Sheriff: Escapee armed, dangerous

BIG SPRING — Authorities have now determined that escaped prisoner Garbriel Armand Bar-considered dangerous, said Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard. However, he may not raza is armed and still be in the Big Spring area. "He possibly left Big Spring early Tuesday and he's possibly en route to Odessa." Standard said.

The border patrol, the partment of Public Safety and area police departments and sheriff's offices have been alerted of Barraza's suspected movements.

He may be traveling in a 1984 gold Lincoln Continental, a 1984 blue Ford pickup or a 1980 maroon Pontiac Trans-Am, Standard said, in issuing this update, which he termed a public safety notice.

Barraza, 25, escaped from the Lynn County Jail at 9:45 p.m. Sunday and allegedly stole a maroon Nissan pickup from Tahoka that was found abandoned Monday at Eubanks and N. Birdwell.

He was being held under the assumed name of Bernardo Ramirez on a Federal warrant out of Lubbock on what are assumed to be drug-related charges, Standard said.

A spokesman for the Big Spr ing Police Department, which is also working on the investigation, said he believed Barazza was still at large.

Rain will help area farmers

CROSSROADS — Rain fell over much of Crossroads Country Thursday evening into Friday

Joe Pickle of Colorado River Municipal Water District reported .2 inch at the Big Spring and Lake Thomas stations, and .5 inch in Colorado City. Lake Thomas rose almost two feet overnight, Pickle said. #

Big Spring Agriculture Research Station records noted .05 inch, bringing year-to-date, totals up to 5.58 inches.

Research Leader Bill Fryrear of USDA Research Service said the large amount of rain this year so far has increased prospects for crop

"It's definitely going to make all these farmers happy. It gives ranchers a reserve, so they have a better chance to have the grass they need this

West Texas can never get too much rain, Fryrear said. "I would suspect if we were to dig a hole about six feet down we would see that we still need it. We can never have too much, maybe too much at one time. So much rain at once will keep farmers out of their fields for a few days, Fryrear said, 'but I believe they'll be happy.

Study: Contaminated soil poses little risk to public

By RUTH COCHRAN City Editor

BIG SPRING — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has determined that contaminated soil at the former Webb Air Force Base presents little risk to the public or the environment. Although the contamination presents little threat, the Corps is planning to clean up both sites at Airpark. The Corps' Kansas City District announced it has completed a remedial investigation and a feasibility study for cleanup of the sites, and they will discuss the results at a public meeting on Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

According to a Corps fact sheet on the study, soil contamination was found in two areas: the waste the Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle lagoon; and the fuel storage area.

taminated with chlordane and trace amounts of PCBs and heavy metals (including cadmium, zinc and lead), the fact sheet said, and soil at the fuel storage area is contaminated with fuel constituents.

However, the fact sheet also notes that a preliminary risk assessment "indicates a low potential for adverse health and environmental impacts as a result of identified contamination.'

George Hanley, a public relations officers with the Corps' Kansas district, said the contaminants are earcinogens or suspected carcinogens. Hanley stressed there is no real threat to the public or the environment, however, as the contaminants don't seem to be leacking into the groundwater and no one lives near any of the spills. • STUDY page 10-A

BIG SPRING — Students in Joe Reed's honors biology class spent their class period Thursday planting tomato seeds. But they were no ordinary seeds. Fraser votes against taxes to fund schools

By ERIN BLAIR Staff Writer

BIG SPRING - State Representative Troy Fraser voted against a half-cent increase in the state sales tax proposed as a solution to school funding woes in Austin Thursday. "I am opposed to additional taxation, especially that type that puts a burden on FRASER those least able to afford it, Fraser said.

The bill would have increased the state sales tax from 6 cents to 6.5 cents and would raise as much as $600 million dollars a year, Fraser

The sales tax increase passed by a vote of 82 to 60 in the House of Representatives and now proceeds to the Senate, where it is also expected to pass. Governor Bill Clements has said he will veto any tax increases and Fraser believes he can gather the 51 votes necessary in the House to sustain the expected veto. We have identified $300 million from other sources that can be used to fund the education program and will not require substantial cuts in any program. That's the solution I'm supporting," he said.

The $300 million proposal, which has Clements' approval, would take funds from areas including the capitol restoration budget and the rainy-day fund.

Lawmakers are in their second special session to work on school finance reform. The state Supreme Court has given them until May 1 to change the $13.5 billion-a-year school finance system, which has been ruled unconstitutional in its distribution among wealthy and poor school districts.

If the legislature fails to meet its deadline, the courts or state comptroller Bob Bullock could cut off funding for schools before the end of the school year, but Fraser said there is very little chance of that happening.

To be on the safe side, the House has proposed a bill that would prepay school payments for May by the end of April.

Fraser said the education sessions have been particularly frustrating because lawmakers have still not reached concensus and have only until the beginning of May to do so.

"We're a long ways apart. There's no agreement on how much to spend or how it should be distributed. We have to satisfy the court but we can't come up with a funding formula sufficiently changed (from the previous, unconstitutional one) to satisy it.' FRASER page 10-A

Lister received a 10-year sentence in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice on the tampering charge and 10 years deferred adjudication on the burglary, with the stipulation that he avoid contact with his wife, Lanette Lister, except through appointments supervised by his probation officer.

'Obviously he thought he got a better deal than he could've gotten from a jury," said District Attorney Rick Hamby, who negotiated the plea bargain with Lister's attorney, Don Richard.

Hamby said Lister could have received between 20 years and life imprisonment if he had been convicted of the aggravated kidnapping charge brought by his grand jury indictment March 14.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The Hubble Space Telescope's batteries have enough power after 130 hours of recharging to permit five launch attempts next week of the craft that will carry it into space, NASA says.

OKLAHOMA CITY — Teachers from Choctaw, Okla., school district jump for joy Thursday on the south steps of the capitol as it was announced that House Bill 1017, an education reform and tax measure, has finally passed in the Senate. Teachers across Oklahoma had staged a four-day walkout in protest of lack of passage of the bill.

