesday of the man who stepped down as coach of the San Francisco 49ers after winning his third Super Bowl of the decade last January.

"I was just calling because I'd known him over the years and just thought I'd ask," O'Neil said.

Instead, Walsh, in a kind of limbo as the 49ers' executive vice president for football operations, "was willing to listen. The audition took place three weeks ago with Dick Enberg at a World Wrestling Federation conclave at Stamford, Conn."

"It was the best audition I've ever seen," O'Neil said, and he immediately began negotiating with Walsh for a spot as NBC's top football analyst. "I have no doubt that he's going to be the best technical football analyst I've ever seen."

Walsh, 57, will team with Enberg, replacing Merlin Olsen, who will become analyst for Charlie Jones. Walsh's first game will probably be Sept. 10 at Chicago's Soldier Field between the Bears and Cincinnati Bengals — teams his 49ers beat last season in the NFC title game and Super Bowl, respectively.

NBC hopes Walsh will make an impact similar to that of John Madden at CBS. O'Neil ran the football operation at CBS when Madden started there.

Walsh was stripped of the team presidency by owner Edward DeBartolo Jr. after the 1987 season and was caught between the increasingly assertive owner and coach George Seifert.

Walsh was largely responsible for getting the job for Seifert, his former defensive coordinator. But his continued presence could have led to speculation that he was still coaching the team. Indeed, when asked last March what he would be doing in his new job, he replied: "The same things I've always done."

Though soft-spoken and not as flamboyant as Madden, the former coach of the Oakland Raiders, Walsh often has demonstrated a subtle, dry sense of humor.

"If we're able to convey one-half of Bill's sense of humor, we're going to make the coach of the '80s into the commentator of the '90s," Dick Ebersol, president of NBC Sports, said.

Wide receiver wants to be number one Eagle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wide receiver Mike Quick, who is recognized for catching the "bomb," has thrown one at the Philadelphia Eagles.

According to Eagles president Harry Gamble, Quick's agent, Jim Solano, has told the club that the wide receiver wants to be the highest paid player on the club.

"To date we have received one letter from his agent requesting that he be the highest-paid Eagle," Gamble said. "Later, in face-to-face talks with George Azar (a Gamble assistant), he requested to wait until the Reggie White contract situation is resolved before further discussing Mike's negotiations."

Obviously, Solano can't determine what it will take to make Quick the highest paid Philadelphia player until White signs.

Both players are in protracted contract negotiations, which appear to be going nowhere.

White, who led the NFL in sacks for the second straight year and made 133 tackles, hasn't taken part in Coach Buddy Ryan's pre-training camp workouts. Ryan says White has been excused for a few days for personal reasons.

White said he doesn't want to take part in workouts until the Eagles take out a temporary insurance policy for up to $1.5 million, the anticipated annual value of his new contract.

"Reggie wants to be at practice. But he's concerned whether he's insured properly and that's understandable," Gamble said. He added that it would be bad business to take out temporary insurance based on that amount because it would put the team at a disadvantage at the negotiating table.

Solano confirmed Tuesday that he has told the Eagles that Quick, a five-time Pro Bowl selection, wants to be the highest-paid player on the team. Quarterback Randall Cunningham currently is the salary leader at $1.4 million per year.

Solano was upset by Gamble's disclosure of his demand for Quick,

"I do not want to negotiate through the press," Solano said. "I don't think it was right for the Eagles to discuss our proposals."

Quick, who missed eight games last year with a broken left leg, said he may stay out of camp while salary negotiations continue.

"I've been around long enough to see how things are handled — that is negotiating a new contract or trying to renegotiate," Quick said Tuesday before a workout.

Quick had troubles negotiating his last contract, in 1986, and said he wasn't surprised at this year's difficulties. That contract, a three-year deal worth $700,000 per year, expired after last season.

"Looking back at that experience, and seeing what happened, I realistically don't think I'll be there" when camp opens, Quick said.

Gamble wouldn't predict whether his two stars would show up.

"To say what the odds are is always a difficult thing," he said. "Sometimes the ones you think will be the most difficult get done a little more quickly. And some that you think should go quickly take a bit more time."

There have been recurring rumors that Quick might be traded. The Eagles always have denied the reports.

Quick caught 22 passes for 508 yards and four touchdowns last season. He has 57 touchdown catches in his career, tops among active players, and is third in receiving yardage.

