Financial aid

BIG SPRING — Big Spring High School will host a financial aid workshop Thursday at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria for parents and students from area high schools including Ackerly, Stanton, Garden City, Coahoma and Colorado City.

Representatives from Texas Tech, Angelo State University and Howard College will explain how to fill out applications for financial aid and how to apply for scholarships. The program will last about an hour and a half. Last year more than 100 students showed up for the workshop.

Bush's barometer

LUBBOCK (AP) — Lubbock's city fathers have taken their role as President Bush's national bellwether seriously. Since last March, when Bush told the nation that residents of the South Plains city strongly support his policies, the city has commissioned a monthly opinion survey.

The survey is sent — express mail — to the White House. Bush sometimes reads it on weekend retreats at Camp David, Md.

The poll does back up Bush's assertion that Lubbock residents overwhelmingly approve of his policies of more than 90 percent.

More petitions out

BIG SPRING — Two more people have filed to carry parts of a recall election petition aimed at removing Mayor Max Green from office.

Mary Becerra filed an affidavit for pages of the petition on Monday afternoon and Randall Earnst filed one this morning, according to the city secretary's office. The two join Craig Olson, Gary F. Smith, Karen Shirley Fraser, City Council members Pat DeAnda and Gail Earls, Robert L. Noyes and Carie Dunnam, who began the effort last week.

The petitioners said in their affidavits that they are unhappy with the way Mayor Green handled recent allegations or harassment, incompetence and illegal gambling made against the city police department.

The nine have until Feb. 22 to gather 894 signatures of registered voters living within the city limits. If enough valid signatures are collected, the city will hold a recall election within 25 days.

If the mayor is recalled from office, the City Council will appoint a new mayor to fill Green's term, which expires in May 1992.

Bush wants $4.5 million for new prison

By DAVID HAWKINGS
Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Bush has proposed building a new minimum security camp for 150 prisoners on the grounds of the Federal Prison Camp in Big Spring.

In submitting his federal budget for fiscal year 1991, the president asked Congress for $4.5 million to complete the project. Bureau of Prisons officials said the funds would pay for construction of a Level 1 camp without a perimeter fence.

Level 1's are the least secure type of facility in the prison system. The original Big Spring industrial work camp facility, designed to accommodate 482 inmates, was opened a decade ago with that rating but much of it since then has been upgraded to a slightly more secure Level 2.

Prison camp should be upgraded by August

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring Federal Camp should be upgraded to a low medium security facility by August, officials say, and further upgrading and improvements may also be forthcoming.

The prison camp mission change from Level 1 to Level 2 should be completed by August, Prison Superintendent Phil Spears said today. The prison will hire 23 new employees for the mission change and $8 million has been allocated to make the adjustments necessary for the changeover, he said.

Bush asked for the Big Spring construction funds as part of a $33.2 million request for expanding inmate capacity at five existing facilities by 815 beds. The others are in El Paso and Bryan, Tex., Tyndall, Fla. and Terre Haute, Ind. In total, the Bureau of Prisons submitted a $374.3 million construction program of new buildings and renovations that would add 4,925 prison beds for sentenced criminals and 1,250 beds for those accused and awaiting trial.

Not counting certain special construction funds, the prisons bureau is seeking a budget increase of almost 20 percent, or $233.2 million more than fiscal year 1990 spending, which lasts through September.

More than $49.6 million would be spent hiring 883 new workers for 14 new prison facilities scheduled to open in the next budget year, which begins in October. Officials said that includes $2.5 million to pay the salaries of 45 new employees the Big Spring camp will be able to hire in July 1991, when a new 240-bed minimum security dormitory is scheduled to open. There is $4.5 million in the current federal budget for that project.

Almost 40 percent of the new money, or $91.6 million, would be spent hiring 4,000 new workers, most of them corrections officers, "to expand staffing levels at existing overcrowded institutions," the department said.

The projected operating budget for the Big Spring camp in 1991 has not yet been calculated, officials said.

