'I want justice'

Grieving mom seeks end to murder turmoil

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — More than a year after Patsy Payne's daughter Tammy died of suspicious circumstances in Lake Colorado City, the distraught mother says she can't understand why authorities haven't prosecuted her killer.

"You can see right there it says murder," said Payne, pointing to a copy of her daughter's autopsy report. "I don't know why they haven't done anything about it. Why haven't they brought him to justice, or whoever did it. I'm not accusing him."

"He" is Travis Dale Gray — former husband to murder victim Tammy Gray and son-in-law of Payne. Gray was indicted in March by a Mitchell County grand jury for the June 23, 1988 murder of Tammy Gray. He could face trial for the offense in October.

Tammy Gray died in what was at first

"When it first happened I felt real, real hard about it . . . I'll be glad when it comes to trial and it's over . . . She's where nobody can hurt her anymore. It's in the Lord's hands." — Patsy Payne, murder victim's mother.

reported simply as a drowning. She was reportedly pulled from the lake by husband Travis Dale and taken to Mitchell County Hospital where doctors attempted unsuccessfully to revive her. Travis Dale Gray was hospitalized briefly for shock.

A pathologist's report later ruled Tammy Gray's death a homicide, and said Gray was the victim of the combined effects of drowning and strangulation.

"I don't accuse him of murdering her," Payne reiterated, "I just think they should find out who did do it."

The time that has passed since her daughter's slaying has not made Payne forgetful.

"It's been a year, two months and nine days," she said Friday. Payne said she still thinks of her daughter often.

"She was a sweet person; a hard worker; she took real good care of her children," Payne said.

"Typically anything in the legal system takes a long time," explained Frank Con-

Others are beginning their classes each day with prayer — and they are doing it legally.

Most of those students are not in high school, but they do attend classes at one of three Christian schools in Big Spring.

Two of those schools are run by conservative religious groups. The other, Big Spring's oldest Christian school, is run by the Episcopal church.

Cooking still gets their goat

BRADY — Somewhere out of the way of the egg tossers, around the corner from the washer pitchers and definitely out of range of the tobacco spitters, two pairs of Big Spring cooks were giving their all to a goat.

Slaving over fiery hot coals of smokey mesquite, the four were carefully applying seasonings and secret sauce to slabs of cabrito. Should we add a pinch more of this? How 'bout a dab of that?

Chefs in the finest French restaurants couldn't have taken more care with their specialties than Larry Sparks, Jody Barnes, James Baird and Johnnie Hooper did with their slabs of goat meat during the 16th annual World's Championship Goat Cookoff last weekend in Brady.

Their skill, expertise and talented taste buds paid off. Not only did both teams make the finals of the cookoff, but Sparks and Barnes won second and Baird and Hooper placed third: an unmatched feat by teams from the same city.

Both teams had an excellent shot at the old's championship; judges were so enthused about the top three samples that a coin flip finally decided the winner. On a whim of fate, Shannon Ashby of Menard was crowned champion, while the Big Spring teams had to settle for second and third place trophies and the knowledge that it could just have well been them.

Council eyes options to ease budget crisis

By RUTH COCHRAN
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — With finances an admitted problem for the city, the council here has been toying with several revenue-raising ideas.

Although their options are limited, council members are exploring several areas, including property tax increases, sales tax increases and bond issues.

At the heart of the problem is a proposed $16.8 million budget for 1989-90 that features a $361,000 deficit; because the council hasn't completed budget talks, that deficit could grow.

Compounding limited finances are the frequent and costly problems of street repair and building and sewage and water system maintenance and improvements.

Adding to the burden are lists of equipment needed by both the fire and police departments.

The council already has approved a 3-cent tax increase, but that increase is insufficient to cover the expenditures for what was then a $16.5 million budget.

City Secretary Tom Ferguson said it is unlikely that the council will be able to raise extra revenues by raising ad valorem taxes even Christian Education system to teach students — many of whom are homeschoolers.

"This is the Christians answer to the Texas Education Accreditation," she says about the program which is also used by a Christian School sponsored by New Life Church in Big Spring.

Accelerated Christian Education (ACE) is an international publishing firm based in Lewisville, that produces the individualized, self-paced curriculum. The pre-packaged lesson plans, plus added doses of dedication from parents and teachers, may account for the existence of the two schools using the system.

One of them is the newly opened Maranatha Christian School; The other is the New Life Christian Academy, which is beginning it's 13th year.

Hillcrest Christian School, which closed this year because of financial reasons, also used the curriculum in grades 4-12. A traditional classroom approach was used for kindergarten-third grades.

The ACE method is not used at St. Mary's Episcopal School, the oldest Christian school in Big Spring, which is entering it's 30th year.

The Maranatha school depends on parent input, Bohannon said. "Of course financially they pay for the school. Because the parents are directly responsible for their own children, I'm accountable to them."

Tuition for the school, which began Sept. 5, is $120 a month for the first child, $105 for the second and $90 for the third. Registration is $75.

Bob Foster, ACE supervisor for Texas, said ACE was founded in 1970 in Plano by Donald Howard. Today it supports 7,000 schools in 100 countries. There are more than 5,000 in the continental United States.

Foster claims the impetus behind ACE was the break-down of cultural patterns and groups after the World Wars. "When a kid gets to be 6-years-old now, he may be very, very different from the 6-year-old two blocks down the street because of all kinds of cultural factors," he said.

The cohesive theme in the self-paced ACE curriculum is the Bible. "All our material is designed from a biblical viewpoint," Foster said. "A curriculum that is secular simply cannot relate all of history to the spiritual movements behind it."

The subject of evolution is dealt with in the high school course, "Life Sciences." Foster said that during the year-long course, evolution is gone over point by point and compared with scientific creationism.

"We teach evolution as a theory and then confront it with the creation presentation of the Bible," he said.

The ACE curriculum "starts teaching creation in the first grade," he said.

A school curriculum can be purchased by a church or parent group for $950. But they are required to sign an agreement agreeing to follow the ACE system, Foster said.

"Basically we work with churches — any church that believes in the Bible," Foster said. "They must say that the Bible is the word of God in order to purchase materials from us.

"They also agree to use the curriculum according to our techniques. Any group classroom operates with a daily lesson plan. An individual system must operate under definite procedures.

A purchase also includes one week of training in ACE procedures, two state conventions a year and periodic visits by supervisors.

It costs about $90 per child each year for materials, Foster estimated. Materials for a typical one-year class consist of 10 tapes and 10 workbooks.

A school management service is also offered, something Bohannon has decided to use. "They can contract with us and we'll do that," Foster said. "But that is a very small part of our business."

Tracy Williamson, mother of two girls, is educating her 5-year-old with the kindergarten curriculum through Maranatha Christian School.

She likes the idea that children can work at their own pace and get personal attention. "Everyone is on a different level," she said.

"If they're having problems with something they're not going to get passed by. The teacher will help them until they understand it."

She also likes the stress on phonics in the reading program, which is taught through the first grade, and the overall academics. "I want her to get a strong background in phonics, reading and math," she said.

But there are also the Christian values. "God is not left out of this school. The day will be started with prayer. All kids need that."

Irma White, who is homeschooling six of her seven children with the ACE curriculum supplied by Maranatha, believes that the courts have removed biblical and moral values from the public school system.

"Scripture has to reign paramount," she said. "If you have a child that is very educated and they haven't got the godly characteristics instilled in them and you have one that isn't as well educated but that one (with the Christian values) will succeed in life."

"Statistics show that Christian and homeschool children excel academically," she said.

Her children have done well on the California Achievement Test, a nationwide barometer for school excellence.

"All of my children scored well above average and one of them scored better than 99 percent of the students in his grade level nationwide," she said.

Bohannon, who says she is willing to forego her salary to keep her school in operation, relies on the dedication and help of parents. The ready-made organization of ACE with its homeschool-style curriculum makes it easier for people to be involved.

Only one other person is on salary, she said. "We have several volunteers who work for free."

When the Hillcrest school closed this year, it had one administrator, four teachers and eight day-care people. That was after laying off two staff members during mid year.

"Still we were unable to salvage the school," said School administrator John Gustin of the layoffs. He blamed declining enrollments for the closure.

After dropping the high school grades for the 1987-88 school year, the school expected an enrollment of 50-60 students for the 1988-89 year. They only had 41.

"When you consider the cost of Christian education, you're talking about major costs," he said. "There's probably a pretty good demand for it if they can afford it."

Tuition for the school was $135 a month for grades 1-12; kindergarten was $115 a month. Books and materials were additional, Gustin said.

The only other Christian school in Big Spring using the ACE system is New Life Christian Academy, 1108 E. 6th. That school, with only four rooms, uses ACE exclusively, mostly for homeschooling.

"Until last year we had a facility problem. So the main emphasis was home teaching," said Pastor Greg Taylor.

"Hopefully by next year we'll have another building built on," he said. "Here again, we're prepared to rent a building if we get enough momentum. We have two in mind right now."

Last year's enrollment for the school, which accepts children in grades 2-12, was 14. Taylor is hoping the school will grow to 25-30 students.

He said the reason why kindergarten and first grade are excluded is because of the phonics requirements in the ACE curriculum for those grades.

"You have to teach them how to read," he said. "It's a specialized situation."

The oldest and most thriving Christian school in Big Spring, with an enrollment of more than 80 students from pre-kindergarten through the third grade, does not use the ACE curriculum at all.

School Administrator BeBe McCasland, who is starting her 25th year at St. Mary's Episcopal School, 118 Cedar, said using ACE is not a consideration.

"We do not intend to consider it," she said. "What we use is Open Court Publishing Company and it is a strong phonics program."

The cost is $102 a month plus a $120 registration fee for pre-kindergarten and kindergarten students. For grades 1-3, it is $134 a month and a $155 registration fee.

Keeping 16 people on staff, including 11 teachers, requires low salaries, help from donations and interest from an endowment fund which is added too on an ongoing basis, McCasland said.

The 12-room classroom building, perched on 10-acres complete with a playground, was bought for $226,000, renovated and given to St. Mary's Episcopal Church as an anonymous gift in 1981. It used to be Park Hill Elementary School.

"Even as established as we are, we're struggling," McCasland admits. "This place wouldn't be here without all the teachers and parents who want it to exist."

"We are blessed with angels. With someone just writing a check and sending it in. It's just overwhelming," she said.

more simply because time is running out.

"It would be very difficult to increase the rate... above 3 percent," Ferguson said, because that kind of increase requires a public hearing.

The council would have to advertise the hearing, hold it, then approve two readings of the tax increase.

"Technically I don't think there's any deadline when you've got to have it (approved)," Ferguson said, but the state tax code reads that one must be adopted by Sept. 22 "or as soon thereafter as practical."

The city tax collector needs to know the rate so that she can include city taxes on the tax statement, which includes taxes for the county and school districts, Ferguson said.

"Yes, it could be done but if by some chance we did not adopt a rate (by Sept. 22), she would have to do a special run of printing just for the Big Spring taxes only," Ferguson said. "It would delay our tax bills going out. Obviously we'd have to pay for the new statements she'd buy and the postage to mail it out."

The council also has discussed asking voters to increase the city sales tax 1/2 percent, the maximum allowed by law. A sales tax increase will not increase revenues, however, as the city is required to lower the property tax rate so that the city will earn the same amount of revenue.

If the sales tax increase is expected to earn $1 million, then property taxes must be lowered the same amount.

Ferguson said such a move is not so much a tax increase as it is a redistribution of taxes.

"That's the purpose behind it: to be able to relieve the burden on the property tax payers," he said.

Although the council could call for a vote on the increase as early as November, if approved it would not take effect until Oct. 1, 1990.

Several council members have advocated a bond issue. Ferguson said the city could deal in three types of bonds: general obligation bonds, revenue bonds and certificates of obligation.

The issue of general obligation bonds must be approved by voters. The other two types could be issued at the discretion of the council unless the council chooses to call for an election, he said.

Additionally, if the council decides to issue certificates of obligation without an election, a petition of 5 percent of the registered voters could force an election, Ferguson said.

Ferguson said general obligation bonds and revenue bonds are used exclusively to fund permanent projects, such as street construction or water system improvements.

While certificates of obligation may be used for permanent projects, they're generally issued to fund capital outlay projects such as the purchase of a fire truck or new police cars, he said.

General obligation bonds normally have the lowest interest rate of the three because their issuance has been approved by voters, or the taxpayer, Ferguson said. In the bond election, voters are approving a property tax increase to pay specifically for the bond issue, he said.

Certificates of obligation usually have a slightly higher interest rate, he said. These generally are paid off by raising rates, such as for sewage and water in the utility department, he said. However, if those monies won't cover the cost, then it's agreed that property tax monies will be used to pay them off, Ferguson said.

Revenue bonds almost always have the highest interest rates because no provision has been made to pay them off with property tax monies, Ferguson said. Instead, the bond is paid from monies earned for services the city provides such as sewage and water, he said.

The city should be able to issue bonds, Ferguson said, because even though it doesn't have an excellent credit rating, it is considered solid. With AAA designating the best, Big Spring rates a BAA-1, he said.

"Very basically that means we are probably safe but there might be a risk."

The city has had a solid credit rating in the past, with the last bond issue occurring in 1986. That was derived from a $10 million bond election held in 1980.

All of the issues were general obligation bonds, he said.

ard, Mitchell County district attorney. Coard said it takes time for cases to be heard because Mitchell County's district judge is responsible for civil and criminal cases in three counties including Mitchell County.

Conard also noted there was a delay in Gray's case the last time it was up for trial because his attorney asked for a continuance because of a scheduling conflict.

The investigation work in the case is basically complete and should be ready for trial in October, Conard said. There is a "good chance" the case will be presented then, he added.

But Payne said she believes the investigation has taken too long.

"I don't think it's right. It puts the family through a lot," she said. "My friends keep asking me if anything's happened and I have to keep telling them 'no'."

"I think it's taken too long, I really do. First they told me it would be in six months, then they said 'I don't believe it's ever going to come up,'" she said.

"I just don't know how many times he can put the trial off."

Payne said she also doesn't understand why a person charged with murder can be out on bond. "I just don't think they ought to be released," she said.

Conard said it depends on the circumstances but that in most cases a person can be released on bond even on murder charges. Bond is intended to be an assurance that a person will show up for trial, "not as any instrument of suppression,"

Payne said she also doesn't understand why she's not allowed to see her grandchildren. The last time she was able to visit with them was when their mother was still alive, she said.

he said.

Payne said she also doesn't understand why she's not allowed to see her grandchildren. The last time she was able to visit with them was when their mother was still alive, she said.

"All this time I have not been able to see my grandchildren," she said.

"I can't see why they won't let me see the grandchildren," Payne said she did see the children unofficially around town at certain times. Once when she was at Wal-Mart shopping they went to her, she said.

"They ran to me, put their arms around my neck and said, 'this is my grandma,'" she said with a sigh.

Payne said a guardian for the children then took them away to another part of the store.

Payne said she used to talk to the children on the phone but that now their number is unlisted and she is no longer able to reach them. She says she has discussed filing suit for grandparents rights with an attorney. Tammy, an employee of First National Bank at the time of her death, had filed for divorce but never completed the necessary legal requirements. Gray later said he wanted to reconcile and Tammy never completed the divorce papers, Payne said.

But Payne said, "The day she was killed she told me: 'I'm going to divorce him.'" Payne said her daughter told her she was concerned what Travis Dale would do if she divorced him and attempted to keep custody of the children.

"She was scared he was going to do something," Payne said.

Payne said the last time she saw Travis Gray was at the funeral. She said she would like to talk with him because she still has unanswered questions about her daughter's death.

"Dale has never called me. I don't know why. I would like to talk to him, I would like him to tell me what went on that night."

Payne said she does not have a punishment in mind for justice to be done. "When it first happened I felt real, real hard about it," she said.

"It really doesn't matter to me anymore," Payne said. "I'll be glad when it comes to trial and it's over."

"It's in the Lord's hands," said Payne's son Michael.

"That's right," said Payne, adding the experience has drawn her closer to God. "She's where nobody can hurt her anymore. It's in the Lord's hands."

Goat cookoffs involve a group of dedicated barbecuers, a pile of wood and some four-pound slabs of goat meat. From there on it's a mysterious process, with prized recipes and methods jealously guarded.

While some may stoop to spying on competitors, the Big Spring bunch feels that's beneath their dignity.

"We figure ours is best anyhow," says Hooper.

Sparks agrees, saying he wouldn't compete if he didn't assume he'd win. "That's what we're all out there for," he says.

"When it's decided on the flip of a coin, it says a whole lot for all of us," Hooper says.

"They told us this year, the top three they couldn't decide who was best," Baird adds. "We all cooked a good goat."

Hooper and Baird have had plenty of practice, as the two have been goat cookoff partners for six years.

"We've worked together 35 years and we've cooked together that long," Baird says.

The two have competed at cookoffs in Sonora, Eldorado, Junction and London, Texas, as well as in Brady's world championships last year.

Baird's brother, Jerry, was a big influence on the duo. Jerry Baird won the world title in 1976 and he won the Super Bowl — the cookoff open only to past world champions — in 1988.

The family influence carries over to Hooper's side too; his daughter, Robyn Drinkard, won a brisket cookoff at Lake Brownwood and Hooper caught the barbecue bug.

Sparks got started in goats more by accident. He had entered a brisket cookoff, and as with most contests he also was allowed to enter a goat and pork cookoff at the same time. Sparks says he figured Johnnie Hooper and James Baird decorate their campsites for goat cookoffs in which they participate during the year.

why not.

"I never ate goat a day in my life till the first time I cooked it," at a brisket contest, he says.

Baird says she got started in goat cookoffs two years ago when she decided to help out Sparks, who placed fourth in the world in 1986.

