Fraser honored

AUSTIN — The Texas Chamber of Commerce recently honored State Representative

Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, for his service during the 1989 legislative session.

As a recipient of the Distinguished Service Award, Fraser received the third highest score of the 150 representatives for his voting record and sponsorship of legislative issues important to Texas' economic development.

"These people devoted a lot of time and energy to come up with constructive bills to boost our position in national and world marketplaces," said Texas Chamber president Larry Milner. "This is our way of recognizing their distinguished service and sacrifice in the interest of all Texans."

Recipients were ranked based upon their cumulative scores from votes cast on 10 selected bills. A vote favorable to the Texas Chamber's position received 10 points and an additional three points were awarded for bill sponsorship on these key issues, which included education, crime, economic development, health care and worker's compensation.

"I'm extremely honored to be selected by the Chamber as one of the top legislators who are fighting for jobs and economic development for Texas," Fraser said.

Health Fair Saturday

BIG SPRING — Health Fair plans have been finalized and the seventh year of the Howard County event will include 30 exhibitors with about 50 exhibits, fair officials said.

The event is set for 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, in the Highland Mall and about 2,000 people are expected to attend, Chairman Alice B. Haynes said.

Among the many features will be: a middle ear test by the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center; a United Blood Services drive; and a lab with free cholesterol tests.

Full chemical panels will be offered for $20.

The Evening Lions Club will provide screening for glaucoma and eye pressure. Also vision and glaucoma will be screened by Dr. John Fish.

Pulmonary screening and pulse oximetry will be provided by Seemie Mountain Medical Center.

CareLink helicopter emergency service from Lubbock will attend from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Literature will be made available on a number of health concerns and will be given out by national and local health organizations.

A 4-H awards program will be at 4 p.m., said Haynes.

A garage sale will be held to benefit Bill Nehls, who suffered the loss of his child due to cancer.

Bojangles western wear will also celebrate its grand opening the day of the Health Fair in Highland Mall.

Decell wins lawsuit

BIG SPRING — A 118th District Court jury awarded $50,000 to a city official for injuries from a bicycling accident he said has interfered with his official duties.

Tom Decell, Big Spring public works director, was awarded $50,000 by a district court jury after a two-day wrongful injury trial ended Thursday.

Decell filed the suit against Leola Moffet Edwards, charging that negligence on her part in a 1988 automobile-bicycle collision is responsible for a knee injury that puts him in constant pain and hampers his ability to do his job as public works director.

Decell was reportedly riding his bicycle on Wasson Road entering the intersection of Avondale when Edwards failed to stop at a yield sign which gave him the right-of-way. Edwards allegedly proceeded into the intersection, striking Decell.

Decell testified Wednesday he "flew over" part of Edwards car and landed down the road after being struck by her vehicle, in contrast to a deposition filed on behalf of Edwards which indicated Decell might have fallen down on his bicycle in front of her vehicle.

Decell was seeking an unspecified amount in damages in the suit.

Farming disaster predicted in 5 years

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — The United States should expect a major farming disaster in the next five years if a current trend in curbing the use of pesticides continues, a farm expert predicts.

"Agriculture is between a rock and a hard place. The cotton industry is in trouble from insects," said Charles Allen, District 6 extension entomologist. Entomology is the study of insects.

Allen made the remarks Thursday evening at a Howard County Agricultural Review meeting.

Insects are increasingly becoming resistant to pest killers, and an unwarranted scare over possible human poisoning through insecticides is prohibiting the use of proven insecticides, Allen charges.

"They're getting resistant to

where you can't kill them," Allen said of insects which destroy farmer's crops. Allen cited cases from Mississippi to California of farmers finding that insects no longer respond to once-proven pesticides.

"What all this comes down to is that there are 10 to 11 to 12 pests that can't be killed by pesticide," he said.

Allen said new pesticides that might be effective against the insects are meeting with skepticism from people concerned about the dangers they could pose, and traditional pest killers are also coming under heavier scrutiny from environmentalists and farming regulatory agencies.

Agriculture and pesticides are receiving an unearned "black eye" from non-farmers, Allen charges, adding concerns about pesticides are "being blown out of proportion."

The risk of carcinogens — cancer causing agents — from pesticides is minimal, he said.

"Ninety-nine percent of carcinogens occur naturally with plants," Allen said.

Allen credited pesticides with providing an abundant food supply.

"Nobody ever lived with as much (food) as we do," Allen said. "People don't appreciate that."

Allen acknowledged pesticides may have some minimal bad effects, but said, "the alternative is worse." The farming industry could face a major setback within the next few years if farmers' ability to use pesticide is curbed or stopped, he said.

Allen said one of the main way environmentalists have attempted to curb the use of specific pesticides in recent years is by making it too expensive for the companies that produce them to re-register the products. If the pesticides are not big enough money makers for the companies, the companies then become forced to discontinue selling the pesticide, he said.

Howard County should be okay even if pesticides are curbed because use here is far more limited than other parts of the country, Allen said. Pesticides are used locally about once a year, while others spray as many as 15 times in a single year, he said.

The use of bio-technology to control pests offers promise, Allen said, but is not expected to become a reality for about 10 years. In the meantime, he said, farmers and the agriculture industry need to get more political to protect their interest.

Private prison proposal 'on hold'

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

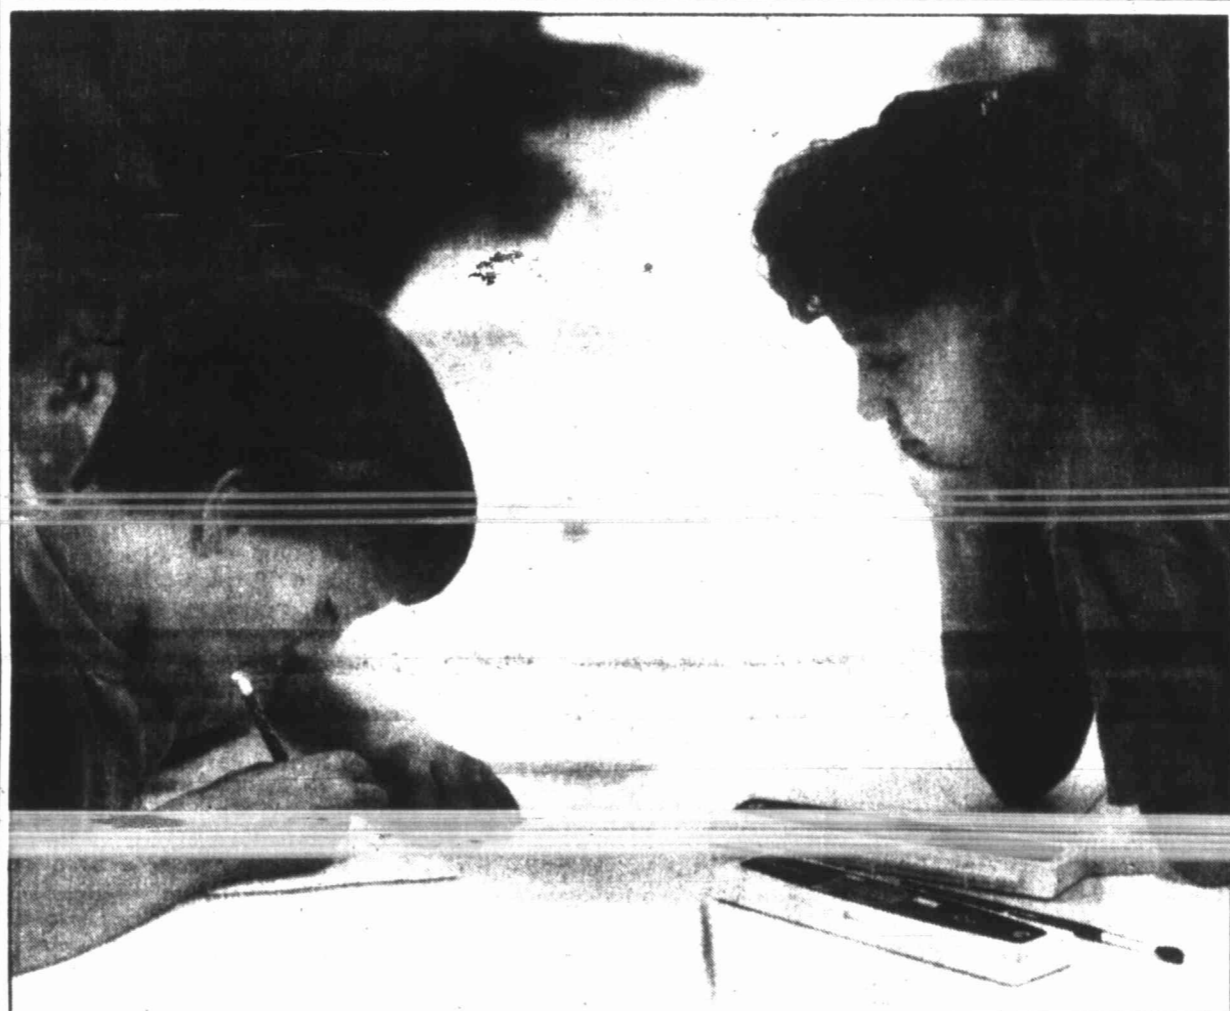

BIG SPRING — A Christian-affiliated private prison business is still considering attempting to build a facility in Howard County, but no new developments have occurred since county commissioners approved the concept in August.

"It's being considered, I don't think much has been done on it," said Ladd Holton, president of the BAC Group Inc., which provides the management services for Corrections Concepts Incorporated.

Howard County Commissioners gave a tentative approval to the idea of a 500-inmate, non-denominational, non-proselytizing detention facility after Holton made a presentation before the commissioners' court on the benefits he said a CCI facility could provide.

The CCI facility would employ 106 people and generate $2 million in salaries, which in turn would create 600 service-support jobs.

Drug bust nets five suspects

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — Five people were arrested and an undetermined quantity of illegal drugs were seized Thursday evening after units of a drug task force were tipped off about possible drug trafficking at a home near the McMahon/Wrinkle Airport.

Arrested for possession of a controlled substance were: James Walter Ussery, 29, 1402 Harding St.; Barbara Lynn Quillen, 33, 2906 Cherokee St.; Carolyn Omerle Abel, 36, 1402 Harding St.; Bill Loftis Jr., 37, 2906 Cherokee St.; and David Lee Mesker, 39, 307 West 6th St.

Bond for Quillen and Abel was set at $5,000; Bond for Ussery, Loftis and Mesker was set at $10,000.

An undetermined amount of methamphetamine which had been diluted into water was seized, Sheriff's Deputy George Quintero said. The illegal drugs will be taken to a lab for analysis and to determine the quantity of illegal substance, he said.

Drug paraphernalia including syringe needles was also seized, Quintero said.

The arrest and seizure at 2609 Cherokee St. occurred after the

LULAC chief: Gomez case sparks efforts to insure justice

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — The fatal police shooting of Sammy Gomez last year may be a pivotal case in sparking efforts by League of United Latin American Citizens to insure justice to minorities in the United States, said the organization's national president.

"We're ready to do away with the Wyatt Earp mentality that pervades in West Texas," declared Jose Garcia DeLara, who will be one of at least three speakers attending a 4 p.m. LULAC rally at the courthouse Saturday to express opinions concerning minority treatment in Mitchell County.

Other scheduled speakers include LULAC Deputy state Director of Women Irma Mireles and Ruben Sandoval, the civil rights attorney representing the Gomez family. All three speakers are from San Antonio.

"We'll be there in order to insure that justice will prevail in the state of Texas," DeLara said. "We want to focus on the personality of justice in the state of Texas. We want to correct it."

"There's just numerous incidents involving police officers where they shot and killed, in many cases murdered their victims and are no-billed."

He referred to about a half-dozen fatal police shootings that have occurred since 1975 in Houston, Dallas, Castroville and Medina County, as well as Colorado City.

Saturday's demonstration is being held four days before a grand jury is scheduled to hear the Gomez case for a second time following complaints by LULAC. The officer firing the fatal shots, Billy Ray Williamson, was no-billed by the first grand jury which convened one week after the May 13, 1988, fatal shooting and before a final autopsy report was completed.

"This was the straw that broke the camel's back," DeLara said. "We're certainly very disturbed with what has been going on with the Sammy Gomez case."

"This is an initiative that we will take throughout the country to insure justice for our citizens. There're other issues that we are getting ready to address."

He mentioned a joint effort that LULAC will soon start with the Southern Poverty Law Center to jail members of the Ku Klux Klan who break the law.

"What we see here is somewhat the same kind of mentality," he said.

Mireles voiced a similar concern.

"I would hope by now that that type of renegade police 'brutality' — I hate to use that word — would have ended," she said. "Police should not take advantage of the

Agriculture officials defend expenditures

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Texas Department of Agriculture officials defended the billing of thousands of dollars for meals and hotel tabs to a crop inspection program, while Republicans stepped up criticism of Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, a Democrat.

Jesse Oliver, general counsel of the TDA, said the expenditures and a vehicle used by Hightower are allowed under the Texas-Federal Inspection Service, a program operated by state and federal officials to provide crop inspections.

He described the flap over the expenses as "a political hatchet job."

Hightower, who was campaigning in East Texas for passage of Proposition 3 in Tuesday's election, said the controversy was a political attack by Texas Gov. Bill Clements and Republican farm officials.

"Clearly, what we have here is yet another attempt by the Republicans — both in Washington and Texas — to create political hay," said Hightower.

Clements called for Hightower's impeachment after reports by The Dallas Morning News that Hightower and his top deputy, Mike Moeller, spent approximately $7,000 on expensive meals and hotel bills and charged it to the Texas-Federal Inspection Service, which is supported by fees paid by growers.

A subsequent report said the son-in-law of the state's top labor leader, a Hightower supporter, received a $10,000 contract last year from the program to produce a study of questionable value.

How's that?

