Chamber banquet

BIG SPRING — Tickets for the annual banquet of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce can be obtained for $12.50 from the chamber, said Wayne Moore, chamber executive vice president. Speaker at the banquet will be Spike Dykes, head coach of the Texas Tech University football team. The program will include awards and recognition of volunteers. There will also be recognition of last year's chamber president, Hooper Sanders, and the new president, Don Reynolds, whose term began Jan. 1.

About 450 people are expected to attend the banquet, Moore said. There are 592 members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Admission to the banquet, at which chicken cordon bleu will be served, is open to the general public. There will be a 6 p.m. reception in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum of Howard College, followed by a 6:30 p.m. meal.

More drug busts

BIG SPRING — Narcotics officers with the Big Spring Police Department made their third drug bust in two days, arresting two people and seizing about a pound of marijuana. Officers with the narcotics, criminal investigations and patrol divisions executed a search warrant Monday night at 607 Aylford, according to a police department press release. Investigators found about 1 pound of a green, leafy substance believed to be marijuana, the release said.

Officers also seized several hundred dollars believed to be derived from illegal drug sales and a loaded .45-caliber semiautomatic gun, the release said. The weapon, found near the drugs, is being checked by serial number and is believed to be stolen, according to the release.

Two people were arrested at the house, the release said, and both were charged with possession of marijuana over 4 ounces, under 5 pounds. They were identified as:

Robert Delgado Jr., 31, 607 S. Aylford; and Grace Aguilar Delgado, 24, 607 S. Aylford.

Both persons remain in custody in the Big Spring city jail. Their arrests followed the arrests of three people on Sunday morning who were charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. In those arrests, police said sizeable quantities of a substance believed to be cocaine were seized.

Lt. Terry Chamness said all five arrests were the culmination of lengthy investigations that happened to end at the same time.

"They had some information and it all came together," Chamness said. "They've been working on this stuff for months. It just kind of came that way."

"It just so happened they got the information, they'd been working on it, and they have been able to put all the information together the last few days."

Although the busts resulted in five arrests, Chamness said he doesn't think the investigations will put a significant dent in Big Spring's illegal drug market.

"It never has and it never will," he said. "There're enough (drugs) out there... that we could work a six-man drug unit. There's just too much money involved in it that it's real tough to stop."

"It's not just Big Spring — drugs are everywhere."

City Council approves tax abatement

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — New businesses may get a tax break — the City Council agreed on Monday to adopt a tax abatement program.

During a regular meeting, the council also agreed to hold special elections for the adoption of sales tax increases, and they approved increases in sanitation service rates.

The council passed 5-0 the first reading of a resolution adopting a tax abatement program. Councilmen D.D. Johnston and Sidney Clark were not present at the meeting.

City Manager Hal Boyd told the council that the abatement program, which would be conducted in conjunction with the other taxing entities in Howard County, will establish a reinvestment zone. The program would forego taxes for up to 10 years on certain new businesses or existing businesses that expand, according to a draft of the abatement policy.

"They are accepted and reviewed on an individual basis," Boyd said of businesses seeking an abatement. Also, he said, each entity has the right to accept or reject an abatement request.

Besides the city and Howard County, Big Spring ISD and Howard College are considering a tax abatement program.

Wayne Moore, executive director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, told the council that an abatement program will encourage economic development in the county. The reinvestment zone established in Howard County, he said, will encourage small businesses to develop or expand because the program's lower limit is $500,000. Most programs require an investment of at least $1 million to qualify for tax abatement, Moore said.

"It levels the playing field for those companies interested in tax abatement," Moore said of the program's ability to attract businesses. "Many firms have their own check list and tax

Man sentenced in C-City drug trial

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — Robert Hudgins, 37, Buford, was sentenced Monday by a 32nd District Court jury to 23 years in the state penitentiary and fined $75,000 for illegal investment in controlled substances.

Hudgins, who was arrested Sept. 28 in an undercover reverse sting operation involving 94 pounds of marijuana, may serve only 23 months before being eligible for parole, said 32nd District Attorney Frank Conard.

Colorado City Police Chief Bobby Sparks has said the drug bust was the largest in the city's history.

"I think with the (magnitude) of the offense it should have been higher," Conard said. "I suggested the range of 50 to 99 (years)."

Hudgins' attorney, Glen Aaron of Midland, said he may appeal the case after reviewing it for errors.

"I feel like there's probably a good chance that we will appeal the case," he said. "We'll go back and evaluate those things to see what our likelihood is of going up on appeal."

However, Conard said he may bring additional charges of perjury against Hudgins to a Feb. 23 grand jury because of testimony in this trial about his service record that was not corroborated by government records.

Hudgins testified Thursday that he joined the Marine Corps in 1969, served two tours of duty in Vietnam, and was awarded three purple hearts, a bronze star and a good conduct medal. A record obtained by Conard, however, showed that Hudgins served from 1972-76, was never in Vietnam and was only awarded the good conduct medal.

"We intend to present to the grand jury evidence of aggravated perjury," Conard said.

"Unfortunately that caught me by surprise," Aaron said of the contradiction between Hudgins' testimony and the record produced by Conard. "There was simply no way to get to federal records."

In addition, Hudgins has already been indicted on four other drug-related charges by an Oct. 27 Mitchell County grand jury in connection with the September drug sting, including aggravated possession of 96.5 grams of methamphetamine.

Conard has said no decision has

BIG SPRING — "There's none of us that are looking for any glory," said the 67-year-old, who sat in a wheelchair because of a hip injury. "But if someone does think of us, we appreciate it."

The veteran, who did not give his name, said he appreciated the Salute to Hospitalized Veterans being sponsored by the VA Medical Center this week. Entertainment and other activities offered by the center are part of an annual national event honoring the roughly 60,000 hospitalized veterans in the United States.

The man with the hip injury said he has spent about five years in hospitals since World War II.

Although he was injured during the American invasion of Guam, the veteran said, he does not feel any bitterness toward the Japanese who fought the Americans.

"If a person is Christian," he said, "you don't get mad at somebody and stay mad at them forever."

Monday at the VA Medical Center, Jody Nix, a country-western musician, and Toots Mansfield, a former world champion calf roper, both from the Big Spring area, provided entertainment on a volunteer basis for about 70 hospitalized veterans.

Fires scorch county

HOWARD COUNTY — Volunteer firefighters responded to two fires in the past 24 hours, responsible for scorching thousands of acres of grass, destroying a building and sending at least two firefighters to a local hospital with smoke inhalation.

An early Tuesday morning structure fire in a rent house and storage area for the Wendell Shive Gin Company located near the Shive cotton gin in Coahoma destroyed the building and several pieces of equipment, causing unspecified damages, said C. Roy Wright, fire chief for the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department.

There is no way to know how much damage was done until fire officials can talk to the owner of the building, who is currently out of town, but the structure was a complete loss and several pieces of equipment including a tractor and a front loader were also destroyed, Wright said.

"There was quite a bit of equipment, trailers and other pieces of equipment that were damaged also," he said. The cause of the fire, which started in the southwest corner of the building, is still unknown at this time, he said. The blaze was one of two large fires volunteer firefighter fought since Sunday, and Wright said the structure fire's intensity made it one of the most spectacular fires he has seen in some time.

Wright said he is aware of one volunteer firefighter who was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center for smoke inhalation after the fire, but said he is unaware if anyone else suffered any injuries because of that fire. An incident report in the Howard County Sheriff's Office said two firefighters were taken to Scenic

Water district eyed

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Forming an underground water district in Howard County could allow local farmers to gain political clout and make sure their underground ground contamination concerns are taken seriously by state officials, proponents of the plan told Howard County Commissioners Monday.

Knott farmer Lloyd Robertson and other farmers in that area told commissioners they believe forming such a water district could help in their struggle to get Texas Railroad Commission officials to prevent further underground contamination.

The number of contaminated wells in Howard County has grown in recent years, and some type of action needs to be taken to prevent further contamination, Robertson told the commissioners.

Robertson talked about the merits of forming an underground water commission, which he said

Moutain. Volunteer firefighters from Sand Springs, Silver Heels, The Tubbs Addition and three units of the Big Spring Fire Department joined the Coahoma volunteer firefighters in attempting to extinguish the blaze, Wright said.

Firefighters were also busy about 2:30 p.m. Monday after a large grass fire started about four miles northeast of Coahoma and quickly spread across a property Wright identified as the Stewart Ranch. The fire scorched about 4,000-5,000 acres of grassland and also destroyed some fence on the property, but caused no other damage, he said.

Sand Springs and Tubbs firefighters were joined by Mitchell County units, including firefighters from Lorraine, Westbrook and Colorado City. The Mitchell County fire units proved valuable to assisting the Howard County firefighters because the ranch is near the county line and the Mitchell County units were able to act quickly, Wright said.

He praised the cooperation of the Mitchell County firefighters. A Howard County volunteer was taken to Scenic Mountain for smoke inhalation and exhaustion following that fire, Wright said. The cause for the fire is still undetermined, he said.

Fraser honored at college homecoming

BIG SPRING — Nearly 200 alumni and friends attended Howard College's homecoming gala, A Night of the Arts, Saturday night.

State Representative Troy Fraser was honored as a distinguished alumnus by the college. He spoke briefly on the value of the education he and his wife Linda had received at Howard.

"Linda and I represent the image of what community college is all about. She had an older sister and I had an older brother who were in college and our families could not have afforded to send a second child to a senior college. Howard enabled us to get two years of college in and out of the way that otherwise would have been very difficult," Fraser said.

"At the time, Mr. King, Mr. Reese, Mrs. Star Warford, Mr. Grant, Mr. Dudley, Mr. Simms and Mr. Smith had no way of knowing how much influence they had on me, how they were role models to students," he said. Fraser attended Howard in 1968-69, studying science and mathematics, before transferring to the University of Texas at Arlington.

The event, held on the floor of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, featured art, music and drama in addition to supper and the presentation. Melinda Anderson's art students hung their most recent works on the walls and the Night Hawks played swing and big-band jazz. Howard's singing group, the New Dimensions, also performed.

Members of the drama department performed the "slapstick" scene from Neil Simon's "California Suite." Alumnae Stephanie Dobbs and Kimberley Beckam delivered the dramatic monologues they'd done for Miss Texas pageants in which they'd competed. Alumnae Steve McLaughlin, who now attends Angelo State University, did a monologue from "I Never Cried for My Father."

abatement is part of the check list. For those firms that haven't looked at us in the past, this will be an attraction.

"It doesn't guarantee you something, it just gives you the opportunity to enter that playing field."

Councilman Tim Blackshear said a tax abatement program can only help the city.

"I see it as generating money for the community through new jobs and through the flow of money that will come from the new businesses coming in," Blackshear said.

Blackshear said a tax break won't necessarily give new businesses an advantage over existing businesses.

