Commissioner woes

COLORADO CITY — A Mitchell County Commissioner was indicted by a grand jury here on a third degree felony for official misconduct, the county's district attorney confirmed Tuesday.

Mitchell County Precinct 3 Commissioner Larry Hale, 43, was indicted Aug. 8 on a charge of making use of county labor and equipment for purposes other than county business, Mitchell County District Attorney Frank Conard said.

Specifically, Hale was charged with using four county employees and three county dump trucks to haul excess soil from his precinct to a Mitchell County country club, southeast of Colorado City.

Conard said the reason the offense is regarded as a felony is because the value of the offense exceeds $750.

Hale, who was elected in January, was also indicted in July on two Class A misdemeanors and two Class B misdemeanors for misapplying county property.

Team arrives

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — A U.S. Air Force C141 transport plane carrying forensics experts is unloaded in Addis Ababa Wednesday. The forensics team will begin the job of identifying 16 victims of last week's light plane crash which killed Texas Rep. Mickey Leland and 15 others. For the story on Leland's memorial services, see Page 2-A.

Gray trial eyed

COLORADO CITY — The trial for Travis Dale Gray of Big Spring, indicted by a Mitchell County grand jury for the killing of his wife, could take place in October, the county's district attorney said Tuesday.

Gray's case will have the number one priority in October, District Attorney Frank Conard said. But Conard said he treats all cases as number one priority until they are set on the court docket for trial.

Cases are usually tried more quickly if the defendant is in jail, he said. Gray has been out on $50,000 bond since March.

Conard said it would be unlikely for the case to be tried in August because the attorney representing Gray has a conflicting trial date this month. "That's not at all unusual," he added.

Mrs. Gray was last seen alive leaving the Brass Nail II, located on U.S. Highway 87, with her husband, early on the morning she died.

Her body was later pulled from a section of Lake Colorado City called Cooper's Cove and driven to the Mitchell County Hospital by Mr. Gray. Doctors attempted unsuccessfully to revive her.

Travis Gray was also briefly hospitalized for shock following the incident.

Gray surrendered to Odessa authorities March 21 after being indicted by a grand jury on a charge of capital murder. The indictment charged Gray with killing his wife for insurance and estate money.

But the capital murder charge was reduced to first degree murder in May because prosecutors did not have enough evidence to prove Gray killed his wife "for remuneration," Conard said previously.

Proposed budget calls for 8% tax hike

By RUTH COCHRAN
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — City council members agreed Tuesday night to present to the public in an Aug. 22 hearing a tentative $16.7 million budget that currently includes plans for an 8 percent tax increase.

The $16.7 million budget was revised from the original $18.1 million budget presented by City Manager Hal Boyd. Council members asked Boyd to come up with a revised proposal as the original featured a $1.8 million deficit.

Although none of the council members are happy with the revisions in the proposed budget, four recommended that the council use the proposal as a starting point for a final budget.

Councilmen Sidney Clark, D.D. Johnston and Tim Blackshear recommended presenting the proposal in the public hearing, while councilwomen Gail Earls and Pat DeAnda and Councilman Chuck Condray did not support it. Mayor Max Green threw his support behind the proposal to give it approval by the majority.

Green stressed to the council that the proposed budget, as well as the tax increase, are tentative only and subject to change until Sept. 26 when the council must approve the second reading of the 1989-90 budget.

"The numbers presented in this plan are all subject to change between now and Sept. 26," Green said. "It can be subject to any and all changes the council would like to make."

Besides an 8 percent increase in ad valorem taxes, the revised proposal slashed key items from the general fund. Areas cut from the recommended budget include:

- $347,770 from the capital revolving fund pay back.
- $160,000 from the police department for 10 new patrol cars.

"Councils in the past have had bad spending habits. Not spending is as bad as spending too much." — Tim Blackshear, councilman

- $138,550 from the police department for communications equipment.

- $36,860 from the fire department for machinery and equipment.

- $252,000 from the fire department for fire apparatus.

- $15,000 from the fire department for vehicles.

- $92,000 from the public works department for Beals Creek improvements.

- $250,000 from the streets department for street maintenance.

- $27,578 from the streets department for pay back to the capital revolving fund.

- $14,000 from the streets department for the lease-purchase of a motor grader.

Those cuts, along with additional miscellaneous adjustments totaling $208,707, lowered the original proposed budget by $1.5 million. That, coupled with a tax rate of 73.6 cents per $100 valuation, or 8 percent more than the effective tax rate of 69.3 cents, would not only erase the deficit but also give the city an ending fund balance of $22,499. Current tax rate is 68 cents.

Despite their tentative acceptance of the proposed budget, council members expressed dismay over some of the cuts, as well as the tax hike.

Several council members maintained that the city cannot justify cuts in street maintenance and equipment replacement. Condray told the council it should consider trying to replace at least some of the police patrol cars this year.

Green said, however, that the city just cannot afford those projects.

"Fine, where's the money going to come from," Green asked Condray. "I'm asking you where do we go. Yes, Chuck (Condray), I'm the first one to agree with you that we've got serious problems in the area of equipment management. The best that we can hope for is a patch job. (We) can get through for one more year. Maybe."

Green said the only way the city could purchase new equipment this year would be to impose a huge tax hike or make deep cuts in the budget.

"Something is going to have to be done that not any of us like," he said. "The only hope that we've got is to find some slack in personnel in order to get our new equipment."

Green said after the meeting that the only way to avoid a tax hike is to reduce city personnel.

"The only way that we will get by without a tax increase is by reducing personnel by a minimum of 10 percent."

That type of reduction, however, will take from three to six months of study, he said, and still won't help balance the 1989-90 budget.

Blackshear and Condray told the council that it needs to develop a long-range plan for purchasing equipment and getting the city on sound financial footing.

"Councils in the past have had bad spending habits," Blackshear said. "Not spending is as bad as spending too much."

Condray backed up Blackshear, saying the council needs to plan now how it will purchase equipment in the future "rather than plan to put it off another year."

Green advocated a long-range plan of replenishing the capital

Hula-hooping

BIG SPRING — Applying the famous saying "If at first you don't succeed — try, try again" to hula-hooping, four-year-old Shala Henry, daughter of Bill and Kathy Henry, finds the going rough as she first starts out with the plastic circle. Starting high above her waist, the hoop eventually works its way downward, but Shala accidentally trips, sending her and the hoop to the ground. However after several attempts, Shala managed to keep the hoop twirling about her.

Texans get rare chance to see total lunar eclipse

By PAUL RECER
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — The moon plunges into the Earth's shadow tonight, creating the first total lunar eclipse visible in North America since 1982, and thousands of telescopes are awaiting a celestial show of light and color.

The eclipse will start at 7:23 p.m. Big Spring time when the Earth's shadow appears to take its first nip from the full moon, and will end about 5 1/2 hours later.

The last full lunar eclipse visible over North America was in December 1982, and the next one will not occur until December 1992.

If the skies are clear, East Coast residents will get the best view. The moon will be overhead with twilight ending just as the eclipse begins.

In time zones farther west, the eclipse will start before sunset and moonrise, cheating some Americans out of seeing the full lunar show. None of the eclipse will be visible in Alaska.

Moonrise in Chicago, for example, will be at 7:43 p.m. CDT, half an hour after the eclipse has started.

Even more of the eclipse will take place below the horizon from the perspective of Los Angeles.

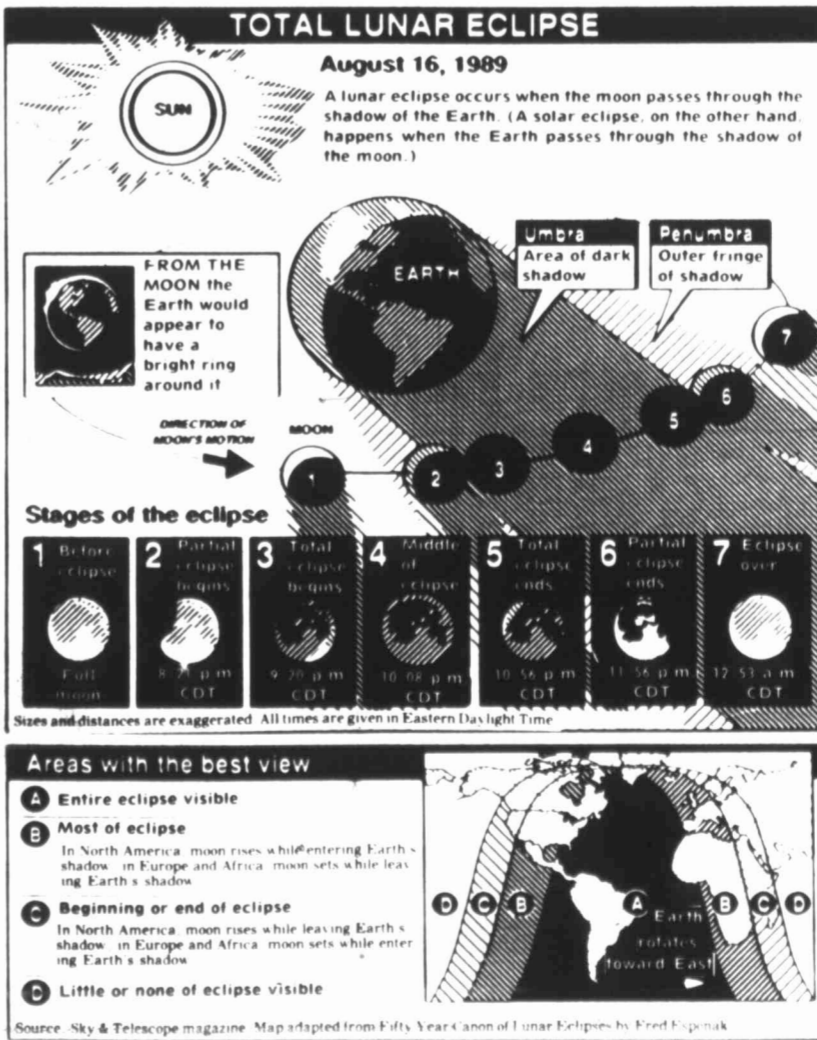

"The moon will not become visible until sometime after 8:30 p.m. PDT," according to a statement by the Griffith Observatory in Los Angeles, and will be in eclipse as it rises.

"This a rare event," said an observatory official. "The last time the moon rose while totally eclipsed as seen from Los Angeles was on Feb. 5, 1841, and it will not rise while totally eclipsed again as seen from Los Angeles until June 25, 2029."

Free telescopes have been set up at the Griffith Observatory for public viewing of the event.

In Fort Worth, Texas, several local astronomical societies are staging an eclipse-watching party with free use of telescopes. The first glimpse the Texans will get of the moon will be about 7:55 p.m. CDT when it already is eclipsing.

Indicted man arrested on drug charge

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A former Big Spring police officer indicted by a Howard County grand jury for the shooting death of his wife was arrested by DPS troopers Tuesday evening. He was charged with driving under the influence of drugs.

Dennis Randal Dunn, 40, Rt. Box 462, was arrested by DPS officers outside Big Spring city limits at 6:50 p.m. He was later released on $1,000 bond.

Dunn was originally arrested by police in April 1988 for the shooting death of his wife, Carlye Mrs. Dunn, 25, died as a result of a single gunshot wound to the chest. The shooting at the Dunn residence involved the use of a .357 magnum registered to Dunn but kept at the bedside of Mrs. Dunn during her husband's absence, according to information provided earlier by Assistant District Attorney William Dale Dupree.

Dunn, arrested after transporting his wife to the hospital, was

Nursing home support

MONAHANS (AP) — Relatives of residents of a nursing home that failed to pass state certification requirements say there is no need for administrative changes because the situation is improving.

About 100 relatives of residents on Tuesday jammed Westwind Care Center which failed inspection one month after Floyd Newberry took charge.

Ann Thornberry of Monahans, whose mother lives at the facility, said food and cleanliness have improved. She said staff members also seem to be in better spirits.

Private consultant Gene Hisey, of Austin, told the concerned residents he had been sent to investigate the situation by owner Joe Rosie of Chicago.

Newberry, hired May 1, said things are now in order.

The home failed to get full certification earlier this summer because of a lack of activities, dietary concerns and inadequate nursing and medical care, according to Hisey.

No laughing matter

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — It was no laughing matter when a comedy club owner pleaded no contest to two felony theft charges, including one accusing him of duping comic Elayne Boosler out of thousands of dollars.

Richard Kolton, owner of the Comedy Club in San Antonio, made the pleas Monday before state District Judge Sid Harle. The judge set sentencing for a later date.

Ms. Boosler has been the star of television specials and a regular guest on "Late Night with David Letterman." She also has a recurring role as a mean blind woman on the television sitcom, "Night Court."

In a sworn affidavit she said she was "lured to San Antonio" with a $5,000 good check sent to her production company in Los Angeles.

She performed July 3 in San Antonio before a sellout crowd of more than 2,000 people, although she had been told there were very few tickets sold.

According to a contract attached to Ms. Boosler's affidavit, the comedian was to be paid $5,000 to get her to San Antonio, another $5,000 before the performance and 80 percent of ticket sales. Receipts over $22,500. She claimed in the affidavit the "gross potential for ticket sales for the show was $27,785."

She said all she ever received was the initial $5,000 Kolton sent her company. A check he wrote her from his Comedy Club account bounced, she said, creating problems with her bank account.

Leland's family: Continue work to feed hungry

HOUSTON (AP) — The family of Rep. Mickey Leland said they wanted to complete the congressman's work "by making sure that every child in every nation has an opportunity to grow to a healthy adulthood."

In a statement read Tuesday by Houston City Councilman Rodney Ellis, the family also announced that a Mass for Leland is scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Anne's Catholic Church.

Leland and 15 others died in a plane crash on a remote mountain-side in Ethiopia while en route to a refugee camp near the Sudanese border. The plane disappeared Aug. 7 and was discovered early Sunday morning.

Family members expressed thanks to President Bush, the Ethiopian government and others who worked to find Leland's party.

But the focal point of the family's message urged that Leland's quest to conquer world hunger continue.

"We take great comfort in knowing that Mickey died living his passion: To end world hunger," Ellis, a Leland family friend, said in reading from the statement during a news conference at Ellington Field.

"The legacy of Mickey Leland asks that each of us to continue to share in his vision, not only of ending world hunger and homelessness, but also of a world where all nations and their people in Leland's honor be made to InterAction, an international hunger relief organization, or by contacting a food bank.

Ellis also announced that a community memorial service is scheduled for Friday night at Texas Southern University's Hannah Hall Auditorium. A private burial will be held at a later date.

Leland, 44, a Houston Democrat, was head of the House Select Committee on Hunger.

Ellis was joined at the news conference by nine members of the Congressional Black Caucus who traveled to Houston to pay their condolences to Leland's wife, Alison, and other family members.

"The issues, the concerns, problems that Mickey lived for — issues that he gave his life for — will not die with Mickey Leland," said U.S. Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif. "In the Congressional Black Caucus, we will close ranks and the issues will continue to be advocated. The idea that is viable will be continued to be articulated. The wholesome dreams and the aspirations of the people that Mickey fought so hard for will continue to be represented."

Others Democratic caucus members who met with the Leland family were Reps. Louis Stokes, Ohio; Charles Rangel, New York; William Clay, Missouri; Harold Ford, Tennessee; Cardiss Collins, Illinois; Edolphus Towns, New York; Kweisi Mfume, Maryland; and Gus Savage, Illinois.

Popcorn trail leads to paddle thieves

CACTUS (AP) — A trail of popcorn led authorities to four youthful vandals who broke into an elementary school and trashed several rooms and stole all of the school's paddles.

Moore County Sheriff Ted Montgomery said authorities discovered last week that someone had broken a window and entered Cactus Elementary School to vandalize some rooms and steal the paddles.

Montgomery said Tuesday that the vandals tore up a large bean bag chair and scattered its contents about the floor and opened bottles of bleach, vinegar and cooking oil to pour on the floor. They also poured some unpopped popcorn on the floor and that was their undoing, the sheriff said.

Finger paint was splattered around a classroom in the building, Montgomery said.

Montgomery said he was told by school authorities that a boy had inquired the day before the burglary if the school planned to use paddles for punishment during the upcoming school year.

"One of the boys asked if there was going to be corporal punishment the next year," Montgomery said. "He was told yes, there would be. Part of the things that were missing were all of the paddles in the school."

Some of the paddles were later located underneath the building, he said.

But authorities found some popcorn kernels outside the school and around the home of the boy who had popped the corporal punishment question.

When Montgomery entered the home, he saw popcorn kernels in the carpet.