"Last year was the first time I'd taken a bite of it," she says. "It's good. Of course, I like Larry's best."

"I needed a helper," Sparks says of his partner then ruins it by adding, "Somebody to wash dishes and peel onions."

"I give myself credit for him getting second this time," Barnes shoots back.

Both teams prefer barbecuing brisket, but since there's no world championship cookoff, they've concentrated on goat meat.

"We feel like the goat business is a big one because it's the only one with a world championship," besides chili, Hooper explains.

"It's a real challenge," Baird adds. "In order to win this thing you've got to make 'em taste like something besides goat. When something grazes at 40 miles per hour just to stay alive..."

And some cooks will do anything to make their goat taste like something else. Baird said one team soaked its meat in jalapeno juice. Judges threw that sample out.

"We always use our seasoning but in the past, we've used lemon juice in our basting," Baird says of their process, explaining that acidic juices help tenderize the meat. "This year we used pineapple juice."

Cooking methods vary, with some putting their meat on the grill for a while then wrapping it in foil, and others leaving their slab on the grill.

"We try to get it real tender and drive the flavor into the bone," Baird says.

"It seems like everybody has their own secrets," Sparks adds.

And it's not just the lure of a world title that draws the four to cookoffs. They all agree that the people at cookoffs are what makes it fun.

"When you start going to them it's like a big family," Sparks says. "It's more of a social affair — you have a good time," Baird says.

Besides the actual cookoff, he says, the crowd enjoys arts and crafts booths, games and contests and live entertainment.

The Brady cookoff even features a contest Baird feels he could excel in.

"I could have won the liars contest but I didn't want to give Big Spring a bad name," he says.

This Texas barbecue is used for cooking cabrito in goat cookoffs by Larry Sparks and Jody Barnes of Big Spring.

"Well, just to be nice they call it Tall Tales," Hooper cuts in.

Then to prove he's good with tales, Baird tells Sparks and Barnes, "I don't know how ya'll won. I went over and poured kerosene on your wood."

"Well that was it," says the unflappable Sparks about his team's new "secret" ingredient.

It's serious business — but not too serious, Sparks says of the cookoffs, and it's all in good fun. Like at chili cookoffs, many of the competitors use some type of theme and decorate their cooking area. There aren't required, however, to put on a show like chili cooks are.

"We carry an Indian and cowboy dummy and build a corral around the pit," Hooper says. "But a chili cookoff is a little more loose. We don't get out there and do a song and dance."

"But a lot of you cooks will cook up different items and sample them out to the public," Sparks says.

Aspiring world champions can get started at the Howard County Fair goat/brisket/rib cookoff. With a year of practice, they might even be ready to challenge Sparks and Barnes and Hooper and Baird.

"Experiment," Sparks advises. "That's what I've done. I play with it until it is what I want. Trial and error."

Baird's advice is more simplistic:

"You need to start out boiling water and work your way up."

SPARKS BARNES

The Chamber gave the team Big Spring pins and other paraphernalia to give away at the cookoff.

"We had so many good comments about the things we do," Hooper says.

Plenty of those comments came from the judges in Brady. The two teams survived a 150-team field and a system that features 40 judges. And with the sweet taste of success still fresh, the four have made plans to compete again next year.

"They'd like nothing more, they say, than for Big Spring to field more than the four teams that entered this year."

Gas leak explosion injures 13

DALLAS (AP)— A natural gas explosion that injured 13 people, two critically, was caused by a maintenance man who flicked a cigarette lighter as he searched for a gas leak in a dark apartment, authorities said.

The worker, Edward Robertson, 39, along with fellow maintenance worker Clifton Cleveland, 44, was listed in critical condition Saturday in Parkland Memorial Hospital's intensive care burn unit.

"We're satisfied that (the lighter) actually caused the explosion," said Capt. Don Howard of the Dallas Fire Department. "We're still doing an investigation into what caused the accumulation of gas in the first place."

The workers were called to the complex by a tenant who complained of natural gas fumes in her apartment.

"It was a fireless explosion," said Howard, adding there was no fire damage at the apartments. "The explosion had such force that it blew the fire out."

Five victims of the blast, which occurred at about 7:45 p.m. Friday, were children. Up to nine people were initially taken to area hospitals for treatment and the other injured were later found in the debris, Howard said.

United Way is a good way

Start off with a bang!
That is exactly what the local United Way campaign did Wednesday, with the announcement that pledges amounting to more than 25 percent of the $212,000 goal have already been gathered.
Not a bad start.
If Howard County continues seeing the positive attitude that prevailed at the kick-off luncheon, United Way volunteers should have little problem exceeding the goal. In fact, we'd like nothing better than to prove Campaign Director Steve Fraser exactly right. He was the one who said "I have no doubt $212,000 is out there; in fact, I believe $300,000 is out there."

That $300,000 figure didn't just drop from the sky. It is actually the amount that the 10 United Way agencies sought as they arranged their budgets for United Way inspection in the process of setting the fund drive's 1989 goal.

However, in that process and in an effort to both serve the agencies and establish a goal that is within our reach, the board settled on $212,000.

Those 10 agencies serve a broad base of needs in this community, from boys and girls to the physically handicapped; from disaster relief to those in need of a night's lodging; from child care to health through exercise.

There is no segment of the community that is not touched by the services of these 10 agencies, and there is no satisfactory answer — other than "Yes" — when it comes to helping share the burden of financing the agencies' efforts. No matter how large or how small the donation, it all adds up.

And, with your help, it will easily add up to more than the $212,000 goal that's been set.

And from the city: Encouraging words

One can't help but be encouraged by the latest efforts to resolve the city budget nightmare.

The early proceedings in the council's approach to this annual exercise were not encouraging: Analyze the initial request, chop those requests and then set a slight budget increase that was incapable of even providing what had been covered the previous year.

Recent meetings have told another story, however. This approach — to analyze and determine what is truly needed by the city, and then determine what it will take to provide the revenue to pay for those needs — is a breath of fresh air.

No, we don't welcome a tax increase. But we know that a healthy Big Spring is impossible to achieve without making the investment.

We are encouraged by the council's recent moves and we hope to see more of such a sensible approach to city business.

It could even lead to a long-term plan to see that we have a regular, annual street improvement project and regular, annual purchase of police and fire equipment so that we do not find ourselves in the unhappy position to be considering 10 new police cars for a single year's budget. That's just not good business — but planning is.

A need for bilingualism

To the editor:
A Herald news story in February about a meeting of the Howard County Commissioners, where Carl Dorton was present to report on 911 progress, reported that Commissioner Brown asked if there were any plans to hire bilingual dispatchers and that Dorton replied that he was sure it would be considered.

What has been the result of Dorton's consideration? Does anybody know? It would be a case of cutting off your nose to spite your face not to exclusively employ dispatchers who competently understand and speak both English and Spanish.

I have nobody in mind for a dispatching job. I am not attempting any brother-in-lawing. I am not being racial. I am not seeking preferential treatment for Mexican-Americans. I am not trying to be obstructive or negative. I am looking at this as strictly a life or death matter. It is a common-sense matter.

Just last week there was a network news item that got national coverage about a woman who called the 911 dispatcher to report that her husband was on his way to where she was to kill her.

Though she and the dispatcher both competently spoke English there was a communication problem and the husband did indeed arrive and did indeed shoot her as well as others that were there.

It doesn't take too many horror stories — and there have been many — where dispatchers have held life and death in their hands, where the caller and dispatcher have both spoken clear, understandable English, and yet someone died because, sadly, they somehow did not communicate effectively, for one to come to the conclusion that bilingual dispatchers in this county are a must.

There have been happy stories where our hearts have wept with joy when the media has reported that an individual has lived because of the help of a quick-thinking, trained dispatcher giving immediate life saving help — in English. Had the person needing that help been deficient in understanding and speaking English, the next call would have been to the coroner's office.

This county is full (and inexorably getting fuller) of taxpaying Mexican-Americans, large numbers of whom either do not speak English or lack proficiency in the language. In an emergency they and the monolingual English speaking person taking the call will be virtually helpless.

These Mexican-Americans will be paying for a service that cannot begin to serve them. Failure to hire 911 dispatchers who can communicate expertly with them is foolhardy and can easily land the public sector in legal hot water because of some communicative mishap that level-headed, fair-minded planning will easily avoid.

Waiting until it is too late and then saying, "Golly, I wish we had had someone at the desk who could talk to those folks" isn't going to sway many juries.

I pray I don't have to say, I told you so.

Issue painting GOP into corner

By JESSE TREVINO

The official end of the organization that presumed to speak for most Americans came last week. Interestingly, the disbanding of the Moral Majority was announced as public opinion firms behind pro-choice in the abortion battle.

Thinking about how abortion might cut politically, clearly some Republican politicians have painted themselves into a corner. They must step gingerly to not get their feet dirty getting out of a political tight spot.

Among them are such politicians as President George Bush and Kent Hance, who wants to step up to the Texas governor's mansion from the Railroad Commission.

Both men embraced the position of such organizations as the Moral Majority during its heyday. Now, however, as public opinion surveys show the public solidifying behind pro-choice, the watch is on to see how Bush and candidates like Hance dance themselves away from the issue.

Even in Hance's home of Lubbock in the conservative High Plains, opinion runs on the side of pro-choice, according to sources who have seen private polling on the matter.

Lubbock, which Bush labelled as the new Peoria reflecting middle America's thinking, is an irony for Bush and politicians who swallowed whole the ideological narrow-mindedness of the Moral Majority.

Bush and Hance, who favored choice until they had to succumb to the right-wing rhetoric of such organizations as they took over the Republican party, now find themselves uncomfortably out of step with the public.

The results of the sampling of public opinion in Lubbock reflects the momentum pro-choice forces have built up quickly, so soon after the first surveys of public opinion about abortion in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision limit.

The wins of the pro-choice forces constitute legitimate referendums on the issue. To add to the irony of Bush's and Hance's position, the pro-choice forces won in Washington — a federal investigation has reached the same conclusion that we did a year ago — that the Reagan administration helped bring "paradise lost" to the South Pacific.

A 20-month probe by the General Accounting Office says the administration "let serious problems develop" and "did not act on the knowledge it had of violence" in the island Republic of Palau, a U.S. trust territory near the Philippines.

Last summer we reported on the corruption and violence unfolding beneath the administration's nose. The GAO investigators followed the same path, and it led directly to Lazarus Saliu, the late president of Palau.

Before Saliu shot himself last fall, he was a valued ally of the White House. In that sense, Palau was closer to the Philippines than in geography alone. Saliu had been called a "mini-Marcos," after the Philippines' dictator who also won Reagan's heart.

Republican strongholds. In a South Carolina state house race, two pro-choice Republican candidates beat a definitively anti-abortion candidate.

That followed last month's victory of an abortion rights supporter in a very conservative assembly legislative district in California in which abortion became the central issue.

Anti-abortion forces claim they won a round when an anti-abortion Cuban American woman won the seat of the late Claude Pepper in Congress last week. But ethnic considerations, not abortion, drove that race.

The result of the elections points to the first popular expressions on the topic. Yet a vote in Congress just as it adjourned for a summer recess symbolized the first clear political decision after the Court spoke.

Congress voted down a proposed prohibition of the use of federal monies to fund abortions in the District of Columbia.

The turn in public opinion in favor of pro-choice represents an important development. Absent clear direction from the public, lawmakers would have taken the safest political route possible, most likely restricting abortion.

The individual decisions members of Congress made before voting casts the debate along party lines, with the Republican party's platform now a stone hung around the party's neck.

But the likes of Bush and Hance may yet be able to squirm out of their predicament if the anti-abortion forces can frame the debate in terms of murder. Confusion exists on this point, as suggested by a recent poll by Mason-Dixon Opinion Research Inc.

Corruption still under investigation

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — A federal investigation has reached the same conclusion that we did a year ago — that the Reagan administration helped bring "paradise lost" to the South Pacific.

A 20-month probe by the General Accounting Office says the administration "let serious problems develop" and "did not act on the knowledge it had of violence" in the island Republic of Palau, a U.S. trust territory near the Philippines.

Last summer we reported on the corruption and violence unfolding beneath the administration's nose. The GAO investigators followed the same path, and it led directly to Lazarus Saliu, the late president of Palau.

Before Saliu shot himself last fall, he was a valued ally of the White House. In that sense, Palau was closer to the Philippines than in geography alone. Saliu had been called a "mini-Marcos," after the Philippines' dictator who also won Reagan's heart.

The GAO discovered that Saliu and his cohorts were up to their eyeballs in shady deals: Saliu and his cronies never adequately explained more than $1 million in payments they received from a British company that built an overpriced power plant in Palau. That plant has weighed down Palau with a $50 million debt that U.S. taxpayers probably will have to pay.

— A top Saliu aide solicited up to $1 million from a businessman seeking approval for a venture, and he told another businessman that he would have to pay bribes.
— Saliu struck ill-advised deals with New York bond sellers, who were later indicted for fraud, and an Australian gun runner who was arrested for drug trafficking.

— The GAO found evidence that the bidding for multimillion-dollar contracts was rigged.
The GAO's findings vindicate three members of the House Interior Committee, who complained that the administration was ignoring what was happening in Palau in a rush to sign a "compact of free association" giving Palau and its 15,000 natives independence.
Reps. Ron de Lugo, D-V.I., Morris Udall, D-Ariz., and George Brown, D-Calif., have long suspected that the administration was blinded by its desire to sign an agreement with Palau that would allow the Pentagon to dock battleships in its harbors.
The trio wanted the White House to insist that Palau clean up its corrupt government before it cut the umbilical cord to the United States.

Just my type An awfully pleasant bit of noise

By ROBERT WERNSMAN
Publisher

How nice it is to be on the other side of the fence, this time.

I refer, of course, to the announcement just more than a week ago of Blue Bell's decision to locate its distribution center in Big Spring.

I've been hearing pleasant noises ever since.

I've heard pleasant noises from people who believe such a quiet, clean operation is precisely the type of growth Big Spring needs to attract and accommodate.

I've heard pleasant noises from people who expect they or others they know may have a chance to land one of the 40-odd positions expected at the distribution center.

I've heard pleasant noises from people exclaiming that other such manufacturers are likely to sit up and take notice of Big Spring's ideal location as a distribution center, with more than a million people living within a two-hour radius of this community.

I've even heard pleasant noises from people who think that anything besides decrepit ballfields would be a major improvement along Interstate 20, where Blue Bell's million-dollar facility is going to be located.

Of course, there have been a few pleasant noises from a few folks for selfish reasons. You see, some of us are not used to a regular, big-ass-you-like helping of Blue Bell ice cream. How good is it, really?

I've gotten several strong references from people who say they know — in fact, I got the same recommendation twice in the same day: Imagine the best ice cream you've ever eaten — that's how Blue Bell tastes. I guess I no longer need to even ask.

Oh, and there have been other pleasant noises, including some heard from as far away as Abilene. Those were the sounds of people trying to explain away Blue Bell's decision to come to Big Spring, rather than locate in Abilene.

While I'm not taking any extreme, perverse satisfaction in beating out Abilene for this one, I've got to admit that it is good to hear someone else being "close but not close enough."

We know how Gary Vest feels. He's the president of the Abilene Industrial Foundation. A report in the Reporter-News quoted him as saying "I'm kinda upset. We worked with them so long, we courted them so long."

It's understandable. Abilene began courting Blue Bell two years ago, at the time the ice cream manufacturer indicated it might be interested in expanding into West Texas within a couple of years.

Despite Abilene's polished efforts to lure Blue Bell, President Ed Kruse had a relatively simple explanation for the Big Spring decision: This is "the hub" of the West Texas market.

Within a 117-mile radius Blue Bell will reach Midland-Odessa, Lubbock, San Angelo and — of course — Abilene; to make it all the sweeter, there are three Air Force bases within that radius, as well as several other smaller communities.

So, although the full line of Blue Bell products will be sold in Abilene, the sweetest taste likely will be found in Big Spring — right here at Blue Bell's newest home.

The excitement of Blue Bell, the on-going hopefulness in connection with the Saint Francis Retirement Village and the prospect of a state prison all seemed to have a most positive impact on the kick-off luncheon for the United Way fund drive.

I've never attended one of those lunches when such a positive attitude was filling the air. Everyone I saw in that packed room Wednesday seemed to be feeling good about Big Spring.

It didn't even seem to bother anyone when they ran out of seating and Howard College officials scurried to set up an additional half-dozen tables to accommodate the crowd — what a pleasant problem.

As for that positive feeling in the air — well, I could stand a little more of this pleasant noise.

Exxon Corp. prepares for pullout

POINT HELEN, Alaska (AP) — Thousands of oil-spattered workers hampered by worsening weather have only a few more days to clean crude oil off Alaska's petroleum-fouled shoreline before Exxon Corp. stops work for the season.

Exxon says it will pull out the last of its workers by this coming Friday after treating more than 1,000 miles of shoreline tainted by the nation's worst oil spill. The company claimed Thursday that only four miles remained to be treated, but state and federal agencies disagree with Exxon about how much has been cleaned and how well.

"Our position is that the weather is going to make us go regardless of what the numbers are, regardless of how much is left," said Exxon spokesman Henry Beathard.

Exxon said it chose Sept. 15 for the withdrawal of the last of its thousands of workers and hundreds of vessels to avoid increasingly poor weather and reduced hours of daylight. In this land where winter comes early, the first dusting of snow can already be seen in some higher elevations.

Gabrielle stalls in Atlantic

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Gabrielle stalled in the Atlantic on Saturday, annoying the Northeast coast of the United States with heavy swells, but remaining far from land.

"It's losing its steering currents," said forecaster Bob Case of the National Hurricane Center. "It looks like its going to hang up and become almost stationary for the next two days."

