Stolen school property returned

BIG SPRING — The computer thief who got away with more than $3,500 in equipment from Big Spring High School Wednesday was caught and all the stolen property returned Thursday, said Big Spring Police Department Lt. Terry Chamness.

A 17-year old man was taken into custody for the theft, Chamness said. Big Spring High School administrators refused to prosecute in the case, he said.

Taken Wednesday afternoon were: one Apple II Computer enhanced, a monitor, disks, computer paper and a hand control device. The door to the school English reading lab had been locked prior to the incident, according to an earlier report.

Post Office to be more accessible

BIG SPRING — Construction at the post office, 501 Main in Big Spring, should make the building more accessible to the handicapped and more convenient for customers, said Interim Postmaster Ben Martinez.

"The main thing here is that we're trying to upgrade our facilities outside," he said. All requirements for handicapped access will be met by the changes. Parking spaces will be widened and ramps installed on the Fifth and Main Streets side.

On the east side of the building, the collection boxes will be moved from the corner where their location has caused traffic problems, Martinez said. They will be located in the middle of the block and the drive space widened to make boxes easier to reach.

The parking lot has been resurfaced as well, he said. All construction should be finished within two weeks.

Commission taking grant applications

AUSTIN — The Texas Historical Commission is accepting preliminary applications for 1991 Survey and Planning Grants.

Grants may be used to support local preservation planning activities and to identify cultural resources eligible for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. Preliminary applications must be submitted by June 29.

Projects eligible for grant funding include surveys of historic resources, National Register nominations.

Gorbachev asks for expanded trade with U.S.

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev pressed his economic revolution while preparing for today's long-awaited summit arms control ceremony with President Bush. He called for expanded trade with the United States, but told congressional leaders it would be "humiliating" to beg.

At the same time, the Soviet leader said a "gesture" from the United States on trade would be useful "especially politically" him at home.

"Certainly we're not asking for a free ride. We'll be asking for a normal credit and of course we'll be paying" our debts, he said. The United States wants to see a dialogue between Gorbachev and Lithuanian officials before implementing any trade agreements.

Gorbachev arrived at the White House shortly before noon for talks with Bush on the second day of their four-day summit. The late afternoon highlight was a ceremony to lock in limits on long-range nuclear arms and chemical weapons.

Gorbachev met with the congressional delegation in an ornate, chandeliered room at the Soviet Embassy. "This is a genuine revolution. Please don't be frightened," Gorbachev urged at a free-wheeling, nationally televised meeting.

Gorbachev spoke as U.S. officials disclosed that Soviet officials were proposing that Germany's future be directed by a

Montford optimistic about school bill

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

GAIL — As the Texas Legislature prepares for a record sixth special session beginning Monday, State Senator John Montford expressed cautious optimism that a solution can be found to the state school finance reform problem.

JOHN MONTFORD

Montford, D-Lubbock, here Thursday to address the Borden County High School commencement, said the legislature and Gov. Bill Clements are close to reaching an agreement on a reform package.

"We've got to (pass a bill)," he said. "We don't have a choice. We're very close on the reform package. We're just divided on how to finance it. In the next few weeks, we should pull together."

It was perhaps appropriate that Montford addressed the Borden graduates on the need for optimism, because he said optimism — and perseverance — will be needed to pass a finance reform package.

Student graduates, with hair

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — Eighty-four seniors graduated from Colorado High School this year. Of those, 83 were eligible to walk the short path across the lush green grass of Wolf Stadium Thursday night, shake the Superintendent's hand and receive their diploma.

Mike Lara, 17, was not allowed to. His hair is too long.

Lara's decision to allow his hair to grow over his collar against school policy has led him on a different learning path than his classmates. But not without sacrifices.

This school year he has gone through a civil lawsuit filed against the school district and tried in 32nd District Court, and has spent 27 days on in-school suspension. This year also marked the first time he has ever flunked any classes and the first year in high school that he did not make the "B" honor roll, he said.

The decision has also caused him to be banned from senior activities such as graduation ceremonies, the prom, a baccalaureate church service and a ring ceremony in which seniors place rings on juniors and the juniors turn tassels on graduation caps.

"I felt left out," he said at his home Thursday night, as his classmates attended graduating ceremonies only a few blocks away. "The whole year, it's been hard," he said.

But he stuck to his decision despite losing the lawsuit in November and plenty of forewarning by school officials. He has only gotten his hair cut twice during the school year, once following the judgement on the suit and again after being threatened with another in-school suspension.

He got another warning before graduation ceremonies. "They told me to have it cut before graduation," he said. "They checked me Wednesday and I didn't have it cut."

He still feels that the school hair-length rule is an infringement of his rights, he says.

According to the suit that he and his parents filed, it violates state common law on personal body privacy and the Texas Equal Rights Amendment since it does not apply equally to boys and girls. The school district argued that hair-length rules are necessary to instill values in students to prepare them for the world that they will face after graduation.

The experience of the trial proved to be more than just a learning experience for Lara. "My favorite memory was when I took the school to court," says the quote he gave the school newspaper, "The Howl," for the May 25 graduating seniors edition.

His shoulder-length hair has stimulated a string of other memories as well. At the May 27 baccalaureate service, which he was not allowed to attend, he was given special recognition as the student who will probably have the longest hair 10 years from now.

He got another award from his Free Enterprise System teacher for "Most Improved" student. Other classes he took this year were English, government, shop and agriculture. He flunked shop and agriculture, the two easiest, he said, but got "Bs" and "Cs" in the others. He had to drop out of a band class.

Young's parole revoked

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Randall Ray Young, accused of parole violation and the aggravated sexual assault of a Big Spring woman, has had his parole revoked.

Parole Officer David Harman said Young, 28, jailed since February 9, is being held without bond in the Howard County Jail. Young's case will go before the grand jury sometime during the week of June 18, District Attorney Rick Hamby said.

"We're going to prosecute him," Hamby said. Whether Young will be held in Howard County until that date or transferred has not been decided, he said.

Harman said Young's parole was formally revoked Thursday in a decision by Hearing Officer Eddie Martinez. The April 30 hearing included the testimony of two women who said Young had sexually assaulted them.

According to earlier Herald reports, the alleged Jan. 26 rape victim testified that Young entered the home where she was babysitting, raped her at knifepoint and then stabbed her in the buttocks. She said Young threatened to kill her if she told anyone about the incident.

There is a 'free lunch' for kids

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — While school is out for the summer some Big Spring children may not get a nutritious lunch at home, said school cafeteria director Ray Lawlis.

To help solve that problem, he said, Goliad Middle School and Bauer and Marcy elementaries will serve hot lunches every day beginning Monday, June 4, until August 17. Serving hours are 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"I think that (statistic) indicates some children may be going without lunch during the summer, or they may be getting the peanut butter-and-jelly routine. This will be a balanced meal."

The free lunches are offered in areas where more than 50 percent of the students qualify for reduced or free lunches during the year, Lawlis said. Everybody under 18 may eat, regardless of the family's financial situation, Lawlis said.

"We aren't going to ask any questions," he said. "The area around the school is qualified, so any young person who comes in will be fed."

The program, sponsored by the Texas Department of Human Services and operated through the United States Department of Agriculture, has not been offered in Big Spring before, Lawlis said. A report by the agencies lists no Howard County facility serving the lunches during the summer of 1989.

Lawlis said he thought the program would be well received in the community. He realized the need for it by looking at some statistics, he said.

The Big Spring school district has about 60 percent of students who qualify for free lunches overall, Lawlis said. Free and reduced price lunches are offered for children from low-income households, he said.

"I think that (statistic) indicates some children may be going without lunch during the summer, or they may be getting the peanut butter-and-jelly routine," he said. "This will be a balanced meal."

Schools will be serving a variation on the usual fare, he said. Pizzas, cheeseburgers and sandwiches will be served more often than meatloaf or casseroles, Lawlis said.

"We're hoping to serve them what they want to eat," he said, "like something they might get at one of those drive-in places."

The meals will include a meat, vegetable, fruit, bread and dessert, Lawlis said. State nutrition guidelines will be met and usually exceeded by the food's quality and variety, he said.

Lawlis pointed out that the under-18 limit might allow some young parents to eat with their children. Anyone over 18 can pay $2

"We're hoping to get the word out to those parents. Send your kids to the school and they can get a good meal for lunch."

to eat at school as well.

For the first few days, Lawlis said, the schools will try to judge the size of the group which will be eating at the facility. He said he hopes to draw about 500 to each of the three schools.

Kids should plan to enter by the doors into the cafeteria at Marcy and Goliad. Bauer will be holding summer school, so the building will be open for lunch customers.

"We're hoping to get the word out to those parents," Lawlis said. "Send your kids to the school and they can get a good meal for lunch. If it works out this year, we hope to be doing this from now on."

Monday's opening day menu lists chicken patties with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, peaches, rolls and milk.

House, Senate close on reform

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators working on ethics reform say they are close to agreeing on a bill for Gov. Bill Clements consideration.

Clements has said he will open the agenda of the next special legislative session to changes in state ethics laws in the wake of news reports about the influence lobbyists have on state government.

"We have three distinct bills to consider at this point, and I think we're getting real close," House State Affairs Committee Chairman Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, said.

"We're going to try and work out a compromise and be ready so when the governor puts ethics on the call, we'll be ready to go."

A key state senator unveiled a proposal that would give the public more information about lobbyists and their legislative gift-giving and set up a commission to enforce a strengthened code of conduct for lawmakers.

Court reverses fraud conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Shearn Moody Jr. didn't get a chance to rebut testimony by a former congressman in a trial against him, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said in overturning Moody's fraud conviction.

The Galveston insurance heir was convicted in 1987 of bilking $1.3 million from the charitable Moody Foundation, which was established by his grandfather.

The court Thursday reversed the conviction, saying any retrial would have to exclude two of the mail fraud counts in the 17-count indictment on which Moody was convicted.

Children wounded in shooting

FORT WORTH (AP) — An apparently random drive-by shooting that left two elementary school students wounded has other youngsters worried they may be targets the next time.

"It makes me worry because I think I'll get shot someday," says Timothy Allen, 9.

Rachel Jones wonders how the episode will affect students younger than her 9 years, and LaTerrance Turner, also 9, says he knew both victims. He wonders if he'll become a victim.

"It was terrible 'cause if they want to shoot somebody they could have at least shot an animal like a bear or something — not a kid," LaTerrance said. "They might find a way to break out of jail and find a way to come back shooting."

"Police said a laughing youngster fired the shots about 11 a.m. as a car drove by the playground of Sunrise Elementary School Thursday.

Two 15-year-olds and a 16-year-old were arrested minutes later after police received reports of the incident and two other drive-by shootings a short time earlier. No one was injured in those incidents.

Texas allows free fishing day

AUSTIN (AP) — A free sport-fishing day will kick off National Fishing Week in Texas by allowing anglers to fish any public waters without a license on Saturday, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department says.

The special day was authorized by the Legislature last year and is intended to promote fishing and the state's fishing resources.

Chester Burdett, director of the department's law enforcement division, said both resident and non-resident fisherman will be allowed to fish without licenses and won't need special stamps such as the $5 saltwater sport-fishing stamp or the $5 freshwater trout stamp on that day.

Boy's liver fails; no transplant yet

EL PASO (AP) — A physician who campaigned for donations for a boy whose family could not afford to pay for a liver transplant thought getting the money would be the biggest obstacle to the operation.

But, with hundreds of thousands of dollars raised so far, Sammy Aguirre, 4, is still waiting for a transplant because no liver has been available.

"What's killing Sammy now is not some sort of voodoo ... It doesn't make a family member any less human to have that sort of thing done."

Sammy lapsed in and out of a coma Thursday and was moved to the highest priority for patients awaiting organ transplants. The boy's liver has failed, Reyna said.

Reyna said he knows the child could be cured if people were more educated about organ donation.

Kilgarlin to propose shifting finances to poorer districts

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Education Committee chairman says some schools could be hurt today when a court-appointed master recommends a "Robin Hood" plan taking state money from wealthier school districts and giving it to poor ones.

"I think they're going to inflict some pain on some school districts ... I think the court's going to tie up $1 billion of money," said state Sen. Carl Parker, D-Fort Worth. That is the amount of state aid scheduled to be distributed this summer to schools.

Court master William Kilgarlin is recommending the plan because the Legislature and Gov. Bill Clements have yet to reform the school finance system as ordered by the Texas Supreme Court. The court said unanimously last year more money must be made available to poor school districts.

"You will be able to tell by that (plan) how much state money is taken away from one school district and how much goes to another," Kilgarlin told The Associated Press.

Kilgarlin said he had no choice but to propose reallocating state money because he lacks the authority to raise taxes. The $1.5 billion-a-year school system relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal funds.

Kilgarlin's Friday proposal is a preliminary one. His final plan isn't due to be filed until June 21 with State District Judge Scott McCown, who is overseeing school finance reform.