Oklahoma teachers end four-day strike

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) to classrooms today after their four-day strike forced state lawmakers to forge a compromise on education spending that would raise teachers' minimum salaries."

"It shows that with solidarity the system works. Now we can go back to school," said Carolyn Meyer, an elementary music teacher in Stillwater.

The Democratic-controlled Senate approved an emergency clause Thursday that allows a $230 million education reform and tax bill to become law as soon as it is signed by Republican Gov. Henry Bellmon. The governor said he will sign the bill.

The emergency clause had been a stumbling block to the package and the Senate's failure to pass it last week prompted the 31,000-member Oklahoma Education Association to call for a fiveday walkout. Republicans opposed

It calls for spending $68.1 million to raise minimum teacher salaries by $1,500 a year for four years. Oklahoma teachers say they rank 48th in pay among the states, making $22,000 a year compared with the national average of $29,648.

The teachers' association said the passage would end the walkout Oklahoma teachers were returning except for teachers in schools already set to close Friday. Those teachers planned a "thank-you rally" at the Capitol today.

The association said 145 school districts in the state were closed Thursday. Among those were Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Lawton, the three largest districts in the state with about 95,000 students.

State education officials have said the walkout has affected about 60 percent, or 343,200, of the state's 572,000 students. The state has 606 school districts.

The education package was enacted by a 32-14 vote after five Senate Democrats switched their votes in return for support for a bill that would give low-income families a tax break. The package needed 32 votes to pass.

Sponsors said the measure will put Oklahoma in the forefront of education reform.

Release of a hostage still certain

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - A Shiite Moslem leader reputed to have influence with kidnappers holding three Americans said today the release of one captive is certain despite a "cowboy mentality" on the part of the United States.

Hussein Musawi, who heads a pro-Syrian wing within the Iranian-backed Hezbollah, or Party of God, said in a telephone interview: "The delay is certain, the complications are certain, but the release is also certain.'

On Thursday, pro-Iranian kidnappers said they would postpone indefinitely freeing an American hostage.

Musawi said the delay was caused by Washington's rejection of the kidnappers' key demand that Assistant Secretary of State for the Near East John Kelly fly to Damascus, Syria, to finalize the release.

Syria said late Thursday that it was working to secure the release of a hostage by this weekend.

Germanys must work together

EAST BERLIN (AP) — The head of East Germany's former Communist Party said today that the new government's plan for unification would allow the country to be colonized by West Germany.

Gregor Gysi, a respected lawyer who took over the battered Communist Party after its hard-line leaders were ousted last year, said both Germanys should instead work together to build a new nation.

Lawmakers on Thursday debated the unification plans of the coalition government led by Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere, whose Cabinet includes most of the major political factions in Parliament.

There was widespread support for much of de Maiziere's plans for quick unification, but other lawmakers said it gives East Germany too little say in the process.

Gysi, who leads a reformed Communist Party now called the Party for Social Democracy, criticized the method under which East Germany would simply adopt the constitution of West Germany.

Planning for survival

On the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, there is a growing awareness of mankind's fragile relationship with the natural environment. Throughout the industrial world, there is a heightened sense that we must change our polluting and consuming habits or confront a potential global disaster.

The 1990s are likely to be a decade of prime concern for the environment. Ordinary citizens on an international scale are demanding stronger measures to preserve the planet from destruction. As the environmental ethos asserts itself more strongly, politicians are scrambling to catch up with these demands.

Already, a consensus is emerging behind a global blueprint for the environment.

For a start, the threat of global warming argues for limiting the consumption of fossil fuels. President George Bush is right to be cautious in his approach to the socalled greenhouse effect. Large uncertainties remain about the pace and scale of future temperature change due to the burning of coal, oil and natural gas. But there is broad agreement among scientists, including the National Academy of Sciences, that the possible future effects of fossil-fuel emissions must be taken seriously.

Regardless of the risk of global warming, fossil-fuel consumption is already the prime culprit in the degradation of the environment. Acid rain, smog from auto emissions and power plants, some water pollution and disastrous oil spills are all byproducts of our dependency on fossil fuels. The world must find ways to reduce this California leads the way in the application of clean technologies to generate power from solar, wind and geothermal resources. But the use of these renewable energy resources must be greatly expanded before reliance on fossil fuels will be eased measurably.

Nuclear power has a much larger potential role to play in curbing smokestack emissions. Yet we need to find ways to use it safely and to dispose of its dangerous waste. Its advantages, compared with the heavy burning of fossil fuels, greatly outweigh its drawbacks.

At the same time, international agreement must be forged on action to protect the planet's disappearing rain forests and wetlands and to stem the spread of deserts. The relentless pressures caused by uncontrolled populaation growth and development in the Third World must be recognized as a serious threat to the environment.

A worldwide environmental blueprint should also encourage more recycling and discourage waste, and not just at official levels. There is room for individuals everywhere to help protect their own environments in a myriad of ways — by cutting down on the volume of trash, by planting trees, by simply being more aware of the impact human beings have on the balance of forces that is vital to all life. This need is particularly acute among Americans, who consume far more resources and generate far more garbage than any other nation.

The balance of nature is also threatened by large quantities of poorly controlled toxic chemicals, by thinning of the ozone layer, by erosion of irreplaceable topsoil, by the wholesale extinction of plant and animal species. Recognition of the pressing need to correct these imbalances is already evident in public demands that fishermen not kill dolphins and in increased concern about such threatened species as elephants and whales

The effort and cost of implementing an environmental blueprint of global dimensions is enormous. No other generation in history has faced a challenge on such a scale. But one thing is certain: The effort must be made. individually and collectively, if this planet is to remain a viable habitat for mankind.

The part that I find so appalling is that this is considered a civil matter and there is very little that can be done. The dogs were picked up by the police and animal control officer, but will be returned to their owner after he pays a small fine. He can have these animals back in his own yard in a very short time. My mother is never going to have her precious friend with her again. There is no way you can replace the love of this friend for my mother.

