BALLINGER — Colorado River Crossing at Stacy Dam site which was plugged to begin diversion of water through the dam.

River diverted

BALLINGER — Diversion of the Colorado River through the Stacy Dam commenced at 11:50 a.m. Thursday somewhat ahead of schedule.

Construction crews had plugged one of two steel culverts at the river crossing at the upstream side of the dam and were frantically seeking to plug the other when the river began to rise rapidly.

In fact, it rose so rapidly that water backed up and filled the 6-ft. conduit through the base of the dam and threatened to take out the crossing. A notch was cut at one end of the crossing to serve as an emergency spillway.

Heavy rains above Ballinger on the Colorado, and east of San Angelo on the Concho contributed to the volume.

The premature trial run through the conduit will be halted as the river subsides and crews go through the process again of plugging the culverts and then raising the crossing about 10 ft.

This will permit work to start in the river channel below where a core trench will be cut to solid foundation and backfilled with impervious material. The first week in October actual closure of the dam is due to begin. This will require about five months.

BISD meeting

BIG SPRING — Possible litigation against two roofing contractors was discussed by Big Spring ISD trustees Thursday night, but no action was taken on the issue.

The trustees met in executive session for about 20 minutes during their regular meeting to discuss a possible suit. The action is being considered because of leaking roofs at the high school and Runnels Junior High.

In other action, the trustees:

- Appointed board members Ford Farris and Dwayne Fraser, along with administrators Bill McQueary, Ron Plumlee and Ron Logback to a budget audit committee.
- Appointed Murray Murphy, assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction, as Title IX coordinator for the district. He will be responsible for handling discrimination claims.
- Revised the district's discipline management plan.

The driver of the Maverick, Francie JoAnn Sharp, 30, 1314 State Park Dr., was unhurt.

According to Big Spring Police Department reports, Sharp was traveling east in the 2900 block of U.S. Highway 80, and while attempting to make a left turn, was struck from behind.

Is workers' comp headed for collapse?

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

AUSTIN — Key legislative and industry figures say a Dallas insurer's decision to quit writing workers' compensation policies may be a sign that the system is headed toward collapse.

They also say it could prod lawmakers to adopt proposed reforms in the system that have been favored by business.

Dallas-based Texas Employers Insurance Association told policyholders last month it will stop selling and renewing workers' compensation policies because of rising losses. The company is the oldest and largest writer of workers' compensation policies in Texas.

While no one predicted an immediate breakdown in the $3 billion-a-year workers' compensation system, several legislative and industry observers said it is spiraling toward collapse.

"This may point more alarmingly than anything else to the real deterioration of the system," said Kay Doughty, executive director of the state's Office of Consumer Counsel.

Although rates charged to employers have risen 148 percent since 1985, "it may be that rates haven't gone up enough," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said. The industry has a request for another 34.9 percent rate increase pending before the State Board of Insurance.

The decision by Texas

"I am absolutely convinced... We have serious problems that need to be corrected immediately. I think if we don't reach a compromise in November there's going to be numerous other insurance companies that will refuse to do business in Texas." — Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring

Employers to get out of a market it has dominated in the state since 1913 could tip the balance in the Legislature toward House members who have called for radical changes in how disputed claims by injured workers are resolved. The changes are an attempt to cut a large chunk of lawyer and other specialist fees from the system.

Lawmakers are scheduled to return in special session Nov. 14 to try for the third time this year to overhaul the system.

Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, the House leader on the subject, said, "One of the arguments of the opponents of reform is that we don't have a problem, that they (insurers) engineered this problem to drive up rates and get reforms at the expense of workers — that it was all a bluff."

"When the largest, oldest insurer in the state drops its business, that's not a bluff," he said.

Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, who is on the House Business and Commerce Committee, agreed. "I am absolutely convinced that it is not a bluff. We have serious problems that need to be corrected immediately," he said.

"I think if we don't reach a compromise in November there's going to be numerous other insurance companies that will refuse to do business in Texas," he said.

He blamed the "nature of the system" for allowing the system to be milked, causing a debt problem, but he accused lawyers of blocking the solution.

"They are not the biggest part of the problem but they are definitely the ones that are blocking the solution."

COAHOMA — The Coahoma City Council approved Tuesday night its 1988-89 audit report, which includes revenues for water pipe replacement, an ongoing city project.

During the regular meeting, council members also voted to renew a lease with a landowner and allocated $1,000 for replacement of irrigation water lines for the sewer plant.

Steve Stone, CPA, presented the audit report. Total revenues from the general fund was $264,140. Total expenditures were $237,142.

Water fund revenues were $288,855. Expenditures were $296,723.

In addition, the report included a special revenue fund of $14,425 which has been allocated to the city's portion of a 1987-88 Community Development Program grant for $187,350.

The grant, approved by the state in March, will be used for water line replacement on the southside of the city. A CDP grant application was filed.

TDC list won't be trimmed just yet

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — An informal steering committee of the Howard County group seeking a Texas Department of Corrections prison learned Thursday that the state is not expected to trim the application list before Oct. 1.

County Commissioner Bill Crooker reported that the TDC, now known as the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, has informed him that the "short list" of reduced applicants will not be determined this week as had been expected.

He said the board's plan calls for a reduction from 46 applicants to 24 or 26. Board members will then be divided into two groups, each group visiting half of the revised list of applicants by the second or third week of October.

After those visits, Crooker said, the board will further narrow the list of candidates — perhaps by half — whose representatives are expected to be invited to visit with

Football barbecue has long tradition

By JAMES FLEHR Special to the Herald

BIG SPRING — The annual football barbecue today in the high school cafeteria has been a tradition in Big Spring for years.

The Evening Lions Club will be celebrating the first home game of the Big Spring Steers for the 1989 season with the annual fundraiser, which runs from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

"The money goes to the various Lions Club sponsored projects," said Karl Schoenfield, who's in charge of Lions' special projects.

Sight conservation is the most important charity offered by the Lions Club, Schoenfield said. Others include diabetes and glaucoma treatment, leader dogs and surgical transplants.

Schoenfield can't seem to remember the first year the barbecue event was held as it predates his membership in the club. "It has been around for a long time."

S&L files notice to sue over appraisal values

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A local savings and loan has filed notice of intent to sue the appraisal district over appraised property values for the same area being considered for the St. Francis Retirement Village, the district's chief appraiser confirmed Thursday.

If Southwest Savings acts on its intent to sue, it will be the third lawsuit filed against the appraisal district in recent months.

The savings and loan has until Sept. 25 to file in state district court, Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire said.

Bramalea Shopping Centers Inc., which owns the Big Spring Mall, and Dallas-based E&P Operating previously filed suits against the appraisal district, charging their property values were set millions of dollars too high.

Toomire said previously that it could take as long as two years before the lawsuits reach trial.

Toomire said during Wednesday's meeting of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District, board members were updated on the status of the suits against the district. No major developments have emerged in the cases, he said.

The appraisal district has not been requested to submit any information to the two businesses, but has submitted its own request to the businesses for information, he said.

Toomire said the appraisal board intends to meet with members of the Capital Appraisal Group, the Austin firm that performed the contested mineral valuation for E&P Operating, at an Oct. 11 appraisal board meeting.

In other business during Wednesday's meeting, the board:

- Adopted the 1990 appraisal district budget. The board left unchanged a $369,665 budget approved in June, Toomire said.
- Recognized new state legislation which prohibits members of the three-person appraisal review board from serving for more than two, two-year terms.

The appraisal review board usually meets in June for about a week to resolve differences between district appraised values and values property owners contend the property is actually worth.

Toomire praised the current review board for its service to the district.

"It's not an easy thing to get someone to serve on the review board," he said.

Two defendants sentenced on drug charges

By JAMES FLEHR
Special to the Herald

BIG SPRING — Two cases were cleared Thursday in 118th District Court, both involving drug charges against Big Spring residents Allen Keith Carson, 27, and Phillip Mendoza, 21.

Carson, who plead guilty to a 3rd degree felony charge of delivery of marijuana, was sentenced to 10 years probation on the recommendation of the 118th District Probation Department.

"His probation officer (Chief Adult Probation Officer Frank Martinez) had delivered him in to us. So we had recorded the activity and he was released on probation," said Sheriff A.N. Standard about Carson's case.

Probation department records show Carson was arrested on a charge in 1984 for the same offense and given 10 years probation for the first violation. The additional 10 years carried treatment recommendations and 600 hours of community service.

Carson's first offense included a fine of $5,000 in the original sentence.

His address was listed as 1004 Bluebonnet Ave. District Attorney Rick Hamby said, "It is rare that a probation officer makes a recommendation like that (one probation following another). When they make a recommendation like that I listen." Hamby called it not only "the business of damning souls, but saving souls as well."

"Apparently, the probation department saw some hope in Carson," he said.

