LULAC charges authority's bias

COLORADO CITY — A memo written by the city manager is charged to city officials believe the FBI has taken a position on the issue of the May 1988 fatal police shooting of Sammy Gomez.

The charge, by the national

LULAC president, comes at a time when he has asked FBI Director William Sessions to meet and discuss a possible federal grand jury investigation into the Gomez death.

Death of woman stirs investigation

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — Police are investigating a questionable death after a local woman was run over early Saturday morning by a pickup truck.

Big Spring Police also investigated an accident that sent two men to the hospital after their car collided with a train Friday night.

According to Capt. Lonnie Smith, police were called to the 3600 block of Parkway Saturday morning, after Virginia Ryan, VIRGINIA RYAN

43, 2805 Cactus, was struck by a truck. Smith said officers found Ryan lying in the road. Justice of the Peace Willie Grant was called to the accident, where she pronounced Ryan dead.

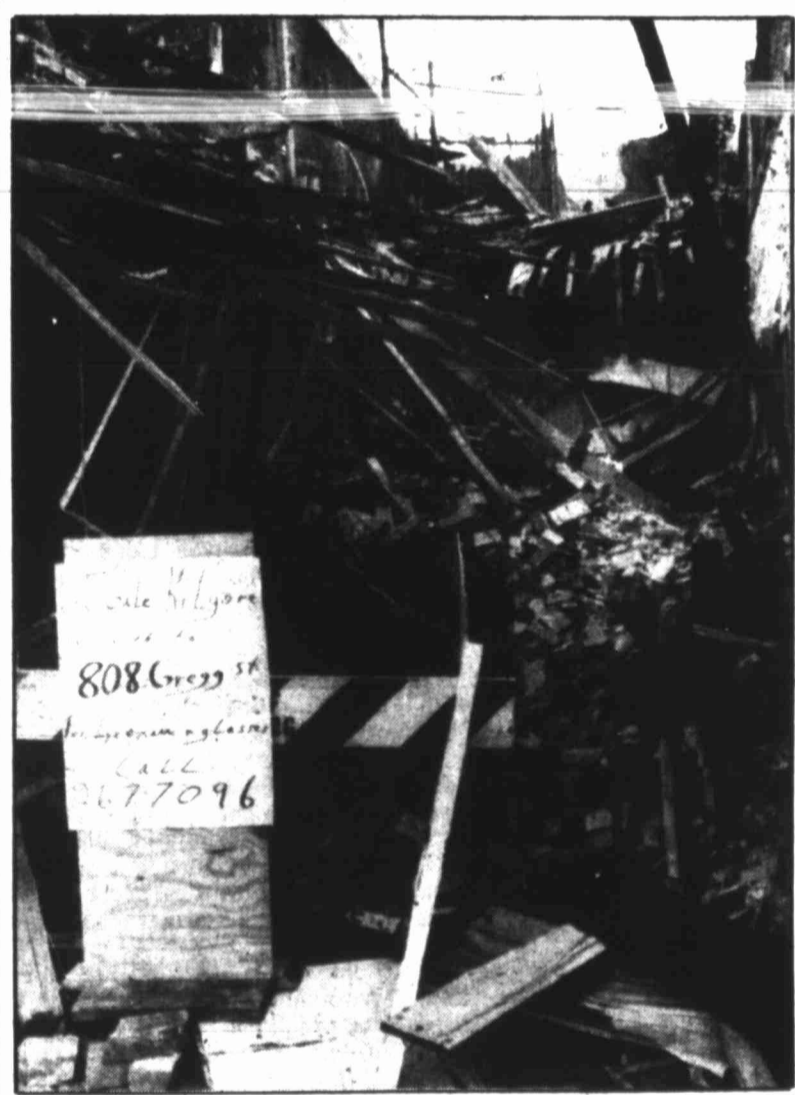

Grant ordered an autopsy, which will be performed by Dr. Robert Rember, Smith said. Results probably won't be available until Monday, he said.

The accident was listed in the police log as a questionable death, and Smith said the incident is under investigation.

"We're still contacting people in the neighborhood," he said.

According to Smith, the vehicle that struck Ryan was impounded at the scene. Smith said the truck is owned by Johnny Mack Brown, 46, 1001 Hearn, who was arrested at

It's an eyesore for Big Spring residents, but the city can't afford to tear down this burned out building at 208 S. Main St. or any of the other fire-gutted buildings on the block.

By ERIN BLAIR

BIG SPRING — The trio of burned out buildings on Main Street will remain an eyesore until the city comes up with the money and the equipment to tear it down, said city officials.

City Manager Hal Boyd said the city had started condemnation proceedings on the buildings by notifying the owners that they must clean up the fire wreckage. However, he said the city was hampered in its efforts because the owners are absentee landlords who live out of state.

So far the buildings' owners have not responded to the city's request, meaning that the city could condemn the structures and demolish them itself.

"The problem is that there's no funding or equipment to tear down the brick walls and steel beams of the buildings," Boyd said.

"All we can do is file a lien against the property and wait for it to sell," he said.

Dr. J. Gale Kilgore's former optometry office at 208 S. Main St. was the most recent casualty on

Summit running smoothly

By TERENCE HUNT
White House Correspondent

MARSAXLOKK BAY, Malta (AP) — President Bush, at a summit meeting abbreviated by stormy winds and high seas, presented Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Saturday with a wide-ranging plan to speed work on arms control treaties and lower trade barriers to help Moscow's ailing economy. U.S. officials said.

The Soviet leader made no immediate response to Bush's proposals, officials added, although both sides said the first day of talks went smoothly.

"Things went well. They talked about everything: arms, Europe, philosophical questions," Soviet spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said after five hours of discussions.

Later came the embarrassing announcement that weather had stranded Bush aboard his ship — the USS Belknap — within view of the luxury liner Maxim Gorky where Gorbachev awaited him for afternoon talks. The session was scrubbed, along with dinner.

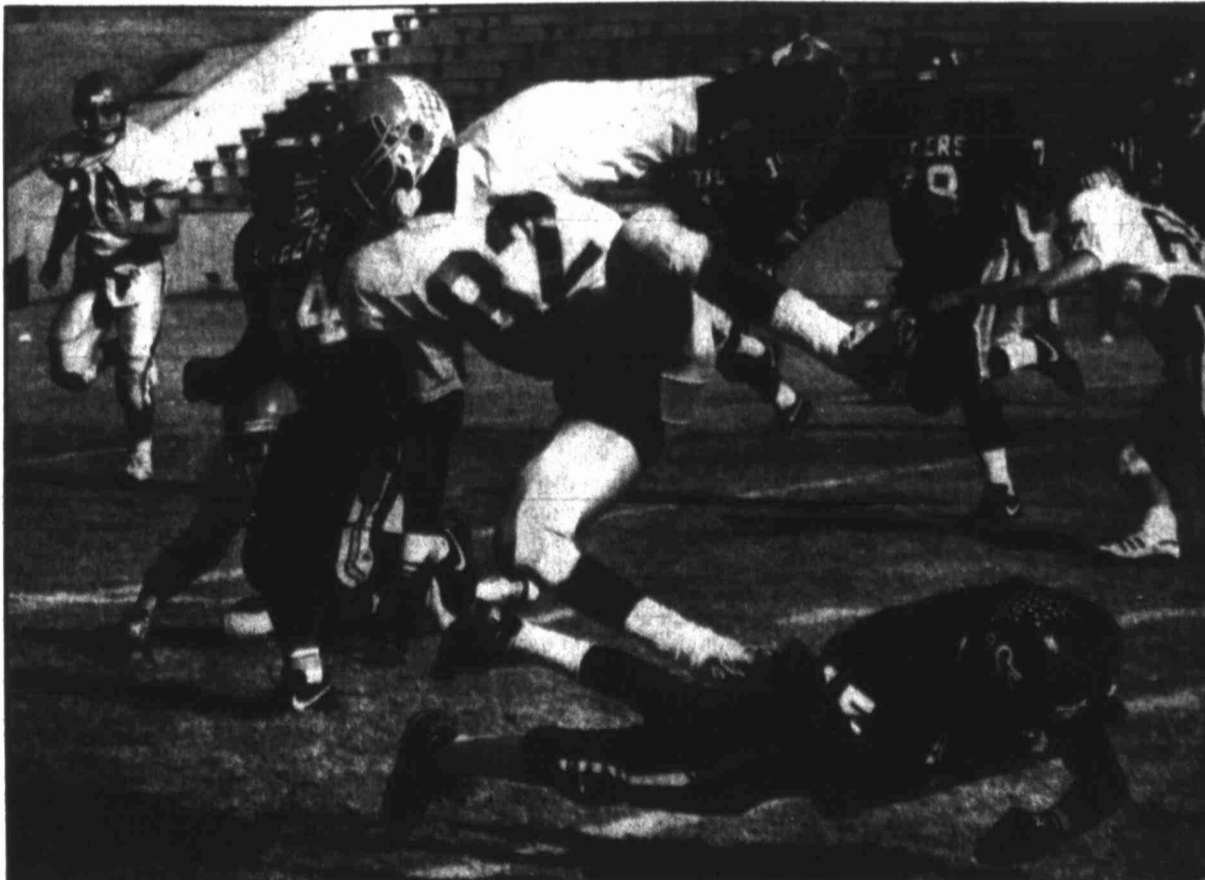

U.S. officials said Bush recommended that next year's proposed summit in the United States — the target date for signing a pact for deep cuts in long range nuclear weapons — be held in late June, and called for speedy work on a treaty to reduce conventional forces in Europe.

They added that the trade proposals included granting the Soviets observer status at a 97-nation international trade organization, conditioned on loosened Soviet emigration policies.

Bush also urged Gorbachev to

Tilley's chili wins inaugural cookoff

By ERIN BLAIR
 Special to the Herald

With the not-so-secret ingredients of spider legs, eye of newt, frog hair and aged road kill, Tommy Tilley won first place for his bowl of red in the Inaugural Mayor's Chili Cookoff Saturday.

Tilley modestly credited his success to the barbecue bribes he gave judges in the Harley Owners Chili Cookoff a couple of years ago.

He won a stunning gold trophy topped with a chili pot and the honor of joining the mayor's team as an official Big Spring representative in chili cookoffs across the state, announced Tumbleweed Smith, who awarded the prizes.

Lois Randall won second prize for her chili, which Smith said was made with ground loon bill. Dave Jones and Sherman Powers took third place with their recipe, which allegedly contained deer lip, ground hoof and antler powder.

Radio station KBST swept the specialty awards, winning both the hottest and the worst chili categories. Smith presented a fire extinguisher and a three-pack of Kaopectate for KBST's trophy room. David Wrinkle, owner of the station, was also invited to join the Big Spring chili team.

"Even the worst Texas chili can beat the pants off any Yankee or Californian chili," Smith said.

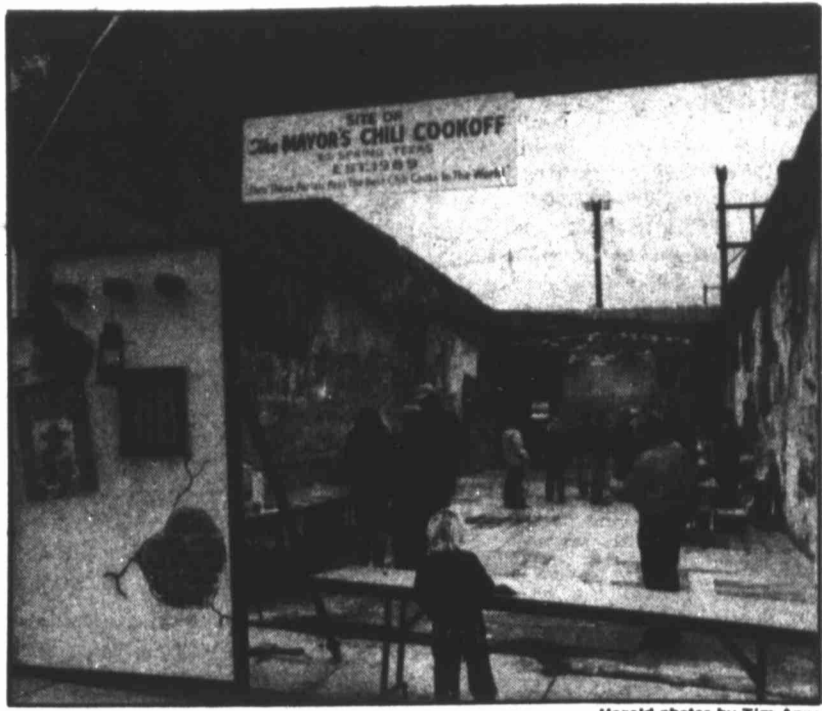

District Attorney Rick Hamby, County Judge John Coffee, City Attorney Jean Shotts and Herald reporter Lynn Hayes were the intrepid judges for the event.

They sat in the remains of the old Tap Room Cafe sampling 16 different chilies ranging from dark red to yellow, chunky to loose and mild to sear-the-roof-of-your-mouth-off hot. Bowls of sorbet and a bottle of Kaopectate stood on hand for emergencies.

Although rumors circulated about the use of Alpo dog food as a key ingredient in several chilies, the main flavors simmering on hot plates and barbecue grills were beef, beer, tomato sauce and secret blends of spices.

Mayor Max Green was cagey about his chili mixture, saying only that one secret ingredient was "shredded recall petitions." He was adamant about what it could not contain.

"It's a tasty dish but don't mess it up by putting beans in with the chili," Green said. He admitted that he sometimes plays a little harmonica blues to his chili as it gurgles in the pot.

Despite his chili philosophy, Green's team placed only fourth in the showmanship division. Howard Walker got third place, Al Scott got second and Johnny Hooker won the showmanship category.

cent state grand jury investigation of being a "railroad job," in a Nov. 30 letter addressed to Sessions. The letter also asked that both men meet with U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh.

Brought into question was a city council memorandum obtained by LULAC that suggested the FBI may have formed an opinion in the case before concluding an investigation. As of Friday the Gomez case was still open, said Mike Santimarro, an FBI assistant special agent in charge of the Dallas office that covers Colorado City.

The memorandum concerned advice to the city council from City Attorney Tom Rees, who recommended the council not have a closed executive session to discuss harassment charges or a possible federal grand jury in the Gomez case.

A copy obtained by the Herald stated: "He advised us (city council) to keep going like we have been since we now have everyone on our side — the district attorney, the attorney general's office and the FBI, and hold to the hope that the statute of limitation will expire since we only lack a little over five months."

"Tom (Rees) said that he felt that we should not hold any closed meetings at this time or do anything that might provoke the other side in any way."

City Manager Brenda Hammond said she wrote the memorandum sometime during the week following the second no-bill decision.

"That's what the city attorney told me and that's what I passed along to the city council," she said Friday.

Rees said, "I'm not going to comment on that until I look at that correspondence." Rees said he needs to obtain a personal copy of the memo.

DeLara said the memo indicates authorities had already taken sides in the case.

"Apparently City Attorney Tom Rees was privy to inside information and it seems he was privy to such information for some time, which indicates all the law enforcement authorities were in their bag," DeLara said.

The state grand jury, the second one to hear the case, chose not to indict former part-time police officer Billy Ray Williamson when it convened Nov. 10.

Williamson, now the city's fire marshal, said he shot Gomez three times, once in the back of the head, after Gomez had advanced on him with a knife. Gomez was being arrested in connection with a rape case at the time.

LULAC officials charge Williamson executed Gomez and that a knife was planted on Gomez after the shooting in an attempted police coverup. LULAC's complaints on the handling of the first grand jury investigation — which chose not to indict Williamson one week after the shooting and before autopsy results were available — led to the second grand jury.

DeLara said that the second one was "one hell of a railroad job, one hell of an orchestrated investigation and grand jury presentation such as would put a Barnum & Bailey Circus performance to shame."

In his letter to the FBI, DeLara said "I request of you that an investigation be undertaken immediately as to how the Sammy Gomez case can be under investigation according to the Justice Department, and yet the document indicates otherwise."

"I am addressing myself to you in the hope that possibly, maybe just possibly, your department is not in their bag as the letter indicates," he said.

The Dallas FBI agent said, "We're still involved in the investigation. Additional information will be provided to the Department of Justice. They make the final determination as to what will occur."

Debra Burston of the U.S. Justice Department's public relations office in Washington D.C. was unavailable for comment Friday.

Prior to the decision not to indict Williamson, she had said that the case was open and that the FBI had investigated it since July 1988.

Copies of DeLara's letter, as well as Hammond's memorandum, were sent to: Thornburgh; U.S. President George Bush; the U.S. House of Representatives Judiciary Committee; the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee.

the scene and charged with public intoxication and resisting arrest.

In Friday's accident, a local man and an Abilene man were taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by ambulance after their car collided with a Union Pacific Railroad train in the 100 block of North Birdwell Lane.

Winford Dewayne Allen, 33, 1012 W. 3rd, and James Leonard Thomas Jr., no age given, Abilene, were taken to the hospital. Allen was in good condition Saturday night, while Thomas was in intensive care, "but improving and stable," an official said late Saturday.

According to the accident report, a 1979 Continental Mark V driven by Allen was traveling south on Birdwell Lane when it went around a vehicle stopped for a train. The car, which was traveling on the wrong side of the road, disregarded a railroad warning sign, red flashing lights, and a gate, the report said.

The car struck the train, spun around, and struck a railroad crossing light pole on the south side, the report said. Factors contributing to the incident were failure to stop for a train and under the influence, alcohol, the report stated.

resolve the problems of divided families in 1990 and gave him a list of names of people that he recommended should be granted emigration rights, officials said.

Officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Bush complained about the continued delivery of Soviet-made weapons through third countries to leftist rebels in El Salvador, saying it was the most destructive element of superpower relations. The U.S. officials said Gorbachev replied he didn't know how the arms were getting to the rebels.

The two leaders were smiling and in high spirits as they began their session, clasping hands across a long rectangular table that measured barely a yard across.

"It's so narrow that if we don't have enough arguments, we'll kick each other," Gorbachev told Bush.

If the schedule holds, the two leaders will end their summit early Sunday afternoon and depart from this storm-tossed Mediterranean island, with Bush heading for Brussels to brief NATO allies and Gorbachev flying to Moscow to report to Warsaw Pact leaders.

