Hawks ranked No. 1 in nation

By STEVE REAGAN

BIG SPRING — It was business as usual Tuesday afternoon on the basketball court in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Calm prevailed despite the recently released poll naming the Howard College Hawks the number one team in the nation.

The Hawks rose to the top in the Associated Press Junior College Top 20 poll released Tuesday. Howard received 204 total votes and 14 first-place votes. Southern Idaho, which had been number one, fell to second, receiving five first-place votes.

Although some teams might have received the news with wild celebration, the Hawks accepted the honor with a business-like calm, as if taking their cue from coach Steve Green.

"We're proud of being number one," Green said. "It's a great reward for the things the team's accomplished to this point... but we had some time to prepare for it. We started out seventh and began moving our way up. Perhaps it was inevitable we'd be number one if we kept winning."

"We're on the borderline of being..."

MOSCOW — Well-known eye surgeon Svyatoslav Fyodorov, an observer at the Communist Party Central Committee meeting tells reporters outside the Kremlin Wednesday that party leaders have agreed to relinquish their guaranteed monopoly on power.

Communists OK plan to allow rival parties

By DEBORAH G. SEWARD
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Communist Party leaders today agreed to surrender their monopoly on power guaranteed by the Soviet Constitution, allowing rival parties to compete for the first time in seven decades, a delegate said.

The reported vote by the powerful party Central Committee was a victory for President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who had urged his fellow party members to face voters and earn the right to rule. Svyatoslav Fyodorov, a famed eye surgeon and participant in the three-day meeting in the Kremlin, said the committee agreed to support abolishing the constitution's Article 6, which guarantees power to the Communist Party.

"Article 6 will no longer be, there will be a multiparty system. There will be a normal democracy," Fyodorov said.

Both hard-line Communists and reformers had criticized Gorbachev's platform, with hard-liners complaining he was going too far and reformers saying he failed to go far enough.

Populist leader Boris N. Yeltsin cast the only vote against the platform, Fyodorov said, apparently because it was not radical enough. Yeltsin on Sunday addressed a huge crowd that gathered outside the Kremlin to demand reforms, and he promised to present the demands to the Central Committee.

There also was one abstention, Fyodorov said. There were few major changes in the document Gorbachev presented to the Central Committee on Monday, he said.

The 249-member Central Committee was joined in the meeting by more than 700 other officials from around the Soviet Union, and all were allowed to vote on the platform, he said.

The official news agency Tass said debate at the closed meeting resumed today but did not give details.

Sources inside the Central Committee meeting said the policy-making body would recommend to the Supreme Soviet parliament that it delete Article 6.

The Supreme Soviet could take up the issue at the meeting next week, or after the party's Congress, when the Central Committee agreed to move up to summer from October.

C-City first to try suspects under new drug charges

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

COLORADO CITY — The trial of three defendants for illegal investment of controlled substances may be the first time the charge is being prosecuted in West Texas, said 32nd District Attorney Frank Conard.

Conard and two of the three defense lawyers in the trial, which began this morning, said it is the first time they will be part of a case involving the charge, which is part of the Texas Controlled Substances Act. The act forbids investing money in drug operations, Conard said.

"It's against the law to invest funds when you know that those

"It's against the law to invest funds when you know that those funds are going to be used to commit the offense of possession of controlled substances." — District Attorney Frank Conard.

funds are going to be used to commit the offense of possession of controlled substances," he said explaining the drug statute.

"It's the first time that I ever tried it. It's the first one that's been tried in West Texas."

The act was passed by the Legislature in 1981 and was amended in 1983 and 1989, said Jana Miller, Texas assistant attorney general. Last year's changes went into effect Sept. 1, she said.

On trial today, Thursday and maybe Friday are three of five people arrested in connection with a Sept. 28 reverse sting operation in which $75,000 in cash, 100 pounds of marijuana and 27 guns were confiscated. Police Chief Bobby Sparks called it the biggest drug bust in the city's history.

Robert Hudgins, 37, Colorado City; Larry J. Barber, 40, Big Spring; and William Edmond Moore, 51, Big Spring, are accused of purchasing marijuana from an undercover investigator with the 143rd Judicial District. Two other people arrested in connection with the incident will be tried later.

If found guilty, the three could be charged with from five to 99 years or life in prison or fined $50,000-$1 million, Conard said.

During jury selection on Tuesday, Moore's attorney, Frank Conzel of Colorado City, said he had never defended a client on these charges. "This is sort of a maiden voyage for me," he told the jury panel.

Hudgin's attorney, Glen Aaron of Midland, said it is his first time too. "I've never tried one of these cases in state court," he said.