Q. Under what reasons can an employer legally withhold a final paycheck?

A. Ken Green, local supervisor of the Texas Employment Commission, said an employer can withhold a final paycheck if the employee owes money to the company to which he was employed. If there are final documents that require the employee's signature, the employer can withhold payment until the documents are signed. However, an employer is not required to pay the employee on the day he or she quits or is fired from the position. The employee must be paid on the next scheduled pay period.

White House offers to drop capital gains tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's offer to halt his drive for a capital gains tax cut this year could end a bitter congressional deadlock over must-pass fiscal legislation, a minimum wage bill and other measures.

Bush and Senate Republicans offered Thursday to stop trying to add the capital gains provision to debt-limit legislation that must be approved by next week.

"I deeply regret the tone of partisanship that has entered the economic policy debate," Bush said in a written statement. "Now, the stalemate must be broken."

Democratic House and Senate leaders said they liked much of the president's proposal and indicated a deal breaking the legislative logjam might come soon.

"We are heartened by the statement made by the president today, including his apparent decision to terminate his effort with regard to capital gains," Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, told reporters.

"My view is we're very, very close," said Senate Budget Committee Chairman James Sasser, D-Tenn.

But while extending an olive branch on capital gains — one of his top legislative priorities — the president left a threat dangling over Congress.

He promised that if lawmakers failed to send him legislation cutting at least $14 billion from the deficit and containing no unrelated provisions — he would leave $16.1 billion in cuts in most federal programs, made under the Gramm-Rudman law, in effect all year.

"Clearly this approach would not be a first choice for any of us," Bush said. "It is, however, a necessary discipline in the absence of more satisfactory action."

The president's threat to leave the Gramm-Rudman cuts in effect sparked hot retorts from Democrats, who said the slashes would devastate education, environment, anti-drug and other programs Bush has said are his priorities.

"Make no mistake about it, when you agree that these across-the-board cuts are going to take place, it is really a coward's approach to deficit reduction," said House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

The president's insistence on a deficit-reduction measure minus unrelated issues was an effort to strip a number of Democratic-backed programs from the House version of the bill. These proposals include an expensive broadening of federal child care efforts.

Bush said he would continue seeking a capital gains reduction this year. But by offering to keep the proposal off the debt-limit and deficit-reduction bills, he essentially abandoned his best chance for success.

For weeks, Republicans have been trying to find a way to ensure passage of their proposal to cut the tax on capital gains, which are profits from sales of property, stocks and other holdings.

Because they are short of the 60 votes they need for passage under special Senate procedures, GOP lawmakers have tried attaching the proposal to several bills that have better prospects for passage.

These include a deficit-reduction measure, legislation extending the government's borrowing limit, and a bill providing aid to Poland and Hungary. The result has been to delay action on all of these measures.

Thursday, another bill was derailed: a bipartisan package raising the minimum wage for the first time since 1981.

Sen. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, refused to let the chamber debate the measure unless he was permitted to offer amendments reducing the capital gains tax.

Protesters jeer Judge Hampton

DALLAS (AP) — Protesters jeered as supporters of state District Judge Jack Hampton, whose comments about two homosexual murder victims sparked an examination by a judicial review panel, attended the kickoff of his re-election campaign.

Hampton announced his Republican re-election bid in a private meeting with about 150 supporters Thursday night. To reach the event, the judge's friends had to walk through a line of about two dozen protesters chanting "bigot" and "Judge Hampton, liar."

Hampton came under fire for telling a reporter last year that the victims of a murder case tried in his court were "queers cruising the street picking up teen-age boys."

"He (Judge Hampton) basically declared open season on homosexuals," said Bill Travis, one of the protesters.

The defendant provided the only evidence in the trial that the two unarmed men were soliciting sex. A special master appointed by the Texas Supreme Court to review the case ruled that Hampton was not biased and did not discredit the judiciary because of the remarks. The special master's finding will be considered by the State Commission on Judicial Conduct in its review.

One man attending Hampton's meeting made an obscene gesture at the protesters and another jumped into their midst and yelled, "Hampton for senator! Hampton for governor!"

Electrical industry studies health risks

WASHINGTON Responding to studies and a new book that suggest power lines and electronic appliances may cause cancer and other health problems, the U.S. utility industry is starting a series of studies to investigate the problem.

At a press conference recently, officials from the Edison Electric Institute and the Electric Power Research Institute said there is too little scientific evidence to indicate whether electric lines and appliances such as electric blankets pose any health problems for consumers.

The industry, however, has initiated several research studies focusing on the possible health hazards created by magnetic and electric fields which are produced by electric current running through lines. All electric appliances produce such fields, as do power transmission lines.

"This is a new ball game for us in the electric field industry," said Leonard Sagan, a program manager for the electric research group. "The question is do they cause cancer and who is at risk?"

Holton claimed.

The concept behind the 30-acre CCI complex would be a sort of work-farm facility used to hold low risk state prisoners preparing to be paroled. Holton said previously.

County Judge John Coffee said today he has not heard anything from CCI officials recently, and said he assumed the project had "kind of been put on hold."

Holton said progress in the three-month old proposal depends partly on the county judge's interest in pursuing the project.

"It depends on whether the (county judge) wants to get into it and whether the county commissioners want to get into it," he said.

There is no particular deadline in the project, but Holton said he hopes some action will be taken by the first of the new year.

CCI has also proposed building a facility in Red River County, but has come under fire from critics who say the state would save as much as $270,000 if a contract were awarded to another bidder. CCI was also criticized by leaders of rival work-release proposals because CCI president Bill Robinson is an ex-convict.

Robinson reportedly spent seven years in federal and state prisons for a crime but check. Robinson was indicted in 1985 by a federal grand jury in Tyler on charges of selling illegal tax shelters.

Coffee said when they met with Robinson in Austin a few months ago he was up front with them about his previous criminal record.

CCI is one of two private prison proposals being considered in Howard County. Neither one is completed with efforts by county and city officials to bring a state prison here.

Private Prisons of America Limited has also expressed a desire to build and operate a 1,025 bed complex in Howard County by May 1990. However, a state jail commission official has raised questions about the legality of the project, and the business's chief executive officer acknowledged funding, architectural plans and the approval of the State Attorney General's Office and the Texas Commission on Jail Standards have yet to be approved.

Weather

Snow blanketed parts of the Midwest early today, while rain dampened the East.

Scattered snow showers were expected today in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, where snow plowing crews in some areas were busy Thursday clearing away up to 36 inches of snow that has fallen since Tuesday. The Hurley area of northwestern Wisconsin has received 35 inches of snow since Wednesday.

Temperatures dipped to the teens in Minneapolis early today, while snow fell in North Dakota. Rain dampened Pennsylvania and parts of New York.

On Thursday, showers were scattered across the Southeast and the middle Atlantic Coast states. Thunderstorms rumbled over eastern South Carolina and along the east coast of Florida.

Police beat

- The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents Thursday:
- A person living in the 1300 block of Stadium reported criminal mischief to a Kelley Explorer 400. Damage was estimated at $220.
  - F.Z. Riv Auto, 1301 E. 4th, reported the theft of a 1987 Ford valued at $8,000.
  - A person living in the West 80 Apartments reported the burglary of a ring valued at $300 and cash totaling $300.
  - Kings Gifts and More, 609 S. Gregg, reported the theft of ceramic ducks valued at $16.
  - Amway Products, Ada, Mich., reported the theft of a stereo system valued at $1,104 from a Big Spring residence.
  - Parkway Laundry, 2511 Wasson Rd., reported the burglary of a coin operated machine. Three novelty/toy machines valued at $450 and quarters totaling $60 were stolen. Three video games sustained damage totaling $70 and a candy machine was damaged.
  - Parks Convenience Store, 300 S. Gregg, reported the burglary of a coin operated machine. Coins totaling $7 and a padlock valued at $11 were stolen.

Workers recover another body; death toll at 19

PASADENA (AP) — Rescue workers found another body in the rubble of the Phillips Petroleum Co. plastics plant, bringing the confirmed death toll to 19.

Searchers, including high-rise experts and rappellers called in this week, continued looking today for four workers missing and presumed dead since the Oct. 23 explosion.

Meanwhile, the refinery's K-Resin plant is expected to start operations today, Phillips spokesman Greg Derrick said. He also said construction work on a new polyethylene unit, which was suspended after the accident, is expected to resume Monday.

Plant 5, an operating polyethylene unit, was destroyed by a series of explosions and fire. Phillips officials believe flammable hydrocarbon vapor from ethylene and isobutane gases escaped from a leaking chemical reactor, triggering the explosions. But company officials have said they do not know how the gases were ignited.

Eighteen bodies have been found in the rubble, including the latest found Wednesday night. Another worker died of injuries at a Pasadena hospital late Tuesday.

Safety guard rails

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislation aimed at expanding the use of safety guard rails in dangerous locations around the state has been introduced in advance of the Legislature's Nov. 14 special session.

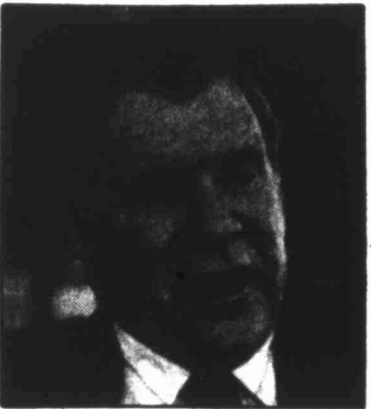

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, filed the bill which he said would require the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation to identify high-risk locations.

The legislation is a response to the truck-bus collision that killed 21 students in South Texas in September when the bus was knocked into a roadside gravel pit.

Guard rails would be required along public highways to prevent a vehicle leaving the road from being submerged in water, Uribe said.

Gov. Bill Clements, who controls agendas for special sessions, so far has refused to consider any other subject for the upcoming session besides workers' compensation reform.

Uribe said he has asked Clements to include guard rail legislation.

Taxing talk

AUSTIN — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has called for a state income tax, saying such a tax would be more fair than taxes Texans currently pay. The plan brought quick negative responses from other politicians.

Jury finds film not obscene

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury has ruled that an X-rated movie showing graphic homosexual activities and sex acts involving bisexuals is not obscene by Texas community standards.

The decision came Thursday in the trial of Glenn Chase, 28, an employee of Encore Video store, who was charged with promotion of obscene material by renting the movie "Bi-Heat III" to an undercover police officer.

Chase would not comment on the outcome of the case, but defense lawyer Bob Switzer said Chase was pleased with the outcome and praised the jury for having the courage to make its decision.

"They said that, while they might find it personally offensive, they didn't think it was obscene to the group (homosexuals and bisexuals) at which it was targeted," Switzer said.

"We think Texans have the right to view what they want to watch... if you're offended, don't go into the store," Switzer added. "It took courage to take a stand... they showed they were concerned about a minority (homosexuals), when others might not have."

Jurors watched the videotape during the trial.

Members of the jury said they reached an agreement not to talk to the media about their decision.

Testimony in the case took about 10 hours over two days, but jurors deliberated six hours, prompting Switzer to ask for a mistrial on grounds that some of the jurors may have been pressuring others to change their vote.

"We feel somebody's getting beat up in there," Switzer said in asking County Court-at-Law Judge Bonnie Reed for a mistrial. The judge declined to rule the case a mistrial after prosecutors argued that the jurors were simply taking their duties seriously and were carefully deliberating the seven pages of instructions provided by Judge Reed.

Duchess of York begins Houston tour

HOUSTON — Her Royal Highness the Duchess of York leads the applause following the performance of dance students at the High School for Performing Arts in Houston Thursday.

HOUSTON (AP) — Sarah Ferguson, the Duchess of York better known as "Fergie," is scheduled to visit the Johnson Space Center and attend an evening opera performance today as part of her five-day Texas visit.

Fergie, who arrived on a British Airways commercial flight Thursday afternoon, came to Houston on the invitation of the Houston Grand Opera, which is having a British Opera Festival and premiering "Mikado" tonight and "New Year" on Sunday night at the new Wortham Theater Center.

Fergie, dressed in a bright yellow and white print dress with white gloves and shoes, toured the Houston High School for Performing and Visual Arts after her arrival.

"You looked very good," she told the actors when she walked on stage.

"Cut, cut," yelled director Robert Singleton when Fergie walked into the school's auditorium.

"You looked very good," she told the actors when she walked on stage.

On stage, Singleton said Fergie asked the students about their goals and if they had the opening night jitters.

"She's absolutely delightful, not nearly as formal as we expected," Singleton said.

Fergie also saw a dance and jazz group rehearsal.

When she arrived at the school, student Mitch Kostner gave her a bouquet of red roses.

"She said, 'Are those for me?'" said Kostner, 16, a junior in the theatrical department of the school. "And I told her, of course they are."

"Then she said, 'They're lovely, lovely flowers.' She said lovely twice. Then she thanked me and shook my hand. It was just wonderful," Kostner said.

"I wanted to ask her to marry me, but I didn't think that was protocol," he added.

Fergie, who is pregnant with her second child by Britain's Prince Andrew, is the guest of the family of Oscar Wyatt, chairman of Coastal Corp., a Houston energy firm. Wyatt's wife, Lynn, vice chairman of the Houston Grand Opera, invited the British royal family to participate in the opera's salute this season to 300 years of British opera.

It's not the duchess' first visit to the fourth-largest U.S. city. Before her 1986 marriage, she visited the city as an ordinary tourist.

This week's visit, however, is intended to be red carpet, although her husband will not be accompanying her.

The duchess is scheduled to attend ceremonies at Houston City Hall with Mayor Kathy Whitmire this morning, before visiting NASA for tours of models of the space station and the space shuttle, plus a session with controllers at Mission Control.

On Saturday, the duchess is scheduled to visit the Texas Medical Center's Institute for Rehabilitation and Research and the Baylor College of Medicine's Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Center.

Also on the agenda were a Saturday night stay at the Wyatts' ranch near Hebronville in South Texas.