Soviet officials, told that the United States was putting out its side of the story, said they would wait until Sunday to react publicly.

But earlier, senior Soviet officials said Gorbachev wanted the summit to produce a timetable for completing U.S.-Soviet treaties on reducing strategic nuclear weapons, conventional forces in central Europe and chemical weapons.

Bush recommended that Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze meet next month to resolve key obstacles to a treaty to slash long-range nuclear weapons by up to 50 percent, officials said.

On another arms front, Bush said NATO and the Warsaw Pact should conclude a treaty to reduce conventional forces in Europe next year and sign the agreement at an international summit in Vienna, the officials added.

And, Bush said he would be willing to halt production of U.S. chemical weapons once an international treaty is reached to ban poison gas.

On the economic front, Bush promised anew to lift trade restrictions against the Soviet Union once it enacts legislation to ease emigration barriers, the officials said.

He also called on Gorbachev to join him in recommending Berlin as the site for the Olympic Games in 2004, officials said.

the jinxed block when it burned Sept. 21, joining the two gutted Moffatt Carpet and Furniture stores. The Moffatt Carpet store at 202 S. Main St. has been standing derelict since it burned in June 1987.

About 18 months later, the Moffatt Carpet store at 212 S. Main St. burned and the remains have not been removed.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said the condemnation process gives owners 30 days to obtain a building permit to repair or demolish their buildings and six months to finish the work. If the owner doesn't decide what to do with his building within the time limit, the city can tear down the structure.

"It's an eyesore, but first we're trying to get the owners to do something about it," Decell said.

"The Catch 22 is the absentee landlords. If they don't respond, we're left with two choices: We can sit back and wait or abate the problem with existing labor," he said.

Decell said the city and county had jointly demolished several structures in Big Spring recently, but the Main Street block poses a more difficult challenge that prevents it from being bulldozed easily.

"The carpet stores aren't structures in the middle of a field; the one on the corner has major electrical work directly behind it and there's an owner-occupied structure in the middle of the block that's still standing. If I damage the abutting structure, who is liable?" said Decell.

When the city condemns the block, it will be liable for accidents and damage to property. Until then, the owners are responsible for any injuries sustained by someone wandering in the buildings.

"They're liable, but you've got to get them first," Decell said.

LULAC opposes plan
 AUSTIN (AP) — Members of the League of United Latin American Citizens said Saturday that they won a major court victory to get more minorities elected as judges and now Gov. Bill Clements and Democratic leaders are trying to take that away.
 John T. Garcia, LULAC state director, said the Hispanic civil rights group opposes a plan by Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis to scrap the method of partisan judicial elections in favor of what is called the "Missouri Plan."
 Under the proposal, the governor would appoint a state district judge and then the judge would run unopposed in a "retention" election where voters would decide whether to keep them.

Soviet rockers
 DALLAS (AP) — Members of a Soviet rock band say the sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll theme for music has been as popular in the East as it was in the West.
 "It's different drugs but the problem is the same," said Alexei Belov, lead guitarist for the Soviet hard-rock band that played in Dallas Friday.
 In fact, Belov said rock music seems to be written about the same things, no matter where it is played.
 "Politics are different but people are the same," Belov said. "People make love the same all over the world and people have difficulties and cry the same all over the world."
 Gorky Park performed along with Motley Crue, Ozzy Osbourne and Bon Jovi at the Moscow Music Peace Festival. The Soviet rockers also collaborated on a "Make a Difference Foundation" album which benefits efforts to curb drug and alcohol abuse.
 The Soviet band is the first to sign with a U.S. record label.
 The band's members said they are now making as much in one night as the average Soviet citizen makes in six months.

Texas tot improving
 CHICAGO (AP) — A 21-month-old Texas girl was drinking liquids, growing more alert and doing well Saturday, five days after becoming the nation's first living-donor liver-transplant recipient, a hospital spokesman said.
 While Alyssa Smith recovered with her mother, who gave the child part of her own liver on Monday, doctors at the University of Chicago Medical Center were deciding whether a 15-month-old Tennessee girl could undergo a similar operation.

Well hailed as 'new Spindletop'
 AUSTIN (AP) — Railroad Commissioner John Sharp visited the largest oil-producing well in Texas, and called it a "new Spindletop" for the state, a reference to the oil field that boomed near Beaumont in 1901.
 Sharp's visit Friday took him to the Pearsall oil field in Zavala County, about 60 miles south of San Antonio.
 The Leta Glasscock No. 10 was producing 185 barrels a day in September, but after producer Charlie Winn of Eagle Pass spent more than $1 million to drill the well horizontally, tests showed the well has the potential to produce more than 5,400 barrels a day.

Abortion clinic officials call for truce

DALLAS (AP) — The director of a Dallas abortion clinic is calling for a holiday truce with abortion protesters.

But as she was making her plea on Friday, about two dozen members of Operation Rescue stormed in and out of another clinic, leaving behind a young couple chained to a concrete block.

The incident was the first time Dallas abortion protesters had taken a demonstration inside a clinic, and they vowed it will not be the last time.

"We'll do whatever is needed," said the Rev. Flip Benham of the Garland Free Methodist Church, who rejected a truce offer. "This December, the word is going to become flesh."

It took police officers nearly two hours to cut through giant, U-shaped bicycle locks shackling protesters Laura Teller and Ron Gross to a 150-pound concrete block in the main hallway of the Dallas Medical Ladies Clinic. Police and fire crews had to use a power steel saw to slice off the bike locks after a "jaws of life" device failed.

Charlotte Taft, the director of the Routh Street Women's Clinic, held a press conference and asked the anti-abortion protesters to end what she called increasingly violent tactics.

"Over the past year, there have been countless episodes of harassment and intimidation of doctors, patients and medical staff," she said.

"We call upon the ministers, priests and rabbis of our city and on its civic leaders — both who support and who oppose legal abortion — to stand up and speak out against terrorism and intimidation."

A day later, the president of one of the state's larger anti-abortion groups responded to Ms. Taft's announcement by calling in turn for a two-week moratorium on all abortions on demand "in honor of the birth of Christ."

David Rucker, president of the Texas Republicans for Life, a

DALLAS — An unidentified man pulls three children in a toy wagon as protesters carry signs outside of the Fairmont Center Abortion Clinic in Dallas early Saturday morning.

Dallas-based group that claims it represents about 30,000 individuals with similar views, said he believes Ms. Taft's call for a holiday truce was "an ironically cruel and deceptive request."

"This is the very same request we have been making from here since her involvement in the business of death," Rucker said.

"There will be a dialogue with Ms. Taft, but only when the violence she promotes and encourages stops." We hope, however, that this sudden plea for peace is a sign of her movement away from the violence of the act of abortion."
 Rucker's proposed moratorium would last from Dec. 17-31.

Ms. Taft pleaded with anti-abortion advocates to find other ways to make their views known.

She said she and others who work at abortion clinics are worried because abortion protests in the past have increased during the Christmas season. Last season, three abortion clinics were set on fire, the Dallas newspaper said.

But Benham said his group would not take violent action against a clinic.
 "We would never firebomb anyone," the minister said. "We follow Jesus."

Ms. Teller, 37, and Gross, 48, were arrested and were being held on complaints of criminal trespass, a Class B misdemeanor that could carry a maximum penalty of 180 days in jail and an $8,000 fine.

On Saturday, one woman was arrested as more than 300 demonstrated at another Dallas abortion clinic.

Critical report
 LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The performance rating for operation of the Arkansas Nuclear One power plant at Russellville was downgraded considerably in a federal report issued Friday.

The Arkansas Power & Light Co. plant is still within the bounds of safety, but its performance was down in four areas during a 15-month period in 1988 and 1989, the report said.

Mismanagement and delays in correcting dangerous conditions were cited as reasons for the poor performance. AP&L officials said the findings were accurate and pledged to remedy the situation.

"The evaluation was very fair and on target," said Gene Campbell, AP&L's vice president for nuclear affairs. "It needs to be put in perspective. None of these (report items) says we are unsafe... They praise us for making some of the changes we have in managing the plant."

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission gave the plant lower marks in the areas of plant operations, radiological controls, maintenance-surveillance and quality verification. The review included seven categories.

The report was contained in a Systematic Assessment of Licensee Performance, which reviewed performance at both units of the plant.

 The whiplash injury is a very real problem and should receive special attention. The chiropractic physician is a specialist on neck disorders. A thorough examination and x-ray study of the area will disclose the extent and area of injury. The chiropractic physician is trained to detect and correct these problems and restore the neck to normal function. Gentle manipulative therapy or "adjustment" is administered to restore normal function to the area. Depending upon the severity of the injury, additional treatment consisting of braces, physical therapy and exercise may be warranted.
 If you have been subjected to whiplash injury and are experiencing any of these symptoms, have a chiropractic examination and consultation. This will determine whether you need special attention.

Winning is best in the right way

How about those Steers?
Big Spring has extra reason to be proud this morning. Yes, our football team has won another playoff game — a feat that goes unmatched for decades in Big Spring. Yes, those Steers have extended their season by another week and hope to see grid action beyond that. Nope, there is nothing like a winning high school football team to get the juices flowing in a West Texas community.

What could be better?
For true sports enthusiasts, there's only one thing — a class act — and Big Spring appears to have that on its side as well.

Read the sports pages on a regular basis and you can find endless examples of teams lacking the style and substance of true champions. They are the programs directed by authorities unable to distinguish between following rules and following the absolute chase for victory; authorities who are teaching by the worst example, that win-at-all-costs is the only way to go in this life.

That's never been the case and the sports fields are among the best places to see that such attitudes change. And, that's why we have extra reason to be proud this morning.

The Big Spring Steers — in the form of football, tennis, women's cross country — are displaying their talents in true championship form these days. They are doing it with class and they are doing so without embarrassing their opponents as the scores mount.

Thanks, all you Steers and coaches — it's the right way.

Sell the guns — after the review

James Brady is right: Congress is gutless on handgun control. Speaking before a Senate committee, President Ronald Reagan's former press secretary, who was shot and permanently injured during John Hinckley's 1981 assassination attempt on Mr. Reagan, charged that Congress is cowed by the National Rifle Association from passing reasonable gun-control laws.

One proposal, named after Mr. Brady, would require a nationwide seven-day waiting period and a police background check for all handgun purchases to make sure the buyer had no criminal record or was not mentally ill. A week's delay in picking up a handgun also provides a cooling-off period that could lower murder and suicide rates.

The NRA and its allies on Capitol Hill argue that such a law would "victimize innocent sports people." Nonsense. The inconvenience would be minimal, and the benefit could be the saving of hundreds, if not thousands, of lives.

The day before Mr. Brady testified, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh proposed that the nation's licensed gun dealers be required to check with the police by phone to make sure that people buying firearms did not have criminal records. This proposal fell short of a plan favored by some police and gun-control groups that would involve a computer network to run instant fingerprint checks at gun stores. However, a fingerprint system is too expensive, with start-up costs estimated at $9.6 billion to $27 billion. Mr. Thornburgh's phone-in system is more reasonable, with an initial cost of $36 million to $44 million.

Virginia has just begun such a program and first reports indicate it works. Under this system, a gun buyer would have to show two pieces of identification, one with a photo. The gun dealer then would phone a special police hot line to see if the person has a criminal record. The only information given out is a simple yes or no.

However, this method still has problems. Mr. Thornburgh notes that only 40 percent to 60 percent of conviction records are currently computerized. Also, criminal records are not standardized. Different states and localities have different reporting methods. And many records are not updated. These shortcomings must be corrected before a national system is established and that will take several years at least.

In the interim, Congress should pass the Brady Amendment for a mandatory waiting period and police background checks on handgun sales. This measure could be implemented quickly and it would have an immediate impact in curbing gun sales to criminals and the mentally ill.

Delay causes low test scores

By JESSE TREVINO

About this time of year, the results of the standardized statewide test used to measure the basic skills of college-bound seniors raise a furor among educators, parents and students. The results: roughly 80 percent of Anglo students pass all three parts of the exam compared to 62 percent of Hispanic students and 48 percent of black students.

The results of the Texas Academic Skills Program test evoke the ancient riddle: Which came first the chicken or the egg? A similar vexing question applies here because of the very nature of the state of education today in Texas.

At the behest of an insistent public anxious to reform the woeful state of education in Texas, state education officials instituted the TASP test to measure how well schools educate graduating seniors.

The assumption underlying the test was that the school reforms of 1984 would begin delivering improved educations to all students rather quickly, and that scores on the TASP test would rise accordingly.

That, of course, is nonsense. One cannot hatch a chicken before one has an egg. In the short run, a student with a faulty elementary education cannot in the five years since the reforms were implemented catch up with other students. The years since he or she was about to enter junior high school cannot have been enough time to compensate for the deficiencies of a disadvantaged education while other students attended schools with better teachers and better equipment. As a result, civil rights organizations come screaming to Austin in defense of minority students who continue to perform poorly on those tests like the TASP test.

Parents of these kids and their defenders have never acknowledged that the 1984 reforms will bear greater fruit when students in elementary and middle schools today complete the entire 12-year public education cycle. To ask anything more than that — except in the case of the exceptional teacher who performs miracles, and there are precious few of those — is to ask more than the system can handle.

One reason the system cannot handle the demands being made by impatient parents and anxious educators is the legacy of an unfair public school finance system that may soon be fixed. If the Legislature can formulate an equitable plan and if the money is spent correctly, some of the predominately minority school districts may hire better teachers.

If that system is changed and changed rapidly, the 1984 reforms will have a better chance of success. One has to remember that Texas is still about the business of ordering its priorities. It has yet to decide that all of its students are part of its future.

But where does it leave us at this point? Clearly, those kids who have gone through a shoddy school district must pay a high price. They must either suffer the consequences of having been born in a district that provided a bad education, or they must undergo the somewhat embarrassing ordeal of remedial education. And their defenders do them little service by seeking to declare standardized tests as biased instead of pushing hard for the budgets to fund tough remedial education.

If the world were moving more slowly, perhaps Hispanic and black students — and society — might be able to enjoy the luxury of sliding by, as many school districts have unfortunately allowed their students to do.

But neither they nor society have that kind of time, for the speed of technological change in the workplace is as cruel and insensitive as the school districts that failed these students.

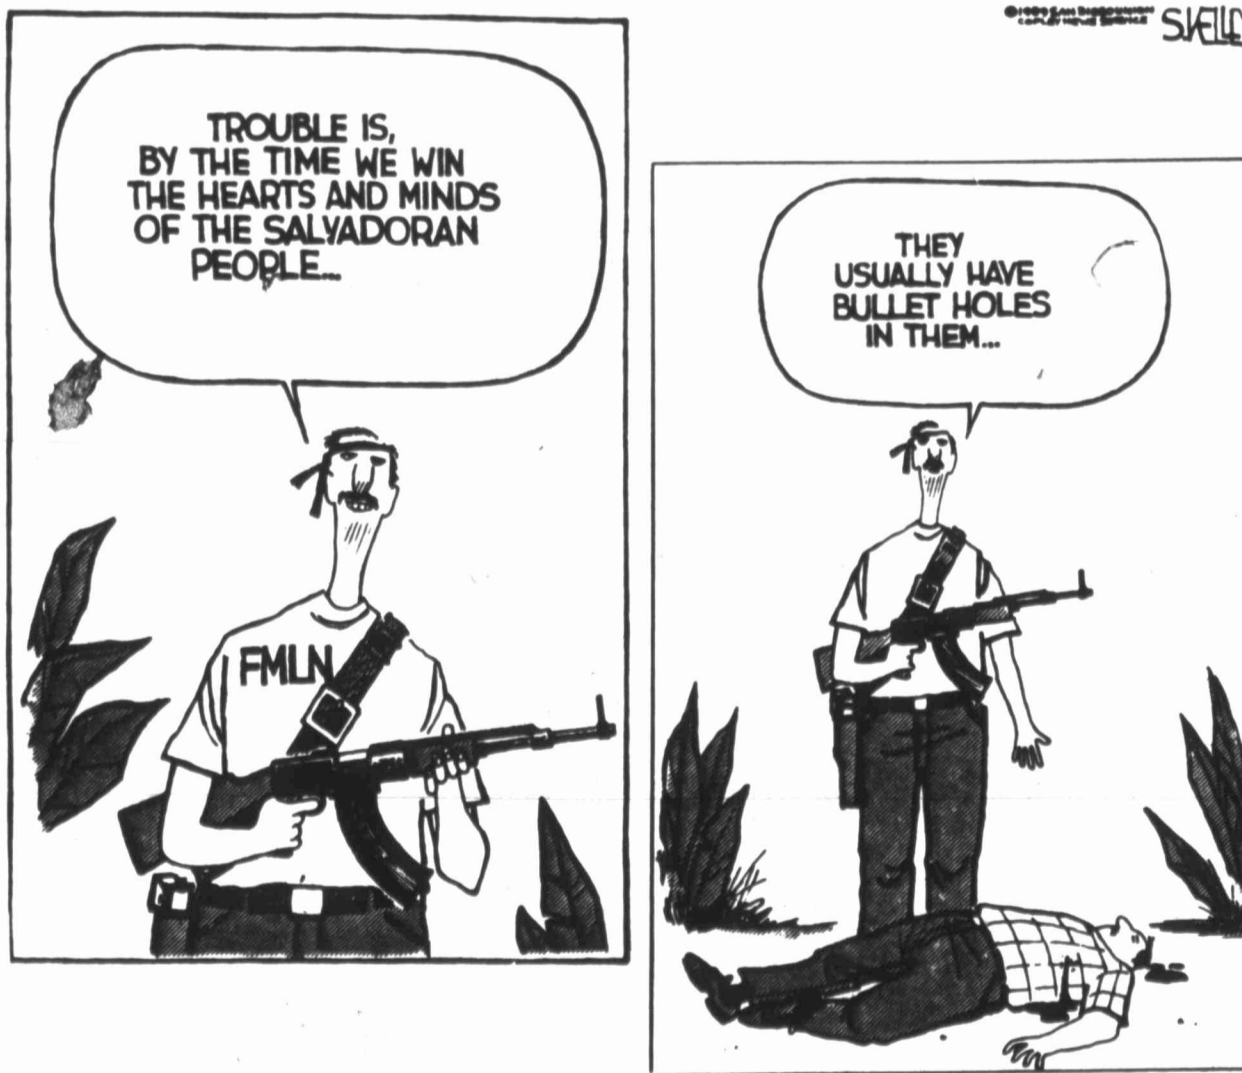

Very few individuals have the courage in Texas today to declare outright that the education being provided unacceptably large number of Hispanic and black students is utterly worthless. Until these students and their parents acknowledge that they are being left behind, expect little change.

