District trials

BIG SPRING - Trial for a man charged with aggravated assault is expected to begin Thursday in 118th District Court and jurors began a second day of testimony today in a worker's compensation case.

Ramiro Lara, 35, 1002 N. Main St., faces charges of aggravated assault in district court Thursday. Lara, who was indicted on two counts of attempted murder in Aug. 30, 1989 is currently free on $75,000 bond. Trial for Gary Vern Isaaks, indicted Aug. 23, 1988 on a charge of murder in connection with the December 1988 death of a Big Spring woman, should be set soon, said William Dupree, assistant district attorney

Isaaks, 41, 1012 W. Third St., is currently in the Howard County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond. Isaaks was arrested Feb. 2, 1990 on a charge of jumping bail, when he violated terms of his bail by leaving Big Spring for New Mexico.

Jurors began a second day of testimony today in the civil trial of Timothy Scott Sigmon, who filed suit against the director of Texas State Employment Worker's Compensation Division. Sigmon was an employee with the Big Spring State Hospital on Jan. 21, 1988 when he allegedly suffered an injury while on the job. Sigmon is seeking a total of $97,109.31 in lost wages and compensation for his alleged injury The defense has filed a motion denying Sigmon's claims. The trial is expected to continue through Wednesday. Jurors for both trials were selected Monday

Lanette Lister still hasn't been found, and her family is angry at the justice system they feel allowed the abduction, as well as at the man who did it.

Lister, 27, was kidnapped at gunpoint Sunday night from a local church by her estranged husband, James Henry Lister, according to police reports. By press time today, neither Lister had been found by area law enforcement agencies. A warrant for aggravated kidnapping has been issued for James

"They never should have let him out when they set that bond. It's like a dog — beware of dog. I think they shouldn't have let him out. He's done so much. He's put her through so much — he won't leave her alone. I'm tired of him bothering her." – Sarah Pollard, victim's sister

BIG SPRING - Absentee voting continues until Friday, and a total of 632 votes have been cast so far, a county official said today

A total of 424 votes have been cast in the Democratic Primary, with an additional 66 Democrat absentee ballots mailed out, said Margaret Ray, Howard County clerk. A total of 208 votes have been cast in the Republican Primary with 28 Republican absentee ballots mailed out, she said.

The proposal must go to the independent Postal Rate Commission, which has 10 months to consider the request, hold hearings and issue a report.

County OKs new economic committee

By BRADLEY WORRELL Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Howard County Commissioners approved the concept of an economic development committee on Monday in the hopes of creating more local jobs and industry.

Commissioners unanimously approved a resolution to appoint an economic development committee for the purpose of creating an overall economic plan. Appointments for the committee have yet to be submitted.

The idea for an economic development committee came after commissioners discussed proposals for economic development with Tom Nance, an unofficial advisor to Howard County.

Commissioner Bill Crooker said previously that Nance is with a private company that works with the Economic Development Administration, part of the U.S. Department of Commerce in Austin, in attempts to obtain block grants from the government used in economic development.

Nance's role is to provide technical assistance for the county in obtaining the grants and revolving loan funds, Crooker has said.

In other business, commissioners approved a request by County Engineer Bill Mims for a one year leave of absence without pay for a county employee to attend a diesel mechanics school in Sweetwater

Commissioners also took a renewed look Monday at a proposal to build a private prison facility in Howard County. Crooker said Monday the commissioners want to know where the inmates for such a facility would come from and what • COUNTY page 6-A BIG SPRING - Most people don't notice what a fine surface Highway 87 has from Forsan up past the state hospital. Then again, most people don't travel it on rollerskates either.

Toni Cordell does. In fact, she's rollerskated on state roads from San Gabriel, Calif. to here, about 700 miles, she estimates, since January. She intends to roll all the way to Jacksonville Beach, Fla., by late May.

She counts on the novelty of a 47-year-old woman on rollerskates pursued by a van decorated with reading dinosaurs ("avoid extinction: read," the logo says) to gain public and media attention for her cause: the national problem of illiteracy.

Cordell rolled into town Monday and is visiting schools, service clubs, shopping malls and the library to tell people her story: Until three years ago, Cordell was a low-level reader, barely literate.

"I could read individual words, but I couldn't comprehend them in sentences and paragraphs. I can't explain how learning to read phonetically helped with comprefiension but now I understand for the first time," Cordell said

She sought help from a literacy program in her hometown of Edmond, Okla., after seeing the televison movie "Bluffing It." The illiterate character in the story burned with rage and frustration much as Cordell did, she realized.

"I vented my rage out of proportion with the thing that of-• SKATER page 6-A

BIG SPRING - Toni Cordell learned how to read with the help of a tutor who used the Laubach method, which combines pictures and phonics sounding out words, to teach her

"The "b" for example, has the shape of a bird with a long neck and a round body, so when you see it you think "buh" like bird," Cordell said.

The reading method is named for the missionary who developed it. Laubach created a phonetic written language for a tribe of Philippino Indians who had no written language. He used the same techniques in other societies and brought it back to the United States.

Using the Laubach method, Cordell achieved a college-level reading ability and a tutoring certificate in less than 11 months

Her "Rollin' for Readin' campaign encourages nonreaders and people interested in volunteering as reading tutors to contact their local library. Howard County Library has the only literacy program between Midland and Sweetwater, Cordell said, so she has referred interested people to it.

Rose von Hassell, the acquisitions librarian at Howard County Library and the organizer of the literacy program here, said the program teaches the Laubach method, as well as another phonics method and English as a second language. The program has six or seven tutor-reader pairs and two additional tutors waiting for students, von Hassell said.

FORSAN - After 25 years as principal of Elbow Elementary School, Bill Cregar plans to retire at the end of the current school year. Richard Light will step into his place. "I'll miss the staff and the superintendent but the biggest void will be not having that day-to-day contact with the students," Cregar said.

"I have the children of children I've taught. It thrills me to see their parents come in and I love to see kids learn. I believe we can have a school without failure," he said

Cregar is proud of his accomplishments at Elbow and of his peer election as elementary principal of the year for the region. In June, he will learn if he is the Texas elementary principal of the year, but he said the nomination alone is enough.

"Just knowing I'm in the top 20 out of 4,000 principals is good," Cregar said. He credits his wife Sharon, who teaches music at Elbow, as his inspiration.

During his tenure, Elbow has established computer programs in math, language arts, keyboarding technology and higher-level thinking skills. It has also developed an active group of parent volunteers and encourages community membership on academic commit-

TV medicine

HOUSTON (AP) - Highdefinition television soon may be used in diagnosis by doctors in rural areas if a pilot program established at Texas Children's Hospital is fruitful.

Hospital officials said Monday they will begin a research and demonstration center to determine if such remote medical consultations are valuable or desirable

Dr. Ralph Feigin, physician in charge at Texas Children's and chief of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine, said the closed-circuit, high-definition TV could be the link rural physi cians need to specialty services.

High-definition TV transmits more than twice as many lines as do regular TV pictures, resulting in a much clearer image with more accurate color. The image resembles that of 35mm film.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. plans to transmit the highdefinition images via the $125 million 1,400-mile fiber optic network it has established from NASA to Richmond-Rosenberg.

The body of Mrs. Joost, an employee of the surface mining and reclamation division of the Texas Railroad Commission, was found in the master bedroom in bed with her daughter. The son's body was found in his own bedroom, and Joost was found in a hallway bathroom.

Hays County Sheriffs Department spokeswoman Laura Vasquez said investigators found Sunday and Monday morning newspapers in the driveway, "leading them to believe the family had been dead more than 24 hours

Hastings said officials from the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers had been called in to assist the Hays County Sheriff's office.

Racing commission spokeswoman Angie Roberts said the commission would not comment on Joost's death and referred all questions to law enforcement officials

She did say Joost was not named in a $1 billion lawsuit filed Feb. 23 by the Houston Turf Club against the Texas Racing Commission.