"I did take that into consideration," said Blackshear, who owns a business in the city. "The businesses that come in through the tax abatement will help other businesses through those two things," listed above.

The council will conduct a workshop on the program at 6 p.m. on Feb. 26. They also will hold a required public hearing at 5 p.m. on March 13.

The council also set special elections on May 5 for two separate 1/2 percent increases in the city sales tax. If approved by voters, one of the 1/2 percent increases would be used to lower the amount of property taxes collected by an estimated $700,000. The other 1/2 percent would be used to fund an industrial development corporation.

Council members approved 5-0 the first reading of a resolution increasing sanitation service rates about 30 percent. Public Works Director Tom Decell told the council an increase is needed to pay for a mandated state tax on solid wastes, as well as state and federally mandated regulations for closer and post-closer of the Signal Mountain landfill.

Collection charges for a single family dwelling will increase from $5 to $7, Decell said, and other rates will increase on a similar scale. Charges for use of the landfill were also increased, and restriction on what can be placed in the landfill were tightened.

In a related matter, the council approved a contract with the city of Forsan to accept that city's solid wastes. Decell said Forsan will be required to pay all its costs. Big Spring residents, he said, will not have to absorb any added costs. The contract with Forsan includes estimates for depreciation of equipment, capital costs, state taxes, regulatory agency charges and processing fees, he said.

In other business, the council:

• Agreed to negotiate the lease of a building at Comanche Trail Park. After meeting in executive session, the council directed Boyd to negotiate with the new owners of radio station KBYG for the lease of station facilities. No rent figure was named.

• Authorized bidding on construction of monitor wells at the year-old service center fuel spill.

• Authorized bidding on water system improvements at the Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark. The improvements are necessary because of an expected expansion of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

• Approved the first reading of an ordinance calling for City Council elections on May 5. The seats in districts 1 and 3 are up for election.

commissioners agreed to a 99-year lease for a dollar each year.

• Awarded a bid to Motorola for $14,750 for the purchase of pagers to be used by county volunteer firefighters. The pagers replace the current telephone system.

• Awarded the purchase of a Lektrover filing system to the Do Right Business Company with low bid of $10,939.75. The new filing system will replace the current mechanical filing system, which has been broken for several weeks.

• Accepted 1.62 acres of land for the construction of a volunteer fire department for the Tubbs area. The county had the area surveyed and clarified the bounds of the area before officially accepting the property.

• Approved the purchase of three light bars and four sets of radio equipment for Howard County Sheriff's vehicles. The light bars are expected to cost approximately $400 each; the radios are expected to cost $700 each.

• Established the Howard County Clerk's Office as the central counting station in the upcoming March primaries. A central counting station must be designated by the commissioners' court every year during election time.

County

could include the entire county. The group might also consider forming an underground water district in conjunction with the newly-formed Martin County Water Conservation District.

Commissioners gave verbal approval to the idea and said they will cooperate with Robertson and others without taking any specific action as a court.

been made concerning the prosecution of the other charges which include: aggravated possession of marijuana; engaging in organized criminal activity with intent to deliver, dispense or distribute marijuana; and criminal conspiracy with intent to purchase marijuana.

Aaron said one point of error in the trial was the loss of an opportunity to remove two more jurors during jury selection Feb. 6.

He said the reduction of 10 strikes to eight strikes because two other defendants were being tried with Hudgins could have changed "the complexion of the jury." The defense and prosecution were each awarded a total of 18 strikes.

Mistrials and motions of severance were granted to the two other defendants Friday morning by visiting Judge Bill Thomas of Abilene because of Hudgins' testimony and the methamphetamine charge against him.

Larry J. Barber, 40, of Big Spring and William Moore, 51, formerly of Big Spring will be tried for illegal investment in separate trials at a later date. No date has been set, Conard said.

Also indicted for illegal investment in connection with the drug sting were Ray Sneed of Big Spring and Terry Anderson, 37, of North Carolina. No dates have been set for those trials either, Conard said.

Conard said Anderson is in a federal penitentiary in Virginia in connection with a separate incident of conspiring to distribute 175 kilos of cocaine, which is about 400 pounds.

hospitalized veterans in Big Spring are also planned for the rest of the week. The events, which are open to the general public, include an employee talent show at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Room 212; a "Mr. Legs" contest at 1 p.m. Friday in Room 212; a Western Day on Friday; and a country-western dance at 7 p.m. Saturday in the main lobby.

World War II veteran Elmer Smith, from Midland, said the weeklong salute "means a lot to me, I tell you. It brings back a lot of memories."

Among those memories, he said, was the shrapnel wound to his shoulder that he received in Germany in 1945. "It was pretty painful at the time," he said.

Accident

AUSTIN — An unidentified motorist, top, reacts after her car and a motorcycle driven by an Austin police officer collided near the University of Texas Monday. The officer was taken to a local hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Measles vaccinations

DALLAS (AP) — In the wake of a measles epidemic that has stricken nearly 600 people in Dallas County, officials at Parkland Memorial Hospital have started a mandatory immunization project in hopes of protecting hospital employees. Parkland has ordered immunizations for all employees born after 1957 who have not received a measles vaccine booster shot in the past 10 years. Officials said that by Friday they will have immunized 1,500 employees.

Dr. Ron Anderson, Parkland's chief executive officer, said Monday he authorized the mass immunization and is calling on other hospitals in the Dallas area to do the same because health-care workers are at greater risk than the general population of being exposed to the measles virus.

Anderson said that 12 Parkland employees have contracted the measles and four of them have required hospitalization.

Cult member dies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Omar Francisco Orea Ochoa, a member of a cult accused of committing ritual slayings along the U.S.-Mexico border, has died of a heart attack brought on by AIDS, the Mexico City attorney general's office said.

The government said Monday he died of a heart attack Sunday afternoon in the hospital at Mexico City's Santa Marta Acatitla federal penitentiary. Orea Ochoa, 24, was diagnosed as having the deadly disease in June, the attorney general's office said.

Orea Ochoa reportedly was the lover of Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo, the Cuban-born leader of the cult. Orea Ochoa was one of five cult members arrested May 6, when Constanzo ordered his own killing and that of another man when police began closing in on them in Mexico City.

Authorities believe the gang was responsible for the deaths of at least 13 people in and around Matamoros, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, Texas, and several others in Mexico City. The April killing of Mark Kilroy, a Texas pre-medical student on a border town visit, was the most widely publicized of those murders.

Clements promises effort to save V-22

ARLINGTON (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he will help other officials and Bell Helicopter Textron in their efforts to save the V-22 tilt-rotor aircraft from landing in the latest scrap heap created by Defense Department budget cuts.

Clements and other state officials watched Monday as the unusual tilt-rotor aircraft was put through its paces at Bell Helicopter Textron's flight research center in south Arlington.

The governor used the phrase "Amazing" several times to describe the V-22 Osprey.

"I think the program is terribly important to this country," Clements said. "This program needs to go forward and I'm going to help in any way I can."

With the Bush administration hoping to end federal funding for the tilt-rotor in 1991, V-22 supporters want to make its survival a statewide crusade, similar to the successful campaign that brought the Superconducting Super Collider to Texas.

"We've got a lot of work ahead of us in Washington to convince the rest of the country how important it is," said U.S. Rep. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth.

Bell, which is building the V-22 in partnership with Boeing Helicopters of Ridley Township, Pa., has only three aircraft ready for flight. Two are in Arlington; the third is at Boeing's flight test center in Wilmington, Del.

Although the two companies hope to sell the first V-22s to the Marine Corps, the aircraft's designers believe it has potential for commercial air travel. Since it can land on a helicopter pad, a V-22 could pick up and unload passengers in the heart of any major city.

"I think it would be extremely shortsighted to give up the technology," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said in pledging his support.

Clements' endorsement was particularly important to Bell because the governor served as deputy defense secretary in Washington from 1973 to 1977.

Jury: Monsanto not liable for waste site

HOUSTON — Homeowner Clarissa McBee listens to the jury's unanimous verdict finding Monsanto not liable for damages to residents who claimed the company dumped dangerous chemicals at a waste site near their subdivision.

HOUSTON (AP) — Jurors cleared Monsanto Co. of any liability in a lawsuit brought by more than 200 homeowners who feared chemical waste dumped by the company near their homes endangered their health.

"I just don't believe this. I'm in shock," said Judy Romeo, who abandoned her home of four years about five months ago. "I'm going to go home and have a good cry."

The 222 homeowners sought $355 million in damages from Monsanto, which is the chief user of the Brio Waste Site near their subdivision. The plaintiffs asked for $1.6 million each, which they said was equivalent to Monsanto's daily profit margin.

But jurors in the unanimous verdict Monday said the plaintiffs had failed to show that it was unsafe to live in the Southbend subdivision southeast of Houston.

"It was a very, very difficult decision," said jury foreman

Alfred Morales. "I would have to say that there was lack of evidence, in my opinion, that we were looking at."

Juror Jim Stecker said, "I believe that it is safe to live out there."

Homeowner Herb Bateman disagreed. He said he moved his family from the subdivision in August because, "We felt our lives and our children's lives were in danger."

Michael Waldeck, an attorney for the homeowners, said he would appeal.

The jury's verdict came after nearly a week of deliberations and four months of testimony in state district court.

The homeowners said the Brio waste site has led to medical problems ranging from upset stomachs to headaches. Some residents testified they feared contracting cancer in the future because they live so close to the waste site.

HHS secretary cancels test after complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials thought they had found a way to help evaluate the effectiveness of a new law extending transitional Medicaid and child-care benefits to some public assistance recipients who get jobs.

But to compare the effects of the new benefits with the old, they would have to deny the new benefits to some people.

That's how the Department of Health and Human Services came to approve the Texas Welfare Reform Demonstration project, according to HHS officials.

"This gave us an opportunity to have something to contribute to our knowledge," said Mike Fishman, acting deputy of income security policy at HHS.

But HHS Secretary Louis Sullivan on Monday night ordered the pilot project revised.

"No person receiving welfare in the state of Texas has been denied or will be denied benefits to which they are entitled under federal law," he said.

The initial version of the project actually began last July, providing 12 months of extended Medicaid and child care benefits to most of the 8,000 participants who got jobs or entered training programs.

But 800 of the participants were eligible only for the four months of extended transitional benefits available to all other recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Medicaid who are not in a pilot program.

The purpose of the study was to see whether the added benefits added benefits while the "control group" got only the level of benefits already offered.

However, the project had been designed before Congress passed a bill giving all people on AFDC and Medicaid 12 months of extended transitional benefits beginning April 1 of this year.

"No person receiving welfare in the state of Texas has been denied or will be denied benefits to which they are entitled under federal law." — HHS Secretary Louis Sullivan helped keep people off the welfare rolls. Officials wanted to see whether extended benefits encouraged people to take and remain in entry-level jobs that are unlikely to offer medical insurance or child care benefits immediately.