McCown earlier extended the Supreme Court's May 1 deadline for enacting reforms until today to give legislators and the governor more time to find a solution. They didn't, and their third special session on the subject ended Wednesday without a plan.

Also today, McCown is to consider how the approximately $1 billion in state aid due to be sent to schools this summer will be distributed — or whether it should be held back until the start of the new school year on Sept. 1. The next state payment is scheduled to go out June 25.

Clements met with House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and other legislative leaders at the Governor's Mansion Thursday in another effort to produce a school finance reform compromise.

The attempt to reach an agreement was "the most positive meeting I've been in to date," Parker said. Talks were to continue today.

Negotiators said they were making progress on items such as funding formulas and changing the way the education system operates. But they said they had not yet discussed paying for reform.

The Republican governor killed two previous school finance reform plans approved by the Democrat-controlled Legislature after objecting to a sales tax increase needed to fund them.

Clements has not given a firm starting date for another special session on school finance, but he said he may reconvene the Legislature on Monday. He said he believes "lawmakers have until June 21 to devise a reform plan."

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon, representing the state, said the $1 billion in school payments should go to the state's 1,050 school districts as scheduled this summer.

Judge issues final order

BOSTON (AP) — A federal judge permanently banned racial discrimination in the city's public schools in his final order in a 16-year-old desegregation case. The order Thursday from U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. barred "creating, promoting or maintaining racial segregation in any school or other facility in the Boston school system."

In a 1974 ruling on a lawsuit brought by black parents, Garrity found the city's public schools were segregated. He ordered them desegregated, and the resultant busing of students touched off years of turmoil.

Garrity monitored the city's compliance with his order until 1987, when a federal appeals court ruled that the schools were desegregated and gave control over student assignment back to the School Committee.

Garrity continued to monitor school administration and operations, however. He said Thursday's order would be his last.

Soviet circus rescued by university

ATLANTA (AP) — A university has come to the rescue of a Soviet circus troupe that ran out of money and was kicked out of a hotel.

About 40 of the 125 stranded performers will stay in a dormitory on the Oglethorpe University campus for about a week and eat free meals in the dorm's cafeteria. Others will stay with families in the Atlanta area, said Donald S. Stanton, president of the private university. "They agreed to do it out of the kindness of their hearts," said Bob Liberman, the tour manager for the Great Circus Bim Bom.

The company was evicted from a motel in suburban Marietta earlier this week when they were unable to pay a bill of more than $9,700. The Soviets stayed briefly in another motel before Oglethorpe agreed to take them in.

Liberman said he hoped soon to finalize a date for the circus in Kentucky.

Imelda Marcos collapses in court

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Philippines first lady Imelda Marcos collapsed in the courtroom and coughed up blood from what doctors said was a stomach inflammation, bringing her trial to a sudden halt.

Mrs. Marcos was "doing well" and was "alert, conscious, awake and not excessively in pain" at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, where she was rushed by ambulance Thursday with erosive gastritis, said Jonathan Weil, a hospital spokesman.

"It is expected that she will be in the hospital for several days until her condition, which is not life-threatening, has improved," he said.

It was the third time in five weeks that Mrs. Marcos, 60, had fallen ill during the trial.

U.S. vetos fact-finding mission to Middle East

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States vetoed a Security Council resolution calling for a fact-finding mission on abuses against Palestinians in Israeli-occupied lands, drawing sharp criticism from Arab states.

In Jerusalem, Palestinian leaders in the Israeli-occupied lands said today they were cutting off contacts with U.S. officials because of the veto.

Arab nations said the 14-1 vote Thursday in favor of the resolution demonstrated that the United States and Israel are isolated on Middle East issues.

The observer of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Zuhdi Labib Terzi, called it "a sad day" in the Security Council "when one member blocks the council from responding to its responsibility to report on an alarming situation."

After the council meeting, Clovis Maksoud, observer of the 22-nation Arab League, vowed to raise the issue again in the council, despite the risk of another U.S. veto.

U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering said the resolution was "more likely to add to the problems, rather than help resolve the peace process in the region."

"This resolution does not focus on the real need to move the peace process forward," Pickering said. "Rather, it could too easily become a vehicle which could be misused to generate more needless controversy," he told the 15-member council.

The United States favors an envoy dispatched by the U.N. secretary-general to investigate violence in the territories.

Israel, however, opposes any fact-finding mission, and Israeli officials said they will not permit U.N. officials or Security Council members to enter its territory.

The United States frequently has voted in favor of its Israeli ally and has used its Security Council veto power to shield Israel from harsh criticism in the council.

During the council meeting, Israeli Ambassador Johanan Bein said the PLO had fanned violence in the territories and was murdering its own dissidents.

More than 700 Palestinians have been killed by Israeli gunfire during the 30-month Palestinian uprising against Israeli rule.

Bill submitted to end segregation

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government introduced legislation today that would repeal the Separate Amenities Act, a pillar of apartheid that has allowed racial segregation of all public amenities for nearly 40 years.

The legislation, which would take effect Oct. 15, will be submitted to Parliament on Monday, where it is expected pass by mid-June, the South African Press Associated reported.

Since 1953, the Separate Amenities Act has authorized provincial governments, municipalities and privately owned entertainment establishments to reserve facilities for whites. If the law is repealed, public bathrooms, libraries and transportation — as well as privately owned restaurants and nightclubs — could no longer be segregated.

The effort to repeal the Separate Amenities Act was the latest move by President F.W. de Klerk to end apartheid. He has said he intends to give South Africa's black majority the vote by 1994, but he has stopped short of endorsing black majority rule.

The largest white opposition party, the Conservative Party, is the only parliamentary group expected to oppose repealing the Separate Amenities Act. But the party does not have enough votes to block it.

Ship ready to evacuate Americans

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — As rebel troops closed in on the capital, a U.S. Navy flotilla stood off the Liberian coast to evacuate Americans if necessary, the Pentagon said. President Samuel Doe refused to resign and vowed he would be the last to leave the city.

Rebels were reported Thursday to be ambushing government troops within a few miles of Robertsfield International Airport, 20 miles from Monrovia, the capital.

The rebels, from the National Patriotic Front of Liberia, are seeking Doe's ouster. They accuse his administration of corruption, economic mismanagement and human rights abuses.

Doe told a group of foreign ambassadors Thursday he would not step down, according to one envoy at the meeting.

"Tough times never last. Tough people do," the envoy quoted Doe as saying.

"He said he would not resign but would be the last person to leave," said the diplomat, who refused to be further identified.

Doe was described as defiant, despite a promise he made to a rally Friday that he would make any sacrifice — including resigning — if it would help end the bloodshed.

Aftershocks rock Peruvian villages

TARAPOTO, Peru (AP) — Strong aftershocks rocked jungle villages in northern Peru, sending terrified residents into streets and town squares two days after a killer earthquake rocked the region. The death toll rose to at least 135.

Hundreds of people whose homes were damaged slept on towels and mats Thursday in the streets of Rioja and Moyobamba, the two largest towns in the affected area about 400 miles north of Lima.

Civil defense officials said at least 135 people died.

A continuous feud heats up

Nobody likes to hear the sounds of domestic discord in the house next door; similarly, Americans should be concerned over the political turmoil that is shaking our good neighbor to the north.

As usual, the Canadian crisis centers around the long-standing differences between English-speakers and French-speakers, with almost all of the French speakers living in the province of Quebec. Quebec's citizens are even talking secession and many of those in the rest of Canada wouldn't mind seeing them leave.

The latest wave of ill feeling had its origin in a constitutional revision drafted three years ago by leaders of Canada's 10 provinces. Under the revision, Quebec is granted special status as a "distinct society," but it must be approved by three provincial parliaments. Otherwise, it will lapse by its June 23 deadline.

What happens next is uncertain. While outright secession is not likely now, some observers expect "sovereignty association," which involves a partial cutting of political ties while preserving a financial relationship. But even this scenario may be opposed by the rest of the provinces because Quebec is a net beneficiary of federal wealth transfers.

Such an upheaval would play havoc with our neighbor's economy, with prospects for the Canadian dollar falling, interests rates rising and foreign investment leaving. Canada's $180 billion foreign debt would be in doubt.

The impact on the United States might be a good deal more than erosion of Canada's role as one of our biggest trading partners. The premier of Nova Scotia has said that if Quebec secedes, his province and its neighbors would seek admission to the United States.

They would doubtless make fine American citizens, but we suspect most Canadians would be happier if some sort of "marriage counselor" could show them how to heal the breach and keep their nation whole.

Quotes

"If a lady goes out to buy an expensive Chanel suit, I don't think she would mind spending a little

An extra(neous) word helps now and then

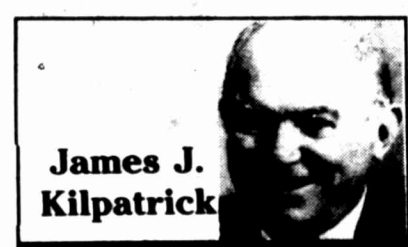

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

The general rule for writers is sound: Use only as many words as are necessary to convey a thought clearly. All the writing manuals teach us to strike out extraneous words. Space is precious! Be succinct! But there are times when the general rule performs a disservice. Now and then an extra word will help a sentence along.

This may illustrate what I have in mind. The Washington Post carried an article in March on election reform: "With the threat of reform hovering over Capitol Hill like a recurring lower back pain, some Democrats are taking matters into their own hands."

There was nothing wrong with that sentence, but the insertion of two words, "in the," would have improved the cadence: "With the threat of reform hovering over Capitol Hill like a recurring pain in the lower back . . ."

Time magazine reported last year that Richard McCormack had been named to a high-level post in the State Department, "instead of almost everyone's first choice, Robert Hormats, a highly regarded international trade specialist." Note how a simple preposition would have helped: "Robert Hormats, a highly regarded specialist in international trade." Such minor tinkering would have produced a sentence with the nice finality of a single syllable containing a long vowel.

One more example, this one from the Journal of the American Bar Association: "In Berkeley, bilingual education advocates want segregated classes for limited-English proficient children." The sentence would gain breathing room by making it read, ". . . advocates of bilingual education want segregated classes for children with a limited profi-

Eyes of his friend are upon him

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

There's something I've noticed about Texans who move away from their home state. They never lose their allegiance to their roots.

Tommy (Goose) McDonnell, a friend of mine, is like that. He was born in Texas. He got into the golf business as a club professional and wound up in Atlanta.

But Tommy had another interest besides golf.

"I'd been wanting to have my own little barbecue joint for years," he told me once.

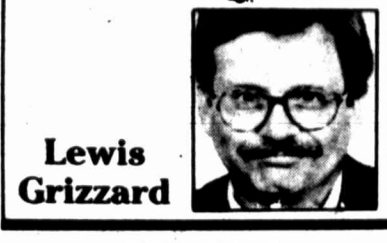

So he got out of golf and found a rundown building in one of Atlanta's fashionable neighborhoods, renovated it, and opened Texas State Line Barbecue. He raised the Texas flag on the roof of the place he always referred to as "my little barbecue joint."

Texans and Southerners often argue about barbecue. Barbecue to Texans is beef. Barbecue to Southerners is pork.

Tommy had the good sense to serve it both ways. What I liked most about Texas State Line was the ribs, both beef and pork, and the cold Lone Star longnecks and Tommy's juke box that had Ernest Tubb's immortal "Waltz Across Texas" on it.

Tommy had a rule at Texas State Line. You couldn't wear a tie after 6 o'clock in the evening. If you did, Tommy would sneak up behind you with a pair of scissors and cut your tie in half.

He even did that to former Mayor Andy Young once. He did it to another customer who threatened to sue him.

"I just laughed at him," said Tommy. "I don't want nobody without a sense of humor in my little barbecue joint anyway."

From the first day he opened, Texas State Line brought them in by the droves. That was the reason that when Tommy's lease ran out, the owner of the building wanted to triple the price for renewal.

Tommy told the guy to stuff it up his snout and moved out. And opened up a new place a mile or so away, Texas Line Shack Barbecue.

Tommy continued to sell great barbecue at Line Shack, but a new problem arose. Something happened to his flagpole and he couldn't raise his Texas flag on the roof. To Tommy, this was a serious problem.

He tried to find somebody to come over and repair the flagpole, but where do you find a flagpole repairman?

Tommy finally decided to try to do the job himself. He got a ladder and climbed onto the roof of Texas Line Shack Barbecue.

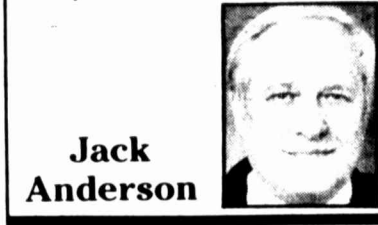

He slipped, fell off the roof and landed on his head in the parking lot. His injuries were severe.

He had to undergo emergency brain surgery to remove a blood clot. He nearly died.