"The house was clean except for the popcorn," Montgomery said.

"Apparently, the youngest one had gotten cooking oil all over him," the sheriff said. "The popcorn had stuck to the youngest one's clothes."

School officials have not been able to estimate the damage to the school, but said they believe the reaction of the bleach and vinegar may have ruined some of the floor tiles.

The boys were turned over to their parents and the case has been referred to juvenile authorities, the sheriff said.

Cactus is located about 50 miles north of Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle.

Grand jury indicts man in Treaty Oak poisoning

AUSTIN (AP) — A man indicted for felony criminal mischief in connection with the poisoning of the historic Treaty Oak would get a fair trial in Travis County, said an assistant district attorney.

"I think Travis County is known for fair juries, for fair-minded people, and I think we could indeed have as fair a trial in this county as in any other county in Texas," Kent Anschutz, assistant district attorney, said after Paul Stedman Cullen of Elroy was indicted Tuesday by the Travis County Grand Jury.

Cullen's attorney has said he would consider seeking a change of venue from Travis County because of publicity surrounding the case.

"The folks in Travis County are very fair-minded," said Dallas lawyer Richard C. Jenkins. However, he added last week, "The real trial's already been held in the press."

Jenkins did not immediately return a telephone call Tuesday.

Bush reaches out to Iran during news conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says he wouldn't hesitate to use military force if he thought that would safely rescue the eight Americans being held hostage in Lebanon.

However, the president said he didn't "want to be responsible for the loss of innocent life."

"But if I could find a way to take those hostages, get them and bring them out, and that required using the military force of the United States, make no mistake about it — I would do it in an instant," Bush said Tuesday at his 21st formal news conference since taking office seven months ago.

Bush stressed the uncertainties that involve any military response when asked why he had not retaliated for the murder of

Bush, who embarks today on a 20-day vacation to his oceanfront retreat in Kennebunkport, Maine, again signaled that he is willing to work to improve the bitter U.S.-Iranian relations of the last decade.

"We don't have to be hostile with Iran for the rest of our lives," the president said. "We've had a good relationship with them in the past."

The first step, he said, is for the Islamic republic to stop supporting terrorism and to pressure the Lebanese kidnappers to release their American captives.

"I think that if Iran decided they wanted those hostages to come out of there, there would be a good likelihood that that would happen."

Noting conflicting signals from the new Iranian leadership about rapprochement with the West, Bush said "the jury is still out as to what has happened internally ... in Iran."

He said he can't say the chances of a breakthrough on the hostages are closer today than three weeks ago, "but we're going to keep on trying."

On another matter, Bush previewed the national anti-drug strategy he and drug czar William J. Bennett will send to Congress on Sept. 5.

The drug strategy "will target all aspects of the problem," including new efforts to cut off drugs at the source as well as tougher penalties for casual users, Bush said.

"I think the day of tolerance for those who break the law in using drugs is over," he said. "We are going to expand federal expenditures" for the drug fight not by raising taxes but through "some reallocation of resources."

Bush gave no specifics, but said his budget office was drawing up a list of programs from which funds could be diverted.

On other topics, the president:

• Refused to rule out the possibility of abducting Panamanian strongman Manuel Antonio Noriega to face drug-trafficking charges. "I have an obligation to try to bring people to justice," he said.

• Declared he was "very comfortable" with budget director Richard Darman's complaint that the Federal Reserve was keeping interest rates too high.

• Praised Reps. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, and Larkin Smith, R-Miss., killed in separate plane crashes.

• Said that if Sheikh Abdul Karim Obeid, the Shiite cleric seized last month by Israeli commandos, were indicted for the kidnapping of Higgins, "I would be remiss if I didn't try to see him brought to trial."

• Suggested "some kind of international effort" to offer military assistance to countries that request help in eradicating drug production.

• Expressed the hope that "the legal process (can) go on without a lot of hype" against suspended State Department diplomat Felix Bloch, suspected of spying.

subsequently released on $90,000 bond.

A former police officer, Dunn was dismissed from the Big Spring Police Department April 29 for failure to meet the terms of his probation with the police department.

Police Chief Joe Cook said previously. Dunn was indicted by a grand jury in December, but the exact charge is unclear. A newspaper account published Dec. 9 said the original charge of involuntary manslaughter had been changed to voluntary manslaughter, but District Attorney Rick Hamby said today he believes Dunn was indicted for involuntary manslaughter.

"I hope it's involuntary (manslaughter), I don't think we have enough to try him for voluntary manslaughter," Hamby said.

The difference in the charge could make a difference in Dunn's sentence if convicted. The sentence for involuntary manslaughter is two to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections; for voluntary manslaughter it is two to 20 years. Hamby said trial for Dunn might be set for November or December. Dunn's arrest Tuesday is reportedly the third since his wife's shooting death.

Dunn was arrested three days previous to his suspension from the police force on a charge of public intoxication after being arrested at a local bar. An article in the Hampana News in August 1988 indicated Dunn was cited for driving while intoxicated, after the car he was driving was reported to have rolled three times.

Workers open maquiladora plants

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — Workers who ripped away strike banners and returned to their jobs in American assembly plants say they'll live inside some of the plants until a union dispute is settled.

But about 150 rival union laborers organized outside the gate at one industrial park Tuesday night were apparently ready to challenge that stand. "They're here with the idea of causing problems with the people who are inside," city Police Chief Oscar Prado said as he pointed to the crowd of young men and women gathered outside the gate of the industrial park in Reynosa, across the border from McAllen, Texas.

About 16 police officers armed with shotguns stood between the group and the entrance to the park. "Our presence here isn't for or against either group. We're here to prevent confrontations," Prado told the crowd.

About 900 workers defied a rival union strike Tuesday and, using keys to unlock gates, reopened the 15 American plants closed July 25.

Weather

By The Associated Press

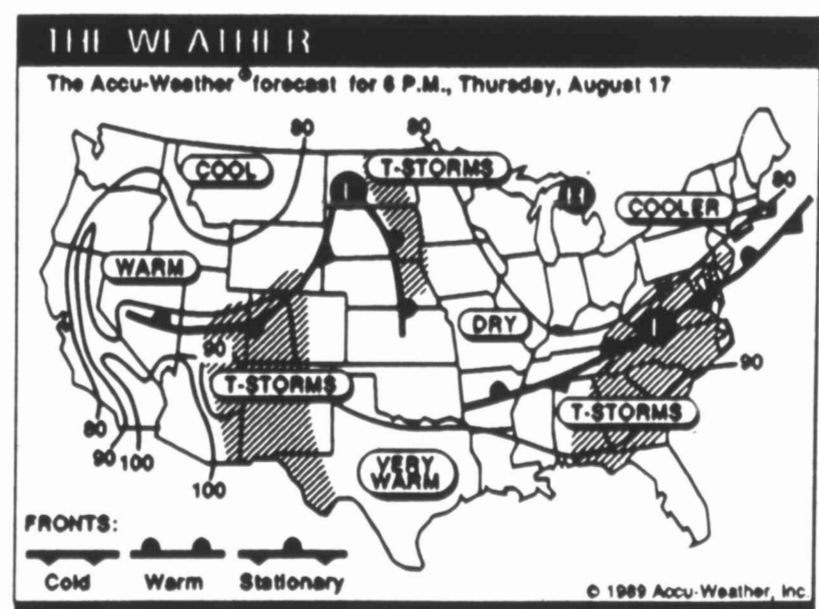

Thunderstorms whipped parts of New York and Pennsylvania with strong winds, heavy rains and hail. Storms also were scattered across the Southwest and Plains states and spawned a tornado in Texas.

In northwest Pennsylvania, storm winds Tuesday evening downed trees and knocked out power around Girard and McKean and pelted Lake City with hail the size of golf balls.

Strong thunderstorms also were scattered from parts of Nevada, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico to the central and southern Plains. In the Texas Panhandle, a tornado was spotted near Middle Water but apparently did not touch down, and baseball-size hail fell at Dalhart.

Strong winds and lightning caused power outages across portions of Phoenix, and nearly 1 1/2 inches of rain fell north of Tucson Tuesday afternoon. Also in Arizona, more than an inch of rain fell in one hour at Globe.

A cold front pushing its way across the northern Rockies produced thunderstorms across western Montana. Showers and thunderstorms also were scattered across Missouri, Kansas, the Carolinas and southern New England.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms from Oklahoma and northern Texas across the central and eastern Gulf Coast, the Tennessee Valley and the Appalachians to the Atlantic Coast. Showers and thunderstorms also were expected to be scattered across the northern Rockies and parts of Arizona and New Mexico.

replacement fund and then using those monies to purchase replacement equipment. He conceded it will take from three to six years to build the fund sufficiently to cover purchases.

"It will mean an extremely tight budget over this time," he said after the meeting. "What we are trying to put together right at the moment is strictly a short-range plan. If we can get an increase in jobs, an increase in industry and an increase in our local sales, we will endeavor to maintain the present type budget while we are rebuilding our reserves.

"And then develop a replacement plan for all of our equipment on a regular basis."

In the meantime, Green said, the city will have to get by as best it can by using stop-gag measures such as rebuilt engines instead of new cars.

"What's going to happen is the the squeaky wheel is the one that gets the first grease," he said.

Eclipse

celebration of the eclipse and the 20th anniversary of Apollo 11's lunar landing, will be held in New York City's Central Park. A small rocket will be launched to open the event, followed by lectures on the eclipse and live entertainment featuring a dance called "Moon Beams II."

At the McDonald Observatory near Fort Davis, Texas, astronomer Art Whipple plans to fire a laser beam at the moon during the darkest part of the eclipse.

He hopes the light will strike a reflector left on the moon in 1971 by the Apollo 15 astronauts. If his aim is good, a small bit of the laser light will bounce back, almost a quarter million miles, and be detected by telescopes at the observatory.

Usually, Whipple said, the experiment isn't attempted during a full moon because the natural light is too bright to see the reflected laser beam. But when the full moon is eclipsed, the returned beam can be spotted.

"It provides us an opportunity to range (fire the laser) in a period we usually don't even try," said Whipple. "This gives us an opportunity to sample a portion of the (moon's) orbit we don't normally get."

By clocking the time it takes for light to travel from the laser to the moon and then back to the McDonald telescopes, scientists are able to precisely measure the distance between the Earth and its moon.

Whipple said astronomers have discovered that the moon is moving away from the Earth at the rate of about 2 inches a year. The mean distance between the Earth and moon is about 230,000 miles.

Observers from coast to coast are expected to spend at least some time observing the event.

Cloudy skies, of course, could spoil eclipse-viewing plans at any point. And the outlook was not good for much of the East. Forecasts for today and tonight along the east coast called for thunderstorms. Observers may have better luck in the central and western areas where the forecasts generally were for clear to partly cloudy skies.

With good local weather, some phase of the spectacle should be visible to about a billion observers. The moon will eclipse within view of North and South America, western Europe and Africa, and the Antarctic.

A lunar eclipse occurs when the moon passes through the shadow created by the Earth blocking the sun's light. The moon, in its orbit of the Earth, usually passes above or below this shadowline, but it occasionally follows a path that shades it completely for a time, an event called a total eclipse.

During an eclipse, the moon can appear to be a bright coppery red if there is a clean air between the lunar surface and the observer.

Rights for the disabled

Under the Civil Rights Act of 1964, a person cannot be turned away from a restaurant on account of race. But the same restaurant can refuse someone in a wheelchair. This inequity can be remedied by legislation pending in Congress to extend civil rights protections to people with disabilities. The measure now stands an excellent chance of passage after gaining the full support of the White House.

The proposed law is one of the most comprehensive civil rights measures in the last 25 years. It would bar discrimination against the disabled in employment, public transportation and public accommodations.

Under the bill, disabled would be defined broadly to include those who have AIDS or are carriers of the AIDS virus, as well as those with such minimal handicaps as epilepsy. Specifically, an otherwise qualified disabled person could not be discriminated against because of "a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more of the major life activities of such individual; a record of such an impairment; or being regarded as having such impairment."

The measure would require that all new buses and trains have lifts or other provisions for wheelchair access. New buildings of more than two stories would have to be equipped with elevators, and existing facilities would have to be made accessible when renovations are done.

The costs of such requirements are reasonable when measured against the benefits of allowing disabled people to become full partners in society. Wheelchair lifts, for example, add about $11,000 to the cost of a $250,000 bus. Wider doors to fit wheelchairs in new buildings add only 1 percent to construction costs. These costs will be offset in part by putting more disabled people on the job rolls and reducing their dependency on government aid programs.

In the past, costs of providing for the handicapped have often been overstated. One study shows that 51 percent of the accommodations provided to the disabled employees of federal contractors cost little or nothing, while another 30 percent resulted in costs between $1 and $500.

The bill does not provide as much protection as some would like. For instance, the Bush administration had earlier wanted the bill to guarantee the disabled access to existing theaters. In addition, the legislation would exempt companies with fewer than 25 employees.

Still, the bill is a good compromise. It should be enacted into law during this session of Congress.

SKELLY

Neuharth can have his sky girls

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
Al Neuharth, who founded USA Today and gave himself a job as a columnist, has wounded himself with his now infamous remarks about flight attendants.

What Neuharth said in his column was that he'd like to see more shapely, young "sky girls" attend flights and less "aging women who are tired of their jobs" and "flighty young men who have trouble balancing a cup of coffee or tea."

Let's see here: Neuharth wants hot-looking honeys and no more old broads and, well, what's a "flighty young man"?

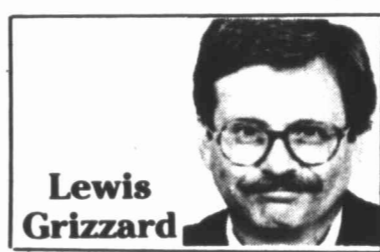

Is that the same term as "light in the loafers"?

As a fellow columnist, I defend Neuharth's right to say whatever he damn well pleases, especially since he's the guy who started the paper.

I, too, have caught the wrath of enraged females in the past, and it's not a pretty thing, as Big Al is finding out.

The president of the Association of Flight Attendants said he was "either a Neanderthal... or a court jester."

Is Neanderthal or court jester the same as pigheaded and stupid? Neuharth has also left himself in a terrible position when he chooses air travel in the future. Flight attendants, whether they be sky girls, aging women, or flighty young men, are in full command of the traveler's cabin services.

They bring the drinks. They bring the food. They bring the pillows and the blankets.

They answer questions like, "What was that strange sound I just heard?" and "Does the left engine always smoke during landing?"

Let's see what happens to Neuharth on his next flight. A drink dropped in his lap? His Boston scrod served cold?

A "Get it yourself," when he asks for a pillow or blanket? And what if the plane does develop a problem? Will the stewardess run a knife through his seat cushion so it can't be used for flotation?

I don't have much of anything to say about the "flighty young men." Partly because there haven't been enough of them on my flights to make a judgment.

But I see nothing wrong with a male flight attendant. If women can get jobs as telephone-line persons, I don't know why a guy can't haul trays in an airplane.

As much as I enjoy seeing a sky girl here and there, I like experience in my flight attendants. As I like experience in my cockpit crew.

Look back to the heroic deeds of the flight attendants in the recent United Airlines-Sioux City crisis. They had a job to do and they did it.

If there is a problem with a plane I happen to be on, I won't be looking for the attendant with the prettiest face or the shapeliest body. I want the one who looks like she spent enough time aloft to tell me what I can do to help my chance of survival.

If I were Al Neuharth, I think I'd stay off planes for a time until the heat's off.

By the way, Al, there are no flight attendants whatsoever on Amtrak. Ask your friendly conductor for a refill.

Panic in the newsroom

By KAREN MCCARTHY
Staff Writer

The ax is about to fall on the newsroom. As of Sept. 1 smoking will no longer be allowed in the building, except in the breakroom, and I, a long-time smoker, am about to panic.

I knew smoking was a bad habit when I started at the age of 16. I knew it was a bad habit when I quit for the few months I was pregnant and then took it up again. I knew smoking was a bad habit when I noticed I was huffing and puffing by the time I got to the top of Scenic Mountain.

Unfortunately, it is my only bad habit and I enjoy it.

I am aware that others around me do not and that is the reason for the ban. I have some sympathy for the non-smokers, of course. I might have even more if they, knowing I was dieting, would stop eating around me.

But the fact remains: eating is socially acceptable and smoking no longer is.

So, the problem looming ahead boils down to whether I quit smoking or whether I make hourly trips to the backroom to indulge in my anti-social habit.

