BIG SPRING — The Celebrity Waiter gala last Saturday raised $3,100 for the American Heart Association, said Mary Payne, president of the Howard County chapter of the association, at the group's Thursday meeting.

The waiters sold 375 tickets and made $2,667 in tips and $1,000 in bar sales, for a total income of $8,607 for the event.

"It was fun but I'm glad it's past," said Payne.

She suggested the group reconsider Celebrity Waiters for next year since attendance this year was far lower than expected due to competition from Howard College's homecoming and the Judds and Rickey Van Shelton show in Midland. The Chamber of Commerce banquet this Saturday is another fundraiser that usually happens in February, crowding social calendars, she noted.

Payne anticipates that Jump Rope for Heart, a fundraiser at Coahoma Elementary and Forsan Junior High set for the next two weeks and Dance for Heart, an aerobics class fundraiser scheduled for April, will make up for the shortfall.

In other heart association news:

• Forsan High School had 180 students sign pledge cards during the Save a Sweetheart program, which uses peer pressure to encourage students to either stop smoking or not begin the habit, which contributes to heart disease. The students pledged not to smoke on Valentine's day.

Students at Big Spring High School also participated in the program, but numbers of pledges are not yet tallied.

• February is Heart Month.

Money raised by the heart association in activities this month and throughout the year is used to fight cardiovascular disease, the primary cause of death in Texas. Thirty-seven cents of each dollar raised goes to research and 30 cents of each dollar goes to heart disease prevention programs in schools and businesses, said Payne.

Accident injures two

BIG SPRING - A two-car accident Thursday afterndon caused slight injuries to a local woman and a baby.

The two where injured in an accident at the intersection of West 11th Place and Douglas Street according to a police report. Police reported slight injuries to Wilma Evans, 52, and they reported that Tano Christepher Handova, 8 months, was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by private vehicle. No injuries to the child were listed on the accident report.

According to the report, a 1975 Lincoln Continental driven by Cinthia Ann Handova, 27, 2911 W. Highway 80 No. 7, struck a 1987 Cutlass driven by Beatrice Maestas Burke, 55, Sterling City Route Box 58. Handova reported to police that the brakes on her car failed Handova was cited for running a stop sign, driving while license suspended and an unrestrained child under 2.

Out for our share

AUSTIN (AP) - Education will be the one of the first targets of a new Washington office dedicated to getting Texas a bigger slice of the federal funding pie, the office's director

Bob Reinshuttle, director of the Central Office of Federal Funds Management, said Thursday education is a timely issue but just one area where Texas stands to gain.

'We view it as a matter of equity and want to make sure Texas gets its fair share, and we haven't done that in the past," he said. "Anything we can do to increase federal funding is going to have a rather major impact on the state budget.

The new office was created by the Legislature in 1989 out of concern for the state's 49th place nationwide standing in ederal grants, with awards of $6 billion per year. The state ranks 40th in total federal fund receipts, with a $49.5 billion annual take.

BIG SPRING — Two juveniles escaped from the juvenile detention center at 10:45 p.m. Thursday, but no one noticed they were gone until five hours later when a worker was found locked in a cell.

At 3:55 Friday morning, according to a Howard County Sheriff's report, deputies investigated suspicious activities around the Howard County Courthouse Annex and discovered the two were missing.

Margy Thompson, chief juvenile probation officer, said a 14 year old juvenile was taken into custody by officers, while a 16-year-old juvenile remains free. The two were being held in the detention center on delinquent charges pending court hearings, she said.

Thompson said one of the juveniles overpowered the detention center worker and locked him in a cell. Thompson did not say if the guard was injured in the incident.

Although an alarm went off, authorities are unsure of the time, Thompson said. The juvenile escaped and let the other juvenile out, she said, and when the two were outside the annex, they split

CARTAGENA, Colombia (AP) - President Bush and three Latin American leaders agreed on a new drug-fighting strategy but steered away from a disputed U.S. initiative during a tightly guarded one-day summit.

Bush said he and the leaders of the three largest cocaineproducing nations formed the first 'anti-drug cartel,'' but a joint communique vowing closer coordination on the war on drugs apparently ruled out expanding the use of U.S. military force in Bolivia, Colombia and Peru to combat cocaine traffickers.

"Each country may involve its armed forces in this fight in its own territory," said the communique, signed by Bush, Bolivia's Jaime Paz Zamora, Colombia's Virgilio Barco and Peru's Alan Garcia.

Latin leaders had opposed a U.S. plan to send a naval force to interdict cocaine shipments in the international waters off Colombia's

At the summit, Bush promised to step up the fight against U.S. drug use and outlined emergency programs to help offset the weakening of Peru's and Bolivia's economies as they fight to reduce and even-tually eliminate cultivation of coca, used to make cocaine.

Cities approve TU rate hike; electric co-ops eye request

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

Staff Writer Seven of 10 CROSSROADS cities in a seven-county area have passed ordinances to go along with whatever the Public Utilities Commission in Austin decides on a TU

Electric rate increase request of 10.2 percent.

Meanwhile, a rural electric cooperative based in Stanton decided to become an intervening party in the increase request on which a hearing is scheduled for April 26 in Austin. Joining them may be two other rural cooperatives based in Colorado City and Robey

O'Donnell, which denied approval of the rate increase at a Feb. 13 meeting, is the only city in TU Electric's Big Spring district to do so, said District Manager Hooper Sanders

Lamesa voted at a Feb. 2 meeting to suspend their decision for 90 days, Sanders said. Big Spring voted in their Jan. 23 meeting to defer action until after the PUC decision. Cities in the district that voted to go along include Coahoma, Stanton, Forsan and Ackerly.

Cap Rock is questioning the construction of Comanche Peak Nuclear Plant, which the rate increase will help subsidize, Collier said. The project is 10 years late and cost $9 billion to build compared to the original projection of $779 million, he said. The first of two reactors is supposed to be operating by this summer.

Another issue may be the possibilty that wholesale customers such as rural electric cooperatives will have their rates increased 11.9 percent while residential customers will only get a 10.2 percent rate increase.

Dick Ramsey, director of comnumications for TU Electric in Dallas, said rates have to vary because of varying fuel costs, of which nuclear is the cheapest, and factors such as when and how much electricity is used.

