Search still on for jail escapee

BIG SPRING — Authorities are still searching for Gabriel Armand Barraza, 25, an escapee from the Lynn County Jail who may be in the Big Spring area.

The Lynn County Sheriff's Office, Big Spring police and the Howard County Sheriff's Office identified an abandoned maroon Nissan truck as one believed stolen from Tahoka by Barraza when he made his escape.

He was being held in Tahoka for the U.S. Marshall. A spokeswoman for the chief deputy in the Dallas office could not say what Barraza's alleged offense was.

She did give the Herald permission to print Barraza's picture, provided by the Howard County Sheriff's Office.

"I do not know that this Gabriel Barraza and the inmate are one and the same,' Sheriff A.N. Standard said in handing over the picture. He added that the name and birate matched.

He did not say why the Howard County Sheriff's Office files had the picture.

Extravaganza features horses

BIG SPRING — A variety of events are planned for this weekend's West Texas Extravaganza sponsored by the Howard County Youth Horseman Club.

The weekend activities will take place at the club's arena on Garden City Highway off Highway 87 South of Big Spring. Sponsor Kenneth Williams said the events are fun for youth of all ages.

Several age group divisions are planned for competitions such as stick horse races for kids, barrel and potato races. Anyone who wants to ride may join Saturday's Play Day activities.

Sunday includes barbecue, red bean and black-eyed pea cook-off contests. Contestants should be at the arena to sign up by 8 a.m. Judging is set for 4 p.m.

There is no admission fee for the youth weekend. To get more information about the club and its weekend events. contact Williams at 263-6458

'I think we're sitting on a bomb' Atheists attempt to burn flag ends in shoving match

Mark Bunger said incidents involving campus activists and conservatives are polarizing the student body. "I think we're sitting on a bomb. It's just going to come to a head. It's been growing all year," he said.

On Tuesday, about a dozen University Atheists were shoved by an estimated 400 members of fraternities and conservative groups as the atheists tried to burn an American flag

Witnesses said some of the students involved and issues raised Tuesday reflected last week's rallies to protest racist incidents. 'I've been here for three years.

Caliche pit murder trial goes to jury

By ERIN BLAIR Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — In closing arguments this morning, Assistant District Attorney William Dupree told the jury that Ricardo Flores is guilty of the murder of Manuel Garcia because he is criminally responsible for soliciting and encouraging his death.

"He is as guilty of murder as if he were standing in that caliche pit all by himself holding the pipe in his hands and beating Manuel Garcia to death," Dupree said.

Ricardo Flores is accused of the murder of Garcia on April 2, 1988, in a caliche pit outside of Big Spring.

Flores' attorney Mike Thomas rested his case an hour after opening testimony. He called two witnesses. A third, Lorriann Alaniz, the wife of Leroy Alaniz, who was indicted by a Howard County grand jury along with Roberto and Ricardo Flores in Garcia's murder, did not show up

Gloria Flores, Roberto Flores' wife, testified for the defense that Garcia had come to her on the morning of his death pleading for forgiveness after allegedly molesting her seven year-old daughter during the Flores' anniversary party.

"He was practically on his knees, he gripped my hand, he was scared or something," she said.

When Roberto Flores returned to the house after getting cigarettes, he heard about the molestation from Gloria Flores and Ricardo

"Roberto said to Manuel, 'I trusted Gloria Flores said. "And Ricardo said, 'Don't worry, we'll take care of it.'

She said Ricardo Flores winked at her as he told Garcia it would be okay to get in the truck with Roberto Flores and Alaniz. Gloria Flores said she thought they were taking him to the bus station so he could ing more thorough truck inspections, requiring light and brake checks as well as weight and paperwork inspections that can take more than an hour. Rather than do the inspections on the pull-overs on the highway, where bad weather and other drivers can cause a hazard, DPS License and Weight personnel will pull the big rigs off the road and into the hangar, less than a mile from the freeway. "We talked to DPS some time

House nears tax showdown with governor, endorses cuts

By PEGGY FIKAC Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — After failing to find enough budget cuts to pay for a school finance bill, the Texas House is prepared to test the strength of Gov. Bill Clements' nonew-taxes vow by considering a half-cent sales tax increase. But Clements, who has repeatedly promised to veto any state tax increase, said there are "plenty of places" to cut more than the $114.4 million tentatively trimmed Tuesday by the House.

"I think that we will pass this revenue-raiser and, joined with the governor," said Hury, Dby Rep. James Hury, chairman of Galveston.

The bill could be considered by the 150-member House later this week. Hury said he didn't know whether 100 members would support it, the number required to override a veto by Clements.

The House has approved a school

Clements favors a $234 million school bill and proposed paying for it with cuts in other parts of the budget and raising the state fee for obtaining driving records.

Cuts tentatively approved by the House included:

• $57 million from the $154.5 million set aside for restoring the State Capitol.

• $7 million from the $26 million set aside for debt service on bonds issued for the Superconducting Super Collider.

• $8 million from the governor's $9.2 million emergency fund.

AUSTIN (AP) — The original San Jacinto battle flag will be returned to the House of Representatives' chamber during a brief ceremony Thursday morning.

The flag will be put back in place behind the speaker's rostrum after an extensive sixmonth restoration.

One of the state's most historic artifacts, the flag was the only one carried by Captain Sidney Sherman and the Texas army at the Battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836.

Remnants of the banner were presented to the state of Texas in 1896 by Sherman's daughters.

The flag has remained on display since it was last conserved in 1932.

The indictments involve Barton's handling of the Baylor County Citizens Assistance Fund. It was established about four years ago with $32,000 given to the county by federal drug authorities and was bolstered by $19,000 in private donations, according to County Judge Joe Dickson.

Barton has been charged with two second-degree counts of theft by a public servant, two third-degree counts of theft by a public servant, and one third-degree count of tampering with a government document.

As King's chief lieutenant, Abernathy was at his side at almost every key battle of the civil rights movement of the 1950s and '60s and took his place as leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference after King's 1968 assassination. But the fame and adulation enjoyed by King never quite extended to Abernathy.

In a 1986 interview, he lamented that during a visit to a school in Connecticut, "not a single student knew who I was.

In 1989 he was reviled as a traitor to the cause for writing about King's alleged marital infidelity in his autobiography, "And The Walls Came Tumbling Down." Abernathy wrote that King spent time with two women and had a violent argument with one in the 24 hours before his assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) - ADistrict of Columbia judge has dismissed a lawsuit against Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., alleging that Frank's relationship with a male prostitute constituted a public nuisance.

The one-page decision, dated April 10, was released by Frank's office Tuesday as Frank, in Boston, was announcing his candidacy for a sixth term.

Superior Court Judge Harold Cushenberry dismissed the suit on the grounds that the plaintiffs had no right to bring it and that any alleged nuisance was clearly not continuing.

The suit alleged that Frank was aware his Capitol Hill apartment was being used by Stephen Gobie for his prostitution business.

Some limits are indicated

Sen. Bill Bradley, D.-N.J., was in San Diego a few weeks ago, not because he had a solution to the city's sewage-treatment woes or answers to the complex implications of immigration reform. Bradley was there to raise money. Last year, he swept through California on several occasions and vacuumed up $700,403 in campaign

As Monday's New York Times pointed out, Bradley is part of a growing trend among politicians of both parties. They are raking in funds far from home to finance hideously expensive re-election campaigns.

Bradley, for example, raised $1,772,635 in donations from individuals last year; 73.2 percent of that money came from out-of-state contributors. And Bradley's not the most ambitious far-from-home fund-raiser. Sen. Al Gore, D-Tenn., raised 96.5 percent of his campaign donations from out-of-state sources. Rep. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., raised 94.7 percent outside South Dakota.

Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R.-Minn., raised 74.5 percent of his money from out-of-state sources, some of it from the likes of Peter Keesal, a Tucson, Ariz., car dealer. Keesal told the Times that he gave to the Minnesota Republican only because a friend asked him to. "I don't know a thing about him," Keesal was quoted as saying. "Never heard of him. I don't know whether he is tall or short or wears red socks.'

The out-of-state trend is merely the latest, and certainly not the most egregious example of the ethical absurdity of campaign finance. Raising millions just to stay in office has become the raison d'etre for many members of Congress; if they have to sweep the country, that's what they'll do. Who has time to deal with the problems of a nation, particularly when solutions might offend a donor?

