Sensible marriage

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) Steve and Marie Brodwolf-say there's nothing fancy to the secret of their 75-yearmarriage, but both agree that common sense sure helps.

"We respect the other's ideas," said Marie Brodwolf, 96. 'We never tried to change each other. We're both very set in our ways.'

The couple, who celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary Saturday, held hands while explaining they owe their marriage to trying not to go to bed

"If we disagree terribly, we'd put it on hold until breakfast and talk it out," said Mrs. Brodwolf. The Brodwolfs raised one daughter, who died last year at the age of 66. They have three grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and one greatgreat-granddaughter.

The couple told their story, finishing each other's sentences, with tenderness and "We were admiring of each other," said Mrs. Brodwolf. 'We were trusting, loving, "...and I tried to kill her four times," joked her 98-year-old husband. "He thinks I talk too much."

"Oh, she does." Even early gifts are remembered. "The first present I bought for her was some winter underwear," he said.

"You know why?" asked his "Because it was cold," he said. "She was mad." "He was only trying to take care of me.

Nisco Christmas Paradise provided the backdrop when Neil Scott, 20, and Mary McKinniss, 31, said their vows.

The two had been planning to get married at the courthouse by a justice of the peace, but the store's glittering Christmas display impressed them two weeks ago and gave them an

"We just walked around here and thought it was pretty, and I said this would be a nice place to have our wedding," Scott said. "And Mary said OK."

The store's owners agreed to the idea, but the business remained open during Friday's ceremony.

Surrounded by 27 trimmed trees and 10 guests, a minister from Harvester Missionary Church pronounced Scott and McKinniss husband and wife.

Friends and relatives thought the location was a bit odd, yet "At first I said, 'You've got to

Berlin Wall sells

CHICAGO (AP) — The Berlin Wall is tumbling down, and some of the pieces are apparently landing overseas in the United States.

More than 11 tons of debris reputed to be chunks from the wall arrived Sunday at O'Hare International Airport aboard an American Airlines flight from Hamburg, West Germany.

Airline spokesman Tom Stack said the cargo, labeled "Pieces of the Berlin Wall," was destined for Concord Express, an Elk Grove Village shipping firm, but he did not know the buyer.

"We guess it'll be sold as souvenirs," said airline supervisor Konstantin Prause. "Maybe as paperweights or key tags.

Calls to Concord Express went unanswered early Monday.

Customs officials said the cargo was being kept at a customs facility.

A firm called B&P Imports in Munster, Ind., is using a tollfree telephone number to take orders for wall chunks, even though it has already sold all 100 pounds of debris it had.

Borden County may allow liquor sales

Private prison hits snag

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

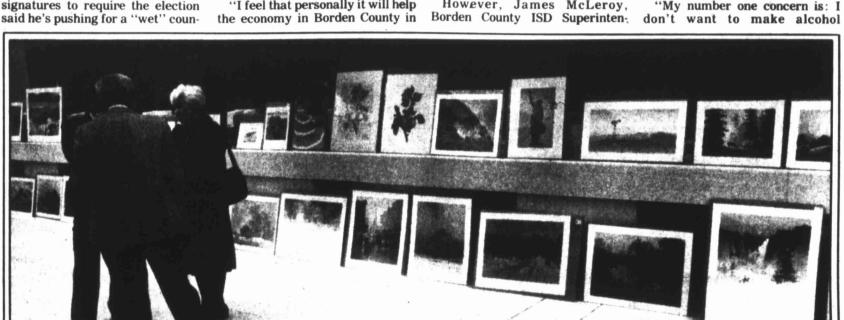

BIG SPRING - Plans to have a private prison facility in operation in Howard County by May 1990 may have to be delayed, a private prison official said today. The setback could come because the State Attorney General's Office, in a letter dated Nov. 3, ruled the project should be let on bids, which would make the process more time consuming, said Frank Powell, chief executive officer for Private Prisons of America Limited.

"If it does anything it will just set us back a little," Powell said. The issue may be resolved through passage of a piece of legislation being proposed in the next special meeting of the Legislature, he said. Powell added, "And if we have to do it on bids, we'll do it on bids." The private prison business is interested in operating a facility in Howard County in either case, he said.

County and PPAL officials had believed when they approved a tenative contract in late August it would allow them to beat a state mandated cut-off deadline requiring the project to be let on bids. Commissioners and PPAL officials signed the tenative contract Aug. 24 in a specially meeting of the PRISON page 2-A

Superconductor won't leave state

By JENNIFER DIXON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Sen. Phil Gramm says it's "absurd" to suggest a potential engineering design change could reopen the decision on where to build the $5.9 billion superconducting super collider. The Washington Post, quoting unnamed U.S. officials and independent scientists, said however that the change could result in a smaller, less powerful collider that would be unsuitable for its chosen Ellis County site.

"There is absolutely no basis for this assertion and no reason to reopen the site selection process," according to the Texas Office of State-Federal Relations.

Rep. Joe Barton, a Republican whose district includes the SSC site, said any speculation of moving the collider is "fairy tale thinking on somebody's part." Congress recently approved the first $225 million to build the collider over an eight-year period. The site around Waxahachie, south of Dallas, was chosen in November 1988 after a lengthy and costly selection process involving many

'There has never been a state-ofthe-art, cutting edge project that has not had some design changes,' Gramm said in an interview Sunday. "This one is no exception. To suggest this modification might reopen the site selection is absurd and will not happen.'

