Transfer-ing support

BIG SPRING — As the Big Spring Steers continue their drive toward a first-ever state football title, fans will be afforded another method of showing their support for the team.

An iron-on transfer, suitable for T-shirts, sweaters or almost any cloth material, will run in Thursday's Herald. Designed by Herald employee Cindy Cole, the transfer depicts a Steer logo atop the state of Texas.

The transfer, sponsored by Don's IGA, will come complete with instructions on its use, said Randi Smith, Herald advertising manager.

It can be transferred with an iron, or by heat-transfer machine, Smith said.

Herald Circulation Manager Dale Ferguson said extra copies of the transfer will be available, but requests that persons call to request the number of copies needed.

To reserve copies of the transfer, contact the circulation department by phoning 263-7331 before 10 a.m. Thursday.

Mize files for judge

BIG SPRING — The race for Howard County judge could now turn brisk as former Big Spring mayor A.C. "Colton" Mize announced his candidacy today for the position.

Mize, filing as a Democrat, cited his previous experience as mayor of Big Spring and familiarity with courthouse officials as his credentials for the position.

Mize said he believes he would be a good county judge because he is familiar with the inner workings of the county government.

Mize added, "My experience in economic development, environmental issues and public safety would be used to further the quality of life in Howard County if elected."

Mize is the second candidate to file for the county judge's position.

Incumbent John Coffee, a Republican, who was appointed to the position of county judge in February after the death of the late Milton Kirby, filed for the office last week. He cited his experience as an attorney as part of his qualifications for the office.

A county judge should be "well versed in the law," Coffee said, adding he believes his experience as an attorney makes him more familiar with the law than most laymen.

Another county race has also become contested as a second challenger seeks to unseat incumbent Paul Allen, Precinct 2 county commissioner. J.G. Kilgore, filing as a Republican, is the second challenger to try to unseat Allen, who has been a commissioner since 1979. John Stanley filed as a Democrat with the clerk's office Monday.

School board meeting

BIG SPRING — Big Spring ISD trustees are expected to give their approval to the school district's annual performance report during their regular monthly meeting at 5:15 p.m. Thursday in the high school board room.

The performance report, required by the state, is an annual overview of the school district's programs and policies, Assistant Superintendent Murray Murphy said.

"It describes our long-range plans in areas where we might have special interests, like the drop-out rate and at-risk students," Murphy said. "It's a general overview of the 1988-89 school year."

In other business, trustees will consider:

- Employment of two elementary teachers.
- Approval of State Constitution Amendment Five.

Patient housing OK'd by council

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — A local family could begin building as early as June a living center for outpatients of the Big Spring State Hospital.

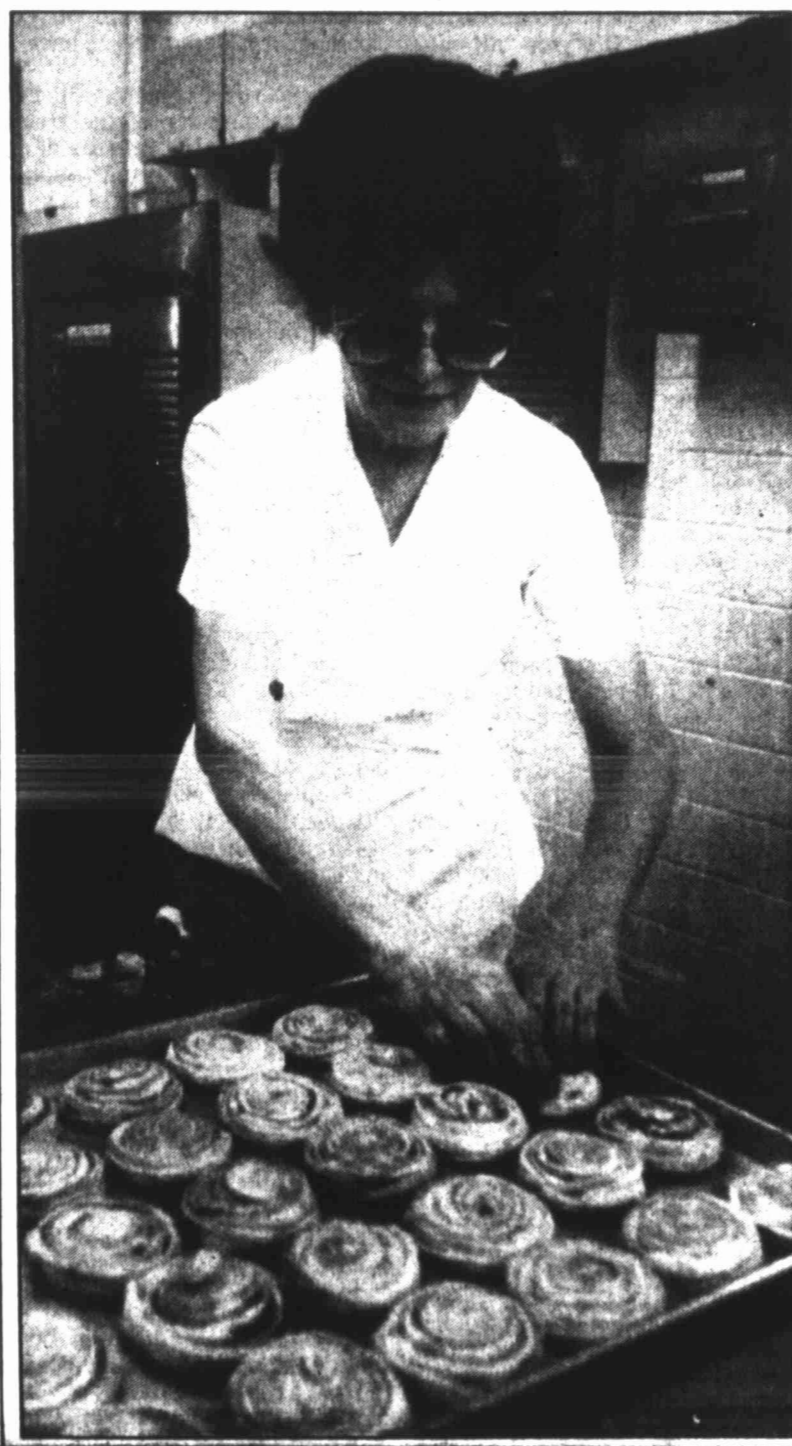

The City Council approved during its regular meeting Tuesday the planned development of a community living center for state hospital outpatients. The city's permission means Hosea Banks of Big Spring and his grandson Robert Mitchell of Los Angeles can begin seeking financing for the center, which will be a non-profit organization run independently of the state hospital.

Mitchell, who is the family's spokesperson, said the center will house "somewhat rehabilitated" patients who are ready for release from the state hospital or anyone the Department of Human Resources deems capable of living there. The three- and four-bedroom residential-type structures will eventually house as many as 146 patients, Mitchell said.

The center, near Northeast Ninth Street and the Wyoming Street extension, would be built in three phases, he said, with construction beginning as early as June if the family can obtain financing. Mitchell said he will approach an FHA-approved mortgage company and submit a proposal. The company would then have to perform an economic impact study in Big Spring — a process which could take several months, he said.

"I didn't want to try to get any financing till I got this all approved," he said. Mitchell said he is determined to obtain financing for the center even "if I have to hit up

Fraser authored workers' comp bill that passed Senate

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

AUSTIN — After 11 months of often acrimonious debate, the Texas Legislature adopted a workers' compensation reform plan that backers said was needed to resolve a $3 billion per year problem that short-changed workers and soaked businesses with high insurance premiums.

But opponents of the business-supported measure passed Tuesday say the bill ambushes workers seeking benefits for on-the-job injuries and both sides agree it will have no immediate impact on premiums that have increased 149 percent over the last four years.

However, Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, who authored the version of the reform plan finally accepted, said the bill will increase benefits to workers and will eventually have an impact on premiums.

"It is good. We have about 70 percent of what we needed," Fraser said of the bill's reforms. "Rates will immediately stabilize and we think we'll start to see a decrease in rates within the next two or three years."

A decrease in rates means more businesses probably will pick up workers comp coverage, he said. Currently, an estimated 25 percent of Texas businesses don't carry worker's comp, Fraser said.

"We have to get the rates where they are affordable to businesses so they will pick it up and these workers will be covered," Fraser said.

Businesses could have seen a drastic decrease in rates if reform efforts had been able to remove provisions from the bill for jury trials, he said. Fraser said the powerful trial lawyers' lobby ensured jury trials were not removed

Council rejects expanding city benefits plan

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — Despite unanimous approval of the first readings, the City Council rejected Tuesday the second readings of ordinances expanding city workers' retirement benefits.

During a regular meeting, the council voted 4-2 against the ordinances, which City Personnel Director Emma Bogard said would expand benefits at little cost to the city. The ordinances were tabled pending further discussion.

While the council passed first readings of the ordinances on a 7-0 vote at a previous meeting, only Councilman Chuck Condray and Councilwoman Gail Earls approved them on second readings. Councilwoman Pat DeAnda was absent from the meeting.

Bogard told the council the enhancements will actually save the city a small amount of money during the next year.

"Currently the city is paying 5.55 percent of the gross salary of each employee that goes into their retirement plan," Bogard said. "Each year that percentage changes — it can go up or down."

With these benefits, the percentage the city pays would decrease to 5.53 percent, she said.

"We're adding these enhancements and not increasing our monthly contributions," Bogard said. "Some of the enhancements would affect all employees and then some would affect just a few."

"They're just enhancements (and) naturally from time to time we do try to enhance it when we can. Not too often can you do anything to change the retirement plan," as it requires legislative permission.

Although the city would save money next year, it would face some long-term costs connected with the enhancements, she said.

"There is a slight long-term cost and it's amortized out over a 25-year time," Bogard said. "This is like taking a loan out on a car. You pay it out annually."

"It would be an insignificant amount and every year the rate would change depending on our turnover and the number of employees we have."

Councilman Sidney Clark said he preferred to table the changes until the council learned more about exactly how the changes would affect the city's retirement plan.

"Personally I've had some opportunity to do some studying... and we don't have any particular employee it pertains to right now," Clark said.

Mayor Max Green said the city's retirement plan deserves a review even without changes.

"We need to make a complete review of the entire retirement plan before we make piecemeal changes to it," Green said. "We have tremendous benefits going to all our city employees. Under these circumstances I think I am personally obligated to the taxpayer to find out more."

The council may discuss changes to the retirement plan at a special meeting as Bogard said they must be approved before Jan. 1 to be effective in 1990. She said the city is trying to get a representative from the Texas Municipal Retirement System to explain to the council the enhancements' long-term costs.

Glasscock OKs monitor to help EMS save lives

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

GARDEN CITY — Glasscock County Commissioners agreed Monday to purchase a $9,960 heart monitor-defibrillator which will help the county's two paramedics provide advanced life support treatment.

"It is a major step for our ambulance operation," said Alan Dierschke, who is a paramedic with the Glasscock County Volunteer Emergency Medical Service. He met with commissioners during their meeting Monday.

"This one (monitor) will be the first one for our county," he said. "It will give us another tool to hopefully provide better service for residents of the county."

"Especially in the area of heart attack. If the situation arrives where we have to monitor a patient on the way to the hospital this will allow us to do that."

The monitor will be assigned to the St. Lawrence ambulance, one of three in the county, because it takes longer to take a patient to the hospital from that area, Dierschke said.

He said the other two ambulances, located in Garden City, have average run times that are 15 minutes shorter than the one in St. Lawrence.

He said the monitor is manufactured by Physio Control and he expects it to be delivered within 90 days.

"It's a minimum, they said, of 60 days, so it's probably going to take 90 days," he said. "This one is brand new on the market."

He said the new machine features non-evasive pacing.

"If the person's heart is not beating at a normal rate, this machine will be able to stimulate the heart and pace it," he said.

The county has been trying for during the reform.

"We had to have a bill, we had to have reform and it put us in a weak position," Fraser said. "The Texas trial lawyers, who are the ones who opposed the bill, want the system to stay exactly as it is," because they earn $500 million a year from worker's comp suits.

Although he didn't get all the reforms he wanted, Fraser said he is satisfied with the bill legislators passed.

"We needed desperately to get a bill," he said. "The reform we received was good but we also plan on going back in the next session... and we'll work to get the remainder of the reform we had originally gone after."

"I'm real pleased that we got the bill."

Both sides also agree the legislative battle was the most intense ever fought at the Capitol and set precedents in pressure lobbying.

"It will leave some scars that

'Up with People' to perform in Big Spring

By JOHN McMILLAN
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — "Up with People" will be carrying its international-style idealism into town next month for two hours of singing and dancing.

The performance, to begin at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 at Big Spring High School Auditorium, will feature music from foreign countries, including Mexico, the Soviet Union and Ireland, as well as songs about contemporary problems such as drug abuse, environmental decay, street gangs and racism.

The price for general admission tickets is $8, and the price for students' and senior citizens' tickets is $6. Tickets will also be available in blocks of 25 for a $1 discount on each ticket.

Tickets will be available at area stores, and can be obtained by calling Up with People members

Crystal Johnson or Tony Laanan at the United Way office, 267-5201. Johnson and Laanan will be here until Sunday, then from Jan. 2 to 16 to make arrangements for the visit.

About 110 members of the non-profit educational organization will participate in the event. Like the music, members represent a wide variety of countries, including Sweden, Japan, Denmark, Canada, Germany and Australia.

"People come away from our show feeling good," said Johnson, 23, a University of Denver graduate who will be among the performers. "It's for all age groups." Since July, Johnson's troupe has performed in Arizona, Minnesota, Canada, and northeastern United States.

Up with People previously performed in Big Spring in 1986 and 1988.

The group giving the performance is one of five troupes this year that comprise "Up with People." The approximately 600 members, who range in age from 18 to 26, tour the world for a year while giving musical performances and offering community service.

Founded in 1965 and headquartered in Tucson, Ariz., Up with People is designed to promote understanding among people around the world. The organization has no religious or political affiliations.

Johnson and Laanan, who is from Guam, said Up with People is looking for host families in town for Jan. 15 and 16.

Anyone may volunteer to be a host to a member of the troupe. Hosts are asked to provide dinner and breakfast, transportation to the high school auditorium and a sack lunch.

three years to purchase the monitor, Dierschke said, ever since a doctor's orders protocol agreement was signed with a Malone and Hogan Clinic doctor in November 1988.

That agreement allows paramedics, under a doctor's approval, to treat 32 different incidences such as cardiac arrest, strokes, seizures, burns, airway obstruction, near drowning, heart arrhythmias, diabetes, snake bites, trauma and delivering babies, Dierschke said.

"Then of course the paramedics have their different types of drugs and their uses," he said. The agreement requires the service to bring patients that they treat to Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

"At that time (in 1986) we thought we were going to get a monitor but we didn't," Dierschke said. "Some of it was funding."

He said the county EMS will now have to update their protocol agreement. "I would say within the next two months," he predicted.

In other efforts to upgrade the EMS service, classes will begin in January for either emergency medical technicians or for emergency care attendants, said EMS President Rene Nieshues.

The classes are sponsored by Howard County College and will be held in Garden City or St. Lawrence, she said. The EMS board still needs to decide the type of classes and where they will be held.

Nieshues estimated that about 10 people will enroll in the classes.

"I think it's important to have all the EMTs out here that we can," she said.

Dierschke said there are about 22 county EMTs, two of which have special skills, and three ECAs.

every member of my family. I'll piecemeal it if I have to." If financing is secured, Mitchell said he plans to first build facilities for outpatients who are mostly self-sufficient. The center will then add more specialized facilities for physically-disabled patients and finally housing for battered women and abused children, he said.

"Each phase will cater to a different level as far as the patients are concerned," Mitchell said.

The center has gained approval from state hospital administrators, Mitchell said, who are concerned by the hospital's lack of space for an ever-increasing backlog of patients.

"They have a tremendous need for these types of facilities," Mitchell said of the hospital. "It's extremely economical for them," as the hospital will pay less to house patients at the center than at the hospital, he said.

Residential Services Administrator Jock Simmons, who has been working with Mitchell, was unavailable for comment today.