Pro-abortion groups plan rally

AUSTIN (AP) — Although Gov. Bill Clements says the abortion issue won't be included in any special legislative session he calls during the rest of his term, pro-abortion activists say they're taking no chances.

A coalition of 20 pro-choice groups Thursday announced a Nov. 12 rally at the state Capitol designed to show that Texans who support abortion rights are "no longer a silent majority."

Kathryn Grant, executive director of the newly formed Texans for Choice, said they hope the rally will be the largest gathering of pro-choice supporters ever.

The gathering "will draw people from all walks of life from all over the state to send a resounding message to our lawmakers: we are the majority, we are pro-choice and we are united in our belief that politicians should not interfere in such personal decisions as the right to choose abortion," she said.

The rally is a response to the U.S. Supreme Court ruling earlier this year that gave states broader powers to regulate and restrict abortions.

Ms. Grant said legislators and abortion opponents need to know where the rest of society stands on the issue.

"By who we are and who we represent, pro-choice citizens no longer need fear standing up and being counted," she said.

"Legislators need no longer fear intimidation from the extreme and vocal minority whose goal is to make abortion and contraception illegal."

Clements, who describes himself as opposed to abortion in most cases, disappointed anti-abortion activists last month by saying he would refuse to include abortion on the agenda of a special legislative session Nov. 14 or any other session he calls before leaving office in 1991.

Ms. Grant said that despite Clements' decision, her group wants to get their message out before next year's elections. "We now know we must elect pro-choice public officials to protect this right," she said.

Ms. Grant said speakers at the Nov. 12 rally should include actresses Morgan Fairchild, Cybill Shepherd and Anne Archer, and Faye Wattleton, executive director of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

INS asks Congress for broader powers of arrest

WASHINGTON — Arguing that illegal aliens are often captured while committing crimes, the federal Immigration and Naturalization Service is asking Congress to give its agents broader powers of arrest.

Rep. Lamar Smith, R-Texas, is sponsoring legislation to give INS agents the same arrest authority as other federal law enforcement officers. Currently INS agents can only arrest people for violating immigration laws.

Smith told a House Judiciary subcommittee Wednesday the 1,539 INS enforcement agents in the nation frequently encounter drug smuggling and other criminal activity in their raids and ought to have the same arrest authority as FBI agents and other federal officers.

"INS officers routinely participate in multi-agency enforcement efforts, including the Organized Crime and Drug Enforcement Task Force...yet INS agents are the only participants in these programs without arrest authority," Smith said.

INS Assistant Commissioner John F. Shaw testified that INS agents are currently making more than 1 million arrests a year for immigration violations but are encountering a greater number of criminal activities on the job, particularly drug smuggling.

"Frequently INS agents are the only law enforcement presence along the (Mexico) border where substantial amounts of criminal activity is occurring," he said.

The legislation has the support of the Bush administration and Justice Department officials endorsed it Wednesday.

INS officials testified that illegal aliens now comprise roughly 15 percent of the jail population in border states. Although those aliens are deported when convicted of a crime, Shaw said that deportations are far behind the arrest rate. Congress has appropriated money to expand the INS agent force to 1,906 officers in 1989 and nearly doubled the investigation budget to $87 million.

Stolen wallet
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Texas resident Lori Glendening said she was surprised to receive a "time capsule" in the mail this week.
Her wallet, stolen from her purse while she tried on a dress at Woodland Hills Mall in 1985, was discovered by a contractor Oct. 13.
Errol Smythe said he was renovating a food court area when he found the wallet between sheet rock and a wall. He contacted Ms. Glendening's mother and gave her the wallet the next day.
Lois Glendening wrapped the wallet in Christmas paper and sent it to her daughter in Euless, Texas.

Hype keeps ad men healthy

Visit a supermarket these days, and you get the impression that your purchasing habits will lengthen your lifespan.

We're not talking about the fresh fruit, vegetables, meat and bread of a balanced, nutritional diet. Those goods have always been on the shelves.

We mean the hyped-up claims that have sprouted on boxes and bottles all over the store: Revitalize with vitamin supplements. Drink calcium-fortified juice to avoid the ravages of osteoporosis. Buy this margarine to help ward off heart disease. Cut your cancer risks with this or that high-fiber product.

A stroll past the cereal section may convince you that it's possible to add five years to your life expectancy on that aisle alone. But we're troubled by a question that has plagued shoppers since the era of traveling snake-oil salesmen. What if these claims aren't true?

Even experts are divided on whether certain foods help prevent disease and prolong life. As one doctor noted, wryly, "Health food won't make you live longer. It only feels that way."

Through most of this century, the federal government reflected that scientific skepticism by forbidding any health claims for food. Two years ago, the ban was lifted.

The Food and Drug Administration was slow to issue any guidelines on what is acceptable. Not surprisingly, Madison Avenue stepped into the void. It is estimated that about 40 percent of all new food products introduced in the first half of 1989 come with a health message of one sort or another.

Now, the FDA has wisely decided to issue regulations that would return to the marketplace some semblance of truth in advertising. The agency proposes that health ads must be supported with scientific proof contained in two government studies on diet and health.

However imperfect, this approach would be better than leaving consumers to the whims of the food packagers.

Meanwhile, the public should take disease-prevention claims with a grain of — uh, no-sodium salt substitute.

Hats off to VVA members

To the editor:

To the Vietnam Air Show Committee. Congratulations on the Air Show this past weekend. It was outstanding to say the least. That was one weekend I won't forget for a long time. All the long hours each of you put in over the past several months to make this a reality, in my opinion, certainly paid off. My hat is off to you for a job well done. To the members of the VVA: Phil Gary, Charles, Manuel, Sarah, Rob, Manuel, Tim, Robyn, Don, Paf, Ken, and especially Charlie, thank you. Without your beliefs, and your desire to see a Vietnam Memorial built here in Big Spring, there would not have been an Air Show.

Just remember, if it didn't bring in enough money to build the Memorial, don't despair, because "It don't mean nothing!" The people of Big Spring are lucky. We have something even better, you, our Living Vietnam Memorials. For those of you that have not joined the VVA, please take it upon yourself to do so. I can assure you, you won't meet a better bunch of guys. Here's to the VVA. You've made me proud, and I love you for it.

Steer Band deserves praise

To the editor:

Much of the work has already been done on many levels and the Steer Band proved it on Saturday.

From a biased view I claim that our Steer Band should have been selected to go on to regionals as a result of their hard work and dedication. The judges seemed to prefer drill over entertainment, so, no regional or state finals this year. During the District Band Contest our kids performed a difficult, complicated show, and definite crowd pleaser. Their salute to Disney pleased the judges enough to get them a Number One Rating. Wow! The competition was stiff! In four years the Steer Band has been responsible for pulling their entire district up to new levels of competition and at least four of the competing bands were capable of winning regional and possibly State level competition. Yes, I'm biased toward the Steer Band but, comparing the drill type shows of the other schools to the showmanship of our great Steer Band made me glad I wasn't a judge.

If you know an instructor or student member of the Steer Band don't hesitate to tell them how proud you are of their performance at District contest.

They deserve your praise.

"WE UNDERSTAND YOU NEED A WATCHDOG... WE JUST DON'T WANT HIM RUNNING AROUND, GETTING INTO TROUBLE."

Whose handgun is it anyway?

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — The new director of the U.S. Information Agency, Bruce Gelb, found a little gift left behind by his predecessor in the office safe — a gun.

"What am I supposed to do with this damn gun?" he asked his aides as they rushed around trying to find out why it was there.

The USIA refused to tell us anything about the mysterious weapon, claiming it was a "security matter." We pieced the story together from other sources, including the former occupant of the director's office, Charles Wick.

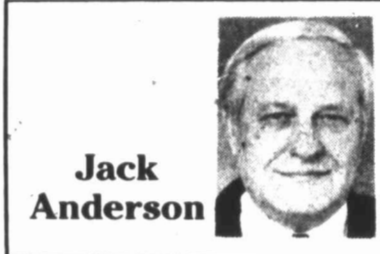

Wick was USIA director through the administration of his good friend, Ronald Reagan. Wick told us he ordered the gun — he can't remember if it was a .357 Magnum or a .45 — for his personal security. He believed he was in the line of fire for those who would take aim at President Reagan, particularly the Soviets.

Wick and his wife, Mary Jane, have known the Reagans since the 1960s in Bel Air, Calif., when their children attended the same private school. Mrs. Wick is one of Nancy Reagan's best friends. The Wicks were the Reagans' traveling companions on a recent Japanese tour.

"There was a lot of publicity about Reagan's friends," recalled Gilbert Robinson, Wick's No. 2 man at USIA. He remembered telephone threats against Wick and his family. The attempted assassination of Reagan by John Hinckley in 1981 only heightened their fears.

One former colleague told us that Wick was "obsessed with security," and spent $32,000 making his home more secure.

Wick and Robinson talked about the possibility of a gunman making it to Wick's office, and decided that Wick needed a gun. So Robinson was put on the job. He wrote to the Justice Department for advice and in which the Soviets agreed to stop jamming Voice of America broadcasts and stop spreading bizarre lies about the United States.

But the guns remained in Wick's and Robinson's offices, virtually forgotten and gathering dust, until Gelb came along.

The USIA refused to tell us where the guns are now, but unless Gelb is made a deputy marshal, it is against the law for him to keep them.

OLD NEWS — A 16-year-old newspaper article threatens to bring a virtual halt to the work of the National Labor Relations Board.

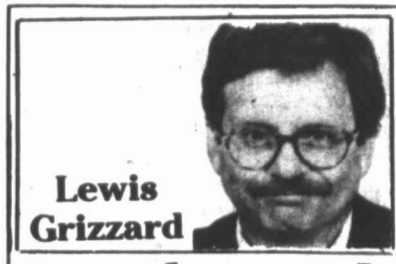

The article, written by Seymour Hersh for the New York Times, claimed that Donald Rodgers, who is President Bush's nominee to the NLRB, used "improper" influence when he worked in the Nixon White House.

Rodgers, who had been a Teamsters lobbyist, allegedly tried to get favorable treatment for the Teamsters from the NLRB. The article is now being used by several conservatives on the Senate Labor Committee to block Rodgers' confirmation, and the committee has asked the FBI to check out the story. Meanwhile, enr sources say that officials of the AFL-CIO may try to stop any other NLRB appointments until Rodgers is approved.

MINI-EDITORIAL — On his recent trip to Japan, former President Reagan opined that it was a good thing Sony had bought Columbia Pictures. Maybe the proper Japanese will restore decency to the film industry, the ex-president said.

"I just have a feeling that maybe Hollywood needs some outsiders to bring back decency and good taste..." It looks like the Japanese, who are buying everything in America that isn't nailed down, also bought themselves a retired actor with that $2 million appearance fee.

Packaged for air safety

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

I have a friend who is just as afraid and skeptical of flying as I am. We both have overcome those fears to the point we will, in fact, get into an airplane if there is no other recourse and there is ample supply of bottled courage aboard.

My friend made a great point recently.

"I was flying the other day," she began, "and it occurred to me. You know the safest planes to fly?"

I didn't.

"Those planes that deliver packages," she said. "Like Federal Express and UPS. You never hear of those planes crashing and scattering packages all over the ground. They ought to sell seats on those planes. I wouldn't mind sharing my space with a package or two."

She's right, you know. It may be just that I am more sensitive to airline disasters than most others, but hasn't there been a lot of plane crashes lately?

And it's always people getting scattered all over the ground, not packages.

Are airlines that carry packages more careful than airlines who carry people?

"Hey, Harvey, check that fuel line!"

"Nah, Carl. Not that many passengers going out tonight. I'll catch it next week."

So what do they say over at Fed Ex?

"Checked it twice, Carl. Got some pretty important packages going up tonight."

I guess the thing about people is if you scatter one of them over the ground, they aren't that hard to find. You might not be able to identify them right away, but at least you can find a person.

Not the same with a package. It could be a tiny package and if the plane crashed, it might never be found and it might be somebody's new wristwatch being shipped as a birthday present.

I realize this sounds terribly callous, and I'm not really saying packages are more important to airlines than passengers, but maybe the safest way to fly is to send yourself inside a package.

"Federal Express?"

"Yes."

"I'd like to send a package to Cleveland."

"How big a package?"

"Pretty big one."

"How big?"

"How's 6-1 sound?"

"Six feet, one inches tall?"

"Yeah. My mother's people were all over 6 feet."

"Are you implying you'd like to send yourself in a package?"

"Just to Cleveland. I've got an important meeting there."

"Sorry to pry, sir, but why don't you consider booking a flight on a passenger carrier?"

"I'd rather go with you guys. You never crash and scatter packages all over the ground, do you?"

"Well, of course not, but..."

"Then tell me what time to show up and I'll get inside a big box and I'll be fine."

"You can't smoke."

"I won't."

"OK, if you're willing to try. Will this be first-class or tourist?"

"What's the difference?"

"In first-class, the air holes we punch in the top of your box are complimentary."

Protesters delay choir concert

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hundreds of Armenians protesting Soviet policies in their homeland blocked the entrance to an auditorium and delayed a performance by the Red Army Choir on its first tour of the United States.

Police said 500 to 1,000 protesters blocked the entrance to the Shrine Auditorium and streets surrounding the hall shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday. Some chained themselves to the doors.

Shouting matches between protesters and ticketholders flared at times, but here were no reports of violence or injuries, police Officer Jim Farris said, and no arrests were reported.

The Los Angeles area is home to hundreds of thousands of Armenians. Many are angered by Moscow's intervention in a vicious territorial dispute between the neighboring Soviet republics of Armenia and Azerbaijan, and by Soviet response to the earthquake that killed 25,000 in Armenia last year.

Police said 500 to 1,000 protesters blocked the entrance to the Shrine Auditorium and streets surrounding the hall shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday. Some chained themselves to the doors. Shouting matches between protesters and ticketholders flared at times, but here were no reports of violence or injuries, police Officer Jim Farris said, and no arrests were reported.