Not until this happens will the debate about test results cease and education for all the state's students be a meaningful asset.

Some minority students and their defenders argue the tests are culturally biased, causing them to score badly. In fact, some tests can be biased. But one cannot defeat the argument that there is a delay built in to the 1984 reforms. That, more than the argument that the examination is biased, is what is at work here. Otherwise, there would be no reason for 62 percent of Hispanic students and 48 percent of black students to pass the test.

The reason the remaining 38 percent and 52 percent failed may be because the education they got is a rotten egg.

Parades; Are they worth it?

By ROBERT WERNSMAN
Publisher

Are parades worth the trouble?
I've got to admit folks, there have been many anxious moments around the Herald in recent weeks in connection with the annual Christmas parade.

To name only a few:

- A potential conflict with the awesome Big Spring Steer football machine's playoff activities;
- Rain. We haven't seen moisture for weeks around here and then, 24 hours before the parade, rain begins to fall. Can this really be happening?
- Typical last-minute float construction activity threatens the sanity of all involved — all those who have any sanity remaining, at least — after the Herald's parade chairman is called out of town 36 hours before Santa's promised arrival;
- Are parades worth the trouble?
- Big Spring bands find themselves in the middle of playoff frenzy and can't squeeze a parade into the schedule;
- It's too cold for the Hot Potato Band to participate — even a suggestion of renaming it the Cold Potato Band fails to bring this entry back into the fold;
- Are parades worth the trouble?

I distinguish clearly between eager and anxious when I say there have been many anxious moments around the Herald in recent weeks.

Despite all that came before it, Saturday morning arrived — cool, crisp and with barely a threat of more moisture. At least that hurdle had been cleared.

So, what else could arise? Ever hear about the guy who built a boat in his basement and never thought about how he would get it out of there? We faced very nearly the same situation. So did Ken Dunwoody and his industrious crew at Western Container, which put together another award-winning entry.

It can be a neat trick — this business of creating and then figuring out just how to get this one-time project out of a warehouse. We cleared the overhead door by millimeters, I kid you not.

Are parades worth the trouble?
After all, with all the work and effort, the whole thing passes by in a span of 20 minutes or so and little is left besides a scramble for the last few pieces of candy thrown from the floats.

You really have to wonder. The Steers, threatening to keep their season alive until the Christmas holiday is right upon us, had a huge following to Abilene Saturday afternoon, many of whom departed Big Spring long before the parade began at 10 a.m.

Despite that, the parade crowd was healthy and the folks on the entries in the 67-member field reported hundreds along the path.

And, there was a considerable number who took in the parade and hurried to their cars immediately afterward to head for Abilene and Shotwell Stadium. Dauntless parade/football fans, no doubt.

As for the bands — well, I hold Ricky Mitchell not even a little responsible for the playoff complications that occurred, no matter how much I'd love to lay the blame at his feet. After all, considering all the years of football playoff drought we've seen, sacrificing the Steer Band's parade participation seems a small price.

Besides, the Big Red Coahoma band did itself (and us) proud as they stepped in under the direction of Mike Porras.

So, are parades worth the trouble?

That's a question that I'm really not responsible for answering. Instead, let's turn it over to someone who is far more qualified to deal with such matters. One who has a background befitting judgment on such things as bands and scooters and candy and floats and bubble gum and dogs and giant Christmas trees.

Let's turn it over to J. Rich Sparks; leave the matter in the hands of a two-year-old. This young authority had the final word as he departed the scene in the arms of his parents, John Richard and Cheri. Ask him if the parade was worth the effort and he's likely to give you the same answer he gave me — a big nod and a bigger smile.

We'll see you next year, Big Spring and J. Rich.

Fishing boat sinks near harbor

NEW YORK (AP) — A fishing boat sank near the entrance to New York Harbor on Saturday afternoon, and all 19 people aboard were pulled from the frigid waters within two hours, authorities said.

The Coast Guard did not know the conditions of the people rescued, said Petty Officer Gary Henderson, a spokesman at the Coast Guard station at Sandy Hook, N.J.

"We had reports of severe medical problems," said Lt. Paul Wolf of the Coast Guard operations center in Boston.

An unidentified man apparently in his 50s or 60s was in critical condition at Peninsula General Hospital in the New York City borough of Queens with a body temperature of 81 degrees, hospital spokeswoman Karen Perlman said.

James Fireson, 37, was in stable condition at Peninsula General suffering from hypothermia, Perlman said.

Pan Am 747 experiences trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A London-bound Pan American World Airways 747 with 133 people aboard lost cabin pressure at 37,000 feet and dived for several minutes before returning safely to Los Angeles, officials said.

The decompression of Flight 120 Friday afternoon began with a bang and was followed by a cold rush of air and automatic deployment of oxygen masks, passengers said. No one was injured and the cause was not immediately known.

"We were very scared," said Jane Hinckley, a tourist from New Zealand. "We went down so fast that we were pressed back flat against our seats. We could hear the wind rushing and it suddenly got freezing cold."

The pilot, whose name was withheld by the airline, followed standard emergency procedures by diving to a lower altitude where the crew and passengers could breathe without oxygen masks.

Nadia comes to New York

NEW YORK (AP) — After four days of hiding out in Europe, Olympic gold medalist Nadia Comaneci spent her first full day of freedom Saturday doing the same thing in the United States.

The 28-year-old Romanian gymnast, who burst into prominence with her run of perfect 10s in the 1976 Olympics, slipped out of sight Friday following a brief news conference shortly after her arrival at John F. Kennedy International Airport.

"I wanted to have a free life," said Comaneci, who was guaranteed political asylum here, and on Saturday that included staying out of the limelight generated by her defection.

Comaneci reportedly spent Friday night in New York, but there were varying reports about her whereabouts Saturday.

United States Gymnastics Federation spokeswoman Patti Auer said the State Department told a federation official that Comaneci was headed to Miami on Saturday afternoon on a Pan Am flight.

MANILA — A Filipino photographer helps in rescuing a badly injured government soldier as flames engulfed military vehicles moments after a rebel fighter jet bombed their position.

Rebels attempt to overthrow Aquino

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Government jet fighters and helicopter gunships blasted rebel positions Sunday after soldiers trying to overthrow President Corazon Aquino bombarded the armed forces headquarters with heavy artillery.

The fighting belied government claims that the latest coup attempt against Mrs. Aquino had failed. Officials say at least 42 people have been killed and 200 wounded since the rebels launched their attacks early Friday.

Witnesses said two jet fighters Sunday flew at least seven passes rocketing rebel strongholds near Camp Aguinaldo, the military headquarters in suburban Quezon City five miles east of Mrs. Aquino's offices.

A spokesman for the U.S.-run Clark Air Base said there were no American warplanes in the skies over Manila on Sunday. U.S. military planes began flying cover for government troops on Friday, hours after rebels launched their assaults, but American officials said the U.S. planes ended those flights at 6 a.m. Saturday.

A government spokesman said Mrs. Aquino and her family attended Mass at the Malacanang Palace and prayed for an end to the carnage.

In Manila's Makati financial district, mutineers continued to occupy the Intercontinental Hotel and other buildings. Witnesses said rebels atop the hotel fired bursts from a machine gun and snipers fired intermittently at motorists.

Police were preparing to move against the rebels late Saturday but drew back after the insurgents attacked, killing one policeman and wounding 14.

Rebels blasted Camp Aguinaldo with barrages from 105mm howitzers, setting fire to the Headquarters Service Company building and hundreds of military families fled the sprawling compound. Hospitals reported three people were killed and 25 wounded by the bombardment.

Brig. Gen. Rodolfo Biazon, chief of the Capital Defense Command, said some mutinous marines infiltrated the camp early Sunday.

He said the rebels smashed through the main gate with an armored vehicle that was immediately hit by ground fire from the defenders and the mutineers were unable to advance.

Catholics urged to register

ROME (AP) — The leader of the Ukrainian Catholic Church urged millions of faithful in the Soviet Ukraine on Saturday to take advantage of new concessions allowing them to register with authorities.

"We have prayed for this day for over 43 years, and God has answered our prayers," Rome-based Cardinal Myroslav Lubachivsky said. "Our suffering is coming to an end."

Lubachivsky was referring to Friday's announcement by government officials in the Ukraine that Ukrainian Catholics could officially register their congregations like other religious groups. The church has been banned since 1946.

The move came as Pope John Paul II was holding historic talks at the Vatican with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

"I call upon our faithful in Ukraine to avail themselves of this right and to begin to register our congregations with authorities as soon as possible," Lubachivsky said in a statement.

Party members jeer Krenz

EAST BERLIN (AP) — Thousands of Communist Party members jeered party leader Egon Krenz on Saturday and booed his promises of change as he appeared at a rally on the eve of meeting that could lead to changes in the leadership.

"We don't believe you anymore!" party members shouted at Krenz as he addressed the rally in front of the Central Committee building in East Berlin.

The crowd booed and whistled when Krenz promised the party leadership would thoroughly investigate disclosures of massive corruption and high living among top party officials.

"Too late!" they shouted.

Krenz, 52, has been trying desperately to distance himself from the old hard-line leadership, of which he was a prominent member. He replaced party leader Erich Honecker on Oct. 18 and began a campaign to disclose abuse and purge the Old Guard.

However, immediate reform efforts did not stop the exodus of thousands to the West and the huge street demonstrations. And Krenz's support in June for China's crackdown on pro democracy demonstrators has been another obstacle in his effort to win over the public.

Strong showing in Taiwan election

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — The opposition made strong gains in the island's first multiparty elections and handed the ruling Nationalist Party an embarrassing defeat in the hometown of Taiwan's president, according to election results Sunday.

Ballot-rigging and noisy protests marred Saturday's election, the first national vote since the Nationalist Party lifted martial law in 1987. The Nationalists have been in power since they fled to Taiwan following their 1949 defeat by the Communists in China's civil war.

Thousands of angry opposition supporters surrounded government office buildings in several cities Saturday, calling for recounts or demanding results. Protesters broke windows in one city.

The opposition Democratic Progressive Party claimed "a great victory." With nearly all districts reporting, the Nationalists were garnering 55 percent of the popular vote, while the opposition won about 35 percent. The rest went to independents.

Man charged in 'mattress murder' could face trial

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — An April 1988 murder case is expected to be set for trial Tuesday in 118th District Court.

Robert Flores, 31, one of three men charged with murder in connection with the bludgeoning death of 53-year-old Manuel Garcia, could face trial Dec. 11 in district court.

Dubbed "the mattress murder" by district court officials because Garcia's body was discovered in a west side city sand pit under a bed mattress and other items, the case also involves murder charges against Flores' older brother Ricardo Romero Flores, 32, and Leroy Flores Alaniz, 30.

Robert Flores testified May 20, 1988, in two parole revocation hearings for Alaniz that he struck Garcia in the head with a pipe April 2, 1988, because he believed Garcia had tried to molest his daughter. Flores said he didn't mean to kill Garcia, a parolee from Odessa, but just wanted to "beat him up."

Robert Flores is currently free on $50,000 bond. Ricardo Flores has been in the Howard County jail for the past six months on charges of revocation of parole stemming from an arrest in Lamesa for resisting arrest. Alaniz's status is unclear, although his parole was revoked after the hearings in May. Five civil cases have also been placed on the court docket for Tuesday, but Assistant District Attorney William Dupree said criminal cases generally have priority over civil cases and that the prosecution is preparing to try the case.

Extension agent

Entries will be accepted Monday for the County Pecan Show. Entries need to be received by the extension agent's office before 5 p.m. in preparation for the pecan show Tuesday at the Highland South Shopping Center, said Don Richardson, county agricultural extension agent.

Contestants are asked to submit 40 pecans of a single variety for an entry, Richardson said. There is no entry charge, but all entries become property of the pecan show, he said.

Entries will be judged by Sammy Helmers, extension specialist for horticulture for the district.

Winning entries will be forwarded to Midland for the West Texas Regional Pecan Show, Richardson said.

The Extension Homemakers will hold their county-wide Christmas meeting 11 a.m. Monday at the Youth Hall of First Methodist Church.

Around the courthouse

The luncheon meeting is for extension homemakers and anyone else interested, County Extension Agent Naomi Hunt said. Those who attend are encouraged to bring a salad.

There will be a White Elephant gift exchange during the meeting, she said.

4-H will hold its county-wide Christmas party from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday at the Elbow Cafeteria. Members are encouraged to bring a canned good to be distributed to a needy organization.

There was a beef and cattle seminar for 4-H leaders Friday and Saturday. The training program stressed fitting, grooming and showmanship, Richardson said.

The Jeffrey Cattle Company of McCalley was featured in the program, said Richardson, adding that the family has been involved in the show cattle program for 30 years.

Breakout

A prisoner in the Howard County jail apparently devised his own plan for personalized room service. The man lowered a string with a vial or small baggie tied to the end of it out a window and down to the ground level of the courthouse.

County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said he was doing work in his office when he noticed something dangling outside one of his office windows. Wilkerson alerted sheriff's deputies, who entered the jail and found the man at the other end, still holding the string.

The man told sheriff's deputies he wanted his girlfriend to fill the bag with chewing tobacco, Wilkerson said. The man already had two full cans of tobacco on him when they discovered him with the string, a sheriff's deputy said.

No charges were brought against the man, but he was removed from the trusty room and placed in a cell, the deputy said.

And two attorneys who found themselves in a bind when they discovered they were locked in the courthouse law library Wednesday evening chose a unique solution to their problem. The attorneys, who found both entrances to the library locked after business hours and unable to be opened from the inside, removed a smoke-glass window facing the inside of the courthouse window and crawled out, district court officials said. No one was injured and the window was removed without damaging it, court officials said.

doesn't mean there's any major drug problems in the schools."

The program was presented in an effort to strike a rapport with the students.

Drug education

A Howard County Sheriff's Deputy and an agent with the regional drug task force recently presented an anti-drug program to a freshman health class at Forsan High School.

"It's not an entirely new thing," Sheriff A.N. Standard said of the drug presentation, adding, "It covered the types of drugs prevalent in the area and the effects of drugs on the user. The program was presented by Deputy Jack Howard and Wayne Dial, an agent with the Permian Basin Drug Task Force.

Standard said any other groups that would like to have a drug program presented can request one by calling him.

District court filings

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Several former employees of the Petrolite Corporation filed a $12.5 million lawsuit against their former employer seeking to recover money for their allegedly wrongful termination with the company.

Bobby Burleson, James T. Figg, Wilmer T. Giddens, Leonard R. Hold, Terry D. Meeks, John Stanley Phillips, Norman D. Roberts, Patrick K. Routon and Mark Spannus filed suit in 118th District Court charging they were fired to prevent them from retirement and pension benefits. They also charge other employees of Petrolite made "slanderous and defamatory remarks concerning (them) which were untrue."

The suit filed on behalf of the men said the men performed their jobs in an exemplary manner, but charges that when they refused to sign an agreement that would legally prohibit them from working for other West Texas oil companies for at least a year and a half from the end of their employment with Petrolite, the company fired them. The suit charges that such an agreement would not be valid under Texas law, but that the real reason for their firing was because the company wanted to cheat them out of their benefits.

The suit calls Petrolite's firing of the men is "extreme and outrageous" and charges that the company dealt with them in bad faith. Because of Petrolite's action, the suit charges that the men — who work as salesman in the business of marketing products used to aid production of oil and gas — have had their professional reputations injured.

Remarks allegedly made by other company employees that the men voluntarily quit and had caused the oil company harm in doing so, "seriously damaged the credibility" of the men by making others in the industry unsure if the former employees could meet the needs of other businesses, the suit charges.

Each of the ten men are seeking $250,000 for loss of income and $1 million in exemplary damages. The suit filed by the men also seeks attorneys fees, court costs and interest.

Frances Flores McKiski filed suit against Bruce Cox, M.D. and Melvin Porter, M.D., seeking damages she believes she is entitled to after the two doctors allegedly failed to perform an operation in 1987 to prevent her from having more children.

The suit charges that seven months after McKiski had tubal ligation surgery, following the birth of her second child, she discovered she was pregnant again. Cox and Porter allegedly told McKiski that she was not pregnant; Cox allegedly saying that she had a cyst on an ovary and Porter allegedly telling her she had a tumor.

When test results confirmed McKiski was pregnant, Cox allegedly told her he would deliver the child for half price and not charge her to complete the tubal ligation surgery; Porter allegedly advised her to seek an abortion.

McKiski charges both men failed to perform the surgery correctly. The suit filed by McKiski seeks unnamed general and specific damages and attorneys fees.

Separate replies to the allegations by Cox and Porter deny the charges.

Caroline Velasquez filed suit against NFC Inc., Don Newsom individually and doing business as IGA Newsom, seeking damages for injuries she allegedly suffered after she fell. Velasquez charges she fell because of a slippery substance on the floor of the store at 1300 Gregg St.

Velasquez, who allegedly injured her back in the incident, charged that the business failed to inspect the floor or warn of a possibly dangerous condition.

Velasquez is seeking unspecified damages and court costs.

HC plans San Angelo campus expansion

By JOHN McMILLAN
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Howard College plans to move into a new building for its San Angelo campus by next January, and according to a school official, it will more than double the number of students it can accommodate.

Howard College president Bob Riley said Friday the new building will be able to serve as many as 800 students.

"Our moving into this new facility will certainly enhance the image of Howard College in San Angelo," said Riley, who predicted that the San Angelo campus's enrollment will reach 800 students in five years.

"We have made a commitment to San Angelo to provide quality educational programming, and this facility will allow us to develop a more collegiate atmosphere for our students and faculty at that location."