"This year's budget proposal builds on the substantial increases provided to the department in the past two years," Attorney General Dick Thornburgh said in a short appearance at the Justice Department.

Officials to fight military closings

By DAVID BRIGGS
Associated Press Writer

The Pentagon's plan to close or scale back 72 U.S. military installations has riled officials in large cities and small towns. Targeted communities nationwide are mobilizing to "fight like the dickens" to avoid the cuts.

California would be the hardest hit under Defense Secretary Dick Cheney's proposal, with 10 bases employing more than 35,000 servicemen and 22,000 civilian workers slated for closure or reductions.

But the closings also would hit hard in communities such as Charlestown, Ind., a southern Indiana town of 5,700 where the Defense Department plans to mothball a munitions plant and lay off about 900 workers.

"It's the only place a lot of the people have worked," said Mayor Bob Braswell, who once worked as a security guard at the Indiana Army Ammunitions Plant. "They've worked there all their lives."

In announcing his $292.1 billion fiscal 1991 spending plan Monday, Cheney called for Congress to "have the guts" to make tough decisions about closing military bases.

The response in affected communities came quickly.

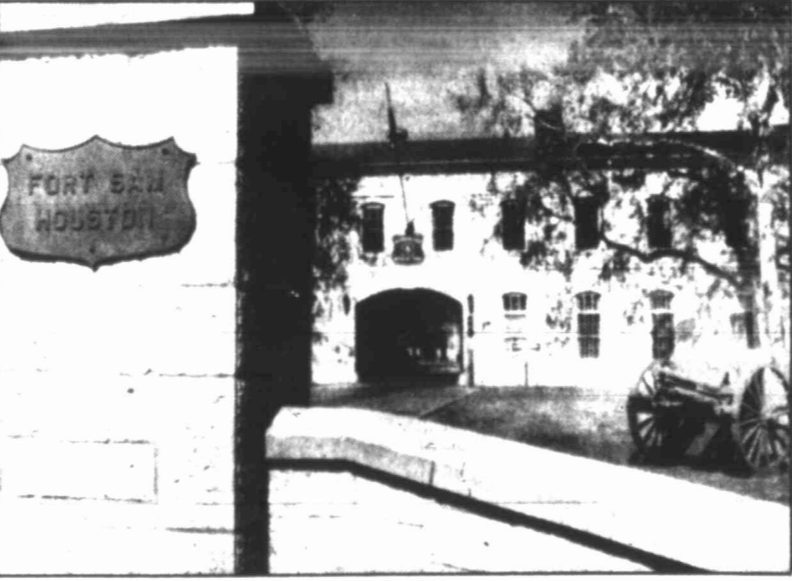

Pennsylvania's two Republican U.S. senators, John Heinz and Arlen Specter, showed up outside the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard, pledging to fight the recommendation that the yard be closed.

"The Philadelphia Navy yard is a winner," said Sen. John Heinz.

Tune: Politics closed Webb AFB

By ERIN BLAIR
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — With the end of the Cold War threatening the survival of four military installations in Texas, now might be the time to rethink the political significance of the closing of Webb Air Force Base thirteen years ago.

So says Tommy Tune, TOMMY TUNE director of community education at Howard College, in a paper soon to be published in the 1989 Permian Historical Annual.

Tune, born and raised in Big Spring, wrote the paper as part of a master's degree in history he is pursuing at the University of Texas — Permian Basin. It details the hearings held in Big Spring on Nov. 5, 1976 to determine the fate of the air base. His conclusion is that political cards were stacked against the base long before the city and the Air Force met to talk over the plan.

Based on analysis of the recordings of the hearings, Tune said the city argued convincingly for keeping Webb an active base. The Air Force had announced six bases as candidates for closure, the two least efficient of which would be closed. A series of city representatives led by Mayor Wade Choate used the Air Force's own criteria to defend Webb's viability, while urging the closure of Columbus AFB in Mississippi and Craig AFB in Alabama.