Sales tax increased for quake relief

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California lawmakers opening a special session on aid to earthquake-stricken areas questioned relief plans but barely debated the proposed source of funds: a sales tax increase local officials deem inadequate.

Jack Kemp, U.S. secretary of housing and urban development, said at a San Francisco news conference that the federal government likely would be spending an additional $165 million to the Bay area to provide and repair rental housing.

Congress last week approved $3.45 billion in quake relief. The state is required to come up with $855 million more, said state Finance Director Jesse Huff.

To raise $786 million of that money, Gov. George Deukmejian and legislative leaders this week agreed to propose boosting the sales tax from 6 percent to 6.25 percent for 13 months starting Dec. 1 — encompassing two Christmas shopping periods.

Molestation case goes to jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After more than two years of testimony, jurors have begun deliberations in the McMartin preschool molestation trial dealing with the alleged rape of children and satanic rituals.

The longest-running criminal case in U.S. history has lingered in the courts in various stages for nearly six years and cost taxpayers more than $15 million.

"It seems like a historic moment but I'm too tired to enjoy it," Superior Court Judge William Pounds said Thursday after the jurors adjourned to select a foreman and begin deliberations.

"All of the jurors are present on a day I think you may have felt would never arrive."

A jury of 12, plus six alternates began the trial in April 1987. Since then, job problems and illness plagued the jury, leaving the bare dozen panelists needed to deliberate and avoid a mistrial.

Customs helicopter down at sea

MIAMI (AP) — Rescuers searched by sea and air today for a U.S. Customs Service employee missing after a helicopter crashed off the Florida coast while chasing a suspected drug boat, authorities said.

At sunrise, crews from the Coast Guard, Customs and Air Force doubled the search area to 500 square miles around the site where the Customs helicopter went down about 9:30 p.m. Thursday, said Customs spokesman Michael Sheehan.

The craft crashed in the Cay Sal Bank area, about 75 miles southeast of Miami.

Sheehan said searchers speculated Gulf Stream currents may have picked up the missing man, who is believed to have been wearing a life jacket.

The Blackhawk helicopter was carrying four customs officials and two Bahamian police officers. No cause for the crash had been determined.

The suspicious boat got away.

Senate approves bill to restore North's pension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House must decide whether to go along with a Senate vote to reinstate Oliver North's $23,000 annual pension, revoked after he was sentenced for illegally shredding documents in the Iran-Contra scandal.

"Let the vendetta end," said Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., whose bill to restore North's pension was approved by the Senate late Thursday on a 78-17 vote.

But despite that plea, the debate over whether to give North back his retirement pay dredged up bitter partisan feelings stemming from President Reagan's efforts with North in a key role — to evade congressional restrictions and fund the Contra war in Nicaragua.

"We are asked to bend the law for someone who broke the law," said Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa. "North's defense was that he was just following orders. But we settled that issue at Nuremberg," a reference to trials of Nazis involved in World War II atrocities.

The issue now goes to the House, where similar legislation has been introduced but not yet acted on.

Senators ignored warnings from colleagues like Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who said the move would set a bad precedent and invite future congressional tampering with criminal cases.

North, a Marine lieutenant colonel, lost his retirement pay after he was sentenced July 5 to 1,200 hours of community service and a $150,000 fine on three felony counts. He is appealing the convictions.

One of the counts, shredding government documents, stipulates that anyone convicted "forfeit his office" with the U.S. government.

The General Accounting Office, which adjudicates federal pay issues, ruled North's status as a retired military officer came under that provision of the law and that forfeiting his office meant he no longer qualified for retirement pay. The case marked the first time the 15-year-old law had been applied to revoke someone's pension.

Technically, military retirement pay is not a pension based on past service but a reduced salary for an officer, who continues to hold a commission and remains subject to recall to active duty.

Sanctions hardest on black workers

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Foreign sanctions imposed on South Africa have cost the country 500,000 jobs and billions of dollars since 1985, a leading economist says.

The study released Thursday by Chris van Wyk, chief executive of the Bankorp banking group, also said foreign investment and trade bans have hurt blacks the most.

"The harshest burden of sanctions has fallen on them," he said, adding that 80 percent of new job seekers are black.

"A continuation of existing trade and financial sanctions throughout the 1990s would render a million more black people jobless and 2 million more financially destitute," said van Wyk, whose study was described by financial writers as the most definitive attempt yet to quantify the impact of sanctions.

The study said sanctions and the pullout of foreign investment since 1985 cost $16 billion in foreign exchange.

Marcos loyalists denounce Aquino

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Thousands of people pushed past police barricades today and rallied outside a military post, demanding that the body of President Ferdinand Marcos be buried on Philippine soil.

A crowd estimated by police at about 25,000 gathered to denounce President Corazon Aquino for blocking the return of Marcos' body. It was the largest show of support for the former president in years.

Afterward, protesters defied police orders and marched to Camp Crame, headquarters of the Philippine Constabulary military police force, and nearby Camp Aguinaldo, the armed forces headquarters.

Police blocked the road about a mile from the camps, but the protesters pushed through, and several thousand reached the gate of Camp Crame.

On Oct. 27, the Supreme Court upheld Mrs. Aquino's ban, which also prevents Marcos' widow, Imelda, and their three children from returning. The court ruled 8-7 that the return of the family would endanger national security.

American nun feared kidnapped

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — An American nun who disappeared from a retreat house after receiving a series of threatening letters was probably kidnapped, the city's Roman Catholic archbishop said.

Archbishop Prospero Penados del Barrio said in an interview late Thursday that Sister Diana Ortiz, 31, of the Ursuline order had gone into the garden of the Belene Sisters Retreat House, a former convent in the town of Antigua, on Thursday and "she did not return at lunch time."

Since mid-July, Guatemala has been suffering from a resurgence of the assassinations, disappearances and other violence that claimed tens of thousands of lives in the late 1970s and early 1980s. A leading Christian Democratic politician, a prominent banker and students have been among its victims.

The extreme right, with traditional links to the military, is being blamed by some observers for the most of the violence.

Refugees pack embassy in Prague

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — About 4,000 East Germans were jammed into the West German Embassy in Prague today with new arrivals pouring in each hour, all eager to emigrate West despite promises of reform from their Communist leaders.

"I don't believe that anything will change there," one young man at the embassy said Thursday, declining to give his name. "The reforms are only for the outside world."

With East German diplomats processing only about 100 applications a day, it was expected the embassy and its gardens, which have a capacity of about 5,500 people, would be overflowing before an expected weekend rush of East Germans.

Embassy sources, who put the number of East Germans at around 4,000 just before noon, said negotiations were under way with Czechoslovak authorities for extra space.

Council meets

The Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs met Oct. at the home of Mrs. O.S. Womack with Mrs. Ocey Mason as hostess.

Members reported they were pleased with the success of the recent fall luncheon at Garrett Hall. It was reported that $500 scholarships will be issued to two Howard College students.

The club will donate six crepe myrtles to be planted on either side of the Girl Scout Hut.

Womack will donate six or more pecan trees to be planted at the SouthWest Collegiate for the Deaf.

The club is in the process of selecting a "spot" to be beautified.

District I fall board meeting will be Monday in Lubbock at the Garden of Art Center.

The District I fall board of directors meeting will be conducted Nov. 16 at the Art Institute of the Permian Basin, 4909 E. University, at 1 p.m. Sherry Smith will demonstrate the technique of making Christmas wreaths.

The next meeting will be Nov. at the home of Mrs. Carl Johansen. The program will be "Poinsettias: How To Grow Them." Project for the month is to create Christmas decorations for the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Cornbread and beans

The Big Spring Kiwanis Club will sponsor a cornbread and bean supper today, from 5 to 7 p.m., in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Cost is $2.50 per person.

Foster is best loser

TOPS TX 21 Club met Monday night at Canterbury South. Leader Shirley Jenkins called the meeting to order.

Best loser for the month was Bonnie Foster with a loss of 6 1/2 pounds. She received a certificate, $9 from the gainer's fines and a gift from the club. Olnee Menges was the best loser for the week with a loss of 3 1/2 pounds. She also received a certificate and $1.

Betty Dean was welcomed as a new member.

Members discussed the annual community Christmas parade and voted to enter a float.

The "No Tricks in this Hat" contest ended with Edith Roberts collecting the most points over the past eight weeks. She collected the $20 prize. Carolyn Elliott presented the program on basic metabolic rates and how the body burns energy. She emphasized that lowering fat grams will help us lose weight and still help keep energy high. Exercise is a vital part of losing weight and maintaining good health.

For more information about TOPS and its weight loss program, please call Shirley Jenkins at 263-0391, or Virginia Collins at 263-1340.

BIG SPRING — Artist Betty Conley, who recently studied with noted artists Naomi Brotherton and Tony Couch, will display several of her artworks through Nov. 30 at Art Focus Gallery.

Artists' work on display

In conjunction with Arts Fest, sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, Art Focus Gallery, 215 Main St., will present a special showing of the works of Betty Conley, Jannie Linney and Doris Vieregge. The public is invited to view the artwork through Nov. 30, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Conley, pictured at left, attended Eastern New Mexico University and graduated from the University of New Mexico with a bachelor's of science degree, a major in home economics, according to a news release.

She taught school in Albuquerque and Ranchvale, N.M., retiring in 1984 after teaching for 23 years in Big Spring. Since retirement Conley has enjoyed traveling to Alaska, Hawaii, Canada, England and several European countries.

Conley began her art career in 1974 with classes conducted by Virginia Whitten.

DALLAS (AP) — The wild west is not that wild — at least in Dallas — a London police constable has learned.

Mark Whaley, chosen from among 28,000 London police officers for a free trip to Dallas, rode with Dallas police officers and talked with off-duty cops after work in a "police hangout."

Whaley said police work around the world seems much the same to him, and the streets of Dallas were relatively calm.

"It was a little quieter than some nights in London," Whaley said.

Whaley pointed out that the chief difference between his department and the Dallas force is that London officers do not carry guns.

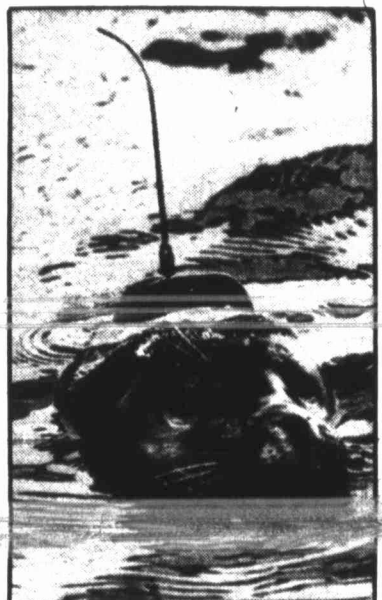

"It's a tradition — like the different caps," said Whaley, who earlier presented Dallas Police Chief Mack Vines with a "bobby helmet."

"I think from the Western days, you had a right to carry firearms. In Britain, it's very, very difficult to get firearms legally."

Whaley, who was presented a cowboy hat and promptly put it on backwards, said Texas was much different than he expected.

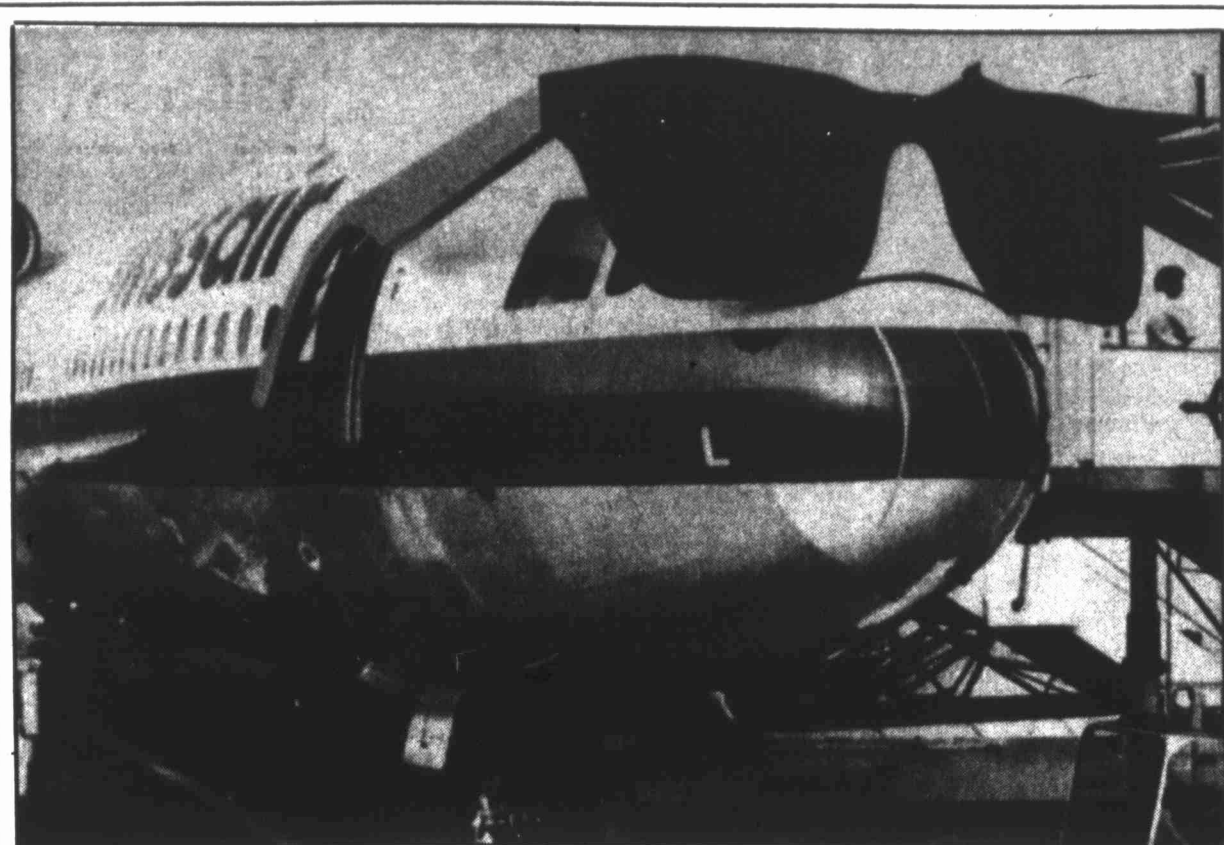

"I thought there'd be more big hats and cowboy boots," he said. And "the accent isn't as pronounced here as in the Dallas TV program."