Gramm, R-Texas, said he has known for about two weeks a potential existed for a major design change as scientists moved from the conceptual design to the engineering design of the collider.

The Texas Office of State-Federal Relations also said any technical adjustments "have no bearing on the quality of the Ellis COLLIDER page 2-A

Police solve seven armed robberies

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — The arrests of three men and the conviction of a fourth on armed robbery charges has, according to the Big Spring Police Department, cleared four recent armed robberies in the city.

In a news report released Saturday, Detective Fred Schroyer said a police department investigation has resulted in four men being arrested and charged with seven aggravated robberies, including two in Midland and one in Odessa.

"The Big Spring Police Department has conducted a dilligent ongoing investigation of these firstdegree felony offenses in an effort to solve these crimes." he said. "A great deal of importance was placed on this investigation due to the high potential for injury of death to the victim."

Schroyer said Kevin Wayne Allen, no age given, Big Spring, was convicted in 118th District Court for the Oct. 24 aggravated robbery of the Seven-11 at 2301 Wasson Road. Allen was sentenced to 12 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, he said. Sgt. Terry Chamness said today that two men were expected to appear in 118th District Court today to face charges for the Nov. 2 aggravated robbery of the same Seven-11. Chamness said police expect Martin Rios, 18, Big Spring, and Carmen Viasana, 26, Big Spring, to plead guilty to the charge.

In the release, Schroyer said a • ROBBERIES page 2-A Coffee said county and PPAL of-ly Saturday and agreed reluctantly to support repeal.

But on Sunday, Bentsen said that Senate concession had served as a "shock treatment" for some House members and set in motion what he concluded was a new movement toward compromise.

Repeal of the law, which was enacted with strong bipartisan support last year, would leave most of the nation's 32 million retirees with little or no protection against being wiped out financially by a serious

The first major part of the Medicare-based program, covering all but the first $560 of this year's hospital bills, went into effect Jan. 1. Protection for all but the first $1,370 of doctors' bills is due to take effect next Jan. 1, 1990. Coverage for prescription drugs would follow in 1991.

Congress is having second thoughts about the program because of loud complaints from retirees who already have some kind of catastrophic insurance and from some of those with higher incomes, who are having to pay an income surtax of up to $800 a year. Only about 40 percent of retirees pay any surtax and about 6 percent were required to pay the maximum $800 this year.

Congress nearing an agreement on budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said today that they were within striking distance of agreement on a bill reducing the budget deficit, one of the major issues lawmakers must resolve before adjourning for the year.

Legislators meeting in private late Sunday and early today made progress in resolving their dispute over the amount of savings in the package, members of both parties said.

Estimates of the deficit cuts it contained ranged between $13 billion and $17 billion, but lawmakers said they believed their differences were bridgeable. "Things have developed in the last few hours that give me confidence that we'll reach agreement today," House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., told reporters.

"We're getting down toward the end, I think," said Rep. Bill Frenzel of Minnesota, ranking Republican on the House Budget Committee.

Before they can end their 1989 session — which they hope to do this week — lawmakers will have to decide how far they will go in eliminating Medicare benefits for long-term illnesses. Work on that issue was continuing with no indications of progress.

The House today approved 310-107 a new version of the $14.6 billion foreign aid bill that President Bush vetoed Sunday.

Lawmakers removed money for a United Nations agency that Bush claimed financed forced abortions in China. Liberals also came out on the short end of a 215-194 vote that would have clamped restrictions on U.S. aid to violence-torn El Salvador. The bill now moves to the Senate.

House-Senate bargainers renewed their effort to decide how to roll back the 1988 catastrophic health care law. The legislation provides coverage to elderly patients with long-term medical problems that otherwise could lead to financial

When enacted, the measure had bipartisan and popular support. But well-organized lobbying by seniors objecting to the surtaxes they must pay to finance the program - reaching $800 this year for the most well-to-do - has convinced lawmakers to undo the program.

Canon said even though there is no sales tax, he would still be paying ad valorom taxes to the county and school district for the total value of the property.

County tax rates are 46 cents per $100 valuation for the school district and 24 cents per $100 valuation for the county, according to a deputy tax collector with the county tax office.

"At that rate in four to five years we might pay for the expense of holding the election to sell liquor in Borden County," McLeroy said. County Clerk Dorothy Browne said the election will cost from $2,000 to $3,000. Absentee balloting will be from

Not guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal judge today acquitted a Texas company and two of its top executives of all charges in a Postal Service procurement scandal.

U.S. District Judge George Revercomb said there was "a complete lack of evidence" that the defendants knew that a consultant they had hired was paying off Peter Voss, the vice chairman of the postal board of Recognition Equipment Inc. of Dallas, William Moore and Robert Reedy were accused of conspiring with Voss, consultant John Gnau and others to illegal ly obtain a $400 million contract to build mail-sorting equipment.

Revercomb, who heard the trial without a jury, acquitted the company, Moore and Reedy of conspiracy, theft, receiving stolen property, mail fraud and wire fraud

At Voss's urging, REI in 1985 hired Gnau, who then made payments to Voss. Gnau and Voss eventually pleaded guilty in the scheme and served prison

The judge said the evidence falls far short of suggesting that the selection process for Casey was "tantamount to taking over" the personnel process at the top of the Postal Service.

