Driver sought

BIG SPRING — Some pretty fancy driving has police searching for a local person involved in a one-car accident.

According to a Big Spring Police Department report, a 1984 Ford pickup traveling west in the 500 block of Third Street landed on top of a city dumpster, causing an unknown amount of damage. The truck first struck a TU Electric lightpole, then a sign in front of the Tropics Bar, 508 W. 3rd, before going airborne to land on the dumpster, the report said.

Charges are pending against the driver, who fled the scene, the report said. The truck is owned by Red's Power Tongs, Big Spring, according to the report.

Mayor alleges illegal police gambling

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — Mayor Max Green has asked for a closed meeting of the City Council to discuss gambling allegations made against the police department.

Green told the Herald this morning he has asked for a Jan. 23 executive session of the council. He said that in the session he will review what he says is proof members of the Big Spring Police Department were running a so-called football board, a form of betting on games.

Green said a police department employee recently came to him with information that some department members were betting on games by purchasing "squares" on

GREEN

"Mr. (Sidney) Clark and myself both came to the agreement that the right thing to do would be to take it to the council," Mayor Max Green said. Apparently the council will hear only one side of the complaint at the meeting; Green said he will ask the council if it wants to set another executive session to allow the police department to answer the allegations.

COOK

a football board. Green showed the Herald a copy of a board for the Dec. 12 Dallas Cowboys-New York Giants football game. He said the board was made at the police department.

"I have witnesses on this," Green said. "This was the football board they had down there that they put money on the Giants and Cowboys game."

Police Chief Joe Cook apparently has not been informed of the allegations. Green said he has discussed the matter only with three councilmen: Sidney Clark,

D. D. Johnston and Tim Blackshear, as well as City Attorney Jean Shotts. Shotts confirmed he has been asked about a Jan. 23 executive session.

This morning, Cook said he could not comment on charges or complaints against the department that have not been made.

"We've heard the rumors," he said. "Nobody has made any kind of official complaint to the police department."

Green said he has not informed councilmembers Gail Earls, Pat DeAnda and Chuck Condray of the allegations or the executive session. Nor has he reviewed the complaints with City Manager Hal Boyd.

Boyd was not available for comment as he is on an out-of-town trip.

However, Green said he will provide proof to all the councilmembers during the executive session. The mayor said he considered taking the information to the Texas Rangers or to Boyd, but

School proposal increases funding

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

AUSTIN — A public school finance plan that would increase spending by $945 million next school year and $5.2 billion in five years would increase state funding for Crossroads Country schools.

The plan was approved 12-3 Saturday by the State Board of Education.

The plan was developed by the board in response to a 1989 ruling by the Texas Supreme Court, which declared 9-0 that the current finance system is unconstitutional.

The plan, which has a five-year price tag of about $15 billion, will be presented to the Legislature, which convenes in special session Feb. 27.

"We want to recommend to the Legislature something they will take seriously. And I just don't think a $15 billion request is going to be taken seriously," said board member Jane Nelson of Lewisville, who voted against the plan with Monte Hasie of Lubbock and John Shields of San Antonio.

Based on 1988-89 school figures, the Board of Education's proposal would increase state funding to districts in Crossroads Country in the 1991 school year, if the legislature passed it as written, said Joey Lozano, TEA public relations officer.

According to Lozano, Big Spring Independent School District could gain $1.3 million or $285 per student next year under the plan; Stanton Independent School District could gain $363,376 or $419 per student; Colorado Independent School District could gain $308,274 or $258 per student; Coahoma Independent School District could gain $219,868 per student; Sands Independent School District could gain $16,244 or $69 per student and Forsan Independent School District could gain $15,491 or $30 per student. Westbrook Independent School District would not gain or lose any state funds because it is a budget-balanced district.

BSISD assistant superintendent for business Ron Plumlee cautioned that the proposal's figures be taken with a grain of salt because the formula used to determine funding levels uses an inflated student count for the school district. Actual funding available for the district under the proposal could be less than the increase predicted because Big Spring has fewer students than the Board of Educa-

TV station films documentary on Gomez shooting

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — A national Spanish-speaking television station filmed an investigative documentary of the May 13, 1988 fatal police shooting of Sammy Gomez.

A 3-person reporting team from Univision, which is based in Laguna Niguel, Calif., arrived Thursday afternoon and stayed until Friday afternoon conducting interviews for a report which will air at the end of this month or in February.