Riley said he expects plans for rental of a new building to be completed in the next few weeks. On Thursday, Howard's board of trustees approved $39,500 in renovations to the new building at 3197 Executive Drive.

The building, located in southeast San Angelo, is a former training center for General Telephone and Electronics. Its 16,800 square feet includes 10 classrooms, a library area, a media center and an area for a student center.

Howard's current San Angelo campus at 2416 Vanderventer has six classrooms, in addition to faculty and administrative offices, in its 6,000 square feet.

Enrollment this fall at the San Angelo campus was 158, making it the largest of Howard's seven branch locations. The San Angelo campus offers courses in vocational nursing, business, office technology, legal assistant training, medical records technology and computer science.

"They're crowded now, and it is not as conducive to education as we would like," Riley said.

Howard College has maintained a branch in San Angelo since 1980. Student enrollment has grown steadily from about 100 that year.

Riley emphasized that the San Angelo campus will remain self-supporting, in accordance with the policy of Howard's board of trustees for branch campuses.

Three businessmen in San Angelo — Arch Black, Frank Junnell and Martin Lee — made the move possible by forming the Howard College-San Angelo Foundation to purchase the new building and rent it to the college, according to Riley. The foundation is still negotiating that purchase from JAT Enterprises of Chicago, Riley said.

Riley said the school prefers to rent the new building, since it would present less of a liability if Howard ever leaves San Angelo. The school will probably rent the building on a three-year lease, he said. Rent will be $6,500 a month, Riley said.

The businessmen hope the new location will make it possible for Howard to eventually offer more high-tech education.

Steers vs. Lobos

The Big Spring Steers will face their District 4-4A arch-rivals, the Monahans Lobos, in the Class 4A quarterfinals at 2 p.m. Saturday in Midland Memorial Stadium.

The Lobos, who finished second to Big Spring in district play, earned the right to the rematch by downing Wichita Falls Hirschi, 20-19, Saturday night at Abilene's Shotwell Stadium.

The Steers had advanced earlier in the day by defeating the Fort Worth Brewer Bears, 39-6, also at Shotwell Stadium. Big Spring defeated Monahans earlier this season by a 28-16 score.

BSHS swim team

PECOS — The Big Spring High School swim team fared well here Saturday, as the girls placed first and the boys second in a tri-meet with Pecos and Fort Stockton.

The BSHS girls easily outdistanced their rivals, scoring 83 points to Pecos' 66 and Fort Stockton's 38.

Christy Webb placed first in two individual events. She won the 50-yard freestyle event with a time of 29.11 and the 100-yard freestyle in 1:04.1. Webb also teamed with Debra McMillan, Sally Lopez and Erick Clarkson to win the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Other Big Spring first-place finishes were: Lopez in the 200 freestyle, 2:47.46; Clarkson, 100 butterfly, 1:23.08; Lopez, 500 freestyle, 7:23.70; and Clarkson, 100 backstroke, 1:17.30.

In the boys bracket, Pecos edged BSHS, 107 points to 103, while Fort Stockton finished a distant third with 51 points.

Johnny Webb led the way for Big Spring with two individual first-place finishes. He won the 200 individual medley in a time of 2:24.47 and the 500 freestyle in 5:38.73. He also teamed with Abel Diaz, Chase Fraser and Chris Fuqua to capture the 100 freestyle relay in 4:28.70.

Other first-place finishes for Big Spring were: Diaz, 200 freestyle, 2:02.26; Fuqua, 100 freestyle, 51.78; and Diaz, 100 backstroke, 1:03.05.

The BSHS tankers return to action Saturday when they participate in the Seminole Invitational swim meet.

Borden in tourney

MIDLAND — It was a case of David vs. Goliath — and David almost won.

The Borden County Lady Coyotes — coming from a small Class A school with an enrollment of about 50 — butted heads with seven Class 5A schools at this weekend's Tall City Tournament here.

After losing a close game in the first round to host Midland, the Lady Coyotes rebounded to knock off Lubbock Estacado and El Paso Riverside to win the consolation trophy at the tournament.

"We were scared to death in the first game," Borden coach Bill May said. "We played bad. It was like, 'Wow, what are we doing here?'"

Midland broke open a one-point game in the fourth quarter to gain the win. The key to Midland's win was that the Lady Bulldogs went to the free-throw line 35 times in the game, as opposed to only twice for Borden.

It was the Lisha Sternadel Show in the second-round game against Estacado, however. The senior wing player scored 30 points to lead Borden to a 56-45 win.

Sternadel was hot again in the consolation final match against Riverside, scoring 21 points to lead the Lady Coyotes to 55-39 win.

"It was a good experience for us," May said. "It was something we never faced before. After we settled down and realized that they could only put five players on the floor, just like us, we did OK."

The Lady Coyotes, 5-1 for the season, return to action Tuesday when they host Jayton.

BORDEN CO. (49) — Amanda Anderson 21.5; Randi Woodward 6.0; Julie Harris 2.0; Leslie Fryar 4.0; Lisha Sternadel 7.0; Amy Lewis 1.0; totals 22.149.

Steers power way to playoff win

By STEVE BELVIN

ABILENE — The Big Spring Steers gave the Fort Worth Brewer Bears a lesson in power football — and they did it well, crushing the Bears 39-6 in regional play here Saturday afternoon.

The Steers combined an tireless rushing attack with a nasty defense as they completely dominated the Bears, who finish their season with a 11-2 mark. Big Spring advances to the quarterfinals with an 10-2 record.

The Committee — Big Spring's strong stable of running backs — rolled to 341 yards on the ground. Wingback Neal Mayfield led the ground attack, which featured eight different running backs. The 212-pounder junior shredded the Bear defense for 112 yards on 14 carries.

For the second straight week, the Steers had success running the trap; fullbacks Terry Bailey and Clay Atkinson combined for 97 yards on 22 carries. Tailback Jermaine Miller banged away for 62 yards on 15 carries and quarterback Rance Thompson added 46 yards on five totes.

As for passing goes, Big Spring didn't need to. Thompson only threw four times, completing short gains to Jason Davis and Miller. Davis, the PAT kicker, took a bobbled snap and passed to Calvin Marion for a two-point conversion

Brewer came into the game averaging 35 points per game and 416 yards total offense. Against Big Spring, their only touchdown was set up by a Steer fumble at Big Spring's 11. Brewer managed only 119 yards.

Rodriguez had a remarkable day, picking off three passes. The Steers scored after two of the thefts. Rodriguez also broke up three passes and almost had two more interceptions.

LeGrand, the 231-pound senior, had a couple of stops behind the line of scrimmage and also sacked Brewer quarterback Ben Fay twice. The Steers constantly pressured Fay, sacking him four times.

Steers coach David Thompson had nothing but praise for his defense, and the Chairman — Big Spring's offensive line. "The offensive line did the job. You've got to

Ware captures Heisman

By RICK WARNER
AP Football Writer

NEW YORK — The nation finally got to see Andre Ware on Saturday — as the Heisman Trophy winner.

The record-breaking Houston quarterback, whose exploits weren't seen on television because his school is on probation, overcame the blackout and a slew of skeptics to win college football's most prestigious award.

Ware, who smashed 13 NCAA marks this season while directing the Cougars' run-and-shoot offense, edged running back Anthony Thompson of Indiana by 70 points. Quarterback Major Harris of West Virginia finished third and quarterback Tony Rice of Notre Dame was fourth, both well back.

It was the fourth closest vote ever. The narrowest margin of victory was 45 points in 1985 when Bo Jackson of Auburn beat Iowa's Chuck Long.

Ware did not attend the ceremony at the Downtown Athletic Club because Houston played Rice in the afternoon. However, the 6-foot-2, 205-pound junior from Dickinson, Texas, made a brief appearance on CBS' live Heisman telecast following Houston's 64-0 victory.

"We've overcome a lot as a football team, so I'm accepting this for my teammates and the University of Houston," he said in a satellite interview from Rice Stadium.

"This just shows that anything is possible. At the beginning of the season, who would believe I would be sitting here today accepting the Heisman Trophy?"

Ware is the ninth junior, the first black quarterback and the first player from a school on probation to win the Heisman. Houston was penalized for violations that occurred before Ware joined the program.

Ware received 242 first-place votes and 1,073 points in nationwide voting by sports journalists and former Heisman winners.

Wylie sweeps Coahoma tourney finals

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs sure picked the wrong time to have an off shooting night. Saturday night in the finals of the Coahoma Invitational, the Bulldogs had a miserable time putting the ball in the hoop, dropping a 64-46 decision to the Wylie Bulldogs.

To say the Bulldogs were cold would be putting it mildly. If Coahoma had shot fairly decent from the foul line, they would have been in contention. In this marathon game, the Bulldogs went to the foul line 48 times and made only 23, for a meager 47 percent.

From the field the 'Dogs were icy cold, making only nine of 43 goals for 21 percent. Five of the Bulldogs field goals were three-pointers.

It all left Coahoma coach Kim Nichols puzzled, especially about his team's foul shooting. "We're just young players, I really can't explain it," said Nichols. "We couldn't make a free throw tonight, and last night (Friday) we made 26 of 32. I think the guys started pressing when we started missing. We're better than we were two

Sudan slaps Garden City out of playoffs

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

SEMINOLE — Garden City fans will bleakly recall this one as the Wipeout in Wigwam Stadium.

The Sudan Hornets, doing nothing to disprove their No. 1 state ranking, combined a steamroller offense and a suffocating defense en route to a 49-6 shellacking of the Garden City Bearcats in Class A regional action here Friday night.

The Hornets' victory allows them to advance in playoff action to play Wheeler, a 13-12 victor over Rankin. The loss ends Garden City's season at 9-3.

A look at the statistics only serves to illustrate Sudan's dominance. The Hornets gained 537 total yards on offense, while limiting the Bearcat attack to only 142 yards.

The Hornets even had Lady Luck on their side. After going ahead, 7-0, in the first, Sudan forced a Garden City punt. The Chad Soles boot was bobbled by the Hornets' receiver, and it appeared that Garden City had recovered, but point in the game. "It was very important at the time; you're talking about a

Fourth-quarter pass showed a definite lack of class

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Random notes after a playoff weekend:

***
The Garden City Bearcats saw their season end abruptly Friday night, as they were wallpopped by the Sudan Hornets, 49-6, in Class A regional playoff action.

The Hornets, the No. 1 ranked team in Class A, looked the part in Seminole Friday. They totally dominated the Bearcats in every phase of the game.

In every phase except class, that is.

Faithful readers of this column know about my aversion to teams that run up the score against an opponent that is obviously beaten.

Analysis

Well, folks, it happened again Friday.

With less than two minutes left in the game, the Hornets had fourth down near midfield. The game, for all practical purposes, was over and everybody was simply waiting for the final seconds to tick off the clock so they could go home.

Kyle Maxfield, the Hornets' punter (and first-string quarterback) went back in punt formation. Then, just before the snap, he ran back toward the line of scrimmage, took the ball and passed for a first down.

At that moment, regardless of whatever great glory the Hornets might bring to dear ol' Sudan High, I (and several others in the pressbox) lost all respect for the team.

If this had been a close game, I could understand Maxfield's actions. But the play served no purpose except to rub the Bearcats' collective noses in the already plain fact that they had lost the ball game.

And the Hornets displayed about as much class as a crack in the road.

For Pete's sake, folks, we're not talking about world war or anything like that. We're talking about a game — a silly little game that few will remember in 30 years.

And this game, which is supposed to build character or some other noble purpose like that, is cheapened when teams like the Hornets pull these kind of third-grade stunts.

An observer in the press box told me that this was not the first time the Hornets had run up the score against an opponent. Somehow, I wasn't surprised.

A final note to this sad episode came after the game. I must have been voicing my disgust a bit louder than normal, because a man came up to me and told me that Garden City Coach Sam Scott had "instigated" the whole mess.

"He pointed his finger at the Sudan defense in the first quarter," the man replied.

The man's explanation would have been extremely laughable if it didn't point to a very sad fact: It was bad enough the Hornets did what they did, but some anonymous fan had to defend their actions with one of the lamest excuses ever uttered.

Whatever finger-pointing Scott may have done during the game, he refrained — both figuratively and literally — from any such action afterward. Although he was visibly upset, he congratulated Sudan on having a good football team.

That they do. The Hornets have enough skill to win the state championship.

But, for Friday night at least, they didn't have enough class to fill a test tube.

press. Jennifer Munoz and company came within seven with 5:36 left in the quarter. Gee popped in a three-pointer to rebuild to a 36-25 edge.

With 6:10 left in the contest Williams fouled out but the Bulldogettes managed to keep the lead and win the second round tilt 59-45.

"We had our minds on everything else but basketball. Maybe our minds were on the next round. I don't know. One thing I'm sure about is that we better start playing better or else," said coach Truman Meissner.

Girls Friday's night action involved the Blackwell Lady Hornets against the Forsan Queens. The Lady Hornets came out with a 19-8 first quarter lead and held back the Queens to take a 59-49 win. Christy Williams led all scoring with 31 points, followed by Traci Hindman. The Queens were led by Carrie Moore's nine points.

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs went up against the Forsan Buffaloes Friday night in second round action. The home team earned the right to face Abilene Wylie with a 76-67 struggle.

Forsan began the contest with Dave Russell hitting a three-pointer followed by a Stephen East basket to give the visitors a 5-0 lead. The Bulldogs quickly responded with shots from David Molina and a three-pointer to even the score from Brent Elmore. East popped in two three-pointers moving the Buffs ahead of the host team. Coahoma managed to keep up with Forsan as senior John Overton rose up to the occasion. "John is improving every game, he is more confident with his role on the floor. He is one that we look for leadership. When he has a strong game we as a team follow suit," said Head coach Kim Nichols. Forsan took a first quarter lead 19-16.

With less than two minutes left in the first stanza, the Bulldogs began pressing the visitors. The press worked as Coahoma was able to move the Forsan game plan away from the basket. Forsan responded with fine shooting from Charley Netwon and East. "We knew we had to play the press well to work. We were able to keep East and Newton away from the paint," said Nichols. Coahoma took the lead with 3:10 left from the Buffs as John Overton hit a basket from the paint. Rusty Ginnetti took over from there. Ginnetti did not become a factor in the contest until late in the first half. He scored seven points, including a three-pointer.

Ginnetti scored 29 points as he hit five from behind the three-point arc to lift the host team over the Forsan five. Although Forsan made a late move, the Bulldogs maintained composure and went on to defeat Forsan 76-67.

Coahoma (76) — Ginnetti 4 (4) 9-10 29; John Overton 6 6-6 18; Molina 3 6-6 12; Elmore 2 (1) 2-2 9; Ezell 1 1-2 3; Arguello 1 (1) 4-6 8; TOTALS 17 (6) 26-32 76.

In other boys' Friday night action involved the Snyder JV's against the Blackwell Hornets with the Tigers taking a 55-54 win. Snyder was led by Jerry Don Tipens with 13; teammates Barron Wesley had 12 and Eric West hit 10. For the Hornets Lee Smith popped in 19 and Kyle Scott scored 10.

Hawks to open conference play against Midland

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — 14-0. It's been a perfect season for the Howard College Hawks, but an unblemished record won't mean anything when they meet Midland College Monday night. The Hawks face the Chaparrals in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 7:30 p.m. in their Western Junior College Athletic Conference opener.

For Howard, it's a new season. Preconference wins don't count anything toward a conference title or a regional playoff spot.

"You've got to finish in the top four in your conference race... to make the regional playoffs," said Hawks coach Steve Green. "If you win enough (conference) games, you go on. If you don't, too bad."

Midland is 7-4 on the season and 1-0 in league play after beating Western Texas College. Although the Chaparrals have four losses, they are traditionally a powerful team and were picked number one in the coaches' preseason poll. And, Green said, preconference losses don't count either.

"All the games take on a greater importance," Green said. "They mean more," and teams play harder, he said.

Although season records go out the window during conference play, the Hawks' undefeated streak at least shows the team in good.

"It's an indication that we've got a good team," Green said. "We're a team that's capable of winning a conference championship. Now we've got to go out and do it."

The Hawks start Monday with a team that is a mirror image in almost every area.

Midland plays very similar to the way we do," Green said. "They're going to get it up and down the floor. I think they're pretty close to the same size. We've got very similar teams I think."

Midland, which finished third in the league last season, was picked first in the coaches' poll because they return more starters than any other team. Green said the Hawks, who return one starter in Terrence Lewis, will have to play extremely well to beat the Chaparrals.

"They've got a very good team," he said. "We're going to have to shoot the ball better than we have been. We just haven't shot that well the last couple of outings. I feel like we've missed a lot of open shots lately."

"We don't shoot bad shots — we've got a couple of guys who haven't been shooting well."

For the season, the Hawks have been shooting well enough to average 110.8 points per game, 30 more than their opponents. Lewis, a preseason All-American, has been averaging 25 points, and freshman Johnnie McDowell has been averaging 20 points and 10 rebounds. Carlos Thumm is averaging eight points and Harvey Petty 11.

Green said the Hawks' bench also will have to play well since it will be a fast-paced, tiring game. Howards' defense should be ready for a Midland team that is capable of scoring well over 100 points, he said.

"Our defense will be ready," he said. "We're really concentrating on it in these days that we have."

The team is excited the conference season is finally here, and are not at all intimidated by Midland's reputation, Green said.

"They're ready to play," he said. "These guys don't know who Midland is. Different places have tradition but it doesn't affect other teams in their approach to the game."

"They're not as aware of other teams and what they've accomplished like the people that live here are."

It will be important for the Hawks to start quickly in conference play, and with back-to-back games against Midland and powerful Odessa College, the Howard needs any advantage it can get. Green said it's a plus that the Hawks are playing both games at home in front of a supportive crowd.

A large crowd, he said, will be very important.

"Any time you play before a big crowd it helps you to get up for a game," he said. "You seem to play a little harder, get a little more excited. I don't know if it gives you an edge, but it definitely doesn't hurt."

A fast start will be good for more than just the Hawks too — at least around Christmas.

"I know this, my friends and family will get a lot nicer Christmas presents if we open up 2 and 0," Green said.

weeks ago. One thing I can say, there's no quit in these kids."