But ol' ex-Texans don't go quietly. He's still in the hospital where he continues to undergo further treatment and rehabilitation.

Tommy McDonnell is one of those rare individuals who would rather do for you than for himself. The eyes of your friends are upon you, Goose. Get well.

Man's family pays the price

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Natalia and Alexander Levchenko, a mother and son living in Moscow, know the dark side of glasnost. When President Bush finishes toasting and praising Mikhail Gorbachev this week, he should take the Soviet president aside and tell him this: If Gorbachev is serious about his country's image, he must let the Levchenkos go.

Stanislav Levchenko is a former KGB major who defected in 1979 and is currently living at an undisclosed location in the United States. He left behind his wife Natalia and son Alexander, now 25. By mutual agreement, the Levchenkos were divorced after his defection. Mother and son have paid the price for Levchenko's defection, and he is determined to get them both out of the Soviet Union.

The United States has been kind to Stanislav Levchenko. In Moscow he has been sentenced to death. He would be bound, but not blindfolded, and shot in the back of the head in a Moscow prison courtyard. But as a free man in the United States, he has published four books. He lectures extensively, consults with the Justice Department on espionage cases and is a fellow at Boston University.

Gorbachev has not been kind to Natalia and Alexander. Levchenko had to sever contact with them for several years because the KGB was harassing his family to find out where he was. He thought he could make life easier for them if he didn't call or write.

He was wrong. Natalia has been allowed to take only low-paying jobs. Alexander was not permitted to enter college.

Levchenko contacted his family again last fall, hoping that Gorbachev and glasnost boded well for them. It did not. Natalia had the same dead-end job and Alexander was a night watchman at a dormitory, living below the Soviet poverty line, which is very low to begin with.

While Levchenko had been out of touch, his son had been arrested on trumped up charges of "commercial dealings," and spent a year in jail. There he was beaten so severely that he has lost the use of his right arm and leg.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, at Levchenko's urging, has promised immediate entry into the United States as soon as Natalia and Alexander get Soviet exit visas.

Natalia was fired from her job last November when she applied for the visa. Last month, mother and son were denied visas on the grounds that they had access to state secrets — a bogus argument the Soviets also use to detain Jews.

A deputy chief of the department of visas and permits in Moscow told Natalia, "You and your son will never leave this country. You are hostages here and will remain so forever."

On May 14, another bully in that department demanded that Natalia take back the emigration applications. When she refused he told her that no one could help her, including the U.S. members of congress who have written to Gorbachev to plead her case.

Thanks for the help

To the editor: Early Sunday morning, May 20, 85 parents and friends stood at attention in the Big Spring High School cafeteria, anxiously awaiting the Junior and Senior students who were to attend the Fourth Annual Big Spring After-The-Prom Party.

A total of 477 students enjoyed a drug and chemical-free function that lasted until 6:30 a.m., when the tired and high (on fun) group headed home.

The success of the party was due to the generosity of the wonderful merchants, businesses, parents, friends, and oil field industry (Texas and New Mexico). Without their help of financial donations, discounts, merchandise and time given, we could never have put on such a lavish event.

Our thanks and love to all of you. TONY AND MARTIE GEANOPULOS, Chairman Parents Who Care 2616 Ent Drive

'Up' with the slogan

To the editor: I have a problem with the anti-litter slogan used by the State of Texas "Don't Mess With Texas." Every good Texan knows that you tell someone not to "mess with" something when you don't want it disturbed. For example, "don't mess with my dawg." If you don't want something littered, trashed or left in a state of disarray, you say "don't mess up" a particular meeting. For example, "we're having company tonight so you kids don't mess up the house."

If we used the "Don't Mess Up Texas" slogan, our law enforcement agencies could adopt the slogan, "If you mess up Texas, we'll mess with your pocket book!"

P.S. Our present slogan must have been written by a "Northerner."

Some destroy work of others

To the editor: Our club, the Howard County Lionsess, has adopted a spot and we were given the amphitheater in the city park.

Several weeks ago our members planted 13 marigold plants at the amphitheater. Several days later a member returned to check on the plants and she found them torn out of the dirt, pulled apart, and trampled upon.

We took on this project to show we are proud of Big Spring, and wanted to help the city look just a little bit better.

It is very disheartening to put work into something and then have it destroyed by others.

What a shame that there are people in Big Spring, who can't take pride in their city, and work towards making Big Spring a better place for everyone to live in and enjoy.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed:

Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes.

Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published.

turned in a serious story on a declining trend in Congress toward wasting money on frivolous federal projects. The trend is better in so many areas that aid to higher education "has become virtually the only growth area, pork-wise." Yucceh!

A writer for the Pacheco News Service, describing a BMW sedan, found it "very sophisticated engineering-wise but simple to use driver-wise." Aaargh! Surely we can do better.

This is in the same larky vein, from the Roanoke (Va.) Times, which last year carried a note in its TV log on Carol Burnett's "Fresno." The serial offered "a fun way to spend an hour each night this week." We ought not to press-gang an honest noun into a bogus adjective.

The Eugene (Ore.) Register-Guard also was into fun. It blurb-ed a story about gardening: "For some, tilling the soil is only as fun as the equipment they use." How does that parse? Tilling is only as fun as equipment?

Thinking of the comparative "as . . . as," a word of guidance may be useful. The general rule is to use "so . . . as" in negative constructions and "as . . . as" in positive constructions. "The jackhammer is not so loud as I had expected, but the kid's boom-box is just as loud as I had feared."

The rule is of interest chiefly to picky-picky critics who learned it from Miss Thistlebottom 60 years ago. My own cavalier advice is to use "as . . . as" if it sounds better to your ear.

I would, however, rule against this tortured construction, from The Denver Post: "A white person in Denver is twice as likely to get a home loan approved than a black person." Here the "as . . . as" is positively required.

These are mostly fine points of prose composition, but fine points make a difference in prose no less than in pencils. If you come across good examples, please send them along.

Six women from the First Baptist Church traveled to the Mitchell-Scurry Associational Women's Prayer Retreat, which is held annually at the Circle 6 encampment near Stanton.

This year's theme for the retreat held May 18-19, was "Share His Love." After supper, everyone gathered to learn about intercessory prayer from Glen McCathern, minister of education at Colonial Hills Baptist Church, Snyder.

Debbie King, wife of Lane King, minister of education at First Baptist, Colorado City, gave her personal testimony, including her childhood in Juliet, Ill., her life in the seminary and present-day ministry of assisting and supporting her husband in his duties at the church.

Saturday morning everyone awoke with the anticipation of having the missionary report brought by Estelle Freeland, who has been a missionary to Nigeria and the Ivory Coast for 34 years. Special music was provided by Sonja Girvin. Fern Culbertson played the piano. Both women made their home in Colorado City.

Ladies 'Night Out'

The ladies of Calvary Baptist Church had a good time on their "Night Out" May 24. Everyone met at Ruddick Park under the pavillion to enjoy sandwiches and have fun. Several hymns were sung before playing a panamime game.

Baccalaureate service

The Colorado High School seniors took part in the Baccalaureate Service May 27 at the high school auditorium. The professional was played by the First United Methodist Bell Choir followed by the invocation led by CHS Student Council Chaplain Jeremy Lelek. Dr. David Shaw, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, encouraged the graduating class with his address. The benediction was brought by the superintendent of schools Dr. James Ramsey. Others taking part in the service were escorts Nikki Findley and Kerre Hulme. Usherettes were Rhonda Howell and Amber Mayfield.

Mother's ugly story has happy ending for son

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column for years and I trust your judgment. I'm a 33-year-old woman with a 17-year-old son. I am very proud of him. He is an honor student and has never given me any trouble. We are very close.

My problem is that he wants to know something about his father. Who is he? Where is he? Will he ever meet him? I have refused to answer any of these questions — saying I don't want to talk about it with him or anybody else. Yet I realize that my son deserves some kind of answer.

Abby, how does a mother tell her 17-year-old son that she was raped when she was 15, and from then on, she had such a low opinion of herself, she couldn't count the men in her life? I would go on a drunk and sleep with one guy after another. I honestly have no idea who my son's father is.

When I found out I was pregnant, I agreed to put my baby up for adoption, but after he was born and I held him in my arms, I couldn't give him up. I decided to keep him and be the best mother I could be.

I feel that I made the right decision. I couldn't ask for a better son. (He's the only child I've ever had.) How can I tell him the truth? It's such an ugly story. I'm afraid he'll hate me. Please help me, Abby. — KEEPING QUIET

DEAR KEEPING QUIET: I've

had some letters that were difficult to answer, but this tops them all. You're right. Your son deserves some kind of answer, and the only answer — ugly as you think it is — is the truth. Rather than "hate" you, he has good reason to love you all the more. With all the odds against you, you kept your son and raised him to be a fine young man.

DEAR ABBY: I just read your column about inferior glue on postage stamps. I would like to know: Since the cost of postage may go up soon, do people like me, who just want our mail delivered on time, subsidize the cost of artwork done to change the stamps so often? Most of us would be happy to look at the same picture forever if we could keep the cost down. Who pays for all these fancy changes?

Also, it's especially distressing to hear that they are considering putting Elvis Presley on a stamp when the world is fighting drug addiction! — FLOORED IN FLORIDA

DEAR FLOORED: Who pays for all the fancy changes in postage stamps? You and I, along with the rest of the taxpayers. I was not solicited for advice concerning whose picture should appear on postage stamps, but had I been, I would gladly have gone along with the old familiar presidents and "Old Glory."

I know it costs a bundle to tool up for a new postage stamp, and I'll bet it would be enough to feed our homeless for at least a year.

DEAR ABBY: I received a form to fill out in response to having indicated that I will attend my high school's 25th reunion.

There was a space for "spouse." Abby, I have no spouse, but I have been living with a person for several years in a committed relationship, and this person shall attend with me. How should I fill in the blank? I can't very well put "live-in," can I? — GOING HOME

DEAR GOING: No. But you could write in "companion," "friend" or "significant other."

CONFIDENTIAL TO GRATEFUL BEYOND WORDS: Most small-town clergymen are overworked and underpaid, so since you say you can "well afford it," offer him a gift of cash. If he wishes to donate it to the church, let it be his option. Your letter indicates that your clergyman went far beyond the call of duty on your behalf, so be as generous with him as he was with you. (And if he's "insulted," you can blame me.)

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if you're planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Auction supports Christmas decorations

Christmas in June! Something we always dreamed of and wished for when we were children. Now it is becoming a reality.

An auction entitled "Christmas in June" will be held on June 2 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. as part of the Heart of the City Festival. This is sponsored by the Business Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The purpose is to raise money to be used at Christmas for the Christmas lights and decorations which adorn our city and to provide prizes for the Christmas Lighting Contest. This is the sole fundraiser to maintain these decorations which are such an important part of our city's festive holiday atmosphere.

Contributions of merchandise, services, or cash will make this a successful effort. Bidders are urged to register by the Pocket Park prior to the auction.

Some of the items to be auctioned include the following:

- C.R. Anthony's 24.99 comforter
- C.R. Anthony's 12.99 watch
- Mott's 49.99 lamp
- Blum's Jewelers jewelry case
- Blum's Jewelers sterling peacock
- Highland Lanes $60 bowling ball
- Athletic Supply $30 basketball
- Brown's Shoe Fit $60 purses
- Dunlap's $110 brief case
- Dunlap's 39.99 watch
- National Video 2 free movie rentals
- Furr's Grocers 27.99 silk floral arrangement
- Big Spring Herald 2 1/2 page ads
- Big Spring Mall $25 gift certificate
- Big Spring Tire tire rotation and balance
- Photo Magic free 8x10 and sitting $45 value
- Nalley Pickle and Welch $50 bible
- Chapman's Meat Market freezer box
- Keaton Kolor free $20 phone
- Special thanks to Auctioneer Robert Pruitt will provide the sound system. A flatbed trailer is being provided by Central Freight Lines.

If you would like to donate merchandise or professional services, please contact Cliff Atway at 267-3283.

Skateboarding, petting zoo featured

Among the featured events of Saturday's Heart of the City festival is the skateboard contest. The contest is open to all ages, from small children through adults.

Pre-registration is at 9 a.m. at the information booth at Third and Main streets. Contest entry fee is $1. Entries will be divided by age group. The contest will begin at 10. Prizes consist of T-shirts, keyrings and ribbons.

The Big Spring Humane Society will sponsor a petting zoo on the northwest corner of the municipal parking lot. A variety of animals will be in the exhibit, including a sheep, baby goats, a baby calf and other animals.

The Humane Society will also be selling their homemade dog biscuits again this year.

Hats away

ANNAPOLIS — The 1990 class of the U.S. Naval Academy throw their hats into the air at the end of commencement exercises Wednesday afternoon in Annapolis.

Midshipmen get bellybutton paper

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — No, midshipmen at the U.S. Naval Academy have not been contemplating their bellybuttons for the past four years. But they may have thought so after receiving their degrees because of a mistake by a printing contractor.