When are we going to demand that something be done about these animals? This is not the first incident reported in this city regarding these dogs. What do we do? When do their owners' rights end and ours begin?

WASHINGTON - The CIA hascollected evidence that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein may have paid a $35,000 cash reward and allowed the use of a late model Mercedes Benz to the Iraqi pilot responsible for the "accidental" missile attack in 1987 on the U.S.S. Stark.

Thirty-seven U.S. sailors died in the attack on the Stark, and the Iraqis quickly apologized and offered $27.35 million in compensation. The Stark was protecting shipping lanes in the Persian Gulf during the height of the Iran-Iraq Aykroyd, who played Miss Daisy's war when it took two anti-ship missiles from an Iraqi warplane. One was a dud; the other exploded causing a fire that nearly sank the ship.

> Based on CIA documents, Iraqi sources and Arab leaders close to Hussein, we have pieced together these details

> Hussein had been furious with the United States for several years about the American policy of neutrality in the long Iran-Iraq war. The volatile Hussein was further incited by White House admissions in November 1986 that the United States had sold several anti-tank and anti-aircraft weapons to Iran.

Hussein ordered the deliberate attack on a U.S. ship, which had to appear accidental, according to our sources. To be certain of success two planes were actually

U.S. officials accepted the official explanation of the accident from the Iraqis, but harbored enough suspicions to ask Hussein to allow American investigators to conduct their own probe. Only minimal aid and information was > provided the investigators by Within days of the attack, Hussein sent then-President Ronald Reagan a letter laced with references to "heartfelt condolences" and stating that "sorrow and regret are not enough.' Hussein's track record over the years — his use of poison gas on his own population, his obsession to acquire nuclear weapons - has fostered a Middle East madman

We have reported that after trips to Baghdad, Hussein allegedly executed a Cabinet minister who irritated him; he stole a second wife from her husband who feared he'd be executed if he resisted; and almost had his oldest son executed in a fit of rage over a shooting incident in which his son killed a favorite bodyguard.

Other chapters in his volatile history support the theory that Hussein could have ordered the Stark bombing out of pique. The story most repeated in Iraq to support the notion that Hussein is a man who gets what he wants concerns a Cabinet minister who several years ago suggested that Hussein resign to bring about peace with Iran. The unfortunate fellow was asked to step outside the Cabinet meeting. Hussein allegedly shot the dissident and returned to resume the meeting.

Another Hussein tale involves a top health official who was reportedly executed when Hussein found that medical supplies he had ordered arrived with old expiration dates. In another story, Hussein suspected that some military officers had burned down a building to disguise the fact that they were stealing supplies. Hussein responded by ordering execution for every suspect.

Hussein's chief weapon has always been terror, both in domestic and foreign relations. By banning typewriters, Hussein has also pre-empted dissent. On our recent visit, our modern hotel with many amenities for the business traveler, would not allow guests to use typewriters unless they made carbon copies for Hussein

'Driving Miss Daisy' back home

Also, a kid sitting behind me kept kicking my chair. But I enjoyed the movie, and notice how I didn't say film like the movie critics do. Film is what gets on the windshield of your car.

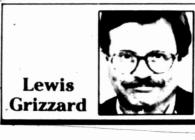

Jessica Tandy played Miss Daisy and she won an Oscar for her performance, too, and although I'm not a movie critic, I think she deserved it.

Miss Daisy was a crotchety old lady who was hard to please and pitched a fit when she thought the help stole a can of her salmon. Jessica Tandy got "crotchety" down perfectly.

But Morgan Freeman, who played her chauffeur, stole the thing. Why he didn't win best actor, I don't know. Maybe the guy in "My Left Foot" was even

Walking for salvation

Man carries cross to share God's word

By LYNN HAYES

BIG SPRING — Art Robles has finally found what he's been searching for and says he wants to share it with the world.

Traveling alone and carrying a 7x12-foot, 100-pound wooden cross, Robles left Odessa Saturday on his 1,200-mile trek to Grand Forks, N.D. On his journey, Robles said, he will share the Lord's message for salvation.

After 27 years of searching for peace and love, Robles says his mission is to bring others to Jesus Christ. "I'm carrying this cross so people can accept God as their personal savior . . . To tell them about Jesus," he said.

Before walking for Christ, Robles said, he traveled down the path to destruction. "I was serving the world instead of God. . . . I was constantly searching for that peace and love that God had, but I didn't know how to find it," he said.

Robles found what he was searching for seven years ago when he found himself staring down the barrel of a shotgun. "God delivered me from a bad situation of suicide. I was tired of the world and I wanted to die.

Robles said he received Christ as his savior after asking for help.

"While I stood there with the rifle pointed at my head I said, 'If there's a God and you love me, you've got to me show me.' At that moment I found the peace I was looking for.'

Robles said God spared his life when the rifle wouldn't fire. "There was no earthly reason why the gun should malfunction," he

Beeville church finds handwritten deed

By ARMANDO VILLAFRANCA Corpus Christi Caller-Times

BEEVILLE — A church on land donated to three former slaves has served its black congregation for more than a century.

Two months ago, the Jones Chapel United Methodist Church held a "Century of Progress" service to honor the church's 101 years in Beeville.

But before the service, the Rev. Earl Alexander, part-time pastor for the past nine months, discovered that no one connected with the congregation held the papers for the property near Juarez and Corpus Christi streets.

"All these years, they have never had a copy of the deed for their church," Alexander said.

The minister searched through volumes of Bee County records, finally finding a copy of the original, handwritten deed to the church property.

The deed was entered into coun ty records on Oct. 26, 1889. The lot donated by Capt. A.C. Jones, a Bee County rancher and banker, was placed under the stewardship of three trustees, Ben Lott, I.E. Starves and Charles Steward, who were all former slaves.

the Methodist church years ago,' Alexander said, adding that the circuit concept still prevails in some rural areas.

Construction of the present

"We're hoping that the younger generation under us will have interest in the church and keep it going." Quency Davis

The congregation was first organized in 1888, with the Rev. M.C. Caviness as its first pastor, according to a history prepared by Nealie Martin, the congregation's most senior member.

