KENNEDY SPACE CENTER — The Space Shuttle Columbia is covered with heavy fog Sunday as the countdown for the Monday launch continues. The launch probably will be delayed by poor weather.

City Council to meet

BIG SPRING — Both the chief of police and the director of public works will appear before the City Council Tuesday in executive session.

The council is to hold a regular meeting at 5 p.m. in building 1106 at the Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark.

According to the agenda, Police Chief Joe Cook will meet with the council to discuss actions the Police Department took in response to a prisoner's escape from the city jail in mid December. The discussion will be held in closed or executive session.

Tom Decell, public works director, also will appear in executive session to discuss his recommendations regarding potential contracts with the cities of Coahoma and Forsan for disposal of solid waste. Several months ago, Coahoma officials had asked the council to consider accepting their city's solid wastes as their landfill cannot meet federal regulations.

In open session, the council will consider:

- The first reading of an ordinance regulating substandard and unsafe structures.
- A resolution of appreciation for Ray Stoker Jr., commissioner with the state department of highways.
- Approval of payment for preliminary engineering for water and wastewater systems in support of the state prison site request.
- Acceptance of minutes from the traffic commission and the convention and visitors bureau.
- The second and final reading of a resolution authorizing a contract with Mid-Tex Detention Center.

Lottery hoax

NEW YORK — Charlie Taylor, describing himself as sole winner of Saturday night's $35 million lottery jackpot, appears at a hotel Sunday. A report in Monday's New York Daily News says Taylor is a prankster whose claim is an elaborate hoax.

Livestock shows

CROSSROADS — A number of county stockshows are fast approaching in the crossroads counties.

The Midland County Livestock Show begins Wednesday and continues through Saturday. The Reagan County Livestock Show begins Saturday.

The Howard County Livestock Show will be a two-day event starting Jan. 19. The Glasscock County Livestock Show and the Martin County Livestock Show will both be held Jan. 20.

Wrapping up the events will be the Upton County Livestock Show, to be held Jan. 27.

Cap Rock Electric, Inc., headquartered in Stanton, will award a $500 scholarship to a senior student participant in each of the livestock shows staged in the co-op service area.

County to buy DWI tapes

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Howard County Commissioners in a mixed vote today approved the purchase of video tapes used by the city police department and county attorney's office in the prosecution of driving while intoxicated cases.

Commissioners approved the $812.50 purchase of 250 two-hour tapes to help the city police and county attorney's office make DWI cases, with the understanding the police department would pay for an additional 50 tapes. The sole objection to the agreement came from Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown, who argued that because the city used the tapes in making cases they should pay for the cost of half of the tapes.

"It needs to go 50-50, gentlemen," Brown said. "It's a real nice deal for (the police department) to buy 50 of them."

But commissioners David Barr and Bill Crooker disagreed, saying that since the county receives any money from the DWI convictions the arrangement presented before commissioners today by Lt. Terry Chamness with the Big Spring Police Department was a good deal.

"We're benefiting," Barr said, noting that the county receives the fines assessed on DWI cases.

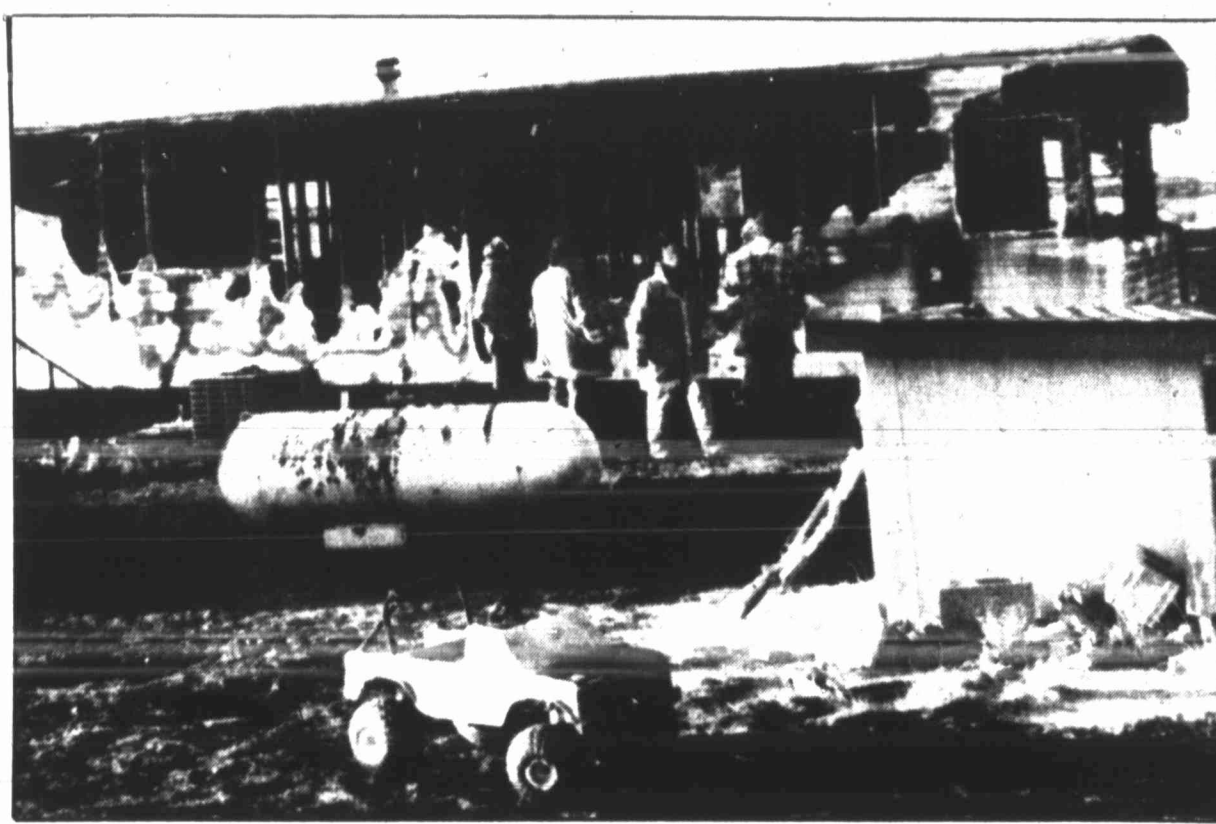

Chamness told commissioners the police department needs the new tapes because the tapes used currently are getting worn, and that because they are 30 minute tapes it makes the recording process difficult for what are usually 30-minute DWI case reports.

To allow the tapes to receive the most use possible, the tapes are set on an extra slow motion that damages the quality of the tapes. Chamness said he wants to see new, two-hour tapes purchased from a local store to enhance the quality of the tapes.

Chamness added that the two-hour tapes are about 20 percent cheaper to buy than the 30 minute tapes being bought out of town. The video tapes will be used only for DWI cases, he said.

County Judge John Coffee estimated 70 percent of the $50,000 to $65,000 in county court revenues come from DWI cases, and that about 70 percent of those cases are made by the city. The Department of Public Safety, which also uses the city facilities for booking the inmates, makes another 20 to 30 percent.

Firefighters examine wreckage of a mobile home, top photo, after a Sunday afternoon fire destroyed the home, which is in the Tubbs addition. Another mobile home, bottom photo, also caught fire and was destroyed. Investigators said the blaze started after sparks from an acetylene torch caught the first home on fire. Eight fires ravaged the Crossroads area Sunday.

Eight fires scorch area

By ERIN BLAIR
Staff Writer

CROSSROADS — Eight fires destroyed two mobile homes, scorched pasture land and kept the Big Spring Fire Department and the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department busy for six hours Sunday afternoon, said C. Roy Wright, Howard County Volunteer Fire Department fire chief.

The first fire began at 11:45 a.m. at Interstate 20 westbound, near the railroad tracks. Wright said sparks from a train with engine problems ignited sporadic fires from Midland to Big Spring, including five fires between Stanton and Big Spring that burned between 2,700 and 2,800 acres of pasture, brush and mesquite. About 100 volunteers helped extinguish the fires, he said.

"The volunteers were a big help. They put themselves in danger but they were a big help," Wright said.

The mobile home fire occurred six miles southeast of Big Spring on Brian Road in the Tubbs addition at 12:20 p.m. Wright said sparks from an acetylene torch apparently ignited the fire in a trailer occupied by Rosemary Charlton. Owen Rawls, a neighbor, was using the torch in his backyard to build a dog pen.

Owens tried to control the fire with a garden hose but could get no water to the flames, Wright said. When firefighters arrived, two mobile homes and a storage shed were ablaze.

"One of the trailers was totally destroyed and another was 95 percent destroyed," Wright said. The storage building was also destroyed. Wright estimated the fire had caused $50,000 damage to the three buildings. No one was injured in the blaze.

Two additional grass fires north of Big Spring were also extinguished by firefighters, who had suffered small burns and some smoke inhalation by the end of the day.

Wright said the eight fires took two hours to control and another four hours of mopping up.

Army killed Jesuit priests

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Alfredo Cristiani has announced that military men committed the November massacre of six Jesuit priests — one of the most heinous politically motivated crimes of the 10-year-old civil war.

"It has been determined there was involvement of some elements of the armed forces" in the slayings, Cristiani said Sunday night in a brief address broadcast over radio and television.

In addition to the priests, respected educators at a Jesuit-run university whom the far right had accused of sympathizing with leftist rebels, the assailants killed the clergymen's housekeeper and her 15-year-old daughter.

Cristiani did not specify who was implicated or indicate the units, rank or number of those responsible.

However, the head of the joint chiefs of staff said earlier Sunday night that members of an elite battalion had been confined to base were being questioned in connection with the slayings.

No military officer has been convicted of a politically motivated slaying since civil war broke out in late 1979, though the army has been linked to right-wing death squads blamed for the murders of thousands of suspected leftists in the early 1980s.

U.S. authorities have indicated that continued bipartisan support for the rightist Cristiani government depends to a great extent on finding out who killed the Jesuits and punishing them.

Cristiani said a "Special Commission of Honor," including high-ranking military men and civilian lawyers, had been created to expose the truth about the Nov. 16 massacre "in its complete magnitude."

The president said the commission would work with investigators to "make sure justice is done" and promised punishment would be meted out "down to the last person implicated."

Cristiani has also offered a $250,000 reward for information leading to the murderers' arrest.

Grant could allow BSSH services expansion

HERALD STAFF REPORT

AUSTIN — The Big Spring State Hospital may be eligible for a $375,000 grant to expand community mental health services for youth, an official with the state hospital said Friday.

Jok Simons, administrator for community resident programs with the state hospital, expressed cautious optimism about the local hospital's chances to obtain a grant.

"It radically narrows it down, the chances are much better," than some other grants which pit virtually all state hospitals in the state against each other, Simons said.

The local hospital would receive the grant from the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, which recently received a two-year, $2 million appropriation to expand services for youth. The state hospital has submitted a proposal for the $375,000 but will first have its proposal approved over 14 other state hospitals that have also asked for the grant, Simons said.

More than 40 mental health agencies from across the state are competing for the four demonstration project grants. Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation officials in Austin will award one grant to each category based on the number of children and adolescents residing in their

Panama invasion coverage shocking for Big Spring Mom

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Even daily reports of the United States' invasion of Panama to capture dictator Manuel Antonio Noriega was not enough to numb the senses of Martha Cassey.