The club, which was spurned in its bid to win a license to build a horse racing track, alleges that the commission and other state officials and private individuals conspired to control the racing industry in Texas

White surges ahead of Richards in poll

AUSTIN (AP) — Ann Richards just won't say no - or yes- to whether she's ever misused drugs, jeopardizing her run for governor. Among the Democrats, Ms. Richards had been front-runner since entering the race in June, until White pulled ahead in a Feb. 25 poll, which showed him with 34 percent to Ms. Richards' 31 percent. Mattox was third at 17 percent.

With the Democratic primary election a week away, the state treasurer Monday blasted her opponents — former Gov. Mark White and Attorney General Jim Mattox — saying they have ducked questions about their personal finances.

But Ms. Richards wouldn't say whether she's ever used an illegal drug, a question raised at two avoids a runoff election for the debates, the first of them two GOP nomination to succeed retir-weeks ago. The question has dogged her ever since.

At a news conference, Ms. Richards, a recovering alcoholic, said she never knowingly committed a felony and repeated a statement she has made before: "I haven't had a mood-altering chemical for 10 years.

On the Republican side, three contenders are trying to keep multimillionaire oilman Clayton Williams from winning the nomination outright without a runoff.

After pumping more than $4 million of his own into a slick TV campaign, the colorful Williams stood at 45 percent in a Dallas Morning News-Houston Chronicle poll published Feb. 25. If he wins 50 percent in the March 13 balloting, he ing Republican Gov. Bill Clements. Richards, who captured national attention at the Democratic National Convention two years ago by describing George Bush as having been born with "a silver foot in his mouth," hasn't displayed a silver tongue on the drug issue; observers have said.

Her tack Monday was to attack her opponents.

"I have been sober for 10 years," Ms. Richards said. "Have Jim Mattox and Mark White been honest for 10 years? White and Mattox have said they never used illegal drugs, and both on Monday denied any financial improprieties. They said her charges reflect Ms. Richards' fall in recent opinion polls after being the front-runner for months.

"I-feel sorry for Ann. Sorry that she is so desperate that she feels she has to lash out this way with such ridiculous and outrageous charges," White said.

"She's desperate. Her campaign's in a tailspin," said Kelly Fero, press secretary for Mattox's campaign.

On the drug issue, Ms. Richards said, "I feel very sincerely that the continuing dialogue is very destructive. It is destructive for me. It is destructive for other people out there who might seek treatment. The important thing in this time is to put principle above politics.

Ms. Richards, who has made public income tax returns for all years she has been treasurer, criticized White for releasing only his 1988 return and Mattox for keeping all of his confidential.

100-year-old surveyor still on job

FREDERICKSBURG (AP) Felix Itz drives to work every day

as Runnels County surveyor, takes field notes and searches courthouse records.

Nothing much special about that except that Itz turned 100 years old Monday. About 170 people gathered Sunday at the American Legion Hall for a birthday party.

"I'm just piddling around," says Itz, a man of few words

And asked to explain his long life, Itz replies: "I haven't passed on yet.

Friends and family told the Houston Chronicle they believe Itz is the oldest elected official in Texas.

Itz plans to remain on the job until his current four-year term expires on Dec. 31

'Grandma always complained that he worked too hard," Nancy Simpson, a granddaughter, says Itz's wife of 67 years, Zelma, died in 1981.

His son, Milford, 73, already has retired. So has his 87-year-old baby sister, Cora Lehne.

Itz has been hospitalized just once - to have some gallstones removed in 1985. After two weeks, he was back on the job.

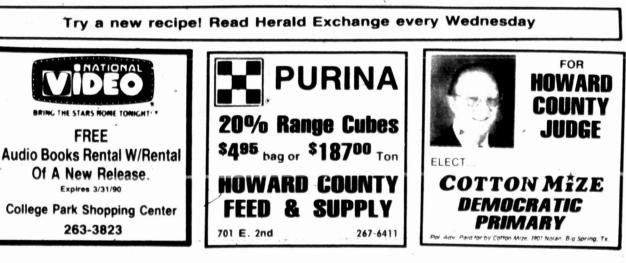

He's lived in Ballinger since 1949 although he was born in Fredericksburg, where much of his family still lives. He got his civil engineering degree from Texas A&M University in 1911, making his the school's oldest living alumnus.

He actually retired once – from the state highway department - in 1958 but became tired of that. He ran for the county surveyor's job at the age of 69 and has held it since, without opposition.

It could be that longevity is in his genes. His father lived to be 88; his mother to 92. Both his maternal grandparents made it into their

Roads preempt buried bodies

CIUDAD JUAREZ. Mexico Workers replacing the  $(\mathbf{AP})$  – city's dusty paths with paved roads will have to exhume about 900 bodies from burial sites overflowing from the unwalled boundaries of the municipal cemetery.

The bodies are buried two and three deep just outside the cemetery's borders, workers said. Some of the graves date from as early as 1938.

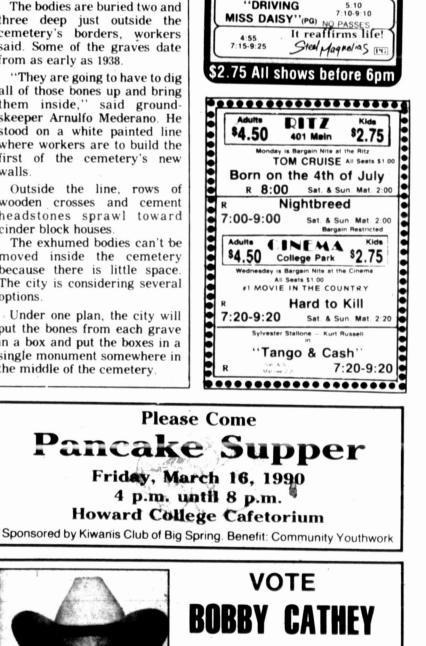

"They are going to have to dig all of those bones up and bring them inside," said ground-skeeper Arnulfo Mederano. He stood on a white painted line where workers are to build the first of the cemetery's new walls

Outside the line, rows of wooden crosses and cement headstones sprawl toward cinder block houses.

The exhumed bodies can't be moved inside the cemetery because there is little space. The city is considering several options

Under one plan, the city will put the bones from each grave in a box and put the boxes in a single monument somewhere in the middle of the cemetery.

Paper again predicts hostages will be freed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) -A Tehran newspaper close to Iran's president said today that 1990 will be the last year of captivity for the hostages in Lebanon, and that resumption of U.S.-Iranian ties is not a precondition for their release.

It was the second editorial within two weeks in the English-language Tehran Times saying the 18 Westerners in Lebanon, believed held by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem factions, should go free without preconditions.

In the past, the governmentowned paper has reflected the thinking of President Hashemi Rafsanjani.

The editorial, excerpted by the official Islamic Republic News Agency, denied reports that a trip by the president's brother to the Syrian capital of Damascus last week was related to the hostage question.

Syria is the main power broker in Lebanon, with 40,000 troops there.

that his thorny issue can be sorted out in the near future in a sincere spirit by sincere people," said the editorial, adding, "1990 can and will be the last year of the captivity of these hostages.

The editorial said an effort was under way to free the hostages because "Islam in no way allows or confrontation with the West as the condones the idea that people wellspring of the Islamic should be taken or held hostage."

A recent spate of statements from Iranian newspapers saying the hostages should be released, combined with optimistic assessments by Syrian and other officials, have fueled reports that a hostage release is imminent.

But officials have said they do not expect any immediate release and there have been no statements from the kidnappers themselves.