White is working under a contract that calls for $440,000 per year, Gamble said Tuesday. White said he's the best defensive end in the NFL and wants to be paid accordingly — meaning more than the reported $7.5 million, five-year contract the Buffalo Bills gave Bruce Smith after last season.

White's case is different from Quick's because White, according to the Eagles, is in his option year and is seeking renegotiation. White disputes the option contention, saying it never was in his original four-year contract, or that if it was, his LeMond held the leader's yellow jersey since last Thursday when he won an individual time trial. After that, he held on tenaciously to the leader's yellow jersey, even after the first stage in the Pyrenees Mountains, where he, including LeMond himself, doubted that he would stay in front.

Finally, in the second stage in the mountains and 10th overall, Fignon took the lead. But it was just by moving away from LeMond by 12 seconds on the final climb that ended more than 5,807 feet above sea level.

Bergeron, who returned to Quebec shortly after being fired by the Rangers on April 1, says he urged Nordiques president Marcel Aubut and general manager Martin Madden last week to sign Lafleur, who became a free agent July 1.

Lafleur came out of a four-year retirement to join the Rangers last season and managed 18 goals and 27 assists in 67 games despite not playing a regular shift.

"I liked what Guy did in New York last season and I don't see why he couldn't do the same with the Nordiques," Bergeron told Le Journal de Montreal.

Rockets sign power forward

HOUSTON (AP) — Larry Smith has something the Houston Rockets need and Coach Don Chaney hopes it is contagious.

"It's obvious that the man can rebound but he will also add aggressive play and that's something we didn't have last year," Chaney said.

Smith, after spurning a two-year contract offer from Golden State, signed a three-year agreement with the Rockets on Tuesday that is worth $2.5 million.

"Right now, I know I've got a tough guy coming in and that can be highly contagious," Chaney said. "When you get a couple of aggressive guys, it wears off on the other guys."

The Rockets didn't have a consistent rotation last season, and were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs by Seattle.