This kind of experiment has long been used in science, medicine and industry as a tool of evaluation, and has been used for more than 20 years in social research to measure the effectiveness of social policies.

And like other most other social experiments the government has allowed, it was set up so that the "experimental group" was getting tionwide. HHS officials began getting calls and Sullivan called off the plans.

Officials said Sullivan was unaware of the project's provisions until then. When they were outlined to him, he made it clear "he does not want this type of provision included in any of our programs," said Martin Gerry, assistant secretary for planning and evaluation. Gerry said he knew of no current HHS programs that deny benefits entitled by federal law.

Five other states — Ohio, Washington state, New York, New Jersey and Wisconsin — were conducting similar demonstration projects, the new benefits as set in law.

Behind the SS surpluses

Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan's legislative proposal to cut Social Security taxes is getting little support but much attention. Even President Bush has decided it isn't safe to ignore the New York Democrat's attack on burgeoning surpluses.

In his budget message to Congress, the president has suggested that, starting in 1993, surplus Social Security tax receipts be used for only one thing: paying off government debt.

Today the surpluses are squirreled away to meet the rush to retirement of the Baby Boomers. Or at least that is what the people are told. In reality, as Moynihan and others have emphasized, the surplus is being used for the day-to-day operation of the government. As a result, the federal deficit appears smaller than it actually is and the government is actually incurring obligations more than it appears to be.

Many people would say this is not exactly honest. It isn't, of course, and some members of Congress have urged that Social Security be taken out of the general budget. Two bills to that effect were introduced last year but they got nowhere.

Moynihan's bill, however, is more of a challenge. He proposes that Social Security be put on a pay-as-you-go basis and the hokey "surplus fund" be discontinued. That will enable the government to cut the payroll tax, which he maintains hits the average worker harder than the federal income tax.

It was the tax cut aspect that got the administration's attention. George, read-my-lips, Bush could not afford to attack anything resembling a reduction in taxes. Thus the strategic effort to dedicate Social Security surpluses to debt reduction beginning in 1993.

Moynihan, of course, is no newcomer to Social Security skirmishes. He was one of the key architects of the 1983 law that was supposed to guarantee the integrity and solvency of the system well into the next century. Important features of that law were the establishment of a surplus fund and the graduated annual increases which allowed for accumulating surpluses.

So if the present system is the "con game" that he says it is, Moynihan is a con artist.

Whoever is to blame for the dissembling, the government is not being straight with today's workers and tomorrow's retirees. The Social Security surplus fund is not an asset and more Americans are waking up to that fact.

Congress should face up to the credibility problem and support efforts to take Social Security out of the budget or specifically allocate all surplus funds for debt reduction and, in the latter case, report annually on the amount reduced. The result would restore truth in advertising.

The latest, greatest invention of all time

By ART BUCHWALD
The most important new word in the English language is fax. It is a method of sending paper by telephone. For example, if I want to shoot you a clipping from this newspaper, I put it into my fax machine and it is transmitted to your fax machine in seconds.

Because the United States shuffles more paper than any other country on the planet, the fax machine has changed the way we deal with problems.

This is all you hear in offices these days: "Will you fax me that report?" "I'll fax you my objections and then you fax everything to the client in San Francisco."

The trouble with faxing papers is that people judge how hard you are working by the amount of faxing that you do. In most offices, those who only fax every hour are thought to be less productive than those who fax every 15 minutes. John O'Connor is one of the great faxers of Washington. He has a fax in the office, one at home and one in his car. During his lunch hour he thinks nothing of faxing the U.S. budget to a friend in Singapore.

"You were an early faxer before it became popular. Does it discourage you that everybody is doing it now?" I asked him. "The more the merrier," he replied. "Don't forget, it takes two to fax. Excuse me, I have to fax an anniversary card to my wife."

"Does she mind getting her anniversary greetings by fax machine?"

"Why should she? It's on her desk right away."

"Is there a knack to faxing?"

"Like everything else, there are good faxers and bad ones. A good faxer knows exactly how to insert the paper so that the print comes out nice and clean at the other end. Some people are born faxers — lawyers, for example. They can service two clients on two different telephone lines at the same time, and charge them both the full fee. Doctors are starting to fax throat cultures to each other, and people are even sending love letters on the machine."

"Why?"

"When you're in love you want the whole Bell system to know it." "Do some people in your office fax more than others?"

"Damn right they do, and it's costing us a bundle. There is a guy here who faxes all the baseball scores to his bookie in Las Vegas. We have a woman who transmits Ann Landers' column to everyone in her aerobics class. We're looking at an electronic revolution that will change our lives. Today we're faxing paper — someday we could be faxing people."

"You mean we'll be sending people by telephone?"

"It's well within the realm of possibility. The world is getting smaller thanks to the fax machine. First we communicated by Morse code, then by voice and now paper. Tomorrow we may place our kids in fax machines and send them to camp."

All the time O'Connor was talking to me he was inserting memoranda into one machine and ripping off messages from the other one.

"The trick," he said, "is to fax more outgoing material than you take in."

"How do you do that?" I wanted to know.

"Fax everybody. My greatest moment as a faxer was when I sent an entire manuscript to a publisher I had never met. I tied up his line for nine hours because there was no way he could turn his machine off."

Banishment not the American way

By GEORGE F. WILL

WASHINGTON — An equestrian statue stands high on Connecticut Avenue, facing south toward the White House which the man on horseback coveted, and beyond toward the Potomac which, had he not been unhorsed by the President he despised, might today be an international boundary. With Eastern Europeans putting away stupid statues of disagreeable people, let us celebrate Lincoln's birthday by banishing this statue of his tormentor: Gen. George B. McClellan.

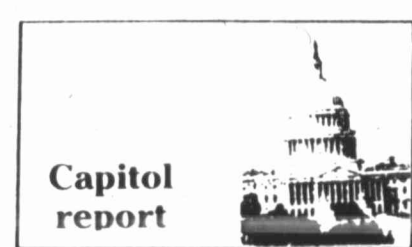

It celebrates someone whose vainglory, political ambition and military incompetence put the Republic at risk. His contempt for Lincoln ("baboon," "gorilla") manifested itself repeatedly in in-sufferable rudeness, such as refusing to receive Lincoln's visits to his home. To which rudeness Lincoln responded by saying he would hold McClellan's horse if he would just fight and win.

His one great victory, Antietam, was a tactical, incomplete, and partly the result of a fluke (copies of Lee's orders were found in a Maryland field, wrapped around three cigars). It precipitated something McClellan opposed, the Emancipation Proclamation. He was a great organizer, but was forever organizing, citing exaggerated estimates of Confederate strength to justify delays. "All quiet along the Potomac" was a great song but lousy strategy. It sowed a sense of inferiority in Union forces.

He was a paranoiac with real enemies whom he called "traitors."

Lincoln sacked him, then he lost to Lincoln in the 1864 election. Forty-three years later, for no conceivable good reason, a statue was erected that has cluttered the city long enough.

Just kidding. Constantly rearranging the public furniture, shuffling public symbols in and out of favor, is a disagreeable European habit, a reflection of ideological fads and political immaturity. In America, surely, we know better than to be so foolish. We should not, for example, send to society's attic the bust of John Foster Dulles that today adorns the airport that — for now — bears his name.

Talk about an untimely idea: Victory in the Cold War is coinciding with a proposal to repeal an honor accorded to a man who insisted there was no substitute for victory. Until Thursday, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas was the heavy hitter among those urging that Washington's Dulles Airport be renamed for Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was born in Texas 100 years ago this year but who spent his formative years in Kansas. Dole has now sounded retreat. Not a moment too soon.

John Foster Dulles' grandfather was President Benjamin Harrison's secretary of state. His uncle was Robert Lansing, Woodrow Wilson's secretary of state. If Taft rather than Eisenhower had won the presidency in 1952, Dulles still would have become secretary of state.

He had prepared all his life for that office. He had served Roosevelt and Truman, had helped lift a reluctant Republican Party up from isolationism by supporting the Marshall Plan and NATO, had insisted that the word "justice" be as prominent as "peace" in the U.N. Charter.

His preeminence was particularly impressive because it owed nothing to his personality. Stephen Ambrose, Eisenhower's biographer, says that aside from Eisenhower almost everyone found Dulles unbearably pompous and dull — "dull, duller, Dulles," was the joke. Churchill deliberately hisped Dulles' name and when told that Allen Dulles was to head the CIA he said, "They tell me that there is another Duluth. Is that possible?"

But Dulles' starchy personality was suited to implementation of the policies that came from the carefully amiable, always guileful man for whom he worked. "The truth," wrote Ambrose, "was that Eisenhower, not Dulles, made the policy, as anyone who knew anything about the inner workings of the Eisenhower administration realized." Eisenhower shrewdly used Dulles as a lightning rod to draw away the hostility that vigorous prosecution of the Cold War generated among much of the intelligentsia.