Shortly after arriving, Producer

Maria Garcia said they wanted to detail events surrounding the shooting of Gomez by former part-time police officer Billy Ray Williamson who was exonerated by two grand juries, the most recent on Nov. 10.

The filming of the documentary comes a week after the national publication "USA Today" ran a Jan. 4 story on those events.

Williamson, who is now the city fire marshal, said he shot Gomez three times, once in the back of the head, in self defense. But national and local officials of the League of United Latin American Citizens suspect that a knife was planted on Gomez in an attempted police coverup.

The organization, saying that Gomez's civil rights were violated, is pushing for a federal grand jury to indict Williamson. The probe is being conducted in the federal building in Austin on Feb. 10.

"This is going to be a segment about seven minutes, a short documentary," Garcia said. "We want to tell the complete story in an objective way."

The news team interviewed

Williamson, LULAC officials and local Hispanic citizens for the film. They tried but were unable to contact the Mayor, the City Manager and the Police Chief.

Roy Bloom, a San Antonio-based reporter for the station who arrived Thursday with Garcia and a cameraman, said he began interviews Wednesday in San Antonio when he talked to national LULAC President Jose De Lara and Ruben Sandoval, an attorney representing the Gomez family.

Then in a Thursday night meeting, they talked with about 50

Hispanic citizens in Colorado City who have supported LULAC efforts in the case.

Local LULAC organizer Sara Ortiz described the meeting as a "(Phil) Donahue style" meeting. "It was people who have supported the LULAC case," she said of those present. "All the representatives from the West Texas councils were there."

On Thursday Bloom said that he planned to approach city officials unannounced on Friday to inter-

WASHINGTON — While federal prosecutors were moving to indict Panama's Manuel Antonio Noriega on narcotics charges, the Drug Enforcement Administration was maintaining close ties with him and offering praise for his cooperation in the war against drugs, a congressional report shows.

NORIEGA

"The DEA has long welcomed our close association and we stand ready to proceed jointly against international drug traffickers whenever the opportunity arises," drug enforcement administrator Jack Lawn wrote to Noriega less than a year before the indictment was entered in federal court in Miami in February 1988.

Lawn had special praise for the work of Luis Quiel, Noriega's liaison to the DEA, as "integral to the success of fighting international drug trafficking."

But according to the final report of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on narcotics, issued in December 1988, Quiel was also Noriega's liaison to the Medellin drug cartel and "thus in a position to alert the drug traffickers to whatever information the DEA had provided him."

Quiel also acted "as Noriega's enforcer to eliminate competitors of the Medellin cartel by turning them over to the United States," the panel said.

Lawn's predecessor as DEA administrator, Francis M. Mullen, told The Day newspaper of New London, Conn., last week that he had been surprised by Noriega's indictment because "he was our fair-haired boy down there."

"Whenever we'd ask him for help, he'd always give it to us," said Mullen, who left DEA in 1985. The report, issued in December 1988 after a three-year investigation, paints a vivid portrait of Noriega and his involvement with drugs, money laundering, gun running and other illegal activities over his 20-year rise to power as Panama's military strongman.

Fewer minority students in college

WASHINGTON (AP) — Low- and middle-income blacks and Hispanics have seen a "major regression" in college attendance since the mid-1970s, according to the American Council on Education.

Based on Census Bureau figures, the college-participation rate for dependent low-income black high school graduates between 18 and 24 years old dropped from 39.8 percent in 1976 to 30.3 percent in 1988, said the Eighth Annual Status Report on Minorities in Higher Education. For Hispanics, the rate fell from 50.4 percent to 35.3 percent over the same period, "indicating an educational failure rate of intolerable magnitude," said the report, released today by the council's Office of Minority Concerns.

Low-income white high school graduates made a slight gain in college participation, rising from 36.8 percent to 38.8 percent, the report said.

Older women face greater risks

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — By age 55, women are as likely as men to have high blood pressure, and more than half of American women that age have elevated cholesterol levels, the American Heart Association says.

In its annual statistical report, the association said Sunday that by age 65 women are more likely than men to have high blood pressure.

The most recent figures show that heart disease and strokes killed 976,706 Americans in 1987, almost as many as died from all other causes combined. That amounts to one heart-disease death every 32 seconds. Cancer, by comparison, killed 477,190.

The statistics were released Sunday at the opening of the association's annual science writers' forum, where scientists report on recent heart disease research.