She was not prepared for the shock of suddenly seeing her son Michael Allen smiling and waving on television one afternoon last week — in Panama. It was the day after Christmas.

"I cried all afternoon. It's horrible," she said choking as emotions began to engulf her once again. "I'm having a hard time talking now," she said.

An estimated 570 people, including 23 American servicemen were killed in five days of fighting against Noriega loyalists, according to wire reports. The assault began before sunrise on Dec. 20.

It was not enough for Cassey knowing that her son, a 38-year-old former Big Spring High School student who is now an Air Force cargo loadmaster technician, is subject to being sent to hot spots in the world, she said.

She saw him another time on television two years ago after he was sent to the Persian Gulf where the U.S. was escorting Kuwaiti tankers during the Iran-Iraqi War.

"Everytime there's a disaster they fly him straight to it," she said. "It just tears me up. I can take it pretty good just thinking that he's over there, but seeing him makes it hard."

She said she had even suspected last week that her son was in Panama but was still overwhelmed when she saw him on television.

"I just told the girls at work that I thought my son was in Panama City," she said. "Then I was flipping channels and I saw him."

She said six cargo planes were lined up and he was standing by a box with a clipboard in his hand motioning to other workers.

"He turned around and looked straight at the camera," she said. "They had a closeup of him and he smiled and waved hello. It tore me

Gramm to face competition in general election

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
 Staff Writer

CROSSROADS — Only one race is contested of the six senatorial and representative races which affect the surrounding five counties.

Facing competition in the Nov. 6 general election will be U.S. Senator Phil Gramm, R-College Station. He will face either state Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Forth Worth, or Democrat Harley Schlanger, a Houston consultant.

The report came from Democratic and Republican representatives in Austin following the Jan. 2 filing deadline.

But almost half of the 30 local county offices up for election in a four-county area are contested, said county clerks in those counties.

A Crossroad candidate who filed in an at-large state election is Democrat Pat Barber. The Colorado City attorney filed for Place 3 on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

He will face 6-year incumbent and fellow Democrat Bill White in the March 13 primary. No Republican filed for that office.

Filing for eight other district races which affect the Crossroads area are:

- Incumbent U.S. Rep. Charles

Stenholm, D-Stamford, in district 17 — which includes Howard, Mitchell, Martin, Glasscock and Borden counties.

• Incumbent state Sen. Phil Simms, D-San Angelo, in district 25 which includes Glasscock County.

• State representatives Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, the incumbent in district 69, which includes Howard, Glasscock and Borden counties; Rob Junell, D-San Angelo, the incumbent in district 66 which includes Mitchell County; and Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, the incumbent in district 77 which includes Martin County.

• Newcomer H. Robert Moore, a Big Spring attorney who is running as a Republican for judge of the 118th District Court. Incumbent James Gregg announced Tuesday he will retire Feb. 18.

• Incumbent Max Osborn, D-El Paso, for the 8th Court of Appeals, which includes Martin and Glasscock counties.

• William Guy "Bud" Arnot III, D-Abilene, for the 11th Court of Appeals, which includes Howard, Mitchell and Borden counties.

In the four surrounding counties, a total of 59 candidates are running for 29 offices. Fourteen of those offices are contested and no one filed for one. Only one of the candidates is a Republican.

In Mitchell County a possible record of 31 candidates filed for 10 offices, of which eight are contested. One candidate is a Republican.

Filing in that county were:

• For county judge — incumbent S.L. "Mac" Morris and Colorado City Record Editor Ray Mayo.

• For Precinct 2 commissioner — incumbent Johnny Shackelford, McKinley "Mac" Simpson, Clifford Burkhart, Yolanda Molina, Woody Crabtree and Carl Guelker.

• For Pct. 3 commissioner — incumbent Buddy Hertenberger, who was appointed in October; former incumbent Larry Hale, who resigned in October; Wyndell Inman who is the only Republican filing, A.W. Rowe and Jesse Bolin.

• For Pct. 4 commissioner — incumbent Billy H. Preston, Herman Mitchell and Robert D. Finley.

• For district clerk — incumbent Bill Erwin, Tina Williamson, Chris Castillo, Sharon Hammond, Winnie Putman and Joan Merrett.

• For county clerk — incumbent Joan Beach.

• For county treasurer — incumbent Ann Hallmark.

• For Pct. 1 justice of the peace — Bill Vest, Glenda Haltom and Becky Manning.

• For Pct. 2 justice of the peace — incumbent Keith Ruddick and Billy Forbes.

• For Pct. 1 constable — incumbent Jerry Hammond and Bill Grimes.

In Martin County 12 people filed for seven races, of which two are contested. All of the candidates are Democrats.

Filing in that county were:

• For Pct. 4 commissioner — incumbent E.D. Holcomb, Charles McKaskie, and Grady Grantham.

• For Pct. 1 justice of the peace — incumbent Francis Kennedy, Walter Taylor and Nolan Parker.

• For Pct. 2 commissioner — incumbent Donald L. Tollison.

• For county judge — incumbent Bob Deavenport.

• For county-district clerk — incumbent Virginia James.

• For county treasurer — incumbent H.D. "Butch" Howard.

• For Pct. 2 justice of the peace — Dennis L. Kotasek.

In Glasscock County nine people filed for six offices, of which three are contested. All of them are Democrats.

Filing in that county were:

• For Pct. 4 commissioner — incumbent Michael Hoch and Donald Cypert.

• For county treasurer — incumbent Judy Kingston and Alan Diersehe.

• For the Pct. 1 justice of the peace race — two of the incumbents from the four justice of the peace offices in the county, which are being combined into one office during this year's election. They are Veneda Moore and Marilee Jost.

• For county judge — incumbent Wilburn Bednar.

• For Pct. 2 commissioner — Ervin Wooten.

• For county-district clerk — incumbent Betty Pate.

In Borden County only one race of seven up for election is contested. Nobody has filed for the constable position in that county. All of the candidates are Democrats.

Filing in that county were:

• For county treasurer — incumbent Melissa Ludecke and Kenneth P. Bennett.

• For county judge — incumbent Van York.

• For Pct. 2 commissioner — incumbent Larry Smith.

• For Pct. 4 commissioner — incumbent Hurston Lemons Jr.

• For county clerk — incumbent Dorothy Browne.

• For Pct. 1 justice of the peace — incumbent Carolyn Stone.

and conviction. The slayings of the six priests prompted calls from some U.S. legislators to review or condition U.S. aid to the Cristiani administration, which took office in June, succeeding the centrist government of Jose Napoleon Duarte.

The massacre also recalled the March 1980 assassination of Oscar Arnulfo Romero, archbishop of San Salvador, who was killed by a sniper as he said Mass. Despite available evidence and testimony, the Salvadoran judicial system has failed to bring Romero's killer to justice.

Cristiani asked the Salvadoran people to avoid speculation while investigators carry out their work. Agents from the United States and Spain have aided in the probe and Scotland Yard detectives arrived this weekend to take part.

The head of the joint chiefs of staff, Col. Rene Emilio Ponce, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that 47 soldiers from the elite Atlacatl battalion, including two officers, had been confined to base for questioning in the case but were not under arrest.

It was unclear whether those soldiers and officers were the ones referred to by Cristiani.

Ponce said the 47 were members of the unit that conducted a search of the Jesuits' residence at the order's Central American University two days before the priests were slain.

Asked if the men were implicated by evidence other than the fact that they conducted the search, Ponce declined to comment.

A university employee has said she saw men in military uniforms outside the residence shortly before the shots that killed the priests were heard. The woman, Lucia Barrera, has been taken for her own safety to the United States, where she is under the protection of the Jesuits.

The priests and educators — Ignacio Ellacuria, Ignacio Martin-Baro, Segundo Montes, Amado Lopez, Juan Ramon Moreno and Joaquin Lopez Lopez — were taken from their beds in their on campus residence before dawn and killed. Their housekeeper, Julia Ramos, and her 15-year-old daughter Celina, also were slain.

Ellacuria was the university's rector, Martin-Baro its vice-rector.

The priests were slain five days after leftist rebels launched the biggest offensive of their insurgency. The guerrillas have battled a succession of U.S.-backed governments they say serve as civilian facades for repressive military rule.

The far right, which is blamed for the death-squad murders of several thousand suspected leftists in the early 1980s, had consistently denounced the Central American University's left-leaning Jesuits as subversive ideologues.

In the days following the slayings, several high-ranking military officers, including Col. Francisco Elena Fuentes, 1st army brigade commander, publicly accused leftist guerrillas of the murders.

cent of the DWI cases and those fines also go to the county, he said.

Brown responded, "But we house them here, remember that?"

Coffee said the county also has to pay for the salaries of the county attorney and county judge when trying such cases, but again noted that the county receives the money from fines and gave his endorsement to the county paying for 250 of the tapes.

"I think we should pay the $812.50," he said, also noting it was commendable the city was willing to pay for 50 tapes since "they get absolutely no benefit."

Commissioners approved the purchase of the tapes over Brown's objection.

Commissioners also discussed the possibility of having a constable in Forsan. Forsan resident Joseph Lesueur, who owns John's Auto Sales in Big Spring, appeared before the commissioners to express an interest in the job.

service area.

The Big Spring State Hospital is in the third largest category, with Austin TDMHMR officials estimating there are between 1,000 and 2,000 youth who need mental health services in the 23-county area the local hospital covers.

The grants will be awarded in February with the demonstration projects to begin in March and continue for two years, TDMHMR officials say.

Agencies receiving the grants will be required to provide a variety of services to children and adolescents, including crisis-emergency services, case management, respite care, public school day treatment programs, home-based family preservation services and therapeutic foster group homes, TDMHMR officials say.

The appropriation will enable the TDMHMR to develop programs for treating children and adolescents with mental illness in their home communities rather than in hospitals or residential treatment centers, according to TDMHMR officials.

"The major focus of this project will be to reduce the number of kids that have to leave their communities or their homes to get services," said Dr. Regenia Hicks, coordinator of Children and Youth Services for TDMHMR. "Right now, because we have such a lack of community-based services, kids often have to go to a state hospital to get things they should normally be able to get in the community."

One of the main criteria being used to judge the applicants is the extent to which their proposed programs will allow consumers and families to be involved in the treatment process, TDMHMR say. Simons said another major consideration will be the degree to which the applicant plans to collaborate with other agencies that serve youth, such as local schools

Children trapped

MAUD (AP) — Two toddlers spent 12 hours trapped in a wrecked pickup truck with their dead father after the truck slid off a rural road and slammed into a tree.

A Bowie County sheriff's deputy discovered the boys, 4-year-old Joshua Mills and his 3-year-old brother, Nathan, early Saturday trying to awaken their father, James Mills, 25.

"They were tapping him on the shoulder, telling him, 'Daddy, wake up,'" Wally Jones said. "I just told them, 'Your father's asleep. Let him sleep.'"

The truck apparently crashed Friday night during rain and heavy fog in Maud, about 140 miles northeast of Dallas, and was found at the bottom of an embankment near a sharp curve in a road, Jones said.

The boys were treated and released from Wadley Regional Medical Center.

Nathan was treated for cuts and bruises. Joshua, who was pinned in the jump seat of Mills' small pickup, suffered minor frostbite, officials said.

Name game

FORT WORTH (AP) — Florence Noriega of Fort Worth said her family hasn't been able to cash in on the notoriety brought by having the same last name as the deposed Panamanian strongman.