The congregation worshipped in a school before the land became available in 1889 and the first church building constructed. according to Martin's history.

At the time, the church was part of a three-city circuit that included Beeville, Goliad and Corpus Christi. In the past, Alexander said. Methodist ministers traveled by stagecoach or wagon, serving churches in several communities on rotating Sundays.

building, a white wood-frame structure, began in 1926 and was completed a year later by a San Antonio contractor Alexander said Jones Chapel is the only church in which he has preached that has existed at the same location for 100 years or more. "A lot of the black churches have been moved for several reasons," he said, citing population shifts and eminent domain laws that led to seizure of land for highways and other public uses.

'I do consider it a special privilege . . . it's a hallowed area and it's been that way for all these years," said Alexander.

The Beeville congregation hopes to find a permanent minister after the Southwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church meets in June,

However, the 40-member congregation's main concern is keeping the church active into the next century, the minister said. Many members from the younger generations have left the area to pursue opportunities elsewhere, Quency Davis, a 40-year member of Jones Chapel, said many in the congregation are in their 40s and 50s but the church has some members in their 30s, and a handful of teen-agers.

But Davis remains optimistic that the church will endure.

'Only God can satisfy your spiritual hunger'

By BILLY GRAHAM

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have given up on religion. For several years I was very active in a group that was really a cult. I finally grew very disillusioned with them, but this has left me very cynical about any kind of religion. Religion may be good for some people, but I have decided not to have anything more to do with it. - M.M.N.

DEAR M.M.N.: Imagine for a moment that you went to a restaurant that served you very bad food — in fact, you even got sick from it. Would you stop eating for the rest of your life? No, you would just avoid that restaurant in the future. Or suppose you were given a counterfeit twenty-dollar bill once. Would you quit using money? Of course not.

In the same way, you shouldn't reject all religion just because you have been deceived by a cult and had a bad experience with their false ideas. Yes, you're right to be cautious — but God is real, and it would be tragic for you to turn your back on him. The fact is, God loves you and he wants you to come to know him personally. Down inside, I suspect, you have a spiritual hunger for God; this is probably one reason you became involved with the group in the first place. But only God can satisfy that hunger — and he wants to.

That is why I invite you to consider Jesus Christ. You see, God isn't hiding from us; he has revealed himself to us by taking upon himself human form in the person of Jesus Christ. Do you want to know what God is like? Look at Jesus Christ. "No one has ever seen God, but God the only Son, who is at the Father's side, has made him known" (John 1:18).

Don't let your disillusionment with false religion keep you from Christ, but open your heart to him today. Write to Billy Graham, c/o

DEAR ABBY: I am a female who had a best friend (male) for many years. We could talk about anything and everything. I loved and trusted him. Then through a series of events, it became painfully obvious that he was stealing from me!

I do not usually jump to conclusions, but over a period of time I became sufficiently convinced of this to write him a letter, explaining what I perceived to be true, and stating, therefore, that we could no longer be friends. It was one of the hardest things I've ever done.

Since then, he has left a couple of notes on my car expressing his indignation that I could believe such a thing, and letting me know that he would be available if ever I wanted to contact him. So far I haven't called him, but I miss him so much my heart aches. I always felt we were soul mates

Abby, there is a tiny bit of doubt on my part, but I wouldn't have written that letter if I hadn't been so certain at the time. So, I guess I have no alternative but to leave things as they are.

What are your thoughts on the matter? — SAD, SAD, SAD

DEAR SAD: I can feel your pain. Our judicial system instructs jurors: "If there is a shadow of a doubt that the defendant is guilty, then the verdict should be

I had looked forward to enjoying a lovely flight to California, but the minute the plane took off, a baby started to scream until that earpiercing noise nearly blew out my eardrums! I was terribly annoyed, and so was everyone else on that plane — not so much with the baby as with the mother. Mothers who can't control their children should

DEAR ABBY: Sad to say, several times a week, we read in the newspapers about families having lost all their possessions as the result of a fire and having no insurance

This, of course, is most often true of people who rent their homes or apartments. Don't they realize that fire insurance for renters is available for a very nominal fee? Fire alone is a terrible tragedy to endure without financial hardship added to one's woes. Passing this on to your readers and urging them to insure their personal possessions could be a great service. Perhaps some people don't know that renter's insurance is available or the thought of getting it never occurred to them.

Remember, things like that don't always happen to the "other guy."

DEAR TAKING: In my book, insurance is not a luxury - it's a necessity. To some, paying premiums month after month may seem like betting on a long shot, but when a dreaded calamity becomes a reality and you're covered - it's like winning a

Best pitches may be in bleachers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The best pitches at Dodger Stadium don't always start on the mound

Up in the stands, peanut vendor Roger Owens can fire bags of goobers to fans up to 30 rows away

Closer to the target, he can make behind-the-back and under-the-leg tosses. Then there's the split-nut shot. Two double bags of peanuts, thrown simultaneously, separate in flight and head toward two targets.

And when one hand gives, the other takes. Owens sells an average of 700 bags of peanuts per game at Dodger Stadium at a buck each.

His all-time record was at Texas Stadium during a Dallas Cowboys game in 1976, when he sold 2,400 single bags. Two years ago, Owens sold 6,000 bags during three days at the Southeast Regionals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

The 47-year-old Owens, who pitched baseballs for the Manual Arts High School team years ago, began his career with the Dodgers in 1958 as a soda vendor. He was promoted to peanuts that same season.

n search of a sales pitch, he looked to his strong arm and gift of gab. By 1977, he was invited to the presidential inauguration of peanut farmer Jimmy Carter. Owens is writing a biography titled "The Peanut Man." "It'll show that no matter what job you take, if you do the best you can, you can go to the top," Owens said. "Even with this menial peanut-vending job, I've been able to take it to the top and turn it into a career.'

'Easy listening' can be stressful

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) "Easy listening" music can do more to put people on edge than silence can, researchers

Music fans eager to relax should simply reach for the type of music they already enjoy, the researchers said.