The tally shows that more than half of all women ages 55 to 74 have blood cholesterol levels above 240, at which heart disease risk increases substantially.

Only one-third of men in that age group have cholesterol levels over 240, the association said.

Alarm awakens astronauts

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Columbia's commander today successfully tested a navigation system that had sounded an alarm and roused the astronauts from sleep.

The three phantom signals that triggered the alarm posed no threat to the mission, and the five crew members were busy with medical and science experiments today as they moved into the sixth day of their marathon 10-day flight.

Mission Control reported the fleeting signals were in a speed-measuring accelerometer that is part of what's known as an Inertial Measurement Unit, a key component of the shuttle's guidance system.

When the alarm sounded in the cabin as the astronauts slept, commander Dan Brandenstein woke up and asked the control center if there were anything he could do.

Controllers told him the spaceship computer had shifted to a second IMU, that everything was OK and to go back to sleep.

There are three such devices aboard. Only one is needed for a safe flight, but flight rules dictate that if one failed, Mission Control would consider bringing the astronauts home as soon as possible because of the possibility of a common problem in all three units.

When the astronauts were wakened at the regular time two hours after the alarm, they were told that scientists on the ground had monitored the suspect unit and had detected no further problems. Brandenstein was told to put it back in operation and realign it by aiming at two stars.

Agreement reached by drug-producing nations

SANTA CRUZ, Bolivia (AP) — The cocaine-producing countries of Bolivia, Colombia and Peru have agreed to launch, through coordinated use of their armed forces, an "unstoppable assault on drug traffickers."

The United States also signed the agreement Sunday for the increased anti-drug efforts, but South American delegates said the accord leaves out any language that might open the door to direct U.S. intervention in the fight.

The text of the plan will be kept secret until President Bush and at least two of the South American presidents sign it at a drug summit Feb. 15 in Colombia, officials said.

"We are very satisfied," said Michael Skol, a deputy assistant secretary of state who led the U.S. delegation. He declined to elaborate.

The agreement, reached after a five-day preparatory meeting, represents "an integral commitment by the four countries, which have proposed carrying out a frontal and unstoppable assault on narcotics trafficking," said Bolivia's foreign minister, Carlos Iturralde. He declined to elaborate.

recognizes the need for more U.S. economic aid to the South American countries, which in turn have committed themselves to a full-fledged military campaign against the multibillion-dollar cocaine industry.

"Until recently, we perhaps haven't wanted to accept the reality of narcotics trafficking," he said. Before, "we limited ourself to police action."

Under the agreement, the South American countries are committed to using "all the means they have available," including the armed forces, in the war on trafficking, he said.

His speech, which covered the agreement in general terms, concluded the meeting at 4:30 a.m. Sunday, one day later than planned.

A one-paragraph statement from the delegations said they "achieved the goals" set for them and expected a successful summit, which would adopt the "joint, integral and coordinated strategy against ... illegal drugs and their economic and social effects."

Delegates said the delay was prompted by arguments over how U.S. assistance should be directed.

Gorbachev can't sway Lithuanians

MOSCOW (AP) — Lithuania's Communist Party chief Algirdas Brazauskas was overwhelmingly elected the republic's president today in a clear endorsement of his defiant stand toward Moscow and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Brazauskas backed the Lithuanian party's decision Dec. 20 to break away from the national Communist Party, the first such break since the Communists took over in Moscow in 1917.

Gorbachev, who had denounced the move, visited Lithuania from Thursday through Saturday to try to persuade Lithuanian Communists to reverse their decision. The Lithuanians refused to budge and Gorbachev failed to end the schism. He concluded his visit Saturday by saying he saw "no tragedy" in a multiparty system — a change from his previous unconditional call for a one-party system.

Gorbachev pleaded for unity repeatedly but was confronted by pro-independence demonstrators at many stops. Public opinion strongly supports independence for the Baltic republic of 3.7 million, which was forcibly annexed by the Soviet Union in 1940.

Ferry capsizes; 100 feared dead

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Salvage workers today pulled up a capsized ferry and found 16 bodies in its hull, the government said. Newspapers said at least 100 people were feared dead after the collision with a cargo vessel.

Rescue workers called off the search for bodies at dusk, but hundreds of relatives of the victims still thronged the river banks.

The single-deck wooden ferry Ajmeri sank Sunday at the confluence of the Dhaleswari and Shitalkha rivers near Munshiganj, 20 miles southeast of Dhaka.