Mrs. Noriega said some people have joked about cashing in on her husband, Henry — dubbed "the general" by fellow truck drivers on the citizens band radio.

"When the million-dollar bounty was made for Manuel Noriega some of them said they were going to turn Henry in for the money," Mrs. Noriega said of her husband, who drives for Missouri-Pacific Freight Lines.

There have been benefits from sharing the name "Noriega" with the former Panamanian dictator, now facing drug charges in Miami.

"Before all this, people had trouble pronouncing our name," Mrs. Noriega said. "They don't any more."

Chemical leak

DUMAS (AP) — A toxic chemical was discovered leaking from a railroad tank car, forcing a 3½-hour evacuation of dozens of homes, but nobody was hurt, authorities said.

The chemical, methyl tertiary butyl ether, a highly flammable gasoline octane booster, was discovered leaking about 3:30 p.m. Sunday, said police dispatcher Loretta Tice.

Authorities evacuated an area 20 blocks by six blocks near the railroad tracks, but had no estimate of the number of people affected.

All were allowed to return to their homes about 7 p.m., Ms. Tice said.

The leaking car was transported to a safer location, she said.

Authorities believe the leak occurred after fumes escaped when the chemical inside the tank car expanded.

The owner of the tank car was not immediately known. Dumas is about 40 miles north of Amarillo.

Texas traffic fatalities fall during last decade

AUSTIN (AP) — Traffic fatalities have fallen during the past 10 years thanks to new safety laws, stricter enforcement and heightened public awareness, the Texas Department of Public Safety reports.

The 1988 traffic toll of 3,395 fatalities represented a 28 percent decrease from the decade's most dangerous year — 1981 — when 4,701 people died on Texas roadways, said DPS spokesman David Wells.

Wells said the gradual decline in deaths came even as the state's roadways handled an ever-rising number of motorists.

And in 1989, for the first time in more than 12 years, a day went by without a single recorded traffic fatality in the state.

The date — June 13 — marked the first "deathless day" on the state's roads since Jan. 5, 1977.

The passage of safety and alcohol laws in the 1980s, combined with strong support from many independent groups, "has placed us well on track in combating automobile-related deaths for the near future," DPS spokesman Mike Cox told The Dallas Morning News.

Wells said the final count for 1989 won't be available until early March, but preliminary figures for the first 10 months of the year were similar to the same period in 1988. "We are hoping for a slight decrease in 1989," Wells said.

The 1984 total, Wells said. "The compliance with the seat deaths dropped by 6 percent from

In 1989, for the first time in more than 12 years, a day went by without a single recorded traffic fatality in the state.

A law passed by the state Legislature in 1985 that requires automobile drivers and front-seat passengers to wear seatbelts played a large role in decreasing the number of deaths in the late '80s, Wells said.

The law went into effect Sept. 1, 1985. That year, the number of only because that person was wearing a seat belt," he said.

Cox said the crackdown on drunken driving has played a significant role in reducing traffic deaths. Also important were awareness groups and dial-a-ride services, he said.

Summertime and holidays are generally the most dangerous times to be on the road, Wells said.

The deadliest day of the 1980s was Dec. 19, 1981, when 41 people died, Wells said. That's the second-worst day since the DPS started recording traffic fatalities in 1946. The record of 42 deaths was set on Dec. 24, 1975.

Lawyers asked to be nicer

DALLAS (AP) — Lawyers and judges concede their profession probably won't set any standards for social graces, but they're giving good manners a shot nevertheless.

A new lawyer's Creed — the first such statewide code in the nation — was recently approved by the Texas Supreme Court and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. It asks the state's 52,000 lawyers for kinder, gentler litigation.

No more obnoxiousness. No more tit-for-tat unprofessional behavior. No more stalling tactics. And no "allusions to personal peculiarities or idiosyncrasies of opposing counsel" will be allowed, states the creed.

Lawyers and judges say the let's-be-civil creed is overdue.

"It's kind of like dieting," Texas Supreme Court Justice Eugene Cook told The Dallas Morning News. "It's a battle that we can win, but it's not going to be done overnight."

Cook said the Lawyer's Creed stemmed from efforts by Dallas and Houston legal associations to curb an increase in bad behavior and needlessly aggressive courtroom tactics.

The offending behavior — ranging from rudeness to ignoring court rules, engaging in lengthy procedural delays and even fistfights — has been clogging court schedules and hampering disposition of cases.

Cook said he has seen lawyers try to reschedule proceedings on dates that were most likely to bother an opponent.

"If they know of a time that will be inconvenient — say the day your wife is having a baby or the week you've been planning all year for a vacation — that's when they'll schedule it," he said.

"Some people think that it's the way to practice law, to be rude and abusive and try to intimidate the other side."

He said the problems have become increasingly common in the last five years.

Many senior members of the Dallas Bar Association attribute the problem in part to the increase of lawyers in the state's largest cities, said U.S. District Judge A. Joe Fish.

"I think the Rambo tactics arise out of the feeling that 'I'm never going to see the other lawyer again,'" he said.

Dallas Bar Association president Al Ellis said financial woes have also increased courtroom problems.

"As the law firms have gotten bigger and the economy has gone down, there's been a lot of pressure on younger and middle-management lawyers to produce, and some have responded with this kind of behavior," he said.

Clients who expect aggressive behavior from their lawyers add to the pressure, Cook said. "Some people think 'If my lawyer isn't being an obnoxious so-and-so, he's not doing his job.'"

The 34-part Lawyer's Creed was developed by a committee with representatives from 18 legal associations in the state. It relies on voluntary compliance and includes no specific penalties.

The creed includes requirements of civility toward peers and judges and a ban on "antagonistic or obnoxious behavior."

It warns lawyers about engaging in stalling tactics or trying to harass or drain an opponent's resources.

"Some judges have copies of the creed pasted to their courthouse doors," Cook said.

River treasures

SAN ANTONIO — Archaeologist Alton Briggs displays some of the artifacts he and his crew have discovered at the bottom of the San Antonio River which runs near the Alamo. The archaeologists plan to work in the river for one week hoping to find armaments left behind after the battle of the Alamo.

Sperm bank ad upsets college regents

HOUSTON (AP) — A sperm bank seeking donors through advertisements in a college newspaper have irked school officials, but editors say they see nothing wrong with the notice.

"Students have the right to express themselves and make choices about what is appropriate editorial and advertising content," said Susan Cummings-Hastie, faculty advisor for The Lantern, the student newspaper for Baytown's Lee College.

"The courts have ruled that students don't check their constitutional rights at the door."

The ad, which has run regularly for nearly a year, solicits sperm donations for use in artificial insemination procedures conducted by Fairfax Cryobank, a Fairfax, Va.-based group with offices in Houston.

The two-by-four-inch ad reads: "WANTED: HEALTHY MALES, as semen donors; Help infertile couples; ethnic diversity desirable, ages 18 to 35 — excellent compensation."

"It's shocking to some people," said Baytown Lee president Vivian Blevins, who notified student editors recently of complaints about the ad. "There are some who would question the ethics of fathering a child without assuming responsibility for that child. It's a new age. When I was young, students sometimes worked their way through college donating blood. Now it's sperm."

Donors are paid $40 per specimen, sometimes donating as often as three times per week, said Cryobank spokesman Dr. Edward Fugger. By comparison, student editor Jeff Haddon said a student assistant working 20 hours on the campus earns a maximum of $67 a week.

Cryobank, which is affiliated with the Genetics & IVF Institute in Fairfax, Va., solicits donations from students because they are the most likely to volunteer their services, Fugger said.

"They're young, not married and more interested in helping infertile couples," Fugger said.

NASA forced to cancel launch today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Low-hanging clouds forced NASA to cancel today's launch of space shuttle Columbia on a satellite rescue mission.

"It looks like we'll have to call it a day," launch director Bob Sieck told the five astronauts aboard the shuttle.

The launch was tentatively rescheduled for 7:35 a.m. Tuesday, but shuttle managers were to meet later today to assess the weather and the amount of work needed to be done before setting a firm date, said launch commentator Lisa Malone. If the launch is set for Tuesday, the launch window would extend 58 minutes, to 8:33 a.m.

The delay was the fourth for the mission, which originally was scheduled for liftoff Dec. 18.

Opinions from across the U.S. A new spring

In 1620, a Czech revolt against their Austrian Hapsburg rulers touched off the Thirty Years' War, a series of conflicts that swept through Europe. Alexander Dubcek's daring but peaceful revolt in 1968 against the worst constrictions of Soviet-style communism didn't have such a directly traceable long-term effect. But the time memorialized by freedom lovers as the Prague Spring left an enduring legacy.

After 21 years of political exile as a virtual non-person, Dubcek, now 68 and widely revered for his earlier efforts at liberalization, has been restored to power. He was unanimously elected last week as the interim chairman of the Czech parliament.

With their sad and ancient tradition of bad political news invariably followed by worse, last week's events were cause for about as much national joy as the Czechs and Slovaks ever dared indulge in. With the political rebirth of Dubcek and the election as temporary president of the popular Vaclav Havel — the courageous playwright who has led the noncommunist opposition — the fires of freedom are burning bright.

And this time, as they enter a new year they once only dreamed of, Czechoslovakians seem determined to keep the precious flames alive.

Chicago Tribune

Give Chinese a chance

In terms of their desire to be free, how are the Chinese any different from Romanians? ... (It's wrong to assume that China can't topple its dictators as Romania has just done. If President Bush could grasp that point, he would understand what a mistake it is for him to be cozying up to Beijing's Communists.

By every indication, China's tyrants are running scared. Communist leaders are understandably concerned about comparisons being drawn between the Romanian revolt and the pro-democracy protests in Tiananmen Square in June.

In both cases, for example, the demonstrations gained a momentum that could only be possible in countries where the people are enormously deprived and discontented. ... And Chinese Premier Li Peng last week ordered the People's Armed Police to guard against any renewal of pro-democracy protests inspired by Romania's example.

Last week, Li told a meeting of the State Council, China's cabinet, that "despite the changes in the international situation, China will maintain a firm belief in itself (and) adhere to the socialist direction."

Whether or not Li believes his own rhetoric, there's no reason for Bush to swallow even a single word of it. Unfortunately, the president continues to defiantly defend his overtures to Beijing as the right thing to do under the circumstances. But, as the events in Romania have shown most convincingly, circumstances have a way of changing overnight.

Los Angeles Daily News

Will Cuba be next?

The demise of communism around the world is sending a strong signal that cannot be denied by Cuba. Fidel Castro must surely know his days in power are numbered.

The fall of Romanian strongman Nicolae Ceausescu should send cold chills up the back of Castro who stays in power on the back of a military force.

The people of the world are crying out for more freedom. They want economic and social freedom. They want a voice in determining the government under which they live.

Modern technology has torn down the Iron Curtain. Satellite transmission of news, the Voice of America broadcasts and international travel to and from communist countries have told a story to Warsaw Pact nations that life can be better.

Such is the case in Castro's Cuba. The day of censorship is over. This information will be the downfall of Castro.

There can be no timetable for those events, because as long as Castro can make the people of Cuba believe evil things about Americans his case is strong vigilance against capitalism.

Communism has survived because the leaders were able to preach the fear of foreigners to those without other sources of information.

That day has come and gone and so will those who rule that way.

Daily News, Starkville, Miss.