"Some people don't relax to certain types of music because they don't like it," said Valerie Stratton, a Penn State University assistant professor of psychology.

"The subject might even become more tense than without music,'' said Annette Zalanowski, an assistant professor of music.

The pair exposed dozens of people to a variety of music and polled them on how relaxed they felt during each piece.

Atonal music from 20th century composers and non-Western music billed as relaxing fared the worst, Stratton said. Rock 'n' roll wasn't used because lyrics could skew a person's true response to the music, she said.

Music from India was panned because the 84 college-age people tested were unaccustomed to it, the researchers said.

"No single type of music was most effective in aiding relaxation, and no significant differences were found between soothing and stimulating music," the researchers said.

The company is "providing the means and encouragement to young children to surreptitiously spy on their unsuspecting playmates, friends, families and neighbors," said Rudolph Brewington, a privacy advocate and Washington-based freelance journalist, in an April 10 letter to Tyco president Richard Grey.

The proposal, the Privacy Assurance Act of 1989, would require that all participants in a conversation consent to its intercep1 tion by listening or recording devices in instances not involved in law enforcement.

The bill, which has been referred to the House Judiciary subcommittee on crime, would also require that sound- or voice-activated recorders emit an audible beeptone to alert a speaker that his communication is being recorded.

Aquilla's 'bag lady' wants Texans to pick up their trash

By ROBERT CADWALLADER Waco Tribune-Herald

AQUILLA (AP) — Several youngsters among the fidgety cargo of a lumbering school bus, lean to glimpse the woman in tattered clothing.

She is puttering once again along the shoulder of the road with her garbage sack, hunching over it occasionally to stuff it with throwaways.

'Get out of the way, old trash lady!" a student ridicules. Philip King, having had enough, punches the disrespectful boy.

Later his father, Claude King, watched approvingly as Philip recounted his story.

"You defend your mother," he reminded.

Philip, 13, admits to being embarrassed occasionally by peer reaction to his mother's vigil. But on any given non-school day, he might be right out alongside 59-year-old Nadine King helping her do her part — as well as many other people's parts — to keep her world clean.

The former Marine staff sergeant says that since her military family moved to Texas in January, she has collected 300 bags of garbage on county roads within three miles of their home.

Despite the state highway department's high-profile antilittering campaigns, too many Texans just don't respect their ecology, the New York native complains.

She bemoans traveling litterers in letters to the Tribune-Herald editor, in which she calls herself The Bag Lady of Aquilla." She thinks a lot of people hate her because she's a Yankee telling Texans what to do.

"People here just don't know what they're doing to the environment," said Mrs. King, who has seen much worse during her military travels in the Orient with her husband, a retired Marine

'I don't want that to happen in my little world right here. I want to make this next generation aware that if they don't do something, they are going to be wallowing around in five feet of trash.

Mrs. King gets attention as she trudges roadside, toting a sack in one hand and a forked garden hoe in the other. She uses the longhandled hoe to keep from exposing her hands to "Mr. Snake.

Passersby are long on greetings and short on stooping. 'Several people have stopped to thank me," she said at her home, shortly before setting out in her 12-year-old green Mercedes on another trash run. "Some wanted to shake my hand. But no one -Imean absolutely no one — has stopped and offered to help.

than things are turning out. 'But I think it helped,' she said. She has suggestions for the occasion. She wants more citizen and legislative emphasis on recycling a veritable sport in California compared with its practice in Texas, she said.

She wants compulsory trash collection fees in rural areas to encourage people to use garbage trucks. Most rural residents have an option to dispose of trash

She wants more landfills, but more importantly: no charge to use them. Even a small fee makes the roadside dumping option more convenient

She wants more prison and jail inmates used to clean roads.

She could have used the help when her family moved from California to a 150-acre tract just north of the Hill-McLennan county line and south of Aquilla, her husband's hometown. They wanted the simple life: a small, personable school, fresh air, wide open spaces.

They also found trash lining the roads near their home and three pickup loads worth of discarded

She salutes the upcoming 20th furniture and large appliances

The Kings have set out as many as 24 bags of trash for the Star Sanitation Co. truck from Whitney to pick up each week in front of their home. They praise the company for taking on the extra load with no complaints.

"If it's any indication of what we're picking up, we're in deep trouble with people drinking and driving," Nadine said. "Seventyfive percent has been empty beer cans and bottles.

Philip, who gets tired of the long treks from home to pick up other people's trash, says sarcastically: 'Have them dump it on our land instead of way out there. At least it would be easier to pick up.'

His mom usually sets out at about 11 each morning for a couple of hours of driving, spotting trash, stopping and stooping. She can get three or four full bags in her car.

"It's wonderful exercise," she said. But she added: "I don't want people saying, 'That poor old lady she doesn't have anything else to do.' I've got horses. I could be riding them. I could be visiting friends. I could be reading some wonderful books.

"I can't say I enjoy doing this. It's liking cleaning your house. You do it because it's dirty and it needs to get done. And you get a sense of pride when you get it done.

BY ERIN BLAIR Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Authorities have no suspects or motives in the double homicide of Jeane and Lloyd Davidson at the I-20 Mobile Home Park Thursday morning and are awaiting a pathologist's report to determine the time, cause and method of the murders.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard, who is directing the investigation, said he and his officers were interviewing a large number of neighbors, friends, family members and associates to determine the last person to see the

"There's no real cause for concern," he said. "The groundwater table is very deep there.

Hanley said anyone with guestions about the study or the public meeting can call him collect at (816) 426-5241.

A feasibility study also was conducted to determine the most costeffective method of cleaning the sites. According to the fact sheet, Corps plans to allow "public comments and participation in selection of possible remedial action alternatives

The Corps selected Environmental Sciences and Engineering of Gainsville, Fla., to perform the environmental study and the feasibility study. Field investigations were completed in May 1989, the fact sheet said. The investigations included soil gas surveys, soil sampling and a geophysical survey in four areas: the waste lagoon; the fire training area; the oxidation pond; and the fuel storage

The study is part of the Defense Environmental Restoration Program at active and former Department of Defense properties, the fact sheet said. It was conducted in accordance with applicable environmental laws, including the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act of 1980 and the Superfund Amendment and Reauthorization Act of 1986. The study was closely coordinated with Environmental Protection Agency, state and local officials throughout the process, the Corps said.