While Coahoma struggled with their shooting, the Wylie Bulldogs shot well against the Coahoma zone. The Bulldogs shot 53 percent from the floor and 73 percent from the line. They also held a 42-26 rebounding edge against the shorter Bulldogs.

A good indication on how the game went was that the Bulldogs trailed 18-11 after the first quarter; seven of their points came on free throws but they also missed seven foul shots. Post player John Overton especially struggled in the first quarter, making just two of eight foul shots.

Things got worse for Coahoma in the second quarter, as Overton, and forward David Molina were each saddled with their third fouls, forcing Nichols to take them out. Overton played very little in the second quarter, and Molina played half the quarter.

Meanwhile the Wylie press, led by quick-handed Eddie Parker, caused Coahoma problems. Parker got three of his game-high five steals in the quarter. With Overton and Molina out, the Bulldog offense sputtered. Wylie led 36-22 at the half, and Molina had half of the Coahoma points.

Coahoma faltered more in the third quarter, as Molina picked up his fourth foul a minute into the quarter. Ken Blackman and Chris Belt added baskets for Wylie, and then Todd Garner got two laups when Wylie beat the Coahoma press. Wylie led 42-22 with 6:05 left in the third quarter. For all practical purposes, the contest was over.

Parker, Garner and Randy Ervin led a balanced Wylie scoring attack with 10 points each. Barry Piland came off the bench to lead all rebounders with 10.

Molina paced Coahoma with 11 points. Guard Rusty Ginnetti scored eight points, all from the foul line. Overton and Molina grabbed five rebounds each.

give it to the line," said Thompson. "We blocked hard and ran hard. What can I say about the defense? They played great all day."

"We dominated them on defense. They wouldn't have scored if we hadn't fumbled down there on the 11. The offense kept the ball away from them and negated their speed. They can't score if they don't have the ball."

Brewer ruined Big Spring shutout thanks to a Bailey fumble at the Steer 11-yardline in the third quarter. Even then, it took Brewer six plays — and the aid of a five-yard penalty — to score.

Halfback Trevor Edwards, who was the Bears' leading rusher with 62 yards in 13 carries, scored from the two. The try for two failed and that was the only time Brewer lit up the scoreboard.

After stopping Brewer on its first possession, Big Spring marched for its first score of the game, a 41-yard field goal by Gerald Cobos.

In the second quarter Big Spring got good field position when Spencer Taylor's fumble was recovered by middle linebacker Felipe Soto at the Brewer 20.

Four plays later, Thompson scored from nine yards out on an option play. Jason Davis booted the first of his four extra points, and the Steers led 10-0 with 8:13 remaining in the half.

Rodriguez's first interception set up the next Steer TD. He picked off Fay's pass at the Big Spring 47.

With Mayfield and Miller ripping off big chunks of yardage, the Steers scored in 10 plays. Mayfield scooted around left end for 5 yards. The Steers led 17-0 at the half.

Big Spring didn't let up in the second half either. The Steers took the opening kickoff and marched 75 yards in 14 plays, using almost six minutes of the clock. Mayfield scored from the one and Big Spring led 24-0.

Bailey fumbled, Brewer scored, and then the Steers continued their onslaught. Late in the quarter Rodriguez picked off his second theft of the game, returning it 36 yards to the Brewer 49. A clipping penalty brought the ball back to the Big Spring 36.

It took Big Spring four plays to score, thanks to a 45-yard run by Mayfield. Fittingly so, Mayfield scored up the middle from nine yards out. Davis' kick gave Big Spring a 31-6 lead with 11:06 left in the fourth quarter.

Big Spring's final score came after a 17-yard punt by Brewer's Mitch Martin. Big Spring rambled 27 yards in three plays. Thompson scored his second TD of the game on a 14-yard run. Davis' two-point conversion pass to Marion capped the scoring for the game, as the Steers advance to the state quarterfinals, thanks to lesson well taught.

make mistakes just like everybody else.

Sudan made the most of its opportunity. On the next play, quarterback Kyle Maxfield found Justin Holley alone on the right sideline for a 68-yard touchdown pass. Joe Gonzales' PAT kick made the score 14-0 with 6:34 left in the opening quarter.

The Bearkats picked up their first first down of the evening on the ensuing drive and had a first down on the Hornets' 49. Disaster struck three plays later, however, as Allen Hoelscher's pass to James Soles was picked off by Holley.

It was a scene that was replayed with great frequency during the evening. Hornet defenders swiped five Garden City passes in the game.

Sudan was unable to convert the gift, turning the ball over on downs. But after forcing another Soles punt, the Hornets went back to work. They drove 63 yards in 5 plays, the clincher coming when Gonzales scored from three yards out.

Another Sudan interception — this one by Jared Bellar — led to the Hornets' final score of the first half. It took Sudan eight plays to drive 60 yards, with Bellar scoring from eight yards out. At halftime, the Hornets led, 28-0.

Garden City was unable to mount any kind of comeback in the second half, thanks to a Sudan defense that intercepted three more passes and limited rushers James Soles and Eric Seidenberger to 76 and 14 yards rushing, respectively.

Bellar scored again in the third quarter — this time from 50 yards out — before the Bearkats mounted their only scoring drive of the night.

The 'Kats struck quickly. After two incomplete passes by backup quarterback Shea Scott, Soles burst through the left side of the line, angled for the sideline and outraced the secondary for a 35-yard TD run. The try for two, however, failed.

Sudan rounded out the scoring with two fourth-quarter touchdowns: a 17-yard run by Bellar and a four-yard pass from Maxfield to Ronnie Freeman.

Bellar led the Sudan ground attack with 122 yards on 11 carries. Gonzales added 91 yards and Maxfield 79 for the Hornets. Maxfield also was effective in the air, completing eight of 14 passes for 181 yards and two TDs.

"We made mistakes early, and they were good enough to take care of things," Scott said.

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Lance Pavlas pump faked and then hit a wide open Percy Waddle with a 45-yard touchdown pass Saturday, lifting 16th-ranked and bowl-bound Texas A&M past Texas 21-10 Saturday.

Texas A&M, which will meet Pittsburgh in the John Hancock Bowl on Dec. 30 in El Paso, finished its regular season 8-3 overall and second in the Southwest Conference at 6-2.

The Longhorns were 5-6 and 4-4. It was Texas' first back-to-back losing seasons since 1937-38.

Pavlas' game-winner came on the final play of the third period and the Longhorns appeared to relax, apparently thinking the Aggies weren't going to get a play off. Cornerback Grady Cavness bit on Pavlas' fake and there wasn't a defender within 20 yards of Waddle.

The 96th meeting of the Longhorns and Aggies was delayed five minutes by a pre-game, midfield brawl between the two squads. Order was restored without injury to either side and nobody was banished to the dressing room.

It was A&M's sixth consecutive victory over Texas, but the Longhorns lead the series 63-28-5.

Texas, which had lost 50-7 to Baylor last week and was a 14-point underdog, stunned the Aggies with a 7-0 lead forged on fullback Winfred Tubbs' 74-yard run. Tubbs ran to the A&M 3 and two plays later Chris Samuels scored from the 1.

HOUSTON (AP) — Andre Ware, who had to turn down an invitation to attend Saturday's Heisman Trophy presentation, added to his seven NCAA records by setting seven more as No. 13 Houston crushed Rice 64-0 in the Southwest Conference season finale for both teams.

Ware, who completed 36 of 51 passes for 400 yards and two touchdowns, set records for most completions in a season, 366; total offense, 4,661 yards; and passing offense, 4,699. He also ran for a score Saturday before leaving early in the third quarter.

Ware's 9-yard touchdown pass to Manny Hazard in the first quarter was the wide receiver's 10th game with at least one scoring pass, an NCAA record. Hazard, with 13 receptions, also set a collegiate record with 141 catches this season.

Houston, on NCAA probation and ineligible for a bowl appearance, finished the year at 9-2 overall and 6-2 in the conference. Rice wound up 2-8-1 overall and 2-6 in the league.

Running back Chuck Weatherspoon, bouncing off tacklers along the way, scored on runs of 46 and 29 yards and the Houston defense stifled Rice all day.

After Ware's scoring toss to Hazard, Cougar linebacker Reggie Burnette returned an interception 21 yards to make it 31-0 after the first quarter.

Ware opened the second quarter by running 11 yards for a score and defensive back Cornelius Price took another interception 45 yards for a second-period touchdown. Price's interception was his 11th of the year, setting a Southwest Conference season record.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Quinn Grovey ended a 62-yard touchdown drive with a 3-yard run as ninth-ranked Arkansas came from behind in the fourth quarter to beat Southern Methodist 38-24 on Saturday and wrap up its second straight Southwest Conference championship.

Grovey's scoring run was the 14th play of a drive that began after the 2-8 Mustangs took a 24-23 lead with 10:21 left in the game.

Alabama loses, but still gets Sugar Bowl bid

By The Associated Press

Auburn impressed a lot of people Saturday, especially No. 2 Alabama. But the Sugar Bowl committee looked the other way.

No. 11 Auburn virtually ended Alabama's hopes for a national championship with a 30-20 victory, throwing the Southeastern Conference into a three-way championship deadlock.

The SEC champion receives an automatic bid for the Sugar Bowl. Despite the loss, the Sugar Bowl committee decided to invite Alabama, which will play fourth-ranked Miami, Fla., on Jan. 1.

"We were pressing, struggling to do things that normally come easily," Bill Curry said of Alabama after seeing his coaching record against Auburn fall to 0-10, the last three at "Bama and the first seven at Georgia Tech.

"I hate to lose," Curry said. "My job is to teach people how to win in football, and I especially detest losing to a team and a coach I've never been able to beat."

The Crimson Tide, which clinched its share of the crown earlier in the season, fell into the three-way tie with the Tigers and No. 8 Tennessee, which beat Vanderbilt 17-10 earlier in the day.

Auburn will play in the Hall of Fame Bowl on Jan. 1 against Ohio State and Tennessee faces Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl, also Jan. 1.

In Houston, Andre Ware, broke seven NCAA records in No. 13 Houston's 66-0 thrashing of Rice and later became the ninth junior to win the Heisman Trophy.

Ware, unable to attend the Heisman presentation in New York, completed 36 of 51 passes for 400 yards and two touchdowns in the season finale for both teams.

Ware, who already had seven NCAA records entering the game, set marks for most completions in a season, 366; total offense, 4,661 yards; and passing offense, 4,699. He also ran for a score before leaving early in the third quarter.

Houston, on NCAA probation and ineligible for a bowl appearance, finished the year at 9-2 overall and 6-2 in the conference. Rice wound up 2-8-1 overall and 2-6 in the league.

"We weren't able to go to bowls this year," said Houston coach Jack Pardee, "and to have our players getting behind Andre — that wouldn't have happened if An-

Thompson got 185 first-place votes and 1,003 points, followed by Harris (115 and 709) and Rice (72 and 523).

Players receive three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third.

Rounding out the top finishers were quarterback Darian Hagan of Colorado, quarterback Dee Dowis of Air Force, running back Emmitt Smith of Florida, linebacker Percy Snow of Michigan State and quarterback Ty Detmer of Brigham Young. Flanker Raghib "Rocket" Ismail of Notre Dame and running back Blair Thomas of Penn State tied for 10th.

The voting was split along regional lines. Ware carried the South, Southwest and Northeast, while Thompson led in the Midwest and Far West. Harris was the top vote-getter in the Mid-Atlantic region.

Although Ware got 57 more first-place votes than Thompson, their point totals were close because 286 of the 743 people who voted left Ware off their ballots — apparently a backlash against Houston's probation.

Thompson, who set NCAA career records for touchdowns and points, said he wasn't disappointed by his narrow defeat.

"It's just an honor to be mentioned with all these great dre was a 'me, me, me' person. "They wouldn't have backed that kind of guy. But this was our bowl game — Andre winning for himself and for the team."

The Auburn victory created only the second three-way tie in SEC history, the last coming 50 years ago when Tennessee and former members Georgia Tech and Tulane shared the crown.

"It was 50 years ago when they had the last tri-champion," Auburn coach Pat Dye said. "It was 50 years ago in '39 when this stadium was built and I was born. This 50th anniversary has tested us, but we've had fun."

Alabama (10-1 and 6-1) had its 12-game winning streak — longest in the nation — snapped in the first meeting in history on the Auburn campus between these two cross-state rivals.

In other Top 25 action, it was No. 9 Arkansas 38, Southern Methodist 24; No. 16 Texas A&M 21, Texas 10; and No. 24 Pittsburgh 46, Rutgers 29 in the Emerald Island Classic at Dublin, Ireland.

Reggie Slack completed passes of 44, 58 and 60 yards for Auburn and James Joseph scored touchdowns on runs of 1 and 2 yards. Darrell Williams got the other on a 12-yard run as the Tigers (9-2 overall, 6-1 SEC) gained a share of the conference title for the third year in a row.

Slack connected with Alexander Wright on a 44-yard pass to set up Joseph's first touchdown, one that capped a 68-yard drive on the first series of the game.

The Auburn quarterback had the other big plays in the third quarter when the Tigers erased a 10-7 deficit. He hit Shayne Wasden on a 58-yard pass to set up Joseph's second score and came back five minutes later to hit Wright on a 60-yard play, setting up Win Lyle's 22-yard field goal.

"Slack was incredible," Curry said. "He was a great, great player today. Great players rise to the occasion, and Slack did that today."

No. 9 Arkansas 38, Southern Methodist 24. Quarterback Quinn Grovey ended a 62-yard touchdown drive with a 3-yard run as the Razorbacks came from behind in the fourth quarter to wrap up their second straight Southwest Conference championship.

Grovey's scoring run was the 14th play of a drive that began after the 2-8 Mustangs took a 24-23 lead with 10:21 left.

The Razorbacks are 10-1 and headed for the Cotton Bowl for the second straight year. Southern Methodist finished at 2-9.

No. 16 Texas A&M 21, Texas 10. Lance Pavlas pump faked then hit a wide open Percy Waddle with a 45-yard touchdown pass, lifting bowl-bound Texas A&M University to a Southwest Conference victory over the arch-rival Longhorns.

Texas A&M, which will meet Pittsburgh in the John Hancock (Sun) Bowl on Dec. 30 in El Paso, finished its regular season 8-3 overall and second in the SWC at 6-2.

The Longhorns were 5-6 and 4-4. It was Texas' first back-to-back losing seasons since 1937-38.

Pavlas' game-winner came on the final play of the third period. Cornerback Grady Cavness bit on Pavlas' fake and there wasn't a defender within 20 yards of Waddle.

No. 24 Pittsburgh 46, Rutgers 29. Running back Curvin Richards caught a pair of touchdown passes from Alex Van Pelt and added another score on a 1-yard run as Pittsburgh overpowered Rutgers.

Adam Walker added a pair of rushing touchdowns as the John Hancock Bowl-bound Panthers completed their regular season at 7-3-1. Rutgers (2-7-2) finished with seven consecutive losses.

Van Pelt, a redshirt freshman, completed 15 of 25 passes for 336 yards.

Picking the pros

Prognosticator: Will Cowboys turn it around? Not a chance

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

Don't tell the New York Giants that they're favored over Philadelphia Sunday. Every element is against them.

To wit:
• While the Giants were banging heads, arms and legs against San Francisco Monday night, the Eagles were sitting home watching on television, on the fourth day of a 10-day rest following their Thanksgiving game in Dallas.
• The Giants will be without Lawrence Taylor, who sprained a knee and an ankle against the 49ers. Without Taylor, who shadows Randall Cunningham?

• Just as the Giants always seem to beat the Redskins, the Eagles always seem to beat the Giants, usually in off-beat ways. They've won three straight against New York, any or all of which the Giants could have won — Philadelphia got a lot of help from a replay official in their 21-19 win in Philadelphia last month.
New York is favored by three, a number that could drop with Taylor out.
But maybe it should go up. The Giants showed more character and resilience overcoming a 17-point deficit in San Francisco Monday night than they did in their nine wins this year. Unless some bounty hunter knocks out half the team...

GIANTS, 17-13.

Chicago (plus 6) at Minnesota (Sunday night)

Every time Mike Ditka says the Bears' season is over, the rise up and smite someone. This time it may be more difficult, although the Vikings sure can find ways to lose.
VIKINGS 27-17
Cincinnati (plus 4) at Cleveland

Which guys will come out of hibernation? The Bengals had trouble with the win in Buffalo last Sunday and it's almost always windy at this end of Lake Erie, too.
BROWNS, 20-14

Green Bay (minus 3) at Tampa Bay

The kind of game that often trips up an emerging young team that's beaten Chicago, San Francisco and Minnesota but lost to Detroit and to the Bucs at home. That should make them wary, but it'll be a tight fit.
PACKERS, 24-23.

Houston (minus 3) at Pittsburgh Noll-Glanville VIII. The Steelers won in a Miami monsoon last week and the Oilers have trouble with weather.
STEELERS, 27-25

Denver (plus 2) at Raiders

The Broncos may have clinched the division, but the Raiders think they can get a wild-card playoff spot. The incentive talks.
RAIDERS, 24-20

The NFC

Minnesota safety Joey Browner (47) is carried by Green Bay receiver Sterling Sharpe (84) after Sharpe caught a 13-yard pass in recent NFL action. Sunday, the Vikings will play the Chicago Bears, Minnesota's arch-rival in the NFC Central.

Chicago at Minnesota;

Green Bay at Tampa Bay

If the Bears and Bucs win this week, Tampa Bay would be fourth in the three-team middle at the top of the NFC Central — at 6-7, the Bucs would trail three 7-6 teams.

In fact, "four" is the operative number for the Bears, Vikings and Packers, as in four more wins.

"We started 4-0 and our goal is to finish 4-0," says Chicago quarterback Mike Tomczak, whose coach, Mike Ditka, has reneged on his "it's over" statement following last week's 38-14 thrashing in Washington.

Says cornerback Dave Brown of the surprising Packers: "We can't rest on our laurels. We have to win four more."

Although there's no guarantee, if the Bears, Packers or Bears win those four, they would probably win the title. So might the Bucs — 9-7 could be good enough.

All this stems from the problems of the Bears and Vikings. Since Dan Hampton went out with a knee injury, Chicago is 2-6 and has given up 24½ points a game compared to just 15 in its 4-0 start.