In Washington on Monday, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said there are no grounds for expecting an imminent release, but said many people outside the U.S. government are involved in talks to win their freedom. The longest-held hostage is Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who will mark his 5th anniversary in captivity on March 16. ## Afghan coup attempt fails ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) The Afghan defense minister attempted to overthrow the Kremlin-backed government in Kabul today but failed, Kabul radio said. Pakistan-based guerrillas and Western diplomats said they had reports of widespread fighting in Kabul.

In Moscow, official Soviet sources said the palace of President Najib was bombed by unidentified planes, and that there was fighting around the Defense Ministry.

Official Kabul radio, monitored

Najib has been president of Afghanistan since 1986 and has made various offers to the guerrillas, known as mujahedeen or Islamic holy warriors, to try to end the civil war that started when his People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan seized power in a 1978 coup.

error has delayed tax refunds for 53,000 taxpayers who took advantage of the Internal Revenue Service's much-publicized electronic filing system, the IRS said today.

Electronic filers affected by the foul-up who elected to have refunds deposited directly into their bank accounts should receive those refunds by March 12, rather than Feb. 26, said IRS spokesman Frank Keith. Those choosing to take a paper check should have it in hand by March 16, rather than March 2.

"Obviously this is an inconvenience to taxpayers and we regret that," Keith said. He noted, however, that before this glitch, the IRS had been processing returns at a record pace and certifying refunds from paper returns in about five weeks.

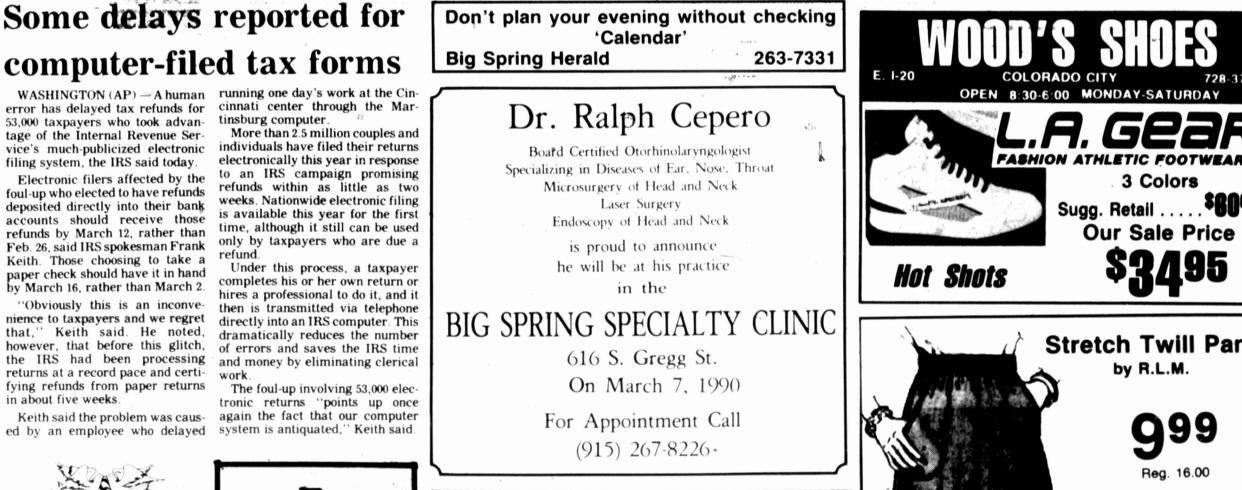

Keith said the problem was caused by an employee who delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A human running one day's work at the Cincinnati center through the Martinsburg computer.

More than 2.5 million couples and individuals have filed their returns electronically this year in response to an IRS campaign promising refunds within as little as two weeks. Nationwide electronic filing is available this year for the first time, although it still can be used only by taxpayers who are due a refund.

Under this process, a taxpayer completes his or her own return or hires a professional to do it, and it then is transmitted via telephone directly into an IRS computer. This dramatically reduces the number of errors and saves the IRS time and money by eliminating clerical work

The foul-up involving 53,000 electronic returns "points up once again the fact that our computer system is antiquated," Keith said.

Unreforming legal services

"I am not a reformer," pledged George Wittgraf, the Iowa attorney George Bush has tapped as the new chairman of the federal government's beleagured Legal Services Corp. That's good news, because in the twisted jargon of the political far right, when it comes to giving legal aid to the poor the word "reform" has become synonymous with destruction.

Demolishing the agency Wittgraf now heads, which supports 325 legal aid programs across the country, is one of the great unfinished items on the Reagan administration's social agenda. Ronald Reagan himself had pursued that goal ever since he was governor. But Congress and the courts refused to go along, and Reagan was reduced to appointing to the agency's board of directors so-called reformers, who were committed to doing everything possible to obstruct its operations.

With Reagan gone, there was hope that George Bush might dismiss the wrecking crew and help get the program back on track. Bush's first nominee to head the board, former Virginia Rep. M. Caldwell Butler, however, ran into heavy opposition from Reagan loyalists last summer when he refused to toe their line and promise to deny legal assistance to poor women seeking abortions. Butler eventually withdrew, and Reagan's holdovers on the board and on the staff have been using their time and the public's money to lobby Congress and the president for their own conservative slate of nominees

To his credit, Bush has resisted those appeals and recently replaced the entire board with panelists of his own choosing. His manner of doing so commands less respect, however, because the president used his emergency powers under the Constitution to make all of these appointments while Congress was in recess. That way Bush avoids having to ask the Senate to confirm any of them, at least for the time being.

That's unfortunate because, after all the abuse the coronation has suffered these past eight years, its future role merits the kind of careful, open review that Congress is supposed to provide. Instead, Bush raced these appointments under the wire, just 18 hours before Congress reconvened. Most observers at various points on the political spectrum describe the board as a mixed bag consisting mostly of political unknowns. But while it's true that even an undistinguished panel would be an improvement over Reagan's idealogues, this was a shabby way to begin rebuilding public confidence in an important program that deserves better treatment.

Voters apathetic about pay raises

By STEVEN KOMAROW Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives' legislative agenda is so light you could hear a bill drop. But you don't hear second thoughts about the record pay raise the lawmakers gave themselves last fall

The plan to boost House salaries by one-third by 1991 was so sensitive that only extraordinary cooperation by House Republicans and Democrats and President Bush made passage possible. The two parties even agreed to punish their own candidates if they raise the mouth in this to the Halles elections.

Now, eight months before election day, the deal is holding. House salaries have quietly risen from $89,500 to $96,600. The foremost question in the Capitol is whether the Senate, which took a similar "cost of living" raise this year, will join the House's decision to take a hefty 25 percent pay installment next January

If senators look toward the House to judge the political winds, they'll find comforting, balmy breezes. Both Democratic and Republican leadership offices say They can score political points both constituent mail on the issue has slowed to a trickle.

they'll keep the dough. Only 15 said they would give it all back to the Treasury. The bulk of the others either were undecided or didn't respond.

Rep. Dick Armey, R-Texas, voted against the pay raise. But having lost that battle, he has no

'He's obviously doing a better job than 99 percent of the guys up here," says his spokesman, Ed Gillespie. "He votes against a lot of federal programs as well, but once they are funded he wants to make sure his constituents get a fair share. It doesn't make sense to do a better job than your colleagues and get paid less, and his constituents would agree.

Some who voted against the raise decline to return the money to the Treasury but instead promise to turn the money over to charity. for turning down the raise and as possible that voters have slipped into apathy?

Marshall Taylor of the National Taxpayers' Union says the public memory isn't as short as the politicians might like and his group doesn't consider next January's pay hike "a fait accompli."

"It's kind of seething below the surface with voters," he said. "This ticks a lot of people off," he said, and should be a campaign issue even if the two parties try to avoid it.

People who vote against the pay and then keep the money are another issue. It's "kind of hypocritical," Taylor said. "What 1000 1000 went on record, but, hey, I'll take more? While slumbering now, the pay issue is almost certain to heat up as the year goes on.