A check with area judicial districts showed the charge has not been tried in the 143rd Judicial District either.

"We seize vehicles and we seize money all the time but we have never had a forfeiture case or a criminal case arising out of a matter involving illegal investment," said 18th District Attorney Rock Hamby. Hamby has been the district attorney covering Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties since 1977.

Price of mailing a letter heads for 30 cents

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Mailing a love letter, paying the phone bill and chewing out your congressman likely will cost more next year — postage rates appear headed up again.

The Postal Service is poised to launch the long, complex process of raising prices on March 6.

Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank says a 30-cent stamp seems likely for first class mail in 1991, although the final price could be from 28 cents to 32 cents. First class postage rose to the current 25-cent rate on April 3, 1988.

If things follow the normal course, the new charges would take effect about 11 months after the filing, or in February 1991. Frank doesn't expect the new proposed raise to play well.

Noting a 5-cent increase would be a 20 percent raise, substantially above the 14 percent he projects that consumer prices will have risen from 1988 to 1991, Frank said recently he was "committed to paying back to the American people that 6 percent" difference.

To do that, he has pledged to keep future increases below the inflation rate and said Tuesday, "We may very well be able to hold increases in rates after the 1991 adjustments to one more increase in the balance of this century."

The Postal Service managed to operate about $404 million in the black for the first quarter of this fiscal year, but the agency expects a record $1.6 billion deficit on the full year ending Sept. 30. The postal service is required to break even over the long run. Frank has cited a number of reasons for the planned 1991 rate increase.

"We were required in 1988 and 1989 to contribute $900 million to deficit reduction even though we don't use a penny of tax money. Health benefit costs are out of control — a problem we share with the private sector," he said.

The first official step in raising rates will be taken March 6, when the Postal Service's board of governors is to vote on the proposed increase.

The independent Postal Rate Commission then will ask for comment — that should produce tons of reports and appeals from various interest groups.

It then will be up to the Postal Service board to put the new rate into effect.

Frank's comments came in a Jan. 25 speech to the Economic Club of Indianapolis. The Postal Service made a text of his remarks available Thursday.

Frank has said he wants to lengthen the period between rate increases, but his efforts have been complicated by federal budget woes. The Postal Service was separated from the federal government in 1971 and its tax subsidies were eliminated.

It was returned to the federal budget in the 1980s, when the agency was showing a surplus. It then ever, will be considered by the Postal Service Board of Governors when it meets March 6.

Covenant House leader removed

NEW YORK (AP) — Church authorities have directed the Rev. Bruce Ritter to relinquish his duties as director of Covenant House while they investigate allegations that he engaged in sexual misconduct with a young runaway.

Ritter, the Franciscan priest who founded Covenant House and has seen it grow into the nation's largest shelter system for runaways, reasserted his innocence Tuesday, even as he found himself the subject of new charges.

In a statement, Ritter said he had decided to take several weeks off so he could rest and recuperate from stress. Later in the day, however, church officials said they had instructed him to relinquish his duties.

Franciscan officials "have directed Father Bruce to begin a period of rest and recuperation without responsibility for Covenant House until this inquiry is completed," their provincial leader, the Rev. Conall McHugh, said in a statement. A spokesman said he had no idea how long that may be.

Ritter, 62, had not considered resigning.

'Official English' law dumped

PHOENIX (AP) — Arizona's voter-approved "Official English" law is kaput. Finis. Finito. Terminado.

U.S. District Court Judge Paul Rosenblatt threw out the law on free speech grounds Tuesday, and Gov. Rose Mofford — the only person with legal standing to appeal — said she would let the ruling stand.

"I am happy the courts ruled it unconstitutional," Mrs. Mofford said in a brief statement. She said she considered the law, which made English the state's official language, "flawed from the beginning."

Backers of the measure said the Democratic governor should appeal the decision, noting a state court had upheld the measure's constitutionality last year and because similar laws in 16 other states had been allowed to stand.

Republican state Attorney General Bob Corbin said he believed any ruling that changes the state's constitution should be appealed as high as possible, but he said he would abide by Mrs. Mofford's decision.

The initiative, approved 580,830-569,993 in the 1988 election, required state and county governments to conduct all business in English, with certain exceptions in education, public health and safety, the justice system and federal election law.

The judge said the amendment would have forced lawmakers "to either violate their sworn oaths to obey the state constitution ... or to curtail their free speech rights."

Selma trustees ease tensions

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — The school board reinstated a black superintendent and closed the schools today to ease racial turmoil that raised discordant echoes from this 1960s battleground of the civil rights movement.