I have ruled out quitting cold-turkey. I don't think my ego could stand up to what I am afraid will be absolute failure. I am considering some of the self-help on the market — the pills, the gum, the special cigarette holder. None sound very attractive — certainly they are inadequate substitutes for my favorite vice.

Unfortunately the breakroom is on the opposite end of the building from my desk. Mad dashes back and forth are not going to be very productive and my boss probably won't accept my cigarette habit as an excuse for missing deadline more than once.

A copy editor's salary doesn't cover the luxury of clinics, hypnosis or therapy. Certainly it wouldn't cover two weeks under general anesthesia while the nicotine slowly leaves my system.

We're talking about eliminating a habit I've cultivated for three decades. And I can't think of any way to make this easier.

I'm not even sure I can write without a cigarette. I'm not sure I can face the daily pressure of deadline without a cigarette. Actually I'm not sure I can face a room full of people in the morning without a cigarette.

If any of you readers have a reasonable suggestion, I would love to get a note from you. Keep your unreasonable suggestions to yourself — we smokers have heard enough of them already from our co-workers. Newspaper people tend to be a sadistic bunch.

At any rate, I should be easy to spot after the first of the month. I'll be the one in the corner with the surly expression who looks on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Or else I will have moved my desk to the breakroom.

Controversy surrounds fertilizer

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Daisy and GamGee Thorshov bear the physical reminders of the cloud of deadly gas that enveloped their home 12 years ago.

Daisy, 15, is partially blind. GamGee, 13, has deep scars on his chest and legs. And the children have no parents. Jon and Lloyd Thorshov were killed by the anhydrous ammonia gas that billowed from a derailed freight train near their home in Pensacola, Fla., in 1977.

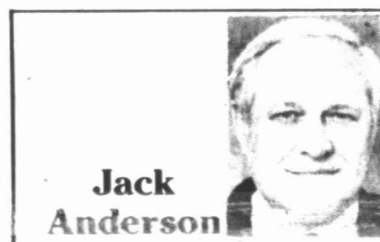

Twelve years later, despite hundreds of deaths and injuries from accidental spills, the government still classifies anhydrous ammonia under the euphemism "non-flammable gas."

The Thorshov's tragedy, and many like it, have become an issue in, of all places, the farm belt. Anhydrous ammonia is a deadly gas when it spills on highways and railroads, but it is an effective fertilizer when spread on grain crops.

Last year, a team of experts in the Transportation Department recommended that anhydrous ammonia be reclassified as a "poisonous gas" when it is hauled. Recently, under pressure from farm states, the department backed down. Lawmakers from the farm belt personally leaned on Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner to lay off. Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho and Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, who rely on votes and money from the farm belt, kicked off legislation to delay or stop the relabeling.

As often happens in Washington, safety took a back seat to money and politics.

Farmers and fertilizer makers said that a "poison" label would raise their insurance and freight costs. And lurking in the background was the Alar scare. Farmers won't soon forget how the apple market suffered when the pesticide Alar was linked to cancer. The last thing they want is a skull and crossbones on the ammonia they use to fertilize corn and wheat.

But environmentalists and rescue workers are furious. As far as they're concerned, ammonia is a poisonous gas and should be labeled as such. Freight haulers say the "poison" label would alert them to take extra precautions. Firefighters say the right label would save precious time on the scene of a spill.

Evidence of ammonia's lethal side surfaced in 1983 in a study at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. Ironically, the tests were sponsored by the Fertilizer Institute, along with the U.S. Coast Guard. A Fertilizer Institute spokesman told us that the tests were done to learn what happens in "various instances of release," but that no conclusions were drawn as a result.

The man who was hired to do the testing remembers it differently. Dr. Ronald Koopman told our associate Scott Sleek that he concluded ammonia was a poisonous gas, and that the Fertilizer Institute was not at all pleased with his verdict.

The federal government's own records attribute 25 deaths and 602 injuries to ammonia accidents in the last two decades. Used properly, ammonia is safe, even as a fertilizer. But when mishandled, spilled or improperly mixed with other chemicals, it can kill.

Transportation Department officials told us they proposed the "poison" label last year as an idea to be debated. Now they're leaning toward calling ammonia an "inhalation hazard."

That sounds pretty tame to Lloyd and Phyllis Hutchens, the grandparents of the Thorshov children. They are raising Daisy and GamGee. They see the children's scars, and they hear the chronic coughing. Most of all, they remember watching their daughter Lloyd slowly die in the hospital because her lungs were destroyed. "The only antidote for it is water," said Lloyd Hutchens. "You can't pour water in your lungs."

TOO MUCH FREEDOM — President Bush can't afford to be too supportive of the independent spirit sweeping across the Soviet bloc. Soviet satellite nations are straining on the umbilical cord, but any crumbling of the bloc could produce a panic in the Kremlin that might lead to folly. Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev might feel threatened enough to align himself with the hardliners, as Deng Xiaoping did in China. That means Bush's public response must be largely symbolic. He has to promote democracy without appearing to promote independence.

MINI-EDITORIAL — John Hinkley says his First Amendment rights are being denied because he is not allowed to speak to the press. He's probably right. As journalists, we hate to see anyone gagged. James Brady probably doesn't want to hear Hinkley opine on gun control. Nor does Ronald Reagan care what Hinkley thinks about presidential security. Sure, Hinkley should be allowed to speak to whomever he wants. But frankly, we can't think of a single reason why anyone would listen.

Algae may fight the AIDS virus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government experiments show that four fatty substances found in common ocean algae are "strikingly active" against the AIDS virus, scientists say.

Algae extracts protected cells of the human immune system against attack by the human immunodeficiency virus, the virus that causes AIDS, a team of scientists for the National Cancer Institute reported.

The substances, called sulfolipids, are structural components of membranes of chlorophyll-containing cell components in many plants, algae and micro-organisms.

Their viral-fighting ability had not been known before and was discovered in the cancer institute's program to screen substances for potential AIDS-fighting ability.

"The pure compounds were strikingly active," with all four showing similar activity, according to the report in Tuesday's Journal of the National Cancer Institute. However, the effectiveness varied according to which line of test cells was being used.

Lawyer is Democratic nominee

MIAMI (AP) — In an ethnically tense battle to succeed the late Rep. Claude Pepper, a lawyer won the Democratic nomination using a theme that he's running for "an American seat."

His Cuban-born Republican opponent called his victory ominous.

Gerald Richman, a 47-year-old former Florida Bar Association president making his first run for office, rode a heavy majority of the diverse district's white non-Hispanic voters Tuesday for a 61-39 percent victory over Rosario Kennedy.

Richman moves on to an Aug. 29 special election against state Sen. Ileana Ros-Lehtinen, Cuban-born as is Ms. Kennedy, for the seat left vacant by Pepper's death May 30 at age 88.

Elvis faithful mark singer's death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Elvis Presley faithful marking the 12th anniversary of the singer's death filed quietly past his grave in a candlelight procession early today.

The ritual, an organizer says, will be repeated each August for years to come.

"One reason for a fan club is to pass the torch, to keep the candle burning," said Georganna Reynolds, president of Elvis Country Fan Club.

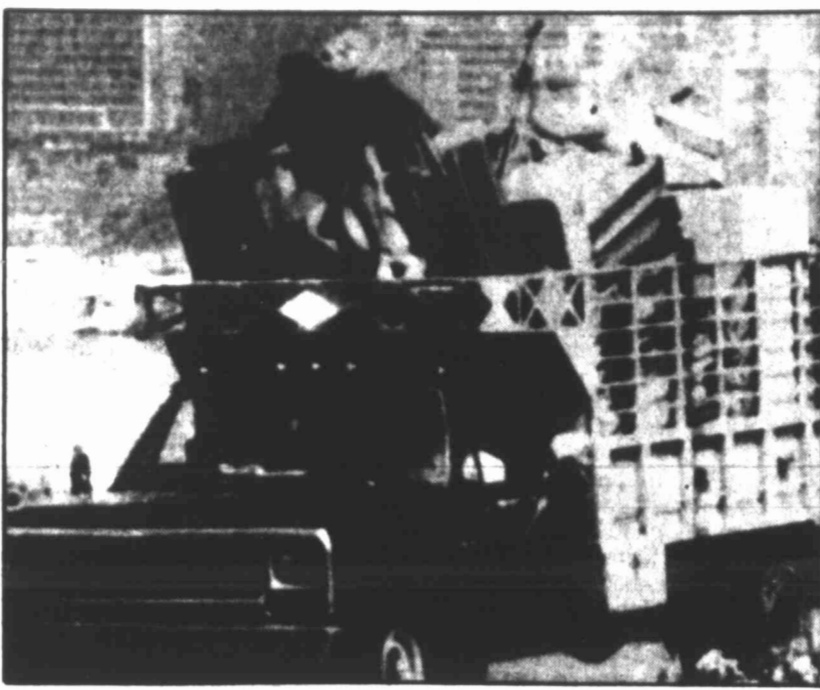

The club, which has sponsored the graveside vigil for 11 years, has more than 1,200 members worldwide, many of whom are too young to have been Presley fans when he was alive, Ms. Reynolds said.

"We're passing the torch now to the younger people in the club," she said.

The candlelight vigil began at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and police estimated it drew from 3,000-4,000 participants through the night.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A truck laden with household furniture drives out of Moslem West Beirut, fleeing the nightly shelling of this divided capital. All but 200,000 of Beirut's 1.5 million population have fled the artillery battles between Syrian gunners and Christian army units.

Syrians ignore U.N. call for cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Syrian army and allied militias were reported bolstering their forces around the Christian enclave today, despite a call by the U.N. Security Council for an immediate cease-fire.

The Security Council met Tuesday after Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar called an emergency session under a provision of the U.N. charter that was last used 10 years ago when Iran seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The 15-nation council unanimously passed a declaration that "urgently appeals to all the parties to put an immediate end to all operations and to all firing and all shelling on land and at sea," said Algerian Ambassador Hocine Djoudi, president of the body.

"It further appeals to all parties to observe a total and immediate cease-fire" and accept mediation by the Arab League, Djoudi said.

Morocco, Saudi Arabia and Algeria, designated by the league to mediate a peace settlement, issued a statement late Tuesday condemning the fighting and renewing their call for a cease-fire in Lebanon's 14-year-old civil war.

Police said 19 people had been killed and 104 wounded in the fighting since Tuesday, when Christian forces fought Syrian troops with tanks and artillery along the southern, eastern and northern edges of the Christian enclave north of Beirut.

Syrian gunners also pounded the 28-mile-long Christian coastline, the only escape route for the area's 1 million residents.

By police count, 760 people have been killed and 2,050 wounded since the latest round of fighting in Lebanon's civil war began March 8.

Since then, shelling day and night has largely destroyed Beirut and driven out 90 percent of the city's 1.5 million residents.

Casualties Tuesday included two young girls killed when a Syrian shell hit their home in the Christian port of Byblos, and a Moslem woman who was eight months pregnant. Doctors at Beirut's Makassed Hospital said the baby survived.

The fighting between the 20,000 predominately Christian troops under army commander Gen. Michel Aoun and Syria's 40,000 soldiers slackened early today.

Experts begin body identifications

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Military forensic experts today began identifying the remains of U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland and 15 others who were killed when their plane crashed into a cliff in southwestern Ethiopia.

The bodies arrived in Ethiopia's capital Tuesday evening. Helicopters were used to remove them from the wreckage of their light plane, a Twin Otter, on the steep slopes of mile-high Tam mountain.

Seven Ethiopians and nine Americans — including Leland, a Texas Democrat who chaired the House Select Committee on Hunger — died in the crash Aug. 7 en route to a refugee camp near the Sudan border. The plane crashed about 100 miles short of its destination.

"Ethiopian and U.S. authorities declare that all bodies have been recovered," Marine Lt. Col. David Titus said later in a statement read to reporters.

Black youth group leader killed

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — An anti-apartheid youth leader freed last week from detention was shot and killed outside his home today, his family said.

Eric Gumede, 27, was released from custody Friday after a prolonged hunger strike. Relatives said he lost more than 65 pounds during his protest against being held without charge.

Gumede was a leader of the KwaMashu Youth League, an affiliate of the banned United Democratic Front coalition based in one of the largest black townships adjoining the port city of Durban.

His brother, Popo, said a car drove up to their home in KwaMashu shortly after midnight and someone inside began honking the horn. Eric went outside to see what was happening, and was shot in the chest by two blasts from a shotgun, Popo said.

No arrests were reported, and Popo said no one at the home saw who was inside the car.

Parties back coalition government

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Lawmakers of two minor parties today endorsed the idea of a coalition government led by the independent Solidarity movement, strengthening Lech Walesa's bid to create the East bloc's first non-communist government.

More than four decades of governmental leadership by the communist Polish United Workers Party appears suddenly in doubt because of the governing crisis stemming from the party's crushing losses in the most democratic elections in the country since World War II.

President Wojciech Jaruzelski on Tuesday proposed a meeting of the country's main political leaders to find "rational solutions," but there was no word today on when the meeting might take place.

In a climate of economic deterioration, a $39 billion foreign debt and public discontent with continuing communist leadership, Solidarity has said that only an opposition-led government will have the social support needed to carry out difficult economic and political decisions.

1989 Property Tax Rates in Glasscock County I.S.D.

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for Glasscock County I.S.D. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$2,050,571
+ Last year's debt taxes	$0
= Last year's total taxes	$2,050,571
+ Last year's tax base	$342,072,470
= Last year's total tax rate	$.60/$100

This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$2,050,045
+ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property)	$329,739,110
= This year's effective tax rate	$.6217/$100

A city that adopted the additional sales tax in a 1989 election must include the following lines:
- Sales tax adjustment rate	$00/$100
= Effective tax rate	$00/$100

x 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing	$.6403/$100
---	----------------

This year's rollback tax rate:
Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$2,050,045
+ This year's adjusted tax base	$329,739,110
= This year's effective operating rate	$.6217/$100
x 1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate	$.6714/$100
+ This year's debt rate	$0/$100
= This year's rollback rate	$.6714/$100

A city that imposes the additional sales tax must include these lines, regardless of when it held the election:
- Sales tax adjustment rate	$00/$100

Tangy chicken salad and tropical sherbet

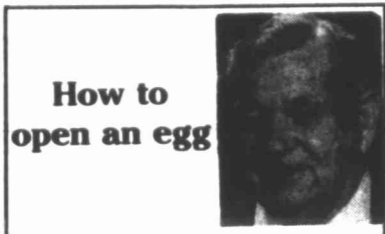

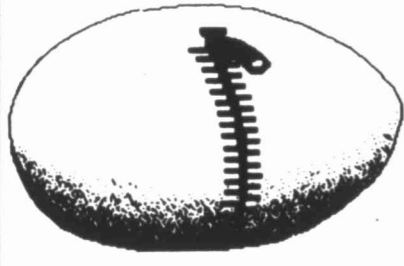

By PAPA JOE REED SR.

This past month, we have been featuring salads in this column. We will continue during the month of August. In hot weather, a zesty, tangy salad is hard to beat. It doesn't leave you with that full over-stuffed feeling.

The salad featured today should please everyone, and best of all, it's a complete meal. You will need the following ingredients for:

- PAPA JOE'S CHICKEN 'N' MACARONI SALAD
 Jello (lemon flavored, 1 pkg.)
 Water (1 cup, boiling)
 Water (1/2 cup, cold)
 Vinegar (2 tbs., cider)
 Pepper (1/4 tsp.)
 Salt (1/2 tsp.)
 Salad dressing (1/2 cup)
 Macaroni (1 cup, cooked)
 Chicken (1 1/2 oz. can)
 Celery (1/2 cup, chopped)
 Tomatoes (2 medium, sliced)
 Onion (1 small, chopped)

First, you dissolve the gelatin in boiling water. Now stir in the cold water, vinegar, onion, salt, and pepper. Next, gradually stir gelatin mixture into salad dressing and beat until smooth. Chill until partly set. Now fold in the macaroni, chicken and celery. Pack into four 1 cup molds. Chill until firm, about 3 to 4 hours. Unmold onto a bed of lettuce and tomato slices. Now garnish with green pepper strips, onion rings, olives or carrot curls. Served with Ritz crackers. There you have a cool, delightful salad for a hot summer evening meal. Enjoy.

What about a dessert to go with this salad. Here is one that is easy to prepare and the family will enjoy. You will need the following for:

- TROPICAL SHERBET
 Pineapple (1 can, crushed and drained)
 Banana (1, cut into chunks)
 Orange juice (1/2 cup)
 Sugar (1/4 cup)
 1 egg white at room temperature
 Salt (1/8 tsp.)