Early next week, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, will try yet again to jump-start comprehensive campaign-finance legislation. Two years ago, similar legislation was killed by a Republican filibuster; in recent weeks, Mitchell has touted a new compromise proposal for "flexible" spending limits, a compromise that he hopes will break the partisan impasse.

The flexible spending approach would establish a reasonably high cap on campaign spending, set on a state-by-state basis, with an exemption from the spending cap for limited, in-state contributions. The aim is to provide an effective overall spending limit while making allowances for small, in-state contributions.

The new package also includes a proposal by Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., that addresses the immense cost of television campaign advertising, and it tries to deal with the practice of raising so-called soft money through thirdparty sources. Contributions from Lincoln Savings and Loan head Charles Keating to Sen. Alan Cranston's voterregistration organizations is a typical soft-money scam.

Meanwhile, the Washington Post reports that the federal Resolution Trust Corp. has begun investigating an East Coast version of the Lincoln scandal. Apparently, the head of the now-defunct CenTrust Savings Bank of Miami also was generous with strings-attached donations. The cost of the CenTrust bailout is estimated at more than $2 billion, making it the second-largest S&L failure after the $2.5 billion that Lincoln will cost taxpayers.

S&L scandals could be useful. They could keep the fear of God — or voters — in the hearts of lawmakers as they begin the campaign-reform debate. They need frequent reminders that the present scandal-plagued, moneyobsessed system threatens not only the foundations of democracy but their own political health.

Deadlines don't seem to count in Congress

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — After five years of not living up to its name, the balanced budget act is under attack by some members of the Congress that passed it — but if it is the crutch they call it, it's still the only one around.

So they'll keep limping along with it, toward the moving goal line of a balanced budget, which now is supposed to be reached on Oct. 1, 1993. The original deadline was next Oct. 1, but the government won't come close, even with the bookkeeping gimmicks that keep some spending outside its

Deadlines don't count for that much. Congress is supposed to adopt its annual budget resolutions by April 15 each year, but that schedule is meaningless. House and Senate committees will get down to the business of writing budget blueprints this week. They'll have to shrink the deficit by about $37 billion or face the prospect of another round of automatic spending cuts later this

That's the way the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget act of 1985 works, and a conservative analyst says Washington should be saluting its success, not complaining at its shortcomings.

"Since it was enacted, inflationadjusted federal spending has grown by only 1.4 percent annually, a dramatic reversal of the runaway federal spending increases of previous periods," according to Daniel J. Mitchell of the Heritage Foundation. Mitchell says annual spending increases averaged 3.6 percent in the 1970s and 4 percent between 1980 and

At the same time, the federal budget deficit as measured for Gramm-Rudman purposes has declined from $212 billion in 1985 to an estimated $123.8 billion this year. "Adjusted for inflation, the deficit today is less than half the size it was five years ago," Mitchell says, calling that grounds for celebration, not criticism.

Mitchell also defends the system of automatic spending cuts that take effect if the projected budget deficit doesn't match progressively lower targets that are supposed to lead to balance in the 1993 budget.

The deficit ceiling for the next budget year is $64 billion, dropping to $28 billion in the 1992 budget and to zero in 1993. The whole system is built around estimates, not actual deficits, and the estimates always have been exceeded in the end

Nevertheless, Mitchell argues that the law was a turning point in the battle of the budget, and says many of its critics don't like the system because it works too well for their interests.

"Many legislators resent having to choose which programs will receive scarce funds," he says. "Special interest groups are having a much harder time getting access to taxpayers' wallets. .

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy takes a different route to the same conclusion, that the Gramm-Rudman system is worth keeping. The Massachusetts Democrat wants it used in a fashion that would have Congress devote defense budget savings — the peace dividend to domestic programs, not budget balancing.

Capitol

report

"We do not have to apply the peace dividend - and we should not apply it - to deficit reduction," Kennedy says. "Instead, we should let the Gramm-Rudman process run its course through 1993 — exactly what would have occurred without the great, unexpected, peaceful revolution of Much as Congress set up the Gramm-Rudman system to control deficits it could not, or would not, deal with vote by vote, Kennedy proposes a national needs trust fund that would put defense savings off limits. He said that should come to at least $170 billion over the next five years, and probably more. Kennedy said that would guard against "interest group bargaining that would turn a unique opportunity into a trivial division of spoils.

'Let us deal with the deficit as President Bush intended on the day he took office — not with a peace dividend he did not expect, but with a Gramm-Rudman process he has repeatedly endorsed,' Kennedy said.

His trust fund proposal stands no realistic chance, but it does fit the trend in Congress, which is to devise formulas and systems to make things happen automatically, outside the traditional legislative process.

That amounts to an admission that Congress can't control itself.

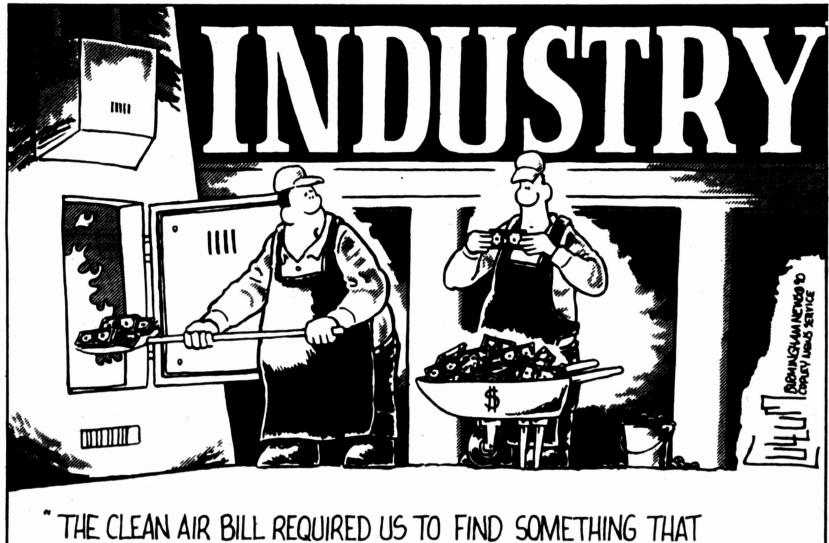

A leading advocate of change in the spending and budget system is Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who proposed a tough deficit control plan but isn't getting far, either.

Rostenkowski wants to earmark any peace dividend for deficit reduction, raise taxes, cut some politically sensitive spending, repeal Gramm-Rudman, and force Congress to make hard choices again.

'Gramm-Rudman is a crutch, a collective confession of our inability to lead and our unwillingness to face up to our responsibilities." he said in outlining his plan a month ago. "We didn't have Gramm-Rudman for the first 209 years of the republic.

"Let's repeal it and govern the old fashioned way - elected officials, representative of the people, exercising their judgment, making decisions in the national interest and honestly paying for the cost of government that their constituents demand," he said.

"Has it been so long ago that we've forgotten how to do it?'

Illegal use of Social Security numbers grows

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Fraudulent use of Social Security numbers is creating a billion dollar crime

Government investigators are finding a growing use of Social Security numbers to bilk the government out of financial aid, to illegally obtain loans and even to buy guns. A growth industry for the sale of counterfeit cards has even been created.

Files are replete with examples, such as the Virginia man who used a fraudulent Social Security number first to obtain a driver's license, then to buy firearms, which were shipped to New York where they fell into the hands of drug dealers.

Investigators predict that this type of fraud will be a growing concern the rest of this decade. Last year, the Inspector General at the Department of Housing and Human Services helped authorities obtain more than 1,000 convictions related to illegal use of Social Security

The Social Security crime blotter reads like this

 Four people in New Jersey, through a combination of false numbers and fictitious companies, obtained a $500,000 bank loan and $1 million in the sale of company stock

An Ohio woman used false names and Social Security numbers to get government assistance benefits, evade police and negotiate thousands of dollars in bad checks

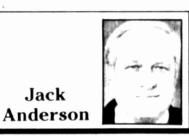

WOULD BURN CLEANER."

 One of the more elaborate schemes was hatched in California. Two residents fraudulently collected thousands of dollars in Supplemental Security Income payments, a part of Social Security. The two, Henry Nguyen and Ona Rady, operated Universal Resources Development Center in Oakland and advertised that they would help non-English speaking Laotian and Vietnamese refugees apply for Supplemental Security payments. The pair falsified the applicants' medical conditions and eligibility factors, routed the funds to their own address and deposited them into their personal accounts.