Whaley's trip was sponsored by the Friends of the Dallas Police. Walter Clark, executive director of the organization, said the group organized the trip to repay Scotland Yard for the courtesy it has shown Dallas police officers of the year who visited London.

S&L vice president enters guilty plea

AUSTIN (AP) — Merrick Leler, a senior vice president at Lamar Savings during the thrift's free-wheeling days in 1985, has pleaded guilty in federal court to conspiring to defraud savings and loan regulators.

Leler's plea was part of an agreement with federal prosecutors to cooperate in their investigation into illegal actions of the defunct S&L, which has been accused of making rapid-fire bogus loan transactions to shore up its financial statement.

In addition, the 37-year-old former vice president for commercial lending has agreed to testify against other former Lamar executives.

In return for Leler's cooperation and guilty plea, prosecutors agreed not to bring other bank fraud-related charges against him.

In a separate case Wednesday, George C. Walker, the former president of First National Bank of Luling, pleaded guilty to defrauding his board of directors to them on overdrafts in the bank's customer accounts.

Both Leler and Walker face as much as five years in prison and fines of up to $250,000.

After his appearance before U.S. District Judge James Nowlin on Wednesday, Leler said he didn't realize he was committing a crime when he arranged for Lamar to make a sham loan of $11.6 million to Sidney Terry in 1985.

The loan was used by Terry to buy an apartment complex in Houston from Lamar, a deal that allowed the S&L to remove the project from its list of foreclosed assets.

Leler said he lacked sufficient training and experience in the savings industry to realize that Lamar's loan transactions were illegal.

"There are a lot of businesses where you dress up the financial statement prior to the end of a reporting period. That is common practice in other industries. In the regulated savings industry, I now realize it's an illegal practice." — Merrick Leler

"My training was entirely on the job," said Leler, who earned degrees in biology and computer management at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and worked at MIT before joining Lamar in 1982.

Leler said he leaned heavily on the experience and guidance of other senior executives at Lamar, some of whom were former S&L regulators.

Principal OKs segregated assembly

LANCASTER (AP) — School district officials in this Dallas suburb have declined to take any disciplinary action against a junior high principal who held separate student assemblies for black, white and Hispanic students, school officials said.

Several parents complained to Lancaster school officials last week after Lancaster Junior High principal Don Berry called the separate meetings.

Berry said he called the meetings after concerns were raised about student behavior and attitude.

Lancaster school district spokesman Ken Smalling said the students were grouped by race because Berry "felt the kids would be able to be more open if they were segregated."

Berry declined to discuss the matter, according to the Dallas Times Herald.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Robert McLaughlin, who spent more than six years in prison for a murder he didn't commit, gets a hug from fiance Heidi Hanson. A court recently awarded McLaughlin $1.9 million in a wrongful imprisonment lawsuit.

Man loses six years of life

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Bobby McLaughlin is about to get his due for the 6½ years he spent in "the gladiator school" and other prisons for a murder he didn't commit.

But the $1.9 million award made last week by New York Court of Claims Judge Adolph Orlando will barely begin to soothe the pain.

"People think I'm winning the lottery or something," the former New York resident said from his St. Paul apartment. "Well, they owe me. If they had given me a choice, I wouldn't have gone through all this for $50 million."

Orlando awarded McLaughlin $1.5 million for "loss of liberty, mental stress, anguish and loss of reputation." The judge also ordered payment for lost wages and $225,000 in medical expenses for treatment of McLaughlin's addiction to cocaine and other drugs that stemmed from his prison experience.

"It's unlikely that he will ever survive the devastating trauma resulting from incarceration for a crime he did not commit," the judge said.

McLaughlin, 30, was convicted in 1979 in the New York borough of Brooklyn for taking part in an armed robbery in which one person was killed. McLaughlin received a 15-year sentence.

McLaughlin said he was drinking with friends at a bar in his neighborhood the night of the killing. He was arrested several days later because the primary suspect was reputed to associate with a Robert W. McLaughlin. Detectives mistook that man for Bobby, whose middle initial is 'K.'

McLaughlin was picked out of a police lineup by a 15-year-old witness who had been told by police that McLaughlin was a friend of the other suspect.

"I kept telling myself it would end but it never did," McLaughlin said. "I hated the system for not believing me. It just seemed like they were God — like they could do whatever they liked with my life."

The conviction was overturned in 1986 after McLaughlin's foster father, Jarold Hohne, persuaded civil rights lawyer Richard Emery and a police sergeant to reopen the case. After four years of relentless work, the only witness who identified McLaughlin acknowledged he was wrong.

"It's been a nightmare for Bobby from beginning to end," Emery said. "He faced it down and he survived like one has to, but he's lost the critical years from 20 to 26½."

That's how old McLaughlin was during his prison stays at Rikers Island, Sing Sing, Elmira and Comstock. The last of those was known as "the gladiator school" because there were so many fights, McLaughlin said.

Going into prison, McLaughlin weighed about 150 pounds. He emerged after six years of body-building tipping the scales at 200 pounds — a physique he still maintains.

McLaughlin said he bulked up to protect himself against constant aggression.

Hundreds protest racial slur

By SUSAN FAHLGREN
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Hundreds packed the City Council chambers to demand the resignation of a member who made a racial slur about the late U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland.

"Houston does not need a racist council members pushing to rename the airport for Leland. The congressman was killed in a plane crash in August while aiding famine victims in Africa.

Westmoreland, a 16-year councilman seeking re-election to his at-large seat next week, has apologized for the comment, while claiming hear it." Skipper Lee told Westmoreland, "You tell a joke and the next day, it's on the streets of New York City. You don't just speak for yourself. You speak for Houston. We look up to you and we can't look up to a racist."

Westmoreland said the matter has overshadowed other campaign issues and prompted threats against him and his family.

"Any anguish this has caused anyone could not match the anguish I've suffered and my family," he said. "I'm truly sorry for my comments."

He told reporters: "The question of resignation is one I don't think we have to make because we have a vote coming up. With all the publicity this has generated, there's no one going to the polls who won't know what the situation has been."

Most of the speakers criticized not only Westmoreland, but also liberal Mayor Kathy Whitmire and black council members for not speaking out strongly against the slur.

Mrs. Whitmire set a special council session for Friday to discuss a resolution against racist remarks.

"You tell a joke and the next day, it's on the streets of New York City. You don't just speak for yourself. You speak for Houston. We look up to you and we can't look up to a racist." — Protester about remarks made by Houston Councilman Jim Westmoreland to represent our city," said JoAnn Gavin, one of 39 speakers who raised the issue Wednesday. "Racism is not negotiable."

The councilman, Jim Westmoreland, listened intently during the three-hour barrage, leaving once to get a cup of coffee, and later told reporters he would not resign.

Westmoreland had suggested to a reporter Oct. 18 that Houston International Airport be renamed "Nigger International" to appease he actually said "Negro International" in joking about the airport renaming.

He also suggested during the interview that the white crosses erected at the site of fatal traffic accidents caused by drunken drivers be painted black to appease black citizens as well as those against drunken driving.

Speakers who appeared during the regular City Council session weren't laughing.

"We tell a joke and our friends

High-tech toilet

TOKYO — A new high-tech toilet, shown at a housing fair in downtown Tokyo is "intelligent" enough to tell its health-minded users whether they are sick or not. The intelligent toilet, co-developed by three Japanese companies, releases a piece of litmus paper to measure the vital data of the user and display them on a screen. The user can also measure blood pressure and pulse by inserting a finger into a blood pressure device seen on the other side of the toilet. All these high-tech gimmicks, however have nothing to do with the toilet's real function.

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — When 45-year-old Mark Anderson sat down to take the American College Test on Saturday, the nervous high school students around him thought he was a proctor. Then they realized he was one of them. Anderson, an admissions director at Gustavus Adolphus College, took the test so he could understand what students go through trying to get into the school, located in the nearby southern Minnesota town of St. Peter. "I'm done. I'm done. I'm done," Anderson said after finishing the test in four hours. Anderson was easily the oldest test taker at Mankato State University, one of many testing sites around the country. High school students taking the test with him couldn't believe he would want to take the ACT when he didn't have to. "At first, they asked if I was the proctor for the test. Then I got that same look I get all the time: 'What are you doing taking the test?'" But by break time, he said they were all swapping test-taking stories. The ACT measures competency in English, mathematics, reading and scientific reasoning and is used by college admissions officers as one tool for selecting students.

Neglected detectors useless

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Most American homes have smoke detectors, but as many as half of them are useless because the batteries are old, missing or have been ripped out by residents who can't stand the noise, fire officials say. The number of homes in the United States that have detectors has increased during the last decade from 22 percent to 80 percent. "The problem is, we also estimate... that probably as much as 50 percent of those detectors don't work," said Jim Estep, president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Madeline, born 13 weeks premature on June 27, weighed just 280 grams, or about 10 ounces at birth, a fraction of an ounce less than the baby the Guinness Book of World Records claims is the smallest surviving infant.

Crew cut graduates honor chief

ROBBINSDALE, Minn. (AP) — The 31 graduates of the State Patrol's trooper candidate school paid tribute to their retiring chief when they showed up with crew cuts just like his, right down to the last man — and one woman. "We all wanted to give a final salute to the colonel," said Suzann Pederson, the lone woman graduate. "I wasn't going to do it at first, but it had to be all or none." The flat-top farewell to Col. Roger Ledding at Friday's graduation exercises was the idea of drill instructors. "We issued a challenge for all of them to get a crew cut," said Cpl. K.L. Klawiter, an instructor for the patrol's 36th recruit class. "They called my bluff." Ledding, who will become traffic safety program coordinator in the Minnesota Transportation Department in a few weeks, said of his hairstyle: "Oh, I don't think it's going out of style at all. I think it's coming back."

Soviets to build seismic station

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Soviet scientists plan to set up a station near here and another in Blacksburg, Va., next year to monitor earthquakes under an agreement that also will lead to U.S. stations in the Soviet Union.

The U.S. stations will fill a gap in a network run by the U.S. Geological Survey's Albuquerque Seismological Laboratory. The network includes more than 100 stations around the world and is "like a giant telescope looking inside the Earth," said geophysicist Jon Peterson, the lab's former director.

Soviet scientists have had access to U.S. seismic information, but Western scientists have been denied information gathered by the Soviets. Geologists say the exchange will help them to understand earthquakes, study the Earth's core and design seismic networks for monitoring proposed nuclear test bans.

"Even if there were no nuclear weapons in the world we would still like seismic stations in the Soviet Union," said Gregory van der Vink of Incorporated Research Institutions for Seismology in Arlington, Va.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Andrews (3-4, 2-2) at Big Spring (5-2, 4-0)

The 49-0 licking the Andrews Mustangs gave the Big Spring Steers in 1988 is still in Big Spring's mind. What really irritates the Steers even more is that Andrews put its first unit back in late in the game to score on a trick play — adding insult to injury.

Now the shoe is on the other foot — Big Spring has all the horses and Andrews has quite a bit of inexperience.

But Andrews' coach is a veteran of 4-4 wars, knows how to get the most out of his teams, and no doubt will get an emotional game from his troops tonight at Memorial Stadium.

Steers' coach David Thompson doesn't have to get his team emotionally ready for this one — they've been patiently waiting a year. The excitement that has been missing from Big Spring the past few weeks will surface tonight.

The first half will be close as both team will slug it out and play power football. But midway through the third quarter, the Steers' dominance will start to show. Andrews defenders will start getting punished by the hard running of Neal Mayfield, Jermaine Miller and Clay Atkinson. Look for Rance Thompson to sneak in a couple of big-play passes.

The Mustangs will be a weary, beaten group after this one.

BIG SPRING 35, ANDREWS 14

Iraan (6-2, 3-0) at Stanton (6-2, 3-0)

This one's for the district championship. It's almost the same setting as last year, only Stanton had to travel to Iraan. What was supposed to be a close game was a Buffalo rout over the Braves.

Iraan is a better ballclub this year, but the Buffs are just as strong. Same results, a little closer score.

STANTON 24, IRAAN 14

Klondike (4-4, 1-2) at Sands (8-0, 3-0)

The Sands Mustangs are very close to a perfect season, and they're not about to let anything prevent that, not even a wide-open Klondike Cougar offense led by all-everything QB Corbett Foster.

The Mustangs pride themselves in their defense, and they'll find it a special challenge to contain Foster, who has 300-yard offensive games like they were nothing.

Sands won't be able to shut Foster down, but the Mustangs will contain him. Another win for the 'Stangs.

SANDS 28, KLONDIKE 14

Colorado City (5-5, 1-2) at Ballinger (7-1, 2-1)

You can forget about the records in this one, these two teams always engage in a heated battle.

The Bearcats are fresh off an 32-19 win over previously unbeaten Clyde. Meanwhile, the Wolves were dropping a heart-breaking 14-13 win to Wylie, the only team that has beaten Ballinger.

Colorado City will hang tough for three quarters, but Ballinger breakaway threat Jamie Gibbs will do the Wolves in the final quarter.

The Bearcats come away with a hard-earned victory.

BALLINGER 28, COLORADO CITY 16

Borden County (6-1-1, 3-0) at Grady (4-4, 2-1)

This is a do-or-die situation for the Grady Wildcats if they want a return trip to the state playoffs. A win for the Borden County Coyotes would assure them of a state playoff berth.