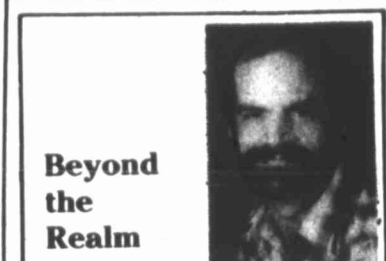

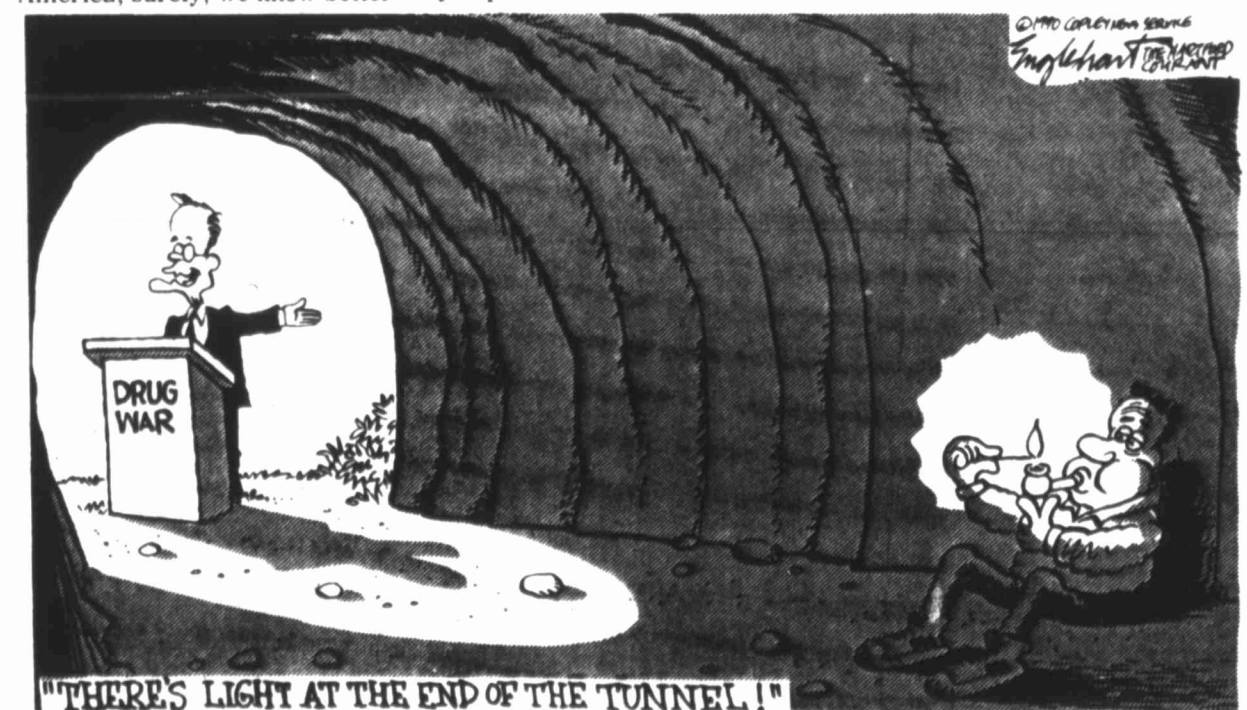

Dulles, like Eisenhower, only more so, was despised by much of the chattering class. Dulles' sin was his "moralistic" vision of the Cold War, and of the evil empire responsible for it. But Eisenhower fully shares Dulles' belief that no real peace would be possible until the Soviet system changed internally.

One reason the 1980s ended so well for the West is that they began with the election of a President who joined the Republican Party when Dulles was helping set the tone of it. Ronald Reagan re-moralized the Cold War after the demoralization called detente — which coincided in the 1970s with unprecedented Soviet aggressiveness. Re-moralizing the Cold War was necessary for re-summoning the stamina for winning it.

America was never more American than in the 1950s when America was at the wheel of the world and was sure it was right, and was. By all means rename something for Eisenhower, the man who embodied the Fifties. Rename something as big as he was, something as broad as his inspiring grin that contrasted so with Dulles' grimness. Rename Kansas. Call it with Midwest informality: Ike.

But leave Dulles in peace and in his place of honor.

Beyond the Realm

Wednesday is no day to forget

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

OK guys, the day's almost here. You've had plenty of warning and time to prepare, so if you're caught shorthanded, you have no one to blame but yourselves.

On the off chance you have absolutely no idea what I'm talking about, the subject is Valentine's Day. That's right, Valentine's Day — as in Wednesday; as in tomorrow.

You did get your wife something, didn't you? Didn't you? No?

Oh, well, to paraphrase a car commercial from several years back: Boy, you're in a heap of trouble.

Wives can overlook a great deal. They can understand if you're not a maniac at housework, or if you might have neglected to mail the bills, but if you think you can get away with not getting her anything tomorrow, you're nuts.

Absolutely, stark-raving nuts. They won't forgive you this time. In their hearts, Valentine's comes right behind anniversaries and children's birthdays and quite possibly ahead of Christmas.

So, if you neglect to get your sweetie anything for the holiday, you can look forward to eating balogna sandwiches until Judgment Day.

Do yourselves a favor, OK? Get her a present. It doesn't have to be anything fancy. I mean, you don't have to break the bank and get her a Porsche.

No, something simple and heartfelt will do — like flowers or a candygram.

If you want to get inventive and do something like compose your loved one a poem, that's fine, too, but leave me out of it.

There's a difference between appearing romantic and appearing the dolt, if you catch my drift.

What's that you say? Did I get my wife something for Valentine's? Why, of course. I got her a — wait a minute, she might be reading this thing!

Oh well, suffice it to say that I have secured a present for my red-headed beauty. It's nothing extravagant, but it's from the heart, and I'm (almost) sure she'll love it.

And if I can do it, so can you. Look at it this way: That woman of yours — the female of your dreams — has put up with you for no telling how many years, and she hasn't kicked you out yet.

In my book, that's worthy of a little remembrance. They really are pretty nice people, those women. I know they're horribly exasperating at times, and they do demand quite a lot from us, but I guess it's really for our own good.

Let's face it, guys. If things were left up to us, hardly anything would get done. It's not that we're slobs or anything, it's just that we consider watching football and taking naps a lot more important than getting dishpan hands.

But if, in spite of all my warnings and entreaties, you decide not to get that special someone a present on Valentine's Day, all I can say is good luck.

Be sure to tell me the the hospital's name so I can send flowers.

Schools reopen in tense city

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — The mayor called in scores of city police and state troopers to provide security for today's reopening of public schools, which had been shut since the middle of last week by a sit-in by blacks.

Mayor Joe Smitherman lined up scores of city police and state troopers today to provide security. Superintendent Norward Russell, whose dismissal at the end of the school year sparked the protests, expected about 70 percent of the 6,000 students would be in class.

At the meeting Monday at First Baptist Church where black students voted to continue the protests, Rousell praised the students for their conduct during the sit-in, but told them and about 300 adults that he did not "come here to be superintendent over empty classrooms and closed schools."

Rousell took over the $80,000-a-year job 2½ years ago after serving as an associate superintendent in New Orleans. The racial turmoil began Feb. 2 when six white members of the city school board voted to dismiss Russell.

Protests closed two schools Feb. 6 and all 11 of Selma's public schools Wednesday. Rousell was reinstated, but the board declined to extend his contract beyond its June expiration.

Berry will extend stay at clinic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Marion Barry, facing drug charges at home, intends to stay in a Florida substance-abuse facility longer than the single 28-day treatment cycle, according to city government sources.

The sources, who spoke to the Associated Press on condition of anonymity, said Barry will stay at the Hanley-Hazelden Clinic until at least Feb. 28 and may complete a second 28-day treatment cycle. The mayor entered the facility Jan. 22.

Officials at the center have declined in the past to discuss Barry's treatment. They have said, however, that it was not unusual for patients to remain longer than 28 days.

Barry was arrested Jan. 18 on a misdemeanor cocaine-possession charge. A grand jury has been hearing evidence in the mayor's case for months.

Barry entered the Florida center for what an aide described as primarily treatment of alcoholism. Barry publicly acknowledged during a church service on Sunday having an alcohol dependency problem but did not mention cocaine, according to another worshipper.

Winds, tides push oil onto beaches

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hundreds of emergency workers worked against the wind and tides as they mopped up oil that fouled two miles of beaches, and officials said they needed more cleanup crews today.

Winds that had kept much of oil off shore suddenly shifted Monday due to a cold front that brought 35 mph northwesterly winds, pushing oil from Wednesday's 400,000-gallon spill onto land for the most worst pollution yet.

"We have a very serious situation down here," said Mayor Tom Mays, who called on Gov. George Deukmejian to declare an emergency. A spokesman said the governor would consider the move today.

Waves of grimy crude oil spilled by the tanker American Trader rolled into Bolsa Chica State Beach, leaving on the beach bands of oil with a consistency of tar that were 2 inches thick in some spots.

BIRD RESCUER

MOSCOW — Muscovites read the newspaper this morning after Soviet leadership called for an extraordinary session of the national congress to strengthen the office of president, held by Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

New party platform includes bill of rights

MOSCOW (AP) — In its revolutionary new platform, the ruling Communist Party casts aside Marxist economic theory by accepting private property and backs a strong presidency that would further erode its 72-year grip on power.

The platform advocates a bill of rights to protect the individual against abuses of the state in a country where Stalinist authorities stripped millions of peasants of land and had political opponents murdered by the thousands.

The document, approved during a landmark meeting last week and published Monday, represents President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's boldest break with Communist orthodoxy and contradicts public statements he made just months ago.

The official Tass news agency said leaders called Monday for a special session of the Congress of People's Deputies in the "near future" to strength the office of presidency, which would solidify Gorbachev's hold on power.

The country's highest executive body, the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, "unanimously favored the establishment of democratic presidential power in our country," Tass reported.

It also said without elaboration that the presidium wanted the Congress — which was seated last spring in the country's first contested elections in seven decades — to consider the ownership of property and strengthening the Soviet government. Gorbachev had called for the Congress to convene in June.

The statement did not say whether the president should be directly elected by voters, but one of Gorbachev's key allies — Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze — said last week that a nationwide popular election might be possible.

In deciding on sweeping changes, the platform says the party took into account the new hunger of citizens for democracy and reform, as expressed by mass rallies and local political organizing all over the country.

The new platform abandons the Communists' ideological roots:

"The Communist Party of the Soviet Union believes the existence of individual property, including ownership of the means of production, does not contradict the modern stage in the country's economic development."

Marxist theory holds that factories and other means of producing goods must be owned by the state rather than individuals because private ownership inevitably results in one person exploiting the labor of another.

Communists intend to create an economy "based on a diversity of property forms, competition between independent manufacturers, a developed financial system and on the powerful stimuli of personal and collective interest," the platform says.

KGB issues report of executions

MOSCOW (AP) — The KGB secret police said in a report today that three-quarters of a million citizens were shot to death as enemies of the Soviet state from 1930 to 1953, the years of Stalinist terror.

The figure does not include the millions who died in labor camps and prisons or in the famines instigated by Stalin during his collectivization of agriculture, but it represented the first time the KGB has given any figure for the number Stalin's victims.

Many Western sources say more than 10 million people were killed in Stalin's reign of terror. Under President Mikhail S.

Gorbachev's reforms, government commissions and the KGB have been ordered to find the truth about Stalin's terror and rehabilitate those who were sentenced.

The official Tass news agency quoted a KGB committee as saying a review of its archives determined that 3,778,234 people had been sentenced for counter-revolutionary or crimes against the state from 1930 to 1953, the year Stalin died.

It said 786,098 of them, including many top state and party leaders, scientists, military leaders and cultural figures, had been shot to death.

Mandela gets hero's welcome

SOWETO, South Africa (AP) — Nelson Mandela returned today to a hero's welcome in his hometown and urged throngs of cheering supporters to continue their fight against apartheid, which put them in "ghettos like Soweto."

"Today my return to Soweto fills my heart with joy," Mandela told an ecstatic but orderly crowd of 120,000 people in a huge soccer stadium, many of whom had never seen the man they revere as their leader.

"At the same time, I have a deep sadness that you are still suffering under an unjust system.

"Our people need proper housing, not ghettos like Soweto," he told the crowd, to a rising cheer. The sprawling black township of 2.5 million people lies just outside Johannesburg and has been the focus of the anti-apartheid movement.

Mandela, whose family still has a small home in Soweto, deplored the poverty and suffering endured by many in the township. He called for proper homes, an end to crime, and proper wages.