One Laotian refugee went to Nguyen and Rady when her son was denied medical benefits for asthma. The pair filed an application for her, claiming she was deaf and her son retarded Other claims were filed using medical information from a Mexican clinic when actually the claimants had never been to Mexico.

All told, the offenders pleaded guilty to collecting $70,900 in social security benefits from 23 recipients. This burgeoning scandal comes amid growing debate over Social Security finances. Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-NY, has roiled the waters by proposing a cut in the Social Security payroll tax. Moynihan and other lawmakers are exposing the sham accounting methods of the federal government that enable Social Security trust funds to be counted as revenue, and thus create illusory reductions in the budget deficit. The White House prefers the status quo.

READ MY LIPS, NO NEW TAXES — That famous line of the 1988 presidential campaign has turned into a pair of handcuffs for the Bush administration. According to sources, Bush advisers have been struggling to find an excuse to raise taxes that would not appear to be in violation of Bush's inviolate campaign pledge.

Some Bush advisers are now advocating that the president seize on the savings and loan scandal as a pretext to raise taxes. Government auditors have recently raised their estimates of the bailout cost to $500 billion, well above the administration's forecast. With costs snowballing by the day, the thrift debacle has turned into the biggest financial bailout in world

Support is growing in the White House for a rise in the gasoline tax. The idea was floated by Treasury Secretary Samuel Skinner, who framed the higher tax as a "user fee" for road improvements. Between gasoline "user fees," and special assessments for the thrift bailout, two things are clear: Your taxes are about to go up, but no one will call it a tax increase.

MINI-EDITORIAL — Have you noticed that every picture of President Bush seems to show him throwing a ball, speedboating or playing tennis? Then there are those reports of his entertaining foreign dignitaries and the Washington establishment with cocktail hours or games of horseshoes or movie nights at the White House. The president likes to party. President Reagan also seemed to enjoy the ceremonial duties of his job more than the substantive ones. It makes us long for Jimmy Carter and a second helping of malaise.

In a study financed by the import auto industry, researcher Robert Z. The idea for a five-year campaign to build the monument grew out of a class project at Arroyo Del Oso Elementary School in Albuquerque, said Camy Condon of the New Mexico Conference of Churches, who is an adult adviser to the Students in the second, third and fourth grades were studying the arms race and decided a national children's monument would be a symbol of their desire for peace.

The committee of 42 schoolchildren has raised $274 from 215 students in the United States, along with 10 francs from a student in Switzerland.

Students will design the statue and the group hopes it will be built in Los Alamos, the city that give the world the atomic bomb, said Bonnie Malcolm, a 14-year-old Rio Grande High School student and a project coordinator. "I hope, when people look at it,

The Disabled American Veteran's auxiliary invites the public to attend its annual Americanism program Friday at 7 p.m. in the youth hall of United Methodist Church.

A group from Lenorah will present a patriotic story, titled 'The History of Our Flag''. It is of special interest to the youth and the history students, said Viola Motley, chairman.

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the service

City club meets

The City Extension Club met Friday at the home of Lois Johnston. Members discussed 'Most Used Kitchen Gadgets' and gave tips on use of kitchen equipment.

Women interested in attending the district meeting will leave at 8 a.m. Thursday. For additional information, please contact Jowilli Etchison.

Irene Priebe and Nadine Hodnett displayed pictures of birds seen in Howard County as they presented a program on Bird Life in Our County. Because Howard County is in the flyway path of migratory birds citizens have opportunity to study 250 species of birds, according to a club report. Birds sometimes thought common in Howard County are rare in Abilene and Midland though the distance is short to both cities. Our largest bird is the Sand Hill Crane. Spring migration begins in mid-February and continues through the month of May.

One of the rarest birds seen in Howard County was a family group of Sabine gull. These birds spend the summer on the coast of the Artic Ocean and migrate entirely over the Pacific to their wintering grounds in the ocean off Perie. Two adult and two immature birds were spotted here in 1975 and were seen for two weeks.

The April 27 meeting will be in the home of Irene Priebe.

Size is big problem for woman

DEAR ABBY: I've been thinking about that letter from "Big and Battered'' - the extra-large woman who recited the trials and tribulations of being big. She said, Petite women are given more courtesy and consideration." Well, that ain't necessarily so I happen to be 4 feet 10 inches, 21 years old and petite. And I've had my share of insults. I've been accused (at my age) of trying to get into R-rated movies while being underage. When I go to a bar, I have to bring two IDs to convince them that I'm actually 21. Also, taller people pat me on the head, and I don't know whether to bark like a dog or cry like a baby.

Some people assume I'm emptyheaded because I look like a Kewpie doll. And when some nice person patronizes me with "good things come in small packages,' there's always some wise guy who adds: "So does poison."

I hear there's a club for little people. Will you please print the ad-— ITTY-BITTY BETTY IN

Parenthood? - A LONGTIME ADMIRER

DEAR ADMIRER: I read the figures on population explosion, and saw the pictures of thousands of starving children born of parents who did not want them and could not feed them. I then concluded that a just God could not possibly have given life to innocent children only to doom them to death by starvation in their infancy.

DEAR ABBY: A while back I read about the woman who will be 57 years old when she graduates from college. I know someone who can top that. In my class at law school in Tacoma is a wonderful man, Dixon McDonald, who works as a hospital administrator during the day and attends Puget Sound Law School from 6 to 10 p.m. four nights a week. Dixon will be past 70 when he becomes a practicing lawyer. His daughter, Kimberley, is a lawyer in Seattle, and his goal is to practice law with her. Their shingle will read: "McDonald and Father." My hat is off to him! - JAN RINKER HEWITSON, GIG HARBOR.

Melons make the perfect party food food for bridal showers. Fresh. light and colorful, they're versatile too, great for punches, salads and Texas harvests three kinds cantaloupes, honeydews and watermelons. Excellent crops of each are expected this spring, just in time for showers honoring summer brides-to-be.

"Melons fit right into a spring shower theme," said Texas Department of Agriculture home economist Carol Guthrie. "They're sweet and pretty, and you always serve pretty food at showers. The menus should be light. Finger sandwiches, fruit salads, sweets, bunch, coffee, nuts and mints are typical. You can also serve a light lunch. Chicken salad mixed with cantaloupe or served in a melon half makes a nice entree that's not

A watermelon boat, scooped, carved and refilled with melon balls, can serve double duty at a shower as salad and centerpiece, eliminating the cost of centerpiece flowers. Cantaloupes and honeydews can also be carved to hold individual servings of turkey, chicken, tuna or fruit salad.

Carving a melon takes a sharp knife and a steady hand. To make a watermelon boat, first cut a slice from the melon's underside. This will prevent the melong from rocking when set on the table. Next, tie a string lengthwise around the melon just below the area to be carved. Make sure the string is even all around.

Using a quarter as a guide, trace scallops in pencil, indenting slightly into the rind. The quarter should rest right above the string. If = desired, leave a 2-inch space on opposite sides of the melon for a handle. Draw the handkle across the top of the melon.

Insert the knife, carefully following the pattern. Cuts should be deep enough to permit removing the top of the melon with ease. With a melon ball scooper, remove the meat. Pour out excess juice and refill the boat with a combination of cantaloupe, honeydew and

Artistic designers may wish to draw shapes on the melon rind before carving it. Hearts and flowers are appropriate for bridal showers, but stars and geometrics are attractive too. to carve designs, cut through the outer green just far enough to reveal the pale green underneath. Their smaller size makes cantaloupes and honeydews easier to carve. Simply gauge the melon's middlke by eye or mark it with string. Trace nicke- or quarter-size scallops around the cirumfrence. Cut and scoop out seeds and fill with the salad of your choice.

About 15,000 acres of cantaloupes and honeydews will be harvested from May through June in the Rio Grande Valley, the state's largest producer of these crops. That's a drop of between 4,000 and 5,000 acres since last year, but not to worry. "There'll be lots of melons," said Paula Fouchek, executive director of the Texas Fresh Promotional Board in Harlingen.