The game will feature Grady's explosive, well-rounded offense, against a stingy Borden County defense. This one will be a war, but with Jimmy Rios and Brian Bond back in the lineup, the Coyotes have too much muscle for the Wildcats.

No return trip the playoffs Grady.

BORDEN COUNTY 36, GRADY 28

Coahoma (3-5, 1-2) at Wylie (4-4, 3-0)

The Wylie Bulldogs are the hottest team in the district right now. After a stumbling start, the Bulldogs have come on like gang-busters, since an upset win over No. 2 Ballinger.

The Coahoma Bulldogs are playing good ball right now, and they'll give Wylie a tussle, but it won't be enough.

WYLIE 28, COAHOMA 12

Forsan (2-6, 1-2) at Winters (4-4, 1-2)

The Winters Blizzards were a playoff team last year, but they lost 14 lettermen from that team. The Blizzards are no pushovers though.

The Forsan Buffaloes got a much-needed win last week, and the Buffs are better than their record indicates.

Look for Forsan's rushing duo of Charles Newton and Richard Griffin to have another productive night, and the Buffalo defense to come through with another strong game.

In the Upset Special of the Week...

FORSAN 14, WINTERS 7

Water Valley (4-3, 1-1) at Garden City (5-2, 1-1)

The Garden City Bearkats are roaring mad after last week's loss to Rankin. The Water Valley Wildcats bring their Run-and-Shoot offense to test the G-City defense.

The Bearkats are breathing fire and they'll burn the Wildcats.

GARDEN CITY 34, WATER VALLEY 14

Charter member moving on

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — After this season, the heart and soul of the Big Spring Lady Steers cross country team will be gone.

No, she isn't the most talented or most vocal of the group, but Raquel Alviar has been a great asset to the team. Alviar and teammates Mimi Regalado, Yvette Regalado, Erica Franks, Geneva Barraza and Amy Gonzales will be gunning for a state berth when they compete in the regional cross country meet at Lubbock's Mae Simmons Park Saturday.

Alviar, known as Rocky to her friends, has been the foundation of the Lady Steer cross country team for the past four years. She's the lone charter member of the dynasty coach Randy Britton has built with his Lady Steer runners. Alviar is the only person in BSHS history to be a member of district championship teams for four years.

Missing Rocky the most will be coach Britton.

"It would be real nice to have kids like Rocky every year. She's reliable and you don't have to worry about her being there. She's very intelligent, and I've always said the intelligent athletes are the best ones," said Britton.

"She's the prime example of what type athletes that should be in cross country — not a very good athlete, but over the last two or three years she's really developed.

BIG SPRING — Big Spring senior runner Rocky Alviar proudly displays the four district championship trophies the Lady Steers have won in cross country over the past four years. Alviar is the only runner to compete on all four of those teams.

She has fortitude, that keeps her going. She's a person you can count on."

Alviar, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doroteo Alviar, says she began her cross country career as an substitute for physical education class. "It started out as an alternative to PE. I really never liked PE and I didn't want to be in PE," said Rocky.

Rocky's first year in the sport started modestly. She ran in the 17-minute range over a two-mile course. She has gradually improved; she ran a career best of 14:14 at the regional meet last year. Coach Britton says she's only 14 seconds away from making the Big Spring High School Cross Country Hall of Fame.

"After the first year, I didn't want to quit. I figured if I quit, it would just seem like I wanted a letter jacket. When I quit something it makes me feel bad because I know I could have finished."

Alviar's talents don't just quit on the cross country course however; ● Charter member page 2-B

Hawk Classic tips off tonight

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — It's two wins down and three to go for the Howard College Hawks.

The Hawks started the 1989-90 basketball season with a 98-point blow out and a dominating second-game win for a 2-0 start. HC coach Steve Green now wants his team to win both their games in the Domino's Pizza Hawk Classic today and Saturday, as well as a home game Monday night to get his team off to a 5-0 start.

Howard faces the Panhandle State junior varsity at 8 p.m. today in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The classic gets started when Green's brother, Kelly Green, leads his Frank Phillips College team against Ranger Junior College at 6 p.m.

Green expects the Panhandle State team to be a much more different opponent than the St. Edward's University junior varsity, which the Hawks destroyed 136-38 in their season opener. However, the Oklahoma team shouldn't be nearly as competitive as Alvin Junior College, a team the Hawks beat 114-106 three days ago.

The Hawks put in a huge effort against Alvin, at times taking as much as a 30-point lead. Green wants his team to build on that performance.

"Tonight I don't want to drop off in our effort from Wednesday night," he said. "Hopefully it's an opportunity for a lot of kids to get to play."

Green was able to clear his entire bench in the season opener with St. Edward's, allowing coaches to evaluate players three deep. Knowing that almost everyone will get to play should help his team avoid a letdown against Panhandle State, he said.

"We want to try to keep improving from game to game," he said. "We've got a lot of players, and that'll help. A lot of kids feel like they have something to prove."

Green said his team also needs a strong effort against Panhandle State to prepare for Saturday's game with Ranger JC. Frank Phillips College will again get the classic started Saturday with a 6 p.m. game against Panhandle State. HC and Ranger will play at 8 p.m.

Although probably not as good as Alvin, Ranger is also off to a 2-0 start, beating Weatherford Junior College 94-77 in their second game. "That's one reason we want to play well tonight," Green said. "I don't want to start a roller coaster where we play well one night and the next we don't."

"We definitely don't want to get into the situation where we play to the level of our competition."

Howard will need to keep up the level of intensity all season long since it plays in one of the toughest junior college conferences in the country. Odessa Junior College, playing without graduated superstar Larry Johnson, beat Alvin Thursday night — but just by two points. Midland Junior College and South Plains Junior College, however, both notched losses last night.

Against Panhandle State, the Hawks will of course start preseason All-American Terrence Lewis, who scored 41 points against Alvin, as well as monster-rebounder Johnnie McDowell and the quick-handed Greg Christian. Keith Tucker and Carlos Thunn round out the starting five.

Bulls-Cavs kickoff NBA season

By The Associated Press

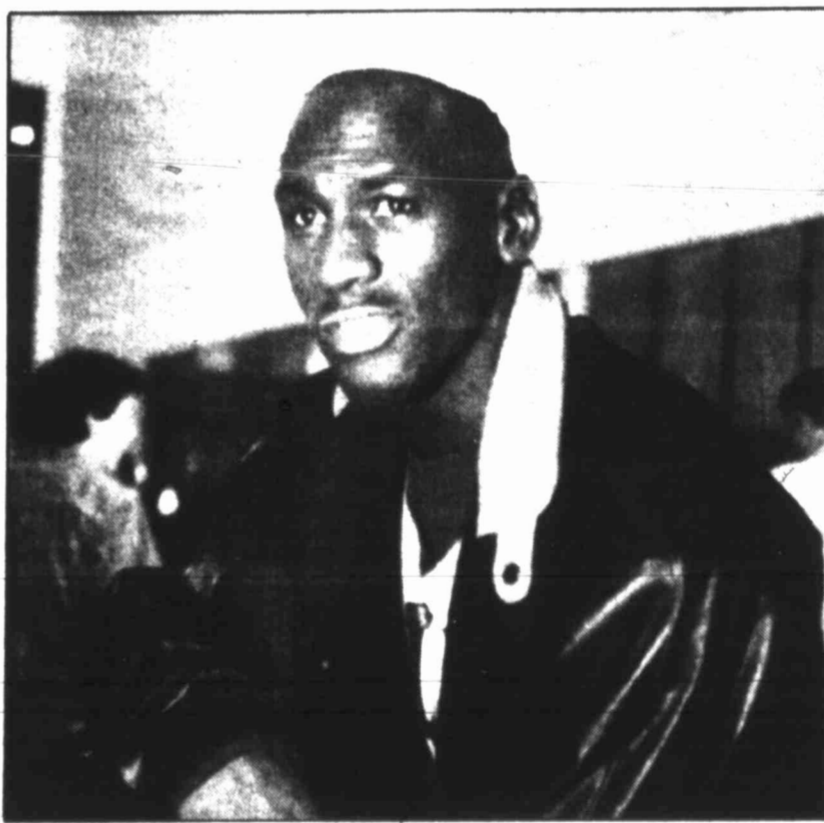

Larry Bird's season as a cheerleader is over. His return as one of the NBA's top players begins tonight.

The Boston Celtics, who didn't clinch the last spot in the playoffs until the final game of the season, were 7-1 in exhibitions as Bird returned after missing all but six games in 1988-89 because of foot and back injuries. Bird struggled, however, leaving question marks about his future as the team prepared for the season opener against Milwaukee.

"I haven't played as much as I'd like," Bird said. "I get going and I come out of the game and I get going again and I come out. I've struggled a lot more in this preseason than I have in any preseason I can remember."

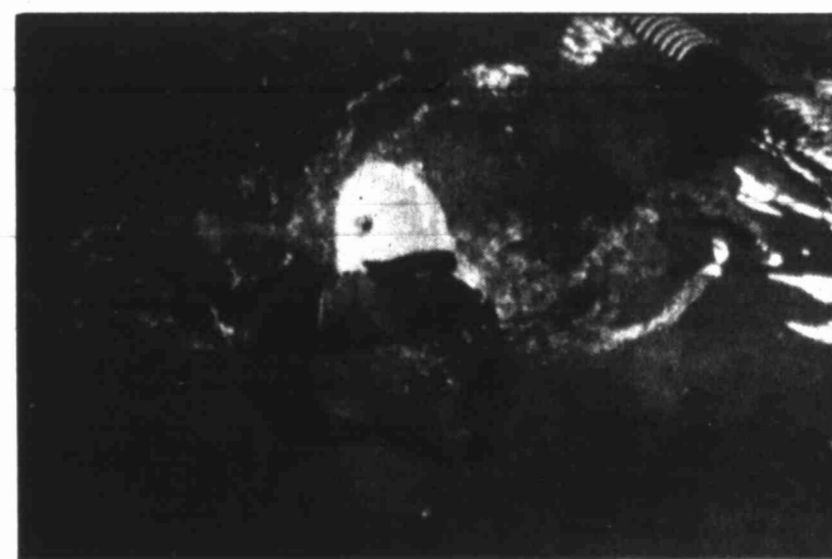

"I'm not getting the minutes I used to get. So it's something I have to adjust to."

The Celtics, who have won their last 10 home openers, meet a Milwaukee team top-heavy with backcourt strength and problems up front. Forward Terry Cummings was traded to San Antonio and forwards Greg Anderson and Larry Krystkowiak are injured, but the Bucks have guards Alvin Robertson, Rickey Pierce and Jay

Heading home

Hawk-Queens easily win season-opener

LEVELLAND — Although they didn't play very well, the Howard College Hawk-Queens made coach Royce Chadwick's debut at Howard a success, defeating the Panhandle junior varsity 67-44 in the opening round of the South Plains Classic here Thursday.

Howard was in control from start to finish, quickly jumping to a 15-point lead, and never being threatened.

"We didn't play that well," said coach Chadwick. "We shot 34 percent from the field. The only thing that saved us was that we got 30 of defensive rebounds. I think we had first game jitters."

"We jumped out on them by 15 and we did a lot of substituting. Everybody played and we lacked about two people from having everybody score."

Howard was paced by the play of freshman guard Kim Robinson. The 5-foot-10 Slaton native came close to pulling off a quadruple-double, scoring 13 points, grabbing 10 rebounds, getting eight assists and nine steals. The only other Howard player in double figures was sophomore post player Shannon Lawson, who had 10 points.

Freshman guard Cindy Williams grabbed 10 rebounds and Lawson chipped in nine. Only three Howard players shot over 50 percent in the game. Ana Carroll was 4-of-8, Lisa Moore was 4-of-6 and Linda Waters was 4-of-7.

The Queens will play Northern Oklahoma tonight at 6.

Scrimmages

CROSSROADS COUNTRY — Area basketball fans will be able to get a sneak preview of some girls teams Monday, when three teams hold scrimmages.

The Big Spring Lady Steers, under new coach George Martin, will hold an inter-squad scrimmage at 6 p.m. in Steer Gym. The players' parents also will be recognized during the scrimmage.

The Lady Steers, who won their third consecutive District 4-4A title last season, will scrimmage again Tuesday when they travel to Jim Ned to take on 2-A power Novice.

Two other teams coming off playoff years, the Coahoma Bulldogettes and the Borden County Lady Coyotes, will tangle in a pre-season scrimmage at 6 p.m. Monday in the Coahoma Elementary Gym.

The Bulldogettes, coached by Truman Meissner, were co-champions of District 7-3A in 1988, and are an early-season pick to return to the playoffs.

Coach Bill May's Lady Coyotes were the champions of District 8-A last season and advanced to the Class A Regional Tournament before bowing out. Texas Basketball Magazine has Borden County ranked 10th in the state in its pre-season poll.

Hole-in-one — Last Friday Peggy Marshall made a hole-in-one at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Marshall aced the 135-yard, par four, fourth hole using a #3 iron. Witnessing the shot was Ina Stewart.

It was the first hole-in-one for Marshall, who's 74-years young.

Reds hire Piniella — Former New York Yankees manager Lou Piniella has accepted a two-year, $350,000-a-year contract to manage the Cincinnati Reds, according to a published report.

The Dayton Daily News, quoting unidentified sources in today's editions, reported that the Reds had hired Piniella, 46, to replace Pete Rose, who was banned from baseball in August.

The newspaper said the team planned to announce the hiring of Piniella during a news conference at Riverfront Stadium featuring Reds majority owner Marge Schott and general manager Bob Quinn. Quinn worked with Piniella in the Yankees' front office.

Piniella, his wife, Anita, and a son, Derrick, arrived at the Dayton International Airport this morning from their New Jersey home. Dayton is about 50 miles north of Cincinnati.

Asked at the airport whether he had accepted the job, he replied: "I can't confirm anything."

Reds spokesman Jon Braude told The Associated Press that the team had no comment on the report, and said Quinn was unavailable.