Lasting effects of spill

The lasting effects of the Exxon Valdez oil spill, now more than 9 months old, have sobering consequences for those who might have wished that the cleanup were over.

Alaskan fishery authorities have continued to shut down commercial fisheries in the Prince William Sound because of renewed sightings of oil slicks. They say the slicks would contaminate catches and fishing gear.

The latest fishery to be affected is the winter shrimp trawling season, closed in December. It normally would run through the winter but now will not reopen before Feb. 28.

The brown king crab fishery was canceled for the year. Other fisheries affected include salmon and herring.

Most commercial fisheries in the area have been closed since the spill. Authorities say the oil apparently is bleeding into the sound from surrounding beaches.

The lesson that we keep being reminded of is that the ability of oil companies to deal with such large oil spills remains woefully inadequate.

Who next on list for musical assault?

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — So the ordinary, everyday, ear-splitting boom box has been made into a weapon of war, and there's no knowing where that may lead.

Those radio-cassette players with stereo speakers are menace enough in peacetime, clearing streets and public parks as platoons of youthful rock fanatics blare their music at migraine volume.

And that was before Panama, where the United States decided to go after Manuel Antonio Noriega, no decibels barred. He could run to the Vatican embassy, but he couldn't hide; not when U.S. soldiers brought in the stereo speakers, set them up in a parking lot across the street, turned up the volume and tuned in armed forces radio rock.

There went the neighborhood. Troops and everybody else in the area had to converse in shouts as numbers like "You're No Good," "Voodoo Chile," "Welcome to the Jungle," and "Nowhere to Run, Nowhere to Hide" boomed day and night from olive drab, government-issue speakers.

Noriega, who surrendered Wednesday night and was put on a plane to the United States, fancies opera, making a high decibel diet of rock plus country and western numbers seem a sort of musical torture. But the noise spared no one, and the Roman Catholic diplomats stationed at the embassy presumably were more comfortable with plainsong than disco music.

"Baby, You're No Good," the speakers blared. And "I Fought the Law and the Law Won."

After a day and a half, a Vatican spokesman said the musical assault was unacceptable. Another day of it and word came from the mission that the din was keeping diplomats and clerics awake while Noriega slept and the Vatican was

Not at that volume.

The military didn't explain the rock tactic; Bush's spokesman said it was a communications technique.

"There was an attempt to disrupt communications so that we could have some guarantees of the security of our conversations," said press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. "Fairly standard practice."

He said music was played to disrupt microwaves and interfere with electronic eavesdropping when White House staff members conferred at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow during President Reagan's 1988 summit meeting contemplating unspecified "further steps" if it continued. The rock barrage was turned down last Friday.

Bush has been telling people to read his lips for so long that it's become trite; next time Congress talks about raising taxes he can break out the boom box and let it shout. "Can U Read My Lips" and "I Won't Back Down."

"I think it aggravated the people inside," President Bush said Saturday. "It has stopped. It would have aggravated me, I'll tell you. I'm not into rock. Country music, maybe that's different."

with Mikhail S. Gorbachev. Not around the clock, though.

Who was eavesdropping in Panama City?

"I'd let your imagination deal with that one," Fitzwater said, sidestepping the question of whether the racket was supposed to prevent reporters with electronic gear from tuning in on military conversations and street corner talks with the papal envoy. When the Pope's man in Panama City can come under rock music assault, nobody's safe.

Arms negotiations stalled? Let them hear about it. Turn up "Big Planet, Scary Planet." In a while, if there's still no deal, escalate to "Armageddon It."

Bush has been telling people to read his lips for so long that it's become trite; next time Congress talks about raising taxes he can break out the boom box and let it shout. "Can U Read My Lips?" and "I Won't Back Down."

Vice presidential problems? Get Dan Quayle a stereo and let him advertise: "Giving You the Best That I've Got." Bush has already assured his No. 2 man of renomination. Now, when necessary, he can play "It's You Again," loudly enough to drown out the doubters. "My Prerogative," the presidential boom box can blare.

Japanese have yen for insane prices

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Everytime you pick up a newspaper, you find out how the Japanese have taken the lead over us in yet another area.

This time, it's charging insane prices for things. According to the Associated Press, for instance, a bottle of cognac, which wholesales at $7, will cost the Japanese consumer $77.50.

That, also according to the AP, is because of a maze-like distribution system in which distributors practice what the Japanese refer to as stickittoy. In this country we call it "price gouging."

Remember when we could stand tall because of the way we overpriced things? New York used to be the ripoff capital of the world. Now, sadly, it's Tokyo.

Once in a New York hotel I ordered a beer and a cheeseburger from room service. The beer cost me $7, the cheeseburger cost me $15. The room, a very small one, cost me $315 a night and there was no cable TV.

The next day, I figured I could save some money by stopping in a New York grocery store and taking some food to my room. I bought two cans of Spam. They were $9.25 each.

I also went shopping in New York. I bought a pair of designer jeans. Later, I figured it up and realized I had paid $45 for each leg and $25 for the zipper, not including tax.

I took a lady to a fancy restaurant in New York. She had the lobster bisque and the veal marsala. I had four bread sticks and opened the second can of Spam. The bill was $137.50, not including tip.

But all that's chicken yen compared to what the Japanese are charging these days.

It costs a million dollars to join a country club in Japan and there are waiting lists. What sort of bets do Japanese golfers who can afford that sort of initiation fee make? A $250,000 Naussau — winner buys the drinks?

What do they play gin for in the men's grill? A thousand bucks a point?

"Let see, Kinto, at a thousand a point, you owe me $417,000."

"I'll be right back, Iruku. I've got some change in my locker."

According to my own sources, here is what the Japanese are charging for certain items and services in comparison to the average price for the same things in the U.S.:

Beer: $2 a bottle in U.S.; $37.50 a bottle in Japan. Chug-a-rug.

Cheeseburger: $1.60 in U.S.; $316.85 in Japan at Burger Thief.

Small hotel room with no cable TV: $27.50 — except in New York — in U.S.; $4,500.75 in Japan and the toilet runs all night.

Designer jeans: $65 in U.S.; $971.65 per leg in Japan. Financing available on zippers.

Dinner for two in a fancy restaurant: Even counting New York, averages only $87.50 in U.S.; $4,455 in Japan, not counting the bread sticks. Heimlich maneuver, in case you get choked, $2,000 per maneuver, per person.

Golf balls: $6 for 3 in U.S.; 11 bucks a dimple in Japan.

It is easy to see that we have a lot of catching up to do if we want to stick it to the consumer like they do in Japan.

I'm willing to start the ball rolling. I've got two unopened cans of Spam in my pantry.

I'll let 'em go for $37.50 each or an even hundred for the pair. Order now, and let's make America proud again.

Prime interest rate drops

NEW YORK (AP) — Four big banks lowered their prime lending rate today a half percentage point to 10 percent, the first reduction in nearly half a year, signaling cheaper loans for consumers and businesses.

The move by Citibank, First National Bank of Chicago, Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. and Bankers Trust Co. reflected the declining cost of money that banks have enjoyed in recent weeks because of a more liberal credit policy by the Federal Reserve.

The Fed, the nation's central bank, has been moving to ease interest rates recently in order to forestall a dramatic economic downturn. Lower rates encourage businesses and consumers to borrow money.

The prime rate is a benchmark that many banks use to calculate many other loan rates, including variable rate home equity loans.

The move today, effective immediately, marks the first time the rate has been changed since July 31, when banks lowered the prime to 10.5 percent from 11 percent.

Economists predicted other banks would follow suit, saying today's move was long overdue. There was little reaction in the stock or bond markets, indicating that such a drop had been anticipated.

"It comes as no surprise. I think it was in keeping with current money market rates," said William V. Sullivan, an economist with Dean Witter Reynolds.

Sullivan said banks had the incentive to trim their prime just before Christmas.

Soldier of Fortune won't pay award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to reinstate a $9.4 million award won, and then lost, by the family of a woman whose husband hired her killer through an ad in Soldier of Fortune magazine.

The justices, without comment, let stand a federal appeals court ruling that threw out a much-publicized jury verdict against the magazine.

Soldier of Fortune "owed no duty to refrain from publishing a facially innocuous classified advertisement when the ad's content — at most — made its message ambiguous," the appeals court ruled.

The August decision overturned the $9.4 million award won in a wrongful-death lawsuit filed by the son and mother of Sandra Black, who was killed in her Bryan, Texas, home in 1985.

Mrs. Black's husband, Robert, hired John Wayne Hearn for $10,000 to kill her after seeing his ad in a 1984 issue of the magazine. The ad described Hearn as an ex-Marine and "weapons specialist" available for "high risk assignments" in this country or overseas.

Black was convicted and sentenced to death for arranging his wife's murder. He is a prisoner on Texas' death row. Hearn, also convicted of two contract killings in Florida, is serving three life sentences in a Florida prison.

A federal jury in Houston ruled that Soldier of Fortune, based in Boulder, Colo., and aimed at adventurers and military enthusiasts, had negligently contributed to Mrs. Black's killing.

The jury awarded Mrs. Black's son, Gary, and her mother, Marjorie Eimann, $1.9 million in compensatory damages and $7.5 million in punitive damages.

Soldiers return to heros' welcome

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The first large contingent of Fort Bragg troops was heading home from Panama for a hero's welcome.

A ceremony featuring awards, speeches, commanding officers and families was expected for today's arrival of an estimated 700 members of the 3rd Battalion of the 504th Parachute Infantry Regiment.

The soldiers were to arrive on transport airplanes at Pope Air Force Base, Fort Bragg spokesman Capt. Lewis Boone said.

The 3rd Battalion soldiers were among about 4,000 from Fort Bragg sent to Panama as part of last month's invasion that toppled Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

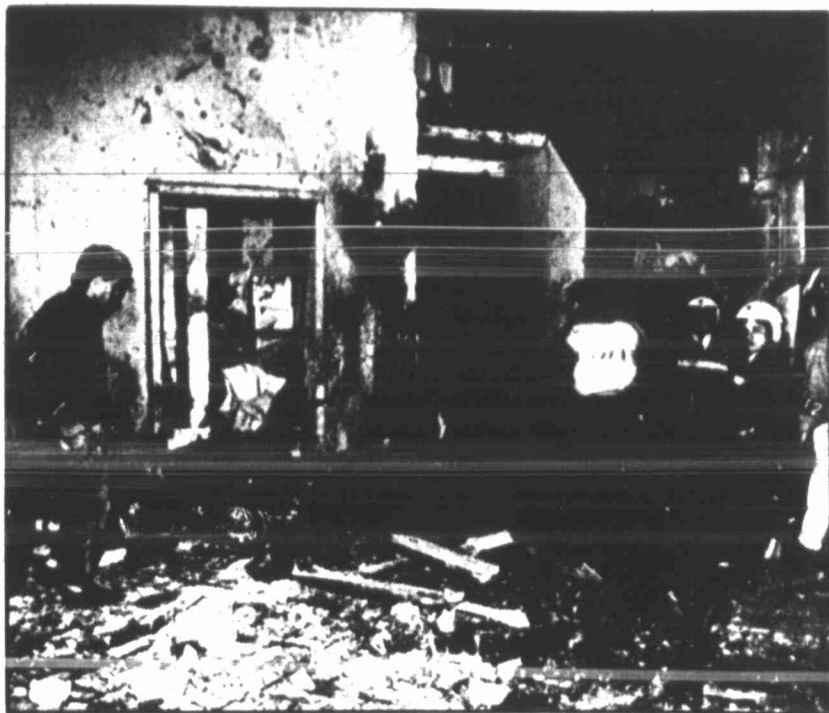

About 26,000 U.S. soldiers participated, and some already returned to other U.S. bases.