He said his African National Congress would "continue the armed struggle as long as the violence of apartheid continues."

Modrow rejects common currency

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Entering into crucial talks on German unification, East German Premier Hans Modrow today rejected West Germany's call for a common currency as a first stride toward single nationhood.

Modrow said upon arrival at Cologne-Bonn airport for a meeting with Chancellor Helmut Kohl that there is no support in his interim government for immediate monetary union, the official East German ADN news agency reported.

The Communist premier instead pressed for West German financial aid of $9 billion to tide over the ailing East German economy until the country's first free elections March 18.

Kohl's proposal for immediate talks on currency union had been expected to be the major topic of discussion between the leaders of the two Germanys during Modrow's two-day visit.

Survey finds high level of marital happiness among couples in the U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — This just in for Valentine's Day: nine of 10 people in a survey claimed they had never been unfaithful, and four of five said they would marry the same person again, given the chance.

The Gallup survey, commissioned by Psychology Today and two television shows, King World's Inside Edition and ABC's Home Show, was released Monday.

Three of four respondents said their spouse is their best friend, and 64 percent said their marriage was "very happy."

Pollsters contacted 657 randomly selected, married men and women nationwide shortly before Christmas. The margin of error was plus or minus 4 percentage points.

The report on the findings, by the Rev. Andrew M. Greeley and T. George Harris, called the widespread belief that married people are often unfaithful an example of "pluralistic ignorance — erroneous, cognitive beliefs shaped by some individuals about other individuals."

The report also put forth the theory "the availability of divorce for those who are unhappy has increased the average level of happiness in the pool of couples who remain married."

The survey attributed marital happiness primarily to three factors: communication; cooperation in housework, child rearing and respect of each other's work; and romance. For instance:

—71 percent said they're trying very hard to improve their marriage.

—55 percent of male respondents and 47 percent of female strongly believe their spouse is romantic.

—39 percent said they work very hard to improve their sex life.

—53 percent of women

respondents and 47 percent of men strongly agreed that their spouse is a skilled lover.

—32 percent of women and 26 percent of men said their spouse is imaginative about sex.

The survey found so much bliss in America that 10 percent of the respondents agreed strongly their spouse is sometimes "like a god" to them. Eighteen percent of women agreed at least somewhat with the statement — and 37 percent of men did.

Other findings:

—81 percent of men and 72 percent of women strongly believe their spouse is good looking.

—82 percent believe their spouse is good with children, and 63 percent strongly disagree that children take the fun out of marriage.

—70 percent disagree that as "the years go on, much of the fun goes out of marriage."

Council meets

Council officers were hostess to Howard County Extension Council, with Frances Zant, chairman, presiding. Carolyn Reed gave the devotion. Reports were given from all the clubs.

The council voted to make a donation to "Christmas in April." Jowill Etchison, T.E.H.A. chairman, reported on the Training Meeting conducted Jan. 26 in Midland. She also distributed summary reports to be completed and sent to the District VI director.

Naomi Hunt, extension agent, announced the times and places of the upcoming seminars. On Feb. 24, from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., "Put Your Best Foot Forward" will be presented at the Highland Mall conference room. Pre-registered cost is $4. A six-week short course on "Managing Diabetes" begins in April. The cost is $5. There will be three different times and places for this seminar — one in sign language, one in Spanish, one at 2 p.m. and one at 7 p.m. For additional information, please call 267-8469.

There will be a lean lamb seminar at St. Paul Lutheran Church May 8. Cost is $5.

A leader training meeting will be Feb. 26 at 2 p.m. at the Howard County Library on "Xeriscape."

The public is invited.

Poverty in the U.S.

The women of First Church of God met Feb. 5 for a monthly meeting.

Betty Reagan, Mission Resource coordinator, directed the second study about "Poverty in the United States — The Urban Picture." This program was written by Lori Collins Burgan who is manager of a Women's Center for the homeless — single women in Louisville, Ky.

The objective was to look at the urban poverty picture and to see a personal glimpse of homelessness from a Christian perspective. More than 70 percent of Americans live in urban areas. The coalition for the homeless estimates that three million people in the United States are homeless, with nearly 500,000 being children. Over 20 percent of all homeless individuals are employed, but still do not make enough money to secure adequate housing.

Puppy love

For love to be shared, love has to be shown

DEAR ABBY: Can you believe tomorrow is St. Valentine's Day again? It seems like only yesterday we took down the Christmas decorations. Well, young lovers — and older lovers, too — some years ago I wrote a column on how to keep your man happy. As soon as that hit print, I was asked, in the interest of fairness, to write another column on how to keep your woman happy.

As a valentine to both men and women, here's an updated version on how to keep each other happy: For Women — Be a Sweetheart.

Tell him daily that you love him. (If you're married, don't ask him if he loves you, or he's liable to say, "I married you, didn't I?") Never criticize him in public. If you must criticize him, let it be constructive and in the spirit of love and helpfulness — never in anger as a put-down.

Don't bad-mouth his friends — or worse yet, his relatives.

Keep him in mind when you're reading. Clip newspaper and magazine articles that might be helpful to him in his work, or share amusing cartoons to give him a chuckle.

Don't invade his privacy. Every man needs a desk, a closet or a cupboard to call his own. If it gets cluttered and somewhat messy, don't try to tidy it up for him. (Nobody's perfect.)

If he eats — or drinks — a little too much, don't nag him about it. Remind him gently that you wish he'd take better care of himself because you'd like to have him around to grow old and gray with.

Don't sulk. If something's bugging you, talk it out and clear the air.

Never give him the third degree about where he's been (or with whom) when you weren't with him.

Never lie to him. If there's something you don't want to tell him, reserve the right to remain silent. But if you tell him something, be sure it's the truth.

Always keep yourself kissing-clean from head to toe.

Develop some interests besides him. The more interests you have, the more interesting you'll be.

Surprise him occasionally. A little love note taped to the bathroom mirror or hidden in his lunch pail or briefcase will warm his heart.

For Men — Be a Sweetheart. Tell her you love her. She can't hear it too often.

If you like the way she cooks, or the way she looks, dresses, smells — let her know it. You can't compliment a woman too much.

Dear Abby

Never try to make her jealous. And treat her with the same respect and courtesy you show women you don't know very well.

In addition to remembering her on all the traditional gift-giving occasions — birthdays, anniversaries, Christmas, Hanukkah and St. Valentine's Day — surprise her with a little gift for no reason at all.

If you've had an especially wonderful evening, the morning after, send her flowers. If she works outside the home (and it's a 50-50 bet that she does) send the flowers to her place of business. She'll appreciate it twice as much. Tight budget? Bring home a single rose.

Be a little unpredictable. Walk up behind her and plant a kiss on the back of her neck.

Remember, cleanliness is next to godliness, so when you feel turned on, turn on the shower and jump in.

When you're at a party together, never leave her alone while you're off dancing (or being charming) with someone else.

Tell her she is absolutely the most wonderful person in the world, and she'll believe that you are.

If you want to be loved, be loving. Be nice to her relatives, and they'll tell her how lucky she is to have such a sweet guy.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus a check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Forsan's dump ground is no exception to national problem

To the dump, to the dump, to the dump, dump, dump!

Small community dump grounds have become a big problem all over the nation, and Forsan's dump ground is no exception. The Environmental Protection Agency issued a time table setting a Sept. 1, 1990 deadline for all rural communities across the United States to meet the EPA set standards for dump ground maintenance, or close down.

It is a large problem for small communities with limited funds, such as Forsan. "We just don't have the money," noted Mayor Woodrow Scudday. "I always said, if anything would run me out of politics, it would be that dump ground down there," thumbing toward the town's south side.

"Been dogging me ever since I've been in office."

Forsan's present dump consists of a fenced area with a trench approximately 18 ft. wide, 16 ft. deep and 100 ft. long. This pit is filled up about every 4 or 5 years and a new trench is dug close by. New EPA standards require, among other specifications, that the trench be lined with plastic and covered every night.

Scudday and city council members Roger Hudgins, Donnie Rogers, Doug Parker, Jim Alexander and Nathan Hughes have been drafting letters and agreements in cooperation with Tom Decell, Big Spring city manager.

They are hoping to lease a 40-yard dumpster from Big Spring, which will be hauled to the city-county dump weekly. The charge will be passed on to every Forsan resident now paying a Forsan water bill. "We are hoping to limit the charge to $10 monthly for homes, and $25 for most businesses," if the city officials go with this option, Scudday indicated.

Residents currently pay a flat rate of $4 monthly for water.

TEAMS testing

Forsan Independent School District's students took the TEAMS test for the last time. Grades 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11 labored over the test Tuesday through Thursday. The Texas Education Agency will implement a new testing program, the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) in October.

Forsan school counselor Bob Evans reviewed several reasons for the change. "TEAMS tests were given in February of every school year. The TAAS tests will be given at the first of the school year, so teachers can get some feedback and start to do something about the test results." Some educators felt teachers were teaching toward the minimum requirements of the test. Now teachers can review skills learned the previous year, give the test, and go on to the curriculum for the current year.

The 11th grade TEAMS test is used for the Exit test. Each student must master three out of four subjects tested in order to graduate. The students have four opportunities to pass this test before graduation.

The new TAAS test is expanded to cover social studies and science, subjects not covered on the present TEAMS test. TAAS tests can also be used to compare Texas Schools with other schools across the nation, which cannot be done with the TEAMS test.

Bob Evans also pointed out that the new TAAS test measures the students ability to solve problems logically, read critically and think independently, while TEAMS relied more on rote memorization. The Texas Legislature began to require that student performance be assessed in 1979. The first statewide program instituted was the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills in 1980, measuring student achievement in reading, writing and mathematics. In 1985, the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills tests began, adding new learning objectives. The TEAMS test raised student achievement levels across the state. The emphasis on the new TAAS test stresses teaching students higher-order thinking skills.

"Scores will probably drop the first year," predicts Evans. "Because it's a new test, no one knows exactly what to expect." Forsan has made a good showing in the past, we're hoping for good results in the future.

School program

Students from Elbow Elementary School will participate in an educational program, titled "We the People — Congress and the Constitution," at schools in the 17th Congressional District. The program commemorates this year's 200th anniversary of Congress and offers an opportunity to bring to public schools a new study of government, civics and the constitution.

Teacher Bo Fryar and principal Bill Cregar are supported by representative Charles Stenholm and District Rep. Dale King in implementing this program at Elbow. Participating students will study a specially designed program, "We the People". After passing a multiple choice test, students will answer orally before a panel of community representatives acting as a congressional committee.

Students who complete the class lessons, pass the final test and participate in the panel hearing will receive a certificate of recognition signed by Charles Stenholm, Representative Lindy Boggs, Senator Robert Byrd and former Chief Justice Warren Burger.

Junior high news

Here's the word from junior high school principal Doug Parker.