"Basically the Air Force picked six bases and let the regional

Martin commissioners table road decision

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

STANTON — Martin County Commissioners decided Monday to table again a decision on whether to maintain a road within the city limits of Midland.

The owner of a two-mile section of 1150 N. in Martin County has been trying to get either Midland or Martin County officials to take over ownership of the road since 1984 when about 3/4 of it was annexed along with some other property by Midland.

Real Estate developer T.C. Tubbs said he spent $80,000 to build the caliche road before trying to give it away and has spent about $30,000 more to rebuild it two more times since then. The road accesses ranches and about 200-300 oil wells in the area, he said.

Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport said Tubbs' request may be on their agenda again for the Feb. 12 meeting. "It readily could be," he said.

"We're not anxious to take over maintenance on it because it would take over a 20 mile drive to get equipment to it," he said. "It doesn't tie up with any other roads in the county."

"We'll just wait and see what develops with the city of Midland," he said. "The major part of that road is in the Midland city limits."

Tubbs said he plans to be at the commissioners next meeting to let them know of Midland's intention to grant them permission to accept the road as a right-of-way.

He said he has been in contact with Midland Director of Planning Dick Hennessy on that subject. "It has not at this point been presented to (the Midland City) Council," Tubbs said.

Hennessy said this morning, "It's being discussed at a staff level. We haven't reached a point in determining how it should be proposed."

Army emergency: Medal shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is trying to fill a shortage of medals to give its infantrymen who fought in Panama.

"When we looked ahead, we didn't anticipate needing the ones for Panama," said Shari Lawrence, a spokeswoman for the Army Personnel Command.

The shortage of the combat infantryman's badge cropped up at Ford Ord, Calif., where officials are several thousand shy of the coveted three-inch medals.

To meet the unforeseen demand, the Defense Personnel Support System in Philadelphia has placed an emergency order to Lordship Industries in Hauppauge, N.Y., for 10,000 medals.

"We did an expedited buy," said Frank Johnson, a spokesman for the system. Fort Ord will receive 2,500 medals by March 3.

Johnson estimated roughly 13,000 infantrymen are eligible to get the badges.

The three-inch badges, which cost 90 cents each and are emblazoned with a wreath and a rifle, are awarded to infantry officers and enlisted soldiers who "satisfactorily perform the infantry operations in active ground combat," Lawrence said.

FDA limits use of Red No. 3

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today banned many uses of the color additive Red No. 3, saying studies have shown that in very high doses it causes cancer in laboratory animals.

The action prevents further use of the dye in some cosmetics, drugs and foods. However, because the risk is considered small, the FDA said consumers may continue using existing supplies of products that already contain the color additive.

Red No. 3 still has some approved uses in foods and drugs, but the FDA said it is in the process of extending the ban to cover those.

The FDA has been studying the additive for 30 years. Under pressure from industry groups and members of Congress, the agency has been reluctant to impose a ban.

"The actual risk posed by Red No. 3 is extremely small. However, federal law in this area is clear," said Dr. Louis Sullivan, secretary of the Health and Human Services Department.

'Robin Hood' pleads guilty to theft

BALTIMORE (AP) — The real estate agent dubbed "Robin Hood" pleaded guilty to stealing at least $4.75 million from the federal housing program and then said she is optimistic, even if her future includes prison.

"I'm prepared to accept what comes my way. I have no fear," said Marilyn Louise Harrell, who entered her plea Monday in U.S. District Court. "A lot of my friends and former employees are ex-offenders, and they're fine people."

Harrell, 46, of the southern Maryland town of Waldorf, had said she gave much of the money she had stolen from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to charity.

"I really truthfully consider it an honor to give up years of my life to help some of the people I've helped," she said.

But U.S. Attorney Breckinridge Willcox said that by April 20, when Harrell is set to be sentenced, "my assertion that she has been her own biggest charity will be fact."