The center also would be better for the outpatients, he said.

"Now I can give them some great surroundings," Mitchell said. "They're accepted, they're living well and they have great surroundings."

"These patients... just want to feel like first-class citizens."

Mitchell said state hospital officials have provided the family with criteria and guidelines for such a center, which will require from 17 to 20 people to run. The center will need administrative staff, bookkeepers, maintenance, recreation, food services, housekeeping and security personnel, he said.

The administrative staff will ensure the center meets state hospital guidelines, he said. Mitchell said that since he is an accountant, he will oversee the financial aspects of the living center.

Mitchell, who was raised in Big Spring, said he urged his grandfather to consider building such a center because he's had friends with problems similar to those suffered by state hospital outpatients.

"When my grandfather told me about the land... I came up with the idea," he said.

Workers

will not quickly heal. And, I am cursed with a long memory," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, who sponsored a bill supported by organized labor and trial lawyers who represent injured workers.

Business interests and trial lawyers poured more than $4 million into legislative campaign funds in the two years before the 1988 elections. An ethics controversy erupted before one key Senate vote last summer when East Texas chicken magnate Bo Pilgrim passed around $10,000 checks to several senators after discussing his rising insurance costs with them.

But the political threats of retribution in the closing days before an agreement was reached "made Bo Pilgrim look like Chicken Little," Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, said.

"Never in 16 years have I encountered a more divisive, difficult issue," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who has presided over the Senate longer than anyone and has announced he will not seek reelection. "There have been too many harsh words in this debate; too many charges and counter charges."

Hobby became the target of the opposition for siding with House leaders and writing a bill that will restrict juries in disputed comp claims and tie benefits for permanent injuries to a specific schedule. The so-called Hobby plan was defeated in the Senate three times by a 17-14 vote.

Fraser said any divisions in the legislature came from the trial-lawyer controlled Senate.

"The rift was in the Senate. It was a case where they were voting for their own vested interest... rather than what is best for the people of Texas," Fraser said. "But the House did not have that problem. The final vote in the House was 117 to 31."

Angered by the Senate action, Speaker Gib Lewis last week adjourned the House for the session. But amid increased lobbying pressure, three senators agreed to switch their votes in return for seven amendments they said would make the bill stronger for injured workers.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, one of those three, said the compromise bill would "get us at least started on the road to improving the system."

After the bill was passed, Hobby said it "gives workers a better break and business a brighter future."

"This is a real milestone for us," said Gov. Bill Clements, promising to sign the 321-page bill into law.

But Parker said, "We've put pearl earrings on the sow and now we have elected her Miss America."

Although the bill increases maximum weekly benefits from $238 to $416, he said it will place numerous administrative and legal hurdles before workers trying to get benefits and prohibits any kind of meaningful jury trial in disputed claims.

"It will be evil, wicked and mean if it becomes law," said Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan.

But Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said that without the bill more workers would be unprotected since more businesses are dropping comp coverage because of increased rates. "We've got to do something to stop the horror of comp today," he said. Texas is one of three states that does not require mandatory coverage and nearly a third of the work force is unprotected.

Despite the protracted battle, Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, the House workers' comp sponsor, said Texas overhauled workers' comp in a relatively short period of time.

"In California it took seven years to reform their system. We've shown the Legislature can act and will act," he said.

He added that lawmakers will have to make adjustments as different provisions take effect.

"It's really not the end. It's the beginning because any change this sweeping has got to be tested in the real world," he said.

Benefits

In other agenda items, the council:

• Awarded a bid for health insurance to Penn General and representative Russ McEwen. The award to Penn General means the city will begin to partially insure itself. McEwen said the plan is self-funded and would require a fund totaling about $33,000 to remain in a Big Spring financial institution. That fund would be used to pay claims, and the city also can earn interest on the fund, he said.

• Approved expenditures at Moss Lake to pay for restrooms, a recreational vehicle park and various improvements. The cost for all of the improvements is expected to total about $3,600.

• Approved a payment of $3,498 to Howard County for the city's share in the cost of drilling water wells. When the city and county were trying to attract a state prison, the city agreed to foot a third of the cost associated with drilling wells at the proposed prison site.

• Met in executive session for more than an hour to discuss leasing 20 acres of airpark land, as well as airpark building 350. When the council reconvened in open session it took no action on the items.

• Approved the second readings of ordinances approving both the preliminary and final plat of the Banks Addition and the preliminary and final plat of the Vines Subdivision.

PHARR — Valley growers rush to harvest the broccoli crop after hearing that tonight's temperatures may dip below the freezing point.

Honey danger

AUSTIN (AP) — Larry and Sophia Odom thought they were doing their daughter a favor when they put honey rather than white sugar in the herb tea a nurse recommended for 5-month-old Sarah's mild fever. But Sarah Olivia Odom almost died from infant botulism after eating the honey this fall. Her case prompted her physician and a state health official to warn parents not to feed honey to children less than a year old. Sarah's case was the fifth this year in Texas of the rare bacterial disease discovered in 1976 and linked to raw honey. "Honey has been implicated in other infant botulism cases, but not confirmed in any of the Texas cases," said Suzanne Barth, a microbiologist with the state Department of Health. "But, as a general rule, infants under one year should not be fed honey." Sarah's was the first case of infant botulism reported in Austin, Ms. Barth said.

Christmas thieves

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Thieves have stolen Christmas tree lights and ornaments from a San Antonio church known for feeding the needy.

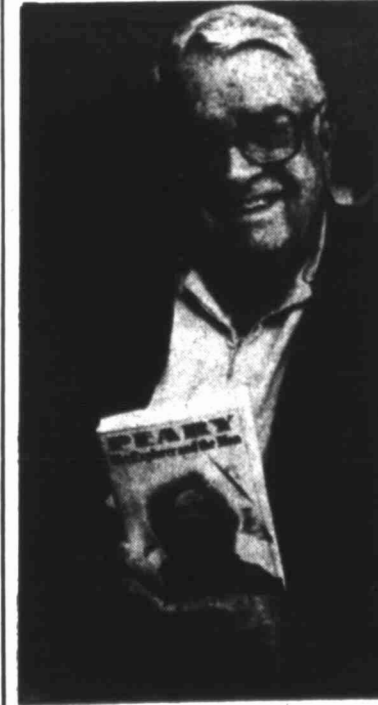

The Rev. David W. Edmunds of the Little Church of La Villita said Monday that thieves have stolen the lights and ornaments the past two Saturday afternoons.

"It's strange. Someone slipped into the church between weddings," he said. The church is often used as a wedding chapel.

"We have no idea who did it," Edmunds said. "I wonder what kind of person would steal from a church?"

The non-denominational church holds a Christmas dinner for the poor each year, feeding hundreds of homeless and others.

"People who are hungry can find help at the little church all year long," Edmunds said.

Retired policeman claims ownership of Ruby gun

DALLAS (AP) — Contenders in a legal battle for ownership of the gun used to kill Lee Harvey Oswald professed amazement Tuesday that a retired Dallas policeman has come forward to say he was the one who bought the gun — not Jack Ruby.

Retired detective Joe Cody of DeSoto said Tuesday he purchased the .38-caliber Colt Cobra Ruby used to kill Oswald two days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. And, Cody says, his purchase was no secret.

But, Jules Mayer, the executor of Ruby's estate, says he has never heard of Cody and contends that Ruby bought the gun.

"I know when Jack bought that gun," Mayer said Tuesday.

Mayer questioned why Cody has kept silent in the 22 years since Ruby died in a Dallas hospital on Jan. 3, 1967. "I know nothing about Joe Cody and nobody else seems to. If he was so enthusiastic about the gun why has he waited 23 years to come forward?"

But Cody says there was no secret. It was common knowledge, he said, that he purchased the gun for Ruby, whose nightclub he and other officers used to frequent.

Cody also says he immediately informed his superiors about the gun purchase and that he was questioned by the FBI.

"It's no secret," he said Tuesday. "Right after Ruby shot Oswald, I was subpoenaed to the court to testify I bought the pistol for Jack Ruby."

Cody said that he and Ruby went to Ray Brantley's gun shop on Singleton Boulevard in 1961 or 1962 and that Cody bought the $62.50 gun for Ruby, to save him $8 in taxes.

Ruby wanted the gun for protection, Cody said, since he habitually carried $1,500 or $1,800 in cash and found purchasing a safe too expensive.

The gun purchase was registered in Cody's name, he said, and then Ruby refunded him the money.

Cody said that if possession of the gun were awarded to him, he would turn it over to Ruby's heirs.

"I don't want that attorney (Mayer) to have it. If they'll give it to me I'll just turn around and hand it to the family," he said. "I'd rather the family have it. It's Jack's gun."

Cody said he has talked with Ruby attorney James Simons of Austin. Simons could not be immediately reached for comment Tuesday. Dallas co-counsel Doug Larson said he was unaware of the latest turn of events and could not comment.

Both Mayer and his attorney, Peter Bargmann of Dallas, said Cody's claim will not complicate their upcoming court battle with Ruby's heirs.

"My opinion is the estate has been the owner of the gun for 22 years, since Jack died," Bargmann said.

Ruby's brother, Earl, on behalf of all Ruby heirs, is seeking to obtain possession of the gun, which Mayer keeps stored in a safe deposit box in a North Dallas bank.

On the one hand, Mayer says proceeds from the sale of the gun must be used to repay Ruby's debts, while Earl Ruby contends Mayer is trying to make money he has not earned. Mayer has estimated the value of the gun at $125,000.

Other than the gun, Bargmann said, Ruby's estate includes the clothing and jewelry he wore at the time he shot Oswald, some personal papers and other clothing. Also, Bargmann said, "One interesting item Ruby was carrying at the time he shot Oswald was a Polaroid photograph of a billboard that said 'Impeach Earl Warren'."

Gilley's Club fire caused by arson

PASADENA (AP) — A fire that broke out last weekend at the famed but now-closed Gilley's Club was a case of arson, investigators said.

The fire caused moderate damage to a ceiling and a bar area, said Bill Yearout, the chief arson investigator for the Pasadena Fire Department.

Firefighters brought the blaze under control in about 10 minutes and speculated youths playing with matches could be responsible.

"That may be the best bet right now," Yearout said. "There was evidence people have gone inside and trashed the place out. But we're not saying kids did it because it's possible someone was trying to burn the place down."

The huge club has been closed since March 30 in the wake of a $17 million civil court judgment against owner Sherwood Cryer in a lawsuit filed by his former partner and club namesake, singer Mickey Gilley.

Marijuana found in sealed truck

FALFURRIAS (AP) — Federal authorities had to cut into a petrochemical tank truck with a welding torch to remove a ton of marijuana sealed inside, officials said.

Guadalupe Rodriguez of Laredo, the driver, was arrested after U.S. Border Patrol agents discovered the marijuana early Monday at a highway checkpoint on U.S. 281 in South Texas, said Larry Lovell, a special agent for the Drug Enforcement Administration. Charges are pending.

But there was no opening in the tank large enough to remove the large bales, Lovell said, so agents cut it open with a welding torch.

"We're not sure how they got it in there," Lovell said. "They must have cut the tank with a welding torch, put the marijuana in, then welded it shut. They sure went to a lot of trouble."

An unsuitable Alaskan oil deal

Back in the summer of 1988, before the Exxon oil spill put a halt to new oil exploration in Alaska, the Reagan administration hatched a scheme for bypassing almost all environmental review of its plans for opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil and gas development. Fortunately, that effort never got off the ground. But as a recent report from the General Accounting Office makes clear, the opportunity remains for the kind of abuses the Reaganians had in mind, and Congress needs to remove it.

The original plan would have been a bonanza for the oil companies and a disaster for federal taxpayers and the environment. As conceived by the Department of the Interior and hammered out over three days in a series of secret negotiations with oil company officials in a Virginia hotel room, the administration proposed to turn over 166,000 acres of the most promising oil properties in the refuge in exchange for some worthless lands elsewhere in Alaska that currently belong to various native groups. Since the Eskimos and other Indian organizations that would gain control of the oil tracts are generally exempt from most environmental requirements, they could then sell drilling rights directly to the oil companies without having to pause for any review of the potential damage that might result.

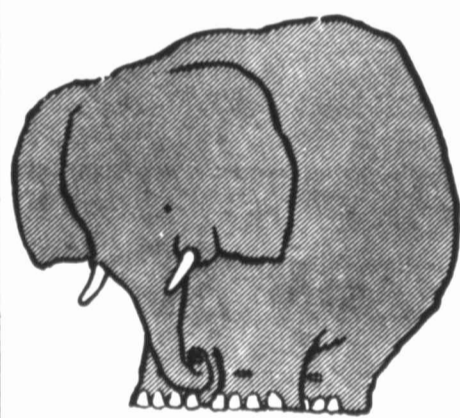

The scheme started to fall apart when Alaska realized that the deal would have rendered the oil companies' profits exempt from state taxation. And a subsequent review of the proposed land swap by Congress showed that it would have cost the general public hundreds of millions of dollars in lost revenue. Administration officials nevertheless defended the plan on the grounds that they were just following the precedent established in 1983 by former Interior Secretary James Watt when he allotted the first test well in the refuge.

As the new GAO report makes clear, however, even the very limited deal that Watt worked out has been bad for the public. According to the report, Watt gave away land and drilling rights that could turn out to be worth $400 million in exchange for a native-owned tract valued at less than $6 million. Worse, he gave the consortium of oil companies that drilled the well exclusive rights to the test results. As a result, the federal government doesn't know what they found and so has no basis for calculating what the value of the area may be for oil and gas exploration.

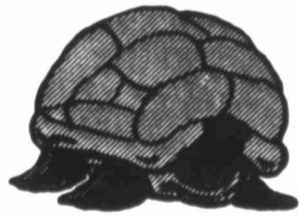

Further land exchanges, as well as almost every other aspect of the federal government's plans for domestic energy production, are now in a state of suspension while Congress and the Bush administration struggle to come up with an agreement on the conditions that will have to be met to reopen Alaska and the rest of the country to oil exploration. Clearly, strict standards limiting this kind of land swap should be an important part of that package.

U.S. urges Syria to expell terrorist

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — President Bush is about to issue an ultimatum to Syria — throw terrorist Ahmed Jibril out of the country or lose diplomatic ties with America.

Intelligence sources tell us that U.S. officials believe it was Jibril who arranged to blow up Pan Am flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, last Dec. 21, killing 259 passengers, most of them Americans.

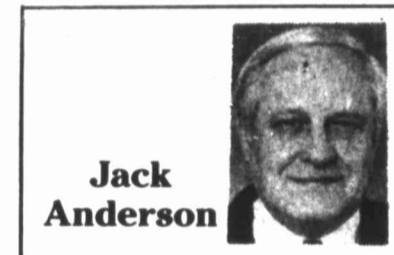

Syrian President Hafez Assad has given refuge to Jibril, a Palestinian. But if Assad wants to stay in the good graces of the Bush administration, Jibril has to go.

The U.S. ambassador to Syria, Edward Djerejian, will conduct the negotiations with Assad. The bottom line will be that Assad must turn Jibril over to the United States for prosecution, or, at the very least, kick him out of Syria. (One source says an initial message of this nature was delivered to Assad on Nov. 30.)

Iran contracted for the "hit," in retaliation for the accidental downing of an Iranian airliner by the USS Vincennes on July 3, 1988, in the Persian Gulf. All 290 passengers on that plane were killed.

Iran hired Jibril and his Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine — General Command. He was paid at least $2 million and possibly as much as $10 million, according to Central Intelligence Agency sources.

Jibril needed the cash badly because his traditional patrons, Assad and Libya's Moammar Gadhafi, cried poverty when he asked for his 1988 stipend of $20 million plus. Jibril needs money to keep his 500 terrorists supplied with food and weapons for raids on Israel.

But Jibril isn't in the terrorism business just for the cash. He hates Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasir Arafat, and uses acts of terrorism to embarrass and stymie him. Jibril has tried on many occasions to murder Arafat. He loathes any sign that Arafat may be making peace with Israel or the United States. Several weeks before the Pan Am bombing, Arafat had officially recognized Israel's right to exist and had opened talks with the United States. The Pan Am bombing was Jibril's way of frustrating those negotiations.