Last year Texas Melons, delayed by bad weather, came off the vine at the same time as California's, flooding the market. The Texas season, Fouchek said, turned out ot be "a disaster" for growers, who cautiously planted fewer acres for Good moisture and weather during this growing season, however, have raised expectations for plentiful yields, high-qality harvest of cantaloupes and honeydews. A quality crop of watermelons is an-

To select a good cantaloupe, look for thick netting that is coarse and corky. The stem end should be smooth and indented. Any sign of the stem indicates a melon picked before its time. A ripe cantaloupe will have pleasant aroma and a yellowish cast to its rind. Look for a slight spring to the blossom end when pressed. Ripe honeydews will have a creamy white rind. The blossom end will spring back with moderate pressure. When choosing watermelons, avoid those with a shiny rind. A dull, velvety finish is a better indicator of ripeness. Ripe watermelons will have a beige or vellowish underside. Thumping to determine ripeness is unreliable.

Papa Joe's rice pilaf

By PAPA JOE REED

Everybody is trying to get skinny. They call it "trim" or "slim," but really it's just "skinny." If you cook like I do, you'll probably get portly. Some people would say fat, but I would rather refer to it

If you're the cook, you can do anything you want in the kitchen. Such as using the most portly you notice I didn't say fat) ingredients. Today, we are going to have a pilaf. When we say pilaf, you know it's a rice dish.

RICE PILAF

Vegetable oil (2 tablespoons) Butter (2 tablespoons) Onion (1 medium) Garlic (1 clove, minced) Mushrooms (12 lb.) Celery (3 stalks) Lemon (juice and grated rind)

Rice (8 oz.)

Raisins (2 tablespoons) Peanuts (12 cup) Tomatoes (1 lb. can) Water (2 cups)

Worcestershire sauce (1 tablespoon) Salt and pepper

Fry the rice in a large heavy pan in the butter and oil, stirring well until the rice is a pale yellow. Then add the chopped onion and garlic and cook for about three minutes. Next, slice the mushrooms and celery and add

How to open an egg

all the ingredients including the liquid from the tomatoes. Season well with salt and pepper and cook over a low heat until the rice is soft and the liquid is absorbed. You can add more water if needed. Now you can serve this with a meat dish or as a meal by itself. Meatballs really go good with it. You can also add more vegetables and seasonings. Garnish with slices of hard boiled eggs or bananas fried in butter, or radish curls, carrot slivers, green pepper slice. Play with it. Have fun. It's your kitchen.

Now for a nice dessert to go with such a good dish. Here's something you'll have fun with.

BANANA FRITTERS

Bananas (4) Flour (1 cup) Milk (1 cup) Egg whites (2) Vegetable oil (2 teaspoons)

Sugar (1 cup, powdered) Oil for deep frying

Make a batter by mixing the flour, salt, milk, and oil and let set for two hours. Now, beat the egg whites to stiff peaks and mix with the batter, stirring well. Now split the bananas and dip in the batter. Fry in hot oil until golden brown. Remove and drain.

C-City sets work camp hearing

By DEBBIE LINCECUM

COLORADO CITY - The Mitchell County prison work camp proposal is in its final stages and a hearing has been scheduled for April 26 at 7 p.m. to measure public opinion. The plan may be formally adopted April 27 and sent to the Texas Department of Criminal County Judge S.L. "Mac" Morris said the meeting, set to occur in the Colorado High School auditorium, will be an important aspect of the application process. "We want to let people voice concerns and their opinions. I don't think they (TDCJ officials) would award the contract if there was public sentiment

County Judge S.L. "Mac" Morris said a contract drawn up between the county and Private Prisons of America, Limited, will not be approved by commissioners until next week. Morris said he expects the proposal, which includes 440 pages of information about the partners and the proposed facility. to be formally adopted after the public hearing. It must then be sent to Austin to arrive at the TDCJ before the 3 p.m. April 27 deadline.

Along with available funds, educational requirements and housing, Morris said the "work" aspect is vital to the application. "You've got to have jobs for them (prisoners), pay them the prevailing wage. It has to be suitable work, because remember this is a lock-up.

Prisoners at the proposed facility would be manufacturing Waffle-Crete precast concrete modules, used in building hotels and, coincidentally, prisons. Prisoners may in fact contribute to the construction of the facility itself, Morris Morris said the 4-person room modules are patented by PPAL and approved by the American Correctional Institute.

The proposal is expected to be one of about 50 submitted to Austin officials. Morris said an award for Mitchell County could be crucial to proposed facilities in other counties. Department officials are expected to make a decision in late May or early June.

Thomas asked Gloria Flores why she hadn't told the police about Ricardo Flores' threat in her statement to the police and why the details about covering the body were out of sequence in her chronological narrative given in the statement. She said she had reported the threat and that the body discussion was true. In testimony Tuesday afternoon, Royce Smithy, a special prison prosecutor who works with Texas district attorneys in prison campus offenses, described the rules and rituals of the Texas Syndicate, a prison gang to which Dupree alleges Ricardo Flores belongs.

Dupree asked Smithy if Roberto Flores' testimony that Ricardo Flores had told Alaniz that Garcia had to die and justified Roberto Flores' taking Garcia to the store as "after all, he's going to kill him;" and Angel Alaniz's testimony that Ricardo Flores had time to pray before riding in the truck, could constitute a Texas Syndicate-style ordering of a

It is unlikely that the DPS troopers will move from their offices in the basement of the courthouse.

The game warden could not be reached to give his impressions of his new digs. Coffee said Anderson had decided to move because he spent most of his time in the field and rarely used his courthouse annex office.

nes going,

The District 4-4A track meet made my week. It's been a long time since I've seen a battle as intense as both the girls and boys races.

120-107 for

It was so sweet to see the Big Spring Steers outduel Andrews and San Angelo Lake View for the boys' crown. I'll be the first to admit, I didn't think the Steers had a chance. They hadn't shown me that suck-it-up, killer instinct that's needed to win the big meet.

I really thought Andrews would finish first and Lake View second, with a possible Lake View upset because of the home field advantage. Believe me, it helps: A very supportive Lake View crowd spurred their team to a overachiever's performance.

With the exceptions of getting disqualified in the sprint relay, the Steers did all the things they had to do to win — they finally went out and ran a gutsy mile relay and they offset Andrews' points in the sprints and hurdles.

Then there were the unexpected little points that added

Travis Sinclair's sixth place in the 110 highs; Chris Polyniak's blazing kick in the 1600 that snared four points; freshman Nick Roberson, who battled a strong wind to place fourth in the 800; freshman Waylon McGee's second place in the triple jump; and Sinclair's fourth in the high

It all came together to bring another district title to coach Randy Britton and his Steers.

The Steers qualified five individuals (Chris Minter, Rye Bavin, Pete Buske, McGee, Roberson) to compete in seven events and one relay. They have a point maximum of 90 points.

Although they finished seventh and only scored 53 points, the Big Spring Lady Steers made a good impression on me. This is the first time in three seasons that you could tell they were actually in training.

This year came new coach Jay Kennedy, and recess became track workout - and did it show. Kennedy had promised his girls hard work if they wanted to stay on this team, and that's what they got.

More importantly, the young ladies stayed with it, and the improvement was inevitable. On a team with hardly a senior, five members qualified to regional, all underclasswomen.

Vernice Ross, Brenda Johnson, Annie Rodriguez and Amber Grisham will be making their first trip to regional. Marta Mathews will be returning for a second time.

That's a possibility of 40

I saw a few super-human performances last week. The one that comes to mind first is that one-two punch of LaTisha Anderson and Sarah Hanks for the Coahoma Bulldogettes. At the District 7-3A meet, they scored 82 points. That total alone outscored about half of the teams there Crane's Jackie Jeffrey also put on a strong performance at the 7-3A meet. The talented senior won four events and scored 49 points.

Another good performance was that of Stanton freshman Jeremy Stallings. At the District 6-2A meet, he remained unbeaten in the half-mile and mile. With about 15 minutes rest, he came back to run a strong leg on the mile relay.

Then there was Big Spring's Chris Minter and Sweetwater's Kiley Anglin running the last legs on the mile relay at the 4-4A Minter unleashed a smoking 48.2 on his leg, but couldn't make up any ground on Anglin. That's because Anglin, my friends, is a 47.8 quarterman.

Mustangs throw Steers, 8-2

Homer-less Yankees win again

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees aren't concerned about their power shortage as long as their pitchers keep short-circuiting opposing batters.