"As far as we know they don't have anything yet, but they're not telling us anything. They're just speculating like we have to ourselves," said Mike Bond, one of the Davidson's sons-in-law.

"Whoever did it was the saddest person," he added.

H.L. Atkinson, another son-inlaw, said the gruesomeness of the crime might be hampering the investigation. "Maybe it's so tough to figure out because they were an older couple living alone out there." he said.

Jeane Davidson, 60, and Lloyd

Davidson, 79, were found dead in possibility that someone might Davidson had served in the U.S. their home by a family member, who called the sheriff's office at 8:40 a.m. Thursday.

Standard suspects they may have been dead at least a day before their bodies were discovered. He said they had died "violent deaths." It is believed that the Davidsons' murder is the first double homicide in Big Spring *since 1975.

"While we're trying to arrive at a decision on suspects and motives, instruments and cause of death and other important matters, there is a

Fina Oilers start season in Austin

Manager Cotton Mize says the Oilers will be playing defending national Class A champs, Houston Flyers, as well as the Austin Texans, Dallas Trausour, Houston Los Lobos and San Antonio Jayhawks.

Mize says these are the best teams in Texas, and says this tournament will help get his team in shape for a 13-tournament schedule this

The heart of the Oilers are allstate pitchers Bobby Doe and Johnny Mize. Two new players from Lubbock are Randy Ledbetter, and Ricky Pinkerton. Also new to the team is local player, Wes Overton. Rounding out the squad are David Altom, Dallas; Jeff Jones, Fort Worth; Burl Roberts, Denton; Rick Martinez, Austin: Abel Gomez, Austin and Gary Martin, Corpus Christi.

Coach Mize has high hopes for his team. "We will have an awfully good team by July," he said. "We think we will get two more players in June that will make the Oilers a great team. We feel we have an excellent chance to make it back to nationals, and just might win a national title for Big Spring.

No protective gear needed for youth

TAMPA, Fla. (AP.) — Little League officials say extra protective gear is not justified, even though a federal study documented nearly two dozen children who died after being hit in the chest by baseballs.

The latest incident occurred when 10-year-old William Ryan Wojick was hit by a pitch as he batted during a game here March 18. The impact of the ball stopped his heart and he died at a hospital 45 minutes later. The league claimed at the time that it was only the second such death in 40 years, but officials later acknowledged having been familiar with a 1986 federal study documenting 23 such cases.

Charles Coody was stroking a 10-foot birdie putt on the second hole, the ball rolled.

"It was kind of a downer," the 1971 Masters champion said. "I made the putt, but there was a penalty stroke involved, so it wasn't a birdie.

Dale Douglass, Coody's partner in the Seniors better-ball competition in the Legends of Golf, picked up the story.

"There's only one way to come back from something like that,"

Douglass said Thursday. And Coody provided it immediately.

On the next hole he hit a 142-yard 7-iron shot into the cup, beginning the team's remarkable romp through the Texas hill country that Coody capped with a 15-foot eagle putt that completed a recordmatching, 13-under-par 59.

Orville Moody and Bruce Crampton were 11 under par when they set the tournament record on the par-70 Onion Creek Country Club course in 1987.

Douglass and Coody came within a stroke of that mark in their last round at Onion Creek last year and now have played their last 36 holes in this event two rounds separated by a year in 119.

Coody was the big gun this time on a longer, tougher course, the hilly par-72 layout at Barton Creek

'It's hard to help somebody who's shooting 63 on his own ball. Charles played an absolutely great round. Douglass did contribute four birdies that helped his team to a five-stroke, first-round lead in the team competition being held at Barton Creek Country Club for the first time.

"If we can each make four clean birdies the next three days, we might be hard to handle,' Coody said.

Chi Chi Rodriguez scored five of his team's eight birdies — including those on the 17th and 18th holes — as he and partner Dave Hill put together a 64, for a share of second place with Miller Barber and Tom Shaw.

Shaw, who got into the invitation-only event when Arnold Palmer withdrew early in the week, referred to himself as "an alternate legend."

Defending title-holders Al Geiberger and Harold Henning led a group of four teams tied at 65. They shared the position with. George Archer and Don Bies, Larry Mowry and Frank Beard, and the 1987-88 champions, Moody and Crampton.

The pre-tournament favorites, Lee Trevino, winner of three of four starts earlier this year, and Jim Dent were eight back of the leaders after a 67.

In the Legendary Champions division, for players 60 and over, defending title-holders Roberto deVicenzo and Charlie Sifford combined for a 5-under-par 67 and were tied for the lead

Expos hurler fires two-hitter

By The Associated Press So what do fans expect for free?

A perfect game? That's almost what they got Thursday night in Philadelphia. A crowd of 23,010, lured mostly by the offer of free tickets, saw Montreal's Dennis Martinez come within five outs of the second no-hitter in the two-week-old season. Martinez retired the first 18 batters before a leadoff walk in the seventh. He didn't give up a hit until Darren Daulton doubled with one out in the eighth and finished with a two-hitter as the Expos beat the Phillies 5-0.

"Thinking perfect game or nohitter is selfish. But I knew I had a shot. So, I thought about it," Martinez said.

The game was one of those rescheduled because of the lockout. The Phillies decided to treat their fans and offered free tickets for those who clipped a coupon out of a newspaper.

A total of 14,593 freebies were given out on a first-come, firstserved basis. Another 8,417 paid to watch the one-game series.

Martinez (2-0) struck out seven and walked one in his 17th career shutout. He wound up with the Expos' first complete game of the season and the fifth this year in the Martinez was trying to pitch the first nine-inning no-hitter in the 20-year history of Veterans Stadium. A week ago Wednesday, California's Mark Langston and Mike Witt combined to no-hit Seattle.