The other man charged for alleged possession of a controlled substance (cocaine), Mendoza, of 1506 East 6th Street, was handed down a six-year term in the TDC. Mendoza was also previously charged and sentenced for the same offense he faced yesterday. The court decided it was time to revoke his original probation and upgrade it to the TDC sentence.

District Judge James Gregg heard the pleas. Both cases involved subsequent charges and both were drug related.

Probation Officer Sherrill Farmer served as Medoza's probation officer.

board members in Huntsville before another reduction is made.

No announcement on site selections is expected before the Nov. 7 election, when a proposed constitutional amendment will be considered by voters to provide $400 million for the construction of prisons in the state.

If passed, the state anticipates construction of three 2,250-bed prisons and three 1,000-bed prisons. The state already has funds available for one of each facility.

A brief explanation of all proposed constitutional amendments in the election appeared in the Thursday Herald. The prison matter is Proposition 8.

Howard County has applied for either or both of the two types of prisons. The 2,250-bed prison would include 504 maximum security prisoners, while the 1,000-bed unit would be limited to minimum to medium-level security inmates, according to the application document.

Also discussed at the Thursday afternoon meeting were potential industrial and agricultural functions for the criminal justice board consider at the proposed Howard County site, located about three miles northeast of the Fina refinery, on Moss Creek Road.

Among the agricultural prospects reported as a result of an agricultural committee meeting this week were: broom corn, edible crops and creation of a tree farm. Availability of sufficient irrigation water for such projects was a major concern during the discussion.

Prospects suggested by an industrial committee for a prison industry included further development of use of broom corn, use of excess Fina asphalt in an asphalt shingle product and recycling of used motor oil.

The group learned that American PetroFina has submitted a bid for providing natural gas to the proposed site at a rate lower than originally provided by Ennergas.

Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said that the city has received indication that bond financing for the city to provide sewer and water for the site will be available.

tion this year for $196,271 was approved at a second and final public hearing Sept. 5.

If that grant is approved, the city will be required to provide $2,000 in cash and $35,526 of in-kind service, which includes equipment and manpower. It will be used for water line replacements on the north side of the city.

Gary Harris, of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Consulting Engineers, a Midland firm retained by the city, said there is a 50 percent chance of it being approved.

Water Superintendent Robert

Helm said corroding water pipes is a big but common problem for everyone. "You take a line that's been in the ground 50 years and it's going to deteriorate," he said. "It will break down and create water breaks."

He said a repair crew has to be kept on 24-hour call. "It's expensive," he said.

"The weather has something to do with this," Helm said of the breaks. "We may have 12 or 15 a month and two or three the next month. You're real thankful when you only have two or three."

He said the grants will allow for old two-inch cast iron and galvanized pipes, which are barnacled and corroded, to be replaced with new six- and eight-inch plastic pipes.

"We use PVC class C900 which is heavy duty plastic," he said.

The city land lease that was renewed is to dispose of water from the sewer plant. The irrigation water lines that the council voted to make improvements on are used for that purpose.

In other action, the council also agreed to check and see what is required to repair the fire siren at city hall.

The men of the club did the potato peeling, while the women sorted through the pinto beans. The goods were stored in the high school coolers in anticipation of the bash.

The menu will include AI's barbecue, cole slaw, potato salad, pinto beans, a drink (ice tea or coffee) and dessert.

"I think it's a good community fundraiser. They do support it pretty well. We have a lot of fun putting it on," said Elvin Bearden, drug awareness chairman for the Lions. Jason Heckler, a student at the high school, led a tour Thursday to the cafeteria for a quick check to make sure all was ready for Friday.

Lion Squeaky Thompson is in charge of the event, and Lion Ray Lawless handling the cafeteria arrangements.

CAF considering move

WESLACO (AP) — Lower Rio Grande Valley officials are trying to keep a valuable tourist attraction, the Confederate Air Force headquarters, from leaving the area and have thrown support to a proposal from the city of Brownsville.

CAF leaders said in late August they were considering a move from their Harlingen base to Midland, where officials have offered a $6 million incentive package to lure the group devoted to preserving World War II aircraft in flying condition.

Brownsville has offered a multimillion-dollar package to lure the CAF to the Brownsville-South Padre Island Airport 25 miles south of Harlingen.

Valley Chamber of Commerce's Select Committee met Wednesday in Weslaco and voted to support the Brownsville offer, rather than see the CAF move to West Texas.

Border laundering area

AUSTIN (AP) — Federal authorities say drug money makes up a significant part of the $7.3 billion in bank deposits near the Texas-Mexico border, it was reported.

Officials in the U.S. Justice Department, Customs Service and Internal Revenue Service say traffickers who smuggle drugs across the border are stashing illegal profits in financial institutions along the Rio Grande, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

The IRS is working on about 40 money-laundering cases along the Rio Grande, from El Paso to Brownsville, the newspaper reported Thursday.

Such investigations are expected to intensify under the anti-drug plan announced last week by President Bush, who has vowed to find and seize narcotics dealers' profits.

Costly entertainment

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Civic Center director spent more than $2,000 during the past year entertaining out-of-town male clients at a topless bar, the Houston Post reported today.

In a copyright story, the Post said records show that Gerard J. "Jordy" Tollett used a corporate credit card 13 times since November at Rick's, a popular topless bar in Houston with elegant furnishings, reserved tables and a dress code for patrons.

His spending amounted to $2,155.14. The tab at Rick's was part of an overall $13,987 that Tollett has spent on entertainment since November, usually at the city's best-known restaurants.

Tollett, appointed by Mayor Jim McConn in 1981, is paid $55,000 to oversee a $26 million budget. He is in charge of the George R. Brown Convention Center, the Wortham Performing Arts Center and other arts and convention-oriented buildings.

Viking welcome

Bullock plan includes audits

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock, offering a plan to toughen government ethics rules, said the state should have the power to audit both political accounts and federal tax returns.

Such a plan, Bullock said Thursday, would make certain that those who violate the public trust are subjected to "swift and severe judgment."

The proposal came in a letter to legislative leaders, Gov. Bill Clements and lawmakers.

It came a day after an ethics bill was proposed by Sen. Chet Edwards of Duncanville, Bullock's opponent in the 1990 Democratic primary for lieutenant governor.

"More than 15 years ago, 'Deep Throat' advised reporters investigating the Watergate scandal to 'follow the money.' The advice is still good today," Bullock wrote.

"And it should be the basis for state ethics laws to lay bare the truth about those who make public policy and those who try to influence public policy," he said.

Bullock said the State Ethics Commission — which currently exists on paper but receives no funding from the Legislature — should be utilized to enforce stringent rules for lobbyists who give money to public officials and for the officials who accept lobby largesse.

The comptroller said a resuscitated Ethics Commission should be given "a full set of sharp teeth and steel jaws."

Highlighting Bullock's proposals are:

- Cross-auditing elected officials' political bank accounts with their federal income tax returns and their business tax returns.

- Auditing spending and contribution reports of lobbyists and political donors with their actual financial records.

- Power to levy "substantial fines and other penalties" against violators, including expelling them from office or stripping lobbyists of all contact with public officials.

Former MHMR official hired for review

AUSTIN (AP) — A state investigation into alleged abuse of the retarded is being conducted by the ex-superintendent of a mental institution where retarded people were found dying after improper medical care, it was reported.

Jaylon Fincannon, head of Texas retardation services, praised the expertise of former Denton State School Superintendent Jerry Vincent, who was hired for the investigation at San Antonio State School.

But advocates for the retarded question whether Vincent can conduct an impartial investigation, the Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday.

Allegations of abuse at the San Antonio institution were reported this summer to U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders' court monitor, sociologist Linda O'Neill of Florida.

Sanders, who oversees a class-action lawsuit against Texas institutions for retarded people, is expected to rule soon on a proposal for an abuse investigation by Ms.

O'Neill, the newspaper reported.

The state last week hired Vincent, who resigned from his position at Denton State School on Nov. 29. His resignation came two weeks after a federal court report faulted the medical treatment of 16 retarded people who died at the school in 1987 and 1988.

Vincent now is a top official in the Louisiana Division of Mental Retardation. Reached Thursday by The Associated Press, Vincent said he was in conference but would call back. He did not immediately do so.

Fincannon said Vincent is an experienced mental retardation professional. He said Vincent was hired because he is familiar with rules of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation but is independent of the agency.

The medical problems and deaths during Vincent's administration of the Denton school should not be considered abuse and neglect, Fincannon said.

"He was, and is, a good mental retardation professional, and he understands our agency," Fincannon said. "He is a good manager and knows good management techniques."

"I have no problems or concerns about him doing a thorough, objective, fair investigation," Fincannon said.

Mental retardation advocates said they doubt Vincent can be an impartial investigator because of his recent ties with the Texas

Indictment alleges former aide in bribery scheme

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal grand jury has issued an indictment detailing an alleged bribery scheme involving a former U.S. senator's aide and an attempt to control 10 savings and loans and some industries in Grenada.