The 3rd battalion was involved in seizing Madden Dam, a major source of electrical power for U.S. installations in the area, and Cerro Tigre, which was believed to be the main supply depot for Noriega's troops. Army officials said.

No soldiers from the battalion were killed, but 23 were wounded, officials said.

On Sunday, about more than 600 Army Rangers of the 3rd Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment returned from Panama to Fort Benning in Columbus, Ga.

"It's great to be home," Pfc. Daniel Becker said, after being reunited with his girlfriend.

BOGOTO, Colombia — A car bomb with 50 pounds of dynamite exploded Saturday night in front of the offices of Probolsa, owned by Alvaro Diego Montoya, kidnapped on Dec. 20th by "The Extraditables," a group formed by the leaders of the drug cartel. Diego is the son of the government's chief of cabinet.

Colombia refusing to join drug interdiction

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Virgilio Barco's government is refusing to take part with the U.S. military in a drug interdiction operation off the coast involving American warships and planes, a Bogota newspaper reported.

The Barco administration "has not participated, nor will it participate, in any joint operation with U.S. military forces, air or naval, in the international waters of the Caribbean Sea," according to a communiqué the respected daily El Tiempo published on Sunday and said it had received from the Barco administration.

In Washington Bush administration officials acknowledged "some difficulties" with Colombian authorities over their plans to deploy warships in the Caribbean in a new campaign against drug traffickers.

The national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, blamed the problems on "some premature and... probably inaccurate leaks" about U.S. intentions and predicted officials in Colombia and other Latin American nations would come around.

The Barco administration has since August been engaged in a bloody war with cocaine barons — but insists the fight is among Colombians and has not sought the assistance of U.S. troops.

Like most Latin American countries, Colombia objected vigorously to the U.S. invasion of Panama on Dec. 20.

The intervention succeeded in ousting Gen. Manuel Noriega, who is now in Florida facing drug trafficking charges, but provoked fears among Latin Americans that the United States is reverting to a turn-of-the-century policy of seeking political goals in the hemisphere through military intervention.

There was no immediate word on what effect the U.S.-Colombian disagreement would have on a regional drug summit scheduled for Feb. 15 in Cartagena, Colombia that President Bush has said he will attend.

President Alan Garcia of Peru said Sunday that he would attend the drug summit only if the United States withdraws its troops from Panama by then. Peruvian officials said last week that Garcia would attend the summit with Bush, Barco and President Jaime Paz Zamora of Bolivia but Sunday's announcement indicated he might change his mind.

Colombia, Bolivia and Peru are the main sources of the world's cocaine.

The U.S. Embassy in Bogota said Saturday that the move to step up air and sea patrols would be carried out "far from the Colombian coast."

The embassy announcement came amid persistent radio reports in Colombia that a United States naval force was planning to enter the Latin American country's territorial waters to set up a blockade off its coast.

The administration has not given the date on which the operations are to begin.

Teen charged with bomb threat

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A teen-ager who police say admitted guilt has been charged with making a false bomb threat that disrupted travel plans for hundreds of Delta Air Lines passengers last week.

Colin Goodwin, 17, of Dunshaughlin in County Meath, was formally charged Sunday in a district court. He was released on $1,400 bail and ordered to surrender his passport pending a further appearance in court Feb. 2.

Detective Sgt. Daniel O'Riordan said that when the charge was read over to Goodwin, the teenager replied, "That's right, I made that call."

Delta said it intended to file Security after receiving a threat Thursday against its transatlantic operations, which include flights to and from Germany, Ireland, England and France.

Passengers were notified about the threats when they checked in, said Delta spokesman Bill Berry in Atlanta, and several hundred changed flights.

"We had several hundred passengers in this four-day period we were in change their travel plans to another carrier," Berry said.

He said Delta averages 4,000 transatlantic passengers a day, but even the loss of a few means "we're really concerned."

Berry said Goodwin was arrested Sunday morning at his home after he allegedly telephoned his most recent threat to Delta's Dublin office.

Rebels attack ships in Red Sea

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A spokesman for the Eritrean rebels had no comment on the Red Sea and was only ship carrying weapons to Ethiopia through the sea, he said Sunday.

"We were sure that one of the two Polish ships was carrying arms to Ethiopia," the Eritrean Liberation Front spokesman, reached by telephone in another Persian Gulf city, said Sunday.

He said the Eritrean forces, who have been waging a three decade war for their region's independence from Ethiopia, fully back freedom of navigation in the Red Sea.

But this does not mean that ships carrying arms to Ethiopia will be allowed to use the waterway "to speed those coming from Israel," said the spokesman, speaking on condition his name not be used.

Forces hostile to Ethiopia, including the Sudanese government, have charged that Israel is bolstering Ethiopia militarily with the aim of undermining the regional Arab nations.

Shipping sources, who also spoke on condition of anonymity, said the Polish motor vessel Adam Asnyk came under fire from Red Sea shores on Thursday. It had come upon another Polish ship — Boleslaw Krzywousty — stranded and ablaze 50 miles from Massawa on the Eritrean coast.

The source also threatened the international companies who signed a $70 million contract with Ethiopia to expand the port of Assab.

Philippine rebels vow more attacks

ANGELES CITY, Philippines (AP) — Communist guerrillas operating around a U.S. base will step up attacks on American soldiers, local officials and other "anti-social elements," a rebel spokesman said today.

The "new year offensive" will involve fresh recruits "ready to strike any time at a spot of opportunity," said Axel Miranda, spokesman of the 5th People's Army brigade based in the city 40 miles north of Manila.

Angeles is the home of the U.S. Clark Air Base.

Speaking to reporters over a radio link, Miranda said the targets included those near Olongapo City, site of the U.S. Subic Naval Base, a mile west of Manila, and the U.S. communications center at Camp O'Donnell in Zambales province, north of Angeles.

Miranda said "We will already confront them to hasten the national democratic revolution," Miranda said.

The rebel spokesman said the offensive against U.S. soldiers and Filipino "collaborators" was decided to coincide with talks on the future of the bases, expected to begin by March. The lease on the bases expires in 1991 and a new treaty is needed to extend their stay.

He said the guerrillas were not yet prepared to launch direct attacks on U.S. facilities. He added that American civilians or retired U.S. military personnel were not targets of the rebel offensive.

He said Friday's assassination of Javier Hizon, mayor of nearby Mexico town, "was just a first sampling" of sporadic but intensified attacks by the Mariano Garcia Brigade.

Textbooks lag behind rapid reforms

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Revolutionary changes sweeping Eastern Europe have professors and teachers scrambling to catch their heads about keeping up with history in the making.

It's a mind-boggling world for Soviet bloc specialists, said Sovietologist Ben Eklof of Indiana University.

"And it's very stressful," he said. "I've begun to wish everyone over there would play baseball for a month or so and give me some time to rethink things."

The campus confusion started as Soviet bloc governments began toppling in last fall. College syllabuses had to be tossed out and curricula overhauled.

"Some of my colleagues are waiting for things to settle down, but they might as well give up waiting because I don't think that will happen for another generation," said Adam Ulam, who directs Harvard University's Russian Research Center.

"It's exciting and tiring at the same time," said Henry Krissch, an author and professor at the University of Connecticut. "It's as though someone in history has hit fast forward and processes that normally take a long time are seen in a short period."

Independent political journals and newspapers have blossomed in Eastern Europe. Artists and theorists are speaking out. Scholarly exchange and travel opportunities are opening.

In many cases, U.S. professors have opted to use newspapers and free-form classroom debate on current events instead of the standard and now outdated texts.

"Right now I'm in a quandary as to whether to offer my course again next fall because I'm not sure if anything of a permanent, published nature will be available," said Edwin Gere, a professor at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Publishers have similar problems. The books from which generations of high school and college students learned about the Soviet bloc suddenly need daily revision.

"The academic headaches are reflected in the publisher's office," said Frederick Praeger, editorial director at Westview Press Inc. "You cannot publish books that deal with the current situation in the Soviet bloc or Eastern Europe because it changes just about every day," Praeger said from his Boulder, Colo., office. "On the day you publish, the book is out of date."

Sam Gesumaria, a vice president at Macmillan-McGraw-Hill's school division, said editors in his New York office had updated various social studies texts repeatedly since November.

"All textbook publishers are faced with the same problem right now," he said. "The best we can do is give some sort of information about these changes, but we have to stop short of being conclusive because these events aren't done yet. And we have a long way to go yet, I suspect."

The Warsaw Pact's transformation may continue for years, but textbook publishers need to deal with an immediate bottom line. They've got to find a way to keep up with the change if they want to keep selling books.

Keeping fit

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Frieda Anderson strides into her exercise class, warmed from a brisk bicycle ride, and puts away her helmet.

She's ready for her three-times-a-week class of stretching, floor exercises, and physical activity to music ranging from 1950s doo-wop to classical to the Grateful Dead's "Touch of Gray."

Most in the class have their own touches of gray.

This is the Walnut Creek YMCA's older adults fitness program, some of the older Americans walking, biking and swimming their way to better health.

Mrs. Anderson, 73, logged 1,886 miles last year, just completed her ninth RAGBRAI — an annual bicycle ride across Iowa — and rode her bicycle at least 10 miles a day this summer. She posted the most miles last year in a walking-jogging program, which credits three miles of bicycling as one mile of walking.

Landscaping

PHOENIX (AP) — If maintaining a home landscape is more work than pleasure, a few changes may help. Retirement offers a splendid opportunity to take time for a detailed assessment, and it's worth doing whether you're 20 or 70.

Start by determining what you and the family like, dislike or have no strong opinion about. Be realistic. Be pragmatic. Be diplomatic. But above all, get an honest reading. Then, have a little fun and adopt "KISS" as the game plan: Keep It Simple, Stupid.

For example, is it worth the effort to plant, water, weed, fertilize and prune that bed of annual flowers or bulbs? Would low-maintenance flowering shrubs be as pleasing? Don't apologize if the choice is the bed of flowers; just be sure. And say KISS often when looking at things that take time.

Before I retired, my home had a gorgeous lawn. There was Bermuda grass in summer and, in this subtropical climate, even greener ryegrass all winter. At least once a week, I'd empty the mower's grasscatcher seven or eight times. The family loved that lawn — badminton, croquet, just sprawling on the grass.

Older writers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Ah, the stories they can tell. About a man obsessed with the education of his children. Or a love story with Venice as a backdrop. Or building a homestead in the early 1900s.

"A lot of us do memory pieces and if they're not entirely memory we might write fiction based on things we've known," said writer Garnet Garoni, 71, of Las Cruces. "There isn't a very big market for that type of story, but it's really fun to write."

Not a big market, maybe, but Mrs. Garoni and other older New Mexicans have found an outlet in Serape, an annual anthology of poetry and short stories by senior citizens. Published by Nightjar Press at New Mexico State University, Serape first appeared on New Mexico bookshelves in 1983, the result of a creative writing class at a Las Cruces senior center.

Kevin McIlvoy, an associate professor of English at New Mexico State, isn't proud that he was surprised at the caliber of writing he found among students at Munson Senior Citizen's Center. But his thinking took a quick, sharp turn.