"The Seal of the Naval Academy is hereunto affixed," read the diplomas handed out to 990 graduating midshipmen Wednesday.

"Yes, there was an error... made on the part of a commercial printer by the Navy," said Lt. Cmdr. Mark Van Dyke, the Naval Academy's public affairs officer. "Naval Academy officials detected the error, but there was not sufficient time to make corrections prior to graduation ceremonies this morning."

Van Dyke said the printer has agreed to reprint the diplomas and distribute them to graduates at no cost to the government.

"We're trying to look on the bright side," he said. "There are 990 of our graduates tonight with a very unique souvenir from the Naval Academy — and that's with an A."

Congratulations

WEST POINT — First Capt. Cadet Kristin Baker, right, receives a congratulatory hug from another cadet Wednesday. Baker, who graduated Thursday, is the first woman to serve as brigade commander at West Point.

Surgeons unveil fetal operation

BOSTON (AP) — Surgeons said Thursday they have found a way to forestall a usually fatal birth defect by opening up the mother, operating on the fetus and putting it back in the womb to develop normally.

Experts say the operation, which involves rearranging the fetus's organs, is the most extensive fetal operation ever successfully performed. However, it is also controversial because of the risks to both the mother and fetus.

The first successful operation was performed on Blake Schultz, now 9 months old, the son of Elizabeth and Richard Schultz of Waterloo, Mich. "I'm just glad he's healthy. And hopefully it will help other people too," Ms. Schultz said. The surgery was pioneered at the University of California, San Francisco, to correct fetal diaphragmatic hernia, a defect that occurs in about one of every 2,000 babies. About three-quarters of all babies with the defect die.

During development, a hole in the fetus's diaphragm fails to grow shut, and the stomach, intestines and other organs squeeze into the chest cavity. As a result, the lungs fail to develop, and the baby is born unable to breathe.

"This problem is immensely frustrating for pediatric surgeons, because the babies are otherwise perfectly nice, but they die," said Dr. Michael R. Harrison, who developed the surgery.

Harrison has performed the highly experimental surgery eight times. The first six fetuses died, but the last two went on to become healthy children, Blake Schultz and a girl. A report on the first success was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

During the surgery, doctors cut into Ms. Schultz's uterus and pulled the fetus's arm through the hole.

Then they put the misplaced stomach, intestines and other organs back where they belonged and covered the hole in the diaphragm with a Gore-Tex patch. Finally they tucked the fetus's arm back into the womb and closed up the incision.

Ms. Schultz carried the fetus for seven more weeks before giving birth. The baby was premature and had to spend a month on a respirator but is now healthy.

The operation takes just under an hour and costs about $16,000.

At the University of Manitoba, Dr. Frank Manning said a major difficulty is separating those fetuses that will survive without surgery from those that are doomed, since the operation itself is highly dangerous to the fetus.

He also noted that women who undergo the surgery risk a ruptured uterus if they get pregnant again.

"I don't want to pour on cold water, because this is an innovative thing he has done," said Manning. "But I can't give you unbridled enthusiasm and tell you this will be the panacea for diaphragmatic hernia."

Harrison said he worked on the latest procedure for about 12 years.

SAN FRANCISCO — Dr. Michael Harrison holds Blake Schultz at a press conference. Harrison is co-director of the team of fetal surgeons that performed the successful operation on the baby and his mother, Beth Schultz.

Bordon County graduates urged to follow their dreams

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

GAIL — The Bordon County High School Class of 1990 was urged to follow their dreams and help resurrect the American dream during commencement exercises here Thursday night.

Retiring Superintendent James McLeroy certified 20 seniors — including valedictorian Cody Stone and salutatorian Julie Harris — for graduation during the ceremony, which occurred at the high school auditorium.

Featured speaker John Montford, state senator from Lubbock, spoke of the need for the graduates to look upon their future with some degree of optimism.

"It's very tempting to say things don't look too good," Montford told the class. "You could say we have strong social and economic problems... you could say we have terrible problems... Are these problems for the class of 1990, or are we going to perceive these as opportunities to resurrect the American dream?"

Montford, who has represented this area since 1983, told the grads that one way to overcome the obstacles facing them in the future is to continue their education.

"As important as accepting this diploma is, you also have to accept the responsibility that goes with it," he said. "We need you to be unconventional. We need a new and expanded vision that you as a class and individuals can bring us."

"I challenge you to continue your education as part of the resurrection of the American dream," Montford added. "Yes, you've come a long way — your diploma should not be taken lightly — but don't stop now... Remember how vitally important an education is." Montford concluded his address by urging the class to be leaders in the future.

"Be the best you can be... Strive for excellence in everything you do," he said. "The challenge is yours: Are these problems, or are they opportunities?" In her address, salutatorian Harris compared life to a box that is filled with different learning experiences.

"That box is still not full," she said. "If we do our very best, only then will we reach our final fulfillment."

Valedictorian Stone spoke of the need for dreams, and the need for the seniors to follow those dreams.

"A society without dreams is a society without hope," he said. "A dream that is fulfilled is a way out of the confined life... but dreams are meaningless if they're allowed to be squelched."

"Don't be afraid to dream an outrageous dream, or dream of a better world," Stone added. "Be flexible, but not flake. Change only if change is needed... Protect your dreams, but remain open-minded. The best way to realize your dreams is to live them day by day."

Honor graduates Garden City High School

John Seidenberger

Roy Ramirez

John Seidenberger has been named valedictorian of Garden City High School. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Seidenberger, he received honors in both academic subjects and sports. Among his honors: Quest program for four years, the academic decathlon, student council president, National Honor Society president, Beta Club president, voted Most Likely to Succeed and Most Studious. He was first team All-District offensive guard and defensive tackle on the football team and on the basketball and track teams.

Salutatorian for Garden City is Roy Ramirez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Ramirez. He was a member of the Thespians and Journalism Club, on the football team he received all-district, all-area and all-state honors. He was Class Favorite, vice president, Most Spirited and Best All-Around. He participated in the UIL literary competition in keyboarding and the one-act play. He qualified for region competition in two UIL journalism events: editorial and feature writing.

BIG SPRING — Next year, a computer will make sure Big Spring students don't skip school.

At a special meeting of the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees Thursday, Superintendent Bill McQueary said a computer will call parents when a child is absent without a prior excuse. The computer will ask the parent to get in touch with school officials if he wants to discuss the problem.

As long as the unexcused absence continues, so will the calls, McQueary said. "Some (parents) will like this, some will not. We are responding to what we think is our responsibility to keep these students from skipping school."

The computer-calls will be a "positive threat" to encourage attendance, McQueary said. If students know that their parents will be notified, they are less likely to try skipping, he said.

In other business, Business Manager Ron L. Logback said the track at the high school is undergoing resurfacing now. The track overlay will be applied within the next few days, and in two weeks the top surface will be applied. Logback said the track will be closed to joggers and walkers during the month of June.

McQueary announced that the district had received full certification following a visit by Texas Education Agency officials. He said the group will return next year to examine the district's compliance with guidelines. That visit will be a full-scale audit, he said.

The board accepted several resignations, retirements and employments. Among the resignations were:
 • Christina Ashley, Marcy Elementary fourth grade, personal reasons.
 • Jo Lynn McGhghy, Marcy fourth grade, moving to Fort

Henry named to new post

BIG SPRING — After 23 years as a school principal in the Big Spring Independent School District, Tom Henry has been called to the office.

Superintendent Bill McQueary announced at a special board meeting Thursday that Henry had been named an Administrative Assistant in the Central Office. "This is a promotion for him and he really deserves it. He's given a lot of years to this school district."

Henry, principal of Runnels Junior High for 15 years, discussed the appointment with his staff Thursday afternoon. He said that meeting may have been the most difficult part of the change.

"We're kind of like a family. We all take a lot of pride in what we do, and it will be hard to leave. I'm certainly not unhappy with my job here."

Worth.
 • Amy Parker, Anderson Kindergarten Center, personal reasons.
 • Sharon Justice, State Hospital Special Education, moving to Three Rivers.

A retirement was accepted from Elmira Forman of Anderson Kindergarten Center.

New personnel hired for next school year are:
 • Todd East, Bachelor of Arts from Angelo State University, Goliad Middle School math/tennis coach.
 • Connie Helms, BA from Wayland Baptist University, Marcy Elementary fifth grade.
 • Shari Sikes, Bachelor of Science from East Texas State University, Anderson Kindergarten Center full day.

• Wende Strickland, BS from Angelo State University, Anderson Kindergarten Center full day.
 • Todd Spears, Bachelor of Education from Texas Tech, Runnels Junior High history, tennis coach both Goliad and Runnels.
 • Paula Sherrill, Bachelor of Arts from the University of Texas at the Permian Basin, to be assigned.

Former Goliad Middle School tennis coach Deehona Minton was re-hired to be Kentwood and Moss Elementary physical education instructor.

The board accepted a bid for a portable building to be added to the Marcy Elementary School campus by August 2. Ramtech Modular Design of Mansfield will provide the two-classroom building for $34,326.

standpoint, it can't be done." But the education bill isn't the only important matter facing the legislature as it prepares for its record-breaking session. Lawmakers also must put together a financing package for the Department of Human Services, which Montford said is facing a "severe" shortfall of funds.

"It is extremely vital (to pass the DHR bill)," he said. "We're talking about hungry children who are at risk of having their life's blood cut off. These children can't help themselves. We have to help them."

Montford added that there is now a sense of urgency in passing both the finance reform and DHR bills. "We can't keep putting off the problem, we've got to address it now," he said. "I sometimes find it frustrating, but I'm going to hang in there until the bitter end."

Montford

"I think you've got to have a lot of endurance to serve in the Legislature," Montford said. "Texas is becoming quite diverse — it's becoming increasingly challenging for lawmakers to reach a consensus."

"It's a diverse, large state, and it's hard to build a consensus," Montford added. "And when we have a governor who lobs hand grenades at everything we send him, that makes it even harder."

Since the Texas Supreme Court unanimously ordered the legislature to draft a reform bill, lawmakers and Clements have been at odds on how to finance the package.

The legislature has passed a 2-cent sales tax increase twice only to have the governor veto both bills.

While Clements remains opposed to a sales tax increase, the senator said that revenue for the bill will probably come from other sources. "The governor's first proposal was to take $100 million out of the teachers' retirement fund, and that went over like a lead balloon," he said.

What Clements will eventually accept, Montford believes, is a combination package including cuts in some budget areas and increases in "sin taxes" on cigarettes and alcohol, along with hikes in fees such as drivers' licenses and vehicle registrations.

One idea that Montford is pessimistic about is the so-called "Robin Hood" method of equalizing school finances: taking money from property rich districts and redistributing those funds to poorer schools.

"That's easy to advocate," he said, "but you're going to have a problem getting votes from Dallas and Houston. From a realistic

Young

Young had taken her home from a bar November 18 and forced her to have sex with him after she told him to leave.

Harman said Young denies both sexual assaults. The accused gave no response to the first woman at the hearing, but said he had never seen the second woman, according to earlier reports.

"Now it's up to the DA (District Attorney Hamby)," Harman said. "I hope they (jury members) give him a life sentence. Anything less and he'll be back in nothing flat." Young was first arrested in Big Spring on a parole violation warrant from Brownfield. He was on parole for sexual assault and burglary.

Harman said Young has connections in the area and might return if released from prison. "I don't want that to happen. Rapists and people who assault women and children are the ones I go after the hardest. I won't tolerate it and the (parole) board won't tolerate it."

Summit

"Council of all Europe" with American and Soviet participation. It is an effort to break the impasse which has snarled efforts to shape the direction of the German military in a unified state.

While Bush and Gorbachev talked, their wives flew together to Wellesley College to speak at commencement ceremonies. The first ladies were expected to take in the sights of downtown Boston before returning to Washington in time for dinner at the Soviet Embassy.

Gorbachev's session with congressional leaders was remarkable for its frankness — and for its live television. Members of Congress urged Gorbachev to bend in his policies toward Lithuania and the other Baltic Republics seeking independence. The Soviet leader noted that China had received most favored nation trading status despite the crackdown in Tiananmen Square a year ago.

"Maybe we should introduce martial rule in the Baltics," he said sarcastically.

The Soviet president said the world's interest is served by a strong Soviet Union and a strong United States. From his troubled pulpit, he cautioned his guests against "fishing in troubled waters. I think that is bad politics."

Gorbachev arrived in Washington this week hoping his four-day summit with Bush might result in a trade agreement worked out several weeks ago. The Soviet leader heard from Senate Republican leader Bob Dole that trade accords were politically linked to a lessening of Gorbachev's economic pressures against Lithuania.

The Bush-Gorbachev summit has been shadowed by disputes over Germany and Lithuania — but today's sessions were sure to end in celebration. The leaders were signing agreements for long sought curbs on strategic nuclear weapons and poison gas.