"I realized that I had gotten everybody out. The main thing was that I wasn't thinking about a perfect game, but a no-hitter,' Martinez said.

Len Dykstra walked to start the seventh. In the eighth, Daulton fielder Marquis Grissom.

Tommy Herr singled in the ninth for the Phillies' other hit.

Von Hayes was hitless for Philadelphia and claimed there was a reason for that He charged that Martinez was spitting tobacco juice on the ball

"You could see the tobacco on the ball. It makes it darker,' Haves said. "He's got great stuff, but something should be done about it. Hayes struck out on three pitches want him to think that way. That's great," Martinez said of Hayes' allegations. "I rub the ball and when the umpire sees it the ball is Howard Johnson's two-run double in the fifth broke a 1-1 tie and finished Mike Harkey (1-1). The Mets managed just three hits and the Cubs got only four. John Franco finished for his third save.

At Los Angeles, Orel Hershiser outpitched Mike Scott and won for only the second time in 13 starts. Hubie Brooks hit a three-run homer and Kal Daniels homered and drove in three runs in the Dodgers' third straight victory.

Hershiser (1-0) got his 99th career victory. He gave up three runs on nine hits in seven innings, striking out six and walking none. Don Aase finished for his second

Scott (0-1) was roughed up for seven runs on six hits and four walks in four innings. Last Saturday, Scott and Hershiser faced each other in Houston and neither got a decision in their second starts of the year.

At St. Louis, Bobby Bonilla's single broke an eighth-inning tie and Barry Bonds followed with a home run as Pittsburgh rallied to beat the Cardinals.

Joe Magrane (0-2) took a fivehitter and 1-0 lead into the eighth. But a walk, a triple by Gary Redus and a single by Bonilla put the Pirates ahead.

By The Associated Press Dave Stewart is tough to beat any time of the year. In April, just forget it.

Stewart ran his amazing April winning streak to 17 games Thursday as the Oakland Athletics beat the Seattle Mariners 5-2. The first-place A's are on a pret-tv good streak of their own, winning six straight games and eight of their first nine.

Stewart, who lost the first 11 April decisions in his career, is 3-0 with a 1.86 earned-run average this season and 13-0 against Seattle since joining Oakland in 1987. He's won 17 of 18 April starts since an April 15, 1987, loss to Minnesota, and the A's won his only nodecision, 5-4 over Toronto on April 24, 1989.

Stewart pitched seven innings and allowed one runs and five hits. He walked two and struck out two.

Rickey Henderson led the A's attack by reaching base five times with two walks, an RBI single, and a fielder's choice. He also scored two runs and stole three bases.

76ers' Bad Boys acting up

When the "Bad Boys" meet the 'Bad Boys,'' don't expect anything good to come out of it.

That's what happened Thursday night when the Philadelphia 76ers clinched their first Atlantic Division championship since 1983 with a 107-97 victory over defending NBA king Detroit in a game marred by a melee in the closing seconds.

'They started the fight and we just defended ourselves,"said Philadelphia's Charles Barkley, who scored 36 points before being ejected with 14.8 seconds remaining along with Detroit's Bill Laimbeer and Scott Hastings. "The Pistons sit up there on their high horses and don't expect anybody else to do anything. If they want to go out in the parking lot, let's go.

Detroit's Isiah Thomas was ejected for punching Philadelphia's Rick Mahorn with 3:40 left. Mahorn was one of Detroit's so-called "Bad Boys" last Elsewhere, it was Denver 130, Houston 127 in overtime; the Los Angeles Lakers 113, Minnesota 89; Chicago 120, Washington 117; Milwaukee 96, New York 95; Seattle 130, Sacramento 118 in overtime and Dallas 111, Charlotte 102.

Philadelphia's victory was its 13th in the last 15 games and made Sunday's finale against the Boston Celtics meaningless. The 76ers won three of four from the Pistons this season.

The melee broke out when Mahorn was fouled by Detroit's Dennis Rodman as he scored a basket. Mahorn started after Rodman, then, according to referee Jake O'Donnell, "Laimbeer put the ball in Mahorn's face. I clearly saw Hastings sucker-punch Barkley. AUBURN HILLS, Mich. - NBA official Jack O'Donnell (11) seperates Philadelphia 76ers' Charles Barkley from the fight as Detroit's David Greenwood (;eft) grabs Barkley from behind during the fourth quarter of Thursday night's game. Detroit's John Salley (behind O'Donnell) enters the fray during the heated contest.

At one point, Barkley, bleeding from a cut on his left temple, went to the bench and grabbed a metal chair but was restrained by an

As Barkley was being escorted to the dressing room, he jumped on a railing of the stands as if to go after a fan and the 76ers raced to help

The Pistons have lost eight of 14 games since a 25-1 streak from Jan. 23 through March 21 but will have the home-court advantage throughout the Eastern Conference playoffs. Mike Gminski had 16 points for Philadelphia, including a jumper with 5:18 left in the first quarter that put the Sixers ahead to stay. James Edwards led Detroit with 24 points and Mark Aguirre had 15.

Bill Cartwright's eight-foot hook at 1:09 gave the Bulls a 116-114 lead and Jordan's basket with 27 seconds left made it 118-114. Chicago's Horace Grant added 22 points and Washington's Jeff Malone led all scorers with 33.

Small changes in our living habits can make a big difference in improving our environment. Here are some suggestions taken from guidelines compiled by several environmental groups.

Reduce consumption.

Recycle everything possible: bottles, cans, newspapers, motor oil, tires, aluminum, scrap metal and wood.

Mend and repair rather than discard and replace

Bring your own shopping bags to the market.

Use mugs instead of paper cups, rags instead of paper towels, cloth in stead of paper napkins.

Remove makeup with a washcloth instead of tissues or cotton balls. Photocopy and write on both sides of paper

Reject unnecessary wrapping on fruits and vegetables.