The Senate, unless it takes action, faces the uncomfortable prospect of being paid less than the House. And several senators including Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., and Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., are pushing to ban senators from paid speechmaking, as the House will do next year. Such a ban on outside earnings would further increase pressure for a salary hike.

The Senate is so politically fear-

Ortega's defeat in Nicaragua was a brilliant win for the free enterprise system. I thought that there would be rejoicing at the Treasury Department, but all I saw were grim faces.

"Why the sadness?" I asked Hardin Beaver.

"The democratic forces overwhelmed the Communist left, and we now have to deal with another friendly nation in this hemisphere," he wept.

'So what's the problem?''

"Do you know how much it will cost us to get Nicaragua on its feet?"

"A lot. Where are you going to get the aid?" "We have no choice. We'll take it from the money we promised El Salvador

"Won't El Salvador be upset?" ""Why should they? The funds weren't theirs to start with. It was money we had originally set aside for Poland.

'Financial aid really moves around," I said.

'It's not our fault that everyone is declaring themselves free at the same time. There is just so much orange juice you can squeeze out of a kumquat.

"Yet it has always been the dream of the United States to have a world full of democratic countries.

Hardin told me, "Not all within a few months. Totalitarian regimes don't cost anything. Give people freedom and you get stuck with one helluva bill.

"At least when we gave money to the Contras, we didn't have to worry about financing an entire country," I remarked.

"We're very mad at the CIA," Hardin confided. "They should have let us know what was going to happen at the beginning of the fiscal year.'

I tried to defend the agency. The CIA can't know everything. All the spook agents were squirreled away in the totalitarian governments. They didn't care what the opposition forces were doing because they were sure that they couldn't overthrow a village post office.

"The dilemma is that nobody expected so many countries to come over to our side in one bite. We're as much for democracy as anyone, but they all expect us to build them Disney World.

"The only reason that happened," I declared, "is because the Voice of America told its listeners that if they threw off their chains, we'd pick up the lunch check.

Hardin said, "Well, we're telling the State Department to cool it. We've established a quota on freedom-loving people. They going to be stuck with despots in Cuba until we can take care of Paraguay and Peru.

"That isn't going to make us look too good.'

"It isn't a question of looking good or not. We don't have enough money for park benches in Panama. What do we do when the Bulgarians come to us with a tin cup?'

'Turn them over to the private sector," I suggested. "The government can't do everything.

What about the loyal friends who have been democratic for a long time? Do we cut them off from foreign aid to take care of the nouveau free?" Hardin asked. "If we don't — who will?"

So far, no one has introduced legislation to repeal the House raise.

Last fall, 174 members of the 435-member House voted against it. But even in that group, the pay plan may be settling in comfortably.

Roll Call, Capitol Hill's local newspaper, found 65 of those who voted against the pay raise now say philanthropists For example, Rep. Jim Jontz, D-

The pay raise was such a big issue with the public in early 1989 that it helped topple former House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas. Is it insensitive brute that abuses what authority he has. The same could be said of the opinions expressed concerning Carie Dunnam, one of the leaders in the recall drive that's seeking to oust Mayor Max from office.

Some people have depicted her as a courageous citizen bravely battling the "good ol" boy" network in an effort to bring effective government to our fair city.

Still others have stopped just short of calling her a foolish ninny who has no business getting involved in the whole mess.

The point I'm getting at is that this whole recall business has become rather nasty in nature. I guess when one is considering removing an official from office, a certain amount of name calling and hurt feelings are to be expected, but some of the stuff is getting way out of hands, folks.

Neither Mayor Green or Ms. Dunnam, I suspect, qualify as either saint or sinner. They are both, to the best of my knowledge, decent individuals who are doing their respective jobs the best way they see fit. What they - or anybody else, for that matter - doesn't need is for a bunch of short-fused yahoos to go around slinging mud at the opposition.

The possibility of removing the mayor from office is - or should be — a sobering thought. requiring us to give the matter the most serious consideration we can muster.

We should consider one thing, and one thing only: Has the mayor's job performance been unsatisfactory enough to warrant his removal from office. Let's consider that issue, and leave the personality conflicts in the closet.

Coalition seeks to ease landfill regulations

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

CROSSROADS - Efforts of a West Texas-based coalition, which is seeking site-specific exceptions on new federal landfill regulations, may soon spread to other west and midwest states.

On Thursday, letters were being sent to 25 congressmen in 12 states asking them to support House Resolution 3735, which, if passed, will allow state agencies to grant variances on new landfill regulations going into effect this spring.

Sparsely Populated Entities Coaltion, which began forming in November, say that some of the across-the-board Environmental Protection Agency regulations such as groundwater monitoring even when there is no groundwater are not needed in every situation, but are costly

"Population density, rainfall and geological conditions vary. Landfills should be constructed with those things in mind," says the letter which was drafted by Upton County Judge Peggy Garner, who organized and is spearheading efforts of SPEC.

"For my sparsely populated county (population 4,619) to live up to the same landfill regulations as Los Angeles, Calif., or the District of Columbia is economically and ecologically unreasonable," the

"They have areas that are similar to ours.

He said other states, such as California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho also have similar areas, but that he was unable to find out which congressmen represent those areas. "I don't have a breakdown of what their districts would be," he said.

However, he indicated that letters may eventually be sent to congressmen in those areas also. "I may check with Peggy (Garner) and see if a followup is needed," he said.

The landfill in Martin County, which is jointly owned by the county and the city of Stanton, is one landfill that would benefit from variances, Deavenport said. Tests have shown that it does not have a water table underneath and thousands of tax dollars a year would be saved if annual underground water tests did not have to be run.

Garner said that it would cost about $20,000 to install two underground water monitoring wells for such a small landfill. Annual tests on those wells would be $6,000-$8,000, she said.

Other SPEC members in this area include: Stanton, Colorado City and Mitchell. Glasscock and Borden counties.

fended me," she said. Her inability to read made her feel she was stupid, a problem of self-esteem Cordell said many non-readers suffer

Despite her handicap, Cordell had been a successful television reporter and news camerawoman, winning awards and shooting documentaries in India, Africa and Honduras. She said she couldn't follow instructions from a manual but learned how to operate the cameras by watching and listening. Cordell said illiterates and low-level readers often bluff their way through jobs.

"My husband is a high-IQ person and he didn't know I couldn't read until we'd discuss things like the classics and he wouldn't believe me when I said I'd never read them," she said.

"Intelligence and creativity have nothing to do with reading ability," Cordell said.

Since she began her crusade for literacy, she has met vice presidents of banks, teachers and holders of college diplomas

"Forty million Americans can't read above the fourth grade level and 1 million a year drop out of school. It's going to take money, time and everybody deciding literacy is serious to turn this around," Cordell said.

Her daughter Amarie Cordell, who is the van driver and business manager for the rollerskating caper, added that illiteracy costs the taxpayers $20 billion a year. She based the figure on estimates that 80 percent of the prison population is illiterate and that most welfare problems originate in illiteracy.

When Toni Cordell talks to people on the road or in presentations in the towns she visits, she tells them that once they learn to read, it's theirs for life.

It will take at least four members of the council to override the mayor's veto and pass the ordinance, according to stipulations in the city charter.

The council is also expected to set a date for the mayor's recall election. Last week the city secretary's office certified a petition calling for the election and Green announced on Monday at the end of a five-day waiting period that he has decided not to resign.

According to the city charter, the council is supposed to call an election for a date not less than 10 days and not more than 20 days after the five-day period has ended. If the council will not set an election date, the duty falls to the county judge. If the county judge refuses to set a date, then the 118th District Court judge must name a day.

BIG SPRING — A fickle West Texas wind waited for the game's biggest moment to play its cruelest trick on the Howard College Hawks Monday.

Trailing New Mexico Junior College 4-3, the Hawks had loaded the bases with two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning. Up to the plate stepped freshman Todd Toledo NMJC pitcher Joe Garcia threw the first pitch low before hanging a changeup pitch that Toledo creamed. That the ball was going out of the park was not in question; whether it was fair was.