Charged in the indictment unsealed Thursday are Glen N. Mauldin, an aide to former U.S. Sen. Jacob "Chic" Hecht of Nevada; Darrell A. Tomblin, a businessman now living in Houston; and Vincent P. Lachelli, a Washington, D.C., lobbyist.

The indictment alleges Mauldin was to receive a 10 percent interest in the acquired savings and loans and a financial interest in several Grenada business ventures for his role in the scheme.

"The indictments announced today arise against a backdrop of the failing savings and loan institutions and industry in Texas," Helen Eversberg, U.S. Attorney for the Western District of Texas, said Thursday.

"The scheme emanated from San Antonio and ultimately wove its way to the halls of Congress in Washington, D.C.," she said.

The 22-count indictment stemming from the investigation dubbed "Operation Dundee" charges each of the three with conspiring to deprive the U.S. government of the honest services of Mauldin and to corruptly affect the functions of the U.S. Senate and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The indictment states that Mauldin, Tomblin and Lachelli embarked on a scheme beginning in 1987 aimed at acquiring 10 savings and loans throughout the United States.

Mauldin used Senate stationery to write letters to U.S. government agencies in an attempt to assist with the thrift acquisition and business ventures in Grenada, the indictment alleges.

The Grenada business plans included an oil refinery, the monopolization of commercial fishing and the monopolization of trade in spices grown in that country, the indictment claims.

The three defendants were arrested and appeared in bond hearings Thursday afternoon, Ms. Eversberg said.

Lachelli did not return a telephone call Thursday from The Associated Press. Mauldin did not answer his phone in Washington.

David Botsford, an Austin attorney representing Tomblin, said he would comment on the indictment if he had seen it, but he has not yet received a copy of the document.

"I have known Darrell Tomblin for a period of time, and I do not believe from knowing him that he's done anything illegal," Botsford said.

Ms. Eversberg would not comment on whether Hecht knew of the alleged bribery that supposedly involved his office. "He was not charged in this indictment and he cooperated with the FBI as soon as they approached him," she said.

Formerly a Republican member of the Senate Banking Committee, Hecht served one term in the Senate before losing in the 1988 general election to Democrat Dick Bryan. Hecht now is ambassador to the Bahamas.

DALLAS (AP) — In less than a year on its own, Oryx Energy Co. has changed its name, announced plans to build the first skyscraper in Dallas in years and now made its long-promised international expansion.

Oryx announced Thursday it will pay $1.31 billion to buy a chunk of North Sea and other exploration assets of British Petroleum Co. PLC, both companies said.

Besides the North Sea, the reserves are in Indonesia, Dubai, Ecuador, Colombia, Gabon and Italy. Oryx estimates the total proved and probable reserves to be about 405 million barrels, increasing the company's oil and gas reserves by 30 percent.

East Germans make a choice

Remember the piece of barbed wire that Hungarian officials presented to President Bush during his European visit last summer? It symbolized the removal of barriers between East and West, the dissolution of the Iron Curtain. Now we see the faces behind that barbed wire.

The faces belong to thousands of East Germans who for years have waited for an opportunity to escape the stultifying existence they have endured under a repressive communist regime. Now they are streaming through the tattered Iron Curtain, bringing with them their pent-up dreams, their longings, their plans for a better life.

Who could not be moved by their joy? Crossing into Hungary on their way to West Germany early Monday morning, they cheered, they cried, they popped the corks on bottles of champagne. "I decided on escaping 27 years ago, and today it worked," a 40-year-old Leipzig man told reporters. "It's a feeling that's just tops, just wild."

This exodus of disenchanted East Germans, in what could be the single largest movement of East-bloc citizens since the end of World War II, is more than a heart-warming human interest story. It's a deeply significant political story as well.

It came about because the Hungarians defied their Warsaw Pact ally and opened the border, despite efforts by the East German government to dissuade them. Hungary's decision allows the East Germans to cross into neutral Austria and then into West Germany, which has promised to take in all East German refugees.

East Germany, which has steadfastly refused to implement reforms championed by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, denounced Hungary's decision as "an organized trade in humans." East German officials accused their Hungarian counterparts of breaking treaties and agreements.

Hungary, where far-reaching political and economic reform predates perestroika, obviously sees no future in acceding to the wishes of a hard-line regime led by 76-year-old Erich Honecker, old and ill, but still in control. Hungary sees a new Europe on the horizon, including a new Germany.

Honecker still may try to shut the door, as he did in 1961 when he was the East German official in charge of erecting the Berlin Wall. He may be successful, temporarily, but he cannot shut the door on change indefinitely.

What's happening at the borders this week is a portent. The evolving European Community, the United States and the Soviet Union need to grow accustomed to the idea that a united Germany, sooner rather than later, is within the realm of possibility. Honecker is not the only one who must accommodate to change.

away and can be issued a ticket or go to jail. It doesn't matter if you got it out of the dump or you have had it for twenty years.

America will grow tired of this garbage. I would like to know who these people are who just go about creating their own laws, such as insurance coverage, and it is we the people who are the ones who have to pay.

We have insurance companies who charge by age, tickets, married, single, divorced, etc., which I think and feel is discrimination, not to mention the fact that there is a big payment difference between male and female. Yet no one files sex discrimination against these insurance companies.

Because I am a male and not married my insurance cost are higher than those of my own sex and married, same age. This is a clear case of discrimination, even if my driving history has no entries. In other words because I am 36, male, and not married and have a clear and clean driving record my insurance is higher than a married male at age 36. This is wrong. If the State feels one should not have a license, the state can take the person's license. That's great, but to be told I must pay more because of tickets, my sex, my marital status, and so on is discrimination.

Statistics show racism in sports

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Could it be just a coincidence that 99 percent of the quarterbacks, 98 percent of the kickers and 97 percent of the centers in professional football in 1983 were whites — while 82 percent of kickoff returners, 88 percent of running backs and 92 percent of cornerbacks were blacks?

It couldn't be, and it isn't, says sociologist D. Stanley Eitzen, who has taken on — and ripped to shreds — the proposition that the world of sports is at least one place in America that's free of racial discrimination.

Club owners, coaches, players and fans are united in the desire to win and so the color of the players doesn't matter as long as they perform — right?

Wrong, says this scholar, and tragically wrong for millions of black youngsters who put all their energies into preparing for a career as an athlete and wind up unable to play and unable to do anything else well enough to earn a living at it.

Eitzen is a professor of sociology at Colorado State University and a former president of the North American Society for the Sociology of Sport. When the National Academy of Sciences asked scholars and experts to write a report on the status of blacks in American society today, they farmed out the research to other scholars and experts. Eitzen wrote the paper on black athletes.

The academy's final report, "A Common Destiny: Blacks and American Society," came out this summer. Its overall conclusion was that whatever progress was made in improving the status of blacks occurred before the early 1970s. Since then, "the status of blacks relative to whites has stagnated or regressed."

By JACK ANDERSON
and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Opponents of nuclear power may feel cocky after stalling plants in California, New Hampshire and Long Island. But a potential meltdown looms for them in Congress.

A bill goes to the House floor soon that would curtail chances for the public to speak out against nuclear plants before they are operational.

Now, more than ever, the public is using the formal hearing process to pressure the weak-kneed Nuclear Regulatory Commission to enforce safety measures at the plants. But the House bill would eliminate the public hearings that are now held before a new plant gets a license to go to full power.

Why would Congress even consider cutting off that public input? If you guessed campaign donations, you're warm.

The operators and builders of nuclear power plants have been buying access to Congress for decades. In just the last eight years, the industry has pumped more than $25 million into the campaigns of senators and representatives, according to a campaign finance study by the U.S. Public Interest Research Group.

"Many of the nuclear corporations that use (campaign donations) to buy access to members of Congress are asking those same members to deny the public access to important decisions," PIRG attorney Bill McGovern told our associate Stewart Harris.

"It appears the real reason for these contributions is to buy votes," said PIRG's Executive Director Gene Karpinsky.

Guest column

The report paid little attention to Eitzen's research on racism in sports, but the academy made a copy available to The Associated Press.

Eitzen is no more cheerful about the status of blacks in sports than the committee was about blacks in society overall, even though four out of five basketball players, half the football players and a fifth of the baseball players in the big leagues are black.

"Rather than being free from racism, sport as a microcosm of the larger society reflects the same racial problems," he says.

Applying sociology's use of statistics to sports, he concludes:

- If you are a black player, you've got to be considerably better than a competing white to be signed to a professional contract.

- If you're black, expect to play the less-prestige positions: the ones that require brawn, not brains.

- Since those positions are the ones in which you'll take more of a physical punishment, your playing career will be shorter and your career earnings from sports less than if you were white.

- If you're the black parents of a talented athlete, think again if you believe that sports is your son's entree to the good life.

- Sports as a "mobility escalator" — as an escape hatch — is a dead-end for almost all, he says.

The majority would be better off stretching their minds than their muscles: America doesn't have jobs for washed-out potential athletes who know nothing but sports.