Gabrielle's 90 mph winds will probably weaken because the storm is partly over water that is too cold to maintain its circular motion, he said.

"But it continues to create large swells along the coastline, especially along the New England and mid-Atlantic coast," Case added.

At noon EDT, Gabrielle's center was located near 39.0 degrees north latitude and 60.1 degrees west longitude, or about 335 miles south of Sable Island, Nova Scotia.

It was moving north at about 8 mph, but was expected to slow down, forecasters said.

The former Hurricane Felix lost its tropical characteristics to the north of Gabrielle on Thursday, forecasters said.

Gabrielle was the seventh named storm of the 1989 Atlantic hurricane season. It was at one time the strongest of the season, with winds that peaked at 135 mph, but never got close enough to land to cause serious damage.

Reagan recovering from surgery

REAGAN

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Recovering rapidly from surgery to remove fluid from the surface of his brain, former President Ronald Reagan on Saturday joked with visitors and read several newspapers, his spokesman said.

"He is in excellent spirits, telling baseball stories and joking with his staff," Reagan's spokesman Mark Weinberg said.

In reference to the removal of at least some of his hair for the surgery, Reagan quipped, "I guess my barber can have the week off," Weinberg said.

Shortly after awaking at 6:30 a.m. Saturday, Reagan underwent a follow-up CAT scan to view the upper right portion of his head where surgeons on Friday drilled a hole in his skull to remove a buildup of blood. Weinberg said the problem stemmed from a July 4 incident in which Reagan fell from a "wildly" bucking horse.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. — Larry Cottam, left, and his wife, Leona, walk out of the Luzerne County Courthouse Friday morning along with their attorney Joseph Cosgrove. The Cottams were convicted of third degree murder in connection with the January starvation death of their 14-year-old son.

Couple found guilty in starvation death

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A couple convicted of third-degree murder for starving their 14-year-old son plan to appeal on the ground their children's religious beliefs may take precedence over parental responsibility.

"One of the major issues in this case, which we were not allowed to argue in front of the jury, was the children's constitutional rights to exercise their religious beliefs and whether that right exceeds the parental duty," said Al Flora Jr., one of the couple's lawyers.

Eric Cottam died Jan. 3 after the family went without food for six weeks despite nearly $4,000 saved as a tithe for God. Larry and Leona Cottam's 2-year-old daughter, Laura, recovered from malnourishment and is in foster care.

In addition to third-degree murder, which required a jury finding of malice on the part of Cottam, 39, and Mrs. Cottam, 38, the couple were found guilty Friday of reckless endangerment and endangering the welfare of children.

The Cottams held hands and showed no emotion as the verdicts were read. Jurors had deliberated 13½ hours.

The Cottams didn't eat for six weeks beginning Nov. 22 despite $3,775 saved as a tithe, or offering, for God. Larry Cottam, a former Seventh-day Adventist pastor, said he believed using the money would have been akin to stealing.

Laura Cottam testified she had several dollars saved as a tithe, but also believed spending the money for food would have been the same as stealing.

Luzerne County Judge Gifford S. Cappellini decided not to allow use of the children's First Amendment rights to religious freedom as a defense because they still lived in their parents' care.

"I think their parental duty is paramount," Cappellini told The Associated Press.

Flora said he planned to appeal. "The issue of whether the children could exercise their own religious beliefs... gets into some significant First Amendment issues that have not been decided in this country," said Joseph Cosgrove, co-counsel for the Cottams.

Eleanor Culpepper, a juror, said seeing pictures of the teen-age boy's body weighed heavily on the jury. Eric was 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighed 69 pounds when he died Jan. 3.

"It's kind of hard to believe," the Philadelphia nurse said.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Marsilio said previous convictions in starvation cases in Pennsylvania had never risen above involuntary manslaughter.

The Cottams remained free on $50,000 bail each. An anonymous benefactor posted bail for them Aug. 23 after they spent 230 days in custody following their Jan. 5 arraignment.

Guerrillas block supply convoy

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Anti-communist guerrillas have blocked a 1,300-vehicle supply convoy outside a provincial capital, a senior government official said Saturday.

It was believed to be the biggest convoy of the 10-year-old civil war between the Marxist government and rebels.

In Kabul, six people were killed and eight wounded by three rockets, a government spokesman said.

More than 300 people have been killed and 700 injured in almost daily rocket attacks on the capital since late June. The government blames the attacks on the Pakistan-based guerrillas, but the rebels accuse the Soviet-backed government of firing on its own civilians.

Deputy Prime Minister Mahmoud Baryalai said the huge supply convoy was stopped short of the southern city of Kandahar by heavy fighting.

Drug baron's death squad arrested

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The army said Saturday it has captured four leaders of a terrorist gang employed by drug kingpin Pablo Escobar to protect his wife and kill his enemies.

The death squad, which called itself "Love for Medellin," also acted as a vigilante morals squad, killing prostitutes and homosexuals in the drug-infested city of Medellin, a military source said.

Also Saturday, military officials were quoted as saying they have made new raids on properties linked to Colombia's No. 2 drug lord, Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha. They said a computer disk showed he owned 374 vehicles, all with telephones.

The daily outbreaks of terrorism linked to drug traffickers continued in Medellin, home of the powerful cocaine cartel of which Escobar is the overlord. Bombs knocked out telephone lines and damaged two factories and a restaurant, police said. No serious injuries were reported.

Also, police in Medellin said they arrested five suspects in connection with a mid-week bombing.

The 4th Army Brigade in Medellin said it had arrested four leaders of Escobar's feared "Love for Medellin" assassin squad.

Metal fatigue blamed in crash

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Aviation specialists said Saturday that metal fatigue might have caused the crash of a Norwegian charter plane that plunged into the North Sea, killing all 55 people aboard.

The twin-engine CV-580 Convair turboprop was flying from Norway to West Germany when it vanished from radar screens Friday and crashed 18.5 miles north of the Danish fishing port of Hirtshals. Whatever occurred happened so quickly the pilots had no time to send a distress signal, according to investigators.

Tommy Jensen, head of the Danish crash investigation team, was quoted by the Norwegian NTB news agency as saying "so far no burns or other damage on bodies or wreckage has been found to indicate an explosives blast. Bodies and wreckage were found within a concentrated area whereas midair explosions usually scatter them."

Some victims were found still strapped in their seats that had torn loose from the fuselage, he said.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — A fireman hoses two buildings and killed two people on Mackinac Island Saturday.

Fire kills two on resort island

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — A fire destroyed two Main Street buildings early Saturday on this popular resort island in northern Lake Huron, killing a man and a woman, authorities said.

The bodies were found on the second floor of the LaSalle Building, where the fire broke out about 3 a.m. Saturday, said Pam Brown, a dispatcher with the City of Mackinac Island Police Department. The building, and one next door that also was destroyed, both contain shops that cater to the thousands of tourists that visit the island each year.

The victims' names and hometowns were withheld pending notification of relatives, Brown said. Several firefighters suffered smoke inhalation, but none required hospitalization and no other injuries were reported, she said.

Firefighters, aided by rain that began falling later Saturday morning, contained the blaze by 10 a.m.

and extinguished it an hour later, Brown said. The cause remained under investigation.

Frank Nephew, owner of the LaSalle Building, said the second floor contained rooms rented to as many as 30 employees during the summer tourism season. Fewer than six employees were in the building Saturday, he said, adding: "Most of them are gone, thank God. Sometimes these kids just check out and leave without telling anybody."

"I believe everyone else has been accounted for," Brown said.

In addition to the two buildings that were destroyed, other buildings sustained smoke and water damage.

Most motorized vehicles are banned from the island, which has only about 400 year-round residents. But its fire department has four trucks, including one formerly owned by a Detroit suburb that was delivered just Friday.

"I want to thank all the firefighters, both our own volunteers and our neighbors, for saving Main Street," Mayor Margaret Doud said in a statement. "It is providential that only yesterday we received a fire truck through the state Legislature from Southfield."

The island is located in the Straits of Mackinac connecting lakes Huron and Michigan and accessible primarily by passenger ferry. Incoming visitors were banned from using the ferries while the vessels transported firefighters and equipment from St. Ignace on the Upper Peninsula mainland.

Passenger service to and from the island resumed by 1 p.m., Brown said.

The island is best known for the century-old landmark Grand Hotel, with a huge porch that was at one time billed as the longest porch in the world. The hotel is on a hill some distance from the site of the fire.

Official: Stacy snake doing fine

STACY DAM — The Nerodia harteri paucimaculata, otherwise known as the Concho Water Snake is alive and well in part of the Colorado River near Stacy Dam.

The snake, which is considered an endangered species, has caused some worry among environmentalists with the construction of the dam southeast of Ballinger.

"The snake is not threatened. He is the most frequently found snake in the river," reported biologist Okla Thorton of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Thorton is conducting census monitoring of the snake population, required by federal law, as a stipulation of the dam construction permit.

The census, started in 1987, is taken three times a year and will continue through 1996, said Thorton, who is now completing the second one. One is taken in the spring to check on winter mortalities. The second one is taken in August and September to check the birth rate and the third is at the end of September to help calculate things like the ratios between new captures and recaptures.

He said snakes are captured from 15 monitoring stations to find out how many adults and children are in the population, what their attrition rate is and other data. He said they tabulate "basic ecological information about the snake itself."

Another study is conducted yearly by Texas A&M Research Inc., said Joe Pickle, secretary for the CRMWD in Big Spring. That study, a habitat study which was recently completed for this year, is a more complicated one which involves putting belts with radio transmitters on adult snakes to keep track of them.

"Under regulations passed by Congress, these procedures have to be followed," Pickle said. "They decided in effect that with every stream in the United States you've got to have from the U.S. Corps of Engineers a 404 permit. In order to get the permit we had to agree to conduct the studies."

He said the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has determined that the snake lives mostly at the particular region where Stacy Dam is being built and nowhere else in the world. Also, they say it can only live in its present habitat, not any other. For those reasons the dam threatens to make the species extinct, officials say.

"They said that they could not exist in reservoirs and lakes," he said. However, he said, discoveries of the snake at Lake Spence and Lake Moonen near Ballinger dispute that position. "We know that they can and do exist in lakes."

Stacy Dam, when complete, will serve as a 554,000 acre-foot long-range water supply for CRMWD clients, Pickle said. The $70 million project should be complete by March of next year. Construction began June 1, 1987.

Martin commissioners approve flood study grant

Infection kills inmates

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County Jail medical personnel said Saturday they were not taking any special precautions with the inmate population after a bacterial infection claimed the lives of two prisoners. Four other inmates, however, remained hospitalized Saturday — including one with the same bacterial infection, said Nora Shire, spokeswoman for Ben Taub Hospital. Inmates Rene Fuentes, 21, and Ricky LaBreck, 30, died Thursday. Officials said a contributing factor in their deaths may have been the fact that neither man had a spleen. Removing the spleen can impair the immune system. Fuentes and LaBreck were housed in separate cellblocks on the jail's ninth floor with 594 other prisoners and are not known to have had any contact with each other.

Teacher suspended

DALLAS (AP) — A 38-year-old North Dallas High School teacher has been suspended after a handgun left in his gym bag discharged, nearly striking another teacher, officials said. Paul Howard, who also was a coach at the Dallas public school, has been placed on leave with pay, pending an administrative hearing next week, school officials said. According to school officials, the incident occurred in a classroom after school. A .38-caliber pistol was inside Howard's gym bag and it discharged when another teacher picked up the bag, trying to figure out who owned the bag. According to police reports, the bullet missed hitting the teacher by about six inches and lodged in a desk.

CLU sues university

DALLAS (AP) — A former Baylor University pre-med student contends in a lawsuit that she was forced to withdraw from the Waco school in 1987 because she was pregnant and single. The Dallas Civil Liberties Union filed the suit Thursday on behalf of Dawn L. Bonner, who graduated cum laude in 1987 from Trimble Tech High School in Fort Worth. The suit contends that Baylor officials failed to tell Ms. Bonner about an "unwritten policy" that requires unmarried, pregnant students to leave the school. The policy is also discriminatory, the suit alleges, because it has only been applied to women and no male student has been forced to leave because a woman to whom he was not married became pregnant.

Deputy killer convicted

RICHMOND (AP) — A Mexican national faces life in prison or the death penalty after being convicted of capital murder in connection with the shooting death of a Fort Bend County Sheriff's deputy. It took jurors in State District Judge Charles Dickerson's court just over an hour Friday to convict Francisco Cardenas for the March 21, 1988, slaying of Deputy Eugene "Gene" Heimann, 33. Evidence showed Cardenas shot Heimann five times after a burglary spree in a rural area near Damon. "With the strength of the evidence, it was an appropriate verdict," prosecutor Bryan Best said. Cardenas, 24, gave authorities written, videotaped and tape-recorded statements admitting to the shooting and leading detectives to the .38-caliber murder weapon.

STANTON — An application for a $50,000 state grant to subsidize a flood control study in Martin County was unanimously approved by county commissioners at a specially-called meeting Friday morning. The grant would require another $50,000 in matching county funds. Representatives of HDR Engineering, who presented the application to the commission for approval, will now submit it to the Texas Water Development Board. The proposal is subject for approval by Oct. 19, said Herbert W. Grubb, an engineer with the firm. The study will take place in the north and northeast parts of the county, County Judge Bob Deavenport said. "We've had some ungodly problems out there. We need to at least find out if there's anything we can do that's cost effective," he said. "The county has spent several hundred thousand dollars trying to keep roads open in the affected areas." Defining the study area, Grubb said, "It affects close to 300 square miles. The county is about 900 square miles." The flooding problem began in 1986 when, for two consecutive years, the area averaged about 70 inches of rain, said Jerome J. Zovne, an HDR engineer who was also at the meeting. He said the normal average is about 16-18 inches. Last year it rained more than 30 inches. "So everytime it rains now, these lakes will fill real quickly and overflow onto the roads," he said. "It gets onto your roads and washes out your bridges and crossings. It isolates people. It's made it impossible to farm some of the cropland because it's been under water for so long." The application superceded an earlier effort to work with Dawson and Howard Counties to ask for twice the amount they are asking for now, said Precinct Four Commissioner E.D. Holcomb. A tri-county commission was established in July, 1988, the same time that HDR Engineering was contacted, to work on a solution. It included two commissioners from each county plus a city council member and the public works director from Big Spring. Holcomb said the other two counties backed out after the TWDB's first request for proposals in December, 1988. They then issued another request in August. "The other entities weren't as interested as we were," he said. "We need the study done more than any of them." Also unanimously approved by the court was an increase of the county budget from $2,495,125 to $2,512,086. The increased amount will fund $50 a month raises for clerical personnel, $50 a month for deputy uniforms and a 25 cent an hour raise for dispatchers. The museum budget was also increased about $600 and the library's about $3,500. Another $2,500 was allocated to help fund a landfill closing. The Stanton city council has asked the county to consider costs of closing a landfill according to new Environmental Protection Agency guidelines. "I understand the city estimates it's going to cost $500,000 to close the existing landfill," Deavenport said. "In the proposed budget I asked that one cent of the proposed increase be devoted to landfill closings. One cent should produce $36,671."

A representative for the county will attend the city council meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at city hall. A public hearing on the county budget is scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday at the county courthouse. Another public hearing is scheduled Friday for a county tax increase from 33 to 35 cents. It will be at 10 a.m. at the county courthouse. An initial public hearing for the county tax increase was held at the Friday morning meeting but it did not conform to the state property tax code because the advertised announcement of it was run too small in the Big Spring Herald, officials said. No citizens attended that hearing. Also meeting this week is the appraisal board at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to approve their proposed budget. It is tentatively set at $157,907, Deavenport said. Holcomb will attend that meeting.

Van Cliburn plays at grand opening

DALLAS — While the featured performer at the Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center's public opening was world-renowned pianist Van Cliburn, the $81.5 million complex stole the early show. A capacity crowd of more than 2,000 packed the hall Friday to hear Cliburn and the Dallas Symphony Orchestra perform Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1." "I'm really excited and proud to be mayor of a city with people who are able to provide a place like this," Dallas Mayor Annette Strauss said. "It sends a message that this is an exciting time for Dallas and its people." The Fort Worth pianist first made headlines in 1958 as the winner of the first Tchaikovsky International Competition in Moscow. The grand opening concert included Gustav Mahler's "Symphony No. 2" with performances from guest soloists Sylvia McNair and Maureen Forrester. A five-minute standing ovation followed Cliburn's performance, which lasted about 30 minutes. "I think the hall has a presence and this is something that's important no matter what little tuning will go on," said Cliburn during an intermission. "It's very hard to put in a presence but I think the hall has a presence, and that's important." The hall sends a message to the world that Dallas is determined to be an arts leader, said U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo. "I think the real meaning of all of this is that Dallas and its people have the capacity to build and succeed at a time that has not been economically good to do so," said Gephardt. "Dallas is a leader in the arts. It's always been a leader and this will just boost its commitment to the arts." The hall was designed by architect I.M. Pei as a series of overlapping geometric shapes. The rectangular structure sits at an angle inside a square, surrounded by segments of circles. The Dallas Museum of Art and the Dallas skyline are visible through the $6 million worth of glass panes that make a sweeping curve of the lobby. The hall includes a 4,463-pipe organ, Italian marble and artificially weathered limestone. Seating boxes in the second level range from $10,000 to $30,000, while the hall has chorus and audience seating behind the performance platform. Dallas voters in 1982 approved a $28.6 million bond issue to help pay for the hall. Private donations were

LULAC splits with foundation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The League of United Latin American Citizens has removed its title from the organization's foundation board and has asked the Internal Revenue Service to strip the foundation of its tax-exempt status, the organization's national president said. Jose Garcia De Lara said his organization officially split from the foundation Thursday when it presented the IRS with evidence alleging fiscal irregularities at the foundation. The 10 foundation board members, all former LULAC national presidents, have been asked to resign because they have misused funds raised from corporate contributions, De Lara said. But none of former presidents gave up their posts by the Friday deadline De Lara had issued. Four new members have been nominated to a revised foundation board, which De Lara said he hopes will use corporate-donated dollars for education, health and housing programs. "We can't dissolve it, but we can take away their title, and that's what we have done," De Lara told the San Antonio Light. "It can no longer solicit funds on behalf of LULAC." De Lara has accused the former LULAC presidents of operating the foundation board as a social club that used donated funds for its own purposes. The former presidents, led by board Chairman Eduardo Morgia, have angrily denied the charges. Morgia said De Lara's move to form a new foundation board violates LULAC's constitution and procedures. "It's a stupid act all the way through, both legally and in terms of the organization," Morgia said Friday. The former LULAC presidents are preparing a legal challenge to De Lara's attempt to remove them from the board, Morgia said. In a related development, De Lara announced that LULAC will conduct a public forum Sept. 30 in San Antonio to discuss the foundation board controversy. "Let's air it out before the public," De Lara said. Morgia, a Los Angeles-area accountant, said he is inclined to attend the public forum, but only if he and the former LULAC presidents will be given a fair opportunity to present their side.