Police and other officials refused to say how many people were aboard the ferry.

Shipping Minister Korbal Ali told Parliament the ferry was brought to the surface about 15 hours after it capsized. Authorities said it sank in about 50 feet of water.

The government owned Bangladesh Times said there were 300 people on board, while the independent Ittefaq newspapers said there were 150. The ferry had a licensed capacity of just 60 passengers.

Bangladeshi ferries often carry far more people than their legal capacity, and the overcrowding has been compounded because a transport strike has halted bus service between Dhaka and Munshiganj.

40 wounded in holdup attempt

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — An explosive that robbers used to blast open a safe went off prematurely today, wounding at least 44 people during the holdup in a crowded post office, police said.

Many of the wounded were retirees lining up for pension payments, police said.

Police said the payments had just begun when at least three people, armed with rifles and pistols, stormed into the post office, fired shots in the air and shouted, "This is a robbery."

The bandits exploded a bomb to force open a safe where more than $500,000 had been deposited for the payments, Police Chief Luciano Cannarozzo said.

The bomb went off prematurely, apparently injuring one of the bandits, Cannarozzo said. The blast knocked down a wall and buried most of the money. At least 44 people were hospitalized, police said.

The bandits fled in two cars with an undisclosed amount of cash, a police officer said on condition of anonymity. Since most of the money was buried in the blast, the haul was believed to be only several thousand dollars.

The favorites headed to Super Bowl

Montana almost perfect as 49ers steamroll Rams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — On the third play from scrimmage, Joe Montana did the unthinkable. He threw a pass wide of Roger Craig. "Oh God, no," Montana said to himself. "Is this the way it's going to be?"

With Joe Montana? Of course not.

Three hours later, Montana had finished a 30-3 NFC title game victory over the Los Angeles Rams with just three more incomplete passes — 26 of 30 for 262 yards were the precise totals — and the San Francisco 49ers were on their way to New Orleans.

There, in two weeks, they will meet Denver and attempt to assure their place in NFL history by becoming the first team in a decade to win two straight Super Bowls and emulate Pittsburgh's feat of four Super Bowls in a decade.

And despite a defense that shut down the Jim Everett-Henry Ellard-Flipper Anderson combination that nearly matched San Francisco's passing statistics, and the running of Craig and Tom Rathman, the day belonged to Montana.

In addition to his overwhelming completion and yardage numbers, Montana threw touchdown passes of 20 yards to Brent Jones and 18 to John Taylor. Montana was 12 of 14 for 156 yards in the second quarter alone, when the 49ers blew the game apart with 21 points to go off 21-3 at halftime.

So well did his offensive line protect him that even on a muddy field he hardly had a mark on him — the most visible was a hand print where a teammate had patted him in congratulation.

And the defense led by Ronnie Lott limited Everett, the league's third-rated passer to just 16 completions in 36 attempts for 141 yards while picking off three passes. In fact, San Francisco outgained Los Angeles 442-156.

"It was," said Rams coach John Robinson, "as good a performance as I've ever seen from a 49er team."

The victory seemed to put the 49ers, 14-2 in the regular season and now 16-2 after two playoff victories by a combined 71-16, in a class with the three NFC champions considered the best of the decade — the 49ers of 1984, the Chicago Bears of 1985 and the New York Giants of 1986. They all had Super Bowl walkovers, the 49ers 38-16 over Miami, the Bears 46-10 over New England and the Giants 39-20 over the Denver team San Francisco will face in two weeks.

Sunday's game, in fact, was supposed to be a test for the 49ers against a team it had split with during the regular season — the Rams won 13-12 at Candlestick Park and the 49ers had to come back from two 17-point deficits to win 30-27 at Anaheim Stadium.

It started like it might be. Mike Lansford's 23-yard field goal on the Rams' first possession gave them a 3-0 lead and it looked like it might be 10-0 later in the first quarter when Anderson broke wide DENVER — Denver Broncos quarterback John Elway scrambles from the pocket during Sunday's AFC Championship game against Cleveland. Elway led the Broncos to a 37-21 win.

Elway and Broncos to try again

DENVER (AP) — This time, it will be different. This time, there will be no Super Blowout.

At least that's what the Denver Broncos believe. Never mind that they are 0-3 in the Super Bowl — only the Minnesota Vikings are 0-4. Forget that the San Francisco 49ers are 3-0 in the big game — only Pittsburgh has won four — and have been overwhelming all season.