The CIA and British intelligence now believe Assad either knew about the bombing beforehand or was an accessory after the fact to protect Jibril. For several decades Jibril hasn't made a move without Syrian permission.

Iran has denied any complicity in the Pan Am bombing. Last May, in an exclusive interview with us, Jibril also declared that he is innocent. His long-winded denial was full of holes. Knowledgeable State Department sources say Jibril's admission in that interview of his affection for Iran hastened the U.S. government conclusion that he was responsible for Pan Am 103.

The unresolved question is whether Assad knew about it. State Department sources tell us that it's not imperative to prove that Assad knew. All they plan to do is lay out some evidence before Assad in Damascus and then insist that Jibril be extradited or banished.

Assad is generally not a man to be bullied, but U.S. diplomats think he will fold this time. He is isolated from the world community and economically strapped. The Soviets have secretly served him notice that they can't continue to support him in the style to which he has become accustomed. He needs to make friends with the West and he can't afford to have a war like Jibril on his nose.

Assad promised publicly last March that those responsible for the bombing would be punished, but he said he thought it "highly improbable" that Jibril was guilty. Assad said he needed proof.

His defense minister, Gen. Mustafa Tlas, needed no proof to recklessly charge last January that Israel blew up the plane by duping an American GI into carrying the bomb thinking he was smuggling $500,000 worth of diamonds.

AMATEUR NIGHT — Sources in the Drug Enforcement Administration have a theory about why Washington, D.C., has experienced a bumper crop of drug-related murders in the past two years. Amateurs are battling over drug distribution. In New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, organized gangs already control the streets. Gun battles aren't necessary to determine who distributes the drugs. But Washington is relatively new to the drug business and the amateurs are still fighting their turf battles.

Hazards of a naval summit

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
"Mr. President, it is so nice of you to host me and our summit on this impressive naval vessel of yours."

"Thank you, Mr. Chairman. We pride ourselves in our Navy. Well, lately, we at least pride ourselves on the career Roger Staubach had with the Cowboys."

"The 'Cowboys,' Mr. President?"

"It's a long story, Mr. Chairman. But I do hope you are comfortable."

"Quite, except for this one thing. Why must we wear these life jackets while we carry on our frank exchange of ideas?"

"Just a precaution, Mr. Chairman. In the unlikely event, say, we run into an iceberg, a fishing vessel, an Exxon oil tanker, or the nearest coastline, we want to have as much protection as we can."

"I understand, Mr. President. Now, on the matter of... Excuse me, Mr. President, did you hear that noise?"

"What noise, Mr. Chairman?"

"It sounded like an explosion, Mr. President."

"Well, Mr. Chairman, it could have been one of the gun turrets exploding, a fighter crashing into the bridge, or the sound a commercial 747 makes when it's been hit by a missile. Please continue. I'm sure it's nothing that would concern us in our frank exchange of ideas."

"Fine, Mr. President, and let us indeed be frank with one another. I really feel you're all wet about..."

"Mr. Chairman, I hate to interrupt you — and I want to get on with this frank exchange of ideas as much as you do — but as long as we're here with the Navy, I'd prefer you not use such terms as 'all wet.'"

"And why, Mr. President?"

"Just a silly superstition I've developed in the past several months."

"Are there any other terms I shouldn't use?"

"Well, Mr. Chairman, as long as you've asked, I'd prefer you didn't use such phrases as, 'This proposal will sink like a rock back in the Kremlin,' or 'Let's hold our breath on the situation in Lebanon,' or 'I don't think we should go overboard on the reduction of conventional weapons in Europe.'"

"Certainly, Mr. President, if that's what you want. But it's just that we've been involved in this titanic struggle for so long and..."

"That's out too, Mr. Chairman."

"What, Mr. President?"

"The T word."

"As you wish, Mr. President. Now let us see if we can get on with a frank exchange of ideas. I think... Mr. President, have you noticed there appears to be some water on the floor here?"

"See any fish, Mr. Chairman?"

"No."

"It's probably nothing, but I think I should point out to you your seat cushion may be used for flotation."

"You Americans think of everything. Now, as I was saying... Mr. President, the water seems to be getting deeper."

"I believe it is, Mr. Chairman."

"Look, Mr. President, seaweed. What do you think we should do?"

"Do you want me to be frank, Mr. Chairman?"

"Please."

"Get the hell off this crate. I think she's going down."

"I agree, Mr. President. Let's paddle out together. It'll look like our frank exchange of ideas was a success."

Cookoff help appreciated

To the editor:
To all those who helped us with our First Annual Big Spring Mayor's Chili Cookoff: Some of you have already been thanked publicly through the media, and we will skip these. There are, however, some unsung heroes whom we would like to acknowledge:

The Hog Owners Clean-up Committee: Did you notice the fantastic job they did both before and after the cookoff?

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce who not only gave us their support but the invaluable use of their official mailing permit.

To the media: The Big Spring Herald and to David Wrinkle and his KBST cooking team, who surprised the heck out of us. (We didn't call him. He called us.) Thanks Dave for all of the neat radio publicity. We are sending you some decent chili recipes. Better luck next year. To Renee Henderson of Big 2 KMID-TV, who was thoroughly embarrassed by a drunken chili cook, wearing an apron, we still made Saturday's ten o'clock news. And to Kathy Redwing for some great pre-publicity on KMID-TV.

To Big Spring's finest, our police department, for their totally awesome police escorts in all of the parade activity last week.

To A. Bob Smith of the Big Spring Limousine Service who added just the right touch of protocol to our visiting dignitary Shiel Abdul Alharred of the principality of Ahghah Dhu Dhu who traveled here to meet Mayor Green on the "chili cooking field of honor."

To Johnny Hooper of the Lone Star Chili Bar, per Al Scott, and who didn't even receive his showmanship trophy. (It was misplaced during the last minute hassel of putting together a chili cookoff.)

To Jimmy Blankenship, manager of Wal-Mart for his donation of a first alert fire extinguisher trophy and three bottles of koopectate.

To the "untouchables." Those illustrious judging authorities who put their taste buds on the line. Jean Shotts, County Judge Coffee, Lynn Hayes and District Attorney Rick Hamby. (Mr. Hamby received several blows to the head with a rubber chicken). We sincerely apologize to Rick for the conduct of Shiek Abdul.

Lucky Lynn Hayes was seen spitting and coughing, and rolling under the judging table, after tasting some nasty green stuff which later won in the "Worst Bowl" category.

And last, but not least, to Bob (Tumbleweed Smith) Lewis, friend of the Texas Chili Bowl, attired in cowboy hat and a black robe, who is deserving of some sort of showmanship award for his appearance at the event. Tumbleweed is also helping us to gain our CASI (Chili Appreciation Society International) sanctioning for next year.

No we didn't quite make our expenses, but our first Annual Mayor's Chili Cookoff was indeed an "artistic" success, and just wait til next year!

Not a 'silly little game'

To the editor:
In regard to a column written by Steve Reagan concerning the 'class' of Sudan athletes. We are very, very proud of all our Sudan athletes on or off the field. We would put up the actions of our youth against any, anywhere for good sportsmanship or class. The football team is proud of their achievements this year, and rightly so. But, to call them third-graders and demean their actions was uncalled for from a supposedly adult professional.

I'm sure that you are aware of our shut-out record this year due to our strong defense. We could have left the starting line up in the game and perhaps Garden City would not have scored. We have not remained unbeaten by laying-down the fourth quarter or quit playing when we were ahead. The reputed play was a practiced and called play and needed to be tried in a game.

We're sure that Mr. Reagan never played high school sports. There are no "silly little" games in state play-offs. I can assure you it will be remembered much longer than 30 years.

Again, we feel that you owe our athletes a written and public apology.

NASA delays space shuttle launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA today said it has postponed for at least two days the pre-Christmas launch of space shuttle Columbia on a satellite rescue mission because preparations are behind schedule.

"They're still assessing a new date, but it appears the 20th is now the earliest," said Karl Kristofferson, a NASA spokesman.

He said a lot of minor difficulties had put launch crews behind schedule. NASA was expected to select a firm new date by Thursday.

During a 10-day flight, Columbia's five astronauts are to put a Navy communications satellite into orbit and recover a science satellite before it falls to Earth. The satellite has been in orbit nearly six years.

Loading of propellants for in-flight propulsion systems and auxiliary power units began a day late Monday because a faulty connector on an electronics box had to be replaced.

Once the fueling began, the launch pad had to be cleared of all non-essential personnel because it is dangerous. That prevented workers from making up lost time in other areas.

Town lifts ban on Soviet vodka

HUTCHINSON, Minn. (AP) — It wasn't as dramatic as knocking down the Berlin Wall, but it was another sign of the thaw in East-West relations. This small town has lifted its 6-year-old ban on Russian vodka.

"It took six years, but the city of Hutchinson finally brought the Soviet Union to its knees," joked Barry Anderson, the city attorney.

The sanction was removed Tuesday night through a unanimous voice vote by the City Council.

It had been issued to protest the 1983 downing of a South Korean jetliner by a Soviet fighter pilot. The plane was shot down in September 1983 on a flight from Anchorage, Alaska, to Seoul after it strayed into Soviet airspace, killing all 269 people aboard.

Helmsley sentenced to prison

NEW YORK (AP) — Billionaire Leona Helmsley told a judge she was "in the middle of a nightmare" before he declared her unremorseful, sentenced her to four years in prison and ordered her to pay $8.8 million for tax evasion.

Mrs. Helmsley, portrayed as a regal perfectionist in advertisements for her hotel empire, sobbed and begged for mercy at her sentencing Tuesday.

But U.S. District Judge John M. Walker Jr. was unswayed, saying "naked greed" caused her downfall.

"You believed you were above the law and displayed no remorse or contrition," said Walker. "You bear the full responsibility for this scheme with all of its fraudulent permutations. You were at the apex of the pyramid of wrongdoing."

Besides prison, Walker imposed three years' probation and 750 hours of community service.

Groups call for boycott of 'degradable' plastics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The label "degradable" is surfacing on plastic products from trash bags to diapers, but environmentalists call it a marketing ploy that should be rejected.

Six environmental groups called Tuesday for a boycott of all degradable plastic products, contending there is no proof that the products will decompose in a landfill any faster than conventional plastics.

"Degradable plastics are a consumer ripoff," said Jeanne Wirka of the Environmental Action Foundation, a Washington-based environmental group.

Richard Denison of the Environmental Defense Fund accused manufacturers of "preying on the environmental concerns of American consumers" to sell trash bags and other plastic items.

"Degradable plastics may be good for profits, but they are bad for the environment," Denison said.

In recent months, an increasing number of degradable products — from trash and grocery bags to diapers — have cropped up on grocery shelves. Manufacturers contend the products made of a plastic compound will degrade in a relatively short time when left to sunlight and, in some cases, even in landfills.

The products include Hefty and Glad trash bags and several brands of diapers. Some supermarkets also are increasingly using degradable plastic bags for carrying groceries home because environmentally concerned consumers shy away from conventional plastic bags.

Biodegradable plastics are made by adding corn starch to the plastic polymer.

"They will not solve all our solid waste issues, but they have definite advantages if applied properly," said Tim Draeger, executive director of the Degradable Plastics Council.

"Degradability is not the solution to the solid waste problem," said Robert J. Barrett, general manager of solid waste management solutions at Mobil Chemical Co. in Pittsford, N.Y.

The groups calling for the boycott are the Environmental Defense Fund, Environmental Action Foundation, Environmental Policy Institute-Friends of the Earth, Natural Resources Defense Council, Public Citizen and the Coalition for Recyclable Waste.

Accord demands rebels disband

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Alfredo Cristiani says the latest Central American accord strips the leftist rebels of any legitimacy and if they don't disband "the army will deal with them."

The five Central American presidents on Tuesday demanded the dismantling of both the leftist Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front in El Salvador and the U.S.-backed Contras fighting in Nicaragua.

The two-day summit in San Jose, Costa Rica, was the latest in a series that have raised hopes but failed to bring peace to Central America. It was the first to focus on El Salvador, and it renewed a call earlier this year for the dissolution of the Contras.

Neither of the rebel armies was represented at the summit and neither has agreed to be disbanded.

The summit accord implicitly chides the United States, the Soviet Union and Cuba by saying "nations with interests in the region" should be more directly involved in the peace process. The presidents also requested increased U.N. involvement in the effort to demobilize "irregular forces."

Refugees protest forced return

HONG KONG (AP) — More than 6,000 Vietnamese demonstrated in three detention centers today to protest the forced repatriation of 51 other boat people a day earlier, a government spokesman said.

A government official of this British colony, meanwhile, said the repatriation program would continue despite international criticism.

"It is our intention to put into place a continuing program to return to Vietnam all those who are judged not to be refugees," Chief Secretary Sir David Ford told the Legislative Council. His speech did not include a timetable for further repatriation.

The approximately 44,000 Vietnamese who have sailed into Hong Kong since June 1988 are considered illegal "economic" immigrants unless they can prove the fled their Communist homeland fearing persecution.

The first batch to be sent home against their will were whisked screaming and crying from their detention center by riot police before dawn Tuesday and put on a plane to Hanoi.

Three officials killed in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Suspected drug cartel assassins killed a judge, a prosecutor and a bank official, part of a rise in bloodshed as traffickers seek to stop the extraditions of narcotics figures to the United States.

The three slain late Tuesday night were the latest victims in Colombia's 3-month-old war between drug smugglers and the government, police said.

The traffickers have said they would continue their campaign of bombings and assassinations unless the voters are allowed to decide whether to continue the policy of extraditing drug traffickers to the United States.

The government of President Virgilio Barco has said it will not let up on its crackdown on Colombia's powerful cocaine cartels.

Ever since Barco declared an anti-narcotics war after a leading presidential candidate was assassinated on Aug. 18, Colombia has undergone a wave of killings, including a bombing last week that claimed 63 lives.

Officials also blame drug barons for the bombing of a Colombian jetliner on a domestic flight Nov. 27 that killed all 107 people aboard.

Eat, drink and stay slim during holidays

"Eat, drink and be merry." Unfortunately, that yuletide chorus often leads to the New Year's resolution: "Starve, abstain and be miserable."

Take heart, however, because according to Vivian Lipman, a Weight Watchers employee, there is a way to avoid that yearly scenario.

"Plan, plan, plan," says Lipman. "While many people actually can lose weight during the holiday season, most of us will be ahead of the game if we simply maintain our current weight."

You can enjoy special Christmas indulgences, she suggests, by charting out your parties, special dinners, etc. "Learn to eat simple, low-calorie, yet satisfying fare for breakfast and lunch on a day when you know you'll be attending a holiday dinner for example," Lipman suggests.

If you're in charge of the menu, you have even more control. Weight Watchers suggests the following Christmas recipes that all your guests can savor: Standing rib roast, horseradish sauce, Old English stuffed mushrooms, buttermilk popovers, warm vegetable salad and berry trifle.

HORSERADISH SAUCE

1 tbs. plus 1 tsp. diet margarine
1 tbs. all-purpose flour
1/2 cup water
1 tbs. each prepared horseradish and rinsed and drained capers
1 packet instant beef broth and seasoning mix
1 tsp. rinsed and drained green peppercorns
1/4 tsp. white pepper
1/2 cup evaporated skimmed milk
In 4-cup saucepan melt margarine over medium-high heat; sprinkle flour over margarine and stir quickly to combine. Stir in remaining ingredients except milk. Reduce heat to low and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens, about 5 minutes. Stir in milk and continue cooking, stirring constantly, until mixture is heated, 1 to 2 minutes.

OLD ENGLISH STUFFED MUSHROOMS

14 medium mushrooms
1/4 cup each finely chopped onion, red bell pepper, and port wine
2 ounces sharp Cheddar cheese, shredded, drained
3 tbs. plain dried bread crumbs
1/8 tsp. pepper

Remove stems from mushrooms and finely chop; reserve caps. In 9-inch non-stick skillet combine chopped mushrooms, onion, bell pepper, and wine and cook over medium-high heat until mixture comes to a boil; continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are tender and liquid is reduced by half, 4 to 5 minutes. Transfer to small mixing bowl; add 1 1/2 ounces cheese, bread crumbs and pepper; stir. Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Into each reserved mushroom cap spoon an equal amount of vegetable mixture. Arrange mushrooms on non-stick baking sheet; sprinkle with an equal amount of remaining cheese. Bake until mushrooms are fork-tender, 8 to 10 minutes.