Board votes for vocational program

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education voted Saturday to reinstate a junior high school vocational education program, defying legislative leaders who are concerned about the program's worth. The board voted 8-6, with one member abstaining, to fund the Coordinated Vocational Academic Education program in the 7th and 8th grades this school year. It probably will cost less than $1 million in vocational funding in 1989-90 school year, estimated Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby.

The vote came despite opposition expressed in July by members of the Legislative Education Board, including Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis. The lawmakers, who said they were concerned that the CVAE program has been used as a dumping ground for low-achieving students, urged the board at that time to reconsider funding it. Hobby, in a strong attack, added that a number of State Board of Education members have worked against quality education and said its chairman should resign. The program's supporters said it can be used as a tool to prevent dropouts. The program is meant to relate academic subjects to vocational training by, for example, showing the use of mathematics in mechanical repair. Kirby had recommended that the board not approve the program in the 7th and 8th grades this year. Instead, he said, time should be allowed to develop a tightly drawn program for next school year.

Tax & financial planning TAX TIPS FOR BUSINESS If you're in business, consider these strategies for cutting your taxes this year: • If you will have a current year net operating loss, consider deferring income and accelerating expenses. Your net operating loss can be carried back to 1986 when the top rates were 50% for individuals and 46% for corporations. • Watch the timing of fixed asset purchases. For tax purposes, if more than 40% of such acquisitions occur in the fourth quarter of your tax year, depreciation must be adjusted. This generally results in a smaller first-year deduction. • If you're self-employed, consider establishing a Keogh retirement plan. Contributions to the plan reduce your current tax bill while providing a retirement fund. A deduction for plan contributions is only permitted if the plan is established by December 31st of the tax year for which the deduction is contemplated. Note that contributions must also be made for full-time employees. • In planning your business equipment purchases, remember that you can expense up to $10,000 for newly acquired equipment each year. The write-off for business cars, however, is limited to $2,500. Also, if your total equipment purchases exceed $200,000, the expensing option phases out. • If you're self-employed, you can deduct as a business expense 25% of the cost of health insurance premiums for you and your family. • Give gifts to employees, and take a deduction for them. Such gifts cannot exceed $25 each. • Don't miss business tax credits that are still available. These include the research and development credit, the business energy investment tax credit for solar energy, geothermal and ocean thermal property, and the targeted jobs credit. Steers survive season-opener

HOBBS, N.M. — It wasn't what you would call a grand opening, but the Big Spring Steers managed to beat the Hobbs Eagles 21-17 in the season-opener for the Steers Friday night at Watson Memorial Stadium.

While it seemed the Steers were on control of things all the way through, the final score certainly didn't. In fact, the Eagles still had a chance to win with a minute left to play.

But on a fourth and one from the Big Spring 31-yard line, fullback Gary Nance was stopped by the heart of the Big Spring defense behind the line of scrimmage, preserving the Big Spring win.

"The defense played well," said Big Spring coach David Thompson. "They rose to the occasion. That says a lot about their character."

The Big Spring defense played a splendid game, limiting the Eagles to 81 yards total offense. The likes of Joe Downey, Calvin Marion, Pat Wilbert, Charles LaGrand, Kevin Rodgers and Pat Chavarria made life miserable for the Eagle offense.

Wilbert, the 285-pound tackle, said he faced double-troubles all night long. "I got a lot of double teams. Sometimes I even got triple-teamed," said Wilbert. "I just tried to fight down the line."

While Wilbert and his buddies were doing their thing on defense, the Steer offense, led by quarterback Rance Thompson, wingback Neal Mayfield and tailback Otis Riffey, did their thing.

Mayfield had a banner night, catching five passes for 82 yards and carrying 4 times for 24 yards. He accounted for all but one Big Spring point, that being an extra point for a 9-yard TD in the third period, which proved to be the winning score.

His most spectacular exhibition came right after the Eagles had kicked a 35-yard field goal with 40 seconds left in the first half, giving the Eagles a 17-6 lead.

The Steers roared back when Thompson passed 19 yards to Mayfield, and scored on a 42-yard scoring pass to Mayfield. They capped it off when Thompson passed to Mayfield for the two-point conversion, allowing Hobbs to go into halftime leading 17-14.

"I knew we could get open, but I really didn't think it would be that easy," said Mayfield. "If Rance gets the ball to us, we can usually catch it."

Quarterback Thompson said he wouldn't let his team get down after it got behind. "I told them we could move the ball on these guys," said Rance. "I just told them to keep our heads up and keep going."

"The long TD pass to Neal (Mayfield) was a timing pattern. He went 15 yards and cut out. I threw it before he cut. The pass to Freddie (Rodriguez) was a fade pattern. He hit the sideline and I

Bearkats rule Buffaloes, 39-0

GARDEN CITY — When the Forsan Buffaloes roamed onto this range Friday they weren't expecting two sets of brother double-trouble.

Try though they might, the Buffs just couldn't overcome an excited Bearkat squad led by the Soles-Seidenberger express — a train that rolled right over the Howard County team 39-0.

Another set of brothers also did their part. James Soles struck the first paydirt for the Bearkats and his brother Chad rounded out the scoring in the fourth.

James carried 19 times for the Bearkats for 57 yards and one touchdown.

Chad had 13 carries for 55 yards and one touchdown. He also punted the ball five times for a 39.2 yard average.

Lightning may have flashed, and clouds may have filled the sky but on the Bearkat football field there was nothing but stars for the Garden City squad.

One of the brightest stars of the night was Eric Seidenberger — a 220 pound, 5-10, sophomore — who ran for 75 yards in 10 carries and scored two touchdowns for the "Kats.

"It was fun," said Seidenberger who was playing his first game in the fullback position. "I was the center last year... I like being fullback, I love carrying the ball."

Brother John Seidenberger also did his part. He pulled down nine Forsan offenders on defense. Eric added another nine tackles.

"It was pretty tough at first, but our endurance showed when they let down," said John, who plays left guard on offense and defensive end. "Playing defense... it's a change but I like it. That's where I get most of my rest, I go all the way

The Buffs may have had two sets of brothers working against them, but the Bearkats had to overcome a couple of setbacks themselves. An electrical storm delayed the game — twice in the first quarter for intervals of 10 and 6 minutes — delays that kept both teams off track for the first half.

"Sure it had a little effect on us the first half," said Bearkat coach Sam Scott. "You get real pumped up and then the lights go out. But it had the same effect on Forsan. It

COAHOMA — With torrent rain bombarding Bulldog Stadium, the Seminole Indians and Coahoma Bulldogs gridiron clash was delayed 45 minutes.

The game ended with the rain starting again. And it between it all, was a host of turnovers and penalties as the Indians took home a 19-0 win.

As heavy rain and lightning slowed the beginning of both teams seasons, play resumed and the host team kicked off to the visiting Indians.

The Indians took the opening kickoff to their own 33-yard line, after a 15-yard pass play, the Indians fumbled on the next posseswell; I thought we played some sloppy ball," Ham said. "But if we can play that way and still win, we've got to be a little better than I thought."

"We've got a long way to go, but I'd rather be where we are right now than be the best we're going to be," Ham added.

The two teams gave early indications that this was going to be an offensive fan's delight. On the first play from scrimmage, Foster connected with Brandi O'Brien in the right flat, and the junior back ran 53 yards for the game's opening score. Foster's PAT kick gave the Cougars an early 8-0 lead.

Not to be outdone, the Mustangs fired back the instant they touched the ball. Sophomore running back James Munoz received the Klondike kickoff on the 10 yardline, eluded two tacklers, and scooted the rest of the way to bring the Mustangs to within one, 8-7, with 27 seconds gone in the game.

British runner loses on sour note

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — While Sebastian Coe's majestic career might have ended in controversy, Ana Quirot has ended her season in glory.

In a fitting climax to an unblemished season in the 800 meters, Quirot ran the third-fastest time in history and the best in the world in six years in winning in 1 minute 54.44 seconds at the World Cup track and field on Saturday.

In a race marred by a bumping incident around the final turn that might have cost Coe a victory, he was narrowly beaten by Abdi Bile of Somalia in the men's 1,500 meters in 3 minutes 35.56 seconds.

Whereas Quirot's victory was decisive and clear, Bile's triumph was tainted and undecided for more than an hour, as Coe, British team officials and meet officials debated the issue and the result.

The British team protested the race, although Coe angrily demanded that the result not be contested.

"He wants to play the gentlemen," Coe's father and coach, Peter, said.

In the end, Coe lost, but not without a tough fight.

Coe's second-place finish pro-robably cost the two-time Olympic champion and 1981 World Cup winner his last shot at a gold medal in a major meet. He is mulling quitting, and his decision will be announced this week.

The bumping occurred as Coe and Bile came around the final turn.

"I feel I was keeping my lane and I didn't interfere with Coe," Bile said. "But all of a sudden, I felt a hand grab me and push me away."

Despite the push, Bile kept running hard and beat Coe by about 1½ meters.

"I am confident I did not interfere with Coe's performance," Bile said.

Peter Coe and the British team coach, Frank Dick, disagreed.

They insisted that the British team file a protest, claiming that Bile impeded Coe's progress.

Coe, however, did not want to protest, and when his father and Dick suggested the idea, he pushed them away angrily. He did admit, however, that "I got hemmed in."

"There will be no protest," he said.

But Coe was in the minority, and the team protested.

Coahoma again fumbled giving the Indians the opportunity to drive the ball deep into Bulldog territory. A few plays later Brandon Bryson scored from four yards out giving the visitors the lead. The PAT good and Seminole led 7-0 with 4:12 left in the half.

The Indians surprised the Bulldogs with an onside kick and recovered the ball at midfield. The visiting team could not move the ball and punted back to the Bulldogs. Coahoma lost the ball on downs and with 21 seconds left in the first half, the Indians ran out the clock leading 7-0.

The Indians received the second half kickoff but the Bulldogs again stopped the visitors and forced them to give up the football. Mistakes hurt the Bulldogs again as they bobbed the ball deep in Bulldog territory at the 16-yard line.

The Indians went to work and with 6:09 left in the third, Bryson scored his second TD of the night as the PAT went astray giving the visitors a 13-0 lead.

Neither team could move the ball as they were hampered by turnovers and penalties, thus ending the third quarter. Starting the fourth quarter Seminole began to start another drive. But Coahoma's Jeff Rawson had other ideas as he snagged a Ray pass. Coahoma's problems kept them at bay as they fumbled again ending any Bulldog threat. Seminole kept themselves out of scoring position as the Indians were hit with penalties, and punted back to the home team. The Bulldogs drive, and the scoring for the night, ended when the Indians intercepted a Walker pass as Steve Mendoza took the ball all the way for another Indian score with 3:25 left in the contest.

The Bulldogs will be at Stanton next week to take on the Buffalos at 8 p.m.

be misleading, as the rest of the first half was dominated by the two teams' defense. In fact, the Wilson defense gave the Mustangs their only lead of the night when they tackled Klondike running back Jose Enriquez in the end zone for a safety and a 9-8 lead.

Wilson threatened to increase its lead when the Mustangs recovered a Foster fumble at the Klondike 15 in the second quarter, but Foster atoned for his error two plays later with his game-winning interception return.

Three Klondike touchdowns in the third quarter — Guerra scored on his fumble return and on a 7-yard run; and Foster passed 8 yards to Enriquez — put the game out of reach for the Cougars.

"It was super-important (to win the first game of the season)," Ham said. "They didn't know what they could do... Now, they'll be a little more relaxed as the season goes on."

The Cougars return to action next Friday when they travel to Amherst. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Individual leaders: Rushing — Wilson: Lopez, 7-114; Garza, 7-31; Frausto, 14-13. Klondike: Guerra, 6-26; Foster, 10-10; O'Brien, 4-(-10).

slows you down a little bit... breaks your concentration."

If the Garden City club had concentration problems in the first half, the second half was a different story.

The Bearkats struck paydirt first with 10:29 left in the first half when junior quarterback Allen Hoelscher threw a 3-yard touchdown pass to Wesley Glass.

It was only the first of two touchdowns the sophomore tight end would catch in the end zone. With five seconds left in the half, Glass pulled in a pass from Shae Scott to rack up his second counters of the night. The kick by Jody Bradford was good and the Bearkats led 13-0 going into the locker room.

For Forsan, it was a game of missed opportunities.

The Buffs blew a chance to tie the game when Pat Bailey dropped a sure touchdown pass from Stephen East in the end zone on the Buffs second possession of the second quarter.

Forsan took over the ball with 7:15 left in the second quarter after forcing the Bearkats to punt on a fourth and 11. A triple combination of East, Charles Newton and Richard Griffin moved the ball down the field from their own 45 to the Garden City 13 before the pass was broken up by Garden City's Richard Morales.

After that it was a Bearkat game.

The Glasscock County team held the Buffs to less than 40 yards of total offense in the second half while adding four touchdowns of their own.

Eric Seidenberger scored on runs of 4 and 16 yards. The Soles brothers added Garden City's other second half scores on runs of 11 and 1 yards.

Soles were an express — they had to move to another track for a few other Bearkat players.

The 'Kats got a major boost from sophomore defensive back Richard Morales who recovered three Forsan fumbles and returned an intercepted pass for 24 yards.

It was Morales' first high school game. In fact, the sophomore cornerback hadn't played football in two years.

"He had an exceptional game," Scott said. "... seven tackles, three fumble recoveries, two caused fumbles, one pass interception with a 24 yard runback."

"I think we did a good job as a defensive unit," Scott said. "We only gave up 118 total offense to them... our kids played a pretty good technique."

"I felt better after I watched the game film. After the ballgame I didn't think we executed very well... but it was things that can be corrected. I feel a lot better after watching the film.

"We're going to keep working on what it is we're doing," Scott said. "We're real pleased with our defense."

"Forsan turned the ball over to us a lot. They've got a better ballclub than what they showed last night. They just had too many turnovers. They got after us real well."

Forsan Coach Jan East agreed. "We didn't play real bad except for turning the football over," East said. "We turned it over eight times and you can't win doing that."

"I thought our defense did a good job. In the first half they did an outstanding job... but when you turn the ball over, it's pretty tough on the defense."

"We're not as bad as we looked like last night... I think our kids will bounce back. We're not that bad... it's just one of those things."

laid it up."

The Steers made their winning drive at the start of the third quarter. Using an arsenal of running backs, the Steers drove 66 yards in 14 plays. Mayfield scored on a pitch from Thompson. Davis PAT put the icing on the cake.

The score could have been worse if Big Spring had not had two TD's called back because of penalties.

Thompson's 54-yard pass to Freddie Rodriguez was whistled back because of illegal motion, and Mayfield's 13-yard run was called back because of holding.

The Steers' first 24 minutes of play was horrendous. On the opening kickoff, Hobbs' Damian Walker went 90 yards for the score. Big Spring fumbled on its first possession. Two plays later Hobbs' quarterback Marc Abbott hit tight end Jesse Thompson with a 40-yard scoring pass.

"Everything bad that could have happened, happened," said coach Thompson of his team's first half bad luck. "We just made too many mistakes. But give them (Steers) credit, they came back. I was never worried. But with two minutes left, they (Hobbs) were in the game. The kicking game cost us 10 points."

Ruffey, making his first varsity start, led all rushers with 74 yards in 19 carries. Tight end Downey caught three passes for 43 yards. Defensive tackle LaGrand led the Steer pass rush with two quarterback sacks.

The Steers will play their home-opener Friday when they host Lubbock Estacado at 8 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

ROPESVILLE — The Grady Wildcats offense was in full gear here Friday night as they romped the Ropes Eagles 56-8 in non-district six-man action.

The Grady offense rolled at will, racking up 467 yards total offense. The real estate was divided equally, 226 rushing and 241 passing.

Meanwhile the Grady defense caused six Eagle turnovers, and allowed the home team 232 yards total offense.

Grady wide receiver Scott Terrell had a banner night, scoring five touchdowns. Terrell finished the game with six carries for 110 yards, and caught five passes for 177 yards. He also intercepted a pass from his linebacker position, as did fellow linebacker Gilbert Cortez and defensive end Chad Wells. In the first quarter Grady scored 20 points. Cortez scored on a 15-yard run, Scott Glaze passed to Scott Terrell for 60 yards, and Lynn Garza passed 39 yards to Danny Valle.

