Airshow tickets

BIG SPRING — Advance tickets for the Oct. 28-29 Vietnam Memorial Airshow are on sale now.

Prices are $4 for adults and $3 for students age 7 to 12. Children 6 and under will be admitted free. Gate prices will be $5 for adults and $4 for students.

Tickets are available at: Cosden Credit Union, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Bob Brock Ford, Saunders, Dibrell's, Bargain Mart, Elrod Furniture, Specs and Company, Citizens Federal Credit Union, Athletic Supply and Williams Motors (formerly Schroyer Motor Co.).

The Vietnam Memorial Airshow, billed as the largest aerial event between Dallas and El Paso, is sponsored by the Vietnam Memorial Committee. Proceeds from the show will benefit a planned memorial for Vietnam-era veterans in the West Texas area.

Organizers expect to draw from 30,000 to 40,000 spectators to Big Spring and the McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark where the show will be held.

Whistle winner

SPARKS, Nev. (AP) — Joel Brandon never could figure out how to whistle the way most people do, but that didn't stop him from winning top honors at the International Whistle-Off for the second time.

The Altadena, Calif., man whistles while inhaling, sucking air between his teeth and tongue to produce a unique, horn-like sound.

"I never used it when I was young," the 40-year-old Brandon said of his unusual style. "It was so odd-looking, I got a lot of flak."

Brandon won the solo popular male division with his renditions of "Wave" and "Green Dolphin Street," and captured the solo classical male honors with a Bach concerto. He won in 1987, too.

Another crowd-pleaser at Sunday's 12th-annual event was Judy Roberts of Eugene, Ore., who whistled several songs while standing on her head and conducting a puppet show with her feet.

"I think whistlers are made, not born," said Brandon, who has performed with orchestras in Houston and Indianapolis. He had this advice for would-be whistling champs: "Practice. It's just like anyone who plays an instrument."

He won $500 and a trip to anywhere in the United States.

Yuppie vending

CHICAGO (AP) — It may sound like a contradiction in terms, but the vending machine business is trying to go upscale.

For the yuppie in a rush, there are now machines that offer a 7-inch, microwave-heated pizza or a freshly-brewed cup of cappuccino or espresso.

These and other variations on the old coin-in-the-slot candy machine were on display this weekend at the National Automatic Merchandising Association's convention.

The latest in coffee machines, made by Borghi SpA of Italy, grind beans for each cup, blast hot water through the grounds, and dispense a strong brew in a tiny cup.

"We're looking for the upscale, higher-end consumers who appreciate a better, European cup of coffee and ethnic groups who don't like American coffee," said Erick Feitshans, director of U.S. operations.

Pennsylvania businessman G.W. Black hopes college students hankering for a late-night snack will line up at his Pizza Chef machines, which heat an individual-size cheese and pepperoni pizza in 60 seconds.

The innovations aren't cheap. The pizzas go for $2 and the Italian coffee machine demands 80 cents to $1.20 a cup.

But the industry has an answer to the problem of finding enough change, too: Vending machines that take magnetic-strip debit cards, deducting the amount of purchase and spitting the cards back out for re-use. The cards are sold in vending machines that accept big bills.

City prepares for prison team visit

BIG SPRING — A second state prison site team will find local officials well prepared to receive them when they arrive Tuesday morning, an advocate for locating a prison here said today.

"We feel we're well prepared," said Bill Crooker, Howard County commissioner and a leader in the effort to attract a state prison to Big Spring.

Officials with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, formerly the Texas Department of Corrections, are expected to fly into Big Spring at 11 a.m., Crooker said. They will be met at the airport by county officials, the city council, State Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, and possibly State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, he said.

A five-person team including Crooker, Fraser, Hooper Sanders, who is president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Bob Riley and Anne Beasley, who is associate warden for the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, will take the officials on a guided tour of the proposed prison site, Crooker said.

During their expected hour-and-a-half stay, TDCJ officials will make an assessment of the proposed prison site, evaluate the incentives being offered and ask any questions they may have, Crooker said.

The four board members who will visit 13 West Texas area sites including the one in Howard County are: Mamie Proctor, Houston; Allan Polunsky, San Antonio; Ben Gallant, Corpus Christi; and Robert Mann, Waco. They will be accompanied by two attending TDCJ staff members — Andy Collins, deputy director of operations and Allen Sapp, director of planning, development and procedures.

The board members will visit proposed sites today, Tuesday and Wednesday, then will meet in Austin next week to select about 10 of the 26 sites under consideration for a state prison. The names of the counties or cities that make the reduced list will not be revealed until Nov. 8, one day after a state Constitutional Amendment election, Crooker said.

On Nov. 13, cities remaining on the shortened list of possible prison sites will be invited to Austin to make a proposal to TDJC officials for locating a site in their area, Crooker said. An announcement for the six areas that will receive a prison is expected later that day, he said.

State plans call for the construction of three 1,000-bed and three 2,250-bed prisons.

Crooker said members of the Big Spring/Howard County prison steering committee have met several times in the last 10 days — including an intensive review session Sunday — in an effort to refine their presentation to state officials.

"We've prepared the points we wish to stress... What we can offer them is our motto right now," he said. "We're enthusiastic and we're ready."

Area counties eye prison programs

COLORADO CITY — Innovative regional community correction programs are being considered by area counties, including Mitchell, in the wake of sweeping changes in the state's correction system that are going into effect this year.

New programs will cover a variety of services in the corrections process ranging from pre-trial, boot camps, and residential treatment centers to restitution centers and electronic monitoring. They are the result of H.B. 2335 which was passed by the state legislature last Spring.

Howard County is being included in feasibility studies now underway in Mitchell and Tom Green counties, officials say. The Tom Green study will also include Martin and Glasscock counties.

"We think we're looking at a drug and alcohol substance abuse center," said Mitchell County Judge S.L. "Mac" Morris. He said the center, which will treat court-referred patients, may serve nine judicial districts in 23 surrounding counties.

"We're gathering the numbers now," he said of a study to compile area statistics on paroles and probations from January 1977 to the present. The study, which officially began Oct. 3, will obtain the information from the probation offices in the surrounding counties.

"It's slow and a lot of number crunching," Morris said. "I hope we get it done by Nov. 1."

Donna Starr, adult probation officer for the 32nd Judicial District in Mitchell County, is conducting the study. "We plan to go up to Howard County, probably your entire district," she said of the study's westside parameter.

If applied for and approved, the state may operate the facility, but it not the hospital district probably

Gramm-Rudman cuts to take effect

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush was poised to sign an order today cutting federal programs by $16 billion, and his budget director said the cuts will be felt faster than they were the last time they were invoked.

The cutbacks are required under the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law because of the failure of Congress and the White House to agree on a deficit-reduction package.

Unless the House and Senate work out a compromise version of their deficit-cutting bills and send them to Bush by midnight — considered virtually impossible because many lawmakers were out of town — the president is required to sign the order.

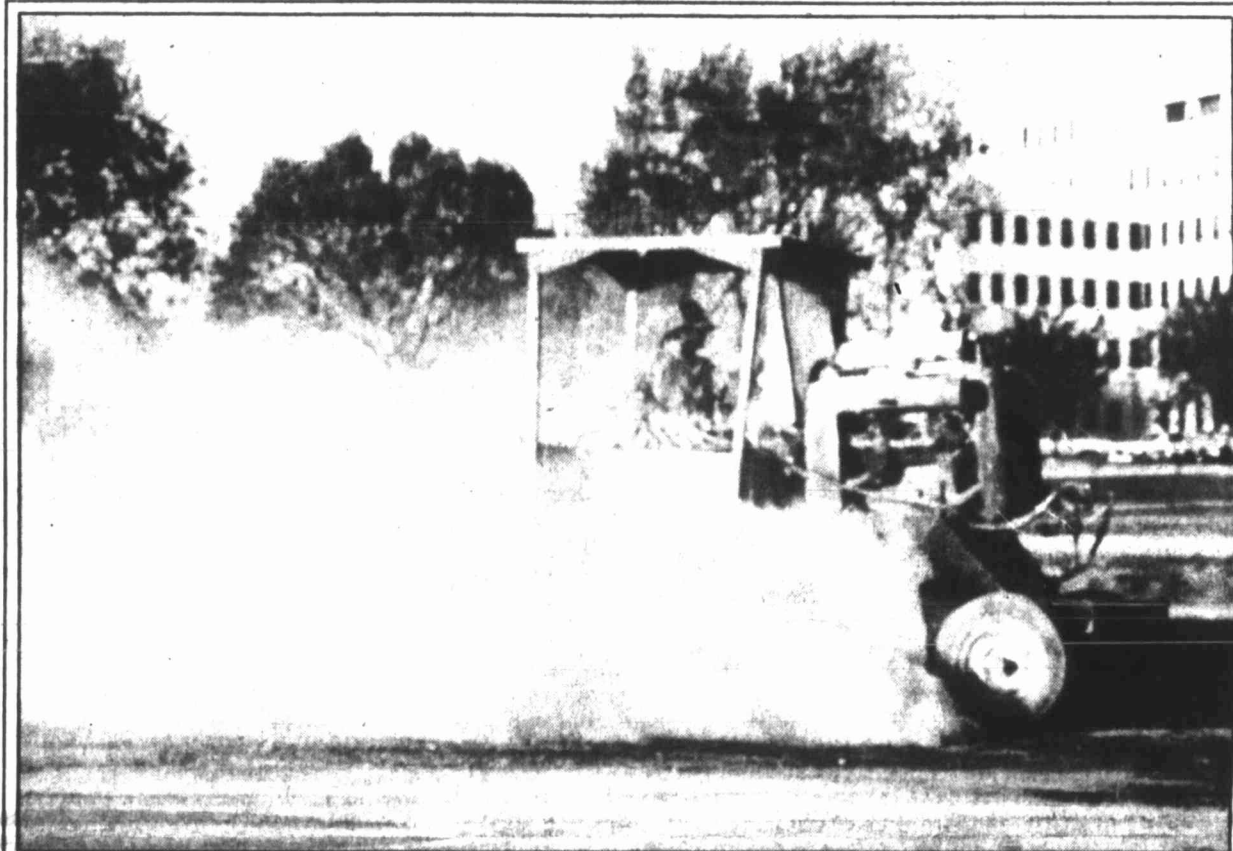

"The very, very high odds are that... we'll end up in sequester," the formal name for the automatic cuts, Richard Darman, director of the White House Office of Management and Budget, told reporters today.

Darman said the cuts will be imposed at a very low level of federal agency operations, making it harder for bureaucrats to transfer money to compensate for the reductions.

When the automatic cuts were last invoked for two months in 1987, they were applied at a higher level, making them easier to deal with, and they were barely noticed by most Americans.

"It has a little more discipline to it," Darman said of the changed method of imposing the cuts.

Area cities plan 911 call system

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The commissioners courts in Martin and Glasscock counties and the city councils of Stanton, Coahoma and Forsan passed resolutions last week to participate in an area emergency 911 plan.

Installation of it is scheduled to begin in mid 1991.

Mitchell County already passed a resolution in August after a write-in newspaper poll showed that citizens were for it 114-23.

Borden County commissioners will probably consider a resolution at their next regular meeting on Oct. 23, said the secretary for the county judge.

Telephone customers in Martin, Glasscock and Borden counties will be billed 50 cents a month beginning in January, according to information supplied by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission. Information on Mitchell County, which is in a different region, was not available by press time.

Other funding will be required in addition to the phone bill, the plan adopted by the Permian Basin Commission shows.

The fee, which will be charged on 43,562 telephone lines in 13 counties, is estimated to bring in $21,345 a month. According to projections it will take an additional $20,149 a month to operate the system in 1992.

Non-participating counties which have separate 911 communication districts in the 17-county region are Howard, Midland and Ector. Coahoma and Forsan will be part of the Howard County Emergency Communications District.

Borden County, because it does not have a 24-hour dispatch, will be served the Howard County district and the West Central Texas Council of Governments Emergency Communications Systems, the report says. But the regional commission will work with Borden County officials to ensure that they receive the service.