"I thought, 'Gee, this is powerful writing,'" says McIlvoy, who still teaches the weekly class. "It's so strong, so powerful and so informed by those years of experience that I really wanted it to be brought to readers."

Active retirement

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The only thing wrong with retirement, Gerald Giles says, is he can't get a day off.

Giles, 68, of West Des Moines, retired as a chemical engineer seven years ago. As a volunteer for the Service Corps of Retired Executives, he spends 10 hours a week advising small businesses on marketing and sales techniques. He also is a speaker for Gideons International, which distributes Bibles.

Wes Kitchell, who retired as an insurance consultant in 1981, coordinates monthly business seminars for SCORE. He has been a trustee for the Masons for three years and visits once a week with patients at Mercy Hospital's Heritage Program for Seniors.

"Some people think I'm driven, but I just get a big kick out of life," said Kitchell, 74, of Des Moines.

Big game Tuesday

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring Lady Steers will be out to put the District 4-4A girls basketball race in a logjam when they host the league-leading Sweetwater Lady Mustangs at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Steer Gym.

The Lady Mustangs, coached by first-year mentor Terry Crocker, lead the district with a 5-0 mark (14-6 overall). Big Spring and Pecos are tied for second with identical 4-1 league records.

"We are going to have to play our best game of the year (Tuesday)," BSHS coach George Martin said, "and we sure do not need a crowd there."

The Lady Steers starting lineup will consist of sisters Peggy and Stephanie Smith at guards, Jennifer Hendleman and Gisila Spears at wings and Tevayan Russell at the post.

Sweetwater will counter with a lineup consisting of returning starters Nikki Heath, Pam McNary and Michelle McCain and newcomers Icy Jennings and Becky Barnes. Heath, McNary and McCain all received all-district mention from 4-4A coaches last season.

The schools' junior varsity squads will square off at 6 p.m.

Booster Club to meet

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring Sports Booster Club will meet tonight at 7 in the high school cafeteria.

Plans will be discussed to have a reception for the tennis and football teams that made it to state. All parents and members are urged to attend.

Bad luck Steelers

DENVER (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers' bad luck didn't stop at Mile High Stadium, where they sustained a 24-23 loss to the Denver Broncos in the NFL playoffs Sunday.

Their return flight to Pittsburgh was delayed more than four hours at Denver's Stapleton International Airport.

Their original Pan American charter jet was unable to take off on schedule at 6:30 p.m. MST because of unspecified mechanical problems, according to Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Mike Connor in Seattle.

Connor said Pan Am had to fly in another aircraft and it finally took off about 10:50 p.m. MST.

Joe Robbie dies

MIAMI (AP) — Joe Robbie is being remembered as a tough and proud man who withstood considerable criticism in a quarter-century as the owner of the Miami Dolphins.

Robbie, the only owner in the history of the two-time Super Bowl champions, died Sunday at age 73, Coach Don Shula said.

Robbie died in a Miami-area hospital of an undisclosed ailment.

Three of his 11 children work for the Dolphins. J. Michael Robbie is executive vice president-general manager. Timothy J. Robbie is vice president-public affairs and Daniel T. Robbie is director of sales and promotions.

Robbie's widow, Elizabeth, is vice president of the team.

"I was aware he was seriously ill, but I only found out about this a half hour ago, and it's still a shock," Shula said late Sunday night.

"Nobody wanted to win more than Joe Robbie did, when you think back on Joe Robbie, you think about the good times, the Super Bowl years," Shula added.

Born July 7, 1916, in Sisseton, S.D., Robbie had been a successful trial lawyer before getting involved in football at age 49. He secured the Dolphins franchise in the American Football League in August 1965.

In building the team and Joe Robbie Stadium, to which he moved the Dolphins in 1987, he overcame fierce opposition and skepticism.

Robbie hired Shula, who had taken the Baltimore Colts to two NFL championship games, in 1970. In his first season, Shula improved the Dolphins' record from 3-10-1 in 1969 to 10-4.

Five Steers make All-State

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

The Big Spring Steers football team capped off an outstanding season by having five players named to the Texas Sports Association All-State team.

Leading the way were tight end Joe Downey and offensive tackle Pete Buske. Both were named to the second team. Third team honors went to defensive tackle Pat Wilbert while wingback Neal Mayfield and linebacker Felipe Saiz made the honorable mention squad.

Downey, a 6-foot-3, 210-pound senior, finished as the Steers' second leading receiver, despite missing the last five games of the season with a knee injury. He finished the season with 28 catches for an 11.3 average.

Buske, a 6-foot, 230-pound senior, was one of the main reasons the Steer offense averaged more than 350 yards per game. He played tackle for the Steers, but was named to the second team as a guard by the Texas Sports Writers.

Wilbert, a 6-foot-4, 285-pound senior, was Big Spring's second-leading tackler this season. He finished a banner year with 114 tackles, 11 for losses, and two quarterback sacks.

Mayfield, a 6-foot-1, 212-pound junior, was Big Spring's all-purpose player. From his wingback spot, he caught 47 passes for 908 yards, and carried 134 times for 1,051 yards.

Saiz, a 5-foot-5, 179 junior, was Big Spring's leading tackler. The intense middle linebacker made 168 tackles, including 10 for losses.

Writers Association. They are defensive tackle Pat Wilbert (78) and middle linebacker Felipe Saiz (left background). Complete list of the team is on 2-B.

Tight end Rickey Dudley of Henderson is the Class 4A Player of the Year in balloting by members of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Dudley, a 6-7, 225-pound senior, caught 28 passes for 686 yards and 11 touchdowns for Henderson, which went undefeated in regular-season play.

Dudley picked up 33 of a possible 39 first-place votes and totaled 179 points in the player of the year balloting to finish ahead of Hereford guard Benny Gonzalez, Calallen guard Tom Crossland and West Orange-Stark running back Ron Hasley.

Class 4A runner-up A&M Consolidated placed three players on the first team, with Denison, Athens, Calallen, Bastrop and West Orange-Stark all gaining two first-team selections.

Linebacker Willie Mitchell, who really played defensive end, of Chapel Hill was the lone member of the 4A state championship club gaining first-team recognition.

Athens' Blake Armstrong is the quarterback on the 24-man first unit and is one of three juniors gaining first-team recognition.

Rams cut down Giants in overtime

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Traveling is getting to be fun for the Los Angeles Rams.

They are seeing the USA on a weekly basis, playing big football games. They're winning and getting closer to the Super Bowl, where the real fun begins.

The Rams moved within one step — albeit a massive one — of becoming the fourth wild-card team to make the Super Bowl when they beat the New York Giants 19-13 in overtime Sunday. After Flipper Anderson caught a 30-yard touchdown pass from Jim Everett to win it, his thoughts turned ahead. And back.

"This is what we wanted, what we were after, another shot at the 49ers," Anderson said of next Sunday's NFC title game against the defending champions at San Francisco. The Rams won there 13-12 this season, then lost 30-27 at home to the 49ers in Week 14.

"We felt we should have beaten the 49ers on Monday night," Anderson said. "We've been working to get another chance at them."

The Rams and Giants worked extra time Sunday — it was the first playoff overtime game for Los Angeles and New York's first since the famous 1958 NFL Championship game against Baltimore.

But this one didn't last long, thanks to Everett's throws and a pass interference call on cornerback Sheldon White that immediately cost New York 27 yards. One play later, it cost the Giants their third straight loss to the Rams when Anderson got behind Mark Collins.

"I don't think there was any question," Anderson said of the penalty on a slant-in pattern. "He got me. As soon as he reached for the ball, he touched me and you're not allowed to do that downfield. That's a penalty."

Not according to White and his teammates, who had kept the Rams' potent attack (No. 2 in the NFL in scoring) quiet most of the way.

"All I have to say is the ball wasn't even catchable," White insisted. "I don't even know if there was contact. The ball was five feet from his hands. Superman couldn't have caught that ball."

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Los Angeles Rams wide receiver Willie Anderson leaps for the 30-yard reception for the winning touchdown in overtime against the New York Giants. Defending is Giants cornerback Mark Collins.

"The call was made and we just have to live with that," said Lawrence Taylor, who sacked Everett twice — forcing one fumble — and was the Giants' best player. "All losses are tough."

"All of us don't want to lose in the playoffs. Especially on that (kind of call). That's the worst thing about it."

That depends on your perspective. "Those things happen in games and we, as coaches, have to accept that they will happen," Rams coach John Robinson said of the call. "It's happened before and it will happen again."

Field judge Bernie Kukar, who threw the fateful flag, defended the call.

"The defensive man did not play the ball. He played the man. The ball was still in the air, he wrapped up the receiver while the ball was still catchable. That is pass interference."

One play later, that was the ballgame. The Giants were blitzing and Anderson got a step on Collins, who had picked off Everett's pass on a similar pattern in the third period.

"It was called for a post (pattern)," said Anderson, who caught a 20-yard TD pass with 17 seconds left in the first half for a 7-6 lead. "The corner came up and tried to bump me, but I got off clean."

Anderson headed down the sideline because "that's what the play calls for" against Collins' coverage. "Jim just laid it up there. The ball was floating and I was just waiting for it come down. It came down pretty quick, I caught it and I was out of there."

Straight into the locker room, where Anderson thought ahead to San Francisco.

"I had about a half-minute alone," he said. "I thought about being one step from the Super Bowl. I was still jumping around when the guys came in and we all started jumping."

The Giants, 12-4 and NFC East champions, got the jump, taking a 6-0 lead on field goals of 35 and 41 yards by Raul Allegre. The kicker returned from the injured list Saturday.

Taylor's sack of Everett at the Giants' 11 caused a fumble that Gary Reasons recovered. It was the only turnover until Jerry Gray tipped Phil Simms' pass late in the second quarter and Michael Stewart grabbed it at the 49. He ran 29 yards with it and Everett needed one play to make it 7-6.

"We were being outplayed most of the half and we went in with a lead," Everett said. "That kind of told us we might have some breaks."

Before they got the big break, the Rams struggled with the ball. And they couldn't stop Otis Anderson, who capped a sensational comeback year with a season-high 120 yards rushing.

Anderson scored from the 2 to finish an 82-yard, 14-play drive for a 13-7 lead with 1:57 to go in the third quarter.

"I felt confident at that point," Simms said. "We were moving the ball and we were stopping them." They stopped stopping the Rams, however, as Everett (25-for-44, 315 yards) guided drives of 69 and 75 yards. Mike Lansford ended those drives with field goals of 31 and 22 yards.

Then came overtime. "This is a tough lesson," Giants defensive end Leonard Marshall said. "We are going to come back hard."

The Rams will come back next week, up the California coast. At least they don't have to traverse the country again.

"We've been on the road for a month now and we're exhausted," Robinson said, referring to his team's wins at New England to clinch the playoff spot, Philadelphia in the NFC wild-card game and here. "But we're not done yet."

Broncos avoid upset

DENVER (AP) — Dan Reeves thought his Denver Broncos were going uphill all day in the first step on their quest to reach their third Super Bowl in four years.

But John Elway and Melvin Bratton got them over the top Sunday and on to yet another meeting with the Cleveland Browns, whom they beat in two dramatic games to get to their first two NFL title games.