Grady scored twice more in the second quarter. Garza passed 48 yards to Terrell, and Terrell scored on a 48-yard run. The Wildcats led 33-0 at the half.

In the third quarter Valle blocked a Ropes extra point attempt, picked it up and ran in 70 yards, for a hard-earned one point. Garza passed 29 yards to Terrell for another score.

In the final stanza, Garza passed 28 yards to Terrell for another score. Glaze capped off the scoring with a 5-yard jaunt.

"I'm extremely pleased with the team effort," said Grady coach Leandro Gonzales. "There was a lot of excitement. We blocked well, tackled well and passed well. We showed the ability to play together and play well."

The Wildcats will host New Home Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Tunnell Field.

Coyotes, Leopards tie

NEW HOME — In a game called at halftime because of high winds and lightning, the Borden County Coyotes and the New Home Leopards battled to a 16-16 tie.

"The officials delayed the start of the second half, trying to wait for it all to go away," said Borden County coach Joe Bond. "But since it was a non-district game, we decided to just go home."

The Leopards jumped out to an 10-0 first quarter lead on a safety and a 3-yard run by Scott Fillingim. The Leopards got the safety on a fumbled B-County snap that went into the end zone. Fillingim scored with 2:21 left in the first period. Colby James kicked the extra point.

Borden County scored with 9:55 remaining in the second quarter. Halfback Jimmy Rios scored from 2-yards out. Brian Bond kicked the extra point, cutting the deficit to

Borden County scored the tying TD with 4:50 left in the half. Rios scored from 9 yards out. Bond's kick tied the game.

"I really wasn't pleased with the way we played the first quarter," said coach Bond. "We didn't do a good job hitting, tackling or blocking. But the kids stayed in the game and the momentum started the shift for the second half."

The Coyotes will host Wellman in their home-opener Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Seagraves whitewashes Stanton

SEAGRAVES — Seagraves Eagles fullback Steven Henderson scored two touchdowns, and the Seagraves defense limited the Stanton Wishbone attack to 155 total yards as the Eagles romped 20-0 in the season-opener for both teams.

The Eagles led 6-0 at the half, but added TD's in the third and fourth quarter to secure the win.

Henderson saved the most spectacular run for last. The talented senior dashed 94 yards for the score with 1:47 left in the game.

The Buffalos had a hard time holding on to the ball, fumbling six times, but losing only two. The Henderson-led Seagraves rushing attack churned out 287 yards against the Buffs.

Stanton will host Coahoma in their season-opener Friday at 8 p.m.

Sands slaughters hapless Cards

HERMLEIGH — The Sands Mustangs began their six-man season in fine form, demolishing the Hermleigh Cardinals 66-8 here Friday night in the season opener for both teams.

The game was close only at the start. The Mustangs scored 46 points in the first quarter, and 20 more in the second quarter, allowing officials to call the game because of the 45-point rule.

Charles Rhodes scored four TD's to lead the Mustangs, who ended the contest with 279 yards total offense. Jay Johnston, John Young, Albert Franco and Griggs also scored TD's. Linebacker Eric Herm scored on a 22-yard interception return. Johnston, Sands' all-district kicker, kicked six extra points, for a total of 12 points.

The Sands defense limited Hermleigh to 159 yards total offense. Hermleigh's only score came on a 65-yard pass from Mike Martinez to Joel Velasco.

Sands will be on the road again Friday when they take on Buena Vista at 7:30 p.m.

The referee rejected the protest, and the British team appealed to the Jury of Appeals. About 1½ hours after the race, the six-member Jury rejected the appeal, and the original result stood.

Despite Coe's protestations, Ward said the British protested because "this is a team competition. It's not up to Seb. It's up to the team manager."

Coe, who will be 33 on Sept. 29, is expected on Thursday to announce his future plans, probably retirement.

He is scheduled to run the 800 Friday at London and compete in the Commonwealth Games early next year. However, he plans a career in politics, and indications are that he will announce his retirement at the news conference on the eve of the meet in the Crystal Palace.

Quirot followed the fast early pace set by 1988 Olympic champion Sigrun Wodars before whipping past the East German around the final turn and winning by seven meters.

Only Czechoslovakia's Jarmila Kratochvilova, with the world record of 1:53.28 in 1983, and the Soviet Union's Nadezhda Olizarenko, with 1:53.43 in 1980, have run the 800 faster than Quirot, 1987 Pan American Games champion.

Ljudmila Veselkova of the Soviet Union set the old World Cup mark of 1:57.48 in 1981.

"When I saw the time, I almost stopped right there with emotion," said Quirot, who was quickly congratulated by Alberto Juantorena, Cuba's 1976 gold medalist in the men's 400 and 800 meters and now one of the country's major sports leaders.

It was Juantorena who advised Quirot that she could double in the 400 and 800 in this meet — a feat she accomplished in the Pan Am Games two years ago at Indianapolis.

She will try and complete the double again Sunday night in the 400 during the final session of the three-day meet. If she wins, it would be her third gold medal of the meet. Friday night, she anchored the Americas team to victory in the 1,600-meter relay.

East German Cornelia Oschkenat won the women's 100-meter high hurdles in 12.60, the fastest in the world this year and a meet record, for her second straight World Cup title. Her time broke the mark of 12.67 by Grazyna Rabsztyl of Poland in 1979.

Silvia Costa of Cuba won the women's high jump with a meet-record 2.04 meters (6 feet, 8¼ inches). She then made three unsuccessful attempts at a world record 2.10 (6-10¾). In breaking the meet record of 2.00 by Stefka Kostadinova of Bulgaria in 1985, Costa produced the best outdoor jump of the world this year.

Sheila Echols of the United States spoiled Silke Moller's bid for a sprint double, beating the East German in the women's 100 in 11.18. Moller, winner of the 200 Friday night, finished third in 11.24, just behind Mary Onyali of Africa in 11.23.

Another American, Mike Conley, 1985 World Cup long jump champion, won the triple jump at 17.49 (57-4¾), his best of the year and second-best in the world outdoors.

Olympic champion Julius Kariuki of Kenya and the African team won his second straight World Cup title in the men's 3,000-meter steeplechase, clocking 8:20.84.

Other men's winners included France's Philippe Collet in the pole vault at 5.75 (18-10¼); the United States in the 400-meter relay in 38.29, the fastest in the world this year; Olympic champion and world record-holder Jurgen Schult of East Germany in the discus at 67.12 (220-2); Roberto Hernandez of Cuba in the 400 in 44.58, and Heinz Weis of West Germany in the hammer throw at 77.68 (254-10).

The other women's winners were Kathrin Ullrich of East Germany in the 10,000 meters in a meet-record 31:33.92, as she outkicked world record-holder Ingrid Kristiansen of Norway, and Zhihong Huang of China in the shot put at 20.73 (68-0¼), as Olympic champion and world record-holder Natalya Lisovskaya of the Soviet Union finished fourth.

After 14 men's events, the defending champion United States and the Europe Select team were tied for the lead with 96 points each, followed by East Germany with 85.

East Germany, seeking its fourth consecutive women's crown, led with 96 points. The Soviet Union was second with 71 and the Americas third with 67.

North Texas dumps ACU

DENTON (AP) — Scott Davis completed 14 of 18 passes for 194 yards and three touchdowns Saturday night to lead the University of North Texas, ranked No. 3 in the NCAA Division I-AA poll, to a 35-19 victory over Abilene Christian.

North Texas, 1-0, fell behind 10-0 on a 24-yard field goal by Jim Gash and a 2-yard pass from Stan Stephens to Roderick Johnson. But Davis hit Tony Cook with scoring passes of 31 yards and 13 yards in the half's final 4:48 to give North Texas a 14-10 halftime lead.

Davis added a 1-yard run in the third. Vic McGlothlin caught a 23-yard touchdown pass from Davis and Eric Pegram ran 3 yards for another score to put North Texas up 35-13.

Slint Mansaker caught a 23-yard pass from Stephens for ACU, 0-2, but a two-point conversion attempt failed.

Saturday's game drew a crowd of 17,859, the largest for an opener in North Texas coach Corky Nelson's eight seasons.

Huskies upset Aggies

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington unveiled its new one-back, short-passing offense Saturday and, with Cary Conklin doing the passing and Greg Lewis doing most of the running, beat 15th-ranked Texas A&M 19-6.

The Huskies scored only one touchdown, a 22-yard pass from Conklin to Mario Bailey in the opening quarter, but their new-look offense was a major success against a quality opponent. John McCallum kicked four field goals for Washington: from 35, 36, 36 and 37 yards.

Washington's defense, last in the Pacific-10 against the run last season when it gave up an average of 201 yards, held Texas A&M without a touchdown. Layne Talbot kicked a pair of field goals — from 32 and 27 yards — for the Aggies points.

Conklin completed 23 of 37 passes for 224 yards with no interceptions. Lewis had 29 carries for 133 yards. Texas A&M was held to 266 yards, only 77 on the ground.

Aggies quarterback Lance Pavlas completed 18 of 32 passes for 189 yards with one interception. Highly-touted Darren Lewis led Texas A&M's running attack with 52 yards on 15 carries.

Washington's switch to a ball-control, spread-em-out passing offense, with no fullback, was a dramatic change from coach Don James' first 14 seasons in Seattle, when he relied primarily on a power-I formation. Former Idaho head coach Keith Gilbertson has been added to James' coaching staff since the end of last season and he has helped with the infusion of new ideas.

The Huskies used some power-I plays against Texas A&M, but they went mainly with short passes from Conklin and Lewis runs. Conklin's longest pass completion of the day was his 22-yarder to Bailey.

Washington led 13-3 at halftime, getting a pair of McCallum field goals in the final 2:11 of the first half.

Missouri 14, TCU 10

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Kent Kiefer, despite showing enough poise to deliver a touchdown pass in the fourth quarter, declined credit for Missouri's 14-10 victory Saturday in his Tiger debut.

"The defense kept us in this game," Kiefer said following the Big Eight school's comeback against Texas Christian. "I had some breakdowns and mistakes, but the defense ... really came through."

Missouri, while rallying to win its opener under new coach Bob Stull, overcame TCU's 487-284 bulge in total yards.

Kiefer, a junior college transfer, tossed a 6-yard touchdown pass to Jim White with 13:25 remaining to win for Missouri.

"It felt good. I know I made some mistakes (and) had some bad reads, but I'll learn," said Kiefer, who completed 18 of 28 passes for 226 yards with three interceptions. "If we had lost, I would have deserved to be the goat."

Missouri rallied in the final half after Texas Christian ran and passed for 308 yards the first two quarters.

The Tigers rolled 66 yards to their winning touchdown. Kiefer's touchdown pass to White produced Missouri's fourth straight season-opening win and 10th in its last 12.

SEATTLE — Texas A&M quarterback Lance Pavlas (12) rolls out to avoid the rush of a diving Dennis Brown (79) of the University of Washington in first half action Saturday afternoon.

Cedric Jackson's runs and Ron Jiles' passes dominated for TCU in the opening half.

Jackson ran 1 yard for a first-quarter TCU touchdown, and Horned Frog freshman Kevin Cordesman kicked a 41-yard field goal on the first half's final play to put TCU ahead 10-7.

Kiefer started Missouri's march to its winning touchdown with a 14-yard pass to Linzy Collins. The Tigers' quarterback hit tight end Tim Bruton for gains of 9 and 14 yards before unleashing White on a 16-yard run two plays before the score.

Jiles passed for 120 yards and Jackson and Tony Darthard combined for 150 TCU rushing yards in the opening half, but the Horned Frogs' failure to score more than 10 points in the two periods proved crucial at the end.

Jiles, a senior who passed only seven times in 1988 for TCU, completed 19 of 41 against Missouri for 205 yards with one interception.

TCU's quarterback scrambled 26 yards to Missouri's 20 in the closing seconds only to be apparently intercepted on the last play. A procedure penalty gave TCU another chance, but Missouri defenders smothered Jiles' receiver well shy the goal line.

Oklahoma 33, Baylor 7

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Backup quarterback Chris Melson scored once and directed two other first-half touchdown drives Saturday as No. 8 Oklahoma beat Baylor 33-7.

Oklahoma, 2-0, gained 338 yards, all rushing. The Sooners defense held Baylor, 0-1, to 206 yards, only 56 on the ground. The Bears made three first downs in the opening half as Oklahoma went ahead 28-0.

Steve Collins, Oklahoma's starting quarterback, broke the pinky on his right hand on the game's first play, and Melson finished the four-play series. Collins returned on the next possession and led Oklahoma to a touchdown in 11 plays, but wasn't able to return.

Melson, a third-year sophomore, led Oklahoma to a score on his first full series, which was capped by a 19-yard run by Mike Gaddis. Gaddis had scored the Sooners' first touchdown on a 1-yard dive.

Midway through the second quarter, Melson took the Sooners 56 yards for a score and made the big play himself, going 44 yards on an option to the Bears 5. Leon Perry scored two plays later from the 1.

Melson's 1-yard dive on the next possession made it 28-0.

Baylor's only touchdown came in the third quarter on a 2-yard pass from Brad Goebel to Alonzo Pierce.

Texas Tech 24, Arizona 14

LUBBOCK (AP) — Senior James Gray scored two touchdowns and rushed for a career-high 224 yards Saturday night as Texas Tech upset 20th-ranked Arizona 24-14 in the Red Raiders' season opener.

Backup tailback Anthony Lynn provided the game-clinching touchdown from 3 yards out with 8:11 to play as the Red Raiders of the Southwest Conference overcame an early 7-0 deficit to trip the Wildcats of the Pacific 10.

Arizona 1-1 opened its season last week with a 19-3 victory over Stanford.

Gray turned in the second best rushing performance in Texas Tech history, second only to James Hadnot's 268 yards in 1978. He carried 34 times.

The Red Raiders struck for two touchdowns in a 51-second span in the second quarter to take a 14-7 halftime lead.

Arizona seized a 7-0 lead on quarterback Ron Veal's 1-yard run early in the second quarter. Veal set up the score with passes of 21 and 19 yards.

Gray retaliated with a 26-yard scoring run to cap an 80-yard drive as Tech tied the score at 7 with 3:06 to go in the half.

Tech defensive end Marcus Washington recovered David Eldridge's fumble at the Wildcats 23, and Gray scored two plays later on a 14-yard run, bringing his school-record career touchdown total to 34.

The Red Raiders missed another chance on the final play of the first half when Arnulf Mobley blocked Lin Elliott's 40-yard field goal attempt.

In the first half, Tech drives that stalled at the Arizona 29, 17, 26 and 10-yard line failed to produce points.

Gray gained 163 yards on 21 carries in the first half.

Arizona's Mario Hampton tied the game 14-14 with a 2-yard scoring run in the third period but Elliott's 29-yard field goal, set up by Gray's 20-yard run, gave Tech the lead in the fourth quarter.

Tech had 367 yards rushing, most since 1986.

The Red Raiders lead the series 26-4-2.

Tulane 20, Rice 19

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was a split-second decision on a pass that was supposed to be thrown to someone else, but it worked, and Tulane came away with a 20-19 victory over Rice.

Deron Smith hit Michael Pierce with an 18-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter to give Tulane the victory after Rice had led from the opening minutes of the game Saturday night.

Both teams are 1-1.

The winning touchdown was set up by an interception by Mitchell Price, who picked off a pass by Donald Hollas at the Rice 35-yard line and returned it 12 yards. Two running plays picked up six yards, and Smith hit Pierce from there.

The rest of Tulane's scoring came on a 7-yard run by Stanley Barre in the first quarter, after Rice had taken a 9-0 lead.

Lady Steers fall in district opener

SEMINOLE — The Big Spring Lady Steers won two and lost two in the Seminole volleyball tournament this weekend.

But more importantly, one of the games Big Spring lost was a district match. Big Spring's tournament-opener against Monahans was counted as the district-opener for both teams. Monahans won the match 15-9, 16-14.

"After I looked at the film, if I didn't know better, I would've thought we won," said Lady Steers coach Lois Ann McKenzie. "We really didn't play that bad. We played good offense and no defense, and Monahans played good defense and no offense."

The Lady Steers rebounded with a 15-13, 5-15, 15-10 over host Seminole. In that match freshman Amber Fannin scored 14 points.

Big Spring won their third match also, beating Levelland 15-10, 15-4.

In the consolation semi-finals against Fort Stockton, Big Spring fell 8-15, 10-15. The Lady Steers blew a 9-3 lead in the second game.

"We just lost our concentration and fell apart," said McKenzie. "It seems we are either real good or real bad, there's no in-between."

The Lady Steers' record is now 0-1 in district play and 8-10 overall.

The Lady Steers will be in district action Tuesday when they travel to San Angelo to play the San Angelo Lake View Maidens. Junior varsity begins at 6:30 p.m. And varsity plays follows at 7:30.

Howard Payne nips Lobos

BROWNWOOD (AP) — Freshman tailback Josh Morrow rushed for 96 yards Saturday to lead Howard Payne to a 13-0 victory over Sul Ross State. It was Howard Payne's first win over the Lobos in five years and their first shutout in nine years.

Morrow scored on a one-yard run with 6:59 left in the second quarter.

North Carolina 49, VMI 7

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Senior quarterback Jonathan Hall completed 13 of 24 passes for 167 yards and two touchdowns to lead North Carolina to a 49-7 victory over Virginia Military Institute Saturday.

The Tar Heels also ground out 318 yards rushing, led by Eric Blount, who had 102 yards and two touchdowns. Randy Jordan ran for 98 yards and another score while fullback Michael Benefield also scored two touchdowns.

Up 28-0 at halftime, North and Jarrod Summers hit Scott Russell for a seven-yard touchdown pass with 2:09 left in the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association game.