Whirl the pineapple, banana, orange juice and sugar in blender until smooth. Pour this into a shallow dish and freeze for about 1 to 2 hours or until almost firm. Turn into a chilled bowl and glossy. Now fold into the fruit mixture. Pour into a four cup mold and freeze for about 3 hours or until firm. A perfect dessert to go with a delicious salad.

Papa Joe's kitchen tip: If you need extra ice cubes for any purpose, try using muffin tins. The cups make big ice cubes that last longer.

'Rich' dessert

Nut lover creates prize-winning recipe

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Janet Ayako Hill has created the nation's richest dessert — a $100,000 recipe for "Luscious Chocolate Almond Cups" that won the 1989 Planters Nuts Holiday Baking Contest.

Entering a dessert recipe contest sponsored by a nut company came naturally for Hill because she's an avid cook, a nut lover and a frequent recipe contest competitor, according to a news release.

"I'm a chocoholic, so when I entered the contest I wanted to create something really luscious, chocolatey, and a little different," Hill said.

Her fondness for nuts began long before she entered a recipe contest. She says she frequently uses nuts in cooking to make ordinary foods special.

"I put nuts in cheese cake crust because the crunchiness of nuts provides a nice contrast to the creaminess of cheesecake," she said.

Her interest in recipe contests developed after she became a full-time mother. "I decided to quit work and stay home after I had my second child, and that's when I got into recipe contests," Hill explained.

Developing recipes for contests is a creative hobby — it's mentally challenging, and rewarding. I encourage my friends to enter these contests, too. No one can enter all of them, and no one can win all of them. But somebody has to win each of them."

Winning the Planters Baking Contest earned Hill the biggest prize she's ever won, but she has other victories on her record. The first two prizes she won were a magazine subscription and a toaster oven.

She later went to the Pillsbury Bake-Off twice, and won $2,000 at the 1982 event for her "Golden Crescent Cheese Braid" recipe.

Creating recipes for contests is somewhat like developing dishes for your family, Hill said. "If something in a recipe attracts your attention, use it as the basis for your own recipe — but you don't have to follow the recipe verbatim.

You can change it to use what's in your refrigerator or pantry, or make it more or less spicy, or eliminate an ingredient that your family doesn't like," Hill added. This week's Recipe Exchange features Hill's prize-winning dessert recipe.

LUSCIOUS CHOCOLATE ALMOND CUPS

- 1 1/2 cups heavy cream
- 3 cups semi-sweet chocolate chips (18 ounces)
- 5 egg yolks
- 2 tbs. almond-flavored liqueur*
- 2 tsp. vanilla extract
- 2 tbs. slivered almonds
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 3 tbs. butter, melted
- 20 chocolate-covered mint patties (round patties, about 1 1/4 inches wide)
- 2 tbs. light cream
- Whipped cream

In saucepan, over medium heat, scald heavy cream; add 2 cups chocolate chips. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture almost boils (160 degrees F.); remove from heat. In electric blender, on low speed, blend egg yolks, liqueur and extract. With motor running, pour in hot chocolate mixture; blend at high speed for 1 minute or until smooth. Pour into bowl; chill at least 2 hours.

Finely chop 1/2 cup almonds; set aside. Melt remaining chocolate chips; stir in remaining graham cracker crumbs and 1 tbs. melted butter. Press about 1/3 cup mixture on bottom and sides of each 6 (6-ounce) foil-lined custard cups. Chill at least 1 hour.

In top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water, stir remaining butter, mint patties and light cream until melted and smooth; keep warm.

To serve, remove foil from chocolate cups; place on serving plates. Spoon about 1/2 cup chocolate filling into each cup; drizzle with mint sauce. Top with whipped cream and remaining slivered almonds. Serve immediately.

*Coffee-flavored liqueur may be substituted.

Wedding couple should acknowledge gifts

DEAR ABBY: As a devoted fan, I have admired your wisdom and solid horse sense. I am also greatly impressed with your gracious willingness to accept criticism when you goof. Well, you goofed.

An embarrassed mother wanted to know how to handle her friends who ask if her son and his bride had received their wedding gift after nearly a year had passed. You said the friends were putting the "blameless" parents on the spot — that the parents should give the friends their children's telephone number so they could ask directly. You missed the point, Abby.

The parents are not blameless! The people who sent the gift are friends of the parents — not the freeloading children. (They may even be unknown to the newlyweds.)

Wedding invitations are issued by the parents, who are responsible for the good or bad manners of their children.

You should have advised the parents to write a formal letter of apology to the friends whose wedding gift had not been acknowledged — and send a copy to their son,

Dear Abby

along with a zinger, telling him to get his bride off the dime and acknowledge their wedding presents! — PASADENA GRANDPA

DEAR GRANDPA: I'll take my lumps when I goof, but I stand by that answer. I hold that the parents of children who are old enough to marry are not responsible for their children's bad manners. I venture to say that most children have been taught to say "thank you" when they receive a gift, and if they are negligent or lazy, you can't blame their parents.

Also, you suggest that the parents should tell their son to get his bride "off the dime" and acknowledge their wedding presents!

I submit that the wedding presents are his as well as hers, and although the bride usually writes the thank-you notes, the responsibility is not necessarily hers entirely. Today, with the majority of brides working outside the home, acknowledging wedding gifts should be a shared responsibility.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing my will and must make some decisions. I have two large albums filled with family pictures that go back three generations. I have six children and many grandchildren.

How shall I distribute these albums? I want to be fair. — PUZZLED IN THE AUTUMN OF MY LIFE

DEAR PUZZLED: Please don't make the mistake most parents make and leave everything to the eldest, or only to the daughters.

Invite each one of your children — and grandchildren — to review the albums and make notes of the pictures they want. With today's technology, excellent duplicates — as good as or better than the originals — can be made. If money is a consideration, perhaps the heirs will pay for the cost of reproducing the originals.

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding people who object to being called by their first name or other familiar greetings by new acquaintances. Please publish this so that none of those people come to this area in the Deep South. Hardly anyone is ever addressed by their full names, and "Mr." and "Mrs." is out of the question down here. They are most likely to be called "Honey," "Darling," "Sugar," "Sweetheart," "Luv," and so on.

Those stiff and formal icebergs who are offended when they are called by their first names would have apoplexy down here!

As for relatives, distant cousins and in-laws, it makes no difference — if they don't greet you with a hug and a kiss the second time you visit, watch out; they probably don't like you!

Believe me, Abby, I am not kidding. — COLLEEN DOUNETTE, SULPHUR, LA.

DEAR COLLEEN: I believe you.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97 percent five year survival rate and a 90 percent 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Matchmaking last chance for rare species

APPLE VALLEY, Minn. (AP) — WANTED: Big, beautiful beast, one of last of dying breed, as possible mate for same. Serious inquiries only.

That's the pitch a group of zoologists is making to zokeepers around the country. Their matchmaking service, a sort of modern-day Noah's Ark, could be the last hope for many wild animals facing extinction.

This ark is fashioned from computer software and cooperation.

Through it, a black rhino calf was born in Detroit to a mother swapped from Oklahoma City whose seven previous offspring had lived less than a month. "Logistically, it was difficult and expensive," said Doris Applebaum, registrar at the Detroit Zoological Park. She said the switch cost around $6,000, but "it was well worth it." The calf, born in March, was doing well on Tuesday, Applebaum said.

The black rhino is declining at a rate of 97 percent per generation, said Nathan Flesness, director of International Species Information System, which compiles data for the animal swapping program. The animal's population has plummeted from 70,000 in 1970 to about 3,000 today, and captivity may be the key to its preservation.

"Humans shoot them to sell their horns for enough to retire on for the rest of their life," said Flesness.

The program, with headquarters here in the Minnesota Zoo, is called the Species Survival Plan. It was set up by the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums in 1980 with a goal not only of matching animals, but also of convincing zokeepers that donating or swapping some of their most prized possessions is in the long-term interest of their profession.

Fifty species — including the gorilla, cheetah and thick-billed parrot — so far have climbed aboard the computer ark. Thomas Foose, the program's coordinator, says he hopes that number will increase tenfold by the start of the next century.

The choice of species to include usually comes down to "the big and the beautiful," said Flesness. "It's a long way short of everything, but it's a lot better than doing nothing."

DETROIT — A 27-year-old female black rhino, left, and her five-month-old baby, romp in the Detroit Zoo Tuesday. The black rhinos are nearing extinction and a group of zoologists are making a pitch to zokeepers around the country trying to get mates for rare species of animals. This baby calf was born when the Detroit Zoo and the Oklahoma City Zoo swapped female rhinos.

Foose's group tracks data, including genealogy and medical history, compiled by the ISIS on over 96,000 living vertebrate specimens in 347 zoos and 32 countries.

Foose says that as a result of the gorilla program, for example, there is less inbreeding and healthier babies are being born. About 15 gorillas have been born a year for the last 10 years with the population presently at about 300. "We've gone from a situation where that population was declining to one where it's increasing by about 2 or 3 percent a year," he said. "That's very healthy."

Gorilla mating is difficult since long-established pairs tend to treat each other like brother and sister.

The solution, Flesness said, is just a plane ride away: "Put one of the two partners on airplanes, switch them to another zoo, and let them make friends."

While conservationists once had misgivings about keeping exotic animals in captivity, they now are realizing the role zoos can play in preservation, said Flesness.

Wildlife managers, he said, increasingly realize they have a small population and that it is often in one place. "They want to take their species into captivity for insurance reasons, and they suddenly move into the same arena, the same set of challenges as zoos."

The Puerto Rican parrot is an example. Forty-three of the birds exist in the wild on the island, and an equal number live in captivity there.

"If one bad hurricane comes, they'll not only wipe out the wild birds but at least endanger the ones in the aviary," said Flesness. Conservationists, he said, have agreed that a few of the animals should be moved to a mainland zoo.

The prospects of easing animals back into the wild look bleak, he said, as long as humans keep encroaching on their natural habitat.

Tighter labeling laws may be in the offing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supermarket shoppers, unsure what distinguishes "lite" bread from regular or "high-fiber" cereals from others, may be getting some help from the federal government.

Both Congress and the Food and Drug Administration are considering massive revisions in the FDA's nutrition labeling requirements, which date from 1973, when the vitamin and mineral content of foods was consumers' prime concern.

Now, much of the focus of healthy eating has shifted to foods' cholesterol, fat and fiber content — areas untouched by the current regulations.

Even the food industry, until now a foe of compulsory labeling, appears to be going along — for a price.

Says Dr. Frank Young, the FDA commissioner:

"The public is demanding change in this area and deserves nothing less than our maximum efforts to accomplish this change."

Young, testifying before a congressional committee recently, referred to the two biggest driving forces behind the heightened interest in nutrition — the Surgeon General's Report on Nutrition and Health, which cited dietary factors in five of the 10 leading causes of death, including cardiovascular disease and cancer, and the report by the National Research Council, "Diet and Health: Implications for Reducing Chronic Disease Risk."

The FDA commissioner said both reports, issued last year, "concluded that Americans could substantially reduce their risk of heart disease, cancer and many other chronic diseases through specific changes in eating habits."

Since 1973, when the FDA imposed nutrition labeling requirements for the first time, products to which nutrients have been added or for which a nutrition claim is made:

- Must be labeled with quantitative listings of calories, carbohydrates and protein.
- Must show, by "average" or "usual" serving, the percentages of the federal government's recommended daily allowance of protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron contained in a product.

- Must list calories, protein content, carbohydrates, fat and sodium.

But those regulations were drawn up when vitamin and mineral content was the most prevalent consumer concern.

Now, what many shoppers want most is such information as a product's fat and fiber content, its "liteness" — or lack thereof — and how "naturally" it was made.

Some in Congress contend the FDA has not moved quickly enough to address those concerns.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., and Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, have introduced the "Nutrition Labeling and Education Act of 1989." If passed by both houses, the bill's sponsors say revised labels could begin appearing within 18 months of being signed by the president.

The legislation would require that labels list the serving size and number of servings per container; total calories, and calories broken down by total and saturated fat. Also required would be amounts, broken down by serving, of total, saturated and unsaturated fat; cholesterol; sodium; complex carbohydrates; protein; dietary fiber, and other nutrients.

Another bill, introduced by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, is similar to the Waxman-Metzenbaum bill except that it would preclude state labeling regulations.

For its part, the FDA plans to hold five hearings around the country to ask people how they would like to see the current regulations changed.

The agency's intent is to convince Congress it need not set the FDA's standards, or at least to have revised regulations ready if Capitol Hill orders the agency to change its act.

The food industry's primary hope appears to be getting federal legislation that eliminates state regulation.

Says Jeff Nedelman, a vice president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America:

"We would support a comprehensive reform of the dietary and health information that is provided to consumers if we can come out of this process with national standards."

Diabetes is often hidden disease

ATLANTA (AP) — Half of the sufferers of diabetes don't know they have it, and the disease may contribute to as many as a quarter-million American deaths each year, federal health officials say.

Diabetes was the underlying reported cause in 37,178 deaths in the United States in 1986, the latest year for which final statistics are available, the national Centers for Disease Control said Thursday.

Two reasons, the CDC said, lead researchers to believe that diabetes is behind many more deaths than that. The disease was listed as a contributory cause of death on four times as many death certificates, while half the death certificates for people with the non-insulin dependent form of diabetes didn't mention the disease.

"Thus, diabetes may be associated with approximately eight times as many deaths" as indicated by the 37,178 reported — or about 297,000 deaths, the CDC said. Besides being potentially fatal, diabetes — in which the body can't properly handle sugars and starches — also can cause kidney disease, blindness and other serious complications.

The CDC estimates that in 1986, 10.5 million Americans had diabetes. The Atlanta-based agency said nearly half — 4.9 million — were undiagnosed cases in people who didn't know they were diabetic. CDC researcher Dr. Robert Hahn said undiagnosed cases are projected from surveys involving blood tests.

The CDC said more than one in five diabetics have at least one of three other conditions that can seriously affect their health: smoking, high blood pressure and overweight.

Twenty-seven percent of diabetics smoke, 47 percent have high blood pressure and 22 percent are at least 30 percent overweight, the CDC said. Researchers project that among diabetics, 39,000 deaths each year are attributed to the additional problem of smoking, 30,000 are attributed to high blood pressure and 12,000 are attributed to obesity.

Hahn said the highest additional risk for diabetics comes from smoking. "Among diabetics who smoke, the risk of dying (in a given year) is 2.3 times higher than for diabetics who don't smoke," he said.

Meanwhile, Hahn said, death rates from diabetes have declined slowly during the 1980s, from 15.9 such deaths per 100,000 people in 1979 to 15.4 in 1986.

In the 37,178 reported diabetes fatalities in 1986, the highest rate was in Delaware, which reported 26.3 such deaths for every 100,000 population. The lowest was in Nevada, with a rate of 11.6 per 100,000.

But geographic region was not necessarily a clue to diabetes mortality rates: just north of Louisiana, second in the nation at 22.1, was Arkansas, 47th at 12.4.

The CDC also reported Thursday that diabetes accounts for a large number of "end-stage" kidney disease cases — serious cases which require dialysis or transplants in order for patients to live.

Of 33,393 end-stage kidney disease cases reported to Medicare officials in 1987, the CDC said, 28 percent were attributed to diabetes.

The agency noted that blacks, American Indians and Mexican-Americans have diabetes end-stage kidney disease rates between three and seven times higher than whites.

Broken arm shatters Dravecky comeback

MONTREAL (AP) — Dave Dravecky's first major-league start since cancer surgery was an inspiration for the San Francisco Giants. His next was heartbreaking. Dravecky pitched eight innings to beat Cincinnati last week in an emotion-charged return to the major leagues. Emotion was evident again Tuesday night as Dravecky pitched against the Montreal Expos. The left-hander's comeback from cancer surgery ended abruptly when he broke his pitching arm while delivering the ball in the sixth inning of San Francisco's 3-2 victory.