Who cares that the 49ers are 10-point favorites after they blew out the Los Angeles Rams 30-3 while the Broncos were beating the Cleveland Browns 37-21 Sunday in the championship game? Or that the decade's most successful Super Bowl team will face its biggest flop in the NFL title game?

"I think our past Super Bowl experience will help us this year," John Elway said after his greatest playoff effort — 20-for-36 for a career playoff-high 385 yards and three touchdowns.

He might need another one to reverse Denver's habit of flopping with the NFL crown on the line.

"I've just got to try and repeat today's performance two weeks from now," he said. "I'll give it everything I've got and leave everything on the field."

Against the Giants and Redskins

"This is a new year and a new team," insisted Sammy Winder, who came off the bench to score two touchdowns against the Browns in his final home game.

"This is the best Denver team I have been associated with," said five-year veteran Steve Sewell. "We can do more on offense and more on defense."

Indeed, the Broncos were the stingiest team in the AFC, allowing 226 points. And they found a running game behind rookie Bobby Humphrey, who had 151 yards this season.

"We have a great deal of confidence," Vance Johnson added following Denver's third AFC championship game victory over Cleveland in four years, "and we're going to be very tough to beat."

So, of course, will the 49ers, beaten only twice all season. But the Broncos have made San Francisco their patsy lately, winning four straight against the 49ers.

And the Browns have been Denver's patsy in the AFC title game. First, there was The Drive, followed by The Fumble. On Sunday, it was The Superstar, Elway, aided by The Substitute, Winder.

"John was unbelievable," said Coach Dan Reeves, headed for a record eighth Super Bowl — one as a player with Dallas, four as a Cowboys assistant coach and three as head man in Denver. "People don't realize how great an athlete he is."

The Browns certainly do. Every time they pressured Elway, he scrambled and found a receiver. His biggest such play came on a 70-yard touchdown pass to Michael Young, making it 10-0.

"Part of the defensive plan was to put a lot of pressure on Elway, the way you want to pressure any great quarterback," linebacker Clay Matthews said. "The pressure worked. We flushed him out of the pocket a few times."

"But being as great as he is, he managed to make the great plays even with the pressure on him. It was frustrating having guys breaking through, looking like they were ready to make a sack, but he'd slip away and complete a long pass on the run."

Elway also hit Young for a 53-yard gain that set up a 5-yard scoring pass to Orson Mobley in the third period. The other touchdown pass came on a 39-yarder to Winder, who replaced the injured Humphrey (two broken ribs) in the second quarter.

"Michael Young is a great player," Elway said of the Plan B free agent signee. "I had a lot of confidence in him going into today's game, but after his performance today, I have even more. He is a big part of this offense."

Winder decidedly was not this season. He rushed for 300 fewer yards than Humphrey and didn't expect much playing time Sunday.

But he made the best of his opportunity for the 76,046 fans — the 8-year veteran has said he will retire — with his TD catch after Cleveland pulled to 24-21, and a 9-yard scoring run.

"I haven't lost confidence all year," Winder said. "This is simply sweet, to come in here and play today. This win today is by far the sweetest I hope to have."

It was yet another bitter defeat for the Browns, who have never been to the Super Bowl. Denver's defense held Bernie Kosar to 19-for-44 for 210 yards, three interceptions and sacked him four times. His only starring moments came on TD passes of 27 and 10 yards to Brian Brennan.

The other Browns TD was on a 2-yard run by Tim Manoa after Felix Wright returned a fumble 27

Glanville changes teams; but will keep same plan

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — Jerry Glanville may change his game-day garb as coach of the Atlanta Falcons next season, but he won't change the style of play he loves.

"We're going to attack you on both sides of the football," Glanville said Sunday after becoming the ninth coach in Falcons history — eight days after ending a four-year run in which he steered the Houston Oilers to the AFC playoffs three times.

"Living on the edge is exciting," Glanville said at a news conference. "We have a chance of accomplishing attack football."

He said that one thing Ken Herock, Falcons director of player personnel, wanted to know was whether Glanville would employ attacking football — a style that has come under fire from some other NFL coaches.

Glanville, known as the "man in black" for his sideline attire, infuriated some of his counterparts. He was once lectured by Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll after a game because of what Noll thought was dirty play by the Oilers. And Cincinnati's Sam Wyche said he regretted he didn't have more time to run up the score against Glanville when the Bengals beat the Oilers 61-7 last month.