Morrow led all rushers in the game with 96 yards on 19 carries. John Hope led Sul Ross with 71 yards on 20 carries.

Carolina scored early in the third quarter on Benefield's 17-yard touchdown run.

With 6:30 left in the third quarter, North Carolina took possession of the ball at the VMI 47 and ran through the Keydet defense in four plays, taking a 42-0 lead on Jordan's 6-yard run.

Blount's 33-yard run late in the third quarter gave the Tar Heels a 49-0 lead and capped a 75-yard, six-play drive.

VMI, 0-2, got its only score when running back Marcus Mines dove into the end zone from the 1-yard line.

Virginia upsets No. 12 ranked Nittany Lions

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Clemson tailback Terry Allen leaps for a first quarter touchdown against Florida State Saturday night in second quarter action.

By The Associated Press

Penn State had its first losing season in 50 years in 1988. The 1989 season didn't start any better.

Shawn Moore threw two first-half touchdown passes to Herman Moore as Virginia upset the 12th-ranked Nittany Lions 14-6 Saturday. Penn State, which managed only two second-half field goals by Ray Tarasi, lost for the sixth time in seven games — its worst stretch in Joe Paterno's 23 years as coach. "I'm disappointed but not discouraged," Paterno said. "We're not good enough right now to beat Virginia. I don't think it's a crushing defeat. It's a disappointment certainly. You always like to start the season with a good, solid win."

Shawn Moore completed 14 of 25 passes for 194 yards and two touchdowns for Virginia, 1-1. Herman Moore, to whom Shawn is not related, caught four passes for 73 yards.

"I really believe that my team played well," Paterno said. "With all the shifts in personnel and position, a lot of freshmen in there in a tough game, I thought they handled themselves well."

"I think there's a lot of promising things around. I was pleased with the way some of these kids hung in there. It's a young team and I would hope they would bounce

George Seifert has Bill Walsh and Phil Bengtson on his mind.

Bengtson took over Green Bay in 1968 when they were coming off a Super Bowl victory in Vince Lombardi's last game as coach; the Packers didn't even make the playoffs.

That was the only other time a new coach took over a defending champion, and until Seifert does better, that's precedent.

Bengtson, though, had an excuse. He inherited a lot of players who were on the downside of their careers.

"We've got awfully good football players," Seifert said.

Seifert, 49, was defensive coordinator on the 49ers for six years, so he should know.

He is one of five new head coaches who will make regular-season debuts Sunday. Up to now, it's been getting ready for the big day, the real thing.

The 49ers open the defense of their championship in Indianapolis against the Colts.

Jimmy Johnson, who came out of the college ranks, at Miami, is only the second coach in the Dallas Cowboys' 30-year history. Tom Landry was the coach for the previous 29 openers. Dallas is at New Orleans after going 3-1 in the exhibition season.

"I hope people don't read too much in to the preseason record," Johnson said. "We're a long way from being a winning football team."

Bud Carson, who built a reputation as a defensive genius for other teams, was given his first NFL head coaching opportunity at age 58 by the Cleveland Browns. He will be debuting in Pittsburgh against the Steelers, his first NFL stop on his way to the top.

"I've waited long, but it's worth it," Carson said.

Marty Schottenheimer, who preceded Carson at Cleveland, has moved to the Kansas City Chiefs, opening against the Broncos in Denver.

Schottenheimer, with the Browns, had success — four straight playoff appearances and the best record in the AFC over the past three years — but the frustration of getting knocked out of the playoffs early.

Dan Henning debuts as coach of the San Diego Chargers, succeeding Al Saunders. The Chargers, and their new quarterback, Jim McMahon, play the Raiders in Los Angeles.

Seifert seems best off among the newcomers in one respect — the talent he inherited.

On the other hand, succeeding a brainy coach like Walsh, his coaching talents will be put to the comparison test. But quarterback Joe Montana sees that as a plus, too.

"Right from the beginning, you know all the comparisons are going to be made between George and Bill, so I think this helped the concentration level," Montana said when training camp opened. "Everybody wants to do well for him. Bill was a great coach, but we have to go on without him. It shouldn't be the end of the 49ers because somebody leaves."

Montana makes no secret of his joy at getting the chance to prove he can win without Walsh. In his 1986 book "Audibles," Montana complained that Walsh encouraged the thinking that his system rather than the quarterback's was the key to the team's success.

"I think this change will be a good one," Montana said.

Cubs stay in first

CHICAGO (AP) — Luis Salazar, who singled home the tying run in the eighth inning, doubled home the winning run in the 10th as the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 Saturday and held onto first place in the National League East.

The victory gave the Cubs a 1½-game lead over St. Louis.

With one out in the 10th, Andre Dawson drew a walk off Ken Dayley, 3-2, the fourth St. Louis pitcher, and Salazar followed with his double into the right-field corner.

Paul Assenmacher, 3-3, the fifth Chicago pitcher, was the winner with one hitless inning.

Trailing 2-1, the Cubs tied it in the eighth with an unearned run. Dwight Smith led off with a single, the fifth hit off Jose DeLeon. Right fielder Tom Brunansky held the ball as if to dare Smith to try for second. Smith took the dare and was safe when Brunansky's throw was wide for an error.

Frank DiPino relieved and struck out Mark Grace. Dan Quisenberry retired Dawson on a grounder but Salazar, acquired in a trade with San Diego late last month, followed with a single that scored the tying run.

Chicago's Rick Sutcliffe blanked the Cardinals until the sixth when Pedro Guerrero singled with one out and took second on a wild pitch as Terry Pendleton struck out.

Brunansky singled to score Guerrero with the tying run, stole second and scored on Jose Oquendo's single.

That wiped out a lead the Cubs had nursed since the first inning when Jerome Walton singled, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on a suicide squeeze by Smith.

The Cubs wasted a chance in the second when Vance Law tripled with one out, but Shawon Dunston grounded out and Joe Girardi struck out.

The Cardinals loaded the bases in the first inning but Brunansky struck out. Ozzie Smith tripled with one out in the third but Sutcliffe fanned Milt Thompson and Guerrero grounded out.

The Cubs had another chance in the sixth. Mark Grace walked but was caught attempting to steal. With two outs, Law walked and Dunston singled, but pinch hitter Marvell Wynne flied out.

Sutcliffe allowed seven hits in seven innings before leaving for a pinch hitter.

Braves 2, Reds 1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tom Glavine pitched a three-hitter over eight scoreless innings as the Atlanta Braves snapped a five-game losing streak Saturday with a 2-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Glavine, 13-8, surrendered a single and double to Todd Benzing and a single to Joe Oliver. He was relieved by Dwayne Henry after walking pinch hitter Barry Larkin to start the bottom of the ninth.

The Reds scored on Henry's wild pitch and an RBI single by Luis Quinones that extended his hitting streak to 17 games. Eric Davis forced Quinones and then stole second but Henry got his first National League save by striking out Benzing and Oliver.

At 23, Glavine is the youngest Braves left-hander to win 13 games since George Stone, also 23, won 13 in 1969.

Reds starter Tim Leary, 8-13, lost his fourth in a row and his record fell to 2-6 since coming to the Reds from the Los Angeles Dodgers on July 18. Leary struck out 11, most by a Cincinnati pitcher this season, but the Reds have scored only five runs in his six losses.

Leary gave up only one run four hits but two of them came in the fourth inning. Jeff Treadway led off with a single and advanced to third on Lonnie Smith's double to right. After Dale Murphy walked, Treadway scored on Darrell Evans' sacrifice fly. Treadway's hit extended his career-high hitting streak to 15 games.

The Braves added what proved to be the winning run off John Franco in the ninth. With one out, singles by Jeff Blauser and Andres Thomas put runners at first and third and Jody Davis hit a sacrifice fly.

Pirates 8, Mets 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Bonilla hit his second home run of the game with one out in the 12th inning and Dann Bilardello and Jose Lind singled home unearned runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the New York Mets 8-5 Saturday.

New York, which entered the game trailing first-place Chicago by 2½ games and St. Louis by two, had rallied from a 5-1 deficit to tie the score on Howard Johnson's two-run homer in the eighth.

After reliever Jeff Innis, 0-1, struck out Andy Van Slyke to start the 12th, Bonilla hit a 1-1 pitch for his 22nd home run. It was the fourth time in his career that he hit two homers in a game.

Astros 4, Giants 1

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Scott became the first 19-game winner in the National League and won his 100th game as a Houston pitcher in a 4-1 victory over San Francisco on Saturday night.

But the only numbers that mean anything to Scott are 5, 4 and 3.

The victory cut San Francisco's lead to five games over the Astros in the National League West. A victory on Sunday would give the Astros a three-game sweep and pull them within four games of the lead.

"They (Giants) can say it's a big lead, but they've got to be thinking about it. I know I would be," said Scott, 19-8, who pitched a three-hitter and lost his shutout in the ninth inning on a walk to Brett Butler, a stolen base and Kevin Mitchell's two-out single, his 116th RBI. The 19 victories and nine complete games are career highs.

San Francisco manager Roger Craig, who taught Scott the splitter fastball, accused the pitcher of scuffing the ball in the sixth inning with Will Clark hitting.

CHICAGO — Chicago Cubs Shawon Dunston gets hugged at the plate by teammate Andre Dawson after Dawson scored the winning run on a single by Luis Salazar to beat the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday in the 10th inning.

Johnson's home runs have been hit from the seventh inning on. Pirates starter Jeff Robinson had an RBI single in a two-run second inning and a two-run homer off David Cone in the fourth to give the Pirates a 5-1 lead. Robinson pitched five innings and allowed seven hits and three runs — only one earned because of two errors by third baseman Bonilla, who hit his first homer in the third inning. Cone yielded five runs and eight hits in four innings.

Kansas City stays close to Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bret Saberhagen pitched three-hit ball through eight innings Saturday night, becoming the American League's second 18-game winner, and Bo Jackson had three RBIs as the Kansas City Royals beat the Minnesota Twins 3-1.

AL

Jackson had a pair of doubles to enable the Royals to remain 3½ games behind Oakland in the AL West. The loser was Rick Aguilera, 1-4.

Saberhagen, 18-6, had one walk and six strikeouts in winning for the ninth time in his last 10 starts and lowering his league-leading ERA to 2.47. The right-hander's victory total trails only Oakland's Dave Stewart, who has 19. Since May 4 when he was 2-3, Saberhagen has gone 16-13 in 23 starts.

Jeff Montgomery pitched the ninth for his 17th save, completing a combined four-hitter.

Kevin Seitzer opened the Kansas

City first with a single and went to second when George Brett hit a one-out single. Jackson then doubled into center to score both runs.

Willie Wilson singled in the third, went to second on an infield out and made it 3-0 on Jackson's second double.

Saberhagen retired the first nine Twins before Dan Gladden tripled down the left-field line to open the fourth. After Chip Hale struck out, Kirby Puckett brough in Gladden with a groundout.

White Sox 13, Tigers 3

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit right fielder Scott Lusader tied a major-league record by committing three errors in Chicago's seven-run first inning and the White Sox snapped the Tigers' seven-game winning streak 13-3 Saturday.

Lusader, fighting the sun and a turf made soggy by heavy overnight rains, committed two fielding errors and one throwing error. He is the eighth major-league outfielder to commit three errors in an inning and the first in the American League since 1925.

The last Tiger outfielder to commit three errors in an inning was Hall of Famer Harry Heilmann, who did it in the first inning on game May 22, 1914.

Winner Melido Perez, 9-14, yielded three runs and eight hits in 6 1-3 innings. Detroit starter Jeff Robinson, 4-5, left the game with a sore right elbow after throwing 11 pitches. He walked the first two batters, both of whom scored, although Edwin Nunez completed the second walk.

Robinson walked Lance Johnson on a full count to start the game and went 3-0 on Scott Fletcher before leaving. Ivan Calderon doubled Johnson home and Carlos Martinez hit a sacrifice fly to right and ended up on second when Lusader dropped the ball for his first error.

Daryl Boston singled to right, scoring Calderon, and Martinez also scored when Lusader threw the ball to the wall behind home plate for another error.

Steve Lyons was intentionally between strikeouts by Sammy Sosa and Ron Karkovice, loading the bases. Ozzie Guillen singled to right scoring Boston. When the ball got past Lusader for his third error, Lyons went to third and Guillen continued to second. Johnson, up for the second time in the inning, singled them home for a 7-0 lead.

Guillen doubled and scored on Johnson's single in the Chicago third and Lou Whitaker hit his 28th home run in the Detroit third. Whitaker added an RBI double in the seventh but the White Sox scored five times off Frank Williams in the eighth on Boston's RBI single and Lyons' first career grand slam, his second homer of the season.

Brewers 7, Mariners 3

SEATTLE (AP) — Paul Molitor went 5-for-5 and George Canale's run-scoring single broke a fourth-inning tie as the Milwaukee Brewers beat Seattle 7-3 Saturday night, handing the Mariners their 10th straight loss in the Kingdom.

It was Milwaukee's fourth straight victory and Seattle's fifth loss in a row. The Mariners' 10 straight defeats at home is a club record. The Mariners last month tied a club record with 12 losses in a row.

The loss was also the 19th in the last 23 games for the fading Mariners.

With the Mariners in front 3-2 after three innings, the Brewers tied the score off Erik Hanson, 6-5, with a two-out single by B.J. Surhoff and a double by Greg Vaughn to score Surhoff from first base. Canale followed with his single.

Surhoff doubled and Vaughn singled for Milwaukee's first run in the second inning. The Brewers got their second run in the third when Canale reached first on shortstop Mario Diaz's fielding error, was sacrificed to second by Mike Felder and scored on Molitor's single.

The Brewers, who collected 16 hits, added an insurance run in the seventh on consecutive singles by Bill Spiers, Molitor and Robin Yount. Molitor's five-hit game tied a career high, matching his performance on July 22, 1983.

Graf too tough for Martina; wins Open

NEW YORK (AP) — It wasn't a Grand Slam. It felt just as good.

Steffi Graf won her third major tournament of the year Saturday, beating the heat and Martina Navratilova 3-6, 7-5, 6-1 in the U.S. Open final. The only blemish on the top seed's record in Slam events this year was a final-round loss to Arantxa Sanchez Vicario in the French Open.

"It's very difficult to play in the four tournaments and do the best you can," said Graf, who held a 5-3 lead in the third set of the final at Paris. "I'm very happy I won another three. That's incredible."

"There was nothing I could do about (the French). I was sick at the end of the tournament and I lost too much energy. At 5-3 in the third set, my cramps were so bad I couldn't do anything about it."

The match Saturday ended with an ace on a second serve by Graf, who then sprinted to the courtside boxes to hug her father and several others. She also signaled to a group of fans high in the stadium that had been chanting her name throughout the 1 hour, 50 minute match.

Graf has won seven of the last eight majors — the third woman to do so and first since Margaret Smith Court in 1969-70 — while Navratilova hasn't won one since the 1987 Open when she beat Graf for the title.

The 20-year-old Graf has won each of the Grand Slam titles twice.

NEW YORK — Steffi Graf of West Germany backhands a shot to Martina Navratilova of the United States in the finals of the U.S. Open

the court, came less than 24 hours after Graf suffered leg cramps at the end of her semifinal match with Gabriela Sabatini. But, as usual, Graf was relentless Saturday, showing no signs of any lingering health problems.

"Yesterday, I thought I was going to lose it, I played so bad," Graf said. "I didn't see any way out of it."

Nor did it appear there were many ways out when Navratilova surged into the lead.

"She really had it all going for her," Graf said of Navratilova. "After such a tough match yesterday, I just hung in and gave it all I had."

It was enough, and Graf celebrated a near-Slam.

Men's final

today

Becker vs. Lendl

Navratilova failed to win a major for the second straight year. The 32-year-old No. 2 seed was trying to become the oldest woman to win the Open and had rededicated herself with a stringent training regimen.

She even was up a set and a break, but wilted. Graf broke four of six service games in the second and third sets.

Navratilova has been beaten by Graf the last three times they've met, although Navratilova holds a 7-6 lifetime edge. It was Graf's first win here over Navratilova.

The first set went on serve through seven games. Graf had three break points in the third game, but Navratilova saved them and held with an ace.

She broke Graf in the eighth game at love and then held serve at love to take the opening set. Navratilova, serving superbly, hit 82 percent of her first serves in the set.

Navratilova blew a break point in the first game of the second set, then broke in the third game after once again easily holding serve.

Graf couldn't take advantage of two break points in the next game, but she did break in the eighth game to make it 4-4.

Wolves whip Bucks

ODESSA — The Colorado City Wolves began their season on the right foot, defeating the Alpine Bucks 21-7 here Saturday night at Ratliff Stadium.

The Wolves unleashed a powerful running attack, led by Tracy Edwards, a 235-pound tackle-converted fullback. Edwards rambled for 101 yards in 15 carries.

The Colorado City defense played an almost flawless game. Its only fatal mistake was allowing Alpine quarterback Danny Rojas to run 79 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter.

Colorado City struck first in the opening quarter. Edwards scored on a 23-yard run. Dane Hoover booted the extra point, giving the Wolves a 7-0 lead.

The Wolves added another TD in the second quarter. After quarter-

Colorado City closed out the scoring in the fourth quarter. Edwards scored on a 4-yard plunge. He also rambled in for the two-point conversion.

Ramsey rushed for 41 yards in eight carries for the Wolves, while Green added 36 yards in two totes.

The Wolves will be on the road again Friday when they travel to Seminole to take on the Indians.

Lobos win battle of New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Terance Mathis scored on a 96-yard kickoff return, caught two touchdown passes and became the all-time leading receiver in Western Athletic Conference history Saturday in New Mexico's 45-13 win over New Mexico State.

New Mexico is 1-1, while New Mexico State is 0-2.