On a calm day, Toledo's blast might have been fair, but Monday's gusts pushed the ball just left of the left-field foul pole.

Foul ball, strike one.

Two pitches later, Toledo struck out, ending the inning and Howard's finest chance to overcome the pesky Thunderbirds. Garcia and NMJC hung on to win by the same 4-3 score. With the win, the Thunderbirds improved their record to 12-14 overall, 2-1 in Region V play. The Hawks dropped to 15-6-1, 1-2 with the loss.

While not overpowering, Garcia escaped trouble well enough to run his record to 2-2 for the season. Hawk starter Curt Schmidt was not quite as fortunate, picking up his secondloss of the season to go with three wins.

Both teams had their chances to take command of the game. NMJC raced to a 4-1 lead early and threatened to make a rout of things when it loaded the bases with two outs in the sixth. But Schmidt responded well, striking out Tony Perez on three straight pitches to squash the uprising.

For their part, the Hawks also had their charices, but ended up stranding eight runners, including three times with runners at third base. In addition, Howard catcher Sean Teague hit into three double plays, effectively killing Howard rallies. The T-birds struck first, • HAWKS page 2-B

Simmons, the No. 3 scorer in major-college basketball history, made only three of seven shots in the first half and scored just eight points. He even missed a dunk and Coach Speedy Morris sat him down for a while.

"My mind definitely wasn't in it at that point," Simmons said. Being taken out, he said, gave him the opportunity "to calm down a bit and think it over."

In the second half, Simmons scored 18 points — hitting five of eight shots and all eight of his free throws - and No. 11 La Salle defeated Fordham 71-61 to win the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament and earn an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament.

Lawson blossoming into top-flight player

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

BIG SPRING - Shannon Lawson is a big woman who's doing big things.

The small-town young lady from the South Plains town of Tahoka has blossomed into one of the best junior college basketball players in the country. That statement is backed up by big-time recruiters following Lawson's trail.

The six-foot sophomore post player has been a big part in Howard's 26-4 season. For the second consecutive year she made the Western Junior College Athletic Conference first team, only one of three players repeating. Last year Lawson averaged 18 points and six rebounds per game. This year she's averaging 12 points and eight rebounds. Though her numbers may be down, Lawson is an improved ballplayer, according to her and coach Royce Chadwick.

In the early going last year Shannon made a big splash in college ball. During the first half of the season she was averaging well over 20 points. The second half her performance fell off a little bit, but she still finished as one of the leading scorers in the league.

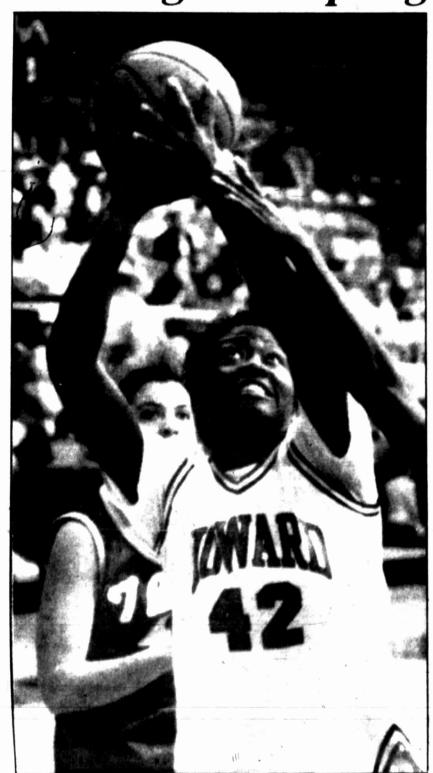

This year she hasn't been brilliant; but after the first few games, she's been very consistent one can say persistent — when it comes to defense and rebounding.

Shannon says she changed some things and it hampered her play during the second half of the season last year.

"My coach (Don Stevens) told me I changed my shot. I was shooting on the way down instead of on the way up," said Shannon. "Plus I would always go to my right, and everybody had figured it out.

"This year I find myself going to the left, because everybody thought I was going to my right. I've also started shooting a few more outside shots, instead of just shooting under the goal.

But offense isn't where Shannon has improved the most, said Chadwick. "When Shannon first got here, her number-one goal was to develop offensively," said Chadwick. "Now our number-one goal has been to develop her defense. She been working hard on it too. But it's not just her defense, it's her grades, it's everything.

Shannon also says she's improved defensively, and is quite proud of the fact. "I'm not as good on defense as I am on offense, but when I really think about it, get down and work, I can play pretty good defense," said Shannon. "It's like I did against Frank Phillips: I set my mind to it; and I played good defense.'

Shannon is talking about when Howard beat Frank Phillips at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum last month. Lawson limited Pat McDonald, Frank Phillips' 6-foot-5 post player, to 12 points, almost 20 points below her average. In the first meeting, which Frank Phillips won, McDonald scored 26 points.

"It seems like when we have a big game, Shannon always plays well," said Chadwick. "She'll play better against an Odessa than against Cisco.'

One noticeable thing about Lawson this year is she's carrying less weight. To be exact, she lost 20 pounds over the summer.

"I got sick and lost the weight, but I've kept it off," said Shannon. "It helped me a lot. I feel a lot quicker and I'm jumping a lot better." Making a note that she didn't lose any body strength, she added: 'My rebounding is a lot more physical.'

Going into the regional tournament, Lawson said HC's chances are good for a trip to the nationals in Tyler. "Yes we can win regional because we play as a team, not as individuals. If we keep pulling together, we can win it all.

After winning it all, a fitting ending would be for Shannon to go on and play big-time college basketball. She's already been contacted by such national powerhouses as Stephen F. Austin, Northeast Louisiana and the University of Texas.

She has visits planned to Stephen F. Austin and NE Louisiana later this month. She already knows her relatives would like to see her stay somewhere in the vicinity. "My

Valvano heading out?

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP). Coach Jim Valvano's lawyer left North Carolina State after proposing a contract buyout labeled as "very difficult" by one university official wrestling with allegations of point-shaving Art Kaminsky, Valvano's attorney and agent, returned to New York after discussions over the weekend with N.C. State officials of a possible buyout of Valvano's contract. Valvano has not been personally implicated in allegations that some. of his players shaved points for money, but has come under fire to step down as head coach. Valvano said he had not met with school officials to discuss his contract.

Terps plan appeal

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) - The University of Maryland plans to appeal several of the NCAA penalties levied against its men's basketball program, the most serious of which includes a two-year ban on postseason play and three years' probation.

School President William Kirwan accused the NCAA of failing to take into account Maryland's cooperation with the investigation and the school's previously unblemished record when it banned the Terrapins from 1991 and 1992 postseason tournaments.

The Terrapins will also be prohibited from appearing on national television next season, which apparently prohibits them from competing in the 1991 Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. Maryland must also return $407,378 of the money earned from the 1988 NCAA tournament, in which the Terps advanced to the second round.

Sooners number one

NEW YORK (AP) -Oklahoma became the third team from the Big Eight to hold the No. 1 spot in the AP college basketball poll this season.

The Sooners (23-4) jumped from fifth after beating the other two teams from its conference which had been No. 1 this season - Missouri and Kansas - in three weeks. The Sooners received 47 of 63 firstplace votes and 1,555 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters to easily outdistance Kansas Coach Chadwick said there is definitely big things ahead for his star post player. "I think Shannon sees a bright star at the end of the tunnel," said Chadwick. "She's gotten herself into position for these things. She saw a lot of things a lot of girls don't see until it's too late. If she takes care of business, she'll be playing on ESPN someday.

Lawson said she never imagined she would be in this position.

"My relatives always told me I might make it big when I was in high school, but I never took them seriously," she said. "Now I see what I can become as far as being a good basketball player. I know the opportunity only comes around once, when it's there you've got to take it.'