"Many boys work very hard to become great in sport, but only a very few will be successful," Eitzen said. "They spend many hours pe day developing their speed, strength and 'moves' to the virtual exclusion of those abilities that have a greater likelihood of paying off in upward mobility — mathematical reasoning and communication skills."

On the playing fields and courts, central positions calling for leadership and control go to white players, the research said, citing the statistics on football positions.

"It is inconceivable that blacks lack the ability to play these positions at the professional level," Eitzen said.

"Placekick holders must, for example, have good hands, an important quality for pass receivers."

But a 1973 study of all players whose names appeared in the Football Register found that two-thirds of professional pass receivers were black while all the placekick holders were whites.

To show that "black players must be better than white players to succeed in the sports world," Eitzen cites research which compared big league batting averages. It shows that blacks batted, on average, 20 points better than their white counterparts. He concludes that blacks who play "only" as good as whites won't be offered contracts.

How else, he asks, explain statistics like these: big league black pitchers in 1967 won an average of 10.2 games; white pitchers that year won 7.5 each on average; in basketball, blacks' career scoring averages were 11.1 points per game, compared to 9.3 for whites.

Where is the black who scores only 9.3 points per game? Not playing, and Eitzen says that's proof of racism.

industry contributions since 1981 but voted against Dannemeyer's bill.

Under the current procedure, public hearings are held before a plant gets a construction permit and again before it gets a permit to go to full power. Dannemeyer wants to eliminate the second hearing. He says his bill is intended to send a clear signal to the industry that the country is interested in "nuclear power as an American energy option."

The people whom Dannemeyer represents may not share his optimism, and at the very least they deserve the right to be heard on safety issues. Under Dannemeyer's amendment, they would have to appeal their concerns to the NRC.

MORE FREEDOM, LESS FOOD — We heard open talk in Moscow this summer that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev could be overthrown by a political revolt or military coup. Political reforms are racing ahead of economic reforms in the Soviet Union. That has resulted in more freedoms, but less food. People have more freedom to grumble, but more to grumble about. Hard-liners are using the shortages to point out the failures of perestroika. The next logical step for Gorbachev is to replace more of those hard-liners in the Kremlin with reformers.

MINI-EDITORIAL — Colombian President Virgilio Barco recently cast his country as the victim of the cocaine trade. He said cocaine users in America "have created the largest, most vicious criminal enterprise the world has ever known."

Putting the cover on Oprah's cover shot

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

This thing about TV Guide putting Oprah Winfrey's head on Ann-Margret's body and then making a cover out of the combination is quite shocking to me.

How can you trust anything that's inside a magazine whose editors would do something like that on its cover?

I've been a regular reader of TV Guide for years. I find this slip into deceit quite appalling.

What was wrong with Oprah Winfrey's body? I admit it was once cow-like but she lost a lot of weight, and got herself down to the point she no longer has to call in heavy equipment to help her get out of her jeans.

In an effort to get to the bottom of all this, I phoned the offices of TV Guide and spoke to one of the art directors, who asked I not use his name.

I agreed to that, so we shall call him Fred. I'm not sure why we shall call him Fred, but it was good enough for Fred MacMurray, Fred Flintstone, and Fred Sanford, so there.

"You really want the truth?" asked Fred.

"The truth is the cornerstone of this column," I answered.

"Well, what happened was Oprah's head is much too big for her body," explained Fred.

"What do you mean?"

"It's like this. She's got this giant head and a sort of squat body, and when we put her on the cover for the first time, she looked sort of like a fireplug with a thyroid condition."

"And what did you do?"

"At first," Fred continued, "we thought of having her soak her head for a few days in a bucket of water in hopes it would shrink."

"Why was that plan abandoned?" I asked.

"Because we couldn't find a large enough bucket," my source explained.

"So that is when you turned to trickery?"

"No," Fred went on, "then we turned to lying. We didn't turn to trickery until later."

"To whom did you lie?"

"We lied to Oprah. We told her she looked great on the cover and if you looked at it sideways, it didn't appear she had a cabbage head after all."

"And then?"

"And that's when we decided we had to doctor the photograph. At first, we tried putting Oprah's head on Geena Davis's body, but Geena is so slim, Oprah looked like a Tootsie Pop."

"So then we went for Maggie Thatcher's body, but the results were quite scary to be perfectly honest with you."

"Who else's bodies did you try on Oprah's head before finally deciding on Ann-Margret?" I asked.

"Nancy Reagan, Jane Pauley, Imelda Marcos, Miss Idaho, Wonder Woman, and Kermit the Frog," Fred answered.

"How did you finally come up with Ann-Margret?"

"We got it down to her and Barbara Bush, and we flipped a coin and it came up Ann-Margret."

"And you were going to try to pull off this ruse on the American people until a designer recognized the dress on the cover as one he had designed for Ann-Margret and blew the whistle on you?"

"That's about the size of it," said Fred. "We've been up to our necks in complaints."

I stand foursquare against such attempts to fool the reading public, and I have vehemently opposed my publisher's idea to put my head on Arnold Schwarzenegger's body for the cover of my upcoming book, "Autobiography of a Hunk," in which I discuss how I achieved my god-like, perfectly sculpted body without the use of steroids.

Military probes MX failure

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Military officials are trying to pinpoint the malfunction that forced the destruction of an MX missile making the system's first test as an operational weapon system.

The MX missile was destroyed three minutes into flight Thursday, the third failure in a new generation of U.S. nuclear missiles since March.

"A team of Air Force and Department of Defense contractor engineers is analyzing data from the flight to analyze the cause of the anomaly," said Air Force Tech. Sgt. Ernest Dawson.

"After they have complete their tests, the Air Force will determine if any system modifications are necessary to correct or improve the Peacekeeper weapon system."

The $75 million MX was destroyed by a signal sent by Western Test Range safety officers after telemetry indicated a problem aboard the four-stage intercontinental ballistic missile.

The launch was under control of a 44-person task force from F.E. Warren Air Force Base, Wyoming and overseen by Lt. Col. Robert Cook, commander of the 90th Organizational Missile Maintenance Squadron.

House panel approves wage hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats are gearing up for another battle with President Bush over the minimum wage, offering to accept his $4.25 hourly floor but refusing Bush's call for a lower pay scale for all new hires.

The House Education and Labor Committee's labor standards subcommittee on Thursday approved on a 7-4, party-line vote a plan to raise the $3.35-an-hour wage floor by 45 cents this January and by another 45 cents in January 1991.

But the panel refused to expand provisions in a bill vetoed by Bush in June that would allow employers to continue paying a $3.35 minimum only to people beginning their first job and only for the first 60 days of their employment.

Bush has said he would veto the bill again if it phases in the increase to $4.25 in less than three years. He also insists that a lower "training wage" be allowed for six months for any person newly hired.

Exxon finishes summer cleanup

WORKERS HEADING HOME

VALDEZ, Alaska (AP) — Cleanup workers and state officials say there's still plenty of oil fouling the shores of Prince William Sound, but Exxon insists the beaches are nearly free of oil as a summer-long effort ends.

Exxon officials pronounced the 1,100 miles of oil-tainted shoreline "environmentally stable" Thursday and proclaimed their 25-week cleanup of the nation's worst oil spill a job well done.

Exxon Corp. Chairman Lawrence Rawl said in Juneau that the affected shores of the sound and Gulf of Alaska farther south "are certainly what most people would call clean."

But Dennis Kelso, the state's environmental commissioner, was not pleased with what he saw when he toured shorelines on two islands south of Valdez on Thursday.

"This beach is not environmentally stable," he said as he poked a stick into thickly oiled rocks on Knight Island. "If we had wildlife here, they'd be pretty heavily oiled."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Emergency workers evacuate a victim of the Thursday morning shooting spree that left seven dead, including the gunman. Police say the man was a disgruntled employee of the Standard-Gravure printing plant here.

Disgruntled gunman kills 7, takes own life

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A printing plant worker who shot 20 co-workers had pledged to get even after being let go for mental disability last year, but his warnings went unheeded, employees at the plant say.

Joseph T. Wesbecker, armed with several semiautomatic weapons, went from floor to floor shooting former co-workers at the Standard Gravure Corp., killing seven and wounding 13 before taking his own life Thursday morning.

Wesbecker, a 47-year-old pressman, was placed on permanent disability leave last year because of mental illness, police said.

"He carried a big grudge because of that," said George Oswine, a former co-worker. "He said before he left he would get even. I remember that."

Oswine said Wesbecker had begun collecting guns since his leave.

Another former co-worker, pressman Joe White, said Wesbecker's talk centered on guns and Soldier of Fortune magazine. White, whose brother Lloyd was killed in the rampage, said Wesbecker thought of himself as a soldier.

"This guy's been talking about this for a year," White said.

"I guess nobody believed him," said Dan Frazier, president of the union local.