"We've got better arms, there's no doubt of that. It all adds up to wins," Dave Righetti said after earning his third save in as many appearances —he has retired nine of 10 batters this season — as the Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 4-1 Tuesday night.

That's also the Yankees' record. and they've done it without hitting a home run. Pitching suddenly is the name of the game for a team that was supposed to resemble Venus de Milo — no arms.

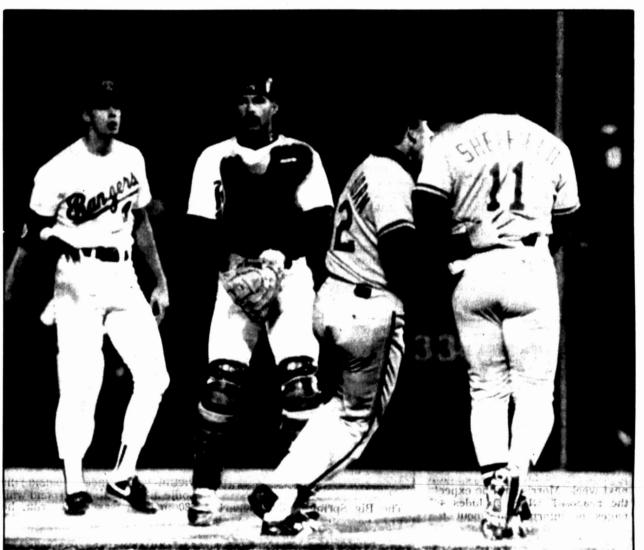

Leany, making his first official appearance after a rainout and a snowout, scattered six hits in seven innings and Dave Winfield, making his first start in left field since 1984, had a two-run single. Robinson pitched a perfect eighth and Righetti did the same in the ninth.

Foreman wins in fourth round

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — George Foreman may be fooling fight fans and himself with his string of knockouts against has-beens and never-weres, but give this sly old man a little credit. There aren't many overweight, middle-age men who could beat 21 fighters, 20 by knockout, no matter how carefully they were chosen, and convince the world that they have a chance at winning the heavyweight title. Tuesday, Foreman knocked out

Mike Jameson in the fourth round.

"I knew there'd be barriers to stop me from being the heavyweight champion, but age wasn't one of them," Foreman said. "I'm going to stick with this until I get the title.

By The Associated Press The weakness of the San Francisco bullpen, hardly a secret around the National League, is being exposed almost daily. As if losing four of their last five games when leading or tied in the eighth inning isn't bad enough, the defending league champions had to throw their relievers at the Los Angeles Dodgers on Tuesday night. Caminiti doubled, took third on a grounder and scored on a single by Biggio to give Houston a 3-2 lead. Wilson hit his second homer with one out in the fifth and Stubbs followed with a double. After Caminiti struck out and Rafael Ramirez was intentionally walked, Portugal singled to score Stubbs.

Cubs 8, Mets 6 Third baseman Howard Johnson's two-out throwing error in the 13th inning allowed two Chicago runs to score. New York and Chicago combined for 22 walks, six errors and eight stolen bases. The Mets left the bases load ed in the third, ninth and 10th innings and stranded 18 runners, 10 in scoring position.

Chicago got the winning run for Paul Assenmacher (1-0) in the 13th when Joe Girardi singled with one out off Jeff Innis (0-1), stole second with two outs and continued to third on catcher Orlando Mercado's throwing error. After Jerome Walton walked, Ryne Sandberg hit a grounder to Johnson, who fielded it cleanly but threw wildly past first base for his second error of the game and the Mets' fifth.

Billy Hatcher had three singles, stole a base and drove in a run, and Larkin went 3-for-4 to raise his average to .594 (19-for-32). The Reds won their eighth straight home opener and 15th in 17 years to move within one of the 1980 club record for most consecutive victories at the start of a season.

Browning (2-0) allowed seven hits, leaving after Benito Santiago, who had three hits, homered to open the seventh inning. Randy Myers pitched the ninth for his third save, working out of a two-on, one-out jam. He allowed a single to Santiago and walked Garry Templeton, but struck out Mark Parent and got Joey Cora on a grounder to end the game.

Andy Benes (1-1) gave up seven hits, including RBI singles by Hatcher and Mariano Duncan in the first, struck out six and walked four in five innings.

Pirates 7, Cardinals 2 Pittsburgh used the wildness of St. Louis pitcher Greg Mathews to score six runs in the third inning, and Neal Heaton won his seventh straight decision.

Mathews (0-2), who missed last season with an elbow injury, was making his first start since Sept. 19, 1988. He allowed three hits in 2 2-3 innings, but walked six and made a first-inning error that gave the Pirates a 1-0 lead.

Heaton (2-0), unbeaten in his last five decisions in 1989, allowed five hits, struck out four and walked two in 7 2-3 innings. Heaton, who has allowed only one earned run in 12 innings this season and hasn't lost since last July 21, improved to 4-0 lifetime against St. Louis.

ATLANTA (AP) - Sports agent Bruce Allen, son of former NFL coach George Allen, is being investigated by federal authorities for possible mail fraud and signing college football players before eligibility expired, a newspaper reported.

The Atlanta Journal Constitution, in its Wednesday editions, said it learned from unidentified sources in the FBI that key witnesses in their investigation include Sharon Salewski, a former secretary with Allen's Phoenix. Ariz.-based firm, GBA Sportsworld, and Derek Hill, a former University of Arizona wide receiver who plays for the NFL Pittsburgh Steelers.

Allen, 33, also is the subject of a lawsuit by a former client stemming from a 1987 real estate deal, the newspaper said.

beats lawsuit

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - Buffalo Bills quarterback Jim Kelly today beat back a lawsuit filed by a woman who claimed she suffered tooth damage when Kelly threw beer-filled balloons at her during a picnic. Marlene Edbauer's claim that she needed root-canal work after being hit in the face with a balloon boiled down to a credibility contest between her and Kelly, and she lost, Buffalo City Court Judge Michael L. Broderick said.

"A review of the evidence leaves unreconciled gaps and conflicts in plaintiff's proof," Broderick said. "The proof itself was replete with conflicts. contradictions, exaggerations, distortions and confusion.'

Edbauer had been seeking $250,000 from Kelly, who signed a $20 million contract recently that made him the NFL's highest-paid player. After testimony concluded last week, she reduced her claim to $25,000.

"I need a little more money next time," was Edbauer's only comment as she left the courtroom. She refused to elaborate. Paul Bumbalo, her attorney, said he would consider appealing. Vincent Tobia, Kelly's lawyer and the Bills' general counsel, said Broderick "recognized the case for what it was.'

"If it was not Kelly, the case probably would have been in small claims court," Tobia said. Kelly was not present for the verdict. Edbauer, 40, said she was hit in the face with a balloon during an Aug. 16, 1987, picnic sponsored by a now-defunct Williamsville bar. The blow caused a plastic cup to shatter against her face, damaging her front tooth so that it subsequently needed a root canal, she said. Broderick said he found it significant that Edbauer's dentist, Dr. Ronald F. Grazen, had not found any cuts or bruises in her mouth when he examined her two days later. "He testified that, had he noted swelling, bruising or cuts, he would have noted that on his records," the judge said. "References to that type of observation were missing from the records. Edbauer's claim against the bar was also dismissed

City, county looking at waste incinerator

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

Staff Writer STANTON · City councilmen and county commissioners agreed in a special joint session Tuesday night to seek more information on the possibility of locating an industrial waste incinerator here in

The incinerator would burn petro-chemicals from such sources as waste dirt from around petroleum operations as well as regular garbage, said Commissioner Don Tollison, who gave a rundown on a proposal made at a meeting last week with a representative of All-American Environmental Corporation.

"This is, my understanding, primarily what it will be used for," Tollison said. "I understand those folks would be asked to clean those up a great deal.

The proposal did not include handling hazardous and toxic waste, as does a proposal by a different company in nearby Mitchell County, indicated Tollison and Councilman Ronnie Christian. "I don't recall that they said it would be used for toxic or hazardous waste," said Christian who also attended the meeting last week.

The $8 million Vulcan Iron Works incinerator in Martin County would have the capability of burning 71/2 The incinerator would burn petro-chemicals from such sources as waste dirt from around petroleum operations as well as regular garbage, said Commissioner Don Tollison.