"Bad things shouldn't happen to good people like him," said his weeping friend, Giants catcher Terry Kennedy. "After what he did for 10 months of rehab, it shouldn't go like that." Dravecky underwent surgery last October to remove a cancerous tumor from his left shoulder. During the operation, the bone in his left arm was frozen. It was that bone that snapped Tuesday night as Dravecky pitched to Montreal's Tim Lincecum. "It's a crying shame," said Giants first baseman Will Clark, the first to reach Dravecky after the pitcher fell to the ground in agony. "Dave's first start changed the meaning of the season for us, because it's not just about baseball, it's about life." "It sounded like a firecracker," Expos rightfielder Hubie Brooks said. "I've never seen anything like it and I hope I never see anything like it again." "When he went down, he said, 'It's broke! It's broke!'" Giants manager Roger Craig said. "When I first saw him go down, I knew it was something serious. He's a courageous man. I've been in this game a long time, and I've seen a lot of things but I've never seen nothing like this." Giants spokeswoman Robin Carr described the injury as "an obvious sharp, painful pop." The report from the Montreal hospital where he was treated said that Dravecky had sustained a fracture of the humerus bone, the largest bone between the elbow and the shoulder. He was reported to be in good spirits and was quoted at the hospital as saying, "It was the

'89 Frogs: Journey into the unknown

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH — No one can accuse Jim Wacker of being downbeat, but Texas Christian University's ebullient football coach admits the 1989 campaign is a journey into the unknown. It is, he says, both a mystery and a challenge. "No one ever said it would be easy," he said one recent afternoon, grinning as he pondered the good, bad, ugly and inevitable of a team on the rebound from a disappointing but not quite disastrous season. "Even though we graduated a bunch of great kids, we've got a good nucleus returning," he said. "We're more blue collar than blue chip."

Among TCU's meager offensive assets are senior Tony Darthard, a quality running back, and Kelly Blackwell, a superb tight end. Junior Mike Sullivan is one of the best offensive guards in the Southwest Conference.

On the heels of last year's 4-7 record, Wacker in effect seems to be saying that prospects are hardly bright but could be worse. Plundered by graduation and crippled by injuries last spring, the Horned Frogs open the season Sept. 9 at Missouri with new faces, old problems, little depth and minus an excellent punter and kicker. The good news? The alumni slush fund scandal and subsequent NCAA sanctions are unpleasant memories of the past. There is a sense of relief and an eagerness for a fresh start. Newly acquired offensive coordinator Ben Griffith is installing a wide open run-and-shoot attack that could exploit the Frogs' limited resources while minimizing their glaring weaknesses. It is a pro-style offense featuring a flock of wide receivers and a single setback. If — and it's a big if — senior quarterback Ron Jiles adjusts successfully to the so-called Triple Shoot, opposing defenses will be scattered around the field and less likely to overpower the smaller, faster Frogs. "One-back offenses have changed the face of college football more than anything else," Wacker said. "It puts more pressure on the defense because of all the secondary adjustments you have to make back there." Among TCU's meager offensive assets are senior Tony Darthard, a quality running back, and Kelly Blackwell, a superb tight end. Junior Mike Sullivan is one of the best offensive guards in the Southwest Conference. Sullivan had better be good, because injuries claimed starting offensive linemen Rob Adams and Jeff Hopkins last spring. Saving the best for last, there is a defense that includes veteran end Darrell Davis and spotlights Fred Washington, a swift, 6-3, 274-pound senior tackle who could emerge as a first-round draft choice in the NFL class of '89. Better still, Washington has no illusions as to his role in this year of the unknown. "I feel like I have to be a leader... I have to make big plays," he said. "Even when something goes bad, I can't get upset about it. I can't do something crazy. I have to play under control."

It may be the Wacker influence, but Washington can look on the bright side of TCU losing 32 scholarship seniors and say: "I think this year we have a lot more speed in several positions. We have a lot more speed in the secondary and we have a lot more speed in the line." As always with a team long on youth and short on experience, the first few games can make or break the season, and nobody knows it better than Wacker. "These kids need a good dose of confidence," he sighed. "If we could win two out of three, then just take 'em as they fall, we might get a shot at 7-4 or 8-3 and a bowl game. That's dreaming for things to fall in place."

Racers recall Richmond

MIAMI (AP) — Tim Richmond's driving career held so much promise in 1980. Nine years later, the charismatic but troubled Richmond is dead at age 34. "We had never seen anything like him before, the TIM RICHMOND good and the bad," H.A. "Humpty" Wheeler, president of the Charlotte Motor Speedway, said Tuesday when informed of Richmond's death. "He was the most complex person who's ever sat behind the wheel of a stock car."

Richmond's physician, Dr. David Dodson, said the driver died on Sunday in Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach. Citing the wishes of the family and medical confidentiality, Dodson declined to give the cause of death or talk about Richmond's medical condition. Earlier Tuesday, in an interview with the Charlotte Observer, Dodson said Richmond's thoughts at the end "were not of himself, but of his family, friends and racing fans."

Richmond, who lived in semi-seclusion in south Florida, had been hospitalized recently for injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident, Dodson confirmed. He would not say whether the motorcycle accident was related to the death.

NFL training camp notes

SAN MARCOS — Houston Oilers running back Lorenzo White (44) carries the ball during a training camp exercise as tackle Albert Williams gives pursuit. The Oilers will be at their summer training camp through Aug. 21.

By The Associated Press
Mike Tomczak has found the way to get more playing time than Jim McMahon: play more like Jim McMahon. Competing with McMahon and Jim Harbaugh for the Chicago Bears' starting quarterback job, Tomczak connected on seven of eight passes Monday night against the Miami Dolphins and impressed teammates with his aggressive style. "It used to be we said, with Jim McMahon, you've got to run every route full speed because you might get the ball even if you're a decoy," wide receiver Ron Morris said Tuesday. "Now with Tomczak, the same thing goes." Tomczak has even assumed McMahon's cocky off-field manner, talking about next week's game plan with himself clearly in mind as the starter. "On a couple of different sets, we'll try to feature different receivers and running backs," Tomczak said. "We've got to get Dennis McKinnon and Ron Morris the ball. They didn't touch it last night." Wide receiver Dennis Gentry, who hooked up with Tomczak on a 28-yard touchdown pass Monday night, also gave the quarterback a vote of confidence. "I give Tomczak most of the credit," Gentry said of the pass. "He put it on the money, and that's what I needed." New Orleans Saints First-round draft pick Wayne Martin showed up for his first practice and clearly will need many more.

"He's 30 practices and one game behind," Coach Jim Mora said of the defensive end. "That's a lot of work." "He'll make mistakes, get knocked on his rear end and screw it up for a number of weeks. But I think he'll be a good football player. Missing three weeks of work should not keep him from playing this season if he's a good football player." Martin held out for 20 days before signing a four-year contract reportedly worth $1.99 million. Cincinnati Bengals The Bengals cut seven players, including punter Scott Fulhage. Others placed on waivers, all free agents, were linebackers Matt D'Amico of Maryland and Keith Friberg of Syracuse, cornerback James Howard of Fullerton State, wide receivers Tony Harvey of Kansas and Jeff Jacobs of Southern Methodist, and defensive end Phil Ferguson. Fulhage was the Bengals' regular punter most of last year but was replaced late in the season by Lee Johnson. Tuesday's cuts reduced to 65 the number of players in camp. In addition, the Bengals have four holdouts — wide receiver Eddie Brown, guard Max Montoya, center Bruce Kozerski and tight end Rodney Holman. The first mandatory roster cut is to 60 players by Aug. 29. Indianapolis Colts Coach Ron Meyer says Jack Trudeau will start at quarterback when the Colts meet Green Bay in Saturday's exhibition game. Trudeau is scheduled to play the first and fourth quarters. Chris Chandler, who became the starting quarterback as a rookie last year when Trudeau was lost for the season with a knee injury in the third game, will play the second and third quarters. Denver Broncos Fullback Melvin Bratton, a seventh-round draft choice, signed a contract and reported to the Denver Broncos' training camp, 25 days late but apparently in playing shape. Bratton, a star at Miami, Fla., had been considered one of the top prospects in the draft before he tore ligaments and cartilage in his left knee in the 1988 Orange Bowl. He underwent reconstructive surgery. Cleveland Browns Coming off his best season, Felix Wright has no intention of moving aside quietly to ease Hanford Dixon's transition from cornerback to safety. Wright led the Browns with five interceptions and finished second with 120 tackles, including four games with 10 or more tackles. He played free safety in the Browns' basic defense and moved to strong safety in the "nickel" and "dime" defenses used on passing downs. Dixon, who has been a Pro Bowl cornerback for three years, is being moved to free safety by Coach Bud Carson, setting up a potentially explosive training camp battle. The duties of a strong safety are more oriented to stopping the run, while the free safety concentrates more on pass coverage. Asked where Wright might play

Giants' pitching woes mount

By The Associated Press

It could be the worst break of all for the beleaguered San Francisco Giants pitching staff.

The Giants, who have had six starting pitchers injured during the season, received another physical blow Tuesday night when left-hander Dave Dravecky fractured his pitching arm, the same one on which he had cancer surgery 10 months ago.

Although Dravecky got credit for the Giants' 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos, the psychological damage of his loss could be even greater than the physical one.

NL roundup

"It's a crying shame," first baseman Will Clark said. "Dave's first start changed the meaning of the season for us because it's not just about baseball, it's about life."

Dravecky, who won the first start of his comeback by pitching eight innings last Thursday against Cincinnati, dropped to the ground and grabbed his left arm after throwing a pitch in the sixth inning of a game the Giants were leading 3-1. He was taken from the field on a stretcher.

"It sounded like a firecracker," Expos right fielder Hubie Brooks said. "I've never seen anything like it and I hope I never see anything like it again."

In other National League games, it was New York 3, San Diego 2; Philadelphia 7, Los Angeles 6; St. Louis 9, Atlanta 1; Chicago 5, Cincinnati 2 in 12 innings, and Houston 3, Pittsburgh 2 in 11 innings.

Dravecky, who pitched five shutout innings before the sixth, was conscious as he left the field and was taken to Queen Elizabeth Hospital. X-rays showed the fracture in the upper arm near the scar that marked the surgery that removed a cancerous tumor last Oct. 7.

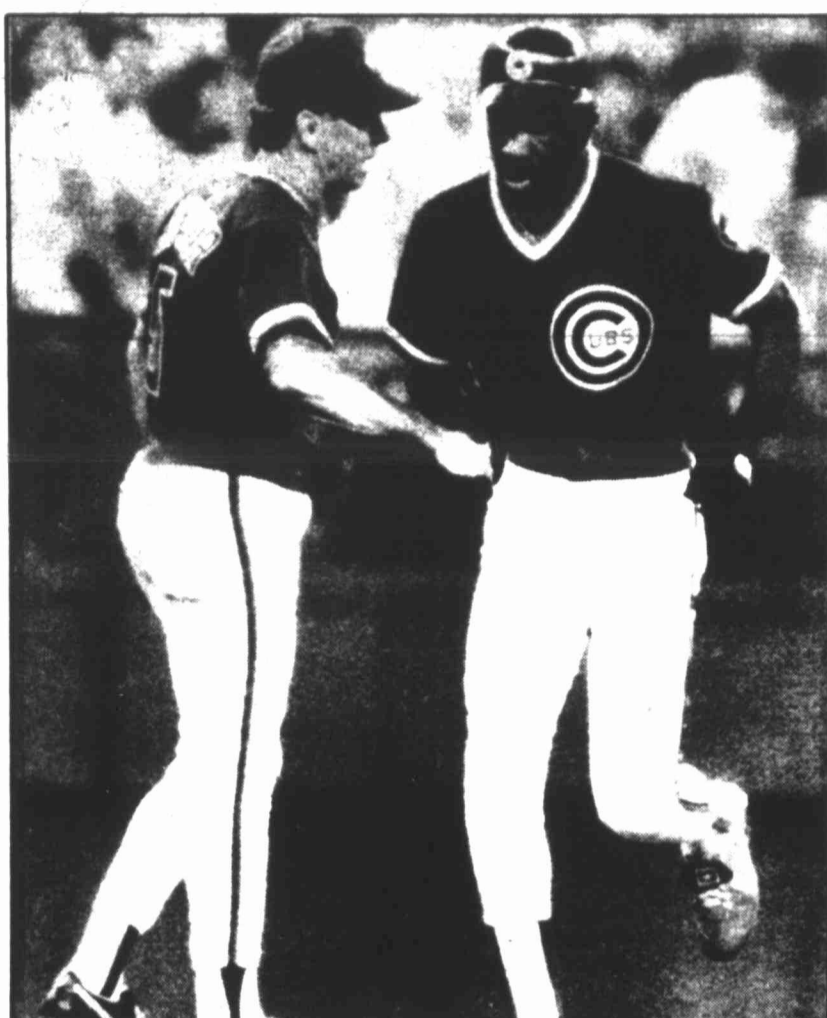

The injury is expected to sideline him for 6-8 weeks, effectively ending his season.

"The odds are in his favor that he'll pitch again," said Dr. Robert Broderick, the Expos team doctor who examined Dravecky. "There is very little damage involving the muscles."

Matt Williams' fifth homer in six games, after a single by Will Clark, gave the Giants a 3-0 lead in the sixth.

Montreal scored its two runs off Dravecky in the bottom of the inning. Damaso Garcia led off with a homer and Andres Galarraga was hit by a pitch. Jeff Brantley relieved Dravecky and surrendered a sacrifice fly by Tim Lincecum.

Brantley finished with three hitless innings before Steve Bedrosian pitched the ninth for his 16th save.

CINCINNATI — Chicago Cubs outfielder Andre Dawson is congratulated by coach Cotter as he rounds third base after hitting a three-run home run in the 12th inning that helped the Cubs defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2.

Astros 3, Pirates 2

Houston won its 29th one-run game when Ken Caminiti's single drove in Eric Yelding from second base in the 11th inning.

Glenn Davis, who homered earlier, led off the 11th with a single off Mike Smith, 0-1, and Yelding came in to pinch run. After a sacrifice bunt by Kevin Bass moved Yelding to second, Caminiti singled to left field.

Larry Andersen, 3-3, was the winner, going one inning and giving up one hit and one walk.

The Astros are 29-17 in one-run decisions, the Pirates 13-27.

Cubs 5, Reds 2

Chicago beat Cincinnati in a game marred by a postgame brawl as Andre Dawson hit rookie Mike Roesler's 0-2 pitch for a three-run homer with two outs in the 12th inning.

Dawson, hitless in his previous 10 at-bats, hit his 13th homer of the season, scoring Mitch Webster and Mark Grace, who both walked with two outs off Roesler, 0-1, the fifth Reds pitcher.

Cubs rookie Jerome Walton took advantage of the extra innings to extend his hitting streak to 25 games, the longest in baseball this year.

In his sixth at-bat, Walton singled leading off the 12th but was erased on a fielder's choice grounder by Ryne Sandberg, who then was caught stealing.

The victory went to Mitch Williams, 2-2, who pitched two hitless innings.

A postgame argument between first base umpire Joe West and Cincinnati Reds second baseman Ron Oester escalated into a shoving match involving Reds manager Pete Rose, Oester and West.

Rose was suspended for 30 days and fined $10,000 last year for shoving umpire Dave Pallone.

Mets 3, Padres 2

New York passed Montreal for second place in the East, 3½ games behind the Cubs, when Kevin McReynolds tied San Diego with a ninth-inning homer and Kevin Elster later hit an RBI double.

New York, which won for the 12th time in 15 games, trailed 2-1 against Padres starter Ed Whitson before McReynolds homered with one out, his 15th of the season and sixth in August.

Barry Lyons singled and Keith Miller struck out before Elster doubled down the left field line.

Hough loses despite one-hitter

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Maybe Charlie Hough should try pitching a no-hitter. Obviously, one-hitters don't work.

Outlit 13-1, the Seattle Mariners beat the odds and Hough on Tuesday night, defeating the Texas Rangers 2-0.

Hough has two career one-hitters and has lost both of them. The other came on June 16, 1986, in California.

"The only way it could have been worse was if I had thrown a no-hitter," Hough said.

Harold Reynolds' solid single leading off the sixth was all the Mariners got against Hough, 7-12. The Rangers got plenty of hits against Brian Holman and Mike Schooler, but no runs.

AL roundup

Holman, 5-5, gave up 10 hits in seven innings and Schooler got his 24th save. Texas came within one hit of tying a major league record for most hits in a shutout loss.

In other games, Milwaukee beat New York 1-0, Baltimore downed Detroit 2-0, Oakland defeated Cleveland 5-2, California topped Minnesota 3-2, Toronto trounced Boston 7-2 and Kansas City beat Chicago 10-6.

Hough walked five and struck out three. Reynolds scored in the sixth on a balk, a wild pitch and Jeffrey Leonard's sacrifice fly.

"Good bit of hitting by Reynolds. He's a tough out," Hough said. "I made a bad pitch to Leonard on those circumstances. He hit a knuckleball up and over the plate."

The Mariners scored in the seventh on an error by third baseman Steve Buechele.

"Our guys can't believe it. You just take this kind of win. That's baseball, I guess. This game was just unbelievable," Mariners manager Jim Lefebvre said.