Frazier said Wesbecker had become more upset recently because he thought his disability benefits were about to be cut off.

Relatives told police that Wesbecker was a manic depressive who had attempted suicide three times. Wesbecker also had voluntarily spent time in mental institutions, said Lt. Jeff Moody, commander of the police homicide division.

Wesbecker entered the building at 8:30 a.m. EDT and took the elevator to the third floor.

"He just came off the elevator shooting," said Kathy Wilkins, an assistant buyer. "The elevator doors opened and he started firing."

Two receptionists apparently were the first to be hit. Both were wounded; one later died.

Police found four other victims on the third floor, where the executive offices and bindery are located. Wesbecker went from there down to the basement, where five victims were found, then up to the ground floor, where six victims and the gunman were discovered.

Wesbecker was face down in a pool of blood on the floor of a pressroom.

More refugees arrive in Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Hungary's commitment to reform, as demonstrated by opening its borders to East Germans fleeing to the West, is more important than an appearance of Communist bloc unity, a deputy foreign minister said in a report published today.

About 500 more East Germans arrived in West Germany after passing through Austria overnight, authorities said today.

Today's arrivals boosted the total to 14,000 since the exodus began at midnight Sunday when Hungary opened its border to Austria to East Germans.

The East Germans are automatically granted citizenship in West Germany and have been given assistance finding housing and jobs.

The majority of the refugees are young, skilled workers, many with children, who have expressed dissatisfaction with the lack of reform and freedom in their Communist homeland.

Hungary's decision to open its border with Austria ended a weeks-long standoff that began when East Germans flooded the West German Embassy in Budapest, seeking passage to the West.

10,000 march in Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — About 10,000 protesters, jogging, chanting and waving banners, marched today through the heart of Johannesburg to a police headquarters where countless activists have been detained and interrogated.

Another anti-government protest, involving nearly 2,000 people, took place at the central square in Pretoria, the capital. Some demonstrators climbed onto a statue of Paul Kruger, one of the political patriarchs of the Afrikaners who now control the government.

Both protests were among the largest ever staged in the two cities, and dramatized the impact of President-elect F.W. de Klerk's declaration this week that his white-led government would not block peaceful protests.

On Wednesday, a day after de Klerk's statement, more than 20,000 people joined a protest march in Cape Town against police brutality, the largest such demonstration ever authorized by the government.

In Johannesburg, the marchers included black youths, dark-skinned white professionals, nuns and prominent activists, among them Winnie Mandela.

Four bombs explode in capital

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Four bombs exploded at banks in Bogota early today as Colombia prepared to extradite two cocaine traffickers to the United States to face drug charges, police said.

No one was injured in the blasts, which occurred about 12:30 a.m., a Bogota police spokesman said. All four banks were damaged, said the spokesman, who asked to remain anonymous.

The government announced Thursday that it had arrested two members of the Medellin cartel wanted in the United States and said they were being held in a maximum security prison pending extradition.

The government identified the men to be extradited to the United States as Bernardo Pelaez Roldan and Guillermo Bueno Delgado.

The two were paraded before reporters at the National Security Department, Colombia's version of the FBI, on Thursday.

On the light side

CHICAGO (AP) — When Diane Kohutynski went to divorce court, the key issue was visitation rights — with the Moluccan cockatoo she and her ex-husband had raised from a fledgling.

"It's a little weird, a little strange," she said in a telephone interview Thursday. "I walked into work and everybody was laughing."

The couple has no children, but snowy white, orange-crested Magic "is like a baby," said Ms. Kohutynski, 28, of Hickory Hills.

"He's very affectionate, very loving," she said of the $3,000 bird she has not seen in a year. "He goes up on your arm and leans against your shoulder for a hug."

The property settlement approved Wednesday requires her former husband, Leroy Kohutynski, 28, of Palos Hills to allow her regular visits with the bird.

Her attorney, Norman Becker, told the judge that Kohutynski also has agreed to execute an irrevocable will giving her possession of Magic if he should die or decide he doesn't want the bird anymore.

"You want an irrevocable will on a bird?" exclaimed Judge Aubrey Kaplan.

The Dining Guide, which is usually published in our Friday edition, will appear in the Teleview in Sunday's newspaper.

Teacher says Bible is legend — not fact

By BILLY GRAHAM
DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Are sciences and the Bible in conflict with each other? I enjoy studying science, but my high school teachers say the Bible is a legend and you shouldn't try to reconcile it with scientific fact. — F.C.

Billy Graham
 purpose. Distinguish in your own mind between those things which are facts and those which are only theories. Your local Christian bookstore can recommend some books on the subject of the Bible and science.

DEAR F.C.: No, scientific truth and the Bible are not opposed to each other. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Genesis 1:1) — and that is the same God who gave us his Word, the Bible. The truth he has given us in nature does not contradict the Bible.

But notice carefully what I have said. No, scientific truth does not contradict the Bible — but there admittedly are some so-called scientific theories and hypotheses that do. Some scientists claim, for example, that the human race is just an accident, caused by blind forces of nature. But this is a theory, not a fact; it cannot be demonstrated or proven scientifically — nor could it ever be. The Bible on the other hand makes it clear that we are not here by chance, but God put us here for a Science is limited; it can only deal with the physical world. But there is much more to life than that. Science can describe what happens — but it cannot describe where we came from, why we are here, and where we will go when we die. Only Christ can give us the answers to these questions, for in him "are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" (Colossians 2:3). Don't be misled by those who refuse to take God into account, but make Christ the center and foundation of your life.

GIVE THANKS TO GOD FOR THE LIBERTY IN OUR LAND

Through history, man's liberty was sought in every land. They set their sights on human rights That all of us demand. We have today the right to say The words that we profess, Like those you'll read and then concede As freedom of the press. To meet with friends, it all depends On vigil we maintain; For while we're free, we'll never be Required to explain. And any way we choose to pray, We have that guarantee; So thank the Lord for this reward, And keep our nation free.

New appointment

Green to pastor local A.M.E. church

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Don't tell the Rev. Floyd Green Jr. "you can't go home again" — he would readily disagree.

Green, who has pastored a church in Stamford for three years, was recently appointed at the Northwest Texas Annual Conference to head a local church.

During the conference, Green was appointed by Bishop James H. Mayo to pastor Baker's Chapel A.M.E. Church (African Methodist Episcopal).

One month ago Green was welcomed with open arms by the members of Baker's Chapel A.M.E., where he preached his first sermon six years ago.

Green, who for 11 years had attended the local church as a member, said he was nervous about coming home to preach.

"My biggest fear was how I would be accepted — that should have been the least of my worries — they've been great in accepting me," he said excitedly.

Green vividly remembers the first sermon he delivered at the local church six years ago.

"My first sermon was 'You Must Be Born Again,'" Green said without thought.

A preacher's son, Green was the third of four brothers to answer the call to preach.

"My brothers, James and Richard, and my father are ministers," he said.

Green's late brother, Bobby, also served as a minister.

Although he didn't surrender to preach until seven years ago, Green said, "I knew it all along that I'd be a minister."

Green's father-in-law is a Baptist minister in Colorado City.

Surrounded by men of the cloth, Green laughed as he said, "There was no way to run from it."

Members of the A.M.E. church

BIG SPRING — Rev. Floyd Green Jr. has been appointed to head Baker's Chapel A.M.E.

are predominately black — but Green said he welcomes and encourages all races to attend his services.

"Everybody is welcome here — no matter what color they are... If you're a Christian, color shouldn't matter," Green said.

Partially quoting Bible scripture

Green said, "Who so ever will — let him come."

Appointed by the bishop to head Baker's Chapel, Green said he took vows to go where he was needed.

Before his Big Spring appointment, Green, his wife Sandra, and their children, Frankie, Kathy and Stephanie, traveled to Stamford where he pastored Simms' Chapel for three years.

Because, Green said, ministers are moved where they are needed, he believes his new appointment is a compliment to him.

"I find the move to be a compliment... I was moved to help serve the need of the people," Green said.

Green's main concern for the local church is to build its congregation spiritually.

"Then I'll work on increasing membership," he said.

Green said his enjoys knowing that his messages are provided through the Lord.

congregation. I love feeling that what I do is by the Holy Spirit," he said.

Green, who works at a local bank during the week, said if someone is thinking about entering ministry for the money, he'd better think again.

"If you're in it for the money you might as well get out," he said with a laugh.

Serving the Lord and sharing his word is what makes Green the happiest.

"The real joy comes from serving the Lord," he said.

the Christian church in its first years. Participants also will learn how they can help spread the church today.

• "The Augsburg Confession" is a study of the official doctrines of the Lutheran Church, as written by the Reformers in 1530. The class, which will be taught by Pastor Carroll Kohl, will meet in the church fellowship hall.

Dinner will be served on Wednesday evenings at 5:15 beginning Sept. 20. A free will offering will be taken to help cover the cost of the food.

Mid-week classes, for children age three and older, will be conducted on Wednesdays at 6 p.m.