NBA roundup

AP Sports Writer

The Miami Heat put Glen Rice in position to win the game with the simplist of strategies — stop Utah's Karl Malone.

That was accomplished when it mattered. But Rice still wasn't certain enough time remained for his buzzer-beating basket.

"In my mind, I didn't know if the horn had gone off as the ball was leaving my hand," Rice said Monday night after his jumper from the top of the key gave the Heat a 105-104 victory that snapped Utah's seven-game winning streak.

Miami didn't embarrass all-star Malone, who led the Jazz with 32 points, above his 30.5 average. But the Heat limited the NBA's secondleading scorer to just two points on two shots in the final period.

'We bumped him to keep him from getting position and tried to make him take bad shots or pass it out," Rony Seikaly, who scored 25 points for Miami, said. "We made a commitment in the fourth quarter to stop him."

Rice said. "When Scott's shot missed, I knew there couldn't be many seconds left. I just yelled for Sherman.

"I got the ball and there was no one near me. I just let it go and it felt good.

Elsewhere, it was Philadelphia 128, Los Angeles Clippers 105; New Jersey 128, Sacramento 111; Houston 109, San Antonio 105 and Golden State 138, Charlotte 117.

Miami, which rallied from a nine-point deficit in the final six minutes, has won three of its last six games after winning only three of the previous 30. But Rothstein sees things getting even better, particularly in view of the play of Douglas, who had 22 points and 14 assists.

"Sherman was pretty impressive tonight," Rothstein said. "It takes a player with great feeling for the game to make that play at the end.

Stockton gave the Jazz a 104-100 lead with 34 seconds left, but the Heat pulled within one four seconds later on a 3-point shot by Kevin Ed-

"We try to tell them that life goes on," Morris said. "Those of us who could get up from those adversities are going to be the ones who are going to be successful. If we could take an example from Hank Gathers, it would be to give our best."

Simmons was at his best when it counted. His three-point play with 3:38 remaining gave the Explorers a 60-56 lead and he made four free throws to help La Salle pull away.

Damon Lopez led Fordham (19-12) with 18 points.

South Carolina 54, No. 17 Clemson 53

South Carolina used Jo Jo English's jumper with one minute left and a tough zone to stun Clemson in the regularseason finale for the two archrivals. Clemson (23-7) took a 53-52 lead with 1:28 left on David Young's jumper. The Gamecocks (14-13) countered when English drove down the right side of the lane for an eight-foot jumper, only his second field goal.

Reserve forward Stefan Eggers scored 14 of his career-high 18 points to help South Carolina take a seven-point halftime lead. Eric Sykes added 12 points for the Gamecocks. Elden Campbell led Clemson with 13 points.

"This is one of the games that we've put it all together," English said. "We used all of the team and all of our strengths and we came away with the victory.

"I made a good crossover (dribble) and I pulled up. It's a shot I've been hitting all year. Tonight it fell again.

Colonial Athletic Association Ken Atkinson scored 25 points and Richmond won the CAA tournament for the second time in three years with a 77-72 victory over James Madison. Second-seeded Richmond (22-9) avenged the worst loss in Dick Tarrant's nine years as head coach, a 77-43 loss to the Dukes earlier this season. Top-seeded James Madison is 20-10.

"It isn't often that a team gets a chance to vindicate itself but these guys reached out and seized the opportunity," Tarrant said.

NEW YORK (AP) – Center Akeem Olajuwon of the Houston Rockets, who averaged 35.7 points, 19 rebounds, five assists and 7.7 blocked shots in three games, was selected as NBA Player of the Week

Olajuwon had his most dominant game of the week on Saturday night against Golden State as he registered 29 points, 18 rebounds, 11 blocks and nine assists in a 129-109 victory over the Warriors. Olajuwon was originally credited with only the third quadruple-double in league history, but league officials disallowed a 10th assist.

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) Seeded players Radka Zrubakova of Czechoslovakia and Susan Sloane of Lexington. Ky., lost in the first round of the $350,000 Virginia Slims of Florida.

Zrubakova, seeded 13th, was eliminated by unseeded Nathalie Guerree of France, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Sloane, seeded 14th, was beaten 2-6, 6-2, 6-0 by Peanut Louie-Harper. No. 12 Judith Weisner and No. 16 Sylvia Hanika advanced.

NHL's weekly star

MONTREAL (AP) - Right winger Pat Verbeek of the Hartford Whalers, who had four goals and four assists in three games last week, was named NHL player of the week. Verbeek led Hartford to victories over Montreal. Washington and the Rangers, netting his fifth game-winning goal of the season against New York.

 Continued from page 1-B touching Schmidt for two runs in the top of the third. Kevin Lallman led off with an infield hit, then advanced to third on consecutive groundouts by Wade Shelby and Perez.

Lallman eventually came home on a sharp single by Sid Lopez, who scored one batter later on a double from Jaime Surratt.

NMJC struck again in the fourth. With one out, designated hitter Richard Ledue beat out an infield hit, then scored on Mike Mills' double to left field.

Consecutive errors by Surratt led to Howard's first run of the game. Howard first baseman Franklin Johnson led off the inning by reaching first on shortstop Surratt's throwing error. Surratt then repeated his goof on a grounder by HC batter David Perez, throwing the ball well into right field, scoring Johnson all the way from first and moving Perez to second.

The Howard rally died, however, when Teague's liner was snagged by first baseman Wes Shook, who promptly doubled Perez off second.

NMJC regained its three-run cushion the following inning when Surratt redeemed himself for his earlier goofs by drilling a Schmidt pitch over the left field wall for a solo home run.

But, as if they were inspired by Scmidt's squashing of the NMJC threat in the top of the sixth, the Hawks struck for two runs in their half of the inning.

With one out, Johnson walked, then scored on Perez's double to left field. Perez then scored on a single to left by Shane Simon.

That, however, proved to be the final runs of the game, as Garcia settled down to blank Howard the rest of the way eighth-inning scare notwithstanding.

The loss ruined a fine performance by Perez, who was twofor-two from the plate for the Hawks. Another fine performance that was overshadowed by the loss came from HC pitcher Steve Walter, who relieved Schmidt in the sixth

Those plays put Rice, who finished with 10 points, in position for the first buzzer-beater of his career. He wasn't alone in wondering whether it would leave his hand in time.

"I could've sworn that the buzzer was going to go off before the shot," Miami coach Ron Rothstein said.

Rice scored after taking a feed from Sherman Douglas, who had rebounded a missed shot by Miami's Scott Haffner "I knew I had to get the shot off,"

They just went out and won it.' The Hawks will play TSTI at 2 p.m. on Thursday in Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum. The Hawks take a pretty formidable team against the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference's third-seeded team.

Preseason All-American Terrence Lewis was named the league's most valuable player, and freshman teammate Johnny McDowell was named to the allconference first team. Point guard Greg Christian and off-guard Harvey Petty were named to the conference's honorable mention team.

Not incidentally, Green was named coach of the year for the league.

Although the WJCAC is recognized as one of the toughest junior college conferences in the nation. Green said he's not willing to predict a first-round sweep.

"I don't know," he said. "New Mexico, our fourth seed, plays McLennan, their number-one seed. Odessa plays Hill (second seed), and South Plains plays Grayson wards, who scored 24 points. Stockton missed a layup with seven seconds left and Rice rebounded to set up the winning basket.

"Forget the last shot," Malone said. "If you look at the whole thing, it should've never come down to that. It's totally embarrassing the way we came out to play the game.'

The Jazz took advantage of five consecutive Miami turnovers to score 13 straight points, the final six by Darrell Griffith, and open a 97-88 lead with 6:08 remaining.