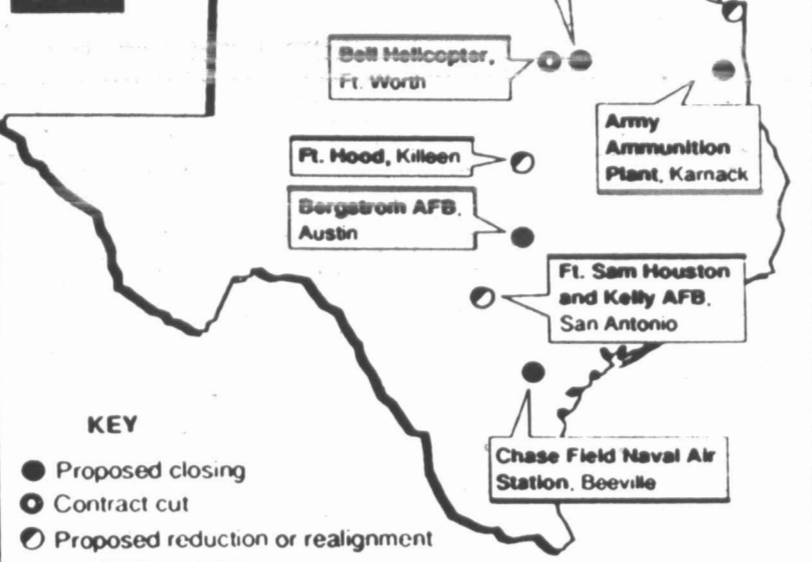

In addition to stealing government property, Harrell pleaded guilty to lying on her tax returns and to federal officials.

Harrell said she pleaded guilty because she did not want to spend taxpayers' money on a trial.

Prosecutors dropped two other tax counts, two counts of lying to HUD officials, and one count of lying to a bank on a loan application.

She could be sentenced to a maximum 13 years in prison and fined $500,000.

Texas Defense Cuts

Defense budget not invulnerable to cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Dick Cheney must convincingly argue that his $292.1 billion military budget is the proper U.S. response to changes in the Soviet threat, members of Congress say, and even then lawmakers may be unwilling to go along.

"The defense budget is no longer a sacred cow," Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., a senior member of the House Armed Services Committee, said Monday after Cheney spelled out his military spending plan for fiscal 1991.

The defense secretary, citing a diminished conventional threat from the Warsaw Pact nations and budget constraints at home, proposed an increase from this year's $286.8 billion in outlays to $292.1 billion — a 2 percent reduction after adjusting for anticipated inflation.

But at the same time, Cheney emphasized that the Soviet Union continues to modernize its strategic forces and the United States cannot abandon its own high-tech weapons such as the B-2 stealth bomber and the Strategic Defense Initiative.

"In my view, Congress will be more likely to go along with these tough decisions if Secretary Cheney can give us a clear vision of where defense policies and programs are going over the next five years in light of the changes in the threat and our overall strategy," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The budget includes $4.5 billion for SDI, popularly known as Star Wars. The total represents a $1 billion increase over last year when Congress adopted — and the administration accepted — the first reduction in spending for SDI since President Reagan introduced the antimissile shield six years ago.

The budget also calls for $1.2 billion to involve the U.S. military more deeply in Bush's anti-drug war and to give a 3.5 percent military pay raise.

The document envisions a smaller U.S. military force, paring 38,000 men and women from the 2 million in uniform, primarily from attrition in the Army and the Air Force. That step would bring the active duty force down to roughly equal its 1980 size.

Ship sinks in English Channel

LONDON (AP) — A Greek-registered ship carrying 19 crew members and a load of cement apparently sank in a storm in the English Channel, the coast guard said today.

The coast guard said two lifeboats and a life raft from the ship Flag Theofano and two bodies washed ashore on England's south coast. One body was identified as a Greek crew member.

The coast guard said the vessel left Le Havre, France, on Monday afternoon for Southampton with its crew of 11 Greeks, seven Maldivians and one Egyptian. The last contact with the ship was at 7:35 p.m. Monday, the coast guard said, and no mayday call was received.