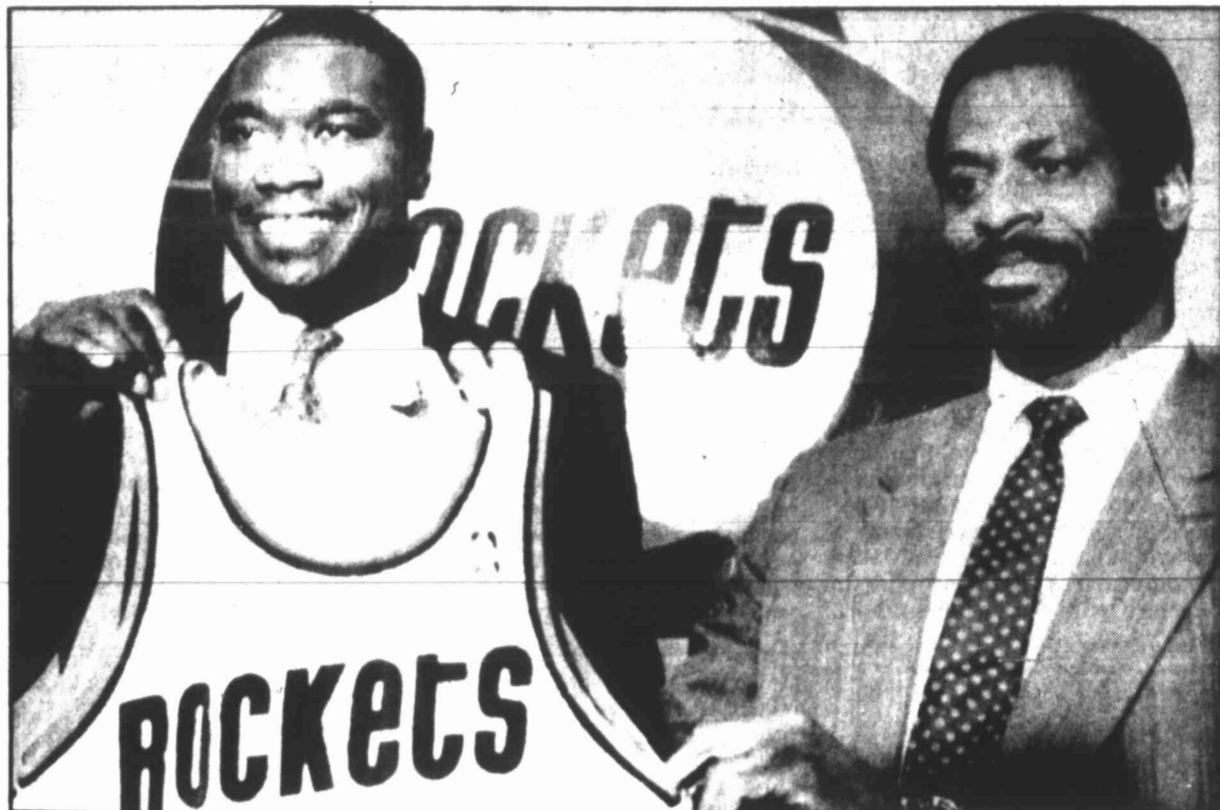

Now the pieces are starting to fall into place, Chaney says.

"We needed additional rebounding and we made great strides last year by signing Otis Thorpe," Chaney said. "Now we've got that third guy to come in and give us a three- or four-man rotation."

Smith, Golden State's first-round pick in 1980, averaged 5.7 points and 8.2 rebounds last season and started 78 games for the Warriors.

Smith has gotten more rebounds than points in eight of his nine NBA seasons and has averaged 10.4 rebounds in his career.

"He's a blue-collar player who gives us additional strength in the front line along with Akeem Olatunji, Otis Thorpe, Tim McCorum and Walter Berry," general manager Ray Patterson said.

The 6-foot-8, 235-pound Smith has ranked among the top 10 rebounders in the NBA five times and is third on the Warriors' career rebounding list, behind only Nate

Thurmond and Wilt Chamberlain. Smith underwent off-season surgery to repair ligament damage to fingers on both hands. "I had ligament tears on the little fingers of the right and left hands but everything is OK now and I'm excited about getting started," Smith said.

Smith earned $600,000 with the Warriors last season and recently rejected a two-year contract offer. As an unrestricted free agent, the Rockets do not have to compensate Golden State for Smith.

"Playing against the Rockets I knew they were a good team and I'm delighted to be a part of them now," Smith said. "This is a team that can win a championship."

The Rockets also are interested in Seattle shooting guard Sedale Threatt, also an unrestricted free agent. Threatt had an outstanding series against the Rockets in the first round of the 1989 playoffs.

"We're working hard on the Threatt situation," Patterson said. "There are a few other clubs involved with him, including Seattle. But we're working on it."

"Last year, people knew Sleepy (Floyd) was our only ballhandler and they doubled up and pressured him and overworked him," Chaney said. "Threatt could take some of that pressure off Sleepy plus he's also got that outside shooting threat."

The Rockets also are waiting an NBA determination of the status of former Rockets players Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins, banned from the league for 2 1/2 seasons because of drug involvement.

American doing well in Tour de France race

TOULOUSE, France (AP) — Greg LeMond, who missed the last two Tours de France after winning in 1986, passed the first test of this year's classic cycling race.

Despite losing the leader's yellow jersey, coming out of the two stages of the Pyrenees in second place was a success for LeMond, the only American to win the event.

He had to give up the yellow jersey on Tuesday to Laurent Fignon of France, the 1983 and 1984 winner. Fignon moved slightly ahead when he pulled away from LeMond on the final climb of the four hills in the 10th stage that went from Cauterets to Superbagneres.

tenaciously held onto the jersey, even after the first stage in the Pyrenees where many, including LeMond, doubted that he would stay ahead.

Finally, Fignon beat LeMond by 12 seconds on the last climb that ended more than a mile above sea level.

"On the last hill, I decided to attack," Fignon said. "I didn't feel good until that last climb. In the other three, I had trouble."

Robert Millar of Britain won Tuesday's stage, edging Pedro Delgado, last year's winner. Charly Mottet of France was third.

LeMond finished in ninth place, 12 seconds behind Fignon, who was American, Andy Hampsten.

Lopez seeking elusive crown

LAKE ORION, Mich. (AP) — A practice round spectator at this week's U.S. Women's Open Championship wanted to know how she could find the most recognizable face on the LPGA Tour.

"Just look for the big crowd, lady," responded one of the numerous marshals who will direct the galleries this week around the Indianwood Country Club course.