Student of the week for the week ending Feb. 2 is Robbi Calley. Congratulations, Robbi!

Gunner Pickett won the geography bee sponsored by National Geographic in the championship round. Deborah Light finished as the runner up. Forty-four students participated in the local bee.

Gunner will take a written qualifying test in which 100 of the highest scoring students in Texas will be invited to compete in the state contest in March. The first place winner in each state will advance to the National Geography Bee Championships, scheduled for May, in Washington D.C. Good luck, Gunner!

The basketball teams finished the season last Monday in a four game series against the Stanton Buffaloes. Both seventh grade teams lost in close contests to Stanton while the eighth grade closed out the season with wins against the Stanton eighth grade.

Progress reports should be reaching the parents by today or tomorrow.

Valentine Favorites for 1990 are sixth graders Stephanie Lewis and Wes Crow; seventh graders Erin Reeh and Justin Curry; and eighth graders Cathy Rios and Brad Everett.

Hall of fame

Forsan graduates Julie (Underwood) Bailey, Beth (Boeker) Spence, Carrie (Poyner) Dunnam, Vicky (Baggett) McDowell and Shasta Hollingshead were inducted into the Howard College Hall of Fame Saturday at a brunch during Howard College's homecoming. The program was titled "The 70s: A Classic Time". Howard College president Bob Riley and vice president of Student Services Cheri Sparks led the ceremony, which inducted all former and present presidential classics into the Hall of Fame.

Valentine's celebrations
Forsan Baptist Church will celebrate Valentine's Day Wednesday at 7 p.m. with a banquet in the fellowship hall. The church will provide ham; church families are asked to bring a covered dish or dessert.

Baseball meeting

The Coahoma Little League will have an organizational meeting 7 p.m. Thursday at the community center. For more information call Gary Roberts at 384-4417.

Playoffs on tap

Four area basketball teams will be involved in extra district games Tuesday to determine state playoff representatives.

The Big Spring Lady Steers will be trying to make it four straight years in the state playoffs when they take on the Snyder Lady Tigers at 7 p.m. in the Coahoma Elementary gym.

The Lady Steers and Snyder will be playing to determine the District 4-4A runner-up. The winner of this game will advance to play either Levelland or Canyon Randall in the first round of the state playoffs.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The Forsan Buffalo-Queens also will be involved in district playoff action Tuesday, when they take on the Eldorado Lady Eagles in a game to determine the District 6-2A champion. Forsan and Eldorado will square off at 7 p.m. in the San Angelo Lake View gym.

The Borden County Lady Coyotes and the Grady Wildcats, who tied for first place in District 16-A, will determine the district champ when they meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Lamesa Middle School Gym.

That game will be followed at 8 p.m. by the Grady-O'Donnell boys game to determine the 16-A runner-up.

Y swimmers in action

ABILENE — Six members of the YMCA swim team fared well in competition this weekend in Abilene, team coach Craig Sanders said.

Because of space considerations, the following swimmer's results were inadvertently omitted:

Chance Overton was eighth in the 50 backstroke.

Baseball boosters

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring Baseball Boosters will hold their second meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Highland Lanes Conference Room, club president John Arrick said.

The club — whose purpose is to benefit the BSHS baseball teams — has a $5 membership fee, and everybody is encouraged to join, Arrick said.

The Steers will begin their baseball season at 4 p.m. Tuesday when they host the Odessa Permian Panthers in a scrimmage at Steer Park, Eighth and Owens streets.

Hawks drop another one

By RUTH COCHRAN
 City Editor

BIG SPRING — New Mexico Junior College caught Howard College looking in the mirror. While the Hawks were trying on number one for size, the Thunderbirds were stealing a win.

The Hawks dropped their second game in a row on Monday night, losing a Western Junior College Athletic Conference game to the T-Birds, 102-100. Howard, which had been newly installed in the top spot of the junior college polls a week ago, dropped to 24-2 on the season and 9-2 in the conference.

New Mexico improved to 14-12 and more importantly, 7-4 in the league. The T-Birds, who are fighting for a playoff spot, have swept Odessa College and split with Howard. Odessa is the only other team to beat the Hawks this season.

The Hawks played like the number one team in the nation — but only in spurts. The rest of the time New Mexico caught them flat-footed and watching the action.

Howard coach Steve Green said his team became complacent. "Nobody played 40 minutes," he said. "We tried to win at the end. We just tried to hang in there."

"Winning came too easy and they've forgotten," how to play hard, he said.

The Hawks jumped to a 6-2 lead less than two minutes into the game. The T-Birds scrapped back though, and everytime Howard would open a lead, New Mexico would claw its way back into the game.

With nine minutes to go, the Thunderbirds took their first lead of the game, 29-28, on a three-point goal by Reggie Collins, who is considering playing at Seton Hall next season. The Hawks didn't regain the lead until late in the half, when they went on a nine point run to take a 51-45 edge.

Typically, however, the T-Birds chipped that to 51-49 before the buzzer. ● HAWKS page 2-B

Ladies cruise, 97-43

By STEVE REAGAN

BIG SPRING — Before the tipoff of Monday's Lady Hawks-New Mexico Junior College game, the question was how Howard would bounce back from a disappointing loss the game before.

About five minutes after tipoff, however, the question had changed dramatically — to how large the Howard margin of victory would be.

The Lady Hawks, making the most of a homecoming date against struggling NMJC, came out of the gates with a vengeance and never looked back as they squashed the Lady Thunderbirds, 97-43, at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Linda Waters led the Howard rampage with 30 points, most of those coming on three-point rainbows. Cindy Williams added 14 points, Lisa Moore 12 and Shannon Lawson 10 for the Lady Hawks, now 7-2 in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference race.

Stacy Williams scored 20 points and Amy Severson 13 for NMJC, which dropped to 0-9 in conference action with the loss.

If one is looking for a key to the game, it might be the Lady Hawks' overall attitude in the wake of Thursday's overtime loss to Odessa College.

"I was afraid they'd come out flat," HC coach Royce

Director turns ref for contest

DALLAS (AP) — Not only does the emperor have clothes, he still has a striped uniform.

Terrell coach Barry Boren said he and others were shocked when the director of the University Interscholastic League, Bailey Marshall, showed up last Friday at Terrell to referee a game.

"You would have thought the emperor of another country had come by," Boren said.

Boren told The Dallas Morning News that he had called the UIL last week to seek officiating help following several refereeing controversies in District 15-4A.

"I imagine they were all shocked," said Marshall of his appearance. "A lot of people don't know I officiate. I work a lot of 5A, 4A and 3A games around Austin, and some college ball. I've officiated off and on since 1953."

The coach of Terrell's opponent, Palestine's Tommy Blake, was taken aback by Marshall's presence, and none too impressed with his officiating skills, the Dallas newspaper reported.

"I thought he was fair," Boren said.

Wildcats edge Syracuse; sweep series

By The Associated Press

With a 14-12 record, Villanova probably won't be invited to the NCAA Tournament. But if the Wildcats can arrange to meet Syracuse in the finals of the Big East tourney, they may wind up with an automatic bid.

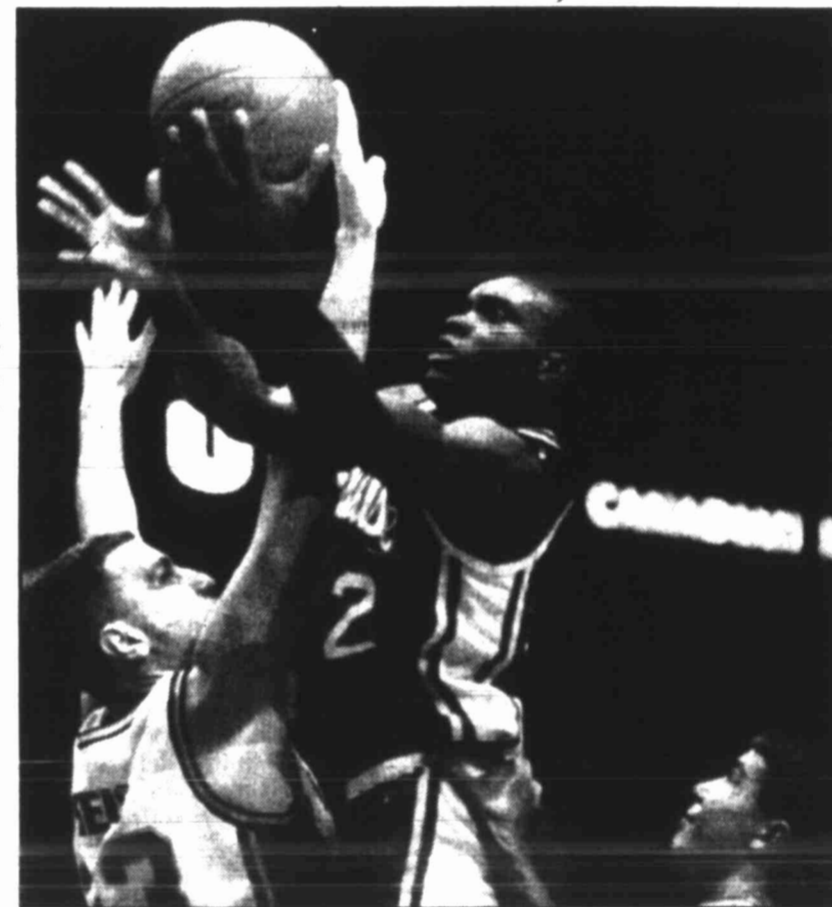

Colleges

Little more than a month after handing Syracuse its first defeat of the season and ending the Orangemen's six-week reign as the nation's No. 1-ranked team, Villanova, which hasn't been in the Top 25 this season, stunned the nation's No. 4 team again with a 60-56 victory Monday night.

Chris Walker made a 3-pointer with 1:11 to play, then hit the first of two free throws for a 58-56 lead with 12.2 seconds left. Lance Miller sealed the victory with a pair of free throws to snap a six-game winning streak for Syracuse (18-4, 8-4 Big East).

"It really wasn't a planned shot," Walker said of his game-winning basket. "I really didn't want a 3-pointer, but the guys left me open. Billy (Owens) stayed in and I just took the shot."

In other Top 25 games, it was No. 6 Duke 102, Stetson 67; No. 7 UNLV 69, Fresno State 64; No. 14 La Salle 93, St. Joseph's 76 and No. 21 Michigan State 80, Iowa 70.

PHILADELPHIA — Syracuse's Stephen Thompson, right, attempts a shot over the defense of Villanova's Tom Greis in the first half of their Big East game here Monday night. Villanova won the game to sweep the season series over Syracuse.

Although Walker scored the key points down the stretch, the big man for Villanova (14-12, 6-7) was Rodney Taylor, who came off the bench to score 17 points and grab 10 of the Wildcats' 20 offensive rebounds.