Gorbachev acknowledged that his economic reforms could succeed only if the Soviet Union reaches out to the west. "It would be humiliating if we were to beg for something from you, and of course hopeless," he said. Later he mentioned the trade agreements and said, "I hope you will find certain ways of supporting this."

American officials who described the Soviet German proposal dismissed it as an attempt by the Soviets to expand their own role in the future of Germany.

Among the main features of the plan, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity: Yearly meetings of the leaders of the 35 Western, neutral and Eastern states that make up the European Security Conference; more frequently meetings of their foreign ministers; establishment of a secretariat that would have permanent status; establishment of conflict management centers, both military and civilian.

Gorbachev did not discuss the plan in his meeting with congressional leaders. But he did say that Bush was hewing to a "rather rigid position" in insisting that a unified nation be a full military member of NATO. He said he has no objection to the United States remaining a European military power.

If Gorbachev was meeting with American critics in Washington, there was fresh evidence of domestic difficulties at home in the Soviet Union. Boris N. Yeltsin, a Gorbachev critic and newly elected president of the Russian republic, met with a top Lithuanian leader and sources said he pledged closer ties with the secessionist Republic.

In his session with congressional leaders, Gorbachev said he hears talk in America that "The Soviet Union is so weak we can defeat him with just one step. That's not serious."

Reporters heard Gorbachev express optimism that he and Bush could agree on a "good foundation."

"The press is still in the room. I'm going to say more when the press is out," Gorbachev said, smiling across the table at the congressional leaders.

Deaths

Euna Lee Bethell

BIG SPRING — Euna Lee (Teenie) Long Bethell, 65, Big Spring, died Thursday, May 31, 1990, at Scenic Mountain Medical Center after a brief illness.

Services will be Saturday at 4 p.m. at Myers & Smith Funeral Home Chapel, with the Rev. Steve Comstock officiating.

She was born Nov. 26, 1924, in Wright City, Okla. She was the daughter of Clyde E. and Mary Ella Tully Long. They moved to Big Spring in 1939. She married William Harold (Lefty) Bethell March 19, 1942, in Colorado City.

She was a member of the First Christian Church and the Big Spring Rebekkah Lodge No. 284. She graduated from Big Spring High School in 1942, and worked for Texas Electric for 26 years, retiring in 1982.

Survivors include her husband, William H. Bethell, Big Spring; two sons: Jerry H. Bethell, Cameron, and Richard H. Bethell, Baytown; one brother, Otis G. Long, Huntington Beach, Calif.; and three grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents, and two brothers.

The family suggests memorials to the donor's favorite charity.

Clemson football get probation

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — The NCAA verdict on Clemson is in: No television sanctions. No bowl sanctions. No recruiting restrictions. No loss of scholarships.

The Tigers received less than the maximum — by a football field or more.

The NCAA, finding what it said were two major violations that involved two players receiving money, sentenced the Clemson football program to one year's probation Thursday.

Did Clemson, which first found out in late August the NCAA was looking into possible rule violations, get off lightly? University president Max Lennon insisted that was not the case.

"Probation is extremely serious, and we take probation at Clemson very seriously," Lennon said during a news conference. "So we are not off the hook."

But Lennon and the other Clemson officials obviously know the penalties could have been much more severe.

"I'm breathing a lot easier," first-year Coach Ken Hatfield said.

In announcing its decision, the NCAA Committee on Infractions said it found that on at least two occasions in the fall of 1985, an athlete received and distributed cash payments of $50 to $70 to a teammate.

In the original charge, a coach was alleged to have given the player the money. But in its final report the committee deleted the reference to the coach.

"They were able to determine the player got the money and believed it to be a violation, but they could not determine where the money came from," university spokeswoman Catherine Sams said.

The committee also determined that in the spring of 1987, the athlete got $60 in cash from an unidentified booster. The school has been instructed by the NCAA to disassociate itself from the booster.

San Jacinto reaches finals

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — The Seminole Junior College baseball season ended when Randy Brown of San Jacinto, Texas, hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning at the National Junior College World Series.

It wasn't an easy loss to stomach for Coach Lloyd Simmons.

"We should have won. We had it won," Simmons said after the game Thursday. "I've got a lot of thoughts but it's all no good."

The wild finish fit the rivalry between San Jacinto, which won the national title four of the last five years, and Seminole, which has finished second in the tournament three times, twice to San Jacinto.

Seminole (89-5) was cruising with a 5-1 lead following homers by Shane Halter and Danny Zahl until the Gators struck for two in the sixth. Two batters walked, Brown singled and Harry Duffey's single drove home two runs to cut the lead to 5-3.

In the seventh, Braxton Hickman singled and came home on an error, cutting the gap to 5-4. Then in the eighth, San Jacinto took a 7-5 lead on a run-scoring single by John Abercrombie that decked Seminole pitcher Scott Watkins and a double by Ellstrom.

The Trojans struck back in the top of the ninth with a two-out rally that produced three unearned runs. San Jacinto supplied three walks, an error and hit a batter, and Chris Bittick's RBI single gave the Trojans an 8-7 lead.

Joe Sommers walked for the Gators (60-11) in the bottom of the ninth, setting the stage for Brown's game-winning homer.

Joel Gilmore (9-1), who came on in the ninth for San Jacinto, got the victory, while Chris Gies (14-3), who was brought in to face Brown in the ninth, gave up the game-winning homer and took the loss.

San Jacinto will play in the title game tonight against No. 2 Middle Georgia, which beat Mesa, Ariz., 14-2 Thursday night.

Trail Blazers in finals

PHOENIX (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers are going to the NBA Finals for the first time in 13 years, and Phoenix's unlucky break — Kevin Johnson's hamstring injury — is one of the big reasons.

Portland's 112-109 victory over the Suns on Thursday night snapped a five-game losing streak on the road for the Trail Blazers, who are 9-0 at home in this year's playoffs but just 2-5 away from Memorial Coliseum.

But even the Blazers were willing to admit that the win in Game 6 might not have been achieved without Johnson missing the entire second half with a pulled hamstring.

"Well, without a doubt the break went for us," said Terry Porter, who scored 23 points for the Trail Blazers.

"You know Cotton (Fitzsimmons) is going to say that losing Kevin Johnson cost them the game," Porter said of the Phoenix coach. "And you kind of have to agree with him, but then nobody gave us anything when we had two centers hurt in the San Antonio series."

The Trail Blazers had to silence plenty of doubts that surfaced after several mediocre road performances in the playoffs.

"I think we showed the rest of the country that we are able to win on the road and it couldn't have come at a better time," said Clyde Drexler, who also scored 23 points in Game 6. "Hopefully, our road confidence is back to stay and we'll be ready for the championship series."

Portland will face either the Chicago Bulls or the defending NBA champion Detroit Pistons in the finals. Detroit leads the best-of-7 series for the Eastern Conference crown 3-2 heading into Game 6 tonight in Chicago.

"If we have to go to Detroit, we feel we can win there. If Chicago comes to us, we feel we can win there, too," said Trail Blazers center Kevin Duckworth, who had 18 points. "We feel we can win on either of their courts. We proved to ourselves that we can win on the road. This is a momentum win."

It'll be the second appearance in the NBA Finals in the franchise's 20-year history. Portland first made it in 1977 and went on to beat Philadelphia in six games for the title.

"We just want to keep it going and stay focused," Trail Blazers coach Rick Adelman said. "We have six new players on this team from last season. For us to come together like this is a tribute to them. Everybody stepped up when we needed it."

The loss eliminated the Suns from the conference finals for the second straight year. It also marked the seventh consecutive time since 1981 that they have ended the playoffs with a loss at home.

"It's an empty feeling," Fitzsimmons said. "It was a roller-coaster ride and we came a long way. In training camp next year, we will dedicate ourselves to making it to the NBA Finals. But we give credit to Portland. They did the things they had to do to win. We want nothing more than to see them go on and win the title now."

The Trail Blazers, who lost two previous playoff series to the Suns in 1979 and 1984, mounted a late comeback to win this one after trailing 63-59 at halftime, 89-84 after the third period and 105-99 with four minutes remaining.

Porter's fourth 3-point goal of the game with 3:15 left and Drexler's two free throws with 1:48 to play cut the gap to 107-106.

Jeff Hornacek, who scored 25 of his career-high 36 points after Johnson's injury, put Phoenix up 109-106 on two foul shots with 1:09 left.

But Portland rattled off the game's final six points for the victory.

Porter hit two free throws with 55 seconds left, Jerome Kersey capped a fast break with a layup with 27 seconds to go, and Drexler made two foul shots with 6.8 seconds remaining.

Hornacek's 3-point try bounced off the backboard with two seconds left. Buck Williams grabbed the rebound and heaved the ball to the ceiling at the buzzer to start the Trail Blazers' celebration.

"It couldn't be any sweeter,"

Pistons trying to end it tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — The thing that sets Detroit's bench players apart from most NBA reserves is that they don't think of themselves as second-best.

So far, the Pistons' bench has outscored Chicago's non-starters 183-115. That's one of the reasons Detroit leads the Bulls 3-2 heading into tonight's Game 6 of the Eastern Conference finals.

In the fifth game, Wednesday night at the Palace, Mark Aguirre alone outscored the Chicago bench 19-13 and was a key factor in Detroit's 97-83 victory.

Aguirre got a reputation with Dallas as a selfish player, but life with the Pistons has transformed him. For one thing, he took himself out of the starting lineup about midway through the regular season.

Aguirre convinced Detroit coach Chuck Daly the club would be stronger with Dennis Rodman starting. The club promptly went on a 26-1 streak.

In the first quarter of Game 5, while he was sitting, Aguirre was the Pistons' biggest cheerleader.

That kind of attitude carries over to the starters as well.

Isiah Thomas sat the entire fourth quarter during Game 5 because Vinnie Johnson was playing well. It isn't unusual for Thomas or any of the other players to sit.

The effect of the Detroit bench on the Bulls is both physical and mental. For example, when Chicago tried to give Michael Jordan a two-minute rest early in the fourth quarter, the Pistons increased their lead from nine to 15 points.

Aguirre had five points in that burst, including a three-point play.

Which is exactly what happened.

Chang rallies for victory

PARIS (AP) — Defending champion Michael Chang needed another of his center court comebacks today to stay alive in the French Open.

Chang, who escaped from numerous tight spots a year ago to become the youngest man to win the clay-court Grand Slam event, did it again in the third round with a 2-6, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Swedish qualifier Christian Bergstrom.

The 18-year-old American, playing on center court for the first time since winning the title, turned the match around by winning nine games in a row in the third and the start of the fourth sets.

Bergstrom argued a line call on a key point in the last of those games, but he was already tiring noticeably and Chang's shots were finding the mark.

Chang served out the fourth set with an ace, then got the break he needed in the final set when Bergstrom netted a backhand to give the defending champion a 4-3 lead.

By the end of the match, both players were spent, bending over to catch their breath between points. Chang, though, had enough strength left to serve out the victory, getting the final point on a backhand passing shot after 3 1/2 hours.

It was the third time in his career that Chang has come back from two sets down to win a Grand Slam match. He beat Tim Wilkison that way at the 1987 U.S. Open and did the same against Ivan Lendl in a memorable fourth-round match at last year's French Open. Chang also came from behind to beat Stefan Edberg in the final.

Bergstrom, meanwhile, had not dropped a set in his first two matches and was one of a record five qualifiers in the third round.

Other early matches on the tournament's fifth day found seeded players having easier times.

Andrei Chesnokov, the men's eighth seed from the Soviet Union, beat Jordi Arrese of Spain 7-5, 6-4, 6-2, while American Jim Courier, the 13th seed, beat Johan Anderson of Australia 6-0, 6-2, 6-1.

Conchita Martinez, a Spaniard seeded ninth in the women's draw, beat Radka Zrubakova of Czechoslovakia 6-1, 6-3.

Fourth seeded Gabriela Sabatini had the easiest time, beating Nathalie Herremann of France 6-0, 6-1.

The match between the defending men's champion and the player ranked 106th in the world started sloppily and developed into high drama. The result saved the tournament from losing both of its title-holders before the third round was half over. Women's champion Arantxa Sanchez-Vicario was eliminated in the second round Thursday.

The players held serve just nine times in the first 21 games, with six breaks in a row from the last game of the first set through the fifth of the second. Bergstrom broke Chang's serve for each of the first two sets.

Sanchez-Vicario's defeat nearly was followed by the elimination of another highly ranked teenager, Monica Seles, on Thursday.

Seles, the 16-year-old second seed, deserted her two-fisted power game for a series of delicate drop shots on key points as she held off Helen Kelesi 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Sanchez Vicario, the 18-year-old Spaniard who shocked Steffi Graf in last year's women's final here, ran into an old friend on the wrong side of the net and lost to Mercedes Paz 7-5, 3-6, 6-1 in another second-round match.

finally dedicate herself to professional tennis was the key to beating the fourth seed — and her longtime doubles partner.