Death probed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) Sheriff's investigators today probed the death of a 19-year-old woman shot in what authorities described as a slaying linked to the Skinheads and Psychos

A 16-year-old girl was arrested Sunday afternoon in connection with the killing earlier Sunday of Lori Ann Forrest, who apparently died of a single gunshot wound to the head about 12:30 a.m., officials said.

"It is gang related," said Deputy Chief Jim De Lesdernier of the Bexar County Sheriff's Department criminal investigation division. The gangs allegedly involved are known as the Skinheads and the Psychos, he

Ms. Forrest was fatally shot after leaving a party attended by Skinheads members, authorities said. Her body was found in a neighbor's yard across from where the party was given in northwest Bexar

"She had a lot of friends of all olors and all races " said the victim's mother, Ann Zamora. 'She went to church all the time.

Ms. Zamora said several of daughter's friends were Skinheads but said her daughter did not belong to the group. But De Lesdernier said Ms. Forrest had been in the Skinheads:

Skinheads are commonly known as white supremacists who lean toward Nazi ideals.

Texas lawmakers take full advantage of perks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress gave up some "perks" in the pay raise package passed over the weekend — like honoraria for speeches and using their campaign chests for their retirement - but there are other advantages of office that have survived challenges, and some Texas members take full advantage of them, a survey by The Dallas Morning News says.

Among the perks of being a Congress member are governmentsubsidized postage and travel to attend to the duties of office.

Each House member receives $431,760 to pay for a staff and up to $350,000 for travel and other district expenses.

The mailings are sent out under the "franking privilege," which allows members of Congress to use $68.4 million under this year's budget for mailings to constituents back home. Supporters of the practice say franked mail is a fundamental tool of democracy, a vital way to inform constituents.

The practice has come under fire from U.S. Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., who says incumbent congressmen can use the privilege to keep their names before voters, meaning an unfair advantage to election opponents who have no ac-

Gramm said the travel is a necessary part of doing business. "It's a job, partly, of listening at home and speaking in Washington. It pays off politically but that's not the objective.

Views from across the U.S. No compelling interest

If Hollywood made a movie of the Bush administration's handling of recent events in Panama, it would be called "The Gang that Couldn't Coup Straight."

As more facts are revealed, the bungling becomes even more embarrassing. A Newsweek cover story called it 'Amateur Hour,'' but that's an inaccurate tag. The men involved have years of experience in government.

This is one of the most credentialed administrations ever to hold office. They should simply admit, "We goofed. It's our fault. .

Bush set the trap himself. He made the mistake of setting up Gen. Manuel Noriega as a target, calling repeatedly for his ouster, and working with the coup's unsuccessful

Bush's best policy would be for him to simply say that the United States has no compelling interest in overthrowing ... Noriega. Such an assertion by ... Bush would be

However ruthless a thug . . . Noriega is, he does no great harm to U.S. interests. Even his arrest as part of the phony drug "war" would hardly dent the influx of drugs into our country.

Who has the right?

Figure this one: A national consumer group is asking Congress to prevent a major American manufacturer from sponsoring an advertising campaign commemorating get this, now — the Bill of Rights.

The company in question is Philip Morris. The consumer outfit, Public Citizen Health Research Group, says the promotion "smears the Bill of Rights with the blood of all Americans killed as a result of smoking.'

The cigarette manufacturer agreed to donate $600,000 toward construction of an exhibit gallery in the National Archives and to sponsor a series of television ads — with archives cooperation — celebrating the 200th anniversary of the adoption of the first 10 amendments to the Constitution.

A spokesman for the Health Research Group says the agreement allows Philip Morris to "obscure its deadly role in American and worldwide society" and should be reversed. It has called upon Congress to do the reversing.

For heavens sake, we're talking the Bill of Rights here. If anything is being obscured it's the First Amendment rights of a perfectly legal business enterprise engaged in a perfectly honorable celebration of American freedoms.

Under the First Amendment, the Public Citizen Health Research Group is free to condemn smoking, tobacco manufacturing, government subsidies of tobacco growers

Voters less positive than Bush

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

HILTON HEAD ISLAND S.C.(AP) — To a golfer, a mulligan is a second chance, an invitation to hit a bad shot over again and pretend the first one never happened. Golfing with Republican governors, Vice President Dan Quayle said he didn't want one because "mulligans are for Democrats."

There are no mulligans in national politics, where Quayle might find one handy now and then. In that arena, any errant move is marked indelibly on the scorecard. That means no mistakes go unpenalized, especially for a political figure whose confidence and performance ratings are persistently low, as Quayle's are.

That pressure doesn't let up; one associate sees the stress on Quayle as the vice president strives to boost his standing, knowing that any slipup or misspoken word will be magnified into another dent in the image

At the Republican Governors Association conference this week, even the praise pointed to the problem. Quayle's friends were at pains to plug his performance and his potential as a national leader, even when it didn't quite fit the

Gov. Carroll A. Campbell Jr. of South Carolina introducing him at a casual Sunday night reception, said the vice president "will make a very fine place in history.' Republican National Chairman Lee Atwater tossed into his remarks to the governors on Monday the observation that Quayle "is doing a very fine job and could not have more confidence and support from the president.