Settlement made by Davis in wrongful death suit

FORT WORTH (AP) - New evidence "completely exonerating" Cullen Davis as the gunman in a shooting spree at his Fort Worth mansion was not delivered because parties in a wrongful death suit accepted a $250,000 settlement on Thursday, an attorney said.

Davis' attorney, Eddie Roush Jr., declined to divulge details of the evidence, citing three remaining civil lawsuits that accuse the former multi-millionaire of being the man who killed two and wounded two in 1976.

"There is significant evidence that has never been introduced, evidence discovered after the criminal case was concluded," Roush said, referring to Davis' acquittal in 1977 of killing stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn, 12. U.S. District Judge Eldon B.

Mahon Thursday approved the settlement between Davis and the two teen-age children of Stan Farr, who also was slain at the Davis

Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla Davis, was wounded in the attack, along with Gus "Bubba" Gavrel, who remains disabled.

The settlement was reached 10 days ago and defeated the need for a trial, during which Mahon would have decided Davis' culpability and the new evidence might have been introduced.

Davis did not attend the hearing. Multimillion-dollar lawsuits filed separately against Davis by Priscilla Davis, Andrea Wilborn's father, Jack Wilborn, and the estate of Stan Farr have yet to be Gavrel was the first to settle his case against Davis, accepting in sion of guilt, Roush said.

The judge warned the Farr family that because Davis is mired in bankruptcy, it may be years before they see any of the settlement — if ever. Under a provision of the settlement, the former wealthy industrialist and oil heir is not protected from paying the debt because of this bankruptcy filing. The Farr family originally had sought $3 million in damages.

Extraordinary security precautions were taken to protect Bush and his three summit partners, with about 5,000 uniformed troops watching over the proceedings. Battleships presented an imposing force off shore and helicopter gunships hovered nearby. Bush returned to Washington late Thursday without incident.

But Colombian guerrillas made their own point, one of defiance. They kidnapped an American priest in Cali, the third U.S. citizen taken prisoner by rebels this week. Also, a small bomb exploded Thursday morning, 4½ miles from Barranquilla Airport, damaging a voltage regulator of a line that fed the air conditioning of the airport where Bush landed two hours later.

At the summit, Bush met a key Latin American demand by promising in the communique to fight cocaine consumption in his

"I owe it to the children of America, the United States ... to these three presidents to guarantee them that we will do everything we can to cut demand for narcotics in the United States," Bush said.

The four nations also promised to hold a follow-up meeting within six months to review progress in the batttle against cocaine and called for a 1991 world conference to address illegal drug trafficking.

The document proposed "broadbased rural development" to help prevent the economic hardship that it admitted will inevitably result from programs to substitute other crops for coca.

The communique indicated that the United States was willing to help finance programs to replenish the country's foreign exchange and to help create jobs for farmers no longer able to grow the illegal crop.

"The great result of the anti-drug summit for our countries is the realization of the necessity of substituting a legal economy for the current coca economy,' Zamora said.

Colombia has frequently complained that while it is spilling its blood fighting drug traffickers, the U.S. is discriminating against its legal exports such as coffee and flowers with high tariffs and other protective measures.

Bush on Thursday tried to address those complaints by saying he would work to open U.S. markets more.

Bush did not promise any more aid to the Latin American countries other than the $2.2 billion over the next five years he had already pledged.

However, the president, perhaps realizing the programs called for in the communique would require additional funding, said he would try to get Western European and other developed nations to help foot the

Another motion brought up by McLeash was to not allow "rumor and hearsay" testimony about Travis Gray committing an unrelated offense to collect insurance money. However, he did acknowledge that testimony regarding "the high amount of insurance dollars on his deceased wife" would be allowable.

Frank Conard, 32nd District attorney, said they would also bring up the relationship between Travis Gray and his wife.

Tammy Gray's mother, Patsy Payne, has said previously that her 27-year-old daughter had filed for divorce from her husband in April, 1988, but never completed the necessary legal requirements.

She was last seen alive leaving the Brass Nail II in Big Spring with her husband about 31/2 hours before she died, Payne said. A Dallas County autopsy report ruled that her death was a homicide due to strangulation and drowning

Travis Gray told Mitchell County authorities they were both swimming in Lake Colorado City when he noticed she was having difficulty in the water. Gray said he took her from the water to his pickup and to the Mitchell County Hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Conard said Travis Gray, who is free on a $50,000 bond, is charged with first degree murder. It is punishable by no less than five years in the state penitentiary and no more than 99 years or a life sentence

League's debates may lack gubernatorial front-runners

AUSTIN (AP) - League of Women Voters officials say they still hope the Republican and Democratic front-runners for governor will take art in the group's televised debate, scheduled for the week before the March 13

Six of the seven candidates in each party are to take part in the March 7-8 forums, which will be televised statewide, said Dianne Sheridan, league president. But Democrat Ann Richards hasn't yet accepted the invitation, and Republican Clayton Williams has another event scheduled for the night of the GOP debate, Ms. Sheridan said Thursday. "We're always concerned when we don't have all the candidates, and we're continuing to work on that," she said. "We will continue to hope that those candidates will continue to hear from potential voters that they would like the candidates to participate. Williams press secretary Bill Kenyon said the candidate has long had a fund-raising event scheduled in Dallas on March 7, the night of the GOP debate. Williams isn't ducking his Republican rivals, Kenyon said. "We will have done 22 debates andor joint appearances by primary day," he said.

Glenn Smith, campaign manager for Ms. Richards, said the campaign was looking for a way to take part in the debate, although it conflicts with other campaign activities already planned.

Ms. Sheridan said the League of Women Voters invited all seven Republicans and all seven Democrats whose names are on the primary ballots. Two other key debates, last week's in Houston and upcoming Dallas debates on March 1-2, limited invitations to major candidates.

"Most voters are going to go into an election booth on March 13 and they're going to see a lot of people on the ballot. . . What we're trying to do is make sure voters are informed. The way to know that they're informed is to invite everybody to participate," Ms.

Sheridan said. Republicans taking part are Kent Hance, Jack Rains, Tom Luce, Ed Cude, W.N. Otwell and Royce X. Owens. Democratic debaters will be former Gov. Mark White, Attorney General Jim Mattox, Stanley Adams, Theresa Hearn-Haynes, Earl Holmes and Ray Rachal.

It's a joke told uneasily in Dallas, where four people in the past year have been exonerated of crimes for which they spent a total of 34 years in prison.