No other defending women's champion in Paris had dropped her crown so early the next year. Now the French has lost its top men's seeds, Stefan Edberg and Boris Becker, plus its women's titleholder, all within three days.

Sanchez Vicario was one of two Spanish seeds eliminated on Day 4 of the two-week event. Men's 12th seed Juan Aguilera lost to Thierry Champion of France 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Hollyfield overwhelming favorite to beat McDonagh

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A bit part actor and a short story writer are appearing tonight in the West Hall of the Convention Center.

Evander Holyfield, however, will not be emoting, nor will Seamus McDonagh be reading from his unpublished works.

They will be punching each other in a scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight.

The unbeaten Holyfield, hoping for a title shot against James "Buster" Douglas in September, is such an overwhelming favorite that Las Vegas bookmakers did not establish a betting line. Sports betting is legal only in Nevada.

"It is a big step up in class," said

"It is a big step up in class. I think I will rise to the occasion. I'm not fighting somebody that's impossible to beat."

Seamus McDonagh.

The 27-year-old McDonagh, an English literature major at St. John's University, who is nine credits away from getting a degree.

"I think I will rise to the occasion. I'm not fighting somebody that's impossible to beat. Everybody gets beaten and I think that day will be Friday for Evander Holyfield."

"I'm looking for a fast-paced fight," said Holyfield, who also is 27. "From the little clip I've seen, he's a very aggressive fighter."

McDonagh, a native of Ireland, who lives in Brooklyn, N.Y., has scored 14 knockouts in posting a 19-1 record since turning pro in 1985.

Holyfield has scored 19 knockouts in his 23 victories. Six of the wins were in cruiserweight title bouts.

This will be his sixth fight as a heavyweight. He has beaten former champions Pinklon Thomas and Michael Dokes, James Tillis, Adilson Rodrigues and Alex Stewart, all within the scheduled distance.

At the official weigh-in Thursday at Trump Plaza, Holyfield weighed 210 pounds. McDonagh weighed 211 1/2.

Holyfield has played a television pilot that didn't get sold and plays a carnival boxer in the recently released motion picture "Blood Savage."

"Acting is something I can fall back on," Holyfield said.

Before he plays a champion again, however, Holyfield wants to lose the role.

"I will be the next heavyweight champion," he said. Holyfield is getting $1.3 million for risking a much bigger payday against Douglas.

The World Boxing Association, which would be the organization in charge of a Douglas-Holyfield match, is scheduled to take purse bids for the bout between June 11 and June 17.

The WBA originally was scheduled to take purse bids on May 27. Meanwhile, Dan Duva, Holyfield's promoter, says rival promoters Don King and Bob Arum are trying to keep Holyfield from getting a title bid in September.

McDonagh's $100,000 payday will be by far the biggest of his career.

The fight is scheduled to start about 10:15 p.m. EDT. It will be televised live by Showtime.

Robinson appeals suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing appealing about the appeal process for Baltimore manager Frank Robinson.

"The system itself is not the democratic way," Robinson said Thursday after meeting with American League president Dr. Bobby Brown.

"You're judged guilty before you get a hearing."

The two spent 90 minutes discussing Brown's three-game suspension of Robinson for an incident with umpire Drew Coble at Minnesota on Monday. A decision on the appeal could come as early as today, when the Orioles play at Yankee Stadium.

But Robinson doesn't think anything said on Thursday will affect the outcome — and said the process is part of the problem.

"You're sentenced before you can appeal, and then you have to be heard. And the one who gives the sentence hears the appeal," Robinson said.

"I'm not saying Dr. Brown isn't understanding, but it's a difficult situation and a difficult system."

Robinson was placed in this difficult situation following his ejection from Monday's game. The manager later called Coble a "liar" and "a no-good human being."

The next day Robinson was suspended by the AL president for "physical contact with the umpire, use of abusive language, delay of game and inappropriate post-game remarks to the press."

Mavs forward has car wreck

ADDISON (AP) — Dallas Mavericks forward Sam Perkins was injured in a car wreck Thursday night in the Dallas suburb of Addison.

Perkins' car collided with another car in an intersection as Perkins was attempting to turn left at approximately 9:32 p.m., police spokesman Brad Freis said.

Both drivers were taken to hospitals, with Perkins, who wasn't wearing a seat belt, complaining of possible neck and lower leg injuries, Freis said. The other driver had a possible broken right wrist or forearm and neck injuries, he said.

Janet Alford, emergency room nurse at RHD Memorial Medical Center in Dallas, said Perkins was treated and released at 11:05 p.m. Thursday.

Extent of the injuries to the 6-9½ forward were not immediately known.

Both drivers said they had a green light, Freis said, and the officer at the scene was unable to determine who was a fault. No citations were issued, he said.

Perkins, 28, and the other driver both are Addison residents.

Perkins' 1986 Porsche and the other driver's 1981 Honda both sustained medium to heavy damage.

A's win weirdness game from Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In a game that had just about everything, hardly anything went right for the Kansas City Royals.

"Enough of the weirdness didn't go our way," Kansas City outfielder Jim Eisenreich said after a 6-4 loss to the Oakland Athletics in one of two AL games Thursday night.

AL

In the other, Minnesota beat Chicago 3-2.

The first of a four-game series between the Royals and Oakland A's included balks, an inside-the-park home run and plenty of controversy.

Rickey Henderson, the American League's all-time stolen base king, had a home run as well as a stolen base.

Mark McGwire, with a sore leg, drove in four runs on a double, a single and a bases-loaded walk.

And Royals Manager John Wathan was ejected in the eighth inning as the A's held on for a victory that boosted their West Division lead to three games over second-place Chicago and 12 over next-to-last Kansas City.

The victory also snapped a five-game winning streak the Royals had nurtured coming into a big series for them.

Henderson's eighth home run gave the A's and Bob Welch (7-2) a 5-0 lead over Tom Gordon (2-3) in the sixth.

Then, after the Royals scored three in the bottom of the sixth, including Bo Jackson's two-run inside-the-park homer, things got frantic in the eighth.

The A's loaded the bases on an error by third baseman Kevin Seitzer, a single by Henderson and an intentional walk to Jose Canseco.

With two out, McGwire drew a walk, bringing in Oakland's sixth run and triggering an outburst from the Royals' dugout that prompted an angry warning from home plate umpire Mike Reilly.

Then, with George Brett on first in the bottom of the eighth and Jackson at bat, things got even stranger.

All in one motion, Jackson grounded to third baseman Carney Lansford and umpire Steve Palermo signaled a balk against reliever Rick Honeycutt.

Jackson ran to first as Lansford threw to first. And as everybody stood around in momentary confusion, Wathan ran out for what would be his loudest, but not his last argument of the night.

"I wasn't sure McGwire was on the bag," Wathan said. "I know Palermo wasn't looking. It looked like Palermo wasn't looking at first base. If Jackson is safe (for the potential base hit), it's our choice (whether to take the balk or the base hit). I saw Palermo come forward and didn't think he had a real good look at the play at first. And I thought McGwire might have come forward and been off the bag."

Finally, Brett went to second, Jackson returned to the batter's box and Wathan went back to the dugout. But two pitches later, LaRussa emerged and pointed to the scoreboard, which had the count at 3-2. Reilly then signaled a 2-2 count and Wathan came barreling toward him.

A few minutes later, Wathan had his third ejection in three seasons.

"I'd say a couple of pitches to Mark McGwire with the bases loaded could have been strikes," said Wathan. "To say the least ... I didn't think he had a real good night behind the plate, and it came to a head, and I got thrown out of the ballgame."

"I was just checking the count," LaRussa said. "You'll have to ask him (Wathan) what he was arguing."

Dennis Eckersley pitched one and one-third innings for his 15th save in 15 opportunities.

Welch, who started the game with a 1.86 ERA, second in the league only to teammate Dave Stewart's 1.79, gave up three runs in 5 2-3 innings and saw his ERA climb to 2.07. He was relieved by Gene Nelson in the sixth.

"It was a tough game on both sides, a game that showed that men are not machines," LaRussa said.

Twins 3, White Sox 2

In Chicago, Kirby Puckett and Gary Gaetti hit RBI doubles, as Minnesota stopped Chicago's five-game winning streak.

The Twins ended their best May ever at 21-7. They have had only seven 20-victory months in their history and none since 1970.

Mark Guthrie (2-0) allowed two runs on eight hits in five innings.

Dodgers use big plays to down leaders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Morgan got the Los Angeles Dodgers through eight innings, catcher Mike Scioscia threw out his third straight baserunner to end the ninth and Kai Daniels homered to end it in the 10th.

NL

Such was the late-inning progression for the Dodgers, who beat the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 Thursday night to open a four-game series between the National League West Division rivals.

The Dodgers remained in a virtual second-place tie with San Diego in the National League West, eight games behind the first-place Reds.

"This is a big series for us," said Daniels, who was traded from the Reds to the Dodgers last season. "We know what we have to do. It's a bigger series for us than it is for them because they're in first and they're eight games up, so hopefully we can win as many as possible."

Daniels hit his ninth homer of the season leading off the bottom of the 10th, on a 1-1 pitch from reliever Norm Charlton (3-1).

The setback was the first for the Reds' "Nasty Boys" bullpen crew of Randy Myers, Rob Dibble and Charlton. They are a combined 7-1. It was only the Reds' sixth loss in 23 road games.

Daniels, who drove in the Dodgers' first run with a first-inning sacrifice fly, downplayed the revenge factor.

Morgan got superb backing from Scioscia. Scioscia threw out three straight Reds baserunners, including Billy Hatcher at third on the back end of a strikeout-double play involving Eric Davis to end the eighth. He also retired former Dodger Mariano Duncan at second to end the ninth.

Armstrong failed in his attempt to become the majors' first nine-game winner. He left after 8 1-3 innings with the score tied 1-1 after giving up five hits. Armstrong lowered his major league-leading ERA to 1.55.

Astros 5, Giants 3

Bill Doran's second RBI single snapped a 2-2 tie and Craig Biggio added a two-run single in a four-run sixth inning. Winning pitcher Jim Deshaies (3-2) gave up two runs and four hits in five innings and Danny Darwin went 2 1-3 innings for his first save. Ernest Riles homered off Darwin in the ninth.

Trailing 2-1 in the sixth, the Astros' rally began when Giants third baseman Matt Williams dropped Ken Caminiti's pop fly near the mound.

Blazers

said Williams, who had 12 points, 11 rebounds, three steals and two of Portland's nine blocked shots.

"After playing in New Jersey for so long, this is one of the highlights in my career. It's a great feeling to win."

"We knew we could win down here," said Porter, whose team had lost 123-89 here in Game 3 and 119-107 in Game 4. "We had to feel that way after winning 24 games on the road during the regular season, plus we had won the close games at Portland in this series. We knew if we kept it close down here, we could win this one, too."

It was the first win by a road team in either of the NBA's conference finals.

"Everyone talked about how we can't win on the road, but we kept it close until the end," Adelman said. "People should realize we can win the close games. We're not thinking about The Finals. We're just going to take some time off. We've played every other day and need the rest."

It was the 13th game in 26 days for the Trail Blazers since they started the conference semifinals against San Antonio on May 5.

"Our legs feel like spaghetti. We've been playing on emotion and intensity," Drexler said. "It's a credit to everyone on the team and the coaching staff for continuing to raise the level of play and to play strong basketball."

Phoenix struggled after losing Johnson, who had 16 points before leaving the game with a pulled left hamstring with 2:54 remaining in the first half.

He went to the locker room for treatment, but limped through the second-half warmups wearing an elastic brace. He sat out the entire second half with a heat pack wrapped around his thigh.

"Once I pulled it, there was no question. I knew I was through for the night. I had one of these earlier in the season," said Johnson, who missed eight games in November with a strained right hamstring. "It's too bad because I thought we were ready to break the game open until I got hurt."

Sixth-man Dan Majerle scored 22 points for the Suns while Tom Chambers had all 17 of his in the second half despite making only five of his 16 field goals.

"Portland made us work for everything we got and they got some easy baskets," said Horanacek, whose previous career best was 32 points. "They sucked it up in the fourth quarter and made their move. We just couldn't overcome KJ's loss."

POW church

Showplace lures visitors for decades

By RON BATES

Amarillo Globe-News

UMBARGER — When the U.S. government took guns away from a group of Italian prisoners of war in the early 1940s, a handful of them picked up paint brushes and wood chisels.

They transformed St. Mary's Catholic Church in Umbarger into an ecclesiastic showplace that has lured visitors for decades.

"See those angels up there," St. Mary's parishioner, Rose Hoffman said, pointing to a mural of a pair of angels on the arch above the altar. "Those were two local girls. They stood there and posed for them."