Bratton gained just 3 yards in 4 carries, but two of them were 1-yard touchdown runs, the last one literally over the top of the Pittsburgh line with 2:27 left. It gave the Broncos a 24-23 victory over a team they had beaten 34-7 on Nov. 5, limiting them to 170 yards in the process.

This time, the Steelers had 404 yards, racing over, around and through a Denver defense that allowed the fewest points in the league this season. The Steelers had leads of 10-0, 17-7 and 23-17 before Elway engineered the 71-yard, 9-play touchdown drive that led to Bratton's winning run.

So excited was Bratton that he misspoke a bit. "I'm glad I got it," he said. "In the past, every time I score the winning touchdown, we lose. I guess my jinx is off."

Indeed, there were few tears in either locker room as Pittsburgh concluded a remarkable season that began with two losses by a combined score of 92-10 and ended with five victories in the last six regular-season games. That finish gave the Steelers a 9-7 record and an AFC wild-card berth.

Then came a 26-23 overtime victory last week over Houston in the wild-card game and a dominating offensive game that all but duplicated a 24-17 upset here at the same stage of the 1984 playoffs.

"I don't have a whole lot to say, but I'm proud as hell of our football team," said coach Chuck Noll, who despite four Super Bowl victories in the 1970s was being vilified in Pittsburgh after a series of mediocre seasons and this year's horrible start.

"That's as much as anyone has moved the ball on us this year," Reeves said after Merrill Hoge gained 120 yards in 16 carries and Bobby Brister threw for 229 and a 9-yard TD to Louis Lipps. "I thought Bobby threw the ball better than I've ever seen him."

Elway didn't, but he did what he's done so well in the past — move the ball in the clutch, specifically on the drive that began with 7:06 left and the Broncos trailing 23-17. The drive ended with Bratton's winning score.

It began with an 18-yard pass to Mark Jackson, who had five catches for 111 yards from Elway, who

This Bo tries baseball

DETROIT (AP) — Bo Schembechler, who earned fame as the hot-tempered football coach at Michigan, will now devote his organization skills to baseball.

The 60-year-old Schembechler, who finished with the fifth-best Division I-A college coaching record in history (234-65-8), will become president of the Detroit Tigers baseball club early this week, according to a team official.

Schembechler, who wrapped up a 27-year football coaching career in Michigan's 17-10 loss in the Rose Bowl last week, will resign as Michigan's athletic director and succeed Jim Campbell as chief executive officer of the Tigers.

Curry leaving Tide

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama coach Bill Curry announced Sunday he is leaving the Crimson Tide amid reports he is heading for Kentucky.

Curry, 26-10 in three seasons at Alabama, was offered a three-year contract extension shortly after the Crimson Tide's 30-20 loss to Auburn on Dec. He was 0-3 against arch-rival Auburn as coach of Alabama and complained of mistreatment by the fans.

Bowden gets big pact

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State coach Bobby Bowden has agreed to terms on a lifetime contract that will double his salary to more than $600,000 a year, according to his agent and university officials.

The contract makes Bowden the highest-paid collegiate coach in the state and one of the best-compensated in the nation, interim Athletic Director Bob Goin said. Bowden had been earning about $300,000, but became second in the state when Duke's Steve Spurrier signed to coach Florida.

Azinger win TofC

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Paul Azinger capitalized on Ian Baker-Finch's last-hole mistake Sunday for a one-stroke victory in the Tournament of Champions, the opening event on the 1990 PGA Tour schedule.

Azinger won the event that brings together only the winners of 1989 PGA Tour titles with a final-round 69 and a 272 total, 16 under par on the La Costa Country Club course.

Bobsledder sets mark

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Matt Roy drove his four-man bobsled to a track-record time of 54.97 seconds and a first-place finish Sunday in the U.S. National Bobsled Championships at Mount Van Hoevenberg.

Roy, a Lake Placid resident and a World Cup champion in the 1987 four-man bobsled competition, piloted his sled to an overall time of 2 minutes, 45.48 seconds in three runs over the course.

Patrick saves the day

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick Ewing spoiled the Los Angeles Clippers' vision of turning their eight-game road trip into a garden party.

The Clippers, whose 114-105 victory at Boston Garden on Friday was their first there since 1979, did everything but stop Ewing on Sunday night at Madison Square Garden in the New York Knicks' 110-109 overtime victory.

Ewing had 44 points on 18-for-28 shooting, 22 rebounds and seven blocked shots for the Knicks. He also scored seven of New York's nine points in overtime, including a tiebreaking free throw with 6.6 seconds left.

NBA

"Thank God for Patrick Ewing," Coach Stu Jackson said. "Other than him, we gave a pretty lackluster effort. His drive and competitiveness really pulled us along."

Ewing, scoring an average of 29.6 points in his first 22 games, slumped to 22.6 in his next eight outings and saw his overall average slip to 27.7.

"My jump shots haven't been falling for a couple of weeks," Ewing said. "I've tried to get my points in other ways — followups, working around guys."

His scoring, rebounding and defense has put him among Most Valuable Player candidates.

There's no chance the Knicks would have beaten the Clippers and improved their home record to 14-1 if Ewing didn't have a big game.

points in the previous three games, scored three points, went 0-for-13 from the field and Ewing's game-winning free throw came after he was fouled by Clippers center Benoit Benjamin.

Ron Harper, who led the Clippers with 29 points, missed a driving bank shot at the buzzer that would have won it for Los Angeles.

The Clippers, who never led after halftime, came back from an 85-76 deficit in the fourth quarter to tie the score 99-99 with 31 seconds left on a free throw by Charles Smith, who had 22 points and 14 rebounds.

Ewing gave the Knicks a two-point lead with a turnaround jumper with 12.6 seconds left, but Smith again tied it, this time on a baseline jumper with 2.2 seconds remaining, forcing the overtime.

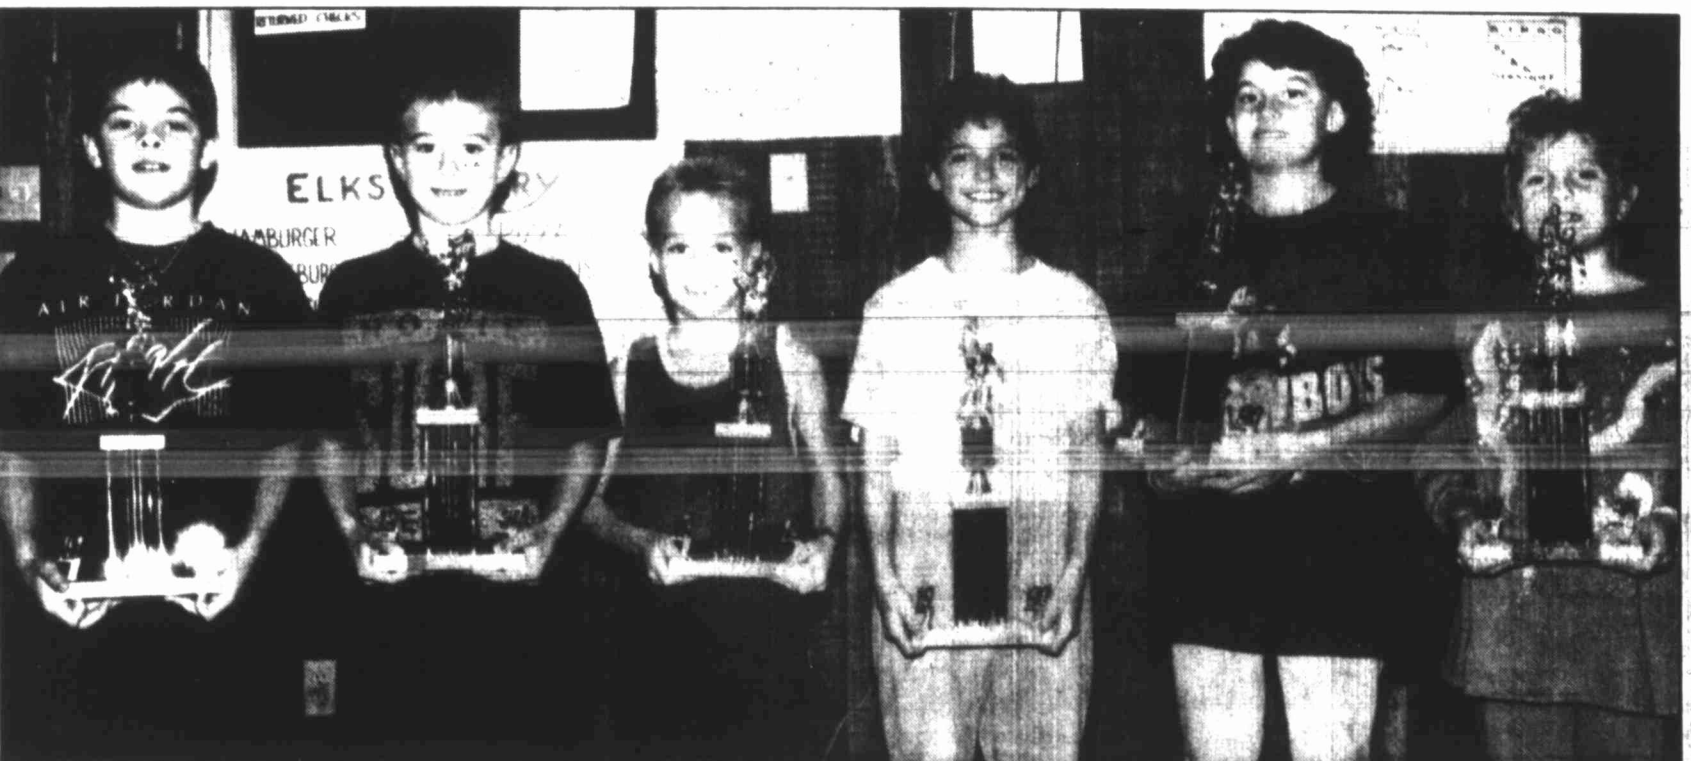

Ewing had three baskets as the Knicks scored eight of the first 10 points in the extra period for a 109-103 lead. But baskets by Danny Manning, Harper and Smith tied the score, with Smith's coming off a rebound with 26 seconds left.

The Clippers, 2-2 on an eight-game Eastern trip after losing their first 10 road games this season, have won only nine of their last 103 road games since 1977.

Nets 98, Hawks 93

Roy Hinson scored 20 points and Lester Conner added nine key points in the fourth quarter as New Jersey snapped a five-game losing streak. An 8-0 run that included a pair of baskets by Conner enabled the Nets to turn a 75-71 deficit into a 79-75 lead with six minutes remaining.

Joe Barry Carroll came off the bench to score 16 points on 7-for-8 shooting for the Nets, while Dominique Wilkins had 33 points and 15 rebounds and John Long 20 points for the Hawks.

Navy hires coach

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Marshall University coach George Chaump, who has never had a losing season in eight years of college coaching, was named today as the Naval Academy's 33rd head football coach, the military academy announced.

Chaump, 53, has been head coach at Marshall for the past four seasons, compiling a 33-16-1 record.

He will replace Elliott Uzelac, who was fired by Navy last month. Navy hasn't had a winning season since the Middies went 6-5 in 1982. They were 3-8 this past season.

Former Detroit Lions coach Darryl Rogers, William & Mary head coach Jimmy Laycock and Virginia assistant Tom O'Brien had been considered for the job, Navy spokesman Tom Bates said.