In such situations, some Republicans are protesting too

After all, Quayle has solid backing where it really counts. President Bush has said flatly that Quayle will be his 1992 running mate. That gives the vice president seven years to do his job and enhance his standing

In the changeable world of politics, that is a very long time half again as long as Quayle's entire political career to date. Even though the adverse polls clearly sting, Quayle is up to a joke about his political standing. "A year and one week ago, President George Bush rode to victory on my coattails,

He spoke of his wife's interest in disaster relief efforts:

"Marilyn has a lot of experience in disaster preparedness; she's lived with me for 17 years.

But the banter isn't always easy in the face of public opinion surveys indicating that a majority of Americans do not think Quayle qualified to succeed to the presidency, which is a vice president's one crucial role, and that nearly half think he should be replaced on the 1992 Republican ticket.

President Bush has said that will not happen, making the commitment publicly. "He's doing a very good job, an oustanding job . . . exactly what I want him to do," Bush said in an interview with the Dallas Morning News early this month.

The vice president says unfavorable polls will not affect the way he does his job.

"I'm not going to do anything differently no matter what the polls ' Quayle said Monday in an in-"I'm going to work as I believe a first and foremost, with complete loyalty to the president, for the advancement of his agenda, in his interest, and that's what I'm doing.'

That job description does not preclude a more aggressive effort to strengthen his own standing and improve his own image. Quayle and his allies have maintained that his image problem stems largely from memories of the Democratic attack on him during the 1988 campaign, but it has been over a year now and the numbers aren't any

As a result, some Quayle advisers want him to raise his television profile, appearing more frequently on the talk and questionand-answer programs. Those appearances have been held to a handful during the first year of the administration. There may be more in the months ahead.

And there certainly will be more political outings in 1990, with 34 senators, 36 governors and the House of Representatives all up for election. Campaigning for party candidates is a traditional assignment for vice presidents.

That means the voters will be terview with a group of reporters. seeing more of Quayle. They'll know him better; his challenge is vice president should work, that is, to convince them to like him better.

Send those criminals up the river

If you haven't heard by now, you should:

A woman in Gwinnett Co., Ga., was hauled out of her house one recent night and jailed because of her

Some people just don't read as fast as others. And some law enforcement agencies go around locking up dope dealers, rapists, and thieves while others go after the really big game — criminals with overdue library books.

At any rate, I was so intrigued by this story that I sought to know more. What I really wanted to know was, What were the books that were overdue?

Victor Hugo's 'Les Miserables"? Herman Wouk's "War and Remembrance"? Dan Jenkins' "Semi-Tough"?

I happened to have read all three of these books. My English teacher in high school made me read "Les Miserables." I read "War and Remembrance and "Semi-Tough" on my own.

Had I known there would be a play based on the first, a television monstrosity on the second, and a bad movie on the third, I likely would have waited and saved myself the trouble, but I'm suddenly off track here.

The lady who didn't return the books and spent 10 hours in the slammer as a result wasn't available for comment, but I did reach Detective Homer Jethro of the Gwinnett Special Tactical Library Force.

"What were the exact books Mrs. didn't return?" I asked him.

"Funny you should ask," he replied. "The books were yours." "Mine?" I said, somewhat startled. Yes, I've written several books, but I had no idea "As a matter of fact," continued

Det. Jethro, "this is a continuing problem in Gwinnett County, These fiends check out your books from the library and then wen't days them back in. Luckily, however, we do have our ways to punish these people.' I've a new book out. "Chili Dawgs Always Bark at Night' (Villard, $17.95), and I was wondering how it was doing on the overdue "At last count," said the detective, "all five copies of your latest book that were in our library are out and overdue. "Are you aware of who has these books?" I asked. "And how are you dealing with these fugitives?'

"A Thurgood Niles of the Whispering Pines Trailer Park has one," said the detective. "We went to his trailer and called out to him. 'You're surrounded, Niles. Come out with your hands up!"

"And what did he reply?" "He said, 'I've only got 11 pages

"And what happened then?" "We stormed the trailer, but the suspect escaped into the woods with your latest book, screaming, 'You'll never take me alive!"

"What on earth do you think gets into these people?" I asked Det. Jethro. "Quite frankly," he answered,

"these people just get hooked on your brilliant writing. It's an addiction. One paragraph and you're over the edge for good.

I had no idea that my books, including my latest, "Chili Dawgs Always Bark at Night" (Villard, $17.95), would cause such a thing, but I do have a solution.

Instead of checking my books out of somebody's library for free, and risk a future behind bars, go out and buy one. Crime doesn't pay. But book sales do.

that he was going to make it,' Whipple said. "It was just going to take a long while." Helm, who turned 58 on Nov. 10, died of respiratory failure at Kaiser Permanente Medical Center on Saturday evening. The rescue of the burly longshoreman's clerk buoyed spirits of rescuers depressed by the rising death toll in the collapse of Interstate 880 in Oakland and cheered people across the country who watched the drama on television.

"I'm still glad we found him and gave him a better fighting chance than he would have had otherwise," Whipple added.

Barges backed up for 40 miles

ALTON, Ill. (AP) - Barges the lock at the normal rate of were backed up for more than 40 miles today waiting to pass through a lock at this Mississippi River town. Workers said the 1,000-barge backup was a record.