With the 25th anniversary of the Selma-to-Montgomery voting rights march only a month away, white officials appeared close to bowing to the key demands of black protesters.

The six white members of the Selma Board of Education reinstated the city's first black school superintendent, Norward Roussell, and urged the five black board members who had

SELMA PROTESTORS quit over Roussell's treatment to return.

German leaders plan unification

By TERRENCE PETTY Associated Press Writer

WEST BERLIN (AP) — The West German government today created a select committee to prepare for eventual German reunification and agreed to pursue immediate talks with East Germany on using a single currency.

Rudolf Seiters, Chancellor Helmut Kohl's chief of staff, said the committee began its work immediately under the chancellor's leadership. Other panel members include Cabinet ministers in Kohl's government.

Seiters said the panel will examine all the steps and decisions necessary for unification, including creation of a monetary union, East German economic reforms and legal questions, as well as issues of foreign policy and security.

He made the announcement after Kohl's Cabinet met to hear the chancellor's proposal for urgent talks with East Germany on uniting the two nations' currencies, which would be a giant leap toward reunification. A monetary union would make the West German mark East Germany's currency and turn over much of East Germany's economic sovereignty to West Germany and its central bank.

Kohl, under domestic pressure to relieve the influx of thousands of East Germans seeking better jobs and housing in the West, said Tuesday: "People in East Germany must see now that citizens of West Germany are ready to help."

Nonetheless, new signs are emerging that both German states may have to make huge sacrifices to rescue East Germany's ailing economy.

A newspaper quoted officials as saying that under reunification, West Germany would have to pay billions to salvage East Germany's economy.

In East Berlin today, three leftist opposition movements agreed to join forces and campaign as a coalition for East Germany's March 18 elections, said the ADN news agency. The three are New Forum, Democracy Now and the Initiative for Peace and Human Rights, said ADN. New Forum is East Germany's best-known pro-democracy movement.

Three conservative opposition groups, including the Democratic Awakening, have also joined forces for East Germany's first free elections.

Kohl said details for talks with East Germany on reunification would be worked out when Premier Hans Modrow of East Germany visits Bonn next week.

Kohl did not give a deadline for the monetary union, but government sources said on condition of anonymity that Kohl shared Finance Minister Theodor Waigel's view that it should come before the end of the year.

Bush's China policy criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a report harshly critical of the Bush administration's policies toward China, the human rights group Asia Watch says repression of Chinese dissenters is deepening despite the lifting of martial law.

The findings, largely mirroring a still-confidential State Department report on human rights violations in China, come as Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger was appearing today before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to defend the administration's China policy.

Some in Congress believe the evidence of Chinese repression makes it even more difficult for Bush to defend his current efforts at rapprochement, just eight months after the brutal crushing of the pro-democracy movement.

Eagleburger has been at the center of Bush's secret policymaking, traveling on two clandestine trips to China with national security adviser Brent Scowcroft in the months since the crackdown.

The administration, since the massacre of protesters in Beijing last June 4, "has reverted ... to a shabby double standard inferior as the question of human rights in China is concerned," the Asia Watch report concluded.

Pro-apartheid group to protest

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The pro-apartheid Conservative Party said today it will stage protests and strikes to drive President F.W. de Klerk from power and block his plans to share power with blacks.

Koos van der Merwe, chief spokesman for the Conservatives, the main white opposition party, said de Klerk deceived South African whites by suddenly legalizing the African National Congress guerrilla movement and more than 60 other anti-apartheid groups.

He said de Klerk's National Party would not be able to retain power in the face of a white backlash.

The Conservatives are pushing for a new election. If de Klerk rejects that proposal, the party would organize "stay-at-home" campaigns or general strikes that would bring the country to a halt, van der Merwe said.

"We will keep the pressure on him ... until he has no choice but to call a general election," he said. If large numbers of whites joined a general strike, they could bring the government to a standstill, halt most transportation and shut down businesses, schools and hospitals.

The president also said the government would soon release Nelson Mandela, the jailed ANC leader, unconditionally. But he did not give a date.

Baker urges Czech free elections

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The United States wants leaders at a proposed 35-nation summit meeting this year to enshrine free elections as a fundamental human right, Secretary of State James A. Baker III said today.

Baker said the United States, the Soviet Union, Canada and the 32 countries of Europe also should join in sending observers to monitor upcoming balloting in Warsaw Pact countries "to ensure that people power elections of 1990 genuinely represent the will of the people."

A crowd of a few hundred watched the ceremony quietly.