One of them, Randall Dale Adams, once came within three days of being executed for the slaying of a police officer. He spent 12 years in prison before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals overturned his conviction and prosecutors decided to drop the case. Three others were cleared in just the last week, two on Wednesday.

Gov. Bill Clements signed a full pardon for Michael Anthony Woten, 36, who spent eight years in prison for a grocery store robbery. Prosecutors sought a pardon after the Dallas Times Herald located his alibi witness

Also on Wednesday, the Dallas County District Attorney's office decided not to re-try Joyce Ann Brown, 42, for an armed robbery that ended in a store owner's death. Her conviction was overturned last

State fund for plugging wells is dry

LUBBOCK (AP) - A well blowout in South Texas has drained the state's well-plugging fund almost dry at a time when the state suspects that hundreds of oil wells are contaminating ground water, officials said.

Many abandoned wells need to be plugged to protect the environment, said state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, who wants the issue to be addressed during the special legislative session that opens Feb. 27.

Gov. Bill Clements called the session to deal with school funding and the selection of judges, and he controls the agenda. Montford said Wednesday he is reluctant to overload the agenda, but that he believes the issue can't wait until the next regular session a year

Improperly plugged or abandoned oil and gas wells can contaminate ground water by providing a direct route between saltwater formations and freshwater aquifers.

The Texas Railroad Commis sion, which oversees matters such as the capping of wells, is weighing options for replenishing the state's well-plugging fund, said Glen Hunt. administrative assistant to commissioner Kent Hance. He said one option is to request more money for the fund during the special session.

The commission estimates 40,000 to 50,000 wells statewide are potential sources of pollution, and that it would take $250 million to $300 million to plug them all.

Family settles first suit in school bus crash

McALLEN (AP) — The first outof-court settlement between a soft drink company and a family that lost a child in Texas' worst school bus accident will bring the parents of Jose Luis Ortega a lifetime income of more than $2.7 million.

Alton residents Raul and Margarita Ortega reached the settlement Monday with Valley Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Inc., the Ortegas' attorney, Kenneth W. Sparks of Houston, said Thursday.

Valley Coca-Cola, based in McAllen, has agreed to pay $1.5 million to the family. But because of an interest-earning annuity created in the agreement, the family over 35 years will receive a total of more than $2.7 million, and more if the parents live longer.

It includes an undisclosed sum the company paid the Ortegas last Monday, plus lifelong monthly payments that begin at $4,000 and eventually escalate to $7,000. Sparks' law firm received approximately one-third of the settlement

He praised Valley Coca-Cola for its "corporate conscience" in dealing with the family.

Making it easier to vote

Despite White House opposition, the House of Representatives approved the so-called "motor voter" bill that reduces barriers to voter registration. The bill allows voters to register by mail, at government offices or when they renew their driver's licenses. It makes it easier to purge those who have died or moved and imposes stiffer penalties for threatening voters or for voter fraud. Similar legislation is pending in the Senate. It deserves approval. The United States has some of the lowest voter participation rates of any democracy. Fewer than 50 percent of those eligible to vote in the 1988 presidential elections bothered to do so, in large part because they weren't registered. In countries where turnout is much higher, registration is frequently government-initiated. In Britain and Canada, civil servants travel door-to-door collecting names for voter lists.

The voter registration bill is in trouble because Republicans in Congress see increased participation as a threat. While they complain publicly about potential fraud and cost, the real fear seems to be that more Democrats than GOP voters will sign up under the loosened rules.

As for the fear of fraud, the states with the most liberal registration laws — more liberal than the House measure would require — report no significant fraud.

As to cost, any voter registration drive, whether run by political parties, civic groups or churches, would add to the voter rolls and to costs, yet no one seriously suggests that those efforts should not be undertaken.

This bill will do a lot more to strengthen citizenship and American democracy than it can possibly do to hurt

Maybe we should start a cold war with Canada

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

This country has a proud history of always having somebody around to fear

In colonial days, it was the British. Mothers used to tell their children back then, "Go to sleep right now or Gen. Cornwallis and the Redcoats will come and take you away and make you eat

Then, we were afraid of the Indians were our natural enemies since it was their land we were stealing.

Mothers in the Old West used to tell their children, "Wipe that smirk off your face, or Geromino will sneak into your room tonight and scalp you.

If a mother were really mad, she could add, ". . . and he'll be hiding under your bed.

Next, we were afraid of the Ger mans and the Japanese. Mothers had two choices of what to say to their children at that point.

"If you don't eat every single thing on your plate, I'm calling Hitler," was one choice

The other was, "If this room isn't cleaned up in ten minutes I'm going to make you eat raw fish for dinner

We weren't afraid of the Germans or the Japanese anymore after 1945. That's when we started being afraid of the Russians.

My own mother used to say, "Turn off that television right now and come help me work on the fallout shelter.

But look what has happened. Suddenly the Russians aren't scary anymore. They are talking peace and disarmament. Even communism may be in big trouble in Russia. There are no Rooskies to be afraid of these days and very soon there could be no more commies behind every bush. If we are to carry on the proud tradition of having somebody around to frighten us, who's it go-

Iran? No. How can you take any country seriously that goes authors.

The Chinese? No. Our own president seems to trust them. Cuba? No. Castro's too old.

I could say the Japanese because of their economic power, but every time I write something nasty about the Japanese I get about 600 angry letters from people who have just sold their office parks to Fuji for $190,000,000.

I'm going to suggest we start being afraid of Canada. I realize Canada has never been much of a menacing threat to us, but I also want to point out Canada is this huge country that sits in spitting distance of us.

You must know how much the Canadians, who are always cold, covet our Sunbelt. I can see the Canadian army now marching on Orlando armed with guns, golf bags and pull carts.

And who's to say Canada doesn't have a plan right now to jump across the border and invade Idaho and steal our potatoes?

Plus Canada is responsible for giving us hockey. What if the Canadians took us over and our children had to learn to play goalie and speak French?

Let's be afraid of Canada Mothers can say to their children, 'You talk back to me one more time, and the Toronto Maple Leafs are going to come over and skate on your face.'