NORML still fights to decriminalize pot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just across the street from the building where drug war director William Bennett sits at his desk in a two-story suite, the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws carries on its own quest from a small, warren-like office.

NORML, which opened its first storefront office in a run-down section of Washington in 1970, is emerging as one of the most vocal critics of President Bush's anti-drug campaign.

"The simple question is whether marijuana should be included in the war on drugs," NORML's incoming national director, Donald Fiedler, told reporters at a National Press Club press conference following Bennett's outline of the Bush plan this past week.

"If it is," he said, "the price of a drug-free America is an America that can no longer be free."

NORML wants legalization of marijuana but supports continued prohibition of cocaine. Although it has had its ups and downs, Fiedler said he believes harsh attempts to penalize the nation's millions of marijuana smokers eventually will bolster NORML's diminished strength.

"When Bush went after the ACLU, it helped their membership, when the recent Supreme Court decision on abortion came out, it helped NOW, and we fully expect the Bennett drug war plan will help NORML," said Fiedler, a lawyer from Omaha, Neb.

In its early days, NORML gained attention by defending youngsters facing years in prison for lighting up. Its efforts helped spark decriminalization moves in many state legislatures.

As the marijuana laws changed, NORML's $25-a-year membership roll shrank from a high of 20,000 people in 1978 to about 5,000 now.

From its initial location in a seedy area of Washington that has since blossomed out in high-price hotels, NORML has moved to an office building it shares with such tenants as the International Joint Commission, a governmental body concerned with U.S.-Canadian affairs, not with the kind of joints marijuana smokers talk about.

The drug war office is on the top two floors of a building across the street.

"They can peek in our windows and we can peek in theirs," said Carole Moore, who, like a number of NORML activists, is also a member of the Libertarian Party. Jim Turney of Richmond, Va., former national chairman of the Libertarians, is treasurer of NORML.

The Libertarians' contention that the government should interfere as little as possible with individual rights meshes with NORML's stance on marijuana, although the two organizations differ on some other issues.

Joining Fiedler at a recent news conference were Gatewood Galbraith of Lexington, Ky., and Jack Herer of Help Eliminate Marijuana Prohibition, both advocates of hemp, the marijuana plant, as a cash crop. Herer showed a 1942 Agriculture Department movie extolling hemp's value to the war effort as a source of rope for battleships and parachutes.

They all wore jackets and ties and Galbraith puffed on a cigar as he waited for the conference to start.

In the audience were Ms. Moore, wearing an "I Smoke Pot" button, and Dana Deal, one of the originators of a New York-based coalition of marijuana activists, wearing a psychedelic T-shirt with the words, "Boycott White Powder. Bring Back Herb."

Deal is part of NORML but said he would like the group to be more activist.

"What it really is is some young lawyers and they feel more comfortable dealing with other professionals," he said. "They don't like demonstrations because every time you have a demonstration, somebody smokes pot. They don't want to advocate pot. They want to advocate legalization. We advocate pot."

In an interview in his office, Fiedler said: "At the smoke-ins, some people do smoke pot, some demonstrate. NORML has spoken at smoke-ins, but to my knowledge NORML has never sponsored a smoke-in. We will come and speak at them, but as to sponsoring them, no."

The incoming director said he thinks the link with the Libertarians "is a natural liaison because the Libertarian Party believes that we have the right to shape our own destiny and the government doesn't have the right to jump in and tell us what we should and should not do."

Attention, Good Citizens! How Much Do You Know?

Constitution Quiz

The week of Sept. 17 through 23 has been set aside as Constitution Week.

To celebrate, The Mini Page has some questions and answers for you and your family.

Q: What is the Constitution?

A: Our Constitution is a plan of government.

It is a document in which delegates from 12 of the original 13 colonies set down the laws of the land. Rhode Island did not send any delegates.

The Constitution was signed on Sept. 17, 1787.

Q: Who wrote the Constitution?

A: The Constitution was not written by any one person. It was written by many delegates. Gouverneur Morris of Pennsylvania is given credit for the final wording, especially the preamble.

The Constitution is on four sheets of parchment. It has 4,543 words, including signatures.

Q: How does the Constitution begin?

A: With a preamble, or introduction:

We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America.

Q: What are the articles, or sections, of the Constitution?

A: Article I: The Congress.
Article II: The president.
Article III: The judges and national courts.
Article IV: How states relate to each other and to the national government.
Article V: How the Constitution can be amended or changed.
Article VI: The Constitution is the supreme law of the land.
Article VII: How it was to be ratified or approved.

Q: How many times has it been changed in 202 years?

A: There have been 26 amendments to the Constitution.

Q: What is the Bill of Rights?

A: The first 10 amendments to the Constitution.

Q: Who is known as the Father of our Constitution?

A: James Madison of Virginia.

Many of his ideas were adopted into it. He rose to speak out more often than any other delegate.

His notes on what went on at the Constitutional Convention are the best record we have.

Q: What role did George Washington play?

A: George Washington served as the president of the convention. He was the most important man there. He influenced many men to come. He did not take part in the debates, but he often met with members in private.

Q: How many delegates signed the Constitution?

A: Thirty-nine signed. One delegate, John Dickinson of Delaware, had another delegate sign for him. The 40th signature is that of the secretary.

Q: Where was it written?

A: The Pennsylvania State House, later called Independence Hall, in Philadelphia.

Please say YES!

President Bush has started a new movement for young people. It is called YES, for Youth Engaged in Service. It encourages them to serve others and their country. President Bush thinks that people who help others or their country will "shine." They will become points of light as they brighten the part of the world where they live.

Woman says bug bombs excite husband

In the surf
 ATLANTIC CITY — Miss America contestants from left, Miss Texas Leah Kay Lyle, and Miss Ohio Amy Huffman pose for photographs on the Atlantic City beach. A new Miss America will be crowned Saturday evening.

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything in insecticides that could excite a man?
 Arthur is 55 — just the age most men start to slow down, but he's still going strong. He gets especially aroused right after he sprays our property for bugs.

I noticed it last year when we moved into this house. We had ants and roaches, and right after Arthur sprayed he started looking for me and would get so passionate that he didn't care if I did my housework or even cooked. On weekends he sprays sometimes two and three times a day. It's really getting me down.

We live in Florida. What brand of bug bomb will kill the bugs down here without bringing out my husband's manhood so strong?

He uses Raid, TNT and Rid-a-Bug, and they all have the same effect on him. The brands that don't diamond ring I don't wear anymore because I am afraid of being robbed or killed. Nick said as long as I'm not wearing my diamond, he'd like to make it into a ring for himself.

Abby, it's not that I don't want him to have the diamond, it's just that I am afraid of what might happen to him.

Since I have refused him the ring, he is barely speaking to me. He also quit making love to me every Sunday afternoon, which he has done for 60 years. I suppose I could live without it, but I got so accustomed to it I feel deprived.

Should I give him the ring so he will be his old sweet and loving self again? — NICK'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If Nick doesn't realize that you don't want him to have the ring because you are concerned about his welfare, shame on him. (P.S. Someone should tell him if he doesn't use it, he'll lose it, and I don't mean the ring.)

DEAR ABBY: I know boys will be boys, but my "boy" is 73 and he's still chasing women. Any suggestions? — ANNIE

DEAR ANNIE: Don't worry. My dog has been chasing cars for years, but if he ever caught one, he wouldn't know what to do with it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old but I know all the facts of life because we live in a dirty neighborhood. My problem is that in my family we get pregnant quick. What I mean is, my sister got pregnant when she was 15 just sitting next to a boy in church. That is what they say anyway. Can this be true? — DONNA LEE
DEAR DONNA LEE: No. Somebody must have moved.

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Lubbock Estacado (0-1) at Big Spring (1-0)

The Speedy Matadors ride into Memorial Stadium, coming off a 34-21 loss to Plainview. The Steers go into their home-opener coming off a 21-17 win over Hobbs, N.M.

As usual, Estacado has a good offense, mainly because there is no substitute for raw speed. But this year the Matador defense has succumbed to the run. On the other hand, Big Spring's defense looked awesome against Hobbs.

This will be an offensive show, but with Big Spring's good rushing and passing attack, the Mats will leave Big Spring an uncharacteristic 0-2.

The upset special of the week.

BIG SPRING 27, ESTACADO 21

Coahoma (0-1) at Stanton (0-1)

Forget the records in this one. Whenever these two 1-20 rivals meet, the competition will be fierce.

Both teams are looking for their first touchdowns of the year. Both play pretty good defense, but right now, the offense is lacking.

It will be a dogfight, but Coahoma will hold on to the ball this time, and Carlos Cervantes will score the winning TD late in the game.

COAHOMA 13, STANTON 7

Sands (1-0) at Buena Vista (0-1)

The Sands Mustangs are off to a fast start, indicated by last week's 66-8 romp over Hermleigh. Buena Vista has a good foundation with 14 lettermen, including six starters. But the Longhorns haven't got their offense rolling just yet, as they are still looking to score their first touchdown.