Possibilities include the installation of another unit or a larger one and an additional 20-acres. The operation would have to be approved by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Byproducts would include carbon dioxide and water. "It does not have a smell or have to have a smell," Tollison said. However, he did say that when considering the location, they should take into account prevailing winds. "If some particular odor should come out at some time, it could go across Stanton," he said

"I don't think that it would smell any worse than Cosden," Tollison said of any possible odors. "I don't think Big Spring would want that.

Not only could all of Martin County's trash possibly be burned in the incincerator but petrochemical wastes would be trucked in from as far west as California and from the east, Tollison said. Christian said they could charge a fee to bury the incinerated petrochemical waste or have it hauled Southern Martin County is a good location for the incinerator because it is located near Interstate 20, the railroad and petrochemical industries, Christian said. "This is a good location because it's centrally located between large metropolitan areas. he said.

Tollison said, "There's already these type of materials being transported up and down I-20 and the rail system.

Cities such as Midland and Odessa were not interested in locating an incinerator in those areas, Christian said. In addition. Councilmen and Commissioners All-American Environmental Cor-

Week of protests leave Texas campus on edge

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Several University of tests have left them worried that campus tempers may be ready to boil over.

Mark Bunger said incidents involving campus activists and conservatives are polarizing the student body. "I think we're sitting on a bomb. It's just going to come to a head. It's been growing all year,"

On Tuesday, about a dozen University Atheists were shoved by an estimated 400 members of fraternities and conservative groups as the atheists tried to burn an American flag.

Witnesses said some of the students involved and issues raised Tuesday reflected last week's rallies to protest racist incidents.

"I've been here for three years. This semester it seems like everything's gone haywire,' agreed student Salim Bhaloo. "People's emotions have been suppressed and they're coming out now in one big shot.

Eddie Ludvig, an Austin Community College student, said some of the counter demonstrators used homophobic insults and wore shirts emblazoned with Confederate flags and the slogan "Save Jeff Davis."

Blacks and other student activists have asked the UT administration to remove a statue of Confederate President Jefferson Davis from campus.

Derek Roberts, anthropolog sophomore and a member of University Atheists, told the Daily Texan he had participated in Tuesday's flag burning protest to support the First Amendment right to burn the flag and to confront people's attachment to symbols and objects.

"I think it proved my point that worship of the object over reality makes people do hateful things, he told the campus newspaper.

Witnesses said the counterprotest was organized by the campus group Young Conservatives of Texas and joined by fraternity members and at least one ex-Marine Andy Panos, a freshman business student and officer of the College Republicans, said the attempted flag burning was "a rehash of Sixties liberalism.'

"This (the counter-protest) proves that people are really fed up, and that there's a prevailing change of thinking going towards moderate to conservative ideas, he said. "We think that they should be out there burning their bras and draft cards, not the flag.

Campus Police Sgt. Silas Griggs said although the crowd, armed with fire extinguishers and water bottles, encircled the protesters, shouted abuse and wrested the flag from their hands, no one was hurt in the melee.

Researchers say they've identified alcoholism gene By BRENDA C. COLEMAN tends to run in families, and

Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO - Researchers say they have pinpointed for the first time a gene that may make people prone to alcoholism, adding weight to the argument that alcoholism is a disease and not a moral weakness.

Government scientists called the finding "provocative and promising," even if it requires more study, but a leading investigator in the field declared it was impossible to say an "alcohol gene" had been identified.

Writing in Wednesday's Journal of the American Medical Association, the researchers said they found a particular gene on a chromosome previously linked with alcoholism to be far more common in alcoholics than in nonalcoholics they studied. If verified, the finding would represent the first specific identification of a genetic root for alcoholism.

Alcoholism, which afflicts an estimated 18 million Americans, previous studies of families and of adopted twins have suggested that environment and genetic factors both contribute to the disease.

Scientists exploring possible genetic traits involved have previously implicated three chromosomes as possibly having a role, but no one before has isolated any particular genes as likely culprits, the researchers said.

Chromosomes are threadlike structures comprised of thousands of individual genes, the "fingerprints" of DNA that carry a cell's hereditary blueprint. A person's traits are determined by the nearly 100,000 genes in each cell.

The gene pinpointed in the new study has two alternative forms, each of which controls a type of nerve cell called the dopamine D2 receptor, believed to play a key role in experiencing pleasure. The researchers looked at both alternative forms of the receptor the "A-1 allele" and the "A-2 • GENE page 8-A

U.S. hostage may be freed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Kidnappers holding three American professors hostage said today they would release one within 48 hours as a goodwill gesture.

The Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine demanded that U.S. assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern affairs, John Kelly, fly to the Syrian capital of Damascus within the same period.

'The arrangements for the release should be accomplished by the arrival of John Kelly in Damascus to coordinate some final steps to guarantee success within 48 hours," the handwritten statement said. Kelly is a former U.S. ambassador to Lebanon.

The statement was delivered to the independent Beirut newspaper An-Nahar and a Western news agency in Beirut along with an instant picture of kidnapped educator Jesse Turner.

already seen what happened when someone alse had tried to put one in Colorado City. They don't want to propose that," Christian said. City Administrator Paul Lively, who was also at last week's proposal meeting, said no mention was made on how much money the incinerator operation could generate in the county. However, Tollison said that one related industry could involve a trucking center. "There would be quite a bit of trucking in and out," he said.

All-American Environmental Corporation representatives J.E. Bradley of Lubbock and John Christmann could not be reached for comment by the Herald this morning.

The company is located in Brooklyn, N.Y., according to a Sept. 14 article in the Times Leader of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. It is jointly owned by the manufacturers of the incinerator, Vulcan Waste Systems Inc. of Wilkes-Barre, and Naxos Inc., a corporation controlled by the Hunt family of Dallas, the article said.

Tollison said that Bradley had not asked for any concessions, just "good will" which could take the form of a community host agreement passed by local officials.

"These folks didn't come in here and try to push anything on us," he said. "They wanted to know if we would be interested in assisting

The Martin County 4-H Club will hold its first Consumer Decision-Making contest at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Community Center.

Some 380 students have been involved in a 4-H school enrichment project, where they have learned skills in decision makeing. The contest concept grew out of the livestock judging competition.

Instead of having a class of steers or pigs, this contest supports a class of tennis shoes or backpacks. Each class has four like items in it and a situation statement accompanies the class. The situation statement gives the person judging

Participants will register at the community center starting at 7:30 p.m., and judging will last about 40 minutes. The youths will then have a 30-minute break, then will reconvene and those leaders who set up the classes will give their critique.

This will be followed by an awards presentation, with the following prizes donated by local merchants:

First National Bank, three $100 savings bonds; Haislip's, $50 shopping spree; Stanton National Bank, $50 savings account; Gift Basket Originals, $15 shopping spree; Bill's IGA, $25 gift certificate; First Bankers, $25 cash; The Korner, $10 credit; The Beauty Knook, free haircut; Linda's Last Chance, free haircut.

House nears tax showdown with governor

AUSTIN — After failing to find enough budget cuts to pay for a school finance bill, the Texas House is prepared to test the strength of Gov. Bill Clements' nonew-taxes vow by considering a half-cent sales tax increase.

But Clements, who has repeatedly promised to veto any state tax increase, said there are "plenty of places" to cut more than the $114.4 million tentatively trimmed Tuesday by the House.

Hury's committee voted 8-3 to send the full House a bill to raise the state sales tax from 6 cents to 6.5 cents on the dollar.

The measure would raise $480 million to $600 million the first year, depending on when it takes effect, Hury said. That tax increase was endorsed by a coalition of educator associations "I think that we will pass this revenue-raiser and, joined with the cuts, that we will send it to the governor," said Hury, D-Galveston. The bill could be considered by the 150-member House later this week. Hury said he didn't know whether 100 members would support it, the number required to override a veto by Clements. The House has approved a school

A House-Senate conference committee is trying to work out differences between the two, and House Speaker Gib Lewis said $550 million is being considered as a compromise price tag.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said because the House failed to find enough cuts to pay for the education bill, he "will be supportive of whatever revenue measures are necessary to raise the additional funds to meet that obligation."

Clements favors a $234 million school bill and proposed paying for it with cuts in other parts of the budget and raising the state fee for obtaining driving records.