Brewers 1, Yankees 0

Teddy Higuera again beat New York, pitching a six-hitter for his sixth straight victory as Milwaukee got above .500 for the first time since April 26.

Higuera is 12-2 lifetime against the Yankees. His .857 winning percentage is the highest for any pitcher versus New York.

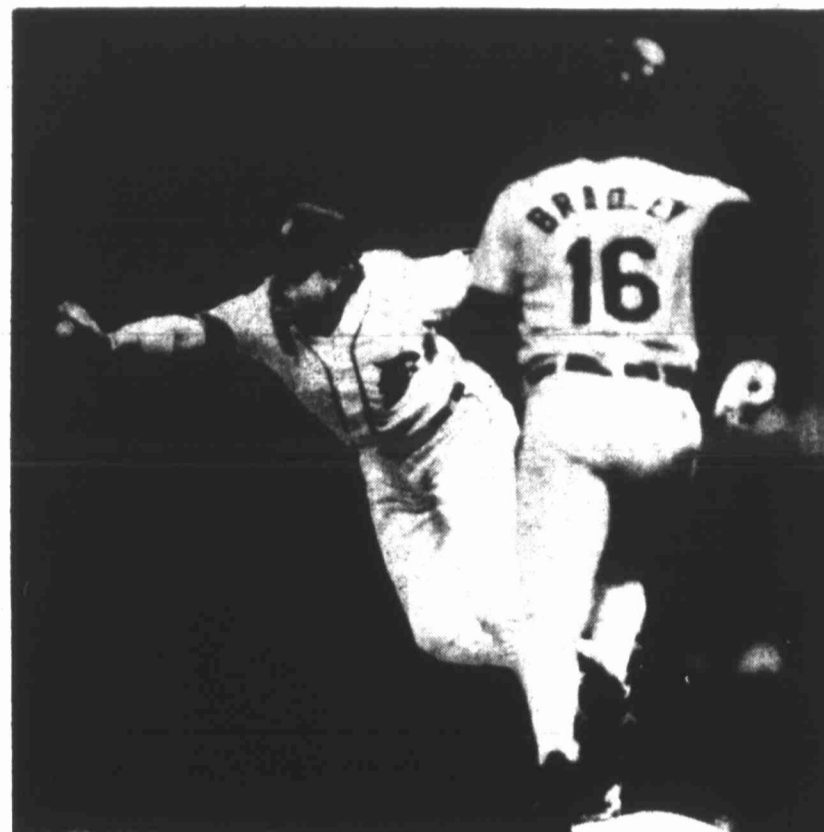

Higuera, 9-4, has beaten the Yankees three times this season. He walked two and struck out five in his first shutout of the year.

Clay Parker, 3-3, gave up six hits, including Greg Brock's RBI single in the fourth inning.

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 2

Lloyd Moseby led off the game with a home run and Toronto went on to win for the 14th straight time at Fenway Park.

Manny Lee and Rance Mulliniks

DETROIT — Detroit Tigers first baseman Dave Bergman, left, has to stretch to make the out on Baltimore's Phil Bradley in the eighth inning of their game Tuesday. The Orioles went on to beat the Tigers, 2-0.

also homered for the Blue Jays. Mookie Wilson had four hits and Fred McGriff doubled twice for Toronto, which had 15 hits.

The Blue Jays turned four double plays in remaining unbeaten at Boston since Aug. 10, 1987.

Dave Stieb, 12-7, went five innings for the victory. Duane Ward escaped bases-loaded, one-out jams in the seventh and ninth innings for his 12th save.

Mike Smithson, 6-11, gave up four runs on eight hits and was replaced with no outs in the third inning. Moseby hit Smithson's fifth pitch for his 10th home run and Lee opened the second inning with his third homer.

Athletics 5, Indians 2

Rickey Henderson hit his 39th career leadoff home run, extending his own record, and Jose Canseco homered in his first start in eight days as Oakland beat Cleveland.

Storm Davis, 13-5, won his fourth consecutive decision. Dennis Eckersley got his 24th save when he escaped a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the ninth inning.

The visiting Indians lost their fourth straight game and eighth in 11 games.

Henderson opened the bottom of the first with his eighth home run, connecting against Rod Nichols, 3-2. Canseco, who has been out with a strained right quadriceps, hit a two-run shot, his sixth homer in 25 games this season.

Orioles 2, Tigers 0

Rookie Bob Milacki pitched a three-hitter and Baltimore stayed undefeated in six games at Tiger Stadium this season.

Cal Ripken and Joe Orsulak homered in the Orioles' third straight victory.

Milacki, 7-10, has won all three career starts in Detroit. In those games, he has given up just one run on five hits in 25 innings.

Milacki struck out five and walked four in his second shutout. He did not allow a hit until two outs in the fifth inning.

Angels 3, Twins 2

Bobby Rose got his first three major-league hits and tripled home the go-ahead run in the sixth inning as California won for just the second time in six games.

Rose was recalled from Class AA on Friday after Dick Schofield fractured his hand. Rose singled home the tying run in the fourth and put the Angels in front in the sixth.

Royals 10, White Sox 6

Kurt Stillwell hit two triples and drove in three runs as Kansas City won in Chicago.

Mike Macfarlane, who had three of the Royals' 15 hits, and Danny Tartabull each homered. Stillwell hit an RBI triple and scored on Jim Eisenreich's single for a 7-6 lead in the sixth inning.

Terry Leach, 3-3, got the victory.

Ryan goes for 5,000th strikeout as Rangers take on Mariners

SEATTLE (AP) — Nolan Ryan is in town, which means the Seattle Mariners are flirting with another piece of baseball history.

In 1986, Roger Clemens struck out a record 204 Mariners in a 9-inning game. Today, Ryan starts for the Texas Rangers against the Mariners needing 14 strikeouts to reach 5,000 for his career.

Seattle's manager is Jim Lefebvre, one of the 1,061 major-league batters to strike out against Ryan.

"It was so long ago I don't remember facing him," Lefebvre said. "Whatever I did against him was uneventful. I'm just one of the many little guys that will put him in the Hall of Fame."

Ryan, 37-7, has 211 strikeouts in 163 1/3 innings this season, running his 23-year total to 4,986.

"I'd like to reach 5,000 but it was never a goal of mine," the 42-year-old right-hander said. "Every player would like to reach a number like this at home, but I will approach this game like any other."

His next scheduled start will be Tuesday against Oakland at Arlington Stadium.

Fourteen isn't an unreachable figure for Ryan, who is averaging 11.3 strikeouts per nine innings this season. He struck out 15 Brewers in an 8-1 victory over Milwaukee on April 12 and 14 in only six innings against the Toronto Blue Jays on July 25.

Ryan struck out 15 Mariners on April 24, 1978 when he pitched for the California Angels. He is 1-1 against the Mariners in 1989, including a one-hit, 11-strikeout performance in the Kingdom on June 3. It is one of three near no-hitters this season by Ryan, who holds the major-league record with five no-hitters.

"Historically, it's easier to get strikeouts against free-swinging power hitters," Ryan said, "Seattle is an aggressive young team, but they're pretty good contact hitters."

Of the current Mariners, Ryan has fanned Jeffrey Leonard 17 times.

His No. 1 victim is Claudell Washington, currently with California, who has struck out 36 times.

Ryan has fanned 17 members of Baseball's Hall of Fame, including Harmon Killebrew 11 times, and six father-son combinations, including Ken Griffey and the Mariners' Ken Griffey Jr.

The hard-throwing righthander has struck out 12 different Davis' during his career but never Seattle first baseman Alvin Davis, who ranks second among American League batsmen with a .336 average.

"It's not like I've had 40 or 50 at bats against him," Davis said.

strangest experience I've ever had in my life."

"When he threw the ball I heard a pop," Kennedy said. "As he fell, he grabbed it (left arm), then fell on top of it and that couldn't have felt very good."

"I wanted to win that game for him," Kennedy said. "I know it sounds trite but it's true. I've been close to him for a long time now, since when we were with the Padres together. He's as good a friend as I've got."

"When (Tim) Wallach came up to hit after, he said, 'That makes this pretty important, doesn't it?', kind of sarcastically. That reaction shows the kind of person Dave is."

"The last thing he (Dravecky) said was, 'Win this game. I want this win.'" Craig said. "It's almost like you don't win when something like this happens."

Dravecky got his victory, thanks to Matt Williams' two-run home run in the top of the sixth and three innings of shutoff relief by Jeff Brantley. Montreal cut the lead to 3-1 when Damaso Garcia homered off Dravecky in the fateful sixth.

Andres Galarraga, who was on first after being hit by a pitch, scooted around to third when the ball flew wildly out of Dravecky's hand as he tumbled to the ground. Raines fled to center off Brantley to score Galarraga, but that was as close as Montreal would get.

"He was throwing good, although he didn't have real good control," Craig said of Dravecky. "But he had a no-hitter going through three. If I had felt that anything like that would happen, he wasn't going out there. I feel very bad but I wouldn't do it any differently."

Tolbert gives Pokes help on the line

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif (AP) — Rookie defensive end Tony Tolbert gave the Dallas Cowboys just what they were looking for in their NFL exhibition opener — a sack.

"He's what we're looking for," defensive coordinator Dave Wannstedt said Tuesday. "As far as ability and speed in the defensive line, he's what we need."

Tolbert, a fourth-round draft choice, recorded his only tackle in a 20-3 victory Sunday over San Diego on a fourth-quarter sack of quarterback David Archer. That's exactly what the aging Cowboys defensive line needs from Tolbert, who had 11 sacks last season at Texas-El Paso.

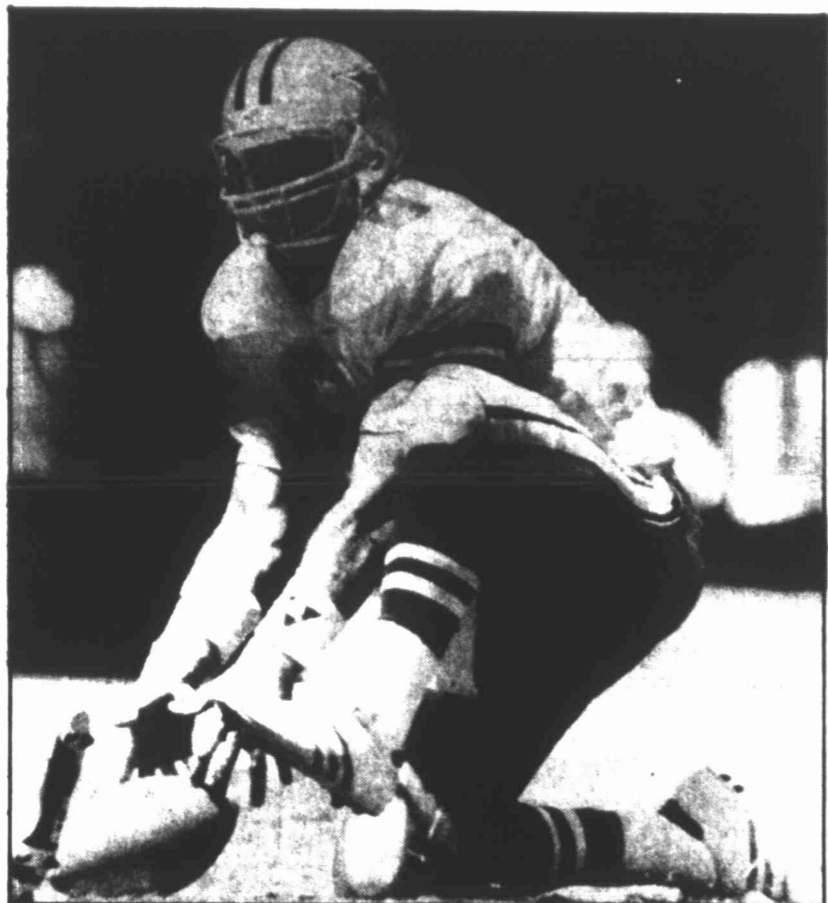

Last season, Cowboys starting ends Ed Jones and Jim Jeffcoat combined for 13½ quarterback sacks. Five NFC players alone had that many.

"They want me to learn both ends, but I'm having a little trouble on the right side with the different hands and everything," Tolbert said. "So right now I'm just working at left end."

At left end, Tolbert backs up Jones, who played in his first NFL game when Tolbert was 6.

"Just playing behind him is a nice thing, but if he sees something, he'll let me know what's going on or what I'm doing wrong," Tolbert said.

The Cowboys saw Tolbert's speed — his 4.7 time in the 40-yard dash is best among the Cowboys' linemen.

SAN DIEGO — Dallas Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman tries to retrieve a loose ball after fumbling the snap during the second quarter of the Cowboys' exhibition opener against San Diego Sunday. The Cowboys defeated the Chargers, 20-3.

"You know a big tall guy who can run has the ability," Wannstedt said. "But you don't know if he can compete. That's the encouraging thing that he's done. He's shown us that he can."

As a high school senior, Tolbert was a lightly regarded player out of Englewood, N.J. Only UTEP offered him a full scholarship, so Tolbert soon found himself in El Paso.

"You know a big tall guy who can run has the ability. But you don't know if he can compete. That's the encouraging thing that he's done. He's shown us that he can." — Dallas defensive coach Dave Wannstedt.

"I looked at it as an opportunity to get away from the East Coast," he said. "But that first year was tough. It was hard to adjust to living there, and we only won one game. You'd got to practice, put in your two hours, then go your separate ways. I was thinking, 'What kind of decision did I make?'"

Then, the coach who had recruited him left after his freshman year. Bob Stull, now at Missouri, replaced Bill Yung.

"It wasn't a matter of Coach Stull turning the program around. We already had the talent there."

"When we started winning, you noticed a change around the town. Everyone started to get involved in the program. Football became a lot more fun."

The Miners finished 7-4 in 1987 for their first winning season since 1970; their 10-2 record last season included a loss in the Independence Bowl, their first bowl appearance since 1967.

Rozier's holdout giving White more playing time

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Houston Oilers running back Lorenzo White has learned about NFL linebackers but he hasn't learned to like sitting on the bench.

White, a workhorse runner at Michigan State two years ago, suddenly found himself a spectator last season after becoming the Oilers' No. 1 draft pick.

He's currently getting more repetitions because starter Mike Rozier is a contract holdout.

But if Rozier gets the 5-year contract he's seeking, White's impatience could return.

"Some people tell me to sit back and wait and take my money but that's not the most important thing for me," White said. "I'm not that type of player. It hurts to be watching from the sidelines."

White provided most of Michigan State's offense his senior year. Now he's trying to adjust to the thought of Rozier's return.

"I won't know about that situation unless it occurs," White said. "If I play well, I want to play."

White is making the most of his playing time. He gained 31 yards on four carries in Saturday's 41-23 exhibition loss to Tampa Bay.

An 8-yard touchdown run was nullified by a penalty.

"I can't worry about what's going on with Mike's contract," White said. "All I know is that Lorenzo White is ready to play."

"I really do believe if I got 20 to 25 carries a game, I could be as good as any of them."

White, the Oilers' first round selection last season, was unhappy with his lack of playing time. He had 31 carries for 115 yards.

White had no rushing touchdowns but returned a kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown.

"I've come a long way since last year," he said. "As a rookie, I didn't want to mess up. Now, I know my plays and assignments and I'm much more confident."

White got some seasoning in the playoffs last year when he came off the bench and rushed 30 yards on 12 carries in Houston's 24-23 victory over Cleveland in the AFC wildcard playoff game.

"I developed confidence in the playoff game," White said. "I showed I have the talent to play in this league."

"I never had any doubts I could play. I just had to wait for my turn. I was kind of mad because I had to sit and wait."

What did White learn last season?

"You can't always fight with linebackers, sometimes you have to outsmart them," White said.

"When I came here last year, I was getting slung down and thrown around by everybody. The linebackers are stronger and 20 to 40 pounds heavier."

"They don't always try to put a move on you. Sometimes, they just run right over you."

White says the year of experience has helped.

"The coaches have helped me by showing me a lot of different techniques," White said. "Sometimes I try to use my hands to push a linebacker and other times I try to cut him."

Eagles impressed with rookie from A&I

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heath Sherman was pretty much an unknown quantity when the Philadelphia Eagles first started looking at him.

The more Coach Buddy Ryan knows and sees the sixth-round draft pick out of Texas A&I, the more he likes him.

Sherman, a 5-foot-11, 210-pounder projected as a fullback, leads the Eagles' preseason rushing stats with 82 yards on 23 carries, a 3.7-yard average. He also has three catches for 42 yards and will be returning some kickoffs. Running backs coach Dave Atkins was tipped off to Sherman by a friend in Chicago and an uncle in Texas.