The regional plan was submitted and is awaiting approval by the advisory commission on state

Gubernatorial hopefuls address Texas broadcasters

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — They talked of economic development and battling drugs, but education and school finance were the prevailing issues as five candidates for governor spoke to Texas broadcasters.

Some of the gubernatorial hopefuls also took subtle jabs at each other during the Texas Association of Broadcasters luncheon Sunday that permitted each candidate to give a 10-minute speech.

State Treasurer and Democratic candidate Ann Richards told the crowd of about 250 that to improve an "outdated and inefficient" school system Texas must examine existing audits and look to a constitutional amendment to provide for building more schools.

The Texas Supreme Court gave legislators until May 1990 to reach a solution for improving funding disparities between rich and poor school districts.

Although she doesn't oppose a state lottery, Ms. Richards said lotteries are not stable sources of income.

Republican Jack Rains, former Texas secretary of state, said he supports helping church groups working with at-risk youths in low-income areas.

He also touted voter turnout records during his tenure as secretary of state and said transportation tax rates in Texas are higher than other states.

"One of the great myths in Texas is that we have a positive business environment," Rains said.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, who told the broadcasters he has long been a supporter of open meetings and open records, said the state's education system doesn't educate and needs to return to basics. He also said the criminal justice system needs improvements.

A state lottery could pay for many of the projects by generating $500 million to $700 million "in just a few years," said Mattox, a Democrat. "With these monies, we can do a lot."

Dallas Republican Tom Luce stressed the need to add to the education reforms of House Bill 72 passed in 1984. He said the state failed to follow up on changes the bill initiated.

"The Texas Supreme Court has given us a golden opportunity to improve on House Bill 72," Luce said. "We need to scrap the entire school finance system."

Railroad Commissioner Kent Hance, a Republican and former state senator and congressman, cautioned against hurting some of the "best" school districts in finding a solution to education finance.

Texas must work toward "quality education" and concentrate on reading and math in early grades, Hance said. He also spoke against a state income tax and said as governor he would spend time each week trying to recruit businesses to Texas.

Republican businessman Clayton Williams was the only declared candidate absent.

As they addressed the broadcasters, some candidates discussed the possibility of the governor's race — estimated by some to cost a total of $50 million — centering around short sound bites and commercials.

"I'm learning a whole new vocabulary that I thought was only applicable to the 'Wheel of Fortune,'" Luce said of television campaign strategies.

Ms. Richards said she didn't want the governor's race run on "simple slogans and 10-second sound bites." Rains also said he didn't want to run such a campaign.

Several candidates said that at the next forum they would do as Mattox did Sunday and hand out their resumes. Luce chided Mattox a bit, saying he also likes to check references and look at past accomplishments.

Hance mentioned the friction between Mattox and Ms. Richards, who sat at the head table with a broadcast executive between them. Hance's remark drew chuckles from the audience but none from the two Democrats in the race.

After the political speeches, Jim Phillips, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of KHEY AM-FM in El Paso, was presented with the TAB Broadcaster of the Year award.

emergency communications, states the cover letter which was mailed Sept. 12 to county judges, sheriffs, mayors, city managers and the chiefs of fire, police, and EMS departments.

The county and city resolutions approving participation in the system will be forwarded to the advisory commission in November, the letter says.

The report projects that:
 • It will cost $31,221 to implement the system in Martin County, which has a population of 4,905. The monthly ongoing costs are estimated at $1,022.

The monthly 50 cent phone fee on 1,769 lines is expected to generate $912.50 a month after subtracting a 2 percent telephone company collection fee. The public safety answering point will be the Martin County Sheriff's Department in Stanton. It will serve eight public safety agencies.

Installation and testing of equipment is scheduled to begin in December 1991. Bids are to be prepared in August 1990 and accepted in July 1991.

• It will cost $25,700 to implement the system in Glasscock County, which has a population of 1,226. The monthly operation costs will be $1,168. Revenue from the phone fee on 629 lines will be $310.

The answering point will be the Glasscock County Sheriff's Department in Garden City. It will serve six agencies.

Installation is scheduled for July 1991. Bids are to be prepared in June 1990 and accepted in April 1991.

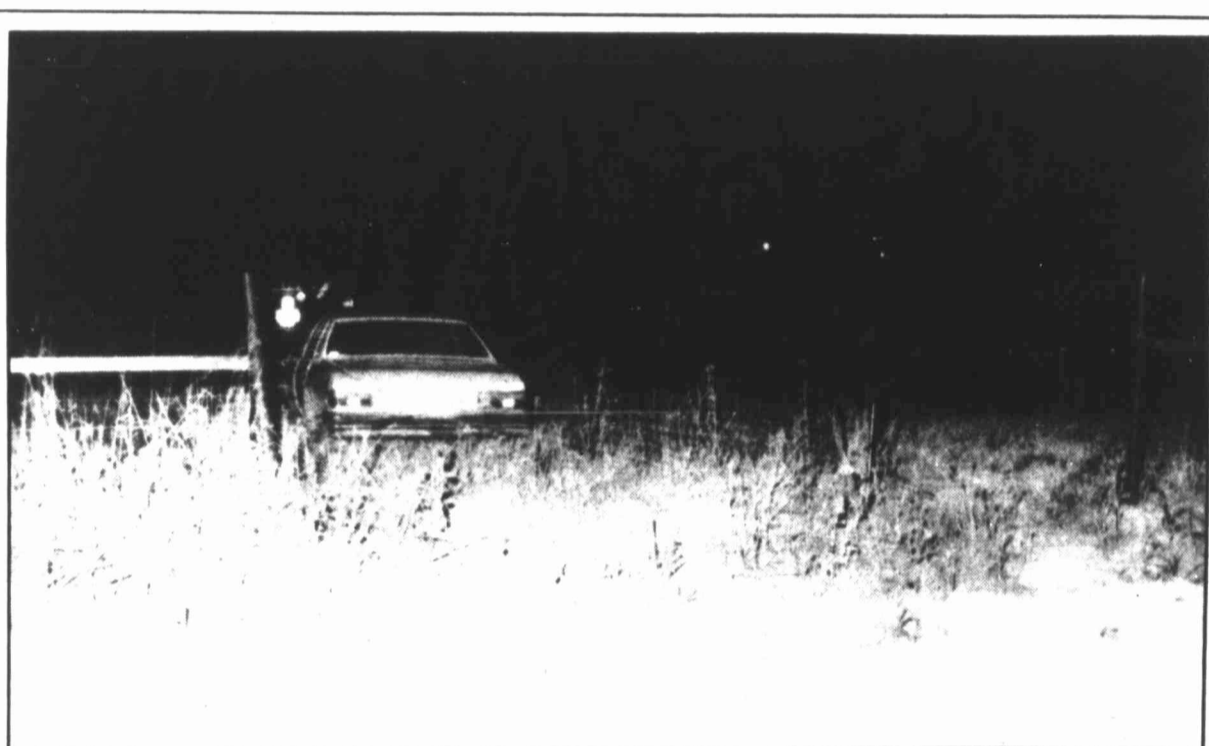

• Borden County, population 812, will have 113 phone lines routed to the Big Spring answering point. Another 112 lines will be routed to the Snyder exchange.

Weather

Remnants of Hurricane Jerry drenched Texas today after the storm roared ashore in Galveston with sustained winds of 80 mph and gusts to 100 mph.

Before withering into a tropical depression early today, Jerry spun off a half-dozen tornadoes inland, blacked out at least 52,000 homes and businesses and cut off phone service to Galveston Island.

Tides along the Gulf Coast were 5 to 8 feet above normal as Jerry's landfall coincided with an unusually high tide caused by a rare alignment of the Earth, moon and sun.

Budget

The reductions, spread evenly across many defense and domestic programs, are expected to total about $8.1 billion for defense and $8.1 billion for domestic initiatives. That works out to reductions of about 4.3 percent in defense programs and 5.3 percent in domestic agencies.

The cuts are expected to be rolled back as soon as Congress works out a compromise deficit-reduction bill. The Senate approved its version of the measure late Friday, and House-Senate negotiators could begin their meetings this week.

But Darman said Sunday it might be best if Congress left the spending cuts in place instead of rolling them back.

"This time, if it goes into effect, I think it would be good if people would live with it and say, 'don't restore the cuts,'" Darman said on the ABC-TV program. "This Week With David Brinkley."

Automatic budget cuts took effect in 1986 and 1987 as well, but Congress acted quickly to restore the lost funds, a process that Darman called "phony."

The reductions are not expected to be felt by many Americans, at least initially.

"It affects a relatively small number of people in our society, and affects them in a relatively small way," Rep. Bill Frenzel of Minnesota, ranking Republican on the House Budget Committee, said last week.

The automatic Gramm-Rudman cuts, when the law was enacted in 1985, were intended to seem so horrific that Congress and the president would be frightened into cutting the federal deficit in order to avoid them.

It didn't quite work out this year.

The law requires a projected deficit for fiscal 1990 — which began Oct. 1 — of no more than $100 billion. If the projected shortfall exceeds the target by more than $10 billion today, the law automatically triggers cuts in spending of whatever is required to slash the figure to $100 billion.

The White House's Office of Management and Budget — which makes the projections — estimated in August that the 1990 deficit would be $116.2 billion.

The cuts apply to all defense programs except for money already owed because of signed contracts. That means that about $190 billion out of the budget's $300 billion for defense is subject to reductions.

Nearly 75 percent of domestic spending is exempt from the cuts under a series of special rules written into the law. Programs not subject to any cuts include Social Security, payments on the national debt, other federal retirement and disability programs, veterans' pensions and compensation, and state unemployment benefits.

A host of other domestic programs are vulnerable to only limited cuts. Medicare, veterans' medical care, community and migrant health centers and Indian health facilities cannot be cut by more than 2 percent.

Early on, agencies — which receive their budgets in monthly or quarterly allotments — cope by delaying purchases, leaving vacant jobs unfilled, reducing travel and shifting money within accounts.

The law forbids officials to save money by cutting workers' salaries. This covers virtually all government workers — the president, members of Congress, judges, civil servants — with the exception of congressional staff workers.

DALLAS (AP) — Leaders of state and local groups on both sides of the abortion issue say they are trying to persuade minorities — who have strong opinions on both sides of the issue — to join the public debate.

One of the most determined recruiters of minority forces is Karen Ashmore, who resigned as president of a North Dallas chapter of the National Organization of Women to form a "Rainbow" version of the group to attract women of all races to fight for rights, including abortion.

"The whole women's movement has been accused of being a white, middle-class movement," Ms. Ashmore said. "We've never gone into the community like this. What we've done with the Rainbow chapter is on the leading edge."

Experts estimate the percentage of minorities actively participating in the abortion battle is far less than their share of the U.S. population, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

Cybill's sneakers

DALLAS (AP) — The maitre d' of a posh Dallas restaurant not only didn't snicker at the sneakers actress Cybill Shepherd was wearing, he gave her a table as if nothing unusual was afoot.

The decision came last week at The Mansion on Turtle Creek, which has an extremely rigid standards for dining attire. Ms. Shepherd arrived for dinner at 9 p.m. wearing a hunter green tunic-topped pantsuit and white Reeboks.

"Our dress code says 'coat and tie, no denim allowed,'" said maitre d' Wayne Broadwell. "It doesn't mention Reeboks."

There was only one minor delay for Ms. Shepherd's party last Tuesday.

"We did have to lend a tie to her friend," Broadwell explained.

School sues parents

WACO (AP) — Public school officials here are hoping that the thought of jail time for parents will scare truant children straight back to class.

During the past month, the Waco Independent School District ordered to court the parents or guardians of about 40 students, citing a law that requires school attendance of children between 6 and 17 years old.

"We don't want to be at odds with parents. We want to work with parents. But we've got a job to do," said Jay McCullough, school district coordinator of student activities, told the Waco Tribune-Herald.

"We want to educate these youngsters and we have to have a body in class in order to do that," said McCullough, who is charged with improving attendance.

The law says youngsters have to be in school at least 170 days out of the 175-day school year and it makes parents responsible if children miss class.

Hurricane blamed for two deaths in Galveston

GALVESTON (AP) — Hurricane Jerry is being blamed for two deaths as it washed across this Southeast Texas island community, blowing cars into sidewalks, downing power lines and spawning at least six tornadoes.