A Royal Navy diver searched the water five miles south of Portsmouth where the coast guard said an oil slick, air bubbles and a rope attached to something below the water's surface were found.

Divers were waiting for the weather to improve to begin their search for the 324-foot-long, 1,184-ton ship.

Drug cartel surrenders dynamite

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Drug traffickers surrendered 2,200 pounds of dynamite, saying they wanted to show they are sincere in seeking peace with the government, and claimed to be preparing to free a kidnapped Colombian diplomat.

The cocaine barons said Roberto Garcia-Pena, the country's former consul in Miami, would be freed with a peace message for President Virgilio Barco, who declared war on the traffickers five months ago.

Colombia has since been terrorized by attacks blamed on drug gangs that have claimed at least 209 lives.

The dynamite, packed in a bus, was found in Medellin, the northwestern city that is a hub of the drug trade. The traffickers telephoned reporters to offer the reasons they were giving up the explosives.

Their statement on the kidnapping, delivered to the RCN radio network, said Garcia-Pena was abducted Friday in Bogota and would be freed today with the message for Barco.

The statement was signed by the Extraditables, the name adopted by the cocaine barons, who are trying to force the government to abandon extradition of Colombians wanted on drug trafficking charges in the United States.

Gold reportedly in Swiss account

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — A former policeman said he helped escort 40 tons of gold to Switzerland so it could be deposited in Nicolae Ceausescu's bank account, the state news agency said today.

The official Rompress news agency quoted an unidentified former police official who said he was on a September 1980 flight that carried 25 tons of gold ingots and an October 1980 flight that carried 15 tons.

The gold, escorted by security officers and finance ministry officials, was loaded in trucks in Zurich in the presence of Romanian diplomats, the police official reportedly said.

He estimated that Ceausescu had deposited about $400 million in gold in Swiss banks, but other sources put the figure at $1 billion dollars, Rompress said.

Swiss lawmakers have pledged to help in tracing hundreds of millions of dollars that Ceausescu reportedly hid in Swiss or other foreign banks, but said there was not yet proof of any money had been transferred to Switzerland.

Henrich Rittmeyer, a Swiss lawmaker who visited Bucharest in mid-January, said the process of finding Ceausescu's missing millions could be difficult.

He added that if Ceausescu had smuggled a fortune out of Romania, it was "probable" some of it could be found in Swiss accounts, but said the process could take years.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Plans are in the works for Paul McCartney to headline two huge rock concerts for the homeless, but they could be snagged by homeowners' concerns about noise and traffic. The concerts would take place this spring at Memorial Stadium on the campus of the University of California at Berkeley. Mayor Loni Hancock and university spokesman Ray Colvig confirmed Wednesday. The promotion company Bill Graham Presents has promised the city at least $100,000 of the proceeds to help Berkeley's homeless, said Peggy Sullivan, a spokeswoman for Hancock. The

PAUL MCCARTNEY CLINT EASTWOOD university would get a similar amount and divide it between homelessness and classical music projects, said Colvig.

PARK CITY, Utah (AP) — Clint Eastwood, paying tribute to Sergio Leone at a film festival, said one of the joys of working with the late Italian director in the 1960s was that he lacked Hollywood's ingrained self-censorship. "Sergio was not afraid to attack things that were forbidden," Eastwood said. "For instance, you couldn't show a character getting shot. Sergio didn't know that, so he went ahead and filmed it." The only Italian word Eastwood knew was "arrivederci" and the only English Leone knew was "goodbye," the actor told movie buffs Wednesday at the Sundance United States Film Festival. As a result, Eastwood said, "I just did my own thing and Sergio went along with it."

astound you. End a relationship that is unwarranted.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You and your mate can do pretty much as you please today. Visit neighbors, but telephone first. Long trips are best postponed. Make needed purchases but avoid spending more than you can afford.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Grades rise once students find themselves. Extracurricular activities enjoy favorable influences. Get involved in a community project you feel strongly about. Romantic partner's words are revealing.