"As soon as we have something to announce, we will let you know," Braude said.

Sources told the Daily News the Reds have assured Piniella that he can pick his own coaching staff. Tony Perez said Schott told him he still has a job with the Reds and Piniella agreed that Perez will stay as batting coach and first base coach.

Piniella has never been involved with the National League and told friends that his coaches will be National Leaguers, the Daily News reported.

He began his playing career with Baltimore, moved to Cleveland and then Kansas City before playing 11 years with the Yankees. He retired after the 1984 season.

The Tampa, Fla., native was named Yankees manager after the 1985 season, replacing Billy Martin after the latter's fourth term as manager.

In 1986, the Yankees finished second in the American League East under Piniella with a 90-72 record, but fell to fourth in 1987 despite an 89-73 record.

Tech gunning for 'Horns

By The Associated Press

Those giant-killing Texas Tech Red Raiders get another chance to knock off another top 25 team.

Coach Spike Dykes' Raiders, already with victories over Arizona (then No. 20) and Texas A&M (then No. 19), get a shot at Southwest Conference-leading and 22nd-ranked Texas in a 1 p.m. game Saturday at Memorial Stadium, which has been a graveyard for most Texas Tech teams.

Tech hasn't defeated Texas in Austin in 21 years, and the Red Raiders have won there only twice in the 61-year history of the series.

The 5-2 Red Raiders, off to their best start since 1977, will be playing their first road game in a month. Both teams were idle last week.

Texas has a big payback to the Raiders.

Tech shocked the Longhorns with the greatest fourth quarter comeback in the school's history en route to a 33-32 victory in Lubbock last year. No previous Raiders team had ever won after trailing by as many as 17 points in the final quarter.

"What a time to catch them," Dykes said. "(Quarterback) Peter Gardner has given them a spark. I'm surprised they haven't appointed (coach) David McWilliams to some office down there.

"Their defense is tough to move the ball on and they have an excellent kicking game. It's tough enough to play them in Austin without them being the undefeated conference leader."

Texas, 4-2 overall, is 3-0 in the SWC and has had its own success against top 25 competition.

Arkansas was undefeated and ranked No. 7 before Texas won at Fayetteville, 24-20, on Oct. 21. That came one week after Texas stunned then-No. 15 Oklahoma, 28-24, in Dallas.

The Longhorns were a 7 1/2-point favorite over Tech, which has lost to Baylor and Arkansas.

In other games Saturday, No. 20 Texas A&M was a 45-point favorite over Southern Methodist in Kyle Stadium at 2 p.m., 11th-ranked Arkansas was a 21-point pick over Rice in Houston in a noon Raycom TV game.

she's also quite a scholar. She's been in the honor society since junior high and now carries a hefty 3.9 GPA, taking mostly honors courses. She easily ranks in the top 10, and possibly the top five, in her class.

So, not only does she have to deal with training twice daily for cross country, she also has to find time to study for classes like calculus, physics and English.

Rocky's typical day begins with early morning cross country training by running in the YMCA swimming pool. Then there's classes and afternoon cross country training, which is 4-5 miles of roadwork.

Eastland Mavericks forfeit four games

EASTLAND (AP) — The Eastland Mavericks, unbeaten and ranked fourth in The Associated Press poll of Class 2A football teams, have had to forfeit four games because they used an ineligible player.

The Mavericks were 8-0 this season and 3-0 in District 8-2A before the forfeits. The forfeits mathematically eliminate them from the playoffs.

De Leon Superintendent Dwain Bills, chairman of the district executive committee said Thursday the student dropped out of Eastland High School last spring to join the Army.

The student, a backup lineman who was not named, earned his general equivalency diploma (GED) last June, but was told he needed to be a high school graduate to join the Army. So he returned to school to get his diploma and went out for football.

"He'd had a lot of problems in the past, so we thought we were doing him a favor letting him play football," Eastland coach Ron Sanderson said.

"We called the UIL to make sure on his eligibility because he sat out last semester," Sanderson said. "After the first six weeks, we called again and double checked."

But they didn't ask if he had a GED. Under University Interscholastic League rules, a player who has any kind of diploma or who has graduated from any institution is ruled ineligible.

"The Army tells him you can't get in unless you're a high school graduate, and you can't get into a major college unless you're a high school graduate," Sanderson said. "So here's these people saying he's not a high school graduate, and now the UIL is telling him he is a high school graduate."

The committee announced the forfeits following a meeting Thursday.

"It was a very hard decision," Bills said. "We're all friends, and we live close to each other out here. Eastland has the best ball club in the district and probably in West Texas."

"It doesn't seem fair. It wasn't something they knowingly did," Bills said. "It could happen to any of us. We never ask a kid, 'Have you taken a GED?'"

Sanderson said it is possible that Eastland may file suit against the UIL, the governing body for high school competition.

"We have lawyers working on the case," he said. "It isn't fair at all. If you intentionally violate a rule, you get the same penalty as if you break a rule unintentionally."

Friday night — not last year. Last year is over with," he said.

Controversy already is dogging the Hawks.

Kevin Willis, who missed last season with a broken foot after starting at forward the previous year, blasted Fratello for naming Jon Koncak as a starter ahead of Willis. Koncak, averaging 6.2 points for his career, signed a six-year, $13.2 million contract during the offseason.

"The people in this town got cheated last year," Willis said. "They deserve to see me and Moses Malone and Dominique Wilkins out there" as the Hawks' front line.

"Friday night and every game after that, I'm going out to show them I should be the starter," Willis said. "I have to be the starter. If I'm not the starter, ain't no way this team can be as good as it should be. That's just a fact."

Atlanta won 52 games last season before being eliminated in the first round by the Bucks, whom Atlanta had beaten six straight during the regular season.

The disappointing loss caused some players to vent their frustration against Coach Mike Fratello, who now refuses to discuss last season.

"Last year is behind us," Fratello said. "Let's deal with this year. What do we accomplish by dealing with last year?"

"We have this year's team. This is what we're getting ready for —

Sub-varsity roundup

Andrews 30, Big Spring JV 13

ANDREWS — The Big Spring Steers junior varsity saw its record fall to 4-3 as it dropped a decision to the Andrews Mustangs here Thursday night.

Big Spring trailed 22-12 at the half. The Steers scored in the first quarter on a 60-yard run by fullback Romon Ortega. Gerald Cobos booted the extra point.

Big Spring's final TD came in the second quarter, when Cobos scored on a 25-yard run.

Big Spring coaches credited defensive ends Mike Ramirez and Rigo Moran with having good games. Coaches also praised the play of the offensive line, as well as Ortega and tailback Johnny Lozano.

Big Spring will host Snyder at Memorial Stadium at 6 p.m.

Andrews 37, Big Spring Freshmen 24

BIG SPRING — The freshmen Steers had their record drop to 5-3 as they were defeated by Andrews.

Big Spring scored in the first quarter on a 10-yard run by tailback Wayne McGee. Andrews led 19-12 at the half when Big Spring quarterback Clay Klatt snuck in from the one.

Big Spring scored again in the third quarter, on a 80-yard pass from Klatt to McGee.

Big Spring's final score came on 30-yard dash by wingback Gary Green.

Big Spring coaches said that Klatt, McGee, Tim Pearson and Marcus Yanez, all played well offensively. Defensively Richey Hain, Dwayne Edmonds and T.L. Rodgers played good games.

Big Spring will play in Snyder Thursday at 5:30.

Runnels A 28, Andrews 26

ANDREWS — Runnels knocked Andrews from the unbeaten ranks as they edged Andrews here Thursday night.

Runnels scored first on a 15-yard dive by Josh Jones. Andrews soon tied the game at 6-6. Big Spring came back on a three-yard run by David Akin, and Andrews tied the game at 12-12.

With 47 seconds left in the first half, Runnels scored on a 25-yard screen pass from Ricky Gonzales to Louis Jackson. Akin ran in the two-point conversion. Andrews came back and scored on a 65-yard pass play with 11 seconds remaining. Runnels led 20-18 at the half.

Runnels' final score came in the third quarter, on a 40-yard pass from Gonzales to Jackson. Todd parish ran in the two-point conversion, giving Runnels the win.

Runnels coaches said that Steven Gallagher, Brandon Hamblin, Jeremy Smith, Keith Martin and Jimmy Johnson played well defensively. Offensively, Raymond Roberts, Rodney Reeves, Ritchie Thompson, Chris Cruz and Mike Oliva played well.

Runnels A is now 4-1 for the season. The Yearlings play Snyder in Snyder Thursday at 6 p.m.

Runnels B 28, Andrews 12

ANDREWS — The Runnels B team ran its record to 4-2 by trouncing Andrews Thursday night.

Robert Lopez keyed the win, running the opening kickoff back 70 yards for a score, and also scoring on runs of 85 and 62 yards.

Justin Taylor caught a 12-yard pass from Toby McQueary for the final score. Chad Webb and Brian Scott ran in two-point conversions.

Top offensive players for Runnels B were Lopez, McQueary, Jason Spears and Hedley Bailey. Top defensive performers were Read White, Louis Bustmante, Francisco Ramirez, John Lee and Denny Wanner.

Goliad A 20, Andrews 0

The Goliad Mavericks rode the rushing of twin brothers Donald and Michael Vanderbilt and a stingy defense to a 20-0 blanking of Andrews' seventh-graders Thursday afternoon.

When I was a freshman, I didn't know what to expect. I didn't realize how important it was to be winning. Cross country helped me mature, it gave me self-discipline," she said.

"Now I know how important winning is and so do my teammates. I'll have lots of good memories. All the good times we had at the meets, the hard work and how we helped one another through the bad times, and how we finally pulled through at the end."

Then it's home to study.

"It gets kind of hard at times because I'm really tired when I get home. Sometimes I stay up kind of late studying. But it's something I have to put my mind to," she said.

Rocky has already put her mind to attending college. Right now she's leaning toward Notre Dame, where sister Maria is a sophomore.

"I'm kind of stuck between two majors, education and architecture. I'm not positive which college, but I might be going to Notre Dame, not because my sister goes there, but because it might be the best place for me."

But right now, Rocky is concentrating on doing well at the regional meet Saturday. She says she has learned a lot from cross country during her four-year stint.

Reader questions occult and Satanism activities

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: When I was in high school I got involved in a group that was very interested in the occult — witchcraft, black magic, spiritism, astrology, even Satan worship. Later I drifted away from it, but as I look back I almost can't believe I became involved in such things. Why do people get interested in them, do you think? — B.W.

Billy Graham

DEAR B.W.: First of all I'm very thankful you did not continue your involvement in this kind of activity. Almost every day I receive letters from people who have become deeply involved in the occult (or from concerned members of their family). Without exception, they have found it has trapped them in things that are very harmful, and very difficult to break away from. Why do people become involved in such things? Some people do it partly out of curiosity at first (much as some people take their first drink or have their first experience with drugs) — and I suspect that was part of your motivation. But there is a deeper, more serious reason why many people become involved in occult practices — and that is because they are searching for an answer to the spiritual emptiness they feel inside. You see, we were made to have a personal relationship with God, and as long as we are away from him our hearts are empty and our lives are incomplete. Only Christ can fill our hearts and give us lasting joy and peace, because only he can take away our sins and unite us to God. "For Christ died for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God" (1 Peter 3:18). Don't turn your back on God, but turn to Christ and discover the joy and peace and purpose he alone can give.

LDS credited for abortion rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints should take some credit for Utah having the nation's highest adoption rate and lowest abortion rate, according to the head of the National Committee for Adoption.

"Not only do the Mormons place a strong emphasis on family values, but the state of Utah has a substantial number of very good, professional social service agencies which are operated by the church and whose services include adoptions," William Pierce said in an interview with a church publication.

GIVE THANKS TO GOD FOR THE LIBERTY IN OUR LAND

Through history, man's liberty was sought in every land. They set their sights on human rights That all of us demand. We have today the right to say The words that we profess, Like those you'll read and then concede As freedom of the press. To meet with friends, it all depends On vigil we maintain. For while we're free, we'll never be Required to explain. And any way we choose to pray, We have that guarantee; So thank the Lord for this reward, And keep our nation free.

Lunch, which will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., includes chicken spaghetti, vegetable salad, French bread, apple crisp and drinks. Cost is $3.75 for adults; $2 for children; and $4 for carry out and deliveries.

Also to be featured are hand-crafted items, baked goods, canned goods, Christmas decorations, a White Elephant table and plants.

The Christian Youth Fellowship fall rally, titled "Come As You Are," is set for Nov. 17-19. Costume contest winners at the recent Family Fellowship were: First place — Blake Alderton as the California raisin; second place — Benjamin Chetty as the little red devil; third place — Mildred Vaughn and Patsy Hodel as the football girls. Scariest costume winners were: First place — Brian Huff as the grim reaper; second place — Mildred McFall as the witch; third place — Freddie, Brandon Johnson.

The 1990 general board members include Dub Martin, Dennis Warrington, Wally Slate, Jerry Avery, Ron Alderton, Shirley Shroyer, Doyle Vaughn, Jimmy Johnson, Randy Earnst, John Leubner, Bob Simpson, Amy Martin, Marae Brooks, Neal Ervin, Sonny Shroyer, Cotton Taylor, Martha Posa, Johnnie Lou Avery, Freda Hoover, Jackie Simpson, Virginia Martin and all new executive officers and departmental chairpersons.

Are you going to the Tech Red Raider/TCU Hornfrogs game on Nov. 11? If so, you are invited to a Mexican buffet at First Christian Church, Broadway at Avenue X, Lubbock, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Donations will be taken and will be sent to earthquake and hurricane disaster relief through Disciples' Week of Compassion. There will be free parking for the game; entertainment will be provided by singer/guitarist Pam Paxton. To make reservations, please call Jan at 806-763-1995 by Nov. 8.

Singles' study

The first session in a study for single persons, titled "God's Will: Mine or Thine?" will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. at First United Methodist Church. Later sessions will be conducted in homes of group members, and will be announced weekly. All singles are invited to attend.