BUTTERMILK POPOVERS

3/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt
3/4 cup buttermilk
2 eggs
1 tbs. plus 1 tsp. diet margarine, melted
Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. On sheet of waxed paper sift together flour and salt; set aside. In blender process remaining ingredients on medium speed until combined; add flour mixture and process on low speed until smooth. Set four 6-ounce custard cups on baking sheet and place in oven for 5 minutes. Spray each cup with non-stick cooking spray and pour 1/4 of batter into each cup. Return to oven and bake for 20 minutes. Turn oven control to 325 degrees F and bake 20 minutes longer. Remove popovers from custard cups and serve immediately. Popovers will fall slightly after removing from oven.

WARM VEGETABLE SALAD

9 ounces cooked baby carrots
1 1/2 cups pared yellow turnip sticks, cooked
1 cup copped cauliflower florets
1 medium red bell pepper, seeded, cut into thin strips and blanched
1/4 pounds cooked acorn squash, seeded and thinly sliced
2 medium leeks, thoroughly washed (white portion and some green), blanched and cut lengthwise into halves
2 tsp. olive oil
2 tbs. minced shallots or onion
3/4 cup water
2 tbs. red wine vinegar
1/4 lemon juice
1 packet instant vegetable broth

Celebrate Christmas with low-calorie Weight Watchers recipes your guests will savor.

and seasoning mix

1 tsp. Dijon-style mustard
1/8 tsp. pepper
Parsley sprigs for garnish

Decoratively arrange first 6 ingredients on serving platter; set aside. In small non-stick skillet heat oil over medium heat; add shallots and saute until softened, about 1 minute. Stir in remaining ingredients except garnish and cook until flavors blend, 3 to 4 minutes. Pour evenly over vegetables. Garnish with parsley.

BERRY TRIFLE

2 cups skim or non-fat milk
1 envelope calorie-reduced vanilla instant pudding mix
8 champagne egg biscuits
1/4 cup dry sherry
2 tbs. low-calorie strawberry spread

2 cups frozen strawberries, thawed and cut into halves
1/2 cup each frozen raspberries and frozen blueberries, thawed
1/4 cup thawed frozen dairy whipped topping
1/2 ounce chopped almonds

Using milk, prepare pudding according to package directions but do not chill. Cut biscuits crosswise into halves and arrange in bottom of 6-cup serving bowl. In 1-cup liquid measure combine sherry and strawberry spread; brush over biscuits with pastry brush. Arrange fruits in serving bowl over biscuits. Spread prepared pudding over fruits, then spoon whipped topping onto center of pudding. Sprinkle almonds over whipped topping. Cover and refrigerate at least 15 minutes.

Papa Joe's one-dish meal

By PAPA JOE REED

I like one dish meals. Meals that you don't have to cook a half a dozen different things to round out a complete meal. One dish meals are easy to fix, and besides, you don't have to clean up a lot of pots and pans when you're through. Now that kind of attitude would indicate that I'm lazy or efficient. I'll let you draw your own conclusion. Today, we will have a one dish meal. It will be:

BEEF STEW & DUMPLINGS

Round steak (2 lbs. cut into 1-inch cubes)
Vegetable oil (4 tbs.)
Onions (2, medium, chopped)
Flour (1 cup)
Beef broth (1 can)
Vinegar (2 tbs.)
Thyme (1/2 tsp.)
Black pepper (1/2 tsp.)
Salt (2 1/2 tsp.)
Baking powder (3/4 tsp.)
Parsley (3 tbs., chopped)
Marjoram (1/4 tsp.)
Cayenne pepper (just a dash)
Oleo (3 tbs.)
Ice water (2 tbs.)

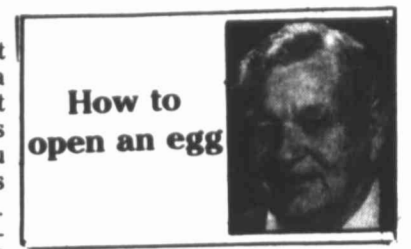

Carrots (4, sliced, 1-inch strips)
First, heat the oil in a large saucepan, then lightly brown the meat in it. When meat is browned, remove and in the remaining oil saute the onions for ten minutes. Now blend in three tbs. of the flour until smooth. Now gradually add the beef broth, stirring constantly until it boils. Now add the vinegar, thyme, pepper, 2 tsp. of salt and the meat. Cover and cook over a low heat for about 2 hours.

Sift the remaining flour, salt and the baking powder into a mixing bowl. Add the marjoram, parsley and cayenne pepper, mixing well. Now cut in the oleo until well blended. Add the ice water and toss lightly until a ball of dough is formed. Shape into small balls and drop into the stew with the carrots. Cover and cook over low heat for 30 to 45 minutes. This stew will serve 4 to 6 people.

If you would like to have a salad with the stew, I would recommend:

CABBAGE SALAD

Apple (1 sliced)
Cabbage (4 cups, finely shredded)
Lemon juice (1 tbs.)
Carrot (1 small, grated)
Sour cream dressing
Salt and pepper to taste
Sprinkle the apple with the lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Toss

How to open an egg
it with the cabbage and carrot. Now sprinkle the vegetables lightly with salt and pepper, then moisten with the sour cream dressing. Garnish the salad with green pepper strip or tomato wedges. Serve the stew and salad with a warm loaf of crusty French bread and you have a meal that will be long remembered.

Godparents were ready and able but are not now willing

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago, we lost a very dear friend to cancer. (I'll call him Joe.) My husband and I had become very good friends with Joe and his wife about two years prior to Joe's death. Three months before Joe died, his wife had a baby boy, and my husband and I were asked to be the baby's godparents. We felt honored.

After we had become the child's godparents, Joe's wife confided (to me) that during her marriage with Joe, she had carried on an affair with another man, and she was sure that this other man is the

to be godparents to the child of Joe and his wife — not the child of Joe's wife and her lover.

Is there any way we can get our names erased from the church's registry as being the godparents of Joe's widow's child? Please check into this matter, as we are desperate.

Sorry we can't sign our names. This is a very small town. — UNWILLING GODPARENTS

DEAR UNWILLING: According to a spokesman for the Los Angeles Diocese, you cannot have your name "erased" from the baptismal certificate. You acted in good faith when you became godparents to the child. Please stay close to him, and try to be good friends to the little fellow regardless of who his parents are. He will need a positive influence in his life.

DEAR ABBY: I will be getting married very soon for the second time. We both have children from our first marriages. My son is very close to this wonderful man, and I wonder if it would be proper for my son, who is in elementary school, to give me away.

It will be a small wedding with only family and very close friends.

My son and I have lived alone for several years, and I think he would love the honor. Thank you for your help. — SECOND TIME AROUND

DEAR SECOND: There is no reason why your son can't give you away in marriage. I think it's a lovely idea. All good wishes to you and your wonderful man.

DEAR ABBY: Being a registered nurse, I read with interest about the lady who was short one pill (barbituate) twice in a row at the same pharmacy. When she counted the pills and found she had been shorted, she complained and was told, "The pill-counting machine must have been acting up."

While pill-counting machines can "act up," and most professionals are honest, the thought occurred to me that if someone chose to "short" many prescriptions, he or she could be building a personal supply.

Thanks, Abby, for reminding all of us to count our medications — especially narcotics and barbituates. The implications could go far beyond money. — DEANN MILLER, R.N., ATLANTA

Holiday health

By LADIES' HOME JOURNAL For AP Newsfeatures

The yuletide is a time for merriment and good cheer. But stress, overindulgence and the perennial winter cold can ruin the holiday season.

Ladies' Home Journal offers several quick fixes for holiday party stoppers.

- Curb a winter cold: Use an over-the-counter medication to relieve a runny nose. Camouflage a red nose and eyelids with a concealer.

- Control stress acne: Even skin that never breaks out can get blemished during the stressful holidays. Treat blemishes with an over-the-counter acne treatment containing salicylic acid, sulfur or benzoyl peroxide. An acne cyst can be cleared up in a day by a dermatologist's injection of cortisone.

- Soothe beat feet: Proper foot care during the holidays is essential. Elevate feet at least five minutes per day. Use a soothing lotion to massage feet. Regular pedicures that include a thorough foot cleansing, massage and toenail trim help maintain foot health.

- Save high heels for special occasions: Every inch a woman goes up in heel height increases the weight on her feet by 50 percent, putting more pressure and pain on the ball of the foot.

- Prevent heartburn: Heartburn occurs when the esophageal sphincter relaxes, allowing stomach acid and partly digested food back into the esophagus. Avoid excess fat, coffee, chocolate, alcohol and cigarettes. If heartburn does strike, over-the-counter antacids will usually do the trick. Severe or chronic attacks may require a prescription medication.

- Avoid bloating: Too much food and carbonated beverages can cause bloating. To prevent this, stop eating before completely stuffed and avoid fizzy beverages. A hot bath can help, since water releases abdominal muscles and encourages the passing of gas.

- Zap bad breath: Most breath mints have a high alcohol and sugar content that can actually cause mouth odor. Try a sprig of parsley (a typical party garnish that's a natural freshener).

Donated Christmas

WANETTE, Okla. (AP) — Thanks to determination, donations and a lot of hard work, people in the town of Wanette finally have town decorations to prove they have the Christmas spirit.

The Pottawatomie County town of about 500 has been too poor to afford Yule decorations for several years.

This year, they ran an advertisement in the November issue of Oklahoma Cities & Towns, appealing for donated decorations from other communities.

The ad got no response. That got people worked up, and local merchants chipped in to provide wood that Future Farmers of America members and other high school students used to build large candles and other decorations.

Grade-schoolers made decorations for a 15-foot cedar tree brought in by a local farmer to put in the middle of town. Several residents brought lights to go with the students' tree decorations. And several children painted seasonal designs on doors and windows of businesses.

"It just all came together. I've seen more life here in the last month than I've seen in the last four or five years," said Rachella Larman, a local flower shop operator.

"Everybody's gotten excited about it and gotten on the band wagon — everybody helped," she said. "I don't think we've all been out but about $200 cash, and everything else has been donated."

Friendship repaid

BENWOOD, W.Va. (AP) — An abandoned kitten taken in by a woman last August has returned the favor by alerting the woman to a fire and saving her life.

Mamie Pasden, 78, said she had been sleeping soundly Sunday when the cat, named Baby, woke her up.

"I remember this kitten started scratching my head and face," Pasden said. "So when I finally opened my eyes I said, 'What's wrong, Baby?'"

"I could see the ceiling was all orange and I thought, 'Boy, the sun's out early.'"

Then she realized it was a reflection of flames and fled from the house, stopping to make sure she had the cat.

"I wasn't going to leave that cat even if I had to die trying to save her," Pasden said. "It was the least I could do for her saving me."

Pasden lost everything in the fire and has been staying with neighbors. She has received numerous donations, including $25 from a stranger.

"He said, 'Buy food for the kitten. She's special,'" Pasden said.

Tags returned

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A pair of dog tags that lay forgotten in an English forest for 45 years have been returned to their original owner with the help of a British treasure hunter.

"It was amazing. It was something I never anticipated," said John Kawa, who lost the identification chain while he was an American corporal training in Britain for D-Day.

"You never know what you're going to come across in life," Kawa said Monday.

The tags were lost in the spring of 1944 in a Wiltshire forest. Kawa said he took them off because the swinging chain got in his way while he tried to wash in a helmet full of water, and he then forgot them in the rush of exercises.

Last summer, a letter arrived at the old family house in Springfield, where Kawa's sister, Anna, now lives.

"I opened the letter and I said, 'I know what it is,'" said Kawa, who knew by the heading of the letter, which copied the style of the dog tags that listed his mother's name and his name.

"I knew right then and there it was the dog tags," Kawa said.

The letter was from Keith R. Genever of Wiltshire, who said he found the chain and tags while pursuing his hobby of treasure hunting with a metal detector.

The two men corresponded and Kawa, now 66, got the tags back last month.

Ruins older than expected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Archaeologists who excavated a city in Guatemala's jungle have learned that Mayan civilization emerged centuries earlier than previously thought, hundreds of years before the Christian era.

"Our findings indicate large-scale Mayan development, including huge temples and other stone buildings, were constructed during a period in which it was thought the most advanced form of construction was small villages," said Richard Hansen of the University of California, Los Angeles.

Hansen's research, announced by UCLA, "is a very significant discovery," said Arthur Demarest, anthropology chairman at Vanderbilt University in Tennessee.

Archaeologists once believed advanced Mayan civilization emerged A.D. 300 and ended A.D. 900 during what is described as the "classic period." Research conducted during 1978-83 at El Mirador, Guatemala, pushed that date back to 200 B.C.

But Hansen's 50-member team excavated the ancient city of Nakbe, 350 miles from Guatemala City, and determined that roughly 100 stone pyramids and other buildings dated to between 400 B.C. and 630 B.C.

Study: Biennial Pap smears cut cancer risks

Getting into the job

HANFORD, Calif. — A street corner in downtown Hanford may be an unlikely pit stop, but with the aid of a postal relay box postman Joe Bronersky found a way to make the most of his half-hour lunch break recently.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cervical cancer risks increase dramatically for women who fail to get Pap smear tests at least every two years, University of Washington scientists report in a study released today.

Women who get Pap smears only every three years run a risk that is 3.9 times greater that cervical cancer will go undetected than women who have the test annually, according to the study published in the professional journal Obstetrics and Gynecology.

The study said the risks increase as the between-test interval increases and that for women who have no Pap tests for 10 years or longer, the risk increases by 12.3 times.

"The study shows that women should get Pap smears more frequently than every three years," said Dr. Joseph Chu, one of five physicians who conducted the study at the University of Washington. "The risk of having advanced disease goes way down if the tests are conducted every two years or less."

Chu said that the more frequent Pap tests lower the cancer risk for all women, no matter what other risk factors, such as smoking or multiple sexual partners, they have in their life.

The Pap smear is used in gynecological screening to detect the presence of squamous cell cancer, the most common form of cervical cancer. It can also detect changes in cells that could lead to invasive cancer if not treated — thus the test can result in therapy that prevents the cancer from developing.

To perform a Pap test, doctors collect cells from the mucous membrane of the cervix during a pelvic examination. The cells are stained for laboratory analysis. The procedure, known formally as the Papanicolaou stain test, is named for George Nicolas Papanicolaou, the physician who developed it.

Just how frequently such tests should be performed to afford maximum protection has long been a matter of controversy. Some studies have found that significantly elevated risks for cancer occur at test intervals of four years or more.

But the Washington State researchers said in their study that they found three years seemed to be the critical interval.

It noted, however, that there was little risk difference between annual and biennial Pap tests.

Sixty-three journalists killed in '89

NEW YORK (AP) — A report on press freedom around the world has found that over 1,000 journalists were attacked or harassed this year, more than double the number attacked in 1988.

"When terrorism targets the press, it does more than kill journalists. It casts a pall of self-censorship and despair over the whole society," wrote Leonard R. Sussman in the Freedom House report issued Thursday.

Worldwide, governments in 1989 shut down 38 publications or radio stations and arrested 324 reporters. The number of journalists attacked or harassed was 1,045 — up from 465 in 1988.

Sixty-three journalists were murdered this year, including 19 in Colombia, where cocaine traffickers have killed reporters and publishers and bombed newspapers in an effort to keep the press from reporting on the drug war, the report stated.

South Africa detained more than 100 journalists in 1989 and tried to keep the media from reporting anti-apartheid protests, the report said.

The report found that press freedom expanded in Algeria, Botswana, Chile, Gambia, Paraguay and Tunisia, as well as in parts of Eastern Europe, where local political developments were reported as never before. Hungary and Poland's media dramatically diversified, with previously banned writers openly featured.

In the Soviet Union, there were signs of glasnost in the press as the media reported on controversial subjects like the war in Afghanistan and the deploying of a large radar station in violation of a treaty with the United States.