The bodies of a 24-year-old man and a 2½-year-old girl were discovered about 11 p.m. Sunday on the rock jetties of the island's protective seawall, said Gary Stone, spokesman for Galveston's Emergency Operations Center, which coordinates emergency activities for the community.

Officials were unsure whether the two were pedestrians or had been passengers in a car that earlier had washed over the seawall.

"It was just sad to see any fatalities. As city manager, you just blame yourself, and wonder if we gave the community enough warning," City Manager Doug Matthews said.

Jerry had seemed headed for the Louisiana coast, but it shifted to the west and was upgraded to a hurricane Sunday morning. It was downgraded to a tropical storm at 11 p.m. Sunday with winds at 45

"It was just sad to see any fatalities. As city manager, you just blame yourself, and wonder if we gave the community enough warning." — Galveston City Manager Doug Matthews.

At 5 a.m., the National Weather Service reduced the storm to a tropical depression. Jerry's remnants were located about 35 miles east southeast of Lufkin near Sam Rayburn Lake.

All tropical storm warnings were lifted for the upper Texas coast, but a tornado watch remains in effect until 7 a.m. for Orange and Jefferson Counties.

A flood and flash flood watch is in effect for East and Southeast Texas. Three to 5 inches of rain are expected along the path of Jerry in the next 12 hours to 24 hours.

A tornado was reported even before Jerry came ashore with 100 mph wind gusts at the west end of Galveston Island. The hurricane's maximum sustained winds reached 80 mph as it moved across the island about 7:25 p.m. Sunday, but those winds had topped 85 mph as the hurricane moved across the Gulf of Mexico.

At 7:20 p.m., a tornado damaged several buildings and homes in a three-block area in Orange near the Louisiana border. A tornado ripped the door off a Galveston fire truck responding to an emergency call about 8 p.m. Firefighter Robert Taylor said the tornado touched down as the truck was leaving the station.

Other tornadoes or funnel clouds were sighted in Webster, Hitchcock, Baytown, Beach City and northeast of Texas Highway 6. Damage generally was confined to roofs and power lines. No injuries were reported.

Climbers: Gorilla habitat not escape proof

DALLAS — Texas Mountaineers climbing club member Leon Weiss tries to inch his way out of the future home of four lowland gorillas Sunday. The Dallas Zoo invited the climbers to test the new compound for escape routes before they put the gorillas in their new home.

DALLAS (AP) — The real gorillas were not watching Sunday afternoon as people aped them.

Good thing. It could be a case of "monkey see, monkey do," and that might mean a 400-pound gorilla or two lumbering around Dallas.

Dallas Zoo officials tested the $4 million future home of the zoo's four lowland gorillas and members of the Texas Mountaineers climbing club found it was little challenge to escape.

Ken Kaemmerer, the zoo's curator of mammals, said 18 volunteers found "10 to 15 escape routes, and many, many more handholds and footholds" in the new Jake L. Hamon Gorilla Conservation Research Center.

"Obviously, one escape route is too many," he said after watching the experienced climbers scale their way out of 11- to 13-foot-high textured concrete walls.

"We fully expected some escape routes to be found," Kaemmerer said. "One of our zoo keepers even got out, and he's not a climber."

A representative from a Seattle architectural firm that designed the center watched the test and will meet Tuesday with zoo and construction officials to discuss solutions, Kaemmerer said.

All weak spots found in the textured concrete walls were marked with large pieces of chalk. Construction workers later will smooth down the spots so the gorillas cannot get a handhold or foothold once they inhabit the center next spring.

"Beyond that, we'll probably have to raise the wall a couple of feet in some places and pitch the wall so that there's an overhang," Kaemmerer said.

The climbers' discoveries won't delay the scheduled April 1990 opening of the center nor will it add any cost, said zoo spokeswoman Dawn McDonough.

Climbing club spokesman Cliff Begnaud said he expects gorillas would more than match humans in climbing ability because they have longer arms, much greater strength and more agile toes.

The two-acre habitat is a hilly island surrounded by a dry moat-like ditch. The exhibit is part of a $32 million expansion that will nearly double the size of the Dallas Zoo.

Kaemmerer said officials hope to acquire about eight more gorillas from other zoos once the exhibit is complete.

Right now, the zoo's two males and two females are housed in a concrete facility with iron bars built in the 1960s.

But no matter how much they like their new home, it shouldn't be long until they start looking for a way out, he said.

Hearing starts on judge's misconduct

DALLAS (AP) — Numerous protestors are expected outside the Dallas County Courthouse today as a public hearing begins into misconduct charges against a state judge who made disparaging remarks about gays after a murder trial.

The State Commission on Judicial Conduct opens hearings into the remarks published Dec. 16 in an interview with a Dallas Times Herald reporter.

The reporter, Lori Montgomery, later received awards by the Dallas Bar Association and a gay advocacy group for her work on the story.

Hampton told Ms. Montgomery that he gave a light sentence to a convicted murderer, 18-year-old Richard Bednarski, in part because his two victims were "queers."

"These two guys that got killed wouldn't have been killed if they hadn't been cruising the streets, picking up teen-age boys," Hampton said, two weeks after sentencing Bednarski to a 30-year prison term.

"I don't much care for queers cruising the streets for teen-age boys," he said.

The Republican judge said John Lloyd Griffin and Tommy Lee Trimble were "asking for trouble," by soliciting sex. That testimony came from Bednarski during the 1988 trial.

Hampton later apologized for a "poor choice of words" and insisted that he believed the interview was off the record. He has refused to talk to reporters since.

The Texas Human Rights Foundation and the Dallas Gay Alliance, which have distributed brochures announcing the hearing, are expected to rally outside the courthouse.

"Judge Hampton has said that no one would remember this by 1990," Gay Alliance president William Waybourn said. "Our goal has been that nobody forget it."

Critics flooded the judicial commission with letters of protest demanding Hampton's removal from the bench.

A May 31 letter from the commission announced Hampton was charged with violating conduct canons barring judges from commenting on pending cases. Bednarski's attorney had filed a motion for a new trial at the time the statements were published.

Hero in death

Co-workers praise exploits of slain manager

FORT WORTH (AP) — Co-workers of a restaurant manager, who offered himself as a hostage to robbers and later was shot to death, said the 35-year-old man was a hero.

Dorsey Robert Read of Fort Worth, manager of a Steak and Ale restaurant, was killed as three robbers fled with him while police watched.

Co-workers and police said Read offered himself as a hostage to protect his employees during the Saturday night holdup. The Dallas Morning News reported.

"That he died a hero is no surprise," said Becky Johnson, manager of another Steak and Ale in Addison. Read is survived by his wife, Darlene, 34, and three children.

"(Read) said, 'Hey, just tell me what you want. I'll do it. Don't hurt any of my people.'" — said Betty Behrns, Read's mother.

Police were holding Steven Staley, 27, and Tracy Duke, 23, of Denver, and Brenda Rayburn, 22, of California, on charges of capital murder in the crime. Their bail was set at $500,000.

Officers were investigating the group in connection with robberies in Colorado, Oklahoma and elsewhere in Texas. Detective Thomas Boetcher told the newspaper.

Police had surrounded the restaurant after receiving a report of a robbery in progress at 11:37 pm.

Witnesses told police two men and a woman who had finished a meal at the restaurant forced 32 employees and patrons to the rear of the building. They threatened to shoot "everybody who saw anything," according to witnesses.

"(Read) said, 'Hey, just tell me what you want. I'll do it. Don't hurt any of my people,'" said Betty Behrns, Read's mother.

When police knocked on the locked restaurant doors, Read answered the door and told them everything was all right, Boetcher said.

"But, the officers felt just by the tone of his voice that it wasn't (all right)," Boetcher said. "He was stalling for time, said he didn't have the keys. They pulled back to watch."

Inside, the robbers became frightened and decided to use the group as hostages, police said.

"(Read) said, 'Take me. I'll go with you, but leave my people alone,'" Ms. Behrns said.

As police watched, the robbers and Read came out. Read struggled as the men tried to force him in the back seat of the car and one of the men shot him several times before pushing him in, Boetcher said.

Reserve monitors overseas stock markets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve officials are monitoring stock and currency markets overseas today, poised to take emergency action if necessary to prevent a repeat or worse of the Friday the 13th stock plunge.

In Japan, the Tokyo Stock Exchange took its biggest tumble of the year today, but trading was calm in light of Wall Street's big plunge. The dollar, after opening sharply lower, was firm. In London, share prices plummeted in heavy but orderly trading. Stocks fell sharply on other European exchanges but then firmed.

A senior Fed official, speaking on condition of anonymity Sunday, said the central bank's counterparts in Japan and Europe had given assurances that they stood ready to supply needed cash to the banking systems in their countries to stem any fallout from the U.S. plunge.

The world's central banks also were preparing to intervene if necessary by buying dollars to keep the value of the U.S. currency decline from ripping out of control.

"We will be there with all the liquidity demand that is needed," the official said. "If there are any doubts about liquidity being available, there is no reason to be concerned."

For the 6,500 bankers gathered for cocktails and conferences, Friday's events are reminiscent of the opening of the group's 1987 convention in Dallas when the market crashed 508 points, causing Greenspan to abruptly cancel his speech and jet back to Washington.

Greenspan was widely credited with decisive action that prevented the 1987 crash from wreaking havoc on the banking system and perhaps topping the entire country into a recession.

While the injection by the Fed of massive amounts of cash into the system cannot by itself push stocks higher, it does serve to reassure nervous bankers that they need not cut off credit to securities firms suffering heavy losses.

Japanese struggling to cope with fast-aging society

Hot

TOKYO (AP) — In a land where the elderly have long been venerated, Miyoko Morita and Misako Tanaka spend their days looking after old people, whose plight worries them so much that "we can't let ourselves die."

Japan's rapid transition to an industrial power has been accompanied by an equally swift aging of its population. One in five Japanese will be over 65 years old by 2010, compared to one in 10, or 12 million, now.

The Japanese live longer than anyone else — men to an average 75.6 years and women to 81.4. They once could count on spending their old age as respected senior members of extended households in close-knit neighborhoods or villages.

Today, for many elderly Japanese those "happy golden years" have turned gray, says

Mrs. Morita, 74, a widow who lives with her son's family. She and Ms. Tanaka, 65, take calls on a hotline and fight for more government help.

Crowded in cities, many families have no space for grandparents. Spiraling land costs have pushed the elderly out of their homes as old neighborhoods are replaced by apartment buildings where everyone minds their own business.

The change has forced many to turn to the government for help finding jobs, housing and health care, needs traditionally met by families. But officials say social welfare programs are already overloaded; as the number of incapacitated elderly rises, this burden may overwhelm the system, says Hiroto Itami of Tokyo's welfare planning department.

"The housing that was built after the war for young couples, small houses and apartments with no elevators, isn't suitable for old people."

Crowded in cities, many families have no space for grandparents. Spiraling land costs have pushed the elderly out of their homes as old neighborhoods are replaced by apartment buildings where everyone minds their own business.

Itami says. Japanese families have shrunk — on average from five people in 1955 to three in 1985 — making it difficult if not impossible for families to care for older relatives without help. Caring for the aged is considered women's work, but more than half of all married women work.

More than half of all Japanese think an extended family structure is best, surveys show, but only 22 percent of all families have three generations living under one roof. "In some cases, they can't manage by themselves or even with their families," Itami says. "But there aren't enough nursing homes or low-income housing units for the elderly."

In the Tokyo area, home to over 1 million people 65 and older, nine public nursing homes accommodate a total of 2,700 people; another 2,000 are on waiting lists. Nationwide, 3,090 public nursing homes house 216,000 people.

The government plans to build nursing homes and low-cost housing for the elderly, and to expand at-home medical services and an experimental system of emergency alarm pendants that let sick or injured elderly people call for help.

In the meantime, the Health and Welfare Ministry estimates 380,000 aged are bedridden in hospitals. The government employs 150,000 women part-time to help families care for 220,000 bedridden elderly living at home. With 1.3 million elderly living alone and another 3.47 million elderly couples also on their own, needs far outweigh the services available, Itami says.