The congestion began when workers shut down Alton's Lock and Dam 26 on Wednesday and Thursday to repair a worn gate, said Ken Kruchowski, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The lock has since reopened, but the backup has still become particularly bad because river traffic is heavy this time of year as barges carry grain shipments to New Orleans for export, officials said.

"We've got 113 tows waiting to lock and 1,000 barges down here,' said Jim Perry, shift leader at the Alton lock. "For every one or two we send we get two or three com-about 11/2 hours for a typical load of 15 barges and one towboat, Perry said. "We're getting them through here pretty good. We're back to normal operation. The only abnormal thing is we've got a hell of a lot of boats.

Barges arriving this morning will probably wait six days to pass through the lock, said Billie Sanna, a Corps of Engineers worker at Alton.

Both Perry and Sanna said the jam was a record. As many as 70 towboats pushing 800 barges have been backed up at Alton previous-

The wait is eating into barge companies' profits, said Tommy Seals, marine superintendent and port captain for American Commercial Barge Lines in St. Louis.

The delay is especially costly for smaller barge lines, which may have their entire 40- to 50-barge shipment waiting to go would not estimate how much his company would lose.

Genetic tests confirm baby switch at hospital

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Robert Mays sat quietly after hearing proof that he and his wife left a hospital 10 years ago with someone else's baby, leaving behind their real daughter who later died from Moments after receiving the news, he asked where his biological daughter was buried, according to his attorney. "I think it depressed him he had a child he never met that died," said Mays' lawyer Arthur Ginsburg after genetic test results made public Sunday proved Kimberly Michelle Mays is the daughter of another couple.

The 10-year-old girl has been the focus of a custody battle between Mays — a Sarasota roofing contractor whose wife, Barbara, died in 1981 — and Ernest and Regina Twigg, who claim they lost their newborn in a baby swap at a rural central Florida hospital in December 1978.

John Blakely, the Twiggs' attorney, said the tests give a 99.9 percent certainty that Kimberly is the Twiggs' daughter and a 98 percent chance that the girl who died last year of a congenital heart defect, Arlena, was Mays'. The tests left no doubt about parentage, lawyers for both sides said.

Arlena, raised by the Twiggs as one of their own, was buried in Pennsylvania. Just before her death in August 1988, the Twiggs learned fice. Her home telepthrough genetic testing that she in Orlando is unlisted wasn't related to them.

In the search for their biological daughter, they discovered that Kimberly and Arlena were born three days apart at Hardee Memorial Hospital in Wauchula. During a subsequent court battle, Mays resisted the Twiggs' efforts to subject Kimberly to genetic testing. The impasse was broken last month, when the Twiggs promised not to seek custody regardless of the outcome. But they kept the option to seek visits with the hazel-eyed fifth-grader.

Mays, who was in seclusion Sunday, planned to take his only daughter away to break the news privately and to reassure her that she would never have to leave him, Ginsburg said.

"I think the thing he's going to emphasize is 'just don't worry about anything. . . I'm going to stay your daddy and we're going to stay together for the rest of our lives,' the attorney said.

The Twiggs have sued Hardee officials in U.S. District Court in Tampa, claiming employees switched their baby shortly after birth. They also persuaded the FBI to investigate the hospital and its employees, but the agency failed to find sufficient evidence that federal law had been violated.

The hospital Sunday referred questions to attorney Janet Adams, who could not be reached at her office. Her home telephone number

Warranty limits

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Nearly a third of American vehicle owners mistakenly believe their warranties limit where they can obtain routine preventive maintenance, a survey shows.

A survey of 1,000 consumers by Fram filter products indicates a number of misconceptions about new car options. For instance, many new car buyers think they must buy all parts and service from their dealers to keep the warranty in effect. Actually, consumers can legally select any service outlet or product for preventive maintenance without voiding

He earned his nickname as a daring cavalry commander in George Washington's army. Lee served in the Continental Congress (1785-88) and as governor of Virginia (1792-95). In 1794, he commanded the army that quelled the Whiskey Rebellion. While serving in Congress, he wrote the famous epitaph for George Washington: "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Lee, who died in 1818, was the father of Confederate Gen.

Robert E. Lee. American heavyweight CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — America is putting on weight.

National statistics show that men, on average, are 10 pounds heavier than they were 15 years ago. Women now weigh an average five pounds more than they did in 1974.

Tom Breslin, president of Fortunate Life weight loss centers, says Americans spent about $74 billion last year on low calorie foods, including $800 million on frozen diet entrees. They paid another $250 million for diet

Eating right

When it comes to health, eating right is the best defense. The first step in eating right, according to an article in the current issue of Redbook, is cooking food properly. Here are some tips on food peparation and other news about nutrition.

Nutrition experts say fewer vitamins and minerals are quickly or at low temperatures or with just a little liquid.

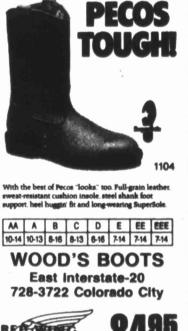

Microwaving vegetables is one way to preserve their vitamin content. A study conducted by Gertrude Armbruster, professor in the division of nutritional sciences at Cornell University, shows the vitamin C content of fresh and frozen vegetables is consistently higher when they are microwaved than when they are baked or Steam vegetables, rather than boil them. This keeps food out of hot water so fewer vitamins are lost. Look for steamers with tight-fitting lids to minimize water and cooking time needed.