But two Soviet journalists — including an investigative reporter for Ogonyok, a reformist magazine — were killed, the report stated. Last week, Sergei Kuznetsov, an independent Siberian reporter, was sentenced to three years in a labor camp for "slandering" an official. And 25 prominent Estonian journalists were suddenly called to army duty after writing critically of the military and other governmental activities, the report said.

In China, at least 56 Chinese journalists were arrested and 23 foreign journalists were maltreated, including several who were beaten in detention and one who was shot. Many foreign journalists were expelled in the wake of the Tiananmen Square massacre, and Chinese journalists were required to attend "ideological meetings," Freedom House said.

Other countries that experienced more restrictions on the press included Panama, the Sudan, Nigeria and Suriname.

On-the-job injuries on the rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of injuries and illnesses reported in American workplaces was up significantly last year, with nearly half of the problems blamed on repetitive motion disorders, according to Labor Department data.

Department and labor union analysts said the reported jump in injuries and illnesses from 6 million in 1987 to 6.4 million last year is at least partly attributable to improved reporting by employers.

About 3,300 workplace deaths were reported by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

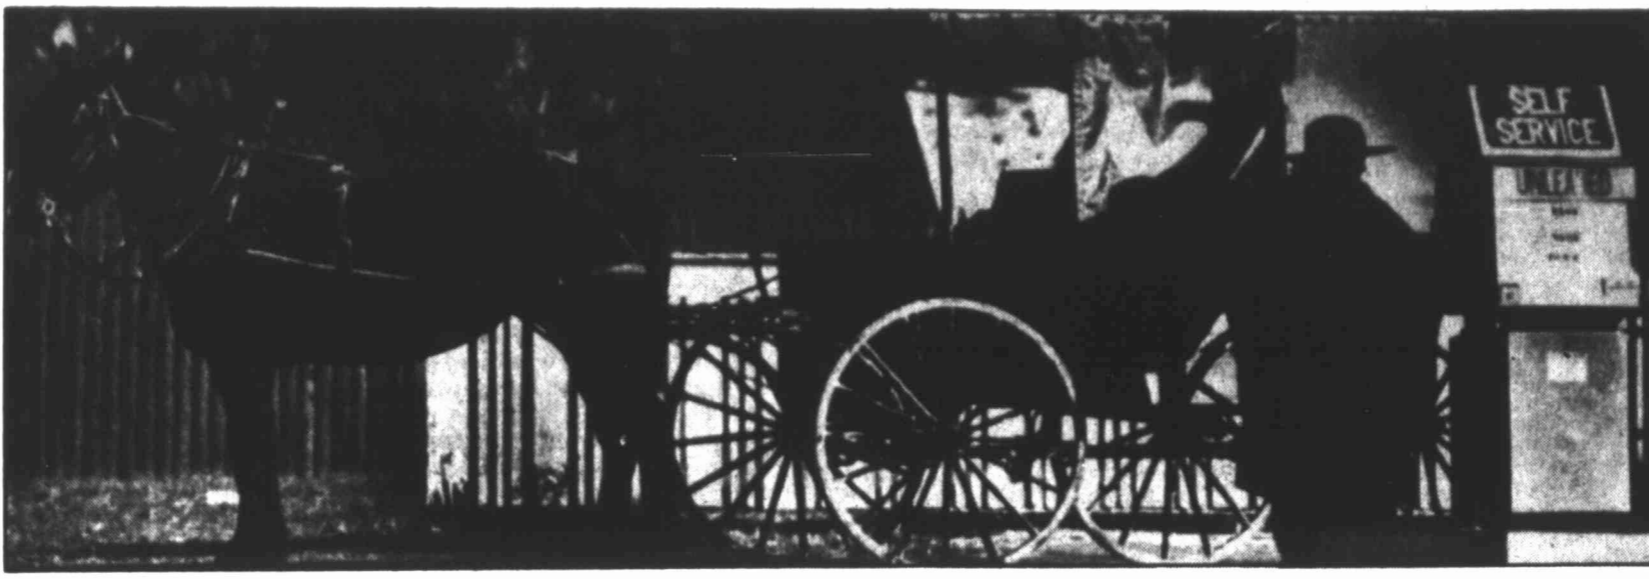

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said in a report released Wednesday that the reported increases last year brought the rate of injuries and illnesses to 8.6 for every 100 full-time workers, up from 8.3 in 1987. The number of incidents that resulted in lost workdays rose to four for every 100 workers in 1988, up from 3.8 percent in 1987.

The highest incidence of injuries came in automobile manufacturing, where 19.5 injuries were reported for every 100 full-time workers last year.

Population growth slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's population is expected to grow by about a billion people in each of the next three decades but won't be increasing as rapidly as it has been, the Census Bureau said.

Currently at 5.2 billion people, the world's population is expected to grow to 6.3 billion by the year 2000, 7.3 billion by 2010 and 8.3 billion by 2020.

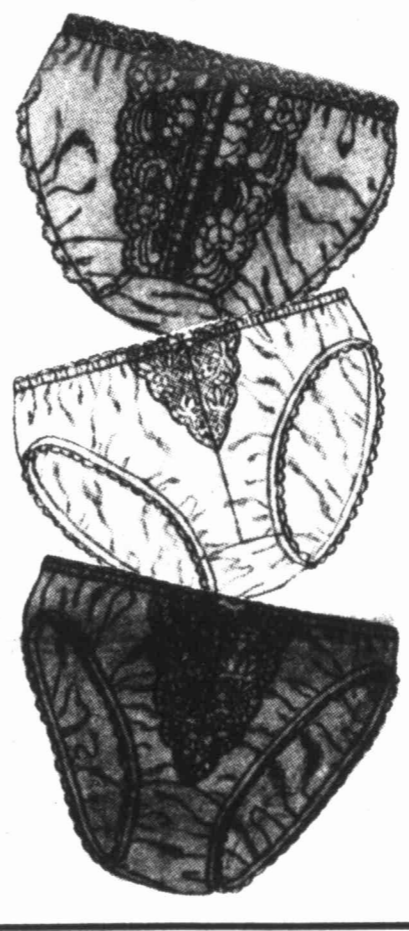

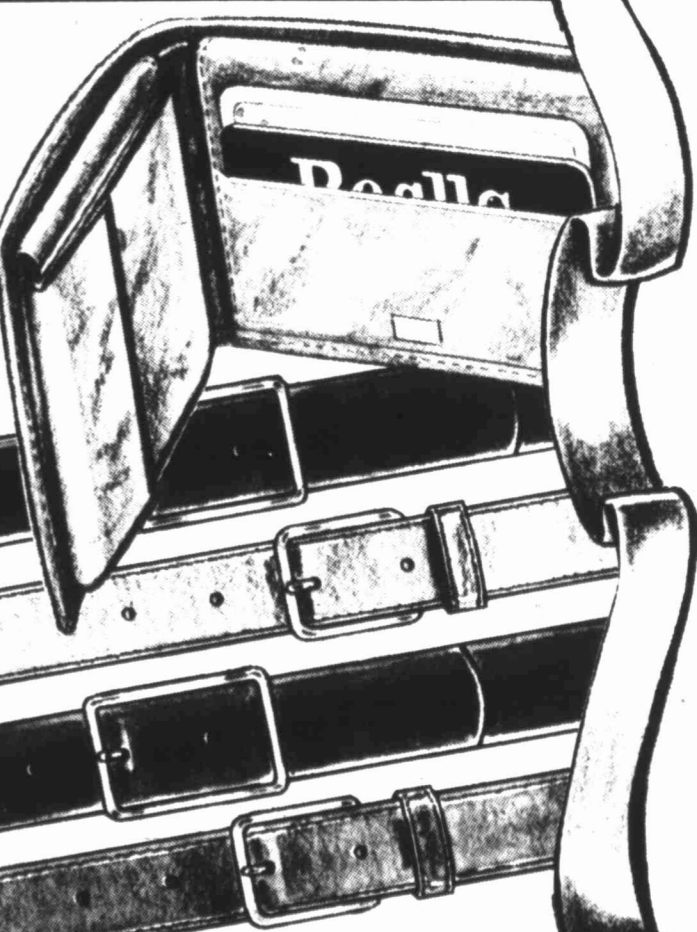

More than nine out of 10 new arrivals will be in developing countries, the bureau said.

Even with the addition of a billion people every 10 years the planet's overall growth rate will fall to lower levels than at present, the agency said.

Lady Steers romp in opener

SAN ANGELO — The Big Spring Lady Steers, the Crossroads Country version of the Road Warriors, opened District 4-4A play in fine style, downing the San Angelo Lake View Maidens, 66-48, here Tuesday night.

Giisila Spears scored 15 points, Jennifer Hendleman 13 and Tevayan Russell 12 to lead the Lady Steers, now 10-3 for the season and 1-0 in district play.

Big Spring coach George Martin said the Lady Steers played extremely well, considering they've only played one game in Steer Gym so far this season.

"As many games as we've played on the road this year... I feel like the girls are playing good team ball," he said. "We've had some individuals come through when we've needed them to."

"Playing on the road is a drag, but it's going to help us when we get to the playoffs," Martin added.

Martin commended starters Spears, Hendleman, Russell and Peggy and Stephanie Smith, along with reserves Shawn Settles, Kerry Burdette, Bridget Black, Cassie Underwood and Amber Fannin for their play.

The Lady Steers will hit the road — again — Friday when they travel to Fort Stockton to face the Prowlers. Game time is 6 p.m. for the junior varsity and 7:30 for the varsity.

In other district action, Pecos beat Andrews 31-28, Sweetwater downed Snyder 54-35, and Fort Stockton beat Monahans 41-33.

BIG SPRING (66) — Stephanie Smith 3 0-1 6; Peggy Smith 2 2-2 8; Bridget Black 1 0-0 2; Jennifer Hendleman 4 5-6 13; Kerry Burdette 0 0-1 0; Shawn Settles 3 0-0 6; Tevayan Russell 3 6-6 12; Giisila Spears 5 5-11 15; Amber Fannin 1 0-0 2; totals 22 18-27 66.

LAKE VIEW (48) — Rodriguez 0 2-2 2; Olemacher 1 1-4 3; McCullough 1 2-3 4; Allen 3 4-6 11; Brown 9 10-16 28; totals 13 19-31 48.

Tors whip Steers, 97-73

LAMESA — The Lamesa Tornados jumped on the Big Spring Steers early, and never let up, and they pounded the Steers 97-73 Tuesday night in non-district basketball action.

The Tornados, now 10-1 for the season, put the contest away by scoring 33 first quarter points. Big Spring managed only 12 points in the first eight minutes of play.

Lamesa's only loss this season was a four-point decision to Plainview in the opening round of the Tall City Tournament in Midland.

Steers coach Tommy Washington isn't too thrilled by his team's defensive play. "I tell you what, they must have thrown the word defense out of the dictionary at Big Spring," said Washington. "We do play good defense in spurts, but then we'll let a team make a run on us, and we fall apart."

"We really need some guard help. Chris Cole is carrying the load and that's a big burden on his shoulders for 32 minutes."

Big Spring, 1-10, for the season, was led by forward Mike Williams' 21 points. Rod White added 10. Lamesa was led by Lavert Hawkins and Redd Hall, who tallied 26 and 18 respectively.

In the JV contest, Big Spring lost 97-47. The Steer JV is 1-7 for the season.

The Steers will host Midland High Friday night at 7:30 in Steer Gym. Junior varsity play starts at 6.

BIG SPRING (73) — Mike Williams 21, Rod White 10.
LAMESA (97) — Lavert Hawkins 26, Redd Hall 20, Bert Butler 18, Dwight Mason 10.

Bus to Bedford

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring Country Club is sponsoring a bus to the Big Spring-Chapel Hill semi-final playoff game Saturday if enough people sign up for the trip. Jane Madigan of the club said.

A total of 47 sign-ups will be needed before the trip becomes reality, she said. Cost is $30 per person, and non-club members will be required to pay in advance, she added.

For more information, contact Madigan at the country club, 267-8241.

UIL passes 'big school' playoffs

AUSTIN (AP) — High school football in Texas has always been big. And it looks like it could get even bigger.

State superintendents have rubber-stamped a University Interscholastic League proposal that would send the top three teams, instead of the top two, from each 5A district into the playoffs.

The plan, which passed this week with a 160-57 vote, would become effective August 1, 1990. It must now go before the state Board of Education.

Of the three teams to enter postseason play in each district, the two schools with the largest enrollments would enter a 64-team, "Big School" bracket. Officials would give the team with the best regular season finish the No. 1 seed.

A "Big School State Champion" would be produced after six rounds.

The school with the smallest enrollment of the top three finishers in each district would go into a 32-team 5A bracket, where there would be five playoff rounds. A separate 5A champion would emerge from that bracket.

Enrollment figures to determine the two larger schools would be the same as those used for reclassification. If enrollment figures are identical, bracket positions would be randomly decided.

The plan, presented to the UIL by a San Antonio school district, is designed to give smaller institutions fairer treatment, the league said.

"The basic impetus was that the smaller schools in the lower range of enrollment feel that the megaschools have a bigger advantage," said Bill Farney, UIL athletic director.

He said the majority of comments about the proposal have been positive. "A few are negative, saying that this proposal does not guarantee the smaller schools representation," he said.

But Farney said that the plan will be reviewed and additional studies will probably be undertaken.

The board of education can either approve or reject the proposal, or send it back to the UIL without taking any action.

Thompson — the leader of the pack

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — Rance Thompson has always wanted to play quarterback. Living up to his ambitions, he has done it well.

When growing up in Post, Thompson always wanted to be QB. He was always around the football field, since dad David Thompson was the football coach.

Rance got his chance to play quarterback in the seventh grade, his first year of competitive ball at Post. He has been handling the duties ever since, playing his final two scholastic years as signal-caller for the Steers.