Predictably, the burgeoning demand for services has spawned a "silver industry" for families with enough money to pay for high-quality housing and medical care. Such services aren't cheap. Entrance fees for the least expensive private old-age homes average $106,000 to $212,000, in addition to monthly food and maintenance fees of $425 to $700.

The average monthly income of couples in which the husband was 60 or older was about $1,343 in 1987. About $869 of that was from pensions, according to a national survey of household income and spending. Spending was $1,481.

Financial concerns and habit send half of all retirees back to work, but Ichiro Kami of the Labor Ministry says, "Most elderly can only get low-paying jobs like guards or janitors, work that younger people don't want."

The elderly face housing discrimination, too. Skyrocketing land prices have forced many out of their old wooden homes due to heavy tax burdens and strong pressure from land developers to make way for new buildings.

Hot Springs ambassadors recruit other retirees

HOTSPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Hot Springs has an army of silver-haired ambassadors who love to brag about mineral springs, pure air and cheap living in the Ouachita Mountains.

When a prospective senior settler calls the city-run Retiree Recruitment Office, coordinator Gail Ezelle unleashes the 150-strong force of volunteers whose enthusiasm bubbles like this resort's hot spring water.

Dapper in matching blue blazers, breast pockets adorned with their names and the city logo, the volunteers court potential new neighbors with answers about health care, expenses, and recreation.

They escort guests up the 216-foot Hot Springs Mountain Tower for a panoramic view, then head downtown for a look at restored Bathhouse Row. The leisurely tour may end with a meal, or maybe a sunset cruise aboard a Lake Hamilton party barge.

The personal pitches have been potent. The office has fielded more than 6,500 inquiries since it started advertising nationally last summer; it takes credit for 75 moves. Part of its success comes from a 1987 Rand-McNally study listing Hot Springs as the nation's third most desirable retirement spot, after the Murray-Kentucky Lake, Ky., and Clayton-Clarksville, Ga., areas.

To Mrs. Ezelle, 55, who moved from Texas, recruiting retirees is just like recruiting an industry. "They have such a tremendous

Mrs. Ezelle praises her volunteer corps, who buy their own jackets, pay for their own gas and provide any extras, such as lake cruises or meals. She offers a toll-free telephone line and complimentary passes to the mountain tower.

economic impact on the community, and they give us expertise and enthusiasm."

But retirees don't bring some of industry's bothersome baggage: pollution, clogged highways and fluctuating workforces. They arrive with average assets of $215,000 and average annual incomes of $33,000, along with taxes and spare time to devote to community activities. That equates to an annual economic impact of more than $9 million, the office estimates.

Mrs. Ezelle praises her volunteer so they have a tradition up there," said Longino, associate director of the Center for Adult Development and Aging at the University of Miami.

"But the difference with Hot Springs is they are really going after the retirees, instead of letting the retirees come to them. States have to kind of compete for retirees. They bring expendable income and lots of advantages. And older people rarely move someplace where they don't know anybody."

That's why volunteers like Dick and Marge Bingham are valuable — they know what it's like to downshift from a fast-paced working lifestyle.

The Bingham moved to Hot Springs in 1987 from Covina, Calif., their home for more than three decades. Dick, 57, knew it was time to get out when his 28-minute commute to a securities office turned into a 1½-hour headache.

They were familiar with Arkansas because their daughter and grandchildren live in Mena, on the state's western edge. A deal on a lake house clinched the decision. And once Dick unwound after three months of relaxation, he decided to tell others about Hot Springs.

Marge, 53, says she was floored by friendliness. "Out in California, it was so huge and impersonal. We maybe knew our neighbors across the street and on either side of us. But here, we've already got 50 to 100 close friends, and 500 speaking acquaintances. I love it."

The people must oust Noriega

The failure of the (coup attempt in Panama is) a blow to every freedom-loving person in the world as Panamanians continue to live in fear.

It didn't have to work the way it did. The United States government was there and ready to aid the rebels. It knew about the planned coup two days in advance. . . . So for the Pentagon and security agencies to watch . . . invites investigation. . . .

Those who would have the United States troops swoop into Panama City . . . would do well to remember the rise of the successful popular movement to remove Ferdinand Marcos from power in the Philippines in 1985 and 1986. Such a movement has yet to take place in Panama. . . . If a popular movement to oust (Gen. Manuel Antonio) Noriega fails and brings violence on the heads of the Panamanians, then the lives of American military personnel should be risked, but not before.

Bush-Salinas talks a good step

With major new agreements on trade, investment and the environment last week, the United States and Mexico strengthened a partnership that is quickly becoming one of the bright spots of the Bush administration.

With the agreements, the two nations pledged to cooperate on key issues in their respective national agendas in the 1990s. Mexico got a partner in its all-important economic recovery, and the United States got a partner in its growing concern for the environment.

Mexico's young president, Carlos Salinas de Gortari, managed to bring Mexico out of its dizzying economic free fall last summer, when he negotiated a foreign debt reduction plan with foreign banks, but that only bought time.

Now he needs investment capital and greater access to American markets — and he made progress on both fronts during his visit to Washington.

The United States, meanwhile, received long overdue assistance in cleaning up the polluted air and water in urban areas along the border.

These are win-win agreements for neighboring nations who are rebounding, finally, from the strained relations of the Reagan administration. Both sides of the border will benefit from the growing partnership of Bush and Salinas.

Increase aid to the homeless

One of the most depressing problems society faces is coping with the homeless. . . . It is not easy to rest in a cozy bed knowing thousands are looking for cardboard boxes to snuggle up in on a desolate lot. . . .

Probably the saddest cases are those homeless who wander aimlessly because of cutbacks in programs for the mentally ill. These are the ones who are not homeless by choice, and it is here that the argument for federal and state assistance is most compelling. According to government estimates, the mentally ill account for about one-third of the homeless total.

On the federal and state level, it makes more sense to concentrate on the factors that cause homelessness than to broadly throw money at the problem that won't meet diverse needs.

Compassion is important, but it's only the first step. There should be a wide-range assault on what causes people to become homeless, not just a program with a narrow vision that will only put a Band-aid on a complex problem.

Businesses pass on costs

To the editor:

I read the letter in your newspaper from a Mary Murphy. Yes, Mary, we have all wondered why businesses have not wanted to come to our city. Mrs. Pat DeAnda has nothing to do with it as you stated in your letter. I, for one, give her credit for standing up for something she believes in. "Have you ever ran a business?" was one of your questions? Most of the time if there is an increase of "whatever" concerning a business, they pass it on to the consumer.

I also was at the public hearing on the 1989-90 budget for the city. I also attended the one for the school, college and county. The people that spoke wanted a better Big Spring. If it took raising taxes, they were in agreement on the whole.

You gave your opinion on Main Street. Now here is mine: It's looking good. Anytime you see a town or city building up their downtown you better believe its a town with people that have a vision.

One of our biggest problems about getting businesses into this town is transportation. Its a long drive to the airport and back. If we had a better way for people to travel to this town we would have it made. I am waiting for our city father's to announce Amtrak will be stopping here.

A new wrinkle in education

By BEN HUTSON, Ph.D.

At my age, discovering a new wrinkle is usually not reason for celebration. This time it was. I found a new wrinkle in education.

In a perfect world, all children would begin school with all the readiness skills needed for school success. It's not a perfect world. A significant number of children are not going to be ready for school when school is ready for them. This leaves teachers in a real predicament.

The majority of the class will have the behavioral skills necessary to successfully function in a group situation. They will be able to sit relatively quietly, listen and attend to task. They're ready for school.

A number of others will require the most rudimentary basic instructions in how to behave in a school situation. Usually, this means that the children ready for academic instruction must wait until the teacher is able to corral the little mavericks who are still trying to run free.

Recently, I have been shown that it doesn't have to be that way. This past summer, I accompanied my wife to New Orleans where she has been working on a second Masters Degree at Xavier University. There, I had the privilege of meeting a most remarkable woman — Sister Grace Pilon.

She is one of those rare people about whom it can be truthfully said that her life's work has made a positive difference in this world.

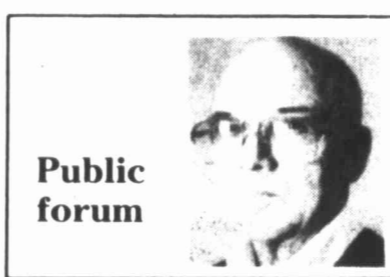

Sister Grace is eighty years young. She is an avid fan of the New Orleans Saints, can name all of the teams in the NFL and AFL and a large number of the players. Her favorite TV program is "Murder She Wrote."

In recent years she suffered a stroke, recovered from it and has never looked back. This gives you some idea of the inner strength residing in that frail body.

Grace is small in size only. In spirit and as an educator, she is a giant. She is the "inventor" of a system of teaching so unique it has been granted a U.S. patent. The name of her system is, "Workshop Way."

Grace is still actively involved at Xavier University teaching her system to professional educators from all across the U.S. and many foreign countries. She continues to be so enthusiastic about educating children that she has to be constantly reminded to slow down for her health's sake.

Her invention wasn't an over-

night accomplishment. It was the culmination of many years of low-budget, innovative teaching of poverty ridden, inner city children: kids who'd normally be voted most likely not to succeed.

But, against all odds, under her tutelage, the majority of them did succeed.

Over the years, Sister Grace's superiors recognized that something very special was happening as a result of her teaching. They encouraged her to organize and systematize what she had developed so that it could be taught to others. Workshop Way was born. Sister Grace doesn't take any credit for it. She feels that her system of teaching was a divine gift.

Workshop Way accepts children as they are and where they are academically, socially and behaviorally. The system is dynamic. It allows for more freedom of movement and a higher noise level than the traditional classroom.

But, the sound you hear coming from a Workshop Way classroom is not just noise. It is the sound of children working and learning. The sound and movement is disconcerting to many teachers who were taught to expect silence and stillness in a classroom.

However, once introduced to the mechanics, purpose, philosophy and the obvious successes in a Workshop Way classroom, it is a rare teacher who doesn't quickly become a convert.

If asked to name the single most valuable aspect of Workshop Way over all the many others I believe it would be that it makes it possible for a child to achieve, to experience academic success from the first day.

For the children who are advanced and ready for school, there is no waiting for others to catch up. Likewise, for the slower child who lacks readiness skills, there is no catching up to do.

He can begin at his ability level and proceed from there. Much of the learning is through carefully orchestrated individual discovery with the teacher acting as a manager and resource person.

The Workshop Way system frees valuable teacher time enabling her to provide more individual help.

Workshop Way provides a large variety of educational tasks accommodating a wide range of ability levels. There are some tasks every child can successfully do on his own. From the very first day, students enjoy the feeling of, "I can do it!" School is fun.

Children want more of it. Recently, a new first grader, leaving for home, was overheard telling his mother, "Mama, I just wish they had a bed up here so I could stay all night."

Without realizing it, children begin developing good study skills, work habits, self discipline and personal responsibility for their school work from the first day of the first grade.

The system gently establishes an awareness in the child that he or she is the only person responsible for getting the work done in the classroom and at home. Workshop Way requires that parents do not assume responsibility for reminding the student to do home work assignments. Under this system, the child alone is accountable for work not done and recognized for all work that is completed.

Another plus, the child is never "put down" with this system. While Workshop Way develops personal responsibility, it also fosters respect for human dignity and worth, stresses the development of independent thinking skills, courtesy toward others and a positive feeling of self worth.

The system is "child centered" rather than "teacher centered." Children are taught to become "risk takers" in the classroom. They are taught that it is O.K. to be wrong, that the important thing is to try.

One of the most amazing things is to see how quickly children who were not behaviorally prepared to receive academic instruction develop appropriate classroom behaviors and subsequently progress at a faster rate academically than would normally be expected.

The Workshop Way concept is adaptable to every grade level and every kind of subject matter from Kindergarten through twelfth grade.

Grace Pilon will tell you that Workshop Way was not her doing, that it was a divine gift.

There are many who would use the same words to describe Sister Grace.

was elected by the people. If this is such a show-off thing she's doing, how come no one wants to run for her position? You know why. It's a hard job, I wouldn't take it either, and she is the best all of us could hope for. I believe in what she's doing for our city, and win, lose or draw, I'm behind her, next to her, and if I have to pull her at times, I will do that too!