Noriega apparent PSYOPS success

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — More than 200 of the U.S. soldiers that swarmed into Panama in December were trained in warfare of the mind. Their weapons were bullhorns and loudspeakers, and their assignment was to psych out the enemy. These highly classified units in the Army are called Psychological Operations Groups. They were among the first to land in Panama because the Army had learned a lesson in Grenada. The POG men were sent in too late during the 1983 invasion of Grenada, and that delay nearly botched the job In Panama, the POGs' most notorious operation was to blast the opera-loving Noriega with rock 'n' roll while he was in the Embassy. The POG men thought it would be a nifty idea to lob songs at Noriega like an endless barrage of psychological grenades. The hit parade showed that the POG men have a sense of humor

But the psychological siege of the Papal Nunciature was the piece de resistance of the POGs. They told U.S. soldiers to rev the engines on their vehicles through the night, roll tanks up and down the street and keep helicopters hovering overhead

Our associate Jim Lynch has learned that the tactics were the closest the POGs could come to the standard "sleep deprivation" technique of interrogation without having Noriega under the hot lights. Plus the noise had the added benefit of foiling any eavesdropping devices Noriega's troops might have directed at the U.S. soldiers. Along with the rock 'n' and roll,

He locked Noriega in a small room and turned off the air conditioning. Outside, the Panamanian people delivered the last straw. About 15,000 of them rallied at the nunciature on Jan. 3 shouting "Kill the Hitler," and brandishing pineapples on spears. (Noriega's enemies were fond of calling him "Pineapple Face."

The POG men helped coordinate the parade, but the Panamanians, with an innate sense of their own PSYOPS, needed little encourage ment. On the evening of the parade, Noriega finally surrendered. And while boarding a military plane for Florida, he burst into tears — a casualty of

Spending the 'peace dividend'

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) -There's only one certainty about the peace dividend: everybody wants a piece of it. And that includes some politicians who aren't enthusiastic about declaring much of a dividend vet The government hasn't yet figured out how much it will be, and how or when it will be produced. There will be defense spending cuts, targets and timing yet to be determined. The peace dividend is a slogan-size name for an urgent new installment in the long debate over defense spending and national priorities, now transformed by the ending Cold War, the transformation of the communist bloc and the apparent easing of the Soviet threat

With Congress in recess this week, that's one of the issues campaigning members are tak ing up with their constituents. The peace dividend debate already is unfolding in congressional committees, where the chairman of one House panel showed defense chieftains an ax and said it was symbolic of the mood at the Capitol While President Bush is trying to avoid runaway expectations of a sharp, swift cut in defense expenditures because of the revolutionary changes in eastern Europe and Moscow, the administration has its own plans for the potential dividend, seeing the potential savings as a guarantee that he can stand permanently on his promise of no new taxes A conservative think tank, skeptical about the whole business, says that if there really is a peace dividend, it should be used to cut taxes. Otherwise, according to the Heritage Foundation, the savings are likely to be used in "a congressional spending spree. .

"Dividends normally are paid to investors, not kept by the corporation," the foundation said. The Bush defense budget is under attack in Congress, where some Democrats argue that it looks like a Cold War leftover. The budget seeks a $5.3 billion increase in Pentagon spending; adjusted for inflation that means a reduction of about 2 percent in real growth. Administration critics say the threat is receding a lot faster than that. Bush said this week that his budget makes good

"I think the American people want a cautious approach to this," he said. "I don't think any of us think we can see with clairvoyance as to what's going to happen the day after tomorrow

"Some of the Democrats are jumping all over us,'' he told a news conference. "But that's all right, that just goes with the system.

But there also is skepticism among some members of Congress, in both parties, who tend toward the cautious approach Bush advocates

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, says he's looking for an administration defense blueprint that takes into account the changing world balance and the prospects for arms control. He said he doubts Congress will go ahead with costly weapons systems like the stealth bomber program, the Star Wars space defense system and the mobile MX missile unless the administration presents a blueprint that fits its proposals into arms control prospects in the post Cold War world.

While those are the big ticket weapons, the administration maintains that sharp, immediate cost cuts could come only in conventional force spending, an argument Pentagon critics dispute.

Nor does the current budget anticipate significant savings this year through the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Europe. Bush proposes the withdrawal of 80,000 troops from Europe under an East-West agreement now in negotiation.

The president said those savings, too, will come gradually, over the years. He said he doesn't want soldiers who seek reenlistment to be dumped by the arms services. "I would hope that attrition can take care of the cuts that inevitably will be coming," Bush said

He also said there is no reason to change the NATO weapons plan that includes short-range nuclear missiles, battlefield weapons that would be targeted on East Germany and other Warsaw Pact states. The West Germans resisted modernizing those U.S. missiles even before the undoing of the old communist regimes

Bush said that at this point, he sees nothing to change the NATO compromise that left the modernization question open un-

For all of that, and despite the fact that economists say any peace dividend will be far smaller than those after Vietnam and Korea, the search for a dividend is on. Budget Director Richard G.

Darman called it the "spend the peace dividend game" in which the politician-players conjure up vast sums in supposed savings to be appropriated for their pet projects. "Thus Washington entertains the notion of spending fifty times a dividend that has not yet definitively materialized — a true Wonderland phenomenon,' Darman said in his introduction to the budget. Then again, anyone who had forecast the remodeling of eastern Europe a year ago would have been accused of wonderland dreaming, too.

Cheney tours military sites

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) -Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney tours American and South Korean military sites near the frontline with communist North Korea today after agreeing with Seoul officials on a reduction of U.S. troops on the Pacific rim.

The secretary told Seoul officials he wants to cut U.S. forces in Asia and the Pacific by 10 to 12 percent — at least 12,000 troops over the next three years.

He said about 5,000 of the troops would be pulled out of South Korea and another 7,000 to 9,400 would be withdrawn from the Philippines and Japan.

The Koreas, divided since 1945, face each other with more than 1.5 million troops deployed on

Historians have misgivings about German reunification

WASHINGTON (AP) -Historians say the world need not fear that German jackboots will echo again on European pavements, but some still see the rush toward German reunification as a setback — a step away from the integration of Europe.

For the most part, the historians say an East Germany collapsing into chaos represents a greater threat to stability than a united German state.

'The West Germans are moving ahead not out of nationalistic fervor, but a perceived need to deal with a crisis," said Henry Ashby Turner of Yale, author of "The Two Germanies Since 1945.