Asked if he would continue to wear black during games, Glanville said, "I'm going to wear whatever Whitey puts in my locker," a reference to Falcons equipment manager Whitey Zimmerman.

Glanville, who had a 35-35 record in four-plus seasons with the Oilers, interviewed for the Falcons job two days before his Jan. 6 farewell from the Oilers in a joint news conference with owner Bud Adams.

"I initiated the interest here," Glanville said. "I asked for permission to come."

It will be Glanville's second stint with the Falcons — having served as a defensive assistant for six seasons beginning in 1977. He was a part of three of only five winning seasons posted by Atlanta in its 24-year history.

"I love Atlanta, I love living here, but that wouldn't have brought you back without the organization," he said. "Organizations get you there and keep you there more than players and teams."

He indicated that having Herock in the organization was one of the key reasons he took the job.

"I found a guy that is dedicated to doing one thing, and that's winning," he said of Herock. "I told my wife this would be the best job that I ever had, period."

Glanville replaces Marion Campbell, who concluded his second tour as Falcons coach four games from the end of the 1989 season when he announced his retirement. Jim Hanifan filled in as the interim coach, absorbing four losses as the Falcons ended a 3-13 season with a seven-game losing streak.

Atlanta finished in the NFC West cellar for the third year in a row and the sixth time in seven years.

"I'm most fortunate that I'm not coming in to rebuild a football team," Glanville said. "I think that the rebuilding started here years before I arrived. We can put together something that the entire city will be proud of."

He wouldn't predict what kind of record Atlanta fans might expect, but he did make one promise.

"What we will promise you is that right away we will hustle, we will chase, we will hit, we will be enthusiastic," he said. "I think that we'll put pride into everybody that's sitting in a seat. They'll be proud of what they'll watch. I can't guarantee you what that's going to add up to, but there will be pride in the city in the product we put out there."

Rookie wins in first try

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Credit 66-year-old Art Wall with an assist for the runaway triumph in the Tucson Open by first-time starter Robert Gamez.

Wall, the 1959 Masters champion who lives an hour's drive away, was offered a spot in the tournament field but declined and told tournament chairman Bud Corr "to give it to one of the kids."

And it was that spot, a sponsor's exemption, Corr said, that went to the 21-year-old Gamez, a former University of Arizona star not otherwise qualified for a place in the tournament field.

The youngster made the most of the opportunity, cruising to a four-shot triumph Sunday to become the first player since Ben Crenshaw in 1973 to score a victory in his first start as a member of the PGA Tour.

Gamez also had some help — unintentional help — from 14-year veteran Jay Haas and defending champion David Frost, Gamez' playing partners and closest pursuers over the final 18 holes.

"We couldn't put any pressure on him. He just kind of put it on coast," Haas said of the young man who passed up his final year at Arizona to join the pro tour.

Playing on the TPC at Star Pass, a rolling expanse of desert highland that served as his home course during his college days, Gamez took command with a two-stroke swing on the seventh hole.

A birdie by the rookie and bogeys by Frost and Haas gave Gamez a five-shot lead and shifted the pressure from him to the more-established players.

Frost began to hit it all over

TUCSON, Ariz. — Robert Gamez watches a putt slip past the cup during the third round of the Tucson Open at Star Pass. Gamez went on to take a four-stroke win in his first PGA tournament.

Bill Sander, Corey Pavin, Dan Forsman and Davis Love III were next at 275. Sander closed up with a 65. Pavin, Forsman and Love shot 69.

Rice Owls near top

By The Associate Press

The Rice Owls are making a strong bid as surprise team of the year in the Southwest Conference basketball chase.

The Owls beat Texas Tech and Baylor on the road last week to join Texas A&M and Houston one step behind the league-leading Arkansas Razorbacks and Texas Longhorns. Rice, Houston and Texas A&M are 2-1.

Arkansas and Texas are cruising along with 4-0 league ledgers. They don't meet until Jan. 25 at 6:30 p.m. in Fayetteville in a nationally televised (ESPN) showdown.

In games Saturday, Rice beat Baylor 65-62 on D'wayne Tanner's three-pointer at the buzzer, Houston drilled winless Texas Tech 83-63, and Arkansas overcame a 10-point deficit to down Texas Christian 93-79. In a game outside the conference, Texas lost to fourth-ranked Oklahoma 103-84.

In games this Wednesday, Arkansas is at Southern Methodist, Houston is at Baylor, Texas A&M is at Texas and Texas Christian is at Rice.