Such is the impact that Nancy Lopez, 32, continues to have on the game.

And going into Thursday's opening round of the 44th U.S. Open, a smiling and confident Lopez left little doubt she's ready to win the only major tournament that has eluded her in a career that of fame career.

Despite having won only once this season, Lopez is second behind Betsy King in LPGA earnings with $331,439, and by her assessment, is playing better than when she dominated women's golf with 17 victories in 1978 and 1979.

"I felt I had a great year in 1985 (five victories, $416,472), even better than when I won the nine and eight (tournaments)," she said Tuesday. "But I'd have to say this year is better because in 13 tournaments, she has 11 top-10 finishes and has been worse than third only three times."

There are other factors that make Lopez the logical favorite this week. The most obvious is the Indian Wood course, whose tight fairways and heather-covered rough have drawn comparisons with courses in Scotland.

"It's so tight, you really have to think," Lopez said. "There's a lot more strategy and patience involved. For me that's good, because I hit the ball pretty straight."

Lopez, who scored her 40th career victory in May by winning the LPGA Championship, concedes she never has placed much emphasis on the major tournaments. But with two children and her marriage to former major league baseball player Ray Knight competing more and more with her time on the tour, she knows her time to win the U.S. Open may be running out.

All-Star

the NL 15 innings to squeeze out a 2-1 victory. By the end of the first inning Tuesday, that total had been surpassed.

Jackson, who also plays football in the NFL, is compared to Jimmy Brown when he's running for the Los Angeles Raiders and to Mays when he's hitting homers for the Kansas City Royals.

He doesn't care much for either comparison. "I really hate it when people call me the next Willie Mays or the next Babe Ruth," Jackson said. "I hope I should be judged on what they do, not what other people have done."

Ryan, 42, relieved Stewart and pitched two innings for the victory. No comparisons are needed for Ryan; he's one of a kind.

Ryan, who is nearing 300 victories and 5,000 strikeouts, is the second-oldest pitcher ever to appear in an All-Star Game and the oldest ever to win one.

He played for California from 1972-79, so this game was special.

"It was my most meaningful All-Star Game," Ryan said. "Out of all the All-Star Games I've been in, this one means the most, both because of coming back to Anaheim and the fact that this could be my last All-Star Game."

The AL added two runs in the third inning off Rick Sutcliffe on RBI singles by Harold Baines and Ruben Sierra, who was 2-for-3, and got great pitching from Mark Gubicza, Mike Moore and Greg Swindell in the middle innings.

Relievers Jeff Russell, Dan Plesac and Doug Jones finished, with Jones going the final 1 1/3 innings for the save.

"I think it's a matter of the pitchers trying to keep the hitters off balance," Gubicza said. "If we keep switching pitchers, they won't be able to get used to us."

The AL also seems to have switched its luck in All-Star Games.

The AL has won three of the last four games. From 1963-82, they lost 19 of 20 All-Star Games, including 11 straight.

But now it's the Bo Show. "See Bo hit, see Bo run, see Bo do anything," Dodgers pitcher Orel Hershiser said.

"It might be something I can tell my grandkids later on," Jackson said. "But for me, I just live for the present."

Baseball Today

SCOREBOARD
Boston at Minnesota (8:05 p.m. EDT). Roger Clemens will face Frank Viola in a matchup of pitchers who have won the last three Cy Young awards.

STREAKS
By beating the National League in the All-Star Game, the AL has a two-game winning streak for the first time since 1957-58.

SLUMPS
Before doubling in the seventh inning off Jay Howell, Don Mattingly was hitless in eight career All-Star at-bats.

STARTERS
All nine American League starters and five National League starters will take the mound today.

SLUGGERS
Bo Jackson became the ninth player in All-Star history to homer in his first at-bat.

STOLEN BASES
The three stolen bases by the National League were one short of the record the NL set in 1984.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Notice is hereby given of a public hearing on the 1989-90 budget for the Howard County Junior College District.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR THE FLUID INJECTION WELL PERMIT
David H. Arrington Oil & Gas, Inc., P.O. Box 2071, Midland, TX 79702 has applied to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit to inject fluid into a formation which is productive of oil or gas.

SWINGS
Julio Franco and Ruben Sierra of the Texas Rangers combined to go 3-for-6 Tuesday night. In the 17 previous All-Star games, Texas batters were 2-for-18.