There is no such a thing as indelible national character.' Turner said. "I don't think there is any chance that the young men of Germany are going to slip out of their Adidas running shoes and pull on jackboots and start running around saying, 'Heil!"

He was one of several experts in German history discussing the implications of reunification following the decision Tuesday by the four World War II allies - the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union — to accept the reunification of a Germany they divided 45 years ago.

University of Chicago historian Michael Geyer, a native of Germany, said he feared the creation of a "strong, sovereign nation in the center of Europe" could reverse a more important development — the 40-year drive toward an integrated Europe in which ineven government ministries have turers," he said. been collaborating across borders.

The East German state is collapsing," said Geyer. "So something has to happen very dramatically. But they have a choice — the Europeans and Germans and Americans. Do they

West Germans were aware of their European neighbors' misgivings, said Richard Breitman of American University, and so they presented reunification within the context of European integration. They wanted to avoid arousing fear

While the people of West Europe have gotten over nationalistic distrusts, East Europeans, living in closed societies, have not, and fear of Germany is a reality in East Europe and Russia. - Gerhard Weinberg.

want to opt for the European card of a united Germany again or for the German card? I think they are opting for the German

"I hear these days very little about what Gorbachev called 'the house of Europe," he said.

The result of a dominant "uncomfortably strong" German state, Geyer added, could be a setback to the diminishment of national borders. It could also mean. he said, that American troops might have to stay in Europe as a counterweight to Germany.

"If I had my druthers reunifications would have happened after 1992, after the integration of the West German economy into the economy of Western Europe," said Charles J. Herber of George Washington University, expressing similar concern.

"Then there would have been dominating Europe 'Even if the history did not exist, there would be fears of that kind,' he said. "We're dealing not just with rational calculation but a whole host of emotional memories. For all that, Breitman said, "One Germany is not only inevitable, but given the successful record of West Germany over the last 40 years, my feeling is it is better than having a regime in chaos. The only alternative to reunification," added Turner, is an East Germany in ruins, "a basket case, a Bangladesh of Europe. He said Germans have "no significant interest in territorial revisions. Those misgivings are misplaced. Gerhard Weinberg of the University of North Carolina, considered a leading historian of the Nazi era cautioned that reunification, if mishandled, could prove explosive.

While the people of West Europe. have gotten over nationalistic distrusts, East Europeans, living in closed societies, have not, he said, and fear of Germany is a reality in East Europe and Russia, he said.

"I don't think the Germans are heading for Moscow again, but we have to give people — and the Germans have to give people — time to think this through and get used to it. Mishandled, reunification could scare one or the other of the participants into starting something and scare others and goodness knows where it would Gordon Craig, emeritus professor at Stanford, said the division of Germany has been the basis of a peace settlement "which worked pretty well" but was "abnormal and sooner or later had to be corrected.

German reunification, said Craig, gives the world the chance to build a new international system, one that "will prevent the use of international violence.'

He added, "We have to be careful that we don't fall back into the kind of system that existed before the Second World War, a Europe filled with nations that were suffering various grievances, rivalries, disputed frontiers, driven by what they considered to be legitimate reasons but pitted against each other — the sort of things that gave rise to Hitler in 1933.

Germany's Borders Since 1914

Two world wars stripped Germany of its former territories east of the Oder and Niesse rivers, the provisional border with Poland that was established in 1945. Many displaced ethnic Germans from East Prussia, Pomerania and Silesia fled to East or West Germany after World War II.

limited choice of contraceptives in the United States is leading to increases in abortions and voluntary sterilizations, according to a report by the National Research Council.

Called "Developing New Contraceptives," the study released Wednesday said Americans have fewer contraceptive choices than in other countries due to government policies that discourage research and product development

The contraceptive methods now available in the United States, the report said, "leave major gaps in the ability of people to control fertility safely, effectively and in culturally acceptable ways.'

Contraceptives are used at some point in the lives of 95 percent of the 54 million sexually active American women between ages 15 and 44, the report said. It said about 20 percent of this number have been voluntarily sterilized.

Among sexually active men with partners at risk of pregnancy, about 15 percent have had vasectomies.

"Limited contraceptive methods force many women and men to make difficult choices — to have an abortion or to be sterilized at a young age — that could be avoided if additional safe, effective, acceptable and affordable contracep-

"indicates that as many as half of all unintended pregnancies resulting in abortion were the result of contraceptive failure."

About one-third of American women at risk for unwanted pregnancies use oral contraceptives, with about 3 percent of the pill-takers becoming pregnant in the first year of use. Three percent of women use intauterine devices, with 6 percent of these having an unintended pregnancy in the first

The report said condoms continue to be the contraceptive method for 17 percent of the partners of women ages 18 to 49. But it said about 12 percent of these

The report said regulations by the Food and Drug Administration and "the risk of product liability lawsuits have caused all but one of the major U.S. pharmaceutical firms to stop contraceptive research over the last 20 years. As a result, it said, many contraceptive implants, devices and injectables that are available in Europe cannot be sold in this country.

Many of the techniques now in use in other countries, the report said, are safer, longer-lasting and more effective than the methods available to Americans.

Rigid FDA safety regulations, which evaluate contraceptives by a different standard than is used in Europe, keep products off the market here. The report, for instance, noted the FDA blocked marketing of an injectable contraceptive in this country because the manufacturer could not prove that it was safe. In the United Kingdom, however, the logic was turned around and the product was approved after it could not be demonstrated that it was unsafe.

The report was produced jointly by the National Research Council and the Institute of Medicine. Both are affiliated with the National Academy of Sciences, a congressionally chartered private

Students at the Dean Rusk Program in International Studies have taped world maps to the sides of about 150 campus bathroom stalls.

"It's a place where people have time on their hands. We're hoping this will help them use it constructively," said senior Mary Snyder, who is spearheading the effort, dubbed the Bathroom Brigade For Geographical Literacy.

'Sweetheart' banquet

On Feb. 10 members of Christian Temple Church asked their 'sweethearts' to the Valentine's Banquet. The room was decorated with red foil heart dollies and silver glitter stars hanging from the ceiling. The front of the room was graced by balloons and a huge silver glitter Star with a long net tail encasing red and white lights attached to the wall by big silver bows. Each couple had their picture taken by Richard Chambers. Dinner was served by candlelight. Music was provided by Bobby and Dana Moody, Sharon Chambers and Tim and Barbie Lelek.