I'm only a concerned citizen, a registered voter, just like all the rest of you. I'm a woman who is speaking up for our city workers, whatever race they happen to be, the city needs all its workers and they in turn need our support now!

We will be at the park starting today from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every afternoon until Friday.

If you care about our city and what becomes of it, show up.

If you don't care, then don't complain about your rates going up and floating bonds to get things we need.

By not voting, you are saying that everything is okay, but remember, together we stand, divided we fall.

See you there?

Where I left my heart

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

MORELAND, GA. — My little hometown has come a ways since I left it 26 years ago.

The county even put in two tennis courts and there are sidewalks along the Old Highway where my friend John Cureton used to live.

There's even a fire house and the old post office is now a beauty salon.

I'm not certain what the store that used to be Cureton and Cole's is today, but from the writing on the front of the old wooden building, I got the idea it was some sort of interior decorating business.

Imagine that. Interior decorators in Moreland. Watch out when they talk to you about curtains.

I'm not certain how much Moreland has grown in population. When I lived there, it was around 300, not counting the dogs and chickens.

There are probably a few more people living in Moreland now and stray dogs always have been a Moreland tradition.

I doubt there are as many chickens as there once were, however.

Folks have adopted at least some modern ways and nobody wants to fool with raising chickens anymore when you can go to the county seat of Newnan and buy all you want in a supermarket.

My mother died recently, and I had forgotten how small towns react to the death of one of their own.

Moreland may have changed some, but thankfully, it has clung to the idea of loving its neighbors.

"Maybe I should go to Newnan and pick up some food," I said to one of my cousins soon after Mama died. "There will be a lot of people coming in and there's nobody to cook."

"Don't worry," she said. "There will be plenty of food."

Soon, car after car began pulling into the driveway. And friends got out bearing boxes of food and genuine expressions of sympathy.

At one point, I counted 14 pies in Mama's kitchen.

The day of the funeral, the ladies of Moreland Methodist Church fed lunch to the family.

I don't recall ever seeing such a feast. There were heaping plates of fried chicken and an awesome display of vegetables, including a sweet potato souffle that defied description.

We drink iced tea in the South and I was mentioning to another cousin how good the ladies' iced tea tasted.

"They still do it like they used to," he said. "Everybody brings tea and they pour it into one huge pot — some sweet, some not — but the mixture always tastes good."

Small towns:

- The procession of cars left the funeral home in Newnan for the six-mile ride back to the Moreland church and the services. Newnan and county policemen stopped traffic for us and each stood at attention, hat over head.

Along the way each vehicle we met stopped and pulled off the road out of respect.

- A friend of the family's has cancer and is almost too weak to walk. He was driven to the funeral home and then to the funeral. There were tears in his eyes when he embraced me and said, "I'm so sorry."

- The little church was packed. The two ministers' consoling words did help. A girl sang "It Is No Secret," and then closed with "Amazing Grace."

And people said, "It was such a beautiful service."

They still take notice of such things.

- And somebody said to me, "Just because your mama's gone, don't forget about Moreland."

How could I? It's home.

Math education target of grant

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation announced today a $10 million project to boost math education for middle school children in poor communities.

Project QUASAR — Quantitative Understanding: Amplifying Student Achievement and Reasoning — aims to help schools come up with new approaches to enliven mathematics in grades four through eight.

Ford Foundation president Franklin Thomas was scheduled to announce the project, among the largest ever undertaken by the foundation on behalf of public education, at a news conference today.

The goal is to help schools go beyond drills and rote memorization and get pupils to see real-life meaning in numbers. The project hopes to find ways to combine the teaching of basic skills with higher-order math reasoning and problem solving.

U.S. 13-year-olds ranked last in a recent comparison of math proficiency with youngsters in Canada, Ireland, Korea, Britain and Spain.

Volunteers search Iowa farms

ALTA, Iowa (AP) — Fan blade fragments probably severed the hydraulic controls of a DC-10 this summer, crippling the aircraft and causing it to plunge to the ground in a fiery crash, officials said.

General Electric Co. flight safety investigator Jerry Clark speculated about the cause of the crash Sunday night after more than 100 volunteers swept farm fields in northwestern Iowa looking for the missing parts from the No. 2 engine of United flight 232.

The July 19 crash at the Sioux Gateway Airport — 60 miles from here — killed 112 of the 296 people aboard.

Searchers on Sunday found a sheared off bolt buried 3 inches in the ground of a field near Alta. On Saturday, searchers found a part of a fan blade sticking out of the ground in a nearby field.

Marcos entombed in mausoleum

IMELDA MARCOS AND SON

HONOLULU (AP) — Ferdinand E. Marcos was entombed in an air-conditioned mausoleum as thousands of loyalists said farewell to the ousted Philippines president.

The mausoleum also is outfitted with a small chandelier; a religious statue surrounded by flowers sits on a shelf. Marcos' favorite slippers, pajamas and golf cap were placed in his coffin, said Col. Arturo Aruiza, a Marcos adviser for 21 years.

Marcos died at the hospital Sept. 28 at age 72. He had lived in exile in Honolulu since February 1986, when he was ousted by a civilian-military uprising following a disputed election, and replaced by Corason Aquino.

Marcos' widow wants to return his body to the Philippines for burial, but Mrs. Aquino has refused, saying it could provoke unrest. Marcos' followers have asked the country's Supreme Court to overturn the ban but there is no indication when the 15-judge panel will issue a ruling.

'My Turn'

EXCLUSIVE BOOK EXCERPT

- On Astrology
- On Don Regan

- On Her Kids

Nancy Reagan appears on the cover of Newsweek's Oct. 23 issue, which will have excerpts of her book, "My Turn: The Memoirs of Nancy Reagan."

Nancy: Astrologer was way to 'hedge our bets'

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Reagan says she began consulting an astrologer during her husband's years in the White House as a way of dealing with the fear she felt after an assassination attempt on the president.

In her soon-to-be-published memoirs, Mrs. Reagan said her consultation with astrologer Joan Quigley "began as a crutch" after Ronald Reagan was shot in 1981 and was "something I did to hedge our bets, to try to keep Ronnie from getting shot again."

It eventually became "an enormous embarrassment" to Reagan when it was revealed to the news media.

The book, "My Turn: The Memoirs of Nancy Reagan," written with ghostwriter William Novak, is excerpted in the Oct. 23 issue of Newsweek magazine. It will be published later this month by Random House.

She said she started talking to Quigley after entertainer Merv Griffin told her Quigley had predicted ahead of time that the day Reagan was shot would be a dangerous day for him. She called her sessions with Quigley "helpful and comforting" and likened her to a therapist.

In an interview Wednesday that was broadcast Sunday on the Associated Press Radio Network, Mrs. Reagan said the book was not intended as an attempt to get even for slights she suffered during the White House years.

Mrs. Reagan said all she wanted to do was "set the record straight about a lot of things that had not been straight during the White House years."

World

Party calls for new purge

BEIJING (AP) — Beijing's Communist Party has shown itself embracing an orthodox unheard of for a decade by demanding the ouster from its ranks of wealthy private businessmen, whom it called exploiters.

The decision to rid itself of the businessmen and other "hostile and anti-party elements" came during a meeting of the capital chapter's Central Committee that ended Sunday. During the gathering, Beijing Party Secretary Li Ximing emphasized the need to carry on the "class struggle" against party enemies.

Li, an ideological hard-liner, said the party must "rely on the worker's class wholeheartedly" and fight all who "belittle and deny the worker's position and role," the official Beijing Daily reported today.

UNESCO meets to plot course

PARIS (AP) — As UNESCO opens a monthlong meeting to chart its future course, the United States is expressing doubt that the troubled world body will jettison enough ideology to bring about Washington's return as a member.

The 158-nation organization will also decide whether to admit the PLO as a full member, a step the United States has said will rule out any possibility of it rejoining the agency.

The meeting, beginning Tuesday, represents a crucial test for Director-General Federico Mayor. The Spanish biochemist and former education minister took over as head of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization two years ago.

The United States and Britain, which between them provided 30 percent of UNESCO's budget, pulled out because they said UNESCO had become too political, spent too much money and was poorly managed.

Freed black leader resumes fight

SOWETO, South Africa (AP) — Anti-apartheid leader Walter Sisulu, resuming the struggle on his first day of freedom in 26 years, told an emotional crowd he's confident he'll see the day a black man can become president.

The government freed Sisulu and seven other aging black leaders on Sunday and the six who belong to the African National Congress held the guerrilla movement's first news conference in South Africa since it was banned in 1960.

"Our determination has never been weakened by our long years of imprisonment," said the 77-year-old Sisulu, a former ANC secretary general and the country's best-known black leader after Nelson Mandela.

Mandela, who remained in prison, reportedly negotiated the unconditional release of the eight prisoners, who had refused previous offers of freedom in exchange for renouncing violence.

Parents happy with baby girl

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from a reader asking how she should respond to a friend who had just given birth to a baby with Down syndrome. Coincidentally, three weeks before reading that letter, I had a little girl, "Anna," who was born with spina bifida.

To respond to your reader, we are absolutely delighted with our baby. True, she has a difficult road ahead and faces many hurdles, not least of which is paralysis of the legs. To us, Anna is a beautiful baby first and has spina bifida second.

I can't tell you how many Mass bouquets and sympathy cards we received — messages I consider totally inappropriate. I am still waiting to hear from friends whom I suspect also "don't know what to say."

We have never been disappointed — Anna fits right into our family environment and is loved and cherished as much as her sister.

To those like your reader who are unsure how to react, do everything you would have done had the baby arrived without a problem. Don't assume that the parents are distraught and disappointed. Handicapped kids very often bring with them enormous amounts of joy and rewards. We think Anna is extra-special and feel privileged to welcome her into our family. — HAPPY MOTHER IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR MOTHER: Thank you for a very uplifting letter. Please read on:

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from someone who didn't know what to say to parents of a baby born with Down syndrome.

Our daughter just gave birth to a son with Down syndrome, and because she realized that many people would be as perplexed as your writer, she enclosed a letter with each birth announcement. And here's her letter:

"Dear Friends and Family: Our second son, Matthew Noel, was born on July 27. And now we want to add a personal note to this announcement because we want everyone to know that Matthew was born with Down syndrome. There is no easier way to tell you this than there was for the doctors to tell John and me. We know that you had the same high hopes and expectations for our second child that we had, and this is a shock and disappointment to all of you.

"John and I had quite an adjustment to make in the last few days. We've experienced a lot of emotional pain and learned a great deal about how Down syndrome will affect our son and our family. Matthew is very cute and responsive, and we hope that you will accept him without pity or reservations.

"With God's help, we hope that our son will grow up strong and healthy. We want you to share in the joy of his progress along the road of maturity, even though he may travel that road a little more slowly and may not get as far as others.

"Please don't feel that you have to pretend that he is normal, and please feel free to ask any questions you may have about him.

"His name, 'Matthew,' means 'a gift from God,' and we know that in time we will enjoy the special gifts that Matthew was meant to bring to his friends and family. We hope that your prayers are with us. — Matthew's Parents" charities they will donate to this year, Welch said. Franklin and Vaughn said they "accidentally got into the cookbook business." "We were compiling cookbooks for our sons who were at college," Franklin said. "It took two years to collect the recipes and to put the books together," she noted. The ladies sold 5,000 copies of their first book in 3½ months. Their second book features recipes from all over the world, Vaughn said. She also noted that because of the books' simple recipes and easy-to-read format, the books are great for people who like to cook but don't want to spend all day in the kitchen. Franklin and Vaughn have presented cooking demonstrations throughout the United States, and are scheduled to present four back-to-back Christmas shows in Texas.

Homemakers meet

Leaders training will be Oct. 23 at 2 p.m. at the library. Topics are "Getting Involved," and "Scarf Tricks."

Naomi Hunt, county extension agent, presented the program on life insurance. She noted that you must have more than $600 before you must pay estate tax; you should ask questions and read before buying insurance; you have 10 days to cancel the policy.