Remove excess packaging and leave it in the store or send back to manufacturer

Reuse envelopes, with new address stickers

Reuse boxes. Avoid impulse buying

Borrow or rent items you use infrequently. When buying a home, check its energy efficiency and ask seller to make repairs or upgrades. Get a free or low cost home energy audit from your utility company.

Turn off lights when leaving the room; praise children for turning off

Avoid keeping your refrigerator or freezer too cold. Use washer, dryer and dishwasher after 11 p.m. if possible.

Use dishwasher's energy saver mode or open door to let dishes air dry

Wash clothes in cold water. Keep the dryer's lint screen clean

Do not over dry clothes Use a clothesline rather than a dryer when possible.

Instead of ironing, hang clothes in the bathroom while you bathe or Use smallest possible appliance for any cooking job. Invest in ample insulation, weather stripping and caulking.

Use natural gas rather than electricity for heat and appliances.

In winter, turn thermostat down a few degrees, especially at night and when the house is empty.

Do not heat unused rooms.

Wear a sweater or other warm clothing in cooler temperatures. Keep dampers closed when fireplace is not in use.

Wrap your water heater with an insulation blanket and keep temperature at 120 degrees.

Avoid air conditioning as much as possible. Use insulating shades and curtains on cold winter nights and hot sum

Install plastic storm windows, double paned windows with "heat mir rors" or other energy saving devices Use outdoor lights only when necessary. Apply special reflective coatings on fluorescent fixtures to increase light

Plant deciduous shade trees that protect west windows from summer

sun but allow sun in during the winter

Keep water in the refrigerator instead of running the tap to get cold

Fix leaks quickly, and catch water from a dripping tap in a pail until it is

Install faucet aerators and water efficient showerheads Take showers of less than 5 minutes, not baths.

Wash your hands in cold water.

Wash your car less, and use a bucket instead of a hose

Put out a rain barrel Consider installing ultra-low flush toilets or toilet tank devices to save

Use water-efficient washing machines and dishwashers and run them

Landscape yards with drought tolerant plants, grouping together plants

Water lawns only when the grass doesn't spring back up when stepped

Use organic, waste for garden compost. Consider how production of your food affects the environment

Eat lower on the food chain — vegetables, fruits and grains. Decrease consumption of meat and animal products.

Learn vegetarian recipes and encourage restaurants to serve vegetarian

Organize potluck dinners.

Be creative with leftovers Eat foods that have not been heavily processed.

Shop at local farmers' markets or cooperatives. Grow a garden rather than a lawn.

Grow sprouts and herbs in a kitchen window Plant fruit and nut trees.

Support genetic diversity by planting rare and heirloom species of fruits

Use trains and buses rather than airplanes when possible.

Use public transit, walk or bicycle to work and shopping

Join a car pool. Use the most fuel efficient vehicles you can; aim for 35 miles per gallon.

Maintain vehicles with regular tune-ups and oil changes. Use radial tires, check tire pressure once a week and keep wheels

Buy a light-colored car with tinted glass to save on air conditioning.

Clean and reuse vehicle air conditioner refrigerant. Remove unnecessary, heavy items from your car.

Save gas by slowing down and accelerating gradually

Use ethanol blended fuel or gasohol. Plan trips to find the shortest, least congested route Avoid city driving.

Keep a list of errands and combine trips.

Rose to plead to tax offenses

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose will plead guilty Friday to tax offenses that could mean up to six years in jail under an agreement with federal prosecutors that ends a year-long

Documents unsealed in U.S. District Court show that Rose has agreed to plead guilty to two counts of filing false tax returns by failing to report income from memorabilia sales, autograph signings and personal appearances. The plea bargain bars the government from pressing more serious felony tax charges against Rose, who was banned from baseball last year for gambling.

Gathers family to

file lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hank Gathers' family will file suit Friday claiming that Loyola Marymount coach Paul Westhead suggested to a doctor that the star basketball player's dosage of heart medicine be reduced.

Gathers, who collapsed and died during the West Coast Conference tournament March 4, was taking Inderal for arrhythmia, a heart disorder which was diagnosed after Gathers collapsed during a game Dec. 9.

blasts Team USA, 10-1

BERN, Switzerland (AP) Viatcheslav Fetisov made a successful return to the Soviet National Team, scoring a goal and adding three assists in a 10-1 blitz of Team USA at the World

Hockey Championships. Fetisov, who had 42 points with New Jersey this season, was playing his first game since rejoining the national team following the Devils' elimination from the Stanley Cup playoffs Detroit's Steve Yzerman scored three goals and set up the winner by Shawn Burr late in the third period as Team Canada (3-0) came back from a four-goal deficit to edge Finland

Sweden (3-0), shut out Germany 6-0 and Czechoslovakia (3-0) beat Norway 9-1.

Names in the news

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) star Prince has joined the list of celebrities whose names appear on U.S. Sen. Rudy Boschwitz's campaign spending reports.

Prince, a Minnesota native, gave his home state's senator a $2,000 check in February for his 1990 reelection campaign, according to Federal Elections Commission documents released Monday.

But a spokesman for the Minnesota senator put a little distance between his boss and the rock star's image. 'It's safe to assume that Rudy is not familiar" with the sexually suggestive nature of some lyrics in Prince's songs, capaign director Tom Mason said. He suggested that one of the record industry moguls who have attended Boschwitz fundraisers may have acted as the DENNIS THE MENACE

The publicity-shy rock star made the contribution around the time of a Boschwitz fund-raiser at the Carnegie Deli in Los Angeles. He didn't attend the event, but sent a check signed with his legal name of Prince Rogers Nelson. Prince's business management firm in Los Angeles, which pays his bills, could offer no further explanation.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Vice President Dan Quayle will make Indianapolis 500 history when he serves as grand marshal for the race parade

Quayle, an Indiana native, will be the first sitting vice president to lead the 104-unit parade.

'Parades are not what a president or vice president would normally do, something they aren't always invited said Ray Yonkus, special agent in charge of the Secret Service in Indianapolis. He said Monday he assumed Quayle's last parade was at