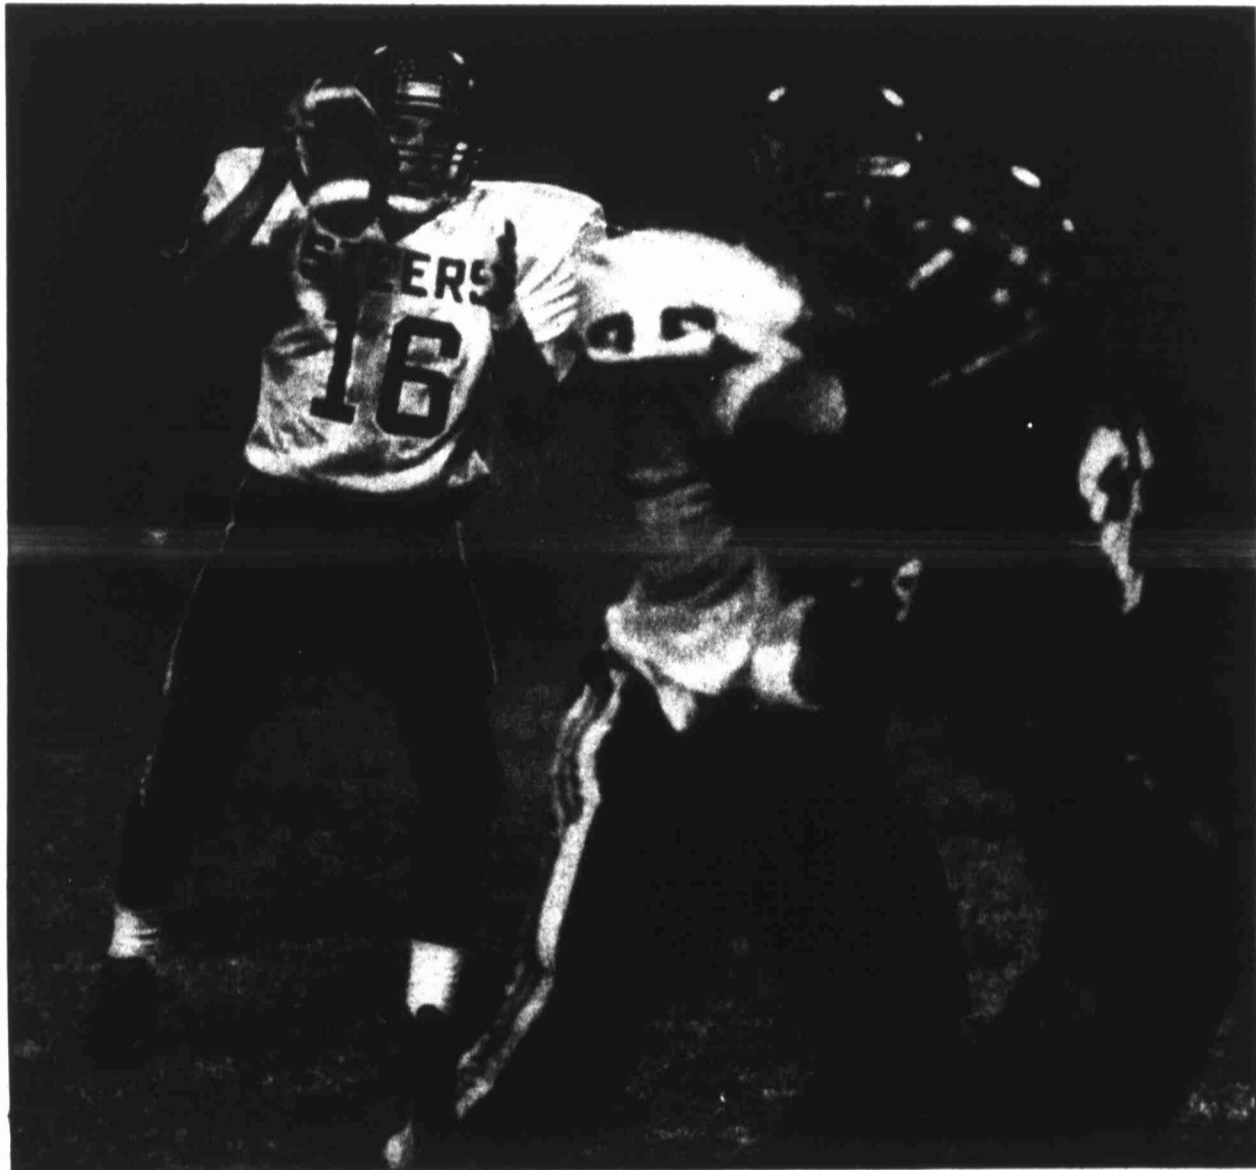

Saturday afternoon in Bedford, Thompson will be trying to prolong his high school career just a tad longer, when the Steers face the Tyler Chapel Hill Bulldogs in the Class 4A semifinals.

"I've always wanted to play quarterback. I thought it would be fun, and it has been great," said Rance. "There's certain pressures on you. When you lose, everybody blames the quarterback; when you win, everybody is your friend."

Thompson, a 5-foot-11, 170-pound senior, came to Big Spring with high accolades from Post. As a sophomore starter for the Antelopes, he passed for more than 1,300 yards.

Last year in his first season at Big Spring, Rance and his teammates suffered through trying times, going 3-6. "Last year I felt the pressure of not knowing how they guys would accept me — me being new and the coach's son," he said. "I started trying to lead a little bit, and the guys took to it. We didn't have a very good year, though. Things didn't go our way, and the breaks wouldn't fall for us."

Still, Thompson didn't have a totally unproductive year. He still passed for more than 1,000 yards. He completed 57 of 153 passes for a SWEETWATER — Big Spring Steers quarterback Rance Thompson is shown here setting up to pass against Sweetwater early during district play.

Thompson, who has passed for more than 1,600 yards, will be leading the Steers when they play Tyler Chapel Hill Saturday afternoon.

meager 34 percent and 1,127 yards. Rance has been a picture of consistency this season. Going into Saturday's encounter, he's passed for 1,645 yards, completing 101 of 197 attempts for a very respectable 51 percent. He's even becoming a running threat: After the first six games had had negative yardage rushing, now he's rushed for 204 yards on 50 carries. He says the team's recipe for success is simple — hard work. "During the offseason we concentrated on being positive. We worked out hard every day: lifting weights and doing a lot of agility drills, improving our quickness. We felt that was where we were hurting last year — our quickness.

"This year we knew we had talent on this team when we beat Sweetwater and Monahans, we thought we could go deep into the playoffs. In offseason we set our goal to win state, but I didn't know if we could. But we've jelled. We've come together perfectly as a team."

Thompson has been doing more play-changing at the line of scrimmage this year. "We audible at the line quite a bit," said Thompson. "We didn't do it much last year because I wasn't real confident in doing it. This year the linemen pick it up well, Jermaine (Miller) and Neal (Mayfield) do a great job of sticking it in there and our fullbacks do a good job too."

Thompson hasn't thrown the ball much lately, having thrown 26 passes in three playoff games. "I like throwing the ball, there's no doubt about it. But why pass it if they don't stop the run? But we can do both effectively."

So far in postseason play, the Steers outgained Hereford 22-19, dominated Fort Worth Brewer 39-6 and edged Monahans 20-19, despite turning the ball over six times.

"Hereford was the toughest team. Their size is the only thing that hurt us. But our offensive line did a great job. The offensive line and the defense did a great job against Brewer, too. Brewer was supposed to have a lot of talent and a lot of speed. We hit them real hard and took that speed factor away."

"We're not going to be overwhelmed when we play anybody. Chapel Hill has lots of speed and a good defense. It ought to be a good game, but we'll be ready."

Sounds just like a veteran quarterback talking.

Coahoma rude host to Stanton hoopsters

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs and Bulldogettes were anything but gracious hosts Tuesday night, sweeping their Crossroads Country matches with the Stanton Buffaloes and the Lady Buffs at the elementary gym here.

John Overton pumped in 25 points as the Bulldogs, now 9-4, rallied from a halftime deficit to defeat the Buffaloes, 73-67. In the girls game, Kelly Williams scored 18 points as the Bulldogettes crushed the Lady Buffs, 63-31, improving Coahoma's record to 11-2.

Kenneth McCallister scored 31 to pace the Buffaloes, while Nancy Chapa and Janet Heidelberg scored six points apiece to lead the Lady Buffs.

Boys game
The three were flying in the nightcap — both teams combined for 12 three-point shots — but in the end it was Overton's inside muscle that gave Coahoma its win.

Overton was all but unstoppable in the middle, scoring several of his points off offensive rebounds.

"We started looking for John inside, and he got a couple of big buckets," Coahoma coach Kim Nichols said. "And he also got a couple more off of offensive rebounds."

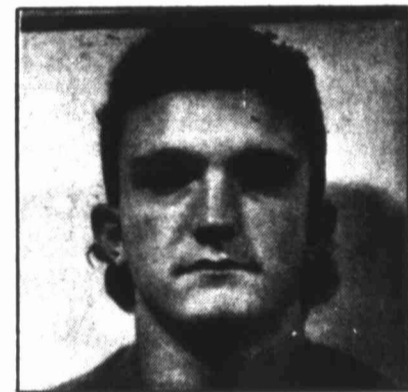

Until Overton began finding his range in the second half, however, the game appeared to be all Stanton's. McCallister and Kelly Inman — who finished the night with 17 points — helped the Battlin' Buffs take a 24-19 lead after one quarter.

Stanton gradually increased its lead in the second and, with 3:36 left in the half, an Inman three-pointer gave the Buffs their biggest lead of the game, 35-25.

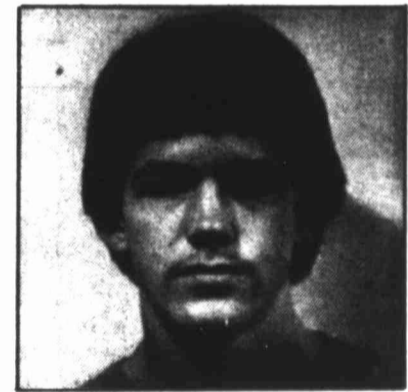

But Mark Arguello responded with a three-pointer for Coahoma and Brent Elmore added a bucket and a pair of free throws to whittle the Bulldogs' deficit down to 35-32 at intermission.

Overton — and the Bulldogs — took over with a vengeance in the third.

After McCallister hit a jumper to give the Buffs and five-point lead with six minutes left in the period, Overton sandwiched 12 points around three-pointers from Arguello, Rusty Ginnetti and David Molina in a four-minute span to give Coahoma a 54-40 lead with a minute left in the quarter.

JOHN OVERTON

McCallister and Buffs, however, were not quite through for the evening. The Stanton forward scored six points, and Inman and Randy Nevarez added a bucket each as the Buffs narrowed their deficit to five with 4:35 left in the game.

Stanton got as close as four on an

Inman three-pointer with 41 seconds remaining, but fine pressure free-throw shooting by Molina and Ginnetti were able to hold off the Buffs' rally.

Aside from Overton, Ginnetti added 15 points and Molina 12 for the Bulldogs.

"We weren't too much into it, mentally, in the first half," Nichols said. "In the third, we were a little more patient on offense. For a little while there in the first, it was one pass, one shot for us."

The Bulldogs return to action Tuesday when they travel to Stanton for a rematch with the Buffs. Game time is 8 p.m.

Girls game
It was the Kelly Williams Show in the first half of the girls' game, as the Bulldogettes' star post player scored 18 points in the first 16 minutes enroute to the 'Dogettes' thrashing of Stanton.

After a low-scoring first quarter (the two teams combined for 12 points), Coahoma's offense began to hit high gear. Point guard Kim Gee scored the first two baskets of the second quarter, and then Williams took over, scoring 10 of Coahoma's next 14 points to give the Bulldogettes a 28-15 halftime edge.

Any Stanton hopes for a second-half comeback were buried underneath a barrage of Gee three-pointers. The junior guard hit three of the rainbows in the early minutes of the third to give Coahoma a 37-17 edge with 11 minutes left in the game.

"We weren't very sharp at first,"

NC State hoop program gets two years probation

RAI EIGH, N.C. (AP) — Jim Vr...ano says he will stay on as North Carolina State basketball coach, and players on his team accepted blame for the sanctions imposed on the program by the NCAA.

"I told you a long time ago and I'll say it again — being part of the problem, being part of the solution was always important to me," Valvano said Tuesday after the program received a two-year probation that included a ban from postseason play next spring. "I have a commitment to young people here and to the department."

Violations included the misuse of complimentary tickets and sneakers, the NCAA said.

The NCAA did not impose harsher penalties, including a ban from television, because the school undertook its own corrective and punitive actions, Charles Smrt, director of infractions for the NCAA, said.

"This is not a typical major infractions case that we usually deal with," Smrt said. "This is not a case where there's academic irregularities. This is not a case where there are cash payments..." to athletes.

The NCAA investigation, sparked by allegations of wrongdoing detailed in the book "Personal Fouls," said that in the four years examined "there were as many as 650 erroneous designations" of tickets intended for players' families and that "an excessive number of shoes were issued with little or no effort to keep track of the shoes."

Tickets were sold or exchanged for merchandise valued up to $150, the NCAA said. Shoes, valued at $75 a pair, were traded for shoes and apparel of equal value at a local sporting goods store, the report said.

"We're the cause, not anyone from past teams," sophomore forward Tom Gugliotta said Tuesday night.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Turning 65 as a lame duck is the right way to do it, says Mayor Edward I. Koch, noting that it's hard to make enemies without making big decisions.

"I've never been as popular as I am in defeat," Koch said at a birthday party Tuesday in a restaurant near City Hall. "It's really quite interesting."

Koch lost the Democratic primary in September to David Dinkins, who went on to defeat Republican Rudolph Giuliani in the mayoral election.

"I'm not now doing anything more than acting as a caretaker," Koch said.

"Prior to that, I made major decisions every single day which involved millions of dollars and millions of KOCH people," he said. "And every time you make a major decision, you're going to alienate somebody."

"In the role of caretaker, I'm not alienating anybody. I don't have to make any major decisions."

Koch has said he will go on the lecture tour and appear in advertisements after leaving office Jan. 1.

LONDON (AP) — Rock stars will record a remake of Rod Stewart's hit song "Sailing" to protest the forced repatriation of Vietnamese boat people from Hong Kong.

Guitarist Steve Hackett, formerly with Genesis, said the musicians include Brian May of Queen, Bonnie Tyler, Curt Smith of Tears for Fears, Mike Rutherford, Jack Bruce and the Sutherland Brothers, who originally recorded the song before it became a hit for Stewart in 1975.

"This will be a protest song, not a charity record," Hackett said. The song will be recorded during the Christmas holidays and released next year, and money raised from the recording will go to refugee charities, he said.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1989

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: The sky is the limit where career progress is concerned. Greater financial security will be yours when you change jobs or move up the executive ladder. Promote original ideas in April. Once you gain public support, everything else will fall into place. Class reunions could lead to a renewed relationship in July.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Moneymaking ideas abound. Pursuing the right one will lead to a bulging pocketbook. Successful people come into your life. Renegotiate an agreement with your partner. Improved communication will mean a more rewarding home life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A legacy comes your way when you least expect it. Drop-in visitors provide a change of pace and should be welcomed warmly. Cook up some holiday treats and freeze them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20):

Buying neighborhood property could be a worthwhile investment. A second source of income is highly desirable. A major career change seems imminent. Keep your wits about you to outsmart the competition.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can expect some fireworks over a financial idea. Seek experts' advice before signing contracts. Fulfill your obligations to the letter, proving how discreet and dependable you can be. Postpone romance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Dust off a long-forgotten creative idea and present it to higher-ups. Emotional confusion can be debilitating. Forget about past choices and concentrate on the future. Adventure beckons!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Unobtrusive teamwork is the key to your financial success. Smooth over differences of opinion to gain an associate's cooperation. A romantic interlude brightens your evening. Be cautious about unfamiliar places and people.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may feel restless now. A social event will give you a golden opportunity to meet new clients. Read the fine print before signing agreements. A telephone call will enliven your evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Know who to trust and who could cause you embarrassment now. Renegotiate an agreement or contract. Devising a better budget is on the agenda. A financial planner can help you build savings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Someone close to you may be critical of your actions. Instead of closing your eyes to the need for change, realize that you must adapt. Pamper someone you may have neglected recently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Placate any dissatisfied associate in your usual inimitable style. Thoughtful gifts may do the trick. Devote your spare time to preparing for the holidays ahead. Be sure romantic partner agrees with your plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may not see eye to eye with someone about a financial matter. Listen to a more experienced friend. A former acquaintance may come back into your life. Get better organized at home.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Put yourself in a position to advance your financial interest. You can solve a family problem by doing more listening. Encourage your child's creativity. Romance improves if you are willing to compromise.

Squeaky and Marguerite Thompson cut their wedding cake last weekend — 50 years after the fact. "I'd always wanted a wedding cake," Marguerite explains. "Squeaky and I didn't have one when we were married."

So at their 50th wedding anniversary celebration last weekend, she got her wish — a traditional, fancy white wedding cake.

The event was hosted by their son, Bill, and Cookie Thompson, Stephenville; and daughter, Martha, and Marvin Simmons, Port Aransas.

In the house party were longtime friends Jeanette Long, Tincy Perry, Betty Schoenfeld, Jan Noyes and Mildred Vaughn. "Mildred and I have been friends since before Squeaky and I were married!" says Marguerite.

Marguerite's brother, Vernon Parker, came in from Dallas. Squeaky's two sisters, were there — Bob Turner and husband Paul, Brownfield; and Lois Wiswell and husband, Marshall, Stephenville; and nieces Bobbie Jo McClure, Brownfield; and Marsha Ann Stephens, Stephenville.

"So many friends came by... and we got so many flowers. I couldn't believe it!" Marguerite said. Friends came from Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo, China Grove and Garden City.

"It was marvelous!"

Connie Helm's twin sister, Cathie Wennersten, and her seven-month-old son, Levi Garrett, are here for a visit from Sacramento, Calif. Husband and father Lt. Kit Wennersten stayed home to do his duties.

Connie and Dick Helm took Cathie and Levi along to the Steer—Ft. Worth Brewer game in Abilene last weekend. The Helm family never misses a Steer game, Connie explains.

About how baby Levi got his name: Cathie took "Levi" from the Bible and thought "Garrett" went well with it. When Connie and others pointed out to Cathie that Levi Garrett was the name of an old line of snuff, it didn't matter a bit.