"We really didn't have any film, then we got some film, liked him, and right before the draft, I sent Dave down to work him out," Ryan said. "He's an excellent player."

Atkins said that when he went to Texas, he was concerned about the effects of knee surgery that caused Sherman to wear a knee brace while gaining more than 1,500 yards in the 1988 season.

"I thought he was dragging his leg a little ... (but) when I went down and worked him out, he didn't wear a brace, and he looked great cutting out of the backfield and catching passes. He was very impressive," Atkins said.

Although preseason statistics may not show how a player will do in regular-season NFL play, Sherman is trying to make the most of his exhibition season work.

"It's all helpful, but I'm trying to get the offense down and understand the blocking. It's coming around," Sherman said. "I just try not to feel too good or too bad about things. I just go through practice and try to get better and better."

Sherman, Mark Higgs and third-round pick Robert Drummond are adding depth to a thin offensive backfield. Sherman and Drummond were two of only four draft choices Ryan had last spring.

"Heath is sincere about every play out there," Atkins said. "He wants to do his job and be the best at it every time he's out on the field."

if Dixon wins the free safety job, Carson said: "Felix Wright could play strong safety. But nobody has any lock on any safety position right now. It's a great competition, a great situation."

Phoenix Cardinals The Cardinals signed veteran tight end Jay Novacek and rookie offensive lineman Joe Wolf to multiyear contracts.

Novacek, a fifth-year pro who caught 38 passes for 569 yards and four touchdowns last season, earned $165,000 in 1988 and was seeking a one-year, $265,000 deal.

Wolf, the No. 17 overall pick in the first round of April's NFL draft, agreed Monday night to a four-year deal worth $2.01 million including a $780,000 signing bonus.

1989 Property Tax Rates for Glasscock County Underground Water District

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for Glasscock County U.W.D. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Larry Gatlin says he and his country-music-singing brothers have erased a $1.6 million debt caused by cocaine and bad investments.

"Zero's a beautiful number, you know, when you were a minus $1.6 million," he said Saturday.

Gatlin said he and brothers Steve and Rudy wiped out the debt during the past five years.

Contributing to his trouble was the oil crisis and his own drug problems, he said.

"When oil went down to $12.80 a barrel, it ripped some knickers, including ours. I spent money on cocaine. I spent money on gambling. I spent money on bad investments."

Since seeking professional help in 1985 for his cocaine use, Gatlin has

"Houston. TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Retired NFL rushing leader Walter Payton says stock car racing is just like football — high goals are what counts.

"I got into this because I wanted to," the former Chicago Bears player said. "No other reason than that. I want to do it, and I want to do it the best I can. It's just like in football, you've got to set high goals for yourself."

"It's a lot of fun, let's put it that way," said the 35-year-old Payton, here for a race Sunday that will be his fourth professional run. "It wouldn't be fair to judge me in this with what I did in football. That wouldn't be fair at all. I'm still finding my way, learning things."

THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1989

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: frontiersman Davy Crockett, actress Maureen O'Hara, slugger Boog Powell, legendary actress Mae West, pitcher Bill Landrum, actor Robert DeNiro and Sean Penn, basketball all-star John Kerr, tennis star Guillermo Vilas, pop singer Belinda Carlisle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A good day for making new alliances. Be more sensitive to loved ones' feelings. Collect whatever is coming to you. Check your wardrobe before going shopping. Decide your most flattering colors.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Financial security is assured when your ties with partners and creditors are built on trust. Guard your integrity. Do not overlook newspaper ads if seeking employment leads. A second career is possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Hold on to a job that provides you with steady work and a sure income. Taking unnecessary risks now could mean regrets later on. Romance is racy. Tender gestures mean a lot!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Review your assets and consult financial experts before making new investments. The ability to speak a foreign language helps you solve a career or personal dilemma. You make influential new friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Refrain from trying to accelerate the pace. Winning the cooperation of key people at work will help you get a raise or promotion. Continue to turn down speculative ventures. Build savings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Close the door to anyone who tries to waste your time or influence you against your better judgment. Accept the reality of a close relationship; it may never be what you expected.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You need not act on a suggestion, but it could be worthwhile to remember it for future use. Today's dreams may become tomorrow's realities. Dream away! Romance enjoys highly favorable influences.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Catch up on paperwork before starting new projects. Teamwork will boost profits. Making minor changes at home will help restore domestic harmony. Be willing to compromise and loved one will meet you halfway.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take more initiative when it comes to investigating projects. Higher-ups will see you in a new light. A promotion may follow! Let mate know how much you care. Actions speak louder than words.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take advantage of any lulls at work to catch up on paperwork. Postpone taking on any additional financial responsibilities. Romance has its ups and down. Avoid saying things you will regret later on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A financial deal could be too risky. Put your foot down. Money is more likely to come through regular channels. Donate "white elephants" to a favorite charity and keep receipts for tax deductions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friends could help you restore domestic harmony. You are able to establish a new understanding with those close to you. Give a relationship more time to develop. Avoid making demands.

CINCINNATI — Umpire Joe West, right, pushes Cincinnati Reds player Ron Oester after the game with the Chicago Cubs Tuesday night in Riverfront Stadium. Oester was arguing a called third strike. Chicago won, 5-2, in 12 innings.

Mavs sweeten pot in contract talks

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks have come up with something they hope keeps their top draft pick from boarding a plane to check out what Europe has to offer.

A 2½-hour session Tuesday between Norm Sonju, Mavericks general manager, and Randy White's agent resulted in a 5-year guaranteed contract offer, The Dallas Morning News reported in today's editions.

Details of the offer were unknown, but it was believed to be in the $4 million range.

The offer removes all incentives that had become the major hag-ging point between the Mavericks and Bill Blakeley, White's Dallas-based agent, The Morning News reported.

Sonju also urged White not to travel to Greece with a delegation from the Paok team. "I see zero value in him stepping on that plane," he said.

When officials from the team in Salonika, Greece, flew into Dallas to meet with White over the weekend, he obtained a passport to get ready for a trip, beginning today.

White said he would not go to Greece if it appeared progress was being made in the negotiations.

Blakeley said he would meet with Sonju today and, depending on the outcome of those talks, may recommend White stay put.

"We don't know if he'll be on the plane until after I talk to the Mavs," Blakeley told The Associated Press late Tuesday.

White, a 6-7 power forward from Louisiana Tech, was the eighth player taken in the NBA June draft.

The two sides appeared closer to a contract Tuesday.

"The way Bill and I left it is that we would sleep on this proposal and that either one of us has the right to withdraw it ...," Sonju said. "If either one of us decides we don't want those numbers, fine, let's wait till September.

White, a Dallas native, has said all along that he does not wish to play in Europe, as some other NBA picks have done. He characterized the Paok offer as just "another option" if he were not offered an acceptable deal from the Mavericks.

Two players — Los Angeles Clippers' No. 1 pick Danny Ferry and Boston Celtics guard Brian Shaw — already have turned down the NBA this season to sign with European teams.

Watson, Wadkins round out Ryder Cup team

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP) — Tom Watson, yet to hit his first tee shot in the International tournament, is already receiving congratulations from his fellow golf pros.

"A lot of congratulations, a lot of handshakes, a lot of smiles and happy faces," Watson said.

The handshakes and happy faces resulted from Watson's selection, along with Lanny Wadkins, as Ray Floyd's "wild card" selections for the American Ryder Cup team that will face Europe's best golfers in the biennial matches at Sutton-Coldfield, England, Sept. 22-24.

"Tom and Lanny add the talent, experience and aggressive, competitive playing that will help bring the Cup back to America," Floyd, non-playing captain of the American team, said Tuesday in announcing his choices.

"We already had as strong a Ryder Cup team as I've seen. This simply strengthens it," Floyd said.

The other 10 players, all of whom qualified by virtue of their ranking over the past two years on a points list, are British Open champion Mark Caldecavchia, PGA titleholder Payne Stewart, U.S. Open champ Curtis Strange, Tom Kite, Chip Beck, Paul Azinger, Fred Couples, Ken Green, Mark O'Meara and Mark McCumber.

The European team, to be captained by Britain's Tony Jacklin, has not yet been named.

Floyd, Watson, Kite, Green, Couples and McCumber are competing in the International, which begins Thursday on the Castle Pines Golf Club course.

The tournament, which offers $1 million in prize money, will be played under a slightly different format this year.

"I like it better," Watson said. "I think the fans will like it better, too."

The field has been reduced from 162 to 150 and the tournament schedule from five days to four.

The modified Stableford scoring system still is in effect. The player's medal score does not count. Two points are awarded for a birdie and five for an eagle. A bogey costs one point and a double bogey or higher costs a player three points. Pars are zero.

The full field plays two rounds before the cut is made to the 72 players with the highest point totals.

Permian second in AP pre-season poll

By The Associated Press

The 1989 Associated Press pre-season schoolboy football poll predicts three of last year's state playoff finalists will be there again this year.

Those three schools, Converse Judson in Class 5A, Paris in 4A and Navasota in 3A, are joined by Groveton in 2A and Munday in A to make up this year's picks by the AP's panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Judson, which lost to eventual state champion Dallas Carter in the 1988 title game, received 11 of the 22 first-place votes cast.

Odessa Permian and Lufkin, also victims of Dallas Carter's title march, ranked second and third on the 5A list.

Judson returns five starters from its defense that registered four playoff shutouts last season.

"We've got a good group coming back and Brent McCullum is our leader," Judson assistant coach Danny Padron said.

Also returning on defense are cornerbacks Darnell Stephens and Mike Hendricks, safety Harold Massey and end Robert Reed.

Padron, the Rockets' quarterbacks coach, looks forward to tutoring Mike Jinks, who will direct Judson's multiple offense.

"He does all the intangibles," Padron said. "He comes up with the big plays and his throwing his improved."

The running backs are Vincent Kyle and Kyle Arnell and they'll get plenty of work. About 80 percent of Judson's offense is rushing.

Permian offers the best challenge to Judson. The Panthers return Chris Comer, who rushed 2,135 yards last year, and Lloyd Hill, who caught 69 passes for 1,317 yards.

Carter, hit heavy by graduation losses, starts the season in the No. 8 spot with only four returning starters.

Paris lost its first three games last season and then won 13 in a row to end West Orange-Stark's two-year domination of Class 4A.

Paris beat West Orange 31-13 in the title game and they've got big defensive help returning in linebackers Rodney Kendricks and Roddy Wortham.

Wortham is the state's top returning Class 4A tackler and sacker with 247 tackles and 35 stacks.

Katy Mayde Creek and Corpus Christi Calallen, regional finalists with 10-1-1 records last season, ranked second and third in 4A.

Navasota gets the nod in Class 3A with five first-place votes and will have to hold off No. 2 Sweeny and No. 3 Springlake Carroll, the defending champion.

He declined to say where or when a funeral would be held.

"The family wanted a small private ceremony," Dodson told the newspaper. "I can't say anything more than that."

Richmond burst on the racing scene in 1980, when a ninth-place finish earned him the Indy 500 rookie of the year award. He was 14th in the race in 1981, but after that abandoned Indy-car racing for stock cars.

He won 13 races in his NASCAR career, including seven in 1986, his best season.

Geoff Bodine was a teammate of Richmond's in 1986.

"We all kind of were waiting for this announcement to be made, but it's still a shock, really sad," Bodine said. "We knew he was real sick. We still don't know what he died of, or if we'll ever know. I can't say what it was, but we're all fairly confident he did have some kind of problem."

"A lot of people reached out to Tim, because he was a friend and was well-liked by many. We reached out to him, but apparently it was too late. That's the power of certain things; they can take charge of your life and there's no turning back."

"Tim obviously had talent and charisma, and it appeared to everyone that he had it made. Well, appearances fool people sometimes, and it's obvious he didn't have it made. He had some sort of situation that led him astray. What I'd like to see is the true story to come out, how his problem developed and who the people were who got Tim in this situation."

Richmond's career suffered a blow in 1987 when he contracted pneumonia, and ended when NASCAR suspended him before the 1988 season-opening Daytona 500 for failing a drug test. The test showed excessive amounts of two non-prescription drugs found in over-the-counter remedies for allergies and respiratory conditions.

Richmond passed a subsequent test and was reinstated, but he failed to get a ride in stock-car racing's biggest event.

Richmond vehemently denied rumors of drug use.

"You've made mistakes in your life," Richmond said. "I've made mistakes in my life. There's been a mistake made on this drug test some way or another. I am not guilty of it."

Richmond, who won $2,228,558 in Winston Cup racing, missed the first 11 races of the 1987 season because of illness. He won his first race back, setting off an emotional scene in the winner's circle at Pocono International Raceway. He won the next week at Riverside, Calif., his last victory.

After six more starts, he abruptly quit the team, citing his health. His last race was the Champion Spark Plug 400 at Michigan International Raceway in August 1987.

"I could find a ride. I think, without a doubt," Richmond said after being reinstated by NASCAR. "But to be honest, I don't feel comfortable or safe on a NASCAR-sanctioned track at this time. If I were to spin or crash, it would just give them more ammunition."

A few days later, shortly before the halfway point of the Daytona 500, a plane passed over the track pulling a banner that said, "Fans I miss you, Tim Richmond."