The year was 1945 and nine prisoners of war from the POW camp near Hereford were brought in on a bus to refurbish the small church at Umbarger. Hoffman, who was already attending St. Mary's, said the arrangement came about after the parish priest went to the camp to take confessions.

"They were Italians and he spoke Italian..." Hoffman said. "Our church was so bare, we figured, 'Why not?'"

In the end, the small band of artisans were brought to the church to work their wonders. They painted freehand a large mural of the Virgin Mary. They painted intricate designs on the wall. They installed lines of painted glass windows from Holland down each wall. They created a wood carving of The Last Supper.

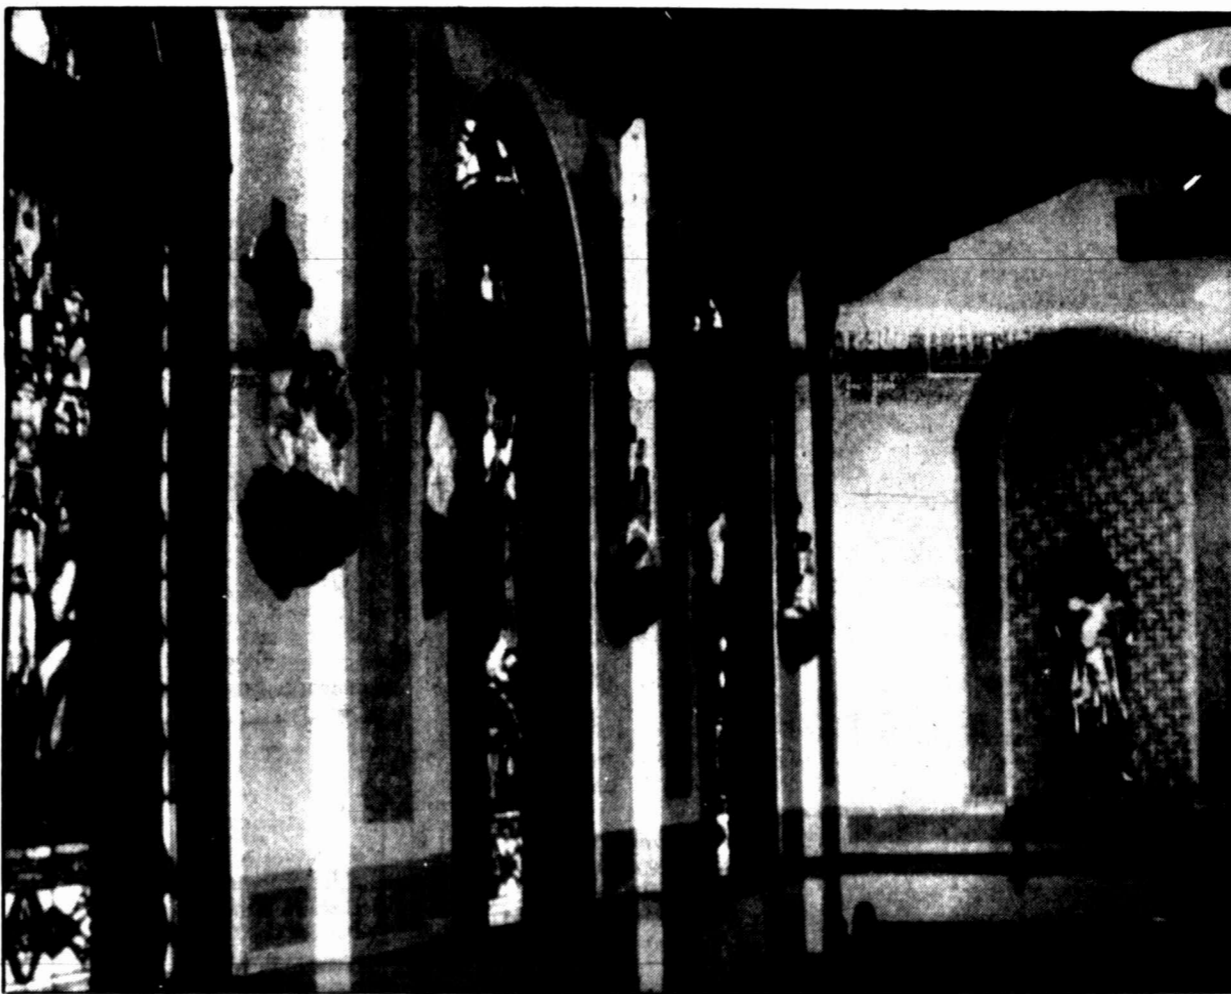

"There are times when you look around here and think that it ran away with them," said Father Jim Hutzler, pastor of St. Mary's.

As a matter of fact, Hoffman said, it did. One prisoner took his work back to the camp each night to finish it. The other artisans were looking for more work to keep the project going. It seems, Hoffman said, that the prisoners were getting something out of this unique bargain.

"They didn't want to leave," she said. "They actually cried when they had to finish there and go back. They told us, 'We enjoyed your dinners most.'"

Women of the church, Hoffman explained, worked at St. Mary's alongside the prisoners, cooking dinners for them and making sure they had the materials they needed.

"Everybody said, 'Aren't you scared of them?'" Hoffman said. "We told them 'Heck no. These are good guys. What's to be scared of? To us, they were just like everybody else.'"

UMBARGER — Pictured is the church in Umbarger where imprisoned Italian artisans installed painted glass windows imported from Holland.

St. Mary's was built in 1929, and was very plain until the Italians came. Hoffman said. The transformation, she said, caught the eyes of parishioners from other area churches.

"There were a lot of them that were jealous after it was done and they came and saw it. They said, 'It's too bad we couldn't keep them around a while longer.'"

Hutzler said part of the interest in the church comes from the history. But the major attraction, he said, is the artwork.

"There's not another church in the whole diocese that has the history or the artwork that this has."

St. Mary's designation as a historic landmark has been both a blessing and curse, Hutzler said. Although it's an honor and has brought recognition to the community, any maintenance to the property could be a very expensive endeavor if it needs to be restored to its original form.

"But I don't think we'll need to do anything major anytime soon," he said.

The Italians who created St. Mary's unique interior — Achille Cattanei, Leonida Gorlatto, Mario De Cristofaro, Antonio Monetti, Enrico Zorzi, Dino Ganbetti, Franco DiBello, Amedeo Maretto and Carlo Sanvito — sparked more interest in the Panhandle's prisoner of war camp when several of them returned in 1988 to visit the chapel.

Hoffman said that living with war prisoners a few miles down the road wasn't disturbing to the Umbarger residents.

"They didn't advertise it too much," she said. "I heard more about it after they left."

Religion roundup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Pollster George Gallup Jr. says that years of research by his polling organization have found gaps between what Americans say they believe and how they live.

"We want the fruits of religion, but not the obligations," he told the Evangelical Press Association's annual convention.

Gallup said most Americans say they believe in God and Jesus and trust the Bible. But he said statistics show Americans are ignorant of the doctrines and history of their chosen faiths, and half of the nation's Christians do not know who delivered the Sermon on the Mount.

"We revere the Bible, but don't read it," he said. "We believe the Ten Commandments to be valid rules for living, although we can't name them. . . . We believe in God, but this God is often a totally affirming one, not a demanding one. He does not command our total allegiance."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A one-hour documentary on the spiritual renewal and economic advancement of two Native American tribes, produced by the U.S. Catholic Conference, is the subject this Sunday, June 3, of an NBC-TV special, "Circle of the Spirit."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Noting that the Soviet Communist Party in 1988 had publicly repented of the sins of Joseph Stalin and of the party, the Southern Baptist Alliance has formally repented of a past "sin of slavery."

The alliance, a wing of Southern Baptists, said at its spring convocation that "there is a significant sin in our own heritage for which we have never publicly repented."

Citing protection of the "institution of slavery" as a key motive in the 1842 formation of the Southern Baptist Convention, a resolution voiced repentance for "condoning and perpetuating the sin of slavery" in that period.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's Roman Catholic Archbishop Rembert G. Weakland says the latest draft of the proposed U.S. bishops' pastoral letter on women is so unsatisfactory that it might as well be abandoned.

In a column in the archdiocesan weekly, Catholic Herald, he said the "very credibility of the document comes into question" in treating the issue of women's ordination.

He said that the document emphasizes women's equality, but fails to deal with the traditional link between church authority and ordination, a role the document rejects for women, as does the pope.

"It is easy to see the bind the authors are in," Weakland wrote. However, since the letter avoids a basic question involved, he suggested dropping the effort.

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Declaring "Judaism in America cannot survive as a secularist faith," the newly elected president of the Rabbinical Assembly called for an intensified emphasis on religious education.

"We must rekindle the spirit of our people," said Rabbi Irwin Groner of Southfield, Mich., who heads an organization of 1,300 Conservative rabbis. "Let us extend the teaching of our faith with a new sense of purpose."

Sigmon set to perform

Holy Trinity Community Church will celebrate its fourth anniversary Saturday and Sunday. There will be a barbecue and dance in the church fellowship hall at 1607 S. Main, Midland.

Former Big Spring resident Wayne Sigmon, country and western keyboard artist, composer and vocalist, will entertain at the dance, according to a news release.

The church will conduct special prayers of thanksgiving on Pentecost Sunday at the regular 11 a.m. worship and Holy Communion service.

Holy Trinity Community Church is the only member church in the International Council of Community churches between Dallas and Phoenix.

Most of the churches in the historic Community Church movement are in the midwest and east. The Rev. Glenn Hammett stated that each Community church determines how it can best serve the needs of the community to which it ministers, the release stated.

Holy Trinity Community Church has members from several cities in the Permian Basin. Like all other community churches, Holy Trinity Community Church is inclusive and open to all persons.

Hammett said, "We stress unity in essentials, diversity in non-essentials, and charity in all things."

The church invites all former members, friends of the church, and visitors to the anniversary celebrations.

'Love is patient, kind'

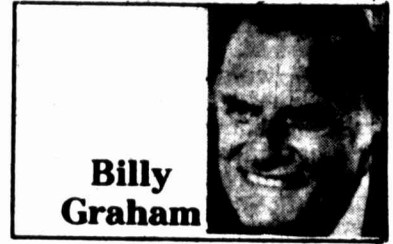

By BILLY GRAHAM

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: After less than a year of marriage my husband and I divorced. It just seemed like we couldn't get along with each other. But now (three years later) we are seeing each other on a regular basis and are planning to remarry. Do you think we are crazy for doing this? — Mrs. A.A.

DEAR MRS. A.A.: No, you're not "crazy" for planning your remarriage to each other, and I find nothing in Scripture that would forbid it. God has given marriage to us for our good, and his perfect will is for marriage to be a lifelong commitment to each other.

I would strongly urge you, however, to be honest with each other about the problems you had before, and to work together to solve those problems. Problems in a marriage do not just vanish; they must be dealt with realistically. In a good marriage both partners will be willing to listen to each other and accept each other, and be willing to change.

Remember that the greatest problem in any relationship is usually our own selfishness — and true love is the opposite of selfishness. Look carefully at the Bible's definition of love: "Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres." (1 Corinthians 13:4-7).

The most important thing you need to do, however, is to build your lives and your marriage on the foundation of Christ. By faith ask Christ to come into your lives, and then ask him to help you love each other as you should. God wants to bless our marriages, and if you remarry he will bless yours if you put him first in your relationship.

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — Some timber workers have a beef with Burger King over its use of Paul Newman salad dressing.

Forty-three sales employees at Willamette Industries sent a letter to Boss Enterprises, which runs eight local Burger King outlets, asking the company to stop using Newman's Own.

Newman's company donates profits to environmentalist groups who the timber workers believe want to take the food from their mouths.

Their May 16 letter cited Newman's narration of a National Audubon Society TV special last fall on a dispute between environmentalists and loggers.

Malkovich gave "a performance of wall-busting intensity" at the Hampstead Theater.

Malkovich, star of "Dangerous Liaisons" and "Places in the Heart," is playing the role he played on Broadway for six months in the 1987 season.

Lanford Wilson's play casts the 36-year-old actor as Pale, a four-mouthed restaurant manager who ends up in a relationship with his dead brother's roommate, a dancer named Anna. She is played by British actress Janelle Stevenson.

Michael Billington in The Guardian said the star's "riveting" performance confirmed his belief that Malkovich is "the most exciting American actor to emerge since Brando."