Minnesota, meanwhile, has scored just one offensive touchdown in 1-point losses to Philadelphia and Green Bay and just three in their four games. The Vikes are just 4-3 since Herschel Walker arrived as the final ingredient in the New Orleans express.

The Packers, meanwhile, have beaten the Vikings, Bears and 49ers in the past four weeks. That makes them prime to be shot down — between Chicago and San Francisco came a loss to 3-9 Detroit and the Bucs are no picnic, especially at home, where warm weather can erode the stamina of northlanders.

LA Rams at Dallas

The Rams are on the "up" side of an up-and-down season that started with five wins, continued with four losses and now includes three straight wins, including the 20-17 overtime win in New Orleans last Sunday night in which they trailed 17-3 with three minutes left.

Dallas, which had been competitive for three straight weeks, reverted to form in the 27-0 loss to the Eagles marked by the "bounty-hunting" allegations against the Eagles. In fact, Jimmy Johnson, who brought up the subject, now wants to drop it to concentrate on the Rams.

New Orleans at Detroit

The Saints' playoff chances may have died in those final three minutes against the Rams — they're now two games out of an NFC wild-card spot with four games to go.

Detroit's playoff chances were dead before the season began but at least they've become a more interesting team with Barry Sanders and a dangerous one, particularly at home. Moreover, as the Browns can attest, the defense is finally coming around.

San Francisco at Atlanta

The 49ers won the first game 45-3 in San Francisco and play better on the road, which could be a scary thought to Jim Hanifan, who became the Falcons' interim coach when Marion Campbell resigned this week.

Still, San Francisco could let down a bit after their intense Monday night battle with the Giants and the Falcons should be better than their 27-7 loss to the Jets. They were distracted in that one by the death three days earlier of tackle Ralph Norwood.

Washington at Phoenix

The Redskins barely survived the first game with Phoenix, winning 30-28 at RFK. Their offense got back in form last week in the 38-14 win over the Bears, but their playoff chances are marginal.

Phoenix' new coach, Hank Kuhlmann, was the running backs coach but it's the running game that has done in the Cards this year — they had just 43 yards in 22 attempts in a 14-13 loss to Tampa Bay last week.

C-City falls in Friday action

COAHOMA — The Colorado City Wolves played the Wylie Bulldogs close for 10 minutes, after that; it was a rout, as the Bulldogs downed the Wolves 60-45 Friday night in the Coahoma Invitational.

The win advanced the Bulldogs, now 2-4 for the season, to the championship round of the tournament. Colorado City, 1-1, plays for third place.

The outmanned Wolves, which had only six players on the team, (two players are out with injuries) played the much-taller Bulldogs on even terms in the first quarter. After eight minutes of play, the score was tied 12-12.

But after that the Bulldogs got into their fullcourt press, and the Wolves didn't handle it well. The Bulldogs also used their superior height advantage to dominate the boards.

In the first quarter both teams stayed in their halfcourt zone defenses, and Colorado City fared well, despite being badly outrebounded. C-City post player Dane Hoover kept the Wolves in the game, scoring eight of his team-leading 15 points in the quarter.

The Bulldogs came out pressing in the second quarter, and Colorado City began to stumble. Wylie's defense, led by Eddie Parker and Ron Bingham, forced three quick Wolf turnovers and Wylie jumped to a 20-14 lead. From that point it was all Wylie as the on-ly points C-City got in the quarter came from baskets by Wendell Iglehart and Robert Lewis.

Wylie led 27-16 at the half. The third quarter was much the same, as the Wolves continued the turnovers, and Wylie got the ball inside to post players Ken Blackmon, Todd Garner and Randy Ervin. From the outside Parker caught fire, and hit three in a row, and Wylie had salted the game away, 37-20, with 4:17 remaining in the third quarter.

"We didn't play very well tonight," said Colorado City coach Chuck Claxton. "I think our legs were tired from last night (Thursday). This is just our second game. We'll get better though, and this is a good group to work with."

Parker led a balanced Wylie scoring attack with 14 points. Blackmon scored 10 and Garner added nine. Blackmon led a 44-26 rebounding edge for Wylie, pulling down nine rebounds.

Iglehart, the lone reserve, led C-City with seven rebounds. Lewis hauled down six.

Fund raisers

Town & Country Food Stores, Inc., raised $63,024.70 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association during the year 1989. The chain of 130 convenience stores and 7 supermarkets located in Texas and New Mexico, has its headquarters in San Angelo. The participating stores raised the money through individual store projects and donations during the year. This year's total contribution represents a 24% increase over last year.

During the past 8 years, Town & Country Food Stores have contributed close to half a million dollars to the Muscular Dystrophy Association's search for a cure to neuromuscular diseases.

Clues for Conrad

A new campaign called "Clues for Conrad" to further advance communication, courtesy, caring, and commitment was recently launched at the VA Medical Center, according to Conrad Alexander, Director. A "Clues for Conrad" suggestion box has been placed into service to solicit employee and patient ideas on how these "4-C's" can be improved. Each month, the person with the best idea will be rewarded with "Dinner on the Director."

Alexander jokingly states that this could get expensive as the winning suggestion for the first month was submitted by three separate employees: Ms. Anne Looney, Ms. Carol Denton, and Ms. Debby Sneed feel that each employee at the medical center should "walk in my shoes" to develop an appreciation for each other's job and promote teamwork among the twenty-one separate departments at the facility. Steps will be taken to implement their suggestion.

Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson played a surprise visit to the VA to assist in kicking off the new campaign as they searched through the entire medical center for clues to help Conrad. They reported finding "Conrad's Captions" throughout the facility promoting the same commitment to excellence strived for at the medical center.

Pension increase

More than 700,000 veterans and dependents will receive up to a 4.7 percent increase in Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Improved Pension checks payable Dec. 31, 1989.

VA Secretary Edward J. Derwinski said he hopes to announce a similar increase in disability compensation rates for disabled veterans before the year is out.

VA pensions are paid to wartime veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to their military service, and to needy survivors of wartime veterans.

The pension increase applies to 436,505 veterans of wartime service and 260,708 surviving spouses and children. Payment increases will also go to 31,311 parents of deceased veterans receiving Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) benefits.

The increase in monthly payments is automatic and requires no action by recipients. Pension benefits range from annual maximums of $6,767 for a veteran without dependents to $15,222 for a veteran with three dependents who is in need of regular aid and attendance.

Unlike compensation benefits paid to veterans disabled by illness or injuries related to military service, pensions are affected by income from other sources, so the exact amount of the increase varies.

Increases in Improved Pension to wartime veterans and their dependents and DIC payments to deceased veterans' parents are set by law at the same rate and date as Social Security increases.

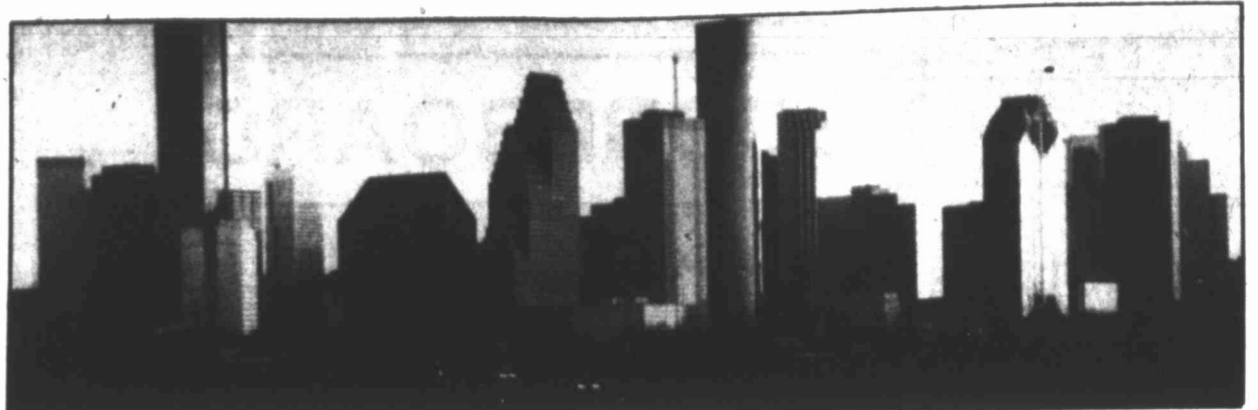

VA pensions other than the Improved Pension remain fixed at the rates in effect in 1978. The income limits that control eligibility for these programs, however, also are increased by 4.7 percent, effective Dec. 1.

Recipients of these pensions may request transfer to the Improved Pension plan at any time. The VA reviews each request to advise beneficiaries which program would be most advantageous.

Veterans and dependents with questions about pensions should contact the nearest VA Regional Office.

Moody's examines credit risks of utility industry

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

WASHINGTON — Winning rate deregulation and then charging consumers more for their power would greatly improve rural electric transmission cooperatives' flagging reputation on Wall Street, industry analysts told utility officials recently.

The advice came just days after Moody's investors service announced it was reevaluating the credit risks of the entire industry. Moody's, a leading financial rating firm, said it was especially skeptical of the "financial flexibility" of the generation and transmission cooperatives, which wholesale rural power for the transmission co-ops to retail.

The move was viewed with alarm by officials of three dozen rural co-ops attending a symposium here sponsored by the leading private underwriter of credit for these utilities, the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corp.

But the co-op officials were urged not to panic and make their reputation worse. Instead, three financial analysts said the image of these utilities as wise investments could improve if they made a variety of moves, including rate increases.

Spokesmen for Cap Rock Electric Co-op Inc., and Lone Wolf Electric Co-op Inc., said the news does not apply to their co-ops, since they do not buy from General and Transmission Co-op.

Cap Rock Electric Co-op has more than 7,000 members in a total of 13 counties, including Howard and Martin. Lone Wolf has about 3,200 customers.

Collecting more revenues would make Wall Street more confident in the utilities' financial stability, which in turn would lead them to charge lower interest rates on their loans. This is especially important because last year 73 percent of all rural electric co-op assets were supported by debt.

For the utilities in 18 states, imposing higher rates would require first convincing their legislatures to approve deregulation. The electric rates of 307 distribution co-ops — or exactly one third of the co-ops nationwide — are now controlled under state laws by agencies such as public utility commissions.

None of the officials could immediately estimate what effect that would have on consumer bills in the regulated states.

But Robert R. Edmiston of Shearson of Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. said such deregulation would create "a tremendous advantage" for the utilities and would be "eminently justifiable" on the grounds that the utilities and their rates are technically already owned and being governed by their consumers, who get to elect co-op boards of governors and in theory can block a rate increase by threatening to buy their electricity elsewhere.

Tax & financial planning

TAX ESTIMATES

Tax estimates are quarterly payments of the total tax you expect to owe for the year. These payments are due April 15, June 15, September 15, and the following January 15. Tax estimates are generally required if you expect to owe at least $500 when you file your return.

Most individuals pay their taxes via wage withholdings. Because they generally have the flexibility to adjust the amount withheld during the year, these people do not usually need to concern themselves with tax estimates.

Estimated payments primarily apply to you if you have significant income from sources not subject to withholding; i.e., interest, dividends, capital gains, pensions and annuities, self-employment earnings, prizes and awards, unemployment compensation, and some Social Security benefits. Self-employed individuals must consider the self-employment tax as well as the income tax when calculating their estimate payments.

Ignorance is not bliss if you fail to make required estimate payments. The IRS will assess both penalties and interest on delinquent or insufficient estimate payments. These Calculations are done separately for each quarter. Thus, overpaying for one quarter will not avoid the penalty for underpaying a previous quarter.

There are two ways to avoid the penalty on underpayment of tax. You can either pay in (through withholdings and/or estimates) 90% of your current year's income tax liability or 100% of your prior year's income tax liability.

Recent retirees who have had withholding throughout their lives are usually not aware of the estimate requirements. If you are recently retired or receive significant income which is not subject to withholding, contact our office to determine if estimates are necessary.

Reminder: The final quarterly estimate for 1989 taxes is due January 15, 1991.

Two of Mankind's Greatest Inventions.

Benjamin Franklin made the first bifocals two hundred years ago. And to this day no one has envisioned a better way to keep us in sight. (Even some contact lenses are bifocal!)

Old Ben invented the Franklin stove, too. But today he would have a natural gas furnace to keep his home and family warm all winter.

Like all the great inventions, a gas furnace is simple, reliable, and has stood the test of time. It quietly and efficiently does the job it was designed to do ... year after comfortable year.

It's easy to see that for comfort and efficient home heating, the most effective invention ever made is a natural gas furnace. Period.

Christmas parade

BIG SPRING — To the delight of children young and old, the annual Big Spring Christmas Parade made its way along Gregg Street Saturday morning, with bands, floats and marchers comprising the event. The beginning of the parade, top left, complete with horse and buggy, and the Coahoma High School marching band, comes down the hill towards 10th Street. The Big Spring Muzzleloaders fill two trailers as part of their exhibit in the bottom left photo. The float earned first place in the Civic category. Sandy McCullough top right, laughs at a passing float as son Justin, 2, waves to the people. Santa, bottom right, waves to the crowd from the basket of a Big Spring Fire truck.

Results of the Big Spring Christmas Parade float contest: Church category: Gospel Lighthouse, first place; First Baptist Church, second; and Wesley Methodist Church, third. Civic category: The Big Spring Muzzleloaders, first place; Brownie Troop #162, second; and the VA Medical Center, third. Commercial category: Western Container, first place; Denny's, second; and McCutcheon Mini Cars, third. School category: Williams Day Care, first place; and SWCID second.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Nichols family owns, operates heating/cooling service firm

When you want to get your money's worth, you can usually rely on family-owned and operated businesses. And if you're putting your money into heating and cooling systems, Nichols Air Conditioning & Heating Service Co. is the one to call.

The company is owned and operated by Willie and Joyce Nichols and their son, Allen. Willie and Joyce established their business in 1979 at a location on Dealy Road, south of Big Spring. Allen joined them eight years ago.

Nichols Air Conditioning & Heating Service Co. offers sales, service and installation of cooling and heating equipment for commercial and residential use. The firm is an authorized Trane dealer, backed by Fields & Co., Lubbock distributor.

Among local commercial service contracts handled by the Nichols are State National Bank — a 100-ton chilled water system — Dora Roberts Rehab Center, Permian Distributing ("very critical; this is in the warehouse where Coors is chilled"), For-san Independent School District and Texas Employment Commission. To mention a few.

"On large jobs a Trane factory consultant is available to us," says Willie. "We have access to all types of equipment, and in most cases can arrange overnight delivery. And we service all makes and models."

The company provides fast, efficient service calls with two radio-equipped trucks, and they maintain an inventory of more than $5,000 worth of parts.

The elder Nichols is a 1963 graduate of the Commercial Trades Institute, Chicago. He was employed as a Carrier mechanic in Dallas, later joining civil service as an air conditioning and heating mechanic at Webb Air Force Base and Goodfellow Field in San Angelo.

Both Willie and Allen have undergone extensive specialized training, such as service training and field mechanical training for major equipment manufacturers. Both hold advanced certifications such as certified heat pump mechanics.

Joyce serves as dispatcher and bookkeeper. The combined total experience they can put to work for you is 46 years! Phone Nichols Air Conditioning & Heating Service Co. at 263-3705.

Nichols Air Conditioning & Heating Co., operating in Howard County for the past 10 years, is family-owned and operated. Pictured are Allen Nichols, left, and his father, Willie Nichols, beside the firm's two radio-dispatched trucks. For service, call 263-3705. Another family member — Willie's wife, Joyce — is the dispatcher.