STARTING STRONG
The consecutive homers in the first inning by Bo Jackson and Wade Boggs were the fourth back-to-back homers in All-Star Game history.

STILL PITCHING
Nolan Ryan, at 42 years, 5 months, 11 days, became the oldest pitcher to win an All-Star Game.

SO MANY PITCHERS
The American League tied a record by using eight pitchers Tuesday. It was the fifth time it happened and the second straight year the AL did it.

SIGNS
Fans erected the following sign on the third-base side during Tuesday's All-Star Game: "Pete Says 5-1 Giampatti Can't Beat Tyson."

SCOUTING
Dave VanWinkle, Rich Long and Scott Stevens combined for 14 strikeouts and allowed just two hits as Utica (White Sox) shutout Watertown (Indians) 6-0 in the New York-Penn League.

SPEAKING
'It'll be something special when I can sit back and tell the story to my grand kids. But I hate to be compared to players of the past because they did their thing then and I do my thing now.

SEASONS
1934 - Babe Ruth hit his 700th home run in a 4-2 victory over Tommy Bridges and the Detroit Tigers.

1938 - Johnny Mize of the St. Louis Cardinals hit three home runs in one game for the first time in his career.

1943 - The first night game in All-Star history, at Philadelphia's Shibe Park, went to the American League, 5-4, despite a single, triple and home run by National League center fielder Vince DiMaggio.

1954 - Pitcher Dean Stone did not retire a batter and received credit for the American League's 11-9 All-Star victory at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

1960 - Willie Mays, Eddie Mathews, Stan Musial and Ken Boyer homered to power the National League to a 6-0 victory over the American League at Yankee Stadium for a two-game sweep in All-Star play this season.

1963 - Early Wynn, at 43 years of age, registered his 300th and last league victory, pitching the first five innings of Cleveland's 7-4 triumph over the Kansas City A's.

1965 - The National League took the lead over the American League for the first time since the All-Star series began, winning 6-5 at Metropolitan Stadium.

1971 - Reggie Jackson's mammoth home run off the power generator on the right-field roof at Detroit's Tiger Stadium highlighted a barrage of six home runs - three by each team - as the American League beat the National League 6-4 in the All-Star Game.

1982 - The National League registered its 11th consecutive All-Star victory over the American League with a 4-1 victory at Montreal's Olympic Stadium, the first game played outside the United States.

1989 - The National League registered its 11th consecutive All-Star victory over the American League with a 4-1 victory at Montreal's Olympic Stadium, the first game played outside the United States.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Talk show host Pat Sajak says he's content with his new late night talk show on CBS and tries not to dwell on ratings.

"As far as I'm concerned, everything's going fine," he said in a telephone interview. "I'm sure there are those who'd like to see us doing better, but I'm satisfied with the progress we've made and I'm proud of the show we're putting on the air."

"From the beginning, we took care not to play any numbers games and I didn't go into this with any numbers in mind," he said without elaborating.

in about half the big markets we're delayed a half hour, it's amazing we're doing as well as we are," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Tom Jones is the target of a paternity suit filed by a woman who claims she spent two nights with him two years ago.

"There is no question that Tom Jones is the baby's father. No question whatsoever," said attorney Raoul Felder, who represents Katherine Berkery.

Ms. Berkery, 27, says Jones fathered the child when they spent two nights together at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in October 1987.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1989