Special entertainment was planned for after the meal. Leon Green, pastor of Plainview Baptist Church, performed several magic tricks to the amazement of everyone attending. The entertainment was even more eventful when Brenda Chambers, Jimmy Moody, David Kline, Mat Matlock and Er-

Strong second half leads Lady Hawks

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — The Howard College Lady Hawks did a great impression of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Thursday night against the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs.

The evil Dr. Jekyll was there the first 20 minutes of play, and Howard found itself trailing 39-36 at halftime. The good Mr. Hyde took over in the second half, and the end result was a 90-67 Howard Clarendon had a lot to do with Howard's misfortunes in the first half, however. The Lady Bulldogs shot well from the field and hounded Howard with its pesky man-toman defense. The second half was entirely different, though. It was Howard's turn to shoot the lights out, while its defense totally wrecked the Lady Bulldogs' game plan.

Howard coach Royce Chadwick summed it up well. "We looked like Ned's little brother in the first half," he said. "But I thought Clarendon played well in the first half. We just got whipped the first

In the second half we came out and decided we'd better do something or we were going to get beat. The kids have been doing a good job of responding they've had to this year."

What Howard did in the second half was press the Lady Bulldogs ragged, causing numerous turnovers with its fullcourt pressure. Freshman guard Kim Robinson keyed the press, coming up with three quick steals to start the second half. Offensively, the Lady Hawks were unstoppable, shooting a scorching 60 percent the final 20 minutes. Robinson, Shannon Lawson and Ana Carroll, who were very quiet in the first half, started to find the range, and Linda Waters continued her hot shooting. While the HC starters struggled in the first half, forward Lisa Moore came off the bench to keep Howard close. Moore, who scored Howard's first seven points of the Clarendon looked anything like a cellar-dweller in the first half. The Lady Bulldogs trailed by as many as seven in the half, but went on a 13-0 tear late in the half, taking the

They did it with good outside shooting from forward Jamie Caldwell and guard Daphane Holmes, who combined for five three-pointers in the period. By the time Waters sunk a baseline jumper, Clarendon led 31-25 with five minites left in the first half.

The half ended with Holmes and Howard's Stephanie Fetcher trading three-pointers, and HC's Mulu Tosi scoring off an offensive rebound just before the buzzer. Howard trailed 39-36 at the half.

The Lady Hawks took control of the game quickly in the second half. Waters and Robinson started it off with baskets, and Caldwell answered with a basket for Clarendon. Then Lawson scored inside and it was followed by a steal and layup by Robinson. A few moments later Robinson fed Lawson inside, and Howard led 48-41 with a little over two minutes gone. In the first five minutes of the half, Howard only missed one attempt in its first eight tries. Reserve guard Cindy Williams got into the act by nailing a couple of outside shots, Waters sunk one from the corner and Carroll turned in a three-point play thanks to her faithful hook shot. Howard had the game well in hand when Williams hit a jumper from the corner, leading 75-55 with

Lady Steers fall short

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

LAMESA - For three quarters, the Levelland Loboettes looked very, very human. But in the decisive third quarter, they looked very much like the four-time defending state champions they are.

The Loboettes took advantage of three consecutive Big Spring turnovers during the quarter to break open a tight game, then held off the Lady Steers to take a 46-36 win in Class 4A bi-district playoff action here Thursday

The victory spoiled an outstanding performance from Big Spring senior Gisila Spears, who led all scorers with 22 points. The Lady Steers ended their season with a 22-10 record. Twylana Harrison and Marsha Sheperd scored 14 points to lead the Loboettes, now 29-4 for the season. Levelland advances in the playoffs to face the winner of the Stephenville-Wichita Falls Hirschi game to be played tonight.

The Loboettes' vaunted 2-2-1 zone press caused Big Spring few problems for most of the game, but in the third quarter it began to take hold, and Levelland took full advantage.

Clinging to a slim one-point lead in the stanza, Levelland forced a turnover on three consecutive Big Spring possessions. The Loboettes responded to the gifts with six quick points, and ballooned their lead to 25-18 with 3:48 left in the quarter.

Both coaches agreed that the run, coming at the time it did, was the difference in the game.

"We ran a little bit, and just had a little spurt there,' Levelland coach Dean Weese said. "We played with some enthusiasm for two or three minutes and scored some

"I never was worried about losing the game, but I was worried about the way we were playing," he added. "We've had a tendency to play as well as the other teams a few times this

While agreeing that the Levelland run turned the game in the Loboettes' favor, BSHS coach George Martin also noted that Big Spring's failure to convert from the outside also played a factor in the game.

"We knew they were going to try to shut down our outside shots," Martin said. "If the outside shots had fell, it would have been a two-or-three-point game either way.

Levelland did do an outstanding job in shutting down the Lady Steers' outside trio of Stephanie and Peggy Smith and Jennifer Hendleman, limiting the three to a total of seven

But even though the three were limited in their scoring, they did find a way to get the ball to Spears, and she responded by almost single-handedly keeping the Lady Steers in the

In fact, one could term the first half the Gisila Spears Show. Levelland got six points from Shepard in the first quarter, but Spears answered with all of Big Spring's points in the stanza, which ended in an 8-8

Time for the 'Razorback Invitational'

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks have all but changed the name of the annual Southwest Conference Indoor Track and Field Championship being held in Tarrant County Convention Center this weekend. With nine consecutive victories in the men's division, it should be named "The Razorback Another strong Arkansas team will be on display starting today and even conservative head coach John McDonnell says "I think we've got to be one of the favorites.' The last team to leave the convention center with the men's trophy was Texas A&M University back in 1980. The Hogs have won 10 of 16 SWC indoor titles since the meet originated in 1974.

Arkansas' narrowest margin of victory during its nine-year streak was 10 points in 1981, nipping Houston 91 to 81. Since that meet, Arkansas' average margin of victory has been 86 points. The largest margin of victory came in 1985 when they outdistanced secondplace Baylor 156-60.

'Texas A&M, Baylor and Texas should be good but if we do what we are capable of and stay healthy we have a very good chance of defending our title," McDonnell said. "I will say it isn't going to be like in years past. It will be close.