The next meeting will be Oct. 24 at Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center, with Ella Williams as hostess.

Club members meet

Ten members attended Wednesday's meeting of the Sew and Chatter Club at the home of Libbie Dirks.

Ruby Haynes read "A Message For the Sunday Crowd." Adele Tibbs gave a book review of "All I Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten."

Members discussed early household items, including furniture and cookware. Ira Richardson's birthday was celebrated. The next meeting will be with Ruby Haynes.

Monthly meeting

American Gold Star Mothers met Thursday at the home of Odell Turner. Kathryn Thomas, president, presided and opened the meeting according to ritual. Turner voiced the ritual prayer.

Vietnam veterans Charlie Lewis and Don Boling presented the blueprints of the proposed Vietnam Memorial, and invited members to be guests at the air show Oct. 28-29.

Community service reports show that nine trays of food and seven vases of flowers were given to friends and shut-ins; four courtesy trips were made and $50 was donated to charity.

The next meeting will be Nov. 9 at the home of Martha Moody.

Military

Pvt. Adrian L. Hilburn has completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

The record breakers

Gretzky passes Howe

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Nobody scores more than Wayne Gretzky. And few do things as dramatically as the Great One.

He didn't just break Gordie Howe's record of 1,850 career points Sunday night. He did it in Edmonton, in the building where he led the Oilers to four Stanley Cup titles in nine seasons.

He didn't do it with any old assist. He did it with a goal. And not just a goal, but a game-tying goal with 53 seconds remaining in regulation.

Why stop there? To cap the celebration, he put in the game-winner, too, with 1:36 left in overtime, giving his new team, the Los Angeles Kings, a 5-4 victory over his old team.

"I said to tie it, get one point, so the Edmonton fans can share it with the L.A. fans," said Gretzky's wife, actress Janet Jones. "He said, 'Janet, if I got one point tonight, it means I didn't play that well.'"

Other guys score one point a game. Gretzky gets them in bunches. He's played 780 games and gotten three points 58 times, four points 90 times and five points 58 times.

"I'm just so proud Wayne Gretzky calls me his friend," said Howe, who came onto the ice for a 10-minute ceremony after the historic point.

The sellout crowd of 17,503 in the Northlands Coliseum, many of whom walked by Gretzky's statue on the way in, roared and cheered. They had bought every available program by the end of the first period and throughout the third period chanted his name, urging him on.

EDMONTON — Los Angeles' Wayne Gretzky raises his arms in victory after he scores his 1,851 point in the National Hockey League, breaking Gordie Howe's mark of 1850. Congratulating Gretzky is teammate Larry Robinson (16).

"I almost didn't play the third period," said Gretzky, who complained of dizziness. "I got my bell rung a couple of times."

He came in needing one point and tied the record right away, assisting on Bernie Nicholls' goal.

Bailey passes Dorsett

EDMOND, Okla. (AP) — Texas A&I coach Ron Harms has watched Johnny Bailey's four-year quest for the NCAA career rushing record. It has been as rewarding for the coach as it has been for the player.

"The thing that sticks out with me about Johnny Bailey is that Johnny's a guy who has done something with his talent," Harms said. "I've seen so many talented athletes who have not put forth the effort."

"If everybody came out and worked as hard as Johnny, boy, we'd be untouchable," he said. "And that's meaningful to me." The work paid off Saturday night when Bailey ran for 172 yards against Central State, giving him 6,085 rushing yards in his career at the Division II school. That eclipsed the collegiate record of 6,082 yards set by Bailey's boyhood idol, Tony Dorsett, at Pittsburgh in a four-year career ending in 1976.

Bailey has never spoken to Dorsett, and said he wasn't sure what he would say if they did meet.

"Just 'It's been great. Sorry I had to do it, but records are made to be broken,'" Bailey suggested.

Bailey now can set his sights on the NCAA record for all-purpose yardage. Kenny Gamble of Colgate compiled 7,623 yards during his career. Bailey has 7,506 after running for 172 and catching two passes for 60 more in the Javelinas' 41-0 victory.

Whether Bailey can move closer to that mark this week is uncertain. He sprained his right knee on the carry prior to his record-breaker and was wearing a brace after the game. But neither Bailey nor Harms thought the injury was severe. "A lot of it's up to Johnny," Harms said. "I'd say he might be out a week. I'd be surprised if it was more than that."

EDMOND, Okla. — Texas A&I running tailback Johnny Bailey talks with reporters Saturday night after breaking Tony Dorsett's NCAA career rushing record. Bailey now has 6,085 yards. Dorsett ran for 6,082 at Pittsburgh.

Bailey carried 16 times for 88 yards and two touchdowns in the first half as A&I, ranked second in NCAA Division II, took a 14-0 halftime lead. Then he went 49 yards for a touchdown on the Javelinas' first possession of the second half to move within 33 yards of Dorsett's mark.

"That got him so close, it was something that was within our realm of possibility," Harms said. "It would be senseless to drag that thing out for another week."

Bailey carried five times for 18 yards on the next possession. "I knew I was getting closer and closer by the way the coaches were calling the plays," Bailey said. "Every other play they were calling my play, and I felt it was getting closer and closer."

A's take two game advantage

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Roger Craig almost can't watch. His split-finger fastball has come back to haunt the Giants.

It's been scary, too. Real scary. Oakland beat San Francisco 5-1 Sunday to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 World Series.

On Saturday, Dave Stewart showed off his split-finger pitch and beat the Giants 5-0 with a five-hitter.

In Game 2, Mike Moore bedeviled the Giants for seven innings with his version.

"You got to give credit to the Oakland pitching staff," Craig said. "Every guy they've thrown out there has had a better split-finger than the other guy."

Craig should know. He's the guru of the split-finger.

The Giants manager has saved careers by teaching it, and even created stars. But all he sees now is a monster.

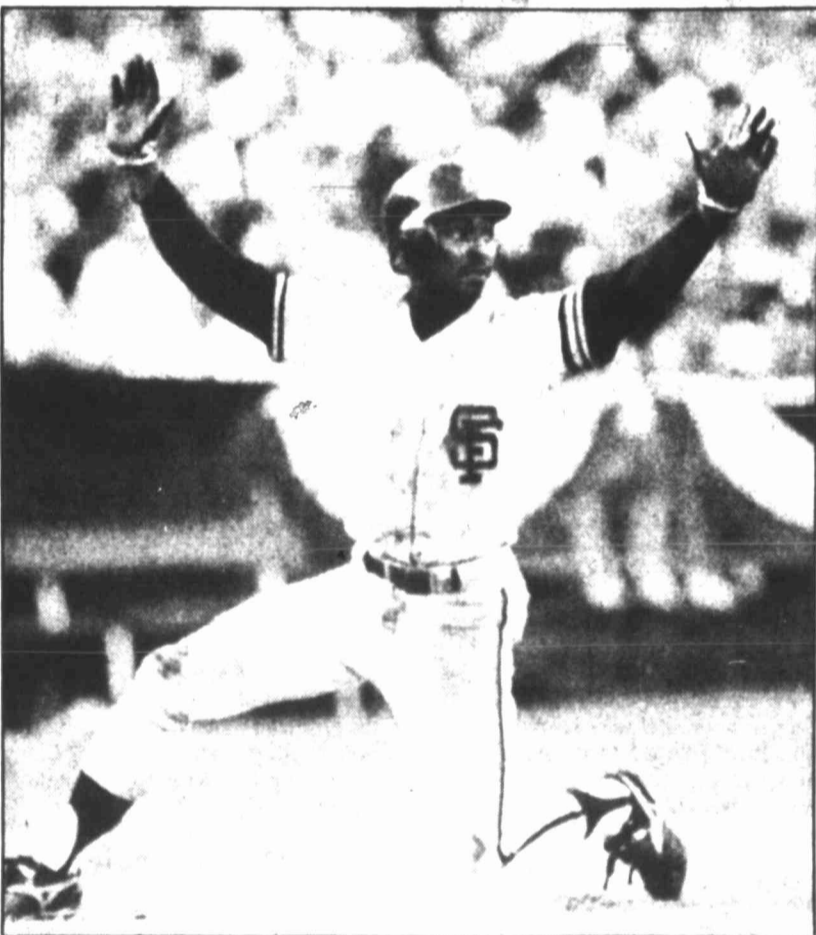

In losing the first two games, the Giants managed only nine hits in 62 at-bats, a .145 average, and were 0-for-11 with runners in scoring position.

Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell, known as the Pacific Sock Exchange, crashed, going 0-for-6 with runners in scoring position.

"Their pitching can't get much better than it has been," Craig said.

Oh, no? Bob Welch will pitch for the A's in Game 3 on Tuesday at Candlestick Park. The former Los Angeles Dodger is 19-4 lifetime against the Giants, 6-0 at San Francisco.

The A's broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth against Rick Reuschel on Dave Parker's RBI double and Terry Steinbach's three-run OAKLAND — San Francisco Giants Jose Uribe reacts to reaching third base in the third inning Sunday night. Uribe reached third on a Brett Butler single, and later scored the Giants' only run of the series so far.

homer. "I thought it was a good pitch when it left my hand," Reuschel said of Steinbach's homer. "I got him out on soft stuff the first time and then I tried to sneak one by him."

Moore had no trouble getting his split-finger by the jittery Giants most of the game.

He pitched seven-plus innings and allowed one run and four hits. To make matters worse for Craig, Moore only recently discovered the split-finger.

"I picked it up this year and started using it six or seven starts into the season," Moore said. "I threw it on the side at first and then in games after I got more confidence with it."

All of the A's have reason to be confident.

Of the 39 teams that have taken a 2-0 lead in the World Series, 29, or 74.4 percent, have gone on to win it all.

A's manager Tony La Russa isn't worried about overconfidence, though.

"Number one, we know who we're playing," La Russa said. "We have a bunch of guys who have been around. They know not to get careless or overconfident. It's a nice margin, but it isn't everything. We're going to be very ready on Tuesday."

The A's lost the first two games to the Dodgers last season and couldn't bounce back, losing the Series in five games.

"You have to deal with the positives when you're in that position," La Russa said. "They're going home now and they have to think positively because they have three games in their park."

About the only thing positive for the Giants in Game 2 was their run.

Terry Kennedy got the Giants' first hit off Moore when he led off the fourth with a single. Jose Uribe followed with a potential double play grounder back to the mound, but shortstop Walt Weiss appeared to be late covering second and Uribe was safe at first on the force play.

Brett Butler followed with a hit-and-run single to left, sending Uribe to third, and Robby Thompson to second.

Ceremony scheduled for Hall of Fame members

During the Open House for Exes this Saturday, Big Spring High School will induct the BSHS Hall of Fame, star athletes of the past, those who were named to All-State and All-American teams or played in All-Star Games while in high school and/or who were named to All-Conference or All-American teams while in college.

These are definitely select team athletes who have represented Big Spring High in the various sports fields. In compiling this list, the State U.I.L. office, Texas High School Coaches Association, press journalists, conference headquarters of the colleges of Texas, and family and friends — were contacted by the school.

Every effort was made to be complete; however some star athletes may have not been listed or verified. There is certainly room for additions. The induction ceremony will take place beginning at 3 p.m. in the High School Cafeteria — Saturday. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Former Grady runner doing well

EDINBURG — Shanna Hale knows what it takes to win.

Just a pinch of diligence, experience and a little bit of luck were the right ingredients for Hale's cross country win for the University of Texas-Pan American here two weeks ago.

Hale, 21, was running behind fellow Lady Bronc Thelma Morales when suddenly Morales pulled up at the 2½ mile mark with an injured foot.

"I was five yards behind her,"

Hale recalled. "I was catching up with her when she dropped out."

Hale finished the 3.1 mile (5,000-meters) race in 19 minutes, 12 seconds — first overall by 10 seconds in the women's division at the Monte Cristo Golf Course.

Last year, Hale was second at Monte Cristo. She's made steady improvement here just as she's made steady progress throughout her athletic career.

"I came from a 1-A (high school)," she said. "I grew up in the middle of nowhere, in the boonies, so I played tennis, volleyball and basketball to stay busy."

Raised on a farm in Stanton, in West Texas, the 5-foot-5 senior used to raise steers for livestock shows. "We always placed in the top 10," Hale remembers.