for tension, nervous energy. Take a long walk.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Look forward to a red-letter day. You urge exactly what has to be done! The urge to start a new relationship is strong. Go slow. Time is on your side. Others will come around.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): It will take courage to make a major decision. Consult experts if in doubt. Happy associations must be nurtured in order to remain rewarding. Letters lift spirits. Write someone far from home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Complete household chores early in the day. A small emergency will require a calm, logical approach. Mate or partner demonstrates loyalty in a wonderful way. Plan a special weekend for two.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A simple explanation is not possible. Dig deeper into a career or financial problem. Recycle old projects to boost profits. Romance is sweeter than ever. Be your affectionate self. Avoid criticizing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An urge to break home ties should be examined objectively. Your cause could be hurt more than it is helped. Develop a long-range plan for financial security. A message you receive in late afternoon is encouraging.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spend more time by yourself working on a career project. An older person continues to offer excellent advice. Follow it to the letter! Stop trying to do everything the hard way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you push too hard, you could botch up a new deal. Refrain from inviting strangers to a family affair. The pieces of a puzzle finally fall into place. Repay past favors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Working with a will not only gets things done but draws the attention of influential people. A raise or promotion gives you cause for celebration. Take loved ones out for a special dinner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Changing your routine will make you more productive. Teamwork boosts profits. Do not be afraid to end a meaningless relationship. Attending a social event lifts your spirits. Seek introductions to prominent people.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You could snap back rather sharply after a dry spell in creativity. Give credit where it is due. Romance takes on a rosy glow tonight. Enjoy yourself but avoid making reckless promises.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: TV host Dave Garroway, actor Harrison Ford, "Hogan's Heroes" star Bob Crane, actress Lynn Loring, housing secretary Jack Kemp, actor Robert Forster, Cajun chef Paul Prudhomme, comedian Cheech Marin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Working diligently will advance your career. A youngster shares a delicious secret, strengthening the parent-child relationship. An excellent evening to dine out or visit friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A showdown will prove beneficial to your career or a close personal relationship. Act calm even if secretly upset. Exercise is a wonderful outlet

Landscape for water efficiency

Ask the agent

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

With summer and its accompanying high temperatures continuing to move along, we get a lot of calls into our office concerning more efficient ways to use available water resources.

In the summer season, 40-60 percent of the water supplied to our more urban areas is used for lawn and garden watering. Water-efficient landscape design and practices can reduce landscape water use by half or more by simply using information already available to landscape professionals and easily accessible to individuals.

It can be a bit overwhelming to the average homeowner to consider a full-scale, complete conversion of a traditional, water-intensive landscape to a conserving, water efficient landscape but the important point is that it does not have to be done all at once.

Like a savings account, the important thing is to get started. The homeowner can spread the time, labor and materials investment over a period of several years with minimal disruption of existing landscaping. For example, a 3-year schedule is presented below:

Year 1: Begin by developing an overall plan and by watering efficiently with your existing lawn watering equipment so that obvious waste is eliminated; add deciduous trees and groundcover, which will reduce lawn area by 10-15 percent and mulch all flower and shrub beds.

Year 2: Add more shade trees, ground cover, and shrubs, to reduce lawn area by an additional 10-15 percent; install a drip irrigation in flower and shrub beds; and continue proper lawn maintenance.

Year 3: Add more ground cover and shrubs; install a deck or patio to reduce lawn area by another 10-15 percent; and keep up the good work. Literally hundreds of native or adapted drought resistant, low water-using trees and plants are readily available, and they make beautiful, practical landscape staples and accent plantings. Examples of the types of trees, shrubs, and ground covers are listed below:

Trees: Afghan Pine, Chinese Pistache, Live Oak and Texas Red Oak Shrubs: Cenizo, Grape Myrtle (not real tolerant to salty type water), Texas Mountain Laurel, Youpon Holly, Mexican Buckeye Groundcovers: Monda Grass, Vinca, Verbena, and Wildflowers, Perennials, Autumn Sage, Lantana, Blue Sage, Mexican Oregano.

Grasses: Bermuda and Buffalo Water-efficient landscaping commonly called Xeriscaping, involves seven landscaping principles:

Good design: limited irrigated lawn and shrub areas; adapted, lower water-demand plants; effective and efficient altering methods; mulched flower and shrub beds; and proper landscape maintenance.

Water-conserving landscapes can be green, cool, inviting and full of beautiful plants, while simultaneously requiring less intensive care and much less water than most conventional landscapes.

Henson-Payte

Brenda Henson, Rt. 3 Box 238, and Whitney Payte, 2803 Lawrence, exchanged wedding vows June 22, 1989 at a 7 p.m. ceremony at Midway Baptist Church, with Billy Patton, pastor of 11th and Birdwell Lane Church of Christ, officiating.

MR. AND MRS. WHITNEY PAYTE

The bride is the daughter of Bob and Carol Henson, Rt. 3 Box 238. Bridesmaids' parents are Lawrence and Joyce Payte, 2803 Lawrence.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with spiral candelabras and a unity candle. The pews were marked with satin bows and pink carnations.