The pressure cooker is another way to preserve vitamins, according to Mary Purchase, professor emeritus at the College of Human Ecology, Cornell University, because it cooks food about one-third faster. Bean dishes, such as chili, tougher cuts of meat and stews all can be pressurecooked.

Nonstick skillets and pans help you cook with only one or two teaspoons of cooking fat, said Louis Fulton, of the Human Nutrition Information Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. There are a lot of nutrition myths making the rounds, and among them is that "natural" or raw foods are more nutritious and safer than those that are processed and cooked. Not necessarily.

DEAR NEDRA: With pleasure:

DEAR ABBY: My daughter just turned 10. On her birthday, I shed a few tears. I wish I could have held her and told her all the things a mother should tell her daughter when she turns 10. I wish I could have dressed her up and put ribbons in her hair, and ridden the merry-go-round with her until we both got sick, then laughed ourselves silly rolling down hills in the park.

I also said a little prayer of thanks for having made the decision 10 years ago to give her up for

I feel confident that the parents who were blessed with her can give her what I could not and will love her as much as I do.

I pray my daughter realizes that it was not for lack of love that I gave her up, but because my love was brave and mature enough to let her go when I was but a child myself.

I pray that when she is 18, she will decide to look me up through an adoption search group and we will meet again. The last time I held her tiny hand, she was only 10 days old.

Walesa winds up whirlwind U.S. tour

By THOMAS MARTELLO Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Lech Walesa wound up his whirlwind U.S. tour today after stops in the birthplace of American independence and at the home of an heiress who has pledged millions to help save the site where Solidarity was born.

The Nobel Peace Prize laureate also made a visit to St. Hedwig's Roman Catholic Church in Trenton, where he laid a wreath Sunday night at a shrine for the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, the activist priest slain five years ago by Polish secret police.

Walesa left Teterboro Airport this morning for Caracas, Venezuela, aboard a private jet.

At Teterboro, Walesa said he was happy with his weeklong visit and optimistic that President Bush and Congress would work to help Poland, and he emphasized that he was not just looking for a handout.

"I came to gain expertise and advice from captains of industry in this country," he said. "(But) money is an issue."

The Solidarity leader's message of hope was cheered at every stop on his tour. The reception was particularly enthusiastic at St. Hedwig's, the center of Trenton's Polish community.

Admirers stood on pews to see him. Many shed tears as they sang the Polish national anthem.

"The whole world is looking at the United States as the leading force in the contemporary world," Walesa said.

"I am an example of the small person who can do great things," he said. "I am proof of the adage that faith can move mountains. I believe in freedom and liberty and in democracy and I didn't have an army."

Before visiting the church, Walesa was a guest at a private dinner at Jasna Polana, the Princeton estate of Barbara Piasecka Johnson. The Polish-born Mrs. Johnson, 52, inherited much of the Johnson & Johnson pharmaceutical fortune after the death of her husband, Seward Johnson.

In June, she announced that she would spend up to $100 million for a 55 percent interest in the Lenin shipyard in Gdansk, where the Solidarity movement was first kindled by Walesa in 1980. The shipyard employs more than 10,000 workers, but Poland's communist government had planned on shutting it down because it was unprofitable.

Mrs. Johnson, who came to the United States in 1968, has been hailed as a hero in Poland.

Earlier Sunday, Walesa paused from his tour to pray at the National Shrine of Our Lady of Czestochowa in the Philadelphia suburb of Doylestown. An estimated 10,000 people joined him at the shrine, which is modeled after an icon of the Virgin Mary in the Polish town of Czestochowa, shouting "Welcome!" in Polish.

In Philadelphia, Walesa drew cheers when he held aloft the city's Freedom Award, which martial law had prevented him from getting in 1981, and declared, "We are free now."

He also touched the Liberty Bell and attended a private reception in Independence Hall.

Walesa flew into Philadelphia from Chicago on Saturday night. Chicago, said to have the largest number of people of Polish descent of any city except Warsaw, gave Walesa a rousing welcome despite freezing temperatures.

"It's probably one of the most emotional moments of my life," said Frances Alongi, who saw him in Chicago. Her parents and grandparents were born in Poland.

"I just sort of feel like if they were here today to see this," she said, choking back tears.

Walesa arrived in Washington on Nov. 13. His visit included a meeting with President Bush, an address to a joint session of Congress and numerous meetings with business and industry leaders. One of his goals was to find investors in the troubled economy of Poland, whose government is now lead by a Solidarity activist.