"If any team falters, there will be another team right there behind them to take over. There won't be any room for mistakes I don't

The key to the trophy room for Arkansas is, as usual, the distance

'We have to dominate the distance events to win," McDonnell said. "We need to dominate our specialities and score big points in the field events. I also think we'll do well in both relays. Another big event for us is the 55 hurdles. We have the talent to pick up big points there.

Baylor coach Clyde Hart, who has been sidelined with the flu, is questionable for the Bears.

McDonnell said the Bears should be watched because "Baylor is always strong indoors and this year is no exception.

"From the 400 on down, or should I say from the mile on down, they are strong," McDonnell said. "They have great pole vaulters and other field event people. They'll be It ends at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Texas is the favorite in the women's division.

Coach Terry Crawford of the Lady Longhorns said, "I feel like we are performing well but we have a lot of untested areas so we're really not knowing how we will stack up in the conference. We will be counting heavily on our sprint and jump events where we are pretty strong.

Other prominent college players who intend to leave school early include quarterback Scott Mitchell of Utah, linebacker Keith McCants of Alabama and running backs Reggie Cobb of Tennessee, Rodney Hampton of Georgia and Emmitt

Smith of Florida.

Harris led the Mountaineers to three bowl games and to the school's first unbeaten regular season in 1988.

Former Big Spring Steer Abner Shellman definitely measured up. The freshman, who backs up starting point guard Greg Christian, saw extended playing time in both the first and second half, and he started the second half. Shellman scored 14 points for the Hawks, including two three-point goals, and Green said the performance didn't surprise him a bit.

"I put Abner in the game early and he hit a couple of shots," Green said. "He lifted the level of intensity. He hit a couple of threes, pushed made me mad and I told him as the ball up the floor - which is much. what we wanted. He was one of the big keys in the first half.'

Green said Shellman's performance was a long time coming and was something he'd been expecting from the freshman. A confidence problem, however, has kept Shellman on the bench. "I've been real disappointed with him the last couple of games and sat him down there (on the bench) because he didn't expect to play. And his expectations came true, Green said. "I thought he'd grown comfortable sitting on the bench. It

Shellman wasn't the only one that came through after a talk with Green; every player on the team scored and starters Carlos Thunm and Johnny McDowell both played hard during limited action, Green said. Thunm was effective early when he deflected several balls and scored seven points. McDowell came up with a 27 point effort to lead the team

Green said the freshman also controlled the boards for Howard. "He was getting up and down the floor better tonight," Green said.

The Hawks should improve to 26-2 on Monday night when they travel to Roswell, N.M., to take on New Mexico Military College, the worst team in the conference. After New Mexico, the Hawks have just two games, as well as a game against South Plains College that must be completed in Levelland. That game was postponed 10 minutes into the second half

Lady Steers

Harrison sandwiched two jumpers around a Spears lay-in to tie the contest at 16-16 with three minutes remaining in the half, but Brittney King nailed a three-pointer, and Levelland's defense blanked Big Spring to give the Loboettes a 19-16 lead at intermission Spears added another basket early in the third to bring the Lady Steers back within one, but that was when the turnovers began to occur, swinging the momentum in Levelland's favor. The Loboettes kept their seven-point cushion for the remainder of the quarter and led, 31-24, going into the final eight minutes

Consecutive baskets from Shepard briefly stretched Levelland's lead to 11 early in the fourth, but Big Spring responded with a run to make things close. First, Fannin banked in a short jumper, then Hendleman and Peggy Smith nailed consecutive three-pointers to offset a pair of Harrison baskets to cut the Lady Steers' deficit to seven points with 4:12 to go.

The Lady Steers' defense then held Levelland scoreless for more than three minutes. Big Spring didn't fare much better, but managed a Spears jumper and a free throw from Amber Grisham to cut the lead to 39-35 with 1:30 remaining.

That, however, was as close as the Lady Steers got. Fannin stole the ball on Levelland's next possession, but Hendleman missed on a three-point try, and the Loboettes went into a slowdown game, forcing Big Spring to foul of eight attempts from the line in the waning seconds to secure the victory.

Levelland responded with deadly accuracy, making seven

Although disappointed with the loss — Big Spring's fourth consecutive in playoff action — Martin said that the Lady Steers should continue their winning ways next season

"We've got a good nucleus returning," he said of players like Hendleman, Fannin, Grisham and several others. "But we're going to miss our three seniors (Spears and the Smith sisters). Those are good ones that are going to be leaving.

"The retention of the 'blood curse' is very problematic," said Rabbi James Rudin, director of interreligious affairs for the American Jewish Committee in New York. "My dream was, my hope was, there would be a new play."

Passion Play retains 'blood curse'

But one of the play's directors said the revisions and three votes and long discussions within the village about whether to keep the passage from Matthew 27:25 show Oberammergau is sensitive to Jewish concerns. "With all the changes, I think that anti-Semitism is not the problem of the play in 1990," Otto Huber said in a telephone interview this week from his home in Oberammergau.

The Passion Play dates to 1663, when bubonic plague ravaged the mountain valley where Oberammergau sits. When the Roman Catholic villagers vowed to stage a passion play every 10 years if the plague abated, the epidemic vanished in what was considered a miracle, according to historical

The play was last performed in 1984, when a special jubilee production attracted 470,000 spectators. Americans accounted for about 45 percent of the visitors to the daylong production.

Since then, leaders of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith have sought to change aspects of the play they believed maligned Jews and blamed them for the crucifixion.

The idea that Jewish people have collective guilt for Jesus' death has been devastating in its impact on Jews throughout the centuries, Rudin said.

The play will be performed this year from May 21 to Sept. 28.

Among the changes: • Jesus' identity as a Jew is emphasized, including having him and his followers wear traditional prayer shawls. "We have tried to show Jesus really as a Jew coming out from Jewish tradition and Jewish faith.'

Huber said.

 Jesus has a larger popular following among Jews, and there is no longer a separation of Jesus and his followers and the rest of the Jewish community in light and dark clothing. "You had the good guys and the bad guys in the 1984 text," Rudin said.

• There is no longer any connection between the temple merchants and Jesus' persecutors. Rudin said that connection was "one of the worst stereotypes of the play," playing on anti-Semitic images such as "Shylock."

 The Jewish high priests who presided at the trial that led to the condemnation of Jesus will no longer have horns, an image carried over from the Middle Ages.