Former local radio personality Charlie Dee (the professional moniker for Donice Perkins) was back in town recently.

Charlie, who married Doug Coonrod and now lives in Ira, is expecting her second baby — 15 years after daughter Margo came into the world!

A baby shower was hosted by Betty Wrinkle, Mary Thomas and Margaret Lloyd at Margaret's home. "She got lots of little unisex clothes," Margaret says. Charlie is a deejay at a Snyder radio station now and is taking classes at Texas Western College.

The annual Big Spring Vietnam Memorial Air Show has earned a far-ranging reputation!

That's the report from John and Cynthia Marshall who have just returned from four days in Las Vegas, where John represented the local air show committee at a meeting of the International Council of Air Shows.

"Many performers told us they had heard good things about our show, and said they wanted to appear here next year," says Cynthia.

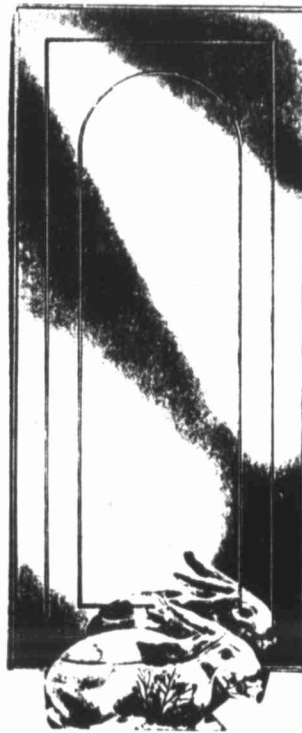

The council is an international group, founded 21 years ago, to encourage and promote air shows throughout the world. The meeting consisted of four days of workshops and courses on everything from utilizing volunteers to how to get performers.

A highlight was a visit to Nellis Air Force Base, home of the Thunderbirds, to see the planes, meet the pilots and tour their museum.

When the workday was over, the Marshalls, along with other delegates, took in the shows, including "Lido" at the Stardust; Wayne Newton at the Hilton; and "LeCage" at the Riviera.

It was the first weekend after the grand opening of the city's newest showplace, LeMirage. The hotel sits on a manmade lake, says Cynthia, scene of a periodic light, shooting water and flame display that emulates an erupting volcano! Inside visitors find an animal habitat, complete with three rare white Siberian tigers.

Wedding

EARLY — Sandra Denae Price and Michael Ray Hale were united in marriage Dec. 2, 1989 at a 2 p.m. ceremony at the Early Church of Christ, with Tharon Bean, elder, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Price, Early.

Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hale, Big Spring. The couple stood before an altar decorated with a brass, heart-shaped arch laced with greenery, peach flowers and white lights. Heart-shaped candelabras with votives complimented the arch. Peach satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore an A-line, satin, re-embroidered alencon lace gown. The fitted, long bodice was embellished with lace. The gown featured a modified V neckline, Juliet sleeves, and a puff accented with cut-out lace work. Pearl dangles enhanced the long, slim netting that came tapered at the wrist.

Soft gathers formed the lace-trimmed skirt that flowed into a chapel-length train below the lace-trimmed double fan bow in the vack. Alencon lace traced the hemline. Bridal pearls and iridescents highlighted the creation. To complete her ensemble, the bride chose a halo headpiece accented with pearls.

She carried a cascading bouquet of silk peach-colored roses, tiger lilies and small camellias tied with peach and ivory lace and satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Frances Halcomb.

Bridesmaids were Renae Doss, bride's sister; and Jan Boyd. Flower girl was Jessica Ellison, bridegroom's niece. Best man was Brian Neff. Groomsmen were Doby Walker and Kevin Roe.

Ringbearer was Cole Doss, bride's nephew.

Ushers were Elmo Rodriguez, Steve Hale and Bullett Manale.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted in the fellowship hall. The bride's table, draped with an ivory lace cloth with a peach overlay, was centered with the bride's bouquet, depression glass candleholders and peach tapers. Her three-tier, white wedding cake was filled with apricot cream filling and was accented by white lacy Grecian columns. Each tier was trimmed with peach roses and accented with ivory. The cake, which set atop a lighted fountain, was topped with swans accented with gold beads, and double wedding bells accented with peach flowers. Peach fruit punch was served from a silver punch bowl.

The bridegroom's table was draped with a white crocheted cloth, which was made by his late grandmother Mrs. Opal Hale. A double horseshoe-shaped chocolate cake, made by the bridegroom's sister Patricia Ellison, was decorated with peach flowers. Coffee was served from a silver coffee service.

Shawna Ellison and Mia Adams distributed the rice bags. The bride is a 1988 graduate of Early High School and a 1989-graduate of Ranger Junior Beauty College.

Military

Navy Seaman Recruit Ricky L. Mendoza, son of Frank S. and Margie Mendoza, Colorado City, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During Mendoza's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Mendoza's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He is a 1989 graduate of Colorado High School.

Adoption is right for 11-year-old mother

DEAR ABBY: I am a 27-year-old mother of three — an 11-year-old daughter, a son who is 9 and another daughter who is 10 months old. Here's my problem:

My 11-year-old daughter is pregnant and is due next month. She doesn't want the baby. She wants to put it up for adoption. With me trying to raise a baby myself, I agreed with her. Am I wrong to feel this way about my first grandchild? My sisters agree with me. We feel that my daughter is too young to handle that kind of responsibility.

What do I tell the rest of my family and friends when my daughter comes home from the hospital without a baby?

Please answer this soon as it is very important to me. I would also like to hear what your readers have to say about this situation. — CONFUSED IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR CONFUSED: First, you and your daughter are to be commended for your decision. You are doing not only what is best for your daughter, but for her baby. Furthermore, you will be giving a childless couple a gift that all the money in the world could not buy.

Please don't worry about what to tell your family and friends. Tell them exactly what you have told me — that your daughter is too young to handle that kind of responsibility.

DEAR ABBY: You told us single women to give "Single and Short in Minneapolis" a break. I bet all odds that he would not give me a break. Most men won't. Why? Is it because I am 25 years old and teach second grade? No. Or is it because I am 5 feet 6 inches tall with light brown hair, blue eyes and squat? No. Maybe it's because I am kind, loyal, funny and caring? No.

Men will not give me a break because I bench press 205 pounds, back squat 375 pounds (naturally) and am rated in the top 10 in women's discuss in the United States.

Men are either intimidated by me, or they think I'm a lesbian, which I am not. I am a woman who enjoys a wonderful sport that requires physical strength, but I am not feminine. I wish I could find someone who is kind, caring and mature, and would accept me for what I am. — DISCUS THROWER

IN CALIF.

DEAR DISCUS THROWER: You sound like a prize to me. Just watch out for the guys who throw the bull.

DEAR ABBY: Like so many others, this is my first letter to you. My husband and I will be married 40 years on Dec. 26. We just came across the enclosed "Dear Abby" column in our "important papers" file. It was submitted by a Mrs. David Hedlin of Naples, Fla. Abby, it suits my husband to a "T"! Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: I love my husband. Let me tell you why:

"I love him for not making any noise when he gets up at 6:30 every morning and knows I like to sleep a little later.

"I love him for never asking me why I don't balance the checkbook.

"I love him for walking the dog and feeding the cat, even though they're both mine.

"I love him for not making me pay him off when I lose a bet, even though he always pays when he loses.

"I love him for not noticing when the beds aren't made.

"I love him for noticing when my hair is done a new way.

"I love him for being extra nice to my mom and dad.

"I love him for watching a 1956 romantic movie with me even though the Celtics are on the other channel.

"I love him for not getting mad when there's not a clean shirt in the drawer.

"I want him to know it's the little things that count."

Abby, don't you have one about wives? — MRS. LARRY SMITH, ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. SMITH: No, but if enough husbands send me three reasons why they love their wives, I'll publish a companion piece to the above.

DEAR ABBY: "Happy and Shows It," who was criticized for her perpetual smile and cheerful attitude, asked for an appropriate comeback to the rude woman who remarked, "You must be either very stupid or incredibly lucky, because nobody can be that happy all the time." You advised her not to get into a wrestling match with a skunk.

Abby, we must battle the skunks of the world, or they will gain undue influence. I submit that an appropriate response (to paraphrase Voltaire) might have been: "You think I'm either stupid or lucky. I thought you were a refined woman. Perhaps we were both mistaken."

— MIKE JOHNSON, LONG BEACH, MISS.

Santa Claus gives thanks for his coverage

It happened while I was gone. Yet it is a story I will never forget.

It was a scene that surely left some local kids wondering about the real meaning of Christmas.

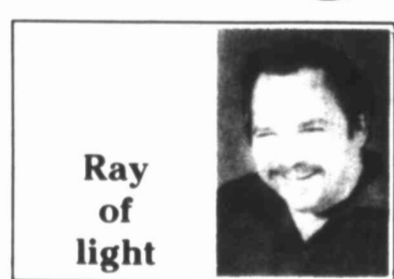

It was the day John McMillan played Santa Claus.

The Big Spring Christmas parade has been a project of this newspaper for three years now — a successful project, a gift from the Herald to the community it serves.

Each year it draws hundreds of people from across the Crossroads Country to Big Spring to shop, and to watch what is fast becoming the most popular Christmas event in the Permian Basin.

It has become such a popular event that this year, the committee that was coordinating the parade wanted to add a little extra punch to the after parade festivities.

It may have gotten more than it bargained for.

To give area children a little more of the Christmas spirit — Lifestyle editor Lynn Hayes dressed up as Mrs. Santa Claus and rode on the Herald float.

After the parade, reporter John McMillan, dressed as Santa Claus, was to join her at the Railroad Plaza to meet and talk to area children.

John McMillan takes his job seriously.

Sometimes too seriously.

In fact, he spent at least three days asking other reporters and Herald employees how they would act if they were Santa Claus — and he took notes on each of their comments.

McMillan asked fellow reporter Bradley Worrell what he should ask kids who came to the railroad plaza.

"Perhaps, I should ask them if they had been good," McMillan pondered.

He answered his own question. "Maybe that's too judgmental," he said.

McMillan then told Worrell that a better question would be "How have your parents been treating you."

McMillan also asked such questions as the best way to pick up children, how much candy to give them... like I said, John takes his job seriously.

The parade went off without a hitch.

The Herald float, finished the night before in a frenzy of last-minute activity, traveled the parade route with Mrs. Claus waving to the kids in a white and green outfit that would have made the real Mrs. Claus envious.

Lynn, who some people said looked more like Martha Washington than Mrs. Claus, rode on the float to the Railroad Plaza where Santa was awaiting her arrival.

Unfortunately — the costumes had been delivered late to the Herald — and McMillan didn't have a chance for any alterations.

When Mrs. Claus sat down on her chair, Santa whispered in a low voice that his pants were too big.

It didn't seem to bother Mrs. Claus — after all, even Santa needs to diet every once in awhile — and maybe this time it had worked.

Besides he was sitting down in a chair of his own, and Lynn didn't foresee the bare facts that would later be revealed to a host of area children.

For over an hour, Santa and Mrs. Claus greeted area children, and listened to a variety of requests for Christmas presents that would have made Toys R Us proud.

After most of the children had gone through the line, the Clauses decided to call it a day.

They stood up to talk to some parents and a few kids that were still hanging around, hoping for a last minute "ho, ho, ho" from Santa.

As the Clauses were talking to a fellow Herald employee, Mrs. Claus looked over and saw that Santa's pants were down around his boots.

One of the parents noticed it at the same time — and a ripple effect of giggles spread throughout the group of parents and kids that were still at the plaza.

"Santa, your pants fell down," said one astonished youngster.

It was enough to make Rudolph's nose turn white.

"I just wasn't fat enough for it, so I had to sort of use my arms to keep my pants up," McMillan later explained. "I was walking away and my pants came down."

For the fashion conscious Christmas dresser Santa wore gray under his pants.

It is not clear as of this writing, whether they were long handles or slacks — Santa won't say. He tries to act as if he can't even remember the whole incident.

But there are a few youngsters who will never forget.

If they do — it will truly be a "Miracle on Main Street."

Time to prepare for livestock shows

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Football playoffs or not, the show must go on! This was the occasion this weekend as local youngsters chose between watching the Big Spring Steers continue their triumphs in state football playoffs or work with their own steer projects in preparing them and themselves for the junior livestock show season.

Having to choose among conflicting interests is a difficult situation families face but, as one of our local leaders commented, life is faced with choices and this is no exception... Youngsters must learn sooner or later that choices, unfair as they may seem, must be made.

The local youngsters were joined by other youngsters from throughout the area in Big Spring this weekend as Howard County hosted the District 6 4-H Junior Beef Cattle Seminar at the fairground facilities here. Livestock projects are an investment in both time and finances for these families and most of them strive to obtain all the latest information on major livestock shows, judges, new rules and regulations, grooming techniques, etc.

Extension has a commitment to offer such training opportunities to young people and we are fortunate here in Howard County to be a popular location for such area events to occur.

In Saturday's seminar families had the opportunity to get an update on the judges they will be facing at the 1990 stockshows by Greg Jones, who did an excellent job of reporting an extensive investigation. Jones is the Extension agent from Martin County. This agent presented an update report on the shows' viewpoints on unethical practices, including testing for drugs.

Members of the Jeffrey Cattle Company, a longtime successful cattle feeding family from Fisher County and the McCaulley Community there presented an excellent program on the latest techniques in clipping and grooming a steer for show purposes. They also assisted the participants in an "on-hands" grooming clinic following the demonstration.

Following this session of the clinic, youngsters competed as county teams in a grooming contest that allowed them to fit a steer for show with only guided assistance from adults.

Did you know that one of every five American children, aged 6-17, is obese?

This statistic is of concern to all parents, educators and health professionals alike who are asking the question, "Why are children fatter today?" There isn't a simple answer, but many experts believe that a sedentary lifestyle is partially to blame. Fitness education should start at home.

Less than a third of the parents of elementary school children exercise regularly; thus, they do not set a fitness example. Additionally, most American high schools no longer have a four-year physical education requirement.

Enrollment in physical education classes decreases to only 50 percent of the students by grades 11 and 12. Surveys show that the amount of time spent viewing television is an indicator of physical activity: as one goes up, the other goes down.

TV is fattening because children watching TV are stationary and therefore not burning many calories. Furthermore, snacking is a prevalent behavior associated with watching TV. And children's programming is interspersed with an abundance of ads for high-calorie foods — reinforcing the urge to eat. However, TV alone cannot be blamed for the fattening of America's younger citizens.

Another cause is poor food habits. Families today rely heavily on school lunches, fast food and frequent dining out to meet their nutrition needs. Traditionally, dietary restriction has been a tricky subject for many pediatric health professionals who are uncomfortable in suggesting that young children alter their diets.

Children are growing rapidly and need adequate calories, vitamins, minerals, and protein to lay the foundation for brain, bone and muscle. Health experts unanimously agree that children younger than two years old should have no dietary restrictions.

But older children can easily thrive on diets with moderate fat intake. Children must continue to get enough calories, but an adequate diet of 30 percent calories from fat is not difficult to achieve.

Texas funny man has worn many hats

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Bob Murphy of Nacogdoches is a lawyer, banker, rancher and notary public. He's also a humorist. "People are hungry for good clean humor," he says. He specializes in rural or backwoods humor. "It doesn't matter how big the city is or whether someone was born under neon lights, people understand it and like it."

Murphy has practiced law in East Texas for 40 years. He has been a county attorney, a district attorney and has served in the legislature, but mostly he is known as the guy who makes humorous speeches.

When I visited with him, it was raining. "This rain we've been having reminds me of an old boy in south Nacogdoches County who was worried about his cattle after a heavy rain. He went down to the bottom behind his place that had a creek running through it. That creek had done got so high you could see under it."

"He had a pickup settin' by the side of the house. It rained so hard it filled the bed of his pickup level with water. And the tailgate was down on it, too."

He gets his stories from kinfolks, friends and neighbors. "Most of 'em I pick up around the court houses, the benches where the old timers sit and spit and whittle. Most of them were told to me as true incidents that either happened to Uncle Clem or Aunt Jessie Mae or somebody. All of them just as humorous as they could be."