They'll get that first TD this week, but it really won't matter.

SANDS 55, BUENA VISTA 8

Colorado City (1-0) at Seminole (1-0)

Good seasons seem to be in store for both of these teams. Colorado City is coming off a convincing win over Alpine, while Seminole slogged its way to a shutout over Coahoma.

The C-City Wolves have a good balanced attack, but on a dry field, Seminole's Run-and-Shoot offense might be a bit much. The home field advantage is the difference.

SEMINOLE 27, COLORADO CITY 20

New Home (0-0-1) at Grady (1-0)

The Grady Wildcats kicked off their season in fine form last week by overwhelming Ropesville, 56-8. On the other hand, New Home is more-than-anxious to play four quarters of football, since last week's game with Borden County was called at halftime because of bad weather.

The Wildcats smell state playoffs again, and they aren't about to lose their home-opener.

GRADY 42, NEW HOME 30

Forsan (0-1) at Rankin (0-1)

No one can accuse the Forsan Buffaloes of playing an easy non-district slate. Last week they were whitewashed by Garden City, and this week they take on Rankin. Both teams were ranked in the top 10 by some Class A preseason polls.

The Buffs really have a pretty decent team, and last week's performance isn't indicative of what they can do. But the Red Devils, are fighting mad after an upset loss to Iraan last week.

Forsan will play better, but the Buffs are just outmanned in this one.

RANKIN 21, FORSAN 7

Wellman (0-1) at Borden County (0-0-1)

The B-County Coyotes are ready to get down after playing only half a game last week. The Coyotes are a much-improved team this year and Wellman, a powerhouse in the past, is down a little this season.

The Coyotes will play four intense quarters this week, and the end result is hard-earned victory.

BORDEN COUNTY 24, WELLMAN 20

Garden City (1-0) at Grandfalls (1-0)

Both of these teams are expected to reach the state playoffs this year. Grandfalls will be seeking its third straight playoff trip, and rightly so, since the Cowboys return 13 starters.

Garden City, which reached the playoffs last year for the first time in six years, lost some big-play performers, but still showed it has the firepower to be one of the best.

It will take Garden City about a half to get over the long bus ride, but once it does — look out!

GARDEN CITY 31, GRANDFALLS 14

Gridiron game cancelled

AUSTIN (AP) — Lexington canceled Friday night's high school football game at Flatonia because of last week's injury to sophomore linebacker Jason Beauchamp.

Beauchamp, 16, collapsed Sept. 8 during a game at Thrall.

An apple-sized blood clot was removed from his skull, and doctors say his condition has stabilized but he remains in critical condition.

Flatonia scheduled Giddings State School at Flatonia as a replacement game.

Scott first 20-game winner

By The Associated Press
Twenty-four hours earlier, the San Diego Padres were probably thinking of putting some worry into the San Francisco Giants.

But all that has changed. And while all of that was going on, Houston Astros pitcher Mike Scott was becoming the first 20-game winner in the majors.

The Padres, who beat Atlanta 3-2 Wednesday night, got late word that Cincinnati held a 7-5 lead over San Francisco. The streaking Padres were looking at only a four-game deficit in the National League West race, and with the same teams playing again Thursday, why, it wasn't inconceivable that the margin would be down to three a day later. And then San Diego and San Francisco would play a crucial series at Candlestick Park.

Well, the series does open tonight, and it is critical — but only for the Padres.

The Giants, you see, came back to win that Wednesday night game 8-7 by scoring three times in the bottom of the 13th. On Thursday, the Giants went 12 innings in beating the Reds 4-3 while last-place Atlanta battered the Padres 13-4.

Instead of trailing by four games, or even three, the Padres head to San Francisco six back and probably in need of a sweep to keep alive hopes of catching the Giants.

Tom Glavine, 14-8, pitched six innings in beating San Diego for the fourth time this season. Jeff Blauser and Oddibe McDowell had four hits apiece to pace a 15-hit Atlanta attack. Dale Murphy hit his 20th home run, Blauser his 10th and Mark Lemke his first as a major leaguer.

"We're usually the ones on the other end of (the score)," Braves manager Russ Nixon said. "There was a lot of hitting tonight for a change."

The Braves jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first off Padres starter Ed Whitson, 16-11, who lasted only 2 1/3 innings before departing with a sore right shoulder.

Will Clark, who had three hits, scored the winning run in the bottom of the 12th inning on Bob Brenly's single as San Francisco beat Cincinnati.

Clark, who tripled, doubled and singled, reached base on third baseman Luis Quinones' error to start the 12th. He stole second as Kevin Mitchell struck out and, after an intentional walk, scored on Brenly's looper to right.

Rangers put dent in Royals' hopes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mike Jeffcoat seems to be pitching himself into the Texas Rangers' future while Tom Gordon pitches himself right out of rookie of the year contention.

Jeffcoat, a journeyman left-hander who was called up from Class AAA Oklahoma City at the end of May, went eight strong innings against Kansas City Thursday night as the Texas Rangers dented the Royals' division title hopes with a 10-3 rout.

The 30-year-old Jeffcoat, 8-5, has established himself as an integral part of the Rangers' rotation.

Gordon, meanwhile, is wondering where his sharp curveball went. A month ago, he was 16-4 with a breaking pitch people were comparing to Bert Blyleven's. But the 21-year-old right-hander took his fourth consecutive loss, dropping his record to 16-8 and his level of confidence is way below 500.

The loss was only the second in 10 games for the Royals, but it dropped them 3 1/2 games behind idle Oakland in the American League West. In other games, Minnesota beat Toronto 2-0 and Cleveland defeated Detroit 4-0.

In what has become a familiar pattern of late for Gordon, the Rangers got to him early, scoring three runs in the first and then knocking him out in a four-run third.

Gordon's breaking pitch, the talk of the league at mid-season, seems to have flattened out. With four losses and a no-decision in his last five starts, he has been rendered ineffective at the worst possible time for the Royals. Meanwhile, Baltimore reliever Greg Olson, with 25 saves, has jumped into the thick of the race for rookie honors.

"I pitched good for five months," Gordon said. "Tonight I felt real good. I'm trying to figure out what's the problem with my curve. It's not breaking as sharp as usual."

Fred Manrique, Rafael Palmiero, Julio Franco, Pete Incaviglia, Mike Stanley and Juan Gonzalez each had two hits for the Rangers, who tagged six Kansas City pitchers for 16 hits.

Gordon got his first 10 victories in relief, benefitting a few times when the Royals rallied to win games after he had surrendered a lead he was trying to protect for another pitcher.

"He hasn't pitched like he did early in the year," Wathan said. "He's got to get ahead of the hitters. And he's got to get a good first inning, to get some confidence. He probably doesn't have any right now."

"He's had a heck of a year, regardless of how he finishes," Wathan added. "We might not be in this position right now if not for Tommy Gordon. We forget he's 21 and trying to go through his first pennant race. Maybe he's trying to do too much."

Twins 2, Blue Jays 0

Mark Guthrie pitched five-hit ball for 7 1/3 innings as Minnesota completed a three-game sweep of Toronto at the Metrodome.

MINNEAPOLIS — Toronto Blue Jays Manny Lee (right) is knocked off his feet by Minnesota Twins Kent Hrbek after he made the throw to first base in the sixth inning.

The Blue Jays' lead in the AL East slipped to 1 1/2 games over Baltimore. Toronto lost three straight for the first time since June 30-July 2.

The Twins won all three with rookie starting pitchers. Guthrie, 2-1, got help from Jeff Reardon, who got his 30th save, making him the first reliever with five straight 30-save seasons.

Mike Flanagan, 8-10, gave up one run on seven hits in six innings. The afternoon game drew 14,262.

Indians 4, Tigers 0

Rod Nichols struck out 10 in 7 2/3 innings and Joe Carter hit his 32nd home run as Cleveland beat visiting Detroit.

The Indians and Tigers, the two lowest-scoring teams in the league, scored a combined nine runs in the three-game series.

New owners have big plans for struggling Mariners

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The new owners of the Seattle Mariners have big plans for the team that has never had a winning season. The big plans envisioned by Indianapolis businessmen Jeff Smulyan and Michael Browning do not include a change of locale.

"We would like to build an organization that we think will be as strong as any in baseball," Smulyan, a broadcasting magnate, said Wednesday after baseball's owners unanimously approved their purchase of the Mariners from George Argyros.

"We think there is a good foundation now and we want to build on it."

The Mariners, headed for their 13th straight losing season, are the only franchise in major league history never to have a winning season.

"The team, while it has not won as many games as it might, people see it's a team on the verge," Smulyan said.

Smulyan and Browning say they don't intend to replace Manager Jim Lefebvre or General Manager Woody Woodward, but do intend to stretch the market appeal of the Mariners.