LONDON (AP) — The British press applauded John Malkovich for his British stage debut in the Broadway play "Burn This" at the Royal National Theatre.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1990

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Sally Kellerman, composer Marvin Hamlisch, actor Stacy Keach, "Tarzan" star Johnny Weissmuller.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A family member will be very cooperative today. If you come under fire at place of employment, keep cool. Young people are willing to perform those tasks you would rather not undertake.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Although today may lack yesterday's fast pace, you can expect good things to happen. A friend offers honest advice. Redouble your efforts to make money. Handle your own financial negotiations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your intuition is right on target where romance is concerned. Heed that strong inner voice! Although a small gamble could pay off, if you wager too much, you are bound to lose.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A domestic problem that occupies your thoughts in early morning should be solved by midday. A face-to-face encounter may be necessary to set the record straight with your boss. Be tactful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The lack of a peaceful atmosphere may make concentration difficult today. Deal with routine matters. Romance needs more time to grow. Events work in your favor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Expect the unexpected today. Your ability to perform when under pressure wins respect. Pace yourself to handle a heavy workload. Make intelligent concessions to your loved ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A good day for travel. Postpone making any new moves concerning a financial agreement. A private matter can now be handled with great success. A one-on-one meeting today will pay off handsomely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Make sure you really understand a financial situation before attempting to change it. You will soon get a chance to better your circumstances. It may be possible to consolidate certain bills.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An associate's health could affect your workload. Changing your plans can be upsetting. Staying home is more appealing than going out tonight. Use tact when making suggestions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put more energy into the work you are doing. Assistance could be available from an unexpected quarter. Try not to bottle up your emotions. Children should be encouraged to become more independent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Innovative ideas lead you in an exciting new direction. Be sure to keep loved ones informed of your plans. A change in a financial situation helps relieve tension.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your weekend plans have to be revised because of some event affecting your loved ones. Older relatives are inspired to resolve their differences. Family members draw closer together.

Roten retires after 25 years

STANTON — After 25 years in the work force, Mamie Roten is retiring to pursue what she likes to do best — "travel and spend time with my family and friends." Roten began her career with Martin County Hospital in the business office department. Five years later, she became the hospital's administrator and kept that post for 15 years. Since 1985, Roten has been with Stanton National Bank.

A Stanton resident for 45 years, she and husband Louis are planning to travel. "Having been in Mexico, the Bahamas and Florida, we will be spending time at the lake (Colorado City Lake), and we are also going to visit our relatives all around and try to do things we haven't had time for," Mamie said.

"Of course we will be able to spend more time with our grandchildren as well," she added.

Roten raised three children: Rodney, Robert and Rhonda Weaver. She says proudly, "I have eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild."

An active member of Texas Eta Master Chapter since 1945, Mamie was recently honored by the chapter with a gift certificate and a program in her honor.

Roten keeps herself busy with sewing and cooking, and is trying her hand at photography.

"Louis and I like to hear and play music," Roten said. "He plays guitar very well. We also play cards with our friends, and when don't have company, we will be on the road."

TU Electric to issue refunds

DALLAS — TU Electric will refund to its customers about $64.65 million, including interest, that was over-collected from October 1989 through February 1990.

The company's request to make the refund was approved by the Texas Public Utility Commission on May 15. It will be made through a credit on June bills, with the residential customer who uses 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity receiving a credit of about $11.

The amount the company will be refunding was over-collected because, except for the week of December 18-24, weather in its service area was unusually mild. When weather is milder than normal, customers use less electricity. Therefore, TU Electric is able to use less of its higher-priced fuel supplies to meet customers' needs.

Montford confident on school finance

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

GAIL — As the Texas Legislature prepares for a record sixth special session beginning Monday, State Senator John Montford expressed cautious optimism that a solution can be found to the state school finance reform problem.

Montford, D-Lubbock, here Thursday to address the Borden County High School commencement, said the legislature and Gov. Bill Clements are close to reaching an agreement on a reform package.

JOHN MONTFORD

"(Texas is) a diverse, large state, and it's hard to build a consensus. And when we have a governor who lobs hand grenades at everything we send him, that makes it even harder." — State Senator John Montford.

"We've got to (pass a bill)," he said. "We don't have a choice. We're very close on the reform package. We're just divided on how to finance it. In the next few weeks, we should pull together . . ."

It was perhaps appropriate that Montford addressed the Borden graduates on the need for optimism, because he said optimism — and perseverance — will be needed to pass a finance reform package.

"I think you've got to have a lot of endurance to serve in the Legislature," Montford said. "Texas is becoming quite diverse; it's becoming increasingly challenging for lawmakers to reach a consensus."

"It's a diverse, large state, and it's hard to build a consensus," Montford added. "And when we have a governor who lobs hand grenades at everything we send him, that makes it even harder."

Since the Texas Supreme Court unanimously ordered the legislature to draft a reform bill, lawmakers and Clements have been at odds on how to finance the

Leaders ready to sign accords

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev headed today toward a new round of summit talks shadowed by disputes over Germany and Lithuania but assured of yielding agreement on long-sought curbs on strategic nuclear weapons and poison gas.

Before he met with Bush at the White House, Gorbachev summoned leading members of Congress to the Soviet Embassy for an exchange that was expected to focus on trade, arms control and Gorbachev's economic squeeze on the breakaway Baltic republic of Lithuania.

Bush and Gorbachev were upbeat after their initial talks Wednesday, even though they concluded they would be unable to resolve the issue of German unification before Gorbachev leaves Sunday. They left the German question for their foreign affairs experts to tackle later.

However, both U.S. and Soviet officials today saw encouraging signs in the summit exchanges over a united Germany and its future military role.

"Now we are moving closer to each other," said Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov, interviewed on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

Although the German issue won't be settled at the summit, Gerasimov said, "we understand better the arguments" and that is "a very good sign for the summit."

Judge: Texas owes 12 counties $40 per felon

AUSTIN (AP) — Ruling in a lawsuit filed by 12 Texas counties challenging the state, a judge today ordered that the state should pay those counties $40 a day for each convicted felon they house in their county jails.

State District Judge Joseph Hart said the state must either take the prisoners or reimburse the counties.

The counties which challenged the state were Nueces, Bexar, Collin, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Hidalgo, Hunt, Lubbock, Tarrant, Travis and Victoria.

The 12 counties said they are holding some 6,000 felons who have been sentenced to state prisons. But the Texas prison system is so overcrowded that there hasn't been room for the felons inside the state institutions.

Today's ruling affects only those counties which sued the state, officials said. But it could set a precedent for others to follow, said Ann Clarke Snell, the lawyer who represented 11 of the counties.

"Certainly it seems to me this ruling would be very important to any county that wanted to go to court and seek similar relief," she said.

Statewide, there are an estimated 12,000 convicts awaiting transfer from all county jails to the Texas Department of Corrections.

A federal judge has placed a ceiling on the state prison population. Several county sheriffs have complained that the backlog of state prisoners is crowding their jails.

Hart, in a letter to lawyers in the case that was originated by Nueces County, said payment to the counties should begin seven days after an inmate is sentenced to state prison.

The judge also told lawyers for the counties to calculate how much the 12 counties already are owed for prisoners they've been holding in the past.

Rossanna Salazar, press secretary to Gov. Bill Clements, wasn't immediately available to comment on the ruling, her office said. The governor in the past has said he opposed paying the counties.

Ron Dusek, spokesman for attorney general Jim Matton, said the state planned to appeal Hart's ruling to the Austin-based 3rd Court of Appeals.

 The legislature has passed a 1/2-cent sales tax increase twice, only to have the governor veto both bills.
 While Chamberlain was opposed to a sales tax increase, the senator said that revenue for the bill will probably come from other sources.
 "The governor's first proposal was to take $100 million out of the teachers' retirement fund, and that went over like a lead balloon," he said.
 What Clements will eventually accept, Montford believes, is a combination package including cuts in some budget areas and increases in "sin taxes" on cigarette arms negotiator Richard Burt, interviewed on the same program, said European security arrangements must be overhauled as a result of dramatic changes in East-West relations.

 Burt said the United States is "taking a new look at security and institutions in Europe, including a concept of remodeling NATO for a new era." He said it was important for the Soviets to understand that U.S. moves are "not designed to undermine Soviet security."
 Gorbachev displayed his trademark spontaneity Wednesday when he halted his limousine one block east of the White House, during a brief evening ride to the Soviet Embassy. Wading into a crowd of pedestrians on the sidewalk, he exclaimed, "I feel really at home here."
 Bush offered a light moment at the end of the day. Toasting Gorbachev at a glittering White House state dinner — Maine lobster was on the menu — he said expectations were at a fever pitch for the events of Day Two. "When Barbara and Raisa go to Wellesley College," he deadpanned. The first ladies were traveling there for commencement ceremonies.
 The White House said the two men would sign a treaty late today ending production of chemical weapons and sharply trimming poison gas stockpiles.
 An agreement also was ready for their signatures outlining agreement on major points of a treaty to scale back long-range nuclear weapons. Accompanying it was a pledge to pursue deeper reductions after the first treaty is completed. The treaty, nearly a decade in negotiations, will eventually reduce stockpiles of long range nuclear missiles, bombers and submarines, by 30 to 35 percent. From the U.S. viewpoint, the key provision will halve the number of Soviet SS-18 missiles capable of reaching the United States.

 The pact on chemical weapons would halt production of poison gas and reduce each country's stockpiles to 5,000 tons. The United States currently has about 25,000 tons and the Soviet Union twice that amount.
 One of the major differences centered on Lithuania, where Gorbachev has applied economic pressure to quell an independence drive.
 Bush prodded Gorbachev on the subject in his welcoming remarks outside the White House, and said Lithuania and the related topic of expanded trade relations might come up in summit talks.
 At the State Department, other agreements were ready for signing by Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze covering air travel, oceanography and maritime issues.
 And despite the continuing impasse over Germany, the two sides were reportedly making some progress in arms control talks continuing at the State Department, and laying plans for future negotiations.
 Gorbachev told reporters that while the issue of German unification would not be resolved at the summit, Baker and Shevardnadze would discuss the issue next week at an international conference in Copenhagen, and again in late June in Berlin.

Farm prices up, USDA reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department economists say prices farmers get for raw products increased 2 percent from April to May, raising the overall commodity index 3.4 percent above a year ago.

The department's Agricultural Statistics Board said Thursday in its preliminary report the increase resulted primarily from higher prices for hogs, corn, hay, broilers and lettuce.

Lawmakers also must put together a financing package for the Department of Human Services, which Montford said is facing a "severe" shortfall of funds.
 "It is extremely vital to pass the DHR bill," he said. "We're talking about hungry children who are at risk of having their life's blood cut off... These children can't help themselves. We have to help them."
 Montford added that there is now a sense of urgency in passing both the finance reform and DHR bills.
 "We can't keep putting off the problem, we've got to address it now," he said. "I sometimes find it frustrating, but I'm going to hang in there until the bitter end."

USDA reported lower prices for eggs, onions, milk and cattle.
 Although prices for beef cattle permitted a slight decline, calves averaged higher. Also up from April levels were sorghum and soybean prices. There were slight drops in prices for barley, wheat and rice.
 The May price index for livestock and poultry rose 1.2 percent from April and averaged 10 percent above the level of a year ago.
 Overall crop prices went up 3.1 percent from April but averaged 4.9 percent below the year-earlier level. Fruit prices fueled by oranges and grapefruits were up 3.6 percent from last month, about the same as a year ago.
 Commercial vegetables were up 3.4 percent from the April level but were down 21 percent below a year earlier. Lettuce and tomatoes were up while carrots and onions were down.
 The report said:
 • Cattle averaged $74.30 per hundred pounds of live weight nationally, down from $74.60 in April but up from $68.80 in May 1989. Those are averages for all types of cattle sold as beef.

 • Hogs averaged $60.50 per hundred pounds, compared with $53.80 in April and $41.60 in May 1989.
 • Corn, at $2.66 a bushel, was up from $2.51 in April and $2.58 from the level of a year ago.
 • Wheat prices at the farm, according to preliminary figures, averaged $3.44 a bushel, compared with $3.49 in April and $4.01 a year ago.
 • Rice averaged $7.21 per hundred pounds, compared with $7.31 in April and $6.78 in May 1989.
 • Soybeans were $5.92 per bushel, compared with $5.82 last month and $7.20 in May 1989.
 • Upland cotton was reported at 66.3 cents per pound, up from 65 cents in April and 58.3 cents a year ago.
 • Eggs were 60.2 cents a dozen, compared with 71.4 cents a dozen in April and 62.6 cents a year ago.
 • Milk was $13.20 per 100 pounds compared with $13.40 in April and $12.30 at the year-earlier level.
 • Broilers were 35.2 cents per pound compared with 33.2 cents in April and 44.6 cents a year ago.

We're generating more than electricity.

Jobs Power The Future
 Big cities and small towns across the area we serve are stretching their horizons. They're searching out new industries and new companies to bring new jobs. When the companies see what we have here — people who will work hard to build a better future, some of the most attractive electric rates in the nation, and an attitude set on winning — they decide to move here.

Electricity Powers The Jobs
 That's why we need to build new generating plants and power lines, and develop alternate fuel sources like nuclear power. To make sure we can keep expanding opportunities for young people who want to raise families here. To make sure you have the electricity you need — today and tomorrow.

Power For Texas
 TU Electric is committed to helping make a better future for all of us. And to provide all the power that is needed to fuel the new economy. Electric Power. The Power for Texas.