He calls a level-headed East Texan "one where the snuff runs out of both sides of his mouth." He calls overalls an East Texas tuxedo. He refers to buzzards as the East Texas sanitation department.

"Then I tell about the little boy who was eatin' breakfast one morning. He was soppin' syrup with good ol' homemade biscuits. He had already chopped up his butter and stirred it in the syrup and he was dragging' that biscuit through there and finally got it all soaked up. After eatin' that tasty mouthful he decided to fix another batch. He poured the syrup in the plate, took the knife to get some more butter and his mamma reached over and backhanded him. Knocked him plumb outta that cane bottom chair onto the linoleum. She shook her finger at him and said, 'Junior, if I've told you once I've told you a thousand times, lick your knife before you stick it in that butter.'"

Murphy has been master of ceremonies for Lufkin's Hushpuppy Olympics several times. One year when a visiting congressman from Michigan won the political category, Bob told a story. He said he had a friend who went to work in a defense plant in Detroit during World War II. Finally VE day came and when he reported to work the next morning he told his fellow workers, "Boys, I'm going back home to East Texas. Where y'all goin'?" One of them replied, "We aren't going anywhere. We live here." The Texan turned to him and said, "You mean there's people livin' up here when there ain't no war goin' on?"

If Bob Murphy is awake, chances are he's chewing tobacco. He makes it an art. "Lots of people wonder why I don't spit much. After you chew awhile, you just kinda let it lay there so you can enjoy the flavor. Women and children spit a lot, but professional chewers don't have to spit much."

He thinks tobacco spitting contests are for amateurs. "I never did put much importance on how far a person could spit. But accuracy is another thing. My wife calls that to my attention frequently around the house. She tells me I ain't as accurate as I used to be."

He tells the story of two older women at a concert in the park. They were a little late and music was playing when they arrived. One of them said, "You know, I believe that's a waltz from Strauss." The other one said she didn't know, but there was a sign near the bandstand so she went to read it. In a moment she came back and said, "No, it's a refrain from spittin'."

Business beat

Christmas spending up

American businesses will have their merriest Christmas in history this year when the typical American spends an extra $173 during the holiday season and the average household $460, according to Martin Lefkowitz, director of special projects for the National Chamber Foundation.

"We will spend about $330 billion in November and December, including $42 billion directly related to the holidays, up 6 percent from last year's $39 billion," he said. "About two-thirds of the increase will be due to inflation, but the other third will stuff stockings a little fuller."

About 43 percent of this year's Christmas spending — $199 of the household's $460 — will go to department and general merchandise stores. Clothing store cast registers will ring up $65 while furniture, appliance and stereo will get $45. The average household will spend an extra $33 in the supermarket for the Christmas ham or turkey, and the local liquor store will pocket $8 for holiday cheer. Another $19 will be spent in drug stores and $91 in toy and other stores.

"This year's spending spree is the result of the longest peacetime recovery in American history, now in its 85th month, which has put an additional two million Americans to work this year and raised personal income by nearly 8.5 percent from a year ago," Lefkowitz said.

"Increased spending is not the only economic boost that will be brought about by the holiday season," he added. "About 650,000 Americans will get temporary jobs as Santas or Santa's helpers to earn extra money to pay for Christmas goodies."

The National Chamber Foundation is the research and educational affiliate of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Local woman honored

HOUSTON — Deborah Pirkle, a resident of Big Spring, has been awarded the title "Master Dealer." The award was announced in Houston by Jason Martin, Vice President of Sales of Jenae Products.

Jenae Products manufacture a line of alternate designer fragrances such as Georgio, Obsession, Oscar de la Renta, and Opium. The product fragrance is the same as the original, although it sells for a fraction of the price. On a test that took place on ABC-TV, Good Morning America, between the original fragrance and the alternate designer fragrance, consumers could not identify which were the original and which were the imitation, and in some cases they preferred the knockoff.

Jenae Products has over 200 independent Wholesale Dealers nation wide and only 15 have been chosen for this award. The "Master Dealer" award is the highest honor bestowed to a Jenae Dealer.

Deborah, who had the incite to recognize the market and customer savings, is selling "Jenae Parfums".

MIDLAND — Don Swinney looks out toward the field as he uses signs to get the Big Spring crowd to cheer during playoff action against Monahans Saturday afternoon. Swinney, a football player for the 1953 Steer team that made it to the state finals, was just one of an estimated 8,500 people that attended the contest.

BIG SPRING — The Howard County Courthouse started to take on the Christmas spirit this week as each department and the county library and courthouse annex all agreed to participate in a first annual office door decoration contest.

The contest will have five categories: best overall, most traditional, most colorful, most original, most humorous and a dubious entry referred to as "Bah Hum Bug," said Irene Dominguez, Howard County director of County Welfare and Indigent Health Care. Dominguez, who came up with the idea for the door decoration contest, was able to get all of the county departments to decorate their doors in the first-ever event.

Judges for the contest are Don Richardson, Wayne Basden and Kay Burns. Judging for the contest is Monday.

A trophy will be awarded to the first place winner, but the other prizes have not been decided on yet, Dominguez said. The public is invited to view the decorated doors, she said.

Murder Trial

Jury selection is expected to begin Monday in the trial of Robert "Roberto" Flores, charged with murder in connection with the April 1988 bludgeoning death of an Odessa man.

Flores, 31, is one of three men charged in the slaying of 53-year-old Manuel Garcia. Flores brother, Ricardo Flores, and Leroy Flores Alaniz, are also charged with murder in Garcia's slaying. District Attorney Rick Hamby said last week he is not yet sure when Alaniz and Ricardo Flores will stand trial.

Garcia's body was discovered April 12, 1988 in a city westside sandpit under a bed mattress and debris.

Commissioners' court

Howard County Commissioners will consider several purchase requests Monday, including a request by Fire Chief Frank Anderson for the purchase of the "Jaws of Life" rescue equipment.

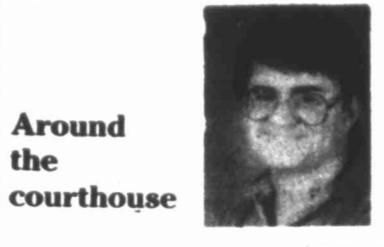

In other business Monday, commissioners are expected to: hear a report from Jaynet Smith on the Senior Citizens Center; hear a report from Ron Logback with the Big Spring Independent School District on asbestos in the Lakeview school; hear a report from Glen Hicks on the county show barns; approve holidays for 1990.

Appraisal district

Board members of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District will introduce a new member to the board when they have their monthly meeting Wednesday.

Gene Gresham is expected to be introduced as a board member to replace board member John Webb, who chose not to seek re-election. The other current board members have all chosen to seek re-election.

Among the items for discussion on the boards' meeting are: possible purchase of a personal computer; to hear a report from the Appraisal Review Board chairman; discuss possible new ARB members; approval of travel expenses; and set the holiday schedule for 1990.

The 4-H Club will hold a Far West District VI Junior Lamb seminar Saturday at the Howard County Fairgrounds. The seminar, which starts at 9 a.m. and continues through much of the day, will focus on showmanship demonstration, feed and management of market lambs and stock show judge update, according to a news release from the Howard County Extension Agent.

OOPS

The 4-H Club held a Far West District VI Junior Beef Cattle Seminar Friday and Saturday at the Howard County Fairgrounds. In the last courthouse roundup, the date of seminar was mistakenly given as Nov. 1-2.

The show, from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, focused on updates in judging, the drug situation at stock shows, fitting and grooming and showmanship demonstrations, according to an extension agent news release.

Troopers C.A.R.E.

Troopers with the local Department of Public Safety joined troopers across the state Friday in a traffic safety program aimed at reducing the number of driving while intoxicated incidents.

Operation C.A.R.E., or Combined Accident Reduction Effort, designated the first 13 hours of the week as a time to make a special effort to enforce DWI laws. Texas Highway Patrol Capt. Coy Clanton of the Midland DPS division said troopers in the Big Spring area were instructed to provide the maximum DWI enforcement efforts possible.

"We're hoping that this emphasis program will help bring down the number and severity of DWI-related accidents," Clanton said Friday.

The local DPS arrested one person on a DWI charge during the 13 hour program, according to reports filed with the Howard County Sheriff's Department.

Printer problems

'Tis the season to be jolly, and Justice of the Peace China Long feels she has reason to give thanks after her office was finally able to use an office computer printer she's had more than a year.

Long said computer experts told her printer was "too new" to be used in conjunction with the courthouse computer system and advised to her to scrap the $450 new printer and spend more than $1,000 on another printer.

A computer expert who traveled to Big Spring from Abilene to take a look at the computer and printer was recently able to tie the printer into the computer mainframe. Until that time, Long said her office had to ask department heads with other courthouse offices if she could use their printers.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Edited by Lea Whitehead

Sun Country Realtors dedicated to service

Sun Country Realtors, founded in 1981, continues to grow and be a leader in Big Spring. A well-trained staff, dedicated to putting their best efforts to work for Big Spring, is one of the reasons for their success.

The staff at Sun Country have distinguished themselves by achieving professional plateaus: the three founding partners — Patti Horton, Janelle Britton and Janell Davis — are all designated GRI-CRS, a honor conferred by the Realtors National Marketing Institute only on those who have "achieved a superior level of knowledge by completing prescribed courses, and...proved competence through documented practical experience."

In addition to the three principals, Sun Country's staff includes Katie Grimes, Ellen Phillips, Connie Helms, and Julie Bailey.

Katie Grimes, in real estate here for eight years, has earned her broker's certification and GRI (Graduate Real Estate Institute) designation. Active in community affairs, Katie serves on the boards of American Cancer Society, United Way, Dora Roberts Rehab Center and Heritage Museum. She is active in youth work and the Republican Women.

Katie was chosen Cultural Affairs Woman of the Year 1987 and Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Woman of the Year 1989.

Ellen Phillips, a Big Spring native, obtained her real estate salesman's license in July 1986; the GRI designation in November, 1988; and her broker's license in July of this year. Ellen is a member of the Big Spring Board of Realtors, Texas Association of Realtors, National Association of Realtors, Chi Omega and Big Spring Junior Women's Club.

Ellen teaches both real estate finance and real estate contracts at Howard College.

Connie Helms, in the real estate business for more than six years, is currently working toward her GRI designation and broker's license.

She is active in the First Baptist Church, serving as a director in the adult department. She is involved in many sports, along with her husband, Dick, a longtime sports enthusiast and former owner of Big Spring Athletics (now Athletic Supply) and children.

Julie Bailey joined Sun Country in July of this year as a full-time real estate agent. She is a graduate of Howard College with an associate degree in business. Julie is active in Big Spring Junior Woman's Club and First Baptist Church; she is a past board member of March of Dimes and has been a Christmas in April volunteer.

"Our motto is 'Professional Service with a Personal Touch,'" say the owners. "We treat people equally, no matter what price home they have to sell, or what price home they want to buy."

Sun Country Realtors is located at 2000 S. Gregg in a charming yellow "home" replica. Phone any of the staff members at 267-3613.

A well-trained and dedicated staff is just one reason for the success of Sun Country Realtors. In addition to the three funder-

Women join formerly closed ranks of service organizations

By JAMES FLEEHR
For the Herald

BIG SPRING — About two years ago membership in many service clubs was exclusively a male prerogative, one local service club spokesperson said.

Never considered a part of the club, the woman's role was always one of mate or companion, said the spokesperson.

"Recent legislation provided women for the first time an opportunity to become a Lion member, a Rotarian or an Optimist... The choice of service club membership has become the female's the same as the male," said Big Spring Rotary Club President Bob Riley.

The charges of discrimination led to lawsuits against clubs around the country, said the spokesperson.

For the first time in American history small clubs were asking their members about the reality of recruiting women into their respective organization. Until courts began to rule that women must be admitted, honorary status was about the best a woman could hope for in a service club, added the spokesperson.

Locally the Big Spring Rotary Club has recently inducted a woman, Julie Shirey, into its ranks.

Riley said, "I've always been in favor of it. A couple of years ago Rotary International began inducting women into the club and it took us a while to get around to it."

With Shirey already a member, Riley spoke of at least two more unnamed female prospects proposed to join upon acceptance by the club's quorum vote.

There are presently approximately 88 members in the Rotary club in which Riley is a member.

"It is a historic time for our club, but we're pleased she is in," Riley said about Shirey's admission.

"The current District Governor (a club member in charge of an area), Bob Lewis, has encouraged all the clubs in his district to induct women. That was the impetus for the induction of Julie," Riley said.

"I think 1.3 percent of Rotary members are women and the number is increasing daily. And women are making the best members. Several Rotary clubs in Texas have women presidents right now. Our district, which encompasses the area from Sweetwater to Pecos to the top of the Panhandle, will have its first women president next year," Lewis said.

He considers the local District 573 to be a conservative one.

"Over two-thirds of the clubs — and there are 57 Rotary clubs in our district — have women," he said.

Rotary membership is by invitation.

"Yes, I was thrilled. I was honored. This has been part of my family for years," said Shirey.

She has been in the club for one month, and prior to her induction a week ago Tuesday was the pianist for the service organization.

Shirey has a long history of Rotary associations. Her father, the late Champ Rainwater, was a longtime Rotarian. Her brother Charles, also a Rotarian member, proposed and sponsored his sister for membership.

Before the death of her father, Shirey talked to him in his bed and told him of her proposed Rotary membership. "Her father grabbed her hand and that was his last lucid moment," said one informed source.

"That was the very last thing I told him before he went into a coma," she said.

"I still have not been there long enough to be totally involved in it. I don't feel any different at all. I don't think I have invaded anybody. I have known most of these people all my life and they do not treat me any differently."

Other local service clubs have also accepted females into their ranks.

Billy T. Smith, past district governor of Kiwanis said, "Yes, we did that (accept women) a couple of years ago. It's fine."

"The newer clubs, the one's that were chartered since the summer of '87 are having better luck recruiting ladies in their clubs. We have only been able to recruit one. I have just completed serving as the governor of the Texas-Oklahoma District and have observed that over the two states," he said.

Bob Knoyes, district governor for Lions locally said, "I'm all for it. Our club has three and our cabinet treasurer is a lady."

Contest open to businesses

AUSTIN — Competition for the 18th annual Texas Business of the Year Award, sponsored by Texas Association of Business, is now underway. The competition is open to all Texas companies, large or small, privately held or publicly held, and competition ends on December 29. Two awards will be given, one to a privately held company and one to a publicly held company.

Participating companies are requested to complete four pages of questions relating to achievements in business management, operations, employee relations and contributions made by a company to its community and industry.

Entries are judged by a statewide committee of seven business leaders. The committee is chaired by Art Spencer, Public Affairs Manager, Chevron U.S.A., Port Arthur. Governor Clements will present the awards to the winning companies.

Entry blanks for the competition may be obtained by calling Alma Faulkner at (512) 477-6721.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800) 527-9700, ext. W842.

Borden voters defeat liquor

GAIL — Saturday's election results show that 74 percent of 380 voters do not want liquor to be sold in Borden County.

The count was 280 against and 99 for the liquor sales, according to County Clerk Dorothy Browne. One ballot was not counted because it was marked both ways, she said.

"I feel good," said outspoken opponent James McLeroy, Superintendent of Borden County Independent School District. "I think it's great that the people feel that way about it."

Commenting on the margin of victory, he said, "I felt like it was going to be at least two to one. I guess I was a little bit suprised that it was this much."

McLeroy felt that selling alcohol in the county would make it more available than it needs to be, especially for youth.

He said a study conducted this spring by the Drug Free Schools Task Force indicated that beer was the number one drug problem for young people in the county.

"If we had a drug problem it would be alcohol," McLeroy said. But he said, "We really do not have a drug problem."

Meanwhile local rancher and businessman Chuck Canon, who collected 163 signatures to force the election, said he will try again sometime after June when he expects McLeroy to retire.

"With all the rallying against it, it doesn't surprise me," he said of the election results. He said he was disappointed with the results.

"I'm disappointed with the (people) that didn't show up that signed the petition," he said. "Just because people signed the petition doesn't mean that they were going to go out and vote."