The 5-foot-9 Mathis, a third-team All American in 1987 who sat out last season with academic problems, caught just three passes but ran his career total to 186. His second catch of the night, a 22-yard scoring reception from Jeremy Leach, broke the previous WAC mark of 184 catches by Colorado State's Jeff Champine from 1980-83.

Mathis also pulled in a 4-yard scoring toss from Leach, who was 12 of 21 for 148 yards. But it was Mathis' return of an Aggie kickoff with 10:11 left in the third quarter that broke it open.

New Mexico State had gotten on the scoreboard 13 seconds earlier on a 36-yard field goal by junior Dat Ly, who also booted a 49-yarder in the fourth quarter.

Mathis took the ensuing kickoff, sidestepped a couple of NMS

Big Spring businesses open, expand, change ownership

Corral expansion

BIG SPRING — The Golden Corral Restaurant on FM 700 is planning a major expansion, according to manager Ralph Johnson.

The date hasn't been set but Johnson says the building addition will be able to accommodate 85 people and will include an entrance near the new parking lot currently under construction north of the present building.

"It's needed," Johnson said Saturday. "Business here has always been good but this is something we've been working on for a couple of years now. It's just been approved by the company."

Johnson has been manager at the Big Spring restaurant for two years. "Business has continually increased," he said. "It has grown ever since the store was placed here five or six years ago. The annual sales just keep increasing every year."

Business beat

wiches opened in the Big Spring Mall last Friday — the first Sante Fe sandwich shop for a company that hopes to make good with franchises.

"We couldn't ask for any better business," said restaurant manager Sharon Dodson. "It's great."

Dodson says the slogan for the shop is "The best food that's good for you", but don't think it's a health food restaurant.

"It's not health food, it's healthy," Dodson says. That healthy food includes a salad bar filled with salads, fruit and soup to go along with a wide menu of sandwiches.

The restaurant also features low fat Columbo yogurt and what Dodson says is their most popular item — fruit shakes.

The best selling meal is the Com-

BIG SPRING — Ralph Johnson, the manager of the Golden Corral stands in front of a lot that is being leveled as part of an expansion project at the restaurant. The lot will become the parking lot, with the building being expanding into the current parking lot. No starting date on the building expansion has been named, but it could begin as soon as Thanksgiving.

anche Combo, Dodson says, which consists of a half sandwich, and a choice of soup or salad.

"A lot of people are coming in just to eat at the restaurant," said Dodson, who said many of these customers are also mall employees. "It started out just great Friday and Saturday, and on Sunday we're open from 12 to 5 p.m., an hour earlier than the mall hours."

Sante Fe Sandwich shops are owned by Tim Jewett of Midland. Ron Morgan was designer for the stores, and Dodson said the next Sante Fe Sandwich store is scheduled to open in the Lubbock mall in the near future.

Hallmark owners

BIG SPRING — New owners of the Hallmark store at Big Spring Mall say business has been good.

Ricky and Deborah Suggs took over ownership of the business on August 1.

They purchased the business from Ralph and Jeannette Henderson, who owned both Hallmark stores in Big Spring at one time.

"Hallmarks aren't really a franchise store," Deborah said. "You agree to buy the Hallmark cards exclusively and you have to carry the majority of Hallmark products in your store."

The Suggs store features "lots of gifts," cards, albums, stationery and a "big selection of other things."

"We're adding new merchandise all the time," Suggs said. "We want to do some minor remodeling. I definitely think Big Spring Mall is growing... with the opening of Sears and Sante Fe Sandwiches it will continue to improve."

Eagle resigns

BIG SPRING — Chamber of Commerce Convention/Visitors Manager Toni Eagle has resigned from that position according to Chamber Executive Vice-President Wayne Moore.

"Toni has contributed to the positive actions of the 1989 Focus on Results projects," Moore said. He mentioned in particular the "What's Happening in Big Spring"

Number 267-2727; the TRAX System, a tie into the State of Texas Tourist inquiries by computer; Highway Department Information Boards and the recently completed postcard contest.

A search for her replacement will be continued by the Chamber office, according to Chamber President Hooper Sanders.

Eagle has resigned the position to get married and will move out of Big Spring.

"Being a part of the Big Spring team and working with the many volunteers that comprise the many committees of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce has been rewarding," Eagle said. "Convention/Visitors programs are dependent on the total economic development program that the Chamber Board of Directors provides to meet the goals of the community and Chamber membership."

"I have enjoyed the opportunity to be involved in the total effort to build a strong economy. I have gained invaluable knowledge on how each part of the economy must be developed with consideration of the total community. The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is a professional organization with clearly defined programs and goals."

Moore said Eagle may continue in her job until mid-November.

Expansion

MIDLAND — Raj K. Reddy, M.D. of Big Spring has announced the expansion of offices and services to include a satellite office in Midland at 3310 Wadley.

"This expansion will offer more convenience for all of our patients in the Permian Basin area," Reddy said. "We will continue our practices in Big Spring as before, but will be able to offer a choice to our patients for both office and hospital location."

According to the patient's preference, surgeries and procedures may continue to be scheduled at Scenic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring, or at Midland Memorial Hospital in Midland.

"We will be providing the same services as we have in the past at both locations," Reddy said, "including all aspects of Orthopedic and Anesthesia practice." The Midland office opened Aug. 21.

Sandwich shop

BIG SPRING — Sante Fe Sand-

BIG SPRING — Henderson's Hallmark in the Big Spring Mall has changed hands and is now called Suggs Hallmark. The new owners are Ricky and Deborah Suggs, who officially took over the business on August 1.

BIG SPRING — Sharon Dodson is the manager of the Sante Fe Sandwiches in the Big Spring Mall which serves soups and salads as well as sandwiches. The shop opened September 1 and is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 12 noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Hitch-n-Post open, house celebrates 10th anniversary

Custom-framing is a specialty at Hitch-n-Post with a full line of mats and ready made frames in stock. Ernestine Day, owner, shows some examples. Hitch-n-Post will celebrate its 10th anniversary September 14 and 15 with an open house for new and old customers "to show our appreciation."

The Hitch-n-Post, 1601 E. FM 700, celebrates its 10th anniversary with a two-day open house September 14 and 15, according to the owner, Ernestine Day.

"I want to extend an invitation to all my present and past customers — and prospective new customers, as well — to drop by for refreshments and a visit," says Ernestine. Visitors can register for a variety of prizes to be given away during the open house, "to show my appreciation for their business."

Located in a weathered Old West-style building, the Hitch-n-Post has long been a mecca for shoppers looking for arts and crafts supplies. The shelves are filled with instruction books, patterns, school art supplies, floss, hoops, needles, buttons, pompoms, shells, iron-ons, fabric glue, ribbons, beads, paints, counted cross stitch supplies, and 1001 items to fill every creative urge.

Plus the store goes one step further — it provides assistance in putting it all together. There is a roomy classroom in the back where arts workshops and instruction classes are held. And Ernestine will give you tips or basic instructions and answer your questions — "We try to offer personalized service."

The biggest fad is still painted clothing, the owner says, and the store carries T-shirts and sweat shirts suitable for creative designs. Ernestine can give basic instructions, but she suggests signing up for a clothing painting class.

Custom-framing is a specialty, with a full line of mats and ready made frames in stock. The store offers a vacuum mounting process, especially appropriate for prints, maps and posters. "You can frame them, or simply hang the items unframed."

Many places sell arts and crafts items, says Ernestine. "But we feel what our store offers is unique — we teach the customer how to do it, and we're always here to help them." The store serves customers of all ages.

To register for any classes — such as adult art classes in oils, watercolors and pastels; art classes for children; earring design; fabric painting or other classes for which there is a demand — call 263-0783 or go by the Hitch-n-Post.

The store is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 to 5:30; and on Saturday from 9:30 to 1 p.m. Ernestine's daughter, Marsha Bishop, works there parttime.

Quarterback's dreams helped others reach for the stars

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A lot of kids have their heads in the clouds, dreaming about what they want to be when they grow up. Some want to be sports heroes, others astronauts.

Big Spring High School graduate Charley Johnson decided to be a football star, playing quarterback for the St. Louis Cardinals, Houston Oilers and Denver Broncos.

But he still kept his head in the clouds. He was more than a star on the field. His dreams have helped mankind reach for the stars.

While attending Washington University in between games to earn a doctorate in chemical engineering, he wrote a dissertation on the preparation and processing of plastics that are used on space shuttles and on the cones of re-entry vehicles.

Polyimadazopyrrolone is a high-temperature plastic combined

"It's being used now as the heat-deflection shingles on the belly of the space shuttle. They put them on there to deflect the heat. They were put on the nose cone of re-entry vehicles." — Charley Johnson, ex quarterback from other plastics, said the former 1963 all-pro quarterback who was in Big Spring last week to address Leadership Big Spring and the United Way kickoff banquet.

"It's being used now as the heat-deflection shingles on the belly of the space shuttle," he said. "They put them on there to deflect the heat. They were put on the nose cone of re-entry vehicles."

"It was a tremendous problem at the time. NASA, Monsanto Chemical Company and Washington University were all involved in it and I got the assignment," he said.

"I put it all together with what they'd done." He said he was also involved with some of the research.

Today Johnson spends his time running the two companies he owns: Johnson Compression Services in Houston which leases and rents compressor equipment to oil companies and Double Eagle Corporation in Hooker, Okla., a company which processes feed-lot additives for cattle.

He is president of Johnson Compression Services and vice-president of marketing for Double Eagle Corporation. In addition, he is a warranty representative in Houston for an Irving-based company.

He said the company, the Charles Johnson Agency, has extended warranties for "anything that turns, spins or runs."

Johnson, 50, lives with his wife Barbara in Houston. They have two children: Craig, 26 and Jill, 24.

He said he makes it back to Big Spring about 3-4 times a year. "I enjoy it," he said. Though he added, "I hate to see the economy so bad."

He predicts a healthy economy for the oil business and Big Spring in the next decade due to the deregulation of gas. "I think the price of natural gas is going to rise to a level on a par of $20 a barrel," he said.

"I think it will rise and stay very stable at least over the next 10-20 years. Oil ought to settle around $20," he said.

The right hander said he gets out to throw the football around once in a while but the remnants of 12 surgeries, four on each knee and four on the left shoulder will not let him take it too serious.

"I'm not real anxious to play any sandlot games," he said. "I'm much more likely to be on the golf course where I won't get hit," he chuckled.

Does football have anything to do with having a good business sense? "Probably in how you handle difficult situations and the patience when trying to get something done and done right," he answered.

Texas wines get added attention

COLLEGE STATION — Texas, commonly known for livestock production, is gaining notoriety in another area — the grape and wine industry.

"Grapes grow naturally in Texas, so the onslaught of the wine industry was imminent," said Dr. George Ray McEachern, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Thirteen of the twenty-six species which grow around the world are native to Texas."

Texas now boasts about 7,000 acres of grapes, and 30 wineries are producing more than half a million gallons of wine a year, McEachern said. That's up from 6,300 gallons in 1975.

"Not only is Texas producing more wine each year, but it's also of high quality," McEachern said. "In recent years Texas wines have captured a number of awards."

The Howard County Health Fair was conducted Saturday at the Canterbury Retirement Center, with several different testing stations, and doctors examining the final results. Building a cabin in the Davis Mountains

Tumbleweed Smith

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH
 In 1975 we purchased some land in the Davis Mountains, which I consider to be the most scenic part of Texas. In previous years I had found all sorts of reasons to get to the mountains. I fell in love with the area the first time I went there.
 Our place is in a mountain range between Fort Davis and Valentine. When we bought the land there was a mobile home on it which used butane gas. Electricity was provided by a gasoline-powered generator. A number of mice lived in the mobile home.
 The butane gas was a problem. The fumes were smelly and made us sick. The generator held only enough gas to last four hours. In cold weather we would freeze until I trudged up the mountain at 3 a.m. to put more gas in the generator, which was always hard to start.
 We struggled along for a couple of years, going down to the mountains whenever we could. We spent a lot of time sightseeing so we wouldn't have to stay in the mobile home.
 In 1977 a lady wanted to buy our mobile home and move it to some land she had purchased. We let her myself, both above drinking age.

 The first thing we did was to buy $2,000 worth of lumber from a man who was tearing down an old hangar at what was once an Air Force base. The lumber was heart pine and was 2 by 6's of various lengths. They were actually posts. Four of the 2 by 6's had been nailed together. It was our job to pry them apart and get them into single boards.
 Because we had other interests and couldn't devote full-time to the project, the lumber sometimes was stacked up for months at a time. Once we went down to work and found a rattlesnake had taken up residence in the lumber. We dispatched it with a pry bar, hung it up and took a picture of it.
 We bought a 1954 Chevrolet pickup to haul stuff down to the mountains. We loaded it unmercifully and had flats all the time. We made friends with lots of passing motorists who stopped to help. More than once we nearly lost control while going down a steep hill. The heavy load on the trailer we were pulling was like being pushed by an 18 wheeler.
 It seemed to rain every time we went down to work on the cabin. The pickup provided the only roof at the building site. So the four of us along with Shelby, our border collie, would stay in the cab until the rain quit.

 We learned all about barge rafters and plumb bobs and right angles. Terms such as square and level took on completely new meanings. At one point the house go so crooked we called in a carpenter to straighten it up. He wrapped the entire house in a big cable and used a come along to get it looking good again.
 We hired different people to do the plumbing, the electricity, the fireplace and the carpet laying. Everything else we did ourselves. The stairs leading up to the sleeping loft were the most difficult part of it. We studied stairs for about a month, then finally asked a man at a lumber company for help.
 We finished our cabin in stucco, which we learned to do from a friend in Andrews. Our cabin took three years to build. But I think it's the best thing we ever did. We all learned a lot more than just how to build a cabin.

Howard County Fair is county event

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

The annual Howard County Fair, which will be conducted up the week of Sept. 18-23, culminates a year's work by a board of directors, headed by its President Skipper Driver, and a host of "Friends of the Fair," and community volunteers.

The directors, which include: Arnold Marshall, chairman of the board; second vice-presidents, Jewell Tubb and Bob Nichols. Each of the vice presidents have division chairmen directly under them, composed of the remaining directors, including, Mark Morgan, Laverne Gaskins, Zula Rhodes, Repps Guitar, Tom Koger, R.G. Click, Ruth Mitchel, Jewell Tubb, Danny Wright, Howard Armstrong, Don Richardson, Geraldine Posey, Jerry Roman, Wayne Rock, Sonny Choate, and Naomi Hunt who serves in an advisory capacity.

The fair also assisted by a group of supporters known as "Friends of the Fair" who contribute in several ways. Volunteers also assist in many departments.
 The Fair itself is offering "Something for Everyone" — and in deed it does. It is the only community event that actually involves groups and individuals from all representative interests throughout the county.

Ask the agent

This year's fair features school enrichment programs each day for kindergarten and elementary classes, a queen's contest, professional entertainment, including Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys, and the all time favorite Clyde Foley Cummins, Nashville, Tenn.

A rock band, "Caution" is also featured this year and the popular petting zoo will return to delight people of all ages.
 County schools will be seeking the honor of champion in the Battle of the Cheerleaders. The 4-H Club will be conducting its omelet supper again this year and there will be a bar-b-que cook-off. A mule show, horse show, Santa Gertrudis cattle, junior steers and lambs and a pet show will be featured for those interested in livestock.

Kids will be shown off in the Country Kids contest and artists and photographers will again be featured in the art show. Educational exhibits, commercial booths and plenty of a variety of foods are an integral part of any county fair and will be so at the Howard County presentation.

Farmers and home gardeners will have the opportunity to exhibit their best produce in the agricultural products show. Cotton farmers will be competing for a $100 award for the best stalk of cotton exhibited.

The best cooks, seamstresses and home crafters will also have the chance to show off their skills and talents in the women's divisions.

The best feature of all, perhaps, is the opportunity a county fair offers the people in the community to get out of the house, postpone or miss a meeting or two and see and visit a lot of friends on an easy, unhurried leisurely basis.

If you are interested in participating in some of the events, details can be found in rules and regulations available at the County Extension Office at the Howard County Courthouse.

Be picky with international cuisine

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

The cuisine of every nation includes both healthy and not-so-healthy practices.

In this country, where the availability and variety of food is unmatched anywhere in the world, we have an exciting opportunity to draw from the best that other national cuisines have to offer.

By incorporating the best and avoiding the rest, we make healthy eating an international adventure.

Tips for healthful eating around the world include the following:

- The cuisine of nations with access to the sea often includes many recipes for fish and seafood, a wise meat group selection because certain types of fish may have less fat and cholesterol than other choices. Fish that is broiled, steamed or poached — popular cooking methods in Polynesia — is better for you than fried fish of the British Isles or smoked fish of Russia and Scandinavia. Frying adds fat and calories. Smoked fish is higher in sodium content.
- In many countries, food is prepared and served with low-fat sauces and spices: lemon and pepper sauce in Brazil, red chili salsa in Mexico or soy-based sauces in the Orient are a few examples. However, many Oriental recipes use extra sodium.

Focus on family

• Japan's tofu (soybean curd), beans so popular in Mexican and Latin American cooking, and lentils found in many Indian dishes provide excellent low-fat sources of protein, particularly when served with rice.

• Oriental cuisines that rely on steamed vegetables produce much healthier dishes than sauteed vegetables of classic French cuisine. High-fat Polish recipes which present vegetables simmered in sour cream or garnished with sauteed bread crumbs would not be a good choice unless prepared with light sour cream or skim milk.

• In many nations, including Poland, Sweden and Italy, where quantities of meat are not always readily available, sausage, scrapple, head cheese and cold cuts are often prepared to stretch the meat supply. These foods are high in fat and sodium and should be consumed only in limited amounts.