Former Phoenix Cardinals coach Gene Stallings withdrew from consideration after visiting the campus on Saturday, because the Naval Academy wanted a longer commitment from him than he was willing to make, Bates said.

"His winning percentage of 74 percent as a head coach speaks for itself," Naval Academy Athletic Director Jack Lengyel said in a statement today.

Davis a rich man

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eric Davis has a new home and a new $3 million-a-year contract. He hopes they help him feel better about Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati Reds made Davis the sixth $3 million player in baseball Sunday, agreeing to a three-year contract worth at least $9.3 million. Performance bonuses can boost the figure by as much as $250,000 a year, which would make Davis the top-paid player in the game.

Broncos

Continued from page 1-B completed 12 of 20 for 226 yards. It continued with a flea-flicker to Vance Johnson, a 37-yard touchdown pass 1:58 into the second half that tied the game at 17. Then Bobby Humphrey, who gained 85 yards in 18 carries to lead the Broncos, ran for 9, 5 and 7 yards to put the ball at the 2, leading to Bratton's decisive score on third down. "I think it was more of a thrill to win than a relief," Elway said. "We knew it would be a tough game and we were in for a dogfight." Indeed they were. Hoge, bulling his way through the Denver defense, had 75 yards in the first quarter alone as the Steelers moved to a 10-0 lead 1:38 into the second period. Gary Anderson had a 32-yard field goal at the end of a 13 play, 65-yard drive that consumed half the first quarter, then Hoge scored from 7 yards out on a sweep out of the shotgun to cap a lightning 5-play, 93-yard drive.

After Bratton got his first touchdown at the end of a 75-yard drive to cut the lead to 10-7, the Steelers came back with a 77-yard march of their own to make it 17-7 with 26 seconds left in the half. At that point, they had 251 yards, about their average for a full game this year and only 25 less than the Broncos allowed.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — The weight of office off his shoulders, Ed Koch now simply wants to take off weight. Just four days out of City Hall, the porky former mayor presented himself Thursday as the new pit-chman for a weight-loss powder, unabashedly touting its reputed benefits and his own overstuffed profile.

"I know I'm fat," he said. "I can tell you how I know I'm fat. I see myself in the mirror, naked. Horrible."

Koch's fatness is not news to New Yorkers, whom the mayor entertained with a series of celebrated and unsuccessful diets during his 12 years in power. Standing 6-foot-1, he gained 44 pounds in office, to 244 now.

ED KOCH BILLY JOEL

and has just released "Storm Front," his most successful album in a decade, but he said copyright disputes over some of his past songs have made his financial status questionable.

"For better or worse, your songs are your kids. Then somebody comes along and tells you that they're not your kids anymore. The bank is going to take your kid," he said.

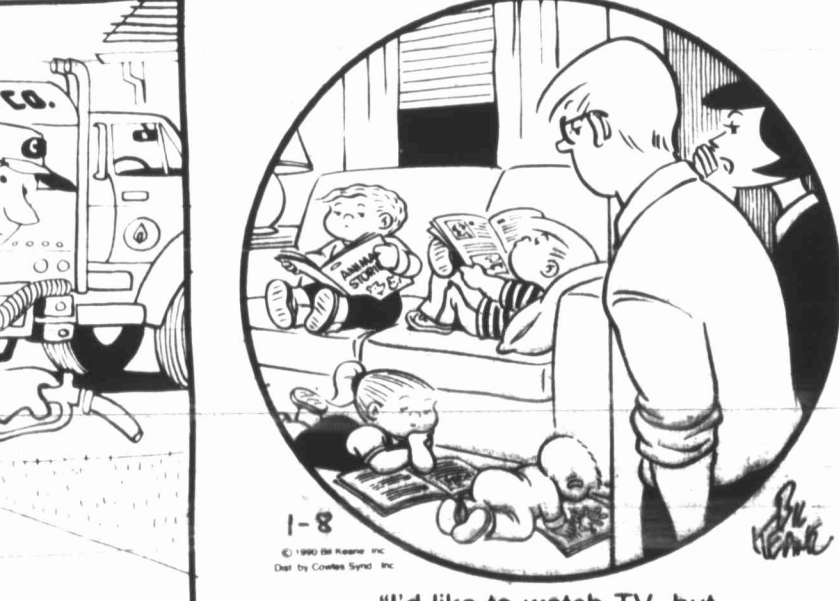

He said part of the problem is that artists are "knuckleheads when it comes to business. Money isn't why I did what I've done with my life. I did what I did because it made me happy. But I'm tired of getting it taken away from me by other people who haven't earned it."

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1990

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: President Richard Nixon, folksinger Joan Baez, quarterback Bart Starr, author Simone de Beauvoir.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your energy, time and space are worth protecting. Power is only valuable if you use it wisely. People see you the way you want them to see you. Entertain a friend in your home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A search for inspiration will be successful. Others are eager to jump on your bandwagon. Give love and you will get it back tenfold. Weigh all factors carefully before making a romantic commitment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Brilliant ideas roll in on the crest of your imagination. Sail into new ports of thought. Put your credit cards away; close friends will not permit extravagance on their behalf.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Do not allow trivial distractions to divert you from your objectives. You could get the romantic surprise of your life. An older person gives you good advice; follow it. Avoid squabbles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Unusual developments will add to your bank account today. An expensive burden is removed. A short business trip could prove lucrative. Resist asserting yourself at a social event.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Too much introspection could prove counterproductive. Exercise is a perfect antidote to the blues. Your mate or best friend is your strongest supporter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Greater tact and cooperation are necessary on the job. Money should not be risked for the lure of easy gains. Advancement in your work may be nearer than you think. Romance is highly unpredictable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep your eye on the ball at work. Rarely will the actions of others have such a profound influence on your life. You find a way to get what you want without ruffling feathers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have great influence with certain groups. Make sure you impact on them positively. Spontaneous gatherings work best. Your assets open doors to the art world.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Informal chats could lead to valuable business alliances. Take nothing for granted where romance is concerned. Be willing to visit new places and do new things to please your loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your ability to handle a difficult situation saves the day at work. Leisure hours will be interrupted by social duties. Your family deserves your full attention. Luck comes when you compromise.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your decisions are subject to change. Temper your desires and demands. In business, deal only with people you trust. Stick to a healthful diet no matter how many tempting dishes come into view.

Jones gets degree

LUBBOCK — Carey Don Jones of Coahoma was among 50 students receiving their bachelor's degree during Lubbock Christian University's 1989 December graduation ceremonies.

Carey, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Jones, graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in liberal arts.

Lubbock Christian University is a liberal arts institution dedicated to providing a quality education in a Christian atmosphere.

LCU offers 24 bachelor degree programs with an average enrollment of more than 1,000 students. The combination of large university quality and small college personal attention makes LCU an excellent educational choice.

Host families

The Youth Exchange Service needs host families from throughout the United States to host a group of international teenage students from five continents.

They are scheduled to arrive in mid-August and stay for six months.

Also, YES has students available who will arrive in August for the 1990-91 high school year. The 15- to 18-year old students are carefully screened, bring their own spending money, and are fully covered by insurance.

For information about becoming a host family, please write: Youth Exchange Service, 4675 Mac Arthur Court, Ste. 830, Newport Beach, Calif. 92660, or call toll free 800-533-2121.

Widower gives woman bad deal

DEAR ABBY: I am a petite, trim, attractive (I've been told), 60-year-old widow with a pleasing personality. I have been going with a successful, nice-looking widower for 18 months.

At the end of the first month, he asked me not to date anyone else, and I agreed not to if he promised me the same thing. He said, "Fine."

He painted glowing pictures of cruises he planned to take me on. I even went out and bought cruise clothes, but those trips never materialized. I finally pinned him down and asked him why he made such big promises but never delivered. He said, "Frankly, there are so many lonely women out there who would not only pay their own way to go on a cruise with a man — they would pay his way, too!" (Abby, this man brags that he has a net worth of $2 million!)

Now, after a year and a half of this affair, I have realized that he is never going to offer me anything more than his bed. He says he doesn't want to marry me because he expects sex daily in a lovely wifely fashion.

I finally told him I want out because I wanted a man who would love and cherish me as I did him, so we could grow old together. He said that at least we had companionship — someone to eat and dance with. Abby, this man wants a "good" woman by his side. Yet he offers a good woman nothing in return.

I have a name that is highly respected in this community. I have never had an affair in my life outside of this one. I truly fell in love with him.

He professes to be a good Christian. At Easter, there is always a large pot of spring flowers on her grave, but I don't even get one carnation. This makes me sad, because I am alive and can enjoy flowers, but I get none. Yet he continues to take flowers to her grave where nobody can enjoy them, but it looks good to the family and friends.

Dear Abby

Abby, I had a happy marriage and my husband was a wonderful man, but I don't spend every holiday at his grave, nor do I talk about him all the time. Why can't my husband leave the past in the past and get on with the future? This has created a barrier between us.

By the way, from what I've heard from neighbors and close friends, their marriage was not all that great. So what is he living with? — MARRIED BUT SO ALONE

DEAR MARRIED BUT ALONE: Possibly guilty. He may be trying now to make up for what he failed to do for his late wife while she was living.

Here's an up-to-date guide for formal church weddings, at-home weddings or second-time-around weddings. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Teachers get squiggly lesson

By TIM HALLEY
Bureau of Enterprise

PORT ARTHUR — Many could not give several teachers for being reluctant to get a grip on some "hands on" activities.

Elementary education professor Wayne Carley plopped earthworms in the lap of each educator to demonstrate the importance of "Ew!" and "Yuck!"

As the teachers poked at the long, wriggly creatures, Carley announced, "I want to show you another worm."

He eased the cover off a cardboard box, reached in the container and carefully lifted out a nine-foot long boa constrictor named "Julius Squeezer." The chorus of disgust over the night crawler grew into a startled crescendo of surprise over the sudden appearance of this 60-pound snake.

But with a few exceptions, most of the educators eventually gathered around to touch the snake's scaly back and to watch it slither across the carpet.

Fourth grade teacher Jan Sage even allowed Carley to drape the creature on her shoulders. Eighteen educators from DeQueen and Travis elementary schools in Port Arthur took part in another session of the Minority Mathematics and Science Education Cooperative at the Simms Center.

Port Arthur's 17 public elementary schools are taking part in the program to help elementary school teachers improve how they teach math and science to children who are black, Hispanic and Asian, Carley said.

To be eligible for the federal program, schools must have a mostly minority student body and low test scores. The cooperative program hopes to stimulate more minority children into considering careers in math or science.

A recent study by the National Science Foundation estimated the United States will have 675,000 job openings in math- and science-related fields by the year 2000. The country cannot rely on a large reservoir of white, middle-class men to fill those positions because that group is declining in number, Carley said.

"This is not just an altruistic effort to help little ghetto kids," Carley said. "It's now a matter of national economic survival that everyone get full educational opportunities."

The program also tries to improve the math and science knowledge of elementary school teachers, he said. Elementary schools have traditionally not stressed these areas, preferring to focus more on reading, Carley said.

Consequently, elementary education often attracts educators who suffer anxiety when it comes to math and science. This year's program focuses on the life sciences. Over the next two years, it will offer seminars in the physical sciences and mathematics, he said.

Teachers, principals and curriculum supervisors who attend the monthly seminars devise lesson plans. They in turn share these with other teachers at their school.

Chicken feed