Cuts tentatively approved by the House included:

• $57 million from the $154.5 million set aside for restoring the State Capitol.

it was considered the very height of humor to dismantle somebody's Volkswagen and reassemble it in a fourth-floor apartment while he was on vacation. Or to dress up in official-looking coveralls and hard hats and tear up 14 yards of city street somewhere. Or to order a ton of cement delivered to your brother-in-law's front door.

Humorist H. Allen Smith wrote a whole book on the subject, "The Complete Practical Joker," in which he chronicled some of the all-time great practical jokes

One of the classics is the upsidedown bedroom a California millionaire constructed in his mansion. In this room, there were a rug and a bed and chairs and a dresser passed out, he would be placed in the secret room, and then everybody would gather around peepholes and wait for the sleeper to awaken

This probably wouldn't be considered very funny today. In fact, Smith's book has been out of print for some time, and the practical joke seems destined to go the way of public smoking.

According to author Peter Funt, whose "Gotcha!" is a compendium of practical jokes, the golden age of practical jokery was 1920-1950. Since then, Funt argues, folks seem to have lost their ability to alcoholics and 35 non-alcoholics. 'We found a very high association of the A-1 allele with alcoholism and a very high association of the A-2 allele with non-alcoholism," said Dr. Ernest P. Noble, a co-leader of the study and director of the Alcohol Research Center at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The A-1 allele — believed to be the important form of the gene was present in 69 percent of the alcoholics, but only in 20 percent of non-alcoholics, the researchers reported.

Such a high correlation was surprising, given that alcoholism comes in a number of types and is almost certain to have a number of causes, including a variety of genetic causes, the researchers

'A large majority of alcoholics in the present study had experienced repeated treatment failures in their alcoholic rehabilitation and the cause of death was primarily attributed to the chronic damaging effects of alcohol on their bodily systems," the researchers wrote.

It is possible the A1 allele is associated with a particular subtype of virulent alcoholism in which the person fails to respond to treatment, they wrote.

"We really can't say that indeed we found the alcholism gene per se," said Kenneth Blum, co-leader of the study and chief of the Addictive Diseases division in the Department of Pharmacology at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio. But "we think that in the age-old question of nature vs. nurture, this finding has added to the nature side, to the disease concept, rather than (to the concept that alcoholism) is just moral weakness or willful misconduct," he added in a telephone interview Tuesday from California.

Scientists at the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, of which Noble is former director, wrote in an accompanying editorial that the study is "provocative and promising but must be regarded with caution.

Reasons for caution include a lack of complete information on the subjects' medical histories and uncertainty over whether genetic differences between the groups are linked to traits unrelated to alcoholism, they said.

The scientists urged that further studies be done on family groups, including using the techniques that Blum and Noble used, since they may be applied to tissue from living people and cadavers.

Dr. Henry Begleiter, director of the federally funded Collaborative Studies on the Genetics of Alcholism, expressed a similar view in stronger language.

Presenting Turkey for Spring Dinners...

et turkey flavored with Dijon mustard be the focus of festive spring dinners such as your Easter holiday meal. Keep the preparation simple by roasting the turkey unstuffed. However, make the entree special by spreading Dijon mustard in the body cavity and under the skin over the breast.

Preparing the turkey is easy. Use a fresh or a frozen Butterball® Turkey that is thawed completely. First, untuck the legs of the turkey. Then with a rubber spatula or your hand, loosen the skin over the breast, starting at the body cavity opening by the legs. It may be the easiest to use a scissors to cut the connecting membrane carefully, especially over the breast bone. Complete the special preparation by spreading Grey Poupon® Dijon Mustard in the body cavity and under the loosened skin. The white wine and spices in the mustard add flavor to the turkey and enhance the pan drippings for the sauce.

Accompany the turkey with Angel Hair Primavera. Primavera means spring. And what vegetable makes one think of spring more than asparagus? Toss the pasta with asparagus, carrots and red bell pepper for a colorful side dish. Top the primavera and sliced turkey with Sauce Dijon which is made with the pan drippings and Dijon

Makes 10 to 12 servings

12 to 14-pound Butterball Turkey, thawed if frozen 1/3 cup Grey Poupon Dijon or Country Dijon Mustard

Remove neck and giblets from turkey cavities. Rinse turkey: drain well. Free legs from tucked position; do not cut band of skin. Using rubber spatula or hand, loosen skin over breast, starting at body cavity, opening by legs. Spread 2 tablespoons mustard inside body cavity; spread remaining mustard on meat under skin. Hold skin in place at opening with wooden picks. Return legs to tucked position; turn wings back to hold neck skin in place. Place turkey, breast-side up, on flat rack in shallow open pan. Insert meat thermometer deep into thickest part of thigh next to body, not touching bone. Brush skin with oil.

Roast at 325°F for 3-1/2 to 3-3/4 hours. When skin is golden brown, shield breast loosely with foil to prevent overbrowning. Check for doneness; thigh temperature should be 180 to 185°F. Let turkey stand 15 to 20 minutes before carving.

Makes 8 servings

2 cups diagonally sliced asparagus

1 cup julienne carrot strips
1/2 cup red bell pepper squares
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning

I clove gartic, minced 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

1/3 cup margarine

12 ounces angel hair pasta, cooked and drained Sauce Dijon, recipe follows Grated Parmesan cheese, optional

In large skillet, over medium heat, cook asparagus, carrots, red pepper, Italian seasoning, garlic and pepper in margarine for 5 minutes or until tender-crisp. Toss with hot pasta. Serve immediately with Sauce Dijon and cheese if desired.

SAUCE BLION

Makes 3-112 cups

Turkey drippings

1 cup half-and-half or light cream 1/4 cup Grey Poupon Dijon or Country Dijon Mustard

1/4 cup chopped parsley

Remove fat from turkey drippings; add enough water to make 2 cups. if necessary. In medium saucepan, with wire whisk, blend drippings and flour. Cook and stir over medium-high heat until mixture thickens and begins to boil. Stir in half-and-half or light cream, mustard and parsley. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until thickened; do not boil. Serve over Angel Hair Primavera and sliced turkey.

..and for a Meal or Two to Follow

When dinner is over, remove the meat from the turkey carcass and refrigerate to cool as quickly as possible. Use the refrigerated cooked turkey within three days or freeze and use within two months. Then present the winning combination of Dijon mustard and turkey again in a creamy mustard sauce served over sliced turkey or together as a light salad meal.

STUFFED EGG DIJONNAISE

Makes 24 appetizers

- 12 hard-cooked eggs 1/2 cup whipped cream cheese
- 1/4 cup Grey Poupon Dijon or Country Dijon Mustard
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup finely chopped scallions
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped pimientos 1 clove garlic, minced

Halve eggs lengthwise. Scoop out yolks into bowl; set egg white halves aside. Mash yolks; blend in whipped cream cheese, mustard, mayonnaise, scallions, pimientos and garlic until smooth. Spoon or pipe volk mixture into egg white halves.

GARDEN FRESH TURKEY SALAD

(not pictured) Makes 4 servings

- 1/4 cup Grey Poupon Dijon or Country Dijon Mustard
- 1/4 cup nonfat plain yogurt or sour cream
- 2 tablespoons honey 1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
- 2 teaspoons poppy seed 6 cups torn salad greens
- 1 cup cherry tomatoes, halved
- 3 cups julienne cooked Butterball Turkey
- (about 1 pound) 2 scallions, diagonally sliced

1/4 cup sliced almonds, toasted In medium bowl, whisk together mustard, yogurt, honey, vinegar and poppy seed. Cover; chill at least 1 hour to blend flavors.

To serve, arrange 1-1/2 cups salad greens on individual plates; top each with 1/4 cup tomatoes and 3/4 cup turkey. Drizzle 3 tablespo prepared dressing over each salad; garnish with scallions and a Serve immediately.

CREAMY PECAN-DIJON SAUCE FOR TURKEY

(not pictured) Makes about 2-1/2 cups

- 1 tablespoon margarine 2 tablespoons chopped shallots
- 1 clove garlic, minced 1 cup heavy cream
- 1/3 cup sherry cooking wine 1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans
- 1/2 cup red or green seedless grapes, halved
- 1/4 cup Grey Poupon Dijon or Country Dijon Mustard Hot sliced Butterball Turkey

In medium skillet, over medium-high heat, melt margarine. Saute shallots and garlic just until tender. Stir in cream and sherry; cook and stir until sauce is slightly thickened, about 4 minutes (do not boil). Stir in pecans, grapes and mustard. Serve over sliced turkey.