"Rodney Taylor was kind of the man of the game," Villanova coach Rollie Massimino said. "He was taking second shots off the glass and making big baskets."

Villanova trailed 29-25 at halftime, shooting only 28 percent to Syracuse's 39 percent. For the game, the Wildcats shot only 32 percent to 38 percent for the Orangemen but made 23 of 35 free throws while Syracuse made eight of 16.

"I'm not too disappointed in the shots we were getting," Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim said. "We've made those shots for six games in a row so we're not going to just stop taking them."

Greg Woodard had 14 points and Walker 10 for Villanova. Derrick Coleman had 18, Owens 17 and Stephen Thompson 13 for Syracuse.

No. 6 Duke 102, Stetson 67. Duke reached the 20-victory mark for the seventh consecutive season as Alaa Abdelnaby scored 18 points and Christian Laettner added 17.

Stetson kept pace for a while, taking a four-point lead midway through the first half and trailing ● COLLEGES page 2-B

Coming home

After the fall, what next for ex champ?

By JOHN NELSON
 AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Knock off the late nights. Stay away from the girls. Get back in the gym, and get as far away from Don King as possible.

That's the advice Mike Tyson, mere mortal, is getting after his 10th-round knockout loss to Buster Douglas in Tokyo.

But even if he follows all the advice, will he ever be the old Iron Mike again? Can he come back from his first professional loss, albeit disputed?

"It could be that he'll change," his former manager, Bill Cayton, said, but he needs to get "King henchmen" Aaron Snowell and Jay Bright out of his corner and go back to his old trainer, Kevin Rooney.

"Mike shouldn't fight again unless he calls me," Rooney said. "He didn't want to fight Douglas. He wasn't prepared. He was partying with all of his friends. Now, he knows he did wrong. I'm waiting for his call."

Cayton and others have characterized Tyson as soft in the belly and only a touch firmer in the head when he met Douglas on Sunday. He certainly didn't look like the undisputed heavyweight champion. He looked ordinary.

"He had no life," veteran manager and promoter Lou Duva said. "He didn't have that drive. He's not the fighter he was with Kevin Rooney." Chances are, though, Tyson will be his old self soon, or at least he'll think he is.

"You have to believe you're invincible to go in there and be successful, whether you're invincible or not," said Dr. Eric Margenau, a New York sports psychologist who has met and spoken with Tyson.

"I think he's already in the process of convincing himself that, when he goes into his next fight, he can't lose. And I don't think it will take him very long to do."

But even if Tyson thinks he's unbeatable, future opponents certainly won't.

"The division is open now, and Tyson is back to earth," said Carl "The Truth" Williams, who lost by knockout in the first round to Tyson last July 21.

Evander Holyfield, who had a contract to fight Tyson in June if Tyson was still the heavyweight champion, says he saw Tyson lose four times as an amateur.

"Evander always believed that Tyson would be the kind of guy who, when he got into trouble, would come up empty," said promoter Kathy Duva of Main Events-Monitor. "I think Evander always knew Tyson didn't have it there."

Almost immediately after Tyson was knocked out, King filed a protest, saying that the fight should have ended in the eighth round. ● TYSON page 2-B

Inside Sports

Canseco settles

NEW YORK (AP) — Jose Canseco settled his arbitration case and became a $2 million man and Tom Henke and the Toronto Blue Jays agreed to a three-year deal worth about $7.2 million.

Canseco and Oakland agreed to the one-year contract, a raise of $400,000, just two days before a hearing had been scheduled before arbitrator Thomas Roberts. Henke and the Blue Jays were close to an agreement last week but the reliever balked when Toronto refused to guarantee that he would be paid during a lockout in the 1991 season.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Fay Vincent joined the baseball negotiations in an attempt to reach an agreement before Thursday's scheduled opening of spring training camps. A 15-minute meeting produced little progress, although the two sides agreed to talk again with Vincent on Tuesday. Vincent held three secret meetings last week, but had not attended any formal bargaining sessions.

Ashford sets record

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Evelyn Ashford set a meet record in the 60-meter dash and Tamara Bykova of the Soviet Union broke her own meet record in the high jump at the Chitose-Yomiuri International Track and Field Meet.

Ashford ran the 60 meters in 7.15 seconds, breaking the meet record of 7.19 set by Marlene Page of Jamaica in 1987. Bykova cleared the bar at 6 feet, 5 1/2 inches, bettering her old mark by 1 1/4 inches. Other winners were Soviet Sergei Bubka in the pole vault, Joe DeLoach in the 60-meter-dash, Mike Powell in the long jump, and Soviet Oleg Protchenko in the triple jump.

Classic lineup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA and Indiana will meet in the Basketball Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic in 1991 at the Civic Center in Springfield, Mass. Louisiana State and Villanova will meet in next fall's 12th annual classic.

Sutter suspended

MONTREAL (AP) — Right winger Rich Sutter of the Vancouver Canucks was suspended for five games by the NHL for slashing Glenn Anderson of the Edmonton Oilers on Jan. 27.

NHL weekly star

NEW YORK (AP) — Center Pat LaFontaine of the New York Islanders was named NHL Player of the Week for the second time this season. He had three goals and three assists in an 8-7 overtime victory at Pittsburgh, three assists in a 5-5 tie with Philadelphia and two assists in a 4-3 overtime victory at Boston.

Fastest qualifier

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Hut Stricklin was the fastest second-day qualifier for the Daytona 500, moving up 12 spots on the speed list. At 193.175 mph, he was the fastest of 24 drivers who turned qualifying laps on the 2.5-mile Daytona International Speedway oval.

Jimmy Spencer was second, improving from 190.098 to 193.013. That moved him from 36th to 17th, right behind Stricklin.

No surgery for Steffi

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (AP) — Steffi Graf will not need surgery to repair her broken thumb, but was told that she cannot swing a racket for six weeks. After speaking with doctors, Graf said she will be ready to play in the French Open starting May 28. Graf, who won the Australian Open in January, splintered a bone in her right thumb when she fell last week while on skis, apparently trying to evade photographers at the Swiss resort of St. Moritz.

Garrison advances

CHICAGO (AP) — Zina Garrison, the second seed, blasted past Mary Pierce 6-4, 6-4 in the first round of the Virginia Slims of Chicago. No. 5 Pam Shriver beat Ann Henricksson 6-2, 6-2 to advance, along with Manuela Maleeva, Lori McNeil, Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, Patty Fendick, and Nicole Provis. Rosalyn Fairbank upset fourth-seeded Monica Seles, 6-3, 6-4.

Green substituted freely through the half trying to find a group that could play together at both ends of the court.

"The guys I was playing, I didn't feel they were getting the job done," he said. "We were trying to find a combination that would play well."

In the second half, the Hawks again couldn't put together a sustained effort. They let New Mexico take the lead, then kept within striking distance by tying up the game nine times.

Howard finally took the lead with two minutes to go when Carlos Thumm hit the second of two foul shots for a 97-96 edge. The Hawks wouldn't score again, however, until Harvey Petty hit a three-point goal just before the buzzer.

New Mexico, meanwhile, managed six straight points, including a four-of-four effort at the free throw line.

Green gave all the credit to a hustling Thunderbird squad.

"I thought they played really hard. New Mexico played really well," he said. "Evertime we made a run, they fought it off, went in and powered it to the basket.

points of the game — aptly enough, a Waters three-pointer — to the last — another three pointer, this one by Stephanie Fetcher — the Lady Hawks thoroughly dominated the out-manned Lady T-birds.

The closest NMJC ever got was on a basket from Tammy Evans less than a minute into the contest that made the score 3-2 Howard, but after that the Lady Hawks kicked their attack into high gear — and the Lady T-birds were left choking in the dust.

Howard reeled off a 21-2 run that put the hosts firmly in control. By the time NMJC scored again — on Staci Dreessen's basket with 9:16 left in the half — Howard had ballooned its lead to 25-6 and Chadwick was rushing his substitutes into action.

But if the Lady T-birds thought they might get some relief, they were sorely mistaken. Perhaps the most telling statistic of the game is that the HC reserve contingent of Fetcher, Kelli Glaspie, Williams, Moore, Mulu Tosi, Cecilia Harge and Kristen Hedlund inherited a 20-point lead and increased it to almost 30 by halftime.

Chadwick put his starters back in during the early stages of the second half, and Waters immediately picked up where she had left off — with a three-pointer.

Waters, a sophomore from Portland, Ore., was hotter than a three-dollar pistol Monday, shooting 68 percent (11 of 15) from the field.

"Linda is capable of doing that," Chadwick said. "She's done it in practice several times. We were just waiting for her to do it in a game."

By the time Waters canned her final points, a — surprise! — three-pointer with 14:52 left, the Lady Hawks had in-

Boston at Houston, 8:30 p.m. (EST). The Celtics, trailing New York by three games in the Atlantic Division, begin an eight-game road trip against Western Conference teams with a combined home record of 161-31 (.839). Boston is 10-10 away from home.

SIGNINGS

The New Jersey Nets, who have lost 10 straight games, signed Derrick Gervin and Leon Wood of the CBA's Santa Barbara Islanders on Monday to replace injured starters Roy Hinson and Mookie Blaylock.

Gervin is the brother of three-time NBA scoring champion George Gervin, who played with San Antonio. The 6-foot-8 forward was leading the CBA in scoring with a 31.7 average. Wood, a 6-foot-3 guard, has played in the NBA with Philadelphia, Washington, San Antonio and New Jersey. He averaged 7.6 points in 76 games with the Nets in 1986-87.

Hinson, the Nets' leading scorer, may be out for the season following arthroscopic surgery on his knee. Blaylock, the club's No. 1 pick in last year's draft, is out three to six weeks with a broken finger.

SMART MOUTH

While Philadelphia forward Charles Barkley leads the league with a .611 field goal percentage, teammate Rick Mahorn leads the league in a different category — technical fouls.

The former Detroit Pistons "Bad Boy" has 20 technicals. Last season Mahorn had 23, tying Utah's Karl Malone for the league lead.

STREAKS

Detroit has won nine straight games. The Pistons are 35-14, the same record they had after 49 games last season when they won the championship. ... New York has won five consecutive games and the L.A. Lakers have won four straight. ... New Jersey and Charlotte have each lost 10 straight games. Sacramento has lost five in a row.

SWISH

Boston forward Larry Bird has missed just nine free throws all season. Bird has made 68 consecutive free throws, the second-longest streak in league history. Former Houston guard Calvin Murphy made 78 straight foul shots in the 1980-81 season.

SIDELINED

The Dallas Mavericks placed forward Adrian Dantley on the injured list on Monday. Dantley suffered a broken leg in the Mavericks' loss at Portland on Feb. 3 and is expected to miss four to five weeks.