On Saturday, Arkansas is at Texas A&M, SMU is at Rice, Houston is at TCU, and Baylor is at Texas Tech.

Arkansas was stunned at halftime, trailing TCU 40-32.

It also helped the Horned Frogs, that Arkansas' leading scorer, Todd Day, was benched in the first half for missing a 10:30 p.m. curfew on Friday.

Day scored 17 points to lead the Hogs' comeback.

The Cougars have won three consecutive games with a balanced scoring attack as the Red Raiders suffered their fourth consecutive conference loss.

Texas shot a shoddy 38 percent in losing to Oklahoma.

Dressler made a brief challenge in the 18th mile, but Trujillo kept the lead and withstood her only challenge of the race. Pilkington earned $29,000, including a $4,000 bonus for leading the race at the 20-mile mark. In addition to purchasing donuts for his students, Pilkington may use his first marathon victory earnings to return to school. Pilkington started the race in a group of leaders that eventually became a two-man race, with Trujillo finishing a second-place finisher in the 20-mile race. Trujillo was forcing the pace most of the race. Negata started falling back and Pilkington decided it was time to make his move in the final six miles. Negata, who won her fourth marathon, said she was aware of the bonuses as they came up. Trujillo charged, Trujillo called the 1989 Houston Matathon, when she was passed in the final mile and finished third. Laverne Achenbach, 47, Birmingham, Ala., won the wheelchair race in 1:50:38.

Bowl victor

The West took the opening shot, but ran only two plays before the East's Odell Haggins recovered the fumble. The State recovered a fumble at the West 21. Five minutes later, Thompson scored a touchdown. The West quickly evened the score after Jones' punt return on a 40-yard scoring pass from Taylor of California to Tim Taylor of Washington State. Taylor's field goal by John Taylor of Arizona put the West ahead 19-2 at the end of the first quarter. It was the East's turn for a punt return, this time by Butler. Thompson went for a 15-yard and a touchdown on the play. Four minutes later, Butler intercepted a pass by Mike Gundy of Alabama.

Thompson is from Alabama and Butler is from Iowa. Melvin Bratton is from Iowa. He expects to win. "I expect to win," Bratton said. "We step on the field, we win." Against the defending champions, whose road back to the Bowl was a lot easier than in previous years. Against a team that had Minnesota and Los Angeles, the squads.

"We have played consistently well in 11 games," Reeves said. "I think we have a chance to compete in the game. We don't just want to go down there (to New Orleans), we want to go down there and win. The time, I'm going to get the job done."

Reeves said cornerback LeRoy Irvin of the Rams, who made the team as a wild-card team with a record of 11-6, then completed nearly 18,000 miles of travel to play off victories over the Redskins and the Giants. "Joe Irvin is the best at the two-minute drill," Irvin added.

"I'm just about everything else," Irvin said. "I'm down a bit in the second quarter when San Francisco settled for a field goal of 28, 36 and 25 yards. Mike Cofer, Craig and Kevin Smith, who had 63 yards in 10 plays, included the bulk of the work. The coach Joe Montana shows is the trigger man."

"Our mission isn't complete," Irvin said. "The Rams talk about it but we didn't talk much this year. We just wanted to play 49er football and that's what we played. If they play it in New Orleans in the weeks, into the history books."

Hot Portland back on track

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers knew they needed to do some rebounding, and they delivered in two ways. Drexler matched two season highs with his 13 rebounds and 36 points. Drexler's 16-for-25 shooting helped the Trail Blazers overcome a 13-point fourth quarter and 23 turnovers, six over their average, as they beat New Jersey for the eighth consecutive time since Dec. 7, 1985. "The game I had was just a matter of taking advantage of matchups and my teammates giving me the ball where I could score a lot," Drexler said. "We showed a lot of character in coming back after that tough loss at Detroit." The Trail Blazers lost 111-106 to the Pistons on Saturday night, snapping a six-game winning streak. "I knew we would have a letdown after that tough loss," Adelman said. "But it was good that we didn't play well tonight and still won." New Jersey also had a road game Saturday night, a 98-96 loss to Cleveland, but Coach Bill Fitch refused to let fatigue be an excuse. "It's not the back-to-back games, it's weaknesses in our character and abilities," Fitch said. "We are linked on the court, but we are not together. When we play together, we can be a pretty good team." Drexler scored 16 points in the third quarter as Portland extended a 10-point halftime lead. A three-point play by Drexler gave the Trail Blazers an 84-66 advantage with 1:34 left, their largest margin of the game to that point.