Douglas scored six consecutive points, and two free throws by Seikaly reduced Utah's lead to 102-100 with 2:08 left. 76ers 128, Clippers 105 Hersey Hawkins tied a seasonhigh with 28 points as Philadelphia handed Los Angeles its 20th straight loss at the Spectrum. The Clippers — then known as the Buf-

County (fourth seed).

If the Hawks beat TSTI, then on Friday they will face the winner of the New Mexico-McLennan match. The Hawks will need to play the way they did against South Plains in the final 10 minutes of the postponed game. The Hawks entered the last fourth of the contest at a definite disadvantage. Down 73-70, they were in serious foul trouble: Lewis had four, and McDowell, Petty and Cecil Pittman had three.

Only Petty ended up fouling out. Green took great care to make sure Lewis, the league's leading scoring, didn't have to leave the game.

"We put Terrence on who we thought was their weakest offensive player," Green said. "and told him to back two steps off of him so he wouldn't get another foul.

South Plains tried to counter that strategy by attempting to make Lewis guard his man. It backfired. "They tried to spread the floor, give the ball to that particular guy and make Terrenee foul him," Green said. "We didn't mind him having the ball — he's no offensive threat at all

"He drove a couple of times, made a bad shot and a couple of bad passes. It just worked against them.

Meanwhile, the Hawks were run ning plays designed to let Lewis score. That didn't backfire, as Lewis hit for seven in the final minutes, getting 18 in the game. McDowell and Christian led the team with 20 points each, with Christian getting six of his on Monday night.

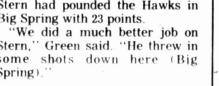

The Hawks limited SP's Jeff Stern to a paltry seven points. Stern had pounded the Hawks in Big Spring with 23 points.

South Florida (20-10), which began its basketball program in 1971, had made it to the Sun Belt finals twice before, losing both times. The Bulls led 67-66 with 1:59 left when the 6-foot-7 sophomore hit two free throws and a basket. Bobby Russell's basket gave South Florida the Bulls a 73-66 lead, too much for UNCC (16-14) to overcome in the final minute. UNCC's Henry Williams scored 25 points.

Others

 Elmer Bennett made all eight free throws in the final 11/2 minutes, capping a career-high 22-point game, and Notre Dame erased a seven-point halftime deficit to beat Kentucky 80-67. Kentucky, on NCAA probation, completed its first season under Coach Rick Pitino with a 14-14 record. The Wildcats opened and closed their season with losses to Notre Dame (16-11).

"One thing that I am most proud of is that we improved over the course of the season,' Pitino said. "We need to take that into the summer and into next season.

Joe Fredrick scored 23 points for Notre Dame (16-11). Derrick Miller led Kentucky with 17.

NEW YORK (AP) - Spike Lee says sex, not race, will generate a lot of heat in his new film, "Mo' Better Blues.

6-B

"The audience may squirm," Lee said in the March 5 issue of People magazine

The $10 million film starring Denzel Washington is about a trumpet player torn between his love of music and his desire for two women, a singer played by Cynda Williams and a Harlem schoolteacher played by Lee's sister,

Joie Lee said she had no problem working with her brother in scenes that called for nudity. "When he said, 'Okay, take off your top,' I just did it. It's not perverse," she said

Williams said the love scenes are tasteful, "but when I think of going to see the movie with my parents and grandparents, it freaks me out.

For the past three years, Chaffee, 43, has helped design and promote a collection of fur-lined skiwear called Suzy Chaffee Sport Furs.

She spoke in Aspen, Colo., before the recent defeat of a proposed ordinance that would have banned the sale of furs in the resort community. and has been appearing on talk shows

"My credibility is very important to me, and I feel I am really being responsible to the animals and to nature and to the environment because trapping them is better than letting them die the disease-and-starvation route," she said.

members are awaiting the results of a CAT scan taken here this morning on Brandon McAnally, 15, who was wounded in the head in a Feb. 25 hunting accident near his grandparents house in Stonewall County.

He remains in critical condition but is stable, said his father Billy McAnally, this morning. He has been sedated at Hendrick Memorial Trauma Center since the accident and has therefore not regained conciousness Barring complications, the .22-caliber bullet, which is lodged in the back of his head, will not be removed.

"Right now we're just waiting on the results," Billy said of the CAT scan which was taken at 8:30 a.m.

Officials seek landfill permit By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

STANTON – City and county representatives will meet with state health officials in Austin Wednesday to ask them to grant a landfill permit ahead of schedule so county residents will not find themselves without a landfill next year.

Hauling trash to a landfill in another county would cost more than $100,000 a year, a city official said.

The city and county applied for a permit for a new city-county landfill in January with the Texas Department of Health but right now it takes an average of more than two years for one to be granted, said T.A. Outlaw, the chief of permitting for the solid waste management division.

In 1989 it took 844 days on the average for the 19 permits that were issued, he said. There are 40 to 50 landfill permits in the state pending right now

Local officials are faced with closing the present landfill in Stanton within 18 months of when new federal landfill regulations go into effect. The regulations will require stringent and costly closure procedures which may be expanded from five to 35 years. The Environmental Protection Agency regulations are expected to go into effect in May.

Stamp prices to rise

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The U.S Postal Service is about to launch the complex process of adding a nickel to the price of mailing a letter

With a record $1.6 billion loss looming in this fiscal year, Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank says the increase is necessary

He was proposing increases today in all classes of mail, with the charge for first class likely to go from a quarter to 30 cents next year. That would be somewhat more than the rate of inflation, says Frank, who promises to hold down postal service spending in coming years.

Unlike a store manager however, Frank can't simply slap a new price tag on the goods

The proposal must go to the independent Postal Rate Commission, which has 10 months to • STAMPS page 6-A

Kidnapping angers woman's relatives

By RUTH COCHRAN City Editor

The Midland man kicked in the apartment Lanette Lister was staying, and police records show he was arrested and charged with class A assault, burglary of a habitation, terroristic threats, resisting arrest and tampering with a witness. Brooks said James Lister was held in jail until Feb. 21, when 118th District Judge James Gregg, who has since retired, released him on a $5,000 bond for the burglary charge. Gregg set personal recognizance* bonds on the other charges -- all misdemeanors, according to court records. It was just weeks later that James Lister burst into the church, kidnapped his wife at gunpoint and drove away with her. Sarah Pollard, Lanette's sister, said the Lister's 10-year marriage has followed a pattern of abuse. Pollard said she just hopes that James Lister has not harmed her sister "That's something we don't know," Pollard said of her sister's condition: "If he's as raged as he was (Sunday) night when he got her, then he's liable to do something to her. "She's probably so scared she doesn't know what to do. Pollard, who is keeping the Listers' three young children -9-year-old boy and 7- and 4-year-old girls -- feels the kidnapping could have been avoided. ## Sleeping Beauty sues

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — News flash: Walt Disney doesn't operate in Florida

That's what Walt Disney Co. lawyers say in response to a lawsuit by Mary Costa, the voice of Sleeping Beauty. She wants a cut of the $29 million she says the entertainment giant has earned on the 1986 videotape version of the tale.

"The Walt Disney Co. is not qualified to do business in Florida and does not do business in Florida," said Disney Vice President Doris Smith said in papers filed in state court.

But what about Walt Disney World near Orlando, which has been in operation since 1971 and draws millions of visitors every year?

"Of course (Walt Disney Co.) owns subsidiaries that are present and do business in Florida," Disney lawyer Luis Bustamante said in court papers. But he said, "To uphold this (state court) order would be to declare that (Walt Disney Co.) can be sued in any state where people can buy Disney videocassettes or Mickey Mouse sweatshirts." The company wants the case heard in California.

The argument didn't swav the Palm Beach County Circuit Court, which ruled in favor of Ms. Costa, a Palm Beach opera singer.

Polish officials learn about Chicago-style government

By LINDSEY TANNER Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — This city whose political scandals have made national headlines is teaching the tricks of the trade to Polish officials seeking an American model for restructuring their government.