"They're very upbeat about the whole area of the Northwest," American League president Bobby Brown said. "They feel, and I think too, that the Mariners ought to be a Northwest team, not just a Seattle team."

The AL chief said Browning and Smulyan told the owners that there are 6 million potential fans within a 200-mile radius of Seattle.

"The idea that the market is tiny is perhaps a little misconception," Brown said. "They hope to be able to exploit that sort of data."

Where are all the runners?

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The cross country season is in full swing and things are looking bleak for Big Spring coach Randy Britton and his cross country teams.

Britton and his teams have enjoyed considerable success in the past three years. During those years Big Spring has sent someone to the state cross country meet in Georgetown.

Saturday Big Spring will be competing in the Odessa meet, its second meet of the season.

But this year Big Spring will have trouble repeating that feat of getting runners to Georgetown.

The main reason is that numbers in the cross country program is down, especially for the boys team. As for as the young ladies go, Britton has 12 runners right now, only five is needed to compose a team. But the boys is another story. As of now, Britton has only six runners, and that number could drop any time. "We're hurting right now, especially on the boys team," said Britton, who has been coaching cross country for the past 12 years. "I can't produce runners if there's no runners there," said a disgruntled Britton. "There just isn't anyone willing to put the work into it that it requires to be a cross country athlete."

Britton's boys have finished second in the district the last three years, qualifying for the regional meet. Ben Gonzales, now running for South Plains College, competed in the state meet two years.

One bright spot for the Steer runners will be the return of senior Chris Polyniak. Polyniak is the defending district champ and has a best time of 17:08 over the three-mile cross country course. "Chris is trying to work hard," said Britton. "It's hard for him because he's so far ahead of the rest of the others, and I've got to work with the ones running at the back. I can't spend as much time as I need with Chris."

Other returning harriers are brothers Rene and Angel Villa. Both are successful boxers and use cross country as one of their training methods. Rene is a senior and Angel is a sophomore.

Another runner that has some potential is Billy Threats, said Britton. After that Britton has a couple of freshmen who have never run before.

The Lady Steer thinclads have won district the last three years. Heading the pack is junior Mimi Regalado, who has a best of 13:18 over the two-mile course. Regalado, who battled injuries all last year, competed in the state meet as a freshman.

Other veterans who will score points for the Lady Steers are senior Rocky Avilar and junior Ericka Franks.

"I think we've got a good chance of getting the girls back to regional, maybe to state, but for the boys it will be hard just to get to regional," said Britton.

"I always thought that success breeds success. But the more success we have, the harder it is to get people."

Seminoles, Tigers fighting for survival

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It was supposed to be a key game between two contenders for the national title. Instead, it has become a matter of survival for Florida State and LSU.

The Seminoles, ranked sixth in the preseason poll, are 0-2 heading into Baton Rouge for Saturday night's game with the Tigers. Louisiana State hasn't done any better, although it has only one loss, against Texas A&M.

"The game has taken on a whole new look since the beginning of the year, when it looked like the game of the century," Seminoles coach Bobby Bowden said. "Both teams need to win. I don't know if we can get it, but we probably need it badder."

Florida State was beaten at home by Southern Mississippi and then lost at Clemson. The Seminoles haven't been 0-3 since 1976, Bowden's first season as head coach.

LSU was ranked seventh before the loss to the Aggies. Now 21st, the Tigers might not belong there, either, according to Coach Mike Archer. "You're ranked No. 6 or No. 7, you've got to go out and prove it, starting in September," Archer said. "All I can say, based on that, is that we didn't deserve to be No. 7."

"We may not deserve to be No. 21. We're 0-1. We haven't won a game, and there are a lot of teams out there who have won football games."

"We need this game pretty badly ourselves. We're just like them. We're backed up in a corner, just like they are. We're playing for just as much as they are."

Playing for No. 1 are Notre Dame, ranked at the top, and No. 2 Michigan. In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 Miami, Fla., is home to California, Utah is at No. 4 Nebraska, No. 5 Auburn entertains dangerous Southern Mississippi. No. 6 Oklahoma is at Arizona, seventh-ranked Clemson goes to Virginia Tech, No. 8 Colorado is at home against No. 10 Illinois, and No. 9 Arkansas opens its season at home against Tulsa.

Also, it is No. 11 Syracuse against Army, 12th-ranked West Virginia playing host to South Carolina, No. 13 Southern California at home to Utah State, Purdue at No. 15 Washington, Memphis State at No. 16 Alabama, Duke at No. 17 Tennessee, 19th-ranked North Carolina State at Wake Forest, No. 20 UCLA at San Diego State, 22nd-rated Texas A&M at Texas Christian, Oregon State at No. 23 Washington State and No. 24 Iowa playing host to Oregon.

Illinois won't be intimidated facing a highly ranked team — the Illini won at Southern Cal in their opener. Nor will Colorado be in awe after routing Texas and beating Colorado State.

Illini coach John Mackovic says his team "played pretty well" against USC, but "if we play the same game against Colorado, I don't think we can win. We'll have to play better."

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne thinks his team will be facing one of the better passers of the decade in Utah's Scott Mitchell.

Utah has averaged 476 yards in total offense in going 1-1.

"(Troy) Aikman a year ago was very good and I think (Steve) Walsh a year ago was very good. But this guy... he's a great player," Osborne said. "He's got great velocity on the ball. It just doesn't take very long to get there. He throws a lot of 25- to 30-yard patterns. ... When that guy bends (on a pass pattern) the ball is there. It gets there in a hurry and he's very accurate. He can throw the ball into cracks your normal quarterback can't throw it into."

But will Mitchell find those cracks against Nebraska? Utah's previous two opponents were Fresno State and Utah State, not exactly in the Cornhuskers' class.

Utah coach Jim Fassel said Nebraska isn't likely to be a pushover when it comes to moving the ball up and down the field.

"Nebraska is obviously a big challenge," Utes coach Jim Fassel said. "They execute very well and, in most instances, just wear you down."

DALLAS (AP) — Van Cliburn signed hundreds of records and compact discs at a music store, meeting the public for the first time since he ended his long sabbatical.

More than 500 classical music fans waited several hours Saturday to shake hands with Cliburn, the Fort Worth pianist who won the Tchaikovsky competition in 1958. "I'm excited and thrilled that you're all here," Cliburn told the crowd. "It's a vote of confidence for classical music."

He recently began playing publicly again, ending a planned one-year hiatus that stretched nearly a decade. On Friday night, of Dallas said she bought five Cliburn cassettes and two albums as an inspiration for teen-agers in her family.

NEW YORK (AP) — John Zaccaro Jr., the son of former vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, is running a pasta shop these days.

But Zaccaro and business partner Karen Saccone say The Ravioli Store in New York City's Little Italy specializes in the unusual: ravioli stuffed with pumpkin, black beans, walnut pesto, smoke salmon mousse and catfish.

"None of this is traditional Italian," said Zaccaro.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A letter from afar contains startling news. Concentrate on completing unfinished business. Do not let job worries get you down. You are about to receive a lucky break! Romance holds promise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get going on a clever plan. Those who scoff are in for a big surprise! Ahead lie rewards that you can keep forever. In business, play up your one-of-a-kind talent.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Despite all the blessings that come your way, leaving something undone brings a feeling of frustration. Build optimism in others. When in transit, obey all safety regulations. Careless mistakes can be costly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Refuse to let someone rile you this morning; ignore any taunts or petty complaints. In the long run, you will benefit from ending a deteriorating relationship. Branch out and cultivate new friendships.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stick to your own job since that is what will bring home the bacon. Taking unnecessary risks could cost you dearly. Visit someone confined to a nursing home or hospital. Offer reassurance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The bonds of real friendship should never be severed. Forgive and forget those little disagreements that do not matter. Gambling will not be worth the risk involved. Stick closer to home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Do not cry over a lost opportunity; it is a blessing in disguise. Give in to your fashion-conscious streak and buy a new outfit. Take a chance on a pet or hobby.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be on your mettle. A super new opportunity has your name on it. Your relationship with a difficult person gets back on track. Beware of burning the candle at both ends this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you are dithering on a decision, stall. Be careful about overlooking little mistakes; they could prove costly. Your cash flow gets a boost. Brighten up your home with a new color scheme.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):

You have plenty to give, so make someone happy with your generosity. An old relationship is put on a new basis. A costly hobby is too rewarding to give up. Entertain at home tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can see the handwriting on the wall. Refuse to be distracted by double-talk and fancy footwork. Take a break from your usual routine and socialize with new friends. Romance needs recharging.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A mystery is finally solved. Your social life may be great, but your cash flow is only so-so. Romance could blossom with someone who is younger. You find that your job is changing, whether you like it or not.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Stop denying your natural drive to succeed. Unique business opportunities come your way just before the winter holidays. Reappraise your priorities; it may be necessary to drop some non-productive activities. Certain friendships are less positive than you would like. Do not be afraid to move in new directions. Romance looks especially promising in April.