It was a celebration of Campbell Soup's 20 billionth can of tomato soup. The company said the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul were perfect for Tuesday's observance because the metropolitan area has one of the highest per capita rates of tomato soup consumption in the nation.

Also attending the ceremony were Rita Moreno and Delia Reese, both singers and actresses and former Campbell spokeswoman; Jack Scalia, star of the "Wolf" TV series and a former worker in Campbell's production plant in Sacramento, Calif.; Marion Ross, a former Minnesotan and mom on the old TV series "Happy Days."

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Jehan Sadat, widow of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat came to Omaha to help raise money for the Center for Human Nutrition at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and to talk on "Women and World Peace."

Mrs. Sadat's appearance Tuesday at a dinner and a luncheon talk Wednesday grossed about $75,000 for the nutrition center, said Mrs. C.L. Landen Jr., a chairwoman of the events. Mrs. Sadat is a visiting professor at American University in Washington, D.C., and the University of South Carolina.

Divorce and money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A greater share of elderly women will be divorcees in future years and they generally will have fewer financial resources than older women who are married or widowed, researchers say.

"Older women living outside marriage, especially those who are divorced, experience much lower standards of living than married women," Teresa Cooney, Peter Uhlenberg, and Robert Boyd, of the University of North Carolina, reported in the January issue of the Journal of Gerontology: Social Sciences. Divorcees are less likely to have owned their own homes, have fewer assets to fall back on and may lose assets accumulated during years of marriage, they said.

A historical study of divorce rates indicates that a much larger proportion of those reaching old age in the future will have been divorced, they said.

One woman in eight will have her first marriage end in divorce after she reaches 40, with the probability of remarriage after divorce declining sharply with age, the study said. In 1985, for example, fewer than 3 out of 100 divorced women aged 45 to 64 remarried during the year.

"If current rates persist, only a minority of women who enter midlife divorced, or who divorce after midlife, will ever remarry," Uhlenberg, Cooney and Boyd said. They projected that by 2025, no more than 37 percent of white women aged 65-69 will be in first marriages, compared to 47 percent now.

Stressful walking

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Fast, hard walking may be fine for elderly men but too stressful for elderly women, especially because of biological changes from menopause and osteoporosis, according to a new study.

"Elderly women tend to be more fragile in terms of the musculoskeletal system than men," said Michael Pollock, director of the University of Florida Center for Exercise Science, who tested 28 women and 22 men age 60 to 79.

"While all subjects showed dramatic improvements in aerobic capacity and stamina, six participants were injured and five of those were women," he said.

The researchers believe post-menopausal changes leading to significant loss in bone density are the primary factors in the difference between the sexes.

Researchers divided participants in the six-month study into moderate- and high-intensity groups, all walking 35 to 50 minutes three times a week. Pollock said the 12 percent injury rate among the fast walkers isn't alarming.

The overall injury rate is comparable to that found in a previous study on 40- to 55-year-old fast walkers, he said. But the injury rate was significantly lower than the 57 percent rate found with elderly joggers in an earlier study.

"As people walk faster and faster, there is more pounding on the body and stress on the joints and trunk area," Pollock explained. "As people age, their bodies can't handle the jarring and pounding."

But he still endorses moderate walking as an excellent exercise, noting participants increased their aerobic capacity by 20 percent and showed marked improvement in stamina as measured by time they could perform on a treadmill.

"Walking is nearly an ideal exercise for the elderly. Its lower intensity and impact forces make it safe and adaptable to their needs. And it is simple, requiring little in terms of skill, facilities or equipment," he said, adding that elderly walkers should increase speed slowly and gradually over months.

The elderly also should pay more attention to warm-up and cool-down periods and add flexibility exercises, like gentle stretching, to their regimens.

SCHOOL'S OPEN	SENIOR CITIZEN Of The Week CHARLEY KELLY	RESTAURANTS	RESTAURANTS	RESTAURANTS
	I would like to recognize my husband, Charley Kelly as outstanding senior citizen of the week. However I can't do this without recognizing his dear friend Walter Huse. These two men have devoted much of their time since they retired to visiting the sick, shut-ins and nursing homes. They drive friends to the doctor both in town and out. They have helped people that are down financially to be able to get back somewhat on their own, I am proud of these two senior citizens.