A sprinter in junior high school, Hale was influenced by her freshmen track coach Ted Bedwell at Grady High School to try long distance.

"My new coach said I had a lot of endurance," she said. "He said I should try the mile."

Hale quickly discovered her forte as she missed qualifying for the state meet by one place that year. Her sophomore year was different. She not only qualified but finished second in state 1-A.

Hale was second again her junior year, this time in the two-mile run. Finally, as a senior, she won the two-mile with the third fastest time in the entire state (11:12) while again nailing down second in the mile.

"My family was real excited.

They never missed a meet."

After three years of dorm life at UT Pan American, Hale now lives in an off-campus apartment.

"Dorms are fun," she admits. "You get close to the team because everyone is staying there."

Hale believes the Lady Broncs have an excellent chance of capturing another American South Conference Championship. She earned All-Conference honors to help the Lady Broncs win the 1988 cross country title.

"We realize we have a lot of work ahead of us," she said. "We know it won't be easy. None of us have a big head about it even though we won two years in a row."

There can be no doubting that as long as Shanna Hale's recipe for success continues to flourish.

Rodeo teams third

VERNON — Howard College climbed up in the regional college rodeo standings this weekend thanks to a pair of all-around performances.

Jodie Heath led the HC women to a third place finish at the Vernon Regional Junior College rodeo, winning the reserve champion all-around cowgirl title. Howard's strong showing, behind champion Vernon and Tarleton State University, pushed the women to third in the Southwestern Region National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association standings.

Vernon Junior College leads the race. The top two teams qualify for the College National Finals Rodeo.

HC cowboy Kaid New won the reserve champion all-around cowboy and led the men's team to a third place finish behind Western Texas College and Vernon. The Hawks' strong team placing also improved their regional standing.

"We've made a major move up in the girls team; we're now sitting third," said Bobbie Scott, Howard College rodeo coach. "We moved to sixth place in the mens team but they're all right there together."

Western Texas College in Snyder currently leads the region.

Scott said both his teams can move up in the regional standings with strong performances at the Texas Tech University rodeo Oct. 19-22. Tech is hosting the final college rodeo of the semester, with a new round of competition set to begin in the spring.

Scott said he expects his teams to make a strong bid for berths in the national finals rodeo.

"We're definitely getting better as we go," he said. "We had several people that won championships in their events."

Heath grabbed the reserve all-around title with a second in the breakout roping average and a fourth in the barrel racing average. J.J. Hampton of Stephenville helped the women's team along by winning the goat tying average, as well as first in the long go and in the short go of the goat tying.

New, a San Antonio cowboy, won a piece of the all-around title with a second in the calf roping average and a second in the long go of the team roping along with brother Trey New.

Jim Bob Mayes of Manor won the calf roping title with wins in the long go and the short go. New Braunfels cowboy Kevin Reed split the bull riding championship with Tarleton's Tommy Yeater, a former Howard College cowboy. Reed also won the short go.

Michael O'Gorman of Shamrock was third in the steer wrestling average, as well as third in the short go. Jamie McDougal, Comanche, split fourth in the long go of the calf roping.

Billy Mac Callahan, Fredonia, won fourth in the short go of the steer wrestling, and Breck Bean of Fort Hancock split fourth in the long go of the team roping.

Rush make hole-in-one

Local golfer Gene Rush made his first-ever hole-in-one this morning at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Rush, who has been playing nine years, aced the 160-yard first hole using a six iron.

Witnesses were Henry Mexia and Homer Connors.

KU hoopsters ready

LEXINGTON, Ky (AP) — Five months after the NCAA dealt a near-death blow to the Kentucky basketball program, more than 10,000 fans showed up for the team's annual "Midnight Madness" to mark the official start of practice Sunday morning.

"Everyone I've talked to since I've been here, no matter where I was, seemed excited about this thing and the upcoming season," said Rick Pitino, who became the Kentucky coach last June after the school was banned from postseason play for two years and live television for one season.

"I'm just very happy to be part of something like this. I don't know of anywhere else in the country something like this could happen."

The city fire marshal ordered the doors to Memorial Coliseum shut at 10:50 p.m. EDT — only 50 minutes after the doors were opened — and no one else was allowed in.

Among the festivities before the team stepped onto the floor at 12:01 a.m. were a Pitino look-alike contest, dribble derby and a money scramble by blindfolded contestants on the Memorial Coliseum floor.

Oilers drill Bears; 49ers whip Pokes

BY The Associated Press
The Houston Oilers don't pull upsets on the road. The Cincinnati Bengals don't get upset at home. The Detroit Lions don't upend anyone, anywhere.

Except on Sunday.
Tonight, Buffalo entertains the Los Angeles Rams, the only unbeaten team in the league.

Oilers 33, Bears 28
Houston had lost 52 of its last 62 road games and rarely is competitive against the likes of the Bears if the game is not in the "House of Pain."

Chicago seemed in charge with a 28-19 lead with four minutes remaining, built on Mike Tomczak's three touchdown passes. He also was intercepted four times.

"We had the game won; we had it won with six turnovers," Ditka said. "None of those turnovers came after we had the lead. Therefore, if we had the lead, how come we can't hold a nine-point lead?"

Because Warren Moon scored on a 1-yard run with 3:38 left, and Lorenzo White got in from the 12 after Allen Pinkett ripped off a 60-yard gain.

"It ranks right up on top," Oilers coach Jerry Glavine said of the victory. "When you beat a good Chicago team and a good Chicago coach, it's a big win."

The loss was the second straight for the Bears, only the second time since 1984 that Chicago has lost two in a row. The Bears are 4-2 and tied with Minnesota for first in the NFC Central.

Dolphins 20, Bengals 13
Miami, which has found a defense this year, increased its season sack total to 23 by getting to Boomer Esiason three times. The Dolphins won for the first time since 1983 in a game when Dan Marino didn't throw for a touchdown. It was the Dolphins' fifth consecutive victory over the Bengals, who didn't score in the second half.

Ron Davenport's 5-yard run won it and Mark Duper had five receptions for 129 yards and keyed three scoring drives. Marino completed 16 of 33 passes for 266 yards and for the 18th consecutive game wasn't sacked, an NFL record. He also ran for a 1-yard score.

Lions 17, Buccaneers 16
The Lions don't have an explosive quarterback to run their Silver Stretch, yet. But Peete held them together despite four turnovers and 13 penalties for their first victory in eight games dating to last year.

Peete, making his second start, moved Detroit 76 yards in eight plays for the winning points. He dropped back to pass on fourth-and-goal and ran around right end when he spotted an opening.

Tampa held out quarterback Vinny Testaverde, who has a knee injury but could have played Joe Ferguson, the NFL's oldest player at 39, completed 16 of 29 passes for 128 yards.

Falcons 16, Patriots 15
Davis, who kicked for the Falcons last year, did again, in a way. He botched the extra point on

CHICAGO — Houston Oilers' Allen Pinkett (20) shakes off Chicago Bears' defenders David Tate (49) and Shaun Gayle (23) to make a 60-yard gain that set up the winning touchdown at Solider Field Sunday. The Oilers defeated the Bears 33-28.

New England's touchdown after he connected on field goals of 32, 32 and a career-best 52 yards.

That left Atlanta an opening and the Falcons used it for Keith Jones' 1-yard scoring run to make it 15-13. Atlanta then drove 67 yards in 11 plays for the winning field goal, a 22-yarder by Paul McFadden with five seconds to go. Chris Miller completed a 20-yard pass to rookie Shawn Collins on a fourth-and-10 play to keep the winning drive alive.

Seahawks 17, Chargers 16
Rookie Dana Brinson fumbled a punt that set up the Seahawks' winning touchdown. Dave Krieg threw a 6-yard touchdown pass to John L. Williams and Norm Johnson's extra point was the difference when Bahr had the two kicks blocked.

"I hit it solid," Bahr said of the blocked field goal. "I hit it as good as I could. But it wouldn't have mattered if I had shanked it. It still would have been the same result."

Steelers 17, Browns 7
Five weeks ago, the Steelers had eight turnovers and Cleveland got 31 points from them. This time, it was the Browns who couldn't hold onto the ball with seven giveaways, including a career-high four interceptions against Bernie Kosar. The Browns are averaging fewer than 12 points a game over the last four weeks.

"There's no question that last game was an embarrassment for everybody," Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll said. "I'm sure that had a lot to do with this victory."

Todd Blackledge started at quarterback in place of injured Bobby Brister and didn't have impressive numbers. But he wasn't as bad as Kosar.

Vikings 26, Packers 11
Welcome to Minneapolis, Herschel.
Walker ran a kickoff 51 yards the first time he touched the ball, but it was called back because of a penalty. He also had a 47-yard run on which he lost his shoe.

Walker, acquired in a trade that sent five players and as many as seven draft choices to Dallas earlier last week, wasn't the only star, even if he was the first Viking to rush for over 100 yards in two years.

Keith Millard had four of the Vikings' eight sacks and Reggie Rutland had two interceptions as the NFL's top defense held the league's leading offense to 219 yards, 222 less than the Packers had averaged.

The Vikings had lost four straight games to Green Bay and 14 of 18.

Broncos 14, Colts 3
Denver's vastly improved defense shackled Eric Dickerson, who managed only 35 yards on 13 carries. The Colts had only 44 yards rushing and 128 yards total offense as their three-game winning streak ended.

The biggest show of defensive force came in the third period, on a goal-line stand. The Colts missed on four plays after having a first-and-goal at the Denver 3. On fourth down at the 1, Dickerson was dumped for a 1-yard loss by Karl Mecklenburg and Steve Atwater.

"This was our best game defensively by far," defensive coordinator Wade Phillips said. "Dickerson was a big challenge for us. He only got to carry the ball 13 times, and that's the only way to stop him."

Denver's 5-1 record is the best in the AFC.

9ers 31, Cowboys 11
San Francisco, which has outscored opponents 83-37 in the fourth quarter this year, didn't need Joe Montana for such heroics this time. Steve Young's 8-yard pass to Jerry Rice sparked the 49ers to a 17-0 advantage in the final period. The 49ers are 5-1, with all the wins on the road and the loss at home.

Montana rested a sore elbow but it didn't help Dallas, off to its worst start since its first season, 1960.

Giants 20, Redskins 17
The Giants beat Washington for the fourth straight time, the Redskins are 3-3, with all the losses to New York and Philadelphia, their chief rivals in the division.

After the Redskins took a 10-6 lead, the Giants came back with a pair of fourth down gambles that worked and led to touchdown passes to Mark Bavaro and Odessa Turner.

Ottis Anderson rushed for 101 yards for New York (5-1).

Raiders 20, Chargers 14
Bo Jackson was with the Kansas City Royals two weeks ago. Now, he's back on the football field and he made a major contribution as the Raiders won their second straight under new coach Art Shell. Jackson rushed for 85 yards and a touchdown, taking over for Marcus Allen, who is on injured reserve.

"I had a whole lot of fun today," Jackson said. "It was like playing against my neighbor. I know all the guys on the Chiefs. In fact, a couple of them came over for dinner last night."

Jeff Jaeger had a career-best 50-yard field goal for Los Angeles.

Eagles 17, Cardinals 5

Philadelphia's defense was too much for quarterback Tom Tupa, making his first start in the NFL, and the rest of the Cardinals, losers of four straight. The Eagles intercepted him six times and had six sacks.

"It was a hell of an initiation into the NFL," said Tupa, a second-year pro starting for Gary Hogeboom, who missed the game with a sore right elbow. "I was excited about starting, but the game was something else."

Randall Cunningham and Cris Carter combined on two second-half touchdown passes, Cunningham, who completed just four of 11 passes for 33 yards and was intercepted three times in the first half, finished 16 of 29 for 192 yards and passed the 10,000-yard mark in his five-year NFL career. Carter scored on touchdown passes of two and 40 yards.

Saints 29, Jets 14
New Orleans snapped a four-game losing streak as Bobby Hebert threw for three touchdowns and Jumpy Geathers recovered two fumbles to set up 10 points.