Dedication. Will power. Desire. The use of these few words, exercise and following a healthy diet plan can aid in achieving and maintaining weight loss. Because today's society dictates that a thin body is more attractive, millions of overweight people each year attempt to trim their size 16 bodies to fit into a size 5 outfit. But squeezing into a size 5 is not the only reason a person should consider losing those extra pounds. Good health is important. If you are 10 percent over your ideal body weight, you are classified as mildly obese; 30 to 40 percent over ideal weight indicates you are moderately obese; and if you are 75 to 100 percent over your ideal body weight, you are morbidly obese, according to Dr. James Burleson. Statistically, Burleson said, obesity increases the risk of heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, colon cancer, breast cancer and possibly pancreatic cancer. A low-fat diet is a good beginning, but exercise is equally important for effective weight loss. "Diet alone won't hack it," Burleson said. "There are more and more frustrated dieters because they don't exercise along with their diet. . . . Statistically, you have a 75 to 80 percent better chance at keeping the weight off if you exercise. Exercise speeds fat loss," he added. Because it's almost impossible to totally eliminate fats from your diet, Burleson recommends using butter-flavored sprays or apple butter on toast, and salsa and dry seasonings should be used to add flavor to foods. "Salsa is excellent for seasoning," Burleson noted. Instead of pouring salad dressing on your salad, fill a small bowl with the dressing and lightly dip the vegetables before each bite. Because food contains enough sodium, Burleson advised against using additional salt. "Throw away the salt shaker," he suggested. "We live in a fast-food society. Fast food is high in fat and sodium." According to Burleson, a diet should consist of 20 percent fat calories; 20 percent protein calories; and 60 percent complex carbohydrates, which includes bread, legumes, potatoes and leafy green vegetables. Burleson suggested eating fish and chicken. Red meat should be limited to twice weekly. "Red meat two times per week is more than sufficient to give plenty of iron reserves," he said. Because most people don't admit they are overeaters, Burleson said they tend to blame their weight problem on heredity or a slow metabolism. In fact, most people are overweight because they overeat. "The vast majority is a direct reflection on how much they've eaten," Burleson explained. Although dieting isn't easy it is possible to lose weight. "Dieting is not easy. You have to have will power and dedication," he concluded. Two successful "losers" who recently won the battle of the bulge share their stories. * * * Cookie Elliott says she's had a weight problem all her life. "I weighed 130 pounds when I was 10 years old," she explained. "My daddy was always trying to get me a job as a bouncer, or he would say I should go to the desert and sell shade," she said with a laugh. High blood pressure, weighing more than 200 pounds and wearing a size 24 dress, Cookie Elliott decided it was time for a change. To lose weight, Cookie turned to her doctor for help, but found she still couldn't lose weight. She also used diet pills, but found they only worked for a short time and they had an adverse effect on her. "I was taking three pills a day. . . . They made me hyper," she explained. In April 1988 she turned to "Take Off Pounds Sensibly," a non-profit weight loss organization. Cookie has lost 75 pounds and now wears a size 14, but proudly admits she needs a smaller size. The organization, Cookie said, doesn't offer a strict diet to follow but offers support, advice and confidentiality. "It's a sensible and safe program that's based on the Alcoholics Anonymous principle. . . . It's a support group," she explained. Cookie says she lost weight so quickly that she warned her husband not to get too close. "It just fell off. . . . I told my husband 'you better not stand too close cause it'll hit you,'" she laughingly recalled. Cookie says she has learned that exercise is an important part of losing weight. "If you're metabolism is low you can raise it if you exercise," she explained. While watching television, Cookie rides 10 miles on a stationary bicycle to exercise her arms, legs and cardiovascular system. Her new figure has given her confidence she never knew she had. "I quit biting my nails. I tried for years to grow my nails. Since I lost weight I found I can do anything," she proudly said. Cookie even realized she really does like herself. "I like me. I didn't care much for myself before (losing weight). I'm in control of my life now." Although she has lost 75 pounds in six months, she knows the toughest test lies ahead. "Keeping it off will be the hardest test. But I'm gonna do it," she said. Even the thought of the holidays doesn't discourage Cookie. "I don't have to suffer through the holidays. I'll just eat sensibly," she said. Cookie's healthier lifestyle has changed her attitude toward the way she eats. She looks for the fat content in foods, eats fish and chicken, and doesn't eat red meat. She also keeps a list of the foods she eats. A typical meal may include fresh fruit, cereal, low-fat milk, vegetables, fish, chicken, bread, red beans, and plenty of water. Although her eating pattern has changed, she says she never feels deprived. In fact, she feels rewarded. "It's great to be able to wear jeans again. I haven't worn jeans since I was a teen-ager," she said. Cookie realizes that maintaining weight loss is a life-long commitment. "Until a person really commits to losing weight, there's nothing you can say unless they're determined to do it," she said. * * * Ellen Phillips also knows what it's like to weigh 259 pounds and wear a size 44 top. "I was tired of being a freak," she said. "I had to buy my clothes through a catalog." Ellen too had tried several weight loss plans until she found one that worked for her. Although she knew she had to do something about her weight problem, it didn't really bother her until her daughter became the object of ridicule. "In February of 1986 I picked my daughter up from school. She was upset because the kids were teasing Amy, saying 'You're mother is so fat.' . . . I knew then I had to do something," Ellen said. She began walking Scenic Mountain but she didn't change the way she ate. "I was still eating the same but I cut out sweets," Ellen said. Ellen lost weight — but not as fast or as much as she wanted. Because she weighed 207 pounds while she was pregnant with her third child, Ellen's doctor told her to exercise. "What he said was 'Move the old bulk,'" she recalled with a laugh. After three years of diet and exercise Ellen achieved her goal — she now weighs 126 pounds and wears a size 4. It wasn't until April 1 however, when Ellen weighed 177 pounds, that she began a form of exercise called racewalking and really paying attention to what she ate that she began losing the pounds. "Calorically speaking, racewalking is similar to running," she said. Every morning at 6 she begins walking around her neighborhood. According to Ellen, this form of exercise is beneficial for women because it involves the area of muscles known as the hip girdle. She also has limited her fat intake by excluding fats, fried foods and red meat from her diet. Most of her diet consists of complex carbohydrates. A typical daily meal will include three oat bran muffins for breakfast; a sandwich made with 100 percent whole wheat bread, low-fat lunch meat, vegetables and a salad; dinner includes 3 ounces of chicken, "tons of vegetables," and bread. She also drinks eight to 10 glass of water per day. Ellen agrees that diet alone won't help you lose weight — exercise is a must. "I tried every diet there is and nothing worked until I began exercising." Although racewalking looks odd, the benefits are worth the stares as Ellen discovered when she recently walked in the Northside Community Center Walk-A-Thon. "People were staring because the gait is so funny. But I didn't mind — because they weren't staring at an obese woman." Ellen said to successfully lose weight you first must be willing to change the way you live. "I know if I can do it — anyone can."

Stumped? Give a family tree

NEW YORK (AP) — The gifts one tends to cherish most are often those that are made by hand and reflect the tastes and interests of the recipient — a needlepoint pillow with a special phrase, a hand-hewn treasure box, an everlasting wreath themed to a specific decor, homemade jams and jellies, cakes and cookies.

Although life's pace leaves all too few with time to turn a practiced hand at hobbies or crafts, there are ways to show creativity without spending a lot of time or money.

For family or friends, consider gifts that can become heirlooms. Gifts of brass, china, crystal, pewter, silverplate or sterling — either new or from your collection — can be appreciated for generations. Choose from vanity items such as perfume bottles, atomizers, powder boxes and picture frames; desk accessories such as letter openers and paperweights; flower vases and candlesticks; silver flatware parceled out piece by piece.

Start a child with a sterling pattern and continue with individual pieces for birthdays and holidays. Towle is among silversmiths who make infant spoons and training sets in traditional flatware patterns.

Antiques also make good gifts for family as well as friends. Spool boxes, cameos, pens and inkwells are among affordable choices. Akin to these and available in all price ranges are coyote doorstops, contemporary quilts, one-of-a-kind sweaters, hand-made furniture.

Or commission a local artist to do a portrait of family or a rendering of the family home.

Dan Conley, the man who founded Big Spring High School's band in 1933, and his wife Louise are moving to the Dallas area. "We've really enjoyed living in Big Spring," Dan says. "I've got so many friends here. People still come up to me every day and say 'Remember me? I played in your band!' Well, I'll be 85 in February, and my daughter thought it was time we came down there to live."

The Conleys will live in Mesquite. Nearby in Dallas are their daughter, Jean Hubbard; grandson Mike Hubbard and his children, Eric, 7, and Ryan, 5; and grandson Richard Hubbard. The couple's son, Jimmy Conley, lives in San Francisco, Calif.

"We just had a few players in the band that first year," Dan recalls. "I remember a band trip we made to Odessa — it was a small town then — we went in a cattle truck that was not washed out too good!"

It amused Dan to remember his first drum major. "He was a redheaded boy named Torchy Bright — I don't know where he learned to twirl — but he was a big hit the first time he appeared." Torchy had moved here with the Civilian Conservation Corps and was working on the road around Scenic Mountain, but he was still in high school.

"That first year, we went to a contest in Abilene — and won first place for a first-year band. I appreciated that award more than any others my bands ever won," said Dan.

When Dan graduated from Abilene Christian College in 1928, he took a teaching job in McCamey. Soon he met a young violin teacher there and took to accompanying her on the piano.

"It was such a good arrangement, we got married," says Dan. "And I've been accompanying her since 1930!"

After a teaching job prospect fell through in Colorado City, Big Spring residents E.L. Crawford and J.B. Collins brought Dan to see longtime school district superintendent W.C. Blankenship. "He said, 'Take off your hat and get started!'" Dan said. "I'm glad I did."

Friends, former band members, Downtown Lions Club members (Dan has been a member 53 years!) and former BSHS students who cheered at games with Dan Conley's bands are invited to a reception for Dan and Louise Dec. 10, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the fellowship hall at 14th & Main Church of Christ.

If you ever wondered where the expression "Holy Toledo!" came from, it describes the stunning "city of churches" in Toledo, Spain, according to Joyce Green's tour guide.

Joyce, along with Dorothy Thomas, Jeanette Middleton and Joyce Ellis, just returned from a 17-day tour of Spain, Morocco and Portugal.

Joyce said she was not prepared for the luxurious homes she saw in Spain and Morocco — nor the modern stores. ("A store in Madrid would rival Neiman's!") On the other hand there were areas where the people preserved the customs they have followed for centuries.

"We must have driven past 300 miles of olive trees in Spain," says Joyce. "The scenery was beautiful."

Highlights of the tour were visits to Casablanca and Tangiers; the famous Prado Museum in Madrid; the legendary Alhambra Palace (now a museum) in Granada; Lisbon's Shrine of Fatima; a centuries-old mosque in Cordoba (facing a bridge, still in use, that was built by the Romans); and the Rock of Gibraltar.

Clara and Jim Justice attended an unusual reunion in Daileyville, Ohio, recently. They convened with 30 of their childhood playmates — their mates and their children — for the first time.

Jim returned home after the reunion, but Clara went on to Hamden, Conn. to see their son, Joe, and his wife, Debbie. The younger Justices, who were married in May, met at Incarnate Word College in San Antonio where they were both studying drama.

Joe is now studying for his master's and doctoral degrees in playwriting at Brandeis University, Boston, where he also teaches two days a week.

Debbie attends Yale, where she is studying for her master's and doctor of philosophy degree in stage management and production.

Clara says Joe and Debbie took her to New York City to see Broadway productions of "Les Miserables" and "Steel Magnolias."

Four Big Spring couples recently spent seven days in Hawaii — Ben and Madeline Boadle, Dick and LaVera Mitchell, Al and Bonnie Tidwell and Elvin and Lloyd Ola Bearden. The couples had been planning the trip for several years — since they went on a Caribbean cruise together in 1985.

That's Bobby Wilkins, 7, son of Lacy and Tami Wilkins, pictured with Dallas Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman. The Wilkins family, including Bobby's brother, Tommy, 2, were at the Cowboys/Miami Dolphins game when Bobby got Troy to sign his football. "Troy was great as could be," says Lacy.

650 others!) and much more.

On Sunday, the Mitchells and the Tidwells attended Parker United Methodist Church in Kaneohe with Dick's aunt who lives on Oahu. The Boadles and the Bearden's attended the Church at Waikiki in The Long House, Hawaiian Village.

Council hosts annual meeting

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Thirty-five participants attended the recent annual meeting of the Howard County Extension Program Council.

This group of people forms the nucleus of the leadership of our county's Extension educational program efforts, serving on one or more of the program area committees who plan and implement the many educational programs conducted throughout the year.

These include everything from the forth coming pecan show, 4-H training meetings, Extension Homemakers, nutrition workshops, agricultural field days, result demonstrations and tours, the development of the Native Plant Trail in the city park and a host of other related activities.

Mrs. Pat Porter, chairperson, conducted the meeting last. She was assisted by Gary Tabor, vice-chairperson, who introduced the following program area committee members who presented their committee's annual reports: Lynn Simmons for Livestock and Range; Bill Fryrear for Field Crops; Victor Lucero for pest management; Raul Marquez for horticulture report; Raul Marquez for community development; Ron Bruton for 4-H and youth; Irene Dominguez for Extension Home Economics and Don Brooks for Council on Aging.

Guest speaker was Ricky Mitchell, popular Tall Talkers Toastmaster Club after-dinner speaker. Mitchell is band director of the Big Spring High School band.

In 1986 many of these people serving on these committees became involved in helping design the Howard County Long Range Extension Plan that identified critical issues in our county that they felt Extension should direct their educational program efforts through the year 1990. Many people's lives have been affected as a result of these plans made by this group of people.

They have helped plan and develop new and diversified agricultural enterprises, improved family life in our community, strengthened youth and adult leadership and strived to improve the over-all quality of life for all Howard County citizens.

As we move into the 1990s and the 21st century we look forward to working with this group of community leaders as we further develop our new Long Range Extension Plan. We have a commitment, as do these people, to continue to help improve the quality of living for our citizens in our county.

Thanks to First National Bank and State National Bank of Big Spring for hosting the annual event and the support they lend our educational efforts.

Reluctance to pay might cost couple a future

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating "Sarah" for a year and a half. We are both in our early 30s and considering marriage. Sarah would like to get married, get pregnant and stay home from work for at least seven years. We have both dated a lot and are ready to settle down. My problem:

We constantly fight about money. She insists that it's the guy's responsibility to pay the expenses of dating. This includes ski trips, a trip to New York to visit my parents, all restaurants, movies, etc.

I usually pay 100 percent of the expenses at the beginning of a relationship, but if it lasts three months or longer, I expect the woman to pay her own way. Sarah's salary is slightly higher than mine, but she has a substantial debt to repay. (She has used this as an excuse to get me to pay 100 percent for everything.)

She claims that all her past boyfriends have paid all the dating expenses as well as buying her expensive gifts to show how much they "loved" her. She has the prof: Furniture, a fur coat, an expensive watch, etc. Her friends think she is correct to expect this kind of treatment. My friends agree with me. As things stand, we don't go out very often because I have to pay for everything.

I would terminate this relationship, but I think I'm in love with her. Also, she would make a great wife and mother. Am I crazy? — CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Unless you want to fight about money for the rest of your life, keep looking.

Since Sarah has a large debt to repay, she cannot simply get married, get pregnant and retire. Before you make a lifetime commitment to this potentially "great wife and mother," ask yourself why she has a collection of expensive trophies from her past relationships — but no brass (or gold) ring.

DEAR ABBY: I have come across a major conflict in planning my upcoming wedding. My fiancé and I both quit drinking when we became engaged last March and neither one of us has had a drink since.

Because of that, we have lost some of our friends, which is fine with us, but here is the problem.

We have decided that we don't want any alcoholic beverages at our wedding reception. My father is paying for the wedding and reception and he says, "It's bad manners. People will think you are cheap and won't stay long at the reception."

Abby, I don't want to be around people who are drinking. I don't like the way they act or smell — that's why my fiancé and I quit drinking. Also, we don't want to promote other people's bad habits.

What should I do? — DRY BRIDE IN MILAN, ILL.

DEAR DRY BRIDE: Thank your father and tell him you don't care what "people" think. And, furthermore, if your guests don't want to stay long at the reception, the doors will be open and they will be free to go.

I applaud you, "Dry Bride," for standing by your convictions. May you and your beloved have a lifetime of sobriety and happiness.

DEAR ABBY: You stated in a letter that satin shoes always shrink after they are dyed, so women who buy satin shoes intending to dye them should always buy

Stand out from the crowd

The boutonniere, once required for a gentleman's everyday wear, today presents a way a man can stand out from the crowd in a refreshing and respectable manner.

The custom of a man wearing a flower in his lapel has faded, according to an article in the current issue of Esquire, but the eccentricities of the past are well remembered.

They include Oscar Wilde and his chrysanthemum, oil magnate Nubar Gulbenkian and his giant orchid, and Palm Beach socialite Charlie Minn, author of the axiom, "A gentleman is a man who has pronounced 'to-may-to' as 'to-mah-to' for three generations." He wore a carnation in the lapel of his pajamas.

A man's choice of flower once had special meaning, usually involving love. Medieval knights wore wallflowers — sweet williams, bleeding hearts, gillyflowers — as symbols of devotion.

In the 19th century, a white jasmine indicated a man's heart was taken.

Since the Victorian era, it's been traditional for the groom to wear a flower from his bride's bouquet. There is a legend that Prince Albert originated the custom by picking a rose from Queen Victoria's bouquet just before the ceremony, then cutting a slit in his tunic and sticking it in.

That does not sound like Albert, who was not impulsive, he was sufficiently in love with Victoria to ruin a perfectly good tunic for her sake.

Flowers also represented politics, with red carnations a favorite. French noblemen wore them on the way to the guillotine. Socialists wore them in protest marches and Napoleon chose carnation red for the ribbon of the Legion of Honor.

Today, the less common the boutonniere flower, the better.

"We don't do carnations, even for traditional occasions," said New York florist Renny Reynolds. "A man's flower may have to be white, but that doesn't mean it has to be a carnation."

She suggested two stems of lily of the valley for the groom, sweetheart roses for the best man, and for the groomsmen freesias, because of their unusual shape and pleasant smell.

Aromatic flowers such as stephanotis, gardenias and tuberose engage the sense in two ways. The fragrance has been bred out of violets, but they are serviceable boutonnieres, as are rosebuds, bachelor buttons, hyacinths or baby's breath.

The only requirement is that the flower be discarded before it starts to wilt. A small vial of water, pinned to the underside of the lapel, can extend the life of a flower for several days — but they are hard to come by these days.

A phone call in the night

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Kathleen and Owen Thornton of Lockney do a bunch of things. Owen is a rancher and farmer, is an active civic worker and is one of the guiding forces behind the building of Lake McKenzie, a beautiful body of water in the Tule canyon country.

Kathleen is an artist. She loves to paint pictures of bird's nests. Her nest works usually have a butterfly instead of a bird flying around the nest. She also quilts. One cathedral window quilt for a kingsize bed took her three years to make. "I'll probably give most of these quilts to my kids," says Kathleen. She makes clothes, too. Her polished cotton jackets look like they come from Neiman's. She sells those.

Owen and Kathleen spend a lot of time in their travel trailer going from one place to another. They are on Lake McKenzie several nights during the summer.

Kathleen says unusual things happen to her and she enjoys them all. For example: "My husband was gone to a ballgame one night and my daughter was at the show with some friends. I was at home alone. In the bathtub. The telephone rang. I jumped up and answered it. The person calling was a man down at the pay telephone, the only one in town."

"He told me that he had just charged a telephone call to my number. He said he was a soldier and needed to make a call to California."

"I asked him why did he pick my number to call and he said his name was Thornton and he didn't think I would mind his making a phone call and charging it to my number since we had the same name."

It was after midnight when the call came in and Mrs. Thornton was a little worried.

"He told me that he was leaving the money for the call in the telephone booth. He had charged the call to my number because he didn't have any change and couldn't find any place open."

Kathleen didn't quite know what to do. She went next door to the neighbor's house for advice.

"My neighbor told me to call the police and have the police go to the phone booth with me. And that's what I did."

"The police came to the house. The ballgame ended about that time and there was a lot of traffic. In a small town, everybody knows when something exciting is happening."

"When the police car got to my house, other cars started circling the block, trying to find out what was going on. The police put me in the car and I guess all my friends thought the police were taking me to jail."

"When we got to the telephone booth, there was a note there. The boy had written a beautiful letter thanking me and excusing himself for bothering me late at night like that. The money was inside the note."

"I thought anyone that honest ought to be rewarded in some way. The note said he was going to catch a bus in Plainview within the next half hour."