Pianist was JoAnna Hamilton, Big Spring. Vocalist was Rebecca Thompson, Big Spring.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown with modified Elizabethan sleeves. The bodice and basque waist were adorned with venise lace. Chantilly-type lace created ruffles to form a chapel-length train.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white miniature carnations accented with baby's breath, and bird's nest and spire.

Maid of honor was LeAnn Burgess, Midland.

Bridesmaids were Sherry Kessler and Terri Ball, Big Spring.

Flower girl was Riannon Henson, bride's niece.

Best man was Dwayne Woodall, Big Spring.

Groomsmen were Mike Matthews and Marshall Blythe, Big Spring.

Ushers were Mike Rush and Ken Henson, Big Spring.

Candlelighters were Mandy Sepeda and Janiece Shaughnessy, Big Spring.

Ringbearer was Jacob Henson, bride's nephew.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The bride's table featured a three-tiered white wedding cake with pink roses and a bride and bridegroom figurine. The table was decorated with a bouquet of white and pink silk roses. The bridegroom's table featured a German chocolate cake.

The bride, a 1989 graduate of Coahoma High School, is a student at Howard College and is employed by Movies 4.

The bridegroom, a 1988 graduate of Big Spring High School, is a student at Howard College and is employed by Aladdin's Castle. He has joined the U.S. Armed Forces.

The couple enjoyed a wedding trip to Odessa.

MEET YOUR MERCHANT

KAY BANCROFT and BARBARA HALL

QUICK PROFILE

Kay Bancroft and Barbara Hall are the owners of Artifacts Interiors and Fine Gifts, a 12-year-old Big Spring business, 601 Scurry, Barbara and her husband, Mike, natives of Big Spring, have one son, Zac. Kay moved here four years ago from Midland when she married Ben Bancroft.

WHAT ARE YOUR HOBBIES?

Barbara enjoys golf and cooking. Although she doesn't have much spare time, Kay likes to do needlepoint.

WHAT DO YOU DO TO KEEP IN SHAPE?

Kay and Barbara do a lot of re-arranging merchandise in their shop on a regular basis. "A lot of it is quite heavy, and the process is a workout in itself!" they say.

WHO IS A PERSON YOU ADMIRE?

Both Kay and Barbara are quick to say "The Lord is the one we admire first and foremost. He always has the perfect answer to every problem and has never-fail guidelines to follow in running both our business and personal lives. He is what you might call 'our senior partner'."

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE TELEVISION SHOW?

Both say they are not television watchers.

DO YOU HAVE ANY PETS?

Neither family has a pet.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE LEISURE THING TO DO IN BIG SPRING?

Their work is really their hobby and leisure activity as well, the women say. "We love it," says Kay. "It's fun." Barbara also likes to play golf to relax.

WHAT DID YOU DO ON YOUR LAST VACATION?

Barbara visited her family in Durango, Colo., on her last vacation. And Kay spent a week in Solano Beach, Ca.

WHAT ARE YOUR FUTURE GOALS?

Barbara and Kay plan goals for Artifacts every January. "Our primary goal is to continue offering quality interior design and unique gifts and accessories to residents of Big Spring and the area. We love what we do. No two days are alike. And we meet so many people — every day someone new visits our shop!"

— Interview by Lea Whitehead

Drilling report

HOWARD COUNTY

Plug-and-abandon orders have been issued for an unsuccessful Howard County wildcat about eight miles west of Big Spring. The explorer well was known as the No. 1 C.R. Russell "23." It was spudded on May 11 and was taken to a 10,500-ft. bottom with no commercial shows.

Hunt Oil of Midland was the operator.

Sun Exploration of Midland has abandoned two un drilled locations in Howard County's portion of the East Howard-Iatan Field, 10 miles southeast of Coahoma. Both wells had carried permit for 3,200 feet of hole making. They were known as the No. 18 and No. 19 L.C. Denman.

GLASSCOCK COUNTY

Flowing 126 barrels of oil with 971,000 CF casinghead gas per day, the No. 1 Jerecek well has been completed in Glasscock County.

Location is about one mile north of Saint Lawrence.

EP Operating of Midland is the operator. EP took the hole to total depth of 10,700 feet, plugged it back to 10,419 and perforated the Strawn Formation for production at 9,929 to 9,942 feet into the hole.