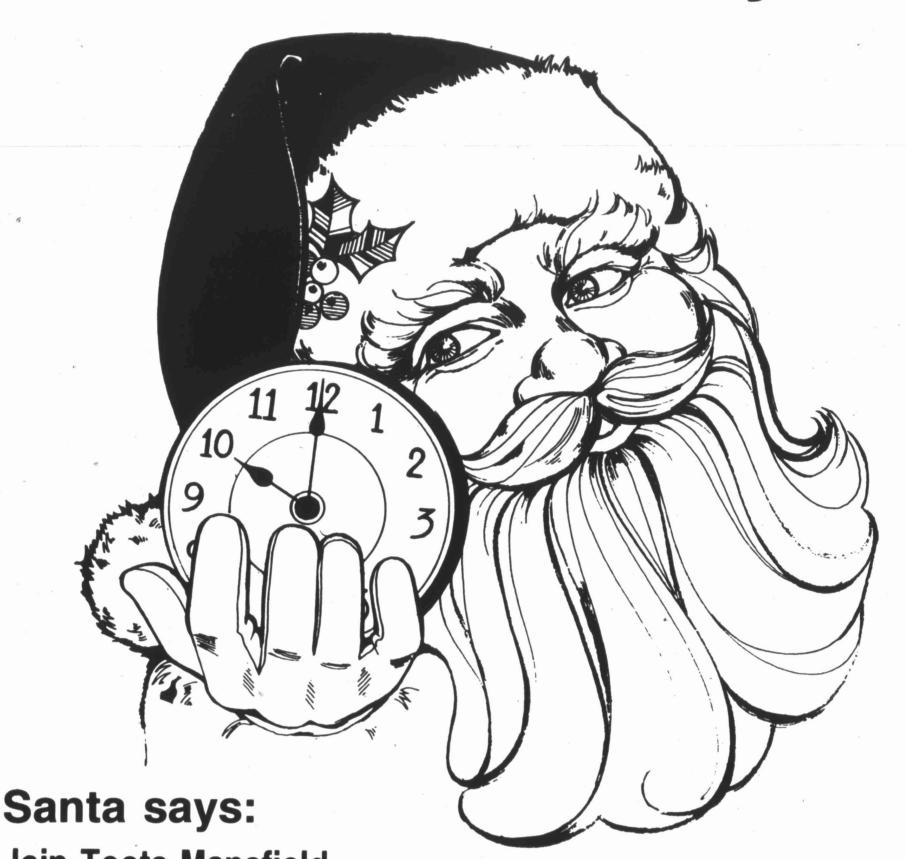

He succeeded in a breakfast stop in Philadelphia sponsored by The Copernicus Society, a Polish-American philanthropic group. The group pledged a $400,000 fund to support young Polish writers. Author James Michener, who lives in the Philadelphia suburb of New Hope and has written the novel called "Poland," made the announcement.

"I cannot tell you how excited someone like me is ... to see the collapse of a false idea that could rule the people but not feed them,"

Michener said. "That is a revolution of a magnitude that staggers

Marino rallies Dolphins past Dallas

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

IRVING — The Miami Dolphins are fied with the Buffalo Bills atop the American Conference Eastern Division thanks to yet another Dan Marino "Hail Mary" special.

The Dallas Cowboys were cruis ing along with a 14-3 first-half lead and one second on the clock Sunday when an anvil dropped out of the sky to kill their confidence.

Marino heaved a 48-yard rainbow ball to the 6-foot-3 Andre Brown who outjumped five Dallas players. Brown came down on the 1-yard line and fell into the end zone to stun the Cowboys. Dallas left the field with a 14-10 lead and never scored again in a 17-14 loss.

"That was a shot in the arm for us and a shot in the back for them," Brown said.

Indeed. It helped shoot the Dolphins to a first-place tie with the Bills at 7-4.

The streaking Dolphins have won six of their last seven games. Dallas dropped to 1-10 in its second worst season in 29 years.

Marino, who played with hurting ribs, said: "I didn't see the catch myself. I just threw it up. I'm told he caught it in full stride and there wasn't even a real fight for the ball. I guess I got lucky.

He added, "They played us tough and were full of fire. I guess that pass put the fire out.

"It took a lot out of us," Johnson Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said. "We would have been leading conceded the "Hail Mary" killed 14-3 at the half, instead it was 14-10. his team's chances.

Johnson, who saw Miami play for five years while he coached the University of Miami Hurricanes, still had trouble believing it.

"It's been a tough season and that's an example of it," Johnson said. "We played tremendous defense. We even sacked Marino twice and not many teams have done that. At least we are getting to the point where we can say one or two plays decide a game. We're getting closer.

With his 213th touchdown pass, Marino moved into ninth place on the NFL's all-time touchdown passing list, ahead of Terry Bradshaw and Y.A. Tittle.

The Cowboys built a 14-3 second period lead on Troy Aikman's passing.

Broderick Sargent scored on a 1-yard touchdown run, then Aikman threw a six-yard scoring toss to Darryl Johnston.

Aikman hit 25 of 33 passes for 259 yards while Marino completed 21 of 36 and 255 yards for Marino.

"Marino is a great player and believe me I took some mental notes," Aikman said. "Particularly on those 'Hail Mary' throws.

He's in a class by himself." The Dolphins play Pittsburgh at home next Sunday but the Cowboys have to play another game in four days. They host Philadelphia in the traditional Thanksgiving Day game in Texas Stadium.

Marino said he hopes he will be ready to play against the Steelers.

Yugoslav keys Lakers victory

By The Associated Press Los Angeles Lakers rookie Vlade

Divac has definitely found his strength and weakness

"For now, I'm playing defense very bad," the Yugoslav said. "I had a lot of fun with the ball.'

In 17 minutes of playing time Sunday night Divac scored 17 points, had six rebounds and keyed rallies in the second and fourth quarters to help the Lakers beat the Washington Bullets 120-115.