What might sound like a joke to some is part of a program aimed at helping Poland implement democratic reforms in local government after nearly half a century of Communist rule.

"Of all the problems Chicago has had with its reputation – much of it deserved - as a place that has problems governmentally and politically, it also has a lot of plusses," said Paul Green, a political scientist at Governors State University in suburban University Park.

"And if you want to see where the game's really played for keeps,

why go to someplace where they eat quiche?"

Despite the Communist-led government's stunning defeat in last June's elections, "local government still remains in the hands of the Communist apparatus," said Robert Repel, an aide to Mayor Richard M. Daley Supporters of democracy hope to change that in elections set for May. So three Polish reformers have come to the United States to learn how democratic local governments operate.

Chicago, one of several cities on their U.S. tour, was chosen because it's*Warsaw's sister city and has more Poles than any city outside of Warsaw, Repel said

The reputation for crooked politics in the Windy City (so named because of long-winded politicians of old) was "not at all" among topics discussed. Repel said CHICAGU page 6-A BIG SPRING - Kidnap victim Lanette Lister still hasn't been found, and her family is angry at the justice system they feel allowed the abduction, as well as at the man who did it.

Lister, 27, was kidnapped at gunpoint Sunday night from a local church by her estranged husband, James Henry Lister, according to police reports. By press time today, neither Lister had been found by area law enforcement agencies. A warrant for aggravated kidnapping has been issued for James Lister's arrest

Records show it's not the first time James Lister, 33, has been charged with abducting his wife from the church, and Lanette Lister's family and friends can't understand how this could have happened a second time.

Lisa Brooks, director of the Rape Crisis/Victim's Services Center, said Lanette Lister came to the center for help after James Lister was charged with aggravated kidnapping the first time. In the Aug. 15 incident, Lister dragged his wife from the church, drove around with her for several hours then beat her before releasing her, Brooks said.

Lanette Lister pressed charges, and in January James Lister was indicted, Brooks said. On Feb. 15, Lanette Lister filed for divorce from her husband – and just days later he apparently came to see his wife, Brooks said.

ings and issue a report. If the commission agrees, rates can go up. If not, it's back to the drawing board unless the postal service board of governors votes unanimously to overrule the commission.

Any rate increase would not occur before early 1991.

But even though the process is only beginning, sides are being chosen for the battle.

Vincent R. Sombrotto, head of the 315,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers, contends that stamps today are cheaper than they were in 1971, if inflation is taken into account.

Sombrotto held a news conference Monday to defend the rate hike and to denounce critics of the post office, who have called for private business to be allowed to compete in mail delivery

James C. Miller, who was federal budget director under President Reagan, is spearheading the campaign in favor of private competition. And consumer advocate Ralph Nader is trying to organize opposition to the proposed rate increase.

While first-class mail rates attract the most public attention, new charges would cover all classes of mail. Groups representing magazines, newspapers, advertisers and other large mailers will be intensely interested in the proposals.

Postal charges last increased in 1988. Frank has said he hopes to have only one more price rise in this century

When the old Post Office Department was converted into the U.S. Postal Service in 1971, it was directed to operate like a business and break even over the long haul. The massive tax subsidy that had been used to hold down postage rates was phased out

The postal service has posted five surplus years and five loss years in the the last decade, finishing 1989 about $61 million in the black. The agency had a $404 million surplus in the first quarter of 1990, but rising costs are expected to push it well into the red by the end of the year. Postal officials anticipate a $1.6 billion loss this fiscal year, the largest ever for the agency. Contracts with the four largest unions representing more than 800,000 postal workers also expire this year, and negotiations for new pacts are expected to lead to higher costs.

Even at 30 cents for a firstclass letter, American postal rates will be the lowest in the industrialized world, officials say. First-class rates are the equivalent of 30.7 cents in Australia and 32.5 cents in Canada. The rate amounts to 33.5 cents in Switzerland and 33.9 cents in Britain. It is the equivalent of 40.5 cents in France, 42.8 cents in Japan, 56.4 cents in Italy and 59.9 cents in West Germany. Here is a rundown of the first-

Hamby said Lanette Lister had taken several trips with her husband just prior to the hearing, and that hurt the case for a denial of bond

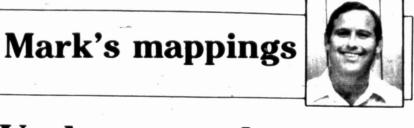

"I feel like but for that, the judge would have decided for us and refused bond," Hamby said. "We wish those intervening facts had not been there.

"If the good Lord is kind and no harm has befallen Lanette . . . we will recommend a no bond again, and I feel our case is infinitely stronger.

has not offered the course before teachers did not know shorthand.

"She handles young people as if she were an old pro as a teacher, Mantooth said of Barton. "She has the classroom presence to interest youngsters in the lesson at hand.

Shorthand, a handwriting technique involving squiggles that correspond with sounds, is about three times as fast as note-taking in longhand, Barton said.

Barton said about half of her students are able to take notes at 60 words per minute using shorthand, and that by the end of the semester she hopes to raise that to 80 words per minute. The normal rate for human speech is about 100 words per minute, Barton said.

The top three skills needed to learn shorthand are memorization, ability to think quickly and ability to read one's own shorthand writing, Barton said. To hone the because previous business students' abilities, each 50-minute class devotes about 35 minutes to taking dictation, she said.

would increase costs by as much as $18,000 a year, he said.

In addition, Midland officials said such an arrangement would only be temprorary, Lively said. "They said they will take it for a year and that's it.

Fryar said he, Lively, city councilmen Lester Baker and Ronnie Christian and Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport will meet at 8 a.m. Wednesday with TDH officials.

Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, who set up the meeting with TDH officials after talking with Fryar and other city councilmen at a Feb. 26 meeting in Austin, also will atend the Wednesday meeting.

Gary Harris, a city-county retained engineer with Parkhill, Smith & Cooper Inc., of Midland, will be at the meeting too, Fryar said.

Outlaw said the time it takes to authorize landfill permits may be shortened after this month when the solid waste division will triple in size and become the Bureau of Solid Waste Management

On April 1 they will begin collecting up to $8.5 million a year from a 50-cents per ton tax that has been

ing in the county, he said. That collected on trash dumped in the state since Jan. 1. Their current budget for the fiscal year, which begins on Sept. 1, is $1.3 million, he said

> Plans call for the addition of 104 more personell to the current staff of 38, Outlaw said. There will be six project engineers instead of four and 30 field inspectors instead of the 13 they now have.

> New funds will also be used for nine new projects which include recyling, developing a reponsibility plan and rewriting local and state solid waste management plans, he said.

However, because of the new EPA regulations, Outlaw said there will probably be problems created from an increase in new permit applications 'There's going to be some problems, sure," he said. "I don't know how serious they'll be.

As far as opening a new landfill before an 18-month deadline to close old landfills under the present EPA rules, he said, "A lot depends on how close these cities and counties want to play it. There may be some that don't make it.

while listening to church sermons. "After church I'll go over it and then it sticks in my head," said Schuelke

A survey of the 11 girls in the class revealed that only one wanted to become a secretary. Franco said she plans to be a secretary for only a while, and hopes to eventually become an attorney

"Any secretary that knows shorthand is going to get paid more for knowing it," Barton noted.

Three of the students said they plan to become teachers, and one of them, Felicia Edmonds, said she hopes to use shorthand as a psychologist. "Because you can take down the notes of how they're feeling," she said.

Learning shorthand did not occur without its share of frustrations for the students

"It's like learning a whole new language," said senior Janet Foster

Asked whether demand for shorthand is increasing in American society, Barton noted that it is being supplanted by speedwriting. Speedwriting is easier to learn because it uses the alphabet, omitting certain letters from words for the sake of speed, she said. Shorthand is faster than speed writing, however, Barton said.