Potential was gauged on a 12/4 choke. Flow pressure came in at 1,410 PSI. Oil tested at 56-gravity. Water production totaled six barrels daily.

Glasscock County's Zant Field gained a new producer when the No. 2 Priddy "A" was completed 19 miles northwest of Garden City.

It pumped 29-gravity crude at the rate of 14 barrels per day plus 23 barrels of waste water.

With Baker Operating of Odessa as the operator, the well probed to a 3,840-ft. bottom. It will produce from a perforated inter 3,780 feet into the hole.

BORDEN COUNTY

A successful Borden County wildcat has been brought on line in a lease 18 miles northwest of Gail.

Designated as the No. 1 Smith, the well flowed 118 barrels of oil with 90,000 CF casinghead gas per day on a 14/64 choke. Oil tested at 42-gravity. Flow pressure stood at 210 PSI.

Bottomed at 9,770 feet, the well will produce from a Strawn Formation interval, 9,270 to 9,288 feet into the wellbore.

Dallas-based J. Ingram Oil and Gas Inc. is the operator.

The No. 1 Edna has been labeled as a dry hole at a wildcat location in Borden County and will be plugged and abandoned. Spudded on June 2 by EP Operating, the well probed to total depth of 8,750 feet with no production prospects logged. Kevin Butler and Associates of Midland was the operator.

Drillsite was about nine miles northeast of the Gail townsite.

Drilling was conducted on a lease owned by Hunt Oil of Midland.

Drillings on a lease owned by Hunt Oil of Midland were issued for an ill-fated Borden County wildcat operation 11 miles northeast of Gail. Designated as the No. 1 Miller, the well was spudded on May 24. It probed to total depth of 8,503 feet with no production prospects logged. Kevin Butler and Associates of Midland was the operator.

MARTIN COUNTY

A pumping oiler has been completed in Martin County's Phoenix Field by Kindred Petroleum of Midland.

The well is known as the No. 1 Woodward "A." It is situated about six miles north of Lenorah.

Kindred took the hole to total depth of 3,950 feet and perforated the Grayburg Formation for production at 3,875 to 3,884 feet into the wellbore.

It pumped 32-gravity oil at the rate of 28 barrels daily plus 19,000 CF gas and nine barrels of salt water.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S. Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and caloric reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842 Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free (800) 527-9700, ext. W842. CF-M 1989

Many practical reasons for owning your own home

"There's no time like the present to own your own home," says Kay Moore, owner of Home Realtors.

"Interest rates are low, there is a large selection of homes for sale in Big Spring, and home prices are lower here than they have been in many years," she adds.

"There are many practical reasons for owning your own home, in addition to the personal satisfaction."

Home mortgage interest is one of the few interest deductions we still have, Kay reminds. "At today's interest rates, approximately 95% of the principal and interest payment made by a homeowner during the first five years would be tax-deductible (according to a brochure from Realty Financial Services, Inc.)"

Another tax break is real estate taxes on personal residences; a significant portion of a homeowner's payment goes toward payment of these taxes

(which incidentally support our local government.) Homestead exemptions lower the real estate taxes you pay on your principal residence.

If you use your home as an office, there may be other tax deductions.

Homeowners over 55 who are thinking of selling may be encouraged to do so because they can sell their residence at a profit without paying capital gains tax. This exemption often puts many attractive homes in well-established neighborhoods up for sale.

"By taking into account the tax breaks and other considerations," Kay says, "a family can often own their own home for less than they are now paying for rent."

Let Kay Moore and her staff help you decide if this is the year for you to buy a home. They can help you determine what price home you can afford, help you find the home of your dreams, and even help locate a lender.

Home Realtors is a member of HMS (Homeowners Marketing Services, Inc.) Through HMS, Home

Realtors can now offer home warranties to its sellers and buyers which will eliminate the worries of major repairs during the time the home is on the market and for the first year of occupancy for the buyer.

Home Realtors is exclusive local agent for RELO Relocation Service, the nation's referral network of independent real estate brokers, and can draw on RELO's expertise to provide tips and advice for buyers and sellers.

In addition to Kay, the staff includes Doris Milstead and Doris Huijbregt, brokers; Jo Hughes, Gail Meyers, Kay Bancroft, Carole Lawson and Shirley Burgess, sales associates.

Home Realtors is located in Coronado Plaza, 2000 Gregg. Phone them at 263-1284.