 Pontius Pilate, who prior to 1984 was portrayed a noble Roman and in 1984 was shown as ambivalent in sentencing Jesus to death, is presented in the 1990 text as an unsympathetic, brutal character

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How can I tell whether or not something is really what God wants me to do, or if it is only something I would like to do? Is God's will always the opposite of what we, ourselves, want to do? - T.Y.

DEAR T.Y.: No, God's will isn't necessarily the opposite of our own desires — although sometimes it is. The key is to be aware of how easily we can be misled by our emotions and desires, and to seek God's will sincerely and honestly. God has promised, "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all decisions would be right if we lived your ways acknowledge him, and by those commands! he will make your paths straight. Do not be wise in your own eyes" (Proverbs 3:5-7).

Milk from papal dairy herd is selling out

BY STEPHEN R. WILSON Associated Press Writer

CASTEL GANDOLFO. Italy It's not a magic elixir that builds strong souls and guarantees immunity from sin. But the milk produced by the pope's dairy herd must certainly taste like heaven Each morning, a truck with Vatican license plates delivers 120 cartons of the milk to three local coffee bars

Within hours, they're sold out We don't have enough to meet the demand "said the waitress at Mirko's Bar on Via Garibaldi who gives her name only as Manuela It sells like hot cakes

Milk from holy cows' Actually, it comes from 30 black and-white Holsteins on a small farm inside the walled compound of the 17th century papal palace

Until recently, this thriving dairy operation was the least known of the public services offered by the Vatican, which also runs a postalservice and pharmacy in Vatican City in the heart of Rome The farm at Castel Gandolfo the pope's hilltown holiday residence. covers about 60 acres on the palace grounds and is surrounded by pine. cypress and olive trees. In addition to milk, the farm produces eggs olive oil and other products for distribution at the Vatican market open only to Vatican employees and their families

The farm has been operating since 1933, but the sale of milk to the public began only six years

The cows produce 130 gallons of milk a day, most of which is transported to the Vatican market and the remaining 31 gallons to the three cafes

Few people outside of Castel Gandolfo knew about the milk operation until the Rome Pope's Milk, How Tasty

Since then, people have been traveling 15 miles from Rome to sample the product at the two bars in Castel Gandolfo and one in near by Albano. The milk comes in distinctive yellow and white cartons with the label "Fattoria Ville-Pontificie," meaning the Pontifical Villa Farm same, about $1.10 dollars a liter. Even before its popularity reached outside the area, the locals put their faith in the Vatican milk when they were looking for products free of contamination following the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear disaster

The milk was considered safe because the cows were kept inside their barns and fed hay and fodder that had been stored in protective silos, said Saviero Petrillo, director of the papal village.

There was a much greater demand, especially from mothers with young children," he said. "Today, in an era when there's a lot of emphasis on ecology and the environment, people are more conscious of products that are healthy and genuine.

"What might appear as a contradiction is a practical expression of Jewish leaders' 'Americanism','' said Arye Carmon, president of the Israel-Disaspora Institute, an Israelbased public policy group that financed the survey of 780 U.S. Jewish leaders.

"Americans often join the table with their adversaries, but do not necessarily always eat what's served," he said.

Financial deficits

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) -The National Catholic Reporter, an independent weekly, reports that between 10 percent and 20 percent of U.S. Roman Catholic dioceses and archidoceses are showing financial deficits.

The budgetary difficulties were attributed partly to reduced contributions and to the necessity of hiring lay personel to replace scarce and cheaper nuns and religious-order priests.

Hunger grants

CHICAGO (AP) - The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America reports it distributed $967,000 in domestic hunger grants in 1989, including an 8 percent financing increase to food pantries and emergency shelters.

The Rev. Robert S. Hoyt, the program's director, said government funds for such aid has been cut further while the number needing it has increased. He said people generally are becoming less responsive to such need.

"They are either becoming callous or are becoming so aware of the need that it is shocking their system - desensitizing them," he said. Against homosexuality

CLEVELAND (AP) - A survey of more than 100,000 Episcopalians found that 89 pecent of them oppose ordination of avowed practicing homosexuals and 88 percent oppose blessing homosexual "unions, says an unofficial group critical of the church's leadership.

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) Nothing can reproduce the thrill of the launch pad, but former astronaut Sally Ride is finding satisfaction in the quiet of the university campus.

Ride, America's first woman in space, joined the faculty at University of California, San Diego, last fall. She teaches physics and directs the California Space Institute, which coordinates space research among the state's eight UC campuses.

Ride said she thrives on hours spent in her research — the design of free electron lasers - and in meeting with students.

Wanda Lee Nichols said that Bowie assaulted her after inviting her to his hotel room on Oct. 9, 1987, during a concert tour stopover in Dallas.

Bowie conceded he had spent the night with Ms. Nichols, but denied he had assaulted her. A grand jury declined to indict Bowie on Nov. 18,

Ms. Nichols said she would continue to press for monetary damages despite the decision by DALLAS (AP) - A federal judge U.S. District Judge Sam Cumm-

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1990

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Alan Bates, author Margaret Truman, actor Hal Holbrook, basketball great Michael

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You can go farther if you travel alone today. Your thoughts are inspirational; believe in them. Whatever you put into a relationship will come back to you. An introduction proves memorable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Cheer up! Lots of good luck is headed your way. Getting a project off the ground will be smooth going. The wheels of progress spin swiftly. Pay more attention to your hunches.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A favorable time to shop for your family or home. A house party can be both fun and affordable. Interesting new friends zoom into your life. Launch a secret project without further delay

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may be feeling high-strung or edgy today. Take some time out from your busy schedule to relax at home. If a large gathering is too much for you tonight, bow out early.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Give your vivid imagination free rein, and there is no telling what brilliant ideas you will come up with. A surprising development gives you second thoughts about romance. Ask for an explanation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): An unusual coincidence could bring about a much-desired meeting. Buying a few items for your wardrobe boosts your spirits. You enjoy good luck in romance. Mate is worthy of your confidence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can succeed where others have failed. New financial backers come forward. A desire for change will soon be fulfilled. Trust your intuition when it comes to interviewing potential part-

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Greater self-discipline is the key to bigger accomplishments. Devote more effort to your personal relationships. A gesture of good will means a lot to a new friend. Show your generous side.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Travel enjoys favorable influences today. Your loved ones are more affectionate than in the recent past. A chance encounter could lead to an exhilarating romance. Be pre-