The six-week course will explore the theological perspective surrounding man's centuries-old ideas of a supreme being, a master planner, a will that acts in history and individuals, at time seeming to support, at other times overriding, man's effort to detour this unseen will.

Men's and women's groups will meet from 7 to 8 p.m. each Monday night through Dec. 4 for study and discussion. A get-acquainted time will follow at member's homes and in local establishments.

Teachers will be Jack Abend-schan, Methodist minister and spiritual director of the Hi-Sky Emmaus community, Midland; and Jackie Henry, educator and director of the Personal Achievement Center, a federal counseling and educational program in Big Spring.

To register or for additional information, please call Bryan Fink at 267-6394.

Missionary work

Presbytery of First Presbyterian Church is again offering an educational/mission/work trip to Costa Rica Jan. 26 through Feb. 7. The group of approximately 15 will work with the Guaymi Indian people near the Panama border on a construction project at their settlement. Applications will be accepted until Nov. 15. Anyone interested is invited to apply. Previous members who have been on the adventure are Tom Koger, Claudie Patterson, Francis Armstrong and Philip Koger.

Chance for change

Prison chaplain fighting vicious circle

By RICH HARRIS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Prison is a mean and ugly place. Life is defined by roll call and steel bars, and, as singer James Taylor put it, time is measured by "a clock with no hands."

But for Baptist preacher Gary Sims, the Ohio director for Prison Fellowship Ministries, the state's nine juvenile and 21 adult prisons are fertile ground.

"If you look for bad, you find bad," said Sims, 35, who prefers the title chaplain to reverend. "I think Mother Teresa was asked, 'Moher Teresa, why are you still in the streets?' ... and she said, 'When I see people on the street, I see Christ.'"

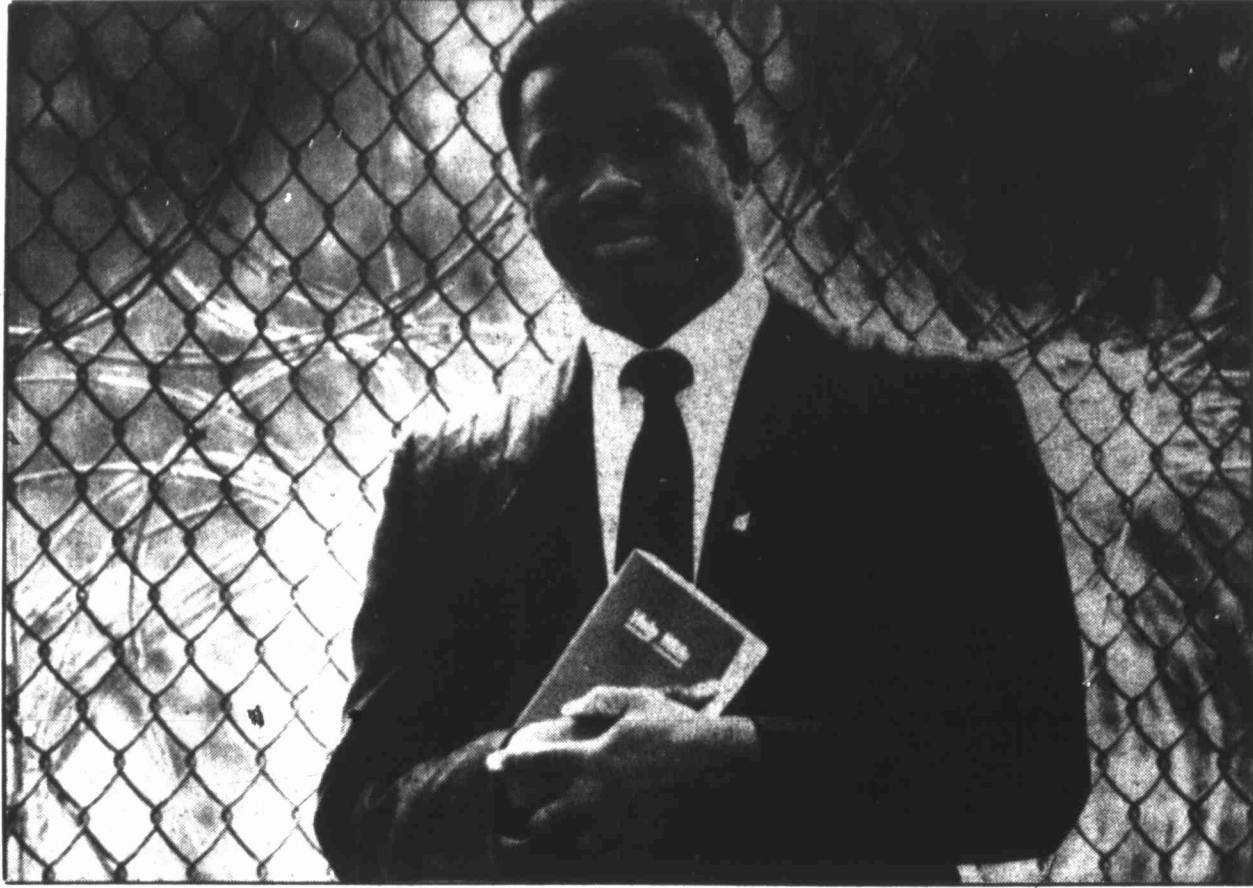

"When I look," Sims said, "I see Christ in those people — regardless if that person's in for rape, murder, whatever the situation may be. I think that there is a seed in every person that demonstrates the love of God. And that person has the potential of being changed. I'm not saying that he will change, that he will choose to change, but there is always that possibility."

Sims, an intense and quiet man, is no naive do-gooder. He knows that three of every four inmates he sees likely will do time again, that drugs, poverty, poor education and despair create a vicious cycle that few can break.

"It's unrealistic to think that the ratio of your having an effect would be 85 percent. Maybe 2 or 3 (percent). And sometimes you may not see a person make any positive change in maybe three years. But you're planting seeds. And someone will come along and water that seed," he said.

Sims came to Ohio's prisons in a roundabout manner. After obtaining a master's degree in education and special education from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh and spending several years teaching school, his call to the ministry took him to the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, and later back to Duquesne. He planned to become a hospital chaplain.

He put in a year's internship in clinical pastoral education but couldn't find a hospital job. "That opened this door here, to be a chaplain at the Orient (Ohio) Correctional Institution," he said.

After a year as a state-paid chaplain at Orient and 2½ years at the Ohio Correctional Reception Center, Sims on July 31 was named to head the Ohio office of the privately financed Prison Fellowship Ministries. The interdenominational program was founded by Watergate figure Charles W. Colson Jr. in 1976 and is now active in 550 federal and state institutions.

"For lack of a better term, one has to be bilingual," Sims said. "I say bilingual in the sense that it is a different culture, it is a different world. It is just like going into an area of missionary work. People go into different countries — South America, the Middle East, Africa — yet there's missionary work right here in America."

The work, with its 14-hour days, sob stories that must be taken with a grain of salt and burden of bearing additional bad news to people whose lives are bounded by bars, is hard.

Sims said that to the best of his knowledge, no state or federal money is spent on his program, which has a 1990 budget of $120,000 and is financed largely through private donations. He plans to open a Cleveland regional office, then regional offices for each corner of the state and in Columbus.

Sims said he had never been imprisoned, but he is not a stranger to the personal effects of crime. His home has been burglarized, his truck stolen and someone tried to break into his car, he said.

"You definitely feel violated, you feel angry, and I think as a parent you think more of your family's safety than anything," he said.

But he is not interested in seeing the culprits imprisoned simply for the sake of punishment.

"I think that the principle of Prison Fellowship is restorative justice. Not that the person go to jail and the state gets paid, but as a victim I get paid," he said.

"Let that person do some community work ... so that the person can understand, hey, you've offended someone, you've violated someone, and the reason why you're doing this type of work" is to pay a debt to society in a meaningful way.

Sims described his job as attacking the vicious circle of prison, parole and back to prison in a manner consistent with what he believes God planned.

"Whatever he chooses for me to do, I will do it," Sims said. "Gary didn't want to be in prison ministry; I wanted to be a hospital chaplain. But God said: 'No, that's not where I want you now. This is where I've called you to be.'"

Church briefs

Meet the pastor

The Rev. Reynaldo Bennett, pastor of Temple La Biblia Abierta, invites the public to visit the church, which is located at 410 N.E. 10th St.

REV. BENNETT

Bennett has pastored the local church for 1½ years, was evangelist and co-pastor of Temple La Biblia Abierta, Midland, for two years; and pastored Midland youth for two years.

In 1978, according to a news release, he made a personal commitment to serve the Lord. He attended various conferences and seminars to help advance his knowledge of the ministry.

During this time, Bennett was called to serve as co-pastor and to act as pastor for the youth in Midland, under the direction of the Rev. Gilbert Cano. In May 1988, Temple La Biblia Abierta extended its branches by opening its second church here. Bennett and his wife Anita, and their three children made Big Spring their home in June 1988.

Services are as follows:
• Sunday — Bible study at 10 a.m., and worship service at 6 p.m.

• Wednesday — Worship service at 7 p.m.
• Thursday — Prayer meeting at 7 p.m.

If you would like a personal visit at your home, please call the pastor at 267-9508.

Presbyterian news

First Presbyterian Church, Eighth and Runnels streets, will conduct its annual all-church dinner Nov. 8 at 6:30 p.m. in the Cactus Room at Howard College. Speaker will be Marj Carpenter, director of the Presbyterian News Service and a former local church elder. Special musical entertainment will be provided.

Public urged to view film

BIG SPRING — Area Catholic ministers are urging the public to view the movie "Romero," which will be shown Nov. 10 at a local theater.

According to a news release, the film is about martyred archbishop of San Salvador, Oscar Romero.

It's the first major feature film ever made and financed under official Roman Catholic auspices, the release stated. Father Ellwood E. Kieser, a Paulist priest and veteran TV producer, worked for seven years to get this film made, raising its $3.5 million budget from various Catholic sources.

But the movie's message is not likely to delight the more conservative forces within the church. In unmistakable terms it backs Archbishop Romero's synthesis of orthodox Christian doctrine and political radicalism that earned his death at the hands of El Salvador's right-wing death squads in 1980.

"Romero" doesn't have the Hollywood panache and melodramatic drives of films like "Oliver Stone's 'Salvador'" and Roger Spottiswoode's "Under Fire," the release stated.

"This is a great story. The reality is far more dramatic than any Hollywood embellishments, and to their credit 'Romero's' makers try to stick to that reality."

The screenplay, by John Sacret Young, is faithful to the essence of Romero's story. Australian director John Dugan, making his first American movie, doesn't stint on the tortures and massacres that marked the right-wing regimes opposed by Romero.

The radical truth of this message makes "Romero" a gospel for our time, beyond the pizzazz of "Salvador" or "Under Fire."

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Paul Newman has donated $250,000 and 10,000 pounds of his spaghetti sauce to victims of the Bay area earthquake, the Daily News reported.

Newman, the actor's daughter, presented the money to the American Red Cross, the newspaper said.

Newman's daughter is president of Newman's Own Inc., which makes spaghetti sauce, popcorn, salad dressings and lemonade, and she gave the sauce to Operation California, set up by the entertainment industry to help quake victims.

Another celebrity helping quake victims is singer Frank Sinatra. He and the owner of a San Carlos, Calif., theater where he will perform said they will donate $3 per ticket for earthquake relief.

"The San Francisco-Oakland area is up and running again and I am proud to participate in the communitywide effort to rebuild and move on," Sinatra said Wednesday in Rancho Mirage, Calif. "I hope others will join us as well."

Jim Burney, owner of the Circle Star theater, said the money will go to the Red Cross relief fund.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Veteran newscaster Dorothy Fuldheim died today of complications from a stroke at age 96.

Ms. Fuldheim began her television career when she was 54 in 1947 with WEWS-TV and worked there nearly 37 years.

Prior to her television career, Fuldheim was the first woman news commentator on the ABC radio network.

Albert Einstein, Adolf Hitler and all U.S. presidents from Franklin Roosevelt to Ronald Reagan were among the people Fuldheim interviewed during her career.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1989

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: humorist Will Rogers, actors Art Carney and Martin Balsam, newscaster Walter Cronkite, "M*A*S*H" actress Loretta Swit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): An excellent weekend to renew old acquaintances and contact former associates. Your organizational ability gives you the edge over the competition. Make best possible use of your talents. Assist a charity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Try not to wear emotions on your sleeve today. A difficult relative may try to provoke a quarrel. Evening is best time for a romantic interlude. Show tenderness.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you doubt your abilities, it will be harder to get results. Self-assurance can be a priceless asset. Make an effort to keep friends and associates on your side.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A platonic relationship may be more rewarding than a romantic alliance. If you must work, discourage interruptions. Make priorities clear to your loved ones. Children follow their parents' example.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): An ideal weekend to socialize with those who share your interests. New financial information is available. Let reason guide choice of business associates. Join forces with someone whose talents compliment yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Do not allow others to impose on you. Relax at home if you prefer. Some influential is anxious to back your pet project. Get promises in writing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A joyous heart spreads cheer. Share good fortune with those in need of encouragement. Creative projects add zest to life. A family reunion could be the highlight of your weekend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tidings from afar could make this a special day. Choose friends with greater care. Someone who covets your mate or home may not prove loyal. Get together less frequently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take care of errands and chores first thing this morning. Something you worry about will never happen. Put more fun into family gatherings. A telephone call will brighten your evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The unexpected happens. Those who have resisted marriage up until now may finally say yes. Hide disappointment if a loved one lets you down. You may not have all the facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The emphasis today is domestic; think about what you can do to enhance your surroundings. Keep the family united. A tendency to sound rash or overly emotional could antagonize loved ones.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A happy message or announcement brightens the morning. Share news with those who will be pleased for you. Romantic partner shows new understanding. Get together with old friends and neighbors tonight.