TIP: For uniform slices, prepare Butterball Boneless Breast of Turkey or Boneless Turkey.

The fossil remains of reptiles, birds, mollusks, insects and plants excavated from the pits will also be displayed, bringing this ancient North American community to life.

The dramatic cycle of entrapment and preservation at La Brea began 40,000 years ago and continues to this day. According to Malcolm C. McKenna curator in the Department of Vertebrate Paleontology at the American Museum of Natural History, "the La Brea 'tar' is quite mobile, when considered on a thousand-year scale. It keeps churning and, over the years. new fossils get churned up to the surface." Most of the plant and animal fossils found in the tar pits are between 10.000 and 40.000 years old.

If these ideas seem absurd to you, it's because it's so easy to see that they clash with two of our nation's most cherished traditions. Just why are holidays so important? For adults, they mean a day off from work to enjoy with family and friends. For children, however, the importance of holidays and celebrations is vastly different. They give a young child a specific sense of belonging - to the nation, to a religious group, to a family. They also "punctuate" the year and provide continuity: Thanksgiving means it's almost winter, while Grandma's birthday might mean that spring is just around the corner. It's the same every year. Since 57 percent of mothers with children under age six work outside the home, some of the responsibility for introducing young children to holiday celebrations will occur in child care environments. Ann Muscari, wellknown child care expert and vice president of Kinder-Care Learning Centers, offers these tips for parents: • Find out how your child's caregiver plans to mark a holiday, and then try to follow up at home. Holidays like Thanksgiving, Presidents Day, Valentine's Day, the Fourth of July and Halloween will probably be marked in a child care center with stories, art projects and costumes.

In less structured environments, such as with babysitters in your home, of family day care mothers who care for several children in their homes, your suggestions and input may be welcome as holidays approach.

•Religious holidays are more sensi-You may be aboved to provide a most. Birthdays give children a day of treat or snack for the group. If so, find their very own—and add to the grow-ing some of self. Adults, babies and the health food trend toward bran

Today, some health-conscious adults are discovering that the foods they ate as infants can, again, be "grist for one's

Adults scanning supermarket shelves and cereal departments are noticing that oat bran and rice bran are the hottest trends in health food ingredients and cereals. Both brans combine the nutritional benefits of high fiber and low cholesterol

While new to adult health food menus, oatmeal and rice cereals have been a staple of infant diets since Gerber Products Company introduced oatmeal in 1932 to promote good infant health and nutrition; ironfortified rice cereal followed in 1950.

"Chances are, most of today's parents benefitted from oatmeal and rice as infants. For years, doctors have recommended oatmeal and rice cereals as a good source of nutrition and iron for infants," says Dr. Sandra Bartholmey, manager of Infant Nutrition at Gerber.

According to a national Pediatrician and Family Physician Infant Feeding Study, most pediatricians recommend cereal as babies' first supplemental food to breast milk or formula. Out of the 367 pediatricians surveyed, 93 percent recommend cereal as babies' first supplemental food.

Eighty-five percent of the pediatricians recommend rice cereal as the top cereal choice to introduce to babies; oatmeal follows, recommended by six percent of the pediatricians.

The benefits of oatmeal and rice

Dr. Bartholmey says oatmeal and rice cereals are recommended for infants because of the following nutritional benefits:

Rice or oatmeal cereals, when fed as a supplement to breast milk or infant formula, serve as a good source of iron, calories and other nutrients at a time when it is particularly important that babies receive sufficient amounts of each for proper growth.

· Rice and oatmeal cereals are welltolerated by infants and are unlikely to cause food sensitivities or allergies.

· Rice and oatmeal cereals contain an appropriate amount of protein for infants. When fed as a supplement to breast milk or infant formula, the protein present in rice and oatmeal supplements the diet, but will not overload the infant's young digestive · Rice and oatmeal cereals are designed to be easily digested by young infants.

Iron and rice cereal

Each 14 gram serving of Gerber Rice or Oatmeal Cereal provides 45 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) of iron for infants. Babies, cereal and nutritional needs

Many Americans are more health conscious than ever and have changed their diets to improve their health and reduce the risk of some adult diseases. However, the nutritional recommendations set for adults differ from those for infants. Applying adult diets to infants could be harmful.

Due to very rapid growth and development, babies have high calorie and nutrient needs during the first two years of life from age one to age three.

Over 92 percent of the tots, both boys and girls, had some degree of valgus knees at age five. The report stated that the data (80 percent hyperpronation and 92 percent valgus knees) suggest "a possible interrelation between the two." In short, excessive foot pronation and knock-knees may function in tandem. (This is quite visible in adults.)

While a majority of the children developed normal arches by age five, those who wore arch support shoes were off to a faster start in arch development, especially the "arch cookie" wearers. This may indicate that these children may develop stronger and healthier feet in the later years, though such a conclusion would have to be determined by follow-up

The study is believed to be the first to provide clinical evidence of the influence of arch support shoes in arch development of small children. It may also help to resolve the long controversy as to whether or not arch support shoes have therapeutic value for children's feet.

All the shoes during the four-year study were donated by Sabel Shoe Company, a division of P.W. Minor & Son, Inc. The shoes were made available in a wide range of widths from B to EEE to assure meticulous care in accurate fitting. The shoes were Great haircolor — you're not dressed without it

It doesn't matter how well you're dressed, when your hair looks drab or out-of-date, you can't look your best. It's not only the style, but the color of your hair that makes a big difference in vour appearance.

Haircolor today does so much more than just cover gray -- it can 'lift' your skin tone, emphasize the color of your eyes and help define your individual style. Today, haircolor not only makes a strong fashion statement on its own, it is an essential part of a total fashion book. You're not dressed without it!

To emphasize the vital link between haircolor and fashion, Clairol Professional has created Top Looks 90, a beautifully photographed portfolio and video that showcases the fashions af six top designers — "Carmelo Pomodoro, Franco Moschino, Bob Mackie, Carolyne Roehm, Rebecca Moses and Geoffrey Beene — along with the sophisticated haircolor looks they inspire.

Top Looks 90 features the Neolites Collection, six innovative haircolor techniques that show off hair's natural highlights—and require the creativity and skill found only in the salon. According to Top Looks Artistic Director Richard Cardone, "The Neolites Collection is a whole new approach to haircolor—working with the hair's natural highlights for depth and dimension. The look is sophisticated, elegant and full of life."

Cardone calls this new approach "convertible color" because it can look subtle for daytime and more exciting at night. "Gone are the bold, graphic statements of the '80s. Haircolor for the '90s is richer, more natural-looking and much more versatile to reflect the varied lifestyles and individuality of the '90s woman.

Together with the way you dress, your haircolor is a fundamental way to express your individual style. Top Looks 90 will help you choose the total fashion look that's right for you.

Children need to be health-conscious, too

While the fitness craze is reaching trend. Parents and teachers should millions of American adults, the same trend is not reaching our young.

During the past ten years, sedentary lifestyles have caused children to lose cardiovascular strength and gain weight. The link between inactivity, heart disease and obesity has many health professionals concerned.

Consider these statistics: • Boys age 10 and older weigh an average of 14 pounds more than in 1983; • Girls 12-17 now take about 60 seconds longer to complete a one-mile run than they did ten years ago.

· As many as one in five children may have high cholesterol levels. Fortunately, exercise and good nutrition can help reverse this negative encourage children to spend less time watching television and playing video games, and more time doing physical activities, such as riding a bicycle or playing soccer. Children should also eat fewer foods that are high in fat, sugar and cholesterol. Foods high in complex carbohydrates, such as white bread and pasta, are nutritious and important for energy.

For the last six years, the IronKids program has helped millions of American children learn more about nutrition and become more physically active.

Developed by the bakers of Rainbo and Colonial Bread, the IronKids program has three components.

• The IronKids Triathlon—which running in distances appropriate for children—will be held in 15 U.S. cities this year.

• The IronKids "Path to Health and Fitness" education program is available free to teachers of grades 2-8, and provides their students with valuable information on nutrition, fitness and mental well-being.

• The IronKids Club is available free to children and includes a quarterly newsletter on health and fitness.