Kathleen and Owen got in the car at 1 a.m. and drove 15 miles to Plainview. Kathleen wanted to give that soldier boy back his money.

But they couldn't find him anywhere.

"I never heard another word from him. I've always wished that someday he would stop by."

"Those type of experiences don't happen to anyone else but me," says Kathleen, "and I love everything about them. Maybe that's why they keep happening."

Phillips Petroleum Company operates an extensive underground natural gas gathering system within the Cities of Coahoma, Sand Springs and the surrounding area.
The operation of this system does not normally constitute a hazard to the general public. However, digging, ditching, blasting, and other earth moving operations conducted in the vicinity of the lines could result in explosions, fires, and/or the release of gas containing H<sub>2</sub>S which can be fatal if in sufficient concentration.
To prevent this from occurring, Phillips has erected pipeline markers indicating the location of our lines in the Cities of Coahoma and Sand Springs. Included on each line marker is a telephone number where a Phillips representative can be reached to furnish assistance in locating any particular line. That telephone number is 1-800-367-1266. Please call that same number if you observe any vandalism or theft occurring to the pipeline markers.

Winterize Fido and Kitty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chill winter winds are whipping across America, reminding people to get out the longjohns, put up the storm windows and check the antifreeze in the car. It's time to remember that dogs and cats need winter attention, too.
Only a few pets actually take to wearing sweaters, but winterizing them does mean paying some attention to their needs in the cold weather, observes the Humane Society of the United States.
To begin with, it's a good time to rid the animals of fleas.
Once there has been a hard frost to eliminate the fleas outdoors, the dog should be bathed thoroughly and combed out to eliminate flea eggs.
It may be a good idea to bring in an exterminator or use a fogger to get rid of any fleas hiding in rugs and to destroy eggs which may have been deposited.
Canine flea powder can be poisonous for cats, the Humane Society warns, so be sure to use a product specifically designed for your pet.
Dogs who spend most of their time indoors can be quickly chilled on trips outside, so be wary about leaving them out too long.
And if cats are allowed outside, be watchful for their return so they can be let in to get warm.
Dogs who live outdoors need shelter in the cold, preferably a draft-free, watertight doghouse.
The doghouse should be no more than 12 inches longer and 3-inches higher than the pet, since the dog's body heat cannot warm a doghouse that is too large.

The champs of cheapdom

By TONI Y. JOSEPH
The Dallas Morning News

ATHENS (AP) — Shortly after the couple began dating two years ago, Joe Ann Reiland realized her groom-to-be lived life in the tight lane.
Her clothes were chic. His clothes were, well, old — behind the times. She offered to buy her Romeo a new blue suit for the nights they spent ballroom dancing. He cheerfully admonished her for her wasteful thoughts.
Intrigued, Joe Ann, 60, soon discovered that clothes weren't the only corners her man cut. She married him anyway, despite his promise to retreat to the kitchen to cook food for the reception right after the couple exchanged vows.

"I couldn't get him to buy a new suit for the wedding, so I knew I couldn't press my luck for a reception," she says.
Peter Reiland, a retired tool designer and wood and metal pattern maker, calls himself frugal. He grew up during the Depression, an era that taught many of its survivors a thing or two about squeezing a buck. He says his habits also result from a cost-analysis job he once held.
"I always had to be aware of shaving a tenth of a cent off the cost of a project," Peter says. "It rubs off on you. Manufacturers are set up to get my money. By golly, I'm going to spend the way I want to, not the way they want me to."
Joe Ann tattled on her proud skinflint in The Dallas Morning News "Turn In a Tightwad" contest. Of the 120 nominees, penny-pinching Peter scripped his way to the No. 1 spot. In her contest entry letter, Mrs. R. wrote that living with a cheapskate provides some wonderful perks: "Thanks to my tightwad husband, we have a lovely, well-kept home and enjoy a better lifestyle. One of his most important habits it to save some time to help a friend or neighbor save a dollar."
Other tightwads that readers turned in:

- A man who opens his car door at the Dallas North Tollway toll booth to search for change.
- A school principal who lowers his head and walks the halls between classes pocketing coins dropped by students.
- Several people who snip signatures off greeting cards and send them to friends and family.
- A dozen germ-be-damned nominees who reuse facial tissues until they disintegrate.
- Several nominees who shamelessly ration sheets of toilet paper to visitors in their homes, including the woman who bragged "I can take four sheets of toilet paper and fold it like it was five."
- A man who asks for lemons and sugar with restaurant meals and makes his own lemonade to keep from ordering a beverage.
- Several people who wear their underwear inside out to keep from buying new.
- A woman who recommends secretly clipping cuttings from plants at department stores.

ATHENS — Peter Reiland and his wife Joe Ann pose in front of the swimming pool that Reiland dug himself along with a jar filled with the last shovel of dirt at their home in Athens.

But Mrs. Reiland says that while marriage to one of the cheapest guys around has meant learning to sacrifice gas heat and air conditioning, it also means a little vindication: Thanks to a homemade wood burning stove, the couple's power bills rarely climb above $35 a month in the dead of winter.
"The electric company comes out twice a year to find out why our bills are so low," Peter boasts.
Low utility costs may be the most mundane testimony to Peter's thriftiness. He loves to show off a jar full of dirt, the last piece of earth that stood between him and the in-ground swimming pool he dug by hand.
Peter, 64, can't help himself, his friends and family say. He installed a gas tank on his property to save 15 cents to 20 cents per gallon; his wife commutes 160 miles daily for her secretarial job in Dallas.
He built a purple martin house so the bug-loving birds would eat insects and keep the couple from having to buy insecticide. He also bought a cow, which makes their 7-acre spread a farm under Internal Revenue Service rules and cuts their tax liability.
"It's in his genes," says Patrick Reiland, 39, his son. "He's quite inventive."
Patrick, a machinist in St. Paul, Minn., found out just how inventive after a drive from Minnesota to Connecticut a few years back. Slipping into his father's shower, Patrick found a timer on the controls. The device restricted the water flow to three one-minute bursts before completely shutting off for 20 minutes.
Daughter Margaret Reiland, 37, says she and her brothers were discouraged from flushing the toilet until it was really necessary. Although that restriction resulted from attention to the bottom line, it also prevented the family from adding to the drain on the nation's precious water supply.
"He was 25 years ahead of the times," says Margaret, who called The Dallas Morning News collect from Colorado.
Joe Ann Reiland says she and her husband always shower together — at his request — to save water. If they bathed separately, one of them would get doused with chilly water. The couple's heater warms only 10 gallons at a time.
Neighbors also notice Peter Reiland's cheapness. It's not like he tries to hide it, says Durward Pirtle.
"He said, 'When you haul off your junk, bring it by and let me take a look at it,'" Pirtle says. "He picks through it to get little pieces of metal, mostly pipe, normal stuff like most people throw away."
Like the 30-year-old piece of Formica he hauled across the country every time the family would move. Finally, Joe Ann needed a shelf on which to set cups and books while she sat in bed. Voila!

Thanksgiving service

The annual county-wide Thanksgiving Service sponsored by the Mitchell County Ministerial Alliance was Tuesday, November 21 at the First Baptist Church of Colorado City. Reverend Walter Bartholof, pastor of the First Christian Church, brought the message entitled "Are We Thankful?" Everyone attending enjoyed the special music "For the Beauty of the Earth," brought by the First United Methodist Church Handbell Choir led by David Jones. Additional special music was also heard from a portion of the St. Luke United Methodist Church. The Community Choir, its singers members of many different churches, sang "Come, Ye Thankful People," directed by Margaret Baum.

After the service everyone was invited to the Fellowship Hall for cookies and punch and a chance to visit with those from other churches. "One special blessing our county has to be thankful for this Thanksgiving season is that of the harmonious fellowship between the Christian churches of varying denominations," said Jon Farris, pastor of St. Luke Methodist and Dorn Chapel Churches and Secretary of the Ministerial Alliance. A free-will offering was taken to fund the benevolent ministries for the poor and needy of Mitchell County.

Others participating in the activities were: The Rev. Dr. Ted Spears, pastor, First Baptist Church, "Mac" Morris, Mitchell County Judge; The Rev. Keith Post, pastor, Loraine First Baptist Church; The Rev. Mike Foster, pastor, First Assembly of God; The Rev. David A. Shaw, pastor, First United Methodist Church; The Rev. Leon Green, pastor, Plainview Baptist Church; Jim Harris, song leader; Fern Thompson, organist; Monte Wike, pianist; Sally Neff, pianist and Mary Margaret Cox, organist.

Mission project

The women of the First Baptist Church BYW (Baptist Young Women) group have been busy with their Thanksgiving mission project. The group assembled four Thanksgiving care boxes. Each box contained four turkey breast patties, a can of green beans, a can of cranberry sauce, a box of stuffing, one pumpkin pie, six rolls, and a sack of candy. The women divided into groups to deliver the boxes to the older church members that would be alone for the holiday. Those receiving boxes were Emmett and Doris Grantland, Willie Womack, Bill Smith and Aurora Farquar.

Program enjoyed an interesting and informative field trip to the Mitchell County Hospital, Nov. 21. The children, many of whom have never seen the inside of an ambulance, were wide-eyed as emergency medical technician Joel White started the tour by showing them the newest ambulance. The kids enjoyed seeing different instruments used by the ambulance personnel and watching a classmate, Lance Rivera, strapped to a back board as Mr. White demonstrated how the new velcro neck braces are used. A short walk indoors to the classroom was interesting and the children met "Annie," the prop used to demonstrate CPR. Everyone enjoyed the demonstration and the opportunity to ask questions afterwards.

Those attending the field trip were Lance Rivera, Pridgett Callaway, Shawna and Jennifer Wilking, Kristen and Brian Browning, Cara Dickard, Cheryl Sparks, Linsey Lovell and Sharie Ritchey.

Royal ambassadors

Fifteen boys from the First Baptist Church Royal Ambassadors got an early start to a long and exciting day, Saturday, Nov. 18. Six leaders accompanied the boys to a R.A. rally on the Baylor Campus in Waco. Several foreign missionaries, including Grant Teaff, were speakers. Although the group arrived late and didn't get to hear the speakers, they did get to see the missionaries' displays (money, dolls, clothes). The boys were thrilled to attend the football game between Baylor and Rice after the Rally.

Those going were Kyle Chambers, Brad Hartman, Kevin Chambers, Heath McGaha, Kurt Lokey, Colby Slater, Chase McPhaul, Matt Wallington, Andrew Spear, Robbie Atkins, Perry Noblett and Macca Brannan. The leaders were Richard Chambers, Randy Chambers, Kevin Wright, Rev. Dr. Ted Spear, Scott Gassiot, and Ricky McPhaul.

Family get-together

The annual Chambers Thanksgiving Reunion was held Saturday. Everyone enjoyed the turkey and dressing dinner with all the trimmings. After dinner a short program was offered by the "Hams" of the family. To start the show, Kyle Chambers played "America" on his cornet. Next, a group lip-synched to "The Streak." Richard Chambers, Randy Chambers, Deon Chambers and Ronnie Womack acted out the song, while Rayanna McGaha, Maria Waters, Shelia Womack and Patty Bodine pretended to sing.

The group played several games, including one in which a funny poem, written by a family member was dramatized by people wearing different hats.

Those in attendance at the gathering were Clemy Andress, Robert and Helen Chambers, Joann Jameson, Rayanna, Scooter, Justin and Heath McGaha, Maria and Bob Waters, Blake, Patty, Joshua, Jessica, Mary Katherine and Stephanie Bodine. Ronnie, Sheila and Kristian Womack, David, Anne, Darcy, Deon, Mary Anne and James Chambers, Tim, Barbie and Terah Lelek, Rodney, Lanna, Rachel, Thomas and Daniel Reeves, Richard, Linda, Kyle and Kevin Chambers, Andy, Elynn and Lauren Crenshaw, Randy, Connie, Kaci and Michael Chambers, and Robbie and Mark Smith.

Power team

On Nov. 22 youth from Christian Temple traveled to Lubbock to see the John Jacobs Power Team. This is a group of strong men doing spectacular stunts such as breaking baseball bats over their knees, tearing phone books in half, and breaking slabs of ice with their shoulders. John Jacobs escaped from two handcuffs while "The Champion" by Carman played in the background. Several men were handcuffed together and told the analogy how "Jesus Can Break the Chain" while breaking each other's chains.

At the end of the evening, four to five hundred people went forward to commit their life to Jesus. "I would highly recommend this show," says David Lelek, youth leader.

Million dollar highway

Knott residents are currently plagued with road construction. State Farm to Market Road 846 is getting a total face lift. Safety regulations required that the road be widened, and all culverts are to be made safer for motorists.

Nine companies bid on this project. Ajax Construction in Lufkin was chosen for the job. Ajax then subcontracted the job to J.H. Oden Construction Co., Waskom.

Supervisor Tom Oden says that the 6.5 miles are expected to cost $1,250,587.52. Currently his company is employs about 48 workers, including several local people. Thirteen people are working on the bridge crossing, Knott Lake. Others are working on culverts or hauling and moving limestone to top the road.

The bridge crossing the lake has been quite a challenge to repair. Concrete sides have to be constructed to protect the road from washing out. About 1500 yards of concrete are expected to be used. Concrete needs to be 50 degrees as it comes from the truck to be poured into the forms. The workers are using heated water to mix the concrete to reach this temperature, but it is a slow process. Another problem that is slowing work down is hauling limestone based caliche from Stanton to top the road. This 52-mile round trip takes time. Local caliche is not limestone base so it could not be used. State regulations require limestone because it repels water better than others.

Oden Construction began work in September and expects the road will be 95 percent completed by January. Then they will have to wait 90 days before putting the final top on the road. During this period the road will go through a curing process.

Even though this construction has been an inconvenience, it has increased local business sales and has given many local people jobs. Oden says that the Knott community has been the friendliest and most helpful people he has ever worked with.

For more information concerning road layout, you may contact Engineer Michael Chetty at the Big Spring State Highway Department office or the district office in Abilene.

High school basketball

The Lady Mustangs played Lubbock Roosevelt Tuesday. Both J.V. and Varsity came home disappointed. This was the junior varsity's first loss. Sherri Acevedo was high point. Final score tallied 44-30. Roosevelt overpowered 48-36 in varsity play. Janan Staggs scored 19 points. Statistics show that as a team, the girls field goal percentage was way below average. Wootan was still proud of the girls' overall performance.

On Monday, 19 boys took the court to prepare for their season. It took a couple of days for them to realize you couldn't tackle in basketball. Coach Jerry Gooch says his team has an excellent attitude and will be ready for its first game on Friday, Dec. 1.

Jr. high hoops

On Monday, Nov. 20, Sands Jr. High traveled to O'Donnell to battle the Eagles. The Mustangs came away with a split decision, with the girls coming out on top 22-8 and the boys suffering their first loss at 34-31. Tops on the boards for the ladies were Becky Barnes with 8 points, Amy Nichols, 8 points; Courtney Fryar, Diana Renteria and Jennie Carr with 2 points each. Keep up the good work. The Eagles defense held the boys offense confined, scoring the fewest points they had all year. High point scores for Sands were Heath Gillespie with 8 and Torbin Lancaster with 8. Better luck next week, boys, when both teams travel to Grady to compete against the Wildcats on Monday at 6 p.m.

Sands football

Friday, Nov. 24 at 3:30 p.m. Sands held a community wide pep rally to show the Mustangs appreciation and great support. Excitement was high as the boys loaded on the bus for the journey to Sterling City to compete against Cristoval. Cheerleaders, parents and numerous friends were present, giving encouragement and comfort for Friday night's game. Spirit was extremely high for the Mustangs as they prepared for the kickoff against Cristoval. There were so many fans present, it looked almost like a Sands High School Homecoming. The first half of the game the Mustangs seemed invincible, with critical fumble recoveries and driving at will against the Cougars. As Sands went in at half, they led Cristoval 18-14 with three great scoring drives and a superb defense. The Cougars and Mustangs swapped scores for the remainder of the game, and Cristoval wound up on top. The final score was exaggerated, as it did not illustrate the kind of football game that Sands had played. The Mustangs, under the direction of Randy Roemisch, should feel proud because this year's team has done better than any previous teams in the school's history. The Mustangs should keep their heads held high, because accomplishments of this sort are extremely rare for anyone. Way to go boys! The Knott and Ackerly communities salute you and your coaches for a job well done.

Carrie Carnahan

During the last pep rally, Mary Rowell presented Erma Bombeck's book I Want To Grow Hair, I Want To Grow Up, I Want To Go To Boise, to the student body as a token of appreciation from freshman Carrie Carnahan.

Carrie could not be present due to her illness, but she found a way to express her feelings by writing an inscription on the inside of the book that stated, "Thanks for everything you've done for me and my family."

The book deals with the sensitive subject about children trying to survive cancer. Mrs. Rowell stated, "This is not a sad book. Children with cancer are carriers of courage, and everyone will be inspired by reading this book to deepen their understanding and compassion for children with terminal illnesses."

Women should have exams regularly

By NYU MEDICAL CENTER
 For AP Newsfeatures

Older women should not forgo regular gynecologic exams since they are at greater risk than younger women of developing genital cancers.

"More attention is being paid to the health needs of postmenopausal women, and these examinations can be life-saving," said Dr. Beth Lieberman, a gynecologist at New York University Medical Center.

"Waiting until specific complaints occur before having a gynecologic exam may incur the risk that a malignancy could become advanced and more difficult to treat," added Dr. Nancy Weintraub, an internist at the center.

Statistics show that 25 percent of all cervical cancers — and 40 percent of resulting deaths — occur in women over age 65. Endometrial cancer strikes most women in their 60s and 70s; vulvar cancer affects older women almost exclusively, and half of the 11,000 deaths from ovarian cancer occur in women over 65.

"However, an estimated 60 percent of women over 65 have never had a Pap test, which can detect 90 percent of treatable premalignant lesions," Weintraub said. Use of the Pap test has led to a dramatic decline in the number of cases of cervical cancer.

In addition to an annual Pap test, older women should also have an annual mammogram, a low-dosage X-ray for women over 50 to screen for breast cancer. Especially at risk are women with a history of breast cancer, women who smoke, are overweight, or have never had children.