Magic Johnson had 25 points, 14 assists and 10 rebounds as the Lakers won their seventh straight

"Offensively, he is a great surprise," Johnson said of Divac. "He has the moves, a great touch and he's a good rebounder. He just knows how to play the game.

"Vlade has come along much faster than I ever thought, Johnson said.

"He gives us a lift," Lakers coach Pat Riley said. "Our guys know that when Vlade comes in, they're getting a 7-footer who hustles. Overall, he's done a heck of a job.

However, Washington does not have a true center, so Divac had to defend against Mark Alarie and John Williams, who are smaller and quicker.

"Washington does not have a tall team, but tough," Divac said. "I had trouble with the small guys." 'On his defense, on the perimeter, he's got to improve,' In other NBA games, it was Portland 119, Seattle 109 and

Houston 132, Miami 94. After the Bullets pulled within 105-100 on two free throws by Williams, Divac scored six straight points to give the Lakers a 111-100 advantage with 5:50 remaining. Washington closed to 111-108 on a

Band auditions

Six members of the Big Spring High School Steer Band auditioned this past weekend for the District VI-Region Orchestra, and three members qualified for All-State Orchestra Auditions.

Marilyn Corwin, senior cornetist, qualified for the All-State Auditions and was selected as a member of the District VI All-Region Orchestra. She was the only Big Spring student selected for the Orchestra which will perform in late January, 1990.

In addition, Aruna Masih, senior flautist, and Heather Hendrickson, senior clarinetist, also qualified for the All-State auditions

All-Region and All-State auditions consist of three difficult etudes which every student must perform. Those placing high enough in their section in the All-Region auditions qualify to tape their audition to the All-State Orchestra. Those tapes will be judged in Odessa over the Thanksgiving holidays, and winners will be announced in early December. Other students attending the audition were: Stacey Hawkins and Melissa Shelton, flute; and John Paul Stevenson, cornet.

Missing children prompt 's parental support groups

Michaela Joy Garecht was kidnapped a year ago Sunday, 2,000 miles apart, speak briefly volunteers and parents of other missing children printed and distributed 42,000 fliers bearing her image.

Millions of fliers later, Michaela is still missing, but efforts by the volunteers, children's groups, police and FBI continue strong.

More than ever, parents of kidnapped children nationwide are turning to each other for help in mobilizing community support and publicity

Brought together by one of the cruelest of crimes, they also are comforting each other when the waiting becomes too much and dark thoughts swirl through their A long table in the Garecht home is filled with newspaper clippings and fliers of Michaela and others who have disappeared and are feared to be victims of molesters and psychopaths.

Sharon Garecht chain-smokes in the dining room near a portrait of her daughter, who's 10 now — if she lives.

"As more time goes on, it becomes harder to believe that we can find her," Mrs. Garecht said. "The one good thing about the one-year anniversary is it's putting her and her abductor back in the news. We're hopeful that will have some effect toward solving the case.

"I'm kind of dreading next week, though. Between having passed the one-year mark and Thanksgiving coming, I'm kind of planning in advance to be

'I have found that to be able to help somebody else with this kind of situation has been very helpful for me," says Mrs. Garecht, who founded the Michaela Joy Garecht Center to coordinate the search for her daughter and assist other parents of missing children.

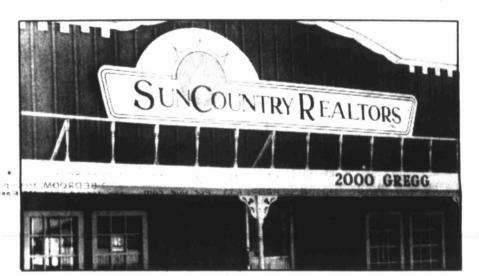

The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, based in Arlington, Va., has recorded 511 abductions by strangers since it opened in June 1984. Of those, 158 children were found alive, 112 dead. Most were sexually abused, authorities say.

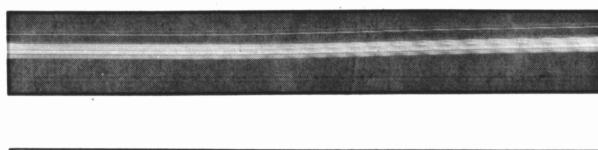

The non-profit center says its figures do not represent the scope of the problem of missing children in the United States. It contends many more cases exist than are reported to the group.

Stranger abductions are a small percentage of the 23,899 children who have been reported missing over the past five years, according to the national center. Nearly half are believed to be runaways and "throwaways."

David Collins of San Francisco, who led the original flier effort for Michaela, is one of the parents of kidnap victims who have been involved in other children's cases too. His son Kevin was believed kidnapped nearly six years ago and has never been found.

What a feeling!

Yes, what a feeling it is, to go into your favorite store in your community and be able to greet the owner or manager on a first

Chances are, you know the owner not only as a merchant, but as a friend, neighbor, fellow club member, Sunday School class teacher, or maybe your kid's scoutmaster. It's a feeling you don't get when you shop anywhere else.

And because the merchant is your friend, you can depend on him or her to stand behind the merchandise and service. And you can feel comfortable about voicing your concerns. Local merchants share your concerns about prices, selection and customer satisfaction. After all, they're customers, too, of other businesses around town.

Just drop in on a local merchant soon, and ask for the manager or owner. Chances are he or she will be right there behind the counter - and will extend a warm hand of greeting.