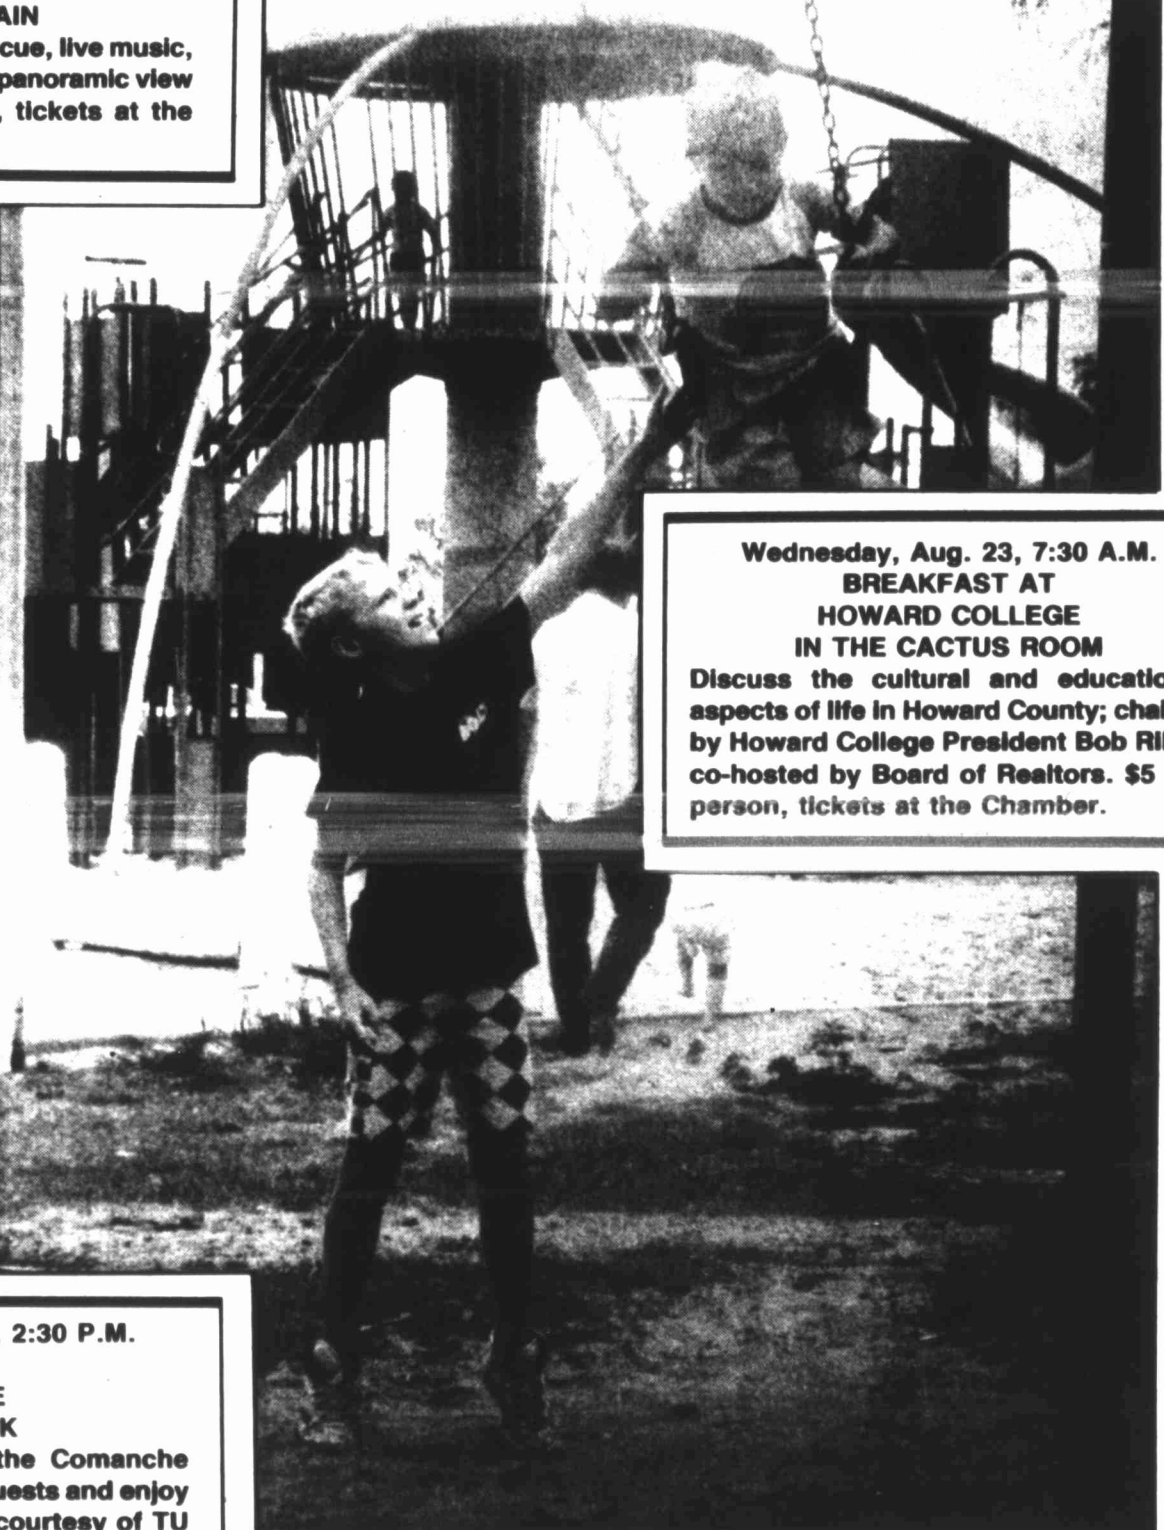

"In the early years, I knew Tim pretty well, and I enjoyed racing with him," three-time driving champion Dale Earnhardt said. "He was a great racer. It's a shame his career went the way it did."

"He was a very confused young man," said Wheeler, who was one of Richmond's friends on the NASCAR circuit.

MEXICAN DINNER BUFFET
 The presentation of the Greenbelt property will be reviewed with the selection board concerning the retirement village; $10 per person, tickets available from the Chamber.

What would it mean to Big Spring to have a retirement village such as St. Francis locate here? What would it mean to have 250 small families — perhaps 500 people — with expendable income join our community? It would have a very positive impact on the economy and the entire business community.

There's more to it than just dollars and cents, however. Such new residents would bring a wealth of experiences and backgrounds to our community — promising to improve our already enjoyable quality of life.

If you're interested in meeting with the St. Francis Retirement Village Board, consider this your personal invitation. These events have been planned for you to participate and share your impressions about the community we are pleased to call "home"!

The entire Big Spring medical community will be playing a major role in welcoming the St. Francis group and showing what facilities are available; participating will be Scenic Mountain Medical Center and Malone-Hogan Clinic, along with the VA Medical Center, Big Spring State Hospital and Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

See you there!

Lawn weeds a perennial problem

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent-Agriculture

We finally got a rain! It may have been somewhat too little, too late for our county's cotton crop, but a rain is generally appreciated anytime we are fortunate enough to receive one in West Texas.

The thing is that, as widespread as this rainfall was, it was still pretty spotty. Some areas in the county received more than 2 inches, while others virtually a trace. About 1½ inches was pretty commonplace over the county, however, where the rain fell.

Rain or no rain, however, weeds in our home yards are a source of head-aches to homeowners. One of the real problem weeds we have experienced this year has been a weed called Matt-chaff-flower.

It is a troublesome weed in lawns and most turf anywhere. It is a deep-rooted perennial and is quite drought tolerant and also very kill tolerant.

It will grow in sunny locations where other grasses have been killed out due to heavy traffic and use. However, it will also invade well-kept turf areas, both in the sun (its favorite location) or in the shade as well.

The plant develops a very waxy, shiny leaf surface that is somewhat resistant to sprays and moisture loss. It grows very flat along the surface of the soil and, in fact, will root down along the mainstem like bermuda grass.

Since it forms such a dense plant it appears like a mat covering the soil surface. The seeds are small and produced along the stem in the leaf axle.

They are tan colored and look like chaff, hence the name Matt-Chaff-flower.

Control of the weed is two-fold: pre-emergence and post-emergence sprays. Surflan, an acetyl-methalin applied in the early spring for pre-emergence control and dicamba (Barevel) or dicamba + 2,4-Dor Micoprop (MCP) after emergence as a foliar spray.

Caution is advised when using phenoxy materials to prevent drift and injury to susceptible plants (always read and follow label directions prior to using any product). Since the plant has a deep tap root, repeated applications will be necessary and one treatment will not give 100 percent weed control.

I have had good luck, personally, with Roundup(R), applied at this time of year, with only one spray in most cases, but have had to repeat the application on a few persistent individual plants.

Again, use caution when applying this product, as it does not know the difference between a rose leaf and a mat-chaff-flower leaf.

Bermuda grass, though widely used as a turf-grass in West Texas, can be a weed, itself, in some instances. Late season control with Roundup(R), Post (R), or Fusilade (3) will do a good job on this when it is a nuisance, but late season applications is the key to success for effective control.

More information on weed control is available at the Howard County Extension Office. Please either come by in person to our office, located on the first floor of the County Courthouse in Big Spring, or call 267-6671.

LUBBOCK — Dr. Mary John (Cherry) O'Hair, faculty member at New Mexico State University, has recently accepted a position on the faculty in the College of Education at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

O'Hair, a 1976 Big Spring High School graduate, will assume research and teaching duties at Texas Tech starting in August. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cherry, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Edna L. Self, all of Big Spring.

O'Hair was on the faculty at New Mexico State University for two years, and during that time, published over a dozen articles in various scholarly and trade journals. In addition, she is currently serving as President of the New Mexico Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development (ASCD). She received a Masters of Arts from the University of Oklahoma in 1980, a Masters of Education from Texas Christian University in 1984, and a Doctorate from New Mexico State University in 1987.

O'Hair's husband, Dan has been appointed Chairman of the Department of Speech Communication at Texas Tech University. He was on faculty at Texas Christian University and New Mexico State University before moving to Texas Tech.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD
BIG SPRING — Area 7-Eleven stores and KBYG radio teamed up this weekend to sponsor the first 7-Eleven Muscular Dystrophy Association Roof-a-thon.

But it was KBYG assistant news director Jim Richards who got "put on a pedestal" during the event. Richards sat on the roof of a local 7-Eleven store for 24-hours — 20 hours actually, the last four hours he retreated to the entrance of the store to avoid the rain.

"But I was up there all night — without any sleep," Richards said Saturday. "We raised approximately $500-$600 to fight muscular dystrophy. The clerks were really nice. They brought me food throughout the night and had breakfast waiting for me in the morning."

A total of 40 merchants donated prizes, services, products and equipment for the event.

Mandy Tutor of Big Spring throws a dart at balloons set up in the parking lot of an area 7-Eleven store during the Roof-a-thon for muscular dystrophy.

The Roof-a-thon began at 5 p.m. Friday and continued until 5 p.m. Saturday to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). Money raised from the event will be kept in the Permian Basin.

Event organizers said that the cost of a special wheelchair needed by some MDA patients is $5,000. The group also sponsors children to a summer camp in Amarillo. The cost per child for the association was $350.

Other money raised from the Roof-a-thon and similar events goes for research to cure the disease.

David Crawford, former area student-musician, is continuing his musical ways, according to his mother, Mary Crawford. He was spokesman and coordinator this year for Corpus Christi's annual music fete, which was recently designated as the "Official Jazz Festival of Texas" by a resolution of the Texas Legislature. This year's festival drew 20 bands and 35,000 spectators. David, who was a piano student of the late Ann Gibson Houser, is pianist-entertainer at the plush resort Hotel Wyndham in Corpus Christi. His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Clark, Midway Road. While attending Coahoma High School, David played in Border Brass, an independent student orchestra that ranked second in state competition in 1968. His own music group, Sunny Days, was later featured at the Hilton Hotel in Midland with Susan as vocalist. Susan now teaches in Corpus Christi schools.

Mary, by the way, has just returned from a family reunion at Sedona, Arizona, a resort in Oak Creek Canyon. The Indians through the rocks in the area had "mystical powers," Mary says. Other family members attending were her brothers Dick Reavis and wife Katy, Dumas, and Payton Reavis and wife Viola, Tucson; and sisters Margaret Unger, Dallas, and Mabel Lee Kennard and husband Drew, Dallas. They were joined by Mary's niece, Pam Reavis, Tucson; and nephew, Bobby Reavis, and wife Sue with children Jaime and Payton. The children, Mary says, have a famous step-grandmother - Fay Wray, the blond actress who starred with a giant ape in the 1930's classic, "King Kong." Mary's daughter, Ann Soulios, and son Brian, Baytown, are here visiting for a few days.

Keith and Sharna Gibbons took in the Santa Fe Chamber Music Festival on their vacation. They heard violinist James Buswell, professor at the New England Conservatory of Music. "And we went shopping," says Keith, "and ate at a great Mexican food restaurant - La Tertulia." While their parents were in Santa Fe, Brenna and Aaron Gibbons visited their grandparents, R. H. and Shirley Hale in Tucumari.

Carol Baldwin, Denton, was in town recently visiting her parents, Tommy and Elnora Hart. "She stayed long enough to have a garage sale of all the stuff she had stored here," her father said. Carol now handles public relations, advertising and computer work for Professional Development Institute, affiliated with University of North Texas. The Institute sponsors seminars for tax accountants from all over the world.

The Harts' other daughter, Phyllis Hart, Ft. Worth, hopes to visit here around Labor Day, Tommy says. "if she can find a marathon in the area." Phyllis has been participating in bicycle marathons and biathalons at least once a month for several years.

Thelma Underwood is home from a Midland hospital - "she was there one month to the day," says husband, Mack. Thelma will still have to go back and forth each day for awhile. Mack's daughter, Linda Houle, Wichita, Ks., has been visiting here for the past two weeks, and left Wednesday to return home.

Tim Appel, just back from his 10th High School Reunion in Corvallis, Ore., reports that some of his former classmates still look the same - but at least one "has lost all his hair!"

Tim and Cindy, with Amanda, stayed with his parents, Tom and Ann Appel, in Corvallis; and visited his grandmother, Mary Appel. His other grandmother, Sarah Zeek, Placerville, Cal., joined the family for a few days.

The Appels enjoyed sightseeing in the mountains and along the seashore in Oregon.

Damian Christensen, 10, Salt Lake City, leaves Tuesday after spending the summer here with his grandparents, Wally and Suncha Christensen.

Damian is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Philip W. Christensen; he was formerly a psychologist at Big Spring State Hospital.

All of Nan Howard's children were home on a recent weekend for the first time in eight years. Coming from Seattle was Fred Beardslee; Pax Plock came from Dallas and Camille Bunch from Austin. Daughters Roelynn Nichols and Cheri Shoup live in Big Spring.

"It was Fred's and Cheri's birthday," said Nan, "so we had a party with a big birthday cake on Saturday. And we all went to the First Baptist Church together Sunday." Fred and Nan drove Camille back home to Austin that afternoon, and Cheri took Pax to the airport to catch a plane back to Dallas.

Later in the week, Nan's sister, Dale Kerley, with granddaughter, Stacy Kent, came in from Paris for a visit - and Nan and Fred took them to see Carlsbad Caverns - "I hadn't been there in years; we had so much fun," says Nan.

Longtime business and civic leader Ted Groebi will celebrate his 83rd birthday with a party at his home, 615 Dallas Street, from 1 to 5 p. m. Saturday.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

It's back-to-Hester's — then it's back-to-school

Hester's Supply is your one-stop center for back-to-school supplies. Pictured at the Back-to-School Center set up to make selection easier.

Janet Hull tests the capacity of Noel Hull's school back-pack. Supplies are carried for students and teachers — kindergarten to college.

Where can you find poster paper in 24 colors — including fluorescents? And hard-to-find biology paper? And all those other essentials for the new school year?

At Hester's Supply, 209 Runnels, it's a tradition to offer the most complete selection of back-to-school supplies. Hester's is a one-stop store for students — and their teachers — from kindergarten to college, says Noel Hull.

"We're the exclusive source in Big Spring for biology paper," Noel says. And the store carries the three-inch ring binders which are a requirement for biology class.

Still the most asked-for notebook binder is the one with transparent zippered cover to show off photos and mementos, says Noel.

For the lower grades, Hester's stocks the popular Big Chief tablet, beginners pencils (approved by schools), 5-inch scissors (can be used by right or left handers), construction papers in all colors — and backpacks to carry it all in.

And pencil and pens, what a selection! Drawing and drafting pencils, erasable ink pens (notes can be erased up to 72 hours!), red checking pens and pencils, map colors, Magic Marker felt tip pens, and mechanical pencils (from 3MM to 9MM.) Plus typing erasers and pencil grips (fit on end of pencil to provide a comfortable grip.)

Teachers always need poster putty, a product that can be used to tape posters and other lightweight items to the wall. A new item this year is E-Z Ups — clips with a wax back that clings to any surface, to hang posters and notes; they're reusable and don't damage wall surfaces. Hester's also stocks Bordette & Corobuff line of bulletin board aids in school colors as well as novelty hues.

And, of course, the school supplies center has plenty of typing and notebook paper, report covers with Tang fasteners, zippered clear pouches to fit into loose leaf notebooks, wireless "spiral" notebooks with perforated pages, and Elmer's Glue in all sizes for art classes.

It's back-to-school time — but first it's back to Hester's. Shoppers will find everything handily located in a Back-to-School Center, set up to make selection easier.

MALONE and HOGAN CLINIC IS PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE

The opening of its all new MAMMOGRAPHY DEPARTMENT.

A new, high detail screen-film mammographic unit is now available. We believe that this state of the art unit offers the best technology available for early breast cancer detection. No longer is it necessary to go out of town or to use a mobile unit where the films are not immediately available, and reports are given in a less than desirable manner.

Now, your local doctor will have access to both the films and the report. The cost of this screening examination is only $50.00.

Any Malone and Hogan physician's office can help you arrange for your screening mammogram. You may want to bring a friend or give a mammogram as a gift to someone you love.

Events to honor industry prospect

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — Residents of the community are being invited to welcome board members of a Chicago-based religious agency, considering the Green Belt addition for a retirement community.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is planning four open events during the eight-member visiting team's two days here, according to Executive Vice-President Whayne Moore.

The San Francis group is to arrive Monday evening, Aug. 22 and will be hosted at a community barbecue atop Scenic Mountain. There is a $5 charge for the meal, which will be accompanied by music from the two-man team of Dos Gringos. It begins at 7 p.m., Moore said.

"I'd love to see a hundred or more people on the mountain that night," he said. Those who obtain one or more tickets at the Chamber will receive an automobile pass for the mountain.

A 7:30 a.m. breakfast open to the public at Day's Inn restaurant, 300 Tulane Ave., will begin activities for Tuesday, Aug. 23. The cost is $5, Moore said, with tickets available at the Chamber office. It is open to anyone interested in meeting members of the group.

The remainder of the morning and part of the afternoon will be spent touring the Greenbelt site, visiting the community's medical facilities and hearing presentations. That will be followed by a mid-afternoon "Lemonade and Tea in the Park" at Comanche Trail, sponsored by TU Electric. It begins at 3 p.m.

Afterward, the group will tour the Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center before traveling to Moss Lake. Coahoma representatives will be welcoming the group there.

A Mexican-food buffet at the Big Spring Country Club will be hosted that evening, also open to the public. The cost is $10 per person, Moore said, and all meal events require reservations no later than Friday.

The team's visit will conclude Wednesday morning, when its members will be escorted to Midland for their departure flight.

San Francis is a Chicago-based religious retirement agency. It provides condominium style accommodations in the South and Southwest for people interested in a pleasant environment, Moore has said. Potential residents of the 284-family facility are "... self-sustaining individuals — not people in need of special care."