The Mavericks signed forward Bob McCann to a 10-day contract to fill Dantley's spot on the roster. McCann was averaging 22.8 points and 8.7 rebounds per game.

NHL roundup

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Coach Jacques Demers has decided to go with Tim Cheveldae in goal for the time being, especially since the youngster is playing like a veteran for the Detroit Red Wings.

Cheveldae made six of his 43 saves in overtime, making Gerard Gallant's goal with 6:03 left in regulation stand up as Detroit earned a 1-1 tie with the slumping New Jersey Devils Monday night.

Demers said. "I think a big part tonight was we knew the kid was playing on his head and we felt comfortable with him in net."

That's been a rare feeling for the Red Wings this season. Greg Stefan, Glen Hanlon and Sam St. Laurent have been in goal most of the season, but none has been impressive. Stefan is out for the season with a knee injury and Detroit has just about reached the desperation point as far as the playoffs are concerned.

Enter Cheveldae, 21, who was recalled from Adirondack on Friday and posted a 7-5 victory over Calgary on Saturday. The tie with the Devils moved Detroit within six points of Minnesota in the battle for the final playoff berth in the Norris Division.

In the only other game Monday, it was Toronto 5, Los Angeles 3.

"We need a goaltender very badly," Demers said. "Cheveldae tonight made a big difference."

44-37 at the intermission. But the Blue Devils (20-4) took control early in the second half and blew the game open despite the loss of leading scorer Phil Henderson, who sprained his left ankle in the first half and may be out for as long as a week.

With Henderson out, freshman Bill McCaffery scored all 12 of his points in the first 10 minutes of the second half to help Duke open a 72-52 lead.

"Bill picked us up," Coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "In a game like this, you need a player to step forward. Bill was that player tonight."

"In these types of games you have to take charge, and usually the seniors do," McCaffery said. "But tonight it was me, and I feel great about it. I had the green light to shoot, so I did."

Duke had two other players in double figures — Robert Brickey and Brian Davis with 13 apiece. Stetson was led by Frank Ireland's 13 points.

No. 7 UNLV 69, Fresno St. 64

Larry Johnson scored 23 points and David Butler added 22 for the Runnin' Rebels (20-4, 12-1 Big West), who trailed most of the first half and traded leads in the second half.

UNLV led 63-61 with 1:52 remaining and Johnson, Anderson Hunt and Barry Young made baskets in the final 1:30 to nail down the victory. Tod Bernard had 16 points and Wilbert Hooker and Dave Barnett 13 each for Fresno State.

UNLV starting guard Greg Anthony was carried from the court with a broken jaw with 13:41 remaining in the first half after crashing to the floor while driving for the basket. Reserve guard Stacey Cvijanovich separated a shoulder and Butler sprained a knee.

"I can't believe this. I've never seen anything like this," Coach Jerry Tarkanian said. "I don't know who's going to play (against co-leader New Mexico State on Thursday night). Our guys are dead tired. Our feet were glued to the floor out there tonight."

No. 14 La Salle 93, St. Joseph's 76

Lionel Simmons moved into seventh place on the NCAA career scoring list despite a season-low 12 points but Doug Overton scored 26, reserve Bobby Johnson added a season-high 24 and La Salle rallied in the final 12 minutes.

St. Joseph's led 59-52 with 11:48 left and 65-63 with 6:41 to go. La Salle (20-1) then went on a 20-2 run, including six points by Johnson and four by Simmons, and took an 83-67 lead with 1:19 remaining.

Johnson made eight field goals, four in each half, all from 3-point range.

Simmons' 12 points gave him 2,919 for his career and moved him past Alfredrick Hughes of Loyola of Chicago, who had 2,914.

"I think that was Lionel's poorest game since his freshman year," Coach Speedy Morris said. "They really did a great job on him. Our defense was the worst it's been all season."

Johnson was as hot as Simmons was cold, making 8-of-13 from 3-point range.

"I knew I was shooting the ball well, and once I got a few feet away from my man I just let it fly," Johnson said. "They tried boxing Lionel and doubled down on him so we had open jumpers and we were able to hit them."

Randy Woods added 17 points and Jack Hurd 11 for La Salle while Amos had 22 and Richard Stewart 21 for St. Joseph's.

No. 21 Michigan State 80, Iowa 70

Kirk Manns tied his Big Ten record of eight 3-point baskets and scored 30 points as Michigan State (20-5, 9-3) won its fourth consecutive game. The Spartans scored 10 of the final 12 points of the first half for a 34-26 lead.

Manns, shooting 47 percent this season from 3-point range, made eight of 13 and equaled the record for a conference game. Manns also had eight 3-pointers against Purdue on Jan. 25, 1989. The record originally was set by Indiana's Jay Edwards against Minnesota on March 10, 1988.

Mike Peplowski added 12 points for the Spartans. Iowa was led by James Moses with 18, Jay Webb with 13, Les Jepsen with 12 and Acie Earl with 10.

"Manns had the hot hand. You score 30 points in a game, I think that's tremendous," Coach Jud Heathcote said.

They were also outstanding at the foul line. The Thunderbirds nailed 29 of 32 free throws, or 90 percent. The Hawks, meanwhile, hit just 23 of 32, or 71 percent.

Howard should be able to rebound on Thursday when they play Clarendon. The Hawks need a win to keep a cushion on South Plains and Odessa in the conference race. South Plains is 7-2 and Odessa is 7-3.

creased their lead to 65-24 and the only suspense left was whether Howard would break the 100-point mark.

That, alas, was about the only thing the Lady Hawks failed to accomplish.

"We played a lot better defense than we did against Odessa," Chadwick said. "But I think the key was that we were picking good shots and making them."

The Lady Hawks will return to action Thursday when they host the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs at 6 p.m. in Garrett Coliseum.

when Tyson knocked down Douglas, because the referee gave Douglas a long count.

Jose Sulaiman, president of the World Boxing Council, told The Associated Press late Monday that the protest was based on the long count, but that none of the protesting parties is arguing that Douglas isn't the champion.

"The Tyson camp is not expressing to us a reversal of the decision. They are claiming they knocked out Douglas in the eighth round," Sulaiman said.

"I never asked anybody to change the decision," King said in a telephone interview with the AP late Monday. "We just want a first shot at a rematch."

"They (the media) misunderstood my motivation," King said. "That has never been my intention. Tyson doesn't want the belt unless he wins it in the ring."

Cayton, who still has a contract with Tyson but is not allowed to speak to him, said King "has destroyed Mike financially, he's certainly hurt his image, and now he's effectively damaged his career."

"I hope he realizes what a disaster King's machinations have been over the past year," Cayton said. "Mike's bright. He just permits himself to be manipulated. I hope he has enough strength of character to admit his mistakes, to leave King, to go back to Catskill where he began, go back to Kevin Rooney, and get himself in shape."

Rooney trained Tyson from 1981 until 1988, when Tyson fired him for criticizing his lifestyle.

"As soon as I saw him, I realized he was in very bad shape," Cayton said. "He was always very proud of his physique. He always trained so you could see the definition of his stomach muscles. This time, there was no definition."

"He weighed 220 pounds, but he obviously achieved it by dieting and not by conditioning, which weakened him," Cayton said. "He was in the worst shape of his career, and King's henchmen are responsible."

What really astounded Cayton was how Tyson's corner handled the puffy eye.

"There is a metal piece that you put in an ice bucket called an End Swell, and that's used to control swelling," Cayton said. "All trainers use them. When his eye began to swell up in the second round, they didn't use it. Finally, they used some kind of an ice-bag abortion that looked like a water bag, but only after the swelling was pronounced."

"Their inexperience certainly showed up in this fight."

Rooney was with Tyson through four years and 35 pro victories. In the year since Rooney was fired, Tyson has won twice and lost once.

"He should take some time off and get himself together," Rooney said, "then get back in the gym and regain the title. He knows my number. He knows how to reach me."

Names in the news

LEAVENWORTH, Wash. (AP) — Film star Bruce Willis caused young hearts to throb when he turned up unannounced at a ski area while the set for "Die Hard II" was being arranged.

"Oh yeah, he created quite a stir," said Gordon West, a manager at the Mission Ridge ski area. "He had every lady going 'ooh ah ooh.' He came in incognito and rented his skis under some other name."

Jason Stromme, a 17-year-old high school student, said he noticed Willis eating lunch Sunday with four people at the central Washington ski lodge.

"He got up and left because

everyone was looking at him," Stromme said, and then youngsters pounced on his table, grabbing the water glass and other items the star had touched.

NEW YORK (AP) — Guitar virtuoso Eric Clapton is planning a six-week U.S. tour that will bring the British rocker to 27 cities in the spring.

It will be Clapton's first U.S. tour since 1987, although he appeared with the Rolling Stones several times during their just-completed "Steel Wheels" tour.

Clapton's smashing groups of the 1960s and early '70s included Cream, Blind Faith and Derek and the Dominoes. Unlike other megastars on the road in the past year, his tour will not have a corporate sponsor, publicist Mitch Zamarin said.

The tour opens in Atlanta on March 28.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1990

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Meg Tilly, TV host Hugh Downs, dancer Gregory Hines, comedian Jack Benny.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New contacts will revitalize your career. Join professional organizations. A telephone call brings welcome news about an overseas investment. A trip could help cement a relationship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid extravagance and all forms of gambling. Only research and new methods will improve the bottom line. An influential person is so impressed that a job could be forthcoming. Romance keeps you guessing!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A friend lends powerful support to your endeavors. Attending seminars could lead to new employment opportunities. Delegate routine tasks. You could experience a replay of past events.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Everything seems to be in slow motion today. Take advantage of the lull to get better organized. Continue to gather together income tax materials. Welcome a newcomer into the family fold.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A behind-the-scenes guardian angel saves you today. Remember to repay the favor in meaningful ways. Old friends open new doors to you. Attending a social event could change your life!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Welcome new ideas. Attention to detail is essential. Return telephone calls and answer mail promptly. A casual relationship could turn serious for you. Accept an invitation to a celebration.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A comic valentine could have serious overtones! Watch what you say and do today. Important things are bubbling beneath the surface. The spotlight is on your job performance; give work your best shot.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Welcome suggestions from younger people; they may know something you do not. Taking a special seminar or learning another language will give you a shot at a plum job. Spruce up your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have many commitments. Do not expect too much from an inexperienced person. A stock market tip bears careful investigation. Do not allow romance to interfere with your career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Get better organized and recent tensions will subside. The mail brings welcome news from a college student or old friend. Share your expertise. Volunteer work boosts a retiree's self-esteem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A misunderstanding could terminate a relationship. Try not to fret; this person was never what you needed. Look ahead! A new hobby or study group helps clear the cobwebs from your mind.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A chance encounter brightens your day. Capitalize on old ties to increase profits. A childhood friend could again play a major role in your life. Be compassionate with someone who has suffered a loss.