• Some vegetables and most nuts contain a large amount of fat. So, restrict the use of avocados found in recipes from Latin America, coconut in African and Polynesian dishes, and nuts so popular in Mediterranean and Middle Eastern recipes.

• Marinating foods is a common way to introduce flavors without adding fat. In Indonesia, for example, skinned chicken pieces are marinated in lime juice; corn, safflower, soy, canola or avocado oil; garlic; lite Italian dressing, lemon-pepper, and white pepper before broiling.

Coahoma

Talent

Rufus and Theresa Parks of Coahoma have some really talented grandchildren. Among them is Trampas Graham of Anson. Trampas is a high school senior at Anson High School. He recently won the District 7 Farm Bureau talent contest in Abilene. He will now compete in the State Contest, November 27, in Fort Worth. District winners will receive a $600 scholarship and the State winner will receive a $2,000 scholarship.

Trampas also entered the Free Enterprise Speech contest to be held October 7 in Brownwood. Trampas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Graham of Anson.

Lucky winner

Congratulations to Christine Hernandez of Big Spring! Christine was the lucky winner of the $300 gift certificate from Wal-Mart given away by the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department. Proceeds of the fundraiser will go into the county's fire prevention program. If you happened to have been at Wal-Mart Sept. 2, you undoubtedly saw one of the regulars of Sesame Street clowning around and entertaining quite a large audience of children and yes, adults, too.

Jim Johnson of the Sand Springs Fire Department, had a little help from his friend Oscar the Grouch in selling tickets Saturday. Jim dressed up in an Oscar costume, one of the props he uses when presenting programs to area schools and organizations. Jim is the officer in charge of the Howard County Fire Prevention Program. He will be visiting area schools in October during Fire Prevention Week presenting programs geared towards young people on fire prevention. If your club, organization, or business would like more information on the fire prevention program, just contact one of the volunteers for more information or give Jim a call at the station.

4-H meeting

Emily Sanders, reporter for the Coahoma 4-H, would like to notify all interested students in grades three through 12 of the first meeting and registration night of 4-H. The meeting will be on Monday at 7 p.m. in the AV Room at Coahoma Elementary. Events of last year will be discussed.

Homemade ice cream and brownies will be served. Parents of interested students are also invited to attend.

Women's retreat

Nine female members of First Baptist Church traveled to Abilene Aug. 25 to attend the Greater Hills Women's Retreat at Hardin-Simmons University. The event was sponsored by the Greater Hills Baptist Church, Austin.

First-time participants gathered to hear "The Spirit-Filled Life," by Jo Lambert; and "The Act of Marriage," by Barbara O'Chester; "The Joy of Submission," by Pam Rosenthal, and "You and Your Child," by Ada Ferguson. Those who attended were Tommie Lentz, Stephanie Spear, Mona Crockett, Melody Spurr, Susan Lokoy, Susan Noblett, Connie Chambers, and Rhonda Slater.

Luncheon

The Baptist Young Women (BYW) of First Baptist Church held their Back to School Luncheon Tuesday at the home of Betty Shawn on Lake Colorado City. Mexican food was the feast of the day and each woman brought a favorite dish to share. The tables were decorated so cute with colors and colored paper clips scattered all around. Doll school buses, apples, thermos and lunch boxes, and supply boxes were also used to decorate. For a placemat, lined Big Chief school paper was used. Connie Chambers, Tonie Everett, and Mona Crockett were the creative girls who decorated.

Boosters meeting

The Colorado City Wolves Booster Club is once again meeting. All parents of football players are urged to get involved. Also, any interested persons are welcome to come and help support the coaches and football team. The Boosters meet each Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Middle School cafeteria. The public is invited to attend, but Memberships may be purchased for $5 from any existing member or you can call, write or go by Joe Morren's office and he would be glad to sell you a membership. His address is 345 Walnut or P.O. Box 403.

New officers were elected recently and they are as follows: Phil Anderson, president; Larry Blassingame, vice president; Glenda Edwards, secretary and Joe Morren, treasurer.

What do you do at a Booster Club meeting? Each week, the previous game film is watched and narrated by Tom Ramsey, head coach and athletic director. There also is a preview of the next game and anyone can ask questions about the previous game or the one coming up. The five teams from seventh to varsity are also introduced, one team a week. The coaches also take turns speaking on the duties and special abilities as a vital part of the Wolves coaching staff. All of this is enjoyed each Tuesday while munching homemade cookies and other goodies donated by members of the Booster Club.

Fund raising activities were discussed in the first meeting. They will include selling advertisements for the football programs, and selling the programs (the Wolverines share in the profit by selling them at each home ballgame). 8x10 pictures of the boys in uniform are sold to the businesses to show in their store windows. Photo buttons of the boys are also for sale for $3 each, and videos of each ballgame will also be available for $10-$15. What is the money used for? The Booster Club supplements the school's funds for a chartered bus to out of town games and also for meals on the road. Please try to attend these meetings and let's make this ball season the best ever.

How embarrassing!

Laurie Lowrance and her husband, Donnie, had just been married for about eight months when they moved from Abilene back to Colorado City. It was the first night in their new home. Donnie had gone to talk to his new boss over at his house and Laurie was busy being the perfect new bride fixing supper when all of a sudden she heard the worst sound; it was so loud! "I thought the house was going to explode."

Grabbing her keys and running out of the house, dressed only in her "skimpy" gown, she raced to Donnie's boss' house to tell Donnie about this weird, scary noise. Everyone was worried and wondered what could it be, so Donnie immediately went home only to discover that it was only the smoke alarm malfunctioning! How embarrassing!

If you have an embarrassing moment on yourself or a neighbor or friend or better yet your spouse, please contact me at Rt. 2 Box 170, Colorado City, TX 79512 or call 728-8051.

Leaders of the pack

You can't have a good football team without a good coaching staff, and we have one of the best. The leader of the pack is Tom Ramsey, who graduated from the University of Texas at Arlington and has been head coach here for 10 years. Mark Merrell is the freshman coach and helps with the varsity team. He received his bachelor's degree from Tarleton State and his master's degree from Sul Ross. Mark has been coaching here for nine years. Rick Robinson graduated from Texas Tech and has been in Colorado City for 18 years. He is the defensive coordinator. Chuck Claxton attended Colorado High School and received his degree from Angelo State University. He is the secondary coach and has been coaching here for six years. Last but not least there is Jerold Epperson. He has coached here for five years. Coaching defense is his specialty. Jerold graduated from the University of Texas at Arlington. Ed Wilson and Paul Jett do the scouting for the Wolves.

The first loan for $145,000 was approved and the project was bid to build the first 194 miles of line in November 1939.

R.A. Brister was the project superintendent and was succeeded by O.I. Griffin as the first manager of the Cooperative, and Blanche McCarley was employed as the first bookkeeper.

The first work on these lines was done by F.E. Stanley Construction and Engineering Company of Tulsa, Okla. The first lines were to be energized by March 25, 1940.

In November 1940, the office was located in the Colorado Hotel, and later moved to 247 Walnut. In 1949, the new office building was built (present location) and the open house drew a crowd of about 1500 people.

This year Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc., marks its 50th year in operation. To observe this occasion, there will be an open house Tuesday, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Medallion Room at headquarters building.

Refreshments will be served and door prizes given. Also, there will be pictures displayed.

Following the afternoon of activities, there will be a business session beginning at 6 p.m.

The public is invited to attend any or all of these activities. However, only the members are eligible to vote and enter the drawing for cash prizes.

Each staff member will receive a Certificate of Appreciation for a job well done. All members of the church are encouraged to attend.

Commemoration

In early 1939 a group of interested people of the rural area of Mitchell County began to see if electricity could become a reality and under the direction of REA they formed an association, with A.K. McCarley Sr., serving as president.

Funds for a pre-alotment survey were authorized by REA. These first lines were mapped to serve about 550 families.

A temporary office was set up in the Thompson Barber building. People were urged to come in and

"Though didactic information will be shared, the conference will be basically experiential. The great amount of time will be spent on exercises and practicing self-enhancing activities."

The workshop will be led by Dr. Norman D. Godfrey. Godfrey is the Executive Director of the Samaritan Center.

The fee for this workshop is $25 per person.

New club

Kathryn Burch, Martin County extension agent, announced that she is planning to organize an Extension Homemaker Club that will meet in the evenings.

According to Burch, there are several county Extension Homemaker clubs that meet during an earlier time.

Tuesday night rehearsals will begin Sept. 12. Students who may have problems getting transportation to the Tuesday night rehearsals may stay after school in the band hall with Mr. Rhynes to do homework, practice, or get extra help. This will help fill the gap between school dismissal and rehearsal time.

Junior High and High School football players will come over after their workout. Buses will run after rehearsal (8 p.m.) to St. Lawrence and Lee's Crossing.

Sectionals and Tuesday night rehearsals will continue until UIL Contest.

Brochure

"A Drive Through the Past," the brochure created by Roger Brantley's gifted and talented eighth graders this past summer, is now available at the Martin County Historical Museum.

The brochure's subtitle, "A Self Guided Tour of Selected Historical Homes of Stanton, Texas." A map of many of Stanton's historical homes is included. Nineteen houses have been identified and charted.

While the brochures are free, a donation will help Brantley's classes complete many historical projects in the future, all of which will benefit the community. Not only will citizens be assisting young men and women to become more historically aware, they will also learn more about older Stanton homes.

Pick up a brochure at the Martin County Historical Museum today and help out the school kids who are trying to make a difference.

Horsemanship clinic

The 4-H Horse Club held a horsemanship clinic Aug. 26-27 at the County Arena, Greg Jones, Martin County agricultural extension agent said. Several local youth and their parents participated. Instructors traveled to the clinic from Texas A&M, Abilene and Amarillo.

Jones said that the club will hold its annual trail ride on the afternoon of Oct. 1. Regular monthly meetings of riding and classroom activities will be held on the first Saturday of every month until April.

Noon Lions meet

The Noon Lions Club met Aug. 29. Boss Lion Victor Taylor presided during the business meeting in which plans were finalized for PeeWee Football.

Guest Danny Fryar, introduced speaker, Gary Harris, engineer for Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc., of Midland. He stated that the new landfill bill will require an employee on the job to see that hazardous waste items are not deposited in the landfill.

The new bill will necessitate $750,000 to meet the demands of the new law, and around $150,000 yearly to maintain it. It was also announced that a law went into effect

Sept. 1, which forbids the burning of trash.

Bike-a-thon

As mentioned last week, Nancy Holt, Bike-a-thon coordinator for Martin County, is encouraging Martin County residents to join the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels for Life" Bike-a-thon slated for Saturday.

"Barring rain, the event will begin at 10 a.m.," Holt said. "The Southside of the courthouse is our tentative starting place."

Holt said that the ride this year honors Ellen Marie, a solid tumor patient at St. Jude.

"With every turn of the wheel, riders become 'spokes' men and women for all kids with cancer, like Ellen Marie.

"This ride is a vital part of the fight against childhood cancer at St. Jude. Riders are really needed. They make or break a Bike-a-thon."

Riders sign up sponsors who promise to make a donation based on each mile completed. All riders turning in money will receive a certificate. Those who raise $25 receive a certificate and a St. Jude T-Shirt. When $75 is raised, the rider receives a barrel tote bag, a T-shirt and a certificate. Pick up at the Clip Joint in downtown sponsors forms from Nancy Holt, Stanton.

"The general plan is to have a good time while helping a wonderful group of children counting on our support," Holt said.

"Last year we raised $500," she added. "We had 13 riders. Mitch Holt rode 26 miles to be the top mileage gainer, and Belinda Martinez rode 14, for second highest gainer."

Foyer should be welcoming space in your home

(AP) A foyer should be a welcoming space that introduces visitors to the house and simplifies the logistics of entering, exiting, greeting visitors and receiving packages and mail.

To do all these tasks well, it takes practical surfaces, functional furniture and decoration in harmony with the rooms to which it connects.

No foyer is complete without a mirror and surface for placing objects, and the next logical addition is a place to sit down, says Beverly Ellsley, a designer in Westport, Conn.

"It would definitely make sense to have also something welcoming like a vase of flowers," adds Ellsley.

If your house does not have a foyer and you want one, there are several possibilities, says Thomas Hills Cook, senior interior designer at Armstrong World Industries in Lancaster, Pa. You could build a small one-story vestibule onto the front of the house. The new space will conserve heat as well as provide a place to greet people.

Another way to get a foyer without adding on is to screen off the area around the door by building a full or half wall or by placing a piece of furniture — finished on both sides — between the door and the rest of the room.

Faux or real architectural columns and tall bookcases are also useful as a means of screening off the entryway, while also providing storage.

It's hard to visualize how a free-standing wall or a large piece of furniture will affect the layout of the room. So try out your idea by making a craft paper or cardboard dummy in the projected size and shape, suggests Cook.

Paper carton material is usually available free from the supermarket and for the relatively small trouble and expense, the dummy piece can reduce the risk of adding something permanent and expensive which you don't like.

If the small area you've created seems confining or claustrophobic, mirror one wall or hang a mirror on it. Use concealed cove lighting where ceiling meets wall to create the illusion of natural light.

Another idea if there is room is to create a small niche for a piece of furniture or a decorative statue on a pedestal. Light this alcove from below or above.

Lighting for a foyer can be accomplished with recessed spotlights, track lighting, wall sconces, a ceiling fixture or a combination of these.

Since the area is usually merely a pass-through, you can often afford to be more extravagant and daring than in larger, more lived-in rooms.

"It's a lot less expensive to put marble down in a 6-by-8-foot foyer than in a 17-by-22-foot room," said Ellsley, who added that "above all else, foyers are places to use exuberant color or wallpaper with which you can get a bit of drama quickly."

Ellsley recently had a mural executed in the foyer of an 18th-century-style home. The painting reflected the surrounding countryside and among its motifs was a leafy tree that continued up the stairs to the second floor.

If you live in an apartment with a windowless foyer designated by the builder to serve as a dining area, forget it.

"Most people would prefer not to eat a meal in a tiny windowless room," said Ellsley. Instead, use the space as a foyer and find another place for dining.

It's typical in traditional homes for the foyer to be situated between the living room and dining room. In that case, emphasize a color in the foyer that is present in both the other rooms, suggests Cook.

If the living room is mostly beige, add red accents in pillows, window treatment, upholstery fabric or floor covering. In the dining room choose a fabric or wall covering with red in it. Then create a red foyer. It's dramatic and the result will be a cohesive design that unites the three rooms.

"You may not be able to live with a red living room, but a red foyer is fine," said Ellsley.

Foyers should be in character with the rest of the house. If you are decorating with an American country theme elsewhere, decorate the foyer with a mural in naive style.

Family tells it like it will be

HOSHIARPUR, India (AP) — Taking a cue from the Hindu belief in rebirth, the fortunetelling Tiwari family doesn't stop at making predictions about this life.

The Tiwaris spill details of past and future incarnations.

The Tiwaris don't wear saffron robes or sprinkle holy ash on their foreheads, the usual trappings of India's vast fortunetelling profession.

Almost all are educated and prosperous, one a former college professor. And they claim their information comes from interpreting the sayings of the sage Bhrgu, believed to be the son of Lord Brahma, one of the Hindu trinity of gods.

Bhrgu, say the Tiwaris, wrote the future of the world and detailed the various lives of its inhabitants on rocks and tree bark in the Himalayan mountains. They say the writings were copied on orders from Emperor Akbar, the Moslem ruler of India in the 16th century, and later found their way to Hoshiarpur, where the Tiwaris have been telling fortunes for at least three generations.

"The history of almost everyone in the world can be read from these," said Shyamcharan Tiwari, a bespectacled former physics professor, holding up a bunch of yellowing parchments covered with spidery, indecipherable script. "All we need is the name, time of birth and place of birth."

Tiwari sat cross-legged on a low bed. At least 30 people squatted on the floor before him, awaiting their fortunes.

Tiwari says the parchments divide people according to first names, and places of birth according to proximity to major Indian rivers.

He hastens to add that a sage doesn't confine himself to India but also speaks of other countries.

"Bhrgu calls Britain Angalweep (Angal Island) and the United States is named Varundweep (Sun God Island)," he says.

Another fortuneteller from the Tiwari clan, Ratish Mohan, says he consults Bhrgu's sayings but relies more on the position of stars at the time of birth.

A row of cars was parked outside Mohan's modest two-story house. Scores of people thronged his drawing room, and many more waited outside.

Satwant Kaur, a middle-aged housewife who had traveled 900 miles from Vishakhapatnam, wanted to know what business her husband should go into. She said he currently manufactures automobile parts but wants to switch to something more profitable.

Raj Kumari said she was trying to learn where her son, who died in 1985, had been re-born.

"I still haven't been able to find out," she said. "But I know that my husband and I lived in Bengal in our previous lives and were married to each other."

The Indian state of West Bengal is about 750 miles southeast of Kumari's home in Ludhiana in Punjab state.

Mohan charges $6.30 for his services. Tiwari says he accepts donations but does not set fees.

The fortunetellers have their detractors.

"It's all a well-organized racket," says Joseph Edamaruku, vice president of the Indian Rationalist Association whose 20,000 members try to eradicate superstition and belief in the supernatural. Speaking from New Delhi, he said: "They have this fleet of informants who tell them something about their clients. Then, when the clients are before them, they are astounded by the accuracy."

"As for previous and future births, how can you be sure? If you're told you were a king in your last life, would you question it?"

Edamaruku, who runs a book publishing house called Indian Atheist Publishers, has offered $6,250 to anyone who can prove he has extrasensory powers.

"No one has yet taken me up," he says, "and certainly not the Bhrgu saints from Hoshiarpur."