Hebert threw for touchdowns of four and 53 yards to Eric Martin and three yards to Lonze Hill. The Jets (1-5), off to their worst start since 1981, got their scores on a 34-yard interception return by James Hasty and a 74-yard fumble return by Erik McMillan. The New York offense has produced just one touchdown in the last three games.

U.S. gymnasts are fourth at World Championships

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Romania's Daniela Silivas posted the first perfect score of the World Gymnastics Championships today, but Svetlana Boginskaya was the best overall and made sure the Soviets opened a sizable lead halfway through the women's team competition in their effort to regain the title.

Boginskaya, the reigning European champion and Olympic all-around bronze medalist, excelled on all four apparatus exercises and scored 39.837 out of 40 points. She missed a perfect score by the smallest of margins on two occasions.

A's

son hit a sacrifice fly to center. Dating back to Games 6 and 7 of the 1962 World Series, it broke a 23-inning scoreless streak for the Giants.

"Mike Moore was just like Stewart last night, very, very tough," Clark said. "We're just a good club going up against a good pitching staff."

Not that the A's pitching is the only thing the Giants have to fret about.

Rickey Henderson was 3-for-3 and a walk. Henderson walked in the first, stole second, and scored on Carney Lansford's double.

"I think I'm in a groove now," Henderson said. "I'm picking the ball up well. I've been seeing it well since the playoffs."

In the postseason, the A's have walked leading off an inning 11 times and nine times have gotten a run.

The Bay Bridge Series shifts to Candlestick on Monday for workouts. Don Robinson will start against Welch on Tuesday.

"It's a typical American League club that plays for the three-run homer," Robinson said. "To beat them you have to stay away from that and they got it tonight."

Gretzky

goal at 4:32 of the first period. He got off four shots in the first period but was quiet after that. It turned out he was just setting things up.

He came onto the ice with 3:52 left and stayed on for almost the rest of the game. With about a minute left, the puck rolled his way.

Steve Duchesne passed the puck to Dave Taylor, who directed it in front of the goal. Gretzky had been hanging behind the net.

"I usually don't go out in front," Gretzky said, "but something in my head said you better go out in front."

Gretzky stepped to the far side of goaltender Bill Ranford and rapped the puck into the net. He was mobbed by teammates.

"I didn't do a lot," Gretzky said. "I just threw it up."

Gretzky, at age 28 and in his 11th NHL season, broke the record in less than half the time it took Howe to set it. Howe played 26 seasons for the Detroit Red Wings and the Hartford Whalers, had 801 goals and 1,049 assists in 1,767 games.

"I think because of our friendship he felt bad breaking it," Howe said. "He had to do it to keep his job. He can't go the whole season without scoring any points."

Howe and NHL president John Ziegler led the procession onto the ice. Ziegler gave Gretzky a silver tea tray with the logos of the 21 NHL clubs. The inscription read: "Presented to Wayne Gretzky whose greatness transcends goals and assists."

Larry Robinson, representing the Kings, gave Gretzky a crystal hologram of Gretzky's image. And Mark Messier, the Edmonton captain and Gretzky's former linemate, hugged Gretzky and presented the Oilers' gift, a 10-carat gold bracelet with 1,851 carats of diamonds forming "1,851."

Howe, Gretzky's boyhood idol, then saluted the conquerer of his record. "In all honesty, I've been looking forward to today," Howe said. "It's really nice for me to be a part of this."

Then it was Gretzky's turn to speak. He maintained his composure. Just.

"Hockey is the greatest game in the world," he said. "Everything I have in my life I owe to hockey."

Gretzky, his voice quivering, then saluted Edmonton and the Oilers' fans.

"Both teams that are here today are a big part of these 1,800 points," he said. "I'd like to thank the Edmonton fans for their support and I'd like to thank the Edmonton organization for their support."

He also saluted his idol. "Gordie still is the greatest in my mind, and the greatest in everyone else's mind," Gretzky said.

The record in his pocket, it was back to work for Gretzky. There was still a game to be won, and he took care of that matter with 1:36 to go in overtime.

"This is a special place to him here," Gretzky's father, Walter Gretzky, said. "You can't erase 10 years from a person's life. The players on that team are the same players who contributed to him getting there."

Mears wins road course

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The '80s were a decade of accomplishment for Rick Mears. But no accomplishment during that productive 10-year span pleased him more than Sunday's victory in the Champion Spark Plug 300-kilometer race on the hilly, twisting road course at Laguna Seca Raceway.

It answered a question the 37-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., driver has asked repeatedly the last five years. Could the master of the ovals, the three-time Indianapolis 500 winner and three-time Indy-car series driving champion, still be competitive on road courses? The questions began after a devastating accident at Montreal's Sanair Superspeedway in 1984, when both of Mears' feet were crushed and both Achilles tendons severed.

"This really feels good," Mears said with a wide smile. "I never believed that I wouldn't win on road courses. The feet, I felt, have been recovered for a long time."

Mears was back in a race car in 1985, winning the Pocono 500 to highlight his return.

But as the CART series added more road and street circuits to the schedule in the late '80s, Mears couldn't seem to get to Victory Circle.

The team-produced Penske PC15s and PC16s in 1985 and 1986 took part of the blame, Mears explained.

"That next year (1987), we started the season at Long Beach and I was fast the first day," he said. "Everybody was asking me why I was suddenly so fast on a road course. I wasn't doing anything different, the (new PC) 17 was doing it for me."

"It wasn't the feet that were keeping me from being up front on the road courses, I think it was a learning curve with the cars."

Mears dominated the CART season finale, setting a track qualifying record in winning the pole, then leading 47 of the 84 laps in the 186-mile race, including the final 22.

"Our team engineer, Peter Gibbons, and my crew chief, Richard Buck, made our main goal after Indy my being in the winner's circle at a road course," Mears said.

His Chevrolet-powered Penske PC18 led by nearly nine seconds before Mario Andretti began chopping into the margin in the final 10 trips around the 2.214-mile, 11-turn circuit.

At the finish, Andretti's Lola-Chevrolet was just 1.846 seconds behind — the closest finish of the 15-race Indy-car season.

"On the last 10 laps, I started short-shifting as much as

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Ellen Barkin has played wife, mother and sex pistol. Now, she's hankering for the role of bimbo.

"Actually, it would be fun to play a bimbo," Barkin said in an interview published Tuesday in The New York Times. "I mean, not just some character who's a pair of breasts attached to the leading man — but a great, ditty bimbo. You know?"

HOWE

So far, she hasn't had the honor. "That also has a lot to do with what I look like," she said. She has endured reviewers' characterizations of her grin as lopsided and her nose as looking like a boxer's, but says she wouldn't change her looks.

The actress, who plays opposite Al Pacino in "Sea of Love," said she's surprised to be perceived as a sex goddess.

"Three years ago, it would have been ridiculous," she said. "Hilarious! I'm doing the same things I always did and now they're saying I'm a hot babe!"

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe, who is about to be surpassed by Wayne Gretzky as hockey's all-time scoring leader, says he's going to come out of retirement in 1990 and set a record — playing in six decades.

Howe, 61, retired from the National Hockey League in 1980 after a 26-year career in which he amassed 1,850 points. Gretzky of the Los Angeles Kings has come within seven points of the record.

Howe said he plans to rejoin the Hartford Whalers. Howe ended his career with Hartford in 1980 after playing for the Detroit Red Wings from 1946 through 1971.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1989

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE:

comic Tom Poston, daredevil Evel Knievel, playwright Arthur Miller, actress Rita Hayworth, journalist Jimmy Breslin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Seeking revenge is a waste of time. Adopt a more positive approach. Weigh the odds carefully before making a far-reaching decision. Further research could lead to a more exciting career.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Co-operation is the key to making pet projects successful. Hide your contempt for difficult people. You could be hailed as a hero if you play your cards right. Do not reveal trade secrets.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may prefer to be compensated with cash instead of favors now. Rivals can make it hot for those who are in charge. If traveling today, you will find a new friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Resist the temptation to throw your weight around; it will only antagonize others. A calm, mature approach becomes you best. Your social life accelerates. Romance holds promise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are acutely aware of a power struggle within the family circle. Be careful not to become involved in someone's machinations. You and your mate enjoy better rapport than in the recent past.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Try not to make any rash decisions. It is pointless to brood over past mistakes. In a financial pinch, consider refinancing your home- or borrowing against an insurance policy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Look your best today. A friend's careless remark could upset your partner. They will work out their differences if you do not interfere. Travel plans may fall apart. Have an alternative in mind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Put your house in order and your productivity will rise. You and your mate reach an important agreement. Joint holdings could be involved. You may decide to continue your education. Seek financial aid.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You can profit from combining your business acumen with an interest in the arts. An aggressive parent or authority figure demands more of your time. Tensions rise. Avoid squabbling.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Someone close to you is trying to deceive you. Get a clearer perspective by heeding the advice of one who lives far away. You could become involved in politics in the near future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Tackle the toughest tasks first today. Financial considerations could dictate an important decision. If you are planning a trip, contact a travel agent for the best possible deal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Teamwork is necessary today. Make the most of every moment. Marital harmony can be restored. Keep your spending in check. Romance plays a major role in your plans.

Teen turns interviewer for Disney Show segment

LUFKIN (AP) — Jennifer Watson of Lufkin is planning to join movie star Marlee Matlin at a hockey game this weekend and interview her while television cameras are rolling.

Jennifer, 12, and the Academy Award-winning actress who starred in "Children of a Lesser God" have something in common. They are both deaf.

Jennifer is a seventh-grader at Dunbar Intermediate School. She is the daughter of Bill Watson, minister of education at First Baptist Church, and Kathy Watson, deaf education teacher at Hackney Elementary School.

A letter written about three months ago has led to Jennifer getting to meet the actress she admires. The Mickey Mouse Club on the Disney channel has "guest day" every week that features about five minutes of film of a young person talking with the famous person of his choice.

Viewers are invited to write to the Mickey Mouse Club and tell whom they would like to meet and why, and a select few get to go through with it.

"Last Friday I came home from a friend's house and my Mom gave me a Mickey Mouse balloon, told me I was going to be on the Mickey Mouse Club, then snapped my picture with my mouth wide open," Jennifer said. "I almost fainted. I was so excited that I called a lot of my friends. I can't wait until I get to meet Marlee."

Watson said his daughter's letter said that she was deaf and that she admires Miss Matlin for being a great actress in spite of her deafness. Mrs. Watson said the family's reaction was "utter surprise" when the show's producers called to say that Jennifer's letter had been chosen and that Miss Matlin had agreed to meet her young fan.

"We still can't believe it is happening," Mrs. Watson said. The show's producers called yesterday with additional details, she said. They have cautioned the family that there is always a slight chance of cancellation when working with celebrities, but that everything looks good.

Plans call for Jennifer and her mother to fly to Los Angeles Thursday or Friday, then return Saturday.

"Tentative plans are that Marlee wants to take them to a hockey game because she is a hockey fan," Watson said.

College man
HOUSTON — David Huang, 12, relaxes between classes at the University of St. Thomas, where he is a senior. Huang, a math major who began college at age 9, hopes to receive his degree in December.

Academia

Who's who
WACO — Blair T. Callison of Big Spring, an Aircraft Pilot Training Technology student at Texas State Technical Institute in Waco, has been named to the prestigious Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Callison, the son of Howard G. Callison, graduated from Big Spring High School in 1979.

Callison is one of 31 students from TSTI selected for the honor, joining an elite group of students from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Wilkins graduates
AUSTIN — Frank Keating Wilkins, son of Dan and Ann Wilkins, Big Spring, received a diploma during graduation exercises at the University of Texas Aug. 21.

Wilkins received a master of business administration degree with a concentration in marketing. Compiling a 3.90 grade point average, he also was selected for the dean's honor award.

He and his wife, the former Mary Lin Spencer, reside in St. Louis, Mo., where he is employed with Citicorp Mortgage.

Poster contest
BIG SPRING — Friday is the deadline for the Just Say No Poster Contest.

First, second and third-place ribbons will be awarded in the following categories: Kindergarten, first and second grade, and third-through-fifth grade. Posters will be displayed at Big Spring Mall.

For more information, contact Dianna Ferguson at 263-4533 after 5 p.m.
